

Oilers Take Second From Pioneers 20-12

CLOVIS—Batting around in three innings Pampa's Oilers outscored the Clovis Pioneers here last night 20-12 in the second of three games between the two clubs. It was the 10th straight loss for Clovis, Pampa's Bob Bailey staggered through to the win although in trouble several times. He helped his own cause with four hits; two singles, a double and a 3-run homer on the third.

Texas' Leagues Show Increase In Attendance

DALLAS—(AP)—Texas' five professional baseball leagues showed more than 1,900,000 in paid attendance for the first half of the campaign—the largest in the state's history for a similar period.

The Texas League, which last year set an all-time record with 1,562,567 registered 913,095 at the half-way mark this season and was more than 100,000 ahead of the same time in 1945.

The West Texas-New Mexico League was behind last year because of bad weather that caused the loss of 30 playing dates but showed 285,296.

All other leagues of the state are new—the Big State, Lone Star and Longhorn circuits having been formed this year. Some of them have clubs from last year's leagues but offer no way of comparison. Texas actually has two more leagues than last season.

Lone Star League Leaders Juggled

(By The Associated Press) Jacksonville's bouncing Jax were down again today. They slipped back into third last night when Longview came up with a three-run rally in the ninth for a 4-3 victory.

It was a turnaround as far as the Lone Star League standings were concerned, Lufkin going back to second on a 10-5 win over Henderson.

Marshall's 5-3 victory over Tyler gave the latter 590 runs, while Kilgore stopped Bryan 11-9. Wendell Flanders tripled cleaned the bases in the ninth for Brenham, but Deck Wald's feat of straining home twice for Jacksonville grabbed some of the glory.

Eight runs in the seventh inning won for Lufkin, muchhitter Manager Elzie Parsons hitting a homer in the big stanza.

Gene Benson's overwork to first allowed Kilgore to score two runs in the ninth for its victory.

Zale and Graziano Meet Tonight For Middleweight Championship

CHICAGO—(AP)—Tony Zale, world's middleweight champion, and challenger Rocky Graziano, two of the greatest offensive fighters in the past 10 years, battle tonight before upwards of 20,000 spectators who will contribute to a record all-time indoor gate of around $450,000.

The contest in the Chicago Stadium is scheduled for 15 rounds or less—undoubtedly less, considering the punching prowess of both. No one, including Zale and Graziano, believes it will go the limit. The consensus of experts is that Zale will triumph within six rounds.

Yankees Near League Mark on Straight Wins

(By The Associated Press) One of the American League's most majestic marks—the 19 consecutive victories by the Chicago White Sox, famous hitless wonders of 1906—was being seriously threatened today by the New York Yankees.

The onrushing Bronx Bombers now boast 16 straight wins and need only four more to shatter the record which has stood for the past 40 years.

The old Yankees of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, and Tony Lazzeri back in 1926 reached 16 but were stopped the next day. The 1912 Washington Senators and 1931 Philadelphia Athletics went them one better, winning 17 straight each, but got no further.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—Every day from June to September burdenned mailmen stagger through New York delivering to innocent residents horrible letters that read roughly as follows:
"Dear Pudge,
"Well, old brother in the bond of Delta Upsilon Epsilon, get out the welcome mat. I done pretty well in the real estate biz this year for a country boy, and Mamie and I are coming to see how you and Annabelle are roughing it in the big city."
"Suppose by now you got a mortgage on the whole place—ha, ha! I hope you put us up in that spare bedroom. We can only stay two weeks. Get out the glad rags, kid. We're rarin'!"

to a couple of the hot musicals. I'll straighten it out with you when I come.
This precipitates the biggest crisis in the family since Pudge's cousin came for a three-day visit two years ago that lasted seven weeks—until he got a job as a bartender.
Annabelle wants to know if any of Pudge's friends ever heard from the civilians some time ago.
Monk and Mamie breeze into town late for Florida.
"Let's go right on up to the Ostrich Club and let the celebrities have a gander at Mamie," says Monk.
"I just put on some lamb chops," protests Annabelle, "and I thought afterward we could sit around and you and Pudge could talk over old times."
"I ain't ready for old-homs-week-yeet," says Monk. "Let's kick up our heels just like you New Yorkers do every night. Mamie and I won't get in the way, kid."
So up they go to the Ostrich Club, and Pudge has to let go five dollars to the man with the rope at the door. Monk, four hours and ten drinks later still doesn't want to go home. Pudge gets the tab, and gives up any idea of buying a summer suit. They roll on home in a cab, but Monk first insists he's gotta ride around Central Park by moonlight, and Pudge gets that bill, too.
For six days and nights Monk and Mamie do the town, and of course good old Pudge and Annabelle have to stay with them. Monk says they just gotta split the checks, as that is only fair, but even so Pudge is considering bankruptcy as an easier way out.
But after a week Monk and Mamie begin auditing their own accounts and decide even the real estate biz hasn't been that good. So they decide to cut the visit short and Annabelle can hear Mamie's voice through the twin bedroom wall.
"I don't see why they live in a place like this—it's almost Bohemian. I can smell the carpets in the hall."
And Annabelle whispers to Pudge: "That tomato-faced witch! She put $400 on my charge accounts for some new clothes, and I can't buy anything myself now until she gets around to paying us back—if she ever thinks of it."
"Sh-h-h-h!" says Pudge the peacekeeper.
The next day, after a quick gallop up the Empire State Building, Monk and Mamie say farewell at the train in a flurry of tired kisses.
"New York's a great place to visit," Pudge says. "but I sure wouldn't want to live here. How do you stand the pace?" and the train takes them away.
"If anybody ever says that to me again, I'll brain them with a fireplug," says Annabelle. "Listen next Monday I'm going looking for a one room apartment so far out on Long Island your friends will never find the way with a map. I don't care if you have to ride the subway the rest of your life."
The only money known to three-fourths of the people in the world is silver.

DEATH of a DOLL

By Hilda Lawrence

THIS STORY: Ruth Miller, a salesgirl at Blackman's department store, has been looking forward to moving into an attractive residence club for girls. But the evening she arrives, after being greeted by Angelina Sooni, assistant to the head, something in the lobby appears to terrify her. She makes an excuse to go out again immediately, tries to reach an acquaintance, leaves an urgent note for him to telephone her. A cleaning woman sweeps away the notice. Returning late to the club, she discovers her new roommate, April, is blind. Next morning at breakfast she becomes panicky-stricken again, runs up to her room.

VI
IT was Miss Brady who knocked on her door at 4 o'clock. There had been one other knock, but it had come without footsteps and without a voice. She'd stood close to the door and whispered, "Who's there?" And no one had answered. But this time was different. She had no excuse. This time the caller announced herself at once.
"Ruth," Miss Brady shouted. "Open up!"
The door was locked. She'd locked it when April went down to dinner at 1 o'clock. Now she turned the key with a muttered apology. "I'm sorry, Miss Brady. I was asleep."
Miss Brady strolled about the room, unobtrusively taking in the red-rimmed eyes, the strained, tight features. Downright ugly, she noted. "Homelick. Or maybe just sick. Or maybe Angel's right, the fool girl could be frightened about something."
"Ruth," she said mildly, "we missed you at dinner. You mustn't skip meals, you know. And Miss Small is worried about you. She thinks you need building up."
"I had coffee, April brought me coffee, that was all I wanted."
"Not enough. Now comb your hair and wash your face like a good girl and come on down with me. We're sewing in the lounge and Mrs. Marshall-Gill is serving tea. She's our most important

At the fifth floor three girls crowded into the small cage. Miss Brady introduced them briskly, but Ruth hardly heard. They had names like Betty and Peggy and Janie. They meant nothing, they looked exactly alike. Sometimes people do look alike, she reminded herself without hope. When the door slid open at the first floor, sound poured out from the lounge and filled the lobby.

Miss Brady swept her forward, like a dead leaf in the wind. She saw lighted lamps, trays of food, flowers, and a fire.

THERE was a vacant chair in a corner by the fire. Its back was to the wall, and she took it. No one spoke to her. She tried to make herself small and inconspicuous, but that was a wasted effort and she knew it. The bright blue suit betrayed her against the cream walls. She braced herself for whatever the next hour held and deliberately turned her face to the shaded lamp, inviting recognition. After a while, when still no one had come to her side, she began to breathe easier and dared to look at her neighbors.

Mrs. Marshall-Gill dominated the room. She looked like a charge customer, the kind who tapped her foot and called the clerks "my girl."

A girl put a piece of heavy muslin in Ruth's lap and went away without speaking. She held it stupidly, wondering what to do. It was shaped like a small flour sack, and a crude face was penciled on one surface. When she found the needle and colored wool inside, she knew what it was. This was her party mask, and she was to make it herself. I'll never wear it, she thought, but they don't know that.

In a few minutes the girl came back. She said her name was Minnie May Handy, and she offered to help. Together they made the scrolls of yellow hair, the red buttonhole mouth, the long black lashes that fringed the cut-out eyes.

If Minnie May noticed Ruth's trembling fingers she chose to ignore them.

patron, and she likes to know all the new girls."
"I don't think I—"
"You must," Miss Brady said firmly. "You mustn't stay long, but you really must make an appearance. Unwritten law, Mrs. Marshall-Gill's. Everybody shows up or else."
Everybody, more than 70 people. She could sit in a corner, off to herself, safe for a little while because of more than 70 witnesses. Safe for the rest of her life if she could prove she was mistaken. If she could study that face again, if she could listen to the voice, if she could prove to herself that she was wrong.
"Will you wait for me while I change my dress?" she asked.
Good heavens, Miss Brady marveled silently, vain too. "Go right ahead," she said.
RUTH dressed carefully in the blue suit. But how will I know if I've made a mistake? she wondered. How can I be sure? She knew the answer to that at once. If one pair of eyes followed her with the same look, if one head turned in her direction then turned away, too quickly, she'd know. Not only know that she wasn't wrong but also that she'd been recognized. Then there would be no time to lose, not even a minute.
"I'm ready now," she said to Miss Brady.
The elevator girl looked surprised when they got in together.
"Jewel," Miss Brady said, "this is Ruth Miller." Jewel nodded.
She knew a little about Jewel. She'd asked April when they'd walked down to breakfast. April had accepted the walk without question. April had said that Jewel's real name was Annie. . . . They had never told her the other one's name, and they'd kept hers a secret too. They'd said she'd be better off if she didn't know.

Shamrock to Soon Have Downtown Parking Lot

INSIDE—(Special)—As a convenience to Shamrock shoppers, the Chamber of Commerce is making arrangements to install a parking lot in the 300 block of North Main Street.

Arrangements have been made with the Puckett's Food Stores to use the large plot of ground north of the Holmeier Company. The real estate formerly belonged to the Woodridge Lumber Company. The lots will be cleared of all weeds and rubbish; the surface leveled and parking lanes drawn off so that cars can be driven in and out at any time.

Work on the parking lots will be started next week. Bob Clark, Chamber of Commerce manager, said.

A sign will be erected at the entrance, inscribed with this wording: "Free Parking for Shamrock Shoppers." Sponsored by Chamber of Commerce. Courtesy of Puckett's Food Stores.

U. S. Directive Asks Increased Coal Production

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
The United States government has just issued its first official statement of policy governing Germany since the war, and it stands that a stable and productive Germany is necessary to make Europe orderly and prosperous.

This historic statement is in the form of a directive to the American occupation force in Germany. It instructs Lieut. Gen. Clay, American zone commander, to exert every effort to achieve economic unity with other zones, and says highest priority should be given to increased production of coal, food and export goods.

The greatest importance must be attached to this declaration in view of the increasing gravity of the European economic crisis. It is a situation which is going to be worse before it can start to get better. To use the graphic warning of French Premier Briand: "The hour has come for Europe to organize or die."

The United States directive takes on particular significance in view of the approaching Anglo-American conference in Washington to discuss methods for increasing the all-important coal production of the Ruhr.

That conference is likely to pivot on a showdown between the two countries over the British Socialist government's insistence on nationalization of the Ruhr coal mines. Washington takes the view that nationalization is a question for the German people to decide.

Of course it's easy to understand why a Socialist government, which ranks nationalization as one of its cardinal tenets, should want to see it carried out in Germany and elsewhere.

However, I judge that there's more to the British stand than that revolving about the iron. Britain doesn't want to see the riches of the Ruhr revert to the control of the war-mongering Prussian Junkers.

When it comes down to the question of the Prussian war-lords getting control of the Ruhr again, surely there can be small ground for dispute among the allies. Still nationalization isn't the only method of handling this situation. International control might turn the trick, and it seems a fair guess that something along that line will come up for serious consideration at the Washington conference.

Texas City Mayor May Seek Vacant Congressional Post

HOUSTON—(AP)—Thirty-one year-old Mayor J. C. Trahan of Texas City will make a definite decision "within the next two or three days" as to whether he will run for Congress to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Representative J. J. Mansfield.

He said last night that he was considering making the race.

Names of three others were mentioned as probable candidates. They are newspaper publisher L. J. Bulak; La Grange, a former state senator; Clark W. Thompson, Galveston former Congressman, and State Senator Jimmie Phillips of Angleton.

No formal announcements have been made, however.

Trahan said, "I can't leave my house or office without someone asking me to run and I'm getting telephone calls and letters from throughout the district urging me to give serious consideration."

He said he wanted to make one thing clear "if I do get in," he said. "I'll be in all the way."
Trahan was in Houston yesterday conferring with friends in regard to the campaign.

Trahan was a private in the Army. He was wounded in the leg.

OUR WHEAT CROP COMES OF AGE

A QUARTER CENTURY OF PROGRESS

About 25 years ago, wheat came into its own in the territory we serve. Last year alone wheat farmers here harvested about 40 million bushels of high protein wheat . . . in fact almost four-fifths of that produced in Texas is grown in our area.

Today, good bread from our wheat helps keep a healthy America healthy.

We have so much confidence in the wheat industry—and all other industries we serve, that we are investing 35 million dollars in a building program. This expansion program in our territory will bring more dependable electric service to industry and farms and better living—electrically—to everyone!

WALL STREET STOCKS
NEW YORK, July 15—(AP)—The stock market ran into selling trouble today although assorted factors managed to override this handicap with fair success.

Declines ruled in the morning. There was some comeback around midday, a subsequent stumble and a stiffening of quotations here and there and the market closed with a slight gain. Special issues attracting short covering and mild investment demand. Dealings were relatively quiet throughout. Transfers were in the neighborhood of 1,200,000 shares compared with Monday's 1,660,000.

Among new 1947 highs were Chrysler and McGraw Electric, up a point or so each. Phillips-Jones added about 4 of a big earnings jump. Assistant vice Virginia-Carolina Chemical, Guantanamo Sugar, Studebaker.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and off color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically low or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get yours from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps build sturdy health.

Gas Properties Change Hands

HOUSTON—(AP)—Paul Kayser, president of the Western Natural Gas Company, announced yesterday the purchase of the principal producing properties of Henderson Coquett in Live Oak and Bee Counties at a price of $3,500,000.

Deeds covering the transaction were filed in the two counties. They show the transfers were made to the Gas Company by Coquett and his wife, Irene Murray Coquett.

The deal includes some 5,000 acres of producing properties wells and about 16,000 acres of wildcat land. The price was made payable at $1,750,000 in cash and the rest out of three sixteenths of the proceeds of the sale of produce or any part of the properties.

Kayser said the Gas Company bought the property to increase its gas reserves. Construction of a recycling plant in the area is contemplated, he said.

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN
Well, according to some Washington bureau, the number of American working wives has gone up tremendously. It claims that the better halves of one-fifth of our families now are working.
If it thinks the other four-fifths are just loafing, it's just crazy!
Actually, the real working wives are the ones who stay at home and enjoy the so-called working wives, or even the so-called working husbands. For instance, carpenters are supposed to work pretty hard, but it's much easier to build a house than it is to keep one clean, because you only have to build it once.

I remember when my sister Bessie and her husband changed places for a month. She took his job driving a delivery truck and he stayed home and took care of the cooking and the kids. At the month's end, Bessie had gained ten pounds and he was answering to the name of Napoleon.

Australia has more than 100,000,000 sheep, which produce some 2,000,000 bales of wool annually.

Texas Today

By JACK BUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff
The parts go round and round, and come out here—a completed car. That's mass production.

Young Henry Ford II, head of the vast Ford Motor empire, came to Texas to see how his Dallas plant was coming along. It was coming along all right.

The plant was one of Ford's first out-of-Detroit assembly plants back in 1909. Young Ford describes it as "rather historic." He said the first Ford owner in these parts was a Col. E. H. R. Green, who probably bought a six-cylinder model K boasting about 40 horsepower.

The Texas plant today has a capacity of 250 cars and trucks a day, employs 1,632 workers and pays them an annual salary of $4,200,000. A $500,000 expansion is planned.

Included among the Texas employees are eleven men who worked for the Ford Company before the present boss, 29-year-old Henry II, was born. Most of them have been with Ford for 33 years. Their combined years with the company total 355.

But what is this mass production, assembly line technique like? It's like this:

The plant sprawls over an amazingly large area, but not a square inch is wasted. Actually, there are two assembly lines that merge at a given point to complete the car. First there's the working parts, you might say—the engine, chassis, etc. as the chassis rolls along on a conveyor, one man will slip on a certain bolt or screw, another will tighten it, another will add another part; the engine will be lowered and installed, etc.

Meanwhile, in another part of the building the body is being put together, a fender and a window at a time. It, too, is continually on the move, and most of the workers operate on moving parts. Some even jump in the body and ride a few feet in style, adjusting the dashboard, seats, etc.

The two assembly lines merge

when both the body and the chassis are finished. Then the body is lifted onto the business part of your car, adjusted, screwed on, and rolls a final 750 feet on final odd-and-ends work—putting on tires, connecting the electrical wiring, testing the horn.

When the car slides up on its conveyor to the end of the line, it's ready to roll under its own power, lights burning, horn honking, engine running. A worker jumps in, drives it away a few feet, where the final bit of equipment is added—the chrome ribs along the front headlights.

As we stood watching, a car or truck rolled off that line every ten minutes.

The very last thing put on the car was something typically Texas—the sticker that says proudly "Made in Texas."

Then the car is gone for good, to some dealer and then to you. It must be you—we couldn't get one.

Philippine Shipyards Deny Contract Reports

MANILA—(AP)—A spokesman for Philippine Shipyards today denied reports that a four-week-old strike at its Engineer Island operation would cause a complete shutdown and eventual end of its contract with the U. S. Army.

The spokesman said he expected the strike by members of the Philippine Congress of Labor organizations to be settled "fairly soon."

Close sources, however, said the strike would continue until demands for higher wages and other benefits are met.

The shipyard spokesman said he could not disclose to what extent the company's ability to bargain was affected by the Army's July 12 decision not to raise wage rates of its Manila area workers.

Consolidated Army contracts at Engineer Island and Cavite and Navy contracts at Cavite, Subic Bay and Samar. Most of them involve reconditioning of wartime landing craft and small freighters.

Mexico Will Complete Pan-American Hiway

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Mexican plans to complete and pave her section of the Pan-American Highway by the end of 1949, the Department of Communications and Public Works reported last night.

When finished the 24-year project will have cost 100,000,000 pesos ($20,000,000), the Department said. About 70,000,000 pesos ($14,000,000) already have been spent in pushing the 1,600-mile mountainous paved highway from the Texas border to Oaxaca, south of Mexico City, and preparing the roadbed almost to the Guatemalan border.

South of Oaxaca there are 82 miles of pavement, 387 miles of graded gravel, 61 miles of dirt road, and 32 miles of jungle trail, according to latest Department reports.

Sailplane Pilots Set New Records

WICHITA FALLS—(AP)—A sailplane built under cover in France during the Nazi occupation soared 235 miles yesterday under the controls of Adrien Valette, a Paris glider pilot.

At the same time, two Detroit glider council members established a new national record at the 14th annual soaring meet here in a dual-controlled sailplane.

Lyle A. Maxey, pilot, and John Serafin, a passenger, rode the tiny waves to Vernon, Texas, and return on a 104-mile hop.

The flight established a new national record for that type of sailplane.

The Frenchman's journey was to Wellington, Kan.

Myron Wells of Van Nuys, Calif., won $250 for landing at a target site at Paris, Texas, to bring his prize money total to $1,000.

Mansfield

Flying Disc Prank Blamed for Death
ORANGE—(P)—A flying disc prank was blamed today for Saturday's fatal shooting of John L. Blackburn, 19, of Port Arthur, at a Calcasieu Parish, La., night club.

E. J. Smith, owner of the night club located across the Sabine River from Orange, said today that Blackburn opened a package labeled "dangerous, explosive, keep your hands off," and then called a China plate across the dining room.

Smith said a gun was discharged during a scuffle between Blackburn and an employee, who is now being held by Louisiana authorities for questioning.

"Blackburn died en route to a hospital. An inquest has been set by Dr. E. L. Clement, Calcasieu Parish coroner, for today in the Lake Charles, La., courthouse.

Power Interruptions Pose New Problems
MEXICO CITY—(AP)—The city's two daily three-hour interruptions of electric light and power today had posed a problem for the Department of Labor.

Tens of thousands of textile and other factory workers were demanding full pay for idle hours.

The electric service interruptions were caused by low water power reservoirs.

One other result of the curtailment of service was a traffic problem.

Now that traffic signals stop blinking at street intersections, automobile drivers use their own judgment, creating snarls and presenting traffic hazards.
