Former Army Officer Billed In Ax Deaths

FRANKFURT, May 21 — UP—The U. S. district attorney in Germany Friday charged a former Army officer with the triple ax-murder of three American officers.

District Attorney William D. Canfield of Springfield, Mass., issued a warrant for the arrest of Leech and called for his extradition from the United States.

In Lima, Leech, now an oil refinery employe, said the charges brought against him in Germany are "all news to me."

He said he was stationed at Passau, Germany, where the alleged crime was committed, at the time the three Army officers were found dead in a burned-out, luxurious villa. "I was there then," he said, "but I don't want to talk about it."

Canfield said he has heard "nothing official" about the charges brought against him. "I don't know if I will hear anything," he added.

Canfield, in making the first break in the unsolved triple murder of Jan. 9, 1948, charged that military judicial "muddling" and postwar chaos covered up the crime for eight years.

"I am determined that these facts be brought to light and the criminal be made to pay for the crime," Canfield said.

The specific charges against Leech were three counts of murder, three counts of intentional manslaughter and one count of arson — the last from attempts to cremate the bodies in gasoline after the three victims were killed or strangled with an ax.

The warrant was signed by Judge DeWitt White of Morgantown, W. Va., Canfield and White immediately conferred on the legal steps necessary to extradite Leech to Germany to stand trial before a U. S. high commission court.

Living Cost Index Down .2 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, May 21 — UP—Federal "sales tax" reductions dropped the cost of living enough last month to clip a penny off a nickel an hour pay like due more than 1 million workers on June 1.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Friday that the consumer price index declined .2 per cent between mid-March and mid-April. This put average consumer prices at 114.4 per cent of average 1947 prices and back to the level of last July.

The BLS said the decline was due mainly to the excise (sales) tax reductions although only about half of the excise tax reductions were passed on to consumers in the first half of April.

The index decline trims one cent an hour from the cost of living allowance of more than 1 million workers in the auto and aircraft industries.

Big Three Drafts New Plan For Ending War

Religious Scruples Caused Defection

WASHINGTON, May 21 — UP—A Russian secret police agent, trained in sabotage and assassination, said Friday religious scruples caused him to balk on a murder assignment and flee to the west.

Nikolai Khokhlov, a slight blond young man in heavy, blue suit, said he told his story publicly in an extraordinary session of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Chairman William Jenner (R-Ind.) asked Khokhlov "why did you refuse to carry out an assignment to commit murder?"

"Because, as I understand it, it is not permissible for a man to do so," Khokhlov replied through an interpreter.

Subcommittee counsel Charles P. Grimes told Khokhlov the answer was not responsive and the interpreter, Eugene S. Serebrennikov of the Library of Congress, stated it again.

Khokhlov answered this time that he refused to murder "because I consider that murder, assassination is a crime against religion and functions."

The Russian came to the small hearing room, filled to capacity, under guard by two uniformed police officers. He sat alone with Serebrennikov at the witness table, but a subcommittee source said plainclothes agents were in the crowd for Khokhlov's protection.

Jenner, only subcommittee member present for the opening, read a statement saying "frankly... this witness has given a great deal of testimony in closed sessions which, for security reasons, he will not be asked to repeat in open session."

Khokhlov, 31, was questioned by the subcommittee a week ago in circumstances so closely guarded that members will not reveal the site even now.

Massive Air Assault Halts Reds

HANOI, May 21 — UP—A massive French air assault halted four onrushing Communist divisions Friday 75 miles west of jittery Hanoi.

The situation was so serious that three senior French generals flew from Hanoi Friday to Saigon en route to Paris with a secret report urging drastic changes in French Indo-China strategy.

The changes were believed to include the replacement of Gen. Henri-Eugene Navarre as supreme commander in Indo-China and the rushing in of 30,000 reinforcements to save the red delta area.

Gen. Paul Ely, French chief of staff sent here to survey the worsening crisis, was reported to be the French government's new chief of staff.

Gen. Pierre Pelissier, commander of the French air force in the north, seconded his emergency plan.

While the generals held their top level meeting, French pilots dropped a curtain of bombs, machinegun bullets and blazing napalm across Highway 41 leading from Dien Bien Phu to the Red River delta.

Guatemalan Red Arms In Honduras

MEXICO CITY, May 21 — UP—Guatemalan exiles in Mexico City report that most of the Communist arms sent to their native country are being smuggled into neighboring Honduras.

The anti-Communist Guatemalan Exiles Committee in Mexico said only about 30 to 40 per cent of a recent shipment reportedly received from Poland was sent to Guatemala City.

To Be Submitted For Russ Okay

GENEVA, May 21 — UP—The western Big Three Friday drafted new compromise plans for ending the Indo-China war and bringing stable peace to Korea.

Both will be offered Russia and the Communist bloc at Friday's secret Far Eastern conference session. The plans are:

For Indo-China — a choice between starting work at once on a cease-fire for Viet Nam — largest and most important of the three, associated states of Indo-China or creation of three separate committees to work out separate armistice plans for each of the three states.

For Korea — a plan for new general elections in all Korea to unify the country.

All 16 nations which fought under the UN banner in Korea approved the latest Korean compromise plan at a morning session.

The new proposals for both major areas of danger and tension in the Far East were rushed before the conference in view of broad hints by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that he will leave Geneva late this month or in early June.

Friday's secret session was originally to have concerned itself primarily with Korea, for which the new election proposal was made.

Nicaragua Ready To Act On Red Threat

WASHINGTON, May 21 — UP—The United States Friday welcomed Nicaragua's suggestion that a meeting of American foreign ministers may be needed to consider the growing Communist threat in the western hemisphere.

Officials said U. S. policy makers have not yet decided the precise position they will take on the suggestion. But they expressed pleasure that Nicaragua and other Latin American nations are so concerned about recent developments in Central America they are thinking about urging a conference.

The meeting, which could be called under the Rio defense treaty or the Caracas anti-Communist resolution, would be designed to find ways of combating the threat of communism in Guatemala.

The U. S. concern deepened this week when it was discovered that a Swedish freighter delivered some 2,000 tons of Czech-made arms from Communist Poland to Guatemala. The State Department called the development one "of gravity" and a spokesman said it could be considered a threat to the security of the western hemisphere.

In Guatemala the newspaper El Espectador reported Thursday that the rail line between Puerto Barrios and Guatemala City was dynamited in an apparent attempt to derail the munitions train. Only slight damage was caused and the train continued after a brief delay.

(The New York Times, in a dispatch from Guatemala, said Friday the furor caused in Washington and Europe by the arms shipment appears to have boomeranged.

Newspapers that normally oppose the government have rallied to its defense and a greater degree of national unity has been achieved in the country than has been experienced in a long time.)

Three Injured In Collision Near McLean

McLEAN — Three McLean women were in Highland General hospital this morning, following a one-car turnover near midnight on the McLean highway, 25 miles east of Pampa.

Mrs. Frances Bailey, 19, the driver, was reported in "fair" condition. Miss Louise Logan and Miss Myrtle Mercer, passengers in the car, were in "good" condition.

McCarthy Row Explodes Anew

WASHINGTON, May 21 — UP—The Army-McCarthy inquiry plunged into a new controversy Friday over Sen. Stuart Symington's demand that all monitored telephone calls in the dispute be pushed to avoid "any suppression."

Symington (D-Mo.) fired his demand as an informed source said.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy now plans to testify whenever he is called even though he had hinted earlier he might boycott the hearings.

The Wisconsin Republican said only that "I'll be there Monday" when the hearings before the Senate investigating subcommittee are slated to resume. He has bitterly protested President Eisenhower's order forbidding testimony about a high level administration conference last Jan. 21 on the Army-McCarthy row.

In his latest blast at the secrecy order, McCarthy said "I don't like to see the executive branch take the Fifth Amendment about the meeting."

Marchioness Seeks Divorce

JUAREZ, Mex., May 21 — UP—The American-born marchioness of Milford Grande, Thursday, American Airlines said she has a reservation to return to New York at 1:45 p.m., est. Friday.

"I'm here for a vacation," was all the marchioness said her lawyers would let her tell reporters when she arrives. Her Juarez court clerk said he was told by an attorney that she would get a divorce on grounds of incompatibility.

In New York, where the couple dismissed counter-motions for divorce, it was reported her husband, David Michael Mountbatten, had agreed to a divorce settlement and would not contest the suit.

"I'm still married," was her answer when asked about the settlement reported to include a five-figure lump sum payment in lieu of alimony.

The 30-year-old American married the marquis, a great-grandson of Queen Victoria, in 1950. Although her husband is a cousin of both Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, the Milford Havens never were received at court because she had been divorced.

The latest shipment was believed made up mostly of small arms, including rifles, machine guns, grenades and flame throwers.

"Other loads have arrived before this also from behind the Iron Curtain. But they have been kept secret," the exiles reported. They said Communist agents had been working to provoke strikes and disorder in Honduras for more than two years.

Government Offers Grain At Bargain

WASHINGTON, May 21 — UP—The Agriculture Department Friday offered up for sale its huge surplus stocks of corn, barley, oats and rye for export at cut-rate prices sharply below U. S. levels.

Department spokesmen said the new export program for feed grains — which goes into effect at 1:31 p. m. est. — is expected to open "new outlets" for government stocks by boosting commercial exports. The government will lose money on the program since it will sell the grains at world market prices which are at less than it paid for them under the price support law.

Combined stocks of corn, oats and barley on April 1 totaled $6.5 million tons, a record high for the date, and 10 per cent more than supplies a year ago, the department reported.

The export prices for these grains, plus rye will be the cash price on the U. S. feed market minus an "export allowance" of 15 cents a bushel for corn, barley and rye, and 10 cents a bushel for oats.

Thus, the actual export prices will vary from day to day as the domestic market changes. The export subsidy itself will remain unchanged until further notice.

The Agriculture Department previously threw its big stocks of wheat and dairy products on the world market by offering what amounted to export subsidies for those products. It has denied that the action constitutes "dumping" of U. S. surpluses abroad.

A meeting of the Democratic county chairman and 18 precinct chairmen has been called for 10 a. m. Saturday in the 31st District courtroom on the third floor of the Court House.

Bob Baker, Demo county secretary, announced the meeting purpose of which is to pass on the proposed 7 per cent assessment of one year's salary for each candidate for elective offices.

Democrats To Discuss Assessments

A second purpose, Baker said today, will be to get as many chairmen as intend to do so file for re-election. Jimmy Thompson has filed for county chairman and Mrs. C. A. Tignor and James Kelley for precinct chairmen. Deadline for filing is June 7.

No such meeting has been planned for the county Republicans, GOP County Secy. Ed Vickers reported. First such meeting will probably be to choose election judges and the like. To date, there is no Republican running for a precinct, county or district post.

Most of the funds collected will stay right here in Pampa, Mrs. Al Lawson, child welfare chairman, Kerley-Crossman unit, said late this morning.

All collections are made by volunteers, she pointed out; therefore, none of the money goes into salaries or overhead.

Delays Bridge Work

Now There's 'Too Much' Water In Canadian River

There is too much water in the Canadian river between Pampa and Ferryton.

At least, there was too much today for building the proposed Canadian River bridge, "even if they were all ready to go," according to G. K. Reading, senior resident highway engineer.

Frost Construction company, Hydro, Okla., bridge contractor, the first of the week moved in three or four pieces of equipment, but the "formation is still too soft to work," Reading reported.

Reading Thursday visited the site of West Dugout Creek bridge, less than a mile away from the main bridge site, and today said piling was being driven.

Minor Vote Is Assailed

WASHINGTON, May 21 — UP—Sen. Richard B. Russell Friday attacked President Eisenhower's 18-year-old vote proposal as an "excusable" assault on the rights of the states and an "insult" to their governments.

The Georgia Democrat, who frequently calls the play for the southern wing of his party, said he will take the floor against the proposed constitutional amendment when it comes up for formal Senate debate Friday.

The proposal is a feature of President Eisenhower's State of the Union address. It has the strong support of other administration leaders including Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) said he has not "counted noses" on support for the proposal which simply forbids any state to deny voting rights to anyone who is 18 years old or older.

Mrs. Bailey was reported in "fair" condition. Miss Louise Logan and Miss Myrtle Mercer, passengers in the car, were in "good" condition.

All three of them were flung from the car when it hit a sharp curve. Highway Patrolmen R. C. Parker and Joe O'Rear reported late this morning. It looked as if the car failed to make the curve, the front end went off the pavement and hit a highway post and the car came back on the pavement and turned over about twice, they said.

Mrs. Bailey was pinned under the vehicle, the patrolmen continued, and the other two were found lying on the pavement. Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Shelton was also on the scene.

The car, they pointed out, was probably a total loss.

Star's Daughter Works As Full-Fledged Press Member

By ALINE MOBBY
HOLLYWOOD, May 21—UP—Among the crowds of columnists who mill around canapes and cocktails on the Hollywood party beat is a beautiful blond. But the night life of the movie stars is an old story to her.

Peggy Lloyd, daughter of famed comedian Harold Lloyd, has been a part of movieland society herself since her debutante days. Now she goes to the same parties, but to work, not just play.

Peggy carries paper and pencil and is a full-fledged member of the Hollywood press as a society columnist.

"I don't want to be one of those girls who goes to Palm Springs or just sits around," explained the shapely beauty Friday.

Peggy, divorced from TV producer Barlett Ross, was adopted by the Lloyds as a companion for their own daughter, Gloria. Gloria moved back with the family after her own divorce. But Peggy took an apartment with a girl friend and is working on her own.

She was a model and restaurant publicist for a while before switching from her life as daughter of one of Hollywood's wealthiest and most respected citizens to life as a small-town reporter.

"I didn't know a thing about newspapers, and I had to learn to do everything," she said. "Some days I even set the type."

Movieland party guests at first were surprised to see her with notebook in hand, scribbling gossip about the celebrities. Now hostesses invite her not just because she's a socialite but to get their parties in print.

"The society people are just as eager to get their names in the papers as movie stars are," she laughed.

"Some socialites even hire press agents to see to it that their parties are covered by the press," Peggy has other ambitions in mind besides playing girl reporter. She wants to carry the Lloyd name to another generation of acting.

"I'd like to try being an actress," she said. "I've just hired an agent."

But having my name in some ways a disadvantage. Some people say so just because you're Harold Lloyd's daughter. I think you can get into pictures."

Sooner Politico Dies Thursday

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 21—UP—Frank C. Carter, 81, who held three high state offices during more than 40 years in Oklahoma politics, died late Thursday at his home here.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Street and Draper funeral homes.

Carter was known affectionately as "Uncle Frank" and as "Colonel Carter" during terms as auditor, corporation commissioner, and secretary of state. He resigned as secretary of state in 1946.

He was a sheriff before Oklahoma was a state, serving in Tillman county until 1913. Twice outlaw nearly took his life, once when he was chasing gamblers and bootleggers in Tillman county. In 1919, an outlaw put a bullet through his hat as he rode with a posse.

Two Members Of Extortion Gang Captured

LUBBOCK, May 21—UP—Federal and state officers hunted Friday for two members of a gang that extorted $20,000 from a wealthy South Texas Negro rancher after making him pose in the nude for compromising photographs.

The rancher, 56-year-old Pete Rydolph, Thursday identified a white man and woman as two of the four persons who kidnaped him last Friday night from his ranch near Victoria.

The man was Sidney Miller, 47, an ex-convict from Dallas, who was arrested in Lubbock Wednesday, and the woman was Frieda Ashley, 35, of Lubbock, picked up at Lovington, N. M., Wednesday night. Both were held at Lubbock on charges of extortion filed at Victoria after Rydolph picked them out of a police lineup.

"I don't know where my money is, but I'm glad to be alive," Rydolph said. "I was scared for my life every minute. I'm just glad to be alive."

Although Rydolph was kidnaped last Friday and freed the next day, after he drew $20,000 from his bank, he didn't tell his story until Monday. Sheriff J. C. Durant of Victoria, who was first told of the extortion, said he thought Rydolph was "plain scared."

One of the men being hunted was white and the other the only Negro Rydolph said was involved.

'Sportsman' Is On FBI Infamy List

WASHINGTON, May 21—UP—The FBI Friday placed a suspected murderer with a yen for hunting, fishing, gunsmithing and "everything Chinese" on its list of 10 "most wanted" fugitives.

He is Otto Austin Loel, a 48-year-old native of Waverly, Ohio. He is wanted for the brutal slaying of a 31-year-old woman in an Oklahoma City Okla., motel last Jan. 10.

The woman was accompanying Loel on an automobile trip from California to New York. After the murder, Loel's automobile was found abandoned in Dallas, Tex. It is also known that Loel later hitchhiked to Shreveport, La.

Loel replaces Alex Whitmore on the FBI's list. Whitmore, wanted for a robbery in northern Virginia, was arrested in Seattle, Wash., on May 10.

Loel has been arrested once in Medina, Ohio, in 1947 for drunken driving. He served in the Navy for some years prior to World War II—mostly in China. The FBI said his acquaintances say he can speak Chinese and frequents Chinese restaurants.

Walter Rogers Due In Pampa This Week End

Rep. Walter Rogers, of Pampa, was due back home today or sometime this week end.

His law partner, Jimmy Thompson, late this morning, however, had heard no word from Rogers as to when he would arrive.

When the Pampa congressman was in Pampa last April 11 he announced his candidacy for re-election to the U. S. House of Representatives and said he expected to be home today.

Last week Rogers was in Amarillo with Gen. Nathan Twining, U. S. Air Force chief of staff, for Armed Forces Day. But he did not come to Pampa.

The Pampan might well get in some baseball practice while he is home. For he is slated to play shortstop for the Democrats in the annual Demo - Republican game June 15 in Griffith Stadium, Washington, D. C.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE Horrible Playing Dominates Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Horrible is the word for today's hand. South found a horrible way to bid his hand, and then managed to play it with equally horrible style. Maybe it will be an example for all of us.

East's fine opening bid of three hearts made matters awkward for South. He should double, indicating a readiness for almost anything. His actual bid of three spades indicated a long spade suit (at least six cards) in hand that was not good enough for a double or a jump to four spades.

In view of this message, North couldn't do much but raise to four spades. Slam seemed to be out of the question if South could bid only three spades. Actually, of course, the hand can be spread for thirteen tricks at clubs. If South had doubled three hearts, North would have bid energetically to at least a small slam in clubs.

When West led a small heart against the actual contract of four spades, South put up dummy's king of hearts. East played the ace, and South ruffed. South then led a trump to dummy's ace and a trump back to his king.

East discarded, and the rest was misery. South couldn't possibly make ten tricks against good defense from this point on. In fact, he had to play quite carefully to go down only one trick. It wasn't very pleasant to lose 100 points at a makable (but wrong) contract after having missed an ice-cold grand slam in the bidding!

South made his first error in the play of the cards when he played the king of hearts from the dummy. It was obvious that East had the ace, so nothing could be gained by playing the king.

The correct play is to play the six of hearts from dummy. East plays the nine, and South discards a diamond. The bidding advertises an unusual distribution, and South should expect a 5-1 trump break.

East continues with the ace of hearts (any other defense is a cinch for South) and declarer discards a second diamond. East leads a third heart, and dummy ruffs while South discards a third diamond. Now declarer cashes the ace of spades, gets to his hand with a club, and leads out three more

Waters at 8 p. m. today in the Assembly of God church. Her number will be "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2" by Liszt. She will also play a duet, "Ritual Fire Dance" by De Falla, with Malcolm Brown Jr. Miss Paxson is accompanist for the high school A Cappella choir and won an award as the outstanding student in the vocal department this spring. She is also accompanist for the high school boys' quartet, the choir's soloists and various ensembles.

Banish Grime For Beautiful Furniture

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer
If you're the proud owner of a fine piece of new furniture, resolve to keep your prized possession shining. Modern finishes, wondrous as they are, can only protect the fine woods.

They don't abolish the home-maker's need for her cleaning kit. Some manufacturers provide instruction booklets on the proper care of their furniture. If you have a booklet, pay attention to these directions.

In talking with the people who make fine furniture, I've picked up some tips that may be helpful, especially to the newly married housekeeper who hasn't yet evolved her own housekeeping routine.

Regular dusting — every day, or every other day, keeps your furniture looking better. It also helps to prevent damage from abrasive specks of dust.

This is particularly important in the care of the new pale-foned or natural finishes. Accumulated grime can work its way into the fiber of the wood and permanently darken it.

For this reason some experts recommend routine washing with soap and water. How often depends on the climate and your furniture expert's advice. One authority says once a month; another says twice a year. A young homemaker I know, living in a mid-western city, bathes her walnut woods every three months.

This isn't a slapdash operation. You need to work carefully, yet quickly, to get up the grime without soaking the wood.

Sponge dry lather from top of the suds onto a small area, rinse it once with a soft cloth wrung out in warm water and wipe dry before proceeding to the next section.

Let the piece dry thoroughly before shining up the surface with wax or a non-oily polish.

Although most furniture manufacturers recommend waxing or polishing the wood, they do caution NOT to overdo it. A very thin coating of wax, spread over the surface and rubbed to a gloss with your strong right arm will leave a durable, protective finish.

With paste or liquid waxes or polishes, it's necessary to use spotlessly clean, soft cloths to avoid rubbing in the dirt.

Lacquered wood finishes should be treated with non-oily polishes.

Clothes Should Fit Your Type Of Build

By ALICIA HART

Giant white collars ride at the head of the fashion parade this spring. And following them, this summer, we'll see many big, breezy berths.

Popular as these neckline fashions are, however, they are not for you if you are short. Remember, a style is fashionable only if it looks well on the wearer. The well-groomed woman wears the latest not merely because it is new but because it becomes her.

So, if you're less than medium height, avoid bulk, in accessories as well as in skirt and bodice. Wide lines will make you look shorter, while narrow, vertical lines will tend to add height.

Heavy hips is a common figure fault among women in this country. And it's often pointed up by narrow shoulders, creating what has been termed the pear shape.

If you are similarly built, consider this factor as well as your short stature in selecting clothes. To make your shoulders more prominent, wear stand-up collars, but have your shoulders only slightly padded.

Concentrate on playing down your hips. Never wear a suit jacket that's cut across the heaviest part of your hips. Pass by dresses that have draping and large pockets over the hips. A skirt that's slightly flared at the hemline does the best job of giving a slimmer look.

Although described as "summer" furniture, many of the wrought iron, rattan, aluminum, steel and wood pieces I've seen belie the title.

They'll look as handsome inside in November as they do on the porch in July.

Notable is the increasing number of good designers who style the lines. You'll note, too, the freer combinations of materials — such as wrought iron and glass or rattan.

Bright colored plastic fabrics used for covering compete with sturdy cottons in high-style colors and patterns.

Accessories, too, accent the indoor-outdoor trend as for example, a polished plate-glass mirror framed in curving scallops of wrought iron.

The widespread popularity of wrought iron doesn't seem to be waning, judging from the variety of styles to be seen everywhere.

Solo And Ensemble Pieces Stated For Recital Programs

Piano solos, accordion number and various ensemble arrangements will be presented during recitals today and Saturday by students of Bill Haley. Both recitals will begin at 8 p. m. in the parish hall of Holy Souls church.

Students who will perform Saturday are Barbara Crews, Karen Capps, Sandra Palmiter, Phyllis Line, Doris Taylor, J. M. Urbanczyk, J. H. Urbanczyk, Zoselle Hudson, Sandra Cail, Jane Nichol, Marilyn Delver, Amelia Erhard, Mary Cole, Elaine Trumm, Linda Kay Lander, Darlene Adams, Kay Layman, Dale Wofford, Shirley Quick, Laura Hendricks, Linda Coleman, Kay Lard, Judy Daniels, Michael Payte, Beverly Langley, Kay Baker, Robert Bigham, and Mary Beth Gemesy.

One of the programs for today are Morris Morgan Johnson, Lauray Nation, Jimmie Kay Mack, Robert Green, Tony Smith, Jeanne Hopkins, Kay Kotara, Kay Flippin, Jill Zuerker, Frank Howard, Gale Howard, Kenny Anderson, Bob Jernigan, Patricia Nichols, Anne Edwins, Mary Lynn Miller, James Edwin Vicars, Jimmy Haiduk, Marylin Brown, Paul Brachis, David Wampler, George Shultz, Falkenstein, Harold Brand, Carolyn King, and Linda Moore.

Officers installed by Mrs. Seay were Mrs. Mack Hiatt Jr., president; Mrs. John Gill, vice-president; Mrs. Melvin Stephens, secretary; Mrs. Lonnie Richardson, treasurer; Mrs. Walter C. Bowen, reporter; Mrs. Irvin Cole, parliamentarian; Miss Eloise Lane, pianist; Robert Payne, choral director; Mrs. Mary Elise Lauderdale, assistant choral director.

Featured speaker for the evening was Mrs. Seay. "We are able to render a great musical service because we are organized into groups," she stated. "All clubs are vital to the growth of the Federation."

The tables were covered with yellow cloths, and the head table was centered with an arrangement of yellow daisies in brown cut-glass bowls. The other tables were centered with arrangements of yellow iris in crystal bowls. In the windows were large, gold-gilt musical notes.

Special Pampa guests of the club were Mrs. Calvin Whitley, Mrs. E. L. Campbell, Mrs. Malcolm Denson, Lonnie Richardson, W. C. Bowen, Melvin Stephens, Mrs. Mary Elise Lauderdale and Mrs. Kenneth Lankford.

Out-of-town guests were Meses Sam L. Seay, Romie W. Adams, and H. P. Arnold, all of Amarillo. Members present were Meses Irwin Cole, John H. Frick, E. L. Campbell, Mack Hiatt Jr., Calvin Whitley, Dick Land, Mary Elise Lauderdale, A. H. Doucette, John Gill, E. G. Gordon, H. A. Yoder, W. C. Bowen, John Hankins and Miss Eloise Lane, all of Pampa; and Meses Lewis Williams, Ann Wisdom and C. W. Roberts of Panhandle.

RUTH MILLET

"Did you know the Smiths are getting a divorce?" Susan, who prides herself on knowing all the news before it gets into print, dropped her well-timed conversational bomb into the middle of her bridge club.

The astonished comments and eager questions were all Susan had expected they would be.

But Susan's pleasure was short-lived because Mary spoke up and said:

"I don't believe it. I've known the Smiths a long time and they are a devoted couple. If they're having any trouble, I'm sure they'll work it out. But it's a shame some thoughtless person has started that rumor about them."

The world would be an easier place to live in if there were more Marys and fewer Susans around.

The Susans seem to thrive on being the first to know and the first to tell about someone else's troubles. They have such a thirst for gossip that they never even bother to find out if the stories they spread are true.

ALWAYS THE PREFACE
If they have a conscience it is quickly eased with prefacing a bit of gossip with, "There may not be a word of truth in it but..." or "Don't tell anyone I told you because it may be just a number but..."

The damage that gossips like Susan do could be immeasurably cut down if there were more people like Mary who have the courage to look the gossips in the eye and say "I don't believe it."

The reason that gossips go right on gossiping is that they seldom meet with such rebuffs. The reception of their news is usually all that they expect. There just aren't enough Marys to put the Susans in their place.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Remember that when your child is most demanding and defiant, he is in most need of your reassurance and love.

Perhaps no sentence in the child guidance books has so frustrated parents as this one: "Reading it, we recall yesterday's attempt to soothe our screaming, kicking son in the grocery store."

We remember last night's effort to break through the sullenness of the daughter, denied permission to wear her new Sunday dress to school this morning.

And the idea that these two angry people have been pining for our "reassurance and love" seems about as silly an idea as we've ever heard.

Without quite knowing what we're thinking, we think to ourselves: "I guess there's something different and wrong about me. There must be something wrong about me. Volting about my reassurance and love because infuriated children certainly seem to want no part of them."

It is not true. We learn that it isn't when we discover how often we ourselves use angry words to demand one thing when we really want another, when we begin to realize how often human beings use such words to hide themselves from each other.

What, for instance, do we say when our children's father-telephones to tell us he won't be home for dinner? With tension and resentment in our words, we say, "I'm having roast lamb for supper. You know that because I told you so this morning. I guess you don't care what trouble I go to, I'm getting sick of planning for nothing."

But is eating roast lamb what we really want of our husband? Isn't this what we really want to say: "Have you stopped loving me, Bill? Is there another woman you like better than me? Please tell me that we are dear and close to one another because lately I've begun to fear that we are not."

Why do we speak the accusing, superficial words into the telephone instead of the true ones?

For the same reason exactly that our angrily demanding child cannot speak his true ones to us, too.

Once we know it's the same reason, his false, angry words no longer deceive us.

If he shoves us off, we are not hurt, but tender toward him. If he continues to attack us, we just wait until the attack is over.

For we have outgrown our childish awe of human speech and can no longer be tricked by words that misrepresent our universal need to say, "I want your reassurance. I need your love."

Lemon juice will tenderize poultry, and also add to the flavor of the meat. Rub chicken or other fowl inside and out, with lemon juice after cleaning and before adding the dressing.

Use the pressure cooker to take the work out of nut-shelling. Place the nuts in the cooker containing a half cup of hot water and keep under 15 pounds of pressure for five minutes. The West Virginia extension service, which recommended this method, said the shells "come off like magic."

A shirt will not soil so rapidly if you hang it instead of folding after ironing.

Cook's Nook

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Two of the most important of the Seven Basic Foods we all need every day are cereals and milk. They are essential to growth, stamina and a balanced diet. They provide essential calcium, B vitamins, minerals and protein at low cost.

Nevertheless, too many adults forget they never outgrow their need for these foods. Our national health will be much better than it is today when we all realize that not all of the Seven Basic Foods, but All of them, must be eaten every day.

Adults who don't like to drink milk can get part of their quota (which is at least a pint a day) in cooked dishes.

Here are a few suggestions for combining cereal and milk in cooked dishes:

1. Quick cereal loaf breads.
2. Oatmeal cookies.
3. Chicken a la King (or other favorite creamed dish) served on hot, ready-to-eat cereal. Dot the cereal with butter or margarine, heat in a shallow pan in a moderate oven.
4. Crispy Omelet — for a 5-egg fluffy omelet from your recipe collection, heat one cup of overcooked rice cereal in butter or margarine or bacon drippings until lightly browned. Spread over the bottom of skillet. Pour omelet mixture over cereal. Cook over low heat as your recipe directs.
5. Creamed potatoes or potatoes in cheese sauce, topped with slightly crushed flaked cereal; baked until heated through.

One of the easiest and most economical ways to get these two basic foods into the diet is to use them at breakfast. Fruit or fruit juice, cereal, served either hot or cold, milk, bread with butter or margarine, and a glass of milk, coffee or tea make a perfectly planned breakfast. It will also contribute from 1/4 to 1/3 of the day's total nutritional requirements at very low cost.

Junior High PTA Holds Board Meet

The executive board of the Junior High School Parent-Teachers' Association held its final meeting of the school year Thursday.

Reports by committee chairmen were made during the business session, led by Mrs. W. L. Hoops, president.

Mrs. W. L. Rowntree, membership chairman, reported a total roster of 474 for the year. The group's four radio programs were described by Mrs. R. D. Goodnight, radio chairman.

From the study groups offered during the year, four persons completed the interior decorating course; two, the textile painting course; and one the home nursing course, announced Mrs. F. H. Jernigan, study group chairman.

The sending of a delegate to the state legislative conference in Austin June 7-13 was approved by the board.

Members present were McHenry Lane, principal; Paul Brown; and Meses Dow King, Aubrey Steele, George Newberry, E. A. McLenahan, Paul Holsenbush, R. C. Rowntree, Goodnight, and Jernigan.

Scientists Probe Mysteries Of Mars As It Nears Earth

By ROSE KRULL
NEA Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The red planet has an important rendezvous with earth this year during which man will try to solve some of its age-old secrets.

Is there life on Mars? Are there intelligent beings? What is the meaning of the mysterious "blue envelope" which clouds the planet's surface? What do the dark greenish markings portend during the Martian summer? Are they vegetation? Are there really "canals" on Mars as claimed by Italian astronomer Schiaparelli in 1877? The past years have not settled this controversy.

There are some of the mysteries scientists hope to penetrate this year — and in 1956 — when the planet will approach closer than it has in 16 years.

Mars swings next beyond the earth in distance from the sun, V in the two planets reach positions nearest each other in their orbits, at intervals of slightly more than two years, their average distance apart is 48,000,000 miles. At times, Mars is more than 200,000,000 miles from the earth.

Mars' orbit is off center, however, bringing it closer to the earth in regular cycles. In 1954 it will pass a distance of about 40,000,000 miles, and in 1956 a little more than 35,000,000 miles, closer than it has been at any time since 1938.

Last summer the International Mars Committee was formed to plan and coordinate astronomical work on the red planet. In the coming year, observations will be made of all major continents, high flying planes and perhaps even from stratosphere-piercing unmanned missiles.

The chief attack upon the planet's secrets will be made by a team of astronomers sponsored by the Lowell Observatory, of Flagstaff, Ariz., and the National Geographic Society. The expedition will be led by Dr. E. C. Sipher, of Flagstaff, who has given a lifetime study to Mars.

It will spend nine months at the Lamont-Hussey Observatory at Bloemfontein, South Africa, where a 27-inch refracting telescope will be trained nightly at the planet.

The telescope is ideally placed for the work, being located at a latitude where Mars will pass almost directly overhead each night. The skies there are usually also clear in late spring and summer.

The committee hopes that by organizing round-the-world study of Mars, in which numerous amateur astronomers will participate, science will gain its most searching knowledge of the strange planet.

One goal is more exact measurement of the planet's diameter, about half that of the earth, and from it a better understanding of Mars' internal makeup.

Another is the photographic investigation of the so-called "blue envelope" that clouds the planet's surface at all except brief intervals.

Is there life on Mars? It has an atmosphere, with varying weather and climate. It has polar caps which change in size with the Martian seasons. It has huge dark areas which extend toward the planet's equator. These change over the years and also with the seasons, although their general outlines remain relatively fixed.

The markings are dark greenish blue in the Martian summer, turning to a brownish shade as fall and winter approach. This has led to conjecture that they are formed by vegetation.

Probably the most controversial thing about Mars, however, are the "canals" which Schiaparelli saw. Since canals would imply never been photographed satisfactorily.

Mars in 1810. The first sketches of Mars in 1810. The first sketches of surface markings were made in 1830. By 1878, astronomers had discovered that polar caps on Mars expanded and shrank in regular variation. In 1877, two moons tiny satellites of Mars, were discovered.

Other astronomers have seen Schiaparelli's lines, thin and straight and tracing a grid-like pattern over vast areas of Mars. But still other astronomers, competent also, have failed to observe them. The overall network has

Rhee Loses Domestic Test Of Strength

SEOUL, Korea, May 21—UP—President Syngman Rhee lost a test of strength on South Korea's domestic affairs Friday but his anti-Communist leadership in foreign affairs remained unchallenged.

Official returns from 180 to 200 districts showed that candidates backed by Rhee won only 78 assembly seats in Tuesday's election and led in 10 others. Opposition candidates won 28 other seats.

The complete, official tabulation was not expected to be made available until Saturday.

As former U. S. President Truman often blasted that "good for nothing" Republican 80th Congress, Rhee constantly called the current national assembly "the worst legislative body in the world."

Rhee had sought to win two-thirds control of the new legislative body in order to put through four proposed constitutional amendments.

War and peace policies were not issues in the campaign, nor was Rhee's presidential office at stake. His term runs for two more years and his cabinet will not be affected by the outcome of the balloting.

United Nations officials observed the balloting in order to prove that it was conducted honestly and should be used as a model for elections in North Korea, if the Geneva conference succeeds in unifying this country.

Wheeler Personals

By MRS. CLARA MARSHALL

Wheeler seniors, accompanied by their sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Brown, left Wheeler at 8 a.m. Friday for a trip to New Orleans. They will be gone a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marshall have bought a home in the west part of Wheeler. It was purchased by Thomas Baker of Lela.

Adrian Risner, accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Jean Rushing, made a business trip to Amarillo Saturday.

Bill Robertson of WTSC, Canyon, visited his mother, Mrs. Beasie Robertson, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Furman Maxwell of Borger visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Weatherly and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Maxwell, over the week end.

Glenn Farmer of WTSC, Canyon, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ebb Farmer, over the week end.

Dr. and Mrs. James P. Corlette and sons, Jimmy and Bob, anti-Communist leadership in foreign affairs remained unchallenged.

Those attending from here are Quentin Williams, Chester Thompson, Wayne Robinson, E. L. Yeargain, Dale Pinson, Ed Wohlgenuth, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Threast, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carmichael, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Colwell.

Williams is president of the Bedouins group of which the others are members. The Bedouins are one of the uniformed groups that will take part in marching ceremonies at the convention.

High Plains Water District Manager Speaks To Lions

A Lubbock conservation official told a Pampa Lions Club Farmer-Rancher day audience it might be well for Pampa and the Top of Texas to begin thinking of setting up a locally-controlled water conservation district.

Tom McFarland, executive secretary and general manager of the High Plains Water District, Thursday noon asked an overflow crowd in the basement of the First Methodist church:

"What good is oil and gas without water?"

Explaining that his home water district was more or less, a "trial balloon on the state and national level," McFarland said it had really worked, evidenced as much as anything by the passage of a Texas law which states (1) the water under a person's land belongs to him and (2) a person can do whatever he wants with his water.

The Northern High Plains of Texas, the conservationist said in referring to the Top of Texas area, "certainly has a good supply, if you can just get it." He indicated that a $13,000 irrigation well could really pay off in the long run.

McFarland cited some statistics to prove his idea, that the Panhandle really needs conservation of water. For the last 50 years in Texas, the population has increased three times while the water demands have been upped 71 times. The 17 western states have 88 percent of the total U. S. land acreage and less than 20 percent of the available water supply.

The soil and topography of the Panhandle is "ideal for conservation, particularly if it's done by your people," the Lubbock man said in an obvious reference to not having state or national control of such a proposed water district.

"So goes the farmer, so goes the nation," he concluded.

A total of 63 farmers and ranchers, specially-invited guests, were on hand for the annual club meeting. And there were 14 other guests to make a total of 77. Boss Lion Ralph Thomas welcomed them all. The Lion-Hearted Four, local

Six-Year Fight For Life Fails

LANSING, Kan., May 21—UP—Nathaniel Germany, a 28-year-old Kansas City, Kan., Negro died on the gallows at Kansas state prison with a prayer on his lips Friday morning.

"I'm in your hands, O Lord. Please forgive me. Please save me. Keep me, O my God, give me strength," the murderer chanted through the black hood as the trap was sprung at 1:01 a. m. est.

The execution in an old silas warehouse, ended the state of Kansas' more than six-year fight to punish Germany for the 1947 murder of David W. Gray, an 18-year-old college student.

Germany, who spent 33 months in a mental hospital before he was declared sane and tried for the lovers' lane shooting, was calm as he went to the gallows with his minister, the Rev. T. E. Freeman.

"We all sin and we all have to die. Everyone was born to die," the Negro told newsmen. "I believe in Jesus Christ and I know he will save me. You fellows better get right with God."

SWING SHIFT—A graceful competitor in the International Tennis Tournament in Rome is Mary Morris, a member of the U. S. team. Making her debut in Italy, the pretty tennis star lost her first game to Italian favorite Lina Manfredi, who defeated Mary by 6-4 in a strenuous game.

CAPABLE GIRL—And well able to take care of herself is pretty Shani Wallis, an actress in London, England. She has profited from the judo lessons she's been taking from Joe Robinson, the fellow who is shown riding for a fall.

TOWER OF STRENGTH—A familiar Parisian landmark, the Eiffel Tower provides a harmonious background to the natural grace of two musclemen getting their exercise in the warm spring air. At this time of year, Parisians begin flocking to the banks of the Seine River to exercise and shed their winter kinks. Frequent dips in the river are included in the workouts.

FOILED!—Yankee catcher Yogi Berra is fitting the railing in an attempt to catch Pete Suder's foul into the box seats during the Yankees-Athletics game at Yankee Stadium in New York. Note the expressions of fun as they dodge the ball which seems to be balanced on top of the iron bar in the background. Berra and Mantle homered to give Yankees a 2-0 victory over the A's.

HOPE FOR THE BEST—In Jersey City, N. J., Mal Whitfield, top U. S. half-miler, reads a newspaper account of Roger Bannister's record 3:59.4 mile run. Mal, who's been campaigning lately as a miler, will make his own attempt to break the new record at the Coliseum Relays in Los Angeles on May 31. With his experience, he knows better than most how difficult it'll be.

IT'S NOT A PICNIC—Villanova varsity player John Giordano fumbles as teammate Ron Woods (65) gets there too late to block a tackle by Villanova alumnus Ray Rigney (63) during a grid game in Philadelphia between Villanova alumni and varsity teams. The game was part of an all-day sports festival between students and alumni.

THEY'RE BOTH WINNERS—Miss Italy of 1953 is giving trotter Katie Key some encouragement at Yonkers, N. Y. The horse, America's leading trotter male, is slated for an unprecedented tour of five European countries. The former Miss Italy, now Mrs. Joseph Tuccio, and sister-in-law of Pat Tuccio who owns Katie Key, met the man who's now her husband in her homeland last year. He was in Italy arranging for Katie Key's visit.

HAVING A BALL—Pretty Marilyn Dolan is one gal who really seems to be full of bounce; enough, at least, to give those beach balls a good workout in St. Petersburg, Fla. Marilyn's vacation was not one devoted exclusively to sea and sand; some exercise helped fill up those sunny days.

SOMETHING TO KICK ABOUT—Eric Parsens, left, of Chelsea F. C. of London and teammate James Lewis, behind Parsens, set up a shot for another Chelsea man in the soccer game in New York. At right foreground is Hans Mueller of the Fortuna team from Dusseldorf, Germany. Almost 19,000 fans saw Chelsea best the German team, 3-2.

HITTING IT UP—When starlet Pat Crowley came to New York from Hollywood for a visit, she got out the old golf bag and set to work. She had her heart set on entering the national drizzler-driving contest which will disclose the longest ball hitter in the U. S.

HE'S OUT!—Philadelphia Phillies' Richie Ashburn is out at the plate in the first inning of the game, after he attempted to score from third on Granny Hamner's fly to left. Brooklyn catcher Al Walker makes the tag under the eyes of umpire Art Gore. The Dodgers won this contest, which was played in Philadelphia, by 2-1.

One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Wrong Approach

We will give some of our reasons here to show why we believe that the government should not investigate Communists except in government agencies.

We may get ourselves in bad on this subject with many of our good friends, who fight Communism. Our belief that the Communist party should not be outlawed is based on a study of the Constitution and on the writings of the Founding Fathers which explained their reasons for including the "Treason Clause" in the Constitution.

Our favorite Constitutional authority is Isabel Paterson, author of The God of the Machine. She says in Chapter XII, commenting on the "Treason Clause."

"The Treason Clause remains unique in all the long record of political institutions. In the first place, it declares that there is no such crime as treason in peace time."

"Treason against the United States shall exist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid or comfort."

"Nothing but armed rebellion or joining with an enemy nation — and nations are by definition enemies only when at war — can be treason."

"No peaceful or personal opposition to government or to members of the government comes under the head of treason."

"Even the forcible attack of resistance of a single person as such (having no connection or agreement with other persons or a foreign government to the same end), could hardly be construed as treason, as it would not constitute levying war."

"Treason must be an overt act, not merely an expression of opinion; and a conviction cannot be had on circumstantial evidence; two witnesses to the act are required."

"In the European theory it was treason to attack the person of the king even for non-political motives. The man and the office are held to be inseparable."

"A like attempt against any member of a true republican government is a strictly personal crime offense."

"By this unprecedented limitation of treason, the government or administration was debared from imposing silence while making encroachments. Its members were allowed no means of reprisal against criticism of exposure."

We believe that this is as it should be. Our treason clause is both unique and radical for the same reason the whole Constitution is a radical, new and unprecedented document.

What makes it radical? As a governmental document it is aimed against government and not against the citizens. As a governmental document it takes the side of the citizens against government or members thereof.

The treason clause is not aimed against traitors — so much as it is aimed against governmental officials who would like to use their power by using the cry of treason as a weapon to silence the opposition.

It is argued that Communists are not members of a regular political party. It is said that Communists are members of a conspiracy which is dedicated to violence, murder and bloody revolution. That is true. But in the minds of the Founding Fathers it would still do immeasurably more harm than good to outlaw members of a revolutionary group.

The Sedition Act, the Smith Act, the Texas law outlawing Communists, are all preventive laws and unconstitutional.

Why did the Founding Fathers include the words "overt act" in the treason clause. Because they were opposed to preventive laws.

Preventive laws are laws which attempt to catch the criminal or prevent his crime, before the crime has been committed.

History shows that such laws do more harm than good by punishing the innocent along with the potentially guilty.

All prohibitory laws which outlaw drinking, because a drunkard might commit a crime, or which outlaw carrying guns, because you might commit a murder, or which outlaw conspiring to overthrow the government by violence, because you might go out and do it — are preventive laws which have always done more harm than good.

In czarist Russia the Communist Party was outlawed. After it was outlawed it became so popular that its members boasted, besides respectable students, several "intellectual" dukes and duchesses.

The immediate practical effect is to drive the activity prohibited underground and to increase its attractiveness to youthful rebels who find forbidden fruits sweeter, and all activities more interesting which have been officially declared off limits.

Truman Plan

Ex-President Truman thinks there is a cure for the "creeping McKinleyism" of the Eisenhower administration. His recipe for "full employment within a year" is for the Government to quickly spend three billions more on defense, public power, public works, roads, education, health and housing, at the same time cutting income taxes four and a half billions a year and raising wages.

There are still some other generous items, but you get the idea. As we have mentioned before, we think Harry is eminently qualified to be an EX-president.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

A Summary of Growth in Statism

I know of no better way of promoting understanding and peace and good will and better jobs than to quote for a few days from a speech made by a great American, Hon. Ralph W. Gwinn, Congressman from New York.

Here is a man who is elected again and again to Congress who really stands for the principles set forth in the Declaration of Independence. His speech is a summary of why we are in the predicament we are in today.

From here on I am quoting Congressman Gwinn:

"Mr. Speaker, before the New Deal, communism was an underground, outlaw movement in the United States. Barred from the ballot by 18 State legislatures, the Stalinists were without legal standing. Their party was treated as the thing it was, a wrecking movement of godless outlaws and violent revolutionaries. Four Presidents faithfully had preserved the United States policy of nonrecognition of the lawless Communist Russia.

"All this was changed by the New Deal. Early in 1933, soon after President Roosevelt's inauguration on March 4, a wrecking movement of godless outlaws and violent revolutionaries. Four Presidents faithfully had preserved the United States policy of nonrecognition of the lawless Communist Russia.

"Thenceforth, the outlaw breed of wreckers and despoilers of civilization were taken into the family of nations, offered a place at the council table of humanity and, in the United States, invited to become a part of government.

"And precisely at this point began the most treacherous betrayal of America since the founding of the Republic.

"Today, after 20 years of organized Communist penetration in America, we have some of the story in the public record, the story of Moscow's treacherous infiltration of every major department and agency of our own United States Government, both in Washington and throughout those States in which large Federal payrolls are controlled by the Washington bureaucrats.

"On August 28, 1950, Lee Pressman—formerly an attorney in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Under oath, he acknowledged that he had been a member of a Communist Party cell in Washington in 1934 and 1935. He named three coworkers in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the first of the New Deal recovery agencies, as collaborators in the Communist underground then operating within the Federal departments under the Roosevelt-Wallace-Tugwell program to reorganize the American economic and political system.

"In the 18-year record of the House Committee on Un-American Activities there is no earlier date established for the launching of the Communist network within the structure of the American Government. The Communist cell in the State Department, which came to light in the Alger Hiss trial, began operations in 1938-39. The Marzani cell in the State Department did its work in 1940-43. The Judith Coplon ring in the Department of Justice was active in the years 1943-46. The Amerasia spy ring, which operated in both the State and Navy Departments as well as in the Office of Strategic Services, sent its agents to Moscow in the years 1943-45. The atomic-energy spy ring did its work in 1942-46. Pressman's testimony was the first from a former Government employee who had been himself a member of the Moscow network in Washington during the first months of the New Deal, dating from March 4, 1933.

"The three other Communist Party members who worked closely with him in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's Kremlin cell were named by Pressman in his testimony as first, Nathan Witt, who later became secretary of the National Labor Relations Board and shaped our Federal labor policy for years; second, David J. McDonald, a member of the legal section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in 1933, became assistant general counsel for Harry Hopkins' Works Progress Administration in 1935, and assistant to the Attorney General in 1937-38; and third, Charles Kramer, who left the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to become general counsel to the Senate Labor Committee, in which capacity he was, with Chairman Robert F. Wagner, of New York, one of the principal authors of the Wagner Act, which gave communists a free hand in the American labor movement.

"In a very real sense, Pressman's testimony forms the vital missing link in the Communist trail in New Deal Washington. The many-sided Moscow network which came to light in later years in all the major departments of the Government, was seeded originally in 1933 in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, when Henry A. Wallace was Secretary of Agriculture, with Rexford Guy Tugwell as Under Secretary and top administrator of the first unconstitutional act of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

"Pressman was first named as an influential kingpin of the Washington Communists in the early New Deal era, in the testimony of Whittaker Chambers, in August 1948. When the House Committee called him on that occasion, Pressman disclaimed Chambers' charges as 'the stale and lurid mouthings of a Republican exhibitionist.' In the same manner,

The Old Firehorse

National Whirligig... Union Put In Weak Bargaining Spot By Rising Unemployment

WASHINGTON — Growing unemployment and possible loss of control in new contract negotiations lie behind the tight alliance which the labor leaders of the steel, coal and trucking industries have organized in defiance of the old and major unions—the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Although the three leaders condemned the Eisenhower administration's program for inaugurating an emergency reconstruction program, their difficulties are economic rather than political. Their members are being laid off by the thousands, and the flow of dues into unions is dropping precipitously.

These conditions have reduced their organizations to their weakest state since the mid-thirties, when F.D.R. sponsored legislation that gave them a dominant position in politics and the nation's economy.

UNEMPLOYED UNION WORKERS — According to their own records, there are three unions, which have a total membership of about 3,000,000.

More than 100,000 of John L. Lewis' coal miners are jobless, and 300,000 are waiting for work. David J. McDonald's CIO steel workers report 10,000 out of work and 250,000 working only part time. Dave Beck's AFL truckers cannot find employment for 200,000 of their members.

CONTRACT REPUDIATION SUGGESTED BY COMPANIES — Indeed, some are suggesting that the only remedy is to repudiate their contracts with Lewis, which call for wages of $19.00 a day. It is doubtful if the larger firms, which fix the pay-scale patterns, will adopt such a drastic course, for it would revive the Alger Hiss had denied Chambers' accusations with unrestrained vehemence. Two years — and one presidential election — were to pass before the record would be completed by Pressman's frank admission — after the Communist aggression in Korea — that he had himself suggested Alger Hiss for appointment as general counsel for the Senate Munitions Investigating Committee in 1935, from which post Hiss had moved on to larger fields of public service in the State Department and the United Nations Preparatory Commission.

"After leaving Federal service in 1935 Pressman became a national figure as general counsel for the CIO, at $19,000 a year. As legal guide and mentor to the late Sidney Hillman, Pressman was a moving force in the CIO Political Action Committee, which re-elected Roosevelt for the third and fourth terms, put Henry Wallace in as Vice President and then Secretary of Commerce, and extended its stranglehold on Congress.

In the February 26 issue of U.S. News and World Report (page 24) President Eisenhower defined the kind of people he considered security risks. Among his definitions was this one: A person who advocates overthrow of the government by force or unconstitutional means. DOES HE THINK THERE'S A CONSTITUTIONAL MEANS OF OVERTHROWING THE GOVERNMENT? I don't. I've read the Constitution pretty carefully and I can't find one word in it authorizing the EXECUTIVE AGREEMENTS.

IT TAKES SO LONG TO PUT ON THAT NATIONAL WOLF-SOME LOOK THAT DON LIKES!

So far, there has been no angry talk or bickering between the owners nor the unions, with their industries all, are in a mood for labor wars or strikes. Administration experts in this field are hopeful that both sides will settle for a package increase of about ten cents, mostly in noninflationary "fringe benefits."

With so many influential industrialists in the cabinet, the White House anticipates that they will be able to preserve peace on the labor front. It will be to their political and economic interest to do so, for industrial strife would aggravate administration problems on the eve of a congressional election.

Fair Enough... 'Statements' Made By Truman Add Up To Publicity For Party

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NEW YORK — I don't see why we continue to pay attention to Harry Truman's statements, made as political publicity for the party which he has just permitted but actually caused the infestation of our government by traitors.

When he comes up with a flagrant affront to the letter and spirit of our constitution as he did in his slouchwise inept to Eisenhower on the subject of presidential "leadership," he creates a useful occasion to examine the heresy and demolish it.

But the publicity pictures of his daughter, a much more pleasant personality but unimportant in her own right, are about chess-plate and his abject repetition of the epithet "anolygoester" has no valid excuse. The man is coarse, he speaks with a dirty tongue, he has glibly acted to alone for which cost us the victory in two wars and may cost us our existence as a nation and I see no excuse for friendly treatment.

Some individuals who had reason to despise him with unrelenting ardor have shown his head and hands banded repartee in Washington, but I think they show little self-respect or respect for the American people. Dick Nixon turned his back on Truman on the inaugural scaffold; but I was told that he later relented and some months afterward I read that he had received Truman in his office. I would have ordered the Secret Service to throw the bum out, but I bespeak a similar mind toward him by all who remember his indecent conduct at the inaugural parade of '49 when Mrs. Strom Thurmond bowed and Truman refused to lift his hat and even restrained Alben Barkley from lip-ping his Mr. Thurmond had been the States' Rights candidate.

You don't have truck with that kind, and the fact that Truman held the presidential office for almost eight years in which, by his act, we lost victories in Europe and Korea is no excuse to pay him obeisance. My respect for Barkley is diminished when I read that Truman went to him at George Marshall's home in Virginia when Truman was up against it in the Eisenhower campaign and came away with dues on his knees. I assumed to me that this was a fix because Barkley, at his old age, flew down from New York with Arthur Godfrey, who isn't exactly a space cadet, and there they had a session with crumpets and fancy tea, when who dropped in but the fellow who wrote Barkley that insulting letter in '48. He was there to beg for the vote which Barkley might swing.

That showed the real quality of his character, I would have been too proud to beg, expect to beg paragon if I thought I had done wrong. But I certainly would not have put the President in the position of a wheedling supplicant inviting the rebuff that Truman deserved and got. Barkley called Truman a "rude, unbecoming, ignorant" fellow, but he was in the '48 election — I will bet, he has wished many a time since that he had had the gumption to say, "Yes, I said it and it still goes" instead of trying to weasel out of it next day.

As to presidential leadership, I saw and heard this abusive little man insult the Congress of the United States in '48 when he called a special session for no other purpose than to humiliate the institution from which we get our laws. Not enough of our people or our journalism really understood that scene. Stuck with the nomination which he had rejected, Truman called into special session the 80th Congress, which the Republicans controlled, and when they were in their seats, swaggered down the aisle like an alley fighter passing the bunch at a river front saloon.

He was a shocking figure, the President of the United States, sneering at the legislative branch and the speech was a disgraceful thing. He used the power and dignity of his office only to ridicule Congress before the people. Being better Americans, they sat and took it. This was actually the opening speech of the Congress and the people paid for a coup which was the proper expense of the Democratic Party.

I don't forget such things. I wouldn't shake his hand and too many do who shouldn't.

Truman's proposition that the President should be a "leader" is a page out of the books of Hitler, Mussolini and Roosevelt. But he saves "lead" me although how can I deny that he dragged me down the slide to the peril and predicament that we all share now? Nor is he my "leader" now. He doesn't understand our Constitution and he isn't going the way I want to go. It was to the good, however, that Truman put it that way. He may set some of us to thinking back to the original and all legitimate meaning of the Constitution and, of course, of the presidency. We lost our republic when we abandoned the original method of having states, through their legislatures, choose electors to pick the President and drifted into the present democratic, emotional system whereby a rowdy can win popular votes from thoughtless people by a

"give 'em hell" campaign. Not only that, but we turned the whole business over to two private organizations called political parties which have no legitimate right so to function. To the extent that he turned our thoughts to our fate, Truman's remarks were worth reporting, though we can't scramble back to the Constitution now.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NO VERDICT? Will any "verdict" ever emerge from the televised Stevens-versus-McCarthy dispute? Will the committee judges announce a winner and loser? Will anyone be convinced of perjury? Will anyone be punished—or fired?

On this thirteenth day of the hearings, any such concrete results seem pretty unlikely. All the participants are becoming like characters in a play, except that it is hard to identify the hero, and the plot gets more involved every day. Rumors are now prevalent that nothing will be clearly resolved or solved; that Secretary Stevens will resign at some "suitable" future date, and that McCarthy will "ease out" Mr. Cohn, also at some "suitable" future date. It is also predicted that the Republicans and the Democrats on the committee will issue separate reports, and that nobody, including the public, will be very happy or satisfied with the result.

Why should this be so? Surely the committee and its counsel have sufficient powers to "dig out" all the facts. They can command any and all witnesses to testify under oath, and to be cross-examined. They can subpoena any and all documents they desire. Why, then, can they not reach a clear-cut verdict of conviction upon all the "facts"?

NEWSWEEK magazine, in its May 10th issue, tries to explain this phenomenon by saying that the "facts" are only half of the story, while "motives" are the other half, and that these are, and will remain, mysteriously unprovable on both sides.

Take, for example, the McCarthy-Cohn charge that Secretary Stevens and Mr. Adams tried to stop the Committee's investigation of subversion in the military, and that they tried to "buy off" the Committee with favors to Private Schine. NEWSWEEK cites as "facts" already in evidence: McCarthy's investigation of alleged security risks working at Fort Monmouth did disturb Stevens and the Army, and they did attempt to persuade the Wisconsin Republican to drop it — or, at least, to put it under wraps. Also, "Stevens and the Army did, for many months, bend over backward to avoid irritating McCarthy. They did give unusual privileges to Pvt. G. David Schine." Does this prove the McCarthy-Cohn charges, — or can these "facts" be interpreted in more than one way?

It is a "fact" that McCarthy and Cohn (mostly the latter) did make several "requests" in behalf of Pvt. Schine, but does the proof of Stevens charge of "improper" pressure, or can this fact also be interpreted in more than one way? NEWSWEEK states that Council Jenkins appears to believe that the "facts" already in evidence in support of their charges. Does this make both sides "innocent," or both sides "guilty" or what?

Apparently, Gen. Kirke Lawton, Commanding General at Fort Monmouth, has already testified to Council Jenkins, and is prepared to testify under oath in public session in support of Senator McCarthy's charge. Also, Army Secretary Stevens, would such testimony constitute "proof," or would it too be subject to various interpretations? Secretary Stevens has conceded that he considered removing Gen. Lawton from his post, that he sent Mr. Adams to inform Senator McCarthy, that the Senator violently disapproved, and that both then decided not to remove the General. Are there several different interpretations of the strange "fact"?

NEWSWEEK comes to this nebulous and unsatisfactory conclusion: "The hearings already have demonstrated one thing. No matter how many facts are uncovered, the question 'Who is lying?' McCarthy or the Army Department will never be answered definitely. Regardless of what answer the subcommittee eventually give, there will be millions of Americans who violently disagree with it." NEWSWEEK explains: "The reason is simply this: The motives behind the actions of McCarthy, Cohn, Stevens and Adams are just as important as the actions themselves. And the motives can never be pinned down; they will always remain the subject of dispute. The testimony which has already been heard shows this. Always the crucial question is: Why? Why did Stevens grant favors to Schine? Why did Stevens ask McCarthy to play down the Monmouth hearings? Why did Stevens decide to remove Lawton, and then change his mind? As long as McCarthy remains a controversial figure, Americans will continue to answer the question 'Why?' Depending on how they feel about him."

Oilers Open Six-Day Home Stand Tonight With Borger Game

Plains Creamery To Host Kids At Party At Baseball Park

Hundreds of kids — both boys and girls — from Pampa and surrounding towns will be guests of the Plains Creamery at a giant "Go-He-Be" party at the Oiler park at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, after which they will watch the Oilers play the Borger Gassers.

Tickets to the party and game were distributed by the creamery through grocery stores of the city and in other surrounding communities.

The party will serve as a climax to the "Go-He-Be" contest which has been conducted by the creamery over Radio Station KPDM for the past seven weeks.

It is expected that every seat in Oiler park will be taken and that "standing room only" signs will have to be put out. The Oiler management has designated that night as Plains Creamery night at the park.

While 25 valuable prizes will be given to the children, every person, adult or child — will be given a door prize as they enter the park.

Among the prizes to be awarded will be four Super Chief delux bicycles, four Little League and Pony League bats, baseball shoes, gloves, dolls, vanity cases (the latter two items for the girls) and many other items. Prizes are valued at about $500.

Children in other towns who have secured tickets to the party are urged to attend.

In addition to prizes for the children, cash prizes totaling $50 will be awarded to Oiler players, as follows: Winning pitcher, $10, and five dollars each for the following: player scoring winning run, player batting in winning run, first home run, first base hit, first two-base hit, first stolen base, first run scored and best fielding play.

These prizes must be earned Saturday night, creamery officials stated.

The official scorer will determine the winners and his judgment as to the best fielding play will be accepted as official.

Cards Get 17 Hits To Win Over Bucs

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

There's a seven-team first division in the National League with everybody but the Pirates at 500 percent or better and Eddie Stanky, the manager of the pace-setting Cardinals, thinks it may stay that way right up until the stretch month of September.

But his St. Louis sluggers were in a position Friday to make him a false prophet by taking charge of the race right now with a game and a half lead over the rest of the pack.

That's the widest margin any team has enjoyed thus far in the mad housing scramble in the NL, where everybody is trying to live on the same percentage point.

Cardinals slug 17 hits, mercifully, pounded out 17 hits.

Gold Sox Shut Out Pampans In Finale

By WALT SWITZER
Pampa News Staff Writer

AMARILLO — The Pampa Oilers open a six-day home stand at 8 p. m. today when they take on the Borger Gassers at Oiler Park.

The Gassers will again be the Oilers' opponents Saturday night, after which Grover Seitz' Clovis Pioneers come to town for games Sunday afternoon and Monday night. The Amarillo Gold Sox will play in Pampa Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Manager Doug Lewis indicated that he would start Jose Velasquez or Vibert Clarke on the hill in tonight's game. Velasquez has been troubled for the past few days with sore fingers, but he says they are much better and is now ready for mound duty.

The Gold Sox rapped out 13 hits here Thursday night to score a shutout victory over the Oilers, 11-0, behind the five-hit pitching of Ray Faust.

It was a very good ball game for the first seven innings, at the end of which the Sox held a 3-0 lead, but the bottom fell out in the eighth frame when eight Amarillo hitters crossed the plate.

A pitcher's battle ensued during the first six innings between Jim Lewis, 1b, and Ed Faust, p. At the end of the sixth Lemons had given up five hits and only one run, while the Oilers had collected three safe blows off Faust.

The first Sox run came in the second inning on a double by Eddie Locke and a single by Bill Adelheim.

That was all of the scoring until the seventh, when two more Amarillo runs came in on four singles and a sacrifice.

In the final eighth frame, Faust helped his cause with a howling Adelheim, lb, who drove in the run to score two runners ahead of him.

Pampa's best scoring opportunity came in the sixth when Lemons opened with a single to left and went to second as Dub Woolbright attempted to center. Ben Felder attempted to sacrifice but Lemons was forced at third. Woolbright went to third and Felder to second on a wild pitch. Then Lewis, 3b, hit a sharp grounder to second base that Faust pitched to.

Fast, Lemons rita-Lemons 12 in 7-23 innings. Lemons TG - 1.50. Ump.-Carabba and Heike.

Jr. Oilers Trim Amarilloans, 9-6

The Pampa Junior Oilers scored a 9-6 victory over their Cap Rock League rivals, the Amarillo Laundry nine, coming from behind to do it.

The Pampans exploded for seven runs in the seventh inning to take the lead never to be headed.

Newt Secrest, with five hits in two major trips to the plate, led the Junior Oilers batters, who collected 10 hits off Brown. Bannister of Amarillo was hitting star of his team with four hits in five times at bat. Gerald Mobley of Pampa gave up 14 hits.

The Pampa infield, made up of high school seniors, turned in some sparkling plays during the contest.

Padres Hold Lead By Downing Buffs

By UNITED PRESS
The San Antonio Missions held their game and half lead in the Texas League Thursday night, while Shreveport jumped to third place by beating Beaumont.

San Antonio beat Houston, 6 to 1, and Shreveport clipped Beaumont, 3 to 1, on Arnie Atkins' four-hitter. Tulsa took both games of a day-night doubleheader from Fort Worth in the sixth inning when it really didn't matter for the Pirates.

The afternoon Tulsa-Fort Worth game was nationally broadcast, Tulsa won in the eighth when Cal pitcher Rudy Paynich threw wild to first base, allowing a runner out third to score. In the second game, Gene Hutton's three-run homer in the seventh provided the victory margin.

Al Papp pitched a four-hitter, walked but one batter and retired all nine in seven innings when he scored twice to tie the game. San Antonio scored five runs in the fourth inning to square the series with Houston. Charley Locke pitched a seven-hitter but lost a third to score. In the second game, Gene Hutton's three-run homer in the seventh provided the victory margin.

Shreveport fell on Beaumont starter Dave Hillman for two runs in the seventh inning to break a 1-1 tie. Hillman and Atkins both went the distance.

Correlation Still Preakness Choice

By UNITED PRESS
BALTIMORE, Md., May 21 — UP — Correlation remained a solid favorite Friday for Saturday's $100,000 Preakness at Pimlico despite indications from weather bureau forecasts that the track probably would not be muddy after all.

The bureau said late Thursday night that intermittent rains, which began late Wednesday night and through Friday, probably would end early Friday. Clear weather was forecast for Saturday. Since Pimlico is a fast-drying track, this could mean a fast track for the 1 1/2-mile race.

The feeling among trackmen is that Robert L. Lytle's California colt, with brilliant Willie Shoemaker up, will prevail in the 1 1/2 horse field regardless of the condition of the track. Correlation took both the Florida Derby and the Wood Memorial in the mud, but has shown equally well on fast tracks.

Brilliant in Prep
He was brilliant, for example, last Monday in overhauling Hasty Road, second in the Kentucky Derby, to win by a neck in all.

Preakness Prep
Advance predictions were that Correlation would be favored at about 8-5. Hasty Road, with Johnny Adams up, was second choice at 8-2. Jet Action, with Jorge Contreras up, and Goyamo, with Arnold Kirkland up, would be next at about 6-1.

Richest Preakness
This will be the richest Preakness of all time, with a gross value of $140,000. The winner will take down $91,650 if he is an original nominee. But if he happens to be a second-come, he will win $54,150.

However, the winner won't be the biggest in Preakness history because the shares in the purse for second, third and fourth have been increased.

Second money is worth 25,000, third $15,000 and fourth $7,500. Favorites won $98,000, the biggest purse ever won in the Preakness, in 1947.

Four Tied For Lead In Softball League

Four teams were tied today for first place in the Industrial Softball League following Thursday night's games.

Celanese, Northern Natural Gas, Phillips Petroleum and Skelly all were holding down the top spot with one win and no losses.

In the closest game of the night, Celanese scored a 16-10 triumph over Southwestern Bell Telephone company, which had previously been beaten by Northern Natural Gas. It was a loosely played game, in which there were many hits. Batteries: Celanese, Cooper and West; Telephone, Warren, Peaty, Jackson and Memford. Warren was the losing hurler.

Phillips pulled over the Pampa Daily News, 14-3, in a game that saw four home runs being hit. Shew and McKinney of Phillips and James Lueddecke and Floyd Fletcher of the News hit round-trippers. Batteries: Phillips, Shew, McKinney; News, Mayes and Richardson.

In the other contest, Skelly trounced Panhandle Packing by a score of 19-3, with Dan Denham collecting two homers and Bob Baker getting four hits in five trips to lead the hitting. The Skelly Rds collected 14 hits, while the Packers were held to two. Batteries: Skelly, McCloud and S. Garrett; Packers, B. Herndon and Dorris.

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Gays and Dolls: It may bring some "How could you!" notes from fans of his "I'm the Law" TV series, but George Raft is playing a gangster for the first time in 13 years in MGM's "Rogue Cop."

The money he's turned down since 1941 in his determination to stay on the right side of the law is close to the million mark. Only last year, he vetoed a Republic offer for $150,000 to star in "Hoodlum Empire" and said no to Columbia's mugg role offer for "The Big Heat."

His explanation: "It was the script that made me change my mind about parts like this, I hope I can do justice to it."

Retirement from acting, though, is Raft's big goal. He says: "I want to direct. I think I've been in this business long enough to know a lot about it."

Hollywood censors have been assured that there will be very little kinship between "Moll Flanagan" and "Forever Amber" when Vanessa Brown brings the Daniel Defoe boudoir classic to the screen. She'll wear low-cut gowns like the dusty heroines on the dust-jackets of historical best-sellers, but "it's the flavor of the period that we want, not the immorality. We're going to treat it as a just comedy."

Vanessa isn't one bit disturbed by reports that Marilyn Monroe may inherit her role of the sexy model in the screen version of "The Seven Year Itch."

She told me: "Of course, I'd like to play it on the screen. At one time, I tried to buy the movie rights, but I didn't want to wait until 1956 to make the picture. The film version can't be made until then."

From the Keynote Restaurant menu: "Kosher Chow Mein served on special order only."

Yvonne de Carlo's freely admitting that reports of her feud with producer-director George Combret during filming of "Cagliostro" in Paris weren't one bit exaggerated.

In fact, Yvonne, who's rarely been accused of being a foot-stamper, door-slammer and script-thrower, was ready to walk out of the picture on the second day of shooting.

"I never had such a bitter experience in my life," she told me on the set of Benedict Bogreas' "Where the Wind Dies." "I'll never work for that man again. Fortunately, French newspapermen knew the truth and were very nice to me."

She couldn't think of a single love scene that might raise the blood pressures of censors when the French film plays the U.S., but she blushed.

"I wear one gown where I really pop out. My goodness!"

There's no big mystery to Walter Brennan about why many movie personalities have flopped as television guest stars. The answer is the reason why the Oscar winner has avoided the home screens except for one dramatic show while waiting for a series of his own.

"I'm not an entertainer," says Brennan. "Because a person is an actor or an actress doesn't mean they're entertainers. There's a big difference. But a lot of stars didn't realize it until TV came along."

"Sure, I've been good on the screen. But I've been good only because of good writing."

Jeff Morrow's gasping at the red carpet fact's being rolled out for him at every studio in Hollywood since his smash performance in U.S. Steel's TV show, "The Last Notch."

He landed a U-I contract after his screen bow in the Centurion in "The Robe," but now it's star billing in U-I's "This Island Earth," another big role in "Captain Lightfoot" and offers from every studio in town.

Says Jeff, who looks like James Mason and Cary Grant scrambled together:

"I thought it was a good play, but I didn't think anything would come of it for me. TV's an odd medium. You never can tell when you'll connect. When you do, it's worth it."

Big screen movies for Maria Rivera, the first dramatic star incubated in the heat of TV picture tubes?

"I've had many offers," she tells me. "But Hollywood wants glamor and I don't want to play the part of a beautiful woman. I'll play an ugly woman — not a beautiful one. Hollywood would photograph me wearing extra pajamas while studying my script. A dramatic actress can't afford that."

"That's for women in the personality category, like my mother (Marlene Dietrich). I'm not a personality kid."

Marlon Brando and Fox have called off the legal fireworks, he reports, June 1 for "Desiree."

Jimmy Piersall Fined
CLEVELAND, May 20 — UP—Boston Red Sox outfielder Jimmy Piersall has been fined $5 for changing words with rookie umpire Frank Umont in a game at Baltimore, May 18. Piersall was thrown out of the game for protesting a called third strike.

Chicago Track Reopens
CHICAGO, May 20 — UP—The Cretz Industrial-Banquet tracks are reopening Thursday at Lincoln Fields race track after a lapse of 19 years. Closed in 1933 due to World War II, Lincoln Fields was all set to begin racing again in 1953 when a costly fire destroyed the clubhouse and grandstand.

If Schine Commission Was The Answer,
Stevens Could Have Avoided A Battle

By DOUGLAS ALRSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—It was well within the authority of Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens to have avoided his whole public fight with the McCarthy subcommittee.

That is, if a commission for Pvt. Gerard David Schine was all that was needed.

It could have been done quietly and simply under Army Special Regulations No. 140-105-8. Title of this regulation is:

"Army Reserve: Appointment of Professional and Technical Personnel as Reserve Commissioned Officers of the Army."

It is under these regulations that Army commissions are given to persons direct from civilian life, other than to clergymen, lawyers and doctors. The rules are spelled out in typical official Army lingo. But the last line is the key. It says:

"By Order of the Secretary of the Army."

In other words, if the Secretary of the Army makes the rules in the first place, it is obviously within his power to change them or interpret them as he sees fit. Further, all commissions handed out under these provisions must be approved by his office, if not by the Secretary personally, before they are final.

Since Dec. 1, 1950, a total of 648 Army commissions have been given out directly to civilians under these rules. But that included the period of fast mobilization for the Korean fighting, which would be expected to demand many direct commissions.

Despite Korea, the Army has used this device for granting commissions very sparingly, personnel officers insist. The fairly exacting rules laid out for the procedure have been closely observed, they related to the specialty for which he applies. Schine's field of study at Harvard was political science.

Further, all commissions handed out under these provisions must be approved by his office, if not by the Secretary personally, before they are final.

One of the categories is "business administration." Schine was president and general manager of his father's chain of eight hotels.
