SCHOOLS OUT!

Eastland public school students are breathing easier now after completing finals and some receiving report cards this week.

Eastland High School students wound up their final examinations Tuesday afternoon and will return to school Monday for report cards.

Douglas School students dismissed Tuesday after completing tests at 2 p.m.

They will celebrate the end of school with a Mother-Son, Mother-Daughter Banquet held to night at 7:30 p.m. at the school. Covered dishes will be brought from home for the event.

One high school senior and six eighth graders were recognized in the school-closing program held at the Douglas School Tuesday night.

Elijah Govan, Jr. is the graduating senior and the eighth graders are Carrie F. Crawford, Patricia Govan, Amber F. Hood, Mary Carter, Loretta Criesman and Dan Washington.

Eastland Junior High School students were out at 2 p.m. Tuesday also. There are about 69 eighth graders in the school who will become high school freshmen next year.

The eighth grade graduation exercises were dispensed with last year and no special program was planned for the class this year, according to J. W. Bailey, school principal.

An eighth grade outing to Cisco is planned for this afternoon, however.

South and West Ward Schools will rang their summer dismissal bells and hand out report cards Tuesday at 2 p.m. also.

South Ward will lose 25 fifth grade students to Junior High next year and West Ward, 51.

Both schools held "Play Days" prior to school closing, including class picnics.

The principals report good years in spite of some end-of-school sickness and mumps.

FOR SUMMER

Cheaper Water Rates Studied by Commission

There were plenty of motions, but seconds came slow as City Commissioners handled a lot of business Monday night and undertook a gigantic study program.

Probably the most significant item of business for Eastlanders (especially if they're trying to keep a lawn green) is the possibility of cheaper water this summer.

And downtown merchants will probably be happy to hear that the city fathers approved a chamber of commerce request to suspend with parking meter feeding on Saturdays for a three-month trial period.

City fathers began their regular third Monday night meet with an inspection tour of some Eastland property, purpose for which will be announced later.

After gathering at the council table, the Rev. Ray Heckendorn, pastor of the First Christian Church, opened the session with prayer and remained to observe, as a part of a new commission program being worked in cooperation with the Eastland Ministers Assoc.

Chamber President Frank Deaton and Manager Lee Ellis appeared, asking for suspension of parking meters on Saturdays to stimulate business.

City Manager Jimmy Young answered "About $2,000 a year drop when this was tried before for certain Saturdays and holidays period", when asked what this might do to the city's parking meter revenue.

Commissioner Don Pierson entered a motion that it be tried for six months and Young asked if that also included a motion to increase taxes.

"No", Pierson said, and added that "we owe it to the merchants to help stimulate business".

Our first duty is to the city," Chairman Virgil Seaberry Jr. countered, "and that's why we pay $150 to the chamber of commerce."

Milton Fullen seconded after a lengthy discussion of the matter concerning a test period in which the amount of Saturday revenue would be gauged, urged by Chairman Seaberry.

Young reported meter revenue is about $100 a week and between $7,000 and $8,000 a year.

The matter carried three to two (Seaberry and Jack Germany voting against) with the chamber to sample the merchants to determine the success of the program.

Deaton also asked the commission to consider the paving of Olive St. which runs in front of his business, Eastland Auto Parts, and intersects S. Seaman St.

"Let's see how much money we can get together," Fullen said, and told Deaton that the city is as much interested in paving the street as he, but time would be needed to see where we stand."

The street grade drops extensively eastward and is hard to keep up due to washing, commissioners agreed.

The city fathers agreed to pipe water to the site and contribute $10 toward the repair of the "rock building" at city park, which is used by the YMCA day campers.

City Manager Young reported that the swimming pool at City Park is almost repainted (about 50 gallons of paint will be used) and be ready for opening Saturday.

The operation barely broke even last year, he said, and recommended an increase of ten cents per swim for this season.

Approval came and the rates after Splash Day Saturday (free swimming for all from 1 p.m. until 7?) will be 20 cents for children and 35 cents for adults.

Pierson then entered his motion for cheaper water rates:

"I move that the chairman direct the city manager to study a new special, cheaper water rate for those people who like to have beautiful yards, and that he present exact figures in time to enable the commission to act at the next meeting, so that the cheaper rates could go into effect July 1st."

Pierson emphasized that he wanted cheaper water and the retention of sound fiscal operations for the city.

Fullen seconded the measure and each of the members are to work with Young to come up with several plans, all of which will be submitted to modern computing machines to determine the soundest possible manner to carry out this program.

Seaberry asked that Pierson direct the study with Young, but Pierson insisted that all members should cooperate in offering possible ideas.

The motion carried for study.

Another motion by Pierson prompted an exchange of questions and discussion.

The motion reads: "I would like to have a motion that the chairman appoint me (Pierson) to form a committee of local citizens to study the overall picture of Rural Area Development. I figure that the study would take at least two months before I could report back to the group as to what we might expect, and make suggestions for a program, should we decide to proceed. I will make no commitments bind the city commission."

"Where does the city fit in this," Seaberry asked, and "couldn't you study this outside the city business?"

It affects the city, Pierson said, because it could stimulate the growth of the city.

Germany seconded the motion for the study undertaking, and the measure carried, with Seaberry registering a "no" in the vote.

Longtime Piano Teacher Succumbs; Rites Tuesday

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the First Methodist Church here for Mrs. A. F. Taylor, 71, a piano teacher for 36 years in Eastland.

Mrs. Taylor of 700 S. Seamon died Sunday at 9:00 a.m. in the Eastland Memorial Hospital following a lengthy illness.

Rev. W. S. Fisher, pastor of Methodist Church, officiated the services with interment in the Eastland Cemetery under the direction of Hamner Funeral Home.

A resident of Eastland since 1919, Mrs. Taylor was born Emma Bell Weatherly on Nov. 3, 1890 in Mills County, Tex. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jim Septimes Weatherly of Goldthwaite.

She started piano study in Goldthwaite at the age of 12. She continued her studies at Howard Payne College in 1908, taking voice and piano. She taught piano one year at Blanket and one year at Goldthwaite before marrying Austin F. Taylor in 1912. Mr. Taylor was also a native of Goldthwaite, but a resident of Balinger at the time of their marriage. He predeceased his wife in death in the year 1945.

Mrs. Taylor founded both the Beethoven and the Sealers Junior Music Clubs here. The Beethoven Club, oldest junior club in Texas, was organized in 1920. The Sealers Club was organized in 1931.

Her classes have ranged from 20 to 63 students and she has at times directed choral clubs and choirs in the schools and churches of Eastland. She retired from the teaching profession in 1960.

Piano teaching did not take all of Mrs. Taylor's time. She had been an active member of the Methodist Church since 1904. She was the first teacher of the Martha Duran Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church here in 1919 and had been a member of the church choir since that time.

Mrs. Taylor had served as president of the Eastland Music Club.

Comets Down Bulldogs, 12-6; Medics-Lions, 7

"Every time the ball leaves the pitcher, anything can happen."

That's the way true baseball buffs size up the All-American sport—and it was proven in Eastland's Little League play Monday night.

In the twilight game of a double header at Wright Field, the Comets handily downed the Bulldogs 12-6.

But the curfew put a halt to a run-loaded tilt between the Medics and Lions—in the third inning.

The Lions were leading 13 to 11 and there was question Tuesday morning how the game would be carried.

It was no contest on the books, but the question is: Do we start over for the playoff or do we take where we quit? Goode was winning pitcher for the Comets, and Norris was loser for the Bulldogs.

and look out for hail and wind, both destructive elements that we can do little about except to expect and prepare for. The number 1 cost to property owners in this season is hail damage to residence and business properties but wind-storm damage to plate glass is a close second. G.A. Coronation Service Held Wed. Evening

The G. A. Focus Week at First Baptist Church was climaxed with the annual G. A. Coronation Service Wednesday evening.

Nineteen members of the missionary organization were recognized for the work they have done in the past year. "Jewels for His Kingdom" was the theme for the service and the church auditorium was decorated accordingly.

Mrs. J. O. Jolly, G. A. Director, and Mrs. Goldston, WMU president, were the presiding officers; Terry Treadwell, trumpeter; Connie Thomas and Barbara White, candlelighters; and Mrs. Jimmy Young, pianist.

The girls who were presented and received awards for completing the first step of Maiden were Jo Ann Baker, Jan Brewer, Christy Jolly, Betty and Irene Sullivent.

Mrs. J. Little Is Honored At Shower Friday

Mrs. Jimmy Little was honored with a pink and blue shower Friday afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. John W. Henderson, Route 2, Gorman.

Serving as hostesses with Mrs. Henderson were Mrs. Pete Snyder and Mrs. Calvin Brown. Approximately 30 callers were registered in the guest book by Mrs. Fuller.

The room was decorated with baby pictures. Punch and white cake squares topped with yellow and chocolate squares iced in blue were served from the table laid in white. Centering the table was a stork holding a miniature baby. Party favors were tiny diapers holding nuts and mints.

Meet a fellow Texan: Preston Smith.

Preston Smith's story is in the best Texan tradition—a farm boy who worked an education and a place of honor in his community life.

Born in the heart of Texas, at Georgetown with his family to Dawson County in 1922, 10 years old. He went to school at Sumner Texas Tech. In his adopted home town of his wife Ima and their two children, he has the full responsibilities of a typical Texan civic leader.

A steward at St. John's Methodist Church of the Salvation Army Board, the Kiwanis Chamber of Commerce, the Texas Farm are some of the activities close to the heart of Preston Smith, citizen.

He did not stop there. In his daily life he is constantly realizing that business and industry are closely related in the American system without good government we cannot have a climate for good business. A man of vision, Preston Smith went into the business of law. He served six years in the Texas House of Representatives and six in the Senate.

Senator Smith has supported sound legislation for better schools, roads, welfare and health care. He took the lead in establishing a program for state colleges. He had the courage to support necessary state spending and to oppose extravagance and waste. In government and at home, Preston Smith is living our obligations and paying our bills.

Having proved himself as one of the best-equipped, best-informed and most hard-working Texans in both his private and public life, Preston Smith was a logical candidate to succeed as Lieutenant Governor of Texas.

Voters in 102 counties gave Preston Smith four opponents in the First Democratic Primary in the runoff. He got there without any self-serving group or power bloc. He has the endorsement of labor leaders and other interests who want to dominate our state.

Preston Smith asks only for the voters of Texas who want a Lieutenant Governor who has strings attached. He is depending on the good Texans everywhere to vote for him on June 11.

ELSEWHERE in this section is a population breakdown for Eastland County. It is interesting and contains some significant facts.

For example, the average Eastland County age is 41.3 years — rather than 55 or so as some people might have guessed. You'll want to turn over to the table and study it.

A PROBLEM of this county, along with others with an agricultural background, is the lack of jobs for young people. And it was gratifying to hear John Connally, candidate for governor, say in a short speech in this county recently that if elected he hopes to work on this matter.

Mr. Connally said in talks at Ranger, Eastland and Cisco that he would like very much to see Eastland County become the center for a pilot program dedicated to the position of trying to reverse the trend of population back to the growth side. He added that there ought to be men with the ability to find a solution to our problems.

AN ARTICLE in his tabloid section last month called attention to something that we considered an opportunity for somebody to use in profitable business. That's was a peanut products kitchen.

As the state's No. 3 peanut producing county, Eastland has a lot of peanuts each year. And it seems like a natural thing to utilize local natural resources. A properly located business center might well earn a good return by dealing in peanut candies and the like.

We would be pleased to print suggestions from various folks as to how people might develop profitable ventures — operations that would create new and needed jobs for our people.

THIS EDITION is devoted to the important job of soil conservation and the facilities that our county has for the task. Soil conservation work will be coming up soon, and it would be fitting for all of us to be mindful of what it means and how the individual can have a part.

There are some real interesting accomplishments being reported in our county through planting Coastal Bermuda on worn out peanut land. Under proper use, this grass restores the soil and provides food for more cattle than you ever dreamed possible for a few acres of land.

Agriculture leaders are enthusiastic about the potential of Coastal Bermuda. Perhaps this will give impetus to improving our economy through encouraging small landowners to turn to livestock raising.

TEXAS PARADE Magazine, which is published by the Texas Good Roads Association, recently called attention to the value of cities developing tourist attractions. They pointed out the worth of these things in dollars and cents.

In all probability, our county could come up with some attractions that tourists would enjoy seeing.

Most of the deer trapped and sent to other areas were taken on the Arkansas Wildlife Refuge, which is federally owned and on which the Game Commission is licensed to operate. A number of the deer from the King Ranch.

Texas has received turkeys from Florida, South Carolina and Georgia. Chukar have been brought in from Nevada and California, beaver from Louisiana and Alabama, Gambell's quail from Arizona, prairie grouse from Montana, prairie muskrats from Oklahoma, gray francolins from Pakistan, and redlegged partridges from England. In addition to birds and mammals, the fisheries division of the Commission also has engaged in exchanges with other states, mainly for stripers, which have been stocked in the Texas lakes with high salt content.

Several other species of freshwater fish also have been received on an exchange basis. A number of white bass have been taken from Texas waters, and transported to other states.

"This exchange program is a very valuable one from the standpoint of a continuing wildlife program," Dodgen said. "Since we have a great variety of game than any other state, and a greater abundance of many species, it is easy for us to work out an exchange agreement on anything in which we are in the fields. abusive crop to the land. Clean peanut fields after harvest have nothing for protection from the March winds and spring floods. The loss of millions of tons of precious topsoil in this area can be charged to clean peanut farming. Along with the mechanism of peanut production in the past decade certain conservation techniques have been developed which lessen the hazards to the land. Vetch and rye winter cover crops, sorghum strips, and the return of peanut hay has made peanuts a relative safe crop for the conservation farmer.

In the early 1950's drought once more plagued this county as it had in 1886-7, in 1917-18, and in the early 1930's. For several years many acres of peanuts were only just harvested for hay or just left in the fields. Stocking were once more forced to sacrifice the balance herds from their overstocked ranges. a start of the better grasses and machinery, seem to be yields of 17-18 bushels per acre. When good weather returns as in 1957, 1958, and again in 1961 fall and winter that the average yield of the 1961 peanut crop in Eastland County was only 16 bushels per acre. Nevertheless, those farmers on year round overstocking of good land and using modern both cattle and goats have eliminated their better grasses along with their brush. In too many pastures the former seed source of good grass growing under the brush has been lost forever to be replaced by worthless needle grass. Grass production on this land can be restored only through drastic, expensive reseeding measures. In recent years mechanized, high labor costs, and inflation has made peanuts an expensive crop to produce. Reliable cost studies show an actual cost of $40 to $50 for producing which it was covered many time and cotton.

PAST, PRESENT & FUTURE
A Brief History, Forecast
Of County's Agriculture

When the Civil War ended bottom out of cattle prices. Texas was overflowing with cattle. As longhorn steers were worth only $3 to $4 in Texas and about $40 on northern markets the romantic trail drives began. Our area played no small part in this chapter of the history of the old West. During this period a few made enormous fortunes in ranching. An expanding growing economy created a demand for Texas beef. Everyone tried to get into the cattle business. By 1880 the unlimited Texas ranges were dangerously overstocked. The severe winter of 1883-84 followed by the drought of 1886 and 1887 caused the boom to burst. Heavy runs on the markets for cattle cases to the forest for closure by eastern bankers, dropped the many years cotton was king.

With the coming of the boll weevil and gradual soil depletion cotton was replaced by peanuts as a cash crop. During World War II the peanut products created an unsatisfiable demand for peanut production. All out production became a patriotic duty. Hampered by scarcities of labor and machinery peanut farmers responded admirably in the war effort. After the war peanuts continued to expand and many acres of brushland were cleared for peanuts. Surplus production, as with other staple commodities, soon brought about the expansion of peanut acreage.

The Water That Sustains Us— Shapes Our Earthly Destiny

Soil Stewardship Week

"The Stream of Life"
That's the theme for Soil Stewardship Week, being observed this year from May 27 through June 3.

Consider, if you will, WAT-ER...
It is the universal liquid of life and part of our very being. It is everywhere around us, in the air and earth. Without it we could not survive, nor could any plant, animal, or other living thing.

It is no more valuable, but its frequent scarcity in our West Central Texas area, is perhaps more keenly realized. At this time, when indications are that this could be an extremely dry year, water means a lot to Eastland County.

It is, we all know, a final necessity, for which man has devised no substitute.

Water can be so abundant as to invite waste and neglect. It can be so scarce as to set it well. Have you?

From generation unto generation, as the land itself, good conservation practices are passed from the old to the young. A healthy regard for the value of the land and its resources, are often as important to be bequeathed, as the home place, or this tract, or that.

17th Congressional District Earns Big Sum From Exports

WASHINGTON—The 17th Congressional District, which covers 11 counties in Eastland County, has earned a record $11 million from exports of agricultural products in the first six months of the year.

The district's exports of agricultural products, including cotton, wheat, and other commodities, have increased significantly since the start of the year. This is due to a combination of factors, including a strong demand for these products in foreign markets and a favorable exchange rate for the dollar.

The district's exports of agricultural products are a major source of income for the area. This income is used to support a variety of services, including education, health care, and infrastructure. The district's exports of agricultural products are also a source of pride for the area's residents.

Thanks to Vernon and Mrs. Warren, who farm northwest of German for the big mess of fresh asparagus tips. It was sure good. Vernon won't touch the stuff but his Mrs. and I share the same opinion about it. Good. W. J. Prange, 2 or 3 miles south of Cisco used to grow it by the tubfuls. We often wonder why more people don't grow this low calorie vegetable. Incidentally W. J. has one of the largest blackberry patches in Eastland County.

Question of the month from an Abilene couple who have a farm and Summer home Southwest of Nimrod. "How do you keep the Sassafras-Talis from hollering so early in the morning?" Our bird watchers inform us that this migratory bird who winters in Mexico and Central America were getting back this spring. Normally the early ones show up the last week in March. Is Delicate, But Important Project

Brush control with goats has become a major enterprise on sandyland pastures in this area. Obviously the replacement of worthless brush with productive grass is a most delicate operation requiring skillful management. Except where fencing, cross-fencing, and stock water development is needed the very first step in oak control is to lay down the brush. Many tools have been used for this operation from axes and saws to the heaviest of machinery. The brush chains pulled by two bulldozers has proven under most conditions to be the most economical tool.

After the brush is down and buds began to appear in early spring the pasture should be heavily grazed with goats. With a few exceptions grazing with goats prior to chaining of the brush is detrimental to grass recovery.

The stocking of cattle while brush is being controlled is another common mistake. As soon as the young sprouts are grazed off the goats should be removed to other pasturage to allow grass recovery. In all cases they should be removed by about July 1.

Repeated observations show that in the hot summer months after oak leaves have hardened goats will graze very little brush and will obtain their forage almost entirely from the more palatable grasses.

After the summer rest period the goats usually need to be returned for a short period in the fall. Removal of the sprouts in the fall depletes the food reserves in the stems and roots of the oak before winter.

In the second year the oak should again be grazed for a period in the spring and followed by a summer rest. The summer rest in the second year will usually allow the brush to recover from the response of both the grass and the brush.

The essential key to the replacement of brush with grass is the summer rest period. Where goats are grazed continuously they will invariably remove the better grasses while they are suppressing the brush. Nothing has been accomplished if the brush is replaced with worthless needle grasses.

Since 1957, 126 javelinas have been sent to three states and to Mexico. Between 1957 and 1960, three states received 703 raccoons.

Since 1960, the Texas Commission has received from other states 45 muskrats, 32 nutria, 77 prairie chickens, 17 sage grouse, 419 Gambel's quail, 44 sandal sheep, 30 wild turkey, and an indefinite number of Cottontail quail, and red-legged and Grey Francolin partridges.

An additional number of protected game birds and animals has been taken by permit for zoological gardens in various sections of the United States. Museums continue to request dead specimens.

STAMINING IMPROVEMENT

There's quite a contrast between the top and bottom photos. And the difference in the two would be more evident to a grazing herd when the area had just been cleared in 1956. Shown is a pasture owned by J. L. McDaniel who lives about four miles southwest of Cisco. Volunteer stand of little bluestem and sand love grass started the improvements and goats were used to keep brush sprouts down. A herd of sheep is shown in the lush grass in the bottom photo. BIG OBJECTIVES

Profit, service, customer satisfaction and good marketing management are four mighty important objectives for poultrymen, retailers and other handlers of eggs, says F. Z. Beaublossom, extension poultry marketing specialist. How well these objectives are carried out can have a strong bearing on how successful each will be in business, he adds. With the coming of warmer weather, all must be on the alert for handling practices which will maintain the high quality that eggs have when laid, he says.

CENTRAL COLORADO SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

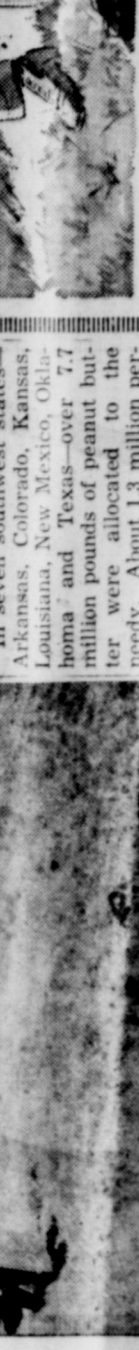

The Best Pond — from 2 to 3 feet deep to control water plants. It is desirable to have a pond fenced with a wire fence. A Soil Conservation Service technician can help you fill out an application for fish.

Stocking The Pond — Stocking rate will depend on whether the pond is to be fertilized. The agency determines the number to be stocked. Fertilized ponds will support more fish than unfertilized ponds. Determine the size of your pond in tenths of surface acres before attempting to order fish. Be sure that no wild life fish have invaded the pond before stocking with hatchery fish. If there is any doubt about the invasion of wild fish, the pond should be treated with 3 lbs. of 5 per cent rotenone per acre foot 2 to 3 weeks before the hatchery fish are delivered.

Peanut Butter Made From Nuts Grown In Area — Thirty-seven million pounds of Spanish type peanuts grown in the Southwest have been processed into peanut butter during the past year. Most of this peanut butter was packaged for distribution to the nation's needy families, but around 11 million pounds were packed for distribution to schools. The large quantity of peanut butter being distributed by SDA's Agricultural Marketing Service for use by needy families is in compliance with the President's executive order for increasing the quantity and variety of food for the nation's needy. In seven southwest states—Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas—over 7.7 million pounds of peanut butter were allocated to the needy. About 1.3 million persons in these states are eligible to receive USDA-donated foods.

Gorman Man Named "Come Back" Farmer — E. McAllister, Guy Horn of the W.P.A. in 1941 from this town, Johnny Aaron and Sam Powers, Supervisor, of the Eastern Agricultural and Cultural Stabilization and Conservation office attended a banquet Tuesday night at the Pat Boone County Inn, Denton. The banquet was sponsored by the Denton and Wise Counties Soil Conservation District, the Denton Chamber of Commerce and the Fort Worth Press.

When To Start Fishing — Use a minnow seine to find out whether both bass and bluegill have spawned. After you find young fish of both kinds, fish the pond as much as possible from then on. Don't expect channel cats to spawn. Heavy fishing is important if you want to keep your pond in good shape. Don't worry about overfishing it — you can hardly do that. Fishing by your neighbors and town friends won't hurt the pond.

What Production You Can Expect — Unfertilized ponds support 100 to 200 lbs. of fish per surface acre of water, however, the yield to the fisherman is only 29 to 40 lbs. Fertilized ponds support 200 to 600 lbs. of which 100 to 300 will be the yield to the fisherman.

How to Increase Production — Fertilizing the pond increases production. A mineral fertilizer is best to use. Commercial fertilizer (8-8-2) is best if added to the water at the rate of 100 to 200 lbs. per acre.

All Life Is Dependent Upon SIX INCHES OF EARTH!

The land we live on is covered by six inches of rich top soil. Without it, all life would cease — Nature's bountiful gifts of water, woodland and farmland become wasteland!

Fire, flood, drought and improper planting can all lead to soil erosion. It is up to each of us to protect against these hazards. Follow the rules of fire safety; aid in flood and water control programs; and if you farm, be sure to follow scientific soil-preservation programs.

Irrigation Of Crops Is Being Studied In Eastland County

By B. A. RUTLER
RISING STAR RECORD

There is a lot of unconfirmed magic in the work irrigation. One thinks at once of great reservoirs and artesian wells and flowing ditches of life-giving water.

The great, flat and potentially fertile desert areas of the west may offer such prospects, but in Eastland County irrigation is something entirely different in quality, magnitude and method. It has yet to prove itself, although where it has been intelligently and conscientiously applied on a scale consistent with the resources and local conditions, it has offered an encouraging prospect of relief from crop uncertainties due to drought.

There is, of course, no great arterial pattern of irrigation through ditches supplied from a general reservoir. Water resources, the topography of the land and the soil texture itself forbid such a system on more than a very limited scale.

The water is applied to the land by the sprinkler method. The extremely porous nature of the sandy soils, on which irrigation is used almost exclusively, doesn't permit of good distribution by ditching and the rolling character of the land makes all but the smallest furrows impractical for this method. A good deal of leveling is required for best results. Experiments, starting to supply water for

Among the pioneers in irrigation in the Rising Star section are C. Hutton with three wells; J. R. Reeder with two wells; A. L. Buchanan with two wells; Hain Erwin with one. Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Erwin have been very aggressive in developing the sprinkler method in the irrigation of peanut crops.

But irrigation in Eastland County from underground water resources has yet to prove itself. Water, like oil, is where you find it, and no definite underground pool has been defined.

Such water resources as exist are located in the southern part of the county and even so, they are indeterminate both as to location and potential.

Such water is found at a drilling depth of 65 to 120 feet with a maximum pumping depth of approximately 80 feet. The wells are pumped with electric motors 1 in 1 1/2 earthmen storage reservoirs, and gasoline or butane motors take the water from these reservoirs and apply it to the client to take care of a 40-acre plot will cost from five to 10 thousand dollars depending upon the depth of the wells, the reservoir used and other factors.

As yet no lending agencies such as the Federal Land Bank and the FHA are making irrigation development loans.

Nevertheless, and despite the fact that irrigation of peanuts has still to prove itself, a great deal of profitable, and there is prospect that it will eventually prove itself a very effective means of offsetting the perennial problem of the row crop farmer in this area — rainfall uncertainty and periods of drought.

Approximately 1,600 4-H Club members, along with their county extension agents, adult leaders and/or coaches, will attend the annual statewide 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M College, June 5-7. The big day will be June 6 when winners will be named in 27 judging and demonstration contests.

Some of the first "dog tags" were devised by Civil War soldiers because of heavy casualties. A soldier often wrote his name and address on a piece of paper and pinned it to his uniform before going into battle.

Story Day In, Day Out, Here

MIS-PLACED — Crops need water but they don't need flooding as is shown in this picture. Correct control of nature's rainfall, diverting into streams and lakes is the proper method of taking care of our natural resources. Flooded furrows aren't conducive to a bountiful crop — unless, of course, you happen to be a rice farmer.

Soil Conservation Service A guide for conservation farming and ranching. Developed by local landowners, assisted by local agricultural representatives.

A sign with this inscription hangs in the Eastland office of the Soil Conservation Service on the second floor of the Petroleum Building.

The office, one of two in the county, is headquarters for a group of men who are keenly responsible for the soil conservation programs in this county.

The other office is in Rising Star.

Both are a part of the Upper Leon Soil Conservation District, which is made up of all, except the extreme edge of Eastland County, all of Comanche and the western half of Erath counties.

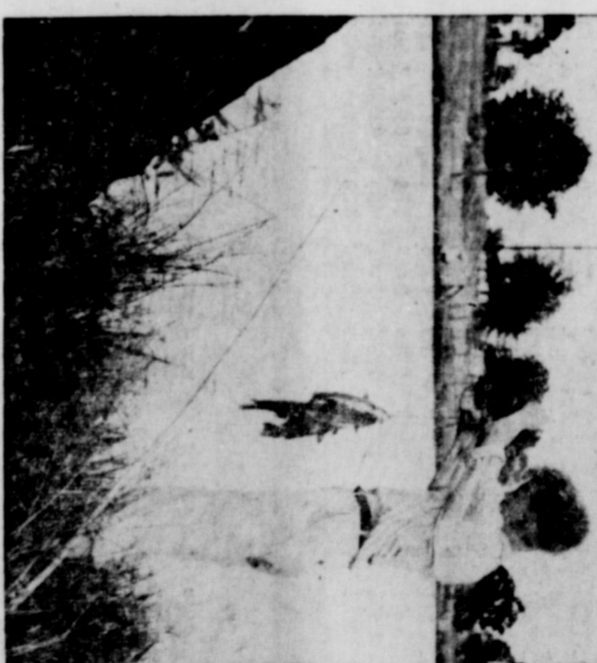

There are over 5,000 farms and ranches, composing some 1,346,412 acres of land, participating in the District's programs.

The District is administered by a board of supervisors — C. M. McCain of Eastland, Ory Beatty of Comanche, Wade George of De Leon, and H. W. Turney of Dublin.

Formed under state authority in an election held Dec. 14th, 1940, the Upper Leon District's certificate of organization is dated March 20, 1941.

The District is made up of "sandy land" soil and therefore has many peanut producers. A major part of the program has been to encourage strip cropping as a part of a conservation program.

The procedure of strip cropping, has not been considered as a "cure all," but is considered one of the most important practices in a soil saving and improving program.

SUMMER-TIME — And the 'living is easy'... especially if the natural water catches and the man-made stock tanks are in good shape, and generously abundant in fish. Recreational pleasures are just a few of the site benefits from a carefully carried out conservation program.

"It isn't always fully effective in controlling water, but it helps to prevent the hardening of peat in harvest time, and helps in stabilizing stock cover crops during the winter."

AT PEAK IN COUNTY

The upward swing in the value of farm real estate continues in Eastland County.

On the basis of a recent agricultural survey, the value of local farms is now 33 percent higher than in 1954. The change in the number of farms is partially responsible.

The rise is in line with the steady advance in market values noted in many other farming areas of the country during the last 15 years or so.

Nearly every year has seen a new high pushed.

What is pushing the prices up? According to the Department of Agriculture, one of the factors is the small supply of farms being offered for sale, despite the popular conception that farmers are anxious to dispose of their properties.

In Eastland County, the figures show, the price of farm real estate — land and buildings — is now $60 an acre, as against the $45 per acre price reported five years previously.

The valuations placed on farms in all parts of the county have just been detailed by the Department of Commerce. Its reports are based on the latest census of agriculture.

Various explanations have been advanced to account for the inconsistency that seems to have developed between farm income and land values.

Some feel farmland is a good investment since it is limited in amount and will become more valuable, therefore, as the need for it increases.

Others attribute the rise in land prices to the continuing pressure by existing farmers to acquire additional land.

ARLINGTON CEMETERY

Arlington National Cemetery, home of the Unknown Soldiers, is a memorial not only to those who have died for the United States, but also to the man who tried, reluctantly, to divide the Union.

The cemetery was built around the tomb of General John A. Logan, who died in 1842 and whose remains were placed in the Arlington National Cemetery in 1862.

In fact, Arlington is the original name of the property, located on the Potomac River in Virginia.

The home was built by a grandson of Martha Washington, whose great-grandfather was Lee's wife.

During the Civil War, the Union army occupied the estate and used it as a training camp and a field hospital.

The cemetery is probably best known for the tomb of the Unknowns of World Wars I and II and the Korean War, guarded by a sentry 24 hours a day. But there is also a monument to more than 2,000 unknown soldiers who died during the Civil War.
