MOORE about... EASTLAND by Virgil E. Moore

We are mighty proud of those Mavericks!

The one thing we have learned to respect a team for is that "never die" spirit. And Eastland had that spirit Friday night. Behind three touchdowns in the final quarter, the Eastland lads were still trying to hang up another six points on the scoreboard. The Mavs, who were in the game until the fourth quarter (as far as the outcome was concerned), were in it all the way as far as fight goes.

Those two long touchdown passes hurt Eastland bad, but you can console yourself with the knowledge that it took an all-state lad the best he had in him to make the unbelievable catches.

Wanda Hood, down at the Chamber of Commerce, tells us she has a one year old bird dog to give away, and four pups. You want one? Just get in touch with her at Olden.

A pat on the back to Mav fans who have followed Eastland all the way. This Friday local backers get the real test. Ballinger is a long way off, we know, we are sending our boys down there to carry our colors, and our fans shouldn't let them make the trip by themselves.

You have noticed, just as we have, that Eastland is getting a new department store. The store, to be located in the spot formerly occupied by Penny's is to be open by Dec. 1, we understand. More about that later.

FACTS ABOUT YOUR UNITED FUND

Jimmy Young, our genial city manager, is another of the group captains appointed by chairman Steve Potts, for the United Fund Live.

Born in Sherman, Jimmy cannot be called an Eastland native. He has lived here since 1935 and is a graduate of both Eastland High and Ranger College.

Working every day in an administrative job which calls for clear thinking and fair dealing, he is well aware of the specific needs of Eastland and her citizens. Being confronted each day with the service and assistance, a urgent need for United Fund is quite clear to him.

Young has served as city manager for two and one-half years after serving in the City Hall as clerk for some time before that.

A veteran of four years with the Marines during World War II, Young is married to the former Marjorie Murphy, an Eastland girl. He and his family live at 407 E. Foch Street. He and Mrs. Young are the parents of two girls.

He is a member of First Baptist Church. Other memberships include the Masonic Lodge and Lakeside Country Club.

Golf is one of his hobbies but for the past six months he has taken up flying and now has his private license.

Young is another of Eastland's young men who is doing his part in seeing his town keep her reputation for being the "best town" (Continued On Page Six.)

Rotarian Warned Of Chinese Danger

"The world with a strong Communist China will certainly be a dangerous one."

Those were the words of a Catholic priest who spent 16 years in China before being chased out by the Reds 12 years ago. The speaker was Rev. Marcel Van Hemelrych, Belgium-born priest of the Ranger Catholic Church. The occasion was the regular weekly luncheon meeting of Eastland Rotarians.

Father Hemelrych was guest speaker Monday at the Eastland Rotary Club meeting. He was introduced by Anton White, program chairman for the day was Ben Hamner.

A Catholic priest for 30 years, Father Hemelrych went to China in 1930 as a missionary. He spent five years in a Japanese prison camp during World War II and was freed by United States paratroopers only to find that "terror and destruction" was worse under the Communists than it had been under the Japanese.

The guest speaker described the Chinese as friendly, peace-loving people. He warned, however, that the Chinese people lacked the ability to overthrow the Reds because they have too long learned to bow to a strong government.

Father Hemelrych told his listeners that he believed that the United States could have easily halted the Red Chinese grab of China after the war, but "general disgust of war" caused freedom-loving nations from acting at that time.

The Ranger priest described Red China as a "unique strong central government" and warned that they were beginning to act on their own without regard to what Moscow might say.

Gray Matter

By JOE GRAY

Football is in the air. The Southwest Conference spent a busy weekend this past week. And at the same time the Southern Methodist University Mustangs took a good look at the Georgia Tech Yellowjackets and promptly decided to run them out of the park.

They almost did. SMU was dogged to lose their game last Saturday by at least one touchdown, and probably more, to the mighty streak from Atlanta, but after the smoke of battle cleared, the Mustangs, took home the victory ball. SMU started out fast this year but lost their first string quarter-back during the Notre Dame game. Don Meredith was injured in that game and has been on the ailing list ever since. He only played for three downs Saturday, but during the three plays he threw one touchdown ball.

Homer Norton, the former Aggie coach, is now a sports writer. He writes a syndicated column for a group of papers, one among them being the Dallas Times Herald. Coach Norton said in his column of two or three weeks ago that Don Meredith was the best college football passer he had ever seen. And he's seen some of the great ones of the game.

He concurred in the same league with Sammy Baugh, Davey O'Brien, Marion Paugh, Bobby Wilson, and later watched such stalwarts of the game as Bobby Layne, Fred Renner and SMU's Donk Walker, who were both all-Americans.

Yet after reviewing all of these fellows and their abilities, great as they were (he says Don Meredith is the best he ever saw and he seems to doubt that there has been a greater passer in all the history of college football.

He pointed out that a passer's record doesn't tell the whole story. The best passer in the world couldn't do a good job and make a good passing record, if his receivers didn't hold onto the ball. The University of Texas went to Houston last Saturday night and fourth in the nation. These national prizes aren't worth too much but a lot of people do not get a lot of faith in them. But early last week, Texas Coach Darrell Royal

Mav Tackles Get Spotlight After Cisco Contest

By SANDY TAYLOR
Telegram School Reporter

Mavericks in the spotlight this week are tackles Marvin Agnew, Don Hull, Gary Lusk, and Charles (Butch) Martin.

Marvin Agnew, number 33, is a junior and has played football for the past three years. He also has run track for two years and is a member of the "E" Association. At this time he is president of the Eastland F.F.A. Chapter.

Don Hull, number 31, is a senior and member of the "E" Association. He has also been a member of the F. F. A.

Gary Lusk, number 38, is a junior. This is his third year to play football and has run track for the past two years. Gary has been a member of the senior band for 6 years and is at present solo concert player. He is a member of the F.F.A. and was a member of the F.F.A. choir last year.

"Butch" Martin, number 39, is a senior and member of the "E" Association. He is also a member of the F.F.A. and is a fireboy of the senior class this year.

But the game didn't run off according to the script. A bunch of boys from Aggie did read the papers and see the pre-game dope. They didn't even get discouraged at trailing 27-7 at half time. That only showed them how much work they had to do the second half.

And the second half at Waco last Saturday night was something to tell one's grandchildren about. It was all A&M the second half. Final score: 32-27, A&M. The Aggies did everything there is to do with a football but wear it to ensue on the quarter-back.

When Jim Meyers took over at A&M as head coach, coming from Iowa State, he said he thought the Southwest Conference played a more interesting brand of ball than they played in the Big Eight Conference. He sure said it over again after the game Saturday night.

It isn't often you see a complete reversal in playing form in the second half from what it was in the first half. SMU did it in the Missouri game a week ago. They were trailing 19-0 at the half time and won 32, or thereabouts, to 19 by the end of the game.

It takes determination to win when a club is that far behind. It takes that spark of character that goes into making the same work while for a group of boys to get the spirit of winning with such determination that they don't allow themselves to be discouraged by being so far behind.

The fellow who plays the game he enjoys his best until the last whistle blows is the fellow who commands the respect of the spectators. Anybody can quit when he gets behind. It takes great determination and character to overcome the obstacle of a lopsided score and defeat and turn it into a victory.

Any coach worthy of his name knows that and instills this type of character into his players.

Two Ballinger Backs In Fight For Scoring Honors

Eastland slowed down Cisco's Lobos Friday night, but Randall Hess still got his usual three touchdowns to push his scoring for the year to 135 points.

Hess gained eight more points on Ballinger's Ken Wington, as he scored all but one of Cisco TD's. Wington got 10 points as the Cats routed Ranger, and that was enough to keep his in second place. Jerry Candler, Ballinger's other ace, got himself 20 points to climb to third with 59 points.

Cisco, unless the Lobos stumble badly, has won the right to represent District 7-AA in the state playoffs. The Lobos must drop their last two games to avoid having that honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hoffmann Are Named Kindergarten Parents

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hoffmann have been named as the "senior parents" of the Green Kindergarten. The Hoffmanns have been "a part" of the school Bill, their son, spent two years in the school and this is Kay's second year in Kindergarten.

The Green Kindergarten, who has been active during the month of October, enjoyed several parties which honored various students.

Kay Hoffmann and Nida Ann Brown celebrated their sixth birthdays during October with the group singing "Happy Birthday" to them during the refreshment period. Miniature birthday cakes and milk were served on both occasions.

The students have been extremely active with their projects, band and coloring. They have also had several hikes. Mrs. A. E. Cushman, one of their teachers, says "They have been cooperated and followed instructions very well for the first month of training."

The Kindergarten planted their fourth tree on the birthday of their student teacher, Yvonne Green. She helps with the group during one of her study periods at school.

Randall Treadwell furnishes the group with individual bags of toasted corn; Susan Guess treated the group with homemade toll

Children's Book Week Opens at Local Library

This year the 2nd of November 1958 will mark the beginning of the 40th annual celebration of national Children's Book Week. Eastland Public Library boasts 1035 books in its children and juvenile division.
The library feels that quality is the first requisite in books especially where children are readers. Not only the old classics such as "Tom Sawyer," "Swiss Family Robinson," "Treasure Island" but there are many good new books such as "The Surprising Summer" by Christine Noble Govan, "The Jennifer Prize" by Eunice Smith, or "San Antonio Road" by Carol Hoff, to mention only a few.
"Impressionable young minds are better off with a book like 'Johnny Tremaine' by Esther Forbes, for they are not only being highly entertained but they are learning history and customs books could be the answer to the objectional comic books and too much murder on TV" says a spokesman.
Parents genuinely interested in their children's reading should consult one of our new books called "A Parent's Guild to Children's Reading" by Nancy Larrick.
