MOORE about... EASTLAND by Virgil E. Moore

Leave it to Ed Sargent to come up with the answer to the cricket problem.

Ed looked out the front of his store the other night and was amazed to spot a rattlesnake coiled below the streetlight. The snake was busy catching and eating the crickets which were attracted by the light.

At that time Button Humphreys and a group of other boys came by, and after watching the snake at work for a while, killed it with a shovel which happened to be available.

Don't know about the rest of you, but we much prefer the crickets to the rattlesnakes.

Understand the Mavericks have been picked at one end of the state and the Cisco Lobos at the other. Coaches of the district reportable picked Cisco as the team to win the 7-AA crown this year. The Lobos have the material, there is no doubt about that, and they just possibly might come through.

Eastland, on the other hand, was picked for the cellar. With such teams as Coleman, Ballinger, Ranger and Winters to compete with, that just possibly could prove true too. Looks like we better get some mighty hardenosed boys this year.

Dr. Fehrman Lund tells us he received word this week that the rat which bit his son was not rabid.

Guy Parker says his sweet potato crop is looking mighty good this year. He isn't making any brags about it, however. Last year Guy lost his entire crop to an early freeze. He is still mad about that.

Benny Butler, editor of The Rising Star Record, has long done some talk talking about watermelons grown in that area. (After seeing a few we know why.) Now, however, he is giving reports on a banana crop. He says the D. C. Hazlewoods have a six-year-old tree with a number of bananas on it.

One of the most overlooked things in Eastland, we think, are conventions. This city has great possibilities of attracting a lot of smaller conventions, and should be doing more to get them.

You point your finger at the chamber of commerce and say talk to them not us. Of course, the C-C must take an active part in attracting conventions, but individuals hold the key to getting such affairs.

It takes an insider to swing a convention. Seeing as how Eastland has a lot of insiders (just as every organization in this state has at least one Eastland member), it would seem we should be able to do an A-1 job.

Football season isn't the only thing that's just around the corner. It's time to start getting your guns in shape for the coming hunting seasons. The Texas Game and Fish Commission predicts a bumper crop of quail, an "excellent" crop of mourning doves and more ducks and geese than usual.

That's it for now.

Band Practice Is Being Held

All band members of the Eastland Band are urged to attend the band practice which will begin at 6:30 Monday evening and continue through the week.

The members will also meet at 8:30 each morning beginning Tuesday for practice.

A NEW TWIST—A Navy Polaris missile, fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla., leaves this strange twisting trail as it thunders into the skies. The solid-propellant missile, designed to be fired from submarines underwater, was deliberately fired this way to test its recovery from the abrupt zig-zagging path.

Mavs to Open Workouts Twice Daily Monday

Some 50 prospective Eastland High School gridsters will be issued equipment Monday morning and will immediately begin twice-a-day drills.

Coach Carrol Shelton, facing one of the roughest schedules an Eastland team has ever run up against, plans to hold workouts each morning at 8 and each afternoon at 4:30. On top of that he will have "study periods" from 8 to 9 p.m. "at least until school begins."

Assisting Shelton will be Line Coach Jon Tate and Assistant Coach Bennett Ragsdale, Ragsdale is a new addition to the Mav staff.

Only 12 lettermen will be on hand when the first whistle is sounded. Returnees include Knicky Arthur, Larry Hollis, Clinton Ray Humphreys, Bill Turner, Stanley Reed, Mike Manning Phillip Lewis, Truman Lane, Marvin Agnew, Mike Lisenbee, Freddie Miller and Gary Lusk.

Some strength is expected to come from last year's B team. One of the brightest hopes is Jim McElreath, a power runner who was not eligible to play A-team ball last year.

Conditioning drills will be the call of the day Monday. Some of the boys have been working out on their own, however, and many already are in "fair shape."

The Mavs open their 1958 season Sept. 5 in a home game against Hamlin. They play Dublin, DeLeon, Cross Plains in that order, before taking on Coleman Oct. 17 in their first District 7-AA encounter. Other district foes include Winters, Cisco, Ballinger and Ranger.

Captains of the team this season are Humphreys, Hollis and Arthur. "We expect a lot of leadership out of these boys," Shelton declared.

The Mavs definitely rate as the darkhorse of the district. With enough determination they could develop into a lot better ball club than most fans expect.

ABOUT 53 MILLION POULTS HATCHED IN LEADING STATES

College Station, August—Almost 53 million poultts were hatched in the 11 leading turkey producing states in the United States from Sept. 1, 1957, through June 21, 1958.

This was a decrease of 12 percent from a year ago and compares with a decrease of 31 percent in Texas, where more than three and one-half million poultts were hatched during the same period last year, report John McHaney and F. Z. Beanblossom, extension economist and poultry marketing specialist, respectively.

In Texas, production of heavy white and bronze and other heavy poultts was off 57 and 20 percent, respectively, from last season's production to this date. Light breeds were down 41 percent during the period.

The specialists say late reports indicate that the increase in late hatchings in late June, July and August may cause slaughter after Dec. 1 to equal or exceed that for the same period in 1957.

Despite a hatching season which continued later than last year, they predict that 1958 turkey production will be down sharply from the 81 million birds raised in 1957. About an eight percent reduction seems assured despite the fact that the expected output in July and August will be above that of last year.

Norman Guess Home Is Raked By Morning Fire

Fire caused considerable damage early Saturday morning to the Norman Guess home, 605 South Bassett.

The blaze, which apparently originated in a bedroom closet, damaged two rooms, and the entire house suffered smoke damage. Guess was alone in the house when the fire occurred. He was sleeping in the bedroom when the fire originated, and the smoke woke him up. His wife and children were visiting in San Angelo.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined, but it was definitely believed to have caught in the closet.

No estimate on damage was made, but Fire Chief Billy Jack Johnson was to inspect the house today.

The home and contents were insured.

The 60,000-ton vessel is expected to visit Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Yokohama and Iwakuni, Japan; Hong Kong, B. C. C.; and Subic Bay, Philippines, before returning to her home port of Alameda, Calif., early next year.

TOP TEE TOT—Little Jackie Debbs (left) from St. Petersburg, Fla., won first place in the three to five-year-old class in the National Pee Wee Golf contest played in Orlando, smashing a 6-4 on the two-hole course. Here the pint-sized pro gives a bit of iron-shot advice to his sister Virginia, who played in the girls' end of the tourney.

USO Is Serving Some 500 County Servicemen Now

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles prepared by members of the Eastland United Fund publicity committee.)

By LOWELL SNYDER

What is USO?
It's a rich stew bubbling with many ingredients.
It's men in uniform who are called from all parts of the country to do a job—tall men and short ones, thin and fat. Men of many accents—the soft slur of Dixie, the twang of New England.

It's noise, a lot of noise. It's jam sessions and record players and a television set pulsing softly against the shouting crowd gathered in near-harmony around the piano. It's quiet noise too—the Lord's Prayer or an hour spent talking with a grey-haired lady who reminds him a little of Aunt Bezie.

It's a crowded dance floor on Saturday nights with girls who aren't so very much different from the girls back home after all.

It's food, mountains of food and gallons of coffee and a slightly homesick night in town suddenly turned into a good time.

It's a show—a USO troupe of entertainers and a welcome break from monotony at remote and isolated bases overseas.

Most of all, it's people. Generous civilian volunteers who stand on aching feet for hours at a time and yet always manage a smile somehow. People they meet for a while and may never see again, but they will never forget being greeted as friends.

It's a simple sign with only three letters found in 267 clubs and lounges around the world. Put it means warmth and friendliness in strange towns and strange countries. It isn't home but it's something like home. It's kindness and a pat on the back when they need it most.

It's USO. Give freely to the Eastland United Fund and let the more than 500 Eastland County men and women in the Armed Service know that Eastland people CARE.

Commissioners to Study Requests to Abolish Precincts

Eastland County Commissioners will meet with the County Democratic Executive Committee Tuesday at 2:30 to discuss a resolution passed by the County Democratic Convention asking that voting precincts with less than 50 votes be abolished.

Soil Bank Program Explained by Powell

The only Soil Bank Program for 1959 will be the five year contract program, Emmett Powell, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office manager, explained Saturday.

"This program is quite different from the program now in effect," Powell said. "The average rental payment will be higher."

"The producer requests the Committee to set a payment rate on his farm. This payment rate will be increased by 10 percent if all land is placed under contract."

"If all the farm is placed in the program no Soil Bank Base will be established."

"After the Committee sets the payment rate the producer may accept or reject their offer."

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

In 10 years, Ira G. Yates—it was estimated—received $5,000,000 as his share of the wealth that poured from the wells in the wonder-working field that bore his name.

Yates was born in Hopkins County, Texas, Oct. 29, 1859, the youngest son in a family of four boys and two girls. His father died when Ira was six, and in those difficult times following the Civil War, the widow and her family traveled by wagon to Wilson County, in the ranching country of South Texas. When Ira was 12, his mother died.

One of his first jobs was digging peanuts at 50 cents a day. Then the boy did ranch work in the Live Oak country and soon he was handling cattle that were being driven to Rockport and Powderhorn for shipment to Cuba and elsewhere.

The only formal schooling he received was at 14 and was due to an accident. His horse fell on the youth, whose right ankle was severely injured. He rode the forty miles, without water or food and suffering greatly, to the Thompson ranch, where he was employed, and while he was recovering, the governess of the Thompson children taught him to write. His first letter was to a sister, the first word the family had received from Ira since he had left home.

From the Thompson ranch, he went to work for J. N. Upton in Karnes County and, at 17, had saved enough money to start trading in cattle, horses and mules. In 1883, when he was 23, he married a widow with one son—Ann S. Brooks, daughter of a Methodist minister. A son was born in Karnes County and not long afterward they moved to Tom Green County, where their other seven children were born. Yates' stepson, H. C. Brooks, was considered as much of the family as the eight other children.

Yates served as city marshal of San Angelo in 1889. He engaged in ranching, ran a store at Rankin for a year and a half then traded the store and obtained the 21-section ranch which was to prove the location of the great oil field.

In 1928, on account of his health, he moved to Bexar County, making his home at Wetmore—but "home" to him always meant San Angelo.

He divided the ranch under a trust into 11 shares, and his wife each retaining a share and one going to each of the nine children.

Yates was president of the Wool Growers Central Storage Company at San Angelo.

JESUS AND ME

As I lie here tonight with my head on the sod
I know that my soul is at rest with my God.
Why should I worry? Why should I doubt?
After He has so graciously helped me out.
Out of the mire, out of the clay,
He put my feet on the rock to stay.
Why am I so happy and why so free?
Why, we've had a talk, just Jesus and me.
I tell Him I'm weary and long for rest,
Then He tenderly holds me to His loving Breast;
He tells me He loves me and drives every tear,
And then I realize I've nothing to fear.
Why? Well, it's this way, we've just had a talk,
Just Jesus and me, we've just had a talk.
There are times I tell Him I'm not at all sad,
And that He is the best friend that I've ever had.
He gently smiles then and takes hold of my hand,
And leads me somewhere to take a new stand.
But I'm not afraid, and why should I be?
For we've just had a talk, just Jesus and me.
Yes, we talk together, why we talk no end,
Because I can talk as I would to a friend.
He knows all our problems, their solutions, too.
So why should I worry, and why should you?
Because in the end you'll not sorry be,
If you talk with Jesus and He talks with thee.
—Submitted by Mrs. Frances Daffern.

Christian Science

How selfishness is overcome through the acknowledgment and understanding of God as the only Mind is a topic to be dealt with at Christian Science services Sunday.

Among the Bible passages to be read in the Lesson - Sermon on "Mind" is this admonition of Paul: "Let nothing be done through strife or vainglory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves. Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others. Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 2:3-5).

Cold storage stocks remain large, though use of stocks has been encouraging. On June 1, 1958, there were 84 million pounds in storage compared to 105 million pounds on May 1, 1958, and a 10-year average of only 67 million pounds on May 1. These stocks will continue to affect prices.

The specialists point out that the present outlook indicates a heavy late hatch this year compared to a year ago. Thus it is reasonable to assume that turkey prices are likely to be better for turkeys sold for the Thanksgiving trade than for the Christmas trade.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

STATE SOMETIMES "INHERITS" PROPERTY

Made your will? If not, the State of Texas may wind up as owner of your estate upon your death. Under our statutes, the estates of persons having no heirs who die intestate revert, or "escheat", to the State.

Such provisions have been carried over from the English common law. There, under such circumstances, the estate escheated to the British crown. The theory of the process is that the sovereign (or State), having been the original owner of all lands before they were parceled out to individuals, is entitled to a return of such lands when the possibilities of legal inheritance have been exhausted.

This idea has been expanded to include personal property as well as real estate. It also applies in the case of a person absent for a term of seven years and not known to exist who leaves no heirs and no will.

Presumably, there is hardly a person who does not have some individual or charity that he would prefer to have his estate rather than have it go to the State by default, so to speak. Yet, surprisingly, estates worth many thousands of dollars do escheat to the various states from time to time.

Now, before you shrug the matter off with the idea that these statutory provisions could not possibly apply to you, better think a minute. Suppose you and your spouse have no heirs besides each other and your children. Many people do fall into this category.

In event of a catastrophe resulting in death for you and your entire immediate family, no legal heirs would remain. Therefore if you had no will, your property would go to the State. In preparing a will, it is possible to provide for such an eventuality.

In this hypothetical case, you would probably want to designate some friend as executor, to take care of all necessary arrangements and then distribute the estate according to your wishes.

On the other hand, if you have plenty of possible heirs, a will could be used to designate which of them shall participate in the division of the estate. And even if you wish your property to be distributed entirely in accordance with our statutes of descent and distribution as explained in previous columns, a will can perform useful functions. Among other uses, a will could provide for an orderly and economical partition of your property, preventing any waste of the assets by heirs impatient for a settlement.

What happens to property which escheats to the State? Following certain required legal formalities and court proceedings, all escheated lands are set apart to the Permanent Free School Fund of the State, and may be leased and sold by the Land Commission under certain regulations. Escheated personal property is sold by the local sheriff under a court writ and the money received therefrom paid into the State Treasury.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

WHAT DOES GOD WANT from ME?

Stanley walked three miles through the rain to pay 50¢ he had borrowed because, as he put it, "I am a man who keeps his word." Stanley still takes great pride in his honesty. He is a straight shooter and he never lies. But he is unhappy! This is not surprising, for his religion is his pride. He does not see that pride often keeps a man from being his best and may make him his worst.

Stanley is like the young man who asked Jesus how he might have eternal life. To show him the meager spiritual quality of his life Jesus reminded the young man of the Ten Commandments. He said, "All these things have I kept from my youth up" (Matt. 19:20). Jesus saw that his pride was his undoing. It had put him in competition with God, and caused him to go about with an invisible flag, so to speak, on which was written, "I am my own savior." So Jesus at once struck a blow at his pride: "Go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor . . . and come follow me" (Matt. 19:21).

Jesus was not discounting the importance of keeping the commandments. He was emphasizing that total surrender to God whatever is involved, is man's only way to heaven. Note his strong words: "Go . . . sell . . . give . . . come . . . follow."

What Jesus said is something that Stanley needs to get straight. God does not want just so much of his time, his money, his talent; he wants him, all of him. Stanley resents God's intrusion into his life; but it is in his resentment that Stanley acts most like a god. What he is really saying is, "I am a little god, and I don't want to be run over by a big God." He sulks and takes his motor boat to the lake on Sunday, saying: "A man has to live his own life. The church people make too many demands." He goes on burning his life out in a furious search for satisfaction and contentment. "I am free," he says; and from the way he acts it would seem that he is right. But Stanley is not free; he is a slave to his pride, his passions, and sin. Though God wants to set him free, he cannot do so until Stanley surrenders his life to him.

Stanley says to God, "All right! Give me a sign." God replies: "I have already given you a sign, that of my only begotten Son—the life he lived, the death he died, his triumph over the grave."

What did Stanley do? What must all of us do? We ought to keep the Ten Commandments, but unaided we cannot keep them. We need the help that only God can give. We can get it only by turning from sin, our sins, taking Jesus Christ as Saviour for both time and eternity, and surrendering to him as Lord. Then shall we find that when the Son of God makes us free we are free indeed (John 8:36).
