MOORE about... EASTLAND

by Virgil E. Moore

Winning first place in the West Texas Press Association column writing contest was a great thrill for us, needless to say. It is always an honor to be judged out by members of your own profession, and we admit that we had a smile from ear to ear when we were presented with the beautiful trophy.

We probably owe Lois Dunlap a double malted milk, for it was the column which we wrote about his ordeal with the turnip seeds which won the contest.

The minute we got back home we started hearing rumors that we entered one of Joe Gray's columns in the contest and won. Later we found out who started that rumor—Joe Gray!

We can't help but remember the words Jimmy Gillentine, publisher of the Hereford Brand, used after winning the same contest years back. In his next column he wrote that it was a wonderful thing to win the honor, but the most of all it was the people of Hereford he wanted to please, and not the contest judges. That's true with us too. You're kind comments through the years mean more than a gold trophy ever can.

Wyn Bowen, 307 South Oak, will give you your choice. You can have a German police puppy or one of two kittens, all for free. All Wyn asks is that you give them a good home. You can give him a call at 883. He claims the puppy is extra smart.

See the crickets are back in town. We suppose that we may as well get used to the little fiddlers, because they sure seem to think this is a nice place to visit.

Nope, the State Democratic convention wasn't held Saturday. Our story Thursday concerning the convention said Saturday, but the Sept. 9, didn't get behind the day of the week. The big show is still a month off.

While in Alpine for the Press Association convention we played nine holes of golf at the Alpine Country Club. After completing the round we can assure you that we learned to appreciate Lake-side Country Club. The fairways at Alpine were so rough that ground rule allowed you to tee up on them. (They didn't tell our foursome about this until we finished playing, however, and our nerves, clubs and golf balls were in bad shape by that time.)

Someone commented that the picture of the new Lone Cedar Country Club pool was fine, but they couldn't see much of pool for the six pretty girls swimming on the diving board. That's nothing. The photographer didn't even know there was a swimming pool out there.

Talk out at Alpine was mainly about that area being invited to leave the good state of Texas and join New Mexico. From all indications, the New Mexico offer isn't getting much serious support. Folks out there told this writer they wouldn't leave Texas as if they got an offer to be the capitol of New Mexico. Never-the-less, the Press Association passed a resolution suggesting that if New Mexico felt lonely, it possibly could be made a territory of Texas.

Lana Pittman was the first to identify Sunday's make-up Mystery Farm picture as the C. C. Mahan place on the Eastland. (Continued On Page Four)

Local Citizens Urged To Help Foundation

(Editor's Note: This is the first of an urgent appeal being made to Eastland citizens to participate in the statewide "Citizens' March" for the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation—now the Texas Rehabilitation Center—which is in jeopardy because of a shortage of operating funds) Gonzales, Aug. 11.—An urgent appeal for willing workers from Ranger and Eastland to give a single evening of effort to an emergency state-wide "Citizens' March" for the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation (now the Texas Rehabilitation Center) is being made by R. I. Payne of Dallas, Foundation president. Unless financial help is forthcoming in the very near future, the Texas rehabilitation center is having to close its doors.

"We earnestly hope there is a civic, church, woman's, Scout, or school group in Ranger or Eastland which would like to volunteer for this one evening Citizens' March," Payne said. If so, its officers are urged to contact the Foundation's executive director, Walter H. Ritcher, P. O. Box 58, Gonzales, as soon as possible.

"It would be a tragedy," Payne observed, "if these remarkable facilities, built by and for all Texans, were lost to the thousands of citizens crippled in car wrecks and other accidents and by strokes, arthritis, cerebral palsy, and many other handicapping conditions."

Only about 30 percent of the patients at the center are still polio victims, and there are few agencies, such as polio's March of Dimes, which can help finance the non-polio patients. Of the non-polio patients, more than 90 percent must have some if not total financial assistance from the Foundation's welfare program.

The Citizen's March will be scheduled some night in September and will follow an intensive public information campaign designed to tell the people of Texas about the Foundation's new program.

"We believe a lot of Texans who want to keep this fine work going will turn on their porch lights when the signal is given," Payne said.

Eastland Sinners Play at Ranger

"Saints" and "Sinners" will clash tonight at 7:30 in Little League Park in a benefit softball game for the Jimmie Arrendale Hospital Fund Drive in Ranger.

"Saints" went into their final practice session Monday evening, preparing for the highly rated "Sinners" (Rogues). A good crowd is expected to be on hand for the "battle."

Making up the team of "Saints" are members of Ranger's Ministerial Alliance and recruits—including team members from the "Ranger Dads" Club and Teen-Age League. "Sinners" from Eastland, Olden and Ranger will play.

Fish Biting At Lake Leon

Recent fishing reports show that some good catches have been made at Lake Leon.

Here are the latest reports: A. C. Hoover of Ranger landed two channel cats on a trot line, weighing about two pounds each, and one five-pound bass (casting with top-water bait).

Price and Sterling Crawley of Midland with Al Larson of Ranger caught one bass, weighing four and three-fourths pounds, casting with a top-water lure. They also landed three bass, averaging one pound each.

Mrs. E. F. Arterburn of Ranger caught two crappie weighing two and one-half and one-half pounds, and one black bass, weighing three and one-half pounds, with minnows on Arterburn's dock.

Leonard Arterburn got eight catfish on a trot line, the largest weighing seven and one-half pounds. The rest were channel cats—up to four pounds.

Mrs. Lem Rushing of Ranger, also fishing at Arterburn's dock, landed two black bass, weighing two pounds each, and three crappies, averaging one and one-half pounds each.

Report from Frank and Earle's Lodge follow:

Boone Yarbrough of Ranger landed 11 black bass, averaging three pounds each, on a spinning rod using top-water lures.

Red Turner of Eastland caught two bass weighing three and one-half pounds each, casting.

Odie Monroe of Gorman landed a four-pound bass, casting.

Hub Jones and J. C. Crisler of Lubbock pulled in 12 bass, weighing between two and four pounds each, casting.

Salvation Army Recognizes Small City Needs Different Type Service

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles concerning organizations which are cooperating with the Eastland United Fund.)

By TOM WILSON

UF Publicity Committee Member

Realizing that poverty and misery are not confined to the large metropolitan centers, but can be found also in the small towns and outlying communities, The Salvation Army, out of its desire to meet need wherever need exists, established its Service Unit Program. Under this program the humanitarian services of The Salvation Army are extended to include the smaller towns and outlying communities where the Army has no center of work. In each of these small towns or communities a Service Unit Committee, composed of representative citizens who tender their services voluntarily, is organized to administer the service program of The Salvation Army and meet need as need may arise.

The growth of the Service Unit Department of The Salvation Army throughout Texas has been one of the most remarkable developments in the field of social welfare in many years. It was explained by Dan Eddy, State Service Unit Director, as he discussed this phase of Salvation Army work in Texas.

Under Eddy's direction, the Service Unit Department of The Salvation Army in Texas has expanded to the present more than 470 Service Unit Committees, serving more than 1,500 Texas communities, and administered by 1,700 civic and community leaders who serve voluntarily and without pay.

Each service unit committee makes its own decisions as to general type of aid, areas of need, and administrative methods. Types of service given range from medical and dental attention, summer camp holidays for boys and girls, care for unwed mothers, to the providing of food and lodging for the hungry and homeless, supplying of fuel, clothing and rent money for the destitute. Individual and emergency relief can be given in keeping with the general Salvation Army policy and the direction of the local committee.

According to Eddy, the 1,700 or more leading citizens of Texas now serving voluntarily as chairman and members of the local service unit committees, constitute the largest group of volunteers in the South working actively to meet the needs of their communities. Members of these committees donate their time to caring for those in distress, whether residents of their communities, or mere transients. There are no paid workers and no local administrative expense.

Eastland is one of the 172 communities in Texas in which The Salvation Army program of aid to the needy and the unfortunate is being administered by a service unit committee, members of which serve voluntarily and without compensation, donating their time and energy to this humanitarian cause. The chairman of this committee is Clyde Young and the other members of the committee serving with him are Ray Laney, H. T. Wilson and Everett Plozman.

According to Young, the service unit committee here has been especially helpful in cases of emergency.

Citizens Ask Road be Paved Under F-M Plan

Eastland County Commissioners were presented with a petition Monday morning asking that a county road in the north part of the county be paved under the farm to market road program.

The petition asked the Court to give "serious consideration to the paving of a county road from Lone Star Gas Co., Plant 3 to the county line of Eastland and Stephens counties, said road being approximately three miles long and known as the Old Wayland Road."

The petition handed the Court had 52 names on it. The group which presented the petition said (Continued On Page Four)

READER WRITER COLUMN

Mrs. Whatley Gets Praise For Work

(Editor's Note: The Telegram is always pleased to receive contributions from readers, and print them in our "Reader Writer" column.)

BY ELSIE GLENN
Two refreshing experiences await the visitor this summer in Eastland's Public Library: 1. The brilliant smile of Mrs. J. C. Whatley, librarian, and 2. the delightful "new look" of the premises. Before school starts and Mrs. Whatley returns to her natural habitat in the public school library, it would be fitting, indeed, for the book lovers of Eastland to paste a shining, gold star in the middle of Mrs. Whatley's forehead! In her few weeks of temporary service at the public library, Mrs. Whatley has accomplished so many amazing things the imprint of her inspiring renovations will no doubt permanently make the joy of book reading in Eastland an even greater treasure.

Despite intense heat and gallons of perspiration, with little available help, Mrs. Whatley has climbed ladders to rearrange high shelves, pushed mountains of books in book carts, torn off hundreds of tattered book covers, cut out from each the book blurb and pasted it conveniently inside each book, sneezed through the removal of years of dust, varnished and waxed tables, and set up an attractive Memorial and Fine Arts Shelf. Most gigantic task of all, Mrs. Whatley has rearranged the library so that each class of book: detective, novel, non-fiction, etc., is each in its own class, alphabetized by author and title.

In short, to visit the public library these days is to walk eagerly into a fascinating beehive of activity, to sniff with renewed interest the rich aroma of books attractively awaiting the reader's easy perusal in fresh, convenient arrangement.

Eastland has been fortunate indeed to have the trained, skilled service of Mrs. Whatley for the summer months. Gold star or not, the result of her labors will be permanently imprinted in the attractive, modern renovation of one of Eastland's proudest possessions—the public library.

Service Clubs Told Of Junkman's Trade

Eastland Lions and Rotarians this week heard Henry Pullman, owner-operator of Eastland Iron and Metal Co., explain just what a junkman is.

Pullman spoke to Rotarians Monday and Lions Tuesday. He also showed a film, which followed the path of iron from its beginning as a piece of scrap to its completion as an appliance to aid in modern living.

"A scrap processor today deals in iron and steel scrap," Pullman pointed out, explaining that in early days a junkman handled bottles, bones, rags, leather and metal.

"Very often we forget the extent of services the various institutions of Eastland offer, and the value they are to our city," he explained.

Pullman pointed out that much scrap iron is brought here, and cash is always paid.

"The distribution of this money, which by this time runs into thousands of dollars, means much to our local merchants," he explained.

Pullman then showed the film prepared by the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, of which he is a member, called "The Eternal Harvest."

Moore's Column Named Best In Press Contest

The Eastland Telegram was one of six West Texas newspapers which received trophies at the annual West Texas Press Association convention held Thursday through Sunday in Alpine.

The Telegram won first in column writing. "Moore About Eastland," front page column written by Virgil Moore, editor, was judged best in the column event.

The Colorado City Record received the "general excellence" award in Class I; the Tula Herald won the "general excellence" award in Class II, the Monahans news won first in Advertising composition, Class I; the Lampasas Dispatch won first in Advertising composition, Class II, and the Post Dispatch was first in editorial writing and pictures.

Some 90 newspapers are members of the WTPA. The organization includes the same area as the Texas Chamber of Commerce, and is bounded on the east by Fort Worth, on the west by El Paso, on the south by Del Rio and on the north by the Texas-Oklahoma border in the Panhandle.

A memorial was paid to the late Norman Wright, editor of the Ranger Times until a year ago when he suffered a fatal heart attack, at the convention. Wright formerly was advertising manager of the Telegram.

That announcement was made today by James Wright, Little League president who arranged the game. Wright also announced the names 14 of the players who will "suit up" for the game. They are Larry Kinard, Herb Weaver, James Smith, Button Humphreys, Edwin Aaron, Dr. M. A. Treadwell, M. H. Perry, Rabb Steddum, Willis Moore, Milton Underwood, Wells Dalton, J. D. Wilson, Gerald Abies and M. G. Cartwright.

Wright said that others who are interested in playing can contact either himself or Cartwright.

Shoot time is 8 p.m. Thursday. Donkeys for the event will be furnished by Cliff Dunham of Crescent, Okla.

Wright said the donkeys are all well trained, and he declared that with the all-star donkey riders who have agreed to play, "Things look pretty good."

Boat and Motor Destroyed On Lake Leon Road

A boat and motor were completely destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon on Lake Leon road when the boat fell off a trailer and burst into flames.

Frank Sayre of Eastland, owner of the rig, said he was carrying 11 gallons of gasoline in the boat, and he said that sparks apparently ignited the gas.

The metal boat melted under the intense heat.

Gray Matter

By JOE GRAY

I sure did see the sights on my recent trip to the Southeast. And I was rained on too. Every day we were out we ran into a good shower sometime or other during the day except the first day from home. And that day we missed the Tyler storm of August 22 by only a few miles. We were driving along about Gregton, listening to WBAP-WFAA-820 when we first heard of Tyler's having a storm. Although we weren't rained on at that time we got good drenchings every day after that, including the day we returned home.

Last Sunday a week ago I thought I would drive by Terrell Coleman's place in Waco and see what it looked like as I haven't been in Waco since Terrell opened his new grill up. Although I was in Waco just a week ago I still haven't seen his grill. Just about the time I hit town a storm moved in on me and Waco too and for about 30 minutes I saw about as severe a rainstorm as I've seen. I drove all around the shopping center that I thought Terrell's place was in, but it was raining so hard that it was all I could do to see the street. I might have driven right by Terrell's eatery, but if I did, I didn't know it. I certainly didn't see it.

The rain was falling so fast and the wind blowing so hard that the wind literally blew water through my car door on the driver's side. Water seeped around the window glass and trickled down the window enough that I had to get out my handkerchief and keep the window wiped clean or sit in a puddle of water. I've owned that car for over 3 years and this was the first time I ever had a window to leak like this one did.

There are some interesting cities in the old South. Some of them are proving fast and some of them are more or less sitting still. Of course Miami is one of the fastest growing cities in the land.

Jackson, Miss. is also knocking along as a fast clip. Every time a few turns around down there Demas Milner builds another new building and sells another carload of cars just like he's doing on the west side of Fort Worth.

New Orleans continues to fascinate me every time I visit there. The time I got around to the old Museum and got to see General Beauregard's sword and Louis Armstrong's trumpet.

Houston, though, is a real grower.

er. The place changes so much between my infrequent visits that it hardly looks like the same place to me. To find anything in Houston I have to go to the Rice Hotel corner to start. That's about the only part of town I can recognize from trip to trip.

The Rice Hotel is a Jesse Jones property. Across the street to the west is The Houston Chronicle, that's a Jesse Jones property. The Chronicle claims it has the largest circulation of any paper in Texas counting only one issue a day. I sure would hate to have to pay the newspaper bill for that outfit. Their daily editions are just a little thinner than the Sears, Roebuck catalogue.

Downtown Houston has changed over the years. When I first started going into Houston in the 30's Foley's was the largest department store in town and it wasn't very far then from the (Continued On Page Four)

MRS. DOUGLASS WILLIAM KING

Jane Weaver Weds Douglas W. King

The First Baptist Church was the scene Saturday evening of the wedding of Miss Jane Allene Weaver and Douglas William King.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thomas Weaver of 803 South Seaman. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lee King of 613 South Daugherty are the parents of the bridegroom.

Mrs. W. P. Weaver of De Leon is the grandmother of the bride and Mrs. A. J. Kennedy of Midland and Mrs. Bell King of Rising Star are grandmothers of the bridegroom.

Rev. James Fleming, pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church, officiated at the 8 o'clock double ring ceremony.

The wedding scene was set with the altar forming a white scroll entwined with ivy, holding three large arrangements of white gladioli flanked with Swedish steel candelabra holding tall white tapers. Palm trees formed the background. Floor baskets containing white gladioli, also flanked with Swedish steel candelabra holding white tapers, and the prayer bench completed the altar.

Mrs. Milton McCollough of Houston, vocalist, was accompanied by Mrs. D. L. Kinnard, pianist. "I Love Thee," "Love Never Fails," "May Thy Blessing Rest Upon Thee," prayer song; bridal chorus from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" were among the nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported chintilly lace and tulle. The molded basque bodice of lace was designed with a scalloped Sabrina neckline encrusted in seed pearls and paillettes and featured long, tapered sleeves. The very bouffant skirt of tulle ruffles was covered with a tulle shadow skirt that repeated the lace in studded applied scattered medallions on the aisle-side floor length skirt.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a lace cap accented with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a large traditional cascading bouquet of phalaenopsis and large white orchids and stephanotis.

The bride wore the traditional "something new," "something blue," and her heirloom was an orange blossom which her great-grandmother Ross carried in her wedding in 1875. The traditional coin in her shoe was a dime, made in the year she was born, given to her the day of her birth by her maternal grandmother.

Miss Margie Edmonds of Anson was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Julia Lynn Inzer and Miss Helen Taylor of Eastland and Miss Sue Tevis of Houston. Mrs. Sidney Burrus of Houston was bridesmatron.

They wore identically princess styled waltz length gowns of white lace over turquoise taffeta fashioned with bouffant bows in the back. Complementing their dresses were circular headresses caught with a small bow in the center-back. White fringed carnations formed their crescent bouquets.

Vickie King, niece of the groom, was flower girl and Robin King, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. Vickie King was dressed

MR. AND MRS. ODIS LEE SKINNER Miss Nancy Carol Norris, Odie Skinner Wed in Church Ceremony

Wedding vows were exchanged by Nancy Carol Norris and Odie Lee Skinner in a candlelight ceremony in the Carbon First Methodist Church Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Norris of Carbon and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Skinner of Carbon. A double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. John Wylie, pastor of the church, amid a nuptial setting of two floor baskets of white gladioli before an altar of greenery. White burning tapers in Swedish steele candelabra completed the wedding setting.

Miss Jan Robertson of Eastland, pianist, accompanied Mrs. Roger Butler of Carbon, soloist, as she sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because". Other nuptial selections played by Miss Robertson were "I Love You," "Truly," "Oh Promise Me" and "Ava Marie."

Mrs. Pat Collins of Ranger, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, Miss Mary Frances Butler of Carbon was bridesmaid and Mrs. Don Laminack was bridesmatron. Rhonda Kay Maynard was flower girl and Lynette Dorsey and Jennie Norris were candlelighters.

The brides attendants wore matching pink dresses fashioned with bouffant skirts and sweetheart neckline. They wore corsages of pink carnations. The flower girl and candlelighters were matching pink dresses.

Mike Collins of Carbon was best man and Harry Jordan and Benny Cates of Eastland were groomsmen. Pat Guy and Kenneth Taylor were ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white satin and chantilly lace designed with a V neckline and a bouffant skirt. The molded bodice was accented with long sleeves coming to a point at the hand and small buttons down the back. Her veil of illusion fell from a sup of lace accented with seed pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of white gardenias atop a white Bible with a shower of staphantias. The bride's only jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Norris chose a beige dress with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding and Mrs. Skinner wore a blue dress with white accessories. Both mother wore white carnation corsages. A reception was held in the annex of the church immediately following the ceremony. Members of the house party included Mmes. Claud Stubblefield, Paul Norris, Ina Jordan, Louise Dorsey, Davie Hadderton and Miss Kathy Underwood.

Miss Underwood presided at the register table laid with a white cutwork linen cloth which held the bride's bouquet. Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Dorsey presided at the brides table, covered with a white cutwork cloth, and served the three tier wedding cake and laded punch. For a short wedding trip the bride wore away a grey chemise suit with matching accessories.

After August 15 the young couple will be at home at 1215 East Maiden Lane in Midland. Mrs. Skinner is a spring graduate of Carbon High School and her husband, a graduate of Carbon High School, has served two years in the United States Army. He is now employed by Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

agency, and has been able to provide food and lodging for individual transients and whole families who could not get help elsewhere.

The committee also has supplied medicine in emergency cases, fitted glasses to those in need and unable to get glasses elsewhere, and met other emergency needs for those in distress.

Eddy explained that the service unit committee is set up to meet the needs of individuals not covered by any other existing agency.

Meyer Brothers sold out to an out-of-town firm that rebuilt the store down about the Humble Building end of town. At the time the building for the new store was completed it was one of the finest and most original department store buildings in the country.

It still is. This was the first time I had had an opportunity to visit Foley's with its adjoining parking building in which the customer parks and drives down his own car.

I was looking around to see what they had and at what price they were selling things for. They were running a sale on men's suits in their men's department, which is on an upstairs floor and not on the main floor level as is the case in most department stores.

South Texas cowboys were literally hanging their booted heels in the escalator in their hurried frenzy to get to the sale. One hundred-dollar suits were selling like soda pop at the circus for $99.80. At this saving I was tempted to buy one or two suits for myself. But when I felt of my wallet and realized how far it was from home the temptation rapidly passed.

Houston is such a good town that Neiman-Marcus, the Dallas firm, has a branch downtown store. Also the San Antonio firm, Jorke's of Texas, has a downtown store in Houston. They wanted to get in on some of that fine Houston business.

Sears Roebuck has stores scattered around all over town. Almost any firm you can think of in the merchandising business has an outlet in Houston. I guess this just about makes Houston the biggest branch in all America.

Leonard Pound and Rev. Brown are managers of the "Saints" and Dorsey McAlreath of Eastland is manager of the Rogues ("Sinners").

The "Sinners" appear heavy favorites to down the "Saints" but a good fast game—with plenty of action—is likely to develop, a spokesman said. At the present time the Rogues have lost only two games. They split a double-header in Baird, Sunday afternoon.

Jimmy Arrendale injured his back while visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arrendale in Ranger this summer.

At the present time he is in a cast down to his hips.

Over $536 has been received in the fund drive to help pay hospital and medical expenses for Arrendale. Several hundred dollars are still needed.

A line up of "Saints" will be made at Little League Park tonight at 7. All players are urged to be present at that time, in order to determine positions.

All plans and preparations for the game have been completed. Pounds has marked off the field and Mrs. Marcus Matthews has made preparations for the concession stand. Umpires will be on hand, and Ronald Waters will serve as score keeper.

A small turn out for Monday night's practice session was on hand, due to the fact that many men thought a rest was necessary before the game.
