In Planning Stage Since 1947

JayCees Spirit Drive For Community Center

By ED NASH
Pampa News Staff Writer
"Pampa at the top of Texas?" That's the question the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce has been asking for almost a decade—without a concrete answer.

It has to do with a proposed community center, primarily for Pampa's youth but for the adults, too.

An original sketch of such a building was made about 1947 by Waldon E. Moore, local structural engineer, but since that time the needs for such a center have changed—and little more has been done about it, anyhow.

But now the JayCees are pushing the project, convinced that in the words of JayCee President J. C. Hopkins—"it is really what Pampa needs."

The reason for that question about Pampa and the top of Texas is that Pampa is reported to be among the 51 per cent of Texas towns not having such a community center.

A possibility of such a project being eventually erected has come up again with the holding of the 1954 JayCee musical revue "You Can't Beat Fun," a week ago. Proceeds from that show are going into the JayCees' fund, earmarked for helping the community center along.

There are as many different theories on how big it should be, how many and what kind of facilities it should contain, where it should be placed and how it should be run as there are people proposing them.

But one thing that JayCees and others interested in the betterment of the community seem in agreement on—there should be such a center, whatever its makeup.

One of the first things that must be done, it is generally agreed, is the formation and incorporation of a group to get the ball rolling. Call it a board of directors for the Pampa Community Center, Inc., JayCee Bill Waters suggests, adding that then such a group would be a legal entity and could take title and possession of land and accept donations.

Such a group, Waters continues, ought to be composed of certain "fixed positions" plus some of the public-at-large. Possibly the mayor, the county judge, a Pampa school board member, two members of the Pampa Ministerial Alliance, a representative of the Council of Club Women and the men's service clubs and a couple of the general public. Seven or nine members is Waters' idea.

Even before that group is organized, though, the role of the JayCees would have to be settled. During these "talking stage" years, it has been considered a JayCee-sponsored project. But now the time has come, many a JayCee will say, for it to be shifted into a community-wide project.

AS PLANNED IN 1947—This is the way the proposed Pampa Community Center was visualized in 1947 by Waldon E. Moore, structural engineer. Idea for such a structure has been kicking around ever since, largely in Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce discussions. The building, if and when built, will look different, though, for Pampa's needs have changed. A meeting slated for Monday night may well give the idea of a community center an added push. (News Engraving)

The JayCees' board of directors is scheduled to meet Monday night and it has been reported, it will be proposed at that time to do just that, to make formal suggestion that the community take over. The function of the JayCees is "to get it established," as one JayCee put it.

Massay Services Scheduled Today

McLEAN—(Special)—Funeral services for Mrs. Rebecca Ann Massay, 67, of McLean, were scheduled to be held at 3 p. m. today in the First Presbyterian Church, McLean.

Mrs. Massay, one of the oldest pioneers in the McLean area, died Saturday morning at her home, following a long illness.

Officiating at the last rites will be Rev. J. Edwin Kerr, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Hillcrest Cemetery, McLean, under the direction of the Claborn Funeral Home.

Born Dec. 17, 1866, in Tennessee, Mrs. Massay was the wife of the late D. N. Massay, well-known banker, stockman and farmer. She was a long-time member of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Massay came to McLean from Greenville in 1905. Surviving are four grandchildren, James Massay McLean; Mrs. Wilton Reedy, Wichita Falls; Mrs. Jack Bohannon, Gainesville, Fla.; and Mrs. Bert Huggins, Dallas; six great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren.

do something concrete," according to Rusty Ward, former Pampa JayCee president, who recalled that it was held in 1950. Also, from time to time, JayCees have made numerous trips to other communities the size of Pampa, to take a look at their community centers.

Results of those trips have furnished ammunition—and information—in their push for a similar Pampa building. They found other places raised the money for such a project; service clubs (Greenville, McAllen, Tyler, Waxahatche, Midland); city budget (Harlingen, McAllen, Midland); and other ways. Operating costs were met in similar ways, they discovered.

Two things that Hopkins, Waters and Ward all mentioned were that the community center ought to be located inside the city limits and should have a paid, ("well-paid") full-time director. In the words of notes drawn up seven years ago, he "should be able to appreciate the importance of community reaction and be capable of planning and executing a program to include the youngest to the eldest."

Where to put it may present a problem, JayCees allow. But every one seems to think it should be in the city proper. They'd like to have someone donate the land for it, but, if that does not happen, they think it might be best for the JayCees to spend what money they have on a site, "to give people something concrete" to donate for.

An off-hand selection of facilities such a building might have, JayCees say, might well include a gymnasium, an auditorium, a banquet room, a year-round swimming pool, a recreation hall, a snack bar, conference rooms or a convention room, offices for outfits like the Scouts and United Fund and service clubs, a music room, a reading room, a television room, a city club room (for women) and outdoor facilities for tennis, croquet, horseshoes, archery and the like.

JayCees realize, though, that times have changed since 1947, that Pampa now has a Boys Club work-out room on South Cuyler and a high school fieldhouse and will have a library (Lovett Memorial Library) and an armory.

But they also realize that there are only three spots in town where a sizable group can meet: the Palm Room of City Hall, the basement of the First Methodist church and the Pampa high school cafeteria. And, even more, there is no real place where teenagers can get together for an evening's social entertainment.

"The only municipal buildings in town (for the recreational use of youths and adults) belong to the schools," was Hopkins' comment. "It is surprising how popular the idea of a community center is," one JayCee said, "and how willing people are to make a sizable contribution to it."

Only time and voluntary effort, the JayCees say, will prove it.

Pampan's Daughter Killed When Struck By Car In Lubbock

An 8-year-old school girl who was born in Pampa, died in Lubbock last week, following injuries received when an automobile careened into her at a bus stop.

Funeral services for Sherry Marie Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Bell, Lubbock, were held through the Rix Funeral home, Lubbock.

Her brother, Alvin, 10, narrowly escaped being hit at the same time, according to word received here Saturday.

An operation to attempt relief of pressure of a skull fracture was performed on the girl. Alvin told police investigators he and Sherry were standing at the bus stop when he saw the car coming. Alvin said that both he and his sister tried to run but she didn't have time.

Among Sherry's survivors are her father, Gene Miller, Pampa; two aunts, Mrs. E. W. Lard and MONUMENT FOR FREEDOM—This is a sketch of the proposed "Freedom Shrine" to be erected in Washington, D. C., as a living monument to Americans' individual rights. The monument would be 110 feet high, with the basic rights of Americans enumerated on its four sides. The latest use for closed circuit TV is to teach dentistry. In Chicago, 200 molar-maulers took a one-day refresher course in a fascinating subject called "occlusal disharmonies" — the incorrect meeting of the upper and lower teeth.

The University of Illinois College of Dentistry and the Admiral Corp. put on the thrilling drilling. Actually, without TV, it would have taken an instructor for every few pupils. TV cut it down to one for 200.

"Too bad we all can't take our dentistry with a closed circuit, instead of an open wide."

There's a big field for dental programs on TV, at that. You could have "This is Your Toothache," "What's My Cavity?" "I Love Novocaine," "The Hurt Parade," "Yank It Rich."

Artie Pine, who manages MGM's up-and-coming recording star, Betty Hutton, got a frantic call from her. She'd been driving from Washington to Cleveland, between singing dates.

"Artie," she said, "I'm lost. I drove up to the Pennsylvania Turnpike and asked the man how to get to Ohio. He told me to get on the Turnpike and drive to the end. And I did."

"Well," said Artie, "what's wrong with that?"

"Nothing," Betty said, "except I went to the wrong end."

Any time you hear that Mark Stevens is going to do a Broadway show, disbelieve it. He won't. He did one.

"And I'll never do another," he said, positively. "I was in 'Midsummer' last year for three months. Three months of doing the same thing every day — at the end of that time I was climbing the walls."

Stevens is the kind of guy who has to keep moving, doing different things. He's now "Martin Kane" on the Kane of the same name over NBC-TV. And, while he has to thwart a different dirty deal each week, even that isn't varied enough.

"After the thirty-something week," he said, "I'm bored. No, that's not exactly the right word — I'm just overly used to it."

To combat this tendency, Stevens has a few other pastimes. Originally a song-and-dance man, he's begun making records for Capitol. He also plays the piano, drums, and "a little clarinet and trombone." And, whenever he has an hour between rehearsals, he takes trumpet lessons. He must like music.

"But even all this outside activity isn't enough. Stevens is certain that Martin Kane will have to look for another boy one of these days."

"I've given myself a time limit," he said. "I won't say how long, but I'm sure that I'll only be Martin Kane for just so long."

After that, and perhaps even before, look for Stevens to do a musical variety show on TV. Then will come the Kane mutiny.

Lisa Kirk looks as lovely as she sounds in her fifth engagement at the Plaza's Persian Room. Her gown is a work of art. It's black and low-cut and tight-fitting and all in all, a real gown. It cost $900, which is a nice, round figure. Miss Kirk's isn't bad, either.

CBS's Peter Arnell says the tallest kid in his class got the best marks. "But there was a reason — who else could look over everybody's shoulder?"

Dave Garraway moved into new offices at NBC. His producer, Charlie Andrews, looked around the place and said, "It's a rule here that you have to get $10,000,000 in billings before you get a window — Dave, you finally made it." Garraway actually has three windows — but it's not a progressive formula.

Hughes Shows New Design In Housing

Pampans today have a chance to inspect the "new and advanced temporary-designed home" on Fair Drive.

R. G. (Dick) Hughes, of Pampa president of the National Association of Home Builders, Saturday announced the opening of three homes and stated that two other type homes will be opened for inspection during the next few weeks.

"These new contemporary-designed homes," Hughes said, "have been planned to meet the new family demands for modern living."

And the homes are available on Federal Housing Administration low-down-payment loans or on GI no-down-payment loans with low monthly payments, the Pampa builder pointed out.

Discussing the features of his new homes, Hughes said that "open planning so that living flow is not confined to rooms as we used to know them."

The kitchen, "the most beautiful room in the house," has access to the bedroom, a serving bar wall and optional cookstove and wall oven. The bathroom has a shower-tub combination, "lots of storage space" and built-in clothes hamper.

The homes have air-temperature heating with air-conditioning optional. They have "abundant" storage space and optional hardwood or tile floors. Bedrooms have storage wall closets and built-in chest-of-drawers with mirrors. Windows are "awning type" and there is a "new interior color decoration."

Old-Time Cowboys Look Forward To Stamford Reunion

STAMFORD, April 4 — Pioneer cowboys already are looking forward to the Texas Cowboy Reunion, and officials are busy with plans for the unique occasion in Stamford though it is almost three months away — July 1-5.

Each year, between 400 and 500 old-timers of the range gather to meet former associates, swap stories, do some square dancing and domino playing and eat chuckwagon fare. And the spryer ones compete in the old-timers' calisthenic contest. Some bring hot-rolls and sleep out under the sky. The early-day cowboys are guests at the big rodeo which is a feature of the reunion.

Quit an elaborate plant has been constructed since the reunions began back in 1930 — Roundup hall, scene of a nightly square dance, the Pavilion, where more modern dances are presented each night; the Bunkhouse, where business sessions of the Texas Cowboy Reunion association are held; the chuckwagon area where 2,500 visitors are fed. Then there is a lake, a guest house and the rodeo arena with grandstand, with a seating capacity of approximately 7,500.

W. G. Swenson of Stamford, manager of the S.M.R. Ranch, is president-manager of the Texas Cowboy Reunion, which is host to the cowboys and produces the rodeo. Otto F. Jones of Colorado City, manager of the Spade ranch, is president of the old-time Cowboys association. To be eligible for membership, a man must have been a cowboy who works on the range at least 25 years ago.

The annual celebration is a four-day affair, climaxing on the glorious Fourth, but as that date falls on Sunday this year, there will be no rodeo that day but there will be afternoon and night performances on July 5, with night performances on the first three days.

Free public schools were established in New Haven, Conn., in 1942.

FOR SAFETY IN SWIMMING — This is a sketch by Chuck Tooker, a Pampa artist, on the new Pampa Rotary club swimming pier at Camp Ki-o-wah, the Adobe Walls Council Scout camp north of Canadian. Paul Beisenherz, council Scout executive, Saturday announced the completion of the project by Pampa street department employees working on their own free time. (News Engraving)

NEW SWIMMING PIER COMPLETED FOR SCOUTS AT CAMP KI-O-WAH

Adobe Walls Council Boy Scouts attending Camp Ki-o-wah this summer will be able to enjoy a new swimming pier, put up through the help of Pampa Rotary club and some of Pampa's city employees working in their own free time.

Paul Beisenherz, council Scout executive, Saturday announced the completion of the pier, designed to make for better supervision of Scouts during their swimming periods "by confining the various ability group to certain restricted areas."

The pier is built in the shape of a reversed "F," extending 110 feet into the lake, Beisenherz said. Each arm of the "F" is 75 feet long and the depth of the water in the areas established by these two arms is "carefully controlled."

The area between the beach and the first arm is for non-swimmers and the greatest depth in this area is four feet. The area between the two arms is for beginners and the depth is graduated from four feet to six feet.

Ladders are being installed in this area so that swimmers may come out of the water onto the pier at several points, Beisenherz said. A diving board, pictured in Chuck Tooker's sketch, is being installed on the platform outside the second arm of the "F" and this area is reserved for strong swimmers.

The lake bottom throughout the entire area around the pier, Beisenherz continued, has been graded so that the slope is constant with no steep spots and with no foreign matter on the bottom which might be dangerous.

This lake, Lake Buckner, is owned by the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission. The lake is now empty, because the spillway was damaged by high water last fall, and that made it possible for work to be done on the pier and the lake bottom. The spillway is now being repaired.

The "Rotary Pier" is mounted on piling of creosoted telephone poles donated by the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, Beisenherz said. The platform, which is four feet wide, is of redwood and the entire structure is bolted with galvanized bolts.

Employees of the Pampa street department spent a weekend on their own time to do the actual work, the executive continued, and the Pampa Rotary club provided the funds for the pier.

Beisenherz said that work on the damaged spillway will be completed within the next week and the lake will then be filled in time for the summer camping season which gets underway May 30.

Jet Crashes Near Plevien

PARIS, April 3—UP—A Mystere Four jet, France's newest fighter plane, crashed Saturday within 50 yards of Defense Minister Rene Plevien and British Minister of Supply Duncan Sandys during a demonstration.

Col. Constantine Roxanoff, France's most famous test pilot, was killed in the crash.

Roxanoff was putting the French-built interceptor through its paces for the group of dignitaries at suburban Melvin-Villaroche.

Plevien and Sandys rushed to the wreckage in a futile attempt to save the famed pilot.

Roxanoff on March 8 smashed the sound barrier in level flight in the Mystere Four-B, the first continental-built plane being supplied to the North Atlantic Treaty Forces capable of the feat.

Gary Crosby Has A Girl

SAN CARLOS, Calif., April 3—UP—Barbara Stanislaus, attractive 21-year-old San Jose State College coed, admitted Saturday she was wearing Gary Crosby's fraternity pin, but denied all rumors that they were engaged.

The brown haired, five foot, five inch business administration major did say that she had "known Gary for quite a while."

Young Crosby could not be reached for comment and Miss Stanislaus declined to discuss future plans. In Los Angeles, Crosby's father also added: "No comment."

Man Offers To Sell Eye For Mother

MOUNT CALM, Tex., April 3—An unemployed Mount Calm man offered to sell an eye to finance medical treatment for his 68-year-old mother because "she has done so much for me."

Joe Kulbeth, 35, who gave his address as route 1, Mount Calm, made the offer in a letter to radio station KHBR at Hillsboro. He said his mother suffers from an ulcerated stomach and rheumatism and badly needs medical care.

He said he was making a serious offer to sell one of his eyes.

New Foreign Economic Policy Faces Log Jam In Congress

WASHINGTON - (N.A.)—President Eisenhower dropped a blockbuster on Congress in his special message outlining a new Administration foreign economic policy. The body of the message reveals a 12-point program:

Tariff reduction. Reorganization on GATT — the postwar, multi-lateral General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. Customs simplification. Foreign investment incentives. Revision of the Buy America Act. A new policy on the import and domestic production of raw materials. Agriculture exports. Merchant marine policy. Encouragement of international travel. Foreign economic aid. Technical assistance for underdeveloped countries. East-West trade. Convertibility of foreign currencies.

Drafts of new bills to put into effect those parts of this foreign economic policy not already before Congress in separate measures are now being prepared at the White House. So just what technicalities will be involved in each field won't be known until the bills are introduced in Congress.

In a special press briefing on the President's message, Clarence M. Randall, special consultant on foreign economic policy for the White House, tried to give the impression that these bills would not be long nor complicated. He would not say how many there would be. Mr. Randall, president of Inland Steel Co. in private life, was chairman of the Presidential Commission on the White House, which made the investigation and prepared the report on which the President's message was based.

The President endorses the report and recommends to Congress most of its major findings. Mr. Randall is remaining as a White House consultant to supervise drafting of the bills to put the program into effect.

He points out that three of the proposals are already before Congress in other pending legislation. These are customs simplification, tax incentives to encourage U.S. investment abroad, and the encouragement of tourism through such things as increasing the duty-free allowance for tourist imports from $500 to $1,000, twice a year.

Mr. Randall declares that this leaves only two major problems for Congress to act on. One is extension of the reciprocal trade agreements program which expires on June 12. The other is revision of the so-called Buy America Act.

In the pressure of all other unfinished business before Congress in this election year, the Administration will be lucky if it gets anything more than another simple

Defense Says Kidnap Was 'Hoax'

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3—UP—Defense attorneys have indicated they will try to prove the alleged $500,000 plot to kidnap a prominent real estate man was nothing more than a hoax to help the victim out of financial difficulties.

Attorneys for accused kidnapers Harold Jackson, 33, and Joseph Lear, 42, Friday attempted to shake the testimony of real estate man Leonard Moskowitz.

Moskowitz testified he was held terror-stricken by the two men for nearly three days last January before his dramatic release by police.

Valentine C. Hammack, Jackson attorney, asked Moskowitz if he had met Jackson "on the beach in a car" in October of last year to plot the "kidnaping of yourself."

Moskowitz, obviously weary after four days of trial testimony and cross examination, denied this was true. He also emphatically denied that a civil suit arising out of a real estate transaction had anything to do with the kidnaping. He admitted later that he settled the case out of court.

Jackson, self-assured former private detective and accused "brains" of the kidnap team, had hinted from the time of his arrest that Moskowitz had arranged the kidnaping in order to share in the "ransom." Moskowitz and police have ridiculed this charge.

The ninth day of the trial was marked by sharp exchanges between defense counsel and President Judge T. W. Mitchell.

The prosecution has asked the death penalty for Jackson and Lear under California's "little Lindbergh" law. The jury may recommend death if it finds the victim suffered bodily harm while held captive.

How It Feels To Be 'Mister' Woman Of The Year

By WALT SWITZER
Pampa News Staff Writer

How does it feel to be the husband of the Woman of the Year? "Great," says Jack Foster, Pampa furniture dealer.

The announcement of the naming of Mrs. Foster as Pampa's Woman of the Year will be found elsewhere in today's Pampa Daily News.

"I am naturally very proud of the work Adrienne (Mrs. Foster) is doing and what makes me all the more proud is the fact that, with all of her outside activities, she has never neglected her home nor her family," he said.

The veteran furniture dealer stated that he just doesn't have time to try to keep up the pace his wife has set.

However, this does not mean that he has neglected his civic duties. Jack is always ready to do his bit in helping to make Pampa a better city.

He is proud of his record as a member of the Pampa Rotary club, for he holds the record of the second longest perfect attendance in the Pampa club — 31 years.

He was a member of the Pampa club for several years before leaving the Top 'O' Texas area for South America and East Texas in 1940, but he took right up where he left off here and in 1949 was president of the Rotary club in the East Texas city of Overton.

Jack also has exhibited his civic pride by volunteering to take the time to serve as an instructor of Spanish for the Americanism classes now being conducted for foreign-born residents of the area.

While Mrs. Foster is usually on hand to prepare most of the family meals, he takes great pride in doing his share of the cooking. "I'm sort of an amateur chef," he said. "I like to prepare unusual dishes, not just steak and potatoes." His specialty is barbecue and foods cooked in chafing dishes.

On many summer evenings the Fosters may be seen in the back yard of their home, 1228 Williston, enjoying barbecue dishes concocted by Jack, with the use of his large portable barbecue grill. On these occasions it is not unusual to see Jack with his apron on.

Jack was born in Chandler, Okla., went to elementary school in Drumright, Okla., and to high school in Amarillo, where he graduated.

After his graduation, his parents, the late Frank Foster and Mrs. Foster, moved to Pampa.

AMATEUR CHEF — Many men like to sit back and let their wives do all the cooking. This isn't the case at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Foster, Jack, who is shown above preparing a meal on his portable barbecue grill in the back yard of his home, 1228 Williston, says he is only an amateur chef, but those who have partaken of his hospitality and have eaten some of the dishes he prepares, say they think he is more of a professional. where his father was in the furniture business.

Jack attended the University of Oklahoma, graduating with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree.

After he was married in 1938 in St. Louis, Mrs. Foster's home they lived in Pampa until 1940 when they moved to East Texas. While there he was in the accounting business.

In 1949 he and his family moved to South America where he operated an accounting office until 1951, at which time he returned to Pampa to get back into the furniture business. He now operates Foster's Distinctive Furniture store, 317 W. Kingsmill.

The Fosters have one child, a 12-year-old daughter, Sue.

His mother, Mrs. Gertrude P. Foster, still resides in Pampa.

One look at the spotless interior of the beautiful Foster home will let a person know what Jack means when he says it feels "great" to be the husband of Pampa's Woman of the Year.

Too Young (Old) To Tango? Square Dance Tempo Fits Needs Of Most Age Groups

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Staff Writer

"You don't have to be young to square dance," asserts Artie Shaw and Walter Clay of Pampa, both avid square dance fans — and both grandfathers.

"A lot of fun of square dancing is the association with people," Shaw went on. "You don't find anyone not out for fun."

All over the country square dancing has become "the rage," and Pampa is no exception. Although here used to be more groups, Shaw and Clay knew of at least five square dancing clubs in Pampa — the Calico, Texas Star, Circle Four, Heat and Toe, and Circle Eight. In the Panhandle, they estimated there were 100 clubs.

To establish a club is a simple matter, according to Shaw and Clay. A group of interested couples get together and decide to organize. They elect their own officers and make their own rules.

"There is no national square dance association," Clay advised. "But we do have the Panhandle Square Dance association of which I am vice-president of district 2." The clubs here and in White Deer joined together to establish the Top Texas Square Dance Council, which built, with its own funds, the "club" in the Hobart Street park. The square dance council operates the "club" and holds square dances there during the summer. Clay is secretary of the council, and Harold Turner of Pampa is its manager.

"We make a big racket and have a lot of fun," Shaw stated. "But it's good clean fun with no rowdyism. Anyone can bring their children — a lot do."

The attributes needed to become a good square dancer are simple, according to Shaw and Clay. "It takes practice and poise," Clay stated, while Shaw declared it took a "love of music and a love of mixing."

To get into the mood of the dance, the men usually dress in western shirts, and trousers and the women wear long cotton dresses they make themselves. Most of them are colorful and have yards of rickrack around them, Mrs. Shaw advised. "Square dresses are becoming popular now, too," she explained.

In Pampa, the various square dance clubs meet on different evenings to enable people to belong to more than one. Both Clay and Shaw belong to two or three of the local groups as well as the one in White Deer.

One of the interesting parts and one of the most vital parts of the square dance is the calling. Clay is a "patter caller," while Shaw is a "singing caller." The "call" is a set of directions which the dancers follow to form square dance "figure." And Clay and Shaw state that the figure is different for each call.

According to Clay's definition, a patter caller is "most or less talking" in rhythm, keeping time to the music. The singing call is as its name implies, singing the "calls" or directions. "Patter calling is rhythm, while singing calling is melody and rhythm," Shaw explained.

And both men agreed singing calling is the hardest as the caller doesn't dare miss a beat or the dancers are lost. In patter calling, he can miss a few words without the dire consequences of ruining the dance.

There are new calls coming out

MR. AND MRS. ARTIE SHAW — 321 N. Hazel, take time out from square dancing to do a little walking. Both are avid square dance enthusiasts and belong to several local square dance clubs, as well as the Panhandle Square Dance association. The Shaws' sentiments pretty much agree with what is printed on the PSDA membership cards: "We have joined this organization for the fun, the fellowship and the recreation we are able to derive therefrom." Mrs. Shaw, as most women square dancers, made her own dress which has several yards of rickrack on it. (News Photo) constantly, usually conceived by professional callers, who get as much as $500 a night and expenses. These calls come out in record form with the words printed on an enclosure.

"The fun of square dancing is learning and striving for perfection," Shaw pointed out. "If there were no mistakes, it would be no fun."

This is Square Dance Week in Texas beginning today, as proclaimed by Gov. Allan Shivers. To commemorate the event, a National Square Dance festival will be held in Dallas Thursday through Saturday, first time that such a group has met. About 50,000 square dancers and spectators from all over the nation are expected to attend.

Number Of States Seeking Food Relief Jumps In March

WASHINGTON, April 3—UP—The number of states asking for and getting government-owned food surpluses for donation to the unemployed has almost doubled in the past month, it was reported Saturday.

Howard P. Davis, deputy director of the Agriculture Department's food distribution branch, said about 500,000 persons in 25 states are estimated to be receiving surplus foods.

The largest single group "far and away," he said, are out-of-work coal miners in Kentucky, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

In February a dozen states had asked for shipments from bulging federal larders to help feed hard-pressed families. The shipments are going to those on public welfare rolls and to others who are not getting any aid but the food.

No figures available. Davis cautioned that about 150,000 of the 500,000 total could include those who have been getting food donations "right along" apart from the stepped-up demand in the past two months.

He said no figures are available yet on how much food has been moved into relief feeding operations. He said the department hopes to make some kind of breakdown in the next few weeks.

He said central records kept here do not break down shipments between those headed for school lunch program, welfare institutions, Indians, or relief families.

Most of the food being used by the states for relief feeding are dairy products, canned beef and gravy, shortening and dried beans. Potatoes will be added when the government's limited buying program on surpluses gets underway.

The totals of those products shipped to states under all department donation programs since last June are 66.5 million pounds of butter; 22.5 million pounds of dried milk; 41 million pounds of cheese; 121 million pounds of beef and gravy, and 17.5 million of shortening processed from the government's cottonseed oil.

Davis said the bulk of those totals went to outlets other than relief.

The 23 states now getting surplus food shipments are Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

He said distribution in some states concerns only a handful of people in one county. In other states, he said, distribution is more general.

SA Lawyer To Defend Batchelor

SAN ANTONIO, April 3—UP—Cpl. Claude Batchelor, accused of helping the Communists and hurting Americans while he was a prisoner of the Reds in Korea, will be defended by a prominent Texas attorney.

Joel Westbrook, a son of Col. Lawrence Westbrook, announced Friday night he would defend Batchelor because he is "morally innocent."

But the San Antonio lawyer said he would withdraw from the case if he learned that Batchelor had made any false statements or if he learned he had a "subversive connection with a subversive organization or individual" before Batchelor was captured in Korea nearly four years ago.

Batchelor was arrested last March 5, while undergoing a pre-furlough checkup at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, and has been held since in the stockade at Fort Sam Houston.

He was the second of two American POWs who first chose communism, then asked for repatriation. He came back to the American lines only a few minutes before the Jan. 1 deadline.

Westbrook said he would base his defense on the "staggering and disturbing idea that Communists can convert a normal, intelligent American boy in a matter of weeks."

If Batchelor's intelligence had been better developed, he'd never been influenced, this side of mental torture, the lawyer said. "At the same time, if the (U. S.) Army initiated a political indoctrination program for soldiers, that might tend toward totalitarianism."

"I don't know the answer... but the key to this case is whether Claude knowingly did anything to injure his country," Westbrook said.

Batchelor has admitted being a "Progressive" leader in prison camp, but said he "never violated the Constitution nor harmed fellow prisoners nor gave information."

"No left-wing money, no left-wing assistance and no left-wing opinion" were involved in taking the case, Westbrook said. He is a lieutenant colonel in the Texas National Guard.

Close, who is on his way to the National Square Dance festival in Dallas, agreed to call for the dance while visiting his son here.

Anyone interested may attend and there will be no admission charge.

Store Sales Decline
DALLAS, April 3—UP—Department store sales in the Dallas Federal Reserve district declined 31 per cent last week, compared to the same week last year, but a late Easter was blamed for four per cent of the drop. Easter is two weeks later this year than it was last year.

Cops Shield Doctor From The Curious

KANSAS CITY, April 3—UP—Two policemen and the privacy of a hospital room shielded Dr. Hugh Hamilton Saturday from reporters and the curious who wanted to talk with the prominent obstetrician charged with plotting to murder his wife.

With his hip, broken in a fall, in a traction device, Hamilton was described as alternately in "good spirits" and moods of depression.

Nine days ago, Hamilton's world fell apart. Officers entered his room at St. Joseph's hospital and served him with a warrant charging that he attempted to murder Mrs. Martha Matilda Hamilton by placing cyanide in medicine she was accustomed to take as a digestive aid.

Only half an hour earlier, Mrs. Hamilton and their teen-age children had visited him, bringing flowers to mark the eve of his 49th birthday.

Mrs. Hamilton had sought their help, officers said, when apprehension over her husband's mental condition grew to fears for her life with the report of a chemist who said he found cyanide in a capsule she might have taken as medicine.

Police Major Eugene Fond quoted Mrs. Hamilton as saying that she first noticed last fall that her husband carried a bottle of eight capsules. Labeled empirin, the container was carried with him always. Her curiosity mounted and she had the contents of one of the capsules analyzed.

The report that it contained cyanide only stirred new fear for her husband, anguished by a wave of rumors that swept the city after his downtown office was the target in the last of a series of seven still-unsolved bombings of business places here last summer.

On Feb. 1 Mrs. Hamilton prepared to leave for a visit of several months in California. Her husband, she told officers, insisted that he obtain a supply of medicine for her to take with her. His insistence increased her uneasiness and she discovered that one of the eight capsules he had carried for so long was missing.

She held her counsel, however. When she arrived on the West Coast, police said, she had the medicine analyzed. The finding again was "traces of cyanide," according to Fond.

Mrs. Hamilton returned to Kansas City and told police of her fears. Fond said analysis here showed no cyanide in the material Mrs. Hamilton brought back with her, but the investigation went on.

Fond said that when he served the warrant on Hamilton he asked the doctor immediately whether he had any cyanide capsules. The answer was "yes, in my pants pocket."

The police official said Hamilton first told him he had the lethal poison for use in mounting months in his collection. But after additional questioning, Fond said, the doctor told him he had been contemplating suicide and three times had neared the point of taking his own life.

Teacher Leaves Fortune To Heirs

LOS ANGELES, April 3—UP—The will of a former school teacher who never had a salary of more than $294 a month disclosed Saturday he left an estate of nearly $1 million.

Friends and neighbors of Olaf Halvorson, former Latin teacher who retired several years ago on a small pension, said they had no idea of his wealth.

Halvorson, who died last August, had amassed $908,473 worth of oil stocks, government bonds, real estate holdings and other investments, probate court official said.

His wife, Sophie, was named executor of the estate which was left to her. Halvorson's will directed that upon her death the estate goes in equal shares to their two sons and a daughter.

Confederate Veterans Ranks Dwindle With Death Of Riddle

AUSTIN, April 3—UP—The thin gray lines of the Army of the Confederacy has dwindled to three centenarians with the death of 107-year-old Thomas Evans Riddle.

Riddle, a native of Nashville, Tenn., died at 10:10 p. m., Sat. Friday in the Texas Confederate Home for men, where he had lived for more than four years.

"The infirmities of old age" were listed by Dr. Herman Wing as the cause of death. Riddle, who served with the 12th Tennessee Infantry during the last 18 months of the War Between the States, was stricken with pneumonia last Jan. 16. He would have been 108 on April 16.

Riddled From Pneumonia
Riddle rallied from the pneumonia attack, but Wing said his heart had been damaged. He suffered a relapse in February, from which he never fully recovered.

Surviving Confederate veterans are Walter W. Williams, 111, Franklin, Tex.; John Salling, 106, Mont. Va.; and William A. Lundy, 106, Laurel Hill, Ala. Albert Woolson, 107, Duluth, Minn., is the only surviving veteran of the Union's Grand Army of the Republic.

Riddle's most prized possession was a .45 caliber "five-shooter," passed to him when he was promoted from wagon driver to private in the spring of 1864, while he was campaigning with Gen. Robert E. Lee in the "wilderness" of northern Virginia.

"A Girl Friend"
Riddle claimed he was a half brother of the late Samuel D. Riddle, Kentucky sportsman who owned Man O'War, and sued two years ago for a portion of Samuel Riddle's $4 million estate. When the suit was announced, an attendant of the Confederate home said Riddle "is always talking about getting himself a girl friend."

He was deluged by mail, some of the letters containing offers of marriage from women in seven states. The suit was dropped later.

The veteran's marital status was confused in his Texas state pension record, but he said he was married three times, and his third wife divorced him in 1949.

Riddle is survived by two daughters, Mrs. A. F. Williams of Wichita Falls, Tex., who was at his bedside when he died, and Mrs. Cora Thomas, Glendale, Ariz.

In observance of Texas Industrial Week, April 1st to 7th, inclusive, we salute the Gasoline Plants . . . one of the MAJOR Industries of the Top O' Texas!

These plants, operating in one of the greatest gas fields of the nation, constitute a vital link in the industry and contribute greatly to the economy of this area.

Here is the Panhandle they process a product — natural gas — which is produced in the Panhandle. By virtue of their operations, almost all of this valuable natural resource is utilized. Even the residue is pumped back into the ground to act as a propellant for resources still remaining underground. Pampa can well honor the gasoline plants. They have added greatly to its growth and development.

Santee Sparkies in Texas Relays

AUSTIN, April 3—UP—Kansas' Santee Sparkies, showing unbeatable form, anchored the Jayhawkers' home in record time in the two-mile and four-mile relays in a brilliant performance in the 27th annual Texas relays. Santee, short-striding Ashland, Kan., speedster, brought the Jayhawkers home in record time in the two-mile distance, spot-lighting a group of record-smashing efforts in the two-day event. He was voted the Texas relays' outstanding performer for the second straight year, the first time any athlete accomplished that feat. Eight records were toppled in the two-day meet, with Santee running anchor legs on two of them—the two-mile relay in 7:54.1 and the sprint-medley relay Friday in a blazing 3:20.2.

Alston Began Career In St. Louis Cardinal Chain

RUGGED LEADER—At Miami University of Oxford, O., Walter Alston, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, first asserted his leadership qualities as guard and captain of the basketball team.

YOUNG SMOKY—Folks around Dartmouth, O., still talk about the slugging feats of Brooklyn manager Walter Alston at Dartmouth High. (NEA)

(Third of six articles written for NEA Service by WALTER ALSTON, Manager of Dodgers, As told to Harry Grayson, NEA Sports Editor.)
YOUNG SMOKY, (NEA)—Frank Ricketts, brother of Branch, signed me for the Cardinals' chain the day after I was graduated from Miami, O., University in June of 1935.

I was painting my father's house in Dartmouth, just down the road a piece from Oxford, where the school is situated, when Ricketts the scout called me down from the ladder.

I didn't require much coaxing to get me to sign for $125 a month—and no bonus. I took one look at the paint brush and the mess of wood I had to cover on the side of the house and was on my way to Greenwood, Miss., of the Class D East Dixie League.

I didn't realize it at the time, but I was destined to become the original guy from Peoria. I've been everywhere. I had dreams of being a professional ballplayer since, as a kid, I bounced the ball against the door of my father's barn.

I married while in college, however, and quickly discovered that a player in the lower minors had to work all year round to keep on step ahead of the sheriff.

That is true today until a player reaches Triple A.

It is one of the principal reasons there is a dearth of more accomplished performers.

I could afford to go to a training camp just once in 13 years as a player, and I was late reporting for that one. In 1937, even when I was training with the celebrated Cardinals, I missed a good deal of the spring work at Daytona Beach.

Pepper Martin and that bunch were sun-burned when I arrived, and the Gas House Gang kidded me about my poolroom tan.

I was earning $12,000 a year as manager of the Montreal Royals before I quit teaching biological science and mechanical art and coaching basketball at Ohio high schools. I put in 14 years in the latter capacity—six at New Madison and eight at Lewistown.

I took physical education in college and mechanical art and coaching in classroom instruction and coaching. I learned constructive teaching and how to make suggestions.

I have never seen a World Series game, except on television.

First, because I wanted to teach away from the big fall show. As a manager, it has been play-offs and the Little World Series.

I hope to manage the Dodgers in my first World Series.

Claims He Had Injured Hand Gavilan Alibis In Loss To Olson

CHICAGO, April 3—UP—Middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson asked promoter Jim Norris Saturday to "bring on your Joey Giardello as challenger," now that formidable Kid Gavilan was disposed of "had hand or no bad hand."

Olson kept his middleweight title safe from waterweight champion Kid Gavilan Friday night on a majority 15-round decision before a near-capacity crowd of 20,041 in Chicago Stadium.

But after the fight, 33-year-old Gavilan of Cuba, and Manager Angel Lopez of New York claimed the Keed had fought with a "sore right hand." He had bruised it in a February tune-up bout and it had hurt him steadily while training for Olson, Gavilan said.

Acting Chairman Louis Radziszewski of the Illinois Athletic commission said, "I don't know what we can do about the sore hand claims. Two of our doctors examined the right hand and found it all right. It was just a matter of getting it right with it."

Favored Right Hand
Gavilan did favor the right hand during Friday night's excellent fight. He drew the second largest gross in the stadium's history: $384,320. In addition the sponsor of the national telecast and broadcast paid $100,000.

The speedy Cuban concentrated on left jabs and left hooks just as he had promised to do while training, and he made the fight so close that Judge Ed Hinz called the bout even and gave each 144 points.

However, referee Bernie Weisman favored Olson, 147-141; and Judge Bill O'Connell, 147-139. The United Press favored Bobo, 142-140.

Olson, richer by about $125,000 for having registered his first successful defense of the crown and his 13th straight victory, asked Norris for the Giardello fight before flying to his family in San Francisco this morning.

He said, "Giardello is my kind of a fighter. He's fast and more open than Gavilan. It would be a good fight."

Keed Surprised Him
Olson, 25 and prematurely balding, said Gavilan hadn't hurt him during their rousing brawl, but that he had surprised him with his strength, particularly in the closing rounds.

Olson, favored at 11-5, carried the fight to Gavilan in every round and took advantage of his own weight advantage and pressing style. Bobo had a comparatively small weight-pull of 4½ pounds. He

By LEO H. PETERSEN

TED'S TIPS ON BASEBALL

TED VERNON

(This is the eighth part of ten in a series on the early days of baseball. The material is taken largely from "The Book of Baseball" published by P. F. Collier & Son in 1911 and used by their permission.)

The Troubles of an Umpire
The college ball player differs from a big leaguer particularly in that the one works for fun and glory while the other works for a wife and children. As a result you hear little kicking in a Harvard-Yale game, but in a contest between New York and Brooklyn, light a dozen may be benched, sent off the field or fined.

One of these departures, it is possible, will lose a club the pennant and with it a matter of $5,000 bonus money in the World Series. If not so critical as that, a rank decision may easily start a club togetherness, because men lose heart, and following this comes a shakeup, in which Jones, Smith, and Brown are released to the minor leagues, an event which precedes the end of their career in organized baseball.

A wise umpire, you may be sure, appreciates these pecuniary elements of the sport, and likewise he understands that the paid ball player is a veritable madman when at work. Avaricious and economical though he be, a hero of the horsehide pellet doesn't stop to think of a $50 fine when the umpire gives him the work.

He may on occasion sink his fists in the umpire's instep or even raise a bat with felonious intent. In the height of frenzy he will fight his best friend on the team or leap into the grandstand and thump a spectator. All because he is so passionately fond of baseball as your thirteen-year-old son, who has no family to support, rent to pay or grocery bills to meet.

In this combination of business and sport, the like of which history does not record, unless we include gladiatorial combats, he umpire is a despot. His decisions are unquestionable. Having as a rule been a leaguer himself, he knows the breed and is loath to enforce the rules absolutely. If he did, there wouldn't be enough men on bench or field to play a game of pinocle. There are, however, some things he will not endure, and chief of these is being "shown up" or, as an outsider would say, being "made fun of" before the crowd.

In the mind of an umpire, ball players stay awake night cudgeling their brains to "get something on" him. With instincts animal rather than human, the African native, when a new boss appears at the Kimberly diamonds mine, immediately picks out his weaknesses. Brutal, indecisive, kind-hearted, he has his number in a trice. Similarly, the big leaguer analyzes an umpire and has no point of sensitiveness is overlooked. "Here is a dub," they say, "who has nerve to come into the lion's den. He's too old to play ball himself and so grants a living off us. He'll get all that's coming."

As for the umpire, he looks upon the players as a band of conspirators, honest enough (you could not hire one to throw a game) but if by trickery, cajoling, baiting, or blinding him they can win—trust them to do it. "Any way to get on," is their cry, and the umpire answers: "Give them an inch and they'll take a mile."

SMU Wins Twice To Take Command Of SWC Race

By UNITED PRESS
Defending champion Southern Methodist, by virtue of two lopsided dual meet wins, topped the Southwest Conference golf race Saturday.

The Mustangs moved into first place with 10 1/2 points after a 5 to 1 victory over Baylor Friday, with Texas A&M hanging a 5 1/2 to 1-3 defeat on Rice in the only other loop play.

Texas, the previous leader with an unblemished 6 point record, did not play.

Floyd Adgington shot a three-under par 69 to trim Johnny Thornton of Baylor in the No. 1 singles match. Stewart Carrill edged Louis Travis, 1 up, and Adgington-Carrill took a 4 and 3 victory from Thornton-Travis in the four-ball by firing an eight under par combined round.

Baylor got its only point with the 4 and 3 win turned in by Eddie Parma over Bryan Honz. Tommy Towry of SMU shot a par 72 to take Jerry Kolb, 3 and 1, and Towry-Kolb beat Kolb-Parma, 4 and 3.

At College Station, Dean Small prevented Rice from being shutout when he halved his singles match with Bill Franklin. A&M victories were turned in by David Vandervoort, 1 up over Harold Standish; Hower Callaway, 3 and 2 over Gay Revier, and W. B. Vennard, 5 and 4 over Frank Bassett.

Yandervoort and Callaway took the four-ball over Standish and Revier, 1 up, with Vennard and Franklin winning 2 and 1 over Small and Bassett.

The matches wound up conference play for the week. Baylor invading Arkansas for a Monday match to get next week's play under way.

Dick Walker's

Area Farm Of The Week

A veteran Gray county farmer is Dick Walker, whose farm is located two and one-half miles east of the Pampa city limits on U.S. Highway 80.

Walker has been farming in the Pampa area for the past 32 years, having moved to Gray county from Clarendon in 1922.

He formerly lived on his other farm, located northeast of his home place, but in 1949 he decided to move his home so that it would be near the paved highway.

He was born in Gainesville and was educated in schools there. In 1919 he came to West Texas, set-anniversary next Tuesday. They're still in Clarendon. "This was just both members of the First Presby- after the old man with the whis-terian church here.

kers got through with me," he Both Mr. and Mrs. Walker are said, speaking of his army serv- fond of flowers. He says they have ice during World War I. "I didn't flowers "all over the place."

He fought the war at Fort Sam Hous- bies, Walker replied that he had none in particular. "I guess hard Walker was married to the for-work is about the only hobby that mer Miss Lucille Luther of Fort have," he said.

"I moved so I could get out of the mud, but I think I got every- body out of the mud by doing it," he said.

Walker has 356 acres on his home place and 575 in his original farm. While he is raising both wheat and cattle, his favorite is cattle, particularly since drought condi- tions have made the growing of wheat so uncertain.

He also has a section of grass land south of Pampa on which to graze his cattle. He raises com- mercial Herefords and no show ani- mals. "I leave that to the other cattlemen," he said.

He is proud of the fact that on his two wheat farms he does not have to use any fertilizers nor weed and insect control sprays.

The farm, on which his home is located, was purchased from Mel Davis and Ed Dunigan. He moved his home from the old farm to the new one, then remodeled it. In 1950 a twister swept through his land and demolished a garage and a granary. The granary had just been completed at the time, Walker said.

NOTE DIFFERENCE — Kenneth Arvidson, of Minneapolis, Minn., plays a five-inch-long cornet which is said to be one of the world's smallest. However, the instrument has the same length of tube (16 inches) as the standard model being played by Christine Munsen. The miniature instrument is one of three made by a Wisconsin manufacturer.

Public Housing Got Going Over In House Last Week

By DONALD UNGAR
WASHINGTON, April 3—UP—The House wrangle over public housing this week highlighted a familiar controversy—does the nation need government subsidized low-cost housing?

Advocates of the program contend it is still the best method devised to lick slums. Its foes want the government out of the housing business.

President Eisenhower, attempting to steer a middle course, asked Congress for authority to construct 140,000 units over the next four years. But the House drastically cut that figure.

How well has public-housing been doing its job?

According to Public Housing Chief Charles E. Slusser, it "has proved a realistic and practical remedy" for families which cannot afford decent homes.

Not Complete Answer

Like Mr. Eisenhower, Slusser does not believe public housing is a complete answer to slums. Private low cost homes and enforce- ment of building codes must all be encouraged too, he believes.

But until better solutions can be found, Slusser declared in a recent speech, "a public housing program is vital."

Opposition to public housing comes from nearly all segments of the private construction industry—the builders, real estate men and mortgage lenders.

A group of leading builders re- cently criticized the program as "high cost housing offered at low rent." They listed examples in the book "Housing, USA," in which they said public housing units cost more to build than comparable private dwellings.

Unlike schools and highways, public housing "is paid for by all for the privileged few," according to these builders.

Relatively Cheap

But Slusser maintains that public housing has been relatively cheap and proved to be "good business" for the communities involv- ed.

About 350,000 units are now under government subsidy and will cost the government an estimated $43 million this fiscal year. However, Slusser said, the government spends 10 times that for highways, six times as much for rivers and harbors and twice as much for the school lunch program.

The public housing program, he explained, cost a person earning $4,000 only 11 cents in taxes last year.

The federal government does not build or own public housing units. The projects are operated by local housing authorities and construct- ed by private builders.

The federal government's chief function is to pay the difference be- tween the rents collected and oper- ating cost of the units.

City Revenue Doubled

As an example of public housing as business value, Slusser pointed to a former slum area in Louisville, Ky. He said the city used to collect about $40,000 a year in taxes from the section. When public housing replaced the slums, he said, the in- creased value of the section dou- bled the city's revenue from that area.

"It should be obvious that im- proving the health, safety appear- ance and moral character of a neighborhood does not depress prop- erty value," he declared.

The average family living in public housing earns just under $2,000 a year. Its gross rent comes to about $34 a month with the federal government putting up about $28 to make up the operating costs.

But when a family's income ex- ceeds a specified limit, they are forced to move. FHA surveys show that of the families forced to move, 20 per cent already have bought their own homes.

Pampa's First Lady

YELLOW ROSES will express Pampa's esteem and gratitude to its First Lady, MRS. JACK FOSTER, at the eighth annual Beta Sigma Phi recognition tea this afternoon in the City Club Room. Mrs. H. H. Hicks, Woman of the Year for 1953, will present the bouquet, which is traditional with the club, "in recognition of distinctive service to this community." Nominations for the award are made each year by ten local civic leaders, and final selection is made by sorority members. This year's outstanding woman citizen devotes many hours every day to community service and is an energizing force to virtually every project for the public good. A housewife, mother of a 12-year-old daughter and Sunday School teacher since the age of 12, Mrs. Foster has lent her executive talents and unreserved enthusiasm to serving Girl Scout, Red Cross, Heart, Cancer, Polio and Tuberculosis boards. An accomplished pianist, her activities further exemplify Beta Sigma Phi's motto: "Life, Learning and Friendship." She does extensive committee work for the Knife and Fork Club, Community Concert Association, Parent-Teachers Association, and the Adult Education program. Other activities include membership in the Twentieth Century Club, Beta Gamma Kappa Sorority, Parent Education Study Club and Altrusa. A serious gardener, Mrs. Foster is a state flower show judge and hopes to take the remaining examination which will qualify her to be a national judge. For these reasons, and more, Beta Sigma Phi and Pampa say, "Thanks, Adrienne."

Peg O' Pampa

ANOTHER SUNDAY ALREADY! Peg dearly loves these chats with you but hates to see the intervening week days slip by so fast. Funny thing — back in grade school each week seemed an eternity. Stop me before I start quoting something like—"When I was in my prime, ere the pruning knife of time cut me down."

WHAT'S NEWER THESE DAYS than the screaming red car of Dr. Philip Gates—a stopper anywhere. These hard working doctors should indulge in all the glamor they can get, don't you think? Like the glamor-loaded office of Dr. Calvin Jones and his young associate, Dr. John J. Jopes (no relation). Brown shutters, draperies with a handsome Greek or Roman-ruins pattern on a window that is really a wall—all in quiet shades of blue and brown with enough bright coral to wake one up again.

PEG'S LIST FOR SANTA CLAUS includes a 3-D camera just like the one a little friend recently received for her 12th birthday. Maybe you've seen them. One side takes ordinary snapshots and the other makes 3-D. So life-like.

HAVEN'T HEARD THEM but they say the 3-D record players bring out tones in our favorite records that we never knew were there. Going from record players to TV. . . Hope you didn't miss the Rogers and Hammerstein review last week. Trifle, we thought! Watching the Motion Picture Academy awards was fun too. Noticed that even the stars lose some of their polished poise at such a time. Two of the costume models actually bumped into each other, then disappeared like frightened deer!

RANDALL CLAY'S PRETTY BLONDE WIFE, Clemence, is named for St. Clements Church in London! Mrs. Guss Tasso, her friend from San Antonio, who was here for a bridal shower, has that old Spanish charm. The Clays are enthusiastic about their new business venture, a super drive-in restaurant in sunny San Antonio. Mrs. Spoonmore, (W. A.) is enchanted with the couple—and why not?

NOTICED IN PASSING. . . Larry McMurtry, California-ian with a crew hair cut — camel — colored sport coat — shoes THAT thick and a big black cigar. . . The cute, dark haired girl in the Southwestern Public Service Company office, very tiny—who is she?? . . . T. E. Swafford, Pampa's court bailiff, is already looking forward to his 50th wedding anniversary next fall (November 18). He says it's a long time to be married to one woman but he feels the same about marriage as he did 50 years ago—only more so. Quite a tribute Mrs. S. I. . . J. C. Hopkins, working in his yard again. Talk about a busman's holiday. . . Mrs. Knox Kinard studying "The Great Gatsby," with a determined expression. . . Hope I get to hear the review if that's what's cooking. . . Mrs. Don Foster shopping for her little girls. . . Saw Mrs. Elmer Francis, Mrs. Bill Stockstill and Mrs. Calvin Whatley, all in one day on one block uptown. . . Pretty Rachel Garcia. . . Saw and approved of Nancy Davis' new figure. She has offset features that fascinate. . . Mrs. Harlan Case with a darling hat whose veil is dotted with three-leafed clover. . . Margaret Nelson and Charlie Hatcher together again on an evening made to order for couples. . . John Clark, new Optimist prexy, in an optimistic looking plaid sport coat. . .

THE CONCERT ASSOCIATION BANQUET Monday evening was something to remember. Mrs. Bob Curry outdid herself—and that's going some!—with a black and white scheme. Black silhouettes of musicians sat under a white "tree" on whose branches black notes gaily danced. . . Travelling-up the tree trunk she'd written, "There's music in the air." Name cards were little musicians too. Even the hostesses formed part of the color scheme with their black dresses and white aprons. Spotted Mmes. Mell Davis, Bob Rasmussen, Russell Chalmers and William Coleman among them. Mrs. Coleman, you remember is the French woman who is teaching her language to classes of little ones. They love it too. . . Robert Shaw's Chorus should draw lots of new members this year. High School's Robert Payne, who heard the group in Houston, says they're called "Tops" of their kind in all the world. . .

DID YOU HEAR ABOUT THE PSYCHOLOGIST who cures patients of bad habits by hypnotizing them and telling them that from now on their drink or cigarette will taste like gasoline. . . Would love to have him try it on me—for chocolate pies with whipped cream for example.

HAVE A NOTION that little of a serious nature was accomplished at High School on April Fool's day. The kids always observe April 1 as Kid's Day and dress the part. JoAnne Rogers was cunning in curls and bonnet and short organdy dress—hugging a teddy bear too.

LAST WEEK'S PAMPA NEWS picture page on bathrooms has made us more critical of our own. Our middle-little one even moved an ivy from the kitchen to the bathroom window sill. Mr. Peg thought he was being funny when he said, "Not even a gilded sea horse for the wall! The A. C. Wilkinsons have gold plated fixtures in the bath in their lovely home southeast of town—no foolin'! . . . What's more—and this is purely hearsay—You find out and tell me—There's supposed to be white carpeting in the Earl Clayton kitchen!

WHEN THE PAINT, POT AND PIDDLERS met in the "Ya Olds Doll's House," Marguerite Lewis of Phillips, Mrs. Inez Cobb and Mill Boyd, house guests of Florence Jackson, were out-of-town guest was. "Pats" Baird, sister of Polly (Mrs. George) Hepner. That bunch of women has lots of fun.

WE'RE GETTING VERY "UPTOWN" NOW. Anne Heskew is doing catering. Good news, huh?—and now there are rumors of a downtown club for private parties, coffee confabs and such. Here's hoping they treat us housewives with something dreamy in the food department. Something worthy of the name cuisine.

MRS. C. E. JEFFRIES, service chairman of the Gray County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, reports that there's a dire need of old sheets—white ones—for making dressings. Home Demonstration clubs and church circles will be busy this month making dressings for the Society's loan closet in the Red Cross office. These dressings are available through their doctors to all cancer patients who need them. Last month alone three-dozen dressings were given to Pampa patients. Take your old sheets to Mrs. Frank Shotwell in the Red Cross office and watch her smile.

ORCHIDS TO MRS. CLIFFORD WHITNEY, who spoke about Texas Industrial Week when Lionesses arrived to have dinner and take over the Lions program for April Fool's day. Heard one Lion say she knew so much about Texas industry it scared him. Johnnie Donaldson twisted Lions tails for dimes with real zeal. The girls had a great time. Never saw so many stunned men at one time.

SEE YOU THIS AFTERNOON at the . . . of The Year Tea. Wonderful project those Beta Sigma Phi girls have. Did you know who it was all along???

Always,
PEG

"RUFF 'N' TUFF" characters pictured above held a "Bowery brawl" in the Country Club recently in celebration of the Kit Kat Klub's 18th birthday. Participating in the birthday party were members of their brother club, Seven Eleven, and their dates. After the banquet, a can-can was performed by Cynthia Cantrell, Anita Wedgeworth, Dixie Rhoades, Carol Henry, Lottie Willis, and Marthy Skelly. Apache dancers were Dwayne Kuntz and his "moll," Eddie Collum. Mary Ann Guthrie entertained with songs. Guests entered the ball room through louvered "saloon" doors. Walls were decorated with scenes of the city at dusk and featured two women with cats heads. Heading the decoration committee were Carol Foster and Glenda Dudley. ## GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend,
I wonder how many people realize that to give life is a privilege, to be deeply cherished, and not abused? A life carefully and lovingly planned for has a superior chance of being good and useful to the world. A mother able to care for her brood calmly and adequately is a credit to society, and so are her children. I don't mean that economic security should be the primary factor in planning a family. Love can make up for a lot of material deficiencies. But love flowers best in an atmosphere of confidence and lack of tension. Neither do I mean that an unplanned child is a planned family will not have as fine and delightful a place as the rest. It is the general, overall plan that is important — and any good plan allows for exceptions!

Only recently I became aware that having a baby could be an act of selfishness. How? Because it is the most wonderful, satisfying gift in the world, and by indulging ourselves too often, we may deprive our beloved children of the very things we want most for them — a happy childhood in a united family with two healthy, living parents.

Mother of Five

ON ADOPTION

Dear Grace Friend,
Would you be so kind as to send this information to Mr. T. H. who wrote regarding a friend of hers who wanted to adopt a baby and was asking about having the father's consent. We got a child this way and the husband willingly signed the release so he wouldn't have to support the child and we paid all doctor and hospital bills plus the attorney's fees.

I read your column every day. You give real good advice. I sure think you are right about providing the bed before ordering the baby.

Thank you so much for your trouble.
Mrs. R. O.

Dear Mrs. R. O.
As I remember Mrs. T. H.'s letter, the mother of the baby did not know where to reach her husband so that he could sign the release.
Like you, I feel sure he wouldn't hesitate but since he is unavailable and the law is what it is, the baby cannot be legally adopted until a year has passed.

Youngsters Dance At Bobby Cockran's Birthday Party

CANADIAN — (Special) — Bobby Cockran honored Malouf Abraham Jr., with a party on his fifteenth birthday this week in the Robert Cockran home at 208 South Fifth St.

Refreshments of angel food cake, sandwiches and coles were served to the guests, and the evening was spent in dancing.

Guests were Joyce Cleveland, Ronnie Webb, Gayle George, Larry Jones, Dickie Waterfield, Eleanor Owens, Daveeda Burnett, Davene Burnett, Kenny Abraham, Pat Meek, Barbara Sue Meek, Ann Bennett, Dennis Hill, Mrs. Malouf Abraham, Mrs. Robert Cockran, and the host and honoree.

Members of the British Grenadier Guards must be at least six feet two inches in height.

Miss Ann Hix and Mrs. Floyd Walker, bridesmaids, and Miss Frankie Quarles, maid of honor, were attired in identical street length dresses of rose, blue and light green tulle, styled with fitted bodices and forming a pointed collar, fashioned after that of the bride. Their jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. Ray Luper and E. C. Letta sang "Tell Me Why" and "Wedding Prayer," respectively, accompanied at the piano by Miss Shirley Smith, who also played the traditional wedding marches and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. Cecil Hext of Odessa served the groom as best man, and usher were Chestine and Bobby Dunn, brothers of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white bridal satin and chantilly type lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice, small stand-up collar, and the fitted sleeves forming a pointed lace forming the train. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and her white Bibble was centered with red rosebuds, white carnations, and white streamers. The bride carried out the traditions of something old, new, borrowed, blue and wore a penny in her shoe.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in their home. Assisting were Mrs. Chestine Dunn and Mrs. Bobby Dunn.

For her going away the bride chose a blue suit with black and white spring accessories and a red rosebud corsage. After a trip to Dallas and Tulsa, the couple is now at home in Lefors.

Hawaiian Party Bids Aloha To The Dreary Winter Days, Welcome To Spring

By GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Food and Markets Editor How about a spring party just to get winter out of our spirits? Let's make Hawaii the party theme. We picked up a few ideas in the beautiful islands of flowers, gentle music and languorous seas.

Write informal notes on colorful paper with floral design, or decorate plain paper with cutout pictures of flowers, pineapples, or scenes of Hawaii from magazines. Ask your guests to dress informally — colorful dresses or skirts for the women — bright top-type shirts for the men.

Arrange your living room with bright pillows for those who might like to sit on the floor. Decorate with leavies and as many spring flowers as possible.

Have several paper leis for each person. Make them from long strips of colored crepe paper gathered on heavy thread. Twist and ruffle the edges of the paper to resemble real flowers.

For a light buffet supper, serve a large bowl of curried chicken. Pass several small condiment bowls filled with chopped peanuts, shredded coconut, chopped green pepper, chutney. These condiments are to be sprinkled over the curry. And be sure to have a large bowl of steamed rice ready.

For dessert, make Frozen Hawaiian Malo. ((This would be an ideal dessert for Easter dinner, too.))

Frozen Hawaiian Malo (About a quart—8 to 8 servings) One and one-half cups milk, 1/2 pound marshmallows, cut in halves (about 16), 1/4 cup heavy cream, whipped with 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1 1/2 cups drained, crisp-cut crushed pineapple (No. 2 can); 1/4 cup maraschino cherry halves, 1/4 cup chopped pecans and other nuts.

Measure milk and marshmallows into top part of a double boiler. Heat over boiling water until marshmallows melt. Remove from heat and cool. Fold vanilla-flavored whipped cream, fruit and nuts into cooled mixture and pour into a 1-quart refrigerator tray.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Tripe in Spanish sauce, baked potatoes, new carrots, rye bread, butter or margarine, lettuce salad, frozen Hawaiian Malo, tea, coffee, milk.

About 70 per cent of all highway travel is done during the six months between April and September.

Bees may have to travel a total distance of 50,000 miles to make one pound of honey.

Plan A Platter For April

April is here. So set your table to look like spring has waved her wand over it. Arrange a platter of golden salmon croquettes, capped with creamy celery sauce. Tuck a bunch of tender green asparagus at each end of the platter. For salad, either garden greens or refreshing fruit fits the spring mood.

When you make the croquettes with sauce, choose the easy way that guarantees grand results. Use condensed cream of celery soup both in the croquettes and the sauce. This makes it a Lenten special because celery soup is meatless. Or use cream of mushroom soup if meat goes on your menu.

Golden Croquettes with Celery Sauce
1 can (1 1/2 cups) condensed cream of celery or cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup drained flaked salmon (1-pound can)
1/2 cup bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon shortening
Blend soup and milk in a saucepan. Mix 1/2 cup of this mixture with salmon, crumbs, egg, parsley, and onion. Shape into 6 croquettes. Brown in shortening in heavy skillet. For sauce heat remaining soup mixture, but do not boil; serve as sauce over croquettes. Makes 6 servings.

SOUP SCOOPS
Ham—Spaghetti is After-Easter Dish: A can or two of spaghetti teams right up with the last of the Master ham for a noble casserole. Cut the cooked ham into long strips about 1-inch wide—so there's 1/2 cup or more of meat. Line sides of a casserole with the ham; pour in 1 or 2 cans of the spaghetti in tomato-cheese sauce. Use garlic croutons for the topping. To make croutons, blend a little minced garlic with some melted butter or margarine; stir bread cubes in the butter until all is absorbed. Sprinkle croutons on top of spaghetti. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) about 15 minutes or until spaghetti is good and hot, and croutons are lightly browned. Serve the spaghetti with buttered green beans and relishes of carrot sticks. For dessert, rhubarb sauce and ginger cookies.

Bring Make-Up Up To Date This Spring

By ALICIA HART NEA Beauty Editor

One reason that so many people list spring as their favorite season is that nature's rebirth instills a hope for a brighter future.

If you are past 40, you might respond to this feeling by revamping your make-up technique. Teen-agers, anxious to become proficient in applying cosmetics, are always on the lookout for new techniques. But once a woman has her technique established she is inclined to continue using it indefinitely.

While we would agree that the average woman would be frivolous to devote herself to a constant study of cosmetics and their application, we certainly do think that an occasional checkup is essential.

Nonagenarian Has Four Birthday Cakes

For the fourth consecutive night this week, friends honored John Beverly, 90 N. Cuyler, in celebration of his 97th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dunwoody honored the nonagenarian with a dinner in their home at 1410 Alcock.

Guests sat at a lace covered table centered with a big birthday cake surrounded with roses. Attending were a daughter, Mrs. Alice Wain, Denver; Mrs. Arthur Love, the host and hostess, the honoree and Mrs. Beverly.

Mr. Beverly has previously been entertained by the Oddfellows, Mrs. Wain and Mrs. Roy Hallman.

Suit Jewelry To Your Own Particular Type

By ALICIA HART NEA Beauty Editor

For a few years now there has been quite a vogue for the wearing of several bracelets on one arm.

And many have come to think that the popularity of this fad indicates that anyone can adopt it.

Actually, very few women can do so successfully. First of all, unless a woman is tall and has long arms, she'll look lost in the metal adornment.

The woman of small stature should never succumb to the lure of this fad. And the tall girl should approach it with caution.

The only woman who can wear an armload of bracelets without looking as if she were in the midst of cleaning out her jewelry box is the very chic, the very dramatic, statuesque type.

This is the long-limbed girl who has a flair for looking stunning in a plain black sheath. The girl who can wear an unusual hairdo and look smart, no strange. The girl who looks terrific in slacks.

Crab Croquettes With Macaroni (Makes 4 servings)

One-quarter cup butter or margarine, 1/2 cup all-purpose flour, 1 cup milk, 2 8 1/2-ounce cans crabmeat, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/4 cup chopped green pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon thyme, 1 egg, slightly beaten; fine dry bread crumbs, fat, 1 tablespoon salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces elbow macaroni (2 cups).

Melt butter or margarine over low heat; add flour and blend; Gradually add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Drain crabmeat and remove body cartilage. Combine white sauce, crabmeat, lemon juice, 1/2 cup bread crumbs, celery, green pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, and thyme; mix well. Divide into 8 portions and shape each portion into a croquette shape. Dip in slightly beaten egg and roll in fine bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat (375 degrees) about 1 minute, or until browned. Meanwhile, add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni and pour lemon-butter sauce over all.

Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally until tender. Drain in colander. Place croquettes on top of macaroni on heated serving plate.

Perfume Adds To A Youthful Air

By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor

Glamour is far from being the property of the young. In fact, scientists has said that a woman who isn't glamorous when she's past 50 has never been glamorous at all.

The older woman preserves her glamor by keeping physically fit and by choosing her clothes and cosmetics with care. Her smart grooming and healthy good looks keep her birthdays well hidden.

But for giving herself the special lift of youth, she has found there is nothing quite so dependable as fragrance. She makes it her constant companion.

As for selecting her scent, age should not become the prime consideration. If a woman has always preferred the more exotic perfumes, she shouldn't feel compelled to forego them for a delicate, floral fragrance.

Season, not birthdays, should influence her choice of fragrance. If she prefers the heavier perfumes, it's not advisable to wear them at this time of year.

As warmer weather comes upon us, the lighter, more delicate fragrances are in order. They complement both season and climate better than a heavy fragrance.

A point for you to remember about perfume is that what is delightful on your friend may not be on you. Skin chemistry is an important factor in selecting fragrance.

Consequently, you should never buy a perfume or cologne for the first time without trying it. Ask the saleswoman to put a few drops on the inside of your wrist to test it.

It's also wise to buy only a

Nightly Suds Best For Your Bras

By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor

Bras are hitting a new low this spring. Combining a minimum of fabric with an increased amount of elastic, they are engineered to fit comfortably and becomingly.

The new models are also prettier than ever. Some are trimmed with perky bows or touched with delicate embroidery. Fine-cotton and nylon are used extensively.

The best way to prolong the life and beauty of these dainty garments is to wash them after each wearing.

Because more elastic is being used, the new bras should be given more gentle handling. When the garment is washed following just one wearing, it requires no more than a second's swishing in soapy water. Rinsing, rolling a towel to remove excess moisture and laying flat on another towel to dry take just another few seconds.

So, in the long run, nightly washing will be a time saver. There is no doubt that, in avoiding the necessity of rubbing out dirt, it will be a material saver.

There is another point to be made in favor of washing such garments after each wearing. And that is that no well-groomed woman should want to tolerate anything but the freshest of clothing near her body.

RUTH MILLET

To be companionable to a man you've got to be more than willing to tag along with him — you've got to GO along.

George Smith, who wanted to make a golfing companion of his wife, took her along a few times. But she never really got interested in trying to improve her game.

She was delighted to spend an afternoon with George. She liked being out in the sunshine. She liked telling her friends she had taken up golf. She even admired George's long drives and expert puttings.

But she didn't care anything about golf. So George started playing golf with a neighbor, and his wife felt secretly just a bit hurt.

Bill Jones likes baseball. He thought his wife might like it, too. But while she was perfectly willing to go to the games with him, she never bothered to learn the players by name, and would just as soon concentrate on powdering her nose with the score tied in the last inning.

And she never could understand why Bill wouldn't leave the ball park before the game was over to get ahead of the crowd.

THEY'RE VERY MISTAKEN

Wives like Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jones think they are being companionable in being willing to tag along with their husbands. They think that because they are women it doesn't matter if they don't take a sport or recreation seriously. They think their presence is all that is required.

But a man finds his wife really companionable only when she goes along with him enthusiastically. She must be really interested in the game itself when she is a spectator, and determined to improve her technique if she is a participant.

Most men aren't unkind enough to point out to a tag-along wife that they want her companionship — not just her company. But that is how it is.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McNamara, 1012 N. Somerville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ann, to Joseph A. De Casimo, son of Mrs. Angelo De Casimo of Mt. Union, Pa. Miss McNamara was graduated from Pampa High School in 1948, attended St. Mary's College, Xavier, Kans., for two years and the University of New Mexico, where she received her degree in 1952. Mr. De Casimo attended New Mexico Western College where he received his degree in 1952. He served three years with the Marines. The wedding will take place June 16 at Holy Souls Catholic Church at 9 a.m. with Rev. Miles Moynihan officiating.

Women of County Home Demonstration Council voted at a meeting this week to donate their time and effort to the current cancer drive. They also completed plans to attend the district convention to be held in Panhandle's High School auditorium April 22. Delegates to the convention are Mmes. John Brandon, R. E. Engle and Lloyd Collins, with Mrs. Jim King as alternate.

A committee composed of Mmes. N. B. Cude, R. E. Engle and A. McElrath was named to purchase curtains for the ladies lounge in the Court House.

The training school for skirt making April 6, in Miss Helen Dunlap's home at 710 N. Russell, was announced and the school on basket weaving to be held in the agent's office in the court house at 1:30 April 19.

Seventeen women attended the meeting. The next regular meeting of the council will be held April 26.

Cast iron first was made in Sussex, England, in 1350, but the art then was lost for centuries, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Freeze Only Vegetables Picked Fresh from Garden

Vegetables to be stored in home freezing units or lockers should be frozen, just as they should be cooked, as soon as possible after harvesting.

This is the recommendation made by state experiment stations which have tested loss of flavor, tenderness and vitamin content in vegetables after the harvest.

"Prompt handling of garden products from harvesting to freezing is of the utmost importance," says extension bulletin 644 from the University of Minnesota. "For example, holding freshly picked peas in a warm room for 3 to 4 hours will materially toughen the skins. Losses of Vitamin C are greatest during this period.

One to two thirds of their original Vitamin C value, the bulletin says, may be lost by vegetables in 24 hours at room temperature. If necessary to hold overnight, they should be placed in a refrigerator or covered with crushed ice. Never try to hold them after shelling, slicing or searing.

The findings concerning the loss of nutrients are of importance to housewives who harvest or purchase vegetables for the table. Peas are an outstanding example of the loss of flavor due to delay in cooking or processing.

Tests by the state experiment station at Geneva, N. Y., showed also that Vitamin C content dropped as peas grew older. In lots harvested at different stages of maturity over a 10 day period, the oldest lots contained 36 per cent less Vitamin C than the youngest. They also lost tenderness, as indicated by a tenderness reading of 80 for the youngest, and 140 for the oldest. Tenderness is a device to measure toughness.

Peas are sweetest at dawn, according to the Washington state college, and if harvested then should be kept in a cold place until cooked, frozen or canned.

Spinach stored at room temperature lost 48 per cent of its Garden-fresh for Freezing Means Not More Than Two Hours After Harvesting.

Vitamin C content in 24 hours, according to the Oklahoma experiment station; and in six days it lost 91 per cent. Spinach is often six days on the way from field to the table.

Varieties of vegetables recommended for freezing are, in general, the home garden kinds which excel in tenderness and flavor, without regard to their shipping qualities.

Use small, tender beets, the young tender leaves of all greens, carrots harvested late in the fall and mature but not woody. Grade lima beans and peas by floating in cold brine and discarding all that sink to the bottom, which will be over-mature. Pick corn slightly more mature than for table use. Whole tomatoes do not freeze well.

Style Is Feminine, Not Frivolous

Hair styles in coming months will feature femininity and controlled mobility. The styles shown here are the spring innovations of stylist Henry of the Roosevelt. His Nina cut (upper left) is a sleek cap from crown to nape, softened by a few kiss curls. The sentimental note is struck in his Botticelli cut (upper right) that flows back in waves that are caught in half curls. Versatility reigns in the Chop Chop (lower pictures) which bends easily to the brush. The hair is cut carefully in layers so that neatness is not lost to casualness.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Hair styles for spring and summer will continue to accent the fluid but controlled lines that made news last fall. This comes straight from New York's top coiffure creators.

The future points to femininity without frivolity, neatness without severity, individuality without affectation. It would seem that standards of styling in this era of short hair are finally well established.

A key word in the current trend is mobility. We saw it in last year's Italian cut. Since that much-publicized hairdo offered nothing beyond movement in all different directions, its popularity was short-lived. However, it did herald a new direction in styling.

In the past year American stylists have been adapting the mobility of the Italian cut to the American look. The results have been notable.

Our stylists have tempered the mobility with considerable restraint, giving us a look that is at once free and controlled, sleek and fragile.

And, because mobility remains the key to the styling, the possibilities for variety are limitless.

For spring, stylist Henry of the Roosevelt is taking his cue from the fashion world and accentuating youth.

"Even the sophisticated styles fashions have a supple hither than a silky look," Henry pointed out. "And, of course," he added, "the Empire waistline and the princess line are most important.

"So, to complement these styles I have introduced the Botticelli angel cut. It features individually placed half curls that have a frankly sentimental feeling. And, like a little girl's, they are carefully combed."

The chop-chop cut and the Nina are also among this spring and summer innovations.

The fluidity of the new mode of hair styling is most evident in the first, which falls into a new pattern at the command of the brush.

To create this cut, Henry shapes and molds the hair to the head in layers. Consequently, he says, this casual style never loses its "just brushed" neatness.

The Nina cut is Henry's interpretation of sophistication for spring. The smooth, precise cap from crown to nape is softened by a few strategically placed kiss curls at the forehead and over the ears.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mr. P. did not marry until he was 42. Then he chose an energetic, capable woman for his wife.

By the time his oldest child was 10, he had developed a curious habit. He exaggerated the effort in every service his wife gave their children.

If his eighth-year-old daughter did not leave her book immediately to obey a request to set the dinner table, Mr. P. would grumble, "There's your poor mother slaving in the kitchen for you — and all you think about is yourself."

Or if Jimmy asked his mother for help with homework, his father would complain, "Always doing for others, Jane. Can't the boy do his own studying?"

What Mr. P. really wanted to say to his wife was: "I want you to slave only for me. I married you to be kept comfortable, and I very much resent these children who have interfered in these plans for myself."

He did not know that this was what he wanted to say, of course. To have known that would have meant knowing that he did not want to be Mrs. P.'s husband, but her favorite little boy. And as such knowledge would have exposed to him many fears of life he could not deal with, he had to keep it unrecognized and unknown.

Unfortunately, Mrs. P. didn't know it either. She was flattered by her husband's insistence that she was a paragon of self-sacrifice to her children.

She was so flattered by it she failed to notice that Mr. P. never exerted himself in any way to relieve her of the "slavery" he was always talking about.

So she never said, "If you think it's so awful that I have to cook Sunday dinner, Bill, why do you turn up your nose at simpler meals? If you think I'm too tired to help Jimmy with his homework, why don't you help him yourself?"

Instead of asking these sensible questions, Mrs. P. got hypnotized. She began to regard herself as a specially burdened, heroic mother. It's been hard on her children. In the fog of treacherous sympathy that surrounded their mother, the facts of her performance disappeared. They're convinced that they were persecuted and are getting born into the world.

Personally, I don't trust sympathetic words without deeds of helpfulness. For I have too often noted they infect us with the self-pity which siber abuses or paralyzes our energies.

Put Charm In Your Stride: 3 Pretty Pause Is Part Of Good Walk

Long before they ever try it, most women firmly decide that they hate housework. So in the morning they slip on a tired old house dress, equally tired old shoes and a long-suffering expression and set to work. And they walk around in a shuffling gait all day. Dragging her body and cleaning equipment through the house (left), this housewife quickly becomes tired and, before the day has ended, thoroughly disgusted. Were she to stand up to her job, garbed in a fresh-looking cotton dress and wearing shoes that provide proper balance (right), she would feel entirely different at the end. And she would look entirely different to her family, too.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Just as soon as you learn to walk with feet close together, toes pointed straight and legs leading the body, you should concentrate on achieving a loose stride from the thigh that hits the foot at the heel. No prissy toe-stepping, please.

Exaggeration will help in the beginning. Aim for long, really sweeping strides and put your heels down deliberately. Do this in your bare feet. Note how the weight of your body is transferred from your heel forward along the outside of the foot to the ball.

You've probably anticipated the next steps. It follows quite naturally as you have a adapt the stride length to your size. And it also follows that you will have to concentrate on achieving a light step. The shorter your legs, the shorter your steps. But the reverse does not adopt a masculine stride. Keep practicing until you achieve one that's a happy compromise, long enough to suit your length.

An important part of graceful walking is knowing how to pause. Have you ever seen a model show clothes? The way she pauses and resumes her stride is a study in grace.

In adopting the model's pause position, you will accomplish two things: You will show off your legs to best advantage and you will have one foot ready to move, so that there will be no awkward break in your stride.

Here's how to do it: As you walk along your string line, pause, bring the toe of the rear foot up to the arch of the other. Follow the position shown in the accompanying sketch. Bend the knee of the rear foot, lift the heel and place the weight of the leg on the ball of the foot, turning the toe out slightly.

Annual President's Tea Scheduled

Mrs. Rex Rose announced at a recent Council of Clubs meeting that the annual reception for club presidents will be held this year May 10 in the City Club Rooms. The informal reception will start at 5 p.m. in the City Club Rooms. Hostesses this year will be Parent Education, Twentieth Century Culture, Twentieth Century Kappa, Kappa Iota and League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Ralph Thomas, president, appointed a nominating committee for new officers for the coming year. The Daphnia Club is to head the committee of Delta Kappa Gamma, El Progresso, Epilon Sigma Alpha, and Kappa Kappa Iota. Officers will be elected at the next Council meeting May 8.

Mrs. Jack Foster, chairman of the woman's organizations of the Cancer Drive, announced that a program on cancer would be available to any clubs at any time. "Local physicians," she said, "will give their time to talk to various groups, and show educational films."

Get Feet Set For Summer Sandals

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

It won't be long before you will be slipping your feet into spring sandals, teen-agers. So you'd best ready them for the occasion.

Most likely winter boots have taken their toll in the form of calloused heels. And that certainly won't do when you start wearing spring's delicately styled shoes and sheer nylon.

You can banish the bumps on your heels and any roughened spots caused by dryness by giving your feet a bit of special attention every night for a few weeks.

During your evening bath, scrub the feet carefully with a soft brush. Go over those heels again and again.

When drying, rub the feet gently with the towel. Take time to smooth the cuticles back. Apply a hand cream or baby oil liberally. Massage the feet as you put on the lubricant.

Movie Queens Flop In Real-Life Loves

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD, April 3 — UP — Four movie queens flopped in real life love roles this week, and actor Dick Anderson announced Saturday this proves his theory that actresses make lousy wives.

Hollywood has broken out in a rash of glamour girls who have lost their husbands.

Leslie Caron was divorced by packing her Geordie Hernal. Dr. Lew Merrill walked out on Rhonda Fleming. Corinne Calvet confessed she was so upset by her divorce she accidentally took four sleeping pills, and Zsa Zsa Gabor wept in a divorce court that George Sanders would rather be a bachelor.

Anderson, a fearless thespian, shrugged he wasn't surprised because film actresses are "a strange breed."

"$5,000 this week, their husbands can pull out their own bank book and sell them to shut up."

"There are other disadvantages to an actor's wife. Their job isn't an eight-hour day, but a 24-hour day. Their ambition is always on their mind."

And because of the sex appeal build-up they get, sex is also foremost in their minds and a husband doesn't like men gawking at his wife.

Anderson is one of the few bachelors left in movietown, and he has dated such screen beauties as Pier Angeli, Elaine Stewart and Piper Laurie. But he'll never marry an actress, he insisted.

"They're wonderful to go out with, but marry one? Never!" he said.

Baytown Bawdy House Is Raided

BAYTOWN, Tex., April 3 — UP — State and county officers raided a hotel owned by a convicted murderer Friday night and arrested seven women, two of whom had just arranged for "dates" with undercover agents.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Loyd Frazier said the raid was "part of our work with the (Harris county) grand jury" which has been investigating prostitution in the area.

The hotel raided was known as the Main Hotel and is owned by Clyde Pierson who only this week received a 12-year sentence for murdering Gambler George Hoppe in November, 1952.

Joyce Anderson, 29, identified as the hotel's manager, said she leased it from Pierson and a V. E. Davis, and paid a $500 monthly rental.

Officers confiscated four bottles of liquor they found in an upstairs bar and some powdery substance which they were having analyzed by chemists.

They also confiscated $349 in cash taken from Miss Anderson and one of the girls arrested. The seven women were charged with vagrancy before Justice of the Peace W. C. Ragan. Three patrons were questioned and released.

Brando Pays Off

HOLLYWOOD, April 3 — UP — Marion Brando has made an out-of-court settlement of a $3 million suit by 20th Century Fox because he refused to appear in a picture and will return to work June 7, the studio announced Friday. The studio withdrew its suit, according to Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck, when Brando agreed to share costs incurred by his failure to report March 3 for work in "The Egyptian." Production was started a month later with another actor in the role originally assigned to Brando.

Oops!

PITTSBURGH, April 3 — UP — Police in suburban Sewickley and Waynesburg had to pour the streets on foot Thursday night to be sure everyone complied with the law and got rid of their 1953 license plates.

Somebody forgot to get 1954 plates for the police cruisers.

Canada's Northwest Territories have an area of 1,309,582 square miles.

First helicopter, with rotor made of gull feathers, was "flashed" in 1796, according to Encyclopedia Britannica.

Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the radio, was only 21 years old when he flashed the first wireless signal in 1895.

The first U. S. gold rush occurred in 1828 in Lumpkin County, Georgia.

Used Car Market Geared To Weather

By PAUL E. SVOBODA

DETROIT, April 3—UP — You won't find any used car salesman humming "Pennies From Heaven" these days.

A stretch of rainy weather to him is worse than having to give discounts to all his relatives.

Everything else being equal, used car sales rise and fall with the weather.

It's as simple as a pair of galoshes. Used car dealers operate outside. Their cars are parked outside. Deals are settled outside.

The payment already has rung in some-lot office is reserved for signing papers—to keep the wind from blowing them away.

An Important Factor

The weather is an important factor. Unless he's desperate, a used car buyer isn't going to stop around looking at cars in the cold or rain. He'll wait for a better day.

If that better day is a longtime dawdling, there's a chance the nugget he was going to use for a down side.

That's why the used car men keep their fingers crossed when they read the weather forecasts these days.

With a near record number of used cars on hand this spring—in the neighborhood of 800,000 according to Ward's Automotive Reports—dealers are hoping for an early mer-carries through its full cycle with an upsurge in spring buying as was the previous custom.

There's already some evidence that it will. Automotive News, a trade publication which keeps close tabs on such things, reports a steady rise in sales at steady prices.

This is in sharp contrast to only a few months ago when used car prices were going down so fast the whitewash tags barely had time to dry on windshields.

James A. Garfield was nominated for President on the 26th ballot.
