WATER IN PAMPA — an unusual sight for many months, today was filling up creek beds and collecting in low spots in the streets, following the steady "drizzle" and occasional rainfall Sunday and Monday. According to radio station KPDM, a total of 1.03 inches of rain fell between 8 a.m. Monday and 6 a.m. today, with only an "unmeasurable trace," up to 11 a.m. today. Pictured above is Red Deer creek, which winds through City Park, as it flowed under the bridge on Kentucky just southwest of the municipal swimming pool. At the time the picture was taken this morning, the water was six inches lower than it had been at an earlier period, according to water marks on the bridge. Shown at the right, at the corner of South Hobart, where Wilks becomes Brown, Gene Carter, 111 N. Sumner, is shown spraying his way along to a business appointment. The rain brought good prospects to county farmers, however. "This rain could make a good wheat crop, provided we don't have a lot of high winds," advised Jerry Mobley, assistant county agricultural agent. Although it looked like it might clear earlier today, it had begun to rain again by 11 a.m. (News Photos)

Waco, on the eve of the anniversary of the 1953 tornado that killed 114 persons, received an unofficial five-inch downpour that flooded streets and caused minor damage. The deaths attributed to the weather occurred Monday in West Texas. J. A. Melton, 46, Carlsbad, N. M., was killed when his car skidded on wet pavement near Breckenridge and crashed into a ditch. Near Pilot Point, Tex., Ben Booe, 68, a farmer residing near that city, was injured fatally when his pickup truck collided with a Katy passenger train. The weather bureau said a 58-mile-per-hour wind accompanied a thunderstorm that drenched Abilene early Tuesday. Rainfall there measured 1.18 inches. The weather bureau also said it had an unofficial report of a tornado sighted in the Andrews area of West Texas that did not touch ground. Forecasters said some more severe thunderstorms could be expected Tuesday with clearing weather after tonight. A general warming up is due by Tuesday afternoon. Fort Worth's 2.84 inches of rain was the heaviest for a single day in four years. Dallas likewise received a heavy downpour—3.05 inches.

Tax Board Adds Member

Joe Miller is the new member of the Pampa Board of Equalization, replacing H. E. Schwartz, who was never actually sworn into office.

The Pampa City Commission lists this morning made the appointment, following the resignation of Schwartz because of ill health. Others on the board are Bob Sidwell and Gene Lewis.

Who was to have been a regularly-passed ordinance today turned into an emergency measure — the closing of the public hearing on the 1954 paving program. The commission passed on its second and third readings the proposed ordinance so that work on the 500-block of North Dwight could get passed on only its first reading.

A discussion of the city's proposed paving program resulted in a decision to re-let bids on it, to be opened June 1. Tentative beginning date for "shooting" is June 15, according to City Mgr. Fred Brook.

First reading of a proposed ordinance on installing 15 new yellow right-of-way signs at seven Pampa street intersections was passed. And monthly bills of $20,812.59 and library bills of $235.86 were passed.

The full commission was on hand, Commissioner W. D. Vamon having returned from vacation in the San Antonio area.

Before the meeting could really get going City Secy. Ed Vicars read what was undoubtedly one of the longest readings of the minutes of the previous session in recent commission history.

Wheat Crop Estimate Up

AUSTIN, May 11 — UP — A winter wheat crop of 23,418,000 bushels, up 2 1/2 percent from the 22,800,000 forecast was predicted Monday by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The estimated yield was considerably above the record of 124,170,000 bushels of 1947.

The increased yield was attributed to improved moisture conditions in Texas.

The 1953 crop was 23,035,000 bushels, and the 1952 harvest was 24,825,000 bushels.

"There is no question of any break in negotiations by the French delegation," Bayens told his press conference.

Formal Talks Shelved

While France and other Western powers studied the Red plan for Indo-China, formal Indo-China talks were shelved. The main cause was the case was its deadlocked deliberations on Korean unification later in the day.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov and Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak were scheduled to speak on Korea.

Diplomats studying the Red offer on Indo-China said the real question to be determined is whether Communist bargaining will be aimed at genuinely shaping an acceptable compromise or at long months of fruitless talk to lull the West while the Reds perfect plans for a final Indo-China take-over.

"Have 7,500 twenty dollar bills, two thousand ten dollar bills, two thousand five dollar bills, equals 200,000. Do not want any more money and am ready to pay smart man like I hear you want, not try and doublecross me."

"Want money and going to get money. If I have to shoot some of you to get money. Do not mark money in any way as you get in trouble yourself."

On Case from Start

The FBI was in on the case from the start. FBI agents and Dallas police offered protection to the man who wanted it. Four, including Scheps, wanted protection. Scheps said he was still "in a state of shock" from the ordeal. The letters were postmarked at 11 p. m. April 28. On May 1, the FBI put a classified advertisement in the Dallas Morning News: "John come home as all is forgiven Florence."

The next night Scheps got a letter telling him to take the $300,000 home and await further instructions. On May 3, he got a telephone call, telling him to go to the White Rock area of Dallas. It was him where he would find a stick sticking to a tree.

He was to leave the money here and go home. Mumford said he did not know whether Scheps ever went to the White Rock area. But apparently he did not, because less than two hours after he got the first call, he got another one, accusing him of a doublecross.

"Doublecross Me"

"You doublecross me. You other (George) thinks he's a smart man and let someone follow," the life said.

Will give you one more chance. Back and pick up the package with instructions.

May 7 — last Friday — the extortionist called again. Scheps said the package was in the trunk and he couldn't get it at the moment. The extortionist told him to get it the next day.

Last Saturday, Scheps was ordered by telephone to go to a liquor store and wait a telephone call. Scheps, or a stand-in went to the store and got a call instructing him to go to Glasgow and East end, where he would find a brick the foot of a highway sign — under the brick.

That note told Scheps' stand-in follow more complicated directions. Finally, he found a note, telling him to leave the package. Scheps took some back in four days. If the package was there the end of four hours, the stand-in was supposed to "pick it up."

When Scheps was telephoned at the end of another day, Scheps instructed to start toward Glasgow, where he would find a brick the foot of a highway sign — under the brick.

RC Chooses Date For Annual Meet

Plans for Pampa's Red Cross chapter's annual meeting were made by the executive board at 7 a. m. meeting today in the Schnelker hotel, advised Mrs. F. W. Sholwell, executive secretary.

The meet is slated for 7:30 p. m. June 8 in the Palm Room, city hall. Mrs. Helen Boninger, executive secretary of Hutchinson County's chapter, will speak on water safety, the local chapter's project for the summer months.

Ross Buzzard, president, advised that the meeting is open to all Red Cross members, the public, and anyone interested in water safety.

During the meeting, the nominating committee will present a slate of candidates and officers for the coming year will be elected.

The committee in charge of arranging for the meeting was composed of Mrs. Jack Foster, Ed Myatt, and Jimmy McCune.

Homer Craig, Junior Red Cross chairman, reported that Bobbie Carolyn Wainwright of Lefors, and Jerry Sloan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sloan, west of city, have been selected to attend the Junior Red Cross camp in Morrilton, Ark., from June 8 through June 16.

Mrs. Sholwell reported that six first aid classes were held in April, the highest number in any month.

The program was on service groups, with Mrs. Harry Hoyler in charge. She told of the work of the Gray Ladies, staff aids, and canteen workers. She requested the board accept as a project the supplying of layettes to veterans wives in Veterans Administration hospitals. The board accepted the project and will furnish the material. Volunteers will be recruited to make the layettes, Mrs. Sholwell stated.

Public Schools Calendar Read To Board Members

Pampa school board members today were looking more than a year into the future.

Monday night, they approved the Pampa public schools calendar for 1954-55, which shows that the school year will end May 27, 1955. Registration of students will get underway Aug. 31 and the Christmas holidays will run from Dec. 23 till Jan. 3, according to the schedule drawn up by Pampa Schools Superintendent Knox Kinard and presented to board members.

There will be six school holidays: Labor Day (Sept. 6), Business-Industry-Education Day (Oct. 11), Thanksgiving (Nov. 25-26), Christmas, Northwest Conference for Education (March 31) and Easter (April 8-11).

Board members decided to foot one-third of the cost of paving Crocker street, the short block adjacent to Horace Mann School, between Banks and Faulkner. City officials had indicated they would like the school system to pay the entire cost of the project but Board Members E. L. (Gene) Green Jr. and Aubrey Steele were against it. Estimated cost: $125-$150.

Leslie Hart, local insurance man, was on hand to explain the 20-percent hike in hospitalization insurance for school teachers. The school board pays $1 on each policy. Reason for the increase this year, Hart said, was the increased use of the hospital. The board okayed the hike, subject to action by the teachers' insurance committee.

An Amarillo man offered to buy an old Pampa school bus for $150. But board members decided it was not economical and turned down the bid.

Ray McKernan, it was announced, will be the fourth member of the school's board of equalization, which has already convened. A total of $5,927.11 in monthly bills was approved. Only Board Member Rex Rhee was absent for the first session of the board in a month.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Hollywood and Grapevine: The Zsa Zsa Gabor-Portillo Rubirosa public circus, it now can be told, had an innocent victim—Francisco, Miss Zsa's daughter, by Conrad Hilton.

Ingrid Bergman, who knows a good public relations stunt when she sees one, has waxed a 15-minute interview for the Armed Forces Network in Italy. The interview will be released free of charge to all U.S. radio stations.

Roland Kibbee's foreword to the screenplay, "Moll Flanders," starring Vanessa Brown, may bring up the alert signal in the Motion Picture censor office. It reads: "Daniel Defoe wrote two famous novels. One about a 17th-century Englishman called Robinson Crusoe, who had a man, Friday. The other about a 17th-century Englishwoman called 'Moll Flanders,' who had a man every day."

It's crystal clear now why Farley Granger has been working out a song-and-dance man with New York coaches. He's just about to sign aboard as Dorothy Dandridge's costar in the Highland Park (Ill.) Music Circus production of "Snow Boat," opening in late July. He'll play Gaylord Ravenal opposite Dorothy's tragic Julie.

Civilized Hollywood Dept.: Lana Turner and new mate, Lex Barker, dropped in at the Luau, operated by Lana's ex, Steve Crane, and brought Steve's daughter, Cheryl, along. Everything was comfy-cozy between husband No. 2 and husband No. 4.

The next Martin-Lewis Comedy Hour show will feature a comic named Artie Dann. The story behind his appearance is that Jerry Lewis is repaying a 12-year-old debt. Artie was the first to recognize Jerry's talents when he was a 17-year-old stripling, working in a Baltimore night club.

Rita Hayworth's money demands from Aly Khan must be on his mind. With Gene Tierney when she took an archery lesson for "The Egyptian" from Carl Pitz. Aly shot a couple of arrows. One landed in the red bull's-eye and he quipped: "That's one place I don't mind being in the red."

Two caty movie queens were at a Hollywood movie parlor when a former child actress who is fighting maturity walked in for the works. "Ah," said one feline beauty. "A permanent wave for a permanent wave."

Now it's Elizabeth Scott signed, sealed and just about to be delivered as a TV star in a series titled, "High Adventure." She'll play a gal photo-reporter on a roving assignment for a national magazine.

Designer Jean Louis, who whipped up Marlene Dietrich's picture-window front at Las Vegas, has a line of duds on the wholesale market. Marlene wears the peek-a-boo gown again next month when she stars in a Paris night club. In Paris she'll probably be accused of overdressing.

Excellent star Reginald Denny is headed for a fortune with a new robot plane invention. He's making an acting comeback in a new Hal Roach, Jr. TV series, "Allas Mike Hercules."

Now that Marilyn Monroe is feuding to work, she will be gaily down smiling when Joe DiMaggio and Natasha Lyless, her drama coach, meet face to face. Natasha says she's prepared to get along with Marilyn's hubby the way mustard gets along with hot dogs. She's denying Movietown rumors that there's no love lost between her and Joe.

Citrus Crop Forecast Down

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The Agriculture Department Monday forecast smaller orange and grapefruit crops for 1953-54 than it did a month ago.

The forecast for a 122,700,000 box orange crop was down 7,000 boxes from the April estimate, and the grapefruit forecast was down 200,000 boxes to 45,220,000.

The USDA estimated some 37 million boxes of oranges remained to be harvested on May 1, compared with 45 million at that date in 1953. But it said 7 million boxes of grapefruit were unharvested, compared with 3.4 million a year ago.

The Texas orange crop was estimated at 900,000 boxes. The national estimate was for a 2 per cent larger crop than in 1953-53, and one-sixth of one per cent above average.

The Texas grapefruit crop was estimated at 1.3 million boxes. The national estimate was 18 per cent larger than a year ago, but for a crop 12 per cent smaller than average.

Doctors Note Rise in Cases Of Hepatitis

The number of cases of "infectious hepatitis," a virus infection which literally means "infectious inflammation of the liver," are substantially increasing over the number reported for the same time period last year, says Health Department Epidemiologist Dr. Gordon Grace.

Over 800 cases of the illness have been reported by private physicians so far this year. Occurring occasionally all year long, but subsiding somewhat during the summer, the disease is believed by most medical authorities to be spread by person to person contact through nose and throat discharges, pointed out Dr. Grace, although a number of cases have been traced to contaminated food and water.

Tests cannot be conducted on experimental animals, and the virus cannot be "cultured" or grown in a laboratory. Characteristics of the disease are a flu-like onset with a low-grade fever of 99-101 degrees for two or three days, tenderness in the liver area, and lack of appetite; after which the skin turns yellow, fever returns and the liver area is sore and tender.

Temporary immunity can be gained by gamma globulin in the proper dosage, Grace said. Dr. Grace commented that an outbreak in a community usually lasts two or three months. He said the best defense against the virus is scrupulous personal hygiene and good environmental sanitation.

Poll Taker Has Ready Answer In Case He's Asked

WASHINGTON, May 11.—UP—What's new around Washington: Bill Keull works in the mechanical department of the Washington Post and Times Herald. For years he has set type for a syndicated public opinion poll. But no pollster ever asked his opinion about any public issue. He got in the habit, however, of having an answer ready in case one did. For example he was set, if asked, to state an opinion about the Army-McCarthy wrangle. So what happens? The telephone rings and it's a pollster with a question. What did Bill think about Indo-China? What with having boned up on the wrong subject and being flabbergasted anyway at being polled at long last, all Bill could say was, "no opinion."

Picked from weekly congressional news letters: Rep. William L. Burdick of the North Dakota Republican, allows that the "ordinary businessman" has so many government reports to make out that he has little time to attend to his own business. Rep. William H. Harrison of Wyoming borrowed from a column, not the observation that, "there is no chance of sending American troops into Indo-China for a couple of months, all of the officers are tied up as witnesses in the McCarthy hearings."

Now even the cameramen are shouting "down in front!" at cameramen. News photographers have always had to scurry around and get in other people's way on occasion to do their work. But not till TV came along did members of their own craft assault them with the familiar about it happens often at the Army-McCarthy hearings. The TV cameramen seem to feel that rear exposures of their stillphoto colleagues aren't what the customers want to see.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), who presides at the hearings, sides with the TV photos. He said he'd get a lot of mail from country viewers objecting that the still photographers were getting in the way of the TV pictures. So he told the still men to kneel or sit on the floor while taking their shots.

That had nothing to do, of course with the incident of the spilled water. A photographer handing Mundt a picture hit a glass with

Two-Country Bracero Talks Get Underway NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico, May 11.—UP—A three-day conference between officials of the American Federation of Labor, Congress of Industrial Organizations and the Confederacion de Trabajadores de Mexico began Tuesday.

The meeting stemmed from an inter-American conference of labor unions held last December in Mexico City. The earlier session was held while the United States and Mexico were negotiating a renewal of their international migrant labor agreement, under which thousands of Mexican braceros come to the United States under contract each year, mostly for farm work.

The AFL-CIO-CTM meeting was expected to deal chiefly with the contracting of Mexican nationals and the bracero question in general, as well as with other labor problems common to both countries.

Waco Recalls '53 Tornado

WACO, Tex., May 11.—UP—A black thundercloud, embroidered with jagged bolts of lightning, rolled up Tuesday night (two weeks ago) while the Waco baseball club was playing Tyler in Katy Park.

The game was in the first half of the seventh inning and Waco was leading, 10 to 0. But as soon as spectators, players and umpires saw the cloud, they forgot the game.

Everybody took off so quickly and so unanimously that the lights in the park were left burning. Nobody came back later, either, but since the game had gone as far as it had, Waco was declared the winner.

That is how fresh the memory of the great tornado of 1953 is among Waco's citizens on its first anniversary Tuesday. They have a 27-year-old holdup suspect, who escaped from a Los Angeles courtroom to visit his minister father in Baton Rouge, La., was arrested when he returned here to "apologize" to the judge.

The suspect, Melvin J. McCrory, was seized by sheriff's deputies Monday as he waited in the hall of records to "apologize" to superior Judge Burdette J. Daniels, from whose court he escaped April 2.

McCrory escaped by filing through his handcuffs with a broken razor blade after pleading guilty to a series of liquor store and meat market robberies along with a companion, David Clarence Olliver Jr.

The suspect said he intended to surrender following his escape, which he said, was prompted by a desire to take care of business matters in Baton Rouge and to visit his father, a minister.

No Profiteering

Some people seem to be surprised that there is a wide difference between the per-pound value of a steer on the hoof — and price charged for beef in the butcher shop.

A business letter which is published by the National City Bank of New York recently gave a graphic explanation for that difference. It said: "Several years ago, when the federal government was having its troubles getting rid of a mountain of potatoes it had bought up to support the price, it offered to give the New York City Welfare Department a substantial part of its stock free, if the department would come and get it. The city found it couldn't afford the potatoes even as a gift. Freight, packaging, storage and other expenses were too much. As the Wall Street Journal remarked at the time, 'Maybe the poor middleman is worthy of hire after all.'"

"The same principle goes for beef. On the hoof it is not the same as sirloin steak on the table, any more than a potato in the patch is the same as 'French-fries' or a steel ingot the same as an automobile."

The letter also printed some statistics of record which thoroughly dispute the idea that the spread in meat values between farm and store is largely due to the packers' profits. Over a 10-year period, 1943-52, the packers' return on their net assets was about half of that earned by manufacturing industry as a whole. In that same period, they had an annual average profit of less than one cent on each dollar of sales. This simply bears out what the Department of Agriculture found in the investigation it made last fall — that there was no profiteering among the packers, wholesalers or retailers of meat.

Oil Observation

To the oil men, one of the most important words in the language is "conservation." And it means a great many diverse things.

In a plant, for instance, it means taking care of the equipment and watching for leaks in pipe lines. In the oil fields themselves, it may mean pumping gas or water into underground formations to increase the flow. In the laboratory, it means more efficient processes for making oil products.

In its full, over-all sense, conservation means the least wasteful withdrawal of the oil nature created — and the greatest possible use of every gallon produced. And here the American oil industry has done a superb job. As a typical example, gasoline has been so improved that two gallons now do what required three in 1925. Another example is found in what has been done with gases that formerly were wasted. These are now being converted into valuable chemicals which supply raw materials for plastics, synthetic rubber, insecticides and thousands of other products.

What has been conservation's principal achievement? One fact, indicates the answer: Our oil consumption has soared, reaching heights that would have seemed inconceivable even a few years ago. Yet our proven reserves are at an all-time high.

Mrs. FDR Speaks

Fanciers of slick, evasive political talk had an unusually luscious treat when Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt appeared on a recent "Meet the Press" television show.

The widow of the only four-term President in U. S. history took the customary cracks at Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, (R-Wis.), thereby building Joe up a little more. She shrugged off son Jimmy's troubles with the Democratic National Committee, and was coy and kittenish when asked if she would support son F. D. R. Jr. for governor of New York.

But Mrs. R's prime performance arrived when the subject of the domestic Communists came up for discussion. For one thing, she didn't think "so many" Reds had wriggled into key government positions when the New and Fair Dealers were in power in Washington.

For another — hold your hat, now — Mme. Eleanor felt that Communism should be curbed when it is dangerous, but that it hadn't been dangerous when the United States was allied with Soviet Russia in World War II.

During that time, both hometown and foreign Reds had virtually the run of official Washington. They were able to expand and multiply the spy rings which they had previously set up there. The spies could and did ship the Kremlin in manner of U. S. military secrets, atomic included.

If the Reds weren't a threat in that period to everything the United States is and stands for, then a ticking time bomb isn't dangerous until the instant it explodes.

How ridiculous can you get . . . and what piece of U. S. history will Mrs. Roosevelt try to rewrite next?

BETTER JOBS

By A. C. HOILES

Welfare Director Has Impossible Job

I listened recently to a man who has been a Director of Welfare in the county for 16 years. He was troubled. He sees how the cost of welfare has increased and how it has a tendency to demoralize many of the recipients.

He pointed out that social security to the needy children had increased from 1838 to 1954 by over 13 times. He realizes that the government is not taking in enough to take care of the social security program when the young people get old enough to receive payments. While he recognizes that there is something harmful in the so-called "social security," he does not really see the primary evil in the whole program. Of course welfare departments attract men to administer them who do not really understand what it causes prosperity and what improves the character of citizens, and who also believe in a double standard of right. If they believed in a single standard they would not be directors of welfare.

This man when he was asked what the function of the state is, said that it was to protect men's lives and property and to take care of the destitute. When a government begins to try to do for people what they ought to do for themselves on a voluntary basis, it is violating the moral laws that develop character and create prosperity. The old adage that men must live by the sweat of their brow is discarded and the belief that men should so live that when they get in trouble and are needy that someone will want to voluntarily help them is discarded. And when this happens, the result is that the needy rapidly increase.

Commandment Covers Assistance

The aged of course should be taken care of by their children. The Commandment "Honor thy father and mother that thy days may be long upon the land that the Lord thy God giveth thee" was for the purpose of having the children honor their parents so that when they were old and needy their children would honor and support them. And of course if a man and woman had no children then they should accumulate something to take care of themselves in their old age. And they also should so live that someone wants to help them when they get in trouble.

But when people believe that it is the duty of the state to take care of people in their old age, then the result is bound to be just what is happening. Then people believe they can spend as they go along and need not have to take care of themselves when they can't produce. Then they adopt a double standard of right and wrong. One for an individual and another for him when he has a political job. This can only lead to more and more confusion and retard the development of the individual and the accumulation of tools, which is necessary to reduce poverty.

Self-Preservation

It seems that in every case where the government attempts to have what is called "social security" and take care of the destitute and the shillies that the only protection the producers have is eventually to give the claimants pieces of money that buy less and less. And finally when the money buys practically nothing, then the recipients will have to be voluntarily taken care of by someone or they will have to go to work or they will have to perish. And history shows that there will be less people perish and less suffering from poverty when the state keeps completely out of assisting and devotes its entire energies to protecting life and property and leaving the assistance of the needy to be taken care of on a voluntary, charitable basis.

This inflation that follows government assistance, of course, works great hardship on the men with a conscience who do not want to be a charge on anyone and who have attempted to protect themselves in old age by buying life insurance or bonds. When the government attempts to take care of the needy, it is only a question of time until real money is discarded and the recipients are given irredeemable paper money. And this issuing of more and more irredeemable paper money is a form of tax even on those who are receiving pensions.

But God is not mocked, when people sow acts that violate the Golden Rule and the Commandments as does "social security" they must reap what they sow. The "social security" act is the forerunner of making the unit of money worth less and less; and as taxes by inflation go up and up, sooner or later after great suffering and injustices, citizens will again have to learn that they must live by the sweat of their brow. There is no such thing as government security.

The late Henry Link said in his great book "The Way to Security" that the best approach to security is to live in harmony with moral law. The Prophet David said: "I have been young and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread."

These truths are as old as history and they cannot be controverted by the state or by man and not suffer the consequences.

There is one thing more important than a wife who can cook and wash, and that is the wife who can't cook and wash.

National Whirligig... U. S. Prestige At New Low In Lands Where 'Face' Important

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Overenthusiastic administration guarantees against further Communist aggression are held responsible for our disastrous diplomatic defeat at Geneva, and the possibility of "another Munich" in Indo-China. Although motivated by the best intentions, the "great American bluff" had nothing behind it, and was called by Russian and Chinese gamblers. They are skilled in the slow, patient intricacies of chess rather than the more impetuous poker. The men who engineered this dangerous and unsuccessful gamble, in order of importance, were President Eisenhower, Vice-President Nixon, Secretary Dulles, and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Too late, they discovered that neither our main Allies — Britain and France — nor the American Congress would back them up. The result was our worst diplomatic setback since Yalta.

The principals in the fiasco recognized these facts in recent analyses of Geneva and Indo-China possibilities with key members of Congress. They have had a hard lesson in the evils of headstrong diplomacy. In the current attempt to retrieve these blunders, they will proceed more carefully in order to contain the Reds' plan to conquer Southeast Asia and India, and to drive the western powers out of the Far East. A battle has been lost, but not the war.

DULLES TO MOVE MORE CAUTIOUSLY

Dulles is now building up the address in which he warned of "massive retaliation," implying that we would make atomic attacks on Russian and Chinese cities instead of stamping out scattered brush fires in Korea and Southeast Asia. He coupled this statement with a call for "united action" and a Pacific NATO.

As noted here at the time, he did not consult Capitol Hill, London or Paris before he issued this ultimatum. The British and French expressed alarm lest they be caught in the middle, especially as Malenkov accepted the Dulles challenge to atomic battle. London and Paris turned down the pact because (1) it might provoke World War III and (2) it would prejudice any chance of a peaceful compromise at Geneva.

Fair Enough...

Truman's Attitude Toward FBI Revealed In A Recent Request

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.) NEW YORK — Harry Truman has called the attention of his old friend, Max Lowenthal, to an article in Harper's blasting the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He suggested that Lowenthal read the story done by Alan Barth, described as a member of the editorial staff of the Washington Post which sympathized with Truman's plain implications of treason.

Truman asked Lowenthal for his opinion of the story and offered to write his for Lowenthal. Lowenthal is the Washington lawyer who outfoxed the House Committee on Un-American Activities and managed to refrain from naming private forces which brought about his selection to go to Germany as an "advisor" soon after the victory. He has been shown up in association with the late Carol Weiss King, who specialized in Communist cases, and with other questionable characters.

Lowenthal may be remembered as the author of a book abusing the FBI which came out during Truman's presidency. The FBI doubtless does possess a " dossier" on him in view of his associations over a period of more than 30 years. Truman's prompt reminder to Lowenthal and his offer to exchange opinions of the story indicate Truman's attitude toward the FBI as he has never revealed it before.

Barth's article is a gratuitous attempt to discredit the evidence which the FBI turns up against Communists. He says that in the mid-forties, the FBI's reports were "widely discounted if not dismissed" after the review of the executive branch of the government. That seems to have been true, but the reason might have been that a government infested with traitors under the patronage of Roosevelt and Truman would have had base reasons to suppress information from the FBI and to refuse to act on it.

Barth's article is a shallow beyond belief. The whole regime of the FBI and argues that these selected items are sufficient to discredit the bureau entirely. On the other hand, he concedes that the FBI is very accurate with its information, which would mean that he has no means of knowing how substantial his reports are. Moreover, they discredit Miss Elizabeth Bentley, an informant whose work embarrassed the whole regime of the FBI and argues that these selected items are sufficient to discredit the bureau entirely.

Oilers Return For 6-Day Homestand

Hariston Top Oiler Batsman; Gaines Leads Moundsmen

The Pampa Oilers return home tonight to open a 6-day homestand with the Albuquerque Dukes moving in for a two-game series.

The Dukes will be followed by Abilene Thursday and Friday and the Plainview Ponies Saturday and Sunday.

The Oilers were weathered out last night in their road finale at Plainview. The Lewistown team wound up their first road trip into the southern end of the league with a 3-2 record.

After splitting a series with Lubbock to open the just completed road trip, the Oilers swept a two-game series from Abilene and lost the only game played with Plainview. All games scheduled in the West Texas-New Mexico League last night were rained out.

Tonight's game will likely be postponed because of cold temperatures and wet grounds. However, if the sun came out this afternoon it may dry the field enough to play. But at noon today the clouds still hovered over the city.

In the event tonight's game is played, Jonas Gaines is the probable Oiler starter. Gaines has a perfect record to date, 3-0. Starting time for the game will be 8:15.

Dick Hariston, who joined the Oilers a few days after the season opened, is leading the Oiler regulars with a lousy .417 average. Hariston has hit safely 18 times in 43 official trips.

Eddie Daniels, who is the second leading Oiler regular with a .343 average, leads the Oilers in runs with 19. Curtis Hardaway has the most hits, homeruns and runs-batted-in. The Oiler third sacker has the combined safety 24 times, has hit five homeruns and has batted in 22 runs.

Gaines' 3-0 record tops the Oiler moundsmen.

Following is the Oiler batting and pitching averages:

Long Cane . . .

New Eye For The Sightless

By KENNETH O. GILMORE
 WASHINGTON (NEA)—Blind veterans are now being taught to use a special long cane in their Hospital in Hines, Ill., is performing miracles with this revolutionary method of aiding sightless veterans.

 For centuries the blind have stumbled along with an ordinary short cane which they used in an attempt to hide their handicap. The modern long cane does not do such thing, for its sole purpose is to guide and guard.
 Dr. R. E. Hoover, eye surgeon at Johns Hopkins' Wilmer Institute and consultant to the VA, originated the idea of a long cane 10 years ago while stationed at the Valley Forge Army Hospital. Hoover devoted long hours to the project and often blindfolded himself to fully understand the problem.

The orientation program a blind person has to go through before he can master the use of the long cane is not easy.

Take the case of Lloyd H. Greenwood, one of the 300 veterans who have had the chance to learn the process. As an officer in the Army Air Force he lost his sight when wounded on a mission over Vienna. In 1945 he became a patient at Valley Forge and while there was introduced to the long cane.

In three months, Greenwood was able to walk around on his own. Soon after he came to Washington to become Executive Director of the Blinded Veterans Association. For six years he devoted time and effort to the cause of blinded veterans. Today he is a freelance writer.

When the VA wanted to make a documentary film about the long cane they called on Greenwood. He agreed and went to Hines to play a role he had once been through himself.

IN BUSY CHICAGO LOOP, blind veteran Lloyd H. Greenwood plays role of a veteran named McCabe as he threads his way through crowds for VA film showing use of "The Long Cane."

Chicago. No one at Hines looks forward to this ordeal, for walking in the confusion and rush of the city presents the toughest conditions imaginable. A veteran who can successfully cope with Chicago is ready to leave Hines and resume a normal life.

The greatest problem for McCabe, as with all veterans, came in gaining confidence in his ability to use the cane. An instructor always stayed close by as he struggled with new and harder situations. The last stage of McCabe's orientation took place in the Loop in

Not Bad For One Afternoon . . . Determine's Owner Picked Up Quarter Million In Two Races

By HENRY McLEMORE
 I am in the market for a horse suit. By "horse suit" I mean an outfit that will make me resemble a horse.

I want this suit so I can walk by the automobile agency in Alhambra, California, that is owned by Andy Crevoilin. The moment Mr. Crevoilin sees me he will buy me, give me a bag of oats, walk me around his place of business, turn me out to pasture, pat my nose and tell me that I am his hope in the next Kentucky Derby.

I'll win it for him, too. Can't miss. Once you are a horse, and Mr. Crevoilin says you are going to win, nothing can stop you. Mr. Crevoilin won the Kentucky Derby with a narrow little horse named Determine. Determine is a vet's delight. Just stand him near an open window where the sun is coming through, and there is no need for X-rays.

You know this, too. While Determine was shaking off the tears of joy that had been shed on his neck by his jockey, Ray York, work came that another Crevoilin horse, Imbro, had won another $100,000 race at Bay Meadows.

The only other way Mr. Crevoilin could make money that fast would be to be a counterfeiter, with a set of plates under the dining room table. I am not scared of money, probably because it never looked me in the face, and threatened to harm me, but almost a quarter million dollars in a couple of hours is fast earning. York got 10 per cent for riding Determine. So did Longden for being in the Irons on Imbro. A horse has never been given a penny — and that goes for all the winning horses from Big Red on down.

Here's my scheme. Get that horse suit I mentioned, get bought by Mr. Crevoilin, and this is most important — tell him when I walk on the track that either he puts up or his silks don't come down the stretch.

Conversation would probably run like this:
 Mr. Crevoilin: Stay off the pace, but be ready to move in the turn for home.
 Me: Show your dough.
 Me: Show your dough.

Me: How much? Count it for me. After all, I'm only a horse. Really, Mr. Crevoilin is an amazing man with horses. You would have to get sixteen adding machines, all willing to work overtime, to count the money that men have spent trying to win a Derby. So Andy comes in with two hundred granders in one afternoon. He must have the touch. As for my horse suit — in case you are going to make it for me — following are my stats:

 Fetlock: Thin, but well turned.
 Mane: Flowing, not braided, and pasted on the right side.
 Withers: Dark blue, with a single button.
 Ears: Large but sensitive.
 Chest: No colds, please.
 Hooves: Size 8-1/2, leather heels, dark polish.
 Muzzle: Sardonic grin.
 Eyes: Green, shot with magenta.
 Color of coat: Calico.
 Name (most be no more than 13 letters): Phoebe's Hyena.
 Mr. Crevoilin, I'll see you next week — just as soon as you get through counting our money.

Dog Mauls Small Child

LOS ANGELES, May 11 —UP— A four-year-old boy was in critical condition here after being attacked and mauled viciously by a large boxer dog which bit his mother when she tried to rescue the child.

The boy, Francis Anesh, was bitten "terribly from head to toe" in the backyard of a rooming house Monday before a neighbor, William Griffin, 28, leaped a high fence and stunned the dog with a rock.

Soon after the attack, the four-year-old boxer was ordered to die within 14 days by decree of its owner, Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, manager of the rooming house where the attack occurred.

The victim was in critical condition at Children's Hospital following more than three hours of emergency surgery for multiple lacerations of the head, face, abdomen, arms and legs.

The mother, Mrs. Mary Anesh, 21, was hospitalized for several bites on her arms, legs and body which she suffered in trying to pull her son free from the snarling animal.

 When the boxer pounced upon the victim, another woman, Mrs. Margy Douras, 23, seized her own one-year-old son and a 1-2-year-old neighbor girl and fled indoors to safety.

Mrs. Jones said her dog had never attacked anyone before, but took the animal to a veterinarian where she said "I ordered them to put him away."

Renegade Scout

PASADENA, Calif., May 11 —UP— Boy Scout leader Kenneth M. Chessman literally taught his small fry disciples that there is more to starting a fire than just rubbing two sticks together.

Police said Chessman admitted burning down the Boy Scout headquarters here because his efforts toward scouting "weren't appreciated."

Lawless, prominent Alabama Negro physician, was named Monday to the executive committee of "For America," a new anti-internationalist political organization. Lawless is board chairman of Talladega College at Talladega, Ala. The new organization was founded last Friday by prominent businessmen and public figures. It plans to wage a "nationalist" campaign in the coming congressional elections.

Summer Rec Program Gets Final Polish

Homer Craig and his corps of associates in the Pampa recreation program for youngsters 8-15 today were making final plans for summer activities. Offered and financed by the City of Pampa, the program is scheduled to begin June 16 and run through July 30.

The first oil pool of any importance in Michigan was located near Port Huron about 1856.

Extortionist Arrested At Scene Of Payoff

DALLAS, May 11 —UP—The FBI arrested an alleged extortionist Monday night at the spot where a $200,000 payoff had been ordered to save the lives of 20 Dallas business and civic leaders.

Mumford said 19 Dallas men got identical letters on April 29, ordering them to pay $10,000 each or die. All were Jews, as was the 20th, Julius Schepps, who was named as the spokesman.

Up to now, the Federal Power Commission has insisted on the fullest possible development of waterpower on any river. It has denied applications for, say 100-foot dams if they were inadequate for power, navigation and flood control.

This law was passed in 1920, when all thinking about dams and hydroelectric power was in terms of single rivers and projects. Today the thinking is in terms of basins, like the vast Missouri.

A practically unused section 7-b of the Water Power Act specifies that "Whenever in the judgment of the Commission the development of any resources for public purposes should be undertaken by the U.S. itself, the Commission shall not approve any application for any project affecting such development, but it shall submit its findings to Congress with such recommendations as it may find appropriate concerning such development."

This section 7-b was used by the FPC in recommending that the New York State Power Authority develop the St. Lawrence River. The application of private power companies for this license was turned down. The issue is whether that will set a precedent for the Hells Canyon case.

Disney Plans Great Show For TV Debut

Editor's Note—Walt Disney has announced construction of "Disneyland," a world's fair for children, and his advent into television. In a series of two exclusive interviews, the famed cartoonist reveals details of the two projects.

As the creator of Mickey Mouse has announced, he begins a one-hour weekly television program this fall for ABC-TV. As part of the deal, ABC-Paramount theaters and other backers are helping him build a fabulous children's park at nearby Anaheim.

Meantime Disney is preparing the first season's shows at his Burbank studio in the biggest deal between a major movie-maker and TV.

Hal Adlequist, TV chief at the studio, explained that the program, like the amusement park, will be divided into four sections. One week a science-fiction story will be filmed for "Land of Tomorrow" program. Next week the life of some American hero will make up the "Frontierland" program.

Nearly everything at the huge park, including a huge paddleboard river boat that will run on a little lake, will be built at the studio.

Recently Disney built stage-coaches that will grace a 1910-style street at Disneyland.

"The land cost $1 million and getting that was the toughest job," said Disney. "The Stanford Research Institute surveyed the area and selected Anaheim as best. We found one tract there but when people found out what it was for, the price went up. So we found another section. We had to contact 15 owners, as far away as Ohio, to buy the land."

SOMEONE MUST BE FIRST—Along the coast of Cornwall near St. Ives, England, a large seagull swoops down on a daring young girl to get a bite to eat. Other gulls hover in the background, waiting to see outcome of the transaction before following suit.

Crash Net Saves Life

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 11 —UP—An experimental crash barrier which "catches" planes over-shooting the runway at nearby Nellis Air Force Base was credited Tuesday with saving the life of a third pilot.

Air Force officers said 2nd Lt. Donald A. Froelicher, 21, of Des Plaines, Ill., was saved from crashing Monday when his F-86 Sabrejet hit the maze of cables, wires and chains at 160 miles an hour.

Oil is now produced commercially in at least 39 counties in Michigan's southern peninsula.

PUTTING ON THE SQUEEZE—Opera star Lily Pons seems to be straining for a high note as conductor Max Rudolph pulls on her corset strings. In Atlanta, Ga., for a performance of "Lucia," she was persuaded to try on the corset and pantaloons worn by Vivian Leigh in "Gone With the Wind."

Dam Lawyers' Battle Is One For The Books — Of Testimony

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Having reached Vol. No. 115, page 13-14, the Federal Power Commission Examiner's hearings are now in recess on the Idaho Power Co. application to build three low dams in Hells Canyon of the Snake River, on the Idaho-Oregon line.

The present 60-day recess until May 7 was granted to permit the opponents of the Idaho Power Co. application to prepare their case. These opponents favor the erection of one high dam. They want it to be built by the U.S. government, in place of the three-dam proposal in early March.

Chief counsel for the Idaho Power Co. is R. P. "Pat" Parry, an experienced corporation lawyer, who completed his presentation for the three-dam proposal in early March.

Chief counsel for the high-dam cause is C. Girard Davidson, former undersecretary of Interior. But day-to-day handling of the case has been left to Mrs. Evelyn Cooper, a soft-spoken, red-headed lady lawyer, who has added a touch of color to this otherwise long-drawn-out and often dull hearing. It is, incidentally, one of the biggest cases to be handled by a woman attorney in Washington.

Mrs. Cooper had originally asked for a 60-day recess to prepare her case. Examiner William J. Costello gave her 30 days. Mrs. Cooper appealed over his head to the FPC for her full 60 days, and got it.

The FPC technical and engineering staff, Army Corps of Engineers, Bureau of Reclamation, Department of Agriculture, Bonneville Power Administration, and other private engineering consultants have all prepared voluminous material on this case.

Americanization Class To Conclude Spring Meetings

The Lions club-sponsored Americanization class for future citizens, will have its final spring meeting Friday at 2 p.m., according to Homer Craig, course instructor. Classes will resume again this fall, Craig said, with stepped-up instruction to enable members to be eligible for citizenship tests in February.

Fourteen persons have been enrolled in the course since its inception late in 1953. Some kind of picnic or outing party be held between the time classes end Friday and their resumption this fall, Craig concluded. The class meets at the Sam Houston school.

Brain Test Slated For Doomed Man

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., May 11 —UP—Superior Judge Thomas F. Keating has ordered a psychiatric examination and a "brain test" for Cyril Chessman, 32-year-old convict author slated for execution this Friday.

Judge Keating signed the order for the examination and an electroencephalogram Monday after Chessman's attorney, Berwyn A. Rice, submitted an affidavit suggesting Chessman suffered brain damage because of encephalitis.

Rice said Dr. Samuel Anderson, a San Rafael psychiatrist, would probably examine Chessman sometime Tuesday.
