Eastland Bands Presents Annual Spring Concert Tuesday Night

The annual Spring concert was presented by the Eastland Bands Tuesday night in the High School auditorium.

Opening the program, the sixth grade band played "Toonerville Trolley March," "Pony Express" and "Merry-Go-Round Waltz." Following the sixth grade band, the junior band played. The junior band is composed of seventh "Activity March," "Truax Filled" and "Argonaut," a concert piece. A member of the senior band stated, "We are proud of our junior band and very appreciative to them for helping out the senior band.

Concluding the program, the senior band played various pieces.

Having opened their program with a warm-up march, "Symbol of Honor," the bands proceeded to play the following numbers: "Thedera," "Song of Jupiter," "South," "Sugartime" and "Carnival of Melody."

During the concert the front line for next year was presented. Leading the bands as drum major will be Jackie Bargett, a drum player, Ann Toombs, the timpani player will be the featured twirler. The majorettes will be Sandy Taylor, the bells; Laura Harris, French horn; and Dixie Durham, French horn.

After the concert, everyone was invited to a reception held in the school cafeteria.

The band wishes to express their thanks to the Band Booster Mothers for their help throughout the band year.

Christian Science

How spiritual enlightenment brings freedom from the bondage of materialism will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson - Sermon entitled "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced," is the Golden Text from Romans (12:21): "Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (227:25-26): "Citizens of the world, accept the glorious liberty of the children of God, and be free! This is your divine right." Scriptural readings will include the following from Romans (13:12): "The night is far spent, the day is at hand; let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light."

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

By OMAR BURLESON
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—On every holiday the city papers carry running reports of traffic accidents with every issue. The radio and television give an account of accidents every hour, starting the evening before the holiday and continuing until midnight at the close of the holiday period.

Memorial day, on this Friday, May 30, will be no different. Statistics will be accumulated from 5 o'clock on this Thursday, the 29th, until midnight Sunday, the first of June.

The greatest automobile race in the world will be run in Indianapolis, Indiana, on Memorial Day. It is the 500 mile circular track race. But not all the races will be run in Indianapolis. Some of them will be bumper to bumper on the crowded highways across the nation.

The fact is, the race goes on every day. Especially here in Washington, they are run from about 7:30 in the morning, and from 4:30 to 6:30 in the evening.

At places where there is a traffic light, every block you see them jockeying for position at the starting line. The race continues for a block, and after the darting out of a traffic lane to a vacant spot at the next intersection, the front of the car goes down five inches and the back comes up the same distance. The next start sees the rear end settle down and the front end rises up, and the race is on.

Most men are gentlemen and most women are ladies until they feel a steering wheel in their hand, and then some lay common courtesy aside.

The fact remains, that according to the experts there are fewer accidents today than before World War II. Traffic deaths in 1957 were 1500 below the 40,000 total for 1941.

Mr. Karl K. Richards, secretary of the Highway Policy Committee of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, gives some rather revealing facts established by research.

He says it is true traffic fatalities are increasing. He points out we have twice as many vehicles traveling twice as far as we did in 1941, but fewer accidents.

According to Mr. Richards, there are three principal elements in traffic safety. They are the vehicle, the road and the driver. Unfortunately, the driver has made less progress than the other two.

The major factor in reducing accidents is safer automobiles. It seems many people have the mistaken idea that increased horsepower means greater speed. According to the engineers, the horsepower has nothing to do with speed, but rather the reserve power needed to handle a car properly. In other words, horsepower and speed are not the same things at all. The fastest stock cars on the market are built in Europe and have low horsepower.

In 1941, 20 persons were injured per 100 traffic accidents. Today, injuries are 14 per 100 accidents. Although horsepower has more than doubled in the average automobile since 1941, very little change has taken place in its top speed capacity.

Better lights, better vision, power steering and power brakes have added safety to the automobile.

It is also a mistake to assume that speed and law violations are the cause of most accidents.

Actually, according to the experts, the evidence is overwhelming that the vast majority of traffic accidents occur at legal and moderate speeds. A National Safety Council study of 685,000 accidents shows nearly nine out of 10 happened at speeds below 40 miles per hour. Even in fatal accidents, the Council reports, four out of five drivers involved were obeying legal speed limits. This is certainly not to encourage speed. Rather, it shows the importance of alertness, skillful driving and full attention to the job.

Numerous other figures have been developed by the National Safety Council. To mention only one, percentage-wise our safety record is better than it was when the horse and buggy ruled the highway. The record for 1909 shows 30 deaths per 100 million horse travel miles. This is some five times as high as our present motor vehicle fatality rate.

This last is difficult to believe, and many of the other conclusions are amazing, but that is what they say.

The fact remains that everyone is in danger when the nut behind the steering wheel is the biggest one on the car.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Many persons feel that the "whereases", "aforesaid's", and other legal verbiage used by lawyers are intended only to confound and confuse the laymen.

Nothing could be further from the truth. In drafting legal documents, the lawyer attempts to draft them in such a way as to exclude all ambiguities. In the last analysis, a legal document means what some court at some future time shall declare that it means. As a consequence, it is the lawyer's duty to his client to attempt to draft the instrument in such a way that it can mean only one thing.

Most any paragraph of non-legal language contains numerous ambiguities. When a lawyer refers to the "deed aforesaid", he is attempting to make it clear beyond question that the deed he is referring to is the deed mentioned in a prior portion of the instrument. Likewise, when he prefaces a legal document with a long list of "whereases", he is simply reciting pertinent facts for the benefit of the court to show the facts of the situation that lead to the execution of the instrument.

The difficulty with drafting a document in laymen's language is that to the trained analyst such language is susceptible of several meanings, and consequently is likely to lead to litigation. It is the draftsman's purpose to avoid litigation which is usually expensive for the client.

Another reason why lawyers use legal language is historical in nature. Thus most deeds declare that the grantor "by these presents does grant, sell and convey" the land in question to the grantee. Each of the words recited has a technical meaning. The words together have frequently been construed by the courts and consequently the lawyer knows in using them that their meaning is settled and that they will operate to properly transfer the title. He would be inviting litigation for his client, if instead of using those words, he devised new language to express the same purpose. He could only say, "While I think the language that I have used will accomplish the purpose, I cannot be sure of it."

As a consequence, the lawyer, in the interest of his client, naturally uses the time-tested language instead of experimenting with new language.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney) who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Mrs. R. L. Carpenter, a local member of the Order of the Eastern Star, attended various social affairs honoring Eastern Star members and friends in Sweetwater recently.

Mrs. Carpenter attended brunches, coffee, teas and other social affairs. Among the teas, Mrs. Carpenter attended a tea honoring Pyle Bradshaw, a grand representative, and Dorothy Driver, a grand officer, in the home of Mrs. Norman Reed, past grand matron of the Order of the Eastern Star of Texas.

Mrs. Carpenter stated, "Mrs. Reed's home and flower garden looked just like a picture. It was a perfect place for a tea." Mrs. M. N. Woodward of Clyde rode home with Mrs. Carpenter.
