Reports from the fighting front today gave Russia an increasing edge in the battle against Nazi invasion attempts, as Harry Hopkins arrived in Moscow to discuss United States war aid with Josef Stalin.

Both from Russia and Germany came increasing indications that Soviet forces, having brought the Nazis almost to a complete standstill, increasingly are taking the initiative in powerful counter attacks, particularly in the vital Smolensk sector.

Reports indicated that Russian infantrymen, advancing behind tank spearheads, now were not content with holding their own defense lines, but were taking the war to the Germans as the Nazi blitzkrieg forces sought to reorganize after two draining offensives.

EXPECTS BIG RETAIL SALES THIS AUTUMN

AUSTIN. Forecast of autumn retail sales zooming to the highest peak in the history of this state was made this week by a University of Texas statistician in surveying flourishing Texas business.

While Texas business reveals less spectacular gains than in the country at large, the coming months hold a bright prospect for Texans, Dr. F. A. Buechel, associate director of the University's Bureau of Business Research, predicted.

He warned, however, of rising costs of living, following curtailed production of certain types of consumer's goods.

Wide margins of gains for June last year were cited in almost all the bureau's indexes of Texas business—the component index made up of six major business factors climbing to 114.9 or 16.5 points above June, 1940.

Employment: Up 11.9 per cent over June, 1940.
Payrolls: Up 26.6 per cent.
Department store sales: Up 19.7 per cent.
Electric power consumption: Up 9.5 per cent.
Postal receipts: Up 13.9 per cent.
Lumber production: Up 10.4 per cent; shipments up 15.8 per cent; unfilled orders at the end of the month up 180.9 per cent.
Building permits: Up 46 per cent.
Commercial failures: Down 16.7 per cent in number, down 44.5 per cent in liabilities.

Only discordant notes in the picture were the declines in the number of new firms incorporating under state law and in the purchases of savings bonds. Charters dropped from 97 in June, 1940, to only 48 last month, with a slump from $1,960,000 to only $651,000 in aggregate capital invested, while money invested in savings bonds in 29 of the state's largest cities declined 19.3 per cent from June, 1940.

GUNBOAT WAS ANCHORED IN SAFETY ZONE

Bombs Also Fall Near American Embassy in Chungking During Air Raid.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The United States Government today made a formal representation to the Japanese government on the bombing of the United States gunboat Tutuila, near Chungking, China, by a squadron of Japanese bombers earlier in the day.

Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles announced the action at his regular press conference, but declined to describe the United States' action as a "protest."

It was assumed that the representations were made a few minutes previously to the Japanese Ambassador, who was an unscheduled caller at Welles' office.

The action was taken to indicate that the United States views with extreme seriousness the latest Japanese attack upon the American flag, Welles announced that the United States received word that a flight of 26 Japanese bombers had dropped bombs near the Tutuila and near the Embassy proper in Chungking.

Welles said that he wished to make no comment at present, other than to call attention to the fact that both the properties were on the opposite side of the river from Chungking proper.

CHUNGKING, China, July 30.—Japanese bombs damaged the United States gunboat Tutuila in the Yangtze River today, during one of the biggest raids the Japanese have ever made on China's capital city.

Bombs damaged the small boat attached to the Tutuila. Shanghai reports said that there were no casualties aboard the gunboat. Other bombs fell near the United States Embassy and the Standard Oil Company installation in Chungking.

Five separate attacks were made and Shanghai reported that bombs were dropped directly over the United States gunboat, which was anchored in the so-called safety zone, across the river from the city.

One bomb, it was said, fell only eight yards from the boat, and another about 20 yards away.

Training School Session Is Held At Stephenville

STEPHENVILLE, July 30.—The Training School for County Home Demonstration Agents of District VII assembled at John Tarleton Agricultural College Monday for a five day period of instruction. There are twenty-one counties represented in the school by home demonstration agents. These include: Blanco, Brown, Callahan, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, Erath, Fisher, Gillespie, Jones, Llano, McCullough, Mason, Mills, Nolan, Palo Pinto, Runnels, San Saba, Shackelford, Stephens, and Taylor.

EXTEND TIME FOR TYPING BLOOD HERE

Again, by popular request from many citizens of Eastland who did not have their blood typed last week, Joe H. Holt, laboratory technician of the West Texas Clinic, has agreed to come back to Eastland to take blood types at the office of Dr. C. H. Caton, on the fourth floor of the Exchange Building, of all those who care to avail themselves of the opportunity, Friday evening from seven until nine o'clock, August 1.

As in previous types taken, Mr. Holt will issue a special card which can be conveniently placed in a billfold or ladies purse of the type of blood that each subject has. In having your blood typed where it will be on a permanent record in the offices of the Eastland County medical association, you may save a life or have your own life saved in an emergency.

In this modern era when medicine and science have made such great strides one of the most important elements has been the use of blood transfusions. Such procedures have saved thousands of lives but heretofore when an emergency existed it has been necessary to issue hurried calls for transfusion donors and at the time necessary for finding the right type has cost the life of the victim, because in an emergency, minutes or even seconds count.

Suppose you, and you, and you, for instance, were in need of a blood transfusion. Your own card would instantly determine what type of blood is needed. Whoever your attending physician or surgeon may be could immediately look through his files and in an instant issue a call for donors without a moment's delay. That would probably mean a life saved—possibly yours.

It has been suggested that those from sixteen years old up, male or female, take advantage of this

Government Marker For Soldier's Grave Is To Be Obtained

R. E. Sparkman of Italy, Texas, passed through Eastland County this week and announced the approval of an application for a government headstone for the grave of the late Cicero N. Marchman, well known Eastland County pioneer and Confederate soldier whose death occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ethel Beane in Cisco on last June 29th.

Public Is Warned To Beware of A Bogus Collector

ABILENE, Tex.—Employers were warned in a statement made by W. O. King, manager of the Abilene Social Security Board field office, to demand proof of identification of any individual representing himself as a "social security tax collector."

In making this statement, King explained that in some sections of the country persons posing as representatives of the United States Government and claiming to be employed as "tax collectors for the Social Security Board," have gained the confidence of some employers, secured their wage records, and collected considerable sums of money which were never sent to the collector of internal revenue—the only agency having authority to collect such taxes.

It was pointed out that complaints regarding the operation of these so-called tax collectors have come from employers in small towns, oil field communities, and operators of stores and shops near army camps and defense projects. In one town a woman who had one employee in a small shop paid four or five times the amount of her tax under the impression that it would be forwarded to the collector of internal revenue and placed to her credit. After the employer has thus been victimized the matter is forgotten until he receives notice that his quarterly report is due.

"The only person authorized to collect taxes under the Social Security Act is a representative of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Each representative has an identification card which he will gladly present when requested to do so," King said.

Alien Checkup Is Started By WPA

SAN ANTONIO—WPA workers have started the job of verifying the recent registration statements of aliens at all Texas ports of entry, it was announced today by Mrs. M. K. Taylor, state director of community service projects.

Sponsored by the Office of Emergency Management and co-sponsored by the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice, the undertaking is the newest in a series of WPA clerical projects which have indexed, restored and assembled records relating to the arrival or naturalization of nearly 25,000,000 immigrants in the United States.

The certification project will utilize these indexes to check the information regarding immigration provided last year by the aliens who filled out forms covering the salient points of their personal histories as required by the Alien Registration Act of 1940.

Amy Brackets a Team of Authors

FOR LEONARD WOOD, Mo.—When Robert Meskill, 26, was drafted, his friend and collaborator in writing fiction and plays, Stuart Warrington, 33, decided that he should volunteer for service so the writing team would remain intact.

Getting into the army was not as simple for Warrington as it was for Meskill, however, because Warrington was born in Canada. Warrington has obtained his citizenship papers and now both are soldiers here.

Since 1935, when they met in London, Warrington and Meskill have worked together as stage managers, theatre directors, and as authors of drama and fiction.

One of their chief problems since joining the army has been staying together. Although there is a difference of only one digit in their army serial numbers, Meskill's being 32082275 and Warrington's 32092276, that did not save them from danger of separation. They were fortunate enough to get assignments to Fort Leonard Wood.

45TH DIVISION TO PASS HERE ON AUG. 2ND

Local citizens will get a glimpse of the army about 10:30 a. m. Saturday and again Monday at the same time, when troops of the 45th Division pass through on their way to the VIII Army Corps and Third Army maneuver area in Louisiana.

An estimated 17,000 officers and enlisted men of the division will make the 435-mile trip in two sections, one leaving Saturday, August 2, and the other on Monday, August 4. Each section will split and the two columns will travel separate routes to a rendezvous at Marshall, where they will be reunited for the last hop to Mansfield, La.

Major General William S. Key, division commander, urged cities on the 45th's route not to stage special ceremonies for the junketing soldiers because of their compact schedule.

Present plans give the first section two days of walking, three of riding and three of no movement at all. The second section has the same schedule, except for one less day of resting. Marching troops will cover between 11 and 15 miles a day.

This shuttle-type trip was decided in order to effect transfer of the division solely with vehicular equipment. While troops of one section are marching, trucks will be bringing up the men of the other group.

By August 10 the entire division will be in place at Mansfield. The maneuvers are expected to last through September.

Troops of the 120th Engineers regiment left Camp Barkeley last week and are now at Mansfield, making the bivouac area ready for the rest of the 45th.

A New Huey Long on the Horizon?

The full infamy of the Huey Long regime in Louisiana, with all its dangers to democratic government, is only now being realized by most people of the United States.

The Long movement was not only a total perversion of decent state government in Louisiana, for which that state is now ruefully paying, but a definite threat to the whole democratic process in the United States.

That is why it is not too early to cast an eye at Gov. Gene Talmadge of Georgia and ask whether he may not be an incipient Long, and whether he, too, may not rise via the Senate from the state to the national scene.

It should be remembered that one of the first acts of Huey Long in Louisiana was to destroy the independence and integrity of the state university and to make it a mere political appendage of his party machine. Governor Talmadge has already done something perilously close to that in "stacking" a refractory university board of regents which refused to comply with his will, and appointing members who would.

Long then launched violent attacks on the newspapers as unfair to his regime, and tried in every way to hamper and finally to penalize them by discriminatory taxes enacted by a "stooge" legislature. Governor Talmadge has already threatened Atlanta and Macon newspapers with denial of their ordinary news sources at the state capital, and has issued veiled hints that they had better "get right."

It was the newspapers in Louisiana, especially the New Orleans States, which never yielded to the Long oppression, and which were largely instrumental at the end in exposing the shambles he had made of decent government.

The papers of Atlanta and Macon, at which Talmadge has been hitting, are known throughout the country as having integrity, honesty, and courage. Their reputation in their field is a solid one built over a long period of years. When the governor accuses them of consistently misrepresenting facts, and as "willing to penalize Georgia to hit Talmadge," readers outside Georgia reserve the right to wonder what's going on in Georgia.

As to the internal issues on which the Talmadge row hinges, national audiences are not so directly concerned as they are in whether there is any chance that another of the sisterhood of states may be debauched by the same kind of demagoguery and machine spoliation that made Louisiana for several years a clinic of native fascism and threatened to project that leadership on a national scale.

ever, made permanent the state's practice of prorating production. This was partly an answer to demands that the Federal government take over regulation of the oil industry, because sound conservation practices in the largest oil-producing state are believed likely to take away one of the main arguments for federal control. Past legislatures voted the proration law a two-year extension.

Tankers' Transfer Opposed

Texas legislators reacted adversely to continued transfer of oil tankers from the run to Atlantic seaboard refineries from the Texas coast. Most of the tankers were put into service from Venezuela to Great Britain, and the legislature asked that they carry Texas rather than South American oil, inasmuch as most of the Venezuelan production is controlled by American companies.

Construction of an oil pipeline from Texas to the Atlantic coast found favor in the state, although some legislators expressed doubt that the line would be completed in time to be of much value in the present national emergency. It was estimated that 14 months to two years will be required to build such a line.

Texas also renewed its membership in the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, which has endeavored to keep the industry on an even keel and to combat overproduction. Although Texas continues as a compact member, operators in the state have expressed considerable dissatisfaction because some states are making little or no effort to control their production and seek to increase their market at the expense of production-controlling Texas.

U. S. Food Shortage Is Just Talk Army and Civilians Are Eating More

BY PETER EDSON NEA Service Washington Correspondent ... A major argument is developing in Washington ... prediction of Donald M. Nelson, director of purchases ... of Production Management, that "before this effort is over, there will be shortages of food."

What these other food men fear most is that unwarranted talk of shortages may send wholesalers into the market to stock up with reserves, thereby creating an artificial food shortage and higher prices. Extra demands on the U. S. food supplies have been tremendous. The total food bill for 1941 has been estimated at $15 billion, which is 25 per cent or $3 billion more than the food bill for 1940.

American Legion Called To Meet Thursday Night

Thursday night at 8:30 is the time set by the Dulin-Daniel Post of the American Legion for its regular monthly meeting and it is very important, according to those calling the meeting, that every member of the post be present.

This will be the occasion for the election of officers for the coming year and also for the election of delegates to the state convention, which meets in Fort Worth on August 15th.

The following appeal is made to the membership:

"The writer has tried hard to have a large percentage of our membership attend the meetings, but has not been successful lately. So, Buddy, won't you be present Thursday night and do your part to have a large attendance? In order for an election in any organization to properly express the will of the majority, it is necessary that the membership turn out and express their wishes by voting; let's make Democracy work in this post. Many of our members who keep their dues paid up have never attended a meeting. If you are one of such members, won't you please make an exception and attend this meeting, as it is an exceptionally important meeting."

Refreshments will be served after the business session.

OPM Tells Newly Weds To Expect Fewer Thrills In Home Furnishings

WASHINGTON.—With national unity a prevalent topic of conversation, the Office of Production Management tells how a patriotic young bride who might go about furnishing her home without interfering with the government's needs for national defense.

Aluminum no longer is available for domestic use, they said, so her pots and pans will have to be made of something else. They explained, however, that she should not worry because many good substitutes are available.

Less durable and maybe a little harder to scour when dish-washing time comes, are the porcelain enameled variety that mother seemed able to get along with.

If she wants to buy a refrigerator she will get a product that hasn't as many fancy trimmings on the outside, but it will be just as efficient. The inside will be different, too. The freezing compartment probably will be of enameled steel instead of stainless steel. Chrome, which makes steel stainless, is a vital ingredient for defense.

Tableware, always the pride of the young bride if it is a highly polished silver set, won't be quite as cherished, and certainly, will never be singled as a valuable heirloom. Plastics to some extent, low chromium steel, steel, glass and wood will have to suffice, the OPM pointed out.

Toasters will operate electrically, but different designs will permit their successful use without mica. And the young bride may have to get along as best she can with a gas stove instead of an electric range. OPM officials explained that power units in electric stoves require nickel, chrome, and some tungsten, all critical materials already in great demand.

Finally, they said that young brides and housewives should not feel that they could get any better utensils if they paid a higher price because both rich and poor alike will be facing the same shortage.

Plant Feeding Has No Magic

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Experiments with plants grown in chemical solutions with soil have led to increased yields and improved quality, but too many persons expect fantastic results from soilless growth, Dr. O. Wesley Davidson, a biochemist experimenting with the method, believes.

Davidson, associate biochemist directing floricultural research for the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station at Rutgers University, said soilless growth usually permits an improved crop because all elements of growth can be controlled.

"Plant physiologists are not misled by sensational claims for soilless culture," he said at a farm forum lecture. "They know that when plants receive adequate and well-balanced root media, their yields are usually dependent primarily upon available light."

"Attempts to grow two plants where there is adequate space for only one will not result in phenomenal growth or yields, regardless of whether soil or soilless culture is used," he commented.

Davidson, who has studied soilless growth 13 years in research with plant nutrition, said yields of some plants have been higher with the soilless method than when soil was used. For example, roses produced at the experiment station last year had 35 flowers per plant when grown in soil, while an average yield in soilless culture was 45 flowers.

The soilless method is accomplished by the mixing of all component plant nutrients—nitrogen, phosphorus, calcium, potassium, magnesium and sulphur are some of them—necessary for plant

Fearsome, Quite Many Babies Being Saved Care In S...

AUSTIN, Tex.—Thousands of Texas infants saved this summer from parental care weather. However, infant deaths could have been prevented if parents would have taken the value of common sense precautions. George W. Cox, D. M. S. F. C.

Records of the Department's Bureau of Statistics show that during 1940, more children died during the summer months than during the rest of the year. The infant death rate during the summer months is high, as can be seen from the above mortality figures. Health officials are working to solve this problem. The following are some of the causes of infant deaths during the summer months:

1. Whenever possible, infants should be breast-fed for 6 or 8 months. If not, they should be pasteurized.
2. Drinking water should be boiled before use.
3. Personal cleanliness should be maintained. The milk or food should be handled carefully.
4. Any member of the household showing signs of disease, no matter how slight, should be kept away from the baby. They should be handled as little as possible.
5. The house should be kept clean and all household food should be kept in a cool place.
6. Every home should have a supply of clean, soft water.
