Shoulders Testimony Due Today

KANSAS CITY, April 14—UP—Former Lt. Louis Shoulders of the St. Louis Police Department was scheduled to present his defense Wednesday to charges he lied about what happened to the $600,000 Greenleaf ransom.

Federal Judge Albert A. Rice Tuesday over-ruled a defense motion for a directed acquittal, made immediately after the prosecution rested after presenting 17 witnesses.

Shoulders was the second St. Louis policeman charged with perjury as a result of statements to a federal grand jury about the handling of the ransom after they arrested Carl Austin Hall, executed kidnaper of Bobby Greenleaf. More than $300,000 is still missing.

Elmer Dolan, a suspended patrolman, was convicted of perjury last month and is awaiting sentencing.

Testimony Tuesday was similar to that given by government witnesses in the Dolan trial. All testified they saw no sign of two suitcases containing the ransom money at the time Hall was being booked by Shoulders and Dolan at the Newstead Ave. police station in St. Louis.

Dolan and Shoulders told the grand jury they brought the money with Hall to the police station, and Dolan went back to the Town House Hotel where Hall was arrested to pick up a suitcase with the kidnaper's clothing.

Is This Appeasement? The Face Of Asia

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a three-part humanized roundup by global reporter Fred Sparks, just back from a lengthy Far East tour.

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Is this the spring of appeasement? That question drips, drips on the brains of our worried friends in Free Asia — the ancient Chinese water torture pressured by today's ruthless Chinese communism.

For those Asians who have cast their lot with us, who have passed the point of no return with communism, the Geneva conference, on April 26, looks suspiciously like the beginning of "appeasement."

From personal experience they know that conceding a point to Red China is like letting a crocodile dine on your leg — hoping he's not hungry enough to chomp the rest of you.

When at Berlin State Secretary Dulles agreed to include Red China (with East Germany, France and Russia) in the Geneva conference, on April 26, looks suspiciously like a man entering a Moscow secret police station.

THE WISE OLD MEN OF ASIA: Asia's tomorrow, they fear, is still being decided by today's domestic politics in Europe.

Wise old men in Saigon, Bangkok, Seoul, Taipei, Singapore and Karachi stirred their green tea and nodded: "It is as it always has been. Asia's tomorrow is being decided by today's domestic politics in Europe."

"Did not Mr. Dulles himself say Red China was accepted to gain a point in Europe?"

It's O.K. to play Red China as part of the global picture — unless the part of the globe you live in is a few blocks from armed Chinese communism.

In an extended Oriental tour just ended I found widespread fears that America is bending Europe's way to a "softer" policy on Red China.

One top-ranking U. S. Military man pessimistically said: "As General MacArthur, Van Fleet and Mark Clark have stated, nervous European politics prevented us from wrecking the Red Army in Korea the several times it was punched drunk and fading."

"It is the Red Chinese Army that terrifies the Far East. That includes Nehru, who knows that Mao could move down from Tibet and cut India's throat before Washington could cable regrets."

"When we signed the truce at Panmunjom we gave Paris politicians the perfect alibi for signing with the Vietminh."

"And when we agreed to make Red China the fifth at Geneva, we agreed to sit down with something we insist doesn't exist. Technically, we maintain the Chinese Civil War is still on and that the Nationalist Government on Formosa is still the legal conscience of 480 million captive Chinese.

Recognition of Red China by all European nations would dignify the aggressor and siphon the blood out of our Asiatic self-defense program.

Needless to repeat, "face" in the Orient is as important as pancake makeup on TV. What our people in equatorial danger spots want least of all is general acceptance that Red China is a legitimate concern.

Dulles will be lonesome at Geneva; a brave man even to go there. His political future will be at stake — but so will the liberties of millions.

The young Oriental who listened to American propaganda, fought communism and is now on a Communist death list has nothing to gain in Geneva — everything to lose, including his life.

Rev. Crews Stresses Power, Need For Prayer

"Men ought always to pray," Rev. Dick Crews, pastor of the First Christian church, made that statement Tuesday noon to the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, adding, "We should really learn how to pray."

His talk was the featured part of the annual JayCee Easter program, attended this time by members of the Pampa Ministerial Alliance.

A color film, "The Lord Is Risen," was shown to the club immediately following Rev. Crews' speech.

Rev. Crews said there are two main reasons that prayer is ineffective: (1) lack of discipline and (2) selfishness.

"Prayer ought to be the central force in life," the Pampa preacher said, quoting Harry Emerson Fosdick.

Jesus, "the greatest man who ever lived in the history of time," used to spend much of His time praying, he said. "And if He could, I can, too."

The pastor indicted people for only praying when there was "desperate" need. It's a question he said, "Oh, well, I can always pray."

Looking back to the week-end rain, Crews told how the Alliance had been asked last week to call for a mass prayer meeting and how "I'm glad" the Alliance didn't. "We've always had prayer services, even during the bumper crop years," he commented.

Crews ended with a long quotation from George Arthur Buttrick, New York City, and the leading of the Lord's Prayer.

JayCee President J. C. Hopkins, before the main part of the program, announced that the club members would man a sound truck from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. April 23 and 24 to boost the citywide clean-up campaign. Campaign runs from Monday through May 1.

Nine JayCees signed up for the joint Pampa-Borger-Dumas stag party, slated Friday night in Borger. There were three gusts on hand.

RC Names Nominating Committee

The Red Cross executive board has appointed a committee to plan for its annual meeting in June and a nominating committee to select a slate of officers for the coming year. The action was taken at a meeting Tuesday, advised Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, chapter secretary.

Named on the planning committee were Mrs. Jack Foster, Jimmy McCune and Ed Myatt. Members of the nominating committee include Mrs. W. F. Jordan, Mrs. Sam E. Cook, and Warren Haase.

Officers to be elected include a chairman, assistant chairman, secretary and treasurer. Three new directors will be elected due to the expiring terms of Quentin Williams, Mrs. W. F. Jordan, and Lewis Chamberlain.

During the business session over which Chairman Ross Buzzard presided, Warren Haase reported to the fund campaign. To date, the chapter has received $7,561.25 from the United Fund, he reported. Another check in the amount of $2,446.35 will be given the group in July. Of the total amount, $7.5 per cent is sent to the national organization.

Featured on the program was Larry Fuller of McLean, who spoke on water safety. He was introduced by E. B. Bowman, chapter water safety chairman. Fuller pointed out the opportunities for saving lives through this type of Red Cross program. The country's death toll of 38,000 could be cut through water safety programs throughout the nation, he said, and urged one be set up in Pampa.

A water safety film, "Learn to Swim," is available for loan for two weeks, Mrs. Shotwell stated. Any club desiring the film should call the Red Cross office, city hall. A shortage of water safety instructors was also announced. Anyone wishing to qualify should also call the RC office.

THE MARQUEE

TV STAGE RADIO RECORDS PEOPLE

Dave Garroway sat quietly while the NBC official made a lengthy speech. Just before Dave was to take the stage, he said, "I'm glad to see you on TV. This prompted him to let loose the blast which follows:

"There's more leeway in daytime programming — the kind of leeway I enjoyed on 'Broadway Open House' (his old late-night show) before it became so successful that I was badgered into conforming to what I myself originated. Conformity is intimacy's kiss of death, and TV is supposed to be intimate, isn't it?"

"Maybe it's because the ad agency masterminds figure that, after all, what can go wrong in the daytime, so they let you alone. At any rate, I aim to keep it my way even though they change their minds. I want to keep that intimate relationship with the viewer at home."

The shiny-domed star of "The King and I," Yul Brynner, commands a public which worries itself sick about his baldness. Every week, Yul says, he gets three or four bottles of homemade glop, designed to cure same. His dressing room looks like inventory day at the hair tonic works.

Brynner's public should stop, already. He's bald, but happily so. On him, no hair looks good.

The price of success, in the case of Ken Lynch, is baggy trousers. Lynch plays the unseen lieutenant on DuMont's "The Plainclothes Man," a show notable mainly for its use of the subjective camera technique. That's a gimmick whereby the camera lens subs for Lynch eye, and what you see on the screen is supposed to be exactly what you'd see if you were the lieutenant.

This lends itself to some exciting camera work. It also lends itself to the aforesaid baggy trousers. Only Lynch's hands are ever seen and, to get them in front of the camera, he must kneel on the floor and grovel. Kneeling does nothing for a trousers' crease.

Although he has starred on the show for 4 1/2 years, his face has never been seen. Which is a shame, because it's a nice, friendly face.

He's from Troy, N. Y., and has been in radio since 1935. Because of his rough voice, he's played more gangster roles than any actor shake a nightstick at. He frankly enjoys playing the lieutenant and being on the law and order side of things.

This business of being unseen has its pros and cons. The very happy that he can walk around town without being mobbed by fans, but he does feel that acting by voice alone is tougher than if he could use his face to help convey emotion. Of course, one big advantage is that he can read his lines.

The part he likes best, though, is "The Plainclothes Man's" informality. He can wear plain clothes. Even baggy trousers.

While most filmed TV shows should stay in the can, the old law of credit where credit is due applies even here. Therefore, give the Singer Four-Star Playhouse a pat on the boom-mike for "The Last Voyage," with Charles Boyer. This fine, exciting, sensitive story is being revived — one of the few films that anybody would ever care to see again. Most of them could use a little reviving — the whiff of ammonia kind.

Army Deserter Turns Self In After Thirty Years

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14—UP—An elderly ex-corporal turned up at the San Francisco Presidio Tuesday, prepared to go to the penitentiary for deserting "30 years, two months and eight days ago."

Stephen M. White, 60, said he came back "because I want to clear my record." He said he wanted an administrative discharge under conditions that would allow him veteran's rights.

White's Army files showed he entered the Army with his Minnesota National Guard outfit in June 1917, and saw action in France. He was discharged in 1919 but re-enlisted again after a year as a civilian.

"Got Tired of the Army"
He was mustered out again in July 1922, but re-enlisted in the summer of that year. The next time he left service was on Feb. 5, 1924, when he "just got tired of the Army." He was stationed at Kelly Field, Texas, at the time.

By the next 20 years, White worked in Missouri and Wisconsin, married and reared four children. The family came to San Francisco in 1944.

Since then, White has worked as a ship's electrician at San Francisco Naval shipyard and for civilian contractors in defense work at Guam.

Passed Security Checks
Both jobs have required security checks, but apparently no one ever caught up with his military record.

White said another reason he wanted an administrative discharge was that he needs a veteran's preference to keep his navy shipyard job.

Army officials sent him home after obtaining all the facts in the case. White showed up at the Presidio with his tale left in the expectation of being arrested.

Personnel officers said they are forwarding White's sworn statement to the Pentagon for action.

Appointment Confirmed
 AUSTIN, April 14 — UP — Appointment of Hal Peterson of Kerrville to the Texas Game and Fish Commission, succeeding Scot Schreiner of Kerrville, resigned, was confirmed by the Senate Tuesday.

Support Plan Is Rejected By Benson

WASHINGTON, April 14 — UP — Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson has rejected a proposal to combine rigid and flexible price supports as the answer to current farm problems, it was learned Wednesday.

Benson turned it down in a letter saying the "basic solution" to the problem of the small farmer is larger operations and more efficiency.

He said the Dvorzhak proposal "would create additional administrative and other problems without solving the current surplus situation or large government acquisitions" through the price-support Commodity Credit Corp.

The essence of Dvorzhak's plan is this: Government supports at a high level — 90 or 100 per cent of party — would be offered on, say, the first 2,000 bushels of wheat produced by a farmer. Any excess over 2,000 by the same farmer would be supported at 75 per cent of party, or some other low level.

Dvorzhak suggested a "similar approach" for other commodities, including dairy products.

Seeks Second Term
 AUSTIN, April 14 — UP — State Sen. William T. Moore of Bryan has announced his candidacy for re-election to a second term, on a platform emphasizing the development of a "sound water conservation program for Texas" and expansion of free public highways.

Sapel Begins 99-Year Term

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., April 14 — UP — Mario Sapel, one-time San Antonio tavern owner, was delivered to Huntsville state prison Tuesday to begin serving a 99-year prison term.

Sapel was convicted of participating in the "mistake murder" of Jacob Floyd Jr., University of Texas student, who was shot to death in Alice, nearly two years ago.

Sapel was tried in Brownwood on a charge of venue. His appeals to the court of criminal appeals were rejected.

Brown County Sheriff Ray Masters and Deputy W. A. Middleton drove Sapel here from Brownwood. Before leaving Brownwood, Sapel, who had been a model prisoner during the nearly 16 months he was in jail there, expressed a wish to meet a nephew of the sheriff, also named Ray Masters, who was a stand-out football player at Brownwood. The meeting was arranged before the party left Brownwood.

JayCee-Sponsored Road-e-o To Be Conducted April 25

Fifty Pampa teen-agers will participate April 25 in a "road-e-o," first of its kind in the area.

Sponsored by the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, the auto-driving competition will be for all youths under 20 who have either a learner's permit or a driving license and who have not been guilty of a moving traffic violation in the last six months.

Applications for the written part of the test — which must come first — were being received today according to John Campbell, road-e-o publicity chairman. Bolton Blundell, Travis Lively Jr. and John Teed have the application blanks. Deadline for applications is April 22, Campbell explained, adding that the written quiz would be given after 3:30 p.m. April 22, when high school lets out. Some of the quizzes will be given in the morning for athletes.

Driving part of the road-e-o will get underway at 2 p.m. April 25, Campbell continued. But the exact location will not be announced until the JayCees have conferred with city police.

The written test, given beforehand, is designed to knock down the number of applicants to the even 50, the chairman said. Judges for the new local event late this morning had not yet been named, but it was determined that six cars — two each from the Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth agencies — would be donated for the use of the driving test.

Winner of the Pampa road-e-o will enter the state contest, Campbell went on. And winner of the Texas go-round will go to the National JayCee-o, scheduled for August 10-14 in Washington, D. C., and sponsored by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Though the first for Pampa, the road-e-o is the third one on the national scale. In 1953, some 10,000 teen-agers competed in 600 different local contests over the nation.

Hospital Equipment Approved

As a result of Tuesday evening's board meeting, Highland General hospital will receive some new equipment, advised Chet Lander, hospital administrator, today.

The new equipment includes a lawn mower, and an obstetrical pelvic meter for use in the X-ray department, he stated. Outstanding bills were also approved.

Water softener companies are being asked to meet with the board to discuss the problem of water "eating up" pipes on the hospital's boiler and heating system, Lander pointed out.

"The heavy mineral content of the water is destroying the pipes," he explained.

Although the board feels "people should voluntarily pay their bills," it decided to place outstanding accounts from 1951, 1952 and part of 1953 in the hand of a local collector, Lander added.

Board members present at the meeting were Fred Neslage, George Newberry, J. R. Sparkman, Fred Thompson, George Scott, and Dan M. McDaniels, and Lander.

Mrs. Bertha Brown Succumbs Today

Mrs. Bertha Brown, 61 of 419 Oklahoma, died at 7 a.m. today in Highland General hospital. She had been ill since February. Funeral arrangements are pending with Duennel-Carmichael Funeral home.

Mrs. Brown was born in Arkansas. She is survived by one nephew, George Rector of Conway, Ark.

Landlord Kills Health Inspector

HOUSTON, April 14 — UP — A 71-year-old landlord faced a murder charge Wednesday because he killed a health department inspector or as a condemnation placard was posted on his home.

The landlord, Oscar W. McCarley, admitted firing five shots Tuesday at the dead man, C. B. Askew, and two other health department employees who were wounded.

"I warned them," McCarley said. "They were trying to rob me. The only reason I didn't kill the other two was because I couldn't get to them."

The landlord and his wife were arrested by police riot squads, which he did not fire. McCarley said he stopped shooting as soon as he saw the police, because "the officers have always been nice to me."

Mrs. McCarley was released after questioning.

Dr. Fred K. Laurentz, city health officer, said 11 houses owned by McCarley were condemned last March 11, when Laurentz' men reported he was "very belligerent." Laurentz said the homes were classed as "substandard."

Mrs. McCarley said she told Askew and the other men to leave, and what they didn't her husband came out with his shotgun.

 before it the scientist's detailed and emphatic repudiation. And there will be this interval in which interested persons can organize a powerful propaganda campaign in Oppenheimer's behalf.

Rally to Cause
 Scientists generally are expected to rally to his cause and a large body of the lay public began working to his side Tuesday when the newest Oppenheimer chapter unfolded as one of the shockers of recent history.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced Tuesday afternoon that President Eisenhower had stripped Oppenheimer of further access to A-bomb and H-bomb secrets because of "substantial derogatory information" supplied by the Justice Department.

It spoke after Oppenheimer himself released documents revealing the AEC had suspended him as one of its consultants pending investigation of charges that he once associated with Communist and lobbied against H-bomb development.

Deny Charges
 In his reply the man who masterminded U.S. development of the atomic bomb, but no formal action was taken. Former City Manager E. H. Cruce, who now holds the same post in Greeley, Colo., attended last year.

Brook May Go To Convention

City commissioners were expected to take action soon on whether City Manager Fred Brook would attend the annual convention of the Texas City Managers Association.

They will have to take action soon. For the convention is scheduled for April 25-27 in Austin.

It was mentioned in passing Tuesday morning during the weekly meeting of the Pampa City Commission, but no formal action was taken. Former City Manager E. H. Cruce, who now holds the same post in Greeley, Colo., attended last year.

Skellytown Personals

By MRS. CLIFTON HANNA
 Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Johnson were guests in the Edd Harmon home over the week end. The Johnson family now resides in Hobbs, N. M., and were on their way to Omaha to transact business.

James McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McCoy, and Carl McCabe, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCabe, have returned from Fort Worth, where they attended a track meet last week.

Mr. Ben Roes underwent surgery at Highland General hospital Monday.

Miss Billie Joyce Adams, who is attending college at Denton, is spending the Easter vacation at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Adams.

Mrs. Tommy Owens and son Larry, of Borger, are in Skellytown this week. Tommy met his wife and son at the home of his parents in Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hensley of Elk City, Okla., visited friends in Skellytown last week end. They are former residents.

Reverend Phil Ward will be the evangelist for a revival in the Community church from April 14 through April 25. Mrs. Ward, a talented soloist, pianist and accordionist will also be at the revival. Everyone is invited to attend.

Home Demonstration club will meet in the home of Mrs. C. C. Hoskins on April 16. The demonstration will be on preparing chickens for the deep freezer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butler of Slinnett, became the parents of a boy last Wednesday at the Highland General hospital. The baby is named Ronnie Dale. Mrs. Butler is the former Frankie Lou Powell of Skellytown.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davidson and son, Larry, have moved to Amarillo for a few weeks to be near Mr. Davidson's work. They plan to return to Skellytown when the work is finished.

Mr. T. J. Mercer of Guthrie, Okla., visited his sons in Skellytown last week. He visited with Clyde, Dewayne, Curley and his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Carter.

Reds Blow Up Train
 PNOM PENH, Cambodia, April 14 — UP — Communist rebels blew up a train between here and Battambang and early reports said 60 persons were killed. French authorities announced Tuesday night. Many more were injured in the blast on the 150-mile line running northwest from this Royal Cambodian capital, authorities said.

Five Cases In Court Today

County officials today reported the processing of five cases, four of them on different charges.

Four of them were in county court Tuesday morning on a charge of aggravated assault. Riddley was fined $50 and costs.

Oaty R. McCain Jr., of Pampa, was fined $125 and costs in county court on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

C. B. Shackelford, of Pampa, was fined $10 and costs in county court on a charge of swindling with a worthless check. Two checks were involved, totalling $16.50.

Mrs. W. S. Runyon, of Pampa, was fined $1 and costs in justice of the peace court on a charge of passing a school bus while it was stopped and unloading passengers.

Optimists Meet Today

Pampa's Optimist club will meet at 8:30 p.m. today in the Pine Room of the Schneider hotel. Featured speaker will be Dick Clark of Borger, Optimist district lieutenant governor.

Accompanying Claborne will be a Borger youth who is slated to give a five-minute talk. The boy studied in an oratorical class the Borger club sponsored.

The business session is expected to deal partly with wheat start bidding for Little League team members, advised Tommie Ellis club sergeant-at-arms. Pony League tryouts, delayed by the recent rain, are expected to begin Thursday, he stated. John Clark, president, will lead the meeting, and Newt Secrest is in charge of the program.

 have been in two decades because of the drought. The rains spread into other sections of the state over the weekend, Monday and Tuesday to change the outlook radically.

Meanwhile, at least six lives and possibly seven were blamed on the South Texas floods. Two children were drowned Tuesday night while wading in a drainage ditch near Pharr, in the lower Rio Grande Valley, and officers said one of two Mexicans who escaped from the Webb county jail at Laredo might have been drowned in the Rio Grande.

Tuesday's rainfall didn't measure as much as an inch at any point reporting to the weather bureau, but the run-off from the earlier downpours was still raising the waterlevels of numerous reservoirs in North and West Texas.

Near Snyder, about 100 oilwells were underwater after a diversion-dam burst on a tributary of Bull Creek. The flashfloods ripped holes 100 and 300 feet wide, and also washed out a bridge on a new road.

Make Exceptional Crop
 North Texas farmers who feared their wheat crop would be the worst ever, said they would make an exceptional crop, "even if it doesn't rain again till after harvest time."

Cotton farmers also were cheered. Before the rain, some could see little point in planting, which must be done within the next month in the north.

"The rains so far put the ground in good shape," H. A. Walker of Garland said. "These rains mean just in time. We call them the best — and most timely — we ever got around here."

Another effect of the rains was reported at the Fort Worth stockyards, where a heavier than normal spring run of cattle, because of poor pasture and rangeland, was cut in half Tuesday. Cattle prices went to a new season's high.

The McCarthy Case

The enemies of Sen. Joseph McCarthy — who, we sometimes think, are also the enemies of America — are currently waging their most virulent attack — and this is not depreciating previous violent assaults — upon a man who has been doing his best for some time to warn the Republic of the dangers it faces from the infiltration of subversives in our midst.

Senator McCarthy's manners in public may not be as suave as those of his hoity-toity critics, but his so-called "tactics" can hardly be any more detrimental to the public weal — and far less appalling — than deliberate distortion of the accounts of his and other congressional investigations.

We never believed we would see the day that the American people would expect to have our traditional politics conducted as if they were in the surroundings of a girls' finishing school.

But of course the purpose of the current fog of confusion is fairly obvious. The left wing is striving to inflate "McCarthyism" beyond any semblance of reality to discredit and eventually destroy the investigatory powers of Congress. If McCarthy should go under, the attack will be transferred to Jenner and so on down the line until the last congressman with the guts to challenge the advocates of Red conspiracy has been driven from the public scene.

We want to point out again that the current upheaval stemmed from the inquiry into the fact that a Fifth Amendment communist had been uncovered as an officer in the United States Army. But it seems that our intellectual eggheads would prefer to see a communist cell remain in the Army rather than have a senator address a few sharp words to a general! But, of course, this is hardly true since there was no such hip-horay aroused when another general — MacArthur — was under attack.

The conclusion of the average citizen in this tumult is understandable and we would like to recommend that instead of taking the word of the "liberal" columnists as to what is going on in Washington, and particularly in the committee investigations, they make a particular effort to get hold of a verbatim transcript of a hearing. These are lengthy proceedings and almost impossible to present in a daily newspaper and, although general news reporters handle them reasonably enough, it is almost unbelievable the exaggeration some columnists can put upon incidental events.

In the column business there are just too many of the worshipers at the erstwhile shrine of the New Deal still operating and it is more than amazing to discover the type of publishers who are willing and even eager to print their effusions.

It will be recalled that it is only two years ago that conservative and Republican newspapers were unanimous in their support of Eisenhower with the design of terminating the Truman-Roosevelt madness. And yet to this day millions of readers and particularly listeners throughout the United States are daily subjected to the skillful Fair Deal - New Deal propaganda paid for by presumably anti-Fair Deal sponsors.

It is hardly in the realm of smartness on their part, after spending 20 years trying to get the Republican administration back into power, to now pay New Deal columnists to get the Democrats and left-wingers back in.

For surely that is the purpose of all that drum-beating. We will grant that the left-wingers live in constant terror of the exposures made by men like McCarthy, but the major blueprint is to encompass the fall of the Republican administration and get their blood brothers back into office.

There are constant screams from our "liberal" writers that McCarthyism is scaring the pants off our overseas allies but the question is: who blows up the reports to scare proportions?

The trial, conviction and execution of the Rosenbergs was pointed as a "terrible" thing in the minds of the Europeans, but we think that the Rosenbergs were proven spies.

We find that McCarthy was mouse-trapped into a sharp exchange with Secretary of Defense Wilson through the cute technique of misquoting what Wilson had said about communism in the Army.

There can be no question about the actual dangers embodied in the infiltration of subversion into military and governmental agencies but more ultimately menacing is the fact that our general media of news discrimination seems to be threaded with irresponsible reporters who are spreading rumors and distortions with the tenacity of termites.

All we can hope in the McCarthy case is that the public will not lay too much importance on the sensitiveness of generals and politicians — and somewhat exaggerated, our experience warns us — and insist upon continued delving into who is protecting and covering up communists and other security risks.

It Ain't Funny

An Oregon newspaper, the Sherman County Journal, has made this apt editorial observation: "Some of the most amusing literature in America is now being published. We refer to the announcements of candidates. Funniest is he who promises (itself futile) great social reforms and reduced expenditures and lower taxes."

The trouble is that there's nothing funny about the influence of this on the country. That kind of political blarney was large responsible for our present financial nightmare. And it's the kind of politics that could ruin us economically — which is the dearest hope of our enemies.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

The Dilemmas Of "Social Security"

I want to continue to quote from Paul Poirot's booklet on "Social Security" showing the dilemma of those people who believe that the government is going to take care of them.

One of the things that "social security" advocates fail to consider is that since we have had "social security" we have had irredeemable paper money and that always becomes worth less. The man who puts a dollar in will get a dollar back, the progressively buys, less. Thus the person who has supposed to have security are being robbed.

Under the heading "Why Wage Earners Have To Pay" Poirot observes:

"Government has become very expensive in the United States. The financing of government currently takes more than a third of the total national income.

"When government was less expensive, it was possible to finance it through property taxes or levies against the income from property. But that is no longer true. Less than one-sixth of the national income of the United States is derived from the returns to capital; the other 85 per cent represents the price paid for current wages or for their equivalent to the self-employed and to management. Therefore, it is clear why the government seeks ways and means of taxing wages. Even if there were no promises of social security benefits, barely half of the other costs of government could be met out of a total confiscation of the income from private property. The only thing left to tax is the current productivity of those who work for wages and salaries.

"Let no one be persuaded that the social security program is the only reason why the government finds it necessary to tax wages. But also let no one deceive himself that there is any way of financing the social security program and similar 'benefits' from the welfare state except through proportionately heavy taxation of wages and salaries.

The Weak and Dependent
"When a government scrapes the bottom of the barrel of personal savings and private property, then its final recourse is to the daily production of those who work for a living. The promise of social security is like an anesthetic which temporarily relieves the pain of those workers whose earnings are being taxed away. But if the patient regains consciousness, it will be to discover that the operation took something from him which was vital to life and liberty destroyed some of his potential as an individual, leaving him more dependent upon government than before.

"There is no denying that social leveling has a strong emotional humanitarian appeal, not only for those who are weak and dependent, but also for many who feel strong and noble. And few will deny the virtue of helping those who want and need assistance. But if any person would retain the freedom to determine his own needs in life, he must equally defend the freedom of every man to determine in his own way how to help others. The political or coercive route to security is not entirely a primrose path of something for nothing.

What starts out as a popular program of soothing the rich turns into a program of taxing everyone who works for a living. And as social advances, the weak and dependent find themselves competing with the youthful and strong who have also been driven by hunger to the public trough. Such competition in sheer desperation is far more ruthless than that which is sometimes frowned upon in the open market. When people lose respect for the rights of one another to life and to property, then the weak and dependent may expect to be early victims of murder and theft.

"If the less productive members of a society truly seek security, let them rally to the defense of the freedom of choice and freedom of action of those who work for a living and who are personally productive. Let them voluntarily deal with one another in a market place free of compulsion. Such voluntary trading directs the instruments of production and the means of economic security into the hands of those most capable of serving all mankind. It promotes mutual respect for life and property. It stimulates every individual to develop his own talents to their maximum productivity. It encourages saving instead of squandering. The free market, and not its displacement by governmental controls, is the only route to the kind of personal security which makes for harmonious social relationships.

Security Is An Attitude
"A feeling of personal security depends upon something more than the legal guarantee of a handout in time of need. Security is an attitude, not necessarily satisfied by an 'equal share' or even by an abundance of material goods and services. To be truly secure is to be without cause for anxiety, and that kind of security stems from the mind of an individual who knows that he has done his very best with what was properly his own. Such security is fed by one's respect for the rights of others to life and property, a respect upon which is based one's own claim to those rights.

"Though older persons may not serve well in the armed forces, or in defense plants, or in the various other activities incidental to the support of big government, that need not preclude their being loved and respected as individuals. That is not sufficient reason for a law which tends to put an end to individuality.

A Code Of Ethics
"The same time-weathered code of ethics which advocates honoring one's father and mother recommends respect for the life and livelihood — the private property — of others. To violate any part of that code destroys the meaning of the rest of it. Society cannot enforce a law which guarantees security to the aged by denying the producer the right to the product of his own efforts. The best that society can do is to give the individual a chance to honor and respect his elders. This means allowing the individual his choice concerning the use to be made of his own life and his own productive efforts. It is possible for an individual to honor and respect others who are tolerant of his freedom to choose. But rare indeed is the individual who can extract love and honor from others by compulsory means!

"Such things as love, respect, honor, and justice in the relationships between persons are measurable and meaningful only to the extent that individuals voluntarily reject an opportunity to dislike, disrespect, or deal unjustly with others. And old age security also falls into that category. Since a weak person cannot force a strong person to help him, it would seem wise to put the appeal on some basis other than coercion. This means retrieving the responsibility for old-age security from the hands of government, which depends exclusively upon the power of coercion."

National Whirligig... U.S. Atomic Experts Reluctant To Share Secrets With Allies

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Atomic experts at the Pentagon and on Capitol Hill have all ways been more reluctant to share nuclear secrets with Britain and other Allies than the scientists and the President who authorized actual development of the A and H bombs — Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman. Even today, the non-military and nonpolitical groups favor greater dissemination of information now classified as confidential.

Three stubborn men were responsible for the 1948 modification of the secret Roosevelt - Churchill agreement, negotiated at Quebec in 1945, on the use of the A-bomb and the exchange of nuclear data. They were the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, then chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, then head of the Atomic Energy, and the late James V. Forrestal, then secretary of Defense.

Although the trio had occupied major roles in the supposedly bipartisan conduct of World War II, they had not been members of the Pact until July of 1947, four years after it had been made.

SCRAPPING OF AGREEMENT — Although the three co-operated in forcing drastic modification, a revision which amounted to outright equality and its expression at age 65. If the young men and women of today's generation have lost a sense of love and respect for their aging parents, that is something which the government cannot resist — through its devices of compulsion. That is a form of insecurity which must be borne by parents whose cause for anxiety lies in their having failed to convey to their children the concepts of the sanctity of the individual and the rights to life and private property.

A Code Of Ethics
"The same time-weathered code of ethics which advocates honoring one's father and mother recommends respect for the life and livelihood — the private property — of others. To violate any part of that code destroys the meaning of the rest of it. Society cannot enforce a law which guarantees security to the aged by denying the producer the right to the product of his own efforts. The best that society can do is to give the individual a chance to honor and respect his elders. This means allowing the individual his choice concerning the use to be made of his own life and his own productive efforts. It is possible for an individual to honor and respect others who are tolerant of his freedom to choose. But rare indeed is the individual who can extract love and honor from others by compulsory means!

"Such things as love, respect, honor, and justice in the relationships between persons are measurable and meaningful only to the extent that individuals voluntarily reject an opportunity to dislike, disrespect, or deal unjustly with others. And old age security also falls into that category. Since a weak person cannot force a strong person to help him, it would seem wise to put the appeal on some basis other than coercion. This means retrieving the responsibility for old-age security from the hands of government, which depends exclusively upon the power of coercion."

repeal, Vandenberg turned out to be the key figure in the change. He forced Truman and Clement R. Attlee, then Labor Prime Minister, to reluctant scrapping of the arrangement.

The Quebec agreement provided that the United States and Britain would never use the then unperfected A bomb against each other or against a third nation without prior consultation. Since England was then our principal ally in a fierce war, and presumably ally in the future, this portion of the pledge did not upset Vandenberg, Hickenlooper and Forrestal so seriously as another clause.

This third provision admitted London to full partnership in development of the A bomb, including exchange of atomic military information. As Churchill recently said in Parliament's furious debate over our latest H-bomb tests, it was intended that the agreement should remain in effect permanently. Thus it would have revealed to give London the details on all our current H-bomb secrets.

SENATOR VANDENBERG'S WEAPON — Vandenberg objected bitterly to this generosity, after Forrestal had prodded the terms from Truman and secret White House files. And, unlike Hickenlooper and the secretary of Defense, the late Michigan senator had a weapon he did not hesitate to use on Truman's Attlee.

As chairman, he flatly refused to hold Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings on the Marshall Plan for financial aid to England and Western Europe until the President and the Prime Minister had consented to modification. Negotiations for revision required several weeks, and the final, formal acquiescence by Attlee reached the State Department one midnight. Vandenberg called the committee into session the next morning, as he had promised.

Under the revision, only data referring to use of atomic energy for health and safety purposes could be exchanged with England. But even this mild provision provoked difficulties.

SECRETARY DEEMED NECESSARY — In 1948, AEC sent a scientist to Britain with a batch of information on various atomic matters. In a chance study of the matter, the U. N. is up to it's something for the Republicans to think about. The Republicans who elected him because "it would be good for business."

He relayed his doubts to Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, now AEC chairman. The latter agreed with Gingrich, and consulted Senators Vandenberg and Hickenlooper. They took their fears to Forrestal, who ordered that these details be withheld from the British.

Business men don't seem to take much interest in the question of whether or not American citizens are going to lose their freedom through the gimmick of a United Nations treaty. But maybe they'll wake up when they learn that they may lose their PROPERTY BY MEANS OF MONEY. On March 5, the International News Service reported: "The United States lost its fight today for an immediate showdown on the question of writing into U.N. treaties provisions guaranteeing the right of individual property ownership and barring arbitrary seizures. The 18-nation Human Rights Commission voted, over U. S. and Turkish opposition, to shelve indefinitely all discussions of property rights. The action was taken after the group narrowly defeated proposals phrased to leave wide loopholes for governments to deprive individuals of property on flimsy pretexts."

Fair Enough... W. R. Hearst Was Responsible For First Victory Of Roosevelt

By WESTBROOK FEGLER (Copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NEW YORK — I find it impossible to outline a criticism of the American press and to propose remedies or controls without violating the spirit of freedom of the press. However, the press certainly has faults which are dangerous to the people and these should be discussed for the benefit of the public. In a spirit of fellowship our papers and magazines refuse to speak ill of one another lest general recriminations should ensue, but this is not good for either the public or the press.

Roy Howard would say, "It is an evil bird that fouls its own nest," but I say the press has fallen into bad habits and that no other force in our country is as well qualified to expose and discuss its intentional evils and unintentional errors.

We who are actually the press, the men and women who write for and produce publications, know how human we are. We know very well that there are certain taboos that the prejudice and personal animosity of one man or that man's wife must cause information to be held back from the public or published in distorted form.

A few days ago a dispatch from London about Winston Churchill was getting a robust ribbing from the press of London. The ribbing was deal. It was the worst blow to his power that had befallen since he ran the Marxists out of office. I examined this dispatch and discovered that this disapproval was expressed by the newspapers of London and some other London and provincial papers.

And what are these papers? They are words in ink on white newspaper. That is all they are. Whose words are these words? Well, they are the words of anonymous individuals who have no dishonorable or selfish motives for saying this or that or suppressing information. The individuals may be high-minded and mistaken or sinister schemers taking a delight in the manipulation of public opinion.

At any rate, when the anonymous individual who is actually the spirit and voice of the Times and London, speaks his piece, he speaks with a power which is vast by comparison with that of any clear thinking individual. Many may just as wise and honest or much more so. The editor may have the power to overthrow a government — which the people would rather retain in office.

I got back to 1910 in our press, but I will not pretend that my clear thinking has been always very intelligent. The Socialists then howled that the press of our cities was controlled by the department stores. I didn't believe it, but I didn't have much sound information during my early years. However, I do know that nowadays editors have become handshakers and speech-makers.

They go to banquets of all sorts of business associations and politico-religious groups organized to exert "pressure." They accept and deliver the most platitudinous platitudes and the like, which are just trash of no moral value whatever. One does it because he knows that if he doesn't do it his opposite number on the opposition paper will leap at the chance.

They think or pretend to think that the press of the community at these things but in real fact they are listening to their masters express their desires. Don't tell me I am wrong. I know. So does every other newspaperman and almost every man in the business men and the politico-clerical element of banquets.

I was a little startled by my own audacity recently in giving consideration to a suggestion that the press be investigated by Congress. It would have been unthinkable to me 10 years ago. But now I had arrived at a realization that with our tremendous power to play on public opinion we had developed no great editors except great in the sense of bigness.

Henry Luce has become a giant in this respect, but he certainly is no moral giant. Go back over his career and observe the deliberate cultivation of a style of nasty abuse and the adoption of a jerked-English gibberish invented by Briton Hadden, an early partner in "Time" and you will find that no man never was the sort of person who should be trusted with such enormous power over the minds and thus the fate of the people. He takes digs at people for personal reasons, leaving the public with a distorted idea of their character and conduct. I can list many individuals in more or less public life who invariably get a dirty deal from Luce no matter what the facts and circumstances may be.

Would you say that a publisher who, for profit only, prints a columnist who he knows to be a liar and blackmail is any better, morally, than a druggist who sells cocaine to teen-agers for the same motive? Yet every publisher in the business knows that a columnist who answers this description is widely published by newspapers including some which have frankly admitted that he is a liar and blackmail.

I find nothing to bear out any contention that the press had a finer moral character 50 years ago. I find that it was about the same in this respect. But I doubt that so few individuals ever exerted so much influence over the affairs of this nation. There are only a handful of publishers now and the power they wield seems to be much greater and more immediate than the power of the many compelitive operators of any 1900. Joe Kennedy recently said in effect that Republican publishers were making a bad political mistake this year in not creating "unity" for the party. I disagreed. I said that on the contrary, most of them were trying to convince themselves that a Socialist program is Republican and are "supporting" Eisenhower by suppressing criticism of his policies and ability. On top of that, however, I insisted that the press should practice journalism, not politics.

Bill Hearst wrote with perfect honesty in the summer of 1952 that it was the personal decision of his late father, "Pop," as Bill affectionately called him, which decided the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt by the Democratic convention in Chicago 20 years before. "Pop" did this by releasing the Garner delegation to Roosevelt. There were other details but that is the gist of it and that is exactly how it happened that we have Roosevelt for four terms and the awful disaster to Western civilization and the rise of Soviet power and the military menace of the Oriental millions.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

New York Things: When the water shortage was on, back there in the summer of 1949, many garages spent $2,000 and upwards to have their Cadillacs washed. So that customers' Cadillacs could be washed without violating the strict rules about wasting water...

In City Hall a clean car was considered unpatriotic... When the water gushed back in, thanks to rains, melting snows and the tears of those who did not hold tickets on the winner of the Grand National, these wells became useless... Until one smart operator, determined to get back his well-deserved investment put out a sign: "We Wash Your Car in Well Water"...

All of which was fine, until some scallywag climbed up on a nice, new, bright sign and scrawled: "So what's the matter with sick water?"... It's a derivative of the old Moran and Mack joke: "I got a job with the Eagle Laundry," and the snapper: "Who wants to wash eagles?"...

It is also an extension of the old joke: "My barber says I have thin hair," with the snapper: "What are you worrying about, you want fat hair?"...

Ever get fascinated by a name? And decide that the name has definite meanings?... The most fascinating name in New York, to me, belongs to a radio announcer named Fieldon Farrington... Not only is it a dramatic, robust, punning name but it connotes situation in drama... Like the second-act curtain line in a melodrama: "Stand back, Fieldon Farrington!"

or, "One more step, Fieldon Farrington, and you are a dead man!"... You just can't be other than dramatic with a name like that... It doesn't permit meanness, quipness or a retiring nature... It's a name that promises daring deeds... Then there is an actor, and a good one, whose name, as Richard Watts long has held, sounds exactly like the hero of a Harold Bell Wright novel — Dan Matthews... I can see it now: "The sun was lowering in the west when, into the center of the little Arizona town rode Dan Matthews, a grim smile on his wind-blown face..."

There have been unusual names in New York and among its famed — like Hereward Thersward Carrington and Hycacinth R. Inglestone — but these latter two achieve memory and eminence by being bizarre... Farrington and Matthews are memorable because they evoke situations of drama.

Police man on a bus the other afternoon said "None of you do a good job of reporting. Why don't you cross-hatch Central Park and take an every piece of statuary and every plaque in it. Amazing things there."... Well, the statue of a husky dog named Balto, to who, back in the 20's had something to do with rushing serum to Nome, is one... But Balto, as it turned out later, was mainly a dream cooked up by the press agent for a children's house...

Then there is that cringing, snarling bronze panther atop a jutting rock which seems ready to pounce into any passing car... No one seems to know who put that in Central Park or why... Not even the City knows... They just say, well, somebody did, which is less than a happy answer... There is a plaque to a doctor, a whole explained to another doctor, a stone cairn to an orchestra leader and half a dozen other oddments of City thinking... There was a deal on for awhile to put in a statue of a beautiful police dog until City ferrets discovered that the whole notion was thought up by a manufacturer of dog food... The fact is, the park is cluttered with all kinds of strange bits of statuary for which there seems little survey or justification... But I'll return it in detail some day... What really is strange for Central Park is that courtyard of hard, irregular, uneven Belgian paving blocks in front of the Tavern on the Green, a story of a ribbon-pavement which is murderous in character... It's as though the City conspired to keep people from driving to the restaurant.

Capital City Sketch, One-Act Play Program For Varietas Club Yesterday

Varietas Study Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. S. C. Evans on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. J. G. Carville, club president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. H. H. Butler announced that Varietas Club will have four representatives at the convention in Dalton on April 21-23 — Misses Lathrop, Piers, C. L. McKinney, Olla Nace, and H. H. Butler.

The afternoon's program was opened by Mrs. Sherman White, who spoke on "The Washington I Saw." She gave a comprehensive discussion of the city of Washington, D. C., as it was when she visited it a few years ago, illustrating her talk with pictures, she described many of the interesting places of the capital city. Her sketch covered the Capitol building, Congress, the Supreme Court, the Smithsonian Institute, various monuments, Mount Vernon, Lee's Home, Washington Cathedral, and the White House.

The second part of the program consisted of a humorous skit called, "Uncle Sam's Squirrel Project." The one-act play was a fantasy, illustrating average American's eagerness to grab government money, which he learns is his own tax money. Action centered about a town committee's decision on stockpiling the town park with one hundred red squirrels, of which the government would pay half the cost — at a double price. The humorous lines put across the theme of the skit very well. The characters were as follows: Narrator, Ruth Thomas; Business Woman, Ruth Spearman; Housewife, Irene Harrah; Club Woman, Sally Butler; and Official from Washington, Eunice Pierson.

Following the program, Mrs. Evans served refreshments from a beautiful Easter tea table. A floor-length cloth of pink nylon net was centered by a miniature flower garden, in which a tiny tree held baby birds in a nest. Mrs. Carville presided at the tea table.

Members present were Misses H. H. Butler, J. G. Carville, H. P. Doster, H. T. Hampton, Lee Harrah, J. A. Hopkins, Dow King, W. C. Hutchison, C. L. McKinney, Mrs. Lathrop, Mrs. Piers, Ruth Spearman, Ralph Thomas, J. C. Vollmert, Sherman White, and S. C. Evans.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend,
I feel that I must comment on the letter written by L. A. Girls of this sort make me absolutely furious. Do they think they are the only wives whose husbands have gone overseas? My own husband was sent to Japan when I was seven months pregnant. I also have a four-year-old boy.

I was forced to find and buy a home for us, do all of the moving in, unpacking, setting up beds and other heavy work myself. However, to complain about any of this never entered my mind. It is one of the things that we who live in this age of uncertainty must be prepared to accept. Of course, it wasn't easy to do all of this when my baby was due so soon, but to brood about it certainly wouldn't have made it any easier.

My mother lives very near to us, but moving in with her wasn't even considered.

We who are left at home have a deep obligation to our husbands to try to keep cheerful and healthy so that the men who are gone can relax their own minds and not have to worry about us.

How does this girl think that her husband feels about her? No doubt she has been writing complaining letters to him worrying him with her own petty problems and hungry stomachs.

These recipes use margarine, which today is composed of 80 percent vegetable fat, pasteurized skim milk, salt and vitamin A.

Oatmeal Crispies
(Yield: 4 1/2 dozen cookies)
One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3 cups quick-cooking oatmeal, 1 cup margarine, 2 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1/4 cup chopped nuts, 1 cup seedless raisins, 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice.

Combine 1/2 cup margarine and 1 cup sugar until fluffy. Blend in soda and salt. Beat in 1 egg. Gradually add the remaining sugar, mixing until creamy after each addition. Beat in remaining egg. Stir in nuts, raisins, lemon juice and oatmeal mixture.

Chill 30 to 40 minutes or until stiff enough to handle. Shape into 1-inch balls. Place on greased cookie sheets. Bake 12 to 15 minutes in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

Rich Fruit-Nut Cookies
(Yield: 7 1/2 dozen cookies)
Three and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup margarine (2 sticks), 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla extract, 2 eggs, unbleached, 4-ounce package pitted dates, chopped; 1 cup seedless raisins, 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 1-3 cup milk, pecan halves or glazed cherries for garnish.

Heat oven to 375 degrees F. (moderate). Sift together first 3 ingredients. Cream margarine and 1 cup of the sugar together until fluffy. Beat in flavoring extracts and 1 egg. Gradually add the remaining sugar, mixing until creamy after each addition. Beat in dates, raisins and nuts. Add flour mixture alternately with milk.

Drop from teaspoon onto lightly greased cookie sheets. Top each with a glazed cherry or a pecan half, if desired. Bake 12 minutes or until edges have browned.

Note: If raisins are too dry, steam in a sieve over hot water until moist and plump.

When the youngsters rush in from school hungry, have a quick-cooking snack ready for them. Mrs. Carl Steiner of Highland Park, near Chicago, Ill., gives us the recipes she uses for her two young and hungry students.

These recipes use margarine, which today is composed of 80 percent vegetable fat, pasteurized skim milk, salt and vitamin A.

New Members Of Exemplar Chapter Honored At Tea

Exemplar chapter of Beta Sigma Phi honored new members who will enter the club this spring at a tea Monday night in the home of Mrs. Martin Stubbs, 1718 Hamilton. Mrs. Creel Grady served punch from a yellow linen covered table centered with a bowl of Easter eggs trimmed with velvet ribbons, sequins and flowers. The bowl was surrounded by an Easter parade of egg "ladies" in Easter bonnets led by Mr. and Mrs. Duck. Sandwiches and cookies were also served.

Attending were the honorees: Misses J. W. Graham Jr., Bill Bridges, Derrell Cameron, and Miss Ella Planis. Others were Misses Thelma Bray, Homer Deck and Jack Foster. Members present were: Mrs. Roy McKee, Joe Fischer, Fred Myers, Ralph Esson, Travis Lively Jr., Stanley Chittenden, Bob Fugate, Jim Poole, Bill Sullins, Misses Joyce Wanner and Virginia Vaughan.

Director Of Trenton Conservatory Of Music To Come To Pampa For Workshop

The regular meeting of Pampa's Piano Teachers Association was held recently in the dining room of Johnson's Cafe. The group completed plans to sponsor a piano teacher's workshop. The course of study will be "Creative Piano Technique" and will be under the direction of William O'Toole, founder and director of the Trenton Conservatory of Music at Trenton, New Jersey. He has held similar workshops at Juliard Conservatory and in leading cities throughout the United States. He will act as judge for the National Guild Auditions to be held in Pampa April 27.

Teachers attending were Misses W. M. Cooper, W. H. Fuller, Lily Hartfield, Roy Johnson, W. D. Waters, H. A. Yoder and Bill Haley.

Double Shower Held For Skelly Women

SKELLYTOWN — (Special) — Members of the Rebekah Lodge recently honored Mrs. Dave Dickenson and Mrs. Norval Huckins with a pink and blue shower in IOOF Hall. The entertainment was under the direction of Mrs. Miles Pearson. Guests each sang songs with boys and girls names Mrs. R. C. Heaton presented each of the honorees with a small baby telephone rattle for a corsage, which was tied with streamers of pink and blue ribbon.

The refreshment table was laid with a blue cloth centered with a punch bowl, which was surrounded by great favors of small baby rattlers. Decorated cakes, shaped as a baby dress and a pair of rompers were on each end of the table. Lighted tapers completed the arrangement. Punch and cake were served. Presiding at the table were Mrs. J. R. McKernon and Mrs. R. C. Heaton.

Those participating in the shower were Misses Fred Anderson, Clifton Hanna, John Nichols, Ralph Wrinkle, W. S. Berry, J. R. McKernon, George Allen, Lawrence Young, Carlos Beck, Willis Denham, Ira Noble, C. G. Huckins, Al Shubring, Clifford Coleman, Ross Neugin, J. R. McKernon, Delmar Sims, Chester Yell, Miles Pearson, R. RUTH MILLET

They've finally settled down to marriage when — instead of worrying about his safety or being indignant because he didn't telephone to say he would be late to dinner, she calmly turns the burners on the stove down to simmer and beats him to the evening paper.

Instead of giving her a lecture on the importance of keeping a checkbook in a business-like manner, he just corrects her arithmetic and writes in the checks she forgot without even bothering to get mad.

Instead of waiting for him to notice the new curtains and being hurt when he doesn't she marches him right in to look at them and tells him how much they help the looks of the room.

Instead of trusting himself to remember such important dates as their wedding anniversary, he never forgets the time he got to her office to make a note of all such events on his office calendar.

Instead of trying to get him to tell her what is wrong when he comes home in a grumpy mood, she hurries dinner on the table, tells the kids to walk easy, and he glances at it and tells her it looks fine but then she'd look fine in anything.

Instead of trusting to luck for what she'll get for her birthday, she starts in weeks ahead giving him hints — that he promptly forgets she gave him the moment she says in feigned surprise, "How did you EVER know this is what I wanted?"

Instead of bristling when she mentions the name of an old beau, he pays her a sudden compliment knowing she must be feeling the need of one.

Instead of talking about all the things they are going to do some day they suddenly realize that TODAY is the important day.

Fashion Reaches Dull Window Shades

NEW YORK — UP — New high-fashion colors are featured in inexpensive window shades — of dusty rose, sunlight yellow, aqua, lime or gray — backed with white so that all windows look the same from the outside.

The shades can be washed by placing them flat on the floor or other solid surfaces and going over one side at a time with a soapy sponge and then one wrung out of clean water. Dry by wiping with a clean, dry cloth. Rehang the shades, full length, until they're completely dry, then roll up tightly for a few hours to preserve their springiness. (Copy Corp., New York.)

Mr. Wesley Russell, committee chairman, was in charge of the meeting. It was decided for the cub scouts to visit Boy's Ranch on April 24th. The scouts will leave the lodge hall at 8 a. m. and will eat lunch with the boys at the ranch after making a tour of the ranch.

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served to Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Everhart, Mmes. Jerry Forbes, Oscar Downs, June Kreis, and Russell Veal.

Skelly WMS Studies Latin Missions

SKELLYTOWN — (Special) — The Circles of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church recently met at the church for a Royal Service Program, which was "Your Baptist Missions to Latin America."

Mrs. R. E. Bradford was in charge of the program.

Mrs. Marshall Satterwhite gave the opening prayer. Mrs. W. L. Aulbert led the group in several songs. Mrs. Eugene Brande read a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sewright, of Skellytown, who are serving as missionaries in South America at this time.

It was announced that circles will meet in the homes on April 15 and will meet in the church for a business meeting on April 22, at 2 p. m.

Mrs. John Kenney gave the dismissal prayer.

Those attending were Misses Raymond Dalton, Otis Haasler, R. E. Bradford, Marshall Satterwhite, T. A. Ingram, L. Barrett, Homer Garrett, John Kenney, Joe Wedge, Anne Loyd, Willis Lee Aulbert, Eugene Brande and Paul Mathews.

Dodgers, Yankees Go Down in Defeat in Opening Contests

Nats Defeat Yanks; Giants Trounce Bums

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Nine out of the last 10 major league pennant winners scored opening day victories and if that means anything the Yankees and Dodgers could be in trouble.

Because both were off on the wrong foot Wednesday.

The Yankees went 10 innings in Washington before Mickey Vernon hit a prodigious two-run homer that gave the Senators a 6 to 4 victory and prompted 12 bidders to answer to make a special trip down to congratulate him after the game.

The blow, a long one as all homers must be in Washington, came off erstwhile Yank ace Alie Reynolds, who previously walked Ed Yost.

Of course, the Yankees as usual have an angle in their favor. The only exception in pattern whereby pennant winners score opening day victories occurred last season when the Athletics beat them, 5 to 0, for the only opening day loss in Casey Stengel's career in five flag-winning seasons. In the National League, for five seasons every pennant winner had an opening day triumph, the Dodgers in 1953 and 1952, the Giants in 1951 before they went into an eight-year losing streak to the Phils in 1950, and the Dodgers again in 1949.

Three Giant Homers
In the Polo Grounds, the Giants made only four hits off Carl Erskine but three were homers by Al Dark, Hank Thompson, and Willie Mays and thereby hung the scale at 4 to 0 victory. Roy Campanella hit two homers off wine; Sal Maglie, who received great one-hit relief help from Marv Grissom in the final 2-3 innings.

It was a day of heavy slugging, this 1954 inaugural with 12 homers in the National as compared with six last year and nine in the American as compared with four in the 1953 opener. In other national league games Cincinnati out-slugged Milwaukee 9 to 8, the Cards topped the Cards 8 to 1, Pittsburgh came from behind to defeat the Phils 4 to 2. Elsewhere in the American league, the A's defeated Boston, 6 to 4, Detroit blanked Baltimore 3 to 0, while Cleveland pounded out a 15-hit 5 to 3 triumph at Chicago.

Cincinnati made 13 hits, including four doubles by Jim Greengrass, coming from behind to win its traditional festive home opener despite two homers by Ed Mauer, the 1953 home run king. Andy Patto was hit on the head by a pitched ball after rapping three doubles for Milwaukee but was believed to have escaped serious damage because of his protective helmet.

Robin Roberts still has his troubles that plagued him all spring. Going into the eighth with a three-hit shutout, the Pirates opened up and kayped him with a four run rally.

Lefty Harvey had another big winner of 1953, who ranks up in St. Louis by the Cubs who were paced by Clyde McCullough with a homer, two doubles, and a single. Rookie Gene Baker and pitcher Paul Minner, who hurled six hit ball, also hit Cub batters with a home run in his first big league time at St. Stan Musial also homered for the Cards.

Arm Bothers Shants
At Philadelphia, the Athletics scored a victory, but again lost lefty Bobby Shantz, who went out in the sixth inning with the same kind of an arm injury that laid him low last year. Rookies Ozzie Van Brabant and Bill Upton, co-laborated on saving Shantz's victory while Gus Zernial hit a homer, Bill Kenna drove in three runs and rookie Speck Jacobs made four hits. Sam White and Jack Jensen homered for Boston.

Steve Gromek turned in the day's best pitching job, blanking the Orioles, who still look suspect. He gave up seven hits, struck out nine, and walked only two as Ray Boone, Walt Dropo, and rookie Frank Bolling homered for Detroit's tallies.

Early Wynn just breezed to a nine-hit victory (all singles) at Chicago as his mates pounded out 15 including homers by Wally Westlake and George Strickland.

Tuesday's star—Mickey Vernon of the Senators, who drew personal congratulations from President Eisenhower when he hit a two-run 10th inning homer to defeat the world champion Yankees, 6 to 4.

Sports Trim Tulsa For 7th Straight

By UNITED PRESS
The Shreveport Sports, still without a defeat in seven games, continued to set the Texas League pace Wednesday, but defending champion Dallas, winner of the Dixie Series last year, was running a close second.

The Sports combed four Tulsa pitchers for 12 hits Tuesday night, including home runs by Jim Ackert and Ed Mickelson, to beat the Oilers 13 to 5, while Dallas stayed one and a half games back in second place with its fourth straight win over Houston, 4 to 3.

Fort Worth pitcher Garman Malory threw one ball at San Antonio and lost the game. Malory took over for starting Wally Jastinski with the score tied 2-2 in the last of the ninth. Mission shortstop Willy Quintana hit his first pitch over the fence to break up the game and give San Antonio a 4 to 3 victory.

Six Indian Defeat
In the fourth game, Beaumont sent Oklahoma City down to its sixth defeat in seven games as Eugene Tarabida bled the Oilers on seven hits, 5 to 0. Dallas' John (Red) Murrif, the league's leading pitcher last year with 17 victories, has two wins without a loss to his credit this season.

The big redhead was in constant trouble against Houston as he left Buff base runners stranded in every inning except the sixth. The only real damaging blow against him, however, was Pete Riggan's two-run homer in the seventh that left the Buffs as he was only a fill-in from Columbus because of the Buffs' cripple list and will report back to the AAA Redbirds Wednesday.

Murrif Scores Win
Murrif, himself, scored the winning run in the ninth inning as he walked and scored behind singles by Ed Knoblauch and Doug Hansen.

But Murrif's ill-fated gopher ball in the ninth at San Antonio, Fort Worth's Walt Jastinski and the Missions' Ryne Duren had locked in a tight pitchers' battle. Each team got only five hits as Duren got credit for his first win against one defeat.

Veteran Ed Kazak cracked a three-run homer for Beaumont in the Ships' 5 to 0 blanking of Oklahoma City.

The league takes a night off Wednesday night, before Southern teams open in the north Thursday night.

Shakes Vernon's Hand
And, when Mickey Vernon of the Senators won the game with a two-run home run in the 10th inning, the President went bounding to the front of his box to pump Vernon's hand in congratulation.

Last year, the President stirred up a controversy by planning, at first, to pass up the opening game and play golf instead; this year there was no doubt that the former West Point outfielder had a load of fun "out at the old ball game."

In fact, the President delayed his departure for the golf links at Augusta, Ga., for almost an hour in order to stay until the end of the tight battle.

President Improvises
Mr. Eisenhower showed up 11 minutes before game time with his arm tucked up to make the traditional "set pitch" that opens the season. Last year, this year he made for a photographer whacked an umpire, but this time he called a "hard" pitch into the outstretched hands of Yankee pitcher Johnny Sain.

Ike Sees All Of Opening Major Game

WASHINGTON, April 14—UP—The opening of the baseball season was a day of relaxation for Americans and President Eisenhower set the example with one of the liveliest performances ever turned in by a chief executive at a ball game.

First, the President turned the solemn "first pitch" ceremony into a merry game of catch with a Washington Senators rookie.

Then he watched every second of Tuesday's tense, three-hour struggle between the Senators and the world champion Yankees, scrupulously keeping his own box score and discussing the game excitedly with his official party.

Last year, this year he made for a photographer whacked an umpire, but this time he called a "hard" pitch into the outstretched hands of Yankee pitcher Johnny Sain.

Sain brought the ball over to get the President's autograph, as per custom. But that's where the President started improvising.

The President spotted Gonzales Narango, Washington's rookie pitcher from Cuba, standing in front of the dugout and tossed him the ball. Mr. Eisenhower, who was wearing a baseball glove for the photos, signaled Narango to throw it back. Narango tossed it and Ike speared it in his glove and fired it back to the pitcher. Finally Sain retrieved the ball and got the President's autograph.

Temple Introduced Harlingen to Big State League play by jumping Lou Lozano for five runs in the first inning. Fred Martin, a former St. Louis Cardinal ace, handled the pitching chores for the Eagles and scattered ten hits over the nine-inning rout.

Wedgeback hopes on the line
Shantz, the club's most valuable piece of property, gripped his left arm in pain after tossing a called strike to leadoff batter Billy Goodman of the Red Sox in the sixth inning.

Patko Hit On Head
In League Opener
CINCINNATI, April 14—UP—Veteran outfielder Andy Patko of the Milwaukee Braves was discharged from the hospital Wednesday, less than 24 hours after being struck on the head by a pitched ball in the opening game of the season against the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Patko headed back to Milwaukee to rejoin the team and was expected to play in Wednesday's home opener against St. Louis. He was injured Tuesday in the eighth inning when a pitch from lefthander Joe Nuxhall of Cincinnati hit him in the head. Cincinnati won the game, 9-5.

Major Attendance Higher Than 1953
NEW YORK, April 14—UP—Opening day 1954 drew more baseball fans out to the parks than did opening day 1953.

Final figures showed that 236,444 fans attended Tuesday's major league opener, as compared with 176,269 fans on the general opening day last season. True, there were eight games Tuesday and only seven last year, but even so the average attendance increased from 25,181 to 29,552.

Oilers To Clovis For Thursday Tilt

The Pampa Oilers journeyed to Clovis Thursday for a night game with the Oilers in the first of four remaining exhibition tilts before the season opens next Wednesday.

Following Thursday night's contest, the Oilers will return to Pampa for three more exhibitions in Oiler park.

Manager Doug Lewis probably will use either Byers Clark or Jake Henson against the Oilers in Clovis. If Byers is the choice, he will be making his first start for the Oilers. He comes to the club highly recommended, according to Business Manager Jimmy Hamilton.

On Friday night here, the local West Texas-New Mexico league entry will meet the Oilers, with the game starting at 8:15 o'clock. These two clubs will meet again here at the same hour Saturday night.

The final exhibition game of the season will find the Oilers meeting the Ex-Pros of Pampa in a benefit contest here at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. All proceeds from the game will go toward providing funds for operation of the Little League this summer.

Deck Woldt, former Oiler, said today he hoped to be able to have his Ex-Pros out for at least one practice session this week before the game. A workout had been planned for last Sunday, but rain caused its cancellation. He indicated that his team would probably work out sometime Saturday. Meanwhile, tickets for benefit game are on sale at Richard Drug or may be purchased from members of the Optimist club.

PHS Resumes Work For District Tilts

The Pampa High School Harvesters baseball squad was to resume workouts this afternoon in preparation for three more district contests here this weekend.

Head Coach Dick Woldt said today that present plans call for John Perkins, who hurled the local nine to its first triumph of the year here Saturday over the Plainview Bulldogs, will be the starting pitcher against the Amarillo Sables at Oiler park here at 3 p.m. Friday in a district I-A-A game.

Two more district games are slated for Saturday afternoon, also at Oiler Park. The Harvesters will entertain the Borger Bulldogs in a double header, starting at 1:30 o'clock.

Woldt indicated that Dale Tucker would be on the hill in the first of the two seven-inning games, while Buddy Moore will pitch the second contest.

The Harvesters opened the district season Saturday by splitting a double bill with Plainview, winning the first game, 9-1, and dropping the second tilt, 3-2. Eight Harvesters errors marred the game, in which none of the Bulldog runs was earned.

Steers Take Lead In Baseball Chase

By UNITED PRESS
The Texas Longhorns pushed two games ahead of the pack in the Southwest Conference baseball race Tuesday by beating Texas A&M at College Station 8 to 2.

Wet grounds forced postponement of the TCU-Rice game at Ft. Worth and Baylor-SMU game at Dallas, the third straight postponement for the Mustangs. They were rained out twice at Houston last week.

TCU and Rice will play a double-header Wednesday; the postponed Baylor-SMU game either April 21 or May 5.

The fans at College Station were treated to something seldom seen in baseball—a home run hit by a batter the pitcher is trying to walk.

Paul Mohr, a Longhorn slugger, came up in the first inning with two men on base and Aggie strategy called for pitcher Jerry Nelson to walk the heavy hitter.

But Nelson got a pitch too close, and the Texas first baseman slammed the ball 360 feet over the centerfield fence, giving the Steers a 3 to 0 lead.

That was enough to win the game, as Texas ace Boyd Linker held the Aggies to two hits.

The Aggies scored both their runs in the fifth. Joe Schero got to first on an error, and Jimmy Williams and Claude Northrup walked to fill the bases. Nelson singled Schero and Williams home.

Tommy Snow homered for Texas in the third inning.

The derby candidates for the all-furlong dash are Remond, The Prince, Jet General, Conaway, Mel Leavitt, and Double Speed. Other entries are Octrock and Carnival Cat.

Durocher Upset Over Glove Rule

NEW YORK, April 14—UP—One opening day result of baseball's new "glove rule" was to upset Leo Durocher's good-bye routine.

The New York Giants' manager, as part of a ritual he follows to bring good luck, used to put on the glove of the rival team's third baseman and thump it a few times before taking his place in the third base coaching box. But Billy Costello, the new Yankees' manager, refused to let Durocher do that, saying that says players must not leave their gloves on the field, took his glove back to the dugout each inning.

So Leo just whacked his bare hands together a couple of times and went through the rest of his routine—kicking third base and scratching out the white lines of the coaching box. It worked, too, because the Giants won.

Derby Eligibles in Race
NEW YORK, April 13—UP—Six Kentucky Derby eligibles are included in the eight-hour field for Tuesday's feature race at Jamaica, the $5,000 Springboard Purse. The derby candidates for the all-furlong dash are Remond, The Prince, Jet General, Conaway, Mel Leavitt, and Double Speed. Other entries are Octrock and Carnival Cat.

A shadowy figure is the Chi Minh, personal symbol of the present Red-led war against the French. Lam, ascetic, intellectual 44-year-old Ho has always denied being a Communist. But the fact remains that he was trained in Moscow's schools for Red agents.

Ho spread Red gospel from South China to Siam. His courage has never been questioned. Once, when French had him trapped in Hanoi, he shaved off his whiskers, dressed as a coolie and pulled a ricksha carrying two fat women right through the cordon of French police.

U.S. Lifts Ban On H-Test Film

WASHINGTON, April 14 —UP—The government has lifted its ban on foreign showing of color films of the 1952 hydrogen bomb explosion in the Pacific.

A Civil Defense Administration spokesman revealed foreign news agencies or commercial concerns wanting copies of the color film of "Operation Ivy" may obtain them from a commercial firm here for $4.55 each.

A top-level policy decision of the administration previously banned foreign distribution of color movies of the November, 1952, blast. Informed sources said the ban was based on the belief that color reproductions of what the bomb could do would have too great an emotional impact on nations already jittery over the tests.

He Ought To Know — NORWALK, Conn. — UP—As he celebrated his 100th birthday, Gilbert B. Bostart vowed never to stop drinking and smoking. He said, "Liquor and smoking never hurt anybody."

Legislative Session Ends Solons 'Fudge' A Little To Pass 'Must' Measures

AUSTIN, April 14 —UP—Members of the Texas Legislature scattered to their homes Wednesday, leaving to Gov. Allan Shivers the job of signing into law the bills they passed during a 30-day special session.

The session ended Tuesday at 4 p.m., eight hours ahead of its constitutional midnight deadline, although the House had to fudge a little to quit at the agreed time. Representatives set their clock back a few minutes so some last-minute formalities could be carried out.

Legislators were primarily occupied during the last day with minor and local bills, and the only one of statewide importance died in a House debate when the closing hour came. It was a bill by Sen. Carlos Ashley of Llano to revise the state inheritance tax laws.

Senate Takes Record Vote The Senate took a record vote on the Communist control bill, which had been approved Monday by a voice vote. The 28 to 0 count meant the bill will become law as soon as Shivers signs it, instead of within 90 days, since it takes a record vote to pass emergency legislation to take effect immediately. The spend and tax portions of Shivers' program went to his desk last week. Those bills call for an $11 million emergency construction program at the Southwestern medical school, Dallas; state school for the deaf, Houston; Eastham prison farm, and the University of Texas' dental branch at Houston; a $402 annual pay raise for Texas teachers; a $120 annual pay raise for state employees except college teachers; and a $26 million tax increase.

Taxes on beer, corporation franchises and natural gas production were boosted to finance the pay raise. The emergency construction will be paid for out of an estimated $12 million surplus in the state treasury.

Other Developments These were the other developments: Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo was named president pro tempore of the Senate, making him third in the gubernatorial line of succession.

House Speaker Reuben Senterfitt of San Saba, a candidate for governor, received a standing ovation after a farewell address. It was his second straight term as speaker.

The House passed a bill by Rep. Joe M. Kilgore of McAllen to appropriate $329,000 for construction at 11 agricultural experiment stations, but it died without action in the Senate.

Rep. George T. Hinson, Mineola, a candidate for lieutenant governor, assailed the administration for failing to tax natural gas pipelines.

The Senate confirmed Shivers' appointment of C. E. Fulgham, a Lubbock rancher who has headed the Texas Industrial Commission, which investigated communism, succeeds Howard A. Carney.

A NELLY DON DRESS — has been donated to The Pampa Daily News all-electric cooking school by Murfee's department store. Above, Mrs. Violet McAfee dresses a store model in one of the summer line styles of these dresses. A housewife attending the school will be awarded a $14.95 certificate which will purchase a Nelly Don dress in any size, any color, any style. The two-day school begins Tuesday. (News Photo)

Pampan Hits Oil. A Pampan has gone from "rags to riches" in Oklahoma oil country. W. G. Morgan, 425 N. Cuyler, late this morning announced he had drilled a well in Creek County, Okla., which was producing 500 barrels of oil per day. The well is located on the Faye-Sebring lease, 6 1/2 miles south-east of Bristow, according to Morgan who styled himself "rags to riches." Exact stake-out is Section 33, Block 15-9, and the well is the "I.A."

TCU Art School Event Scheduled. Featuring a ballet, one-act opera and symphony orchestra, a one-night performance of the Texas Christian University School of Fine Arts will be presented in Amarillo Tuesday. Sponsored by the Exchange Club of Amarillo, the event will begin at 8 p.m. in the Stephen F. Austin junior high school. The touring troupe will be made up of more than 100 dancers, singers, and orchestra members. Many of the performers are from Panhandle cities. During the tour, which will include appearances in Vernon, Abilene, Odessa and San Angelo, auditions will be conducted. Young people with talent in music or dancing will be awarded scholarships to attend the TCU School of Fine Arts. The U. S. Coal mining industry enjoyed its safest year in 1953, and mining today is twice as safe as it was 10 years ago, five times as safe as 40 years ago. Read The News Classified Ads
