Wool Price Supports In Jeopardy

WASHINGTON, April 10 — UP — Sen. Lester C. Hunt (D-Wyo.) said Saturday that "selfish" farm and dairy amendments may force President Eisenhower to veto the administration's wool price support bill.

Hunt called on farm and dairy blocks to hold back the amendments. But it appeared certain that the wool bill will touch off general agricultural debate when it comes up in the Senate, probably on Wednesday.

The horsemen are going to the state capital to invite Gov. Allan Shivers to attend the annual Old South secession ceremonies. Students plan to secede from Duval county, and think Shivers will attend. Taft-Hartley Revision May Be Pigeonholed

Comet Jets To Undergo Severe Tests

LONDON, April 10 — UP — Volunteer test pilots will risk their lives trying to fly the wings off the Comet jet airliner in tests to determine the cause of the big planes' "death ceiling" it was announced Saturday.

British aviation officials said that test pilots will take up the big passenger airliners in make-or-break tests to find the cause of the failure in flight which has cost 99 lives in three crashes during the past 11 months.

The tests will determine whether the jet airliners are grounded once and for all. They will be held at the Royal Air Force installation at Farnborough. Crack test pilots for the DeHavilland Co. which builds the jets, will fly the ships through extensive maneuvers.

NICE TIP — When Texas millionaire Col. Don W. Josey, left, saw New Orleans restaurant waiter Fred Hickman's coin tray engraved "For 46 years' faithful service," he commented, "That's a lot of service," and tipped him $50. That was in 1950. Last week Mr. Josey ran into Hickman again and asked him if he would like to have $50 a month for life. Hickman replied he'd like it and the first check arrived April 5. (NEA Telephoto)

NLRB Issue Splits House Committee

WASHINGTON, April 10 — UP — Proposals to rewrite the Taft-Hartley law have caused a sharp rift in the House Labor committee, it was learned Saturday. Some members believe the group may vote against any changes at all.

Chairman Samuel K. McConnell Jr. (R-Pa.) is confident, however, that he can get a revision out of the House floor after the forthcoming Easter recess. The Senate Labor committee already has reported a bill.

Atom Bombs Still Being Mass-Made

WASHINGTON, April 10 — UP — We're still making A-bombs. For some time now, with every body talking about megatons and megadeaths and destruction of civilization as we know it, the headlines have pretty much gone to hell bombs.

But though the A-bomb doesn't get much publicity any more (the biggest one is only half a megaton), it's still in the Atomic Energy Commission's production line.

ABC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss made that clear this week in asking the Senate Appropriations committee to vote the commission $1.34 billion for the year starting July 1.

Strauss mentioned thermonuclear (H-bombs) weapons nearly a dozen times in his statement. But he added that though the AEC is putting "more emphasis on the production of thermonuclear models," it isn't forgetting the "family" of fission (A-bomb) weapons it is stockpiling.

He wasn't just talking about fission triggers for H-bombs. He was referring to small, medium, and large A-bombs "which can be delivered by different types of air planes" for different military purposes.

This growing versatility of fission weapons is just as important, Strauss has said, as the fact that they are being made faster and cheaper.

'Peace-Through-Strength' Dulles Seeks U. S., British, French Front Against Reds

WASHINGTON, April 10 — UP — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flew on a peace-through-strength mission to Europe Saturday night to shore up an Allied "united front" to save Southeast Asia from Communist aggression.

He hoped to achieve Anglo-American-French singleness of purpose to warn the Reds that the door to aggression will be slammed shut in Indo-China, the gateway to the riches and prizes of Southeast Asia.

"That is the purpose of my trip," he said. "It is, I emphasize, a mission of peace through strength."

Dulles conferred with President Eisenhower before leaving, got his endorsement, and issued a farewell statement in which he said: "This government believes that if all the free people who are threatened unite against the threat then the threat can be ended."

Dulles took off at 4:52 p.m. est. Just before his departure he told reporters he planned to return to Washington on Thursday and then would go to his Duck Island retreat in Lake Ontario to spend Friday and Saturday, returning to Washington Sunday.

He said his purpose is to develop a pool of strength with Britain and France in advance of the April 26 Geneva Conference on Korea and Indo-China, the critical threat to world peace.

objective, he said, of joining and adding to the Anglo-American-French strength "in order to create the conditions needed to assure that the conference will not lead to a loss of freedom in southeast Asia—but will preserve that freedom in peace and justice."

He had reassuring words, too, for the British and French governments—best with internal political troubles.

NOW LOOK HERE, UMP! — Or so Congressman Walter Rogers appears to be saying to Umpire Howard Anderson Saturday afternoon at Oler park after he had taken a few practice swings and was called "out." Rogers has been named starting shortstop for the Democrats in the annual Demo-Republican baseball game June 15 at Griffith Stadium in Washington, D. C. Taking a long look down the 90 feet from home plate to first base, he remarked, "They're making the baseball diamonds bigger now." (News Photo)

Ike In Strong Spot To Win Negro Vote

WASHINGTON, April 10 — UP — Republican campaign strategists said Saturday that President Eisenhower has opened the way to win a majority of the Negro vote for the first time in 20 years.

Their statement was based on what they call "solid achievements" to improve the lot of Negroes during the first 15 months of the Eisenhower administration.

They said Mr. Eisenhower has done more, with less talk, than his Democratic predecessors, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

Exact figures on Negro voting are scarce. Republican estimates indicate the GOP got only about 32 or 33 per cent in the last two presidential elections. But they expect to get more than 50 per cent in this year's congressional election and a still larger share in the 1956 presidential voting.

Party optimism is based principally on steps President Eisenhower has taken to give Negroes "equality of opportunity."

Among those actions they cited "outstanding appointments" of Negroes to government jobs and "concrete steps" to eliminate discrimination in several fields where it could be done by executive order instead of legislation.

Ship 'Dusted' 2,200 Miles From Tests

TOKYO, April 10 — UP — A radioactive Japanese fishing boat was disclosed Saturday to have been about 2,200 miles from the U.S. H-bomb test area in the Marshall Islands at the time of the tests last month.

The United States exploded a second hydrogen device in the Bikini-Eniwetok area on March 26. The log of the Misaki Maru, the latest vessel to show radioactivity, said it was operating at point near Angaur, in the Caroline Islands, from March 19 to 29.

Gang-Style Slaying Believed Linked To Dope Racket Fight

CHICAGO, April 10 — UP — Anthony Pape, 40, reputed head of a $10 million-a-year narcotics racket, was seriously wounded Saturday and his brother was shot to death.

They were found sprawled in their hard-top convertible, which had smashed into an apartment building.

Police believed they were shot by two men in the rear seat, who leaped from the car before the crash.

Detectives said the shooting may have been the result of a move by rivals to seize control of the lush drug traffic.

Shirley Temple Has Third Child

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 10 — UP — Former child star Shirley Temple gave birth to her third child Friday night, a seven-pound, one-ounce girl.

Dr. William C. Bradbury, who delivered the child by Caesarean section at Santa Monica hospital, said both mother and child were in "fine" condition.

Rogers Seeks Third Term In Congress

Rep. Walter Rogers Saturday night authorized an announcement that he would run for a third term as a member of the U. S. House of Representatives.

Rogers arrived in town Saturday afternoon, visited The Pampa Daily News and stopped by the Pampa-Plainview high school baseball double-header at Oler park.

Punch Price Ante Upped

BALTIMORE, Md., April 10 — UP — The price on nose-punching went up Saturday—$200 for socking a certain general and $100 for a particular private.

Former Master Sgt. William Pongratz, veteran of both world wars, upped the ante in the nose-punching case of Pvt. G. David Schine.

World's Oldest War

Beginning in today's issue of The Pampa Daily News and continuing throughout twelve installments is a picture story of the critical Far East situation—the shooting war between French troops and Communist Viet Minh forces.

To learn why Indo-China is so important to the United States, follow "Indo-China — The World's Oldest War," each day in the News.

DAIRY FARM — The only dairy farm in the immediate Pampa vicinity is that of R. E. Montgomery, nine and one-half miles north of Pampa. He has 80 head of dairy cattle, 30 of which he is milking at the present time. Most of the cows are Jerseys, but he has some Holsteins. A resident of this area for 47 years, he has been living on his present farm 25 years.

R. E. Montgomery's

Area Farm Of The Week

Farmers of the Pampa area are passing up a great opportunity in their failure to get into the dairy business, according to R. E. Montgomery, whose dairy farm is located nine and one-half miles north of Pampa.

"Thousands of dollars are going out of the area, mostly to Oklahoma, every month to dairymen that could just as easily be kept right here," the veteran dairyman said.

Until a few years ago there were several dairy farms in this area but now his is the only one left in the immediate vicinity of Pampa.

Montgomery said that with drouth conditions existing farmers should turn to dairying. "I manage to make a living out of my dairy herd, where I would be losing money if I depended on wheat," he added.

A resident of the area for all but two years of his life, Montgomery is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Montgomery. His father, who died in 1946, was a pioneer farmer here. His mother passed away in 1930.

He has owned his present farm for the past 25 years, purchasing it from the Federal Land Bank the same year he was married.

He and the former Miss Oleta Smith, Pampa, were married April 16, 1929, and will celebrate their silver anniversary next Friday. They have one daughter, Mary June, 17, who is a member of the senior class in Pampa high school.

Montgomery, who was born in Bell county and came to Pampa 47 years ago, has 400 acres of land in cultivation on his 640-acre farm and rents another 500 acres of his father's farm.

He and his wife moved into their present home, which he built five years ago. He also has built a big milk barn, which is equipped with modern dairy machines, including milking machines. In the milking room, two cows can be milked at the same time, while another waits. It is a continual process until all of the 30 cows are milked.

He has a herd of 80 cows, on the farm, most of them Jerseys and the remainder Holsteins.

Besides dairying, Montgomery also raises wheat and grain sorghums. Until this year he raised commercial Hereford steers.

He has constructed three earthen tanks on his farm, which is located just over the Gray county line in Roberts county in the Wayside community.

Assisting him in the dairy operation is Arly Sober, who lives on the farm.

Rogers Newsletter
New U. S. Map, Foreign Policy
Congressional Investigations

Rep. Walter Rogers, of Pampa, discusses a new American map, U.S. foreign policy and congressional investigations in his weekly newsletter to 18th Congressional District constituents.

The representative recently attended a committee meeting, he relates, in which Douglas McKay, Secretary of the Interior, presented the new U. S. map, as required by law.

But "these new maps may become obsolete overnight," he says. For they do not show Alaska or Hawaii.

Rogers claims that America "faces a two-pronged problem on foreign policy. The problem is both political and military."

"The military phase of it is being pointed up in Indo-China," the Pampa man says, labelling it a "tug-of-war." He says the reports are that the Red Chinese have "measurably strengthened" their forces in that theater, both in manpower and equipment, and that most of the reinforcements have come from Korea.

"It is doubtful," Rogers declares, "that a truce in Indo-China would accomplish anything except causing France to lose face."

On the political side, "the Near East is still the hot spot . . . the heat is there and creates a problem that must be faced straight across the board sooner or later."

"Another political hot spot, of course, is Italy," The Communists, the congressman points out, fully realize the "terrific post-war strain that is usually present in the moral fiber of those people who have lost the war. They are playing this to the hilt in Italy, and it is going to take strong and honest leadership to knock them down."

As for investigations, Rogers claims there has "probably been more comment around here about the reference of the President to the Congressional investigations in his recent speech than any other subject that he treated."

"It is understandable," he continues, "that human emotions sometimes take temporary control in that theater, and cause things to be said and done that are not in keeping with those rules of fair play."

"Success that are won by the employment of false and unfair tactics are usually short-lived," he concludes.

ON THE LAMB—Sheep-and-lamb population in the U. S. is dropping off. By 1954, the Department of Agriculture says it was down to about 29 million—about the same as in 1930, the previous low point. In 1884, there were 50 million sheep and lambs.

INDO-CHINA — The World's Oldest War (One)

The Chinese Communists — and, of course, behind them, the Russians — are after Indo-China. Just what is Indo-China and why is it so important to the remaining free countries? Indo-China, half again as large as France, has been a French colony since early in the 19th Century. It is important to the free nations because it is the key to all southeast Asia.

If Indo-China falls to the Reds, Malaya, Burma, Indonesia and perhaps the Philippines will be a soft touch. The Japs did it in '41, using Indo-China as a springboard. Southeast Asia is a prime source of rice (world's No. 1 crop) rubber, tin and other critical materials.

By Walter Parkes and Ralph Lane

The Communist grip on Indo-China followed a familiar pattern. The Reds simply infiltrated a native anti-imperialist movement, gradually took it over and whiped its aims from simple independence to becoming another Kremlin stooge country. Until recently, raw terrorism was the chief weapon.

New Troop Landing Vehicle Announced

WASHINGTON, April 10—UP—A new assault vehicle that can hit a beach with more than two squads of combat-ready Marines was announced Saturday by the Defense Department.

It is a modern version of the old LVT (landing vehicle tracked) which put thousands of Marines ashore on Pacific Islands in World War II. It combines the amphibious qualities of the old LVT with improved speed, range and maneuverability.

It is manned by a crew of three and is armored, and is much more versatile on land than in water.

Korean Dead To Be Buried

WASHINGTON, April 10—UP—The unidentified bodies of an estimated 700 American servicemen who died in the Korean war will be buried in the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific at Honolulu.

An Army spokesman said there now are approximately 1,300 unidentified remains held at the Army's Kofu, Japan identification laboratory.

"It is anticipated that about 700 eventually may have to be declared unidentifiable and removed to Hawaii for burial as unknowns," a Defense Department statement said.

Draw Poker A Hot Issue In California

GARDENA, Calif., April 10—UP—Draw poker was the big champion issue here Saturday—not party politics.

Campaigners are dead serious about the big election Tuesday. It marks the first time the citizens will vote for pro-poker and anti-poker candidates.

It's a hot election. Draw poker made this town, known west of the Cascades as "Little Reno," Gardena blossomed from a bean patch into a thriving community with a multi-million dollar blue chip business—all in 16 years. Draw poker did it, the old timers say.

The election battle shapes up like something out of an old western novel — the church and non-poker playing faction against the players—and a group of citizens who want to keep the low tax rate, brought about the levies against the gambling houses. Assessments are worth more than $100,000 to city coffers.

The opposition party has three U. S. Webb in 1937 declared draw candidates up for the five-man city council and outcome of the election will determine whether an anti-poker ordinance can ever be passed. An ordinance is about the only way left to get rid of the game. Draw poker, considered a game of "skill," is legal hereabouts. And the veterans who make it their "business," say giving the game a fast shuffle won't be easy.

A ruling by Attorney General Charles F. Whittaker in 1937 declared draw poker legal so long as it did not violate a state law against the house extracting a percentage of the take. Here in Gardena they don't "rake from the pot" but charge rental for your seat.

Casino operators claim their operation always has been legal. No liquor is allowed in the clubs. The age limit is 21 and an eagle eye is kept for card "sharps." You can't even play in the same game with your wife—house rules prohibit that kind of connivery.

Shoulders Goes On Trial For Kidnap Perjury Monday

KANSAS CITY, April 10—UP—Former St. Louis police Lt. Louis Shoulders, hero of the arrest that broke the Greenlease kidnap case, will go on trial Monday for perjury in connection with the missing half of the $600,000 ransom money. A federal jury found Shoulders partner in the arrest, suspended patrolman Elmer Dolan, guilty March 31 on the same charge. The indictment alleges Shoulders last Oct. 28 gave a federal grand jury an "untrue and false" accounting of the transport of two suitcases containing ransom money to the Newstead Avenue police station last Oct. 6, the night a kidnap-killer Carl Austin Hall was arrested in a St. Louis apartment hotel.

Dolan and Shoulders each testified the money-laden suitcases were taken into the station "in a matter of minutes" after Hall was booked. This government alleges they were not.

The FBI is still searching for $203,720 of the record ransom payment in Robert C. Greenlease's futile effort to save his son, six-year-old Bobby.

Hall, who was executed last Dec. 14 with his accomplice, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, said he was certain all the money, less what he had spent, was in the suitcases at the time of his arrest.

Police records showed, however, that only $150,000 was turned over to the FBI as the combined amount contained in the two suitcases. Shoulders, whose resignation still

Annual Report Of Texas RR Commission

The Pampa Daily News Saturday received the Texas Railroad Commission's 52nd annual report of railroad statistics, which deals with 1953.

These are some of the items: There was an "all-time high" of $460,998,102 in gross operating revenues, which the TRRC attributes to better rates and "not to larger volume." Every mile of Texas railroads carried an average of 1,822,830 tons of revenue freight. The length of railroads within Texas was reduced 17.29 miles during 1953, leaving 15,518.61 miles in operation. To maintain and operate the railroads of Texas requires 27,454 persons, who are paid $238,707,875 annually, or an average of $4,154.48 to each person. Total gross investment in road and equipment property, including improvements on leased transportation property, is $1,102,206,256, which is reduced by depreciation and other adjustments to a net of $918,908,190. Assessed values of Texas railroads as reported by county assessors-collectors, together with intangible valuations fixed by the state tax board, are $208,227,518, upon which state and local taxes of $7,798,108 are paid. There are 14,056 highway crossings at grade level on railroads within Texas and there are 12 major railroad systems operating in the state.

A Gift Became An Easter Bunny 'Factory'

By ED NASH
Pampa News Staff Writer

Easter is a time for quiet reflection for an extra look at the family Bible and for going to church. That's true for old and young alike. For kids, though, there is an added attraction — Easter Bunnies! And no one realizes this more than Mrs. Joe Auwen, 1306 E. Frederic, who has a hobby that is particularly synonymous with Easter time.

She, together with her husband, raises rabbits. Big ones, little ones, white ones, spotted ones, all kinds. "The kids sure do go for them," she said at week's end, cradling a pair of small white ones in her arms.

Evidently the family dog, Butch, a small brown cocker spaniel, does too. For with a leap from the floor, he deposited himself in the midst of the rabbits and snuggled close.

"That's the first time they've ever been together," Mrs. Auwen exclaimed, obviously surprised that they got along so well.

Little did the Auwens — he's a punper for Magnolia, she's a napping cook in Highland General hospital — realize quite what they were in for that fall day more than a year ago when someone provided them with their first three rabbits.

From that numerically small start, they advanced to "at least 100" rabbits before the number leveled off at about 50, what they have today.

And this week, the week before Easter, there is a good chance they will part with some of what they have. For they have 10 grandchildren, living in other parts of Texas, and Mrs. Auwen is convinced they'll want some of them.

Kids don't realize what it takes to maintain a rabbit farm such as the Auwens have out back of their house. Matter of fact, the least trouble the Auwens have is in the heralded multiplication of the species. For a good reason, too: about as many die as are born.

Home for the Auwen rabbits is a coop where they can run around and over each other, but cannot dig out from under. If their home was not raised above the ground or was not floored, the rabbits would escape in a matter of minutes — simply by digging under the fence.

Biggest problem, Mrs. Auwen insists, is keeping the rabbits warm, particularly at birth. "You need plenty of straw; otherwise, they'll chill and die — in a matter of hours." Once their fur comes on them, however, their life expectancy is a lot longer.

Like their representative in the movies, "Bugs Bunny," they like wens, who have lived in Pampa for the last 11 years, coming from Mrs. Auwen, Alfalfa hay and rabbit pellets provide most of the rest of their diet.

Mrs. Auwen, a comfortable-looking woman with reddish hair, insists that actually her husband is the one who takes care of them, though their son, Tommy, 13, helps out now and then. "I have too much housework to do," she points out.

Tommy, though, would just as soon bring one of the family rabbits into the house to play with it, she allows. "Some of the neighborhood kids don't mind dropping in once in a while, either. It's the only hobby for the Au-

BUTCH IS INTERESTED — Mrs. Joe Auwen (above), 1306 E. Frederic, raises rabbits which are always an Easter-time attraction for youngsters. Here she holds two of the smaller ones she and her husband keep in a coop out back of the house. Butch, their brown cocker spaniel, looks up from the floor, as if trying to figure out what they are. Soon after this picture was taken, he got a closer look. (News Photo)

Gray County Commissioners Meet Monday

The Gray County Commissioners' court is slated to meet at 10 a.m. Monday for its monthly meeting.

What would be on the agenda was undetermined late Saturday, however. County Judge J. B. Maguire Jr. was reported out of town.

County Commissioner Arlie Carpenter, court house sources said, would probably be in charge of the meeting.

One item known to be on the agenda was the canvass of the vote for the school board elections in the county but Pampa's School board elections were held a week ago and county commissioners must canvass the vote in Gray county. Letors, McLean, Hopkins, Alnreed and Grandview, Pampa's school board does its own canvassing.

Winning candidates were Jim McCracken and C. O. Gilbert, county board; J. R. Carney and R. F. Fields, Grandview board; Clyde J. Trusty and Bob Brown, Letors board; James McCarty and Samuel Haynes, McLean board; Howard Brown, Hopkins board; and T. C. D'Spain and H. H. Wortham, Alnreed board.

Scouts Sponsor Kelley Troupe

Amarillo's Larry Kelley, "The King of pantomime," and the "Amazing Mr. Massey, king in the art of magic," were on the stage of the Pampa Junior High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Monday.

White Deer's Explorer post is sponsoring the affair for the purpose of getting a White Deer Junior Rifle club organized.

A "Standing Room Only" crowd was on hand Saturday night in the White Deer High School auditorium to take in the same show that Pampans were to see two days later.

The rifle club will be affiliated with the National Rifle association and will provide a clean, safe competitive sport the year 'round, which is designed to build better young men for our communities," according to Paul Buchanan, Explorer post advisor.

Tickets to the show cost 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for school children. They can be purchased at Richard Drug and Wilson Drug in Pampa.

Portable X-Ray Machine Needs No Electric Power

CHICAGO, April 10 — UP—Argonne National Laboratory Saturday announced development of a small, inexpensive and portable X-ray machine which needs no electrical power source. A spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission said the active component of the instrument is one-fifth gram of radioactive thulium. The unit weighs only 10 pounds and the mechanism cost only $40, the spokesman said. He estimated the cost of irradiating the thulium as roughly $200. A conventional portable X-ray machine, of much bulkier design, costs about $75, but is not as powerful as the AEC model. The unit developed at Argonne produces rays which are comparable in energy to those of a conventional 100,000-volt machine, the laboratory said. A conventional instrument of such power would cost about $2,000. Little Previous Value Thulium is a rare material which heretofore has found little practical value. Argonne scientists made the material radioactive by inserting it in the laboratory's heavy-water nuclear reactor. A tiny particle of thulium then was mounted in a source holder and shield equipped with a shutter mechanism so that X-ray pictures could be made. The shutter is operated by a standard photographic cable release. The unit is enclosed in a cylindrical container. The unit, developed under the direction of Samuel Untermyer, should meet the need for simple, cheap and portable X-ray equipment, a spokesman said, but probably will not replace non-portable conventional machines. "For diagnostic purposes equipment of this type will be of great value in isolated locations such as Army field hospitals, Naval vessels and isolated construction projects," the laboratory said. "Industrially it has potential use as a density determination device. It may find considerable use in the determination of levels and densities of liquids in closed systems." Suggested by British The laboratory said the use of thulium as an X-ray source first was suggested by British scientists who have developed a similar but less powerful instrument. Argonne was able to produce an instrument several hundred times more powerful than the British device because Argonne scientists had access to a powerful nuclear reactor and excellent facilities for separating rare earth materials such as thulium. The thulium was obtained from the AEC's Ames laboratory at Iowa State College, where Dr. Frank Spedding has pioneered in the separation of rare earth elements.

Farmers Slate Discussion Meet

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Meetings have been set at Carzon County for the coming week to discuss farming and ranching problems. Extension Economist John G. McHaney of Texas A&M College has agreed to meet with the farmers and ranchers of each locality to give them the benefit of recent studies and information. McHaney will lead the discussions on the 1954 agricultural outlook.

In addition to agricultural discussion, the meetings will also be used to bring proposed underground water conservation for Carzon and adjoining counties into discussion. R. V. Thurmond of Lubbock, well-known extension engineer, will be on hand to assist in this phase of discussion. The following schedule has been arranged. All meetings will open at 7:30 p.m. and everyone is urged to attend: Monday, District Court Room, Courthouse, Pankhandle; Tuesday, Vocational Ag. room, White Deer; Wednesday, School House, Conway; Thursday, High School Auditorium, Groom.

Hint to Motorists — There are several possible causes of cracked valve seats, among which are clogged water jackets resulting in unequal cooling; pulling up the cylinder head stud nuts too tightly, and wrong type of spark plug.

Preference — MILFORD, Conn. — UP—Assistant Fire Superintendent Wilfred J. Dugay has been demoted to regular fireman at his own request. Dugay said he likes the regular fireman's working hours better.

City Jail Needs Improvements To Keep Up With The Times

By WALT SWITZER
Pampa News Staff Writer

Pampa's city jail is on a par with others in cities of similar size, according to Police Chief Jim Conner.

"Our jail is as good or better than most jails I've seen in cities the size of Pampa," he said.

However, there is plenty of room for improvement in the local bastille, he said, but added that the city does not have the funds available at the present time for much improvement.

The city's lockup is not adequate to meet the needs, Conner stated, pointing out that when the jail was first built in the basement of the City Hall in 1931, city officials apparently did not look into the future. The jail was built for a town much smaller than the present Pampa, he added.

"However, we are fortunate that our jail is so arranged that we do have separate facilities for women prisoners and juveniles," he said. "Very few juveniles are kept overnight in the jail here, however, since most of them are turned over to their parents after arrest, the police chief asserted.

The jail has adequate toilet facilities and has had baths, but "bad acting" prisoners kept tearing out the plumbing and flooded the cells until Conner was forced to take out the baths. "Anyway, we seldom keep any prisoners over two days at a time. We either turn them loose or release them to the Gray county sheriff."

There are two large cells in the back part of the jail and the "drunk tank," which has three cells and a runway. These three cells can be used separately from the runway should the occasion arise. The jail will accommodate 20 prisoners at one time, he said.

Billing is still the big thing with show people. Percy Faith and Tony Bennett, two of Columbia's top recording names, are off on a 25-city tour. Diplomatically, all the posters are printed in pairs, half with Faith's name first and half with Bennett's. And the two buses are lettered with different legends.

—one says "Bennett-Faith Tour" and one says "Faith-Bennett Tour."

Jokingly, Faith told the driver of his bus: "I'll give you $10 every time you beat the Bennett bus into the next town."

Alene Dalton is the "Story Princess" on NBC-TV's "Kate Smith Show." After one telecast, Miss Dalton was attacked by an enthusiastic small girl who hugged her and said, "Story Princess, I've seen you lots of times on television, but this is the first time I've ever seen you in color."

You never know, maybe real live people will make a comeback.

It is a great pleasure to inform you that burlesque is still prospering. Harold Minsky, who is presently carrying on the grand old name of Minsky which has been bringing art to the masses since 1912, says burlesque is healthy.

"Outside of New York, as a matter of fact," Minsky says, "burlesque is the leading form of live entertainment."

There are some changes since granddaddy's day. For some reason, obviously sociological, more women are in burlesque audiences these days. So Minsky and his fellow impresarios are paying more attention to things women notice — like costumes and scenery.

The word "costumes" is Minsky's not mine.

The artists are all unionized now, in a group called the Burlesque Artists of America. (Do they, instead of sit-down strikes, have stand-still strikes?) Salaries are generally pretty good, especially for the "strip women," who average more money than stage or nightclub performers. Minsky says a good strip woman will get around $200 a week in take-off — or, take-home — pay. And the work is steady.

At the moment, the top star in burlesque is a tall, economy-sized blonde named Lili St. Cyr, who theoretically has added class to stripping. Minsky cited one bit of class — she takes her clothes off while rolling down a staircase, and what could be classier than that?

Minsky confesses that his ads are a little classy these days, too. "I even listed our choreographer once," he says. "Nobody knew what 'choreographer' meant, but everybody came because it sounded dirty."

Richard Rodgers, at a crowded press conference before the big TV show he and Oscar Hammerstein were producing, wearily found a seat and sat. Which reminded him of an affair he attended in Washington, where everyone remained standing in deference to Mrs. Truman, who was on her feet. Somebody whispered to her that if she sat down, everyone else would.

"She was astounded," Rodgers says. "She looked around and said, 'You don't mean to tell me that they're all standing because of me?'"

Rodgers says Mrs. Truman sat down fast, having learned about Washington protocol.

Wally Cox, who started taking flying lessons a week or so ago, is grounded. It's a self-grounding, however. He found no insurance company which would give accident insurance to a student pilot, and Cox is the careful type who wouldn't fly without some financial protection. That's his policy.

There was going to be a big Scrabble tournament at the Concord Hotel in the Catskills. It's been called off — shortage of Scrabble sets.

Seems the guests walked off with them. And Scrabble without a Scrabble set is tough, no matter how wide your vocabulary.

He stated that he would be happy to be a subject next week which has to do with the city visit the jail at any time and look over the accommodations to see for themselves how clean the jail is kept and at the same time see the inadequacy of the accommodations.

According to Conner, the Pampa jail is in much better shape than most jails throughout the country. This is borne out in a recent survey made by Five Star Detective Magazine, which revealed an appalling condition existing in many of the nation's county jails. The survey did not include city jails. Incidentally, county jails in the state of Texas ranked eighth among the best jails in the United States, according to the survey.

provide tax benefits to industries that buy smoke control equipment. These devices, Capehart said, often are "very costly" and tend to get loans from private institutions. The same type of loan would be available to home owners wishing to get rid of smoky coal furnaces.

It would also establish a stepped-up research program to learn the causes of polluted air and methods for its control. "A new forum where the entire problem may be explored," as Capehart put it.

Two agencies at work already are at work on the smog problem, though on a limited scale. The National Bureau of Standards in Washington and the U. S. Public Health Service sanitary engineering center in Cincinnati have been analyzing vapors taken from a great many cities with that purpose.

Capehart emphasized that most of the work must be handled at the local level. But he said the federal does have a definite part to play because "polluted air has no respect for corporate limits or state lines." But the government's proper role, he said, is to encourage local action.

Capehart reported that his proposal has received tremendous support across the country, and not only from residents of large cities. He said many smaller communities eager to lure new industry, also have been genuinely concerned about smog control.

Congress Rallies In Support Of Areas Shadowed By Smog

By DONALD UNGAR
WASHINGTON, April 10.—UP—Congressional housing experts take up a subject next week which has been plaguing the nation's cities: What can be done about smog?

For years, private industry and research groups, state and local governments have been trying to cope with the smoke-chase-log combination polluting the air of metropolitan areas. With few exceptions, they have met with only limited success.

Now Sen. Homer E. Capehart, fearing that smog not only endangers health but helps create storms, has asked the federal government to step in.

The proposal comes before Capehart's own Senate Banking committee Tuesday for the first of three days of open hearings.

It is the first time Congress has taken more than a passing glance at the problem.

According to Capehart, Mr. Eisenhower's smog clearance proposals are all "well and good." But it is shortsighted to permit air pollution to continue, Capehart said. Unless it is abated, "we can expect the newly constructed homes of today to become the slums of tomorrow—as surely as blight follows decay."

Capehart said polluted air cost an estimated $5 billion damage each year. That includes damage to merchandise, buildings, homes and home foliage.

PS Sets 4 New 1-AA Track Records But Sandies Win Meet

John Darby Grabs High Point Honors

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

CANYON, April 10 — The Pampa Harvesters set four new District 1-AA track and field records, and furnished the top three individual point makers in the annual 1-AA meet here Saturday but the Amarillo Sandies had too much manpower and outscored the Green and Golds for team honors, 78 to 54 1/2 points.

It was strictly a two-way race for the 1-AA team honors as the Harvesters and Sandies furnished the winner in each of the 14 events. The closest of the other two contestants, Plainview and Berger, came to winning an event was in the high jump. Lester North of Plainview tied Ronald Huffstutter of Amarillo for first in this event.

In the other 13 events, Amarillo had seven winners and the Harvesters six.

For the second straight year the Harvesters came up with the high point man of the meet. Team captain John Darby by the unusual hero of Pampa's finest track team in several years, racked up 13 1/2 points for individual scoring honors. Darby won the 100-yard low hurdles and broad jump, placed second in the 150-yard high hurdles and ran a leg on the Harvesters' second place 400-yard relay team. It was the first time this year the Harvesters' sprint relay team had been beaten. Amarillo captured the event with a record time of 44.1.

The Harvesters also had the second and third high point men. Harold Lewis had 10 1/2 points for runner-up honors while Ed Dudley, last year's high point man, came in with third 7 1/2 points.

High point for the winning Amarillo team was Bobby Graham who had 7 1/2 points. Graham won the 400-yard dash and also captured the Sandies' winning 400-yard and mile relay teams.

7 Records Fall
Seven records fell by the wayside in Saturday's meet with the Harvesters setting four new marks and the Sandies capturing the other three.

Dudley of the Harvesters set two new records — both coming in the preliminary Saturday morning. The Harvesters star entered five events in Saturday's meet and placed in the 100, 150 and 200 yard dashes. He ran the 100 yards in 19.7 to break the record he had set last year at 20.7.

In the 150-yard high hurdles, Dudley hit the tape at 14.2 seconds. The all-around Harvesters athlete came in second in the high and third in the low. In the low hurdles, Dudley knocked over four hurdles that slowed him down but he still finished third.

The other two records set by the Harvesters were Harold Lewis' 21.3 time in the 200-yard dash and big Jon Cantrell's 51' 9 1/2" heave in the shot put.

Cantrell, who has come along fast in the shot put since the start of the season, bettered the old record by more than three feet. Howard Childers of Amarillo held the previous record of 48' 4" set in 1931.

The Sandies' record events came in the 400-yard relay, mile relay and discus. Joe Irvin bested the oldest existing record when he tossed the discus 139' 4" to beat the old record of 128 feet set by Randall Clay of Pampa in 1934.

The Harvesters led after the morning events, 17 1/2 to 17 for Amarillo. Coach Duane Lyon's charges stayed within striking distance of the Sandies through most of the meet but Amarillo pulled away in the distance runs, 800 and mile runs, and coasted with another first in the day's final event — the mile relay.

Amarillo placed 1-2-3 in the mile

Harvester Nine Splits With Plainview

HIGH POINTERS — John Darby, left, and Harold Lewis, right, Pampa Harvesters sprint stars, ranked 1-2 in individual scoring in the District 1-AA track and field meet yesterday at Canyon. Darby, captain of the Harvester track team, was the meet's high point man with 13 1/2 points. Lewis was the second high with 10 1/2 points.

Oilers Meet G-Sox Today; Indians Return Jim Lemons

Jim Lemons, a rookie pitcher who pitched and won both ends of a doubleheader for the Pampa Oilers at the tail end of the 1953 season, is being sent back to the Oilers "for more seasoning by the Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas League.

The addition of Lemons will enable Don Tierney to take over an outfield post that will bolster the Oiler batting power. Tierney, who will still see some hill duty during the season, has been seeing only mound duty in the spring games to date due to the shortage of Oiler pitchers on hand.

Lemons will report to the Oilers in a couple of days. The young right-hander really came into his own during the September stretch drive last season. He won both games of a Labor Day doubleheader for Plainview. At that time, the Oilers were very much in the running for a first division berth.

The Oilers will continue their spring schedule today when they journey to Amarillo for a return

Harvesters 3rd In 1-AA Golf Tourney

AMARILLO, April 10 — (Special) — The Harvesters golfers placed third and fifth in the District 1-AA meet here with the host Amarillo Sandies walking off with No 1 and 2 honors.

Both Pampa and Amarillo entered two teams. The Amarillo A team finished first with 80 1/2 with the Sandies B finishing second with 81 1/2. The Pampa A team finished third with 82 1/2 and the B team fifth with 95.

Following are the Pampa scorers: Team — Buster Carter 80; Joe Chisum 78; Sammy Houchin 83; and Don Frigmore 83.

B Team — John Dial 91; Jerry Boston Jr., 83; Frank Outlier 86; and Tommy Poley 97.

James H. Jr., Jr. of Amarillo was medalist with 72. Smith was awarded the singles title.

Borger finished fourth between the Pampa A and B team third and fifth place finishes.

Perkins Pitches Locals To 1st Win

By WALT SWITZER
Pampa News Staff Writer

The Pampa High School Harvesters baseball team entered the win column for the first time this season Saturday when they opened play in District 1-AA against Plainview at Oiler park here.

The Harvesters, who had been on a losing streak since the beginning of spring training, reversed their form in the first game of a double header, trimming the Bulldogs from the South Plains to the tune of 9-1.

However the visitors came back in the second game and squeaked by the Harvesters, 3-1, taking advantage of eight Pampa errors. Four of the miscues came in the first inning.

The Harvesters lost little time in the first game forging into the lead, scoring one run in each of the first two innings.

With one out in the first frame, Raymond Velasquez was safe a first on an error and advanced to second when J. N. Wright beat out a hard grounder down the third base line that Shelly Stapleton stopped, but couldn't make the throw to first. Glen Adams flew out to Murray Galloway in left field, but Warner singled to right, scoring Velasquez.

The Harvesters continued the scoring in the second inning. Larry Larson walked and went to second when Hubert Duncan was hit by a pitched ball. Both runners advanced on John Perkins' sacrifice and Larson scored on a wild pitch by Plainview hurler, Norman Huggins.

Sanlee Leads KU Past USC

UP—Wes Sanlee scored easy victories in the mile and 800 yard races but didn't come close to any world record as he paced Kansas University's Jayhawks to a 70 1/2 to 60 1/2 victory over California in an intercollegiate track meet.

Sanlee won the mile in 4:05.5 and the 800 in 1:51.3 with plenty of yardage to spare in both events.

The Jayhawks rounded out their monopoly in the distance events when Allen Frame won the two-mile in 29.1, ahead of teammates Dick Wilson and Tom Rupp while the mile relay was captured in 3:15.9 by KU's Frank Cludrich, Art Dalzell, Sanlee and Dick Blair.

Other double winners were the Jayhawkers' Blair, who rolled to victory as expected in the 100 and 220, and Charley Butt, California muscle man who captured the shot put and discus.

A sun-splashed crowd of about 13,000 did all it could to root Sanlee home to the miraculous four-minute mile but the tall man with the short strides wasn't able to pull it off.

Ailing Babe Takes 3-Stroke Lead In Colonial Open

NEW ORLEANS, April 10 — UP— Babe Zaharias, playing with a splitting headache, broke her favorite iron on a mulberry tree Saturday but ground out a three-under-par 36 on the back nine to take a three-stroke lead in the 35,000 Colonial Open.

"I'm dead tired and I don't know how I made it today," the Babe said after the grueling 18 holes on Colonial's tree-lined course. "The days are telling on me and I'm not playing too good."

But the Babe, who toyed recently with the idea of retiring, bore down with rocklike determination for a 74 and a total of 222 to lead Louis Suggs by three.

Miss Suggs, leading money winner on the current tour, smashed a 71 to pull from a tie for fourth into second place with a total of 225.

Betty Jameson of San Antonio, who held a two-stroke lead over Suggs before play began Saturday, surged to a five-over 42 on the first nine before settling down to a two-under 36 for a total of 226 and third place.

The Babe, obviously weary from the intense strain of the last three days, missed four tee shots on the 13th hole and then wound up behind the mulberry tree.

"I had to hit the tree to get out," Mrs. Zaharias said ruefully. "It was impossible. The bushes were in my face and I could hardly see. I shot and broke the club. It was my favorite 3-iron."

However, the Babe never lost her composure and nonchalantly smashed a series from the tree with the splintered wreck of the club in her hand.

Pretty, blonde Marlene Bauer, the 20-year-old "baby" of the tournament, hammered out a 37-40 to wind up with a total of 227 and fourth place. Miss Bauer, third Friday, might have done better but shot a seven on the part-5 13th and two-putted No. 11.

The final 18 holes of the 72-hole tournament will be played Sunday.

Aggies Win 3-Way Meel

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., April 10 — UP—The Texas Aggies finally defeated the University of Texas Longhorns at track this season — by one and one-half points Saturday in a three-way meet with Rice.

The Aggies, with "Bobby Gross" winning his usual two events of shot put and discus, totaled 72 1/2 points to 71 for the Longhorns, and 2-1-2 for Rice.

Harley Hartung of A&M shared high point honors with Gross. Hartung won both hurdles, taking the highs in 14.5 seconds, and the lows in 23.8 seconds.

The mile relay didn't decide the meet as was expected. The prolonged discus event proved the deciding factor.

Texas led A&M by 2 1/2 points after winning the mile relay. Gross' discus victory gave the Aggies the meet.

Dean Smith, ex Longhorn sprinter, turned in a 9.4 second effort in the hundred yard dash, and anchored the 400 yard relay team that ran the distance in 41.1 seconds. Three times clocked Smith at 9.3 seconds.

Charley Thomas, the other top Texas dash man, covered the 220 yard dash in 20.6 seconds.

In the freshmen division, the Rice Owlets took first with 35 points. Texas was second with 33 points, and the A&M Fish followed with 35.

Sonny Pucek led the Owlets by winning the 800-yard run and the broad jump, and running a leg on the winning mile relay team.

Movie Pioneer Dies

LYON, France, April 10 — UP—Auguste M. Lumiere, Europe's first movie producer and co-inventor of a pioneer device for taking motion pictures, died Saturday at home here. A short illness brought death to the 81-year-old scientist who put on the first public movie in Europe and invited slapstick comedy.

Shamrock thus will represent the district in the regional meet at Lubbock April 25-24.

Following are the scores of the meet:

Shamrock — Holmes 85-83-182; Brock, Barkley 87-86-177; Billy Ryan 88-86-184 (medallist); and Richard Cook 83-81-174.

Red Dockers Walk Out

SYDNEY, Australia, April 10 — UP— Australian soldiers Saturday loaded bombs and ammunition aboard a freighter bound for Indochina, replacing Communist-led dock workers who walked out of the job. Despite their inexperience, the 50 servicemen were said to have loaded twice the amount of cargo in a four-hour shift than the same number of stevedores did previously.

Newspaper Closed
MONTVIDEO, Uruguay, April 10 — UP— Authorities here have closed the newspaper La Escoba and arrested 30 persons in a crack down on a pro-Argentine revolutionary movement. The government invoked a 14-year-old law forbidding "illicit foreign associations" — designed originally to curb pro-Axis propaganda here — as authority for its action.

RECORD BREAKER — Jon Cantrell, above, of the Pampa Harvesters, made his best showing of the season in the shot put event yesterday and he couldn't have picked a better time to do it because he set a new record in the District 1-AA track and field meet at Canyon. Cantrell tossed the iron ball 51' 9 1/2" to better the old record by more than three feet. Cantrell will represent the Harvesters at the regional meet in Lubbock, April 25-24. Another Harvester, Ed Strickland, also qualified for the regional in the shot put. Strickland placed second in yesterday's 1-AA meet. (News Photo)

PERKINS PITCHES — Raymond Velasquez, Harvesters pitcher, pitched a perfect game for the Harvesters in the first game of a double header against Plainview at Oiler park here Saturday.

HURLS FIRST WIN — When the Pampa Harvesters won their first baseball game of the year here Saturday, John Perkins, right-hander on Deck Woldt's mound staff, played a big part in the 9-1 triumph over the Plainview Bulldogs. Perkins set the Bulldogs down with only four hits. (News Photo)

TEXAS WHAMS Frogs, 13-3

AUSTIN, April 10—UP—The Texas Longhorn baseball team, playing one of its sharpest games this season, stormed into the Southwest Conference lead Saturday with a 13-3 victory over Texas Christian.

The Red Sox are interesting, but as Manager F. Chand of the Falls Hoosier states, they're still not going to beat the Yankees with boys.

The Phillies have only the two big pitchers and but one accomplished infielder. Granny Hamner, Birdie Tebbetts, widies the Cincinnati pitcher could throw as hard as Ted Kluszewski hits.

Optimistic Over Abilene B-Sox Title Chances In '54 WT-NM Race

New Blue Sox Pilot Keeps Team In Loop

(First in a series of West Texas-New Mexico League prospects for the 1954 season.)

By JACK HOLDEN
Abilene Reporter-News Sports Editor

ABILENE, April 10 — After months of organizing and beating the bushes for operating funds, the Abilene Blue Sox are ready to open the season they weren't even sure they'd participate in last fall.

Now, with a new manager and at least a small reservoir of cash with which to open the season, things are looking up for the team which not only finished eighth last year but which won only 43 games.

Manager Jay Haney considered one of the shrewder managers produced in the West-Texas-New Mexico league, is at the reins for the '54 season. Abilene owes Haney a vote of thanks. Without his efforts, there might be no baseball here.

Last fall, facing debts of more than $10,000, the 1953 operators were trying to sell the club to just anybody willing to gamble or Abilene's reputation for being a sound baseball field. Haney appeared at the finishing line successful in Midland which carried him into the Longhorn League playoffs.

Singlehandedly almost, Haney organized his forces, set out to pay $15,000 for the Blue Sox franchise and accumulated $10,000 for operating capital. He did the job. The Sox are now operated by a corporation which boasts several hundred stockholders, a community project.

Already baseball interest is picking up. On two consecutive Sundays before the exhibition schedule opened 1,000 or more people turned up at the ball park to watch the team work out.

Haney, who has never fielded a second-division club in his ten years of management, is optimistic over the chances of this year's Abilene team.

"We've got to produce good baseball this year or else," is his stand.

He has staked his reputation on being able to keep baseball in Abilene. He moved his family here and announced he was here "until they run me out."

"I'd like to settle down in Abilene," he said.

As for material, Haney has two proven veterans who form the backbone of his team. Both Art Bowland, leading hitter most of the year, and Glenn Burns, home run wizard, were Longhorn League stars last season.

Bowland, entering his third year of baseball with Abilene, although interrupted on several occasions, closed a sound '53 with Haney's club in the '54. But Bowland's leadoff hitting hickory-wielding percentage hovered near the 350 mark.

Burns, 38-homer, product of the San Angelo Colts, is also no new comer to the WT-NM. He was a leading slugger for Haney's 1951 Lamasa team.

With Bowland catching and Burns to shore up the outfield, Haney will add a veteran pitcher to his staff to round out the three spots allowed by league fathers this year.

The third man was a question mark as the Blue Sox entered their exhibition slate. The perennial Herb Damico signed but was released midway in the spring training sessions. Bill on hand were Mike Gasella, hard-luck chucker of the diemal '53 version, and Oliviero Ortiz, right-handed 5-5 winner on Roosevelt's team last summer.

If exhibitions show that neither will do, Haney will probably turn to the Brooklyn organization which has promised help.

Haney is counting on two limited service moundsmen as regulars, plus a rookie or two.

Both limited service men were Longhorn Leaguers last season. Juan del Toro (9-12) and Orlando Torres (10-4), both of Roosevelt. An Abilene boy, Tom O'Bar, comes with the limited service roster. O'Bar has been out of baseball two years, but spent part of 1953 with the St. Louis Cardinal farm club at Albany, Ga.

Two returning rookies, Loba Gibson, big right-handed 10-12, and left-hander, Peta Meyers (9-9), round out the twirling corps at present. Meyers was shipped to Middletown, Ky. in June where he won four and lost three, which is developing a sore arm and quit in July. He shows signs of arm trouble again this year and is a doubtful starter.

A strong infield, especially in the double play spots, shapes up. A Cuban Negro rookie, Bernardo (Rabbit) Martinez, has shown up so well that Haney has him tagged as a possible big leaguer. At second will be Manny Perez, Texas City infielder last year (hit .323) while the third base job is a hot contact between three rookies, Hal Niemeyer, Gene Stogner, and Joe Ellison.

Stogner is an El Paso semi-product while Niemeyer spent a time with Abilene and Lubbock. The other Cuban who hit .397 and batted in 106 runs) looms as an almost sure bet for the right garden.

Another limited service prospect, Osmond Walker from Roosevelt, has been looking great all fall. He's another Cuban who batted .363 for the P-keets. His competition comes from Rookie Waldon Moore of Lamasa, a 17-year-old who in Haney terms "the best he's ever seen for one so young," and another rookie, Pantan Slaughter of El Paso.

Haney may break his record of never having finished out the top four, but to Abileneans there's

'Look Out For NL In '54,' Giles Wails

By WARREN C. GILES
President of National League
Written for the United Press
CINCINNATI, April 10 — It might be more appropriate to title these observations "look out for the National League in 1954" rather than "look out for the National League."

That is just another way of saying I look forward to an exciting banner year for our league in its 75th playing season.

There is real justification for anticipating improved play and closer race this year.

Returning GPs will help all our clubs and will be an important factor since every team will be strengthened by one of more players returning from the service. In addition, National League training camps housed more good-looking young ball players this spring than I've ever seen.

Winter deals by Milwaukee, last year's runner-up and the Cardinals' acquisition of Vic Raschi will make stiffer competitors of those club and tighten the race accordingly.

The addition of Murry Dickson and Bobby Morgan gives the Philadelphia help where they need it while the return of Willie Mays and the addition of pitching strength in Johnny Antonelli and Don Liddle will strengthen the Giants considerably.

The champion Dodgers will be the team to beat even with the return of a great pitcher like Don Newcombe, they will find the going a bit tougher.

The Reds and Pirates appear to be much improved.

I predict with confidence that the 1954 pennant winner will not win 100 games and the last place club will not lose 100. (Last year Brooklyn won 106 and Pittsburgh lost 104.)

The tremendous enthusiasm generated by the Braves' fans last year will continue to have a pronounced effect. With a club that figures to be in the race all the way and the added seating capacity at Milwaukee County Stadium, it is not unreasonable to expect Milwaukee to reach the two million mark in attendance.

With St. Louis operating as a single-city club for the first time in more than 50 years, the vast remodeling job which has made Busch Stadium practically a new ball park and a club which will be a real crowd pleaser, the Cardinals should enjoy a great year attendance-wise.

With all these encouraging factors, I can't be anything but optimistic.

The Rise of the American League and the World Series

After the formation of the National League rival associations were formed with varying success. The original St. Louis Browns was a dominant member of these struggling organizations, and later the Philadelphia Athletics and Baltimore Orioles were front runners.

The first Detroit club dates from 1881 and Brooklyn under President Ebbets this name still traces the Dodgers park) began play in 1890. The American League as we know it today was formed in 1900 and made rapid strides under the aggressive leadership of its forceful president, Ban H. Johnson. Its original membership included Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Buffalo, and Baltimore. In 1902 St. Louis took the place of Milwaukee and New York replaced Baltimore. Other changes in 1903 gave the league the same name as that which continuously unfolded its shift of the Browns to Baltimore, last fall. Also in 1903 the first Detroit Series was played between the winners of the two major circuits. It was won 5 games to 3 by the Boston Red Sox, who made a great comeback after losing three of the first four games. The perfect Hans Wagner of the Pittsburgh Pirates collected only six hits in the eight games as Cy Young and Bill Dineen handled all the pitching duties for Boston except three innings of the second game.

The world series was played in 1904 and a new set of seven called out for best four out of seven was drawn up in 1905. This 1905 series was a memorable affair, all the games being pitched by Walter Johnson of the Senators and Babe Ruth of the Yankees. Johnson hurled three of these, Joe McGinty, one and Bender of the lone victory for the Athletics of Philadelphia. It was the first of nine series played between the major managers of the Giants and the first of eight for Connie Mack, illustrious leader of the A's and active though retired today, at the age of 67.

Youngsters, New Club Up AL '54 Stock

By WILL HARRIDGE
President of the American League
Written for United Press
CHICAGO, April 10 — The entrance of a new club into the plus the fine potentialities of one of the best group of young players to come up in many years, add up to what I believe will be a great season for the American League in 1954.

There is no question in my mind but that the Orioles, back in the league after more than a half century and backed by a group of Baltimore people who have demonstrated in their city, will spark interest in our game throughout the league, particularly after the fine showing the club made during the spring exhibition games.

Fans always are interested in new faces, and the American League pennant race opening Tuesday will disclose newcomers in regular positions on virtually every club. Many surprise first year men such as Tom Brewer and Bob Aggrains of Boston, Rudy Regalado of Cleveland, Bill Skowron and Bob Grim of New York and Tom Flanagan of Chicago, youngsters who were not on those clubs' rosters at the opening of the spring campaign, appear likely to have "work jobs" as the race opens.

Numerous other rookies, better known through their 1953 minor league performances, undoubtedly will strengthen every club in the circuit. Among such whose show has drawn attention are pitchers Jack Harshman and Don Johnson of Chicago, outfielders Vic Fulle of Detroit, pitchers Billy Stewart and Dean Stone of Washington, and pitcher Joseho Field of Baltimore, to mention but a few. I feel it is no overstatement to say that our league will have better balance than it has had in several years; investing the possibility of a close race rivaling the many great pennant battles the league has had in recent years, when several went down to the final day of the season.

Advance sales of tickets, both opening day and for the season, have been excellent, with one club reporting record breaking figures. Those reports, plus the fact that crowds were generally large throughout the spring exhibition season, indicates a high interest in baseball as the league opens its '54 season. It will be, I am confident, an outstandingly successful one.

Ford Frick Is Enthused Over 1954 Outlook

By FORD C. FRICK
Commissioner of Baseball
Written for the United Press
NEW YORK, April 10 — UP — Those of us in baseball approach this 1954 season with more confidence and enthusiasm.

There are a number of signs which portend that this may be one of our better years. We are entering our hopes for a great upsurge in attendance, such as that which followed World War II, when attendances in the major leagues and the minor leagues reached an all time high.

But we are hopeful last year's major league figure of about 14 million will be improved upon this year. For one thing, you have the new interest in Baltimore, which is returning as a member of the American League. The advance sale in Baltimore has been beyond expectations and there isn't any question that Baltimore will repeat what happened in Milwaukee last year. The Braves were shifted to that Wisconsin city.

There are indications that the folks again are turning to baseball for their relaxation. You are convinced of this from the crowds which have attended exhibition games this spring, particularly since the clubs left their training bases. It has been some time since we noticed so many crowds of more than 10,000 at exhibition games.

One of the reasons for this has been the renewed interest in the return of some of the star players who had been in the Armed Services, completed their time with Uncle Sam and are back to resume their baseball activities. While it is true that every year the game has had its share of returnees from the Armed Services, this year seems to have more key players rejoining their teams than in any season since the end of World War II.

We have noted also a fine spirit among the clubs, and this is not only typical of major league teams, but also those in the minor leagues. Many of the minor league presidents with whom I talked recently in Florida also commented on this spirit among players and were very optimistic concerning their respective pennants. Every one, whether in baseball's front offices or on the playing field, impresses with his hustling. Optimism certainly reigns supreme now.

Of course, there are still problems. Some of our difficulties were eased by the decision of the Supreme Court, and by the recent decision of the United States District court in San Francisco. In the latter case the court recognized that a club has full right to control the broadcast of all their games both while the games were being played and at subsequent times. This is significant.

But while these decisions do not solve all our problems we have dedicated all our efforts not only to the solution of all problems but, most important of all, to the providing of the best baseball possible to the public at all times.

All Major League Managers Predict 1st Division Finishes

There is likely to be a housing problem in the first division of the major league pennant races this season, because virtually all of the managers are convinced their teams are good enough to finish fourth or higher.

However, in the annual United Press pre-season statements by the managers, none was so bold as to pick his team to win the pennant. Nor, of course, did anybody forecast a last place finish for his warriors.

Herewith are their latest remarks as the teams await the start of the 1954 campaign next Tuesday:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Casey Stengel, Yankees
"The factor of complacency which has appeared in the Yankees news is not as likely to beat us this year as it was in 1952 and 1953. A year ago I warned my club that the only outfit that could beat them was the New York Yankees. I do have to tell my men that now they are eager and they will be careful."

Al Lopez, Indians
"We will finish no worse than second and will give the Yankees a better fight than we did last year. The Yankees are bound to be weaker because of the loss of Billy Martin, Vic Raschi, and Johnny Mize. The Indians are bound to be stronger because of Dave Philley, and pitchers Don Mossi and Dick Tomaneck and infielder Rudy Regalado. Hal Newhouse, also should help."

Paul Richards, White Sox
"I'm only interested in finishing on top. They don't pay off for finishing second. I don't say we will win it, but I think we're a better ball club than last year because of our pitching and enough. I think in Billy Pierce and Virgil Trucks we have the best one-two, left-right pitching punch in the business."

Lou Boudreau, Red Sox
"I still say we have a chance this season. Losing Ted Williams hurt, of course, but I still feel we are stronger than a year ago. We have a fine outfield in Jim Pier-sall, Jack Jensen, Bill Goodman, Karl Olson and Williams when he returns. Our bench is stronger and our younger players have the experience now."

Bucky Harris, Senators
"We have a sound club, tailored to win in our home park and who knows if we get hot there we may keep our momentum on the road. We have good pitching and enough hitting to tie the reins in the outfield in Jim Busby and Tom Ump-hrett. The Yankees may not have the pitching they've had in other years."

Fred Hutchinson, Tigers
"The tough clubs last year seem as tough again — if not more so. I believe the Tigers have improved. We'll have more team speed and a stronger bench but we still have quite a way to go in our rebuilding program. The Yankees are the team to beat. Look for the White Sox and Indians to crowd them with the Red Sox fighting for fourth."

Eddie Joost, Athletics
"We're not building for the future. My future is right now in 1954. I like our rookies and I'm optimistic as hell. Everything looks wonderful right now but of course we won't know until we've played a few games. If Bobby Shantz can continue to pitch like he did in exhibition games, we can be pretty tough."

Jimmy Dykes, Orioles
"Pitching is our question mark but if Bob Turley and Don Larsen, two of the fastest in the league, come around to help Joe Coleman, Maurine Pillette, Vern Bickford, and Marlin Stuart, Baltimore could finish atop the second division and make a lot of trouble for the leaders."

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Walter Alton, Dodgers
"I have to refuse any comment or prediction. I don't know the league well enough to make any statement."

Bartley Grimm, Braves
"We definitely have a first division club and once you have that it doesn't take too much to go all the way. But it isn't Brooklyn we have to beat, although you have to tab them the toughest. The Cards will be tough and so will the Phillies. They were right up there until they ran into injuries last season. The whole league has been strengthened. I think we helped the one, think we have a 50-50 chance of getting that good pitching. Our hitting and fielding will, I'm sure, compare with the best in the league."

Fred Haney, Pirates
"The Pirates will be much improved over 1953 and we'll be more respectable also. I have a high regard for some of the rookies we're taking into the race but I feel they can carry the load. I have seen only a couple of the National League teams and I can't hazard a guess where the Pirates will finish."

Stan Hack, Cubs
"I haven't been with the Cubs long but I can't see anything seriously wrong with the team. The pitching definitely is better the last week or so. Bob Talbot is great defensively in center and Ernie Banks and Gene Baker are red-hot around the middle of the infield. We're going to win every game we can — and we can win a lot more than most people think."

Three More Join Race
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 10 — UP — The addition of Fred Aggrains, Walt Faulkner and Manuel Ayulo brought the list of entries to have one of the National League's 500-mile Indianapolis motor races on Saturday for the 38th running of better teams—this year and I, for speedway race.

RESULT OF 'I'M FIRSTISM' — Above is shown a Pampa automobile which crashed into a tree this week. The driver stated that a truck, failing to yield the right of way, forced her to swerve and hit the tree. Luckily, no one was injured. Of the 291 accidents in Pampa in 1953, 124 were caused by "I'm firstism." The new Pampa safety commission hopes to destroy this "ism" and other causes of accidents by trying to make Pampans as fety conscious. (News Photo)

Key To Majority Of Traffic Accidents Is 'I'm Firstism'

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Staff Writer

What can be termed "I'm firstism" is responsible for a great many accidents in Pampa, according to Police Chief Jim Conner. Translated it means "failure to grant the right of way."

Recently, through the effort of a local radio station, Pampa civic clubs and organizations appointed delegates to form a traffic safety commission. Working hand in hand with this group are city and county officials. But no efforts of such a group or of law enforcement officers can be effective unless Pampans strive to be more careful drivers and pedestrians.

During 1953, four persons died in Pampa as the result of traffic accidents. Only one was a "non-pedestrian" accident. Fifty other persons were injured. All resulted from a total of 291 accidents, 126 of which occurred at intersections due to "I'm firstism." Estimated property damage from accidents was $72,671.

Most of the accidents occurred during the late afternoon and early evening, and at noon, when people rush to get home, and in the above cases, only to be delayed an hour or so by an accident.

Statistically, 83 per cent of accidents are due to traffic violations, Chief Conner stated. And he thinks this figure is "conservative." Chief Conner believes the main step toward making Pampa a safer place is to get people to realize the damage incurred and lives lost by accidents. He also pointed out that many Pampa pedestrians are careless about jaywalking and crossing streets against the light. "If we didn't have pretty good drivers, we'd have more pedestrian accidents," he stated.

Three major drivers faults have been listed by safety foundations. They are insufficient knowledge of driving laws and ordinances, and of good driving practices; carelessness, inattention, fatigue and drinking; or a few who deliberately overlook rules, signs, and signals. All in all it boils down to the fact that most drivers don't drive as carefully as they should — and most pedestrians don't walk as carefully as they should.

On speaking of pedestrians, Chief Conner pointed out that 150 pounds of flesh doesn't have much chance when it tangles with a couple of tons of steel.

Pampa's newly formed traffic safety commission, composed of volunteers, has chosen making Pampans safety conscious as its first project. As shown by the figures on Pampa accidents last year, most could have been avoided by drivers obeying traffic laws — and by alert pedestrians.

"It is my understanding that the commission will eventually go into safety in every phase of life, such as the school and home," advised Aubrey Jones, commission vice-chairman. "Laws and regulations may come out of this (the commission), but right now we want to get Pampans thinking safety."

Brig. Gen. John L. Thompson of Houston, senior commander of the troops to train at Fort Sill this summer, will meet the Pampa group there and direct the session. The local unit's camp period is slated for Aug. 15-25.

Teenagers have a special safety problem. Listed by safety organizations as age characteristics of this group detrimental to good driving is too much energy, inability to resist distractions, and a tendency to "show off."

However, in Pampa, the teenagers themselves are making an effort to develop good driving habits through their high school student council. The week of April 18 a special "roadshow" is being planned, sponsored by Pampa JayCees, which will emphasize teenage safe driving practices. The program will include written tests and a driving contest. The traffic safety commission's interest in this age group's problem is shown by its having two members.

Members of the commission and the clubs they represent include Jim Wilkerson and Carroll Wood, Rotary; E. L. Henderson and Aubrey Jones, Kiwanis; C. C. Henry and Erwin Thompson, Lions; Raymond Hall and Jesse Simmons, JayCees; Jack Vaughn and Bill Fannon, Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. W. L. Boosa and Mrs. L. N. Alchison, PTA; James Phippen and John Teed, high school; W. A. Gibson and Dr. Nicholas Kadingo, Optimist.

Political Wars Start Anew Tuesday In Illinois Primary

By TOM NELSON
CHICAGO, April 10—UP—Illinois voters will touch off the 1954 political wars Tuesday with the nation's first primary election.

Two free-swinging battles highlight the primary:

1. A Republican donnybrook for the nomination to oppose Democratic U. S. Sen. Paul H. Douglas in November.
2. A serious challenge to the political life of Rep. Harold H. Velde, controversial chairman of the House Un-American Activities committee.

Aides of Velde have charged that "Communist party" members and left-wingers have brought in men and money in an attempt to beat him.

Douglas is unopposed on the Democratic ballot for nomination to his second term, but the GOP field is cluttered with an all-time record of nine candidates.

A Variety of Candidates

The GOP ticket includes such diverse individuals as a former lobbyist, a blind man, a press agent, a man who made "America First" a legal part of his name, and one of the few modern-day politicians who can boast he was born in a log cabin.

Gov. William G. Stratton and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the top two state GOP leaders, both have professed strict neutrality in the Senate race. So while most crystal ball-gazers agree on two or three leading candidates, no clearcut favorite has been established.

Only one of the nine has ever held a statewide elective office—Park Livingston, a member of the University of Illinois board of trustees who was born in a log cabin.

Other candidates likely to be front-runners are Joseph T. Meek, president of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations; Edward A. Hayes, former national commander of the American Legion; Austin L. Wyman, former president of the Chicago Crime Commission, and Julius Klein, a national guard brigadier general and public relations man.

Little-known across the state and rated as dark horses, are economist John B. Crane, Lar (America First) Daley, former Lions International President Edgar M. Elbert, and blind Chicago Alderman Herbert F. Geisler.

All Congressmen Running

All 25 Illinois congressmen are running for renomination, only 10 of them facing opposition in the primary Tuesday. Velde's battle is drawing the most attention.

Robert M. Michel, an aide to Velde, has charged that "Communist party functionaries, left wing socialists and the CIO's labor bosses" are sending in "men and money" to help beat Velde.

Michel says that Velde "is the choice" of the Eisenhower administration.

Winner of the race will face Howard S. Beesey, Peoria, in the November general election. Beesey, Peoria county Democratic chairman, is unopposed in his party's primary election.

Pampa Square Dancers

THE CALL OF "DO-SI-DO AND A LITTLE MORE DO" echoes from recreation halls and square dance clubs throughout the nation these days. More and more people, young and old, are turning to this type of dancing for fun and exercise.

Although not formerly known by the same name, square dancing has lived through the ages. The royal courts of old were famous for their "reels" or "quadrilles." As the West settled, square dancing became more and more a part of every day life. New steps have been added to the square dance from the native folk dances of all nations. Impetus has been given the movement by many callers and leaders, including the late Henry Ford. The National Square Dance Festival, held last week in Dallas, was the third National Festival to be held in America and marked a milestone in American folk dancing.

There are estimated to be at least six square dancing clubs in Pampa. Do-Si-Do, organized in 1933, is the oldest. The only couple still active in Do-Si-Do throughout twenty years of existence is Mr. and Mrs. Bill Heske. Other clubs are The Calico, Texas Star, Circle Four, Heel and Toe, and Circle Eight. Pampa and White Deer clubs have combined efforts to obtain a "slab" in Hobart Street Park for summer dances.

Square dancing is an entertainment enjoyed by the whole family down to the littlest ones. As shown in the pictures below, it provides an opportunity to dress in one's gayest western clothes and full cotton skirts.

AS I WAS SAYING last Sunday when I so rudely ran out of space, I hope lots of you did make it to the reception given by Beta Sigma Phi for our 1954 Woman of the Year, Mrs. Jack Foster. The tribute paid her by Dr. Emily Hicks was inspiring to all who heard it, and from the bits of chatter afterwards, everyone was awed by Adrienne's energy and achievements. Saw a few gents scattered among the audience—Bravo to you, Mr. Mack Hiatt, Mr. Johnny Campbell and Mr. Fletcher Robertson. Some of the flowers go to Jack for his faithful interest and cooperation in the little wife's many civic activities!

THE ALLEGRO STUDY CLUB held its annual guest-day tea last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Evans, 2100 Charles Street. This attractive Dutch Colonial home is one of the more recent additions to our city, and I was pleased to get to see the interior.

JULIE BRADLEY HAS A BABY BROTHER who was born in Boston on March 22. The exuberant parents, John and Jane, write that they can't tell about his looks as yet, but he has good lungs, and they have hopes that he'll make the first team for the football Harvesters.

TOOK A LOOK AROUND TOWN the other day and frankly I was disturbed by the vast mounds of paper and trash on the streets, in the yards, and stacked up in the hedge and fences. Let's face it, this situation is caused by the uncovered garbage containers which are consistently knocked over each night by dogs looking for a free hand-out. Unfortunately, the canine species aren't trained to put back what they don't want, and lady wind manages to distribute the remaining all over town. A human falling is not to notice the dirt in our own back yard, but I have had several out-of-town visitors ask why we had it, and where it came from? Seems like a good project for some of our clubs to put their teeth into. . . What about it?

AT THE JAYCEES MEETING last Tuesday night, Joe Fischer told the members about some of the past projects of the club, and suggested they sponsor a beauty contest from the local level on through the state and national competitions. From what I've observed, there's lots of material to choose from, and would be a good opportunity to show the world that the Top o' Texas produces pretty girls as well as oil and wheat.

HEARD A COUPLE OF TIPS this week that I found useful, and might be an aid to you other queens of the domicile. Here they are: short, sweet, and unrelated: (1) Use a dry cloth instead of a damp one to wipe the clothesline. This will limit those tell-tale black marks to a minimum. (2) Use the juice from pickled onions (some of the little onions too) for making a yummy dressing for tossed salads—gives just the right tang!

MARGARET HOLT AND CHRISTINE SCHNEIDER are promoting a teen-age program for the Country Club. Peg would like to add her seal of approval to this idea and see something done in the way of planned entertainment for these deserving kids.

WAY OUT ON CHRISTINE STREET must be a pretty popular spot these days. The George Snells, the Roy Webbs and the Joe Blacks are all proud property owners and are diligently pouring over house plans! Come summer, and I'll bet there'll be lots of activity out thataway.

MAYOR TOM ROSE AND FAMILY are down in the deep Southland soaking up some delightful spring sunshine. I understand their itinerary includes a stop off in Charlotte, N. C., to see ex-Pampans Bob and Gertie Clark. Wish I could have stowed away in the trunk.

THERE'S A SALUTE to the courteous, qualified and understanding salespeople to be found in our local stores. Without exception, I've found their services to be a pleasant experience. A fact which I could not with sincere honesty pass on to any other community in which I have shopped. Thank you kind souls for the many times you've waited patiently while I tried to put my two brain cells together and decide.

WE CAN ALL REMEMBER the day when denim was way down at the bottom of the social ladder for fabrics. It's almost a Cinderella story to see the marvelous transformation the textile manufacturers have made of this once work-day material. Just the other day I had to fight back the temptation to buy a piece of each of the many beautiful colors—there are even stripe and solid combinations that re-use the old imagination to run wild for dreamy summer ensembles.

A LOUD APPLAUSE GOES to Jim Tripplehorn for his masterful interpretation of the South American dances. They tell me he does the meanest Tango of any of the students of the Latin dances!!

COULDN'T HAPPEN TO A BETTER PERSON . . . the good fortune, that is, of Claudine Vall in having plans work out for her to accompany her engineer husband, Bob, to England and Germany some time in the very near future. Must be soon for they are both sporting successful takes on their vaccination shots. We here at home will be expecting and looking forward to a detailed account from you two!

BLOSSOMS ARE GROWING out of bird cages these days . . . I saw some, truly I did, at the coffee last Thursday morning that the Presbyterian ladies gave in honor of their visitors who are here representing eighteen churches in this area. Mrs. Fred Curtis had all the ladies buzzing with admiration over her new hair-do and that very swish hat from Dallas, Loreta Wilkerson was right in keeping with the decor in her authentic Mexican blouse.

GOT A SECRET LOVE for the fabulous jewelry made by Mrs. Mona Pierce (the mother of our own Judy Russell). A number of her pieces are on an exhibition tour right now, but she has promised to let us have a look-see sometime next week. Better hide my pocketbook! ! !

LOVE THAT BRIDGE and all the chitter-chatter that goes with it. Mary Blundell and Ruth Goodwyn entertained their card-loving friends on Thursday and Friday. When I saw all those super prizes, I didn't quite win I wished they had asked me both times so I'd have had another chance. Just selfish I guess! ! !

WE GALS ARE PAST MASTERS with the small talk. A point which was very well established when Doris Rhinehart entertained her bridge club and set up a tape recorder. The poor unsuspecting guests howled when they heard a play back of the afternoon session.

THE PARENT EDUCATION CLUB is planning a buffet supper and treasure hunt to entertain the husbands sometime this month. Do you recall the treasure hunt at the Country Club a few years back which was so much fun? Seems like Sandy and Ed Williams were the victorious couple on that occasion.

One more week 'til Easter, you know. Better get your shoes shined. See you then.

Rev. Edwin Hall Speaks At Woodrow Wilson PTA Meeting

Reverend Edwin Hall of St. Paul's Methodist Church spoke on "Spiritual and Moral Training," at the general meeting of Woodrow Wilson Parent-Teachers Association recently in the school auditorium. He was introduced by Mrs. R. A. Mack, program chairman. Miss Pearl Spang gave a devotional on the same subject. The audience was reminded that April is Cancer Crusade month. The study club chairman announced that 13 had completed the home course; 13 the decorating course and two the nursing course. Mrs. Jewel Evan's fourth grade room won first in the attendance count; Mrs. Odessa Steddum's fifth grade, second; and Mrs. Alice Swann's sixth grade was third. The school band, under the direction of Mr. Charles Meech, gave a concert of four numbers. The executive board met in the principal's office prior to the general meeting with Mrs. L. L. Millen, president, in charge. The association agreed to pay the registration fee for 20 voting delegates to the district conference. Mrs. R. A. Mack gave the City Council report and it was announced that the parliamentary procedure course would be held from nine till eleven April 12-15 in the City Library instead of the dates previously announced.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Lucas of Carlsbad, New Mexico, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to Harold D. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Mitchell, 1529 Williston. Miss Lucas was graduated from Carlsbad schools and attended Texas State College for Women at Denton. She is a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, Mother Advisor of the Rainbow Girls in Carlsbad and a member of the Pilots Club. Miss Lucas represented Carlsbad as Sun Princess in the Sun Carnival held in El Paso. The prospective bridegroom, a graduate of Pampa High School, was graduated from Texas Technological College in Lubbock. He served three years in the Navy and is now employed as an architect in Carlsbad.

Spiritual And Moral Training Is Discussed At B. M. Baker PTA Meeting

"For Every Child, Spiritual and Moral Training," was the topic of Reverend Carroll Ray's talk Thursday at the B. M. Baker Parent-Teachers Association meeting in the school auditorium. Rev. Ray used the scripture reading "Bring up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." The problem of children who do not have proper spiritual and moral training, he said, "poses a real problem to themselves and others." It is too late to start when they are teenagers. A child is not naturally moral and spiritual but are entitled to these qualities and must be trained to achieve them. This is necessary not only to cope with life but to protect society. It is the duty of the parents to provide this training, not that of the community, although a "right community can help. If we are going to give our children moral and spiritual training we must lead them and influence them and serve as good examples. He concluded "Moral and religious training go hand in hand."

Musical selections were given by Junior High students who are former Baker students. Jimmy Goff gave a flute solo, "The Whirlwind," by Krantz, accompanied by the piano by Donald Bruhs. Bob Jernigan gave a cornet solo, "The Marigold Polka," by Cook accompanied by James Byars at the piano, who also played a saxophone solo, "Villa," by Lear. He was accompanied by Bob Jernigan. High School students who took part in the entertainment were Avanelle Hoggsett, Jimmy Henson, Robert Perkins and Robert Clements, who played a clarinet quartette, "Lock Lomand." A business meeting followed during which eight certificates were awarded to those completing 20 hours of the PTA textile painting course. Twenty-eight Baker PTA members have completed the procedure course; ten, first aid; two, interior decorating; and five home nursing.

One of my readers writes: "The other day I picked up a group of teen-age girls who had been to an after-school meeting and delivered them to their homes. Two of the girls, whose neat, new-looking homes happened to be smaller than the homes of the other girls, made disparaging remarks about their houses when they pointed them out. "One said: 'That's my house there—that little shack with the green roof.' The other said: 'I live in that house with the horrible red paint.' "Both girls were being flippant to cover up embarrassment for the fact that their houses weren't quite as fine as the ones the other girls lived in. "I couldn't help but wonder what the parents of those girls have done to make them feel ashamed of their homes." "Perhaps the parents have openly envied their friends and neighbors who have bigger houses and drive fancier cars. "Or they may have showed envy in other ways, such as always finding out and commenting on the cost of others' possessions. "Or maybe they have talked too much of what they wish they could afford. "They must have done something to make their children think that the biggest is always the best. "They must have neglected to instill a pride of home in their children—a pride based on the comforting fact that all the houses in the world one alone is home. "For a child's attitude toward his own home reflects his parents' attitude toward it. If the child thinks of it as just a house that is larger or smaller than someone else's house, it must be that he is living in a house, rather than in a home. "Just as children's physical characteristics and personalities vary widely, so do their capacities for eating. Some children eat very little and yet are quite healthy. Less play; they burn up less energy than their more active playmates. So don't urge Baby to eat more than he wants. This can be very upsetting to his nervous system. "Records show that castor oil was first used to complain children in Egypt as far back as 2000 B.C.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha Has Model Meeting, Plans Rush Season's Activities

Epsilon Sigma Alpha demonstrated a model meeting Thursday night in the City Club Rooms. Two of Jeanne Willingham's dance students, Susie Fillman and Annette Gildredge entertained with jumping rope tap routines following the business meeting. Miss Charlie Neal Young showed colored slides of her recent trip to Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi. Miss Young visited the Azalea Trail and toured the some thirty ancestral homes all of which are furnished in authentic period style. She showed the lush semi-tropical growth of that part of the country and slides of the French Quarter in New Orleans. Members completed plans for their rush season which included a breakfast this morning at the country club; a madhatter's party with Walter Reek, 1518 Williston and a formal presentation dance at the Country Club. Hostesses for the model meeting were Mrs. Charlie Robinson and Mrs. Bruce Parker. Attending were Mrs. Bill Ragdale, Bert Arney, Parks Brumley, Gwen Gray, Jack Samsel, Albert Doucette, Walter Reek and guests, Mmes. Louise Hooper, Oz Engal, Max Hickey and Jo Mefford.

Hair Pieces Eliminate Doubt When Women Decide To Change Hair Color

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

There is nothing better for any one's morale than a change. It may be in the form of a long vacation or just a week-end visit with friends.

Sometimes it takes the form of new clothes. Or different make-up. Or a new hair shade.

Most women have thought of changing the color of their hair at some time. Some lean to drastic changes; others, to subtle ones. But there are some who never get beyond thinking of it, because they fear a change, drastic or subtle, would be disappointing. To eliminate this guesswork, a leader in the hair-coloring field has just begun a "try on your hair color" service.

Should you be inclined to make a change now? All you need do is visit any of the beauty salons across the country that feature this service. You can be transformed from a pale blonde to a flaming redhead in minutes.

The quick change is effected with hair pieces made by Joseph Fleischer. Each is tinted to match exactly one of 12 popular hair shades.

When you have selected the shade that becomes you, you'll be able to undergo the transformation with enthusiasm instead of doubt.

According to the firm, its hair-coloring process is a very quick one. Once the shade is selected, it is mixed and applied to your hair. After the color has developed, the hair is rinsed and the "new you" is ready to face the mirror.

Mmes. Key, Jamieson Win High Prizes At Dessert-Bridge Parties

Mrs. Julian Key and Mrs. Victor Jamieson won high prizes at two consecutive dessert-bridge parties this week given by Mrs. S. A. Blundell and Mrs. R. C. Goodwyn at the Blundell home at 2017 Christine. A spring and Easter season motif was carried out with a bouquet of jonquils, daisies, stock and iris arranged in a straw hat. Broken colored egg shells were arranged at the base of the centerpiece. Second place winners at the two parties were Mrs. H. H. Hicks and Mrs. Don Cain. Mrs. Eben Warner and Mrs. Sam Malone were awarded prizes for bingo.

White Deer WMS Has Royal Service Meet

WHITE DEER — (Special) Both Circles of the Baptist Women's Missionary Society, of the White Deer Baptist Church met recently for a Royal Service program. Devotional readings were presented by Mrs. Sterling Bearden. Theme of the program was "Christian Service." Participating were Mmes. Bob Allen, Sterling Bearden, Clifton Kelly, Jay Phillips, G. A. Bell, W. B. Carey, Jessie M. Pearson, Ralph Higgins, Jack St. Clair, Franklin Hussey, and J. D. Edgar.

White Deer To Have Pre-School Round-up

WHITE DEER — (Special) Parents of pre-school children and some 20 beginning students, who will enter White Deer Elementary School next fall, will be guests of the first grade at a pre-school round-up, which has been slated for 1:30 p.m. Thursday. Following the program, which will be presented by first graders, kiddies will be treated to an Easter egg hunt.

School nurse, Dorothy Mac Murray, will discuss the organized health program that has been adopted by the White Deer system. Medical forms approved by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers will be given to each parent for her child. Parents are urged to have their family physicians fill the report and have it filed with the principal of grade school at the earliest convenience, thus eliminating the last minute rush. Pupils will not be enrolled without the completed blank.

By the time he is two, Baby will be able to form two-word sentences. From three to six, he'll add some 800 words a year to his vocabulary. To do so, a three-year old is never quiet more than four minutes at a time and asks more than 300 questions a day.

keeping her affection by continued submission is pretty unreasonable. Why then do we continue to submit? Probably because we cannot imagine being loved unless we do. So that when our child shows anger and defiance, it seems like the end of the world to us. And we react to our child's wrath with the identical helplessness and awe with which we reacted to adult wrath in our own childhoods. So let's relinquish our unreasonable and childish hope of insuring others' affection by submission. Instead, let adventurous courage rise up in us so that we can suddenly hear a new, free self cry out within us: "Why, I've had enough of this wallowing in affection! This child should be in bed, whether she loves me or hates me for taking her there. Because in bed is where she belongs at this time of night." Oh, I know that's not the conventional solution of the child guidance books. They'd suggest Helen's mother give her jealous child reassurance of love instead of physical action. I don't go for that counsel for frightened people. For I think that they are in no state to reassure anyone until they can reassure themselves.

Homemaker Success Tests Love Talent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Because of Myra's singing voice, her family called her "Lark." They bought her biographies of famous opera stars and sent her away to a very expensive conservatory for training. When she fell in love instead of graduating, their disappointment was intense. Her parents said, "What can you be thinking of to throw your genius away to keep house for this man?"

When Myra's baby was born, they were so pleased they forgot what they'd said. But Myra didn't forget. She began to develop chronic fatigue. At night, she would look at herself in the mirror, remembering how different she had looked as Gilda in the conservatory's production of "Rigoletto." Then, she'd go to bed and think, "What do I do to in to check Petey's bedcovers. (Then, she was too tired to do more than note with irritation that he'd been sucking his thumb again.)"

When Petey was five years old, his problems forced her to take him to a guidance clinic. There, a man whom she trusted and admired said casually to her one day, "If you don't want to sing at your club's concert, why do you?" It was a shattering question for Myra. The suggestion that she might not have to show off to keep approval threw all her previous values out of balance. But as she began to grope for new ones, she became aware of a secret overwhelming relief.

She began to seek ways to show her gratitude to the world which did not require her to continue impersonating a frustrated opera star. Freed from her compulsion to practice arias when Petey wanted attention, she freed Petey from his compulsion to demand it. By the end of another six months, Petey was sure enough of his mother's love to play by himself when she practiced her scales.

Dr. Karen Horney, a distinguished New York psychiatrist, writing in her book "Our Inner Conflicts": "A housewife will not do her work well if she secretly feels that it is unfair that, gifted as she is, she should be doing menial work. The prospect of doing something mediocre is so deterring that she prefers not to do it, but to perform magnificently in fantasy. Any kind of work under these conditions is bound to take more out of a person just as a car will suffer if it is driven with locked brakes." The Bible summarizes Dr. Horney's comments like this: "A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways."

If our homemaking tires us unduly, it is not impossible that we are operating on energies locked in indecision. If we feel that cooking, cleaning and marketing are beneath us, we should want to know why. If we properly appreciate our understanding of order, beauty and ease of spirit, we will appreciate all our expressions of them. We will not be envious and romantic about imaginary careers, but realize that all work includes routines as well as satisfactions.

We American women tend to romanticize members of our sex who have made successful careers in the arts and professions. I have tried to control my impulse to romanticize such women since the night I saw a famous woman novelist collapse into tears because she had royalties to take care of instead of children. I often remember her face when I hear us laugh apologetically on radio quiz-programs as we say, "Me? Oh, I'm just an ordinary housewife."

We should stop depreciating ourselves in private and public. Our success as homemakers tests our talent for love severely. If we deprecate it, we have been cruelly deceived into believing that homemaking is just a series of physical exercises.

Many little children need to eat more often than three times a day. The food that is offered them between meals should be light enough not to spoil their appetites for the meal to follow, but it should be a regular part of their diet. Tomato or other juice with a piece of bread and butter is a wholesome snack. If baby is interested only in ice cream or candy, he probably is not really hungry.

Opera Program Is Treble Clef Theme For Program Tuesday

Treble Clef officers have announced that visitors are welcome at a meeting of the club Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Church of The Brethren. Soloists will sing arias and explain the meaning of operas from which they come.

Fine steel wool will remove dried paint from linoleum. But be careful not to scratch the linoleum, and wax and polish when the task is completed.

Before sweeping, dusty floors should be watered down with a water pistol or other fine-spraying instrument. This will keep the dust from rising into the air.

You'll be looking ahead if you label packages clearly before storing them in the attic or basement locker.

Baby learns to talk through the repeated associations you give to the sounds he makes. Everyone interprets the "m-m-m" sound an infant makes as "mama" until, after several months, he says it to get his mother's attention.

STEPHEN FOSTER was portrayed by Don Berry, left, 712 Buckler, and "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair" was Marcile Glison, of Combs-Worley Ranch, at a recent Horace Mann assembly program. Sixth grade students of Mrs. M. K. Griffith gave a musical dramatization of Stephen Foster's life. "Old Black Joe" and "Camptown Races" were among songs sung and dramatized. A special "Louisiana Hayride" dance was performed by Carol Ann Chapman. Dwight Hobart served as announcer and Mrs. John Branham accompanied at the piano.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

A reader writes: "You once said that to overcome fear of a child, you had to admit the fear. Well, I admit my fear of our six-year-old daughter — and get nowhere."

She goes on to say that the child's defiance has increased since the birth of a brother. "Between the baby and Helen's demands for her own way in everything, I am worn out. Every bedtime is a long, bitter battle. I know I should take physical action but am afraid to do so."

It isn't enough to know we fear a child to overcome it. To do that, we have to know what we fear in him. And if what we fear is unreasonable, find the adventurous courage to refuse to obey that fear.

What is it we fear in Helen that prevents us from picking her up in our arms at bedtime and carrying her upstairs? Is it her power to withdraw affection from us?

It often is this power we fear in these situations.

In the case of Helen's mother, it is surely an unreasonable fear. For by allowing this little girl to override our convictions on bed-time, we are not retaining her affection, but losing it.

In her mother's own words, we are the child's contestant in a "bitter battle." So our hope o

"Exclusive But Not Expensive"

Homemakers, caught between high prices and a love of fashion, have fallen back on old-fashioned ingenuity. They are converting potato sacks into everything from drapes to handbags. The first step in the process is washing the lettering from the bags. Then the seams are opened (upper left) and the burlap is dyed. This housewife is making a wheat-colored spring coat, so she uses a color lightener on the burlap before using an ecru tint.

She stirs the burlap in the solution very carefully (lower left), making certain that the color is distributed evenly. Because she has selected a simple coat pattern and because burlap takes particularly well to machine sewing, she finds that this stage (center) goes very smoothly. In fact, she went on later to make a handbag and hat to match her new coat (right). Even her change purse is of burlap.

Teens! Get Ready For Easter Parade

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Teen-agers, if a pinched clothes allowance won't permit you a new Easter outfit, don't waste time in self-pity. There's a lot you can do to put spark into last year's clothes.

The first thing is to get started NOW. Don't wait until the last minute to see what needs to be done. Select a suit or dress that will most easily be adapted to the Easter, 1954, look. You should have success with a solid-color garment whose trim can be easily removed. Then select one of the new high-fashion trimming features to add to it. Big white collars, for instance, are very important this spring. One of these will cost you only a few dollars and it can be easily sewn into a dress or suit neckline.

Don't forget to check all of your accessories carefully. If last year's shoes are in good condition, but look a bit tired, you might spend another couple of dollars to have them reconditioned.

This service is now offered by many department stores. You should be able to find the service hat by changing the trimmings. If listed in the classified section of your telephone book.

This careerist (above) has no trouble keeping her blouse tucked neatly into her skirt. It stays in place even as she reaches across her desk. Her secret is a new rubber waistband that's sewn inside her skirt band. It's said to keep blouse and skirt neatly together, no matter how much stretching or reaching one must do.

But don't expect the job to be done overnight. You might cut down on the time by having the edges with velvet and thus create an entirely new line. You can easily freshen last year's new line.

National Officer Addresses Women At Amarillo Presbyterian In Pampa

Miss Elsie Benfield, secretary of the National Missions of Women's Department of the Presbyterian Churches, gave the address at the Friday afternoon meeting of the Amarillo Presbyterian meeting at which Pampa's First Presbyterian women were hostesses to women from 18 churches in this district. She spoke of national mission work including work with Negroes, Eskimos and Indians. "For the first time," she said, women in Japan will have opportunity to have Christian education. The new strategy in India is again Communism; in Latin and South America it is against hierarchy, and in China against the devastation of war. The primary need for Presbyterian colleges in America, she continued, is for Presbyterians to send their sons and daughters there to obtain a Christian education. This is a day of terrific changes in the world and the only way to meet these new burdens is to search for the way from the world of God. We must admit God to come into our daily lives with complete surrender; we must submit our wills to God's will and Divine control thus bringing us freedom; commit our selves unto the Lord, an absolute commitment that involves a learning growth process and transmit our belief in God and share our faith with others around the world. When we have fulfilled these verbs then we are ready to meet new occasions in the church.

Alaska, she concluded, with its new highway is a new occasion for the church.

Some time in his second year, Baby becomes interested in feeding himself. The more pleasant you make his feeding time, the more likely he is to keep trying. Don't help him too much; interference will take the fun out of his trying. And don't serve him foods that are difficult to manage, such as liquid cereal and crumbling bread. At each meal give him at least one of the foods he especially likes. That will encourage his efforts.

Seven Local Women Tell Of Southern Tour At PTA Meet

At a recent Sam Houston Parent-Teachers Association meeting in the school auditorium seven Pampa women told about their recent tour of the South which took them to Vicksburg, Miss., Jackson and Natchez, Miss., Sherman White, Carl Boston, C. L. McKinney, Luther Pierson, Kate Stuart, Harold Wright and 21 Mrs. White told of the PTP tour of 30 ante-bellum homes while in Natchez, and along the Asalea trail to the Bellegrath Gardens. "This famous garden," they said, "is comprised of sixty acres of the most beautiful gardens in the world." Asalea plants from all over the world have been transplanted here making it the charm spot of the South. The group traveled along the coast to New Orleans, thence to Galveston and Houston and home.

Mrs. Knox Kinard told PTA members about school taxes. She explained that 80 per cent of our school taxes provides teachers' salaries, and the remainder is used for maintenance of buildings, grounds, school buses and insurance.

An announcement was made of the Eighth District of Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers will hold its 31st annual conference here April 19 and 20.

The four-year-old spends a good deal of time asking "why" and "how." And he is interested in conversation, with both adults and other youngsters. He enjoys explaining that, "now," he will do this, or that he did that "before." Of course he also has lots of time for doing: He can run, jump and climb with more ease and grace than the three-year-old.

Youth Entertains For Hopkins PTA

Hopkins Parent-Teachers Association met recently in the Community Hall at Hopkins for its regular meeting with Mrs. Buster Sublett, president, presiding. The devotional was given by John Litton. To complete the year's goals, a summer recreation program was approved by the association. Mrs. F. E. Palmittier, summer round-up chairman, announced that she would bring the summer round-up blanks to the next meeting to give to the mothers of children entering school next fall.

Special guests were Mrs. Jack Foster, president of PTA City Council, Dorothy Statton and Mrs. Ada W. Brown of St. Louis, speaker for the evening was Claude Zevary, principal of Hopkins School. The second and third grades were in charge of the program. The second grade, under the direction of Mrs. Stephenson, gave a short play with a flower garden setting. The girls were dressed in colorful dresses and bonnets and the boys in blue jeans, white shirts, red neckerchiefs, straw hats and carried fishing poles and buckets. Third grade students were in colorful Easter costumes and carried pastel umbrellas and sang a nd danced "The Easter Parade." The sixth grade served refreshments with Mrs. Siler Hopkins, room mother chairman, in charge.

Cancer Mail Crusade Is On

Gray County's chapter of the American Cancer society will mail its crusade letters to Pampans this week. Enclosed will be educational pamphlets and cancer sword emblems. The letter informs Pampans that $173,185 was spent in Texas in 1953 for cancer research and $200,000 in cancer education. Five hundred dressings were given out. In addition to medical supplies and the furnishing of transportation to hospitals for cancer victims. In advising Pampans what they can do in controlling the disease, the letter states, "Read the enclosed leaflet. Go to your doctor if any sign appears. It is wise to be sure. Have a regular physical exam yearly. Tell your friends the hopeful side of the cancer problem." The importance of the society's educational program is shown by public surveys which reveal that one of every three adult Americans are not aware that any type of cancer is curable. The surveys also show that more than half of all adult Americans do not know any of the early symptoms of the disease. Last year, 73,000 American cancer victims were saved by prompt treatment. Of more than 227,000 who died of cancer, 73,000 could have been saved had the disease been diagnosed early enough.

Sunday School Week

The 10th annual observance of National Sunday School Week will be celebrated in Pampa and across the nation beginning today and lasting through April 18.

The value of training in the tenets and principles of Christianity in molding men and women of character is incalculable. That training is to be found principally in Sunday Schools of the nation.

Here are two comments on the meaning of Sunday School Week:

Rev. J. R. Stoble, director of education for the First Baptist Church and president of the Pampa Ministerial Alliance:

"Regular attendance at Sunday School and church is the greatest force for righteousness in the nation today. Pampa is fortunate in having churches with active Sunday Schools that are reaching the people with the gospel of Christ."

Irving S. Olds, New York attorney and national chairman of 1954 observance of Sunday School Week:

"I think we will agree that Sunday School Week is a week of great significance for the nation. No one can minimize the importance of Sunday Schools in fostering among the youth of the community a faith in God and an ability to recognize what is fundamentally right and just."

National Sunday School Week and National Bible Week are sponsored annually by the Laymen's National Committee. The slogan for Sunday School Week this year is: "To Build Faith in Our Children — Take Them to Sunday School."

There is widespread evidence that a spiritual renaissance is taking place in America. Men and women are leaning more and more on the teaching of Jesus Christ. Most of them learned to appreciate spiritual values in Sunday Schools.

Fundamental Issue

It is pleasant to report that the battle against what President Eisenhower has termed "creeping socialism" is gaining force and followers.

For example, 54 chambers of commerce and other organizations in New York State recently addressed a letter to the chairman of the U. S. Senate Public Works Committee asking that private enterprise be authorized to carry out the expanded development of hydroelectric power at Niagara Falls.

The letter said: "We believe that the fundamental point of issue is whether or not we want more government in business. Private enterprise stands ready, able and willing immediately to proceed with this development involving a cost of some $400,000,000 and the annual payment of taxes in the neighborhood of $23,000,000. No navigation, irrigation, sanitation or flood control problems, which in other locations have been used to justify or require development by a governmental body, are involved in the case of Niagara Falls power."

"This is plainly a case of government trying to get into the power business and using the avoidance of taxes as a guise for lower rates."

What is true of Niagara Falls is true of every other needed and practical electric project, anywhere in the country.

The Atomic Future

There is hope and confidence, based on scientific knowledge, that eventually atomic energy, which has so far served only as an incredibly destructive force, can make an immeasurable contribution to the arts of peace, primarily as a source of electric power.

The question is whether the enormous amount of work and research that must be done before this goal can be approached will be continued as an iron-clad government monopoly — or whether the law will be amended to allow private enterprise, with its vast human and financial resources and "know-how," to participate.

Those who favor such amendments include the present chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, Lewis L. Strauss; past chairmen Gordon Dean and David Lilienthal, and such leading atomic scientists as Harold Urey. Production of nuclear weapons would, of course, remain the province of government alone. The role of private enterprise would simply be to help bring a peacetime atomic age into being as soon as possible.

Suppose that from the very beginning the internal combustion engine, which has literally transformed the world, had been a monopoly of government? Can anyone seriously believe that in that case it would have served mankind as it has? Monopoly, whether governmental or private, always blocks and in some cases actually stifles progress. This is the fact we must not forget in deciding our future policy toward the atom and its barely-touched secrets.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

How Sound Is Social Security?

Press reports relate that Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary of the new cabinet's Wealth, Education, and Welfare Commission, desires to have the weekly unemployment benefits increased from $25 to $30 and the old-age benefits increased from $85 to $108.50 a month if the individual quits work, and the family benefits increased from $168.75 to $190 a month.

That seems nice to people who believe we can get something for nothing. But now listen to how Paul Poltor in his booklet "Social Security" explains how limited the government will be in its ability to pay even at the present rates. This is the way he puts it:

"Some persons, having paid social security taxes since they were first levied in 1935, therefore feel that they have earned the right to any benefits allowed under the program."

"The maximum tax any person could have paid was $30 a year—1 per cent on the first $3000 of his yearly wages—for each of the 14 years from 1937 through 1950. In 1951 he might have paid 1 per cent on $3600, and in 1952 and 1953, 1 1/2 per cent on $3600. Thus, if he had earned the maximum taxable income in each of the 17 years, he might have paid a total of $564 in social security taxes. His employer would have matched that amount, bringing their combined total to $1128."

"If that person had retired on January 1, 1954, having reached the age of 65, and if his wife had also passed her 65th birthday, they would be eligible for retirement benefits of $127.50 a month. Thus, within 9 months, that man and his wife would receive more in social security benefits than both he and his employer could possibly have paid as social security taxes for his account over the 17 years since the program was initiated. But the life expectancy at age 65 is more than 9 months—more than 9 years, in fact. By what twist of logic or of morality does any person expect to get from 10 to 15 or even more times the benefits for which he has paid? At whose expense, and why?"

"The foregoing figures are based on the maximum taxes any one could have paid through the first 17 years of the program. Many of the three million persons already receiving social security old-age benefits established their eligibility with far less than the maximum tax payments of $1128. Is it any wonder that some persons look upon social security as a great insurance bargain?"

"The truth, however, is that social security is not insurance at all in the economic sense of the word. The value of private old-age or life insurance protection stems from the insured person's ownership equity in productive property. But the payment of one's social security tax, entitles him to no more ownership equity in property than does the payment of a liquor tax, tobacco tax, gasoline tax, income tax, property tax, sales tax, luxury tax, poll tax, or any other kind of tax. The payment of social security taxes cannot endow the payers of that tax with special rights and privileges without denying the rights of other citizens to their income and property."

Example of Bad Newspaper Leadership

Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby is editor of the editorial page of the Houston Post, a newspaper of around 180,000 circulation. Here we have a woman who is supposed to be intelligent enough to edit a newspaper page advocating increasing "social security" benefits when the recipients can already receive 10 to 15 times what they paid in. It is almost beyond belief that people can be so dishonest or so stupid as to believe in such economic miracles—and yet she and the President want to increase this load by 10 million more people.

The only possible way the younger people will be able to get any benefits from "social security" when they get old is to have their children pay taxes to help pay their benefits. But all history of government bears out that they will not do this.

When Jefferson was in Paris he wrote to Madison to ask Madison whether he believed the children were legally obligated to pay the debts contracted by their parents. Madison replied that they were not legally obligated to nor morally obligated—and Jefferson agreed.

And that is exactly what will happen in the future with these cruel promises of "social security". What will undoubtedly happen is that they will make a dollar so worthless that eventually the pensioners will not even care to get the paper money, just as they did in Germany and other countries where irredeemable paper money was the only medium of exchange.

Read over the above figures and see what a farce and hoax our elected representatives have been trying to pass off on the public by trying to get them to believe that they can get more than what is paid into the fund.

Things look mighty dark. The Twentieth Century has been a terrible century. It has been the century of the atom lie—a thing more devastating than the atom bomb. It is a century that has been wrecked by fictions. Men have permitted themselves to be misled by those who make rosy promises about tomorrow. Here in America, a land of plenty, this process still goes on. Men compromise with a

Tell Me, Mr. Sphinx—

National Whirligig... Dulles Advocates Formation Of Pacific Pact Organization

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Secretary John Foster Dulles' call for "united action against Russia—Chinese attack—South Korea, and over-run Southeast Asia" can be implemented chiefly by formation of a Pacific Pact and NATO organization similar to that which encircles the Soviet in Western Europe, the Mediterranean and the Middle East.

Without such a combination of anti-Communist strength in the Orient, it is doubtful if Congress would authorize commitment of American land, naval and air forces in this area.

Unlike Truman, who ordered the Korean "police action" on his own, President Eisenhower has pledged himself to seek prior authority from Congress before employment of large-scale forces in Indo-China, assuming that circumstances permit.

The idea of a Pacific Pact has been kicking around Washington ever since Russia stole China from Chiang Kai-shek and handed it over to the Communists. We have, in effect, organized our own Pacific frontier through our military and economic treaties with Australia, New Zealand, Japan, the Philippines and South Korea. We are transforming Japan, Okinawa and two tiny minor Gibraltar outposts through construction of aerial and naval bases.

But our effort to build a solid and comprehensive defense system in this sensitive sector has been plagued by national and racial rivalries, Chiang Kai-shek, Syngman Rhee's South Koreans, the Filipinos, the Indonesian and South Asian peoples still hate the Japanese for World War II brutalities, just as the French dread German participation in a European Defense Treaty.

The Australians, New Zealanders and Canadians, oddly enough, do not want England to be included in any Pacific defense organization. They prefer to tie up with us rather than with London because it symbolizes and strengthens their Commonwealth status. They associate Britain with Europe and ancient European quarrels rather than with their more remote problems. Moreover, in World War II they had to look to us instead of the hard-pressed British for relief and rescue.

Prefer Communism

The beleaguered Indo-China states—Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos—fear that Dulles' proposed "united action" and possible alliance will mean their permanent subjection to French rule. They prefer Communist conquest to continuation of "colonialism," even slave system and smear everyone who tries to resist a slave system, because they are hypnotized by lies who promise a dream they can't believe. The world will be saved when the facts defeat the dream. That's happening behind the Iron Curtain, where millions are learning through experience that you can't buy happiness by submitting to slavery. The conspirators can control the radio and television broadcasts. They censor all the plays and magazines and newspapers and movies. But they can't talk you into thinking you have bread when you are starving. The next century will not be one of propaganda. It will be one of realism. Jonathan Yank

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

It is dangerous to allow a youngster to develop a chronic running ear, and Mrs. W. should take active steps about her little boy. He is three years old, she writes, and his ear has been running since he was about a year old. He has been given a penicillin injection occasionally, which helps the ear for two or three days and then it starts running again. Unless this is taken care of soon it may cause him a great deal of trouble in future years.

The usual cause of running ears is a chronic infection in the middle ear. The middle ear is a small cavity lying back of the drum membrane and connects by a small passageway with the nose. With an infection in the nose, such as a severe cold, the germs pass up this tube, called the eustachian tube, into the middle ear. The eustachian tube is likely to be blocked up, pus forms in the middle ear under pressure, and the drum membrane is broken, so that the pus is discharged into the outer part of the ear.

If the secretions become stagnant there may be an unpleasant odor to the discharge. If drainage is blocked while infection is still present, pain may spread to the surrounding tissues, and fever may also be present. People who have this chronic infection are particularly susceptible to complications from colds. Too often the hearing becomes somewhat impaired, and, of course, the presence of a chronic infection always tends to create a run-down condition.

In recent years considerable progress has been made in treatment by the use of local applications and surgical measures. But when it seems to be entirely checked and the discharge is gone, a new cold may bring back the condition all over again. Cleanliness, including the removal of crusts and obstructions to drainage is especially important. This is done by applying solutions

Fair Enough... Roosevelt, Delano Families Have 'Interesting' Ancestors

By WESTBROOK FEGLER

NEW YORK — My impious intrusions into the affairs of the Roosevelt and Delano families have convinced me that though both breeds were richly endowed with greed and apathetic toward morals, the Delanos, even down to the recent era of their non-union company towns in the Pennsylvania coal-belt, were given to more robust affronts.

A Delano named Daniel W. Jr., who got out a boastful book a few years ago, makes much of the career of Capt. Amasa Delano, the first of the tribe, says he, ever to land in South America. Later, little Sara, a child who was to bear the name, was fully deemed our early incivility to George II, went twice around the Horn with her father, Capt. Warren Delano, on a Yankee Clipper which carried a cow and chickens on the long voyage across the Turkish opium into Canton to be sold and tea for the homeward run. Little Sara seems to have outnumbered that James Roosevelt whom she married late in his father's last years. It is a historical shame that she confined her writing to an insipid tribute to her son, for she was haughty, ill-mannered and never negative. She might have told a bold story of a big life in times when she held herself better than the rabble. Amasa Delano, Warren and Sara had no time for the common people, but the mother of the Hyde Park giant forbore to embarrass his political pose and expressed herself only in that sniffling contempt for the lower orders which she learned among the English gentry.

Daniel W. Delano Jr., tells us that Amasa Delano set out from Quincy to China "at the beginning of the 19th century," picked up the Spanish slave-ship, "Yruebi, whose cargo had revolted and killed most of the crew, and delivered the mutinous crew to the authorities in Talcahuano, Chile. We are not told what befell the Negroes but Chile was not fastidious about slavery at the time so he may be pardoned a pessimistic estimate. James Delano, Delano, Jr. reports, "fired fighting between Capt. Amasa Delano and his crew and the desperate Africans, comprising, he adds, "a colorful and heroic episode that added to the fame of the American hero, a remarkable navigator."

A few years later, a cousin, Capt. Paul Delano, took citizenship in Chile and became commander of her fleet. The American Captain Delano who was hanged for piracy with six of his crew at Malta, as related in "Salt Water or Nell D'Arcy's Life at Sea," published, I would think, about 60 years ago, is not as well identified as a historical word like the surname was William H. G. Kingston, Captain Delano's misbehavior seems to have occurred early in the 19th century but the book from the extinct press of Belford, Clarke and Company, New York and Chicago, bears no year and the story, itself, is an ambiguous mixture of obvious truth and avian adoration. In brief, this Captain Delano, a black sheep, no doubt, high-jacked a number of innocent merchantmen but finally was paid the wages of sin in a grisly scene in Quarantine Harbor, Malta, under British justice. As captain of the brig, William, which had lain neighbor to the brig, Helen, in the basin at Liverpool, he had noticed that the Helen was shipping luxurious merchandise. And when they were well down in the Mediterranean he had boarded her to spy and plunder.

However, as the author says, "they knew not of the eye above which watched them." And so a British man-of-war came over the horizon, boarded the Helen, sinking from sugar-hops in her bottom, bore by Delano's insuperable, saved some survivors and overwhelmed the William, too.

In court, Delano was a cynical or "drops" Suction has been used to clean out the middle ear of pus and mucus.

MANY TREATMENTS USED

Alcohol treatments, silver nitrate, special dressings, antiseptics, and a kind of electrical treatment, called zinc ionization, have all been tried and are useful for some, but not all, victims of a chronic running ear. Removal of lymphoid tissue in the back of the nose with locally applied radium may be helpful, especially to children.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

REMAINDERS: Among things beside lawyers that it is good to go into court with is a sense of humor. A lad was arrested on Broadway the other night for walking up to a girl at 50th Street and publicly and frankly kissing her. "I couldn't help it, she was so pretty," he told the Night Court magistrate. "It was sort of a wayward kiss." "Case dismissed," said the Judge. "And I like the gag." John Steinbeck please note: you saved a man from jail. Ed Wilcock, Third Avenue: Please stop using jokes I made up five years ago like that Irish lingerie: Erin Go Bra. They were talking the other night about the trouble one of the smaller stars of show business was having trying to look taller. "He's got no problem," a cynic snarled. "If he'd just put his money in his shoes he'd be eight feet tall." Stop Press information: There are 297 elephants in the United States. . . There's a man in New York named Osh who doesn't like to go to oculists. . . They always give him the Osh can you see. . . routine.

If you have a friend working in a jet engine factory, you have no gift problem when his birthday comes around — send him ear-muffs. . . Tests have shown that the old-fashioned ear-muffs are the best possible device for protecting workmen in these plants from noise and vibration jitters. . . Man writes in and says: "Never mind a lot of fancy words, who is Rita Hayworth actually? I know it's not her right name."

Well, actually, you might say she is Bob Haymes' sister-in-law. . . You think inventing toys is a silly occupation for a man? In March, the designers and makers of 104 selected toys received orders for $250,000 each. . . It was part of the deal: any toy that passed all of the Toy Guidance Council tests was promised a quarter of a million dollars in sales.

Ran an aeronautics engineer at a dinner party the other night and he put the whole thing down in a very simple way: "There's a lot of talk about the great difficulty of breaking away from the force of gravity exerted by the earth. A lot of long-hairs intone the sad news that it would take tons of fuel to break a vehicle out of that gravity. The truth is that if you could build a pat outward from the earth you could just walk away from it under your own power. You'd just keep walking, without any expenditure until, gradually, you were in free fall. Don't believe all you read about the horrible force of gravity chaining man to his planet. It could, literally, be walked away from. Trouble is, man can't walk on air. The reason multiple-engine planes sport and snarl so on take-off is that the relation between power and aero-dynamics is still woefully inefficient. Nor is an atomic engine capable of taking a vehicle out of the solar system much of a mystery. Designers have made it one by being afraid of the word atomic. You can thank the foot stomping of the Commission for most of the ridiculous information or misinformation around today. Even children know about atomic energy. Whom are we hiding what from? Do we seriously believe for a moment that we know anything every other modern nation doesn't know?"

Hat designer Mr. John on Edna Ferber, novelist: "I have never seen this woman wear a hat that made her look anything but irate!" . . . To be added: I have seen a photograph of her which didn't do the Max Hersh as much reason why Max Hersh has made a great big store out of his department store in less than 110,000 population Allentown, Pa. . . A woman returned some wool yard, explaining that she had discovered she just didn't have time to knit. . . Her purchase price was handed over immediately, although her sales slip showed that she had bought the yarn 27 years before. . . He has a rule: Refunds are Absolute. . . He once bought a shipment of 80,000 assorted night club ash trays and sold them at a nickel each. . . Many a house in Allentown could make it look as though going to The Stock, Mocombo or El Morocco was common family practice — all for a total of 15 cents.

FOR THE COOKING SCHOOL — Pampa area housewives will have a chance to receive the above G. E. range at the fourth annual Pampa Daily News cooking school. The event is scheduled for April 20 and 21, with Mrs. Ruth D. Knight of Lubbock, cooking specialist, in charge. Latest recipes and methods will be taught, along with budgeting, household hints, and food balance. Above, "Suds" Southard, owner of the Electric Supply company, which is donating the range, shows how a four-layer cake is baked in it. (News Photo)

U.S. Households Up 3 Million

WASHINGTON, April 10 —UP—few older persons now have relatives sharing their homes. High marriage rates which took children away from home, and a lower age at marriage, indicated family life in 1953, the Census Bureau reported Saturday, indicating family life is becoming more popular. It said the growth was rapid and Americans live in family groups—hold was 3.25 persons, a slight decrease from 1950.

The Congressional Medal of Honor is the highest U.S. military decoration. The Korean war started on June 25, 1950.

institutions, and 6 per cent living apart from relatives. The average size of the household was 3.25 persons, a slight decrease from 1950.

Hunters Call Rattlesnake Sport 'Safe'

OKMENE, Okla., April 10—UP—pretty convincing figures that Rattlesnake hunting is the world's safest sport—it says here. That's the sworn statement of the International Association of Rattlesnake Hunters—which stages its 15th annual hunt here Sunday. By sundown, the club calculates 20,000 persons will have stomped through the gyp-crusted salt creek canyon southwest of here without a single hunter getting a bite. If the weather is warm and dry, the hunters will return with about 2,000 live diamondback rattlers weighing a total of perhaps two tons. That's the estimate the club president, Dr. E. K. Godfrey, who—appropriately, some folks might figure—is a physician. Proof it's safe. Joe Durham, the association's "chief rattler," tosses out some snake catching is safer than such hobbies as fishing or deer hunting. Club records show that more than 100,000 persons have braved the hunt since 1936 and in that time there never has been a casualty on the hunt itself, although some snake handlers have been nipped while showing off their catches in town. Durham says snakes are normally just coming out of hibernation at this time, are milky-eyed, sluggish and "really aren't too dangerous." But he has a few words of caution for the inexperienced: "Wear high-topped boots, keep close contact with guides. Carry a new single-edged razor blade in your billfold for quick bleeding of a wound." The association claims credit for inventing what it believes is the world's safest snake catcher. It's a pair of steel pincers about four feet long that works like a pair of ice tongs. "You can clamp your snake from a safe distance, and he can't get away," Durham says. "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Hunters shouldn't come here with any ideas of killing snakes if they want to stay in good graces with the association. The sport is to catch 'em alive, and besides, the association maintains an international market for snakes, and drug houses. It offers a standing rate of 50 cents a pound for all live snakes. The largest reptile bagged or last year's hunt was a 28-pounder that was six feet, seven inches long.
