Peron Draws Fire From Home Front

BUENOS AIRES-(A)-President Juan D. Peron was confronted today by new opposition at home, apparently because of policies he adopted to restore friendly relations between Argentina and the United States

An unidentified voice mysteriously broke into a nationwide presidential broadcast last night with the shout: "Death to Peron." and there were indications that the interrupter was an extreme Argentina nationalist affronted by the resignation Wednesday of Federal Police Chief Juan Filomento Velazco. #### leftist leanings. Nine New Letter Bombs Discovered

LONDON-(AP)-Scotland Yard reported today that nine new letter bombs for Britons had been found in the mails, making a total of 20 discovered since early this week. Reliable sources said that all 20 of the "murder by mail" letters had been posted in Turin, Italy. Dispatches from Jerusalem, meanwhile, said the so-called Stern Gang, Palestine Jewish underground group, had announced that its European branch has been sending the bombs. Scotland Yard said some of the new bombs were addressed to former cabinet members, but refused to name any of them or to say whether Churchill was among them. Churchill spokesman said the -Prime Minister had no knowledge of any bombs having been sent him. Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and his predecessor, Anthony Eden, were among these to whom the earlier dynamite-laden envel were mailed. None of the bombs has then exploded, except in police tests which have shown them powerful enough to maim or kill a man, Officials said the latest letters were brought across the English Channel by steamer late last night. The new bombs came in slightly larger envelopes than those detected earlier. This confirmed Scotland Yard's belief that the bomb senders would disguise their deadly missives in new ways in an effort to foll rigid security checks.

CHICAGO. June 5—(P)—Most of the activity on the board of trade today was centered in oats, which advanced about a cent to new seasonal highs while wheat and corn showed only minor changes. Best prices in oats were reduced toward the close.

All grains were firm at the start, but wheat and corn soon gave up their advance. Selling in wheat came from houses with southwestern connections and was presumed to represent hedging pressure.

It was officially amounced in Washington that a new scale of flour buying prices by the production and marketing administration represents a cut of 10 cents a hundred pounds from previous paying prices.

LESSON

Both facts are strikingly illustrated in the history of the kings of Judah who came after Hezekiah. Hezekiah, as we have seen, was a relatively good king, and his long reign was marked by safety and prosperity. Included was the remarkance deliverance when the hosts of Assyria were destroyed and turned back by the plague that struck their camp as tacy were about to overwheim Judah.

But the impressive influences of niversary together, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company calculated. The final survivor of the group may expect to live to age 86.

The chances are about 95 in 100 CHURCH OF THE BRITHREN were about to overwhelm Judah.

But the impressive influences of that deriverance were soon torgotten in the long reign of Hezekiah's son, Manasseh, who was a corrupt and evil king. It is recorded that he not only shed innocent blood, but that he sought to overthrow and destroy the religion of Israel.

He set up altars and practices of idolatry and turned to all methods of sorcery and abominable practice. His son, Amon, proved no better, becoming king at the age of 22, but re reigned for only two years when his own servants conspired against him and slew him.

Then came the good son of a bad CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE him and slew him.

Then came the good son of a bad father. The conspirators against Amon were themselves slain by those who took Josiah, Amon's son, then a boy of 8, and made him king. He ruled ludah for 31 years, and he must have been under good influences from the first, for as boy and man he was commendably great and strong.

Good and well-intentioned men are often lacking in initiative and force-Dr. Do iglas Nelson, pastor. 9:46 a.m.

fulness in action, but King Josiah was aggressive and competent in his goodnes. He vigorously attacked the idolatrous places and practices, threw down and destroyed the altars of iniquity, and restored the Temple as the place of true worship.

It was in this restoration of the Temple that the "Book of the Law," the book of Deuteronomy in our Bible, was discovered. It became the occasion for an impressive dedicatory service in which king and people made a covenant to obey its precepts and serve the one God.

Centuries later Jesus proclaimed the spiritual nature of the true God, whose worship is in spirit and in truth and is not confined to temples, mountains, or other professedly holy places. But the effect of the reforms under Josiah was to purify religion of its abuses. In its emphasis on the holy place it destroyed the unholy places; and unholiness, whether in place or in person is the dential of essential goodness and of all true worship.

SING 'ROCK-A-BYE,' AND DEVELOP A BETTER WORLD?

If it were of no importance to build future generations, perhaps there would be no further use for life on earth. At least that is generally accepted as a truth.

So it is, man is a self-appointed task-master, and we set out as adult human beings to form the minds and bodies of our offspring to the best ends for them and their society of tomorrow. But the task-and it is no small one-is not always well attended. Then, in most cases, we have Gazette-Telegraph, to justify his misfits who turn out, much of the time at least, to be delinguents.

A delinquent, the sociologists tell us, turns out to be a criminal; and the statisticians then add that he costs the people of the state about $25,000.

It is also generally agreed if we could have better individuals in society, we would have a better state and nation. Then, if we could have a better nation, we could have a better world.

In that respect, a release sent out to newspapers-one of which we have on our desk at this writing-from The Book of Knowledge, New York, quotes Bing Crosby as saying the world's most urgent problem is "peace." Well, now, Bing is just a singer, but it seems he has a good idea, as well as a voice. The Book says Joe E. Brown (the Mouth) thinks the biggest problem is "man's unfriendliness to man.'

As an answer to these problems, both prescribe education of youth in the importance of faith in God and in humanity. It seems, they say, that faith has been pretty well forgotten in our training of youth-who in a few years will be running the world.

More attention is being given the subject of early youth training. For instance, the other day a leader in the field of music suggested at Chicago that mothers go back to the rocking chair and "Little Baby Bunting" songs. Not many Would you tell a child years ago it was a common sight to see mother rocking her youngest, chanting the familiar "Rock-a-Bye-Baby."

Music, as Longfellow is credited with saying, "is the universal language of mankind." Since it's so often said men "don't speak the same language," maybe we should tation I cite from Jesus to get your all teach our children music; for, as John Erskine said, approval and have you tell me "music is the only language in which you cannot say a mean or sarcastic thing."

Brawls, from the street corner variety to the no-man's other individual ever had a right land kind, get started because somebody says a mean to use force to make another perthing or two.

It would be nice, indeed, if we could stop wars-and have better citizens-by merely singing "Rock-a-Bye" to believe the anarchy, then how can the coming generation.

Do you think you could transfer to the State the right to make every person attend and support Protestant churches? Where did Jesus ever advocate the use of compulsion, coercion or

We have one of the nicest, cleanest, small cafe in these parts for sale...

I have looked this cafe over carefully, and I will say that it really is a nice one. The equipment is in top shape, and there is plenty of it... It is located at Lefors and wastoperated by Mrs. Little. She built the business up to where she was taking in around $1800 a month... We are going to have to sell this nice little cafe, so we have put the price down to $1750.00 for a quick sale... If you had to replace the fixtures you couldn't buy them for $3500... You don't have to have all cash, as we can fix that up... The rent is reasonable, and the location couldn't be beat... This would make an ideal small business for a couple, and you could make some money out of it... I'd a whole lot rather have something like this than working for the other fellow.

We have a good branding and dehorning chute worth the money. The owner is moving away and said for us to sell it for something. It's portable... can be set up anywhere.... Plenty of good houses . . farms . . . steel fence posts . . . saddles . . . ranches . . . anything . . . We'll even buy your cattle . . .

THE STORY: I was off in THE STORY: I was off in bonrding school when the Tollivers first came to Otsego. Father wrote that in a short time Mrs. Tolliver and her three daughters had aiready provided plenty of food for gossip. They had rented the big Carstens house next to ours, aithough everyone knew their finances were limited. The two youngest girls—Flora and apanip makeing a play for the two well-to-do and middle-aged bachelors: Sam and Nelson Korbes. When I came home for vacation, the Tollivers gave me a "surprise party." Father suggested I entertain in return. The simple affair I thought of assumed gigantic proportions when Flora and Ambable took a hand gigantic proportions when Flora and Annabelle took a hand.

THE party, which as first planned would have cost twenty or twenty-five dollars, came to well over two hundred. But it was an enormous success and was talked about in Otsego for years.

One hundred and forty-odd sat down to supper at flower-decked, candle-lit tables. We had not only the Spanish rice, but turkeys and hams; shrimp as well as sweetbread salad: rolls, coffee, ice cream in molds, a dozen home-made cakes, a cheese tray, crackers, and punch.

As it slowly darkened, a dozer boys under Leah's direction lighted 190 Chinese lanterns. Flora had talked me into getting an orchestra from Ithaca and, as she said, they were divine. We danced during supper and after on a cement platform which stood in one corner of our lawn and which we had waxed for the occasion. At nine o'clock the full moon

WE received in front of a blooming syringa bush that made the air deliciously sweet. Father had a new white silk suit and looked every inch the judge. I was in flesh-pink chiffon and carried red roses. I had never been so happy. As it was the first real party I had given since my mother died, all the older women made much of me for my mother's sake. And everyone was more than kind to Florabelle and Annabelle. And never for long did they cease their golden praise for Father and me.

IN talking over the party beforehand, I had said to Father that if all went well and it didn't rain and the moon came up, I was willing to bet that one or both the Forbeses would propose before the evening was over. Father refused to bet. He said the poor simps hadn't a chance, what with soft music, moonlight, the fragrance of roses and syringas, and four determined women combined in a pack against them.

Flora and Annabelle had supper with the two Forbeses, but Flora was seldom at the table, for she was dancing with this one, that one, and then more and more often with Bob Finneran. Cousin Sam loved to dance, but he had never bothered to learn the new steps. For a little while he stood on the edge of the platform and watched Flora dancing cheek to cheek with Bob Finneran. Then he turned on his heel and went home in a huff, without even bothering to tell me good night.

Neither did Nelson know the new steps. For a little while Annabelle refused to dance and stood hanging on Nelson's arm and watching the rest of us. But An-nabelle was only 22. After a little the lilt of the music was too much for her. When Dick Salmon insisted that she dance with him and Nelson himself said gravely it. would be a pity for her not to, she went off with Dick. Nelson stood long time and watched her wist-
