We need a system of education to educate both the Negro and the white person to accept each other. In public colleges and universities, the banning of segregation will be a good idea. It's in the pre-college level we're not ready for it."

BILLIE JEAN JONES, Junior at Pampa High school: "I wouldn't mind if they went to school with us, if it had to be that way, but I don't think they'd want to go to school with us."

action by southern state groups was in prospect. Alabama's special committee to recommend segregation-preserving steps to the legislature will meet within a week, as will a similar Georgia group. The Louisiana legislature, only one in the South in session, will begin a study of the decision's impact.

Mississippi Gov. Hugh White will name a new legal advisory commission to draft legislation to evade the court decision legally. Virginia Gov. Thomas B. Stanley promised to call an early meeting of state and local government leaders to consider the whole problem.

There was almost unanimous opinion among state leaders that Negro teachers would be hard hit for employment should all segregation barriers be thrown away.

No special sessions of state legislatures would be called into special session at once. That long considered prospect was removed because of the court's decision.

Monday's decision, covering four cases from South Carolina, Kansas, Virginia and Delaware, specifically affects 17 states with required segregation, four others with certain forms of permissive segregation, and the District of Columbia.

The court said that no decree to implement its decision would be handed down until further arguments are held. It restored the cases to the court docket for further argument on these vital points:

1. Should Negro children be admitted without further delay to schools of their choice?
2. Should school districts be allowed time for a gradual transition to a non-segregated status?
3. Should the Supreme Court appoint a special master to hear evidence to recommend specific terms of decrees to be ordered by the court?
4. Should the high court send the segregation cases back to the lower courts with instructions to frame decrees for implementing the non-segregation decision; if so, what procedures should the lower courts follow in arriving at specific terms of the decrees?

Sates on the fringe of the Deep South expressed willingness to comply to the letter with the Supreme Court order, whatever it eventually may be. Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma were among them. Not so with the stronger segregation states like Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi.

Bus Drivers Call Strike In Houston

HOUSTON, May 18 — UP — Drivers of Houston's city buses early Tuesday voted to strike at midnight Tuesday night unless the Houston Transit Co. makes a last-minute proposal acceptable to the drivers.

It was the second time within three weeks that the 806 drivers, members of the Transport Workers Union Local 280 (CIO) set a strike deadline to back up demands for a 33-cent hourly wage increase and a 40-hour work week.

The last time they postponed a walkout to give the company and city council more time to work out a possible solution which also involves fares.

But a series of meetings and conferences throughout Monday failed to turn up an acceptable solution and in membership meetings held at 7:30 p.m. Monday and 2 a.m. Tuesday, the drivers voted to strike.

Flats Street Work Delayed

Two residents of The Flats, Jerome Henry and O. F. Hunter, appeared before the Pampa City Commission this morning to ask for graveling in the 400-block and 600-block of Maple.

But city commissioners took no action, thereby in effect turning them down.

Problem arose from the fact that several weeks ago Oklahoma, Blm, Brunow and Wilcox were gravelled on an experimental basis.

At the time, residents on those blocks of Maple indicated they would be able to get away, they signed up for paving instead.

Such was not the case — only one out of 25 of the 25 lots in question were willing to pay for paving. Commissioners felt they could not accept to The Flats and gravel the Maple blocks without being best set by further requests for such street improvement.

Commissioner W. D. Varmon (in whose ward The Flats lies) was out of town when the graveling experiments were decided upon. City Mgr. Fred Brock recommended — now — treating Maple the same as any other street in town.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

By ERKIN JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The Laugh Parade: Cesar Romero and Gary Cooper visited a centuries-old hacienda owned by Tyrone Power while working in "Vera Cruz," on location in Mexico's Cuernavaca...

After admiring the sad splendor Romero turned to Cooper and said: "I must wire Ty and tell him to call a plumber. His kitchen sink is stopped up."

Bill Williams, who plays Kit Carson on TV, answered his doorbell the other evening. Half a dozen boys of Cub Scout age grinded as a spokesman stated their business:

"Mr. Williams," he asked, "have you got any old bullets you don't need?"

Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the distinguished British-born character actor famous for his beautiful diction, was stopped by an American woman during a rainstorm in Rome. Where, she wanted to know, could she find a cab stand.

Sir Cedric obligingly directed her, and as she sped away she said: "For an Italian, you speak very good English."

Hollywoodese for a starlet who had to use a voice double: A DUB-Utante.

It's being told about an Irish Irish who heard that Aly Khan had a castle in the "Crescent." He commented: "I've heard of his relative — Lepre Khan."

Herb Stein relays the silly about the sheep who made good in Hollywood. He got a part in Marilyn Monroe's next sweater.

Old but not forgotten: Jennie Lee's re-hearing of: "We'll have a quiet wedding. Dad's got a silencer on his shotgun." And John Singleton's revival of two actors meeting: First man, "Who was that lady I saw you with the other night?" Second slice, "That was no lady. That was YOUR wife."

Jim Backus, who costars with Joan Davis in "I Married Joan," had to summon a famous surgeon as a consultant during the recent hospitalization of his wife, Henny. When Jim asked the surgeon his fee, he blushed and said: "Gosh, you get more money for a guest shot than Bing Crosby."

Herb Shriner after a nightclub visit: "This place had a minimum. I don't know what it was, but the girls were wearing it."

Hear about the mad scientist who wants to create beautiful man - maddening blondes: He'll call his workshop a "Gaboratory."

David Niven will praise Samuel Goldwyn as the greatest producer in Hollywood at the drop of an olive in a martini glass, but he just can't resist howling about the time he returned to Hollywood after six years with the British army during World War II to resume working for Sam.

Goldwyn arranged a tremendous reception for the star, who now alternates on TV's Four Star Playhouse, where he was a warm host across the front of Sam's studio reading: "WELCOME HOME, DAVID NIVEN."

Sam met him at the gate with fatherly smile and a warm handshake, but his first words after six years were: "David, I've loaned you to Paramount!"

Overheard: "She took him for better or worse but he was worse than she took him for."

Charlie, a camel, lost a movie close-up in CinemaScope, was given Charlie's big scene.

It happened on the set of "The Adventures of Hajji Baba." Charlie's crime was an old one - chewing the scenery.

"Maybe," observed someone, "he was raised by John Barrymore."

Plot behind a plot: Writer Dorothy Kingsley found Robert Sherwood's "Road to Rome" on MGM's literary shelf of costly, never-filmed stories. She hit on the idea of adapting the play as a musical. "Jupiter's Darling," and got a pat on the back for saving MGM a load of money.

Months later lawyers discovered that the studio's option on "Road to Rome" had just run out and MGM had to repurchase the Sherwood play before the cameras could roll on the musical.

Rash Promise PORTLAND, Me. — UP — Don Kelly is a father who keeps his word, but he is fed up with horse opera, spaceship aerials and cartoons featuring mice. Kelley promised his seven-year-old son, Dick, "anything you want," if the boy would improve his school grades. Dick got grades of 100 three weeks running and asked his dad to take him each Saturday to movie matinees.

He's A Genius, But... Walt Disney Could Not Name All The Dwarfs In Snow White

By HENRY McLEMORE Out of a clear sky, and a blue one at that, my wife asked me if I could name the seven dwarfs in "Snow White and The Seven Dwarfs."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE Ingenious Plot Wins Tricky Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service Walter S. Turner, of San Francisco, is probably best known on the West Coast as the originator of a very interesting bidding system, but he is also a skilful and subtle card player. In today's hand, "Buz" Turner cooked up an ingenious plot to guard against a danger that most players wouldn't think of.

The bidding was quite reasonable, and the final contract was sound. With a normal trump break, South could practically spread the hand for 12 tricks against any defense.

West opened the ace of hearts, hoping that declarer might have two losers in the unbid suit. When East played the deuce of hearts, however, West shifted to the queen of diamonds. Dummy naturally won the second trick with the king of diamonds.

See if you can do as well as Walter Turner on the next play. When the hand was actually played, Turner promptly led the ace of diamonds from the dummy after trouncing with the king of diamonds. There was good reason to believe that East had no more diamonds, and the idea was to find out what East would do about it. If East thought the matter over very carefully and then decided not to ruff, it would be quite reasonable to suppose that East had four trumps and that he didn't want to jeopardize his trump trick.

If East ruffed low South could overruff and could then draw trumps without fear. If East ruffed with an honor, it would be reasonable to suppose that he also had the other missing trump honor.

In short, declarer had nothing to lose by leading dummy's ace of diamonds, and he could hardly fail to gain useful information.

When the hand was actually played, East played a low trump on dummy's ace of diamonds. This made things very easy for declarer. He overruffed and drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king.

When trumps failed to break, South cashed the ace of clubs, got to his hand with the king of diamonds, and ruffed a club with dummy's last trump. He continued by discarding a club on the queen of hearts, after which it was easy to ruff himself in, draw the last trump, and claim the rest of the tricks.

Huk Chief Surrender Gives Magsaysay Personal Victory

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

President Ramon M. Magsaysay of the Philippines has won a big personal victory in the surrender of Luis M. Taruc, "supremo" of the Communist-led Hukbalahap rebels.

Communism in East Asia has suffered a correspondingly big defeat.

Magsaysay set out four years ago, when he was named secretary of defense, to smash the "Huk" who had kept the Philippines in turmoil ever since the end of World War II.

Taruc's surrender to the government Monday means that Magsaysay has just about accomplished his aim. He already had reduced the Huk to a disorganized guerrilla force.

Blow to Communists

The surrender is a blow to the prestige of the Communist movement not only in the Philippines but in the Far West generally.

If Taruc falls, it could become a blow to Communism in more than prestige.

Taruc could tell how Soviet Russia and Red China supply the Huk. He could give clues at least to the way Communist supply lines are maintained to such areas as Indonesia, Japan and the American base on Okinawa.

Taruc has been the "supremo" of the Hukbalahap movement since its organization in 1942. It was formed to fight the Japanese. Like some other partisan movements, it was Communist-led. After the war it turned against the government.

In 1950, when Magsaysay took over as defense secretary, the army numbered 40,000 men. It had an estimated 100,000 active supporters. It controlled some areas of Luzon, the principal island, and was even a threat to Manila.

Magsaysay changed all that. He reorganized the corrupt army and police. Within two years he reduced the Huk army to 4,000 men.

But there was still corruption in the government, and Magsaysay resigned in disgust early in 1953. He was made a candidate for president on a coalition ticket and won an impressive victory.

Energy is Unflagging

Magsaysay's name is pronounced moog-sigh-sigh. He is 44. He is big for a Filipino—5 feet 10 inches tall, 175 husky pounds. His energy is unflagging. He was educated to be an engineer. He enlisted in the American army when the Pacific war broke out and took to the hills as a guerrilla when Bataan fell.

After the war he was elected to congress. He soon won a name in a corrupt political set-up as an absolutely honest man, and one who was ready to fight dishonesty wherever he found it.

In 1950, the United States demanded that a really honest man be put in charge of the fight against the Huk. Magsaysay was chosen defense secretary. He moved at once against the rebels. He used every means. He fought the guerrillas with guerrilla tactics. He even used to go out alone at night at risk of assassination to talk to Huk who he thought might be won over. Now the No. 1 Red has surrendered to him.

TURN IT OFF—Construction crews in York Beach, Me., don't mind radio programs or conversations on two-way radios. They put up this warning sign because dynamite can sometimes be set off by the radio signal of a passing car. Some frequencies have reportedly set off a charge prematurely as far away as 400 feet.

Artie Shaw 'Can't See' Big Bands

By ALANE MOSSBY
LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 18—UP

Artie Shaw, one of the biggest bandleaders of all time, is playing in a swank hotel here, but not for the usual fortune as a headliner in the main dining room.

Shaw is happily tooting his clarinet in the bar of the Sahara Hotel—for kicks, he explained, instead of big money.

"I'd make more with a big band, but I'm happier this way," he said.

"Instead of playing for a dance crowd of 400 we play for a small crowd that, ostensibly comes in here to hear me."

"I get a good stipend—$5,000 a week for us five in the combo—and at least I'm playing what I want and the way I want to. The crowd here doesn't ask for dance music. Otherwise, I'd be doing 'Begin the Beguine' all night."

"Nobody bothers me," added the intellectual clarinetist, never known as an audience lover. "There's a pit between me and the people."

The sight of Shaw and his "Gramercy Five" heading it out behind the bartenders has become one of the wonders of this bustling gambling community. Some nights business is so brisk you need a reservation to get into the bar.

He plays long after the main show with Ray Bolger closes in the dining room. Often until 5:30 a.m.

Being an old-fashioned "square" who remembers Shaw's big band of the 30's, I listened to him until the birds chirped. He plays relaxed and easy now, apparently happier after a four-year retirement during which he wrote a self-analytical book about his music and seven marriages.

Between numbers Shaw talked rapidly about his theory that big bands are dead.

"I don't see anything to mourn about," he shrugged. "People like new things. We used to play happy, extrovert; now it's moody. My music used to be limited to dancers. I hated it."

If people want dance music, let 'em have Guy Lombardo. He's adequate. One type of music appeals to the head, the other to the feet.

Geneva Stumper: How To End Indo-China War Without Opening S. E. Asia To Reds

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

GENEVA — (NEA) — U. S. world leadership, Western unity and the will of free nations to stop Red aggression are meeting their severest test at the Geneva conference.

Will the Western Alliance—marred by dissension on how to deal with Red China, and liquidate the Indo-Chinese war — be able to resist the diplomatic assaults of the Moscow-Peking Axis?

In Geneva, as at the recent Berlin talks, Russian strategy is clear. There is nothing to suggest even remotely that the Kremlin leaders have altered their policy. Their primary aims still are:

1. Disrupt the North Atlantic Organization.
2. Prevent the formation of the European Defense Community.
3. Isolate the U.S. from its allies.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is thus facing an uphill struggle in his desperate effort to maintain Western unity — to keep the NATO partners, especially France, from pulling in different directions.

The chief problem he must meet at Geneva is how to bring the Indo-Chinese war to an end — thus preventing the fall of the French government while the conference is on — without leaving Southeast Asia wide open to Red penetration.

U.S. delegates hope against hope that there will be no serious split in the Western ranks.

"There have been disagreements in the Western camp before which the Communists were unable to exploit," a high-ranking American diplomat told NEA Service.

He was quick to add, however, that "the disagreements present a serious problem which is ever present in our minds."

Although Indo-China has stolen the limelight at Geneva it is Korea that ranks first on the list of Far Eastern disputes to be settled.

Yet, in the view of veteran observers, it is highly unlikely that the conference will achieve an agreement on Korean unity.

Soviet pronouncements, although suggesting extensive Kremlin preparations for the Geneva meeting, are as usual extremely vague on Korea.

According to the Russian press, Moscow will insist on finding a way for the "unification of Korea on a democratic basis."

Neither Pravda nor the other Soviet newspapers, which have written extensively on Korea, have so far defined what they mean by "unification on a democratic basis."

But it is clear that in Korea, as in Germany, a free election is not what the Russians want.

This was frankly admitted in a conversation — had in Geneva with the "editor" of Democratic North Korea, who is believed to be one of Moscow's chief watchdogs in the North Korean delegation. (Incidentally, the only language he speaks besides Korean is Russian.)

"As long as Fascist Syngman Rhee, supported by America, rules South Korea there can be no Korean unity or free elections," the North Korean "editor" told me.

This is also the line taken by the East German puppets of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The position of Korea thus remains dangerous and unpromising.

In Geneva, as in Berlin, the Reds are expected to drag their feet in the hope that Western nervousness will force the free nations to make substantial concessions, or better still, force them apart.

The Russian delegates, led by Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov, are painfully familiar to veterans of previous marathon diplomatic bazaars.

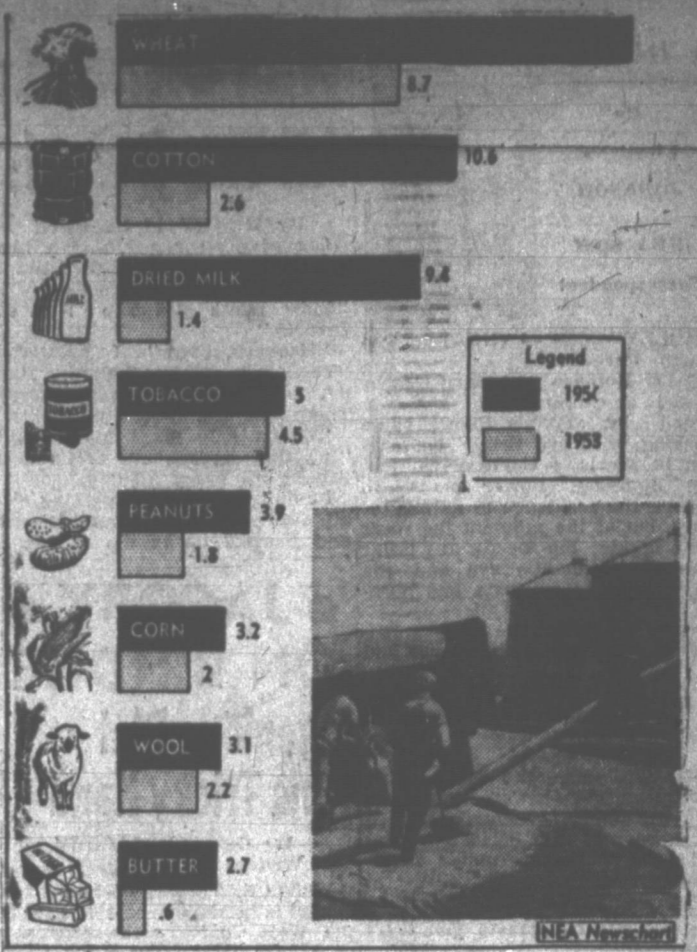

But it is the grinning face of 25-year-old Chou En-lai, Red China's smooth-speaking Foreign Minister, that is most eagerly scanned by the Western diplomats. For this is the first full-scale excursion into the diplomatic world of the men from Peking.

RADIOACTIVE CORN-GROWING—Circular patch in the air view above is a radioactive corn field. It's an experimental plot at the Atomic Energy Commission's Brookhaven National Laboratory at Upton, N. Y. Purpose of the experiment is to determine the effect atomic energy can have on various types of vegetation. In center of the circular field is a pipe, containing a bar of radioactive cobalt 60, which sprays out gamma rays. This pipe can be raised or lowered to spray more or less gamma rays. Thus effect of the radioactive spray at close quarters and from a distance can be accurately gauged. It is controlled from a station in one corner of the large, rectangular field. The plants are grown in circular rows so that there will be even distribution of measurement. It was found that radiation produced shorter plants (inset contrasts these with normal taller-than-average corn), but possibly of a higher yield because of greater grain ratio.

Washington Now Has Two McCarthys

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
 WASHINGTON, May 18 — UP — What's new in Washington? There are two McCarthys in Congress—the Republican senator from Wisconsin and a less well known Democrat from Minnesota named Rep. Eugene J. McCarthy. The other day Rep. John E. Moss Jr. of California was making a speech in the House when the Minnesota McCarthy asked to be recognized. Said Moss: "I yield to the gentleman from Wisconsin." He corrected himself quickly and apologized for getting his McCarthys mixed up.

A shy, blue-eyed blonde named Mrs. Maxine Buffaloide has been silencing the lawmakers as well as lawyers at the McCarthy Army hearings. Mrs. Buffaloide, a Pawhuska, Okla., girl who is married to a full-blooded Indian, is one of the volunteer timekeepers at the hearing. She holds the stop-watch during cross-examination. Two seconds before a senator or attorney has used his full share of a 10-minute period for cross-examination, she signals Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) by giving him a jab in the back.

"He hasn't missed a cue yet," she says.

Mrs. Buffaloide is a stenographer for the investigating subcommittee. She volunteered for the timekeeper job so she could attend the hearings. She confesses she is so busy concentrating on the stop-watch that "I don't seem to be able to catch just what they're saying." But, she says, at least "it has gotten me on television. My folks called me about it from Oklahoma."

The Quartermaster Corps at the Pentagon reports that it has a pretty smart cook in Ansbach, Germany. Fellow named Cpl. Nicholas A. Ferrigno, who is with the 97th Field Artillery.

He got fed up with one piece of stew slipping through the line of his fork and the next piece so big he couldn't get it in his mouth. Nick got to checking up and concluded that an average mouthful of stew measures 1 1/4 inches in diameter. So he "invented" a stevedecker guaranteed to cut meat to his dimension. It's in the form of an attachment to the mess-hall's meat grinder.

Rep. Carl Vinson of Georgia is known around the capitol as the watchdog of the naval oil reserves. He was out of pocket when the Armed Services committee took up a Navy proposal to make a couple of changes in the Elk Hills and Buena Vista reserves in California. Clerk Robert Smart told the committee he understood "Uncle Carl" knew all about it and had told him personally that he was in favor. One member of the committee remarked, "well, if it's all right with the gentleman from Georgia, it must be all right." The committee assented, unanimously.

Millions Go To Church For A Good Movie

By NEA Service
 NEW YORK — (NEA) — Millions of Americans are going to church these days to see a good movie.

That's a surprising statement, but it's a fact. There are more than 300,000 churches in America and about half are equipped with movie projectors and screens.

Take one city, selected at random: New Haven, Conn., has 102 churches (of all faiths) of which 77 are showing movies on a more or less regular basis.

These church-sponsored films aren't amateur efforts. They are first rate productions. Many are full length features, some are in technicolor, and the casts are all professionals. Church leaders supervise the script outlines, but professional film makers do all the rest.

The latest religious film to cause a stir is "John Wesley," produced by Party-Liners Tamed.

CLIMAX, Mich. — UP — The telephone company here has solved the problem of patrons talking too long on party lines. A conversation timer has been installed. After seven minutes, a buzzer sounds; a minute later the call is cut off. Complaints of inability to get a line have been sharply reduced.

in London for the Methodist Church by the Rev. Arthur Rank studios. The film was made to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the birth of the 18th Century churchman, evangelist and educator who founded the Methodist Church.

It will be shown in all of the 50,000 Methodist churches in America and it will receive a subsequent run in tens of thousands of Methodist churches abroad. Like the Lutheran Church film, "Martin Luther," it may also receive a regular movie house run.

"John Wesley" is the most expensive film ever produced by churchmen. It is in color and is lavishly costumed. Rank, who is England's leading Methodist layman, produced it at cost, and despite the wholesale rate it cost more than $200,000 to produce. It might have cost a half-million under any other sponsorship.

Another costly and elaborate motion picture produced under religious auspices is "The Bible — How It Came To Us," which was made by the American Bible Society.

This film is probably the most authentic document ever developed on the Bible. It is a feature length movie and boasts a cast of more than 250. It traces the history and development of the Bible from two centuries before Christ right up to the present moment.

The resources of the Morgan Library, the Metropolitan Museum, the Cloisters, and some libraries abroad were drawn upon to make it authentic in every detail. Millions of churchgoers will see it beginning this summer.

Still a different kind of motion picture — this one dealing with a sociological problem — has been produced by church leaders, and this one also will start-making the rounds of the nation's churches beginning this summer. It is called "City Story," and was produced by the National Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

"City Story" depicts the problem of a big city church, formerly in the fashionable center of town, but now in a business and slum area. The film is designed to awaken churches in this dilemma to the need for revising their thinking and their actions to modern day conditions.

These three films are but recent examples of how churches are tackling different problems via the medium of motion pictures. One is theological in nature, the second is historical and the third, sociological. Yet all of them are religion in action in this modern day.

IN THIS SCENE from "John Wesley," full-length religious film, Susannah Wesley holds son John after his rescue from fire.

Shivers To Appoint EAC Head

AUSTIN, May 18 — UP — Gov. Allan Shivers, who sees no limit to the future of Texas, was expected to name a chairman of his new Economic Advisory Commission Tuesday.

The commission held its first meeting Monday with Shivers. State officials and members of the group discussed its function.

Shivers said he tried to include in the commission's membership representatives of the various segments of economic activity in Texas. He told his appointees their purpose was not to "supersede or supplant" any existing group.

Two state officials said solution of the state's water problems was paramount importance.

Chairman H. A. Beckwith of the State Board of Water Engineers said his agency had an added complication of "conflicting interests."

Beckwith said West Texans want water rights and permits on the upper reaches of streams in their area. But industrial and power interests, as well as South Texans, complain about the upstream withdrawals, he said.

"Future agriculture in this state is going to be determined by solution of the water problem," said John C. White, state agriculture commissioner.

He said states which rank ahead of Texas in total farm income have highly concentrated areas of agricultural development.

Earl Cabell of Dallas, representing the Texas Manufacturers Association, urged the commission "help maintain that climate" that will encourage industry to locate in Texas.

But he said the commission shouldn't be a statewide chamber of commerce. It should serve as a guide to industries to help them locate in the state, Cabell said.

Shivers, in answer to a question by Herschel Nix of San Antonio, representing the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, said he thought the commission should study the possibility of developing Texas' tourist trade, "one of the biggest crops we have."

Ed Wynn Hatches Zaniest Show, But Has No Takers

By ALINE MOSSBY
 HOLLYWOOD, May 18 — UP — Ed Wynn, the zaniest comic in show business, lamented Tuesday he finally snared a television idea that's wacky enough to match his talents — but so far nobody's bought it.

For 52 years of his varied career Wynn has been famed for his ludicrous props, hats and gadgets. He has stored hundreds of contraptions in his home, and his closets and trunks are jammed with costumes.

Recently an idea was presented to Wynn that he thought would use up those props and be a sure-fire success on television. But the show was so wacky he sighed, no sponsor has been found yet to foot the bill.

Wynn's idea, which sounds better than many a current program, was to act out those fantastic contraptions drawn by cartoonist Rube Goldberg.

"We would have contestants bring us their problems and we would solve them with these inventions," explained Wynn.

Wynn made one pilot or test film of the show. On that show a lady complained she couldn't get her husband out of bed in the morning. A man wanted an invention to silence his back-seat-dwelling wife. Another complainant asked for a way to eliminate people who talk too long in public telephone booths.

"For each problem, Goldberg drew an invention and I presented it," said Wynn.

"But the show required 20 actors and $7000 worth of props to act out the inventions. For example, a man would be shown buying a bottle of ketchup and the gag had a chain-reaction from there."

So far the idea has not seen the light of a television screen, except when Wynn presented one of the stunts as a gag on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town" show.

"CBS took an option on the program but their option is up," Wynn said sadly.

The comedian with the lisp and falsetto giggle and the horn-rimmed glasses hasn't had his own TV show for four years.

He was the first comedian with a national program in the beginning days of TV.

But now, he said, if the Goldberg idea fixes he will return to Broadway. "I've been sitting around a year and I don't like being inactive," he said. He spoke at an NBC cocktail party and looked wistfully at Donald O'Connor who is returning with his own filmed show next fall.

"TV isn't knocking down my doors so I'll probably do a stage revue next fall," said Wynn.

DAD'S DUTY — Perched aboard a troopship in Southampton, England, Lance Corporal Robertson assumes duties of a proud father while his wife, in background, looks for relatives on the dock. Robertson, of the 1st Battalion, Gordon Highlanders, was stationed in Malaya, when daughter, Rosanna, was born.

The Soviet diplomat was conferring with French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault on the Indo-China situation.

Shivers 'Welcomes' Mitchell

AUSTIN, May 18 — UP — Gov. Allan Shivers said Monday he "welcomes" what he thinks is the entry of Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell into this summer's Democratic gubernatorial primary.

Shivers made public a letter to Mitchell, commenting on the latter's statements in an exclusive interview granted to Al Nibling, editor of the Sherman Democrat.

"As a life-long Democrat who seeks to strengthen the Democratic party in Texas and the nation," Shivers wrote, "I am amazed, chagrined and embarrassed" because of Mitchell's statement he would deal with the Texas Democratic Advisory Council rather than the party's state executive committee.

Mitchell had said the council, organized by House Democratic leader Sam Rayburn of Bonham, sent the national party $70,000, but "the Shivers group has sent not even as much as a 50-cent piece."

"During certain periods of time," Shivers wrote Mitchell, "I might have suspected that membership in the Democratic party was for sale or that recognition by national party officers was for sale, but until your statement in today's papers, I could not believe it."

Insurance Code Violations Eyed

AUSTIN, May 18 — UP — Attorney General John Ben Shepperd will go before an El Paso county grand jury next month in connection with an investigation into possible violations of Texas insurance laws.

Shepperd said Monday he had accepted an invitation from El Paso District Attorney William Clayton to appear June 4. He said he would take with him "all files and records regarding insurance operations in the West Texas area."

Two El Paso insurance firms were put into receivership March 1, after Shepperd filed suits against them.

Suicide Suspected In Death By Fire

TUSCON, Ariz., May 18 — UP — The badly burned body of a 68-year-old Tucson man was found on a seldom-used road near here Sunday, and the Pima county sheriff's office investigated the possibility he had deliberately set himself afire.

The man was identified by officers as Manuel M. Noriega. Deputies Leonard McCollough and Robert Reilly said they found a gallon jug of gasoline and matches near the spot where the body was found.

They said there was no sign of violence or any indication Noriega had been struck. A car was found a short distance away and was believed to have been Noriega's.

The sheriff's office was uncertain what time Noriega died, but said an autopsy was ordered.

Plane Victims Found In N.M.

SILVER CITY, N.M., May 18 — UP — The bodies of two El Paso men were found Sunday in the wreckage of their crashed plane in the Gila forest near Gila Hot Springs, N.M.

The plane had been the object of a search by ground and aerial parties since Saturday, when it failed to arrive in El Paso from a Silver City guest ranch.

The two men were Donald Windy, 25, the pilot, and William A. Pifer, 26, who worked for the Phillips Corporation at Fort Bliss. Both men formerly lived in Denver.

Quarterhorse Show Set — STAMFORD, Tex., May 20 — UP — A quarterhorse show will be a feature of the Texas Cowboy Reunion, July 1, 2, 3 and 5. The show is expected to attract horses from Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas, and, perhaps, from Kansas and Colorado.

Solons 'Pass' Pay Raise Due To Public Opinion

WASHINGTON, May 18 — UP — Members of the House have given up the idea of voting themselves a $12,000 pay increase this year, for two reasons.

First, some think the McCarthy-Army feud hearings have lowered the public's opinion of Congress, and second, they have cold feet about such an issue in an election year. All of the House members and one-third of the Senate are up for re-election.

"I don't think the Army - McCarthy hearings have increased respect for Congress," Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) told a reporter. "That's an added factor. It's an unfortunate time to bring out such a bill."

Dooms Other Raises — Pigeonholing of the measure also dooms pay raises for federal judges, including members of the Supreme Court, and for Vice President Richard M. Nixon, since they also were covered by the legislation.

House Republican leaders are leaving it up to the Senate to decide whether there should be a pay hike, as recommended by President Eisenhower's salary commission last January. But Senate leaders have shown no disposition to bring the issue to a vote.

House members have, however, a move up their sleeves which, while not a pay increase, would expand their office staff payroll. That would open the door to some political plumbe.

Grossly Underpaid — They have eyed senators with envy since 1946 when Congress voted to let each senator have an administrative assistant with a salary of up to $11,600 a year. House members can't pay any one more than $8,500 a year.

Also a senator's total office payroll limit is much bigger than a House member's. It was increased some more just last year.

Doctors Warn Of Penicillin

The President Salary commission reported after an investigation that congressmen are "grossly underpaid." The law setting it up directs Congress to act upon the commission's recommendations this year.

As of now the whole matter will be ignored.

De Valera At Political Crossroads

By CHARLES M. MCCANN United Press Staff Correspondent

The big question in the minds of the voters in Tuesday's parliamentary election in Ireland is whether "DeV" will make it again.

Lanky, gaunt, fiercely partisan Prime Minister Eamon De Valera has been head of the government for all but three years since 1932.

He has been a leader in Irish politics since the Easter rebellion of 1916.

But now De Valera is 71. His eye-sight is failing. He has undergone several operations. Members of his staff read reports and newspapers to him.

Could Be End — They say, in Ireland that if "DeV" loses it may mean the end of the political road for him.

De Valera resigned in March after his "soldiers of destiny" party — Fianna Fail in Irish — failed to win two seats in by-elections. The opposition United Ireland party (Fine Gael) kept the seats by increased majorities.

Old Dyers — Among the oldest of dyeing processes known is that used in French West Africa. Indigo leaves, charcoal, and water are placed in a 30-foot pit. The cloth to be dyed is then placed in the solution and left from one to ten days.

Now Thousands Can Judge McCarthy For Themselves

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Millions of Americans with eyes and ears glued to television and radio are getting a day-in and day-out impression of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin at work.

They are getting a first-hand picture of the man that is more effective than any of the millions of words written about him.

Printed below are a number of highlights from the transcript of the Senate committee inquiry into the Private G. David Schine case. These are quotations from the statements and questions of the senator.

(On opening day, Senator McCarthy objected at the outset to having the specifications by Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens presented as "Filed by the Department of the Army.")

Senator McCarthy — "I do not have any respect for the civilians in the Pentagon who have been working night and day to attempt to shift an investigation of communism — Communist infiltration — into an investigation of one private in the Army."

(Cross-examining the first witness, Maj. Gen. Miles Reber, the senator tried to ascribe a motive for the general's testimony and to intimate prejudice. The general's brother, Sam Reber, had been U.S. High Commissioner in Germany when G. David Schine and McCarthy Committee Counsel Roy M. Cohn made their investigation in Europe.)

Senator McCarthy — "Are you aware of the fact that your brother was allowed to resign when charges that he was a bad security risk were made against him as a result of the investigation of this committee?"

(On objection of Committee Counsel Ray H. Jenkins, Senator McCarthy was forced to withdraw this question, but he got it on the record and on the air.)

(The Senator's use of sarcasm and exaggeration was revealed when Secretary Stevens testified that David Schine himself suggested that he be made a special assistant in the secretary's office or to the Chief of Army Intelligence.)

Senator McCarthy — "A point of order, Mr. Chairman. I wonder if the Secretary would make the record clear as to whether I asked for an assistant secretaryship or an undersecretaryship for Mr. Schine?"

(When others are asking questions, Senator McCarthy insists on meticulous accuracy of phrasing.)

Senator McCarthy — "Mr. Chairman, if counsel in asking these questions will say, 'Have you learned that it was 'charged,' instead of saying, 'Have you learned that men were crowded like cattle in the back end of a truck.' I don't think the Inspector General — let me finish, please — I don't think the Inspector General has reported that young men were crowded into the back end of a truck like cattle. I think counsel should rephrase the question."

World's First!

Phillips 66 presents the first All-Weather Motor Oil which has proved it meets the most exacting standard ever established for automobile lubrication...

Mil-0-2104, Supplement 1 level.

The toughest standard ever set up for automobile lubrication is the Mil-0-2104 Supplement 1 test. New TROP-ARTIC is the first all-weather motor oil to meet the requirements of this test. It is an oil which will serve you winter and summer... an oil so good it can double the life of an automobile engine!

Compared to ordinary motor oils, new TROP-ARTIC reduces ring wear 40% or more. It cuts oil consumption 15% to 45%. It keeps pistons and bearings cleaner... longer-lasting. It saves you money by increasing gasoline mileage. This has been demonstrated in tests representing more than 150,000 miles of driving.

TROP-ARTIC is truly an all-weather oil... S.A.E. 10W through S.A.E. 30. Therefore it flows instantly for easy starting at sub-zero temperatures, and yet it retains the film strength necessary to prevent engine wear under high temperature driving conditions. It isn't just heavy duty. It's double duty.

Any car, in any climate, at any time of the year will perform better with Phillips 66 TROP-ARTIC. It is a worthy companion product to Phillips 66 FLITE-FUEL, the new high performance gasoline recently introduced by Phillips. This year of all years it pays to have your car serviced at the station where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.

County Home Demonstration Council Hears Cancer Speech At Annual Tea

The time to cure a cancer is in the early stages, Doctor John W. Jermyn told the women attending the annual tea of the county home demonstration council, held recently in the city club room. He advised regular physical examinations to help find any indications of cancer.

Early diagnosis of cancer gives a good chance for survival, according to Doctor Jermyn. He stated that if there was no return after about five years, it seems probable that there is an effective cure. In a test made some time back, 35 per cent which were diagnosed early were completely cured.

Special recognition was given to the food and clothing demonstrators, as well as the clothing leaders, by Miss Helen Dunlap, county agent.

Those participating in the recognition ceremony were Mrs. Paul Rice, and Mrs. Joe Hutchens, both of the Hopkins club; Mrs. Ernest McKnight, Mrs. Carl Smith, and Mrs. Charise Warninski, all of the Bell HD club; Mrs. John Bran-

Lighten Summer Chores By Making Small Changes In Upholstery Fabrics

By KAY SHERWOOD, NEA Staff Writer

Looking for lazy ways to make a summer switch in parlor decor? Fine upholstery needs protection from hot-weather-sticky, sticky, sticky, from strong sunlight. And the less housework the better, in my hot-weather routine. So simple tricks that will guard the furnishings and take a minimum of care make me take notice.

Slipcovers improvised from brightly colored bath towels will protect your furniture from summer's stains and wear-and-tear. Only pinned on, they're easily removed for washing, and need no ironing.

Dien Bien Phu Doesn't Spell Collapse

Its Loss Needn't Mean The End Of Indo-China

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — What is the meaning of Dien Bien Phu? Dien Bien Phu is a Dieppe, not a Dunkirk. It is a great raid that failed — not the collapse of an army.

It is as if we were at war with Canada and our paratroopers dropped on Montreal to create havoc — then pulled out. If they were wiped out would that mean the U.S. was through?

Only on one condition: If the U.S. had lost faith in the war and wanted a good ship for exit, France, where every Third Man is a Communist or fellow traveler, long ago lost faith — so Dien Bien

Phu could cripple home-front morale. Gen. Christian de Castries and his mixed bag of volunteers — Legionnaires, Moroccans and Indo-Chinese — parachuted into Dien Bien Phu, deep in the Communist heartland. It was typical of the commando boldness of professionals who fight the jungle war with cognac in their canteens.

The "chulists" crushed the Communist garrison, scratched out an airstrip, and soon were receiving their regular rations of red wine and period via fat-bellied planes from Hanoi. In Indo-China this correspondent flew over similar French outposts which held out for years, were eventually withdrawn overland.

On such assignments troops say: "We are condemned to victory." There can be no retreat during sieges — except six feet down in a grave.

De Castries had two objectives: (1) Block entry into Laos, for Dien Bien Phu straddled the road to that sleepy kingdom where aristocrats ride varnished elephants, and (2) Bait the Communists into pitched battle, for during the eight-year war the Reds had been strictly hit-and-runners.

Mission accomplished! But the good General, who favors a yellow Arab robe and leather sandals at night, hooked a fish too big to handle. Apparently the Red Command, after consulting a Geneva office, decided to make an issue of Dien Bien Phu.

Defenders Of Indo-China

THE FRENCH: They control own forces, plus Vietnam army.

LEGIONNAIRES: They're part of the expeditionary troops.

NATIVES: Loyal Vietnamese have home guard, also army.

MOROCCANS: Other territorials are in the battle, too.

It has been a headline victory. Primitive Orientals who can't read a menu have made suicide attacks, hoping to make Page One. By spotlighting the plight of an isolated Beau Geste fortress, the Communists have made the West think all Indo-China is threatened. Unfortunately, too many Frenchmen think it is dandy to create such an impression.

In the mathematics of war the Reds have been not so wise. They have committed 40,000 of their 125,000 regular troops (they have 175,000 guerrillas). Those who know the screaming, open field running of Asiatic assault believe the French, who note 7000 enemy bodies around the ramparts.

And The Face Of The Commie

Not one major French position has been challenged during the weeks Dien Bien Phu was on trial. French planes lord the skies; French ships control adjacent seas. French planters continue to mind the rubber and copra. French factories continue to clothe and shoe the natives.

The defeatists on the Champs Elysees might think of evacuation

INDO-CHINA RED: Rebel forces are estimated at 400,000.

34 Scouters Given Order Of Arrow Awards

Thirty-four Adobe Walls Council Scouters today were members of the Order of the Arrow, honorary camping organization of the Boy Scouts of America.

They were among 61 Scouters on hand last week at Camp Kiawah, north of Charleston, for the annual Order-of-the-Arrow week end, according to Paul Beisenherz, council Scout executive.

From Saturday afternoon to Sunday afternoon, events consisted of several project completions, repair and painting of canoes and boats, rifle range, installation of a 1,000-gallon butane tank, final work on the waterfront and the building of an archery range.

Order of the Arrow is for both Scouts and Scouters. Beisenherz explained. But the Scouters have only one week end a year in which they can become members.

More than 800 Scouts in the council have been registered for one week of the five-week summer camp; the executive continued. A total of 194 of them is registered for the first week, which gets underway May 30.

Landrum Rites Scheduled Today

MIAMI — Funeral services for William Harvey Landrum, 52, were to have been held this afternoon at the Miami Methodist church with Pastor Grady Adcock officiating. Burial was to have been in the Miami cemetery.

Landrum died at his home here early Monday morning. He had been ill for about two months.

Landrum was born Sept. 9, 1901. He was a resident of Miami for the past 18 years and a member of the Miami Methodist church and the Pulaski post of the American Legion at Miami.

Surviving are his wife, Mabel, and a brother, James R. Landrum of Safford, Ariz.

Pallbearers were to be E. L. Locke, Cy Carr, Leo Paris, Kent Philpott, Ben Scott, and Lloyd Nolner.

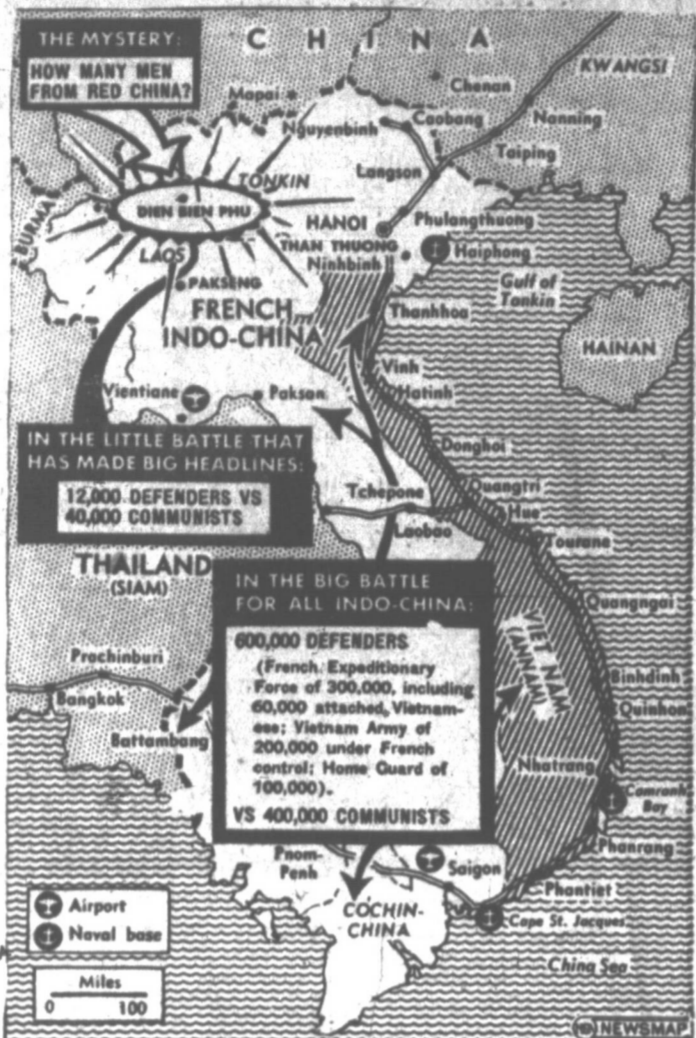

Duenkel - Carmichael funeral home handled the arrangements.

Lost 20 Pounds With Barcontrate

Mrs. Lucile Adams, 9045 Kinell, Dallas, Texas, wrote as follows: "I lost 20 pounds my first two bottles of Barcontrate. I weighed 135. I now weigh 115. Barcontrate is just wonderful."

Mrs. T. H. Alexander, 2110 Thirty-Seventh, Lubbock, Texas, lost 10 pounds taking this home recipe reducer.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to take off ugly fat you return the empty bottle for your money back. At all Texas drugists.

THE ALL-OVER PERSPECTIVE: Relative size of action at Dien Bien Phu to whole Indo-China battle is spelled out on map.

The 12,000 defenders were a small percentage of 600,000 anti-Communists in the expeditionary force, native army and the home guard.

Indo-China is not a land of four-lane paved highways and even main water buffalo paths are dominated by French tanks. (The French have a favorite monsoon weapon: The "crab," a shallow draft landing craft with light armor or that scoops over the swamps like a water bug.)

Meanwhile, monsoon or no, American planes will airlift more paratroopers from France; more American gear will spill on in Hanoi docks of Saigon and Haiphong; more loyal Indo-Chinese battalions will graduate into combat readiness.

no one is packing in Indo-China. Even if so inclined, evacuation of a country is not like checking out of a hotel.

When the U.S. evacuated North Korea in 1950 we took thousands who helped us. Can the French forget the millions whose loyalty would win priority on Red galleys? Or the 40,000 French civilians? There is not a road to walk or a mere channel to cross, but vast oceans, and all allied shipping would still be pressed to carry such cargo.

If Red-Chinese troops bash south the gloom cloud will be genuine. American gear will spill on in Hanoi docks of Saigon and Haiphong and New York, and the worry will be about B-29 bombers in jet planes — not snipers in jungle camouflage.

If the French call it quits because of Dien Bien Phu it will not be for lack of muscle — but for lack of heart.
