

MOORE about... EASTLAND by Virgil E. Moore

Charity has become a big part of the Eastland County budget. That, at least, would be indicated by the annual financial report issued this week by County Auditor Earl O'Brien. His report shows that Eastland County spent $9,161.65 on direct charities, an additional $9,905.77 on the surplus food program, and $5,573.34 on Ranger General Hospital.

Most of the money spent on Ranger Hospital went for major repairs and could not be directly charged as a charity item. That much money, of course, is seldom spent on the institution, which is used to house county patients. The usual cost around $750 for insurance and small repairs.

The surplus food program is generally well understood. The county is given the surplus food free by the government, but has to pay salaries to persons who administer the program, all transportation costs, storage costs and rent.

The other classifications, "Charities," is less understood, although it costs the county about the same as the food program.

A breakdown shows, that in the past year, the county paid $3,954.24 for groceries, $2,669.66 for drugs and medicines, $604 for cash allowances, $15 for donations, $210 for burial expense, $629.90 for ambulance service, $378.80 for doctors, $172 for nursing and $528 for "miscellaneous."

Charities have become a big problem for members of the Commissioners Court. Seldom is a commission meeting held that at least one charity case is not heard. Commissioners, trying to hold the line on expenditures, which come out of the general fund, often find emergency cases which leave them with no time for investigation.

Many counties have found the answer to the problem has been to hire a welfare worker to investigate all cases. Many times such a worker has been able to save the county more than the cost of her salary. It might be well for Eastland County to consider such a step.

We were pleased to see five bands in the Livestock Show parade. It's good to see the various bands participate in a countywide event, and it makes you realize what a large group of musicians the county can boast of having.

We thought the parade, the wind considered, was very good. The Sheriff's posse is to be congratulated for it, just as the County Livestock Association deserves high praise for the fine county show.

Ray Williams, who celebrated his birthday Wednesday, is who appreciates his mother, talking to his father, P. Williams, the other day, "Mama, a cute little butterfly, isn't it, Daddy? She cooks our supper."

But Ray isn't the only smart talker in his family. His 14 month old brother, Steve Allen, uttered his first words a few weeks ago. He took his Daddy to the front door, pulling him by his hand, pointed to the door latch and exclaimed, "Out side out!"

We're gonna check it short today. See you Thursday.

Local Scouts Attend Breck Training Meet

One-hundred and four Boy Scouts representing 14 troops and posts in the Comanche Trail Council attended a Junior Leadership Training course in Breckenridge Saturday and Sunday.

Purpose of this training was to prepare boys for the leadership responsibilities necessary in the administration of scout troops.

Under the leadership and direction of a staff of Explorer and Senior Scouts the course included instruction in first aid, cooking, patrol administration, and troop activities. Werner Bendorf of Breckenridge Explorer Post 17 was the chief coordinator of the two day session. Ward Cadey, scout executive of Brownwood, P. Slaughter, Scout executive of Eastland, Fred Bennet, scoutmaster of Troop 10, Ranger and James Fox, scoutmaster of Troop 20, Breckenridge, led discussions given for the benefit of adult leaders at the training session. These discussions dealt with leadership, advancement, the outdoor program, and the troop committee.

Brownwood, Dublin, Ranger, Breckenridge and Eastland were represented at the meeting.

Eastland Troop 6, sponsored by the Rotary Club and under the leadership of Scoutmaster James D. Horn and Assistant Scoutmaster Thad Kelley, had the largest single representation of any troop with the following boys attending: Billy Horn, Ray Edwards, Dick Whittington, Don Griffin, Joe Jackson, Larry Goldson, Larry Earley, Wayne Harris, and Jerry McCullough.

Troop 103 sponsored by the Lions Club, was represented by Scoutmaster M. G. Cartwright, Cy Frost, Bill Garner, Ted Martin, Larry Ross, Bob Cartwright, and Bob O'Steen. Bob Cartwright and Bob O'Steen were members of the instructing staff.

At one point in the meeting, Judge Hart, to break the silence, urged, "Now let's not all talk at once."

Taking the meeting as a whole, here is how each commissioner expressed himself:

J. B. (Tip) Arther, Precinct 1—Reasoning that the county budget was set up to include $9000 for payment of deputies salaries for the Sheriff's Department, Arther voiced approval of a $40 a month increase for the Sheriff's chief deputy. He based his opinion on the fact that the Sheriff, working with one less deputy than in the past, could remain in his budget and still grant the increase in pay.

E. M. Bennett, Precinct 2 (Gorman)—Voiced opposition to "picking out one individual deputy" for an increase in pay. Said if the budget would allow it he would favor an across the board increase for all chief deputies.

R. L. (Bob) Carter, Precinct 3 (Rising Star)—Agreed with Bennett.

Carl Lamb, Precinct 4 (Cisco)—Said he was in sympathy with the Sheriff, but reasoned that when one chief deputy's pay is raised, "We are going to face this same thing with every chief deputy."

Judge Hart—Urged the Sheriff to wait for awhile, saying that an across the board increase for chief deputies might be possible.

Ought to Get... Auto Tags

Got your auto license plates yet? Tuesday, March 31, is the deadline for purchasing new 1959 tags and Tax Assessor-Collector J. C. Allison today announced plans to keep his office open Saturday in anticipation of a big rush.

Allison said his office would also remain open during the noon hour Monday and Tuesday, March 30-31.

Gray Matter

I've seen some pretty big crowds in my day. Some of them have been bigger than others. I've been in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas when it was pretty well filled and I've seen Texas and A&M play to full houses on more than one occasion. But the crowd that I remember longer than any of them, although it wasn't the largest, was the crowd that was in Eastland one hot July night back in the 20's.

Quarterbackers Asked to Turn In All Tickets

Quarterback Club Membership Drive Chairman Gene Rhodes today urged members of his committee to turn in all tickets they have in their possession to Charles Frey, treasurer.

Rhodes said that a final membership drive would be staged in the next few days, and a list of all 1959 members is needed so that persons who have not yet been contacted can be.

Commissioners Face Pay Problem Again

Eastland County Commissioners faced a problem which isn't new to them Monday. For the second meeting in a row the Court was asked by Sheriff J. B. Williams to increase the pay of his chief deputy.

When the meeting ended no raise had been given, but none of the Commissioners ever got around to opening saying "no" to the Sheriff either.

For the most part the meeting consisted of County Judge John Hart and the four commissioners sitting on one side of the table looking at the Sheriff, with Sheriff Williams sitting on the other side of the table looking back at them.

At one point in the meeting, Judge Hart, to break the silence, urged, "Now let's not all talk at once."

Taking the meeting as a whole, here is how each commissioner expressed himself:

The Klan got to be a mighty power in this part of the country during the twenties. This, I guess, was a throwback to some of the things that came about as a result of the first war. Almost every country engaged in that war had its problems at home after the war.

Germans had the Nazis and their fanatic leader, Hitler, while we had a strong uprising of Ku Klux Klanism in this country. England had an organization that attracted a lot of attention and made a lot of noise led by a Lord Mosley, but it never came to anything.

In our country the Klan did gain a lot of influence and members of that organization held a lot of political offices all across our country. The issue of Klanism was a vital issue in election after election. It wasn't some thing that was confined to the South, the issue was influential throughout the nation.

The Klan originally was an organization formed of veterans of the War for the Independence of the Southern Confederacy, but it soon disbanded and the second issue of that name had no connection with the organizational original group. Some people right after the Civil War tried to pin the label of head of the Ku Klux Klan on Confederate General Nathan Bedford Forest, but no one ever managed to make it stick.

The general testified before a hearing of a congressional investigating committee that he wasn't the head of the organization and also that he didn't know who the WIND DAMAGE—Typical of the damage which results to sandy land in this area when high winds such as the ones over the weekend lash this area is this sand blown up against a fence row. The soil is now lost from crop production.

Unprotected Land Damaged by Wind

By Eastland Work Unit Staff

The rewards of practicing conservation on "sandy land" were most evident during the sand storm Friday March 20.

Conservation farmers who strip cropped their peanut fields and planted cover crops after peanut harvest had little or no soil movement from high winds. These men are also very careful with all crop residues, keeping them on or near the surface for wind protection and soil improvement.

Severe wind erosion damage took place on adjoining fields which were not protected with the above vegetative conservation practices. The moving sands which accumulate along fence rows and public roads are lost from production and in many instances damage public and private property. Heavy soil loss either from wind erosion or water erosion does not point to a permanent agricultural which is so essential to our society.

When the soil is gone, man must go and the process does not take long. It is well that a man should be known by the soil he keeps. No one can afford soil erosion. Live as if we were going to die tomorrow and farm as if we were going to live forever. We must bear in mind that our children and grandchildren must have productive soil to live.

Farmers and ranchers have started the new year off with a "bang" in so far as applying conservation practices are concerned. Eleven landowners recently completed farm ponds for livestock water and another fifteen are in the process of building ponds. Five landowners have completed approximately 14 miles of terraces and three are now in process of constructing terrace systems.

A good terrace system, supplemented with a vegetative program is a must on many farms. Terracing may well be regarded as a "necessary evil" to many landowners, yet without them, many fields will be lost from production due to excessive gully and sheet erosion. A properly constructed terrace system during the drought years often times held enough additional rainfall in place to mean the difference between a fair crop and a complete failure. During excessive rains these same terraces take runoff water off the land in an orderly manner to protected outlets.

Both your ASC County Committee and supervisors of your local Soil Conservation District wish to encourage all landowners to apply conservation practices based on the needs of their lands.

Federal cost share and technical assistance are available for this important job.

More for the Money in '59 Cars

There were special ceremonies commemorating automotive and economic progress at the end of the assembly line when the 11 millionth Plymouth was built at Detroit. Harry E. Chesbrough, left, general manager of Plymouth division, agreed with other veteran auto men in some interesting observations comparing the 1959 car with the first Plymouth, built in 1928. Here are some of their findings: The typical wage earner today can make enough money to buy a new Plymouth by working 180 hours less than was necessary in 1928. Today's car will last twice as long and travel nearly three times as far before it is worn out. The modern car has nearly half again as much passenger space, has more than 60 items of standard equipment which were not available in 1928, and will out-perform by two to one the car of 31 years ago.

Tasty homemade breads and rolls can make any of your meals or snacks a special occasion, and contrary to what most folks think, the art of bread making is easy to learn.

To help you, Extension Foods and Nutrition specialists take the mystery out of bread making in a colorful bulletin entitled, "Yeast Breads Made at Home." Steps for mixing ingredients, kneading the dough, shaping loaves and rolls of many kinds are clearly outlined and pictured in the bulletin.

You'll find recipes for French bread, rye, whole wheat, cheese, yeast bread... Refrigerator rolls, buttermilk rolls, oatmeal yeast rolls and many other tested recipes are featured. On the sweet side, there are special recipes for different kinds of coffee cake, fruit filled rolls of all kinds, kolaches and yeast donuts.

Surprise your family with some of these delicious homemade bread or rolls. Ask for this bulletin in your home demonstration agent's office.

Limp, over-cooked, drab-looking vegetables have little appetite appeal, and little food value. The skillful cook will save color and food value by proper cooking.

Serve three vegetables each day—a green or yellow vegetable, sweet or Irish potatoes, and one other vegetable. Here are some pointers to remember in cooking vegetables: Use fresh, crisp vegetables. Cook in as little water as possible. Cook vegetables in their skins whenever possible. Cook only until tender, don't overcook. Cook most green and all yellow vegetables in a covered pan. Never use soda in cooking vegetables—it destroys part of the food value. Serve vegetables as soon as possible after cooking. The longer they are exposed to heat and air, the more Vitamin C they will lose.

The current supply of pork is sufficient to rate feature spot on the USDA's April list of plentiful foods for this area. This list also includes many other energy foods that go well with increased spring activity. Lamb has taken a spot on the list. Broilers and Fryers continue plentiful, as do eggs, milk, and other dairy products. Lard is plentiful too.

Potatoes, cabbage and canned peas are still sufficiently abundant to rate the plentiful tag. Honey and walnut supplies continue plentiful.

Two Pupils From Eastland Receive Superior Ratings
 Marsha Treadwell and Lela Lee received superior ratings and played on the fine arts program at the Sixth District Texas Federation of Music Clubs Junior Festival held in Abilene, McMurry College, Saturday, March 21 at 9 a.m.

Other students from the Mrs. A. F. Taylor piano studio making very good grades were Sherry Decker, Terry Treadwell and Patricia Ann Liles. Parents attending were Mmes: M. A. Treadwell, Jack Lee, Artie Liles and Mrs. A. F. Taylor, teacher of the students.

Approximately seventy-five students entered the Festival; however only four piano contestants received superior—one from Brownwood and three from Eastland. The judging was very close and instructive criticism was given. The judges were McMurry College Faculty members Mr. Francis Henkel, Mr. Clarence Brady, Mr. Miller and Mr. Richard Von Ende.

Mrs. Walter Ford of Abilene, Festival chairman, presided at the meeting and Mrs. R. E. Coleman of San Saba, Sixth District president, gave the certificates of award. Organ solos played by Mr. Francis Henkel were "I Call To Thee Lord Jesus Christ" and "Tacet in F. Major." Mr. Clarence Brady played two beautiful piano solos preceding the short program by the superior students.

Contestants were: Patricia Liles entering Moderately Difficult Class I and playing "Allegro" by Mozart and "Remembrance" by Davies. Sherry Decker, who entered Elementary Class I and played "Minuet" by Handel-Crafton and "Valse Lucile" by Firlm. Terry Treadwell entering Elementary Class I playing "Courante" by Jean Last and "Wind in the Pines" by Inez Howell. Marsha Treadwell entered Primary Class IV, and she played "Minuet" by Bach, also "To A Wild Rose" by Mac Dowell. Lela Lee entered Primary Class III and played "Far to Go" by Joan Last and "Sonatina" by Hazel Cobb.

Harold Barrett Resigns As Ranger Coach

Harold Barrett, football coach at Ranger High School for the past four years, is accepting a position as head football coach at the Reagan County High School in Big Lake. Barrett said he would start a summer sports program in the West Texas town, June 1. Details of the contract, to be signed by Barrett with Superintendent C. O. McKinney, were unannounced. However, Barrett indicated that he would receive a higher salary, would probably select his own assistant and would teach several classes in the system. Barrett came to Ranger in 1955 as assistant coach to Boone Yarborough. That same year, they led the Bulldogs to the quarter finals. In 1957, when Barrett was head coach, the Bulldogs captured the bi-district title. During the past season, the Bulldogs took a 5-5 record and came in third in District 7-AA standings, winning two conference games. "These past four years have been very enjoyable ones," said Barrett. "I appreciate working with the administration, school members and towns people," he added. A graduate of Hardin-Simmons University in 1953, with a B. S. degree, Barrett earned his M. E. degree there while serving as freshman coach. O. C. Warden, line coach for the Bulldogs this past season, says he plans to retire from the coaching field in order to spend more time with his administrative duties as principal of Hodges-Oak Park Elementary. Barrett said the Big Lake position offers an advancement, with tremendous possibilities. They have a lot of potential in a fine system, he added. The Reagan County Owls participate in Class A football. Mr. and Mrs. Barrett had a son born to them on St. Patrick's Day in Ranger General Hospital. They have two other children. Mrs. Barrett has taught at Hodges-Oak Park for a year and a half.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

March 17th issue of the Eastland Telegram carried an account of the death of Joe Canaris. This, I believe, cuts the Greek population of Eastland down to one; Pete Theous. (Ed's Note: Mr. Theous has since died)

A lot of the old timers will remember that at one time there was a large number of Greek citizens here, and the biggest percentage of them could be listed among the best, but are now all gone away. Personally I had a better chance to observe their characters and private lives than the general public, having worked for them and with them for several years.

There are quite a few whose names I cannot recall, but the list given here I am sure will be remembered by many Eastland folk.

A. K. Alexander, Shreveport, La.; Cris Alexander, deceased; Jim Alexander, Longview, Joe Canaris, deceased; Gus Diamond, deceased; Sam Diamond, Wichita Falls; Jim George, Greece; Nick Giotis, deceased; Ernest Halkias, Wichita Falls; Tom Kalomeres, Birmingham, Ala.; George Karantonis, deceased; Nick Nicolaidis, deceased; Gus Pappas, deceased; Jim Pralley, Galveston; Nick Pralley, Houston; Pete Theous, deceased.

I know that many of the older citizens of Eastland will agree with me when I say these men helped considerably in the building and up keep of the city, and it is hard to face the facts that they are no longer here.
Jesse E. Richardson

Lead was and cared less. Some of the investigators didn't believe him at that time but nothing has turned up since then except the writings of some newspaperman who didn't know what they were talking about that could make the Confederate Cavalry leader more than he admitted to in the hierarchy of the Ku Klux Klan.

The Klan group that came to life after World War I was a stronger organization than the one after the Civil War. Its influence was widespread and its impact on the daily life of community life in most of rural America was greater than a lot of people ever suspected.

The organization was a secret order. When it had important functions to attend to, its people wore white hoods and white robes over their regular clothing.

The parade I mentioned in the earlier part of this was a parade of hooded Klansmen. I don't know whether I knew very many Klansmen. I might have known all of them or a part of them. They didn't go around and tell little boys who they were, but sometimes that sort of information leaked out on a fellow.

One of the prominent lawyers then practicing in Eastland had a large collie dog named "Trixie" or "Dixie". I don't remember which. Every kid in town knew this dog, as all of us had petted his head at some time or other. He was a good friend of kids.

Well, come the night of the big parade and I went to the courthouse square to see what was going on. I wasn't the only one who did that same thing either. The town was packed with people. Most of them from out of town, but all of them there for the same purpose. To see the parade or be in the parade.

Finally it started. Row upon row of white-robed marching men, stung out like an army. The line of marchers extended all the way around the square and then some. And right in the big middle of all this marching mass of humanity there was this old collie dog proudly marching at the heels of his master. The only thing about it was that his master was unhappy with the dog. He wanted the dog to go home and leave him alone. The marching dog owner would take a step or two forward then make a kee a backward lick at the dog, march forward another step or two, make another lick backward, and take a few steps forward in time to keep from falling.

There was a man who was trying his best to get his dog to go home, but such is the love of a dog for his master that he'll stick with him through thick or thin, through wisdom or foolishness. The love of a dog for his master is something that's hard to beat.

Nevertheless the crowd of sidewalk observers got quite a kick out of the dog's taking part in the parade.

One observer said the judge should have put a hood and robe on his dog and hide his identity too. It might have been less embarrassing that way.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from
The Texas State Department of Health
HENRY A. HOLLER, M.D., Gastrologist

Let's say you're a member of a neighborhood ladies club. It's your turn to put on the program, and you fret for days trying to wheedle an idea from an unresponsive brain. Over and over you say to yourself: "If I just had a film to show... but where could I get one to interest a group of housewives?" There just happens to be a publication agency that will be happy to help you off the horns of that dilemma you're hung on—you or anyone else in a similar position. It's the Texas State Department of Health. Or more precisely, the film library of the Department's Division of Health Education, with well over 1300 films available for free loan to responsible groups such as yours.

The loan business is booming. During December, January and February health films from the library were seen by an audience of more than 300,000 persons. Subjects ranged from communicable diseases to good human relations.

Would the ladies be interested in an expert account of how foods should be preserved to avoid the possibility of food-borne diseases? Drop a card to the library and ask that "40 Billion Enemies" be booked to you.

On second thought, it might be simpler to call your local health department and tell them your plans. Chances are they will assume responsibility for getting the film and supplying a health specialist to make side comments and answer questions after the film is shown.

Perhaps you'd like to show club members an approved, step-by-step method of making baby's formula. There's a sequence in a film titled "Linda" to do exactly that.

One of the most powerful films in the library is called "The High Wall." It explores the development of prejudices and how it can be communicated to children through parental attitudes.

Most library films are purchased from commercial producers, but when one is needed with a strictly Texas application, division staff members write, direct, produce and photograph it themselves. There are some 20 "homemade" films, all in sound and color, on library shelves. Moreover, six new ones are in some stage of development right at the moment.

Film library management, as is other work of the division, is aimed at a single purpose: To teach good health practices.

So the next time you're program chairman, why not write for a catalog of films and an order blank?

Shrinks Hemorrhoids Without Surgery

Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance ("Bio-Dyne")—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in expeditious or treatment forms called Preparation H. At all drug counters—money back guarantee. *3 community preventive services are not developed. The two needs, while related, are quite different.

MODERN AND MOBILE—It's no problem for Army artillerymen to ready this new self-propelled 8-inch howitzer for firing. They merely park it and let go at long range with 200-pound shells. The tracked carrier was designed to move at high speed across rugged terrain.

Prevention must take place in the home towns of the State. Prevention must take place within the family, within schools, churches, the family doctor's office, and place of employment. Prevention must begin before nervous and mental disorders appear; or, where not possible, when the child or adult shows early symptoms.

Through seminars, in-service training programs and staff consultation, the Division of Mental Health has helped already existing community health, education and welfare personnel deal with personal psychological problems before they erupt in serious forms of juvenile and adult crime, marital break-up, or mental illness which might require hospitalization.

During its 11 years, the Division has actively helped local groups set up seven community guidance centers in Texas plus providing consultation and other assistance to child guidance clinics already established.

Clinical services have dealt largely with the needs of emotionally disturbed and mentally retarded children, and their parents. Additional services are needed for adults overwhelmed by difficult adjustments, mounting tensions, and the deep personal problems which too often lead to illness such as alcoholism.

Encouraging regional Mental Health Centers, demonstration projects and aiding local areas in acquiring mental health workers are all part of the giant effort required for the eventual establishment of statewide mental health assistance to every Texan regardless of location.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

One of the most interesting men with whom I have ever been associated (and one of the finest) was the late R. K. Phillips. He was manager of the Eastland Daily Oil Belt News when I became editor in 1921.

Things were pretty rushed during the day but, after the evening meal, there was opportunity for talk. Mr. Phillips had many wise sayings. He summed up the story of the settlement of the West with a sentence that I had never heard before, "Cowards never started and the weak died on the way." He also was the first I ever heard use the expression depicting the story of a fortune, "From shirt-sleeves to shirt-sleeves in three generations."

My work as executive vice president of a state association calls for considerable travel so I made application for a hotel credit card. Pretty soon, here came a letter to the association from the credit organization, stating, "Your Mr. House has applied for a credit card. Please tell us whether you consider him reliable. Any information will be kept confidential."

The reply to this inquiry read, "I unqualifiedly recommend Boyce House in every way. (Signed) Boyce House"

You know, three months went by and I thought I wasn't going to get that card. At last it came. I guess that organization finally hired somebody with a sense of humor.

This is a political legend of Texas and if any reader knows of any actual facts on which the story might have been based, this chronicler would be happy to hear from him:

Many years ago, two friends were talking politics. One asked, "Who is going to be the next governor?" (It might have been U. S. Senator.) The other replied, "Brown! Why, he'll be last." The upshot was a wager of $1,000 as to whether Brown would finish last.

The man who was betting that Brown wouldn't be last found his candidate was not doing well so he himself filed for the office (the

Information From: State Department Of Health

An active division of the State Department of Health for 11 years, the Division of Mental Health has from the beginning keynoted its activities towards the prevention of mental illness through cooperation ranging from private citizens to state government.

It has coordinated its efforts on matters of common concern with such other state agencies as the Department of Public Welfare, Texas Commission on Alcoholism, Texas Education Agency, and Board of Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools.

With the growth of the State's population, its increased urbanization and industrialization, and the pyramiding tensions of everyday living, communities must become the first line of defense against nervous and emotional disorders.

The need for improved treatment of the mentally ill is urgent, but the race will be lost if filing fee was $100), made no campaign, finished last and won the bet. (Brown was next to last, by the way.)
