BANQUET-

semi-final Class A game played there.

Boyd Sincere
A sincere Sam Boyd then took over. The coach of this year's Sugar Bowl champions, told his audience that Eastland didn't go to the semi-finals just because they had bigger and better boys than the next team did. "These boys had a burning desire to get the job done," he asserted. "Teams don't excel like your're team did unless they are willing to pay the price—on and off the field." Boyd then said, "Too many teams are not willing to go all the way."

He told the 26 members of the Maverick grid team and the other athletes being honored that they have to live up to their town, their parents, their school and to the game of football itself.
"Don't ever lose what you have—that old burning desire to get the job done and that wonderful teamwork you have," he urged the Mavericks.
Saying he noticed that about two-thirds of the Eastland team were graduating seniors, Boyd told them that what they had is contagious. It "will spread to those coming up after you."
Following the talk Boyd showed films of the Sugar Bowl victory.

Letter to Editor

Rip Van Winkle allegedly slept 20 years. We read this story with mirth, but it seems to me we are doing the same thing here in Eastland. Not the physical closing of the eyelids, and the relaxation of the brain, as he was supposed to have done; but we are closing our eyes and our sense of hearing to current problems and obligations. The same, if we did an "about face" would be directly before us.

We shrink not from our obligations to our families, our jobs and some of us from our duties to our God, but the ulae I have in mind is where we have the beginning, and just as surely so, the end of our mortal being. I speak of our hospital. Eye brows are be-

No new taxes are required. Salary increases for college teachers and employees were approved on basis of estimated income of 8 million over the next two years from increased tuition fees.

HR-3—providing for state funds for assistance to local governmental units in construction of water storage projects, passed Senate this week and was sent to the House for concurrence in Senate amendments.

Following is status of legislation proposed by Texas Water Resources Committee:

Enabling legislation for state aid program, SB 3, has been approved in Senate Committee. HB 161 has passed House.

Stream Pollution Control Board Act—SB 4 approved in committee, HB 190 pending in committee.

Cancellation Act—SB 5 and HB 145 has passed both Senate and House, and is in conference committee.

The proposal for purchase by the state of conservation storage in Federally-built reservoirs—SJR 1 is pending in Senate committee, as is the enabling act for it—SB 2.

ing, I can sense it.

I am a vocational nurse, employed at Eastland Memorial Hospital. I have had several years experience and observation of several hospitals, both large and small. I've seen all kinds of problems arise, that could make a small hospital falter. Some do, some do not.

I've seen the care patients get, and also the lack of it. I have witnessed the little personal things that can make a sick person feel more secure, given freely. I've seen patients, even seriously ill ones, literally bask in a nurse's warm smile and the confidences she grants. All these things we have at Eastland Memorial Hospital. Have you been in to see for yourself? Not just as a patient, but as a visitor. Come and see for yourself and get first hand information.

The administration of anything is always the first to be attacked as a means of a scape goat for our own personal dislikes. Such has been the case here. Think back a little more than five years ago, when we had to go to some other town to a hospital—and Eastland the county seat.

Does it hurt to think about it? I truly think it does. Then from the very marrow of the bones of our little hospital. We looked upon it and said it's good"—and so it was. Then many of us walked away and terminated our interests.

Then all at once the administration had the full load and also the burden of proof of a job well done.

Five years later, still under the same management, we see a growing little hospital, guided safely through the toddling steps of infancy, through the uncertain steps of adolescence, and on to the sure steps of maturity. The hospital is now self sustaining, owing no past due bills, nor has there ever been any. This should be an unquestionable proof of the ability of our administrator.

Of course there is always some one who will say "they say." But you can never, I say never, find out who "they" are.

Please, if I may stoop (for rise as the case may be) to a cliché—"there is smoke there is fire"—is said. If you will meditate upon this, "Where there is dust, there is someone working."

Let's not have to have a stethoscope to find our pulse as citizens of a community. We do work in civic and political affairs with which we do not wholly concur.

I hope all of you stay well, but if you do get sick, we will see you at Eastland Memorial Hospital.

When you give your heart to a boy—

You're in for some trouble — when your heart belongs to a boy. Boys don't like soap. Boys scuff up their shoes. Boys make too much noise when they're home — and when they go off to school, leave a house that is far too still.

You're in for a world of happiness, too — when your heart belongs to a boy. The kind of happiness that erases tears, shuts out loneliness, rubs away all kinds of aches and pains. Small wonder mothers love their little boys so very, very much.

One of these days your boy will be starting off to school in his shiny new shoes and fresh clean shirt. And he'll start learning all the things he needs to know to make him the kind of man you want him to grow up to be.

One of the most important lessons for your son to learn is the meaning of thrift and the value of a regular savings program. And that's what the U. S. Treasury's School Savings Program will teach him.

By the purchase of 10¢ and 25¢ Savings

Stamps in their schools, children are investing in U. S. Savings Bonds on the installment plan. And, as you know, Savings Bonds are one of the best investments that any of us can make.

Is your child's school participating in this important program? Why not speak to your principal, school superintendent or P.T.A. group about it?

Encourage your child to buy Savings Stamps regularly. Start the U. S. School Savings Program in your town today!

Music Study Club Presents Piano Ensemble Program In Taylor Home

A piano ensemble program was presented at the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Music Study Club in the home of Mrs. A. F. Taylor, 700 South Seaman.

The hymn of the month, "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name" was sung in unison. Mrs. F. N. Sayre, president-elect, presided and presented Mrs. Art Johnson who served as narrator. Mrs. Johnson gave a brief resume of Tschaiakowsky's background and described the six characteristic dances depicted in "The Nut Crackers Suite de Ballet."

Mrs. D. L. Kinnaird and Mrs. Taylor, first on the program, presented a piano duo, "Trepok" (Russian Dance) and a piano duet, "The Chinese Dance." Mrs. Grady Pipkin sang Tschaiokosky's "Only the Sad of Heart and Legend" followed by a piano duo, "Flower Waltz" by Tschaiokosky played by Mrs. Kinnaird and Miss Linda Huckabay.

A tea hour followed honoring a past president of the Music Study Club, Mrs. W. E. Brashier, who is moving to Arkansas soon.

The festive table was laid with a white cutwork cloth centered with an arrangement of joponics and jonquils in crystal bowl. Crystal candelabras held yellow wax tapers. Mrs. Kinnaird presided at the silver service and Mrs. Sayre served Queen Elizabeth cake. Other refreshments were nuts and mints.

As Mrs. Brashier lighted the candles, each guest made a wish for her happiness and success in the future. The club presented her with a lovely gift in appreciation of her many years of faithful service to the club as well as to the city.

The following guests and members were present: Mmes. W. E.

Brashier, G. S. Cronen, Howard Gill, Griffin Hart, L. E. Huckabay, D. L. Houle, Art Johnson, N. T. Johnson, D. L. Kinnaird, Grady Pipkin, F. N. Sayre, A. F. Taylor, Margaret Welch and Miss Linda Huckabay.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mmes. Taylor, Welch and Brashier.

Last Rites For Franklin Dupree Are Held Today

Last rites for Franklin A. Dupree, 79, of Ranger, were held at 2 p.m. today, Tuesday, at the Second Baptist Church of Ranger with the Rev. Mark Agnew of Cisco, officiating.

Burial was in Bullock Cemetery under direction of Killingsworth Funeral Home.

Mr. Dupree was found dead in bed at his home in Ranger early Sunday morning.

He was a retired farmer, and although he was born in Ellis County, he had lived in Eastland County for the past 76 years.

Survivors include his wife and three sons, Alfred Dupree of Ranger, T. L. Dupree of Humble and J. E. Dupree of Deucha, La.; one sister, Mrs. Lillie Dempsey of Ranger, four grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Disagreeing in the magazine article are Norma E. Cutts, Ph.D., and Nicholas Moseley, Ph.D., nationally known educators and co-authors of several books on school and home relations with children. They say there are many advantages to be gained from homework, but it shouldn't be overdone.

Arnold says school children are forced to put in a full day at school plus a heavy stint of brainwork after normal work hours. Homework in the evening forces the child to hibernate in his room, missing much of the most valuable education of all—successful family living.

He says it is much more important for a girl to learn to bake a cake, practice sewing, loaf, and, as he puts it, "sample life as it's going to be in her adult years."

The schools themselves are not as much to blame as overzealous teachers, according to Arnold. In the article, he says, "We, the parents must insist that the teachers demand school children are forced to put in a full day at school plus a heavy stint of brainwork after normal work hours. Homework in the evening forces the child to hibernate in his room, missing much of the most valuable education of all—successful family living."

The two educators agree in part with Arnold. There's such a thing as too much homework, they say in the article. Teachers in many schools haven't organized a system for making assignments reasonable.

Parents shouldn't worry too much about a youngster wearing himself out. His workday is not like his father's, Drs. Cutts and Moseley point out. The youngster has more breaks, more variety, and a good deal of time devoted to play. And, children have vacations at Christmas, in the spring, and three months in the summer.

"When you consider all these points, you'll probably agree that a high-school student can put in 40 hours a week on schoolwork and still have time for family life and for contacts with friends, hobbies, the outdoor exercise, and the sleep he needs," they state.

Another point in favor of homework, noted by the educators, is that a student who wants to attend college must do a considerable amount of homework, not only to meet the demands for admission, but also to prove that he can learn by himself.

"If he isn't used to homework, he'll be lost in college," they say. "Homework within reason offers many benefits. It affords the student opportunities that are not available in limited study periods in school. He can savor at leisure a good novel that has been assigned. He can read widely and increase his knowledge of life and the world. He can conduct a months-long experiment requiring creative observation. He can assume the responsibility for planning and carrying out a long-term study, and learn from experience how fatal it is to leave things to the last minute. He can explore a particular interest deeply and thoroughly, and get a head start on his life's specialty."

To gain these benefits, and still not overload the students with homework, Drs. Cutts and Moseley recommended, in the article, councils of parents, teachers, and students to adopt a policy for fair assignment of out-of-school work.

Should Child's Homework Be Abolished?

Is homework so unimportant that it should be abolished in favor of more time for varied "out-of-school" activities? Or, is "in-school" time so limited that homework is necessary for a complete education?

This problem of homework is not a new one, and there is no easy solution. Oren Arnold, writing in the March issue of Better Homes and Gardens magazine, says homework should be abolished. He is the father of four girls, author of books and articles, and is active in parent-teacher organizations and civic groups in Phoenix, Ariz.
