Political Candidates Enter Final Week Of Campaign

By ED NASH
Pampa News Staff Writer

Gray County political candidates today enter the final week of campaigning before the Republican and Democratic primaries, scheduled Saturday.

Pampans will have an opportunity Tuesday night to see the candidates and hear what they have to say at a "soap box" political rally in Central Park. Slated for 8 p.m., it is sponsored by the Pampa League of Women Voters and the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce.

That will come several hours after County Clerk Charlie Thut closes the doors to absentee voting and one full day after candidates who have filed in Gray County have passed the deadline on filing their fourth and final round of campaign expenses.

That same day Sheriff Rufe Jordan will deliver to the county's 18 voting precincts all the supplies for the Democratic primary. Republican plans at the end of the week are incomplete. A light GOP vote is expected; there are no Gray County candidates on the ballot.

Polls Open 8 a.m.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday. A total of 4,903 county residents — those who have paid the poll tax and those who have obtained exemptions — are on the poll lists. But that does not include persons over 60 who live outside the Pampa limits. They are not required to register to obtain their exemptions.

Primary Day will also be Precinct Convention Day for both parties. Demos will meet at 10 a.m. Saturday; the GOPs at 2 p.m. For county conventions the Demos will gather at 10 a.m. July 31 in the District Courtroom; the GOPs at 3 p.m. the same day in the County Courtroom.

The hottest race in Gray County appears to be that for county judge. A lot of interest, too, has been stirred up in the races for county treasurer and district attorney. And there has been some heat in the county commissioner race.

Others in the county have received passing or localized interest. In surrounding counties, there are two contested races in Ochiltree, one in Lipscomb, four in Hemphill, five in Roberts, six in Wheeler and three in Carson. Sheriff, treasurer and commissioner races comprise most of them.

Incumbent J. B. Maguire, Jr., Broke Parker, who was county judge here from 1948 to 1952, and L. P. Fort are embroiled in the three-way race for Gray County judge. Maguire, resting on his record, says he has tried all cases conscientiously, has been honest and fair at all times, and will continue to do so. He points to the "efficient manner" in which he has conducted the office.

Parker, in opposing Maguire, asserts there are two things county residents have been insisting upon: (1) that all county commissioners' court sessions be open to the public and the press and (2) that all criminal cases be called for trial without undue delay. Crimmins stated he is in favor of a county doctor, juvenile officer and welfare worker.

Fort says he will do the best he can for his constituents, that he is running for a clean race. Crimmins should not go untried and disposed of over a matter of years, he stated.

County Treasurer Ola Gregory and Mrs. Frankie Mae White are running hard for the treasurer's post.

District Attorney Bill Waters of Pampa and Harold Sanderson of Miami are waging war in the district attorney's race. The 21st District includes Gray, Roberts, Wheeler, Hemphill and Lipscomb Counties.

Waters, who has been Gray County attorney since Jan. 1, 1951, points (See CANDIDATE, Page 9)

HYPNOTIZED INTO CRIME

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 17 —UP— A 40-year-old Danish ex-convict was sentenced Saturday to life imprisonment for hypnotizing another man into robbing banks and shooting and killing two bank employees.

It was believed to be the first sentence of its kind in the history of crime. A 12-man jury found Bjoren Nielsen guilty of influencing 31-year-old Palle Hardrup to rob a Copenhagen bank in 1950 and of attempting another bank robbery in March 1951 in which he shot and killed two bank employees.

Communist Plot Meant To Weaken Morale In Korea

NEW YORK, July 17 —UP— A task force of Communist prostitutes armed with deadly heroin have reduced a "substantial" number of American soldiers in South Korea to narcotics addiction in a Red plot designed to weaken United Nations forces, Senate narcotics investigators were told Saturday.

Other Communist agents have carried large quantities of heroin into Japan, where many Americans are stationed, witnesses said.

One witness charged the Chinese Communist regime has organized an effort to peddle narcotics to soldiers in the rest of the world as a form of "moral subversion."

The witnesses appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on international narcotics traffic, which is holding hearings on a proposed protocol that would slash world opium production by 75 per cent.

Harry J. Anslinger, U. S. commissioner of narcotics, said there has been a deliberate Communist attempt to make UN forces in Korea ineffective by spreading the use of narcotics.

"The Communists have used heroin to spread addiction among UN troops in South Korea and Japan," Anslinger said.

"A substantial number of American troops have been addicted. They have been returned here and discharged from the Army."

Rodney Gilbert, a journalist who spent considerable time in the Far East, told the investigators that hundreds of narcotics peddlers from the most of them prostitutes, filtered from north to South Korea and settled at the outskirts of U. S. military establishments.

Michigan Puts 'Hold' On Prisoner

Michigan prison officials are expected to be in Pampa within the next few days to pick up a parole violator from that state, who was arrested at Groom about 1:30 a.m. Friday.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan said Saturday he had received a telegram from Warden W. E. Colbert of the Michigan State Prison at Jackson, stating a warrant was being mailed and that officials would be here for the prisoner within 10 days.

The prisoner, William Thomas Beck 37, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Jim Shelton, McLean, after a chase on U. S. Highway 66 ended in Groom.

Soldier Robbed Beck, along with a woman from Arkansas and two soldiers, had been given a ride by a San Francisco man who was on route there from New York, Jordan said.

One of the soldiers, a private who was on his way to California to see his sick mother, told officers he had been robbed of a check for $100 and travel papers, while the driver of the car said his billfold, and $50 in cash had been stolen.

The billfold and money were found on Beck, who at first told officers his name was John W. Leater. The soldier's check and travel orders were not found.

Wanted in Michigan Sheriff Jordan said Beck had been paroled last November from the Michigan prison, where he was serving two to 14 years for fraud (See MICHIGAN, Page 3)

French Ire Roused At Red Stalling

France Prepared To Step Up War

GENEVA, July 17 —UP— French Premier Pierre Mendes-France warned the Communists Saturday to make peace in Indo-China within three days or face the prospect of a stepped-up French war offensive.

The Frenchman issued his warning in a radio broadcast to the French people from Geneva where high Red demands for peace in Indo-China have deadlocked the nine-nation Asian peace conference.

American Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith flew in Saturday from Washington to strengthen the West's hand in dealing with the Reds in a showdown. Mendes-France protested that the West may cause failure of the peace talks by pressing its plans for a southeast Asia security pact.

The French premier promised the French people and the national assembly that he would win an "honorable" peace in Indo-China by July 20 or resign. Before leaving Paris last week he told the assembly that if he failed to win peace by his deadline he would ask that French draftees be sent to Indo-China to reinforce French forces for a new offensive.

Saturday he referred to both his time limit and assembly speech. "Three days is the specific time limit which the national assembly has fixed for our adversaries to obtain a cease-fire in Indo-China. In three days, this time limit will have expired. I shall then have to give an account to the parliament on the results of the mission entrusted to me," Mendes-France said.

But whatever this result may be if today I had to give to this conference three days, three weeks or three months to succeed, it is no longer a question of work, but of will."

Bedell Smith conferred immediately after his arrival with his Western Allies on means of breaking the deadlock on the Red price for peace and on the Communist warning against the southeast Asia pact.

A preliminary estimate puts the real estate evaluation for the City of Pampa at $16,146,810 and personal property evaluation at $6,083,254, according to City Tax Collector Aubrey Jones.

The final total of real estate and personal property evaluation for the city should be ready by Aug. 10, Jones said, adding that his office deputies would have evaluation cards completed by that time.

After the final figure is certified and the new budget determined, the Pampa City Commission will set the tax rate, City Mgr. Fred Brook said.

Camp Erulin was wrecked by the Communists before the French could retake it, the high command said. "Its buildings were destroyed and barbed wire entanglement dynamited by the retreating Reds."

The attacks around Luc Nam and the other drive by 5,000 French Union troops to clear the highway and area around Son Tay fulfilled their missions, clearing the Reds out of the pockets they had infiltrated, the French said.

The two drives were launched Thursday. At first the Reds stood and fought back, the French reported. But the weight of the French offensive broke the Red resistance and Thursday night and all day Friday the advancing French troops met only sporadic rear guard actions.

In Hanoi 300 Viet Minh civilian political prisoners were released Saturday, the French announced. They are the first of 1,850 civilian prisoners who will be freed in the next few days.

Machine Gun Kelly Dies LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 17 —UP— George (Machine Gun) Kelly, gangster-kidnaper of the 1930s who once boasted he could write his name with machine gun bullets, died of coronary thrombosis at the federal penitentiary here Saturday.

Prison records showed that he was 59 years old Saturday. Kelly, convicted of kidnaping millionaire Oklahoma City oilman Charles F. Urschel in 1933, was stricken in his cell at 7:30 p.m. Friday night, Warden C. H. Looney reported. Removed to the prison hospital, the notorious old gunman failed to respond to treatment.

Saddened but determined, Betty will do her best in the rodeo. The four-year-old bay horse a Pampa cowgirl was pinning her hopes on for the Cowgirl Rodeo contest in the nearing top put to death Tuesday.

But on Wednesday the cowgirl, 17-year-old Betty Osborne, was riding the barrel layouts in back of her home south of town on another horse, an eight-year-old mare she rode in the rodeo last year.

What's more she is going to ride in the coming rodeo on her remaining mount and has a good chance of winning. "Goldie and I missed first place by just six-tenths of a second last year. I think she can do just as well again. Anyway we're going to try," Betty said. She and her mare finished third in the barrel-riding contest last year.

Snipper Cody, the pony she had planned to ride broke a leg Tuesday morning while trying to jump a fence and had to be chloroformed. He was a grandson of Fair Play, once-winner of the Kentucky Derby. His sire was Billy Cody, a quarterhorse with a record of 49 championships.

Voters Must Report Move

Some 30 Pampa residents who have moved from one precinct to another within the city had applied by Saturday noon to County Tax Collector Jack Back for permission to vote July 24 in the GOP and Demo primaries.

Monday is the deadline for anyone who has moved voting precincts to make application to Back, according to the 1954 Texas election laws. That applies only to residents of a city of 10,000 population or more.

Parts of seven of the county's 18 voting precincts are included in the Pampa city limits.

Nothing has yet been done in the matter of getting voting precincts aligned with the four city wards. The County Commissioners' Court months ago directed County GOP Chairman Don Conley and County Demo Chairman William Jarrel Smith to make such recommendations as to redistricting the voting precincts and to return those recommendations to the court.

Any redistricting must be done in July or August of any year. The Pampa City Commission has twice gone on record as favoring the redistricting.

City Commission Agenda Light

Bills, gas and alleys should be among the subjects discussed at Tuesday's meeting of the Pampa City Commission.

City Mgr. Fred Brook Saturday said City Director of Public Works James Cowan might have the specifications for gasoline for city vehicles written up and an official of the Robert Street Baptist Church might appear to discuss a T-shaped alley behind the building.

Commissioners Tuesday directed Cowan to draw up specifications so that gasping firms could bid competitively. The church, Brook said, would like to have an alley behind the building on Crawford between Faulkner and Banks. But there is the question of easements that must be ironed out first.

She Does Everything But Saddle Broncs For Rodeo

By WALT SWITZER
Pampa News Staff Writer

One of the busiest women in Pampa each summer is Mrs. Iris Ragsdale, who handles detail work for the Top o' Texas Rodeo and Kid Pony Show each year.

It is her job to see that all preliminary details are taken care of for the annual show. She also handles all paper work involved with the rodeo itself, from the Kid Pony show Aug. 3 to the rodeo closing Aug. 7.

Anyone who thinks there is not much work involved in getting ready for a rodeo of this size, should go by the Chamber of Commerce office in City Hall and see the stacks of paper work Mrs. Ragsdale has to handle.

In addition to this, she keeps in constant touch with various committee chairmen, arranging meetings, seeing that each committee is kept informed of current plans and making sure that each committee's job is done properly.

Much Work Done
Her job in handling these preliminary details, much of which already has been done, includes: mailing letters to 87 chambers of commerce, mayors and postmasters of the area in regard to the Cowgirl Sponsor contest; letters to 225 sponsors on mailing list with entry blanks; ordering of numbers for contestants; arranging of printing of dance and rodeo tickets; 130 letters concerning Kid Pony show; making up entry cards; preparing judges cards for all events; ordering pony show ribbons and trophies; mailing of 23 letters to roping clubs urging participation in the rodeo parade; letters to band directors in area for parade entries.

She also sends letters to local organizations and various chambers of commerce seeking floats for parade; letters to all members of the National Cutting Horse Association inviting participation in cutting horse contest; letters to pony show judges; awarding of 2,000 rule books to cowboy entrants; periodical press releases to 111 newspapers and radio stations; distribution of advertising posters; and distribution of tickets to merchants and issuing of passes to ministers of the city.

Mrs. Ragsdale said her job is made a bit easier by the fine cooperation she receives from the various committee chairmen.

"Without their help, I just couldn't handle all this work."

These chairmen are: Cowgirl Sponsor Contest, Mrs. Alice Gray; Kid Pony Show, Bob Andis; parade and bands, Holly Gray; cutting horse contest, Guy Andis; decorations, E. M. Samples; publicity and advertising, E. O. Wedgeworth; concessions, J. C. McWilliams; dance, A. L. Mills; first aid, Dr. M. C. Overton, Jr., who will be responsible for having a physician present at each performance; maintenance of arena, Frank M. Carter; hospitality and information, G. S. Pinkney; police and parking, Fred Brook; rodeo events, John Pitts; and construction, George Neef.

Married in 1945
The popular Pampa woman has been doing this work for the Rodeo Association since 1947 and each year she has been too busy to celebrate the anniversary of her wedding. She and William J. Ragsdale, manager of the Pampa office of the Texas Employment Commission, were married Aug. 6, 1945, in the Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Rapid City, S. D., where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morris, still live on the ranch where she was born. This year, as in the past, she will be "snowed under" with work on that date, as the rodeo will be in full swing.

She met her husband on Christmas Day, 1944, when he and several other service men, stationed at an air base in Rapid City, were guests of her parents for dinner. He is a native of Childress.

They moved to Pampa in January, 1946, and now reside at 1709 Coffee. They have two children, Billy, 7, and Peggy, 6, both of whom are spending the summer with their grandparents in Rapid City.

With all her work, Mrs. Ragsdale still finds time to pursue several hobbies. She does copper tooling and aluminum etching, builds model airplanes, works with ceramics, sews, rides horseback and plays tennis, to name only a few of her many hobbies.

Thailand Becomes Bulwark Against Reds in Far East

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

Thailand is to become the bulwark of a new alignment against Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

Indo-China, which was to have been the bulwark, has become a serious liability instead of an asset to the free world.

Hence, the news that the United States is embarking on an urgent program of military aid for the country of the sacred white elephant is not surprising.

Peace-Loving People
The people of Thailand are light-hearted and peace-loving. But they have been thoroughly awakened to the urgent menace of communism in their corner of the world.

They have shown that they are ready to fight if necessary to stop the spread of communism at their frontiers.

They have shown also that they are ready to join in any united action to fight Communist aggression anywhere in East Asia.

Only two days after the start of the Korean War in 1950, Thailand's Premier Luang Pibul Songgram announced that his country would

5 Pampa School Teachers Share Mexican Adventure

By ROY SULLIVAN
Pampa News Staff Writer
Among travel-hungry Pampans, vacationing in exotic spots this summer were five school teachers, recently returned from a 20-day jaunt to Mexico.
Misses Evelyn Milam, Mary Dean Doster, Sibyl Turner, Bernice Larn and Lillian Mullinax left June 10 with 17 other Panhandle residents who shared their hunger for guitars and guacamole. The tour was sponsored by Dr. Pies Harper, professor of modern languages at West Texas State College.
The group's first taste of the south-of-the-border states was Monterey in the border state of Nuevo Leon. Shortly after leaving Monterey in the chartered bus for southern Mexico, the group crossed the Tropic of Cancer, into the Torrid Zone.
Orchids Growing Wild
"We could tell a difference almost immediately," one of the five Pampans recalled. "The vegetation was much more lush and tropical south of the line. And, of course, we noticed the heat more, too. The thing that really impressed us was the orchids growing wild alongside the highway."
Later the travelers reached Ciudad Valles in the interior and stopped for the night at Hotel Calles, complete with swimming pool. Leaving the next day they continued on up the mountainous countryside past Indian villages of thatched huts where farmers toiled with oxen and wooden plows, cultivating every inch of cleared land.
In Cuernavaca they saw the Cortes Palace and the Borda Gardens. Continuing their swing toward the Pacific coast of Mexico, they reached Acapulco, perhaps the best known resort in Mexico. Staying at the Las Hamacas hotel, the teachers went swimming in the Pacific and watched Mexican divers plunge into the ocean from the cliffs near the city.
On their way to Taxco, the silver capital of Mexico, the group saw dates, pineapples, sugar cane, coffee and wheat being grown in addition to the ever-present Maquey plant.
Versatile Maquey Plants
"The Maquey is a huge cactus plant that the Mexicans grow everywhere. The sap of the plant is called pulca and is fermented into tequila while the fibers are made into rope and twine," one of the five recounted.
"We saw only about eight tractors during our trip," one remarked. "I thought their agriculture was much more advanced than it appeared."
A typical breakfast included a choice of fruits such as pineapples, papayas, bananas and oranges along with whipped chocolate or coffee. Most meals included fried beans and tortillas, goat cheese, lentil soup and young goat or "cabrito," which tasted much like barbecue chicken.
"Taxco was the highlight of the trip for me," one of the Pampans recalled. "The people there seemed more educated and refined than anywhere we went. They are very proud of their silverware and take their craft down from generation to generation."
The 22 Texans arrived in Mexico City June 17 for a six-day visit in the capital city. While there, they attended a performance of the National Symphony (their box seats cost 84 cents each), the National Art Gallery and the National University. In the Palace of Fine Arts the group viewed the famous Tiffany glass curtain which bears the pictures of Popocatepetl and Iztaccihuatl, the twin volcanoes famous in Indian legend and for which a once-popular song was written.

At night in the city they attended native dances and saw jal-alai (pronounced hi-hi) games where two teams of four players each bat a ball with a curved wooden basket attached to the forearm, much like our hand ball.
"The crowd at the games was mostly men but we didn't mind. Everyone was betting on their favorite player and didn't seem to notice us."
"We thought their system of betting was unusual. The 'bookies,' dressed in white coats and red hats, would throw a tennis ball with a compartment in it to everyone wanting to place a bet. The bettors would indicate their player, stuff the money into the ball and throw it back. The 'bookie' would put their ticket in the ball and throw it to them."
Caught in the Color Guard
One Saturday a Pampa teacher had an "embarrassing experience," she said. That morning Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was being staged in his honor parade in front of the Hotel Prado, an honor and color guard of Mexican soldiers was drawn up on both sides of the street and hotel entrance. Unwittingly she walked in front of the soldiers who had been ordered not to move. Unable to get out the way she had come, she had to stand among the statue-stiff soldiers for 25 minutes until Selassie came out of the hotel.
Before leaving the city, the group saw the floating gardens of Xochimilco, a bullfight, the nearby Aztec pyramids of the Sun and Moon, Chapultepec Castle, scene of the hardest fought battle of the short-lived Mexican War, and the shrine of Guadalupe, honoring the patron saint of Mexico.
In Morelos, south of the Federal District, the travelers saw Tarascan Indians, among the few tribes never subdued by the Spanish, and watched their butterfly net fishing. Morelos is the home of two Mexican liberal heroes, Juan Pablo Morelos and the more recent Ejlliuno Zapata.

On Way Back North
From Morelos the group rode to Guadalajara, where they watched glass blowers at work and saw the cathedral. Then to San Luis Potosi, where the streets were so narrow the bus often couldn't make it, and Ciudad Victoria on the way back.
"Everyone was pleasant and courteous everywhere we went. People went out of their way many times to help us with some things," one returned said. "We're ready to go back anytime."

Summer Rec Teams Beat Phillips Twice
For the first time, a Pampa recreation team has licked a team from the Phillips recreation department.

Perryton Principal Is Named

PERRYTON — (Special) — Troy Sullivan, Perryton High School science teacher, was hired this week as high school principal. He has taught in Perryton schools since 1948. He replaces Kenneth Gibson, who resigned to become principal of an Amarillo elementary school.
He came to Perryton as science teacher in 1945, the year he received his B. S. Degree from North Texas State College. Since then he has received his M. S. degree from the same school.
All of Mr. Sullivan's teaching has been done in the Perryton schools. For a year, including the 1952-53 school year, he was employed by a Colorado concern as a chemist, but returned to Perryton in November, 1953, and has been here since that time.
Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan have two children. He has been advisor of the Explorer Scout Post in Perryton since the organization of the unit. Last winter he was presented a state JayCees award for his work with the Scouts. He has also taken a leading part in all the youth affairs of the city since he has lived here.

Wolf Creek Runs Dry

PERRYTON — (Special) — Wolf Creek, which maintained a steady flow of water during the dust bowl days, has ceased to flow. The water ran out last Friday, the first time that many people can remember there being no water in the creek.
Bill Dutcher, who lives on Wolf Creek, says there have been times in the past when the creek ceased to flow, but that it never did quit running after Wolf Creek Dam was built.
Wolf Creek is fed by springs and there is some speculation as to whether the subsurface water has been exhausted or whether the springs have become clogged.

PHS Reunion Speaker Named

PERRYTON — (Special) — Milton Morris, secretary of the West Texas State College Ex-Student Association and a former student of Perryton High School, will be the principal speaker at the PHS reunion to be held August 21.
Morris, one of the best basketball players ever produced by Perryton, was captain of the 1925 team that won the state tournament. The reunion is for all former students and teachers of Perryton High School. Registration and open house will be held at the Harvester Room of the Hotel Coffee Shop all day Saturday, and the program will be held at Ranger Field from 7 to 8 p.m.

Platform:
The conduct of my office as County Attorney of Gray County is well known to the people of this County. I seek a promotion to the office of District Attorney on the basis of my record of service and the experience gained in four years of prosecution and law enforcement. If elected District Attorney, I will devote my full energies to the duties of that office. I expect to maintain court house offices so that the District Attorney will be available to the people and law enforcement officers in each of the five counties comprising the District. My long residence in this district acquaints me with the problems of this locality. I believe in strict and prompt law enforcement. If elected, I will continue to follow the high standards I have set in efficiency and integrity and will prosecute law violations vigorously but fairly.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY:
Harold D. Sanderson, Miami, Texas.

As to matters wherein discretion lies, they will be handled for the best interests of society as a whole. If a program of prosecution follows the letter of the law, there will be a considerable saving of taxpayers' money not only through expediting the trials, but through speedy trial procedure and cleared court dockets.

If re-elected, I will serve the people honestly and with efficiency as I have done in the past.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER:

My utmost desires and interests are to assist in any way possible in all civic movements for the betterment of our community and city. In doing this I feel your tax money is being used for you now and in the future. My education is High School work in the schools in parts of Graton County, near Sherman, Texas.

Platform: I definitely believe a person asking for a political job should serve the people to the best of his ability, this I promise to do. I will promise to never spend tax money in any way where it will never benefit the people. I will serve full time at the job and will have the best roads possible for our school buses and other traffic to travel. I will do my best to see this is done. I will welcome any good advice from anyone at all times.

Platform: I am a member of American Legion Auxiliary, and have served as Sunday school class president as well as other active church work.

Platform: Since the office of County Treasurer is strictly a service office and is not on the policy making level, it is rather difficult to establish a platform consisting of intentions in office. Therefore, the only platform I can offer is efficient and courteous service at all times; remaining on the job every hour of every day that the court house is open so that the treasurer is available at any time for consultation with other offices in the court house, or with the citizens of the county when needed.

Platform: My platform is to be fair to everyone. Of course if I am elected I will stay with the oath I take and the evidence in the case.

FOR JUSTICE OF THE PEACE:
Pct. 2, PLACE 3

Dam Data Given Perryton

PERRYTON — (Special) — The complete file on engineering data for the Wolf Creek Dam, which was requested after the government decided Wolf Creek Park land back to the county has been received from the government.

This file contains complete maps of the dam site, hydrograph of Wolf Creek, complete boring and core log, copy of the engineering report on the condition of the spillway after a flood in September, 1945 and a copy of the report made following an engineering survey after the spillway washed out in May, 1947.

The commissioners have written the State Board of Water Engineers asking for an appointment to work in getting a cost estimate prepared for the dam. It is not known what help can be obtained from the state board, but they want to meet with them and get suggestions as to how to proceed with the project.

They Call Him A 'Whiz' Pampa Youth Is A Veteran Auto Mechanic At Eighteen

By MARLENE KOLB
Pampa News Staff Writer

He is known by his friends as a whiz mechanic, and evidence of the fact can be seen in the metal turquoise '47 Ford convertible he drives around town.

The "whiz" is 18-year-old Gary Frashier, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. G. Frashier, 616 N. West.

Frashier won't leave a car alone when he gets it, but begins immediately to "fix it up" exactly the way he wants it.

He first started working on motors about eight years ago, helping his dad repair tractors on the farm, west of Pampa, now owned and operated by his granddad, G. G. Frashier.

Since then he has tucked under his belt, experience with three cars, a motor scooter and a motor bike, which he worked on constantly and kept in good shape.

First Car At 15

Frashier acquired his first car when he was 15. It was a black '37 Chevrolet, and he worked to get it. He worked at a Scout camp in Lubbock, on the waterfront, rifle range and trading post to earn the money.

"I did a lot of work on it, but not like these last two," said Frashier. "I started putting on extras, decided it looked lunky, and started taking it off." His convertible has smooth lines with little chrome or flashy trim.

He kept this first car about eight months and then sold it to get a motor scooter. "This sounds like a crazy change," he said, but he had to have it for a paper route. "Besides, the car's transmission was out, and I didn't want to put another in."

Frashier kept the motor scooter six months, but then he found a black '40 Ford coupe. Unable to resist, he sold the scooter for the down payment.

Of course he started right in working on it in spare time and at night, and in a year's time it was customized to suit him. He made both body and motor changes winding up the process by painting it metallic blue.

Some original designing went into it rather on the coupe also. On the hood he installed a special air scoop, designed and made by him.

The leading and painting process took only about a week, but Frashier was dissatisfied with the finish. He says that the hot dry weather last summer made the paint go on bad and turn out rough.

Frashier philosophically observed that you learn through experience. He learned that you definitely can not hide dents or flaws with paint. It makes them show up all the more.

The motor all he hopped up, too, with dual carburetors and other stuff, but had to take a lot of it off," Frashier told. "It used too much gas."

Last summer he raced in the Drag Races at the old airport. The little Ford did pretty well. Frashier said the races were all for the guys' own fun last year and he enjoyed them. He's not going to race his car this year—it's too hard on them.

"I finished the coupe and had it just like I wanted it, and three days later I got rid of it," he said regretfully. "But I got a good offer, and now some old boy has taken it and made a hot rod out of it." Frashier mused that it wouldn't have been hard to do. According to him, that Ford was a "go getter."

Before he started in on his present car, it was a yellow convertible, "a little bit bunged up and in need of repairs." It looks quite a bit different now, Frashier figures that it took him all told about three weeks, working just about every minute of spare time including noon and nights, at an average time of three hours a day, to "get her fixed up."

He doesn't have the motor "scraped" nor does he intend to. Frashier doesn't plan to make cars his career. He is going to keep it just as a hobby. Frashier has had his last summer and this, working in local automotive garages.

Always Has A Job

His friends say of him that he always has a job, and it certainly seems as though he might be called a Jack-of-many-trades.

Besides his experience in auto mechanics, he has handled stock, both grocery and clothing stores, V. installation, camp counselor, arming, newspaper — correspondent to The News from the Boy Scout Jamboree in California last summer and advertising — and radio.

He had his own program last year over a local radio station "Teen Time Round-up," a request program especially for teenagers. He also handled "Yours for the Asking," a night request program.

Frashier likes best radio and auto mechanics. However, his plans for a career neither include nor are connected with either of these. He plans to major in chemical engineering at Texas Tech, Lubbock, next year.

Frashier said that tests he has taken have shown an aptness toward things mechanical, and he said he might like to go into mechanical engineering and work with cars if he could get in the testing department of a large company in Detroit. Still he'd rather stick with chemical engineering.

Besides cars, Frashier's hobbies include model airplanes, photography, chemistry and horsemanship. Active in Pampa High School, of which he was a 1954 graduate, he took part in Debate, Hi-Y Latin clubs, junior and senior plays, inter-scholastic league plays, and slide rule club.

Hobbies and activities don't take up all of his time, however, for there is a special girl.

Keep an eye on this boy and his cars. His customizing and designing keep pace and possibly will set the pace of automobile style trends in the teen age set.

Kiwanians Told About Key Clubs

Pampa Kiwanis club members, at their luncheon meeting Friday at the basement of the First Methodist church, heard a panel discussion on "Key Clubs" by members of the Key Club committee and a guest.

Members of the panel were the Rev. Carroll Ray, Bill Waggoner and Ken Meaders, committee members, and Bob Alford, Pampa student at Wayland College, Plainville, who is a member of the Circle K club there. Moderator was Frank Fata.

In giving a short history of the Key Club movement, Rev. Ray explained that Key Clubs are not organized for the purpose of developing future Kiwanians, but to provide vocational guidance for high school students and to provide a means of service to school and community. He pointed out that the movement has grown throughout the nation and in Canada and at the present time there are more than 1,000 clubs in the two nations.

Explained Organization

Meaders explained how the clubs are organized, stating that each club is operated by its own officers, with Kiwanians acting as advisors. Membership is based on character and scholarship, he added.

Objects and purposes of the clubs was discussed by Waggoner. He told of many projects various clubs are undertaking now, or already have accomplished, Ralph Edwards, of "Truth or Consequences" fame, is a former Key Club member, he said.

Guests included J. M. Daugherty, Nickelsville, Va., Paul Kear, Clayton, N. M., Bill Flippen, Knox Kinard and Bob Getty. A special guest, Miss Mary Ann Guthrie, the club's representative in the Miss Diller contest.

Oilers Rip Borger, 15-7, As Gassers Bow Out Of WT-NM

Pampa Will Miss Borger As Fellow WT-NM League Team

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

BORGER'S FAILURE to stick it out for the rest of the season is one of the greatest tragedies that has befallen the West Texas-New Mexico League since the league resumed activity following World War II.

In fact, the WT-NM has been one of the soundest Class C leagues in the country. With only one exception, the same eight clubs that started the 1946 season — first year the league resumed play following the war — had remained in tact until this year.

Lamesa dropped out of the league in 1953, Plainview taking over the club at that point.

The folding of the Gassers will be costly to the other clubs of the league, also. With Borger out of the league, that means only three games will be played each day instead of four. Take one game away each day and it will amount up in a hurry.

Fortunately the Oilers won't be hurt too badly. The Oilers and Gassers, counting last night's game, had already played 16 of their 22 games that they were scheduled to play against each other. Four of the six remaining games were scheduled at Borger.

But, the Oilers will be hurt in that Borger was a close neighbor and the rivalry has always been good.

It is almost like playing at home when the Oilers were scheduled to play at Borger, the Gasser city being only 27 miles away. The Oilers of course drove back home each night they played at Borger.

Borger is one of the older clubs in the WT-NM. Ironically enough the Gassers gained admittance to the league when a current member of the league, Abilene, folded in the middle of the year in the 1939 season.

Abilene later rejoined the league when play was resumed following the war.

THESE ARE A GOOD CHANCE Oilers will get George Tomacek, possibly the best Gasser pitcher. Tomacek was on option to the Gassers and thus wasn't auctioned off at yesterday's sale at the WT-NM meeting.

Other business manager Jimmy Hamilton is searching diligently for a pitcher and he told us several days ago he would like to have Tomacek.

At this writing we hadn't gotten full details on the league meeting at Plainview yesterday but please consult story elsewhere in this section of the goings on at the confab.

THAT ORGAN MUSIC at Oiler Park Friday night made a big hit with a lot of fans and we've heard some saying that it would be a good idea to have the said music each night.

It certainly put a "Texas League atmosphere" into the game. Several of the TL parks have organ music each night and it certainly helps keep things lively, especially before the game gets underway.

Coy Palmer does a good job at the organ keys.

Clovis Moves In For Crucial Series

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The Oilers racked three Borger pitchers for 20 hits last night in posting a 15-7 victory at Oiler Park in a game that closed out Borger's stay in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

Borger, who had turned his franchise back to the league Friday night, disbanded after last night's game.

The Oilers thus ran their winning streak to four and it was their 12th win in 16 games with the Gassers this season.

Sad Sam Williams, after surviving a big sixth inning by the Gassers in which the visitors scored five runs, went all the way for his eighth win for the Pampans.

The Oilers scored in every inning but the first and eighth last night in breezing to their top-sided victory.

Four Oilers contributed three hits apiece in the 20-hit attack. Hitting safely three times were Dub Woolbright, I. B. Palmer, Dick Hairston and Eddie Daniels.

The Oilers opened the scoring in the second with two runs, the first coming on a wild pitch and

The Oilers took over first place in the West Texas-New Mexico standings last night by virtue of their 15-7 win over Borger. While the Oilers were winning, Clovis was dropping an 8-1 decision to the Lubbock Hubbers, which dropped the Pioneers to two percentage points behind the Oilers.

And the two leaders will open a crucial series tonight at Oiler Park. Jim Lemons is Hershel Martin's choice to hurl for the Oilers; Jack Venable will likely oppose him.

Starting time has been set for 8:45. Manager Grover Seitz of the Pioneers was in the stands for last night's Oiler-Borger tilt at Oiler Park. Seitz was in a car wreck yesterday but wasn't injured.

Woolbright driving in the second with a sacrifice fly.

The winners went on to score 15 runs in the ensuing three innings before the Gassers broke the scoring tie in the sixth with a five-run uprising.

Despite the 20-hit onslaught, the Oilers didn't get a home run each night.

It certainly put a "Texas League atmosphere" into the game. Several of the TL parks have organ music each night and it certainly helps keep things lively, especially before the game gets underway.

Coy Palmer does a good job at the organ keys.

Little Mo Adds Another Title

RIVER FOREST Ill., July 17 — UP—Maureen (Little Mo) Conolly, the world's top women tennis player, Saturday added another title to her collection by pairing with Dora Hart, the Coral Gables, Fla. star to win the national clay courts women's doubles championship.

Mia Connolly, the National Lawn and Wimbledon champion, and Mia Hart beat the hard-fighting combination of Edith Norton, San Antonio, Tex., and Althea Gibson of New York, 6-3, 6-2.

Mia Norton and her partner managed to run up a 3-2 advantage in the first five games, but from that point Mia Connolly and Mia Hart turned on the heat and won four straight games, two of them love.

Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, Ohio, the nation's top-ranking male player, won the one remaining men's semifinal singles contest, 6-2, over Art Larsen, San Leandro, Calif.

Trabert will face Bernard Barten, San Angelo, Tex., in the final Sunday. It was Barten, a wiry, stout-hearted contestant, who ousted defending champion Vic Seixas from the tournament Friday.

Oilers Due To Gef Tomacek

Negotiations were underway last night by the Oiler management to obtain George Tomacek, star pitcher for the Borger Gassers who disbanded last night.

Tomacek was on option to the Borger club from Montgomery, Ala. Oiler business manager Jimmy Hamilton had a call in to the Montgomery business manager last night but the call hadn't gone through at press time. Tomacek is of NBS classification.

Elsewhere on the Oiler front, first baseman Doug Lewis was ordered to stay out of the line-up by his physician to let an injured shoulder heal. It was not known last night whether Lewis would be back in the lineup tonight or not.

PHILS SALVAGE ONE From Redlegs, 5-3

CINCINNATI, July 17 — UP—Granny Hamner's two-run homer off the left-field fence off the first ball pitched to him by Moose Savransky with two out in the ninth inning Saturday gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds to let them salvage one game from a series of five.

The victory was the first for the Phillies under new manager Terry Moore.

Mel Clark, who replaced Del Ennis in right field, hit a solo homer and two singles for the Phils while Bobby Morgan also hit a solo homer. Clark's first single was turned into a run in the fourth via another single by Morgan and a sacrifice fly by Danny Scheil.

Langford fanned nine Plainview batters, while the opposing hurler, Arthur Washington, whiffed five. Langford walked three to Washington's six. Pampa committed three errors to two for Plainview.

The box score:

Borger Folds; WT-NM League Cut To 7 Teams

PLAINVIEW, Tex., July 17 — UP—The Borger franchise of the West Texas-New Mexico League was disbanded and the league will finish the season with seven teams, president Hal Sayles announced Saturday following a special meeting of league directors.

The Borger franchise was officially turned back into the league Friday afternoon because of financial trouble by the Borger group that had been operating the club since last July.

The final game for the seventh-place Borger team was played Saturday night in Pampa.

The possibility of making Borger a road team for the remainder of the season was discussed earlier in the meeting, but a 5 to 2 vote defeated the motion.

Players belonging to the Borger club were put on auction with four being sold. Albuquerque, N. M., bought veteran infielder Bob Westfall and rookie catcher Lou Villodas. Abilene bought rookie pitcher-outfielder Al Belinsky and Clovis purchased rookie outfielder George Petrovich.

Players on option from other teams will be returned and other players owned by Borger will be disposed of Sunday.

In other business, Amarillo moved to raise the limit of veteran players from three to five. Only Plainview favored the motion, which would restore the veteran limit to last season's maximum.

SEITZ, HANEY All-Star Pilots

PLAINVIEW, Tex., July 17 — UP — Managers of the north-south all-star game in the West Texas-New Mexico League to be played at Amarillo next Thursday were announced Saturday by Hal Sayles, league president.

Grover Seitz of Clovis has been chosen by the north all-stars to manage the team composed of players from Amarillo, Albuquerque, N. M., and Clovis. N. M. Jay Haney of Abilene will lead the south all-stars, composed of players chosen by sportswriters, radio sportscasters and the general public. South players are from Lubbock, Plainview, Abilene, and Pampa. Neither will play in the game in addition to his managerial duties.

Two players formerly with Borger, which was turned back to the league and disbanded Saturday, will be eligible for the north squad since they are now with Albuquerque. They are Gil Valentine and Bob Westfall.

AUSTIN, July 16 — UP — Highway in South and West Texas suffered "major" damage of $2,000,000 in last month's floods, with the Del Rio district hardest hit.

Pampa PONY Leaguers Win Sub-District Championship

CHILDRESS — (Special) — The Pampa Pony League All-Stars, by the two-hit hurling of Robert Langford, scored a 4-2 victory over Plainview Pony Leaguers here Saturday night to win the sub-district title.

In winning the title, the Pampans earned the right to enter the district tournament in Hobbs, N. M., next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The winner of this tournament will then play in the regional meet in Abilene. The regional champions will go to Washington, Pa., for the PONY League World Series.

One of the two Plainview hits was Dan Jones home run in the fourth inning with no one on base that tied the score at two-all. Two errors accounted for the other run for the losers.

The Pampans were held to only five safe blows in this thrilling pitchers duel.

Billy Brown, leadoff man for the Pampa club led off the first inning with a walk and went to second on a single by Mike Conway. Both runners advanced on Franklin Snow's sacrifice. Brown then scored on a wild pitch.

Plainview came back to tie the score in the second frame when Jack Hadley went all the way to second base on an error and scored on another error that allowed Gary Trott to reach first.

Pampa took a 2-1 lead in the third inning as Brown led off with a walk, was sacrificed to second by Conway, stole third and scored when Dale Lake grounded out, after Snow was hit by a pitched ball.

Jones' homer tied it up again at 2-2 in the fourth, but the Pampans came back to put the game on ice in the sixth. David Marler walked, was safe at second on an error and stole third. He stayed on third when Larry Cruise was safe on a fielder's choice and both runners scored on Conway's single.

Conway led the Pampa Pony Leaguers at the plate with two singles in three times at bat. Plainview's two safe blows were made by Dale Mauldin and Jones.

Langford fanned nine Plainview batters, while the opposing hurler, Arthur Washington, whiffed five. Langford walked three to Washington's six. Pampa committed three errors to two for Plainview.

Giants Keep Pace; Down Cards In 11th

ST. LOUIS, July 17 — UP — The league-leading New York Giants blew a 9-0 lead against the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday, then staged an eleventh inning rally to win 10-9.

Don Mueller's sacrifice fly scored pinchrunner Bill Gardner with the tie-breaking run after singles by pinchhitter Bobby Hofman and Al Dark.

Bill McCall, the sixth Giants pitcher, held the Cardinals safe in their half of the eleventh to preserve the victory for Marv Grissom, who took over in the eighth inning. Grissom now has a 9-8 mark.

Harvey Haddix lost his second game of the three-game series in relief. His record now stands at 13-6.

The clutch hitting Giants now have won six games in the ninth inning, one in the tenth, two in the eleventh and one in the thirteenth and one in the fourteenth.

The Giants scored early and the Cardinals came on late to make it a 9-9 tie after eight innings.

Royce Lint, who started for the Cards, failed to last an inning as Davey Williams singled and scored on Mueller's double. Mueller came home on Monte Irvin's single.

Cot Deal closed out the frame on a doubleplay but was sent to the showers during the Giants' third inning assault.

Ray Jablonski made two errors as the Giants sent 11 men to the plate for seven runs.

The Cardinals counted five runs in the sixth to chase starting pitcher Johnny Antonelli. Hoyt Wilhelm then relieved to end that uprising but had to retire in the next inning as the Cardinals scored three times on Jablonski's single, a walk, pinchhitter Joe Frasier's triple and Repulski's safety.

Dodgers Edge Braves, 2-1

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 17 — UP — Gil Hodges bounced a ground ball over the head of third baseman Eddie Mathews Saturday to score Pee-wee Reese in the 11th inning and give the Brooklyn Dodgers a 2-1 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

The Dodgers thus saved face in the five-game series after winning the first game in 12 innings and then losing their first double-header since 1952 and the fourth game Friday.

It was a heart-breaking game for Milwaukee pitcher Dave Jolly, making his first start during two years of major leagues. Jolly held the Dodgers to four hits as he went 10 innings before going out for a pinchhitter. Lew Burdette started the 11th and took the loss, his 11th.

DALLAS, July 17 — UP — Gene Andrews, a 40-year-old, ruddy-faced life insurance salesman from Pacific Palisades, Calif., won the 29th annual National Publix championship Saturday with a one-up see-saw victory over Jack Zimmerman of Dayton, Ohio.

The husky Californian actually won the nip-and-tuck 36-hole battle on the 36th hole when he got down for an easy par four while Zimmerman's short irons and putter went sour on him for one of the few times during the day.

Andrews, 40 and playing in his first National Publix affair, was on in two and two-putted to take a one-up lead at that point, and matched Zimmerman's pars on the final two holes to take the match and the crown. Ted Richards of Santa Monica, Calif., relinquished by joining a country club — taboo item in this tournament for public links teaplayers.

The lead changed hands six times during their grueling match in temperatures that soared to 108 degrees for the second straight day and for the 13th straight day hit 100 degrees or more.

The final score was exactly as it was at the end of the morning: 18, but a lot of whiplash excitement occurred in between as Zimmerman evened the match on the 16th hole and at one time forged a two up at the 35th hole.

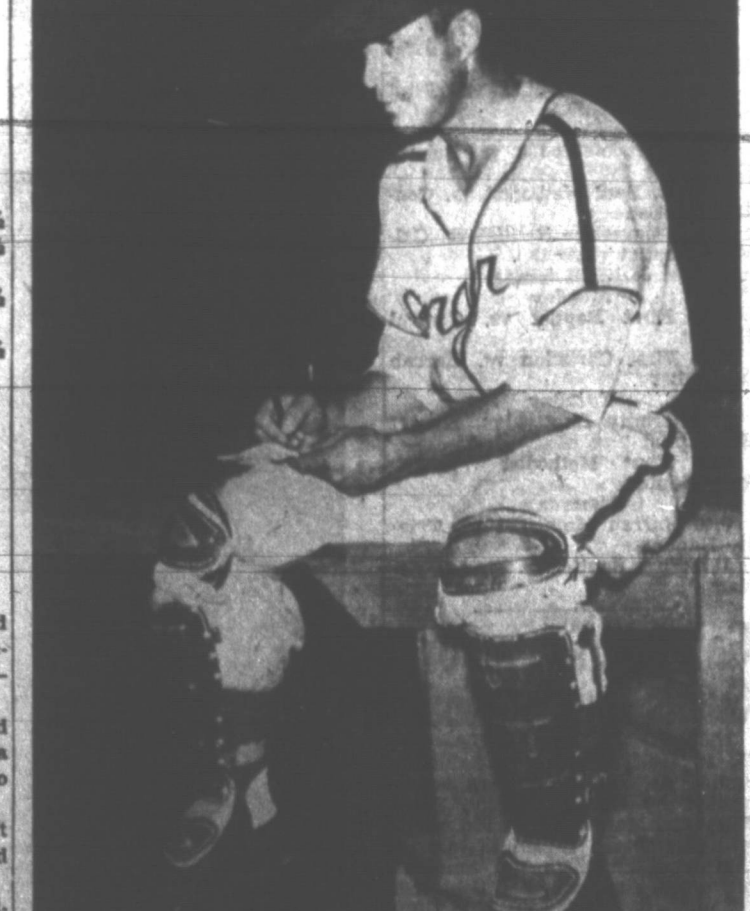

Going into the final hole mulling the hole for a safe par, Zimmerman played it safe. His second shot appeared to be topped, but it rolled truly and surely onto the green 28 feet shy of the pin and his first putt stopped less than a foot from the hole for a safe par. Zimmerman was 20 feet away and he happily went for the birdie that would have halved the match, but he, too, was a foot short. Both dropped the short ones and the match was over.

LAST LINEUP — Bobby Westfall, acting as the Borger manager for the first part of last night's game at Oiler Park, is shown jutting down the last lineup for the Gassers in the West Texas-New Mexico League. Borger bowed out of the league following last night's game. Westfall was filling in as manager for Tommy Warren when the above picture was snapped. Warren, however, showed up after the game got underway. He had just gotten in from Plainview where he attended the league meeting. (News Photo)

Plane, Auto Race Is Hot Rod Feature

Which is the faster over a quarter-mile track — a Piper Cub plane or a hot rod? This question will be answered today when Louis Stallings will race his Piper Cub against a hot rod (a Model A Ford) to be driven by Herman Watkins at the Strip Stretcher's track 12 miles east of Pampa on the Wheeler Highway.

The airplane-hot rod race will feature an action-packed card today on the local track. The feature race will be for one-quarter mile. Today's races, sponsored by Texas Panhandle Timing Association, will draw entries from Amarillo, Lubbock, Borger, Hereford, Dalhart and Pampa. All entries have been asked to register by noon today.

The races will begin officially at 2 p. m. Time trials will be held at 1:30.

Another feature of today's program will be an attempt by Pete Francis of Borger to better the quarter-mile modified stock car record set early this year by Leroy

2-Way Battle On For Homer Title In TL

By UNITED PRESS
Les Fleming is keeping his batting average so far ahead of anybody else it is no contest, but the Texas League home run race is a different story.

Two of Fleming's Dallas teammates, Willie Brown and Buzz Clarkson, are staging a two-way duel for round-trippers.

According to the latest official league statistics, which include all games of Wednesday, July 14, Fleming was hitting .371, a one-point drop-off from the previous week but still 37 points ahead of nearest challenger Don Blasingame of Houston, who moved into second with a .346 percentage.

Four Homers in Week
The slugging contest between Clarkson and Brown was about the only enjoyment Dallas fans can get from their last place team. Brown slammed four homers in seven days to take the lead from Clarkson 26 to 25. Buzz hit two during the week's time. The nearest challenger to the colorful Negro players was Harry Hestlet, who has hit 21 homers for Shreveport.

Following Fleming and Blasingame in batting were Joe Durham, San Antonio, .329; Clarkson, .321; Ed Kasak, Beaumont, .327; Ted Tappe, Tulsa, .323; Frank Kellert, San Antonio, and Bob Van Eman, Shreveport, .321; Ed Mickelson, Shreveport, .319; Howie Phillips, Houston, and Frank Murray, Oklahoma City, .318.

Clarkson led in runs-batted-in with 88 followed by Brown's and Kellert's 87 apiece. Brown batted in 10 runs during the week.

Other leading pitchers and their records were John Janacek, San Antonio, 10-1; Fred Martin, Shreveport, 5-1; Willard Schmidt, Houston, 11-3; Hisei Patrick, Houston, 7-2; Ralph Butler, Fort Worth, 10-3; Joe Piercey, Shreveport, 8-3; Vicente Amor, Oklahoma City, 14-4; Bill Piegarn, San Antonio, 7-3; and Karl Spooner, Fort Worth, 12-6.

Dallas' Pat Scantlebury with an 11-9 record, had completed most games, 13, and had pitched the most innings, 171.

Artesia To Protest All Tilts Played With Midland Nine

MIDLAND, July 17 —UP— Harry James, president of the Longhorn League, said Saturday that Artesia is going to protest all games it has played with Midland this year on the ground that Midland is using an "illegal player."

James, in Roswell, N. M., told Horace Busby, business manager of the Midland team, by telephone, that the player is pitcher Julio Ramos. The protest is that Ramos is getting more than the legal limit in Longhorn League salaries.

James said that as far as he is concerned, Ramos is under legal contract to Midland and should continue playing. But he said that Ramos' contract with Sweetwater, from where Midland got him early in June, has been appealed to minor league czar George Trautman.

He had signed a contract for $300 a month at Sweetwater, according to Busby, but was being paid $425. This is the same as Midland is now paying him.

He said any penalty Trautman imposes won't be retroactive. Ramos has a 6-1 record with Midland.

Tatum, Heffner To Manage In TL All-Star Tilt Friday Night

FORT WORTH, July 17 —UP— Player selections for the all-star Texas League game the night of July 23 in Fort Worth were announced Saturday by the Texas League office.

Pitcher selections for the North and South all-star squads were announced Friday, and include the league's four top strikeout artists. These are Fort Worth's Karl Spooner with 157, Rinoold Duren of San Antonio, with 133; Willard Schmidt, Houston, with 127, and Dallas' Pat Scantlebury with 114.

Choe Hutcheson said each team would have 19 players, the regular league limit, and that use of players — including pitchers — would be strictly up to the managers. Hutcheson said there were no regulations about a new pitcher going into the game each three innings.

Tommy Tatum, whose Oklahoma City club was ahead of the north teams in standings July 8, will manage the North all-stars.

Don Heffner, San Antonio, will manage the South squad.

The North all-star squad (player records through July 14):

Infielders — 1b, Les Fleming, Dallas, .377; 2b, Frank Murray, Oklahoma City, .318; ss, Al Stringer, Dallas, .285; 3b, Gus Clarkson, Dallas, .331; extra infielder, Duff Lynch, Tulsa, .338.

Outfielders — lf, Glenn Gorbous, Fort Worth, .311; cf, Jim Esiger, Tulsa, .317; rf, Willie Brown, Dallas, .312; extra outfielder, Russ Burns, Oklahoma City, .307.

Catchers — Dan Baich, Dallas, .372; Al Ronning, Fort Worth, .353; Philip Tomkinson, Oklahoma City, .283.

Pettit Signs Pro Pact With Hawks

MILWAUKEE, July 17 —UP— Bob Pettit, Louisiana State University all-American, Saturday signed his first professional basketball contract with the Milwaukee Hawks.

President Ben Kerner did not disclose the terms of the contract. After hearing of the signing, Coach Red Holzman said in a long distance telephone call from his home in Rochester, N. Y., "we're off to the best start possible. We'll be tough now with a nucleus like Pettit and the purchase of Chuck Cooper from Boston and last year's holdovers."

Pettit, the Hawks No. 1 draft choice from last year's crop of "college best," was named captain of the all-Southeastern team three years in a row. He won first team honors as United Press All-American in his senior year and was the recipient of the Helms Award two years.

In his college career of 77 games, Pettit averaged a record-breaking 20.2 points.

Gal, Men 9s Meet Monday

The Pampa Raider girls softball team, winners of seven games in nine days, will face their biggest challenge of the season Monday night when they take on the Panhandle Packing Men's team at Kewanee Park.

John Smith led the male-female tilt has been set for 8 p. m.

The two losses on the Raider record have been avenged. The Pampa lasses have divided two-game series with Wheeler High School and the Wheeler Married Women teams.

Monday's game with Panhandle Packing is the first of the season against a men's team.

The most recent win by the Raiders was a 2-0 win over Lefors the past week. Peggy Cotton hurled the Raiders to the win over the Lefors team. It was her seventh win of the year against only one loss.

Belva McEachern, and Margaret Cobb divided pitching duties for Lefors but neither had much success in stopping the Raider battery attack.

John Smith led the Raiders at the plate with a home run, two doubles and a single. Miss Smith is the Raider catcher.

The Raiders are sponsored by several Pampa merchants. They are First National Bank, Ed Davis Gulf Station, Southwestern Public Service, Western Supply, Dixie Parts and Supply, Levine's Dept. Store, Pampa Glass and Paint, Mayo Magnolia Station, Deaven Gulf Station, Miller Pharmacy, Osborn Service Station, Top of Texas Realty, Jay's Grocery, Firestone Tubeless Tires and Cabot.

Following is the season record of Coach Melvin Armstrong's Raider team:

Raiders 16, White Deer 10.
Raiders 23, White Deer 7.
Raiders 13, Wheeler High School 11.
Raiders 9, Wheeler High School 30.
Raiders 13, Lefors 5.
Raiders 25, Lefors 4.
Raiders 5, Wheeler Married Women 19.
Raiders 17, Wheeler Married Women 3.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKIE MCCONNELL
Director of the Baseball Dodgers Baseball School

AS YOU START YOUR BATTING SWING, HOLD YOUR HANDS CHEST HIGH AND DIRECTLY ABOVE THE DEE OF YOUR REAR FOOT.

THE BAT SHOULD BE HELD FAR ENOUGH AWAY FROM THE BODY TO PERMIT A SMOOTH SWING.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Dodgers during their daffiness days, once observed that a certain player looked as if he was batting in a telephone booth. This player had his arms so close to his sides that he couldn't take a good swing at the ball.

Some batters like to hold the bat farther away from their bodies than do others, but all successful hitters have the bat far enough away to permit a complete free swing at any pitch that comes into the strike zone.

Great hitters hold the bat so that it is easy to swing. They are relaxed but alert as they face the pitcher.

Vacation Time!

Middle and late summer months mean vacation time for most persons. Months, perhaps a year, of planning and anticipation come before the usual last minute changes and flurry of packing. Finally, the day to leave arrives.

Many Pampans are now on vacation, about to leave, or have just returned. Pictured on this page are some of them.

1) The W. E. Meyers family, 419 N. Carr, packs the family automobile for a week's vacation to Colorado. They left this week for Denver, Colorado Springs and other points of interest. Left to right are Gary, 12, Mrs. Meyers and Mr. Meyers.

2) Anticipating a trip to Red River, N. M., is the Roger Farrow family, 1613 Duncan. Pointing out the route they will take is Mr. Farrow, second from right, while Richard, 2, second from left, follows on his own map. Watching are, left to right, Mrs. Farrow, Roger Jr., 9, and Diana, 6.

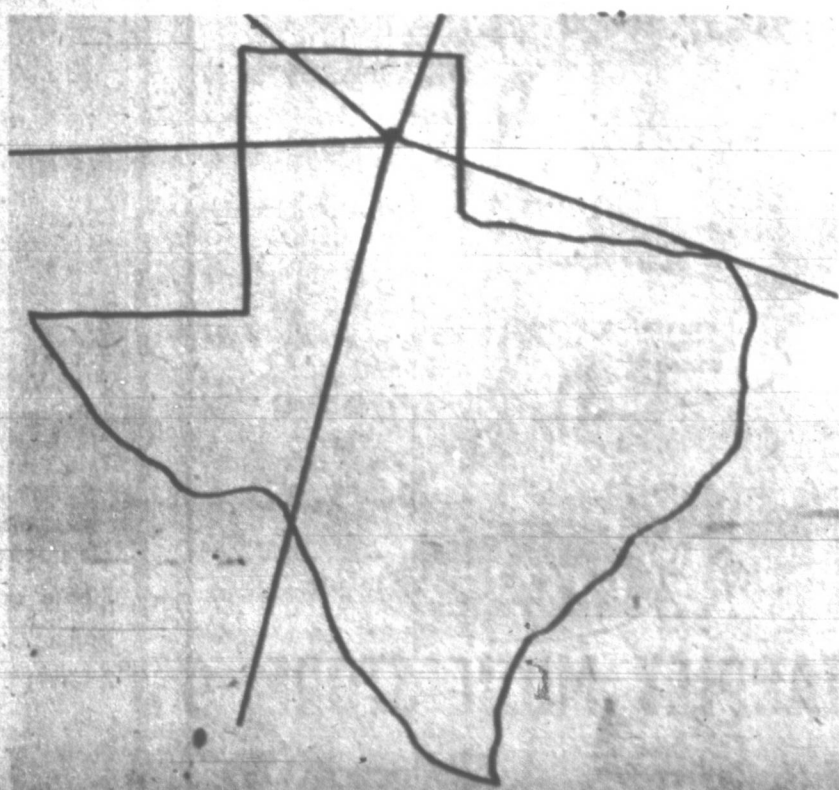

3) One of the vacation-time problems is choosing a place to go. Shown trying to make a choice is Miss Anita Southard, 1325 Williston. She made up her mind, however, and left this week for Hawaii.

4) Vacations are especially exciting to the younger members of the family. At the mention of a trip, they are usually ready to leave that minute. Checking the "gear" for a 10-day camping-fishing trip to Colorado via the Pearl Lakes are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cleveland, 1812 Christine. They are, left to right, Kathy, 6, Louis, 8, Carol, 11, and Nancy, 13. The family plans to leave the end of July.

5) Tours are popular with many vacationers. Talking over such a possibility is James Holmes, 637 N. Hobart, right, with John Gilliam, bus terminal manager, left.

7) It's nice to take a vacation, but it feels good to get home, tired but happy. Returning from a fishing trip to Colorado Canyon are, left to right, Mrs. Steve Oates, Mr. Oates and Tony, 15. Michael, 13, accompanied them, but stopped over in Dumas with relatives. The family lives at 417 N. West. (News Photos by T. D. Ellis)

She was a member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority. The prospective bridegroom was graduated from Southern Methodist University, Dallas. He was a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

MISS JOE ANN GARRETT

Engagement Of Joe Ann Garrett And Richard Gantz Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Garrett of Deming, N. M., announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joe Ann, to Richard Dale Gantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Gantz, 345 Sunset Drive, Pampa. The wedding will take place at 3:30 p.m. Aug. 8, in the First Baptist Church, Deming.

The bride-elect, an honor graduate of Deming High School, completed her education at New Mexico A&M College, receiving her degree in elementary education this year. She was active in the Baptist Student Union and held both state and local offices. She has also held both state and local offices in the Future Teachers of America. Sound Sleep Is Aid For Beauty

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Smart teenagers know how important it is for them to get eight hours of sleep each night. They realize adequate sleep is essential for both health and beauty.

As you glance at your teen-age friends, you can usually tell which girl had been getting sufficient sleep. She is the girl with the dazzling clear skin, and bright, unclouded eyes. She is also the girl who is last to feel tired at a party or dance. In other words, she is alert, radiant, and full of pep and energy.

During your summer vacation you're bound to engage in some outdoor sports. And a day spent playing tennis, swimming, cycling or hiking certainly should be followed by a good night's sleep and rest.

Check your bedroom before going to sleep. Is the ventilation sufficient? Will you have plenty of fresh air? If you go to sleep in a slightly stuffy bedroom, you'll awake feeling slightly drowsy and you may have a slight headache.

Make sure your windows are open at the top and bottom. If you have only one window, however, leaving the door open will help to circulate the fresh air.

Your sleeping attire depends entirely on your own preference. Cotton blouse "shortie" nightgowns are

Garden Club Makes Tour

SHAMROCK — (Special) — The Shamrock Garden Club conducted its third annual Garden Tour recently.

The group met in Elmore Park, a landscaping project of the club's to begin a tour of private flower gardens. Many beautiful and unusual arrangements of blossoms were seen by the members and visitors at the homes of Mrs. Dave Skidmore, Oscar Laycock, J. W. Gooch, J. B. Wright, Matt Lewis, M. V. Cobb and Virgil Agan.

In the garden patio at the home of Mrs. Gooch, she and Mrs. Wright were hostesses and served refreshments.

Mrs. Virgil Agan, president, welcomed the guests and each one registered.

Out of town guests on the tour were Mrs. O. C. Horne of Charlotte, N. C.; Mrs. Jim Light, Charles Slay, Bob Stephenson, Henry Vaughn, Charles Neese and Walter Franks, all of Wellington; Mrs. John G. Hastings, and Mrs. Allie Minor, both of Wheeler.

The most comfortable for hot weather. You should have a good mattress, and clean, smooth sheets. For a cooling effect, try sprinkling talcum powder on your bottom sheet. Then spray your top sheet gently with a light, fragrant cologne.

Remember, for youthful good looks you need plenty of sleep and the prettiest face is a rested one.

Chat And Patch Club Has Meet

The Chat and Patch Club met recently in the home of Mrs. C. E. Poston, 803 W. Crawford.

In the absence of the president, the hostess opened the meeting with prayer. Secret pal gifts were exchanged, and refreshments of cookies, ice cream and coffee were served.

Those present were Mrs. Roy Bennett, Willard Higdon, Myrtle Loofer, Lawrence Jones, Jack Ironmonger, and B. J. Smith, two new members were welcomed into the group. They were Mrs. Nadine Morse and Jean Bennett. Next meeting of the group will be July 29 in the home of Mrs. R. L. Gordy, 1108 Varnon Drive.

David Heaton Feted

SKELLYTOWN — (Special) — David Heaton was recently honored with a party on his 4th birthday in the home of his parents at the Skelly Schafer camp.

Guests played outdoor games. Refreshments of cake and ice cream were served. Those present were Larry and Kelly Brown, Joe, Danny and Joyce Chapin, and Kay Hanna.

Royal Neighbor Lodge Has Watermelon Fete

Members of the Royal Neighbor Lodge were entertained recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Waller, 829 E. Scott, with a watermelon party.

Humpy Matheny entertained the group with piano selections. Those attending were Mrs. Anna Barr, Bessie Foster, Elsie Ligon, Marian Chandler, Iva Ward, B. L. Bennett, and Messrs. and Mrs. Harvey Norris, O. G. Smith, L. W. Tomlin, and J. R. Anderson; and Humpy Matheny.

Sudings Keep Girdles Fresh

The mature figure needs an excellently fitted and carefully selected girdle. And this is particularly true in summer, when sheer, lightweight dresses demand a foundation garment with enough support and control to assure smooth lines.

Don't choose a heavy girdle, thinking its weight means greater control. Today, it's possible to get lightweight, cool materials without sacrificing support. Take your time in choosing a foundation that will solve your figure problems and will be comfortable in hot, humid weather, too.

Once you've chosen your type of girdle, the next most important thing is keeping it fresh and snug-fitting. Corsets, girdles and bras shape to the body quickly in warm weather and sometimes lose their control. Regular soap-and-water care will help bring your garments back to their original size and snug fit.

Every woman should have at least two foundation garments, one to wear and one to wash. Washing your girdle soon after every few wearings will insure protection against perspiration dangers to the fabric and elastic.

To prepare your garment for washing, turn it inside out. To prevent rusting, remove the garters. Then, place it in a basin of lukewarm soapsuds and let it soak for five or ten minutes.

After lukewarm rinsings, squeeze to remove excess water, but do not wring. Then, roll in a large bath towel. Next, spread your girdle flat on the towel and start shaping it. Pull it crosswise first, then lengthwise. Stretch the cotton tape which covers the boning, and all the seams and darts.

Pick Clothes To Suit Job

On particularly hot days, some girls feel that the humidity offers sufficient excuse for wearing summer playclothes to the office.

The last thing an executive wants to see a woman wearing is a backless, halter-type print dress. Off-the-shoulder blouses may look fine at a picnic, but they are absolutely taboo for the office.

Dressy summer dresses, with several petticoats, clash violently with a business background. These dresses should be saved for after-office hours.

Simple cotton dresses in a becoming color are the smartest bet for the career girl. If she feels she must wear jewelry, a plain white necklace, with earrings to match, will lend a note of coolness and femininity to her office costume.

Business-wise, one of the biggest mistakes a girl can make is to appear at the office with her hair set in pin-curl. This is the pet peeve of both coworkers and executives, who think that a girl who ties a turban around her hair to preserve her hairdo is advertising, quite frankly, that she doesn't care for her job and puts her social activities first.

Baby's Bedding Should Be Selected With Utmost Care And Consideration

Since the new baby spends most of his young life in bed, his crib and mattress should be selected with care. Here are a few features parents should keep in mind when making this all-important purchase:

1. Safety. The crib should be constructed of hardwood or some other material that will not splinter. Enamel or varnish, if used, should be non-toxic. Spindles should be close enough together so that the baby can't squeeze his head between them. Sides should have automatic safety catches so that baby, when he becomes more active, can't push them down. The hardware for adjusting them should be well out of his reach when he begins to stand.
2. To keep baby's back straight and support his soft bones, a firm mattress is essential. Even the finest mattress can't be expected to maintain its firmness over a long period of time when used by a normally active baby who takes delight in jumping on it. Normally, if of good construction, it will last until the child outgrows his crib. However, it should never become the legacy of a second child. A mattress covered in a flame-retarding plastic gives added protection.
3. Comfort. To provide comfortable, relaxing sleep, the crib should have firm springs and ample room for baby to move about and kick. The crib mattress should be resilient.
4. Sanitation and Cleanliness. A healthy baby, of course, is the desire of every parent. Therefore, materials that are harmless, sanitary and easy to keep clean should be chosen. A waterproof covering on the mattress helps protect it and keeps the filling sanitary, and most crib mattresses today are waterproofed.
5. Convenient Motility. Casters make the crib easier to roll from place to place for cleaning, maneuvering baby out of drafts, bright sunlight, etc. Many cribs have adjustable height springs, higher for the early months and lowered as the baby grows. They aid in eliminating backaches from stooping to lift the baby. Some cribs fold up for storage or easy carrying.
6. Appearance and Beauty. No longer is a crib just a crib. There is a wide range of attractive styles and colors, either to blend with the decor of today's modern home or with more definitely nursery themes. Hardwood is given a maple (light) or birch (dark) finish. Many cribs are painted in favored pastel colors, allowing for great variety. Some have aluminum frames.

Peg O' Pampa

EDITORS NOTE: Peg, whose identity is, of course, a secret, asked Mrs. Bob Vail, in Europe with her husband, to send some interesting tidbits about their travels. She graciously responded with this letter, which we feel will be of interest to all. This letter was not written personally to Peg, but to all of you.

DEAR PEG:
Here I've waited 'til the last half of our visit to Germany to fulfill my promise to write, but I left Pampa on butterfly wings and have never quite settled down.

HOT DOG HAVEN
As you probably know, we are headquartered in Frankfurt at the Frankfurter Hof hotel. Incidentally, when I first heard "Frankfurter Hof" I thought of a hot-dog haven, but actually it is the most plush (or posh, as they say in Britain) hotel in Frankfurt. Two-thirds destroyed by the war, the hotel, dating from 1875, is handsomely rebuilt, with a fountained courtyard separated from the street by double arches topped with blossoms.

EUROPE BLOOMS MADLY
All Europe is madly in bloom right now, houses and buildings loaded down with window boxes, even downtown — we find it very charming. Our room has its own flower-bedecked balcony overlooking the courtyard. We don't have time to sit on the balcony, but we feel very grand knowing it's there.

TEXAN PRACTICALITY
As the company Bob is working for here — Degussa — has him see their plants all over Allied Germany, we are gone several days out of each week. Rooms here at the hotel are in great demand (and quite expensive) so we check out each time we leave, and have a different room when we get back. We have lived on every floor of the hotel — and I am convinced that every room in the place has a deep cherry colored carpet — on which one grain of dandruff shows badly.

I don't know why my Texas practicality is so cognizant of this, since there are plenty of maids to clean it up. In fact early mornings they're everywhere underfoot on hands and knees like so many oversized black and white bugs, on stairways, hallways, entrances, scrubbing with reddened hands at everything in sight. I guess I'm so aware of it because we're sisters under the skin.

The average hourly wage for labor here is 30c an hour, but these women receive around a mark, which is 25c. But I'll have to admit that the women appear happy and well-fed and work with more energy than I do in my home routine!

MUSEUM PIECES ALL AROUND
Our room, red carpet and all, is very lovely, decorated in excellent taste, and the bath exceeds all expectations. In all hotels in Germany, I have been surprised by the number of good paintings on the walls. The Frankfurter Hof has a priceless collection of paintings, including one Titoretto and one Durer and some wonderful antique furniture.

CHAMPAGNE CHEAPER THAN COFFEE
In the hotel, you can have a little aperitif in a small sitting room on your floor, in one of the elaborate sitting rooms downstairs, in the courtyard, or in the world-famous Lippizaner bar. The bar is quietly elegant, all barroom quality somehow omitted — its beautiful wood-paneled walls, decorated with etchings and prints of the Austrian Lippizan horses. You can get tomato juice or hot chocolate here but no beer; cocktails and fine Rhine wine and champagne is cheaper to drink than coffee. Their iced coffee is superb, similar to the kind Icy Harrah makes with ice-cream, whipped cream and a dash of chocolate.

SOFTLY AND WELL
Music, wonderful music, is played in the bar from 4 'til 12, by a combo piano, bass and guitar. They can play anything you ask for softly and well. Never have I heard better music. It's so good that occasionally couples feel moved to dance a bit on the red carpet and nobody seems to mind.

In most of the larger restaurants and coffee houses here, small orchestras furnish really excellent music, which every one seems to take for granted, hardly ever bothering to show appreciation.

INTERNATIONAL IMBIBERS
In the Lippizaner bar, people from all over the world gather in quiet affability. If you feel like practicing your French, Spanish, Portuguese or Italian, there'll be someone to talk with you. There have been some very charming people from India, but always they seem to have to make the language concession! Also we've seen the famous German movie star here, Sonya Ziemann, whom you saw in a recent issue of Life magazine featuring Germany.

EVERY WOMAN SHOULD HAVE THIS!
Frankfurt might be called a city of handsome waiters or may be the clothes make them look that way. Either in full dress suits or with tail-coat and striped trousers, they make you feel very special, say — when three of them serve you breakfast — even in an old sweater. If this be old-world-formality, every woman should have a taste of it once in a lifetime!

BEWILDERING RESPONSE
Bob is a firm believer that if you are going to visit another fellow's country you should be reasonably acceptable in his language. (That's OK for him, he learns languages readily; he's a lot smarter than I am or I wouldn't have married him.) Anyway my first days here I studied my Berlitz grimly and armed myself with numerous German phrases and sentences before going out much. Then, what happens? I speak my German sentence (hoping it's the right one) and receive an enthusiastic flood of German in response. I can understand none of it and am lost.

BEING AN ARTIST HELPS
So now I make signs and draw pictures, inserting an occasional German word like wieself (how much) or schoen (beautiful) to let them know I tried. Of course I've wound up with a few queer meals, but I haven't gone hungry and am not sailing under false colors! I believe Bob is slowed down quite a bit by the language barrier in his work. He is always a bit apprehensive as to what his interpreter-secretary is doing to his reports when she translates them into German. It's easy for an expert to come with some weird translations and she's far from that. I'm sure he's given them some good laughs.

ANY RICH EX-UNCLES?
After working hours, we are the pleased recipients of all kinds of hospitality from Degussa people. We can't be sure when we start with our German friends whether we will end up mountain climbing, boat riding or night clubbing, but we always have a good time and they delight in showing us the sights.
Last weekend found us at Rhinfelden visiting a Degussa plant on the Swiss border. When Saturday noon came, one of the plant officials picked us up and drove us on a weekend tour of Berne, Interlaken, Lucerne, Zurich and Basel. The scenery in Switzerland is everything you've ever dreamed of to be and I'll never forget that Sunday breakfast in the sunny garden back of our hotel — on the flowered banks of a rushing stream with Jungfrau forming a majestic backdrop. That was in Interlaken, where we swear we will retire if we ever have a rich ex-uncle.

Frankfurt, by the way, is a lovely Dallas-sized city spread out on both sides of the Main (pronounced Mine) River, at the base of the Taunus Mountains. The city (like all cities of Europe) has no skyscrapers, and appears even more scattered because of large bombed-out areas. The war left Frankfurt a legacy of 12 million tons of rubble and the Germans have put themselves behind the task with an admirable will. You've never seen a busier livelier, noisier city anywhere in the United States and it dates back to 2000 B.C.!

I guess the most memorable thing about Germany is the picturesque beauty of the villages tucked away in her countryside. There are, of course, hundreds of them, clustered around their little church, each out of a different page of Grimm's Fairy Tales. The charming old-world houses packed along the narrow streets with peasant motifs painted on the walls, handsome ancient strap hinges and huge knockers on the heavy doors. And such color. All muted colors but tone after tone of wonderfully soft hues in the old old bricks and plaster and timbers.

Fondly,
Claudine Vail

Roaring Twenties' Loose-Line Styles To Make Comeback, Designers Reveal

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK — UP — Loose-lined fashions and waistlength beads reminiscent of the roaring twenties will make a comeback next fall.
The turn away from the corseted and back to the casual is considered the most exciting trend in next winter's fashions, now officially unwrapped for viewing by the nation's fashion writers.
Skirts will stay approximately the 14 or 16 inches from the floor, but a new easy-does-it attitude toward suit jackets and daytime dresses gives a slouch silhouette to the most sybillike figure.
The jackets are short, barely indented at the waist and carefully cut so the effect is sleek but not sloppy. One leading designer christened her short, crescent-curved jackets the "montmartre silhouette."
Several American designers frankly admit that Paris is responsible for the new "generally easy feeling" of next fall's fashions. French designer Gabrielle Chanel, renowned for her casual, loose-cut fashions in the 20's, reopened her Paris salon last year in the most hollywood fashion show of the year.
Disappointed critics said her clothes were pale carbons of the old Chanel, when her sailor collars, jersey tunics, loose-cut tweeds and ropes of beads made her name a byword among the world's best-dressed women.

But she had a strong effect on the clothes we'll be wearing next year, American designers say. From Adele Simpson, a longtime leader, to John Moore, promising 26-year-old newcomer among fashion designers, a cross section of our designing talent credits Chanel for easing the pinched waist.
Costume jewelry shows the same Chanel influence. Chains, pearls and colored beads in necklaces that loop to the waist will replace chokers as accessory favorites. There is a 60-inch rope of baroque pearls and rhinestone balls for wearing with that basic black dress, or a 20-inch rope of bulky colorful beads for sportswear.

OES Gavel Club To Hold Dinner

Woman Voters Plan Briefing Meeting

Members of the Pampa League of Women Voters will meet at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. George Hrdlicka, 1619 Christine. It will be a briefing meeting, advised Mrs. H. H. Hahn, president.

MRS. JOHN V. YOUNG JR.

Joan Barrett And John V. Young Jr. Are Married In Double-Ring Service

Miss Joan Barrett, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Barrett of Chicago, became the bride of John V. Young Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Young Sr., 1120 Williston, Pampa, recently in St. Edwards Church, Chicago. Father John Fitzpatrick officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Joseph Nevin Barrett Jr., the bride wore a gown of champagne tulle. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with scallops of chantilly lace. The sleeves were short, and the bodice, which came to points at the waist in front and back, closed down the back with tiny covered buttons. The bouffant, floor-length skirt, worn over hoops and ermine, swept into a chapel train. She wore elbow-length gloves of tulle which came to petal points over her hands.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown of chantilly lace decorated with sequins. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and English ivy centered with white orchids.

RUTH MILLET

Miss Patricia Barrett of Los Angeles, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. She wore a gown of sage-green tulle. The fitted bodice was styled with a scoop neckline and band sleeves. The bouffant skirt was floor-length. Her corsage was of lavender orchids and English ivy, and her headpiece was a wreath of English ivy.

Bridesmaid was Miss Barbara Pitt of Chicago. Her gown and headpiece were identical to that of the maid-of-honor, and she carried a bouquet of plumaria and English ivy.

Harold Courson of Pampa served as best man, and Joseph Bowens of Chicago was an usher.

The bride's mother was attired in a powder blue dress of lace with matching jacket and accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige dress of lace.

from her bridal bouquet. The couple is at home at 521 Montagu, Pampa.

The bride is a graduate of Alvernia School For Girls, and Bright School of Floral Design, both in Chicago. The bridegroom was graduated from Pampa High School, from New Mexico A&M, Los Cruces, and from the American School of Floral Design, Chicago. He played football on the Harvester squad and in college. He is employed by Parker's Greenhouse.

Woman Makes Own Perfume

GRANT, Mich. — UP — Mrs. Mattie Love's hobby is making perfume.

Mrs. Love, who has been Grant's chief telephone operator 28 years, began making perfumes and sweet smelling bath salts as a hobby 10 years ago.

She won't tell how she produces her more popular perfumes but offers her basic flower base formulas to other hobbyists.

"Just pick flowers of the scent desired and put them in a combination of olive oil and salt," Mrs. Love said. "Allow the mixture to sit in the sunshine for 10 days."

"Then draw off the liquid, mix it with grain alcohol and store in a dark place from six to eight weeks. At the end of that time, you'll have perfume."

"Bath salts are even easier to make," she said. "Just mix rock salt, alcohol and cologne. When the bath dries, you'll have bath salts."

with prayer by Mrs. Loyd Hayes, who also gave a devotion.

The lesson on Joseph was taught by Mrs. Bob Alford, and Mrs. Hayes closed the meeting with prayer.

Women attending were Mmes. C. W. Dalton, J. W. Graham, Ralph McKinney, E. E. Shelhamer, Alford, Hayes, and Nobilit.

Door prize was won by Mrs. Carl Anderson, and Mrs. Edna Rowland was awarded the game prize.

Next meeting of the group will be held at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 19, in Cities Service Recreation Hall. Hostesses will be Mmes. O. E. Elkins, W. M. Bennink, Maxine Barton. The event will be a circus party.

Play Shoes Styles Are Varied, Exotic

Play shoes have grown up this year. No longer are they the "step-sister" of the shoe family — relegated to knocking around the beach or lake.

American shoe designers, combining their native flair with a few ideas borrowed from Italy and France, have crafted the new lightweight leathers into play shoes that are as well styled and well-made as conventional pumps and sandals. As a result, the new play shoes will carry you through the day and well into the twilight hours.

With the increased emphasis on styling, designers have used leathers of all types, textures and colors to lend a note of elegance to the play shoe.

You'll find every color of the rainbow and a variety of styling in sun-catching colored kids, calfskin, silks, buckskins, reptiles and cattle leathers in flats, wedges, strappings and anklets. You're bound to have more fun with these imaginative bits of whimsy on your feet, and best of all your long casual hours will be comfortable as well as fashionable.

Here are a few of the exciting new play shoes we've seen recently:

mule type sandal set on a high wedge in tangerine calf leather highlighted in white stitching.

A thong sandal in high polished kid in parakeet, a color that will spark all your white beach costumes, has an enlarged footprint sole, that slims the foot silhouette. Attached to the thong winding around the big toe is a huge glittering "fake" diamond set in gold.

Another dramatic mule type shoe is in chalk white in a glove smooth leather. The throat is made of a very wide band of leather in a striped effect. This sandal is perfect indoors or out and looks exceptionally well with skin-tight leisure pants.

Jewelled calf bands on little wedges are very popular in almost every color including all-white.

Remember, no matter what your summer plans — there's bound to be some occasion that will call for a play shoe. In fact, your wardrobe won't be complete without several pairs.

If your hair is long, you can be sure of getting a thorough shampoo by combing the latter the full length from scalp to ends with a thick, coarse comb.

More Isolationists

Those of us who have been scorned as "isolationists" since it became popular under Roosevelt and Truman to follow a path of globaloney may soon find ourselves with a lot of new companions whether they want to travel our path or not.

Now the internationalists are being frustrated by a turn of events over which they have no control as the result of crafty negotiations on the part of Chou En-lai, premier and foreign minister from Red China, who mysteriously appeared on the scene in Geneva.

Left behind as the other diplomats pulled out of Geneva, Chou has since made "stafé visits" that can change the whole course of our foreign policy — leaving us, as mentioned above, completely isolated. As he and Nehru of India, pledged mutual goodwill and discussed their own Asian alliance without the "West" Chou made his position clear in these words:

"The age when outside forces could decide at will the fate of Asia has gone forever. The menace to the peace of Asia comes now from outside, but Asia today is no longer the Asia of yesterday."

It is thought that the two leaders of not far from a billion Asians are formulating plans for an inter-Asian alliance which excludes the West.

This writer is only emphasizing all this, which no doubt you have got from your papers, because the possibility of an inter-alliance among Red China, India, and other southeast Asian nations COUPLED WITH (1) the peace-with-communists policy of Churchill and Eden and (2) the peace-at-some-price in Indo-China on the part of France . . . the writer is emphasizing this because the interplay of these developments can radically upset all policies and plans we have been gradually getting accustomed to over the past several years.

It means, in cold realism, that the Communists are winning a tremendous victory in the Cold War — and nothing presently in view can prevent a communist coalition which will include over half the population of the globe — close to two-thirds of the population would be more accurate, probably. And — where are we left then? Just as isolated as if we had adopted the policy of "America for the Americans" which expression and others like it have been violently denounced by the internationalists. Also, one might add, as if money has some value after all, that we would be billions of dollars better off today.

It is not a case of being "for" or "against" a given policy. It won't make any difference if one is personally an isolationist or an internationalist. But we may be sure that if the United States is further out-manuevered — and for all practical purposes, frozen out of world councils — the trends of economics and politics will be greatly influenced.

No Red Welcome

Never thought we'd live to see the day when a Roosevelt of the F. D. R. division of the family wouldn't be welcomed in Soviet Russia; but the day has come.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was all set to make a trip to Russia and report her observations to some magazine or other. Now, the jaunt is off. Mrs. R. can't speak Russian, and the Kremlin wouldn't come through with a passport visa for either a trained journalist or a Russian-speaking writer to go with her.

"I feel," coos the three-term-and-three-month President's widow, "that the Soviet officials are trying to force me to go to the Soviet Union on their terms, and are, in a minor way, treating me the same way they try to treat our government and our allies at Geneva."

Strangely enough, she doesn't blame the incident on Senator McCarthy. Probably an oversight. And when Mrs. Roosevelt surmises that perhaps the Soviets "miss trust me somewhat," all we can say is that it's hard to see why they should.

Anyway, she's not going . . . and let this be a warning to the Republicans. The Democratic high command, anticipating the fall elections, had bitten its finger nails almost back to its elbows with worry over the glowing reports the loose-talking lady Democrat might send home from Russia. Maybe the cancellation of the trip is a sign that Democratic luck is changing for the better.

Does Coveting Pay?

I have a letter from a reader who takes me to task for my attempts to explain coveting. He writes:

"Maybe people wouldn't covet so much, except it pays dividends: one covets a railroad — after while, he owns it; another wants a bank or a newspaper, and time brings it to him; another wants a house, or lands — he plots and plans, and after while, he has it."

The word covet has confused many people. According to Youngs Concordance there are seven different Hebrew words that are translated covet. These Hebrew words have entirely different meanings. The coveting that gets us in trouble and does not pay comes from the Hebrew word Chamad. This word refers to coveting something that belongs to another and desiring to get it on an involuntary basis from someone else.

Another Hebrew word that has an entirely different meaning from the word chamad is zeloo. It means to covet earnestly the best gifts — such as understanding, good will, frankness and sincerity. These other six different Hebrew words do not mention things that belong to someone else in using the word that means to covet.

Certainly, it is necessary to covet life and to covet understanding, but that kind of coveting does not deprive anyone else of his equal right to the good things of life. In fact, instead of depriving them, it benefits them. When one covets wealth and creates it, he benefits everyone else in the world. But when one covets what belongs to another and tries to get it without giving full value for it, then that injures both parties. It injures the one who covets even more than it injures the party who is despoiled because it degrades his character. It makes him lose his own self-respect. It makes him substitute his will for God's laws.

The reader says: "Covetousness is not cured in people by merely saying: 'Thou shalt not covet.' Example must be given."

One of the reasons coveting is not understood is because people invariably abbreviate it and omit saving the party who is despoiled. The coveting that injures is not coveting for one's own good, but it is coveting for his neighbor's. It is coveting for his neighbor's good, not his own. It is coveting for his neighbor's good, not his own. It is coveting for his neighbor's good, not his own.

The reader pretty well explains it when he writes:

"The sin of covetousness lies in not considering the other fellow's rights. In the ideal sense, I should not fill my glass by emptying yours. But the very nature of lawful acquisition accomplishes this. So that if 'The spoil of the poor is found in your house,' — and you acquired it by lawful means, perhaps it's time to change the laws. Note: I said lawful means, and not just means."

The reader of course is referring to man-made laws in the above case and not the laws of God or the laws of justice. He also writes: "The remedy for covetousness lies in keeping your eye single to Divine Justice, and to Heaven as a mirror, as presented to our human view. We who are Christians see the fullness thereof in Jesus — and in his life and teachings. Then coveting falls away as the scab of an ancient wound."

"There is nothing to prevent the atheist from loving justice, and many of them do."

Certainly, if a man loves justice and wants each man to control and enjoy the fruit of his labor or what is voluntarily given to him, then he does not covet.

So it never pays to covet. Covet what belongs to another. It never pays spiritually and never can permanently pay materially. It is easier in the long run to get things on a voluntary basis where both parties to a transaction are benefited than it is to get things on an involuntary basis by fraud or by the initiating of force or by aggression, where only one party is temporarily benefited materially and loses in the long run materially and permanently from a material standpoint.

Would that more people understood the Coveting Commandment. The columns are open for further discussion of the great commandment on coveting, which is a summary of the last five commandments preceding it, if not all ten commandments.

Expressing a viewpoint that is growing rapidly throughout the farm areas, Senator Michael J. Mansfield, Montana Democrat, reported that the producers of food were the latest arrivals on the "subsidy gravy train." After referring to the tariff as a grant to in-

There's a lot of talk about limiting the power of Congressional investigating committees. But here's what Felix Frankfurter has to say on the subject: "Congressional investigation ought not to be bettered by rigidities, because in the light of experience, there can be no reasonable doubt that such curtailment would make effective investigation impossible." That's what Felix thought when Congress was investigating Capitalists, during the Tea Pot Dome scandal. Now he thinks just the opposite, when Congress is investigating Communists. And the tragic part of it is that a lot of capitalists (under the silly delusion that they are loyal to Ike at all cost) have made the switch with him.

Recipients Of Subsidies Staging Running Battle

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The running battle between rural and urban blocs over the amount of future farm support prices has focused attention on a problem long neglected on Capitol Hill — namely, the tremendous total in subsidies which Uncle Sam pays out to so many special groups.

No interest which enjoys direct or indirect tribute from the Treasury — farmers, airplane companies, magazines and newspapers, the railroads, the shipbuilding industry — has been spared in the fierce exchange over "Who gets what." Although there have been sporadic and feeble investigations of the question, it may be assigned to a special committee for exhaustive study.

The "city fellers" struck hard at their agricultural friends when they revealed on the basis of official figures that a few wealthy and apparently thriving producers of basic crops had received small fortunes from Extra T. Benson's hands. They showed that slightly more than sixty growers had obtained from $10,000 to $1,200,000 in loans on 1953 crops.

Nor did it mollify the anti-subsidy members to learn that the famous King Ranch in Texas, supposedly the largest in the world, got about $32,000 in drought relief funds.

The statistics disclosed that 34 individuals or corporations had more than $11,000,000 worth of cotton in stock to the Government. The two largest, one in Mississippi and one in Texas, amounted to $1,289,492 and $1,248,516. The other states represented were Alabama, Arkansas, California, Louisiana, Missouri, New Mexico, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Twenty-six borrowers had $4,700,000 worth of wheat under loan. Three producers of corn had borrowed $478,406 on their unsold 1953 surplus. All these figures refer only to 1953 transactions. The critics conceded that there was no taint of illegality in these transactions. They questioned simply the wisdom of a system which permitted such bonanzas.

Expressing a viewpoint that is growing rapidly throughout the farm areas, Senator Michael J. Mansfield, Montana Democrat, reported that the producers of food were the latest arrivals on the "subsidy gravy train." After referring to the tariff as a grant to in-

Fair Enough

Damon Runyon Resolutely Was Not A Great Reporter

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — There are many kinds of journalists including trained seals as Sam Elythe called them 40 years ago and great ones whose greatness somehow never gets them anywhere.

My Old Man, Arthur James Pegler, now living on a rest-ranch called Toda La Vista on Ina Road near Tucson, still hammers a mechanical writer called the Smith-Fremier with a double deck of keys, while with black letters for the capitals and the reverse for the little letters. It roars like a rock-crusher and shakes the earth. The ribbons, which are hard to get now, are about two inches wide and you have to lift up the carriage to see what you have written. My old man's sight is very feeble but, although he never learned the touch system, which all reporters abbreviate as the mark of the mare stenographer, long habit taught his fingers so well that he makes very few mistakes.

My thoughts run to irony when I hear mention of Damon Runyon as a great reporter because, although he did have a tin ear for a great reporter, he resolutely wasn't. Damon actually could go out and do you a beautiful job of observation and literary description of a ballgame or a battle, but he firmly refused to report the story because of the prohibition underworld because he was a part of it. Damon knew more about the underworld than any other reporter of the time, including Jake Lingie, of the Chicago Tribune, who was knocked off in broad day on a busy corner. That would have happened to Damon, too, if he had performed the office of reporter in the field of his greatest authority.

Mark Hellinger was deeply involved, socially, though not in any dealings with the same run of Shad and, for the same reason, no news reporting whatever. They both wrote fiction, paraphrasing affairs within their purview but with a safe degree of distortion and a dash of moral indignation. He got a big build-up but honestly he couldn't write a lick.

My old man could write you a sermon — and he did write a whole series of them for newspaper publication under the name of an English revivalist named Gipsy Smith who was playing a hot season in Chicago — an original hymn, as he often did in that same engagement, and any amount of miniature rewrite copy. He did a melodrama, an act in that form three nights which he sold outright for $100 an act to pay for an operation on my mother. It ran for 30 years in road shows, and rep shows and on show boats on the Ohio and the bay waters of the Atlantic.

He could fight like hell, too, and I still remember from Will K. Cochran, who abandoned journalism to make a much better job of things in advertising, saluting my old man for pasting him good in the bar of the West Hotel in Minneapolis when they both were chasing fire-engines. Cochran said he thought he was the bull of the woods. My Old Man thought he was Mr. Cochran and he finished second.

Charlie Porter, whose Denver cigar business was the envy of his own as they have appeared in these dispatches, sent me a letter he had received from John P. Brady, quite a boxer in his time, which bears on this. Brady was one of the junket reporters that all states on a special train in 1915 in connection with a merger of the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"The train carried Canadian senators and m.p.'s and other prominent officials and the lousy British was born in Halifax to Vancouver and then over to Victoria." Mr. Brady wrote. "We were gone more than two weeks and drank champagne and ate all the way. I did something about the lousy British as I had been fed up with them when I was over there a few weeks before the Canadian trip. I said I didn't give a damn if the Kaiser won the war. Old Peg got mad and poked me in the nose. He was born in London. He laughed it off. The last time I saw him in 1924 he was rewrite on the Mirror under Walter Hovey. He was a grand old guy and was the whole works among the newspapermen of that trip."

Emile Gautreau, one of the most spectacular characters produced by tabloid journalism, told of another exploit in his memoirs, called "My last million readers."

Hellinger decided to tour the woods and the syndicate drummed up quite a sale of big prizes. He got drunk in Vienna, however, and Pegler, a celebrated Hearst war horse, decided that Mark had been enticed by the Turkish bazaars in Istanbul. Jimmy Whitaker, an imaginative rewrite man, satisfied our traveler with the atmosphere of the east and maneuvered him into Russia.

Pegler took over and every day the veteran wrote, under Hellinger's name, an entertaining and often dumfounding travelogue of the Broadway bard's experiences in the land of the Soviet, through the Punjab and across the mountains of Tibet.

One afternoon while Pegler was propelling our Broadway philosopher along the Great Wall of China, Mark called me in a bland voice from his apartment. He had come home unannounced and had been recapturing lost sleep for five days. Vienna had stopped him. We kept him in hanging until Pegler hauled him across the Pacific and flew him home for a globe-trotting record. A number of editors wrote us that the Hellinger copy had broadened the minds of many readers.

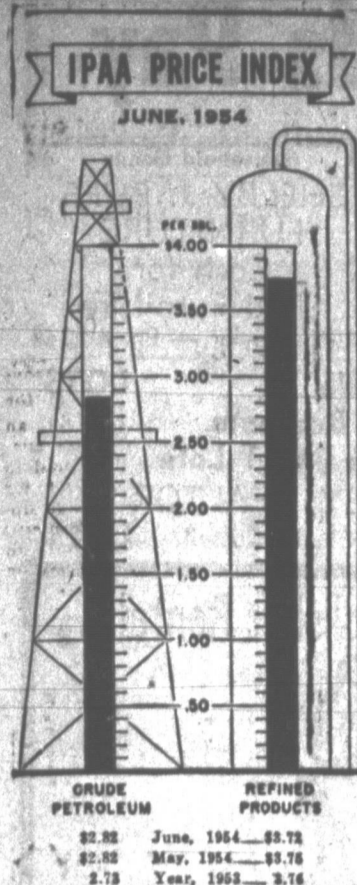

Later Whitaker and Jo Swerling took turns writing instruments. A work called "Shabo" Whitaker had missed three turns while covering Gerald Chapman's trial for murder at Hartford and got an ultimatum from Swerling one evening after court. The story had to be done and Whitaker was stuck for the final chapter. He sat on a tip-and-suitcase in Gene Stanley's crowded hotel room; slaughtered a number of superlatives in the "Shabo" cast and filed the final chapter in time.

They got $30,000 for the movie rights and Whitaker quit his job to compose a symphony.

WALKING ALONG BROADWAY: You get onto the Street about noon and you are still sleepy and wondering what kind of impetus keeps you walking . . . You look into the window of a meek store and try to figure out how they can stay in business with more than 200 ties decorated with hand-painted nudes in the window — when you haven't seen anyone wear such a tie in at least three years. . . Obviously, someone must buy them, because rents in this sector are high and the way to pay the rent is to sell the neckties. . . One of the ties show a voluptuous semi-nude modestly equipped with applied black lace panties, real lace, no paint. . . Oil, Chemical Union Merger Looms Aug. 9

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The petroleum and chemical industries today face another union merger which could build into one of the nation's strongest labor organizations.

Barring unforeseen obstacles, O. A. Knight's 130,000-man CIO Oil Workers International Union and Elwood Swisher's 100,000-man CIO United Chem. Gas and Chemical Workers will soon unite.

Twelve men rank and file committees from both unions have been called to meet here Aug. 9 to discuss a joint constitution and other procedures to clear the way for a convention which would bring the consolidation into being.

Would Give Impetus to Development of the New Million Man Independent Oil and Chemical Workers Union proposed by Knight and other CIO, AFL and independent leaders in the "Philadelphia Plan" last February.

Assuming the OCWU is ratified by the founding nations and if, in turn, absorbed the combined Knight-Swisher unions, the Oil and Chemical Workers could go to the national bargaining table backed by an organization almost as formidable as the CIO's steel and auto workers.

The OCWU-United merger has been in the works for some time. It was initiated by United, which had run into jurisdictional troubles with the OCWU in petrochemical plants and elsewhere.

Knight, Swisher and their lieutenants discussed the proposed merger at a meeting in Detroit this week, one of a series: CIO President Walter Reuther was on hand to give them his benediction and to emphasize the bargaining strength the combined unions could exert.

Honorable Merger

It was agreed to appoint the rank-and-file committees to do the all-important spadework. This was decided upon so neither Knight nor Swisher would be suspected of trying to "steamroller" the organizational meeting.

Both unions stressed they are shooting for an "honorable merger for the benefit of all." As Knight put it: "I know the officers and board members of the OCWU are eager to work out this combination. It would increase our bargaining power, increase our financial stability, and eliminate overlapping jurisdiction between two sister unions in the CIO."

It was emphasized that the consolidation would be entirely separate from the "Philadelphia Plan." But the OCWU said: "It both proposals should develop with approximately equal speed, they could be combined. Neither need stand in the way of the other."

Knight Likely Leader

Knight's union has ratified the Philadelphia Plan and is awaiting similar action by other unions. At the founding meeting, 26 American and Canadian unions with a total membership of 212,000 were represented. The future potential membership is put at one million.

Swisher's union now bargains for 100,000 workers, some in plants where there is no "union shop." They produce petrochemical drugs, cosmetics, coal by-products and other items.

Under the tentative merger compact, rank-and-file workers of both unions would vote on the consolidation, either through convention action or by referendum. The first convention would elect a president, four vice presidents, a secretary, treasurer, and administrative council, and an executive board of non-salaried representatives.

The presidency presumably would go to either Knight or Swisher, which ever won the other problem would be choosing a vice president. Knight might have the edge for the top office because his union is the largest.

Big Gasser Brought In

PERRYTON — (Special) — City Service brought in the largest gasser of that southeast Texas county field this week. It is the No. 1 Squire in Section 17-1-19, and was measured at 150,000 cubic feet per day. It is located near Hardesty.

It was first brought in Monday, July 5, with sand fracturing following. Perforations were at 6,800-6,824 feet with a total depth of 6,834 feet. Production was hit in the morning sand.

Earlier the well gassed 8,000,000 cubic feet on a drill-test and after perforations 5,800,000. After sandrac treatment, the well's production was increased to at least 68,400,000 cubic feet and later to 87,000,000.

Another good gas well was reported by the Texas Company with their Phillips Burkhardt in Section 22-1-19 in the greater Hardesty field. The well got 17,800,000 cubic feet of gas per day from 6,582 feet after acidizing. The well is plugged back to 6,885 feet.

THIS MUSTN'T BE SPREAD AROUND

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Allegheny County Jail Warden Charles L. Dye says he isn't advising his guards to eat the occupants of the cells. "What'll you have?" despite a little-known local law that states an inmate can have his favorite beer for the asking — and for free.

Dye says he'll have no truck with the law. But if a thirsty inmate clamors for his free beer — or even an occasional steak — he is within his rights under the old "wet tonal" statute.

The law still is on the books, even though it is more than two centuries old. The only change made since it was enacted Feb. 11, 1780, is the spelling of "gale," which has been modernized to "jail."

The statute says any inmate may "at his, her, or their will and pleasure send for and have any beer, ale, victuals or other necessary food to eat, and place their pleasure," without charge.

County Court Judge Henry Ellenbogen, in charge of the prison board, also said he's completely unconcerned about the law.

"Let's just say the passage of time has repealed the law by making it obsolete," he declared.

Automobile sales hit a 47-month high during June. But the high sales weren't a sign for the industry to start turning out more cars. The heavy sales were a direct result of one of the hardest selling campaigns in history. Factory-sponsored dealer contests and sales bonus plans were aimed, to a big extent, at reducing the all-time high stock of new cars the industry has piled up this year.

June sales cut into that stockpile, which had reached as high as 660,000 units in April. There were 517,511 cars sold on hand July 1, nearly 50,000 less than at this time a year ago.

Automobile dealers got caught with more than 600,000 cars on hand last Nov. 1 in the midst of the 1953 model clean-up. The industry is anxious to keep that from happening again.

As a result, the June sales aren't bringing an increase in production and production will be kept closely in hand the rest of the year.

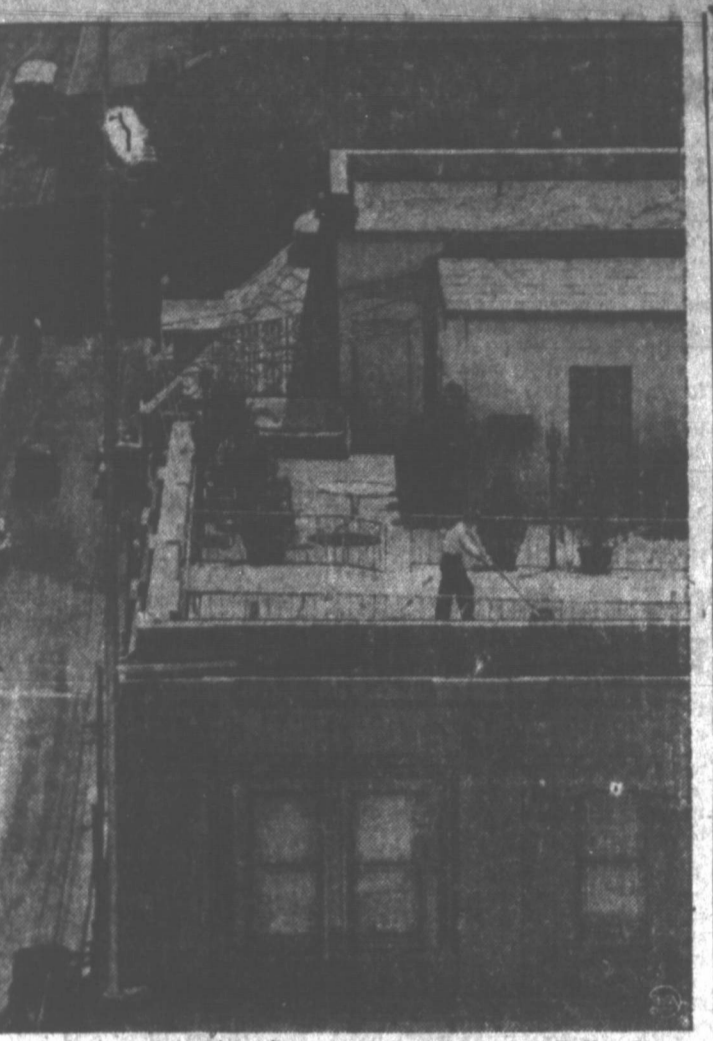

Bargain hunters had a field day last fall with the big stock of 1953 models that was on hand. A big stockpile of cars is hard to hide. Automobile buyers, aware of the stockpile, were quick to take advantage of the situation.

Cut into Profits
The hard bargains which buyers drove last fall cut into dealer profits and helped put some dealers on the ropes.

The industry is hoping for a more orderly change-over to 1955 models. A certain percentage of buyers always goes shopping for automobiles late in the model year, hoping any kinks which have showed up will be ironed out later in the year's run.

But the industry isn't anxious for any fall bargain sales this year.

Puerto Rican Cabezona "sugar loaf" pineapples grow up to 15 pounds in the southwest corner of the island. Pineapples rank next to sugar, tobacco and coffee among the island's important agricultural crops.

CUTTING UP—One of the best barbered lawns in Dallas, Tex., fanned atop the downtown, seven-story Commercial Building, famed locally as the Southwest's first "skyscraper." The 15-by-30-foot lawn is the "front yard" of a penthouse apartment built by the owner's son, Edward Cox. Under his six-inch sod is a hidden sprinkling system. Cox and his mother, Mrs. Elsie Cox, use the apartment when they work late and for business entertaining. In the photo, the grass is being cut by Wayne Evans, an accountant for the owners.

Inventors Have Been Working Ages To Improve 'The Game'

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON, July 17 —UP— Since baseball was "invented," the inventors have been trying to improve the game. They have lived the ball. They have fattened the bat. They have come up with reinforced baseball caps that dare a "bean ball" to make a dent in a batter's skull.

They also have invented some silly things that wouldn't work. The files of the U. S. patent office are full of ideas, some patented; some not.

For instance, one fellow got to fusing about how much time an umpire wasted with his little whisk broom at the plate. He invented a blower system under home plate. He tried it out some place in Kansas. The air was motor-propelled out of the earth. The result — a blinded umpire.

Rip-Off Roller
Another umpire's helper was a "device" to lighten the load of the umpire. The plate, according to the inventor, was to be covered with a roll of clean white paper, along the lines of the rip-off roller towel. When the paper got dirty all the ump had to do was stretch over and whip out a new sheet of paper. The whisk broom is still in use.

Patent No. 1,868,088 was invented to "reduce the margin of error for umpires." It was a motor, an elongated light bulb, and an electric fan — all buried together under the plate. Under these was a lens through which the light from the bulb was supposed to be projected. The ump would hunch back of the plate and if he saw a light reflected he would know for sure that the ball had passed over the plate in the strike zone. The motor was to keep air blowing over the lens so that no dust could collect. Way back yonder a man, who must have been a catcher himself, designed a gadget to protect the hands of catchers. That was pat. 755-209.

The idea was to keep the catcher away from violent contact with the ball until it had "cooled off." A box, used to "catch" the ball, was made of wood and the backstop harnessed it to his middle from chin to waist.

CATHEDRAL OF SALT

Under construction in ancient salt mine at Zipaquira, Colombia, is a huge Cathedral of Salt, with four naves, that will be as large as the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris. It was conceived by Jose Maria Gonzalez Copcha, a Colombian architect, in the seclusion of the mine chambers. Work was begun, but he died last year, before it was completed. Above is the altar of "Our Lady of the Rosary," target of the 10 stars carved out of the walls of the old mine.
