

MOORE about... EASTLAND

by Virgil E. Moore

We had a call from a local woman one day this week concerning the county's surplus food program. It seems that a Houston newspaper, and probably a lot of others, ran a story saying that more than 2,000 Eastland County citizens were participating in the program. In effect, the writer was trying to prove that the county has been hard hit because of the recession which the politicians are all talking about. This is, of course, a lot of nonsense.

Eastland County has been hard hit in the last seven years because of drought. Ezra Taft Benson and others like him have not concerned themselves with the situation, however. But instead of being hit by a recession this year, Eastland County is looking for one of its best years in a long time. It seems to us that a lot of folks—including the Republican administration and some good old Democrats are trying to make the United States appear to be in a worse condition than we are. We are sure this is true of some newspaper writers, too.

We would caution our County leaders to see that the surplus food program does not get out of hand. It should be well administered, and only those persons who definitely qualify to receive the foodstuff should get it. We think our elected officials realize this as well as anyone does, of course.

You know, economics in business is a mighty good thing. That's why we have to admire O. H. Dick, publisher of the Telegram. Dick has the most uncanny "Petty Cash" set-up we have ever seen. He took his lead from the Federal government.

We get accused a lot around town of smoking petty cash cigars and drinking petty cash coffee. All of which is untrue, of course. O. H. has made getting petty cash more work than it's worth. To get a PC voucher approved around here all you have to do is file an 11 page document with six copies. This goes to the bookkeeper, then to the auditor and finally to Mr. Dick. It's a cinch one of the three will find some fault with the thing.

Things are not as rough around here as they were at the Edinburg Daily Review, however. Down there we had a business manager who made you turn in your pencil stub to get a new one. The difficult thing about the situation was that the manager worked in the daytime and the editorial staff worked at night. During the time the manager was working he spent most of his time trying to discover who had broken into the pencil box the night before.

Eastland's Dollar Days seemed to be very successful. We understand local businessmen are planning to make the next trades day event, which is scheduled for April 4-7, even a bigger success.

Bob Bell sent us a clipping from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram the other day. It was part of Bill Van Fleet's Sport's Column, to wit: Chicago sports writers hailed Dan Hodge, the former Olympic wrestler from Oklahoma U. as the new Rocky Marciano, but his writer disses. He's tough and can take a punch, but he's also too slow to be a top heavyweight, and he seems a little muscle bound on his punches to the head. He can rip to the body with hooks and uppercuts, where he seems

Crash Claims Lives Of Two

A 1957 Oldsmobile overturned ten times late Friday night snuffing out the lives of two men and injuring three other persons.

The fatal crash occurred eight and a half miles east of Ranger on State Highway 16.

Killed in the one-car mishap were James Belcher, 23, of Meridian, and Ronald Dean Underwood, 21, of Brownwood.

Mrs. Eddie Brooks Tindall, 20, of Brownwood was seriously injured, and Robert Edward Belcher, 25, of Meridian, and Rex Pendleton Tindall, 21, of Brownwood were injured.

Robert Belcher was driver of the car. He and Mr. and Mrs. Tindall were seated in the front seat and the two men who were killed were passengers in the back seat of the two-door sedan.

All five occupants were thrown out of the car.

The late model automobile was traveling south at a high rate of speed and failed to make a turn near Highway 80. Highway Patrolman Al White and Les Strawn of Eastland who investigated the accident, said the car overturned ten times.

The hood of the car was found 175 feet from the mangled wreckage, and one door was thrown 150 feet south. Occupants of the car were scattered around the area like cordwood.

Mrs. Tindall was the most seriously injured of the three who were rushed to Ranger General Hospital. She suffered a fractured collar bone, broken ribs, and possible internal injuries. Robert Belcher and Tindall received only cuts and bruises.

All three reportedly rested well last night.

These were the first highway fatalities in Eastland County in 1958, and it was the first accident in which two lives were claimed in the county in over a year. The mishap occurred at 11:25 p.m.

Four Eastland girls have been selected by Eastland High School teachers to compete for local honors in the Oddfellow and Rebekah contest to select an area student to make the United Nations trip sponsored by the Lodge.

Selected to compete for local honors are Jan Robertson, Linda Huckabay, Rosemary Jones and Martha Freeze.

The girls will make public addresses on "My Community and World Affairs" in the First Christian Church Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The girls will be graded on delivery, content, personality and character. Judges will be announced at a later date. A winner and an alternate will be chosen. They will write essays on "What the United Nations Means to Me." The essays can contain from 1250 to 2000 words.

Essays will be sent to the Speech department of Texas University where heads of departments will select the winner.

The public was urged to attend the Wednesday meeting.

Eastland City Commissioners had a short and sweet meeting

Thursday night with little official business coming before the group.

Safeway Holds Seven Day Sale On Anniversary

The Eastland Safeway store joins others around the nation this week in celebrating Safeway's 30th anniversary.

A seven day sale began Thursday and will continue through Wednesday features the occasion, Clarence Jenkins, manager of the local store, said.

Safeway's modern new store opened in Eastland on Dec. 17, 1956. It was in 1928 that Safeway made its first appearance in Texas, however. At that time Bird Grocery Stores of Dallas were purchased by Safeway. During the past 30 years, although the number of stores has increased by at least 25 percent, a store's daily sales today are greater than the weekly sales were in 1928.

Curly Maynard appeared before the City Dads to request that the croquet courts at City Park be put into good shape. A committee was named to check into the possibility of doing this work.

Repair work on swings at the Park was also authorized during the meeting. City Manager James Young was instructed to place a street light at the corner of Browder and Conner streets.

Commissioners approved a base rate area requested by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. The base rate area includes a number of homes on the outskirts of Eastland. No rates will be charged by the approval, Commissioners were told. The telephone company asked for the action so that citizens living just outside the city limits could continue to be served as city patrons without additional charge.

A report was made by Commissioner Bob Perkins concerning an electrical and plumbing ordinance the city is working on.

April Is Clean Up Time Locally

Eastland Rotarians and the Civic League and Garden Club will kick off the 1958 Clean-Up Drive in Eastland April 1.

It has been agreed that a concentrated effort will be made during the month of July, Ronald Burton, who heads up the drive for the Rotary Club, revealed this week.

Burton named a committee of five Rotarians to assist him. They are Earl Bender, Ben Hamner, Bernard Hanna, Larry McGraw, and Veon Howard. Mrs. Earl Stephens is chairman of the Civic League's Clean-up Committee.

He said plans call for having posters printed, letters written to businessmen and calls on owners of vacant buildings by Rotarians to seek permission of use of the show windows by other businessmen.

Special emphasis during the clean-up drive will be placed on the downtown area and Highway 80. A whole town clean-up will be backed by the two groups, however.

GOLF CHATTER

By HAB SIMMONS

It seems that about all we are able to talk about in this column is the weather. And it also seems that the more we talk, the worse it gets. However, last weekend we did get our share of sunshine and the golfers were quick to take advantage of this bit of good fortune. Also, we were happy to have some of the boys from E.H.S. out as caddies and hope that they will continue to come out on the weekends.

This could be considered a missing persons report in that Jack (Sore-back) Grubbs left for "Tim-Buck-Too" . . . or some place, and in order to make things worse, he went way 'round by Ft. Worth. Tommy Roundtree, representative of the Wilson Sporting Goods Co., was in town and has promised his support in all matters pertaining to golf activities.

I just received a letter from the P.G.A. in Dunedin, Florida, stating that Ralph Simmons, formerly of Eastland and now living in Las Angeles, has just been accepted as a member in the PGA "Hole-In-One" Club. We expect to see Ralph in Eastland come June.

If any of you ladies are interested in playing in the Stephenville Ladies Invitation, it is to be held 24 April. And, if any of you sluggers and sweet swingers are interested, the Tarleton Relays Tourney is 22 March.

I guess there is nothing left except to try to talk Jim Eidson into agreeing that No. 5 would be a better short par 3 and to get Emmett Powell to rouse up enough courage to walk down to the creek and see where we are to build the tee on No. 2. Number two is to be made a par 5 hole.

I certainly am happy to note that some of the ministers of Eastland have been playing golf and I might add that no-one is more welcome.

Soil Conservation Meeting Held Here

Soil Conservation District supervisors from the Upper Leon, Bosque, Palo Pinto and Lower Clear Fork Soil Conservation districts met in Eastland for a luncheon at the White Elephant restaurant and a business session which followed at the Texas Electric Service Co. Conference room.

Henry W. Turney, district supervisor of the Upper Leon district of Dublin and a director of the State Association of Soil Conservation Districts, led the group discussion on soil and water conservation problems confronting landowners of this area. He said the State Soil Conservation Board will come this type of "grass roots" information from over the state—a basis for a more effective conservation program.

A second range deferment period will start April 1 and end Dec.

31. The rate of pay will be .63 per acre as provided by the Eastland County ACP handbook. Landowners desiring to participate in this practice must make their application prior to April 1. Maximum benefits should be received from this practice by landowners due to the excellent moisture conditions of most rangelands. E. E. McAlister said. Grass seedlings should also be successful, he added.

W. O. Dawson, rancher and supervisor of the Palo Pinto District, has a 12 month deferment going on 700 acres of his ranchland located 12 miles southeast of Ranger. He also plans a nine month deferment on a 100 acre pasture on which the brush was pushed last year. Due to the scarcity of desirable native grass plants, this area will also be seeded to native grasses.

Dawson regards a complete range deferment as the best possible means of getting a good grass cover. He states that a deferment will give the more desirable grasses a chance to increase in vigor, produce seed and spread, produce litter or organic matter in order to improve soil condition, reduce water loss and regulate soil temperature extremes, increase forage production and enable ranchers to get their ranges in excellent condition.

Suicide Ruled In Death of Cisco Resident

A suicide verdict was handed down Friday morning by Justice of the Peace Ross Griffin of Cisco in the asphyxiation death of a 46 year old Cisco man.

Following an inquest Justice Griffin ruled Friday morning that Norman A. Carbag took his own life by rigging a hose to the tailpipe of his car and forcing carbon monoxide gas into the closed vehicle.

Sheriff J. B. Williams of Eastland, who investigated the alleged suicide, said Carbag apparently had been dead since Thursday afternoon. Billy Bacon reported that Carbag's 1949 Buick had been parked on a farm road two miles south of Cisco Thursday at about 7:30 p.m. He again noticed the car Friday morning and notified law enforcement officers.

Sheriff Williams said that relatives said the man had been despondent recently. The body was taken to Hamner Funeral Home in Cisco. Services are still pending.

Ivy Turkey Growers President

Ed Ivy, who lives about eight miles south of Cisco on the Breckenridge highway, was elected president of the Central Texas Turkey Growers Association at a meeting held this week in Eastland.

Named vice president of the Association was Don Kincaid of Cisco. Mrs. Aubrey Kincaid of Ranger was elected secretary.

Turkey growers heard George Draper, state supervisor of the Texas Turkey Improvement program, explain "Turkey Management," Draper told growers that there would be fewer turkey breeder hens in the state this year, meaning that the price of turkeys should be better this year.

Officers for the new year voted to have as their number one project for the year an all-out effort to get the Texas A&M Extension Department to put a poultry diagnosis laboratory in Stephenville. The organization has the support of the Texas Farm Bureau in the drive. Eastland County Farm Bureau members pushed a move to have the state organization support the movement. Turkey growers agreed that the need for such a lab in this area is great.

A number of other projects for the year were discussed at the meeting, which was well attended. Proposed turkey regulations and other important matters also came up for discussion at the meeting.

The Central Texas Turkey Growers Association was first organized at a meeting held at Carbon in 1951. It has continued to grow since that time.

Eastland Oilmen To Attend Area Petroleum Meet

West Central Texas members of the Independent Petroleum Association of America will meet at the Windsor Hotel in Abilene Wednesday for a noon luncheon, it was announced by J. E. Connally, IPAA vice president for the area.

Principal speakers at the meeting, Connally said, will be the association's president, Gordon Simpson of Dallas, and L. Dan Jones, IPAA's assistant general counsel in Washington, D. C. Invitations have gone out to IPAA members in Abilene, Breckenridge, San Angelo, Cisco, Eastland, Coleman, Snyder, Stamford, Anson, Sweetwater, Albany, Brownwood and elsewhere in the area.

Connally reported that Simpson and Jones will discuss proposed legislation providing stronger controls of excessive oil imports, as well as other issues affecting the oil industry and the economy, of the nation.

Another feature of the luncheon meeting will be an open forum at which members will be able to discuss their views on the various problems confronting the domestic industry today.

Gray Matter

By JOE GRAY

Being present at the scene of action when a quip or wise-crack is first used is a joy we all can't experience. But once in a while it comes one's pleasure and good fortune to be on hand when a real gem is dropped into the vice-crack bin. It has been my good fortune to be on hand a couple of times or so when some really good pieces of wit have been dropped.

The building now occupied by Victor Cornelius' Theatrical Advertising plant wasn't always occupied by the present owner. Right after, or perhaps it is better to say during the boom, that building was occupied by a furniture store operated by L. B. Wright. It is one of the town's largest stores. Later the building was occupied by M'ckle Hardware and Furniture Company, but there was a gap in occupancy between the furniture store and the hardware occupancy.

During that period when the building was "vacant" it was used for various things. At one time, if I remember correctly, the Methodist people used it for church services for a short period while their present church building was being completed. Also, the building was used for the annual Woman's Club Flower Show and other civic activities of that type.

One occasion that I remember was a time that the high school band played some sort of a banquet or some function that I can't at this time remember the purpose but I do remember all of us band boys were there that evening. After doing our part of the program we were to have our dinner at one of the more remote tables from the speaker. I remember that Francis Lemmert, Charles (Continued On Page Three)

Array of Fabrics Exhibited For Local Civic League and Garden Club

A clever but unorthodox method of weaving at a "plain duck" textile mill has resulted in interestingly textured fabrics. They have made Itasca Weavers Guild of Texas a famous trade name throughout the nation.

An array of these beautiful fabrics in curtains, draperies, table cloths, place mats and dresses was displayed Wednesday to Civic League and Garden Club members by the woman who discovered their versatility, Miss Ela Pierce, designer and manager of the business organization.

Much of the success of the product results because of the pride in their work felt by the weavers, many of whom have been with the mill or its parent company for 40 years, said Miss Pierce. She herself has been with Itasca Weavers Guild in her present capacity since its beginning in 1936.

After a brief talk about the weaving process itself, Miss Pierce explained methods of making the various items as she displayed them. The audience in their enthusiasm occasionally interrupted with questions and comments.

Miss Pierce was accompanied by the Mill's fashion model, Mrs. Joy Gardner of Cleburn, who modeled two formal dresses. They were made from the "Fragile" pattern which has alternating solid and loop weave strips and lends itself to unusual design and trim.

A lavender "duster" or robe of "Ratine" trimmed with silver braid was presented as a door prize to Mrs. M. S. Long from the Weavers' Guild.

Miss Pierce was introduced by Mrs. Tom Wilson, program leader. Curtains of the exhibit, gracefully draped across a divider screen, provided a pastel background for the refreshment table.

Magnolia leaves and buds in an enormous crystal container centered the table. Silver shells on lace mats held a variety of cookies.

Mrs. Art Johnson, president of the club, poured coffee from the silver service.

Hostesses were Mmes. Clyde Grissom, chairman, H. J. Bulgerin, F. H. Lund, and Neil Day.

During the brief business session, Mrs. W. A. Leslie, vice president, announced that a forum on "Beautification and Safety" would be presented April 9.

Lafoon, Bill Hightower, J. L. Reid, and I think Maurice Copeland, and Claude Meyers were all at the same table I was. All of our group being in the musical group that furnished the entertainment.
For some reason or other we weren't being waited on any too fast. Some of the boys were getting a little restless, as high school boys will do when they're waiting for dinner.
Finally a solicitous person who had some official connection with the dinner came over to our table and asked if we were hungry. Claude Meyers, without batting an eye, answered:
"I'm so hungry that I could eat a salted horse collar!"
As far as I know that was the first time that expression was ever used and I think it was completely original with him then.
Collin Gilbreath says it was his good fortune to be on hand when another good wise-crack was pulled in the years gone past. This was run in almost every joke book in Texas printed in the intervening years.

Here is Collin's account of the story:

"Back in the days when I was a teen-ager, it was a big thing for a bunch of us to go to Fort Worth, and to go to Fort Worth was to go to the old Siebold Cafe across the street from the Texas Hotel to eat a steak. This historical eatery was run by a bunch of Chinamen, and their fame for cooking steak will never be equalled by the Cattleman's Cafe or any other such place ever. They served a steak as big as any saddle blanket Pete Tindall ever owned, even the one with the long tassels on it, and only for the price of $1.00. Of course, it was as hard to come by a dollar then as it is to get a Sputnik up now, but we always managed it somehow.
"Now one time me and old Shazo Harrell and a few more of the fellows went to Ft. Worth, and according to Hoyle we wouldn't pass up the old Siebold Cafe. The waiter came around to take our order; one said rare; one said medium rare one said just brown it, and I said well done. But old Shazo just looked up at that waiter with that funny way he had of looking at anybody and said 'Heck Taw Ritchie, Boy, just brand her and run her by me and I'll cut off one to suit myself.'
"One more thing about that trip. When we were about finished with our steaks, this waiter came over and asked if we wanted any dessert. Old Shazo said, 'Yeah! Bring me some more bread and pitcher of syrup and the butter dish.'
Then Collin says, 'Where you like catchup on your steak, Shazo liked whipped cream on his! He liked mustard on his eggs at breakfast, sunnyside up, too.'
Hearing Collin speak thusly of syrup and butter for dessert brings back pleasant memories. That was one of my father's favorite desserts. He didn't see any sense in all this foolishness of making pies and all of these other fancy dodads that womenfolks make today when someone turns them loose in the kitchen. Dad didn't need anything with sugar in it to appease his sweet tooth. All he needed was to dip a biscuit in a little sorghum. It's better if the biscuit has a little butter on it but that isn't necessary. I was just wondering how it would work to dip a little oleomargarine-covered biscuit in sorghum. I don't have any butter out in my pantry. But I do have some oil of the margarine. I'm going to try it while my mouth is still watering.

Sorghum on top of buttered biscuits to top off a good meal of black-eyed peas. Man alive, that's real eating.

"Imperfect body balance is conducive to many nerve irritations and strains," he said. "For correct body balance the spinal column must be a straight line between the base of the skull and the pelvis, and true body balance must be preserved in order to avoid unnecessary nerve irritations."
