Hobart Reports To Benson On Trip June 10

Fred A. Hobart, 215 N. Hobart, will report June 10 to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and, possibly, President Eisenhower on his 37-day jaunt through Asia as a member of a 10-man commission to determine how U.S. surplus goods could be used by foreign countries.

Back home today from the trip which began April 11 in New York City, Hobart said there were two obstacles in such a matter: (1) the price of the goods and (2) the currency of each country.

Visited Many Countries
The Pampa native and his nine colleagues in their travels visited Pakistan, India, Burma, Thailand, Indonesia, Sumatra, Saigon, Singapore, Manila, Hong Kong, Tokyo and Honolulu.

Each member of the commission represented a different agricultural product, Hobart said. They included wheat, flour, cotton, rice, soy beans, dairy products, "I represented beef," he commented.

Hobart found two countries where he thought the United States could dispose of some of its canned beef. They were The Philippines and Saudi Arabia.

Pointing out he was certain the foreign trade mission was a good thing, the long-time Pampa said, "We tried to improve relations with everywhere we went." First they would visit the U.S. embassy in a country; then they would meet with the officials; and, finally, they would talk with private traders.

Idea for such a commission came in one of Ike's speeches to Congress, Hobart recalled. But the actual trip was under the auspices of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Chairman of the committee was Homer Brinkley, Washington, D. C., head of the American Federated Co-Operatives.

Arriving at Anghu airport Friday, Hobart said he was glad to find out he had some rain," he commented.

Reds Nabbed In Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan, May 31 — UP—Reports from Dacca said Monday the central government had arrested 153 persons in its crackdown on Communist-led violence in east Pakistan.

The reports said two former ministers in the cabinet which was dismissed Sunday were among those arrested.

Names of the ministers were not disclosed immediately.

The cabinet dismissed ousted the United front party for failing to take action against Communists and other alleged subversive elements.

Reliable sources predicted the dismissal and imposition of rule-by-law in the stormy eastern province will be followed by a nationwide roundup of known Communist and subsequent outlawing of the Communist party.

Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Jinnah said he had been resting in bed since he was named chief minister, as "a traitor to Pakistan" for failing to break up the Communist-led labor riots that killed 400 persons last month.

Juvenile Delinquency

PASTOR USES SON AS SERMON TOPIC

SAN ANTONIO, May 31 — UP—A Baptist preacher, his voice choked with emotion, chose his own son Sunday as the topic for a sermon on juvenile delinquency.

The Rev. Luther B. Osborne's son is in jail, charged with beating a 12-year-old boy to death with a broken pool cue in a $19 robbery.

In the center foreground is Homer Brinkley, Washington, D. C., head of the American Federated Co-Operatives, who was chairman of the Asia group. Two other 10-man missions went to Latin America and Europe at the same time. Hobart was gone 47 days and covered a good part of Asia.

Dworshak Labels Charges As Bunk

WASHINGTON, May 31 — UP—Henry C. Dworshak (R-Ida.) said Monday Democratic charges of "whitewash" in the Army-McCarthy hearings are "all bunk."

Dworshak's successful motion to drop two of the six principals from the case now before the Senate Investigations subcommittee drew protests of "a slick whitewash" from Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), another subcommittee member.

The Idaho Republican, who is taking Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's seat on the subcommittee for the duration of the hearings, said no member of the Eisenhower administration prompted his motion, which eliminated McCarthy aide Francis P. Carr and assistant Defense Secretary H. Struve Hensel as principals and witnesses in the dispute.

The battle is being waged on the Army's charges that McCarthy, Carr and Counsel Roy M. Cohn used threats and pressure to get favored treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine former unpaid subcommittee consultant; and McCarthy's countercharges that the Army had "blackballed" Los Angeles mail carrier "Whitney" in an effort to bar McCarthy's investigation of it. City Pool To Be Opened

Tuesday 1 p.m. is the time that municipal swimming pool opens for the summer season, according to City Mgr. Fred Brook.

The pool will be open from 1 to 8 p.m. each day until the tentative closing date, Sept. 2, Brook said.

Pension Hike May Get Lost

WASHINGTON, May 31 — UP—A recommended $31,722,000 annual increase in veterans' pension and compensation payments Monday appeared likely to get lost in the congressional adjournment rush.

The increase, which would benefit all but a handful of the 3,478,372 ex-servicemen on Veterans Administration rolls March 31, and their dependents was unanimously approved by the House Veterans committee last week.

But the government economy and time appear to stand in the way of full congressional approval.

Committee members predicted it would be overwhelmingly passed by the House, provided it comes to a vote. First, however, it must clear the powerful rules committee, and there were indications Monday it may not surmount this hurdle — at least not soon.

The rules group usually sets for the House leadership which is committed to an economy drive that would be jarred considerably by the proposed increase in veterans spending.

Bennington Dead Mourned

QUONSET POINT, R. I., May 31 — UP—Crewmen and officers of the ill-fated aircraft carrier Bennington mourned their dead in a special memorial service Monday shortly after the death toll in the disaster rose to 100.

U.S. Reportedly Will Train Viet Nam Army

Holiday Fatalities Over Nation Recorded At Four Each Hour

By UNITED PRESS
The number of traffic fatalities climbed steadily Monday and headed for a new record for a Memorial Day week end.

A United Press survey showed 245 persons had been killed on the highways since 8 p. m. Friday. Forty-six persons drowned, nine died in plane crashes and 34 died in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 335.

Illinois led the states with 27 traffic fatalities and Gov. William Stratton issued a special appeal for safe driving. Ohio and California each had 17 traffic deaths. New York and Texas each had 13. Michigan and North Carolina 11 and Indiana and Wisconsin 10 each.

Safety experts expect the number of traffic deaths to exceed the figure of 340 they had estimated. The previous record was 335 set in 1952.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, pointed out "the last day of the holiday is always the worst."

The worst Memorial weekend tragedy swept out of the skies onto the northeast Nebraska area surrounding Norfolk Sunday night. A tornado swept through a farm home and at least four persons — all of them children — were killed.

Two children of the Ben Kohl family were killed immediately and their farm home was left "just a tangled mess." The parents and two other children were injured.

The Nebraska tornado was spawned by a storm center that also covered parts of Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska. Violent thunderstorms and possible isolated twisters were predicted for areas in the other states.

Nebraska Tornado Kills Four

NORFOLK, Neb., May 31 — UP—A vicious tornado ripped through northeast Nebraska farm lands Sunday night, destroyed many farm homes and left several dead and many injured.

The known death toll was four. All children, although conflicting reports from rescuers and investigators in the darkness and in rainstorms indicated the eventual final toll might go higher. At least 20 were injured.

The twister, tracing a hop-scotch path through the area, hit at least 13 farm homes, destroying many of them. It left some of the farms littered with rubble, dead livestock, and stumps and shreds of trees.

County Attorney James Brogan asked Gov. Robert Crosby to call National Guard troops to the area. He said the governor promised all children would be rescued.

The parents and two other children were injured. The Nebraska tornado was spawned by a storm center that also covered parts of Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska. Violent thunderstorms and possible isolated twisters were predicted for areas in the other states.

Geneva Group Studies Truce In Indo-China

GENEVA, May 31 — UP—East-West peace negotiators began Monday on the problem of enforcing a truce in Indo-China once a cease-fire is called.

The decision to start military talks was made Saturday at a closed meeting of the nine nations taking part in the negotiations. A date for the start of the talks was expected to be fixed Tuesday.

Western diplomats attending the Geneva conference said they thought the decision to start marking zones in Indo-China and perhaps start to work on the cease-fire had increased the chances for survival of French Premier Joseph Laniel's 11-month government.

The picture had looked gloomy for Laniel until Saturday, inasmuch as parliamentary debate on Indo-China starts Tuesday in Paris.

It had been feared that Communist negotiators would continue their stalling tactics, thus making it increasingly difficult for French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault to return to Paris and face the opposition deputies.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was a notable absentee from the afternoon meeting of the nine-nation group. He flew home early Sunday morning but was expected to return to the conference within a few days.

DR. T. M. JOHNSTON ... takes new post

Snyder Man To Succeed Dr. Johnston

The Rev. Woodrow Adcock, Snyder, will be the new pastor of Pampa's First Methodist church, succeeding Dr. T. M. Johnston.

The Rev. Adcock, who has been pastor of the Snyder Methodist church the past five years, is a graduate of McMurry College, Abilene, and of the Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University.

He served two years as a chaplain in the armed forces. He is married and has three children, two daughters and a son. He and his family are expected to arrive in Pampa the latter part of this week and will conduct his first services Sunday.

The new pastor was assigned here by Bishop William C. Martin, Dallas, at the 45th annual Northwest Texas Methodist conference in Amarillo, which ended Sunday.

Dr. Johnston, who has been pastor of the church the past two years, was named as the new director of the Northwest Texas conference's million dollar superannuation endowment campaign. He was retired at the annual session.

His headquarters will be in Abilene. (See DR. JOHNSTON, Page 3)

Pravda OK Given Eden

LONDON, May 31 — UP—The Moscow Communist party newspaper Pravda said Monday that the Geneva conference has "passed its first milestone on the road to restoring peace in Indo-China."

The dispatch praised British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden but leveled heavy criticism at the French delegation to the Far East peace conference headed by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

The French, it said, "prefer to do nothing and await prompting of the Americans."

The Moscow radio broadcast the Pravda dispatch as Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov flew back to the Soviet capital after leaving Geneva suddenly early Sunday morning.

Pravda charged every move "to reduce the tension in southeast Asia evokes immediate hostility by certain quarters in the United States who are intent on stepping up the arms drive."

The newspaper said the next several days will determine the extent of Western desires to "reach agreement on the cessation of hostilities in Indo-China."

Barnick Wins First Cotton Bale Prize For Third Year

HARLINGEN, Tex., May 31 — UP—Ray Barnick of Mission, Tex., who raced into Harlingen Sunday in his Cadillac convertible to deliver the first bale of cotton, was to get his $2,500 prize Monday.

Barnick won for the third year in a row, but he didn't take his victory calmly. When he roared up to the city hall after a speedy drive from Mission behind a highway patrol car with its siren screaming, he was breathless.

In fact, he said, he was "too excited to talk about it."

Later, though, he calmed down, and when asked how it felt to be the only man to have won the prize offered by the Harlingen Chamber of Commerce three years straight, he replied: "It ain't easy. Lots of farmers are better than I am, but it is a lot of trouble fighting this first bale."

General O'Daniel Heads Discussion

HANOI, May 31 — UP— Viet Nam was reported Monday to have agreed to set up two training centers for use by American officers in building five new Indo-Chinese combat divisions.

A report from Saigon said the Viet Namese high command had reached the agreement with Major Gen. John W. (Iron Mike) O'Daniel, head of the American military mission in Indo-China.

O'Daniel set up a training program in South Korea that built the ROK army into an effective fighting force. The French permitted him to come to Indo-China only after he had agreed to drop his rank from three-star to two-star general.

The general has made several flying trips to Laos and Cambodia, Indo-China's smaller states, for parallel negotiations.

The reported agreement between O'Daniel and the Viet Namese now awaits French approval.

Thus far the French government has opposed bitterly proposals that the United States help train native troops in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

The agreement was made known on the eve of the beginning of debate on Indo-China in France's National Assembly and as Pravda, Communist party organ in Russia, said the Geneva conference had passed its first "milestone" on the road to peace in Indo-China.

French and loyal Indo-Chinese mobile units attacked Communist Viet Minh vanguards in the strategic Yn Phu area in a bid to stall a rebel drive against the southern approaches of the Red River delta.

The French high command said the thrusts against the Red rebel vanguards were designed to break up the Communist move before it can get started.

French and loyal Indo-Chinese units drove the Reds back to the foot of the Khenon hills, which slope down near the town of Phu Ly, capturing stocks of rebel ammunition and light arms.

Most of the action took place between the Day River, where Communists are holed up in air raid-proof limestone cliff caves and route 21, the highway leading from Dien Bien Phu to the Delta.

Beer Date Results In Murder

LEONARDSTOWN, Md., May 31 — UP—Police worked Monday to nail down their case against a handsome young sailor charged with the murder of a Navy Ways he took on a beer date a few hours before her body was discovered mutilated and drowned on a beach.

The sailor, 21-year-old Carl Willie Strickland, of Rocky Mount, N. C., is in jail. St. Mary's County Sheriff Willard Long said he is prepared to have Strickland arraigned next Friday on charges of murdering pretty Irene Marion Conole, a 26-year-old Wave from Rochester, N.Y.

Long said he did not believe Strickland's story that an unidentified hitch-hiker killed the girl, but Long added "there are several other things to investigate."

Miss Conole's body, beaten with a broken pop bottle, was found by a beach stroller early Saturday morning, just a few feet from the water's edge at Point Lookout, Md., where the Potomac River meets Chesapeake Bay.

Both she and Strickland were assigned to the Patuxent Naval Air station a few miles away. Miss Conole was engaged to be married this summer to one of Strickland's Navy buddies, now on minesweeper duty at San Diego, Calif. Strickland has been married for a year.

Detective Lt. T. C. Zimmerman said Strickland reported he and Miss Conole "were making a round of some beer joints together" late Friday night, and decided to park his car and drink whiskey on the beach.

Crash Kills Jet Hero

FORT DIX, N. J., May 31 — UP—A much-decorated young hero of more than 100 missions in the Korean war died in the flaming crash of his jet fighter Sunday while his mother waited at this base to drive him to a holiday family reunion.

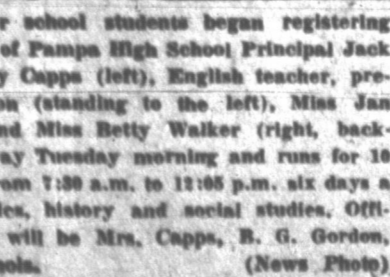

Victim of the crash was Air Force Lt. Charles Green, 34, who, in 100 missions in Korea shot down three Russian-made MIG-15s, was awarded a Distinguished Flying Cross and an Air Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters.

'Sonic Boom' New Weapon?

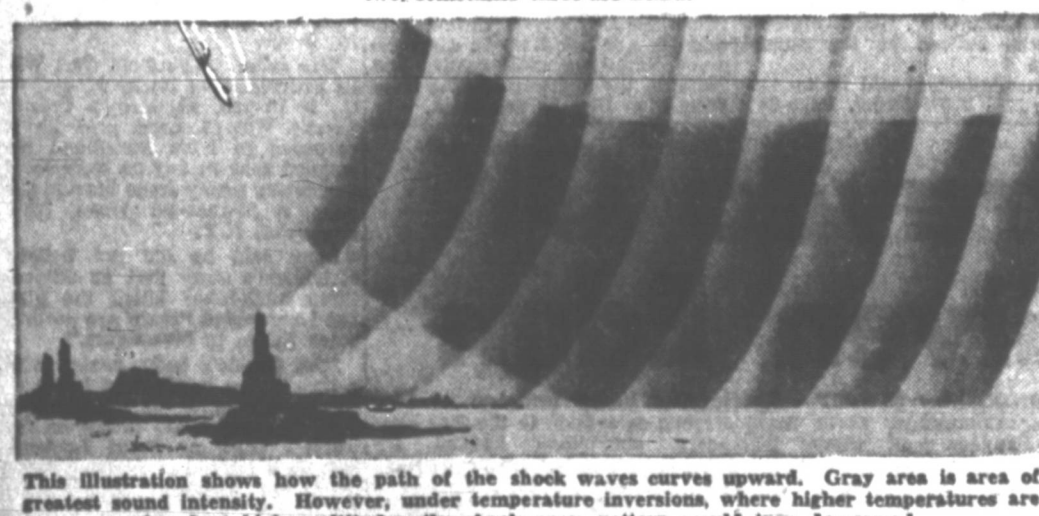

Air Force is studying the possible use of the "sonic boom" as a new tactical weapon. The sonic boom is that man-made thunderclap that's one of the phenomena of our faster-than-sound air age. It comes from shock waves produced when an airplane flies through and beyond the sonic barrier. Its crash and concussion over cities have frightened people and broken windows, suggesting the use of the boom as a tactical weapon. Raymond H. Rice, chief engineer for North American Aviation Co., says: "Shock waves of 50 pounds per square foot could be produced from low-flying supersonic aircraft. This pressure corresponds to a hurricane of 140 miles an hour velocity. Light structures might prove to be extremely vulnerable to this force. Radar detection of low-flying supersonic aircraft is difficult, so there would be no warning. The effects of panic from such a sound attack are enormous. The sketches below, prepared by North American, show how the boom is produced by a supersonic plane going into a dive.—PETER EDSON.

An airplane (upper left corner) flying at sonic speed causes shock waves in the air. There are several. The first one is the bow wave, ahead of the airplane; others spring from the wing and tail. Upon reaching supersonic speed in a dive from high altitude (right photo) a trailing wave is formed and the shock waves are directed toward the ground. Because the waves "bend" upward under normal atmospheric conditions, they actually will strike the ground at a point beyond the aiming point of the airplane. The ground targets (lower right-hand corner) indicate the aiming point (left) and the point the sound actually hits (right).

The airplane slows down, but the shock waves (left) continue at the same speed, thus springing ahead of the plane. The smaller shock waves are absorbed by the major bow and tail waves. The "boom" is heard loudest at a point ahead of the starting point because of the curving of the shock waves. Area of greatest intensity would be target at right. Each big shock wave causes a boom, so often two, sometimes three are heard.

This illustration shows how the path of the shock waves curves upward. Gray area is area of greatest sound intensity. However, under temperature inversions, where higher temperatures are found at higher altitudes, the shock-wave pattern would turn downward.

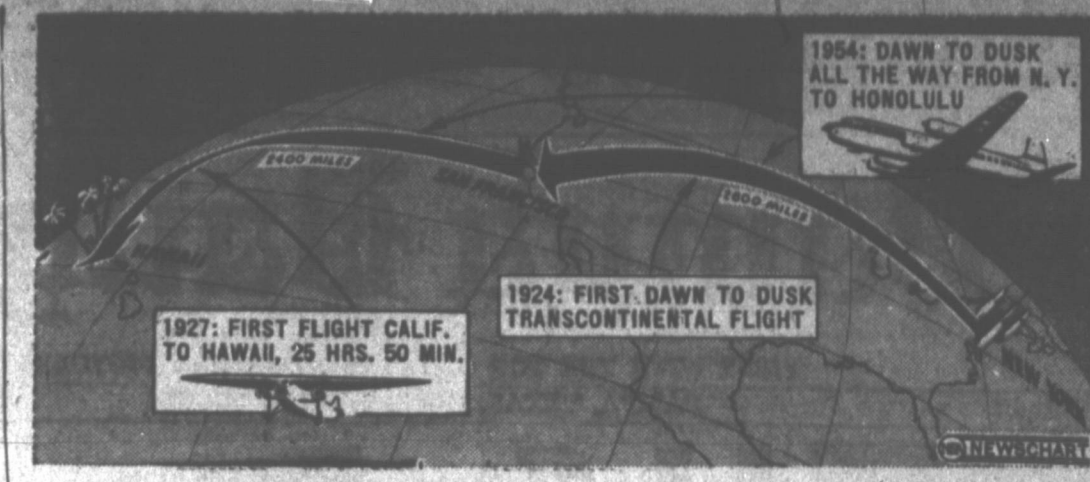

Overseas Jobs To Be Put On Aptitude Basis

WASHINGTON, May 31—UP—The Civil Service commission disclosed Saturday it hopes to put "appropriate" civilian jobs in the military overseas into its competitive service. Whether this is done depends on authority from Congress. But, with that expectation, the commission said it is sending survey teams to make personnel reviews at various installations in Europe and the Far East. Meantime, the commission said, it has taken 50 more jobs out of the competitive service on grounds they are "policy-determining or confidential." This makes them subject to administration patronage.

GOP Patronage Hungry
Altogether, the commission said, 733 positions have now been placed in this category of which 487 were transferred from competitive service, 549 from so-called scheduled A, 244 are new jobs, and two were transferred from scheduled B. The commission has been under strong pressure from patronage-hungry Republicans to make such transfers. The GOP has taken the position that, after 20 years of Democratic patronage, they have the right to fill these jobs with deserving Republicans. Among the positions reclassified as "policy-determining or confidential" were two chauffeurs for the secretary of defense and a private secretary and two technical assistants to each of the three aides of the chief of the Army.

NY-Hawaii Now Dawn-To-Dusk By Air

By NEA Service — Thirty years ago this June, a young Army lieutenant, R. L. Maughan (below, left) wedged himself into the open cockpit of a single-engine Curtiss Pursuit plane and hopped across the continent from New York to San Francisco in 21 hours, 48 minutes elapsed time. It was the first Dawn-to-Dusk transcontinental flight. Sharply defining aviation progress in three decades, commercial aviation has now linked the bright lights of Broadway with the white sands of Waikiki in a new Dawn-to-Dusk flight—the first ever attempted between New York and Honolulu (see map).

A special press inaugural flight in United Airlines DC-7 on May 24 is designed to demonstrate the feasibility of breakfast-in-Manhattan, dinner-in-Hawaii air travel as result of new stepped-up transcontinental flying schedules starting June 1. The luxurious Mainliner is in contrast with the tri-motored Lockheed monoplane in which Lieut. A. F. Hegenberger and L. T. Matland (left to right below, examining) made the first flight from California to Hawaii in 1927. Their flying time was 28 hours, 50 minutes in a plane stripped to its essentials to permit installation of extra gas tanks. The DC-7 will carry a full payload of passengers over the entire 5000-mile route from New York to Honolulu in 17 hours flying time.

Ike Believes In No Work On Sundays

By JOHN L. CUTLER — WASHINGTON, May 31—UP—Backstairs at the White House: President Eisenhower's aversion to public appearances on Sundays led to a change in the date of the commencement exercises at Washington College, a small school in Chestertown, Md. At the request of Mr. Eisenhower, who is going to receive an honorary degree, the date was shifted from Sunday, June 6, to Monday, June 7. The President made his request because he doesn't like to make any public appearances, except for going to church on a Sunday.

Mr. Eisenhower will be the fourth president in history to receive an honorary degree from the small eastern shore school. The others were George Washington, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman. On the basis of the degree conferred on Washington, the school claims to be the first to award such an honor to a president of the United States. There's no reason for a person to go hungry at one of the Eisenhower tea parties at the White House. Mrs. Eisenhower sets a more bountiful table than usually is the case at such affairs. Members of the press were permitted to attend a recent tea party for congressional wives. In addition to the customary tea, coffee, punch, assorted candies and cookies there were about a dozen different varieties of small sandwiches. The sandwiches were a dainty tea-size. But there were plenty of them.

The ladies of the press who attend the social functions at the White House report that Mrs. Eisenhower is just about as gracious a hostess as they've ever met. She mingles easily with the guests and finds some common ground on which to exchange few words of greeting. The first lady was extra delighted at the common ground she found recently when posing for pictures with Mrs. Wheeler Torbert of Columbus, Ga., who visited the White House as "Mother of the Year." A niece of Mrs. Torbert, Katherine McDuffie, is the daughter of Dr. Mercer Blanchard of Columbus, a pediatrician who attends the three small children of Maj. John Eisenhower during his tour of duty at nearby Fort Benning. Mrs. Eisenhower looked at the four Torbert sons who accompanied their mother and observed, "I wish John was here too."

Army Develops Hypodermic Needle That's Harmless

By HERMAN W. NICHOLS — WASHINGTON, May 31—UP—Little kids (and big ones, too) soon may shed their fear of the needle. The Army medical service graduate school here is experimenting with a new hypodermic "needle" that doesn't even sting. It administers shots via "jet gun" apparatus that sends a high pressure stream of medicine through the skin with no pain. Soldiers have had it tried on them, and none has fainted, so far. The only mark left on the victim is something that looks like a fast brush across the flesh that might have been made by the rubber end of a pencil.

Many Shots at Once
The new gun is also remarkable in that it can shoot injections into the arms or legs or hind parts of as many as 100 persons without even re-loading. The gadget won't, of course, for intravenous injections—those that must go into a vein. But, most of the shots given to soldiers or civilians, from typhoid to penicillin, need only to get under the skin and the "jet gun" is a whiz at that. It looks like a Luger pistol with two triggers. The medic pulls one trigger and the magazine is loaded. There is a bottle attached to the butt of the gun that provides the "ammunition," in measured injections. The other trigger when squeezed shoots the serum through the skin without hurt via air-pressure. No puncture. The way the Army puts it: Suction Cup "A small rubber suction cup

Hank Learns Australia Is The Original Land Of Deep Freeze

By HENRY McLEMORE — SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA — The sun never sets on the British Empire, and it's a good thing it doesn't. If it did, Her Majesty would lose half her loyal subjects to frostbite, rigor mortis, chilblains, and flat plain freezing. It's the sun, and the sun only, that Britons the world over depend upon for heat. They scorn such man-made devices as stoves, furnaces, boilers, and radiators. Here in Australia, thousands and thousands of miles from England, the original land of the permanent deep freeze, there is the same fine disdain for warmth. It's coming on winter here, and the winds whistle cold from the mountains, and the Hon on the Royal Coat of Arms has to slip his paw together to keep up his circulation, but you won't find any heat turned on.

This is being written in a lovely suite of the Westworth Hotel, and I should be happy to be hanging away at a typewriter in a sitting room instead of the 5 x 10 single that is my usual hotel accommodations. And I would be, were it not for the fact that I am so cold that if I were grasping a stick in my hands you could peddle me for a popsicle. It is difficult enough to write a column under the most favorable conditions, but to write one while wearing a double-breasted suit, an overcoat, two blankets, and a hot water bottle requires dogged determination, courage, and a tremendous will to win. And I should point out that I am in bed, too, with a down comforter pulled up to my chin.

Unless you have ever tried to manipulate a typewriter in such a fashion, you can have no idea what a difficult task it is. My overcoat sleeve keeps hitting the TAB and MARGIN keys, and the comforter slips down every now and then and produces a series of 4 & 7) and 4-0 symbols, and every two or three minutes the hot water bottle slips off my head and knocks paper, notes, and pencils to the floor.

There is one heating device in the room, but it is such a tiny thing that I am afraid to touch it lest I break it. It is an electric heater, and I give you my word it isn't any bigger than a size 5 shoe. I am sure that it couldn't possibly throw off as much heat as one lightning bug. It wouldn't toast a marshmallow in ten years. Knowing how those who live under the Union Jack feel about visitors who complain about the cold, I wouldn't dare speak to the management. Not that it would do any good if I did. I did mention the lack of heat once to a hotel manager in London and he suggested that I solve my problem by wearing them for a scene in Napoleonic decadence in "Desiree."

"In those days they wore tight under sheer empire-style dresses, but no brassiere," explained the designer. "We will try having our girls in all-over pink tights to give the impression of nudity." The designer thumbed through historical costume books and discovered, to the delight of the publicity department, that fashions in those days were in many ways like the 40s of 1954. "They cut their hair short like Italian hair-cuts of today," he said. "Then they plastered their dresses with water so the fabric would shrink and cling to their bodies. Girls of today do that with blue jeans to make them tight." The movie-makers plan to have the dress-wearing sequence depict a party at the home of Madame Tallien, who in real-life started the Paris fashion. Miss Moreno tried out the wet-dress fashion, with a bathing suit underneath, in Huber's office Monday. She announced it felt clammy.

"Madame Tallien was one of the famous women of Paris after the revolution," continued Huber. "She entertained royalty who had been spared from the guillotine. They wore blood red ribbons around their necks to show they missed the knife. "The women wore transparent gowns that hung straight, with lights underneath but no bras. It was chic to wear very little and be thin. The women ate as little as possible and each would brag about how few ounces her dress weighed. They were jeweled rings on their toes and were very decadent." He thinks 1954 beauties could revive the idea—transparent cocktail or at-home dresses with pink tights (all over) underneath. "Even the madame didn't get away with no-bra in public," he said. "She went outdoors in her transparent gown to walk in a public park and she was stoned!"

LaMaster Tells Of Communist Threat In SA

PERRYTON — Commenting on recent news developments concerning the shipment of arms to Latin American countries, LeRoy "Pete" LaMaster, Republican candidate for Congress, said today that it was time the United States woke up to the serious threat of Communist infiltration occurring in South America.

LaMaster and his wife spent approximately eighteen months touring Panama, all ten of the South American republics, the three Guianas, and twelve of the Caribbean Islands. They went to the interiors of the countries, lived among the people and observed first-hand the anti-American propaganda put out by the Communist workers. In many cases they saw signs and demonstrations praising the Communists and degrading the United States.

He said he was surprised to find that the news reaching the people here at home was so misleading as to the true conditions existing there. This is in regard both to official and unofficial news sources. LaMaster states that it was disturbing to him to find such a seeming lack of knowledge of the true situation among the American Embassy and Consulate personnel with whom he talked. It was also disturbing, he says, to find the same lack of concern among the officials of American companies operating in the South American countries.

LaMaster makes it plain that this condition existed under the past administration and before the Eisenhower administration had time to evaluate and act on the situation on its own behalf.

The trip covered time from December, 1951, through May, 1953. Mr. and Mrs. LaMaster have given many talks and programs since their return to the Panhandle. Speaking before civic clubs, professional organizations, church groups, schools, and farm organizations, they have stressed the threat of the rapid spread of communism throughout the Latin American countries.

LaMaster was quick to agree with Secretary Dulles when he said that the war being waged in Latin America was surely as important as the one in Indochina, the difference being a war of bullets in Indochina and a war for the minds of the people in Latin America.

LaMaster says he feels we can win the war in Latin America by sound and stern action, but that it is important that we have people formulating our policies who know first hand the situations confronting us there.

GREAT LAKES "GATEWAY" TO THE ATLANTIC — When President Eisenhower signed the St. Lawrence Seaway bill, a 60-year debate ended, and a dream became a reality. After completion the Seaway will link the large port cities on the Great Lakes with the Atlantic Ocean. Major project at present will be to cut a 27-foot deep channel from Ogdensburg, N. The next project will be to enlarge and deepen all waterways west of Detroit, so that ocean-going vessels can travel between the Atlantic Ocean and the Mesabi Range in Minnesota. The Seaway is expected to play an important part in the defense plans of both the U. Tubs And Sinks Need Proper Care

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

How gleaming will the new kitchen sink look in five years? Will the brand-new bathroom still be as invitingly immaculate and mirror-bright?

Even if you're getting acquainted with new kitchen sinks shouldn't be abused by prolonged contact with household acids.

4. Flush kitchen, lavatory and tub drains once or twice a week by letting the hot water run for 30 or 40 seconds. The helps to prevent a build-up of grease which can clog the pipes.

5. Use a dilute chlorine bleach to remove kitchen-sink stains, if you wish, but remember that it may dull the gloss on nonacid-resisting finishes. It should have no effect on colored or acid-resisting finishes.

6. Blanket the bottom of the bathtub with mat or papers when you stand in it to hang shower curtains or to wash walls. As an alternate way to prevent scratching the finish, take off your shoes in either case, WATCH YOUR STEP.

7. Fix leaking faucets at once. In addition to the water they waste, leaky faucets cause mineral deposits to accumulate quickly, and they're hard to remove.

TROUBLE AHEAD
You're heading for trouble if you:

1. Empty cooking fats or grease down the kitchen-sink drain.
2. Let a garbage strainer stand in the sink with its cargo of peelings and tea or coffee grounds. It's better to empty the strainer after each meal rather than to risk the staining and roughening action of acids.
3. Permit amateur photographers to use kitchen or bathroom sinks for developing or printing their rolls of film.
4. Dump bucketful of dirty cleaning solutions into sinks or bathtubs. The heavy bucket, bang-

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Johnny's mother has just packed his winter coat away in a camphor to preserve it against moths. She did this because she's seen, with her own eyes, how moths destroy wool.

Unlike holes in woolen coats, moral damage is not visible to the human eye. We cannot see, for example, the holes bored in human fibers by anger and condemnation. For this reason, Johnny's mother may be ignoring the important lesson in self-preservation waiting to be drawn for him in the current widespread and angry condemnation of child vandals. It is here that this column will arouse her to her opportunity. And that, instead of limiting our concern to the visible property damage shown us in newspaper pictures, we will all begin to exorcise it to the invisible human damage they really illustrate.

For as parents, we should know that child destroyers who deliberately provoke such general wrath do not provoke it out of self-preservation impulses, but out of self-destructive ones.

Let us make this point to Johnny in terms he can understand. For he is not sincerely interested in the destruction of real estate. As he owns no real estate, its value, like adult rage over its loss of value, is theoretical to him.

He is, however, sincerely interested in his own comfort and sense of importance. A normal child, he has already experienced some angry condemnation and knows how it's affected his comfort and sense of importance.

So when we show him the newspaper photos of damaged property, let's recall to him the damage done to him last summer by angry condemnation. Let's recall to him how we both had to work to help him recover his sense of ease and importance after he broke his uncle's lawn mower.

He'll say, "All right, son. You remember how you felt that week Uncle Jim kept telling you you were the most careless boy he ever knew. Multiply what you felt 100,000 times. Then you'll get just a little idea of what it's like to have a whole town think you the worst boy it ever knew. And you'll begin to see why it's foolish to go through things which attract all those angry feelings to you."

We're not doing so well with our demands that children respect other people's property. Perhaps we ought to change our approach.

Perhaps, instead of asking people who aren't ready to care about property to show respect for it, we'd better ask them to start caring about themselves.

That way we make the cause of preserving our property, the estate the cause of our child's own self-preservation.

Cook's Nook

For brides-to-be, here's a lover's knot hint about sugar and spice. It comes from Mrs. Clayton Rohrbach, Jr. of Rochester, N. Y. She's a former home economics teacher and knows her spices. The pie recipe is hers, too.

Lover's Knot Rolls
(Yield: 2 dozen rolls)

One-half cup butter or margarine, 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 packages activated dry yeast, 1/2 cup warm water (110 to 115 degrees F.), 1 tablespoon sugar, 3 eggs, 2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract, 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon.

Mix butter or margarine with 1/2 cups flour until the mixture resembles corn meal. Soften yeast in warm water (not hot). Add sugar and stir into the flour mixture until smooth. Cover. Let stand 30 minutes.

Beat in eggs, salt and vanilla extract. Gradually add the remaining flour. Cover. Let rise in a warm place 80 to 85 degrees F. until double in size.

Pinch off pieces of dough the size of walnuts and roll in a mixture of the nuts and the 1/2 cup sugar and cinnamon. Then roll into 6-inch lengths and tie to form a knot. Place on greased cookie sheets. Let rise about 10 minutes at room temperature. Bake 12 to 15 minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees F.).

Fresh Blueberry Pie

One 1/2 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 4 cups fresh blueberries, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie.

Combine first 7 ingredients. Turn into 9-inch pie plate, lined with pastry. Dot with butter or margarine. Roll out remaining pastry, rolled into 1/4-inch thickness. Trim, turn under and flute edge. Cut a-gash in the top crust to allow steam to escape. Bake 40 minutes. Let until crust is brown in a hot-oven (325 degrees F.).

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Miss Friend

I am married and the mother of two lively children.

I have done everything I could think of to be a good mother and wife. I really work hard to keep the house up and the children well fed and clean. I do all of the laundry including a shirt a day for my husband.

And still he isn't pleased. It isn't that he ever says anything it is just that he is always withdrawn and bored and never wants to be around the house. If he is he just reads and never takes any part in the home life.

I can't tell you how long it has been since he has shown the least affection or interest in me.

Of course I think I know the trouble. That he just doesn't care about me anymore. I can't help but feel that all of his love for me is dead and I can't do anything about it more than I have done.

Do you think I am wrong in staying with him when I know he doesn't want me? It is true that I don't know what I could do to support myself and take care of the children. I would be helpless if he decided to leave me but he has never even suggested it although I think he goes out with women at the office once in a while.

What shall I do, Grace? Just continue to pretend that everything is all right even though my heart is breaking?

Mrs. L. V.

Care For Nails

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

An ingrown toenail can be a most painful thing, preventing you from getting the healthful walking exercise you need, as well as forcing you to pay extra bus and taxi fares.

For a simple case that has not become infected, soak foot in warm soapy water. Rinse and dry carefully. Apply alcohol to the area. Tuck a little cotton under the toenail to keep it from pressing into the flesh before putting on your stocking.

An extremely painful or an infected ingrown toenail means you should consult a podiatrist or your family physician. Perform no "bathroom surgery."

To prevent such a condition from occurring again, have your foot measured every time you buy shoes to make sure they aren't too short. Too-short shoes can also cause ingrown toenails. When the nail can't grow forward because of the short shoe or stocking, it must grow to the side.

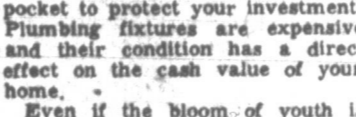

A good pedicure can help prevent ingrown toenails and other toe conditions. Cut the nails straight across with scissors and finish with the fine side of an emery board. Never cut or file the corners of the nails.

After you have soaked and dried your feet, push back the cuticle with a towel and loosen and remove dead cuticle with an oily cuticle remover. Orangewood stick dipped with cotton is safer to use than a metal instrument. Rub in some shoe hand cream or a soothing cream containing camphor and menthol.

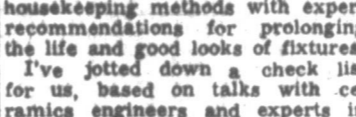

Are you more inclined to want to do things for and to share pleasures with?

The answer to that one is easy. When we write "Having a wonderful time; wish you were here," it is always to a person who is connected in our minds with the things he likes and gets pleasure from.

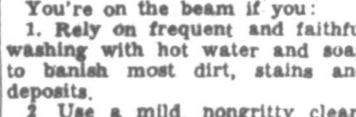

And when we say "I thought of you when I saw or did such-and-such," we are talking to a person who has made the things he likes—the things he hates—important in his thoughts and in his conversation.

Use an unprotected enamel against the finish, can chip the enamel. And waste water may contain material that will clog the drains. (It's also an unsanitary habit.)

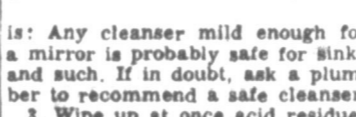

7. Fix leaking faucets at once. In addition to the water they waste, leaky faucets cause mineral deposits to accumulate quickly, and they're hard to remove.

8. Try to remove water deposits or paint splatters with a razor blade. You stand a good chance of chipping or scarring the finish, and this method is highly unsatisfactory. Some residue always remains, and must be scrubbed off in any event.

7. Ignore the unnecessary damage Dad or Junior can do if they use the bathtub rim as a stand for their shoes while they shine them. Banish the boys to the basement or utility room when shoe shining time comes round.

RUTH MILLET

Over and over again the word "hates" crops up in her conversation. She "hates" this or that television show, radio commentator, or novelist.

She "hates" this or that food. She "hates" certain persons and even certain types of people.

She "hates" business firms where she has had an unhappy experience.

She "hates" certain traits in others. She "hates" to see people act this way or that way.

After only a short acquaintance you could sit down and write a long list of all the things she hates. And yet it is just as easy to spend one's life looking for, and thinking about, the things one likes.

Then through one's conversation runs a different thread — liking and approval instead of hate.

If you know a person whose satisfaction comes from liking instead of hating, you could easily make a list of things that person likes, things that give him pleasure. And which of these two persons

Dear Miss Friend

I am married and the mother of two lively children.

I have done everything I could think of to be a good mother and wife. I really work hard to keep the house up and the children well fed and clean. I do all of the laundry including a shirt a day for my husband.

And still he isn't pleased. It isn't that he ever says anything it is just that he is always withdrawn and bored and never wants to be around the house. If he is he just reads and never takes any part in the home life.

I can't tell you how long it has been since he has shown the least affection or interest in me.

Of course I think I know the trouble. That he just doesn't care about me anymore. I can't help but feel that all of his love for me is dead and I can't do anything about it more than I have done.

Do you think I am wrong in staying with him when I know he doesn't want me? It is true that I don't know what I could do to support myself and take care of the children. I would be helpless if he decided to leave me but he has never even suggested it although I think he goes out with women at the office once in a while.

What shall I do, Grace? Just continue to pretend that everything is all right even though my heart is breaking?

Reports circulating both here and abroad said Fortuny was dismissed for straying from the party's official policy line.

Hall & Pinson Offers Fine Selection Of Arthur Fullmer Seat Covers

You can find the right seat covers in size, color and design for your car at Hall & Pinson. "Seat Cover Headquarters," 700 W. Foster, dial 4-3521.

And the right seat cover can add miles of extra wear, in addition to beauty, to the interior of your car.

Hall & Pinson maintains the largest stock of seat covers in the entire Panhandle, and one of the 10 largest stocks in the State of Texas.

When a motorist drives up we can show him a variety of styles, covers and designs and select one to fit his car. Leonard Hall, owner, said.

Hall & Pinson adds another feature to its seat cover business; a guaranteed fit. It takes skill and experience to fit seat covers correctly, Hall said. "We insist on a good fit. If the covers are not fitted properly, motorists do not get all the wear they are buying."

Hall & Pinson's giant stock of seat covers gives motorists a good selection from which to choose the right style, design and color for their type and model of automobile.

We need various colors, designs and sizes to fit not only every car on the market, but need them to fit every model of every car. It wouldn't do to show a Chevrolet owner a set of seat covers made to fit a Ford. Or to show a sedan owner a set of covers made for a coupe. To give the owner of any car a good selection of seat covers we must show him a variety of covers made for his make and model of car.

Other lines Hall & Pinson carries include Mercury outboard motors for boats, the Cris-Craft boat kit, the Bowman boats, marine paint, evaporative air coolers — sales and service, and Kelly Springfield automobile tires, fishing and hunting needs — rods, reels, lures, books, rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

Patrons of all Hall & Pinson's lines know the firm's attitude: "We treat each person who comes in here as a friend we want to please. We try to please him by being courteous, by doing the 'extras' busy people must get and by the excellence of the work we do," Hall said.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

"HOLLYWOOD" — (NEA) — Behind the Screens: Marilyn Monroe won her battle with Fox not to do the "Glorious Calendar" number in "There's No Business Like Show Business." Irving Berlin, who wrote it for her, didn't know Miss Crazy Hips now wants to forget the Calendar Girl publicity.

Mike Meshekov, who broke with Jack Webb and pocketed a million for his interest in "Dragnet," and Jeff Chandler are getting together for a television series. The hero is a San Francisco newspaperman. There's a tug-of-war between Tony Curtis and Robert Wagner. Both want to play the swashbuckler in a remake of "The Mark of Zorro." Tyrone Power made it last time out.

Jennifer Jones and David O. Selznick are hoping for a bundle marked "Glorious Baby" in August. Even at this stage of maternity, Jennifer works out daily with Walter Saxon, the body beautiful expert who has trained her since "Song of Bernadette."

Harry Chmring titles it "Por Favor, Porfiorio." "I often stop and sigh as I go about my chores. I've had my fill of Zoo Zoo. And other g-a-g-a-bores."

Walter Wagner, who will film Caryl Chessman's best seller, "Cell 2455, Death Row," was among those who bombed California Gov. Goodwin Knight with stay of execution letters. Says Wagner: "No plot will be gained by snuffing out Chessman's life. I don't think he should go free. But I do think he should be studied. Society can learn a lot about the criminal mind from Chessman."

The Barbara Logan starred in Firebird Theatre's "The Man Who Liked to Kill" is the doll who made headlines a couple of years ago as a lion tamer. She was clawed and switched to emoting.

Colleen Miller complained about Shelley Winters' jabs and laashes during filming of "Playgirl." Now she's crediting Shelley with guiding her into the fine performance that landed her the lead in U.I.'s "Shadow Mountain."

Video Fame note: Patti Moore and Ben Lesny's night-club act has new box-office zip since Ben's appearance on "Make Room for Daddy." The ads now read: "In Person — Danny Thomas' TV Pina Player."

Jane Russell's RKO make-up man, "Shotgun" Britton, goes a-movie with her for the independent movies she will make away from the studio. Joan Crawford's ex-husband, Phil Terry, operates the Bay Beach Realty Company in the Newport-Balboa area, when he's not working in telefilms.

Inside on the assignment of Sheree North to "Pink Tights" is that Marilyn Monroe wouldn't sign her new Fox contract until the studio assured her she would not have to do the picture. Bill Actor, who designs fancy stationary for film stars, filled a big order for Judy Garland — gray writing paper to match the color scheme of her home.

That handsome man in the robes of the Franciscan order at the recent Catholic Congress in San Francisco was Father Jose Mojica. The former singing idol gave up his movie career years ago to become a priest in Peru and wouldn't discuss his film past with anyone.

Playwright Sam Larsen, who scripted MGM's upcoming "The Prodigious" for Lana Turner, is a cerebral palsy victim. He's been confined to a wheel chair for many years.

"Where the Wind Dies" is Hollywood's first attempt at split screen magic in a big screen movie. Yvonne de Carlo plays the dual roles of sisters and they converse in several scenes. Although Errol Flynn was ready, willing and able to play the role of the dashing highwayman in "Captain Lightfoot," U-I tagged Jeff Morrow for the role.

Vincent Price turns director in the Ida Lupino-Coiller Young production of "Embrace" that will star Dorothy Dandridge. He's been plotting the switch to the other side of the camera for years.

Customer to girl clerk in Hollywood grocery store: "What's that around your neck?" "Why, a necklace, of course," said the surprised clerk. "Oh, replied the customer. 'Things are so high around here I thought it was your garter.'"

TV STAGE RADIO RECORDS PEOPLE

This is Atlantic City's 100th birthday, and there are little light-house signs sprinkled along the boardwalk to announce the celebration. The summer season hasn't started yet, but the conventions keep coming all year around.

Conventioners walk along the boardwalk with their badges, pinned to their lapels like beacons for the concessionaires. The beach, this cold spring, is deserted except for local boys playing baseball. But the hot dogs sizzle on the boardwalk grills, the salt water taffy machines keep turning and the rolling chairs keep rolling along.

Atlantic City is a hale and hearty old-timer. Even the boardwalk splinters look jaunty this anniversary year.

The city fathers confidently expect a happy new century. Especially with the new Garden State Parkway almost completed. This will link with the New Jersey Turnpike, which leads to New York. It will make the currently sticky drive from New York to Atlantic City — 120 miles — a dream that can be done in a little over two hours.

"You know," says one Atlantic City executive, "when the Parkway is open, it'll be easier to get from Manhattan to Jones Beach." Jones Beach, on Long Island, is now New York's most popular swimming hole. But Atlantic City's hotels are already jammed in the summer, so this new influx will be hard to accommodate. Fortunately, there's no shortage of sand.

One of Atlantic City's prides is Skinny D'Amato. Skinny is a local boy who made good locally, but is pretty well known as far afield as Las Vegas and Los Angeles. His friends insist that if you went to Pago Pago and said you were from Atlantic City, the natives would say, "You know, Skinny?"

His fame is based on the nightclub he owns, the 500 Club. This is the place where Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis first got together, and Skinny was the catalyst in the experiment. During the summer months, the biggest names in business play the 500 Club, although the performance offers of the high-priced spots of New York or Florida or Los Angeles.

But they all come to Skinny's because they like the guy. It's easy to understand. He was on crutches when I visited him — result of a mad moment playing volleyball, but he still played host, in his friendly manner.

"I took the place over for nothing," he said. "My Dad owned it 30 years ago, but he died. My mother died, too, and there were eight of us kids. When I finally got this place, the whole family helped me decorate it. My uncle, my brother, my nephew and I painted it."

He keeps expanding. He pointed to a back wall, which will be knocked down for another room. What that's done, the 500 Club will seat 700.

Frank Sinatra played the Club, and Skinny says, with pride, that Sinatra had a desk-full of offers.

Egypt Tricks Revolutionists

CAIRO, May 31 — UP—Egypt Monday committed 26 persons for trial by a military court on charges of conspiring to overthrow the government by "methods similar to those used by Lenin, Stalin and Russia."

The 26, including two women, four lawyers, two doctors and government officials, were indicted for allegedly forming a secret league to propagate class hatred and distribute leaflets attacking the regime of Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser.

They were not connected with 16 army officers now on trial on mutiny charges.

The indictment charged the defendants attacked the Nasser regime as a "military clique subservient to imperialism" and plotted to eliminate property holders.

So Write The People—Conflicting Reports

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — What people write to their congressmen often isn't fit to print. But Juliet Lowell has just come out with a new edition of her "Dear Mr. Congressman" which includes some of the choicer examples of printable fan mail received by the lawmakers on Capitol Hill. Here are a few samples:

To Rep. Frank J. Becker (R. N. Y.): "Don't vote on anything more. You already done enough damage."

To Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind. Ore.): "Why don't you rent yourself out to haunt houses?"

To Rep. J. A. Blanton (D. Minn.): "What are you doing about everything?"

To Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R. N. Y.): "My local paper says you're coming to town. If it's for groupings, I'll be there."

To Rep. Adam C. Powell (D. N. Y.): "I would like some information about the United Nations. Who unified them and when?"

To Sen. Harley M. Kilgore (D. W. Va.): "Please try to have them to put off the next presidential election. I already got enough of this one."

Congress got around to passing some dandy laws in April and no foolin'. Here's a partial list of things done to save the country:

To change the name of Appomattox Courthouse National Historic Monument to the Appomattox Courthouse National Historical Park.

Providing for exchange of certain lands in Puerto Rico.

Designating April 9, 1964, as Bataan Day.

(This last-mentioned bill was signed by the President on April 8, which didn't give its backers much time to organize a celebration.)

A major headache of the Army in trying to wind up its Korean war casualty lists comes from the conflicting stories which G.I. veterans tell the Army authorities in the one hand, and what they tell the parents and wives of missing soldiers on the other.

Apparently inspired by misplaced compassion, soldiers returning from the war tell the relatives of some G.I. buddy that they saw him alive and well at such and such a place on such and such a date. They hate to tell that they saw the man wounded or killed. This in turn inspires the family of a G.I. reported missing in action to write the Army to challenge a "presumed dead" finding. Investigation often shows survivors have told two different stories.

Blaming the huge surplus of government-owned dairy products on the consumer is one of the novel themes which Department of Agriculture is harping on to move its stores of milk, butter and cheese bought under the price-support program.

If people would just drink more milk and eat more butter and cheese, so the sales talk goes, there wouldn't be any surplus.

Incidentally, United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund — UNICEF — claims it is one of the best customers for U.S. dry milk solids, having bought 55 million pounds, one eighth of the surplus last year. The U.S. government donated about $10 million to UNICEF last year.

In other words, the deal works this way: First, the U.S. government buys the surplus from American farmers. Then the government gives other millions to UNICEF to help buy the surpluses which the U.S. government has already paid for once.

It would be cheaper to give the milk to UNICEF free, and cut down on the appropriation.

Felix Edgar Wormser, Assistant Secretary of Interior in charge of mineral resources, reminded recently about the days when he started his professional career by gold mining and surveying in the Blue Mountains and along the Snake River in Idaho and Oregon.
