EASTLAND, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 10, 1936

PRICE TWO CENTS

No. 189

That reminds me...

Those who would attempt to destroy the character of any public official...

There is lots of that going the rounds and does every time we have a national, state or county election year.

It is most unfortunate that a certain member of congress was subjected to a humorous vein in most of the metropolitan and smaller daily newspaper for his antics.

Hon. Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon made the keynote speech of the national Republican nomination convention at Cleveland last night.

Dallas and Fort Worth in this section will be host to President Franklin D. Roosevelt this weekend.

Hon. Wilbourne B. Collie is a candidate for re-election for state senator from the twelfth district.

Americanism Course Is Job of Schools

The good people who worry for fear the schoolma'am may teach little Johnny more than he ought to know about the government of Russia might very well take notice that so far the schoolma'am hasn't taught him quite as much as he ought to know about the government of the United States.

The flare-up of the Black Legion is a reflection of many things, but, most of all, it is a reflection on the work our public schools have been doing.

For the most obvious fact about the poor addepatates who have enrolled in this horrific outfit is that they simply haven't had even the rudiments of an education.

They may have gone through the motions, all right; they may know how to read and write and do modest sums; but what this elementary knowledge is for seems to have escaped them entirely.

What use is it to teach a man to read, if he employs his knowledge to read Tom Sawyer's oaths by the dark of the moon? Why teach him to write, if he winds up by signing his name in blood to an agreement to go out and paddle some bear parlor proprietor?

All this simply means that our public school system hasn't been hitting on all six. It has somehow failed to teach a considerable number of people what the elements of Americanism really are.

That job ought to be fairly simple. This country is a democracy, dedicated to complete political and religious freedom. That means that whatever may be done in lands overseas, this country can have no place for any group that tries to get its way by force.

The night rider, the terrorist, the back-alley schemer who uses the mask and whip to enforce his own notions of good citizenship—they are as out of place here as one of the late czar's Cossacks would be.

It is hardly asking too much to expect that, whatever else our public schools did or did not do, they should make that little lesson stick. Most of us had innocently supposed that they did. But evidently there are a good many cases in which they did not.

This isn't the fault of the schoolma'am. She can do only what community sentiment requires; and community sentiment, of late, seems to have been devoted largely to a nervous fear that the nation's youth might accidentally pick up a bit of information about Stalin and his little ways.

If we stopped worrying about that, and saw to it that our schools did make every pupil understand fully about some of our Amtrican, heroes—Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln—we wouldn't find them like this Black Legion crawling out from under planks.

"When Il Duce asked his people for a pledge to defend their new empire, a great 'Si' went up." Still that might have been a typographical error.

By HARRY GRAYSON

COMPLETING his second consecutive grand slam in the Western Conference championships, Jesse Owens proved himself vastly more than a front runner.

At the 100-yard mark of the 220-yard low hurdles, Owens was nowhere near the lead. Nor was he second or third. So many backs in front of him was a strange sight to the Ohio State Special, for he was running last in a field of seven.

What Coach Larry Snyder feared would happen took place. Owens gives me nothing less than heart failure the way he's taking those hurdles nowadays," remarked Snyder, following the preliminaries of the day before. "Jesse's not toying out when he brings his last leg over. He'll hit one sure."

Owens cracked another American record by sprinting 220 yards around a turn in 21.1. The Cleveland product broad jumped 25 feet 7 1/2 inches. He captured the 100 in 9.5 following a false start which caused him to tighten up, and then he failed to "toe out," as his coach suspected he might.

Owens missed his stride on the first barrier of the 220-yard low, was forced to take the second with his left leg, throwing him off stride again for the third which he hit, and was so far off form at the fourth hurdle that he hit it hard enough to leave it splintered for souvenir hunters to carry away.

BUT those are only annoying details to Owens, the gamester, who gets there first despite bad breaks.

The Alabama-born Negro settled down to his work, and the crowd, which had been stunned by the sight of him trailing the field by a good 10 yards at the half-way mark, gasped with amazement to see him overhaul the pack at the ninth hurdle, catch the leader, Bob Osgood, Michigan captain-elect, at the 10th and last barrier, and go on to win by a yard.

Owens broke three world records and equaled another in a single afternoon a year ago. He is unbeaten in 47 dashes, hurdles, and broad jumps in intercollegiate competition. Yet not a few critics consider the 220-yard low hurdles, which he barely pulled out of the fire in Ohio State Stadium, the grandest race of his brilliant career.

CHRONOLOGICALLY speaking, Tom Keane can't help turning out an Olympic champion this summer.

It's been a habit of long standing for the Syracuse coach to trot forth a prize-winner every eight years.

He started in the 1912 games in Stockholm, with Charley Reid-path, who copped the 400-meter run.

In 1920 in Antwerp, the Keane-tutored Alan Woodring captured the 200-meter dash.

The 1928 scene in Amsterdam found Ray Barbuti, schooled by Keane, winning the 400 meters for America's only flat race victory.

And now, in 1936, it looks very much like Keane and Syracuse might repeat—with Eddie O'Brien the young man of the hour.

O'Brien, a standout in 1935, hasn't been beaten at any distance from 100 to 600 meters this year. He has done the quarter in 48 seconds this spring, despite retarded training due to a back muscle ache.

Scoutmaster R. A. Steele Receives Certificate A certificate issued by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America for specialization work in camping which was put on at Worth Ranch, Fort Worth's Boy Scout camp in Palo Pinto county, was recently given to Scoutmaster R. A. Steele, of Troop No. 9. The Certificate carries the signature of President Roosevelt as honorary president of the Boy Scouts as well as other national and local council scout officials. Several other scouters in the Comanche Trail Council took the course, but Scoutmaster Steele was the only one attending from Ranger. The patrol from this council took of most of the contests and made a good showing during the course.

News From 4-H Clubs of County

Kokomo Club Meets On Monday, June 1, Hugh F. Barnhart, assistant county agent, and Elmer V. Cook, county agent, met with the Kokomo boys 4-H club at the schoolhouse. At that time Mr. Barnhart discussed with the club the 4-H club encampment to be held in Eastland Park on the 19th and 20th of June. Mr. Cook gave a very interesting talk on the organization of a registered Jersey Calf Club for the 4-H club boys of Eastland county.

Ranger Boys' 4-H Club The Ranger Boys' 4-H club met at the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday afternoon, June 3, at 3:30. Mr. Barnhart talked to the club about the 4-H club encampment to be held in the Eastland Park on June 19 and 20. He also discussed with the club the possibility of the organization of a registered Jersey Calf club in the county. The following Olden 4-H Club boys visited the Ranger club, L. J. Williams, Lonnie Crossley, Joe Collins and Ralph Wooten. The following Ranger members were present at the meeting: Haden E. Neal, a new member, Marlin Sneed, Howard Hinman, Louis Pitcock, Byron Gordon, J. Duff Pitcock. The Ranger 4-H Club boys will meet next Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Every member is urged to be present if they expect to attend the encampment. We would like to have some more new members for this club. Marlin Sneed, acting reporter.

Scranton Boys' 4-H Club The Scranton Boys' 4-H club met in a called meeting Wednesday, June 3, at the Scranton High school.

Mr. Barnhart made a talk to the boys on the 4-H Club encampment which is to be held June 19 and 20. He then made a very interesting talk on dairy cows, and he suggested that the boys get their dairy calves now, so that they would have them a head in the future, and they will also have a start in what ever kind of business they choose to follow in their later life.

Some of the boys were absent from the meeting because of being behind in their work at home. The following boys were present for the meeting: Johnnie Evans, Clayton Evans, Johnnie Boland, Roy Lee O'Brien, Almus Fanning, R. T. Ezzell, W. J. Starr, sponsor, and Mr. Ledbetter an outstanding farmer of the Scranton community.—Johnnie Evans, reporter.

Texas Legends and Folklore

Olive M. Johnson, Director of Speech Arts North Texas State Teachers College

Our Duty in Preserving Our Folklore Texas legends furnish an inexhaustible supply of material for artists, authors, poets, and dramatists. They await the hand of a Washington Irving, a Whittier or a Joel Chandler Harris to turn them into imperishable literature. The outlook is heartening, for there is a growing interest in native literature. Professor J. Frank Doble of the University of Texas, Professor John Lee Brooks at Southern Methodist University, and Dr. Rebecca Smith of Texas Christian University are encouraging the study of folklore and of the literature of the southwest. There is yet to be unearthed a mass of material on the life, manners, customs, beliefs, and institutions of the Southwest. There are unrecorded cowboy songs, legends, games, oil-field lore, tales of the border Mexicans, of rang-

REGIN HERE TODAY GAIL EVERETT, ambitious to become a designer, comes to New York and--due to a stroke of luck--is hired by MADAME LIZETTE, proprietor of an exclusive shop. MADAME LIZETTE, temperamental and difficult to work for. DEREK HARGREAVES, young artist, is interested in Gail and offers her friendly advice. Frequently she sees DICK SEARLES, whose sister, ROSEMARY, was her roommate at school. Meanwhile, in Arizona, MARK CHAPMAN, long a wanderer, returns to find his old home in the hands of the Travers Mining Co. Mark suspects the deal is crooked. He does not know the whereabouts of his niece, Gail, the rightful owner of the property. REX HALL, Madame Lizette's son, is representing the Travers company. Mark tells his friend, old JED HOSKIEEL, what he knows about the Travers company and writes a letter to GILLEN HARDING, New York lawyer. GAIL spends another evening with Derek. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIX ANOTHER Monday morning swung around and Gail rose with a song in her heart. She'd promised to marry Derek, and the future stretched rosy ahead. She was still smiling as she collected her mail--the precious daily letter from Derek with its delightful illustrations. No matter how often he might telephone or see her he sent her a letter every morning. There was one from Dick, too. When Gail had seated herself at the table she opened Dick's letter first. A little wrinkle furrowed her forehead. He wanted her to meet him for dinner some evening later in the week. He was still in Maine where he'd been for more than a week on some special mission for his father. Slipping the folded sheet back into the envelope, Gail opened Derek's note. Her eyes were shining as she read it. Such dear, delightful nonsense! How she loved him! With a light step Gail covered the few short blocks to the shop. Of course Madame had never given Gail one encouraging word or complimented her on the lovely designs she had made for the show. Still, she had not worried and upset her staff as much as she usually did. That was a lot to be thankful for! BUT Gail could forget Madame's lack of appreciation when she left the shop behind, especially now that Derek and she were engaged. "Good morning, Miss Everett," Toinette said as Gail entered. "What a wonderful writup Miss Cordell gave you! I'm sure we'll get some new customers on the strength of that. But of course you've seen it!" "No, Toinette, I haven't. I was out of town yesterday and I didn't even open my newspaper."

Good Night's Sleep Important to Life... waste of time, this one-third of your life spent in restless sleep will make possible a happier, healthier, and longer life. "We may be able to do without sleep for a night or two, but too little sleep for a prolonged length of time will undermine the health of a rugged person and turn a cheerful individual into a cross, irritable one. When good health can be maintained to such a large degree by merely sleeping and thus allowing overtaxed bodies and minds to regain a proper balance, it is hard to understand why so many persons are heedless of this necessary requirement of a balanced program of life. "Some individuals need more sleep than others, and the most valuable experiments in this line are the ones each person makes on himself. We must each take into consideration in this experiment, however, that how well we sleep is as important as how long we sleep. A 'good night's rest' means a sufficient number of hours spent in sleep to enable each individual to feel well, do efficient work, and to keep in a cheerful humor the next day. "Some exercise out of doors each day will help us to sleep soundly at night. We must also have fresh air in our sleeping quarters. Give as much consideration as possible to the comfort of your bed and bed clothes. Do not null over your problems and ideas after you have gone to bed. Make your plans early in the evening for a good night's rest by slowing down from the physical and mental work of your daily life. When you arise each morning rested and with a feeling of general well-being, you will be amply repaid for your thought in planning a 'good night's sleep'."

When Overhead Gets Too High

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE NEA Service Staff Writer THOUGHTLESSNESS in cooking steaks and chops may make them extravagant luxury, sure enough. They are not so, necessarily, to begin with. Porterhouse steak is carelessly prepared in many households so that it is not given its full value. Aside from the waste in bone and fat, the tail usually is considered unfit to eat. More often than not it is over-cooked before the rest of the steak is done and appears on the table an unappetizing burnt offering. But the tail has a fine flavor and if it's cooked properly is just as desirable as the tenderloin itself. Try trimming the meat from the fat. Put this piece of lean meat through the food chopper. Season with 1-4 teaspoon salt and a few grains of pepper. Mix with a few dried bread crumbs and a tablespoon or two of milk. Stir lightly with a fork until thoroughly mixed and shape in a small cake the thickness of the steak. Broil With the Steak Fit the cake into the side of the steak and bring the fatty end of the tail around it. Run a skewer through the fat and meat cake into the loin of the steak to hold it securely. Broil as usual. Remove skewer before sending to the table. Rib lamb chops are cheaper than loin but they too may be served just as attractively if boned and rolled. Ask your butcher to "French" the chops for you. To do this he will scrape the meat from the bone. Then you can disjoint the rib from the bit of back bone and curl the meaty end back against the eye of the chop. Fasten with a skewer to keep in shape during cooking. Broil as usual and remove skewer before serving. Tomorrow's Menu BREAKFAST: Fresh apricots, cereal, cream, creamed dried beef on toast, milk, coffee. LUNCHEON: Combination salad of cold boiled tongue and vegetables, hot buttered rolls, cream puffs, milk, tea. DINNER: Frenched lamb chops, potatoes in parsley butter, Julienne carrots in orange cream, stuffed tomato salad, pineapple ice with sponge cake, milk, coffee. Cheap cuts can be run through the food chopper several times and made into flakes that can be cooked quickly and are tender and appetizing. It's true that most of the quickly cooked cuts of meat are the expensive ones and few of us want to spend long hours in the kitchen cooking the cheaper cuts so the chopping of the coarser-grained cuts makes them tender enough to cook quickly. Choose your vegetables and dessert just as carefully when you build your dinner around a tricky piece of meat as you would if you were serving fillet mignon. Try this menu: Frenched lamb chops with potatoes in parsley butter, Julienne carrots in orange cream, a salad of tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese and chives and a dessert of pineapple ice with sponge cake. Julienne Carrots in Orange Cream Cut carrots in shoe strings and cook in boiling water until tender, letting the water cook away. Season with salt and pepper and a bit of sugar and pour over 1 tablespoon orange juice to 1 cup carrots. Add cream to barely cover and simmer until cream thickens and coats carrots. Sprinkle with minced mint and serve.

Missionary Group Installs Officers The Womens Missionary Society of First Christian Church has elected a large group of officers for the year ending at the annual conference of the society...

Mrs. D. J. Fiensy, president, opened the procedure with assembly hymn and prayer by Mrs. D. S. Tindall of Cisco. Devotional, "The Problems of Life," based on Matthew 16:23-28, was brought by Mrs. T. A. Bandy. Song by assembly, "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow," and voice solo, "Roundup in Glory," Mrs. H. V. House of Cisco, with self piano accompaniment, prefaced the history of the organization, entitled, "Still Seeking," given by Mrs. N. L. Smitham, installing officer, followed with song, ensemble, "I Gave My Life for Thee."

Cisco guests presented talks along the line of church work. The installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. Smitham. Mrs. D. J. Fiensy, president (re-elected); Mrs. T. L. Cooper, vice president; Mrs. Eugene Day, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. C. A. Peterson, World Call secretary.

Each was presented a lovely bouquet by installing officer. In the social hour the hostesses, Mmes. Eugene Day, Henry Ferrell and W. M. Wood, extended hospitality of fruited punch served from a lace-laid table decorated with sweetpeas, and spaced with trays of cakes. The church was decorated with garden flowers and ferns for the occasion.

Y. W. A. Plans For Luaders The Young Womens Association will again send a contingent of its membership to the annual Luaders Encampment which opens July 15, for a three-day session. At their meeting held by the local Y. W. A. in Baptist Church Monday night, a discussion of the plan for the program from Eastland was held by Miss Irene Williams, program chairman; Miss Albean Williams, and directors of organization, Mrs. L. J. Lambert and Mrs. Frank Lovett.

Eastland has been invited to present a program on opening day of encampment, and this is to be arranged by Miss Irene Williams. Mrs. Earl Throne Hostess to Club The recent meeting of the Sew Sew Sewing Club was a most happy one at the home of their hostess, Mrs. Earl Throne, at States Oil camp.

The rummage sale, sponsored by the circles of the W. M. S. was announced for all day Friday and Saturday in the Frost building, and that all who desire are asked to contribute to the stock.

The study for next Monday was announced to be a continuation of their new work, "Stewardship of life," with Mrs. W. P. Leslie as teacher.

BAPTIST TEAM, GROCERS WIN AT SOFTBALL

Baptists, in the most one-sided game of the Eastland Softball League season, Tuesday night defeated the Pleasant Grove team at the Fire Department field, 18 to 1.

Harvey and Weathersby led the Baptists with three runs each. Only three of the Baptist players failed to register runs.

B. Madding, Pleasant Grove first sacker, made his team's sole run. Although the score showed otherwise, Piggly Wiggly in reality won a game it was defeated by all-stars, 10 to 8.

The all-stars substituted for the Firemen. By organization rules, Piggly Wiggly was chalked up with a victory because of the forfeiture of the fireman team.

Tonight Carl Johnson plays Highway and Lone Star meets Hammer Undertaking Company which sponsors the H-Y team. Box score of Tuesday's 11-inning games follows:

Confederate Vet To Take Air Trip

SHREVEPORT, La. — Transportation that even Stonewall Jackson couldn't beat will be used by Confederate Veteran T. J. Saxon, Dallas, when he returns home for the annual convention of men in gray at Dallas June 9-12.

Saxon booked passage with an air line for his first trip through the skies. Now 90 years old, he traveled from Georgia to Texas in 1875 by the fastest methods of the day—train, boat and horseback. The journey took four days.

Pilots informed him that the traveler of 1936 can cover the same distance in six hours. "Why! Stonewall Jackson couldn't beat that," he exclaimed. Saxon was born in Butler Georgia. He enlisted in Colquitt's Sixth Georgia Voluntary Infantry in 1861, when he was 16 years old. It was the first Georgia unit to see action in the Civil War. The unit was transferred to General MacGruder's division at Yorktown, Pa. Early in 1862, the Confederates were forced to evacuate the town and Saxon was captured shortly thereafter at Williamsburg, Va.

He was returned to the Southern army in an exchange of prisoners and rejoined his regiment at Richmond in time to take part in the Seven Days' Battle. Later, Saxon's troop was transferred to the command of Gen. Robert E. Lee. In the summer of 1863, three of his brothers were killed in action. Saxon was wounded severely in the battle of Antietam and spent three months in a military hospital—"the only time in my life I ever so much as had a headache."

After the war, Saxon served two years as a member of the Ku Klux Klan. Dora wonders if there is any chance of getting a refund on her coal bill, now that the supreme court cancelled Guffey's.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BEER FREE LONDON. — About $500,000 worth of beer is given away in London every year. Everyone working in a brewery is entitled by age-old custom, to two pints daily—one in the morning, another in the afternoon. Workers from outside firms, in the brewery at these hours, also draw their pints, and those who are working overtime qualify for an evening drink as well.

SEEMS as if meals are chiefly salad these warm, throbbing days. And so the salad accessories take on new importance. Toasted crackers and Melba toast are always good with salad. So are tiny brown bread sandwiches. Pumpernickle sandwiches go well with fish. Cinnamon toast is fine with fruit.

Tomorrow's Menu BREAKFAST: Orange juice, cereal cooked with dates, cream, crisp toast, milk, coffee. LUNCHEON: Hot tomato bouillon, crackers, radishes, melon mallow salad, buttered scotch rolls, whipped cream, milk, coffee or tea. DINNER: Pot roast of veal with potatoes and carrots, asparagus salad, pineapple shortcake, milk, coffee.

The custom of serving several varieties of hot light rolls with firm whipped cream instead of butter is borrowed from Switzerland. Dig out your grandmother's little butter dishes for the whipped cream and try the effect with the salad.

Thick and thoroughly emulsified. Two yeast cakes, 1 cup milk, 4 tablespoons granulated sugar, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 4-4 cups flour. Scald milk and cool to lukewarm. Add crumbled yeast cakes and stir until dissolved. Melt butter and add with sugar, salt and eggs well beaten. Mix well and sift in flour. Stir with a wooden spoon until blended and knead lightly in the bowl. Let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. It will take about 1-2 hours. Turn out on floured molding board and roll into a sheet about 1-4 inch thick. Spread with softened butter and sprinkle with brown sugar. You can sprinkle chopped nut meats over the sugar if you want to. Roll up like a jelly roll and cut in slices about 1-2 inch thick. Place in a baking pan which has been spread thickly with butter and sprinkled with brown sugar. Let rise an hour. Bake in a hot oven (375 degrees F.) for twenty minutes. Turn out when baked, pouring any mixture in the baking pan over them. Let them stay up-side-down until ready to serve.

When Soft Ball Is Declared Dead

(Editor's Note: Joe Hughes, Eastland umpire today, in the fourth of a series of softball rule articles, tells when the ball is dead.)

The players, as well as the fans, are unaware that the ball is dead in a softball game many more times than one realizes. The rule is as follows: Rule 21—Ball Dead Not in Play: 1. If a pitched ball touches any part of the batsman's person or clothing while the batsman is standing in his position, whether the ball be struck at or not. 2. In case of an illegally batted ball. 3. In case of a bunt or an attempt to bunt. 4. In case of a foul hit ball not legally caught. 5. In case of interference with the fielder or batsman. 6. In case of a fair hit ball strikes a base-runner or umpire before touching a fielder. 7. In case an overthrown ball touches the person or clothing of a coacher. 8. In case a block ball is declared. 9. In case of an overthrow, if the ball touches any obstruction or person. 10. In case of an illegally pitched ball, or a ball dropped or rolled along the ground by the pitcher. In all the foregoing cases the ball shall not be considered in play until it is held by the pitcher standing in his position and the umpire shall have called "Play." Many times a base runner has unknowingly attempted to advance a base at his own risk when the ball was actually dead. He has no right to advance, but neither does the fielder have any right to make a put-out at the expense of the base runner. All runners, in case of a dead ball, must return to the last base occupied. The umpires, generally, are blamed for the misconception of the dead ball because of their failure to announce it. The above rule is clear as a case. It needs no more explanation. Tomorrow—Rule 22. The throw.

Court Refuses to Let a Candidate Change His Name

DALLAS.—Application of Jameson to change his name to David Roy (Townsend) Jameson was denied by Sarah T. Hughes in 14th court after a hearing in which number of attorneys appeared. Friends of the candidate protested. D. A. Frank, president of Dallas Bar Association, called Eastland's business especially around Romic filed amicus curiae. The court, in its opinion, stated that the petitioner's request for a change of name was not in the public interest. The court also stated that the petitioner had no legitimate right to change his name. The court's decision was a final one. Jameson protested the decision and asked Judge Hughes to reconsider his case on its merits. She denied the request. The Washington Congress has bills for the "Zionchek Zipper." The praise is well thought he lost his buttons.
