Bricker Plan Enters Final 'Showdown'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — UP—The Senate headed for a showdown Friday in its month-long battle over the Bricker amendment to limit presidential treaty-making powers.

Leaders of both parties predicted a final settlement of the "great debate" would occur before nightfall. But there were few predictions on the outcome.

Under consideration as debate entered its final stage was a substitute proposal by Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.). It looked as the only proposal with an outside chance of obtaining the two-thirds vote required for passage of a constitutional amendment.

George's proposal would prohibit international agreements — as distinguished from treaties — from becoming effective as domestic law without legislation by both House and Senate. It does not go as far as a proposal by Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) which the Senate rejected, 50 to 42, Thursday.

Other developments:

Democrats said they would push ahead in their drive to boost income exemptions this year despite strong opposition from the administration. Treasury Secretary George J. Humphrey said Thursday "blanket" increases in the present $600 exemption would "throw us back into substantial deficit financing."

Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland faced a tough if not impossible selling job to get fellow Republicans to vote for the total loss. However, Fire Chief Ernest Winborne refused to comment on the rating drop late this morning as he has not yet received any notification of it.

The ratings, which go into effect April 1, were based on city fire records during the last five years. A board spokesman said the list was subject to changes which might be announced later.

Pampa Fire Rating Is Lowered

A new fire insurance rating for Pampa, Tex., has been lowered from a five percent increase to a five percent decrease. The drop is believed to be partly due to the $70,000 fire in Pampa Sept. 14, 1953, when five stores on the north side of the 100 block on West Kingsmill burned.

Three of the stores were a total loss. However, Fire Chief Ernest Winborne refused to comment on the rating drop late this morning as he has not yet received any notification of it.

Soil Agents To Meet Today

The board of supervisors of the Gray County Soil Conservation District will hold their regular monthly meeting in the Soil Conservation Service office here at 2 p.m. today, it was announced this morning by Homer Abbott, McLean chairman.

Only routine business matters were on the agenda, he said.

Susan Hayward Seeks Custody Of Twin Sons In Divorce Suit

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26 — UP—Movie actress Susan Hayward, who said her husband threw her into their swimming pool nude during a spat, Friday asked custody of their twin sons and court protection from her spouse.

By mutual agreement Miss Hayward's requests were placed under submission, or submitted to consideration and arbitration by superior court, which is also considering a divorce action.

Miss Hayward testified at a preliminary divorce hearing Thursday that her husband, Jess Barker, had her "in fear of her life" last July when he allegedly threw her into the swimming pool, spanked her and held her head under water.

Barker's lawyer, S. S. Hahn, asked the actor if "there had been a change" in his children's attitude after Barker separated from his wife.

"They've been quite silent toward me," he said.

"They did tell me that a man... called at the house to see their mother and had been introduced to them as 'Mr. Magic'."

"I asked who the man was and they told me his name was Howard Hughes (millionaire head of RKO Pictures Inc.). But they told me their mother had said they mustn't tell me his name," Barker said.

Miss Hayward admitted Hughes had been to her home, but denied she told the children to keep it a secret from their father.

Democrats Push Tax Exemptions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — UP—Democrats declared Friday they are going full speed ahead with their drive to boost income tax exemptions despite the administration's strong opposition.

Treasury Secretary George J. Humphrey announced Thursday night that the administration "will vigorously oppose a blanket increase" in exemptions because they would "throw us back into substantial deficit financing."

But Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.) and Rep. John W. McCornack, assistant House Democratic leader, said the Democrats will not backwater on their demands that exemptions for individual taxpayers and dependents be raised from $600 to at least $700.

Humphrey's statement, which was understood to have been "cleared" with the White House, declared that the administration's tax program "has not been changed." This calls for tax reforms totaling about $1,250,000,000.

But rules out any general tax cuts while the country is running in the red.

A high-ranking Republican said Mr. Eisenhower will take the GOP case against an increase to the people soon in a radio-television appearance.

George, senior Democrat on the Senate Finance committee, was expected in a major speech at the National Press club Friday to plump for his proposal to boost exemptions to $800 this year and to $1,000 later on.

He said he disagrees with the administration plan. "I think the other way is the best approach now," he said.

Japs Warned To Accent Air Power

TOKYO, Feb. 26 — UP—Gen. O. P. Weyland, commander of the U.S. Far East Air Force, advised Red Korea to give top priority to air defense to meet the "serious and immediate threat" posed by Communist air power.

He said in an exclusive interview that Russia, Communist China and Red Korea have "upward of 4,500 planes" based in striking distance of Japan, making possible a full-scale attack with little or no warning.

Only one tenth of the Japanese government's proposed defense budget for 1954-55 is earmarked for its embryonic air force, built largely around training planes to be lent by the United States.

A ground force of 110,000 men already exists and will be expanded this year to 138,000. The present Coast Guard - type navy will be nearly doubled in tonnage under the proposed budget.

California Bans Texas Cattle

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 26 — UP—The State of California has extended its ban on unrestricted importation of cattle to include shipments from Texas.

The State Department of Agriculture took action after learning of cattle which disease found in a shipment of Texas cattle that arrived in California.

Earlier, the department banned importation of cattle from Colorado and Arizona for the same reason.

The State Bureau of Livestock Disease Control must now approve in advance cattle importations from the three states. The shipments must be accompanied by a health certificate from the state of origin.

Stevens Happy Over Backing By President

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — UP—Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens was reported "jubilant" Friday over the "100 per cent" backing President Eisenhower gave him in his feud with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy over treatment of Army witnesses before the Wisconsin Republican's investigating committee.

However, this development did little to settle the battle of words.

McCarthy lashed back with a charged that Stevens had made a "completely false" statement in reporting he had received assurances Wednesday from members of McCarthy's investigating subcommittee that they would not permit "abuse" of officer witnesses in the "future."

Stevens remained silent on McCarthy's latest charge. A high administration source revealed the embattled secretary feels he won his fight last Thursday when Mr. Eisenhower endorsed his declaration "never to accede" to Army officers being "browbeaten or humiliated" by McCarthy.

This pledge, which Stevens delivered from the White House, came as a dramatic climax in the secretary's dispute with McCarthy.

It put a large dent in the "complete accord" announced between the two men only the day before.

Even war prisoners who survived Communist torture don't know the breaking point of the human spirit and mind.

The question was involved Friday in a Marine court of inquiry against Col. Frank H. Schwabe from whom Communist captors wrung a false "confession" of germ warfare in Korea.

Schwabe, 45-year-old flyer, pictured himself as "dull, mentally stupid and thoroughly exhausted" after four months of humiliation and degradation, fear and intimidation and mind poisoning aimed at instilling a false sense of personal and national guilt.

Parr Records Ordered Held

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Feb. 26 — UP—A federal judge Friday extended for 90 days a temporary injunction preventing two banks controlled by political boss George Parr from destroying their records.

Judge James V. Allred took the action after a hearing that lasted only five minutes. The banks did not contest the extension of the injunction.

Internal revenue agents reported that records of the Texas State Bank and the San Diego State Bank at San Diego have disappeared almost under their noses. Texas Rangers have been standing guard outside the banks since the temporary injunction was granted.

The injunction was asked by the Internal Revenue Service. Parr, who is president of both banks, was subpoenaed for Friday's hearing in Corpus Christi along with other bank officials.

Mild Dust Blow Seen

DUST was blowing over West Texas again Friday, but the weather forecasters said the storm should be a mild one.

Winds were not expected to exceed 30 or 35 miles an hour.

The only dust early Friday was in the El Paso area, but the forecast called for increasing southerly winds in the afternoon, bringing more dust to the West Texas and High Plains areas.

Little of the grime, however, was expected to spread to other parts of the state.

Most of Texas was clear and temperatures were mild Friday.

Police Hold Boy In Stengel Theft

GLENDALE, Calif., Feb. 26 — UP—A 14-year-old boy was held Friday charged with the theft of $17,800 worth of furs stolen from Mrs. Casey Stengel, wife of the New York Yankees' manager.

Police said they arrested the youth Thursday after his fingerprints were found at the scene. He admitted the theft, officers said.

Meanwhile, proceedings were underway to extradite Roger Lee Hurley, 19, of Tulung, Calif., who was arrested last week in Amarillo, Tex., with Mrs. Stengel's furs in his possession.

Stengel is in Florida.

8-Year-Old Crippled Boy Found Well In Bottomlands

OKEMAH, Okla., Feb. 26 — UP—A crippled eight-year-old boy, who cannot speak and hears very little, was found alive and well early Friday in the bottomlands of the Deep Fork River after a search in which hundreds joined.

The boy, Larry Walker, was tracked and located by several units of the Oklahoma National Guard's 180th Infantry Regiment, ordered about a mile from the point where he had been last seen by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Parr Walker, who were picking pecans.

Larry was lost for some 10 hours, from 3:30 p.m. Thursday to 1:30 a.m. in what residents called a "regular wilderness." Large trees, underbrush and tall grass are tangled together so thickly police who

Lions Minstrel Plans Added Treat For Intermission

The lights will dim and the curtain will rise at 8 p.m. Monday for the first of two performances of the show. Lions are won't to call "the biggest and best ever" Second show is slated for 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Final rehearsal will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium, Bunny Shultz, show director, announced Thursday at the weekly club meeting. Hann Lums, properties chairman, asked all Lions who could be on hand at 1 p.m. to help with outfitting the stage.

Pope Shows Improvement

VATICAN CITY, Italy, Feb. 26 — UP—Pope Pius XII ate solid food Friday for the first time since he was stricken ill with gastritis a month ago, Vatican sources said.

The fact that the pope, who has received nourishment indirectly, asked for and ate the solid food inspired an atmosphere of cautious optimism in the Vatican.

These sources reported that the pope opened a restful night and attended 7:30 a.m. mass at his private chapel.

Indians Try To Keep Privileges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — UP—A group of organized Indians went on the warpath Friday in an operation far smoother than their forebears used in forays against the white man.

The attack was against a group of pending bills, enactment of which would take away many privileges and treaty rights Indians now enjoy. The weapons were logical explanations, some impassioned pleading, and unadorned facts.

The site was a hotel room, the setting a modern day news conference. There were no tomahawks, no feathers, no interpreting. The only smoke signals were wisps from an occasional cigaret in the hands of educated Indians.

All were members of the National Congress of American Indians meeting in emergency session on pending legislation on Joseph R. Garry, a full-blooded Coeur d'Alene and president of the NCAI, said about 150 Indians representing a cross section of all Indians in the United States are here to protest the bills.

Coffee, Pork Lead Index Of Price List

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — UP—The cost of living rose close to record levels last month, led mainly by increased coffee and pork prices, the government announced Friday.

The increase came some one million workers in the automobile, aircraft, and farm equipment industries will get a one-cent hourly pay cut. That's because the rise did not reach the October level, which the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported its index of consumer prices rose 3 per cent between mid-December and mid-January. This reversed a two-month decline and put the index 3 per cent under the record level reached last October.

The million workers in the auto, aircraft, and farm equipment industries got a two-cent hourly wage hike Dec. 1 as the result of the October index, for which their wage contracts are tied.

Because the index in January did not go back up to the October level, they will lose half of that two-cent increase, effective after March 1.

The January increase resulted mainly from a 3.1 per cent increase in coffee prices due to the Brazilian supply shortage and a 6.3 per cent hike in pork prices.

The BLS said average coffee prices went from 91 1/2 cents a pound in mid-December to 94 cents in mid-January. But it noted that coffee prices since have continued to rise.

The BLS said coffee prices went up in all of the 46 cities surveyed. Together with pork price increases and smaller increases in other meats and an average 5 per cent hike in prices of fresh vegetables this pushed up food prices in all but two of the 46 cities.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 26 — UP—Police praised Harley S. Knight, 37, for driving here from Durham, N.C., to answer stolen car charges, and then learned from Durham police he had stolen another auto to make the trip.

Indo-China Combat Lulls

HANOI, Indo-China, Feb. 26 — UP—French-led forces struck at Communist positions on a 250-mile stretch of Indo-China's narrow coastal plain Friday during a temporary lull in the battle for the interior.

Clashes were reported along an arc extending from Hue to Saigon. Near the center of the line, French columns were grouping for a possible attack on the Red-held port of Song Cau.

American-built B-26 bombers and B-57 fighters, flown by French airmen, blasted and struck Communist military installations between Hue and Quang Ngai, 80 miles to the south.

A few miles north of Hue, French and loyal Indo-Chinese troops annihilated a force of about 150 Reds. Fifty-one Communists were killed and 80 captured. The others fled leaving their rifles and machine-guns behind.

Executors Sign Contract For Lovett Library

Contract for construction of the Lovett Memorial Library late this morning had been signed and the contract for the building's inside furnishings and equipment had been awarded but not yet signed.

C. P. Buckler, an executor for the Fannie Lovett estate, today said that the estate executors had signed the building contract with Tri Ste Construction Company, Amarillo, whose bid was $237,900. When that state signs, it's official.

Remington-Rand Company, whose local affiliate is Ward Office Equipment Company, has been awarded the contract for all the building's inside. But Buckler said he could not yet give the bid price that executors had accepted. It's pretty much a technicality, he said.

The Fannie Lovett estate is providing the funds for the job and when it is completed it will be turned over to the Pampa City Commission. The city will then provide for the maintenance costs.

The bids were opened Tuesday afternoon by Architect B. R. Cantrell in the presence of Executives Buckler, M. K. Brown and W. Purviance. A meeting of the executors was held Wednesday afternoon at which the decision on the inside was made. Buckler said.

Remington's total bid for the inside job was $85,113 with six different alternate deductions. "I don't say how much had been deducted from that figure."

His Joke Backfires Oscar Levant Tries 'Suicide'

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26 — UP—Pianist and wit Oscar Levant was dragged out of bed to have his stomach pumped when he ran into the one thing with which he couldn't cope—the literal mind.

Levant, who tried to joke with a telephone operator and came to grief when she thought he was trying to kill himself, said Friday his only regret was that the incident "spoiled my sleep."

The musician, famed for his dry humor on the concert stage and in movies, wise-cracked to the operator early Thursday that if she couldn't get his wife on the phone "in half an hour, I'll be dead."

The operator called the police, and the joke backfired. Officers broke into Levant's home, hauled him off to jail where his stomach was pumped out, and listed him as a "possible suicide attempt."

But Levant, home recovering from the experience, insisted "I had no intent to commit suicide."

Demo Meet Is A 'First'

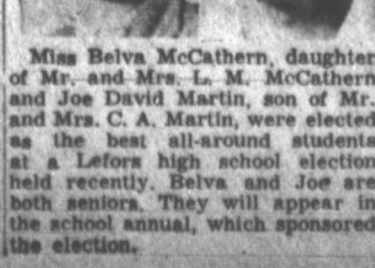

MINERAL WELLS, Tex., Feb. 26 — UP—Texas' first major political meeting of the year opened Friday when the Texas Young Democrats' two-day convention was gavelled to order.

The pattern for the meeting was set Thursday when the credentials committee approved delegates from 27 clubs, all of them evidently from the Democrats' "conservative" faction. Only one delegation, from Travis county, was protested and the committee ruled in favor of Sam Winters, who was opposed by a "liberal" group.

It appeared most liberals would ignore the meeting, although it reportedly was approved by National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell and was supported by Mrs. Hilda Weinert of Seguin, Tex. Mrs. Weinert has been an opponent of Gov. Allan Shivers, who dominated the conservative wing in party affairs.

Final Float Plans To Be Made Monday

A final decision on the type of semi-permanent float, to be used in parades throughout the Panhandle, will be made at a meeting of the Publicity and Information Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce at 10 a.m. Monday in the office of the chamber.

Several members of the committee met this morning, but due to the absence of the committee's chairman, Paul West, and Chamber Manager E. O. Wedgeworth, a decision on the type of float was postponed until Monday.

Several rough sketches of the proposed float were presented by Chuck Tucker, Cabot Shops, and Miss Gayle Herr and John Gentry, both of Celanese Corporation.

JESUS CHRIST

Golden Text: Isaiah 9:16. Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given, and the government shall be upon his shoulder.

One of the scriptural selections is from John 14:8. "Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life; so man cometh unto the Father, but by me."

The following passages from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures will be read: "Christ is the true idea voicing good, the Divine message from God to men speaking to the human consciousness, the Christ is incorporeal, spiritual, yes, the Divine Image and likeness, dispelling the illusions of the senses; the Way, the Truth, and the Life, healing the sick and casting out evil, destroying sin, disease, and death." Cruce To Leave For New Post Early Saturday

Former City Manager B. H. Cruce today was spending his last day in Pampa — preparatory to getting up early Saturday morning.

For the man who was Pampa's city manager from July 1, 1952, to Feb. 20, last Saturday — was scheduled to leave Pampa by bus at 5:35 a.m. Saturday.

And he was slated to arrive at 8:05 p.m. Saturday in Greeley, Colo., where he takes over as city manager Monday morning.

GOD'S ANTIDOTE TO FEAR - 1 John 4:18

"There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment."

"We have nothing to fear but fear itself." These words were the means of bolstering our courage in the time of national crises. This slogan was the means of encouragement to millions.

But in a measure at least we are in an age of fear. Close to us is the fear of unemployment, fear of depression, of business failure, of ill health . . . on a national and international scale is fear of war, of atomic and hydrogen bombs, of political enslavement . . . and a thousand more tormenting fears have moved in to possess us.

How different the promises of the Holy Bible. Psalms 37:25, "I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread."

Psalms 91:7, "A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee."

If we learn every lesson that life has to teach and fail to learn the truth of John 3:16, we have failed to learn life's most valued lesson.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
At 11, Agnes is a talented pianist and has already been star soloist in several local recitals. Recently, her Sunday School teacher asked her to play in a church benefit. Agnes agreed. But at first rehearsal, she discovered she was expected to perform, not as a soloist, but as accompanist to a boy cellist.

Now she refuses to appear in the benefit at all. Her family is upset. Writes her grandmother: "All the flattery has gone to the girl's head. How can we make her realize what criticism she's aroused by her poor sportsmanship?"

Why wasn't Agnes told of the conditions under which she was to perform before she was asked to promise a benefit?

And why is her family using fear of criticism to try to make her perform?

I'm not condoning her position. It would be ideal if she were willing to share applause. But right now, Agnes isn't ready to give us this ideal, self-respecting behavior. She seems to be a child who has been allowed too much interest in other people's approval of her talent.

If her family can see this, they'll stop stressing the importance of opinions, good or bad, to her. And give Agnes a little time to develop some respect herself, for musical ability.

Right now, she hasn't much. Or she would not be so scared to display it without reassurance of all the applause.

Could her family just accept her feelings, despite the disappointment of the benefit Program Committee? If we can now accept her refusal to perform without reproach, we will be intelligent. For we shall be demonstrating our own independence of what people think about us — and it is this example of integrity that Agnes needs.

It will encourage her to develop her own independence of community attention, so that she can think of her talent as a personal possession, instead of as a social institution. Then she'll begin to take a private delight in her ability to create music that public appreciation will lose its power to intoxicate her.

After that it will be easy to share star billing with boy cellists. For public applause will be merely a pleasant confirmation of her own pleasure in what she can do with a Chopin nocturne.

But to bring her to this point of self-approval, her family may have to outgrow its own anxiety over what other people think. Like Agnes, it may have to learn to say, "This is what we think."

Here's a remarkably good onion dish. It's a combination of scalloped meat and potatoes, with whole onions on top, sprinkled with grated cheese and buttered crumbs.

We learned about it from Mrs. W. Porter Cave of Ft. Worth, Mich. The wife of a man who sends tons of Michigan and Texas onions to our markets, she is known in her church community for her fine cooking.

Scalloped Potatoes and Meat with Onions Au Gratin (6 servings)

Six to 8 two-inch onions, boiling water, salt, 1/2 pound ground lean beef, 4 cups cubed cooked potatoes, 3 tablespoons margarine or butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 1/2 cups liquid (onion water and milk), 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon black pepper, 2 cups grated sharp Cheddar cheese, 1/2 cup buttered soft bread crumbs.

Four 1-inch boiling water in saucepan. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt to each cup water used. Drop in onions. Cover. Cook until crisp-tender, about 25 minutes. Drain; save onion liquid for later use.

Brown meat in frying pan. Put 2 cups potatoes in a greased 2-quart casserole; cover with the browned meat and the remaining 2 cups potatoes. Melt margarine or butter; stir in flour. Pour the onion liquid into a 2-cup measure; fill to 1 1/2 cups with milk. Gradually blend with margarine-flour mixture. Cook until medium thickness.

Stir in the 1/2 teaspoon salt, black pepper and 1 cup of the grated cheese. Pour half the sauce over potatoes. Arrange cooked onions on top. Sprinkle with the remaining grated cheese. Bake 25 minutes or until cheese is melted in a preheated moderate oven (350

Tot's Playpens Versatile
NEW YORK — UP—The newest playpens are adjustable in size and shape, and so light weight they are easy to transport from the nursery to the outdoors.

One pen has upper and lower hoops of rust-proof aluminum tubing, airy "slats" of laced nylon cord, and plastic floor padding which can be cleaned with soap and water. It collapses into a light compact bundle—easy to carry or store in the rear of the car.

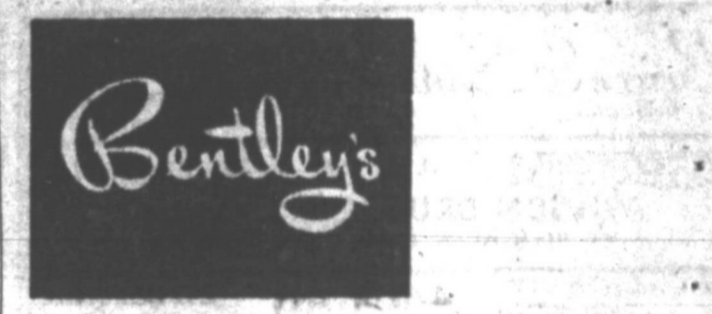

Another, made of washable wood, comes in sections, so that the pen can be set up into any size.

Still another, designed for the outdoors, can be round or rectangular, as required. Sides are of rugged green net. Wooden supports, driven into the ground, hold it in place. The play pen is light enough for easy carrying.

First Grade Rooms Present PTA Program

Parent-Teacher's Association met recently in the grade school auditorium with president, Mrs. J. R. McKernon, in charge. The Cub Scouts of Pack 9 presented the flag. Reverend Albert Stroh gave the invocation.

The group decided to change Parent-Teacher's Association meeting time to the second Thursday in each month instead of the third Thursday, beginning in the next school year. Mrs. McKernon appointed Mrs. New, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Moore and Mr. D. V. Biggers on the nominating committee for next year. Mr. Biggers announced the April meeting will be held on the 22nd of April instead of the 18th, in order not to conflict with the Easter holidays.

The two first grade rooms presented the program for the evening, under the direction of Mrs. Amesey and Miss Pauline Blinn. Miss

Jo Moody was pianist and also announced the program. "Jumbo Elephant" and "The Camel" was sung by the first grade rooms. The rhythm band gave numbers: "Gai Kaledid March," "Community Grand March" and "March in F." Carmon Johns and Linda Pittman sang a duet "The Funny Little Duck." Karen Jean Mathews gave a tap dance.

After the program the Cub Scouts were asked to give the scout motto. They made the living circle and gave the grand howl for the group. They also recited the law of the pack. Approximately 85 attended the meeting.

Top Producer Says Industrial Plant Expansion To Keep U.S. Economy Stable

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food & Markets Editor
CHICAGO — (NEA) — America's No. 1 meat packer thinks American industry will go in for greater industrial plant expansion in 1954. This increased construction will help maintain a high level of economic stability, he believes.

NOT DAYDREAMING—When things slow up for Brian Van Dale, 8, left, as other boys recite their lessons, he can always turn to the mathematical equations above him. Brian, a 10th-grade student at Country Day School in Norton, Mass., has an I. Q. of 185. The intelligence quotient of a genius is 140. Brian speaks several languages, and is proficient in Hebrew, Arabic, Greek and French. He expects to be ready for college when he's 10, but may be held back until he's 12, when school officials believe he will be more emotionally equipped for higher education.

10 days. I think it is the kind of thing people should expect. "But some seem to think we can stay at the absolute top of the inflationary peak forever. Of course that's an impossibility, Holmes said. Holmes' view is not just that of a packer. He's a director of General Electric and of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. Referring to the $1,000,000,000 General Motors plans to spend in the face of depression talk, a large part of it for plant expansion, he commented that GM is apparently figuring for the long pull. "They won't have to worry too much if cars do not sell for a short period," he added. "But the men in the factories and the auto salesmen must worry. "Of course they must," Holmes agreed. Holmes sees no immediate likelihood of any great reduction in spending money (His company's sales last year were $2,897,204,000.) "There will be a tapering off in overtime for workers in a great many industries and some more layoffs and things like that," he said. He added this might reduce the amount of money a woman is willing to spend for meat. But he pointed out that the total population had saved $18,000,000,000 last year. "However, if the housewife should reduce what she's willing to spend for meat, then the price of meat would have to come down," he added. He, personally, is not afraid of that possibility because he does not think it would have much effect on his company whether prices go down five per cent or up five per cent. "We are in business every day and we must keep moving," he emphasized. "If the price people can pay for meat goes down, then we have to try to buy livestock lower. When prices go up or when they go down we don't get too excited. We take it in our stride." Forcefully restating that he does not foresee even a remote possibility of a deep depression, Holmes said that the great unemployment such a depression could bring would hit the packing industry last. "That's because farmers usually liquidate their livestock in such periods to get more cash to buy other things they need," he explained. "So, during the time they are shipping the livestock, we have to take on more people to take care of it, even if the price may come down."

The Parr Battle

Right now it looks like old George Parr has the wolves at his Adam's apple and the hounds at his heels. But don't wager your life's savings he won't tame the dogs and barbecue the wolves before they turn off the lights and the crowd goes home.

People have been telling us about George Parr for years; and if he's committed half the sins attributed to him and if he's had a hand in a tenth of the canards laid at his doorstep, George must be 108 years old and working at sin on a 23-hour day.

This is not a word in behalf of George Parr — simply a passing observation.

The build-up against George Parr is compounded of many elements, and not the least of them is political emotionalism. Taken together, politics and emotion are like hitching a couple of tigers to a buckboard.

We aren't so sure George won't land on his feet and live to souse the boys who are giving him his lumps.

From all we can gather, George is fighting: A governor. An attorney general of the state. An attorney general of the United States. The Department of Internal Revenue. The Federal Bureau of Investigation. The Texas Rangers. And some just plain folks.

We might add to this list newspapers, lawyers and professional battlers of various categories, some of them fighting for principle and some for the pure pleasure of fighting.

It appears to be a formidable lineup; but the importance of the contenders is an advantage to George. They are all going to want to go home with the horns of the bull. There's a good chance they'll get to scrapping among themselves; because if you think that any two law-enforcement agencies really give a hoot for each other, you've been listening to too many radio programs and you ought to spend about a year as a police reporter in most towns.

At the risk of being tagged a cynic, we'll go a step further and report that the boys in the press gallery are more than a little amused at the way the big brass of Austin and Washington suddenly fell upon George like a brick smokehouse when it began to look like the other fellow might sponge up all the credit.

Frankly, isn't it amusing that quite suddenly everybody in Austin and Washington got in a tizzy about George Parr who has been doing business at the same old stand for years without drawing flies from the capitol?

Well, so it goes; and a fellow can't win for losing. You know, when all the huffers and puffers go back to Washington and Austin, the final answer is going to lie with the people of Duval County. If they want George Parr, they're going to have George; and nobody is going to stop them. And if they don't want George, the Marine Corps couldn't ram George down their throats.

It's as simple as that. It's the nature of the beast that we don't like to be "rescued." It's just possible that the people of Duval are going to thumb their noses at the boys who have come down to save them. Maybe they really want George Parr!

Politicians are less interested in what happens to George Parr, the man, than in what happens to the Parr organization. Destroying a man is not destroying an organization.

The question may be — after George, who?

Repugnant Goal

The head of a labor union recently said that one of his organization's major goals this year will be to persuade all members to patronize only those gas stations and other retail outlets that display the union's shop card.

Of that extraordinary proposal, the Lennox, South Dakota, Independent, observed, "We are fairly sure that this goal is as repugnant to other independent businessmen as to us. Purchasing power used in this manner could soon stifle small, independent business and have everyone being led around by a ring in the nose by the big labor bosses. That the members of any organization in our town, should purchase all their grocery needs, for instance, from only one local store, is unthinkable and undemocratic. No small town would long survive under these conditions. It seems impossible that a free American citizen can be so dependent upon a labor union for their daily bread that they must feel themselves be told where they can or cannot buy that bread."

Actually, of course, nothing could do more harm to labor's legitimate interests. The plan would lead to monopolies in merchandising — which inevitably means high prices, poorer products, or both. The union member, like the rest of us, wants the best possible return for his money when he goes shopping. That's what he gets under free competition. He couldn't get it under any other system.

Similarity Of The UN Charter And The Constitution Of Russia

I am under obligation to Amanda I. Whiteside of Syracuse, New York, for a careful study of the similarity between the UN Charter and the Constitution of the USSR (Russia). "Good" Old Days?

National Whirligig... Ike Admits He Erred In Calling Slump A 'Rolling Adjustment'

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower and his economic advisers are laying their cards on the table in a manner which their immediate predecessors never did. Both he and his experts now admit publicly that they erred when, a few months ago, they described the current business and industrial situation as a "rolling adjustment" rather than a "recession."

They take the view that recognition of a condition is the first step toward remedying it. They admit that things are not too rosy, as reflected in layoffs of workers, declining production and consumption, high prices and all the other signs of general deterioration. Eisenhower's aides are now studying means to bolster the economy, if the present trend continues.

It is doubtful if the administration will resort to dramatic or spectacular moves; for there will not be time for them to be effective. There is no need as yet for another WPA relief project, and large-scale construction by a revived PWA requires considerable advance planning.

MAJOR PROBLEM — It is White House belief that the major problem is the rebuilding of public confidence so as to keep production and purchasing at high levels. Washington can put money in people's pockets by individual, corporate and excise tax cuts, by increasing minimum wage and unemployment compensation rates, by keeping farm supports at present percentages. Sentiment for these easily applied "shots" is growing on Capitol Hill, and even among some conservative businessmen.

Other parallels, however, save for extreme pessimists, do not respect the present drop to become severe or protracted. In their opinion, it is remarkably like the 1947 and 1948-49 slowdowns. Neither caused great hardship. Both ended quickly.

OTHER PARALLELS — Contrary to the popular belief, the 1948-49 recession was conquered before the Korean "police action" gave an artificial stimulus to business and industry, pouring fresh billions into it.

It is difficult to believe that we can promote good will, peace and friendship by using a means that so violates the Commandments and the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence as does the UN Charter and the Constitution of Russia.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Mrs. B. asks whether there is anything which can be done for babies born with congenital heart disease. She says one hears of so many who have died, or at best will have to live as invalids.

This is indeed an interesting subject. First, it should be said that there are several different kinds of malformations of the heart which are present at birth, and which fall under the general classification of congenital heart disease. Most of these result in mixing of oxygen-containing blood with that which has been deprived of its life-giving oxygen, and which results in "blue babies."

The various kinds of congenital heart disease carry such technical names as coarctation of the aorta, tetralogy of Fallot, and pulmonary stenosis with intact ventricular septum. But it does make a difference to the patient because some kinds can now be successfully treated by surgery and others cannot.

In one of these conditions the passageway between the heart and one of the large blood vessels, which should normally be closed before birth, fails to do so. This is called a patent or open ductus arteriosus. This opening can now be closed by delicate heart surgery with great success.

SOME OF THE OTHER congenital malformations of the heart can also be treated successfully by surgery, but not all of them. For this reason a careful study of each case has to be conducted in order to make a diagnosis and to decide if surgery offers relief.

Even with the progress in this field in recent years, the end has not yet been reached since investigators are still finding new methods by which they can extend the benefits of heart surgery to more and more people.

Fair Enough... State-Controlled Union Would Serve Americans Much Better

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NEW YORK — A few years ago I put forward the idea that the present institution of unionism was not the last word in labor relations in a free governing republic.

I am now convinced that all that prevents us from smashing the A.P. of labor, the CIO and "independent" predators is a sentimental fear on the part of lay citizens and public men that they would be charged with Fascism if they advocate this desirable reform.

Our people and our politicians are very laggard. Even laymen and politicians who find it impossible to utter a single word of excuse for the abortive nations of unionism as we know it, are afraid to plump for state control of unions which obviously would be Fascism.

I agree. Yes, that would be Fascism. But I, who detest Fascism, see advantages in such Fascism over the present system which is Fascism once removed.

The system that we now have is wasteful, inefficient Fascism exercised by private and absolutely irresponsible racketeers under the name of the government, state and federal.

There is an analogy in the hat-check concession in a night-club. When you go in, a pretty girl checks your hat. When you come out, you lay a quarter on the ledge and she hands back the hat.

Now what is the analogy? Well, our governments, state and federal, issue concessions, called charters, to racketeers to "organize" the workers into unions. What the racketeers, through their unions, do to the workers and the rest of us, after that, is supposed to be none of the government's business.

The owner of the night-club gets a price for his concession but do you want to argue that the Roosevelt and Truman administrations gave these concessions for free? Because if so, you are looking into a well of trouble.

In 1936, John L. Lewis, through his controlled council of the Mine Workers, voted $500,000 of the mine workers' money to finance Roosevelt's campaign fund, subject to draft by Roosevelt. He put the Mahatma on a spot. Lewis knew his man and made Roosevelt send over signed requests for dough.

Later on, Roosevelt licked the Internal Revenue and Lewis and himself a hatchman man, ran up quite a report on John L. Lewis' tax situation. But Lewis had plenty on Roosevelt so the report on John Longwoods was put to sleep.

So while a few saw some sort of relief from this, a lot of them merely gazed with dull eyes into the winter night and thought of little houses with fire in them, fire and affection and children and a pot of something hot to spoon. Where the old man with the aching teeth sat, not far away, it was a little different, but not much. He was discouraged. There's no doubt of that. Maybe, even, a kind of noble fear niggled at him. It was not anything abject; we are pretty sure of that, but no man is proof against fear of some kind, even a manly fear. He was discouraged and some of his assistants were worse. The trouble was that they could talk to him. They could say right out that they didn't think things would work out. But the others, the ones that were up to their hubs in snow, couldn't talk. Not to him. You just don't.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

He had bad teeth and they hurt. The winter wind keened through the frozen branches of the surrounding trees, frosting his cheeks and driving the cold right through to his jaws. He clamped down in an agony of pain. He had more important things to think about and, most importantly, he couldn't let the men standing around him detect his pain. They had pains of their own.

"I don't think this is going to work out," one said. "The odds against success are mountainous." He winced in his coat collar and turned away. It was tough enough the way it was without having men of small heart on his side. He knew how bad things were. He didn't need a calamity howler to make it plain. He was almost alone in his convictions that things would work out if only he had some companionship from those who worked with him. If only one of them would come in and say, "Look, chief, I'm with you. It's going to be a rugged deal, but I don't mind in from here to the wind-up no matter how the toss falls."

But none did. Or very few. And the very few were on the hard lines end of the operation. Men shivering in the meanest way that made it plain. He was almost alone in his convictions that things would work out if only he had some companionship from those who worked with him. If only one of them would come in and say, "Look, chief, I'm with you. It's going to be a rugged deal, but I don't mind in from here to the wind-up no matter how the toss falls."

They hadn't been able to guess when they signed up for this job that it was going to turn out this way, but some men, even the humblest, have a kind of stubborn spirit that keeps one foot slogging out in front of the other. It's the way continents are opened up and roads are built and even Everest is climbed. You put one foot out in front of the other and then the other foot out in front of that and you close your mind to the cold and the wind and the frost that is black and murderous to human-kind. You keep going and, after awhile, maybe you get there. If you don't, if you get knocked down and fate puts a lug on you, well at least you tried and that's the worst they can say.

So while a few saw some sort of relief from this, a lot of them merely gazed with dull eyes into the winter night and thought of little houses with fire in them, fire and affection and children and a pot of something hot to spoon. Where the old man with the aching teeth sat, not far away, it was a little different, but not much. He was discouraged. There's no doubt of that. Maybe, even, a kind of noble fear niggled at him. It was not anything abject; we are pretty sure of that, but no man is proof against fear of some kind, even a manly fear. He was discouraged and some of his assistants were worse. The trouble was that they could talk to him. They could say right out that they didn't think things would work out. But the others, the ones that were up to their hubs in snow, couldn't talk. Not to him. You just don't.

Finally, a surge of pain aroused through his punished jaws and he clamped them tighter than ever. It all came, of it eased and passed. He looked into the eyes of his associates and had contempt for what he saw.

"I'm going to take a walk," he said, frowning. "I'll take a turn about the place." He walked out into a wind that stabbed him. A ghost of snow whirled around him and, presently, he came to a group of unhappy, hungry men.

"Evening, General," one said, looking up. "Makin' up cold tonight, but we'll live, I reckon, to remember old Valley Forge."

Career Diplomats Urged To Fight Domestic Abuse

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A challenge to U. S. Foreign Service officers to "start pushing around" any "cookie" who calls a State Department career diplomat a "cookie pusher" has just been made by Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy.

As Murphy, a bulldozer for the much-maligned members of the U. S. diplomatic corps, this is probably as important a policy as has come out of the U. S. State Department in years. It indicates that top career Foreign Service officers, bloody but unbowed from many public whippings, are at last being told to put up their dukes and fight instead of turning the other cheek for another beating, when the good name and reputation of their corps is under attack.

Undersecretary Murphy had not been long in his new job as the third highest officer of the department when he advised Foreign Service officers to start defending themselves. The occasion was an unreported luncheon meeting of the Foreign Service Association. Mr. Murphy spoke of the cuff. But notes were made on his remarks and this transcript checked back with him for an okay so that there can be no misinterpretation of what he said or what he meant.

"I believe it is up to us as members of this association to do a little fighting in behalf of our department and Foreign Service," Secretary Murphy declared. "I believe that an appropriate occasion when individuals apply such language as 'cookie pushers' we should start pushing that kind of cookie around."

Big Enough To Push

Big "Bob" Murphy can use language of this sort and get away with it. Though he is nearing 60, he is six-feet-three and weighs in at around 225. He has been in the U. S. Foreign Service 33 years. He was a chief American political officer in Europe all through the war. As proof of the fact that he is no cookie pusher himself, it may be recalled that he was one of the group which General Eisenhower sent to North Africa in a submarine, to arrange for the landing of American troops in that theater.

He served as U. S. Ambassador to Belgium and Japan after the war. Recalled to Washington at the start of the Eisenhower administration, Secretary Murphy found to his surprise that there was a "trend of opinion in the American community unfavorable—if not at times even antagonistic—to the Foreign Service."

"The old and threadbare clichés about 'cookie pushers' and 'striped pants' continue to be used to a point where I wonder at times whether our Foreign Service Association, my friend, . . . I find that the curve of popularity of the Foreign Service on the chart of American public opinion is down low. . . . If that is true, it is a serious state of affairs which we cannot afford to ignore."

This is the situation, with low morale reported among American Foreign Service officers all over the world, that apparently roused Secretary Murphy to start doing something about it.

"We are, it seems to me, better understood in many foreign countries than we are among our own people," Secretary Murphy told the Foreign Service luncheon group. "That condition, if I have stated it correctly, must not be permitted to continue. Most of you have put too much sweat and too many tears into a devoted Foreign Service to take such a situation lying down."

Tell America Our Job

As to what might be done to correct this situation, Secretary Murphy told his associates that "The suggestion I want to make is

Pampa's Red Cross Roster Totals 1,360

There are 1,360 Red Cross members in Pampa, according to Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, chapter secretary, who has just completed compiling figures on the membership and services of the local chapter. State-wide there are approximately 1,000,000 members, she added.

The Junior Red Cross, which contributes to the welfare of youth and adults, here and abroad, has 2,300 members enrolled in the Pampa chapter in seven elementary schools. Among many other accomplishments, they filled 210 gift boxes for needy overseas children this year and contributed $125 to the National Children's Fund. State-wide there were 17,375 boxes sent and $5,148 given to the Children's Fund.

During the year, Pampa's chapter aided 500 local veterans' families through an average of one employed staff member and five volunteers, Mrs. Shotwell pointed out. In financial assistance, $840 was given to aid members of the armed forces, veterans and their families by the local chapter. In addition 420 families were given general information and other limited services, she explained.

As part of the disaster program, Pampa's chapter gave $1,151.50 as tornado relief to Waco and San Angelo. The local blood program netted 508 pints of blood for the Armed Forces this year, Mrs. Shotwell advised.

Of the 908 first aid instructors trained in the state this year, Pampa had only six. To help raise the number in the chapter, a course for first aid instructors will be held in Pampa Monday through Friday, under the direction of H. H. Gilliam, first aid and water safety instructor on the national board, Mrs. Shotwell explained.

Water safety instructors are scarce, also, with three in the local area, one of whom was trained Friday. However, 68 persons were trained in swimming or life saving during the year.

The Pampa chapter trained 60 persons in home nursing this year, Mrs. Shotwell pointed out, and six others became home nursing instructors.

Narcotics Seizures Just A Drop In Bucket, Says Chief

HARLINGEN, Tex., Feb. 26—UP—Some $399 million worth of narcotics is smuggled into the United States from Mexico through the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas every year, Police Chief John Guseman said Thursday.

Guseman said this is 90 per cent of the entire United States consumption of narcotics — which would make the total American consumption about $333 million worth a year.

Seizures of marijuana and heroin made by police and federal narcotics agents "are not a drop in the bucket to what is going on," Guseman said.

"The law is such that it's very difficult to get a conviction," Guseman said. "We have been working on certain individuals for two years. We know they are selling it and we know where and we know for how much."

But, he said, it is still necessary to get witnesses to a sale to secure a conviction. Federal agents sometimes have worked 15 years to get a conviction in a single case, he said.

Guseman said most of the heroin imported through Texas into the United States is grown in China on the Near East coast.

"Almost all of it is manufactured behind the Iron Curtain," he said.

The marijuana, he said, is grown in Mexico because it brings a much better price than American-grown marijuana.

Most of the narcotics is brought into the United States by smugglers who have Mexican bootleggers bring them across the Rio Grande at lonely and unpatrolled points, Guseman said.

Some is carried across the river on men's backs when the river is low, and a large quantity is smuggled into Texas in automobiles.

"It's impossible to check every car," he said.

He said the usual routes for narcotics is from Lower Rio Grande Valley to Houston, then to New Orleans, and finally to the major retail markets in New York and other large eastern and midwestern cities.

Next Few Weeks Will Decide '54 Wheat Crop Value

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 26—UP—The weather during the next few weeks will be "decisive" for the southwestern winter wheat crop hit by dust storms last week, the Cargill Crop Bulletin reported Thursday.

"We're sitting on a powder keg," the bulletin said. It was told by the dust observer in southwestern Kansas.

The dust clouds extended from the Texas Panhandle north to Nebraska. The bulletin said the dust covers wheat plants in many fields and the high winds "whipped protective soil from the base of the plant and bruised the tender top growth."

"While damage to the wheat crop cannot yet be evaluated, it is expected that losses will be heavy, at least locally," the bulletin said.

Relief from the high wind danger depends on moisture during the next few days to keep the loose topsoil in place or a period of growing weather to permit the crop to cover exposed soil, the bulletin said.

To add to the woes of Kansas wheat growers, the bulletin said it noted the presence of "mosaic virus" over most of the state, but its "seriousness and effect cannot be ascertained until growth gets under way."

As for the winter wheat crop in the rest of the nation, the bulletin said it had "wintered well" in the eastern states, showed "improved prospects" in the South, and was in "good condition" in the Pacific northwest, "although moisture is urgently needed to promote spring growth."

Pampa's Guard Unit Makes Inspections Of Area Batteries

Two members of Pampa's National Guard unit, Chief W. O. William Leonard and Sgt. Richard D. McPherson, are back today after making an inspection of the administration section of Battery A, Dumas, Thursday according to Lt. Robert A. Smith, commanding officer here. This is part of a round of inspections of the Pampa unit has been making, with Sfc. Libern L. Howell and Sgt. Bobby E. Bridwell also having just returned from inspecting motor vehicles and ordinance pieces of the Dumas group and of Battery B in Dalhart.

At the Pampa drill meeting recently two new men were introduced to the unit. Corp. Paul E. Boswell of Pampa has just joined the battery here after being discharged from the Canyon unit, where he is a senior at West Texas State College. His three-year enlistment in Canyon was up, so he re-enlisted here. The second new member is Pvt. Billy L. McDowell of Groom, a high school senior. The battery now lacks only 33 men to bring it up to full strength, Lt. Smith advised.

It was also announced at the meeting that two men, Pvt. Robert E. Clements and Pvt. Billy R. Clements, donated blood recently to a woman in a local hospital whose condition was reported as critical. This is a regular service of the unit.

Lions' Wives Get Preview Of Coming Minstrel Show

Fourteen "Lioness" Pampa Lions Club members' wives whose birthdays fall in January or February, got a preview of the 1954 Lions Club Minstrel at the last meeting of the club before the show.

Solo numbers by Rufe Jordan, Aaron (Dixie Crut) Sturgeon, E. C. (Red) Payne and Little Elsie Milliron, daughter of Mrs. Maxine Milliron, who played the piano, provided the featured part of the program Thursday noon in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

The minstrel will be held at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday on the stage of the Pampa Junior High School Auditorium.

As is the custom every few months, the "Lionesses" were the guests of the club and each of them received a golden pin — a small bow with a replica of the Lions International emblem hanging from it. E. O. (Red) Wedgworth led the Lions in singing "Happy Birthday."

Clay, who was dressed with a red-and-white polka dot bow in her hair, a similar-colored blouse and a bright red skirt, stole the show at the club meeting when she gave

Santa Fe Scout Court Of Honor Planned March 8

Hundreds of Boy Scouts, their leaders and parents — somewhere between 200 and 450 — are expected to be on hand for the quarterly Santa Fe District Court of Honor. Get-together is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. March 8 in the auditorium of Woodrow Wilson School, according to Phil Pegues, district Scout executive.

"There will be no extemporaneous talking. It'll all go by script," the executive emphasized, pointing out that it was a question of saving time.

The public is invited, especially the parents of any boy in a troop in the district. Pegues continued. John Campbell, chairman of the district's advancement committee, will present Eagle Scout awards, he went on, but the names of possible recipients are not being released.

Other officials in the Court of Honor are W. A. Morgan and Horton Russell, parade marshals; Campbell, John Parker, J. C. Hopkins and Tom Dushan, properties men; Joe Poe, sound man; Morgan and Charles Wilkerson, electricians; Bill Martin and Dr. Bob Sybert, attendance, counters; and Fred Neslage, presentation talks.

Super Road Construction Start Planned

HOUSTON, Feb. 26—UP—Construction of a $200 million toll "superhighway" between Houston and Dallas will probably begin within 90 days, it was reported.

Newman Bill Roberts, of the Houston Press, reported that confidential sources pointed out that the privately-owned toll road had been completed.

He said completion of the non-stop highway was expected in about two years.

Roberts identified the backers of the project as Pete Coffield, Rockdale, Tex., W. L. Pickens, Dallas, and Lloyd Wheelock, of Corsicana. He said "preliminary plans call for a feeder highway from the Dallas-Houston toll road to Waco." Cost of using the highway from Dallas to Houston was expected to be between $2.50 and $4.

The three men Roberts named head the Texas Turnpike Co., which was chartered last year after the Legislature set up a Texas toll road authority.

Duo Buys C&O Lines

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26—UP—Directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad announced Thursday they had approved the sale of the road's entire holdings of New York Central Railroad stock for $20 million.

The purchasers, the directors said, are Clinton W. Richardson, Dallas, and Sidney W. Richardson, Fort Worth.

Both men are reported "friendly" to former C&O Board Chairman Robert R. Young, who has been struggling to gain control of the Central.

800,000 Shares Involved

The 800,000 shares involved had been held in trusteeship by the Chase National Bank of New York under orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The ICC ruled five years ago, when Young first sought to gain control of the NYC, that the C&O could not hold voting interest in a competing line.

Reports of new ownership of the stock freed for voting rights by Richardson and Richardson at the annual NYC stockholders' meeting May 26.

Walter J. Tuohy, president, said the sale was made "at a profit amounting to $2.4 million."

"Bare Fisted Fight"

William White, president of the New York Central who has promised a "bare fisted fight" with Young over control of the NYC, reported the sale unofficially Wednesday night. He identified the purchasers as "certain wealthy individuals."

Thursday's meeting was disrupted by notice that stockholders' suit had been filed against the board of directors contesting certain stock option plans.

Plaintiffs were Irvin M. and Leonard S. Gruber, both of New York, who said stockholders were not properly consulted when directors approved a plan whereby officers of the company could buy C&O stock at special rates.

Texas Draft Quota Is 1,030

AUSTIN, Feb. 26—UP—An April draft call of 1,030 men from Texas was announced Thursday by State Selective Service headquarters.

The April quota was held at the same level as February and March. The February call was for 1,010 men and March for 985.

However, Brig. Gen. Paul L. Wakefield, state director of Selective Service, pointed out that 1953 quotas called for 3,000 men in February, 3,056 in March and 2,894 in April.

Wakefield said in addition to the April induction call of 1,030, combined physical-mental examinations will be ordered for 2,235 men during the month.

He added only 1,000 men were being forwarded for the examination in March and none were examined in February. However, 4,000 men were examined in January.

'Camporee' Plans Are Outlined

The first bulletins on the Santa Fe District Spring Camporee—the first of two in 1954—were being mailed out this week to all Boy Scouts and their leaders in the district.

Affair is slated for April 30, May 1 and 2 on the Billy Davis Ranch, north of the Lefors-McLean highway, according to Phil Pegues, district Scout executive.

Rosa Buzard, district camping and activities chairman, late this morning figured that an estimated 250-300 persons would be on hand for the affair, which begins at 8 p.m. April 30 and ends at 9 a.m. May 2.

First item on the camporee agenda, Buzard said, will be a campfire featuring a review of the next day's events. Taps at 10 p.m. Twelve hours later there will be a troop inspection by a visiting Scoutmaster, continuing through the noon meal. At 1 p.m. May 1 there will be an orientation (campfire and measuring) competition, Buzard continued.

From 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. May 1, the chairman went on, will be free time, though a board of review will be held from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. A campfire and a Court of Honor will be held at 8 p.m. May 1 with each participating troop putting on a stunt and singing a song. Taps at 10 p.m.
