Certified Seeds Save Farmers Much Trouble

Texas farmers are very likely planting more weeds when sowing small grains as wheat and oats, surveys reveal. "Don't plant future headaches for yourself by relying on uncertified seed," says R. J. Hodges, Extension Service Agronomist.

"Texas registered or Texas certified seed is the best investment you can make in insuring yourself of varietal purity," Hodges said. A survey of the quality of seed farmers planted in Deaf Smith, Hansford, Ochiltree and Lipscomb counties made by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service came up with these findings:

1. Too few Texas farmers are following the recommended varieties of wheat.
2. Farmers are planting too much weeds with their seed including such noxious weeds as blueweed and goatgrass. A few farmers were planting bind weeds.
3. Wheat growers in the four counties tend to use their own seed for planting.

"We recommend that growers use certified seed of a recommended variety. If a farmer has clean fertile land, can harvest without the danger of mechanical mixtures and has ideal storage conditions, he may be safe in planting a few acres of certified seed each year for seed purposes," Hodges said. "Not all farmers have the conditions to grow good planting seed," cautioned Hodges.

Similar surveys in Oklahoma and South Carolina showed that farmers in those states, too, do not place enough emphasis on quality seed. In fact, 83 percent of the South Carolina farmers whose seed was sampled had no idea what percent of their seed would germinate, and several were actually planting the costliest of all seed—that with 0 percent germination.

In the Oklahoma Survey, of 601 samples, 34 were completely mislabeled as to variety, and 228 farmers were planting seed with varietal mixtures. "This type of seed costs less to buy than certified seed. But in the end, it is the most expensive seed a farmer can purchase," Hodges said.

New Products Are Developed From Poultry

Are you one of the late-risers who likes a good breakfast, but just can't seem to find time to eat one? If so, you are in for some good news, reports F. Z. Beanblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist of College Station.

Beanblossom says he has received information from the Poultry and Egg National Board of new poultry and egg products which should be a boon to the late-riser, as well as taste treat addition to other meals.

For instance, frozen French toast has been market-tested in supermarkets, and has received a warm welcome. Drop a couple of slices in the toaster—presto—piping hot French toast, just like you make at home. Not only is this speedy, it is also nutritious—each piece of toast contains half an egg.

Real roasting chickens, large enough to feed a family of four, would be welcomed by more consumers. It isn't often that you can find birds of this size at the supermarket, but heavier broilers are now available in some retail stores.

Beanblossom says that Grade A broilers of this size have ample fat for excellent roast flavor. Another new and promising product, the specialist continues, is the chicken-frank. It's a low-fat, high protein food that will get its try-out soon.

Chicken is appearing in other new forms, such as the chicken loaf and chicken bologna. The latter is a cold cut with a definite smoked flavor. Then there's turkey sausage, another high-protein, low-fat food with little shrinkage. A turkey loaf, which has been given a ham cure, tastes and looks very much like boiled ham loaf.

The new poultry foods open up new vistas for gourmets, Beanblossom continues. And for the person who likes to eat but must watch his waistline, the specialist points out these foods are low in fat and high in protein.

Oyster Reefs Improved By Dredging

Oyster dredging in San Antonio and Mesquite bays has been restored under regulation of the Game and Fish Commission, it has been announced by Howard Lee, director of marine fisheries. It is now lawful to use dredges in these bays under a proclamation effective September 1. Dredging had been closed in these areas under authority of the Commission for the protection and improvement of the oyster reefs.

Lee also issued a report covering the catch of drumfish in Laguna Madre in Cameron and Willacy counties for the past season, which ended in May. Commercial netting is permitted in these waters only under contract. During the fishing period, which began in December, 16 contractors took 515,853 pounds of fish, in a total of 937 man-days of netting.

Persons desiring contracts for drum fishing in the waters of the lower Laguna Madre, must apply to the Marine Laboratory at Rockport for permits. They also must be able to post $1000 bond, conditioned upon faithful performance of the contract regarding regulations, reports, etc.

No fishing other than black drum will be permitted on equipment operating under this contract and a record of all catches must be kept.

Vets Asked To Give Clear Identification

Far too many of the 200 million pieces of mail that flow through the Veterans Administration each year cannot be properly identified, Edward F. Onstot, manager of the VA regional office in Dallas disclosed today.

Too many veterans and their dependents merely sign their names to correspondence, and names are not enough. Almost all of the 30 million names in VA's master index file are duplicated. As might be expected, there are more than 300,000 Smiths and almost 200,000 Johnsons, but most other names are duplicated scores of times. The veteran's claim number or "C-number" and his insurance number are his alone, Onstot pointed out. Inclusions of these numbers in correspondence will insure prompt and efficient service, and save the time and cost of additional correspondence.

Rangers Defeated By Del Mar Vikings

The Ranger College Rangers ran into the tough Del Mar Vikings at Corpus Christi in their first road trip Saturday night and was handed a 30 to 8 defeat.

The Rangers defense held the Vikings until the last two minutes of the first half, then the Vikings took the air for their first score. From that point on the Viking's reserve strength was more than the fighting Rangers could overcome.

The Rangers played a tough defense through the entire game, but could ever get their offense operating until the last quarter of play.

The Game at a Glance

Ranger	DelMar
8 First Downs	15
98 Yards Rushing	276
118 Yards Passing	141
12 of 35 Passes completed	5 of 16
1 Passes intercepted by	5
5 for 39 Punts Average	6 for 38
2 for 10 Penalties Yards	4 for 40
1 Fumbles Lost	3

Del Mar took the opening kickoff and returned it to their own 33 yard line and was forced to punt after failing to make a first down. The Rangers took over and began to move the ball, picking up a first down only to have the drive stopped by an intercepted pass, which was returned to the Rangers 26 yard line. From there the Vikings seems determined to push the ball over for a score, but the Ranger defense tightened up on the ten yard line and Marvin Agnew charged through the Viking line and hit the quarterback as he was handing off. Pat Blakely was on hand to grab the ball out of the air when Agnew knocked the quarterback lose from the ball. Blakely returned the ball to the 45 yard line, but the Rangers again bogged down and were forced to punt.

The Rangers then stopped another Viking drive on the 16 yard line at the end of the first quarter.

With two minutes left in the second quarter the Viking hit with an air attack as quarterback Bobby Elliott hit halfback Jack Coker with a pass play that carried for 48 yards and a score. Skelter McClain another halfback kicked the extra point and the Vikings were on their way. Less than a minute later the Viking line charged through and blocked a punt attempt by Button Humphrey who was standing in his own end zone attempting to punt out. The Safety gave the Viking a 9 to 0 lead as the half ended.

The Vikings came charging back after the half and intercepted a Ranger pass and returned it to the Ranger 19 yard line. This time the Rangers couldn't hold the Viking's ground attack and Coker again went into the end zone for a score. McClun's kick was good and the Vikings lead 16 to 0 with one minute and 50 seconds in the third quarter.

The Vikings went to the air ways again midway in the third quarter for a score as Elliott hit end Sammy Garza with a pass that was good for 54 yards and the score. McClun again made the conversion good with a kick.

The Ranger offense began to pick up a little in the fourth quarter as they mounted two good drives only to have them stopped on the 20 and 35 yard lines.

The Vikings got back in the scoring column about midway in the fourth quarter as halfback Corky Bloomfield raced 60 yards for a score. McClun made it a perfect night by again kicking the extra point.

The Ranger score came with one minute and 21 seconds left in the game. A pass to Dick Stephenson and runs by Jerry House moved the ball from the Ranger 37 down to the Vikings 8 yard line. From there quarterback Button Humphrey hit end Richard Fuller with a pass in the end zone for the score. House raced around end for the extra points.

The Rangers face another tough opponent Saturday as they travel to take on the undefeated Tyler Apaches.

Hat Contest to Be Part of Fair Activities

The third annual Hat-Making Contest, designed for the many Texas women who fashion their own millinery accessories, is scheduled as part of the Women's Department activities, during the 1960 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 8-23 in Dallas.

The one-day event, open to all amateur milliners, will be held Oct. 12 in the air-conditioned Women's Building Auditorium. The contest, now in its third year, has become increasingly popular and has attracted widespread interest throughout the State.

Competition is divided into two sections to include both novices and the more advanced hat creators. In Section A, the hats are made entirely by hand. Entries in Section B are hats made by hand but may use a manufactured form or frame.

Both sections are further divided into specific classifications, which include beach hats, cocktail hats, dressy hats, and tailored hats, with matching bags optional.

Only two hats may be entered by one person, and the entrant must model her own hat or employ a model. The hats must be the work of only one person.

Judging will be based on originality, workmanship and general appearance, including balance, becomeness and color. First, second and third prizes in Section A are $15, $10 and $7.50, and in Section B are $12.50, $8, and $6. TELEPHONE TALK

Phone Call via Satellite!
Don't go too far when you and your family...
Now closer to reality, all because of "Project Echo" the first successful attempt to "bounce" a telephone call.

you've seen the silvery "Echo" satellite orbiting the earth. To think of "bouncing" a phone call off it is a real feat of imagination. But that's what happened when the Bell Telephone Laboratories engineer in New Jersey...
The new era of worldwide communication has already proposed a plan for us - relay stations to carry telephone calls and messages throughout the world.

How to "Hold the Phone"
Your family may be among the first to have the color wall phone in their kitchen. You'll realize how it brightens up your time and steps. You'll see the way it saves space - doesn't clutter the room on a kitchen counter.

Now there is a handy way to answer the receiver from dangling if you are in the room for a minute?

of people have told me they were surprised when they hooked the receiver on a notch on the color wall phones until they return to the kitchen to see how it works.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

I am not a salesman nor a businessman but I have had some experience as a customer.
On one occasion, I was figuring on buying an automobile. The firm handled two makes—one in the medium price field, another which was higher priced. I decided on a lower priced model and the salesman said, "Yes, that is a nice little car." I almost didn't go through with the deal. When a man was spending $2,000 or so, it was a pretty important transaction to him, in fact, most folks buy a car so seldom that, when they do, it is quite an occasion to them and they don't like to hear their purchase called "a nice little car."
And not only cars—just about anything else, I entered a store that was having a sale on hats and selected one. The salesman said, "That is a nice little item." Why not, "a nice item"? In general—unless it's a cowboy hat—all hats are about the same size to the naked eye.

I noticed a store window with a big sign, "Clearance sale, half price" and some very attractive shoes were on display. In a corner of the window was a small sign which read, "Shoes on display not included in the sale." In my opinion, that is very close to dishonest practice. It certainly is misleading and creates resentment.
The customer may not always be right—and neither is the baseball umpire or the football referee—but the opinion of each of these is the only one that counts.
Someone referred to a mule as being "without pride of ancestry or hope of posterity."
A colorful old chap who had charge of a luxurious lodge in the East Texas woods was telling a friend about a group that had recently been visitors:
"They were yack-yacking about their travels."
"Shucks, I'll bet I've traveled further, crawling up under the house looking for eggs than any of them ever have."
A candidate for sheriff in a West Texas county, many years ago, promised that his first act would be to fire the deputies that the incumbent had. The candidate declared, "Them fellows officers! They couldn't track an elephant through the snow."

Then to remove any doubt as to what he thought about them, he said: "I wouldn't send one of them out to split kindling; I'd be afraid he'd steal the ax."
Vanity, vanity, all is vanity—said one of the Old Testament prophets.
An Egyptian had inscribed on his tomb—and the inscription is still to be seen after 2,000 years or more—that he was fan-bearer at the right-hand of the King. (This was a great honor then to have been the one on the left.) It was his job to cool the monarch's brow and keep the flies away.

There was a small town hotel with a bellboy who had been a prize-fighter in his younger days. He would be dozing in the corner when the clerk would hit the bell and that bellboy would jump out of the chair and swing punches in all directions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Virgil:

Vernon's Annotated Texas Statutes, Corporation Act, Article 2.25, Section A, which is the Act governing the setting up, and operation of Texas Corporations, states as follows: "Notice of Shareholder's Meetings":

"Written or printed notice stating the place, day and hour of the meeting and, in case of a special meeting, the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called, shall be delivered not less than ten (10) nor more than fifty (50) days before the date of the meeting, either personally or by mail, by or at the direction of the President, the Secretary, or the officer or person calling the meeting, to each shareholder of record entitled to vote at such meeting. If mailed, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States mail addressed to the shareholder at his address as it appears on the stock transfer books of the corporation, with postage prepaid."

Upon close examination of the wording of the foregoing, it is very clear that a notice, either written, or printed, is to be sent to each shareholder in a corporation, whether it be non-profit, or a profit making organization. And, when it says "printed", it is obviously not referring to the fact that the notice may be printed in a newspaper, but that the notice that is "mailed", or delivered "personally" may be in printed form.

I am a small shareholder (No. 58) in the Eastland Memorial Hospital, and to my knowledge I have never received a notice of a meeting, as required by law. I understand a meeting was held last Friday night, September 30th. I would like to have been present at the meeting, in order to cast my vote.

It is hoped that shareholders, regardless of the amount of shares they may hold, will be notified in the proper manner in the future, for only in this way can the hospital be run in a completely democratic manner.

Yours very truly
F. James Dabney

LOOK WHAT DODGE HAS DONE FOR COMPACTS

The name, Lancer: one hardtop; one 2-door sedan; two 4-door sedans; two wagons. What kind of cars are they? This kind: two feet shorter; many pounds leaner; a couple of hundred dollars less in cost than usual automobiles. Lancer welcomes a family of six lavishly. Has plenty of trunk. Its fully-unitized body is very quiet, very tough. Lancer is also mannerly. It corners decisively, takes a well scarred road with aplomb. Parks obediently. More reasons to buy? Read on. The interiors are rich, but simple: Shed soil, wear well, feel good. The engine is highly spirited, but extremely light on regular gasoline. One more thing, Lancer is built by Dodge. Our name is on it. This means Lancer will stay nice and shiny. How so? The body is rustproofed by an exclusive Chrysler Corporation process. Enough talk. Meet Lancer at your Dodge Dealer. Now.

Board of Pardons And Paroles Asks For More Men

The State Board of Pardons and Paroles has approved its budget request for the years 1962-63 which is to be submitted to the Governor and to the next Legislature. This budget request is aimed toward fully implementing the program called for the gradual employment of 40 parole officers during 1958 and the addition of 30 parole officers in 1959. The Board was granted sufficient funds to employ only the 40 parole officers during 1958. Subsequently, the 1960 Legislature provided for the continuance of a force of 40 parole officers for the period through 1961. While the parole staff has remained constant, the parole rate has grown sharply and steadily. In 1957, the last year before professional parole supervision, the number of inmates paroled was 750. Following the establishment of a professional parole system, the parole rate climbed to 1,500 in 1958; 1,800 in 1959, and will surpass 2,200 in 1960.

This increasing rate has made an important contribution to public safety because a parole system is basically directed toward the prevention of crime. For without clemency of any kind 95 percent of the 11,000 inmates now in prison will eventually serve their sentence and be released in the community. 80 percent will be in society in less than 5 years, while more than 50 percent will fully serve their sentence and walk the streets of our cities and towns in less than 2 years. These inmates can either serve their terms completely and be turned loose at the prison gates with no restrictions or assistance, or they can be released under the supervision and guidance of a trained parole officer.

Prior to January, 1958, the Board was unable to give any assistance to inmates in developing release plans. Consequently, an ever growing number of inmates had to stay in the penitentiary because of the lack of any program to which they could be released. Most of these inmates were subsequently released by discharge.

Secondly, supervision was provided entirely by volunteers. Many individuals gave generously of their time, but inevitably there could neither be standard procedure nor frequent regular contacts with parolees in the field or with community agencies. As the number on parole began to rise, this system was taxed beyond its capacity. As a result of these two factors, the public was being afforded the protection of a parole system in an increasingly smaller percentage of cases and a growing number of inmates was being released by discharge. This situation, coupled with the swelling prison population, brought about the establishment of the first professional parole supervision program in the history of the State in January of 1958.

Since the beginning of that system, there has been a sharp improvement in guidance and supervision for the thousands of persons on parole in its wider use as a method of release. For example, from 1955 through 1957, 29 percent of those released from prison were under parole supervision, while 71 percent completed their sentence and were simply turned loose by discharge. By the end of this year, the percentage released under parole supervision, as opposed to discharge, will have climbed to nearly 50 percent.

Despite the sharp shift in the use of parole, the violation rate has not increased. Especially significant has been the record with respect to new felony convictions among those on parole. During the last 12 months, the Board has had only 5,800 individual parolees under its jurisdiction. During the same period, only 117 individual parolees were convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for new felonies; and of this number, only 13 were convicted for crimes against persons.

On the other hand, over 90 percent of the parolees under supervision at the present time are gainfully employed and are earning more than $10,000,000 a year in salary and wages. At the same time, they are supporting over 1,600 minor dependents.

While an increased parole rate has made a contribution to public safety and rehabilitation for offenders, it has also resulted in a substantial tax savings to the State. Present estimates show that it costs about $1.24 a day to keep an inmate in prison. At the same time, the State Welfare Department pays an average of 13 cents per prisoner each day for relief to inmates' families. Also prison facilities are filled to capacity, and additional inmates mean more construction at an average cost of approximately $3,000 per inmate.

After all parole costs have been deducted, the State will have made a tax saving of over $4,000,000 between 1958 and 1961 because of the increased parole rate.

The Board feels that it is imperative that the second phase of its original program be adopted, so that parole supervision can be used to its full effectiveness. The present authorized expenditure for the Board is $492,978.00 per year. The Board is requesting 30 additional parole officers, as well as appropriate administrative and clerical staff, which will bring the cost to $687,230.00 for 1962 and $779,579.00 for 1963. After all parole costs have been subtracted, this will yield another tax saving to the State of over $2,250,000.00 in welfare, prison construction and prison maintenance costs in the next two years.

Stored Grains Need Attention

Grains cannot be stored and then forgotten. Insects such as the rice weevil and Angoumois grain moth may infest the grain in the field, and infested grain may be brought into storage. C. F. Garner and R. L. Ridgway, extension entomologists, say that fumigation is the best protection against insect damage to stored grain.

Several fumigants are effective for killing stored grain insects, the specialists continue. They are formulated as various combinations, and are sold by companies under different trade names.

When applying liquid fumigants, the storer should be careful to spray the entire surface of the grain. Fumigant application may be accomplished with hand pump sprayer for small quantities of grain, or with some form of power operated sprayer for larger amounts. The bin should be closed after the fumigant is applied, and it should not be opened for at least 24 hours—preferably 4 or 5 days. As a safety precaution, at least two men should be present when the fumigants are being applied, the specialists continue.

Garner and Ridgway suggest that anyone planning fumigation contact the local county agent. He can supply specific information for the particular situation, and he can also offer valuable suggestions and advice.
