MMM, FEELS GOOD -- Warren O'Bryan, 4-year-old son of Mrs. Tom O'Bryan, Canadian, really goes for that toboggan his mother is pulling over his ears in preparation for the cold weather reported on the way. Matter of fact, he's so interested in getting warm that he's completely ignoring the toys in the window behind him. (News Photo)

Cold Front A Day Late

Pampans this morning put on coats and turned up the collars to go to work -- and the temperature was not even freezing. Lowest the mercury got early this morning was 36 degrees, according to the Radio Station KPDM Pampa's weather station. Nevertheless, that was a 43-degree drop from Monday's high reading of 79. By mid-morning the temperature had only risen to 38, KPDM reported. The forecast for tonight in the Upper Panhandle was 25-30 degrees, the United Press reported. It was to be partly cloudy, too. That was pretty much the report for Monday night. But it never did freeze, though many a Pampans today was convinced it felt like it. First freeze in 1953 came Nov. 19. A paltry .03 of an inch of moisture Monday night was also reported. It served no other purpose than to make people feel colder and dirty their clean cars. The UP changed its tune about the weather forecast. Monday it reported "snow, chilling rain and sharply colder weather" were sweeping toward the Top o' Texas. Today it was merely a "weak cold front, ambling southeastward across the state." Lowest mercury report in the state was 28 degrees in Dalhart. Amarillo had the same as Pampa. However, it was 48 in Childress and 46 in Lubbock.

Commie Boss Switches Jails

EDINBURG, Tex., Oct. 26—UP—Ramon Mirabal Carrion, reputed boss of the Communist party in Puerto Rico, has been transferred from the Hidalgo county jail at Edinburg, a U. S. marshal revealed Tuesday. The marshal Alfonso Alamia declined to say how the 41-year-old Red leader was traveling or what his immediate destination was. He said Mirabal Carrion would eventually go to Puerto Rico for trial. Mirabal Carrion is charged with conspiring to overthrow the government of the United States. The Federal Bureau of Investigation said he was arrested last week at Hidalgo, Tex., just across the Rio Grande from Mexico. Alamia refused to give the exact time Mirabal Carrion left Edinburg or the route he was taking. "This is for security reasons," Alamia said. Officials said there would have been no formal announcement of the transfer, but the United Press received a tip that Mirabal Carrion had been taken from Edinburg. It asked Alamia and he confirmed the fact.

Air Service Sought To Dallas, Ft. Worth

The Airport Committee of the Chamber of Commerce met Monday to consider the possibility of reinstating scheduled airline service to the Dallas-Fort Worth area. The committee voted to open negotiations with two local service airlines in this area, Central and Pioneer, with the possibility of working out a route east through Lawton. The contemplated Pampa stop would not constitute a new route, but a rerouting. Central Airlines service to Pampa was discontinued 18 months ago for non-support, mainly because it was too roundabout in reaching Texas' commercial centers. The Airport Committee is in contact with the Civil Aeronautics Board, congressional representatives in Washington, D.C., members of the Post Office Department and airlines officials, to promote the reopening of service here. "We feel that since much first

'Prejudiced,' Says Senator Of Watkins

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—UP—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy Tuesday accused the chairman and two members of the Senate censure committee of "prejudice" against him. He said their failure to disqualify themselves was a "fraud on the Senate." The Wisconsin Republican made the charges against Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of the censure group, and two unidentified members, in a letter to Watkins. The special six-man committee last month unanimously recommended McCarthy's censure on two counts. McCarthy said Watkins and the two members indicated "unquestioned" prejudice against him before they were selected to serve on the censure group. Yet, he said, they failed to report this to Vice President Richard M. Nixon who officially appointed them. "This would appear to be a deliberate deception of the vice president and a fraud upon the Senate which obviously intended that an unprejudiced committee be appointed," McCarthy said.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 26—UP—Sen. Arthur V. Watkins, chairman of the Senate censure committee, declared firmly Tuesday that he would "not be provoked into a debate" with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. The Utah Republican declined to comment on McCarthy's charges, made Tuesday in Washington, that the censure committee chairman and two members were "prejudiced" against him. "I will have nothing to say prior to filing of the committee report with the Senate," Watkins said. "Our report has not been filed because the Senate is not in session until Nov. 8."

Nation At Crossroads

Moral Rebirth Is U. S. Salvation

The American people do not know where they are going. They have lost the art of thinking and are afflicted with mind-conditioned propaganda. Cameron Ralston, former head of Chicago's "Committee of 100" against gangsterism, Monday night told the Top o' Texas Knife and Fork Club that American democracy, however, can still be saved -- by following the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the U. S. Constitution. Telling his audience in the Pampa High School that America was tops in wealth and technological know-how, Ralston, a fast-talking native Scot, then asked: "Have you entered your penitentiaries? They mirror the rising tidal wave of crime in every echelon of society in America. There is crime and corruption. Face it! Look at it!"

Women Cons Fire Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 26—UP—Fire broke out Tuesday in the women's unit of Missouri's riot-prone penal system and Louis Racker, chief of the Jefferson City fire department, said it was "set deliberately." The blaze was discovered at 9:40 a. m. and 20 minutes later Warden Ralph Eidson reported it was under control. No one was injured, he said. Racker said the blaze was in a sewing room in the basement of one of the buildings in the women's division, located half a mile from the men's prison, across a valley.

He said the room contained "a lot of old clothes and some new ones." Three fire trucks were used in bringing the flames under control. Reporters were barred from the prison. Meanwhile, Warden Eidson announced that construction of steel gun turrets in dining halls will begin immediately. The decision to install turrets to be manned permanently by armed guards was announced after an early morning phone conference of the warden with Col. Thomas E. Whitecotton, state director of corrections, who was out of town. Eidson said it would take two or three days to complete construction of the turrets.

He revealed new government figures showing that the number of jobless fell to 2.7 million this month—400,000 below September and the first time this year that the total has been less than 3 million. He also declared he expects America's total annual output to climb 40 per cent "in less than a decade" to a record $500 billion. Evenly distributed, he said this would theoretically amount to an extra $3,000 "for every American family of today."

Unemployment Dip Announced By Ike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—UP—President Eisenhower Monday night announced a 400,000-man drop in unemployment and predicted a record-shattering jump in national production in the next 10 years. Mr. Eisenhower spoke out in a major radio-TV address just a week before the crucial congressional elections. The speech was labeled "non-political" but it amounted to a slashing counter-attack against Democratic claims of economic dangers. "I believe that it is high time in this great, growing, productive land of ours," the President said, "to put behind us the rash fears that for so long have haunted some among us—fear of war, fear of unemployment, fear of ourselves, fear of the future. Certainly, we know now that one such fear, the fear of a paralyzing depression, can be safely laid away."

Man Attempts Tub Voyage To Alaska

EDMONDS, Wash., Oct. 26—UP—Fifty-year-old Roy Bergo sets sail for Alaska at 1 p. m. Oct. 26 Tuesday in an oval-shaped wash tub powered by an outboard motor. Bergo, who had to lose 35 pounds so his own weight wouldn't sink the galvanized tub, said he hopes to make the 1,200-mile voyage across the northern Pacific in 21 days. "I'll be satisfied if I make it to the Alaska border," said Bergo, who quit his job as guard at the Washington state reformatory at Monroe, Wash., to make the voyage. He admitted his three-foot-long "vessel" hadn't done too well on trial runs -- it sank several times -- but he added: "I've made a few adjustments and I think it'll go now." The tub, made of galvanized iron, was designed for use as a baby's bath tub. It is 18 inches wide, 11 inches deep and 36 inches long. His outboard motor is rated at two horsepower.

Police Wives Center Of Political Fuss

CHICAGO, Oct. 26—UP—The question of whether policemen tend to marry prostitutes has stirred up a furor in Illinois politics. Joseph D. Lohman, Democratic candidate for sheriff here, is quoted as having said they do. Lohman's principal accuser is Republican Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois. Adlai Stevenson, titular head of the Democratic party, has come to Lohman's defense and accused Stratton of "unspeakable tactics." The Chicago Police Wives Association has reserved judgment, but its leaders said they will consider filing a slander suit against Lohman. Charges and counter-charges have flown thick and fast. In his office at Springfield last week the governor played a tape recording of a talk in which Lohman allegedly said: "I don't know if you realize this or not, but did you ever know that police officers have a disproportionately high number of wives that were formerly prostitutes?" Lohman went on television last Saturday night to accuse the governor of using a "doctored" tape recording in which his statement was lifted out of context. He said his remark was "complementary in nature" and "emphasized the quality of Christian compassion which many policemen reveal."

Adenauer Flies To Washington

BONN, Germany, Oct. 26—UP—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer left Tuesday on a flying visit to Washington and New York in the midst of loud complaints over concessions he made to enable West Germany to rearm. Adenauer took off from Wahn airport outside the capital of the federal republic aboard a U.S. Air Force Constellation. He is due in Washington at 4 p. m. Wednesday. In a nationwide radio address Monday night, Adenauer defended his concessions to France on the disputed Saar territory, once a part of Germany, at last week's Paris conference on German sovereignty and rearmament.

U.S. Available For Cold-War Talk With Russ

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—UP—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made it clear to the world Tuesday that the United States may agree to new cold war talks with Russia after the new agreements on German rearmament have been ratified. In an unprecedented televised meeting of the President's Cabinet, Dulles said "there may be a new basis for discussion" with the Communists "when we create, as we hope we will, a position of solidity and strength for western Europe." "At least we can hope," he added, "that then there can be talks more satisfactory than those that exist when the only object of the Soviet Union is, by trick or device, to try and break up the European unity."

Newsman Barred From Murder Trial

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26—UP—Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin Tuesday ordered photographers all of the courtroom at all times "until the end of the trial" of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard for murder of his wife. "I counted 15 newspaper and newsreel photographers in the courtroom when I came in this morning," defense attorney William Corrigan protested when the seventh day of the trial got underway. "Can you imagine what effect this has on these prospective jurors?" Blythin, who previously had banned cameras only during actual court sessions, glanced at prosecution attorneys for possible objection, then ordered cameramen out of the court until after the jury has returned its verdict. When the trial got underway, prosecuting attorneys exercised the second of their six peremptory challenges to dismiss letter-carrier Gerald Liederbach. He was the 11th person tentatively seated on the panel, and was identified as associate defense attorney Fred Garmon's mail-man.

Hopes To Sew Up Republican Victory

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 -- UP -- The White House said Tuesday President Eisenhower hopes to make a final campaign tour before election day but is not sure yet whether his work schedule will permit it. The chief executive was reported to be considering a flying trip on Friday and Saturday that would take him from New England into the South -- as far as Louisville, Ky. -- and into the upper Middle West. The White House would give no details of the trip under consideration except to say that a stop in Michigan, where Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) is running for re-election, is part of the itinerary being discussed. The United Press learned from other sources that Secret Service agents already had made preliminary plans for the President to visit Boston Saturday, stopping for an hour and a half at Logan airport to address a GOP rally. A well-founded report Monday was that the chief executive was being asked to appear Friday and Saturday in at least Boston, Detroit, Minneapolis, Louisville, Wilmington, Del., with possible stops in Ohio and New Jersey. The report pointed up the increasingly active role Mr. Eisenhower appears to be assuming in the battle for control of the 84th Congress. As the campaign swung into its final week, the national chairmen of both parties renewed their rivalry victory forecasts. GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall predicted that the voters a week from Tuesday will give the Republicans control of the House by 15 to 25 seats and the Senate by a "minimum" of two.

Smog Probers Meeting In L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26—UP—The Los Angeles county grand jury was scheduled to open a full-scale investigation Tuesday to determine if there has been a breakdown in Los Angeles county's smog control enforcement. Several prominent city and county officials, including Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson and Gordon F. Larson, head of the air pollution control district, were expected to testify.

But Hall's Democratic counterpart -- Stephen A. Mitchell -- said the "biggest Democratic sweep since 1896" is in the making. Mitchell claimed such normally Republican states as New Hampshire, Oregon, South Dakota, Nebraska and Michigan would contribute to the Democratic victory. Democratic strategists, meanwhile, were understood to believe their party will pick up GOP Senate seats in Wyoming, Nevada, New Jersey and Kentucky. But they privately concede the Democratic incumbents are in "close" races in some states, notably Montana and Delaware. However, they feel any Democratic losses in the "close" states will be more than offset by Republican seats they may pick up in long-shot states. Democratic Senate leader Lyndon B. Johnson is said to feel the Democrats will win control of the Senate -- a striking important change in the final week of the campaign -- by five seats.

Socialite Wins Stay Of Sentence

AUSTIN, Oct. 26 --UP--Mary Jean Parsons, Tulsa, Okla., socialite convicted of slaying her husband of six weeks, Tuesday gained at least a 15-day stay before starting a 10-year sentence for murder. Formal notice by the U.S. Supreme Court that appeal by the defense had been rejected was received Monday by the Court of Criminal Appeals. However, a spokesman for the state court said attorneys for the former University of Oklahoma coed sent word they would file notice with the U. S. Supreme Court.

Plane Crash Kills Photog

An Amarillo photographer is dead following a plane crash Monday while taking pictures of the site of a three-car wreck last Friday at the intersection of U.S. Hwy. 46 and Texas Hwy. 70 which claimed three lives. Fletcher Pope, 40, owner of the Pope Photo Records Co., died two hours after the plane crash in the Groom Osteopathic Hospital. Cecil Kinerd, pilot of the plane and an employe of the Amarillo flying service, received cuts and bruises, but was reported in good condition. The crash of the light plane occurred near Jericho, about 11 miles east of Groom. Witnesses at the scene said Kinerd came in low over the wreck site, and as he began to climb the plane struck a power line. The plane nosed over and crashed into a nearby field. Kinerd was able to walk away from the accident. Pope, a resident of Amarillo for many years, was a native of Dallas. During World War II, he served with the Air Corps, being discharged with the rank of captain.

Trial Set in 'Scuffle' Death
BOSTON, Tex., Oct. 26—UP—Mrs. Edward C. Cigainero, Texarkana, Tex., will be tried Nov. 10 on a charge she murdered her brother-in-law, John Agan, 23, last July 24, while scuffling with her husband and Agan. The scuffle reportedly resulted from Agan's charges she was guilty of misconduct while her husband was away from home.

Convicted Murderer Attempts Suicide

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 26—UP—Doomed hoodlum Hurlie Frank Fairris was guarded in the hospital ward of the county jail here Tuesday after he slashed his wrists Monday night and pleaded with jailers, "Let me die." The pre-trial confessions of the 30-year-old Dallas warden, condemned to die in the electric chair for the murder of a detective, returned as he cut deep wounds in both arms in his cell, using a double-edged razor blade. He was found sprawled on the floor in a pool of blood, and fought officers when they tried to inspect the wounds. "You won't like this," he said. "I'm going to beat you to the draw." "You blood-thirsty guys are trying to save my life so you can see me burn." As he was carried to an ambulance he said, "Let me die, I'll kill myself before I'll go to that hot seat."

SALVATION

(Continued from page one) our own backyard," Ralston emphasized. "In 1949, we in America felt that our fate in the world's worst depression—because we did not have any direction." The title of his talk was "The United States—Republic or Fool's Paradise," and he gave five main reasons for the question as to which it is: (1) the "unprecedented" challenge to authority; (2) the hatred of man for man; (3) the aversion to work; (4) the constant pursuit of pleasure; and (5) the constant substitution of the material for the spiritual. The home, parents, thrift and economy, they are the marks of authority, the places where one should "balance oneself," Ralston said. "How can you teach kids economy and thrift and then turn around and do just the opposite? You just can't do it," he thundered. "You can't spend money you do not have and political partisanship has nothing to do with it," said the man who lives "4½ miles below Eisenhower" in Pennsylvania. "Most For Least" Ferver "We must restore the dignity and the authority of the public school and the teacher," he said. "That's the first bulwark of democracy, the first strength of America, and we stand four-square for it," said the man who became an American citizen after leaving Scotland in 1914. Minimizing racial and religious "hatreds," Ralston said the real rift was between management and labor with strikes "all over America." Germany and Japan, America's former enemies, "are surpassing us economically." "Do the least you can and get the most." That, he claimed, is the thinking of America today. The political practitioner is gone, everyone wants to be a specialist without first doing "the dreary drudgery and the humdrum jobs." Work is the greatest morale-building agent there is, he insisted. "We've lost that." He had hopes for the public school teacher, particularly the ones who teach the level through the sixth grade. "We need more of them." "We must be entertained," he said. "We have lost the ability to entertain ourselves." All the American people needs is a good entertainer. "The fifties, the sixties, as far as the uplift of the soul, the spiritual, we need a new leadership, not more leaders." Ralston ended with an age-old question: "As man thinketh in his heart, so is he." But Waters introduced the speaker and Arthur Teed made the introduction before dinner. "I'm a preacher, but I'm not a preacher," he said. "I'm a man of letters, but I'm not a man of letters." His subject will be "The Army-McCarthy Hearings."

Hagler Friend Freed, Cleared Of Complicity

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 26—UP—Frank St. Clair of Irving, Tex., was cleared Tuesday of any part in an Oklahoma torch murder in which his business associate, David F. Hagler, Jr., has been charged. O. K. Bivins, chief of the Oklahoma Crime Bureau, said a lie detector test Monday night cleared St. Clair, a used car salesman, of any part in the murder. St. Clair, who had been held as a material witness, was freed immediately. But Hagler, who has been in and out of jail since he turned up in Waco Oct. 13, remained in the Tarrant county jail at Fort Worth. He is held in $20,000 bond while he fights extradition to Oklahoma to face the murder charge. Agent Doc Myatt, who conducted the lie detector test on St. Clair, said the results showed St. Clair was telling the truth about his dealings with Hagler. "The test was run to determine whether he had entered into a conspiracy with Hagler to commit murder," Myatt said. "The results showed he had not." Authorities still were trying to determine the identity of the man whose half-cremated body was found in a burning station wagon near Davis, Okla., Oct. 10. The station wagon had been borrowed by Hagler from his recently divorced wife so he could make a business trip to Oklahoma. St. Clair was arrested at Sulphur, Okla., last Sunday, after he took officers over the route he drove two weeks earlier, when St. Clair came to Oklahoma to meet Hagler. St. Clair said Hagler told him he wanted to drive a new car to Oklahoma and turn it over to a salesman named Dale Waggoner. Then return to Texas with St. Clair, Officers said. "Dale Waggoner" was a name used by Hagler both before and after the weekend during which the murder occurred. Hagler has denied any knowledge of the murder, but has said he was so drunk during the weekend he didn't know what he had done or where he had been.

Oilmen Hear Blast At FPC Gas Decision

TULSA, Oct. 26—UP—L. F. McCollum, Houston, president of Continental Oil Co., said here Tuesday that Federal Power Commission price controls on natural gas in the field are a "cancerous growth of federal bureau control" and "completely unsound from a consumer's viewpoint." McCollum, in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said in opposition to the FCC's claim that price controls on gas at the well-head are needed to protect the consumer against high gas prices, that even if producers of gas gave it free to transmission companies domestic consumers in areas distant from gas fields would find their gas bills reduced by less than 10 per cent. Transmission and distribution costs account for the largest part of the domestic consumer's gas bill, McCollum said. Federal price controls on gas in the field, applied to gas shipped across state boundaries, can force gas producers to sell more and more of their gas for use within the states in which it is produced, McCollum predicted. "In their efforts to protect themselves, producers will take advantage of every opportunity to increase the sale of gas for use within the states where it is produced, where they can bargain for a fair price in the competitive way to which they are accustomed," he said.

Price Expe's Nine Longhorn Gridders

AUSTIN, Oct. 26—UP—Coach Ed Price in a disciplinary move has ordered nine members of the University of Texas football team to move from the athletic dormitory, Hill Hall, it was reported Tuesday. A spokesman called the move a "disciplinary action." Taken against the nine players, including tackle Herb Gray, who was demoted Monday and replaced in the starting lineup by Bob Flinn. However, Price said "nothing was taken away" from the nine players. "No boys have been dropped from the squad, no boys were cut off scholarships, no boys were told they can't play on the team." Besides Gray, the action affected halfbacks Joe Youngblood, Larry Graham and Charlie Dollar, fullback Charles Travis, quarterback Dick Miller, guard Jim Rosser and tackle Dick Gawlik and Dick Hopping. All are members of the Longhorns, who have lost four games while winning only two contests this season in one of their worst seasons since the late 1930s. Price was reluctant to discuss the disciplinary action. "In our way of thinking no disciplinary action has been taken against any of the boys," the Texas coach said. "There have been some changes made in the No. 1, 2, and 3 teams, trying to improve it—not on the technical aspects—but sort of the all-out point of view, which includes full interest, ability to block and tackle and play the game." Price announced Monday night Flinn was being moved up to replace Gray on the first-string, and Langford Sneed was being promoted to replace guard Ben Woodson in the starting lineup. Price said "there comes a time when we've got to move boys in who can do an all-around job and make the team move forward." He said the nine players would continue to receive the "maximum allowed" under scholarships by the Southwest Conference. This includes, he said, tuition, room and board and laundry. "Boys move in and out of Hill Hall any time," Price added. "As far as this particular group, we don't want to elaborate on it at all. It's not unusual for boys to move in and out."

Shamrock Cotton Harvest Heavy

SHAMROCK — (Special)—Trucks and trailers full of cotton form a round the clock waiting line at the three gins in Shamrock and the one in Twitty. It is estimated that approximately 700 bales are needed in the county in addition to the ones already at work. The four gins have processed about 3,000 bales of the 1954 crop. Most of the cotton being gattered now is strict middling, light spot, 1/8-inch to 29-32-inch staple. Ginners report that most of their customers are realizing a greater yield per acre than they had anticipated—some of them as much as 25 per cent above their estimate. Practically all of the cotton ginned so far in this area has been sold on the open market. Very little of it has been placed in the government loan.

Briton Says No Easy Way To Riches

China, Soviet Due To Clash

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26—UP—Sir Alexander Grantham, governor of the crown colony of Hong Kong, says Red China and Russia are natural rivals and that "sooner or later they will clash."

Grantham, speaking on a television program Sunday night, said the masses of Red China are "so ignorant they feel America intends to go to war against them, although Russia is a greater threat to them."

"The biggest problem in Hong Kong today," Grantham said, "is that they have over 1 million political refugees from Communist China and at the same time its trade has dropped by one-third since the United Nations embargoes were applied."

"Hong Kong could not become independent like other British colonies if the British gave it up," he added. "It would be merged into Red China."

All-Girl Team Hunts Uranium

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
BEAR MOUNTAIN, N.Y., Oct. 26—UP—As a member of one of the first all-girl uranium prospecting teams, I made several valuable discoveries on this mountain which I am happy to pass along to other seekers of underground wealth.

1. There is no easy way to get rich.
2. Fall is a beautiful season in the mountains.
3. Uranium is an elusive mineral.
4. Geiger counters don't tick like they do in the movies, unless you're wearing earphones.
5. Geophysicists are also daring mountain climbers.

One feminine group was led up the rocky crags by Dr. Joseph Ernie, a geophysicist who travels all over the country inspecting claims for amateurs who think they've found uranium in the back yard or at the picnic grounds or even, as was a recent case, under a river.

Stake Out Claim
At the end of the rigorous day Dr. Ernie brought his group safely to the foot of the mountain and announced they had found "hot" rocks and staked out claims that might be priceless.

My group, led by Harry Chirgos, also a geophysicist, located a land turtle, a bed of mushrooms, two rotten trees crawling with termites and a precarious section of limestone which sent the needle of my scintillator trembling to the right.

Before you could say "eureka!" the needle settled right back near the zero marker and stayed there. Chirgos decided our ore was worthless.

Expensive Equipment
Unlike the average prospecting amateur, of which there are an estimated 20,000, each of us was equipped with the most expensive instruments, including three deluxe geiger counters, two scintillator counters and one mineralite. Most amateurs buy the $84.50 model geiger counter.

The scientist escort service the two geophysicists provided would cost approximately $200 per day, plus expenses.

June Talk

By JANE KADINGO

Pampa News Women's Editor

IT HARDLY SEEMS POSSIBLE that the Maid of Cotton competition is nearly here again. . . It seems like just a few months ago that Pampa's Ann Perkins left for Memphis to take part in the final contest. But I've just received a notice on this year's contest.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (Special) — A glamorous, all-cotton, all-occasion wardrobe featuring the smartest and newest American cotton fabrics will be designed for the 1955 Maid of Cotton by about 40 of America's foremost fashion leaders.

The National Cotton Council has announced that the 1955 Maid of Cotton will wear a brilliant group of new styles to illustrate cotton's new - round, high-fashion importance.

Her collection will include daytime and evening dresses, suits, coats for rain and sunshine, all made of cotton. Materials will range from the sheer, delicate organzies and light-textured gingham to rustic, homespun native-type cottons. Included also will be colorful prints, cotton tweeds and suitings, embossed and tapestry cotton fabrics, and new variations of corduroy and velveteen.

The famous wardrobe will be worn by the Maid of Cotton throughout her six-month international tour as fashion and good will representative for the cotton industry. The cottons in the wardrobe will outfit her for the wide variety of climates she will encounter and for the many activities scheduled on her tour.

The Maid will be fitted for her complete wardrobe when she spends the month of January in New York before beginning her whirlwind international journey.

At present the contest is in progress to select the lucky young Cotton Belt beauty who will wear the smart cotton wardrobe. Any girl born in a cotton-producing state who has never been married, is between the ages of 19-26, and at least 5 feet 5 inches tall is eligible to enter.

Entry forms and complete information are available from the National Cotton Council, Box 18, Memphis, Tennessee. Entries must be completed and returned postmarked no later than midnight, December 1. Each contestant must submit two photographs with her entry. One must be a head and shoulders portrait and the other, a full-length view.

Approximately 20 girls will be chosen to come to Memphis Jan. 3-4 to participate in contest fittings. Immediately after the Maid of Cotton is selected, she will fly to New York for her month's preparatory period. Then will begin a memorable six months of international travel, radio and television appearances, newspaper and magazine interviews, fashion shows, meetings with mayors and governors, and all the other activities that go along with being a celebrity.

The National Cotton Council, the Memphis Cotton Carnival, the Cotton Exchanges of Memphis, New York, and New Orleans are sponsors of the tour.

Wonder if we'll have one of our Pampa beauties competing this year?

Paris Styles: Soft, Easy Lines

Durable Denim Blue Jeans Are Popular For School Wear With Mother And Son

After more than ten years of popularity, durable denim blue jeans rate higher than ever this year with busy mothers fitting out their families in back-to-school wardrobes.

Reports from across the nation indicate the demand is still growing for the inexpensive, easily laundered favorites of both mother and the kids. Reasons for the continued preference for the sturdy denim garments are easy to find.

For one thing they're a real labor-saver for mother on washday. Almost all of them are pre-shrunk, won't stretch or shrink no matter how they're treated in the home washer. Best of all, they don't have to be ironed. Simply throw them in the machine, rinse them and hang them out to dry. The cotton fabric sheds dirt easily and dries in a day even when hung indoors.

Another feature that has appeal to youngsters is jeans. Retail prices for better brands run from about $2.50 to $4.00 for the heaviest eleven-ounce denim. At those prices almost any household budget can afford to get plenty of spares to save too frequent sessions with the washing machine.

This year the trend toward the trimmer western-style jeans with narrower legs that began several years ago is increasing. Boys prefer the real he-man style which has been a trademark of the cowboy almost since the west began. Mothers like them too because the heavy fabric of the slim, trim pants holds its shape and the practical blue denim doesn't show the dirt. They are one of the few garments that can come through the rough and tumble ruckuses that schoolboys always get into and still look almost as neat and clean as when they started out in the morning.

Store shelves this year offer a greater variety of sizes than ever before with models for huskies and slims and sizes for both waistband and leg length marked plainly on the tag. Plentiful stocks assure a good fit for every youngster.

But perhaps the feature most popular of all with parents is the jeans' durability. A new pair will last most children several months while trousers made of many other fabrics are frequently ruined with one tumble on an asphalt playground. And of course it's easy and sensible to patch the jeans neatly if they should tear.

It's difficult to tell who has had the most to do with creating the tremendous popularity of jeans, the parents or the children. Although they offer many advantages appreciated by mother, boys have not been known to bow gracefully to clothing styles just because mother prefers them. But about blue jeans there is such universal agreement between mother and son that the have virtually become the standard dress for young America.

Boys of all ages like them both for their appearance and their comfort. In jeans they feel neatly dressed but not overdressed. They know that in blue jeans they'll never be scolded for messing up their clothes doing what kids do naturally.

When an occasional educator expresses the opinion that jeans are too informal to be fitting for school wear, many mothers are quick to point out that there's nothing sloppier about jeans properly fitted and properly worn. The unkempt appearance of some children, they say, is not created by the jeans but by the shirt tails left hanging out and the cuffs turned up halfway to the knees to reveal several inches of wrinkled white sock at the ankle.

In these days of high prices and when help is so hard to get most parents have little sympathy with every-day trousers that have to be ironed or even dry cleaned every time they are worn at play. Boys, they say, are just too hard on clothes.

But whatever the reasons for the preference for blue jeans, their popularity continues to grow. One of the nation's largest makers of them, a midwestern manufacturer with national distribution that has increased its production capacity several times during the past ten years, still is several months behind in filling orders. With the firm still expanding, officials say they're not sure when they'll catch up with the demand.

In the long-range American trend toward more informal, more comfortable styles of dress, blue jeans are leading the way.

BABY

How often it must be said: do not force a baby to eat solid food if he balks. He knows how much nourishment he needs and he'll get it one way or another. Offer him a bite of something new and if, after consideration, he doesn't like it, quit and give him the bottle. Try again with a tiny spoonful a few days later. Shoveling food into his howling face may get it down him, but he will despise eating and be a food problem child. Making him like it rather than making him take it is your aim.

So many things that parents struggle over are learned easily by children from a sound example: At a certain stage in his development, Baby will want Pop's shaving brush in his mouth and proudly proclaim: "Joe wash teeth." That is the time to get him a toothbrush of his own and let him scrub around his mouth with it. Results are nil, but the good habit is on its way. Forcing him before he's aware of the fact that grownups do it will get you nowhere.

"Say hello to Mrs. Neighbor," urges the polite mother of her three-year-old. Three years hangs back, clutches mother's skirt, says not a syllable. When mother greets her neighbor and chats about common interests, white holding three year's hand, pretty soon the sociable one will offer his timid, it may be something about what Daddy did when he dropped his razor on his toe or what happened when the toilet backed up, but that's what interests him. He's learning to be sociable.

The Twentieth Century Club of Pampa has pledged its help in expanding the U. S. Treasury Department's School Savings program in Pampa, according to Mrs. George Vineyard, president. Floor Covering Styles Borrowed From Past

NEW YORK — UP — Fashions in women's clothes aren't the only things taking a leaf from the past this season. Floor coverings too are reverting to styles of 25 years ago.

Richard C. Kline, president of Rugcoffers, manufacturer of hand woven carpets, said American women are revolting against the monotony of endless yards of plain color and weave. They now ask for striking patterns and designs in both large and small carpets. Kline said his company recently completed a rug in eight colors.

Russian Fashions Are Behind Times

Russian dress designers are ignoring the fashion decrees of Christian Dior.

They seem never to have heard of Dior's new "cat look." They haven't caught up with the "new look" Dior brought out in 1947.

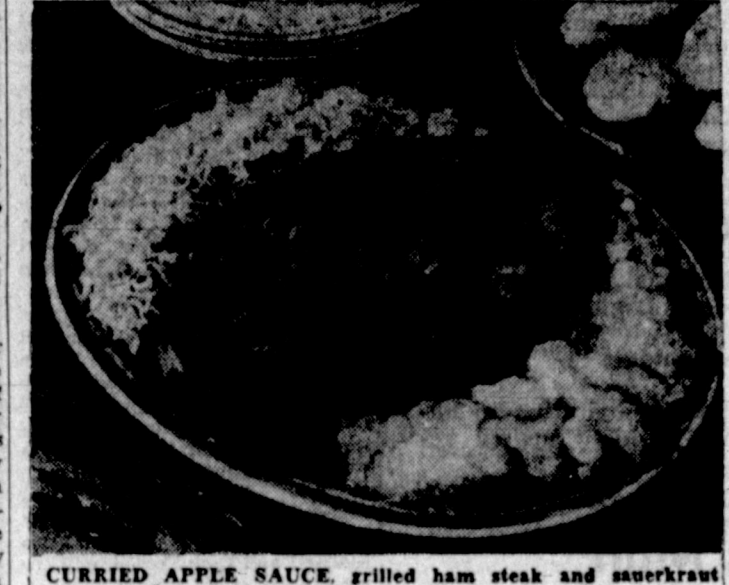

The Russians are clothing their women in drab clothes in styles that went out of date 20 years ago in America and the rest of Europe.

This report on the Russian fashion trend, which seems to be standing still, comes from Charles Arnovick, a New York furrier who just returned from a 10-day trip to Moscow and Leningrad. He found that French and American fashion influences either hadn't penetrated the Iron Curtain or were being purposely ignored.

"The Russian styles are comparable to ours of the late 30's and early 40's," he said in an interview. "The shoulders on suits and coats are broad. They're padded like the ones Joan Crawford made popular back before the war."

Arnovick attended the annual international fur auction at Leningrad and then visited Moscow, where he watched a fashion show. He didn't once hear the name of Dior, the Paris fashion arbiter, and if the Russians have a Dior of their own he must be an unhappy fellow.

"The clothes aren't in the least feminine. There's none of the elegance we're used to. The cut is clumsy and the materials and workmanship are poor compared to ours," Arnovick said.

Curried Applesauce Is Good With Ham And Sauerkraut

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For a fall dinner, the combination of grilled ham (now much less expensive), curried applesauce and sauerkraut has a luscious appeal. We asked Gertrude Lynn, one of New York's top thinker-uppers of delicious recipes, to give us two brand-new ones using this combination. Here are her lip-smacking answers.

CURRIED APPLESAUCE WITH GRILLED HAM AND SAUERKRAUT (4 servings)

One rack spareribs, few grains salt and pepper, 1 cup sliced onion, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 cup ketchup, 2½ cups (1 can) apple slices, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 No. 2 can sauerkraut, 1 teaspoon caraway seeds.

Sprinkle spareribs lightly with salt and pepper. Place spareribs in roasting pan. Roast in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., 1 hour. Drain off fat. Saute onion in butter or margarine; add lemon juice, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, sugar, ketchup, apple slices and salt. Heat.

Combine canned sauerkraut and caraway seeds; place in roasting pan with spareribs. Pour barbecue sauce over all. Cover; bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., 1½ hours, or until ribs are tender.

Combine curry powder and sugar; add to applesauce with lemon rind and onion. Chill. Arrange grilled ham steak on platter. On one side of platter arrange seasoned canned sauerkraut, and on the other side arrange the curried applesauce.

SPARERIBS WITH BARBECUE APPLE SLICES

One teaspoon curry powder, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 cups canned applesauce, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon finely minced onion.

Combine curry powder and sugar; add to applesauce with lemon rind and onion. Chill. Arrange grilled ham steak on platter. On one side of platter arrange seasoned canned sauerkraut, and on the other side arrange the curried applesauce.

AREA OF MIGHT AND STRIFE

The Saar, rich coal mining and steel producing area (shaded river valley shown on above Newmap) has been a source of friction between France and Germany since 1870. Although governed autonomously it is in the French occupation zone. The Saarlanders are bound to France by an economic union much to the dissatisfaction of Germany. To break the "log jam" the Western allies want to "Europeanize" the area in which both countries would yield part of their claims.

How Election Reports Are Given Public

EDITOR'S NOTE: Informing America swiftly of the voters' verdict in a national election is a service taken for granted by most citizens. It's a staggering task, done entirely through the enterprise of news media. Following is the first of two dispatches on election coverage and how it works.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 — UP — Across America at nightfall on Nov. 2, the tiny noises of some 40 million voters recording their decision — the scratch of ballot pencil and click of machine lever — will cease and the silence will resolve itself into a question.

It is the one big question that plagues America, and much of the free world that looks to America, every two years on election night.

Who won? "Hey, Joe," the reporter asks the clerk at election headquarters behind the cigar store, "who won?"

And in thousands of precincts the question is echoed, the answer given in small figures that add up to the big answer.

Will Know Answer — By daylight the next day, the voter knows most of the answer. By noon, he will know for sure who won. His newspaper, his radio, his television will tell him.

Who provides this answer, within 12 to 18 hours after the polls close? Who tabs the nation's political pulse, who adds up the small figures from 100,000 polling places, who assesses the meaning of the vote after pulling it together from across the country?

If you asked the man in the street — the man whose pocketbook and job might be affected by the outcome — he probably would tell you the answer is furnished by a vague entity he calls "the government."

He couldn't be more wrong. The coverage of a national election is a miracle of private enterprise, a modern miracle of communications, planning, painstaking tabulation, and the sweat of thousands of toiling newsmen.

The Press Association, the United Press, press associations alone are equipped to collect, tabulate, and disseminate the results on a national scale. Only they have the communications, the far-flung organization, and the trained manpower. All other news media look to the press associations for the national returns that spell victory or defeat.

The United Press will have 8,000 editorial workers laboring through election night. It will use 350,000 miles of leased wires over which the vote will pour in, and from which the newspapers, radio, and TV will get the national facts and figures that are passed to the waiting public. The cost of this one night operation by the United Press in getting the answer to the "big question" is around $100,000.

In 1844 James K. Polk got the word that he had been elected president of the United States from a messenger who rode horseback 40 miles one autumn night from Nashville to Columbia, Tenn. The voting had begun weeks before.

On March 13, 1916, General Carranza was given the right to cross the international border with troops in pursuit of Pancho Villa. The privilege of entering Mexico for the same purpose was accorded United States troops.

Pair Drowned in Eagle Lake

FORT WORTH, Oct. 26 — UP — Two persons were drowned Monday when their cabin cruiser struck a submerged stump in Eagle Mountain Lake and there was only one life preserver for the four people aboard.

Clarence Moody, 38, and his stepson, William Byrd, 17, of Fort Worth, were drowned. Mrs. Moody and a family friend, David Young, floated to shore on the life preserver.

Constable Paul Meador said the boat struck a stump off Pelican Island around midnight and sank almost immediately. It was more than two hours later before Young and Mrs. Moody floated to shore.

Mrs. Moody was hospitalized for shock and exposure.

Mrs. Moody said her husband couldn't swim and "went down immediately." William said he was going to swim to shore for help but apparently never reached shore.

The Azle fire department and the Fort Worth emergency corps searched Monday for the bodies.

Polio Foundation To Expand Services For Other Illnesses

GONZALES, Tex., Oct. 26 — UP — The Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation for Crippled Children, acting on the assumption that polio will be a rarity within five years, Monday announced plans to expand its services for treatment of many other crippling diseases.

Dr. Odon Von Werssowetz, chief of staff of the institution, said one type of treatment which also needs attention is the increasing number of paralysis cases resulting from automobile accidents.

Others are cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, arthritis and cases of stroke.

"Time was," Von Werssowetz said, "when stroke patient was treated at home by being put in a back room and left there. With proper treatment, the average stroke patient can be walking in 60 days."

The new $500,000 Midland building at the Gonzales foundation was dedicated Sunday with Von Werssowetz the speaker at the ceremony.

The new building will be used as the institution's administrative unit, thus releasing space for 40 extra beds in other buildings.

Delbert Downing of Midland and Sam Landrum of Beaumont, representing the Texas Motion Picture

Industry, formally opened the new Midland building by cutting a ribbon at its entrance.

At a meeting of the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation board of directors, following dedication ceremonies, a report on a committee investigation of charges the directors of the foundation "are doing business with themselves" was made by Angus Wynne, past president of the Texas Bar Association.

Wynne said investigation of cases where this was found to be true disclosed that directors were providing discounts or services not available elsewhere. The board voted to publish Wynne's report.

The board also commended the executive committee for its work and re-elected all officers and most of the members. New members, selected by acclamation, were I. S. Forgotson of Gonzales and Walter Buckner of San Marcos.

Gnashings

By ED NASH
Pampa News Staff Writer

A LETTER! An honest-to-goodness letter! There it sat on the piled-up, cluttered mess that Gnashings calls a desk. With hands only slightly trembling, he opened the envelope . . . the first letter received by the column from the public. Yes, that's what he was afraid—someone is dissatisfied with the Top o' Texas' newest club, the one for the bachelors.

PATSY GEETERS labels it "a horrible idea." . . . Well, that's being frank about it. Let's see what else she has to say . . .

"Say, what are you guys trying to do?" she explodes in the first sentence. Then she goes on: "Don't you know we gals are having a hard time, anyway. There are so few men left that we have to stay on our toes to get a date, anyway. So what do you guys do? Go out and form a club so that we won't even rate a date. Naturally, I think it's a horrible idea." . . . Well, Patsy, we understand there is a move afoot to form a women's auxiliary, to be called the Bachelor-ettes. More about that next week. And more about the bachelors club below.

IF YOU ever feel "under the weather," the thing to do is consult Mary Sargent, a waitress in town, who has a remedy that is bound to do something for you. She calls it a "tomato flip," a concoction that starts off, sensibly enough, with—of all things—tomato juice. But that's only the start. By the time Mary's finished with it, it's got every kind of hot sauce in the place in it. "It works," she says, thinking of the times she's served it. "It'd do something all right. Kill yuh or cure yuh is more like it."

THESE ORGANIZATION heads, they really have the life. They'll tell you what a rough deal it is, how they have to put in long hours and the little thanks they get. But then along will come something

Supreme Court Denies Appeal By Laughlin

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 —UP—The Supreme Court Monday dismissed an appeal by J. Woodrow Laughlin, former District judge of Jim Wells county, Tex., who was removed from office for improper conduct.

In a brief order the high court said the appeal does not present "a substantial federal question."

Laughlin, ousted judge of the 79th Judicial district, contended that the provision of the state constitution under which he was ousted is unconstitutional.

It provides that any 10 lawyers practicing in a given district may present to the State Supreme Court charges that the judge is guilty of partiality, or other misconduct rendering him unfit for office.

Eleven attorneys in Laughlin's district brought the charges against him. They claimed he embezzled a grand jury before the end of its term in order to head off indictment of his brother, W. M. Laughlin, for the illegal sale of private property to the county. The grand jury had already indicted the judge.

Laughlin was elected to the judicial post on Nov. 4, 1952, for a four-year term starting the following January. The State Supreme Court ordered him removed from office as of March 17, 1954, at the same time upholding the validity of the challenged section of the state constitution.

However, since then, Laughlin has been nominated for his old post and barring unforeseen circumstances is expected to be re-elected at the Nov. 2 general election. The State Bar is trying to disbar Laughlin.

In his appeal Laughlin told the U. S. Supreme Court his removal was a political issue, and an integral part of a larger movement to attack the political organization of one George Parr.

Triple Killing Suspect Held

PRYOR, Okla., Oct. 26 —UP—Murder charges were expected to be filed Monday against Earl Chatman, 45, of Langley, Okla., for the triple killing of his brother and two other brothers at the height of an argument.

The victims were Walter Allen Chatman, 54, of Tulsa and Leonard Rush, 48, and Morris B. Rush, 47, both of Langley.

Earl Chatman surrendered to Mayes County Sheriff L. L. Weaver Sunday and the officer said he probably would file murder charges Monday.

Weaver said Chatman admitted the triple killing. He said Chatman told him he beat the three men unconscious with sticks of firewood and then shot them to death with a .16 gauge shotgun at Earl Chatman's home about midnight Saturday.

Weaver said Chatman told him the four men had become involved in an argument and started fighting with the firewood.

Ag Assistant Wants U. S. To Get Out Of Food Business

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 —UP—Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz said Monday the government should get "out of the food business" and let the "big business" that agriculture has become make more of its own decisions.

AF To Fly Mercy Mission

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 25 —UP—A C-54 Skymaster will take off Monday night with a special, light weight respirator so than an oil company employe with infantile paralysis may be flown 10,000 miles from Saudi Arabia to New York.

The roundtrip flight will total 20,000 miles and probably will be the longest mercy flight on record. The patient, not identified, works at Esharan, Saudi Arabia, for the Arabian-American Oil Co.

Differnt C-54s will make the flight. The idea is to get a light weight, full-body respirator, especially developed by the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Air Force Base, to the patient so he can be moved.

The respirator will be changed from one plane to another as it moves through different divisions of the Military Air Transport Service. Lt. Col. Louis C. Kossuth, flight surgeon from the school, with nurses and technicians will go along with the respirator.

though farmers may still be pictured "in folklore and poetry as 'little guys,'" he declared, "nothing is further from the truth." He said American agriculture has "come of age in the last two decades. It is now big business."

Butz spoke out in a speech prepared for delivery before the 32nd annual outlook conference at the Agriculture Department. The conference is devoted to assessing farm prospects.

Since the advent of the first Roosevelt administration, he said, governmental aid to agriculture has taken the form of direct assistance to the individual farmer rather than indirect aid to the industry.

He said now "millions of farmers receive checks directly from the Treasury" for soil conservation practices, loans on crops, or compliance with "action" programs of the department.

He said the new flexible price support act will "move in the direction of decreasing governmental participation in price making and marketing. . . . Increase the role of management in decision-making on our farms."

"We hope," Butz said, "eventually to get the government out of the food business, or at least substantially to reduce governmental activities in that area. This is needed for a dynamic and progressive agriculture."

West Has Emerged Stronger Under Mendes-France's Reign

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

Five months ago, the thought that Pierre Mendes-France might become the 20th postwar French premier gave high Western diplomats the shivers.

It was known that he regarded France's position in the Indo-China war as hopeless.

It was accepted, though he denied it, that he was opposed to the ratification of the European Defense Community treaty under which Western Germany was to be rearmed.

Mendes-France was confirmed as premier on June 18, and there was speculation that the "agonizing reappraisal" of foreign policy of which Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had spoken six months before might be imminent.

Well, there has been a sweeping general reappraisal of Western policy since then. There have been some agonizing moments incident to it. But the West has emerged stronger.

First, it turned out that the French position in Indo-China really was hopeless short of United States intervention, which would have meant an open clash with the Chinese Communists.

Mendes-France pledged himself to get peace in Indo-China by July 20. He did it. The Allies accepted a defeat. But from the defeat has emerged the southeast Asia security treaty aimed at preventing the further encroachment of communism in that area.

Secondly, the French parliament did kill the European Defense Community pact after a weak sponsorship of it by Mendes-France.

But now the Allies have agreed to rearm Western Germany and to give it sovereignty under a new set-up which is stronger than the ECDC.

Further, as part of the new set-up, Mendes-France and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany have signed an agreement on the status of the Saar coal region. The Saar had been a trouble spot in French-German relations ever since the end of World War II.

Now President Eisenhower has invited Mendes-France to visit Washington next month.

There still are hurdles ahead for Mendes-France—the French economic situation, the nationalist movements in North Africa.

But the 47-year-old "bright young man" of French politics, the son of a wealthy Jewish clothing manufacturer, is recognized as his country's strongest leader since the war. France no longer is the "sick man of Europe" as it was called six months ago.

Frenchmen call Mendes-France a "fireball" and a "dynamo." He has been brilliant since his boyhood, when he joined the middle-of-the-road Radical Socialist party at 16. He became France's youngest lawyer when he was admitted to the bar at 21. He became the youngest member of parliament at 25. It is no exaggeration to call him a remarkable man.

TCU Invites Sororities, Fraternities

FORT WORTH, Oct. 26 —UP—Texas Christian University has opened the way for eight sororities and eight fraternities to get established on its campus here.

Invitations to open chapters have been sent to 14 national organizations selected by a committee, the school announced Monday. The organizations picked were those which seemed best fitted to fit in to TCU traditions and needs.

Minimum membership in each chapter will be 15, with all students who want sorority or fraternity membership eligible for recruitment. The school has about 2,300 day students.

Rush week for fraternities will be the first week in December because of the longer probationary period for fraternity pledges. Sorority rush week will be in January. Both sororities and fraternities should be functioning by the opening of the spring semester in February.

1 Here's proof: Road tests show that after 15,000 miles per car—covering all conditions of city and country driving—Gulf test cars, powered with new Super-Refined No-Nox, performed better than new! Tests showed these results: Higher-than-new horsepower! Better-than-new on gasoline mileage! And not a single trace of carbon knock or pre-ignition at any time, even on the steepest mountain grades!

2 Here's proof: Instead of trying to fight harmful deposits with so-called "miracle additives"—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place, removes the cause—the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—at the refinery. Just look at the plates the Gulf scientist is holding in the unretouched photo above, and see what a difference Gulf super-refining makes!

3 Here's proof: This spark plug is from one of many sets of original equipment plugs used in Gulf test fleet cars. Though spark plugs normally need cleaning or replacement after 5,000 to 10,000 miles, this plug and its mates did not need cleaning or replacement in over 15,000 miles with New No-Nox Gasoline.

What's more, besides giving your engine more complete protection, new Super-Refined Gulf No-Nox gives you extra gas mileage in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most. . . . no knock, no pre-ignition. . . . stall-proof smoothness. . . . instant starts and fast, fuel-saving warm-up.

Can We Buy Friends?

Two concepts concerning the state of the world today are so widely held by Americans that they have come almost to be considered truisms; one, that the world is ideologically divided into two main camps — the Communist camp and the competitive free enterprise camp; and two, that in this division the socialist governments can be counted on to support the non-Communist side.

William L. McGrath, United States Employer Delegate to the International Labor Organization, in a report on that organization's international conference held in Geneva in June of this year, maintains that both of these concepts are false.

"Most of the so-called 'free nations' have accepted socialism in one form or another," he declares, "thus the main world competition today is between communism and state socialism, and the free competitive system is regarded as a sort of anachronism still lingering in places described by many foreigners as 'queer countries like the United States.'"

Further, the competition between communism and socialism being in the nature of a family quarrel, Americans should realize that it is the most natural thing in the world for the family members to close ranks against the free enterprise outsider in basic issues.

In support of these thought-provoking ideas, Mr. McGrath points to a very bad beating the United States took at the ILO Conference. The ILO, originally a creature of the League of Nations and now a United Nations agency, has as its announced objective the raising of living standards for employees throughout the world. Each participating nation has four delegates: one representing employers, one representing labor and two representing government. At the June conference, the chief issue was the question of re-admission to the ILO of Soviet Russia, which had dropped out in 1939 and this year decided to rejoin.

The crux of the controversy was whether or not the Russian "employer" delegates would be recognized. Most employer delegates and many labor delegates argued that in a Communist country the government is the employer, and that so-called employer delegates from Communist countries are merely State officials and therefore could not be considered employers within the meaning of the ILO Constitution.

The argument placed the government delegates from socialism and partly socialized countries in an uncomfortable position. They couldn't support the stand of the employer delegates from their own countries against employer delegates of the Communist "employers" because to do so would jeopardize the rights of government to wear an employer hat in socialized countries.

So when the chips were down, the socialized and partly socialized governments voted with the Communists. Only ten governments voted with the United States; Pakistan, China, Columbia, Cuba, Greece, Ireland, Pakistan, Philippines, Portugal, El Salvador, and Turkey.

But we still think we can buy friends through the United Nations!

THE NATION'S PRESS

THE ISSUE IS BIG GOVERNMENT (Wall Street Journal)

In the presidential campaign of 1952 the Republican Party was on the offensive. The Republicans chose the ground on which the campaign was fought; it was the Republicans who posed and dramatized the issues.

When Mr. Eisenhower repeatedly promised to "clean up the mess in Washington" the voters understood what he was talking about. He meant to end the corruption and cronyism which had crept into high places. But he meant much more than that. He meant to reduce the swollen Government payrolls, to cut the Government expenditures, to reduce the Government deficits and to cut the high Federal taxes.

In 1952 the Republicans campaigned against "big Government" with its graft, its waste, its bureaucratic army, its controls and constant interference in affairs that are essentially those of the community and the individual. The Republicans won and to a considerable degree made good on their promises.

The issue is still there. And in his speech from Denver on Friday President Eisenhower touched on it. But he did not seem to state and dramatize the issue as he did in 1952. In the current congressional campaign the Republicans appear to have abandoned the offensive for a series of scattered defensive actions on ground chosen by their opponents.

And the peculiarity of this circumstance is heightened by the fact that the Republicans are expected to appear to be defending themselves for doing what they promised to do. In 1952 the Republicans attacked big Government. In 1954 they seem too often to be defending themselves for attacking big Government.

The Censure Of Senator McCarthy

About as clear a presentation as I have read on the evil results of Congress censure one of its members was presented in Human Events. Here is the way the editor of Human Events sees it: "In the opinion of eminent Constitutional lawyers here, the real issue in the trial of Sen. McCarthy by a Senate Committee and its verdict that the Senate should censure him is the Constitution itself, and the integrity of Congress.

"They point out that for twenty years, under the New Deal, the Constitution was systematically mutilated by the Courts and the Executive. This mutilation has continued—they point out—under the present Administration. Witness its perpetuation of Truman's gag rule on Federal employees appearing before congressional bodies and the creation of an executive order of an essentially FEPC character, affecting government contracts, although Congress has refused to pass a FEPC law.

"The whole trial and verdict of the Watkins groups has been another deadly breach of the Constitution, in the view of legal scholars. To the Founding Fathers, a U. S. Senator was an Ambassador to the Federal Legislature; he was, with some minor limitations, responsible solely to his state. That state, through its representatives in Congress, might want to express a view or take an attitude unpopular to other states. But it should be the inalienable right of that state to have its say, no matter what the form of its expression. The Watkins Committee, without precedent in the history of the Legislature, has now laid down a new and totalitarian rule for the forced conformity of all states and their representatives in Washington.

"The Committee declares that Senator McCarthy abused General Zwicker. McCarthy said that Zwicker was not fit to wear the uniform of a general after he (Zwicker) had given his opinion that a general who protects a 'Fifth Amendment witness' in the service and orders his honorable discharge should nevertheless be retained in the service. This McCarthy view is unpopular with the current brood of commentators (although it is not evidently unpopular among the mass of people). But whatever the popularity or unpopularity of the McCarthy charge and its form of expression, never before in the history of Congress—says the veteran Washington correspondent, David Lawrence—has the 'Phrase in the Constitution concerning 'misbehavior' of members been construed to apply to language used by a member of Congress.' With the ruling of the Watkins Committee, a method has been established to totalitarianize Congress and suppress unpopular viewpoints and actions.

"Just the other day, Rep. Dawson assailed a witness as a traitor, an outlaw, a disgrace to the mother that bore you. Is he to be censured now? And there are many members of Congress who must be censured, if the rule is to be impartially applied. It may be George, or Byrd, or McClellan tomorrow. It is recalled that New Deal Justice Black in a Harvard article in 1936 (when he was an investigating Senator) approvingly explained why a committee examiner, in handling an evasive witness, has to 'attempt to shake it out of him with a more drastic attack.'

"Hence, Constitutional lawyers here talk of the Watkins group verdict as a precedent for 'collectivizing' the Legislature, reducing individual members to absolute control and conformity to the majority. "But the verdict holds a more sinister pattern. Senator Jenner remarked that it contained an omission which was more significant than all the conclusions. This is the fact that the Communist world conspiracy is engaged in an unrelenting attempt to destroy the political institutions of the United States, especially the congressional investigating committees and the principal spokesmen for the Communist apparatus have frankly put the discrediting of Senator McCarthy at the top of the program. The attack on Senator McCarthy is not a personal attack. It is the front line of a continuing attack on the United States Congress which will end only in the destruction of the Communist world conspiracy. Proof of Jenner's assertion is the Daily Worker comment, the day after the Watkins recommendation, on the censure of McCarthy. This voice of Moscow said: 'Good news for America.' "Watkins gave the Kremlin what it wanted."

Congress from adopting those measures which would cause a resumption of huge Government deficits.

It seems to us that if after cutting deficits, reducing expenditures and generally diminishing the role of Government, Mr. Eisenhower suffers a decisive mid-term defeat, it will be a signal to every office-holder that big and paternalistic Government is what the people want. And if the office-holder hopes to remain in office, what he thinks the people want is highly doubtful that either Mr. Eisenhower or any conservative coalition could resist successfully in those circumstances.

It may be that "big Government" is what the people want. If they do, they will get it, of course. But it may also be that many of them will make a choice without being fully aware of the consequences of that choice. The least the Republicans can do is to attempt to enlighten them.

Undeclared Feud In Demo Ranks May Be Embarrassing

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The undeclared feud between the Stevenson and Truman factions of the Democratic Party — the so-called "eggheads" and the professional, backroom boys — embarrases their attempt to regain control of Congress next Tuesday's election. It has produced a last-minute clash of personalities and contradictory claims by the minority orators.

Since the National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell is only a Stevenson holdover, to be replaced early next year, he is merely a figurehead. He commands no prestige or authority with the Truman veterans, who have a majority on the National Committee.

As a result, there is no directing head of the Democrats' campaign at Washington, New York, Chicago or in the politically important West. There is a greater shortage of funds and propaganda and literature than in many an off-year contest.

It is a case of every man for himself. The Democratic candidates have been unable to agree and concentrate upon any major issue.

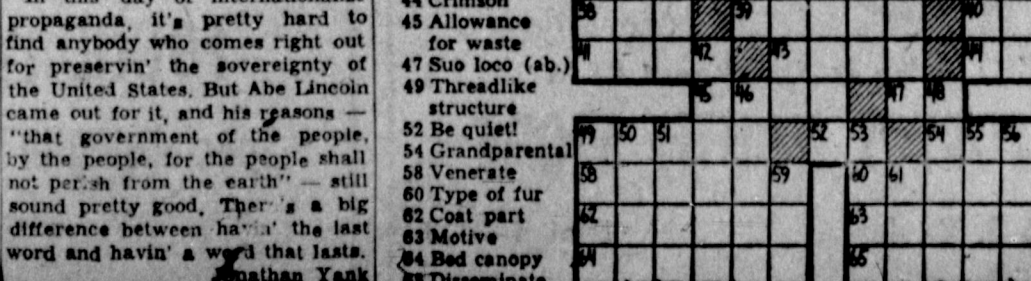

Former President Truman's recent address contributed to this and nominees on national and state tickets hope he will resist his admirers' demands for another appearance in the campaign.

The former Democratic leader spoke as if he had not read previous speeches by Stevenson, Senate Minority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, Minority House Leader Sam Rayburn and even lesser figures in the Party.

Truman declared that the Eisenhower policies had brought confusion and misunderstanding and disaster on the foreign and domestic fronts. He also dwelt upon the divisions within the GOP, charging that the lack of unity made the opposition unit to govern.

But the Stevenson-Johnson-Rayburn faction ask votes on the ground that they will give the Eisenhower program more substantial support than he has received from his own schizophrenic faction in Capitol Hill. They have even framed, printed and distributed charts of Senate-House votes as proof of this contention.

Truman dismissed the Administration's diplomatic successes — in Korea, Indo-China, Trieste, Iran, Egypt, Western Europe. In the settlement of all those problems American representatives had a major role, especially Secretary John Foster Dulles, Capitol Hill Democrats claim partial credit for

Ives' Use Of Harriman Scandal Is Pleasant Shock

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

BOSTON — It was a pleasant shock to hear Senator Ives, the ersatz Republican candidate for governor of New York, let go a bust in the snoot about an old bribery job in his campaign against Averell Harriman, who is his political equivalent in all essential things. The Republicans have been so yellow, or so self-conscious, for so long that when one of them makes use of legitimate scandal as campaign material, that is a great gain. For reference, let yourself recall the demure silence of Republican candidates on the dead-beat loans of Elliott Roosevelt; Jimmy's unscrupulous business, his multiple touches and his jobs as front-man for Sam Goldwyn at $25,000 and for the Yeag Corporation at $25,000 a year; and Anna's "liquidation" of $500,000 in loans for her Phoenix paper at one-cent on the dollar.

The Republicans never mentioned any of these. And they were but individuals, bricks in an enormous pile, which they could have hove at the party of humanity, and treason, but forbore to.

If you have studied your lessons you will know that Harriman's father, the old crook who founded the fortune, was a front man for Kuhn-Loeb.

Harriman opposed J. P. Morgan in the fight for Union Pacific and other railroads; he was the turn of the century. Old E. H. Harriman was a redoubtable scoundrel in his own right as most people knew in his own day and, best of all, those who knew the old buzzard best, including rival buzzards, such as J.P.M.

Major Archibald Willingham Butt, in his letters published in 1930, wrote that Taft said in September, 1904, that Harriman had sent him word that he intended to help his administration. Butt was personal aide to both presidents Roosevelt and Taft. He wrote that Taft further said he "put no reliance at all on this promise" and "sent him word that the only way he could help me was to obey the laws of his country, which, I may add, he never did in his life."

Archibald Butt, a gaudy gadabout, went down on the Titanic. Nobody ever could figure out why he wasn't sent to Fort Crook, but he had a lot of fun in Washington and, at one time, the "society" press was trying to match him with Princess Alice Roosevelt. Irvin S. Cobb wrote that the name of Archibald Willingham Butt sounded like a cook-stove falling downstairs. But reported that Taft spoke of old Harriman as a man who had been "as corrupting an influence as ever appeared in American life."

You may be amused by an experience I just had concerning somebody who was named J. Borden Harriman. There is, in Washington, a formidable woman named Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, who runs with the New Deal and gets out committees for and against this or that. Who's-Who says she served twelve years as "manager," or she-warden, of a very tough pokey for very tough dames, the Bedford, N. Y. Reformatory.

Her maiden name is politically and socially meaningless. She was Florence Jones, Archie Butt wrote that on April 26, 1911, she showed up at a big feeding in Washington "resplendent in jewels," which was not bad going for Florence Jones, the warden of a distaff big house. In the F. D. Roosevelt administration she was minister to Norway, chosen no doubt for her great ability in total disregard of her money.

Well, no matter where I put the question, nobody could tell me who J. Borden Harriman was, if anybody to speak of. All I could learn was that he died in 1914. But Doctor Ruth Matthews, the wife of the incomparable J. B. Matthews, the greatest red-baiter we ever had, is a determined woman in a winsome way and she made up her mind not to see daylight until she found out who J. Borden Harriman was, if anybody. And finally, out of an obscure mess of manuscript biographies of prominent families in the New York Public Library she exhumed the story.

There were two Harriman brothers, Oliver and Orlando. Each had a son. Oliver's son was Edward H. Harriman, Orlando's boy was Jefferson Borden Harriman. They were cousins. Edward went into Wall Street. J. Borden applied himself to humdrum toil and saved $3,000 which he loaned to Edward for his speculations in Union Pacific, Illinois Central and other railroads. After Edward had run up his fortune, he cut in J. Borden for a big bundle. J. Borden married Florence Jones and she has been running up mileage as a high-social character and architect of the brave new world ever since.

Stringfellow's Exaggeration No Different From Other GIs

By HENRY McLEMORE

As a rule, politicians don't arouse my sympathy, but I feel sorry for Douglas R. Stringfellow.

Stringfellow (or should it be String-Along-Fellow?) is the young Utah Congressman who recently admitted that his heroic World War II exploits never happened at all, but were cooked up by himself, in his own mental kitchen.

This has cost him a chance for re-election, turned thousands against him and made him a laughingstock all over the country. No joking, I feel sorry for the man.

He certainly isn't the only soldier who ever exaggerated his combat experiences. Stringfellow just had the misfortune to be in the public eye and have the Army Times check up on his bravery.

It has been here all the time—what could well be the answer to the perennial "labor problem"—but I never knew about it until the other day when I saw in the NEW YORK TIMES a story from Hamilton, Ont., headed "Labor Group Bares Bargaining on Love."

This news dispatch said that a new type of labor organization, called the Christian Labor Association, which originated in Europe 100 years ago and spread to the United States 20 years ago, is now gaining headway in Canada.

Fran Fuykschott of Hamilton, president of the association was quoted as saying that "what we want we will get by love and cooperation. We believe we can get these things more easily by love and cooperation than by using threats across the bargaining table."

More power to Mr. Fuykschott and his associates! There is "the wisdom that is from above," which "is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be treated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy." With that kind of labor movement pervading America, we could throw the Taft-Hartley Law in the ashcan, and need nothing to take its place.

Tuberculosis Group Elects New Director From Alanreed

The Gray County Tuberculosis Association Monday noon at its quarterly meeting heard a report on the chest X-ray drive earlier in the month, made plans for the annual Christmas seal campaign and elected a new director from Alanreed.

Johnny Campbell, chest X-ray chairman, reported an estimated 4,500 persons took advantage of the free X-ray in Pampa, McLean and Lefors.

Pampa Passes Goal
Pampa's total was 3,687, Campbell said. McLean had a total of 473 in one-half a day. And Lefors had about 300. The grand total was 1,200 more than in 1953, he pointed out.

Christmas seals for this season's stamp sale will be sent to volunteer workers Nov. 20, it was announced. All workers should have them by Nov. 22, when active campaigning on the drive is scheduled to get underway.

Bob McCollum, Alanreed, was elected unanimously as a director in the association. He is Alanreed school superintendent.

Three revisions to the association by-laws and constitution were approved by the board members present. The articles now read:

- (1) Any person who has served three consecutive terms shall be ineligible for reelection for one fiscal year, other than school administrators (Art. II, Sec. 3).
- (2) The officers shall be elected by the board of directors from its membership at the annual meeting and shall serve for one year, or until after their successors are elected (Art. III, Sec. 2).
- (3) The annual meeting shall be held the fourth Monday of March, and there shall be at least three additional meetings of the board in each fiscal year, to be held on the fourth Monday of June, October and January. (Art. VII, Sec. 2).

Mrs. Paul Bowers read a letter from Gov. Allan Shivers in which he pointed out what is being done statewide for those afflicted with tuberculosis.

Shindler Heads Highway Group

PERRYTON — (Special) — R. T. Shindler of Perryton was elected Texas president of the Great Plains U. S. Highway 83 Association at the annual meeting of the association held this week in North Platte, Nebraska. John Mayfield of Perryton was named state secretary-treasurer.

Biggest discussion centered around the unpaved portion of highway 83 in South Dakota and Nebraska. Of the 2,000 miles on the highway from Canada to Mexico, all are paved except 118 miles in Nebraska and South Dakota. South Dakota's 27 unpaved miles are scheduled for paving next year, and Nebraska plans to pave the 26 miles of her unpaved highway next summer.

Chessman Again Denied Case Review

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—UP—The Supreme Court Monday refused for the seventh time to grant a hearing to Caryl W. Chessman, California convict who wrote a best selling autobiography from his San Quentin prison death cell. However, the court said Chessman may apply in an appropriate federal district court for a writ of habeas corpus to test the fairness of his trial.

Chessman has been confined in "death row" for six years awaiting execution in the prison gas chamber.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, former governor of California, did not participate in Monday's decision.

Known as the "Lover's Lane Bandit," Chessman drew two death sentences and two life imprisonment sentences on conviction of 17 felony charges in Los Angeles county court. The charges included kidnapping for the purpose of robbery, grand theft and attempted rape. He was the first man doomed under California's "Little Lindbergh" law for kidnapping with bodily harm. Chessman did much of his own legal work in connection with the numerous appeals from the conviction.

His book, "Cell 2455, Death Row," came out last May. In it Chessman tells why he became a bandit. He has arranged to have the royalties used for the education of three children.

Accardo is the brother of Tony Accardo, reputed overlord of Chicago gambling.

Father Happy Over Losing Distinction

PITTSFIELD, Maine, Oct. 26—UP—Truck driver Lloyd Brooks no longer will be pointed out by neighbors as father of the nation's biggest all-girl family—but he doesn't care.

Because in losing the title, he gained—at long last—a son.

Leslie Benjamin Brooks was born into the family of 13 girls shortly after noon Sunday. He arrived—weighing six pounds eight ounces—in the living room of the family's remodeled schoolhouse home on Snake Root Road.

Brooks' 38-year-old wife, who had been expecting her 14th child would be another girl, said: "I'm so happy and pleased I'm practically speechless."

But Brooks, who is 39 and makes $50-a-week driving a truck, disclosed he had been hoping secretly for a boy each time his wife gave birth. His hopes went astray 13 times, but came home Sunday.
