MOORE about... EASTLAND

Eastland will not be getting a new phone directory until July... are sincerely hoping that Telephone Co. will finally buy a $3 engraving to put on the front of the directory.

The courthouse, hospital or several other buildings would look nice. Many other cities have the localized picture instead of the Spirit of Communication.

We notice that our own Omar Durison is among the congressmen who will sponsor this year's Congressional Peanut Luncheon in Washington, D. C. March 5.

The menu for the day is most interesting, and especially so since Eastland County is the second largest producer of peanuts in the state.

Williamburg Peanut Soup: 2 3/4 cup finely chopped celery, 3 tablespoons minced onion, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/4 cup flour, 1-1/2 teaspoons salt, Pepper.

Tossed Chicken Salad: No recipe needed on this one! The magic touch that makes it better is the use of peanut oil in the french dressing.

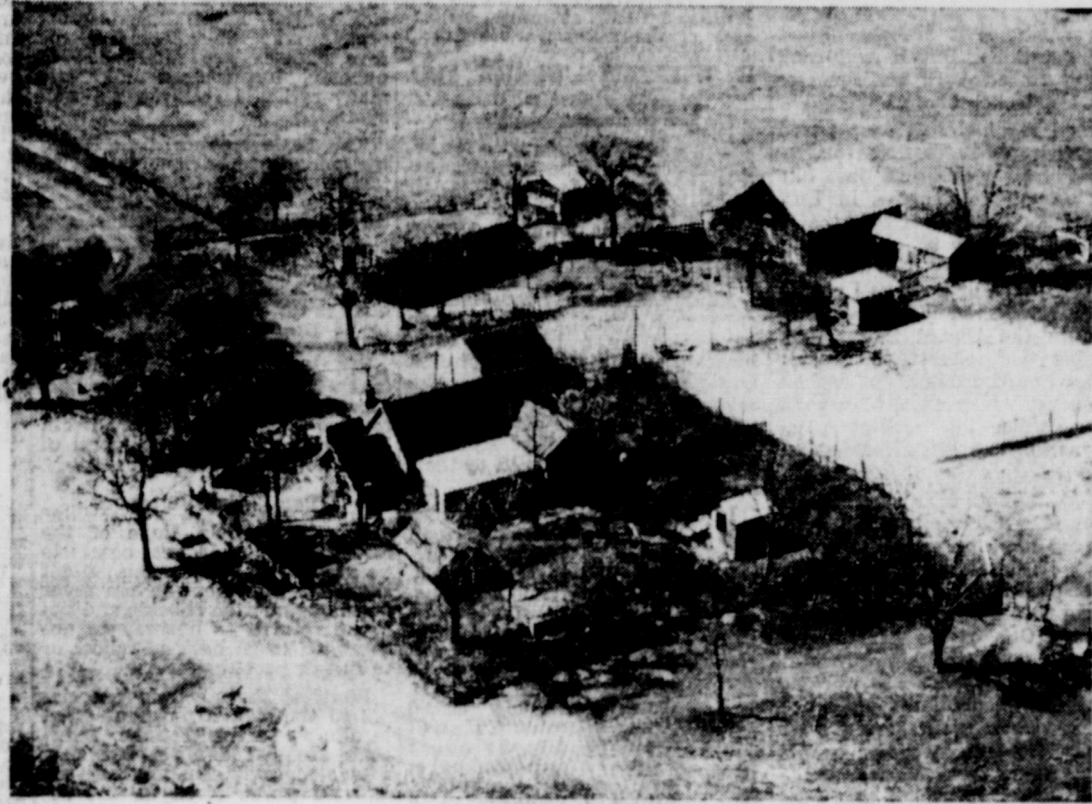

Carbon Beaten In Bi-District Play Monday: Carbon beat 27 to strong Blanket, 46-27, Monday night in a Class B bi-district game played in Comanche.

Telegram Staff Changes Revealed By Publisher: Two changes in the Eastland Telegram staff were announced today by O. H. Dick, publisher.

Miss Carolyn Collins, who has served as society editor of the Telegram for the past two years, has assumed new duties as bookkeeper and general reporter.

Miss May is a 1958 Eastland High School graduate. She was employed by The Texas Co. before joining the Telegram Staff.

STAFF CHANGES—Miss Carolyn Collins left, a member of the Telegram staff for two years, has been named bookkeeper. Taking over Miss Collins' former position as society editor is Miss Ladell May.

Cisco Man Dies Monday

Paul Poe, 61, Cisco businessman and landowner many years, died shortly after noon Monday of a heart attack. He was stricken in his car parked on a downtown street and pronounced dead by a physician summoned to the scene.

Mr. Poe, who had moved to Eastland County with his parents as an infant, had been in ill health and semi-retired several years. He was born in Magnolia, Ark., on Aug. 3, 1897.

He was the son of the late "Uncle Cap" Poe, prominent early day resident who settled near Carbon.

Mr. Poe attended the old Britten Training School, forerunner of Cisco Junior College, shortly after the turn of the century. He had lived in Eastland County all his life except for three years in the farm implement business at Denton in the early 50s.

He was a World War I veteran, member of the First Baptist Church, the American Legion and Masonic Lodge.

Three Seek Re-Election As City Commissioners

Three members of the Eastland City Commission filed for re-election last night minutes after the Commission officially set this year's city election for Thursday, April 2.

Commissioners Virgil Seaberry Jr., Robert Perkins and Jack Germany all announced they would seek their second terms of office. All will complete two year terms this year. The three announced they would run as a group.

Commissioners spent most of their time Monday night studying newly set-up bookkeeping procedures. E. C. Johnson, auditor, at the request of the Commission, is completely re-styling the City's method of keeping books.

A Committee report on a request for an additional taxi service here showed that the individual making the request had not met with members of the Committee. Mayor Cyrus Frost said the request thus died a "natural death."

Commissioners, while speaking of taxi service, also viewed with alarm the fact that the pay telephone at the train depot has been removed. Several instances of individuals having to walk from the station late at night were recalled.

Mayor Frost also named Commissioners Seaberry to serve with him on a committee to study the possibility of cleaning up some residential areas. The Commission unanimously agreed that too many old cars and other junk are being left in individual yards.

Curly Maynard met with the Commission to request that the City aid in re-building another court at the City Park. The Commission agreed to check into the situation.

All commissioners, Seaberry, Germany, Tom Wilson and Perkins, and the mayor were present for the meeting.

Date for the next regularly scheduled Commission meeting is March 16.

I've seen an egg fried on the sidewalk right in front of Kimbrell's Hardware Store on the South Side of our square but it would cool off as the sun would go down.

Some of our people think we have hot weather here. Our's is nothing compared to some hot weather other states not quite as fortunate as Texas has. And, believe it or not, the actual temperature reading some times is misleading. I was at Salt Lake City, Utah, one day when the temperature went to an official 96. Ninety-six there is worse than 106 here, at least it feels worse.

In Washington, D. C., for example, most government agencies let all of their employees off for the rest of the day any time the temperature goes above 90. That sticky, muggy heat they have there is the most uncomfortable feeling a fellow can run into. The only time I was there I was so uncomfortable I was 20.

Dean Arno Nowotny of the University of Texas will be the speaker for the annual Texas Independence Day Banquet of the Oil Belt Texas Execs Club in Cisco at 7 p.m. Saturday, according to an announcement by Richard Moore, club president.

Gray Matter

It isn't every day nor every place that you can have weather in the eighties and then a couple days later find snow on the ground. But that's the kind of weather we had here last week.

I've always said that Texas weather is better than any other weather but we don't always brag about it like some of my fellow citizens in California do.

The first time I was ever in California I was constantly bombarded with the expression, "Oh, you're from Texas. Don't you love our weather?"

I got tired of hearing that expression that I finally left the state and came back to Texas. After all you can take a Texas boy to California but you'll never make him happy about it.

We Texans hear the radio reports every summer about the hot weather in Presidio. That border city is frequently the hottest place in Texas, but it can't compare with some of California's cities.

El Centro, Calif. is the only place I've ever been in where the hood of an automobile would still be hot from the afternoon's sun at 1 o'clock in the evening. El Centro is below sea level, and a tourist can certainly feel the effects the low altitude has on temperature there.

John Roe Dorris, 72, a Mingus carpenter, was killed instantly Saturday afternoon when the car he was driving collided with a passenger train locomotive.

The accident occurred on the northwest outskirts of Mingus when Mr. Dorris was coming from Strawn on Farm-to-Market Road 108 and collided with the Texas and Pacific Eagle No. 2.

A blinker signal at the Mingus crossing was reported in operation at the time. A witness said Dorris' car was moving very slowly when it nudged in front of the oncoming train.

Drewitt Funeral Home at Stephenville is in charge of arrangements.

Investigating officers were Highway Patrolman Charles White of Mineral Wells and Deputy Sheriff Ben Bradford of Strawn.

Rising Star Explosion Injures Two

Two men were injured in an explosion and fire which heavily damaged the Rudco Oil and Gas Co. No. 1 gasoline plant seven miles southwest of Rising Star Saturday afternoon.

Injured were Leonard Flemming, an employee of the plant for about 16 months, who received burns on his face; and Joe Burkett, engineer at the plant, who suffered shock.

They were taken to Rising Star Hospital.

The explosion, from one of the engines, blew out the east end of the plant and ripped off part of the roof in the center section. Flemming said the 11 engines in the engine room started running too fast shortly before the explosion.

Flemming was hit in the face by a flash fire when the explosion occurred. Fire trucks from Rising Star and Cross Plains were called to extinguish the blaze at the plant.

Cause of the fire and explosion was undetermined.

Gray Matter

fortable I wished for a good West Texas sandstorm to help ease the discomfort. But a fellow can't have everything.
Frying an egg on the sidewalk in the summertime really isn't too much of a trick. Of course, you don't expect it to fry as fast as the kitchen stove will do it, and sometimes it probably won't ever get done. But it will cook around the edges, if the concrete sidewalk is hot enough.
When the highway was paved from Cisco to Ranger, the original pavement was brick, just like that around the square in Eastland. This 20 miles of brick pavement on Highway 80 (then it was State Highway No. 1.) was the largest single, or perhaps I should say continuous, strip of brick pavement in the United States. In building this road the contractor used a liberal amount of asphalt to top the pavement. And asphalt has a rather low melting point and melting asphalt is very sticky.
At the time this highway was opened the old-fashioned farm wagon was still very much in use. In fact, there was a horse-drawn wagon on almost every farm then, as the farmers hadn't yet gotten around to use of pickups like they do now. One of the hazards of getting out on the highway in a wagon in those days was worrying about tar accumulating on the wagon wheels. On a hot July or August day some wagons would gather up so much of the molten asphalt on their wheels that the driver would have to scrap some of it off that it would not rub against the bed of the wagon as the rear wheels came around. The rear wheels on the old-fashioned wagon was about as large in diameter as a man is tall, so the upper part stood higher than the bed of the wagon.
If the wheel had picked up about a foot or a foot and a half pad of tar a lot of it would rub off on the body, or bed, of the wagon.
Sometimes some of these wagons would pick up a strip of tar so completely that the road looked as if someone had gone down it with a shovel and gathering up all the tar in front of it.
I've seen farmers complain about the hot weather not because it was uncomfortable to him personally but because of the trouble getting out on the highway was when the asphalt was in such a molten state.
And contrary to some present belief, this brick highway has not been discarded by any means. A short strip of it out east of town running from Craven's Station to Olden is no longer in use and it can be seen, and actually used from the drive-in theater in Olden to the far side of that town. But the four-lane highway from here to Cisco and from Olden to Ranger still uses much of this brick pavement. It forms, in most cases, one lane of the four-lane highway. The brick have long since been covered, but if one could dig down into the construction of the pavement he would find the original brick laid about 35 years or so ago, and still in use.

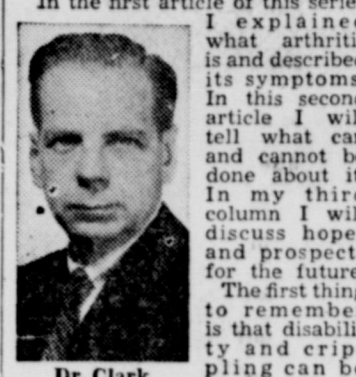

The weather may get hot one day in our section and cold the next but that old brick pavement stays there.

The Great Crippler Arthritis Patients Gain Relief Through Medicines and Therapy

By WILLIAM S. CLARK, M.D.
Director of Medical Care, The National Foundation

There is no specific cure for arthritis. This is true both for osteoarthritis, a localized "wear and tear" disease, and for rheumatoid arthritis, which is accompanied by fever, weakness and inflammation of the joints.
Having said this, I must add at once that arthritis patients can be helped by a judicious combination of medical treatment and physical therapy. Even the severely disabled can be salvaged. In hundreds of cases they have been made self-sufficient in daily life, often returned to their jobs.

In the first article of this series I explained what arthritis is and described its symptoms. In this second article I will tell what can and cannot be done about it. In my third column I will discuss hopes and prospects for the future.
The first thing to remember is that disability and crippling can be prevented by prompt rehabilitative treatment. Pending discovery of a cure, it is important to encourage arthritis patients to pursue, as much as possible, the normal routine of their lives. Beyond that, pain and discomfort can be relieved, and the patient can be maintained in a physical condition favorable to the natural abeyance of his symptoms.
Though rheumatoid arthritis may last a lifetime, there are, in most cases, periods of "remission" when acute symptoms subside. In fact, one of the characteristics of this disease is that it comes and goes, gets better and worse, and nobody can predict its course. About 15 per cent of its sufferers get well after one or more initial attacks. Another 20 per cent get worse and become disabled. The rest suffer varying degrees of discomfort, with periodic attacks followed by quiet intervals.

Ascent intervals (called "remissions"). Children under five with juvenile arthritis may be very sick indeed. Even their internal organs may be affected. Some severe cases are fatal. But at puberty, for reasons unknown, many arthritis children get well again.
The basic treatment preferred by modern physicians is a sustained one consisting of rest, exercise and medication. All three are equally important.
Rest is particularly necessary for patients with active rheumatoid arthritis. Since the whole body is ill, the whole body needs to be rested. Absolute bed rest, however, is rarely necessary; when used, precautions should be taken for correct posture in bed. Temporary splints may be used to rest the affected joint itself, sparing it pain from the pull of movement.

When Patient Improves
Once the acute stage of the disease has passed, rest ceases to be urgent. As soon as the patient shows improvement—when fever and inflammation subside and appetite returns—he may be encouraged to go back to school or to full or part-time work.
Physical therapy and exercise are to the arthritis patient what insulin is to the diabetic. Exercises are not a cure, but they assure normal function of the afflicted parts. Even in the severest cases mild "muscle-setting" exercises are prescribed while the patient is still in bed. In general, the object of daily exercise is to maintain or increase the strength of the muscles, to keep the affected joints as flexible as possible for the widest range of motion and to prevent deformity.
Simple Exercises
Exercises should be taught and supervised by a doctor or a physical therapist. The best exercises are simple ones that the patient can do himself. As in polio, exercises and rehabilitation methods must be worked out individually to suit the particular needs of each patient. The mental attitude of both the patient and his family are key factors in recovery at this stage. Particularly important for the patient is a strong motive to make himself active and useful again.
Among drugs, aspirin is the least harmful, the most economical. Given in fairly large doses regularly each day, it relieves

As for other medications, it cannot be said too often that there are no wonder drugs, no miracle cures. Sometimes acute symptoms simply cease for a time, even in the severest cases. Again, the mildest case may suddenly erupt with increased intensity. There is no scientific evidence that any known drug eradicates arthritis or alters its natural course.
This holds true for ACTH, cortisone and other related drugs known as the "steroids." They suppress inflammation and swelling, on occasion even to a dramatic degree. On the other hand, they are often accompanied by harmful side-effects, such as high blood pressure, diabetes, gastric ulcers, bone fracture, "moon-shaped" face and psychological disturbance.
Gold Therapy
Injections of gold compounds, like the steroids, may produce remissions of acute symptoms and enable the patient to move with greater freedom. But gold therapy, too, has its disadvantages. When not properly used, its side-effects are dangerous. Moreover, its long-term benefits are debatable.
Heat treatments are useful for relieving pain. Recommended are hot tub baths, hot moist towel packs or the use of an electric blanket. These simple and economical measures may accomplish as much as more elaborate and costly therapy such as whirl-pool baths, short wave treatment and other forms of diathermy.
Corrective Surgery
Severe cases of deformity may need corrective surgery. But other remedies, often widely advertised, are mostly ineffective. Moving to a hot, dry climate may make you "feel better" for a time, but it has no permanent merit. Vitamins, patented medicines, bee and snake venom, vaccinations, sulfur injections, liniments and diet fads are nearly always useless. Despite the claims of popular literature, you can't "eat your way in or out of arthritis."
Besides arthritis, other areas of March of Dimes activity are polio, birth defects and virus diseases.
(In his final article Dr. Clark will discuss the direction modern medical science is taking in its search for an arthritis cure.)

MRS. JOE GILMORE

Matty Jo Bentley Weds Joe Gilmore

Matty Jo Bentley and Bennett Joseph (Joe) Gilmore exchanged marriage vows Saturday at a 7 p.m. double ring service.

The Rev. Harvey Kimbler, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Eastland, performed the impressive ceremony amid a nuptial setting of floor baskets of white gladioli flanked with palms and rubber plants. Completing the setting were Swedish steel candelabra holding white burning tapers.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mattie Bentley, 1004 W. Main St., Eastland, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Freda Gilmore of Fort Worth and Doyle Gilmore of Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Donald Kinnaird, organist, presented traditional wedding selections. Soloist R. B. Hall sang "Because" and "Lord's Prayer". Flower girl was Ann York of Cisco, cousin of the groom.

Diz Howell, Cisco, was best man. Groomsman was Leroy George, and ushers were Allen Miller and Harvey Lewis of Eastland.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Don Slatton of Eastland, and Miss Barbara Rodgers of Ranger was bridesmaid.

Both bridal attendants wore identical sheath dresses of blue nylon taffeta with blue net overskirts. Complementing their dresses were circular blue net headpieces with short veils, and they carried crescent bouquets of pink French carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by Stanley Porter of Gorman, her cousin. She wore a street length white satin sheath dress styled with lace fingertip sleeves. The bride's dress was fashioned with a scoop neckline which dipped to a V in the back. A molded cummerbund enhanced the white lace over-skirt.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a lace and pearl crown. She carried a white orchid on a white Bible accented with showers of pearls.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church immediately following the ceremony. It was hosted by the mother of the bride, Mrs. Mattie Bentley, Barbara Mauldin, Patsy Jackson, Carolyn Collins, Wanda Payne, Barbara Dalton, Mrs. Robert Latham, Mrs. Cyrus Miller and Mrs. Winnie Wright.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a red wool box suit, with black accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid from the bride's bouquet.

IS "IRON-HUNGRY BLOOD" MAKING YOU ONLY "HALF" A WOMAN?

Are You So Run-Down You Can't Give Your Husband and Family Real Companionship? Then Discover The Wonderful Blood-Strengthening Action of This Special Iron Tonic for Women!

How tragic when a woman feels so tired, so weak and run-down she can't be a real companion! Luckily, it's often due to "Iron-Hungry Blood" (simple iron deficiency anemia). Then it's needless for those women to suffer such awful weariness.

Now, a wonderful iron tonic can help relieve this condition... thus renew your vitality! It's Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets, only iron tonic made especially for women! Rich in iron, Pinkham's Tablets start to strengthen "Iron-Hungry Blood" in one day!

FOR FEMALE AILMENTS! Doctors' tests prove famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (liquid) also brings quick relief from discomforts of monthly pain and change-of-life.

Thus quickly help build rich, red blood... to restore strength and energy so you feel fine again fast! Pinkham's unique formula can also bring blessed relief from functionally-caused monthly cramps and "Hot Flashes" of change-of-life! No wonder so many women use Pinkham's Tablets all through their lives! If "Iron-Hungry Blood" has left you weak and run-down — only "half" a woman — get Pinkham's Tablets from druggists. Then see if you don't soon feel "all" woman again!
