Cull Chickens, Save On Time And Feed

By O. P. GRIFFIN
County Agent

In almost any flock of hens there are at least a few individuals that consume feed to no purpose, whatever. They include hens that are diseased. Sometimes reproductive organs do not function and sometimes for no apparent reason they just don't lay. By May 15, these loafers can be detected and removed from the flock.

Practically every farm has more hens than can be properly housed. Consequently the removal of culls at this time will make more room for the others, and increase the production of eggs. At the same time the feed bill will be reduced because of the smaller number of hens to feed.

What To Look For
The first thing to do is make an easy way to catch the hens. There should be a creep in the hen house through which the hens can go in and out. Fix a coop with a door in one end to fit the creep into the hen house. The hens can then be driven into the coop. They can be taken out through an opening in the top of the coop.

Any hen that has yellow shanks and beak at May 15th to September 1, should be sold. Pulletts have yellow shanks and beak, but as they begin to lay eggs they use up the yellow pigment out of their skin to make the "yellow" of the eggs. After they have been laying a few months the yellow fades out, leaving their shanks and beak pale. If the yellow color is still there now, you can be sure they have not been laying.

Examine the eyes. There may be some that have grey eyes. That is the amber color of the eye has faded out. All grey-eyed hens should be removed from the flock. This would not apply to pullets that have not come into production. But for hens that have been in production for a few months, and the eyes are fading into a dull grey color, a large percent of them will die before the summer is over. Better sell them before they get poor.

Look for lightweights. Maybe you can't tell what is the matter with them, but they are out going to do any good, and might do a great deal of harm in spreading disease in your flock, if, however you find more than a very few of this kind you may suspect that your yard has become infected with round worms. Kill one of them and split the intestines lengthwise and look for round worms. If you do find them a flock treatment with a worm remedy containing phenothiazine is indicated.

Of course all crippled hens should be taken out while you are culling. And if you have roosters with your flock it is time to get rid of them.

A culling at this time, providing a pasture of tender green grass, and the feeding of a good egg mash, or milk will greatly increase the profits from your egg production during the coming months.

Press Cloth Important In Getting Results

By RHEBA MERLE BOYLES
Co. Home Demonstration Agent

How well clothes look after pressing at home depends often on the press-cloth, say clothing specialists at the U. S. department of agriculture. Wool, rayon and silk clothes generally look better if protected from direct contact with the iron and steamed with the moisture from a damp press-cloth. Press clothing on the wrong side first, then turn and go over hems, seams and collars on the right side. Press until the damp press-cloth is dry.

A yard-square of cheesecloth makes a convenient general press-cloth. It can be folded for use on heavy material, or used single thickness, on thin materials. Cheesecloth is especially good for pressing white and light-colored rayons and silks which scorch easily. Wash new cloth to remove any sizing it contains. For pressing have it only slightly damp. Spread it over clothing and press only until it is dry.

A piece of old white or light-colored chiffon makes an excellent press-cloth for rayons or silks that water-spot, because it gives off the minimum of moisture. Wet the chiffon thoroughly, wring out excess water, and place in a heap at the end of the ironing board. Hold the iron at a nifty wet "ball" of chiffon until it begins to steam. Then spread the chiffon over the clothing for pressing.

For some thin silks and rayons, tissue paper is better for pressing than a press-cloth. If clothing is badly wrinkled, spread the paper over the clothing and run a damp sponge over the paper. Otherwise, press over the dry tissue.

Two press-cloths, one of cotton sheeting and one of wool, used together do the best job of pressing woolen clothes. Lay the wool cloth on first, then the damp cotton cloth. Press until the cotton cloth is dry. This double method

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 18 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, uric acid deposits and uric acid stones.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Deane's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Deane's Pills.

What It Means Changing Draft Picture

By JAMES D. WHITE
WASHINGTON — Young men between 28 and, say, 29 can't tell these days whether the draft is blowing their way or not. The Selective Service System is in another period of change, entering its third phase so far. These phases have been:

1. The period when dependency was the standard.
2. The "essentiality" era.
3. The current phase, when age determines, largely, whether a man will be drafted.

Emphasis On Youth
The changing needs of global war lie behind these sweeps of policy. Right now the armed forces want young men to replace older men who may be killed, injured or mustered out because of age.

Hence the present emphasis on the 18-26 age group. Before Pearl Harbor, the emphasis was largely upon dependency. A draft board had to decide whether a man's family needed him more than Uncle Sam. During this period the armed services increased from about a million to 2,300,000 men.

The second period came after Pearl Harbor, but gradually. Selective Service built up the armed forces to 6,500,000 by the time it was placed under the War Manpower commission in December, 1942, but after that the question became more and more a matter of how essential a man's work was to the war effort and vital civilian economy.

The Father Question
A definition of "essential" that satisfied everyone never was reached, however, and meanwhile, uncertainty developed as to whether fathers should be drafted. After Pearl Harbor the age limit was changed from 21-28 to 21-45, later was cut back to 18-28 after it was decided to draft teen-agers.

The Navy had been ordered to take its manpower from Selective Service instead of relying upon volunteers, and during 1943 higher manpower goals were announced by the armed forces at the same time that war production continued expanding.

Congress debated the drafting of fathers, and this had the effect of causing local draft boards to postpone inducting fathers. In the meantime, Congress had legislated to defer essential farm workers, thus withholding a slice of several thousand out of the prime manpower pool from the purely military standpoint.

Now comes the latest shift in policy — the emphasis on youth. The army announced April 6 that it had filled its manpower needs of 11,000,000 men (and would reach a peak of 11,300,000 by September) but would need

Lineman: Advance agents drive into enemy-held jungle areas are GI telephone wire teams. Most of them have operated on their own in Japanese territory, stringing wire for communications to be used by US liaison officers when they move in with advancing Chinese forces. The first army telephone line in Burma was laid by a team which won recognition for its work, and included S-Sgt. Ross J. Callahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Callahan of Big Spring. Sgt. Callahan was graduated from the local high school in 1930 and volunteered for service around two years ago. At the present time he is in the India-Burma theatre of operations.

Fill In And Mail Cotton Class Card

That Cotton Variety Card you received in the mail is important. Fill it out and mail it.

Last year Howard county had a cotton improvement association. As a result, all of the farmers of the county had their cotton classed free. Otherwise it would have cost 25 cents per bale for classing.

We are offering the same proposition this year; but in order to get it, we must report the acreage to be planted on each farm by varieties. You can help by filling out that card and mailing it. Only 35 per cent of the cards have been received at the county agent's office.

Japanese Drives Cut Chinese Gap

By SPENCER MOOSA CHUNGKING, May 4 (AP)—Japanese troops striking from the south and north have narrowed the Chinese-held gap along the Peiping-Hankow railway in Honan province to only 75 miles, field dispatches disclosed tonight.

An invader column striking up the trackless railway has captured Minkiang, 23 miles north of the big Japanese base of Sinyang. Minkiang is only some 70 miles below Yenching, menaced by Japanese columns pushing southward down the railway. Yenching is 90 miles south of captured Chenghsien. Chinese forces at last reports still held out, however, at Hsuehang, on the railway nearly midway between Chenghsien and Yenching. The Japanese meanwhile renewed with air support their drive upon Loyang, 65 miles west of Chenghsien, pushing within nine miles of Tengtung, 30 miles southeast of Loyang. A communique indicated the Chinese were fighting bitterly to halt the Japanese columns squeezing from north and south along the Peiping-Hankow railway.

So You Want To Be A War Correspondent!

MOST people think it's easy to be a war correspondent. Artist Howell Dadd thought so too, when he got the assignment to cover the war for AP Features. But Dadd soon discovered that the job of just getting ready for the trip abroad was one of the toughest he had ever tackled. Here he sketches some of the woes of a correspondent-to-be. You will be seeing more of Dadd's sketches in this newspaper.

1. You've got to volunteer, then sell yourself to the boss. You need years of experience, good health, and the ability to take hardship just as well as the troops.

2. Your background is thoroughly investigated by the F.B.I. and the Army. Then you equip yourself to go anywhere. That means a yard-long passport, different clothing, maybe even a tent.

3. Next comes vaccination for typhoid, yellow fever, typhus, tetanus, cholera and smallpox. Some persons are ill for days after inoculations. You must be ready to face terrible living conditions.

4. You equip yourself according to Army style, then wait perhaps weeks for transportation—wondering about the fact that chances of being killed are greater than in the Army.

Ward Official Seized By FBI

CHICAGO, May 4 (AP)—Paul D. Sowell, assistant operating manager of Montgomery Ward and Company, was seized by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents at the government-controlled mall order plant today and charged with "stealing or injuring" U. S. government property.

William J. Connor, first assistant U. S. attorney, told Walker that Sowell was seized as he was "taking down" a government poster. Connor said the poster informed employees that any discharges since April 26, the day the government took control of the plant, were invalid and the cases would be heard by John D. Goodloe, government-named grievance officer dealing with the CIO unit D mail order, warehouse and retail employees. The poster also said there would be no further dismissals without hearings before Goodloe.

Sowell was arraigned immediately before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker and released on $250 bond pending a hearing May 11. He pleaded innocent.

Outside the hearing room Sowell told reporters that when he saw the poster this morning he noticed it had to do with relations between employees and management and that "rather than stand in the hall reading it, I was removing the thumbtacks in order to take the poster into my office and read it in its entirety, and abide by it, of course."

THE COOK'S FORUM

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
AP Food Editor

On my radio program I have been running a contest for the best planned low-point, no-point menu with a recipe for the main dish. The contestants are all housewives, most of whom do their own work, and the entries are their own inventions, many of them concocted through the pinch of necessity. Remarkably original recipes and well-balanced menus have been submitted, two of which are printed here. I think they cannot fail to be of help to other housewives in planning meals which are low in point and money cost and yet full of taste appeal.

Fresh Pork Tongue Patties with Prunes

4 fresh pork tongues,
8 slices stale bread
1 egg
Salt and pepper to taste
1 onion, grated
Wash and clean pork tongues and simmer in salted water until tender (about 2 1/2 hours.) Remove skins, bones and other waste. Chill. Put through good grinder. Soak bread in water, squeeze dry and put through food grinder. Add egg, salt and pepper, and grated onion. Add egg, salt also additional bread or bread and pepper, and grated onion; crumbs if necessary. Blend well and form into patties. Brown slowly in frying pan or skillet.

Sauce
1-2 prunes
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
3 whole cloves
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup water
1-2 cup honey
Simmer prunes, spices, vinegar, honey and water about 15 minutes. Pour over browned patties, cover and continue to cook slowly for about 15 minutes longer. You've never tasted a more delicious meat dish! And Mrs. Nitz adds this note to her entry: "The liquid from the tongues makes a delicious broth. The tongues are not as fatty as other parts of pork, which makes them more readily digestible. When other meats are scarce, fresh pork tongues are usually available."

Here's another entry which makes delicious use of currently plentiful bacon and eggs.

Pastry
8-10 slices crisp bacon.
4 eggs
3 cups milk
Salt and pepper to taste
Sift onto board a cup of flour mixed with 1-4 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon sugar. Sift in the shape of a cone. Into the hole in the middle put the yolk of one egg and 1-2 cup of butter or margarine. Work all this together gently to form a paste. A very little water may be added. Handle very lightly. Do not knead. Cover and put in the ice box—preferably over night. Roll thin, spread with slivers of ice-cold margarine.

Fold up and roll thin. (Prepared pastry mix may be used instead.) Line a straight sided large pie plate with pastry and prick bottom with a fork. Break bacon in pieces and sprinkle over the bottom of the pie plate. Beat eggs and add milk, salt and pepper. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a slow oven about two hours, or until custard sets.

This can be varied with 3-4 cup of chopped ham instead—or half bacon and half shredded Swiss cheese (if your points permit). As you see, each of these meals is well-balanced, has color, variety in texture of foods, and unusual flavor, either of them costs much. Don't they inspire you to greater care in planning and greater inventiveness in cooking? We hope so!

Doctors Approve Serving Coffee

AIDS DIGESTION

Improper digestion frequently induces that "all fagged out" feeling—when you're really not tired at all. Delicious, wholesome Admiration often relieves such "fatigue," because this pure, mild blend of choice coffees actually aids digestion. It increases the flow of gastric juices, thereby aiding normal digestion. Youngster and older alike find it mighty helpful—and a delightful refreshment besides! Many mothers give children "half and half" to encourage their drinking greater quantities of milk.

PRODUCES ENERGY

As a producer and restorative of quick energy neither man nor nature has devised even a close second to coffee. Nor in turn has the rich, fragrant aroma and flavor of Admiration ever been duplicated. This unique blend, famed throughout the Southwest, steps up physical output almost with the first delightful sip. You feel its satisfying goodness immediately—and all the way down! Next time you drink a cup, observe how it picks you up. Note, too, the thrilling flavor and rich aroma.

A Welcome Development

Aside from what it will accomplish in the satisfying of appetites, the relaxation of meat rationing as announced by Chester Bowles, administrator of OPA, is a welcome development.

It is another evidence of an increasing humaneness in OPA since Mr. Bowles began wrestling with the multiple problems of this war-born emergency organization. It also represents another step toward the refutation of the doctrine of scarcity as a war morale builder.

No one argues that OPA is perfect, but most fair minded people—unless they happen to be smarting under some particular section that seems or is absurd in a certain case—will admit that there has been a general improvement in the program.

Thus when something becomes clear, he has not waited to have the issue forced, but has acted before there was a general public awareness, much less pressure.

The fact that meat rationing has been relaxed because there are surpluses and because of a need to encourage producers to market their animals certainly should invite confidence in handling of the program.

In announcing that all meats, except beef steaks and beef roasts, would be point free, OPA made mention of the fact that it would simplify the work of food dealers to a degree. It's good to see the agency exercising this consideration, even in passing, for our food merchants have had an important role in the success of price control and rationing.

One Of Pressing Needs

One of the more popular sayings of our generations has been: "What this country needs is a good five cent cigar."

Paraphrasing a bit, we are moved to observe that our particular part of the country needs now is a good three-inch rain. As soon as the wind gets right, we may give a movement for rain our strongest editorial support.

If canoes insist on getting tipsy this summer we may have to vote the rivers dry.

Washington In Wartime—

President Still In Sound Health

WASHINGTON—It's time again to lay the ghost of that old rumor that pops up every election year that the President's health is bad and won't stand the strain of more years in the White House.

That that old ghost is clanking his chains again is evident in that the President went out of his way recently at a press conference to dwell on his physical condition and emphasize that he never felt better.

It was this insistence from Adm. McIntire that finally made the President recently go south for a little sunshine and fresh air.

The curse of the White House according to McIntire and other physicians, is that a man must live with his work. From rising hour until bedtime, the White House isn't any President's private castle.

His stamp collection, which used to offer almost daily escape, now has to go untouched for weeks. Probably F.D.R.'s favorite relaxation, that of inviting in a few inmates for a snack supper, verbal horseplay and maybe an hour or so of penny-ante, also has

by DeWitt Mackenzie Associated Press War Analyst

The Japanese invasion of India across the frontier from Burma has developed into a fierce and dangerous race against time—an effort to capture the big Allied base of Imphal and the small neighboring base of Kohima before the monsoon deluge turns the jungle into a steaming morass about a fortnight hence.

It's a tense situation. The Japanese commander has issued an order of the day saying it is vital that these bases be captured—so important that its achievement might end the war.

The commander's pep-talk is a gross exaggeration, for these captures couldn't be decisive. However, it's true that even possession of Imphal would provide the invaders with headquarters in which they could weather the storm—one of the world's worst—and be ready to strike at Allied communications between India and China again when the monsoon ceases in the autumn.

Should the Nipponese fail, the entire expedition of some 30,000 men would be in danger of death, if not from the Allies, then from being marooned in the flooded jungle. It would be an army cut off from its base and all supplies.

New Delhi tells us that the British and Indian forces in the Imphal theatre hold sufficient advantage so that they may be able to annihilate the Mikado's little men if the latter don't retreat ahead of the onrushing monsoon. In any event, the invaders have failed at least for the time being in the two prime objectives of their offensive, namely:

1. To capture Imphal and use it as a base from which to cut the railway, river and highway communications that run from Bengal through Assam to northeast India and form an integral part of the Chinese life-line.

2. To start a revolution in India by representing that the invasion force was composed largely of Indians marching in the army of freedom, led—so Tokyo has trumpeted—by the Indian firebrand, Subhas Chandra Bose.

The Japanese figured that if they could achieve all this, it would leave them free to devote most of their attention to the MacArthur-Nimitz drive from the east. Probably it was worth trying.

but he does take setting up exercises.

Roosevelt's over-all health record in the White House is remarkable. Only once in more than 11 years has he been confined to his bed for as long as two weeks. Only twice in 25 years has the President had a serious illness, the last in 1921—infantile paralysis.

Quite a record for a man moving into his sixties, after three turbulent terms in the White House.

Hollywood—How It Is With "Featured Players"

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—Marta Linden is just one of that myriad of names MGM lists on its contract roster as "featured players."

There is no particular reason I should be writing about her today. She has not sprung suddenly into the limelight with a choice acting assignment. She has not invented a new hair-do, worn trousers to church, assaulted or divorced her husband, nor even been named the favorite pin-up girl of this or that division of the soldiery.

The affair was informal and I wore my ordinary column clothes. The only man there in a dinner jacket was Former Gov. William P. Hobby, publisher of the Houston Post. Come to think about it, the percentage of Texans present was small compared with the average occasion of the kind.

Morale Is Not Sitting In Stands And Watching Men Meet The Enemy

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Having been to see an infantry division which is just about ready to go into battle, I have come back realizing the truth of what one of our wisest soldiers, once told me about morale. It is that civilians have the greatest difficulty in understanding morale because they are always trying to imagine what they would do if some one rang the doorbell, tapped them on the shoulder and said: 'Come along, my friend, you will invade Europe tomorrow morning. They just do not see how they could face up to it and in this mood they become nervously sentimental and hero-worshipful or they palpitate with schemes for injecting noble thoughts or violent hatreds into the Army.'

chance to do what they have prepared themselves to do. Waiting around too long, warming up forever and never getting into the game, this is the kind of thing which undermines morale, especially the morale of Americans who are for the most part exceptionally highly strung, impatient and easily bored.

The morale of the American civilian population is governed, it seems to me, by a similar principle. It is excellent, all things considered, among those who have a hard and definite job to do which they know how to do. It is not very attractive among those who haven't enough to do. Every one who went to England in the period after Dunkerque was deeply impressed with the mood of the civilian population. Mr. Churchill's great speeches had a part in it. But what counted most, so it seemed to me, in steadying the nerves of the people and in giving them such a noble serenity of spirit was the fact that virtually every man and woman—yes, and woman—had a necessary job to do.

Our trouble is that because we did not absolutely have to do it our public men did not have the insight and resolution to mobilize the whole adult population. They have left large numbers of our people outside the greatest understanding, and people who feel they are not needed in a war soon begin to complain about trifles.

TEXAS' GREATEST JEWELERS EASY CREDIT Big Spring, Tex.

Add Zest and Nourishment to Lenten Salads with Cream Cheese Dressing

IT'S good hostess technique to let salads bolster up both taste appeal and nutritional value of Lenten menus.

If you use a dressing made with flavored cream cheese, you'll have a real appetite treat and you'll be giving your menus a special nutritional plus, too, because cream cheese is a rich source of protein as well as calcium, minerals and vitamins. All you have to do is to beat up a six-ounce wedge cut of cream cheese with four tablespoons of mayonnaise. These wedge cuts come in pimento, chive and relish flavor, as well as the plain variety, and each produces a distinctive dressing. That made with relish cream cheese has special affinity for fish salads, and doubles as a toothsome accompaniment for fried fish fillets, too. The pimento cream cheese dressing is delicious with fruit salads. And with the chive wedge cut of cream cheese you can make a dressing that points up a vegetable salad in most appetizing fashion. With onions scarce until the new spring crop comes in, this chive-flavored salad dressing is especially welcome.

The wedge cuts are packaged to keep for several weeks, unopened, in the refrigerator, so it's good marketing strategy to keep a supply on hand.

An important bit of technique in salad making prescribes greens that are well dried. After thorough washing, they should be patted in a clean towel to absorb excess moisture. Another important point to remember is that neat, almost precise, arrangement of the various elements used in a salad adds to its appeal. Color contrast, too, is important. A crisp-cross of pimento or green pepper strips peeks up a fish or potato salad, and a bright red cherry adds a happy climax to a salad mixture of apple or other light fruit.

By JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Selective Service (SS) headquarters said today it is working on a new draft plan to be announced before the nation's draft boards have exhausted their supply of men 18 to 26 years old.

That supply, SS explained, is expected to last at least another six weeks and perhaps as much as three months longer. What shape the new plan will take could not be learned.

Until that plan is disclosed, SS said emphatically, no man over 26 and engaged in an essential or

LONDON, May 4 (AP)—The leader of a military mission dispatched to London by Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) declared today there was no possibility of an agreement being reached between the Yugoslav national liberation council and King Peter until the war is over.

Young Maj. Gen. Vladimir Veljevit spoke bitterly of the king and his government and asserted neither he nor his mission would have anything to do with them during his stay in England.

"There is no chance that we will have any agreement with the king," he said. "It has been laid down by our council that only the people in a free election after the war can decide they want a monarchy."

FORT WORTH, May 4 (AP)—Herry Bell, secretary, manager of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, predicts increased cattle marketing activity with the removal by the OPA of all but two types of meat from the ration list.

"Anything that creates a bigger outlet for meat will hasten the marketing of meat animals," Bell said following the OPA action. "We'll see how it works out. Maybe they will decide to do away with meat rationing entirely."

Bake a Ham Slice!

FOR a Sunday special to serve a small family, have you tried baking a slice of ham? Get a center slice cut about an inch and a half thick; stick fat with a line of cloves, place in a casserole and bake, uncovered, in the oven of your gas range, preheated to 325 degrees F. Cooking authorities agree that the slower cooking at this temperature produces a more tender, juicy piece of ham than more rapid baking at a higher temperature.

After half an hour, uncover ham and baste with syrup from canned fruit and continue the baking (uncovered this time), for 40 minutes, or until ham is tender.

Since ham has a natural affinity for fruit flavors, serve the slice with fruit—a variety being possible, such as pineapple slices, halves of peaches, or apricots, or slices of fresh apples or oranges. The fruit may either be baked, or it may be broiled under the open flame—particularly if your oven and broiler utilize the same burner.

Parrot gets Will Dudley's Goat

Will Dudley never liked his wife's pet parrot. Claimed the parrot called him "Stinky"—and ate his pipe tobacco. And the Missus said it served Will right... she'd told him not to smoke his pipe indoors.

To make her point, the Missus grabs Will's pipe and throws it out the window. So Will grabs the parrot and throws him out too. Looks like unpleasantness—till in comes the parrot with Will's corn cob in his mouth. (And whistling "Home Sweet Home," Will claims.)

Well, Will and his wife both bust out laughing... and made peace over a friendly glass of beer, allowing how it's pretty silly getting mad at one another's differences.

From where I sit, that's a mighty happy ending. If all of us would, live and let live in a spirit of tolerance—whether it's tolerance for a parrot or a pipe—we'd be a whole lot happier, and better off.
