

Mrs. John Parker Is Guest Speaker For Baptist WMU

Approximately 80 women gathered Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 in the First Baptist Church to hear Mrs. John Parker, Santiago, Chile, speak on missionary work.

Mrs. Parker told of the scenic beauty of Chile, calling it the Switzerland of South America. She also described the beauty of the Andes Mountains following the description she discussed the characteristics of the Chilean people and how they responded to the missionary work there. In closing Mrs. Parker challenged those present with an appeal for Chile, by telling of the extreme need existing now for more trained workers.

Mrs. C. W. Hill, president, presented Mrs. Parker and her sister, Mrs. Glenn Hackney, with twin gardenia corsages from the WMU. She also presided over the register. Mrs. Owen Johnson presented the speaker with a Quaker lace table cloth and white chenille bedspread from the First Baptist WMU.

The meeting was opened with a song led by Mrs. Homer Doggett with Mrs. E. Douglas Carver at the piano. Rev. E. Douglas Carver led the prayer. Mrs. Charlie Miller, local missions chairman, introduced the speaker.

At the close of the meeting the G. A. Girls served fruit, punch, cookies and nuts from a lace covered table centered with a flower arrangement in a low crystal bowl. Miss Jane Hampton poured the punch from the crystal service. Other girls assisting with the serving were Misses Dolores Miller, Janice Doggett, Joyce Coffey, Berdine Laycock and Phoebe Osborne.

Guests were Mrs. Glenn Hackney and daughters, Jeannette, Ann and Glenna, of Lubbock; Mesdames L. G. Lunsford, C. Redd, E. Spears, Nat Lunsford, R. E. McCallip, Hugh Peoples, Frank Silcott, A. M. Harvey, M. E. McClendon, C. C. Stark, E. P. Sheriff, E. C. Cox, Gaylon Roberts, J. F. Webb, D. L. Lunsford and L. O. Roenfeldt, all from the Central Baptist WMU.

WE, THE WOMEN

Teen-agers Needn't Be Bothered by Smart Alecs

By RUTH MILLETT

Three sweet-faced girls, who couldn't have been more than fifteen years old, were walking along the main street of a small city. Within a block three different groups of men or boys slowed down their cars, whistled, and yelled smart remarks at them.

The girls hadn't done anything to call forth the whistles. Their prettiness and their youth did that.

Why should young girls have to put up with that sort of thing in their own home towns?

Why can't they walk to and from a movie at night without being whistled at and yelled at by smart alecks?
Yet in most American small towns and cities today, they can't. The police will give a ticket to the driver who parks five minutes overdue in a restricted zone, but the smarty behind the wheel of a car who leans out and hollers at every girl or group of girls walking along the street isn't even stopped.

PARENTS CAN HELP
Any parent with a teen-age daughter ought to make it a point to notice if that is the treatment teen-age girls receive in his city after dark. If it is, he should demand that the city officials make whistling and yelling at girls a punishable offense, so that women can enjoy the right to walk along the streets without annoying attention from strangers.

Or he should go back to the old-fashioned rule of not letting his daughter wander around downtown streets at night unescorted.

Miss Hastings Gives Demonstration Friday On Machine Adjusting

Miss Ann Hastings, home demonstration agent, instructed Mrs. O. A. Wagner and Mrs. Allen Vandover in cleaning and adjusting their sewing machines when the Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met Friday afternoon in the Vandover home.

While working on Mrs. Wagner's portable electric machine and Mrs. Vandover's old-fashioned drop-head type machine, Miss Hastings stated that with a little cleaning fluid, two sizes of screw drivers, crochets, hook, paint brush, stiff tooth brush, a little self-confidence any woman can save a cleaning bill and keep her machine in good running order.

Mrs. N. B. Cude, vice president, presided in the absence of Mrs. A. French. Mrs. O. G. Smith gave a report on the all-club picnic at which the Worthwhile Club won a prize for having the most members present.

Snowballs and feed lemonade were served at the refreshment hour to those mentioned and Mesdames J. A. Grundy, G. H. Anderson, D. E. Bump, T. V. Lane, W. H. Lewis, D. L. Lunsford, G. L. Lunsford, Chester Williams, two visitors, Mesdames L. R. McKinzie and W. L. Waggoner.

Miss Parrott and Mr. Howard Wed In Twilight Rite

Miss Alberta Parrott, daughter of Mrs. Esther Parrott, Enid, Okla., and Bob Howard, brother of the bride, were married Sunday, July 27, in the Pentecostal Holiness Church in Amarillo. Rev. C. R. Howard, Sr., performed the twilight ceremony.

Mrs. C. R. Howard, Jr., Pampa, matron-of-honor, wore an aqua dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. C. R. Howard, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride selected for her wedding ensemble an oyster white dress with white accessories and a shoulder length veil. She carried a white Bible topped with a spray of double gardenias and white ribbon streamers. The traditional something old, new, borrowed, and blue was carried out.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mansell McNew. Mrs. C. R. Howard, Jr., served the wedding cake and Mrs. McNew ladeled punch.

Mr. Howard, who formerly resided in Pampa, is now employed at Minton's Funeral Home, Borger. The couple is at home at 411 S. Main, Borger.

TURN ABOUT'S FAIR PLAY

Speaking before a labor union at Hastings, England, a few days ago, Britain's Foreign Minister Bevin told the workers that it was "right and proper for Europe to make a claim upon American's productive genius" in the second reconstruction of Europe. "Americans," he said, "made a great contribution to the war, but it is right and proper that we have a claim upon them to assist now with their great production policy."

What he said has long been expected by those on this side of the Atlantic who have been watching the trend. The country that used to hint or come right out and ask for help is now demanding it by claiming a right to it.

The expression "right and proper" can best be used on this side of the pond. It certainly is right and proper for us to expect the people of Britain and all the rest of the European nations to quit their internal bickering and begging and get busy building the "great production policy" that is America's. Every last one of those countries was a country when the United States was known but to God. They had the opportunities we used to develop the United States. They have them today, but they prefer to be subjects of some high-paid royalty whose ruling abilities are measured by birth instead of brains.

Continuing, Mr. Bevin said he thinks it is right for the United States to supplement what the people of Europe do for themselves under the Marshall proposal. In this connection it might be well for the American people to be told just what they are doing for themselves. We've been led to believe that they are sort of powerless without our help. Supplementary aid is one thing and footing the whole bill is another. And supplementary aid should be tapered off until we are out of the picture entirely. The quickest way to make a boy get his school problems is to let him know that mom and pop won't help him. The quickest way to get Europe to help herself is to serve notice that we as a nation are willing to be of assistance, but on a temporary basis. It's been almost two years since the war ended and the demands upon us are growing instead of diminishing.

WASHINGTON
By RAY TUCKER

QUESTIONS—Question: "Do you and the majority of Washington newspaper correspondents think that the record of the Eightyeth Congress was as bad as it has been painted by some writers, radio commentators and Democratic spokesmen? Was it controlled by the corporations and selfish lobbyists? R. Y. Harrisburg, Pa.

ARMY—"Is it true," asks L. G. M. Long Beach, Cal., "that the Skoda arms works in Czechoslovakia is working twenty-four hours a day turning out weapons for Russia?"

ANSWER: Our intelligence people cannot vouch for the shift schedule at Skoda, one of the most productive munitions plants in the world. But Russian aviators were careful to spare it in their wartime bombing raids, as they did the Romanian oil fields.

Washington believes, however, that Moscow is producing intensively at all army centers she has grabbed in Germany, the Balkans and elsewhere. It would be natural for her to place Skoda on an around-the-clock basis.

WEAK—"Congressman Wright Patman," writes R. K. Texarkana, Ark.-Tex., "says he is encountering strong opposition in Congress to printing of a book on Fascism in the United States. Is there such a threat from the right, as Patman says?"

ANSWER: I don't think so. At least not so much as there obviously is from the left. Mr. Patman may have dug up information that the rest of us do not know, but it will be a surprise if he has. Congress has opposed publication because it thought the project a waste of money.

DEFENSE—The Eightyeth Congress did well by national defense. It unified the armed services so as to choke off professional jealousies and competition that have weakened us in all wars. It provided for a National Science Foundation that will provide the engineers, chemists, atomic experts and scientists which such a nation as the United States needs in war or peace time.

It corrected years of carelessness in the selection of key men for federal service by passing a Loyalty Act along the lines proposed by President Truman.

POLITICS—The Eightyeth Congress has been criticized chiefly, and urged by the Wallace-Henderson-Yarlt liberal group, because of its failure to enact social welfare legislation. Certain measures of behalf the veterans and for its passage the Hartley-Taft Act over the presidential veto.

Frankly, I think the G.O.P. leadership

THOUGHTS

Now therefore come, and deliver us out of their hands, for many names are slain.—Machabees 5:12

Every cry of the soul is for freedom. It longs for liberty from the state of its first conscious moment.—J. G. Holland.

TOPSOIL—Many readers have asked for more details on a recent column in which I said that we had exported valuable topsoil to other countries during the war and in our postwar, aid-to-Europe program.

ANSWER: This topsoil is not shipped like fertilizer, rich earth or other soil-building products. It is exported as corn, wheat, cattle and in the form of other foods.

Growing these crops year after year, under intensive farming methods, strips our soil of essential life-giving chemicals and qualities. It necessitates extra expenditure for artificial fertilizers on the part of the farmer.

'RETURN' by Upton Close

THE MONEY MEN

When five-star General Douglas MacArthur said last week he was coming home as soon as a Japanese peace treaty could be arranged he was not to delay that treaty.

Whether or not MacArthur so intended it, the announcement had the effect of tossing his braided cap into the 1948 political ring. Unless and until he flatly refuses to be a candidate, he must be reckoned a major contender for the presidency.

Hence any unseemly delay by Truman and his State Department in getting down to the Japanese peace table would give MacArthur men a chance to yell foul. And yell they would, especially since many of them persist in believing that Truman's New Deal predecessor took the advantage of his position to keep presidential threat MacArthur out of the country during election years.

When the hero of Bataan said, "I shall return" (to the States) he chose his time. In fact, his political strategy has been regularly, no less astute than the military strategy for which historians will remember him.

The statement followed by a few hours the announcement that the Gen-nation Allied Control Commission, which advises the Soviets in reconstructing Japan, had expressed unanimous approval of his regime. This approval itself made the world sit up and take notice because the Soviets are, of course, the Red's hate MacArthur with a will, the fact is he has forced them to respect him. Who else among world figures can claim such a triumph?

But the point is the announcement by the commission cleared the way for an immediate peace conference, and the potential president took the fullest advantage of the opportunity. Only bootlegging now could delay the peace more than a few months, even if the Soviets have refused to cooperate.

It is commendable, if not significant, that the State Department already has proposed a preliminary conference on the Japanese peace treaty the tentative date for August 15.

There was yet more strategy in the timing of MacArthur's announcement: He may be expected home by, say, next May, in time for the Wisconsin primary, the first primary of the year. Is it just a coincidence that the old soldier chose as his home state, Wisconsin, where he had not lived since marching away to West Point nearly a half century ago? He has hosts of friends there and the Wisconsin primary has come more to be watched as a test of strength of presidential candidates. Wilkie, for example, staked all his chips on it and refused to try for the Republican nomination after he lost in that primary.

There is something almost fatalistic in the persistent rise of MacArthur's star. The march of world events has combined with New Deal weakness and bungling to set the stage for a man of his strength and judgment. Republicans and conservative Democrats alike are sick of New Deal squandering, of socialism, of double-talk and double-dealing of Kelly and Pennington politics in the White House, of Communist agents in the government and Communist spies in our military projects.

They are sick of appeasement of Moscow and appeasement of tough-talking union strong men, and they are becoming alarmed at the increasing boldness of a government-protected fifth column which attempts to intimidate a Republican Senator by picketing his son's wedding, puts out smear charges of "anti-Semitism" which doubtless helped work up a fanatic to shoot at another Republican Senator, kills a railroad president, makes it necessary for the Congressional author of corrective labor legislation to have a police escort in our nation's capital.

Of all this stinking mess, MacArthur would make short work, as the voters will know.

If we are in for a Communist era, it is alarming at some critical moment, who else would so fearlessly round up the giants of unionism and pop their heads together without regard to political fortunes?

The one man feared by the Soviets would be our best guarantee of peace; and if war must come, the man of a hundred military and administrative triumphs should be a dependable leader.

Well, the member of the American Physical Society claims that it's just as noisy deep down in the ocean as it is on a busy city street. This bother me much because I wouldn't care to live deep down in the ocean. Anyhow I'm sure it would be bad for my sinuses.

He says that some kinds of salt-water fish make as much noise as subway trains but I've lived in New York and I don't believe that's possible. Most of the noise there comes when people are squeezed into the trains and you couldn't very well squeeze people into a herring.

I'm no authority but, in my opinion, the clam is the noisiest thing that comes out of the ocean. I came to that conclusion after listening to my brother Willy eat a bowl of clam chowder.

QUICKIES

By Ken Reynolds

"You're right, you do merit more salary—speak to me about it in a few days—after I see whether or not I can replace you with a News Want Ad!"

THE MONEY MEN

Just where is all the nation's money? Probably we've all asked that question at some time. However, we don't have to go far to find a multitude of "experts" eager to point out the answer—their answer. These might range from the old adage about 90 per cent of the wealth in the hands of 10 per cent of the people," to other outdated adages just as economically unsound.

The real answer is simple enough. In investigating the possible culprits who command the nation's economy, the most important individuals—ourselves. Yet many people think only of wealth as being controlled by a few. These usually are pictured as pompous capitalists exploiting the masses for their own gain. A more untruth picture could hardly exist.

Equal Shares

Actually, the distribution of the nation's money constitutes the most striking argument for freedom of enterprise in our country. Together with more than 50 million of his fellow employed workers, Mr. Average Citizen in 1945 took home some 114.5 billion dollars—71.1 per cent of the national income. As members of the largest group they received the largest share of the country's money. This is the natural consequence of democracy.

Wide distribution does not stop here. In the same period a part of the national income went to the proprietor class—the farmers, small businessmen, doctors, dentists, and other professional men. It is difficult to think of the latter group as greedy exploiters. Through their own work and training they have provided themselves with a livelihood.

More Sharing

The remaining 2.8 per cent is again distributed. Rents, interest and dividends account for the major part, with corporate savings amounting to only 2.8 per cent of the national income. Included in rent receipts are large numbers of small property owners, whose rent-bearing holdings might be only a home or building. Then, too, thousands of small stockholders account for a good share of the interest and dividend income.

The 4.5 billion dollars earned as corporate savings is a far cry from the "profiteer" pictures painted by those who would change our way of economic life. For the most part, this is the source of the laboring man's income. This 2.8 per cent return to corporations is their share of a system which puts 71.1 per cent into the pockets of the employed man. As a minority group, corporations receive a minority share.

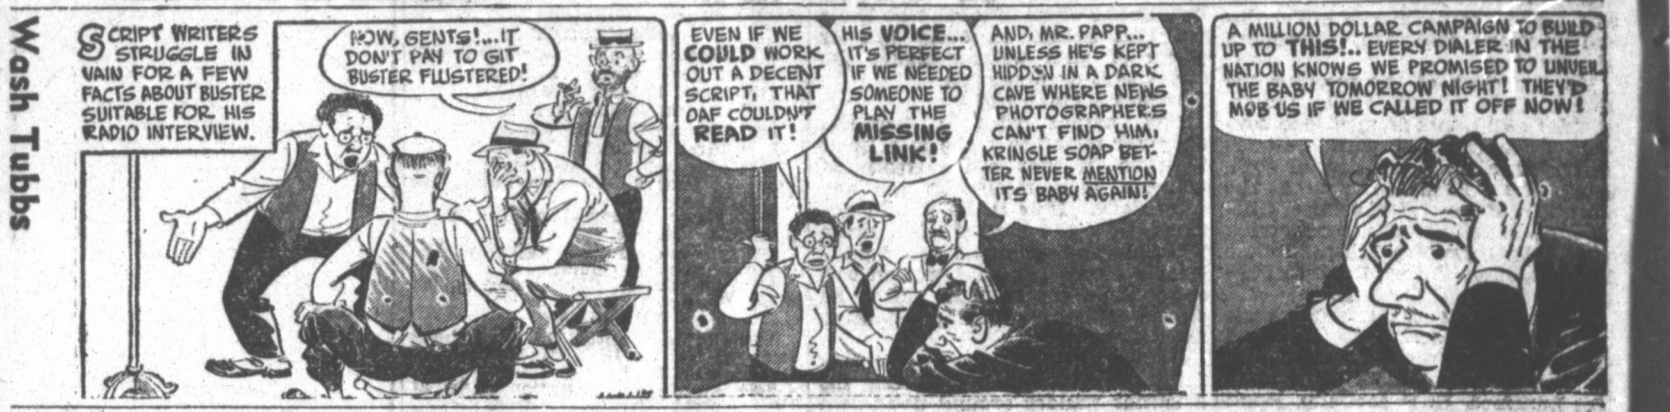

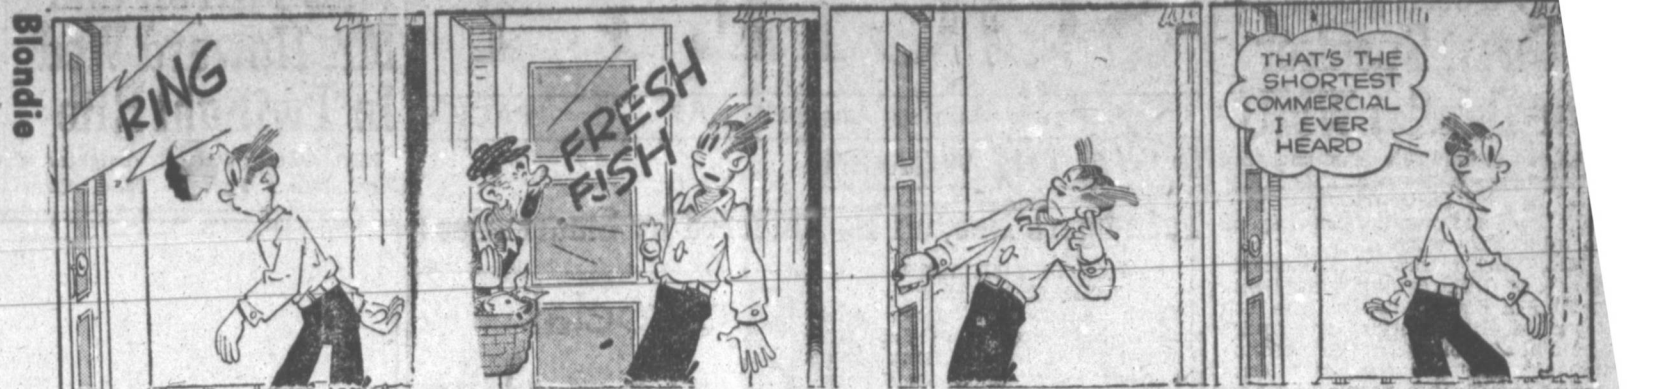

What's the Change?

Despite these sobering statistics, there are many who would call for a change. There are those who would take the responsibility away from the individual and vest it in a central authority. There are those who believe that these interests would "give the wealth to the people" in a nation where the majority of the people now receive the majority of the income. They would junk our successful economy to institute an unproved one—all to achieve an ideal which we have achieved already in greater country.

Rather than give serious attention to radical changes, we should strengthen and protect what we now have. It is alarming that in the past few years investment in tools and machinery has fallen off. This is the result of discouragement to capital. It comes from excessive taxes, government control, and uncertainty of industrial problems, for the most part. The use of capital in investment, has made our system work. To keep a dynamic economy we must preserve that system. Freedom of opportunity is the keynote to a future of prosperity.

The greatest hope for political peace lies in achieving economic peace through improved living standards. There can be no political peace without economic peace.

—William L. Batt, former vice chairman, WPB.
