Flood Deaths Not Counted

LAREDO, Tex., July 1 — UP — The Rio Grande's biggest flood in history rolled into huge Falcon Reservoir today, leaving death toll at 18. Mexican authorities reported a heavy death toll at Piedras Negras, across the international river from Eagle Pass, Tex. They recovered 38 bodies, but feared many other persons died when thousands of adobe (mud) huts melted in the high water.

The Rio Grande, which crested Wednesday at 62.21 feet at Laredo — 10 feet above the previous record height — was down to 49.24 feet here and falling about a foot an hour at 5:15 a.m. est. early Thursday. Officials were sure Falcon Dam, a joint U.S.-Mexican project dedicated only last October by Presidents Eisenhower and Adolfo Ruiz Cortines, would hold the record-breaking flood.

San Ygnacio, Tex., a town of 225 at the northern end of Falcon Reservoir, was the last to be flooded. Telephone lines were washed out to San Ygnacio and to Zapata, but officials did not think San Ygnacio residents were endangered.

Chief weather forecaster Bob Kerr estimated the river would be back within its banks here by midnight, if not earlier. Then will come the job of re-establishing communication with Nuevo Laredo.

Defeat Seen For President In Farm Vote

WASHINGTON, July 1 — UP—The House headed for a painful vote Thursday on the politically potent farm price support issue and farm bloc leaders predicted defeat for President Eisenhower's flexible program.

Boostered by 11th hour support from big city Democrats, farm leaders were confident they could muster the votes to push through a one-year extension of present 80 per cent of parity supports on five basic crops.

The administration wants this rigid high program to expire on schedule at the end of this year. It then proposes to put the crops—corn, cotton, wheat, rice and peanuts—under flexible supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity.

GOP House leaders came up with a last-ditch compromise which would prevent the support level under the administration plan from dropping below 83 1/2 per cent next year. Farm bloc leaders refused to support it and the issue was expected to be decided in a showdown vote Thursday afternoon.

Administration hopes were jolted Wednesday night by the decision of a group of New York Democrats to vote with the farm bloc. GOP leaders said frankly they needed city votes to win.

The decision of the New York Democrats brought a blunt warning from House GOP leader Charles Halleck (Ind.) that city Democrats who vote "against their constituents" will have to "answer for it in the election campaign."

Wheat Harvest In Final Week

Large quantities of wheat were being harvested today in Gray county as the harvest continued in full swing.

The bulk of the wheat crop, in bushels if not in acres, is expected to be in the elevators by the end of this week, it was reported this morning.

Most of the wheat being harvested today was of about No. 2 quality, averaging at from 56 to 58 pounds per bushel. Yields are dropping some, observers report. However, the yield from harvested acreage in the county is expected to average about 16 bushels per acre. ## Tax Hearings Speeded Up

New residents and those who have received a notice of a change in real estate evaluations from the City of Pampa, or the Pampa Independent School District have been urged to come to City Hall before the public hearing begins.

The boards of equalization for the city and the schools have scheduled a one-day meeting from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 8 in the city commission room at City Hall.

This hearing will be handled like the ones on personal property. Jones and McMillen Wednesday afternoon said each person will be registered outside the city commission room, will be given a number and will be heard in order. Hall.

Several new sections of the city have been upped in evaluation, they continued. Included are the Fraser Annex Addition, part of Plot 162 (the "Island" in the northeast part of town), most of Prairie Village and the Green-Noviny Addition. Decreased in evaluation was the east side of the 300-block of South Tyler.

After the public hearing is concluded, the two boards of equalization will reconvene, make final decisions and notify those concerned.

Famous Architect Expresses Views

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., July 1.—UP—Architect Frank Lloyd said Thursday the setting for the new Air Force academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., "is splendid" but "the construction should be more than a group of buildings." Wright said the academy should "express America."
The famed designer said the site is ideal to inspire an Air Force training school which will "always have organic progress in a dignified fashion."

Ten Years Of Communist Work Destroyed In 12 Days

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst
The Communists spent 10 years building themselves up in Guatemala. It has taken just 12 days to throw them out.
There may be more trouble in the little Central American republic. The Communists had gained powerful popular support as the sponsors of radical "reform" programs, in addition to making them-

McLEAN — (Special) — S. R. Jones, for the past 13 years manager of the McLean Gin Co., is being retired, effective July 1. The McLean Gin is owned by the Chickasha Cotton Oil Co., of Chickasha, Okla.

Jones said that he and three other "oldtimers" are stepping down under a new company policy of retiring all employees who are eligible for federal social security. All men will receive company pensions.
Jones will continue to buy wheat and grain sorghums for Kemble Mills of Ft. Worth during the season.

The Joneses recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. No successor as gin manager has yet been announced.

Helen, an outstanding dramatic student in Miami High School last year, is cast in two of the plays to be presented this summer at the camp. She has a lead role in Shakespeare's "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and is rehearsing a role in an old fashioned melodrama. Among other things she has been ice skating at the Broadmore, and has taken sight-seeing tours in the Colorado Springs area.

Surgery Delayed On Bing Crosby

SANTA MONICA, Calif., July 1.—UP—Crooner Bing Crosby, under observation for a kidney ailment at St. John's Hospital, will not undergo surgery "at this time," his physician said Thursday.

Crosby, who several months ago disclosed he had a kidney condition that might require surgery, entered the hospital Wednesday.
"He is in the hospital for observation in regard to his kidney condition," Dr. Fred Schlumberger said. "But I am quite sure we will not operate."

Reds Lose Foothold

The outstanding fact in the Guatemalan revolt is that world communism has lost its first and only real foothold in the Western Hemisphere. It is a big victory for the West in the cold war.
There seems to be not the remotest chance that the Communists will be able to make a comeback in Guatemala in the foreseeable future.

Further it is probable that the drive against communism in some larger Latin American countries—already under way—will be stepped up. The Guatemalan situation awakened the peoples of the American republics generally to the fact that the threat of communism in the Western Hemisphere was real.

Things started happening when the State Department announced on May 27 that a shipment of arms from behind the iron curtain had been landed in Guatemala.

"Best Organized Plot"
The Guatemalan government announced on June 2 that it had uncovered the "best organized plot in the history of the government."

President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman suspended constitutional guarantees on June 8.
The revolt, organized outside the country, broke on June 18. It seemed for a while to have bogged down, but Arbenz was forced to resign last Sunday, and on Monday the Communist party was outlawed.

Woman Chooses 'Cloud Watching' As A Career

NEWARK, N. J. — UP — Mrs. Jeanette Shumante, one of few women meteorologists in the nation, took the weather observation job 11 years ago to test the durability of a childhood fascination for clouds.
Jeanette, former resident of Bluefield, W. Va., recently was transferred to Newark after 10 years as a forecaster in Dayton, O., and a year in Louisville, Ky.
"I didn't know what I wanted to be when I started college," she said, "but when I was a child, I was always fascinated by cloud formations. I decided to make them a career."
She did. The pretty forecaster can sort out cumulus, status and cirrus in the cloud family quicker than you can say "rain tonight, ending tomorrow." She said there was another advantage to her job with the U. S. Weather Service. "My masculine co-workers are usually very pleasant to work with."

Strikes Lawful?

Should strikes in essential industry be made unlawful? That, obviously, is a pertinent and crucial question. It also poses about as burning a controversial problem as can be imagined.

In the June 14 issue of the Freeman, in an article entitled "Let's Stop Strikes!" Donald R. Richberg deals with the matter. Mr. Richberg has a long-established national reputation as a labor observer, and was the author of some very important labor legislation, including the Railway Labor Act of 1926.

At the beginning of his article, Mr. Richberg makes this premise: "A strike that stops all milk deliveries in a metropolitan area is not a strike against employers as a class. Nor is a strike against steel or coal or transportation merely a strike against employers. These are warfare by a class against the community. Such strikes make no sense except as moves in a revolution to establish class domination."

If that premise is accepted, two new questions immediately arise. The first is how a law outlawing such strikes could be enforced. In Mr. Richberg's view that would be relatively simple, for the reason that strikes do not often result from spontaneous mass uprisings. They are called by a limited number of leaders and organizations, and the anti-strike law would be applied against them. He cites the government's anti-strike action against the United Mine Workers as an example of this principle.

The second question, is, in Mr. Richberg's view, the more serious one. It is how the economic conflicts can be fairly resolved. As he puts it, the workers in essential industry "should not be left subject to the dictation of private management as to the terms and conditions of their employment."

Here, Mr. Richberg makes two rather novel points. One is that people who work in vital industry, on which their fellow citizens are vitally dependent, "should accept an obligation to continuous service." The other is that "the standards by which fair wages for labor can be determined are about as easily ascertained and can be as impartially applied as the standards fixing payments for capital and fair rates for utility service." Under Mr. Richberg's plan, representatives of labor and management would be both encouraged and required prior to any compulsory arbitration, to make every effort to reach an agreement. Only if that failed, and a stoppage of production or distribution of any essential commodity or service threatened, would the power of the law be brought into play to protect the public welfare. Any worker of course, could quit his job on his own initiative. But it would be unlawful "to conduct or maintain any concerted withdrawal of employment or boycott of the business involved."

Mr. Richberg makes this very interesting observation: "As a practical matter we may be sure that the vast majority of American workers, unionized or non-unionized, would welcome and live happily under a law which lifted from them the burdens and losses of strikes." There are many, inside and outside of organized labor, who will dispute that and all the rest of Mr. Richberg's ideas with the utmost vigor. But whether one agrees with him or not, he has made a thoughtful contribution to a problem of the first importance.

THE NATION'S PRESS

WHY ARE THE MIGHTY AFRAID?

V. Orval Watts, Ph. D.
If Militarism could make any people feel safe, surely the people of the United States should now feel secure.

Our government has a powerful army, navy and air force. According to usually reliable reports, it has enough A - bombs and H-bombs to wipe out all of the major cities on the face of the earth - with some left over. To deliver these bombs, it has ringed its most likely foes with hundreds of military bases from which it can destroy any enemy city or other important target within a few hours. No other government has nearly so much striking power. No other can draw on such industrial strength for a sustained attack.

Of all peoples, therefore, Americans are least in danger, and this has been true for 150 years.

Yet, as Captain Grenfell, British naval expert and historian writes, "One of the strangest phenomena of our time is the refusal of its own enviable safety." Instead, he says, we are addicted to conjuring up dangers which are mainly or totally imaginary as a reason for entering every war that starts anywhere in the world - always, of course, on the pretext of preventing a still bigger war.

Thus, during the last war," he continues, "President Roosevelt declared that American participation in it was essential in order to save America from invasion by preventing the Germans from reaching West Africa. . . . The President's estimate of what might happen was ridiculous, and would have meant certain failure to any mind except his examinations." (Unconditional Surrender, p. 247-48).

The Theoretical Danger
Now our interventionists tell us that some vague but terrible fate awaits us unless our government uses all necessary military force, at once and always, to save every other government from overthrow by communism. So this military policy of "perpetual war for perpetual peace" is a constant source of the propaganda that nations can people ever fear.

subjects of all other militaristic governments in the past.

It is true of course, that any government could attack the United States and do great damage. Before long, any one of several governments may be able to destroy nearly all the people of any country or continent - if it can mobilize in secret, and if it is willing to suffer the near annihilation of its own citizens from our counterattack during the hours, days or weeks necessary for its own strike to take effect.

But this theoretical danger is not new. It has always been conceivable that some men could destroy the rest through conspiracy and ruthless use of the latest death - dealing weapons, whether stone hatchets, guns, poison gas or germ warfare.

What prevented this in the past is what prevents it now - the fact that the will of men to live and cooperate is stronger than their will to kill and be killed. The crazed or wrong-headed destroyers cannot command as much loyal support as those who want to live and let live. The most successful destroyers like Caesar, Napoleon, Hitler or Stalin, killed only a small per cent of the human race, and even their limited success in killing came from the belief and promise that a little killing would promote more life and cooperation.

The Real Danger
And it is in this belief and promise that we find the cause of militarism, which is a form of collectivism now masquerading as "collective security."

If, for instance, those who prate about "free enterprise" were willing to risk bankruptcy for it, even as the men of the Declaration risked their necks for independence, the present drive for the collectivization of capital would not have such easy going. Assuming that they are fully aware of the implications of the phrase they mouth, and are sincere in their protestations, the fact that they are unwilling to suffer mortification of the flesh disqualifies them for leadership, and the case for "free enterprise" is hopeless.

The present low estate of freedom in this country must be laid to lack of the proper leadership - the men who know that freedom is

FINAL INSTALLMENT
Returning to first principles, the object of productive effort is consumption; men work to satisfy their desires, and for no other reason. They don't want work they want satisfaction. Their aversion to labor is such that they are constantly inventing labor-saving devices. And the more labor they save the more labor they invest in the gratification of new desires, of which the human mind seems to have an inexhaustible fund.

Contrariwise, when the results of their efforts are taken from them, when the prospect of possession and enjoyment is diminished, they lose interest in producing. Why work when there is nothing in it? And this disinterest in production arises whether the insecurity of ownership is caused by regular collectors. The name or the uniform of the abductor makes no difference to the one deprived of his property; he sees no point in trying to improve his circumstances, in widening his horizon; his point of interest is mere existence. That is civilization in decline.

When faced with this circumstance, does the State abdicate? It does not. The general lack of interest in production threatens its own existence, but it still cannot divest itself of its inner urge for power. It turns to the use of force to stimulate the production from which it derives taxes. It confiscates and tries to run the entire economy by rules, regulations, controls, and compulsion; the nation becomes a slave-labor camp.

But the outpost of an economy that rests on force rather than on self-interest is mesager. More important than lack of production is the slave psychology that such an environment induces. Men lose their capacity for self-improvement along with their sense of individual dignity. Thus civilization disintegrates and becomes an historical or archaeological curio. The State, of course, collapses with the civilization.

Must our civilization follow in the same groove? There are prophets who so maintain. For about three centuries, they point out, that bit of modern civilization called America thrived under the life-giving rays of freedom; now it is entering into the usual period of absolutism. The end is in sight, and the end, they say, will come much more quickly than did, for instance, the end of the Roman civilization, simply because our great advances in technology will hasten it. We move much faster these days, even toward our decline. The event that will bring about a complete collapse of freedom in America, and the civilization that grew up under it, will be the next world war; the State will, under fear of annihilation from the enemy, confiscate all that remains of social power. After the war, as usual, it will not give up the power it has thus confiscated - in fact, the bewildered and war-impoorished people will insist on the State retaining that power and using it for the "general welfare" - and in short order even the memory of freedom will have been lost.

Maybe so. Maybe our civilization must obey the "ineluctable" forces of history; maybe it is on the toboggan now. Nevertheless, men do what they are impelled by their nature to do, not by what history dictates. The stars in the heavens attend to their eternal business, while we mortals must travel within our own specific orbits.

It is no historical imperative that directed the pens of those who signed the Declaration of Independence; it was a inner force. There were many at the time - the Tories - who deemed the Revolution a foolhardy venture, from which no good could come greater than that which might ensue from a compromise with King George; if they were alive today these Tories could point to Canada in support of their argument. Nevertheless, the rebels, none of whom were driven to it by economic necessity, put their signatures to what at the time seemed to be their own death warrant. Why? For lack of a better answer, let us say they were made of a peculiar kind of stuff and could not do otherwise.

Whether there are any mystic forces pushing men along a path from which there is no escape, is a moot question. But there is no questioning the fact that throughout history men have regularly made excursions in quest of freedom, and that every one of these excursions was identified by its leadership. It is a logical inference therefore that when men of that stripe appear on the scene the cause of freedom is not neglected. Perhaps, after all, the present plight of freedom in America is due to lack of leadership.

If, for instance, those who prate about "free enterprise" were willing to risk bankruptcy for it, even as the men of the Declaration risked their necks for independence, the present drive for the collectivization of capital would not have such easy going. Assuming that they are fully aware of the implications of the phrase they mouth, and are sincere in their protestations, the fact that they are unwilling to suffer mortification of the flesh disqualifies them for leadership, and the case for "free enterprise" is hopeless.

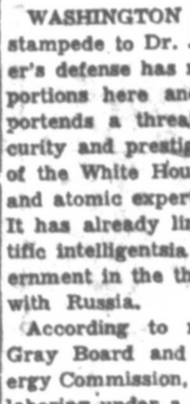

The present low estate of freedom in this country must be laid to lack of the proper leadership - the men who know that freedom is

Oppenheimer 'Defenders' Are Threat To U. S. Security

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON - The scientists' stampede to Dr. J. R. Oppenheimer's defense has reached such proportions here and abroad that it portends a threat to national security and prestige, in the opinion of the White House, the Pentagon and atomic experts at Washington.

It has already lined up the scientific intelligentsia against the Government in the thermonuclear war with Russia.

"According to members of the Gray Board and the Atomic Energy Commission, the scientists are laboring under a misapprehension. Time and again, during the hearings, Gray Board members emphasized that they were trying only a single and eccentric individual, not a specific or separate group of Americans.

As they point out, the fact that Alger Hiss was a brilliant lawyer did not mean that Congress and the Department of Justice were investigating and prosecuting and singling out the legal profession for condemnation. More lawyers and politicians than scientists have been placed on the grill at Washington in recent years. Yet, they are not sulking in their tents, quitting their professions or refusing to serve Uncle Sam.

President Eisenhower and his defense aides do not know how to combat this incipient scientific rebellion and boycott, although deeply alarmed by its extent and emotional excesses. It may be that they will hold a council of eminent scientists to place the Oppenheimer decision before them in a new light. Or a "white paper" on the subject may be forthcoming.

It is Washington's belief that Oppenheimer's defenders cannot have read the voluminous record, especially his examination by Roger Robb, the Gray Board's Counsel. The official feeling on the basis of this document is that Oppenheimer was given every possible break, in view of the mass of damning evidence developed against him. Board members believe they were lenient.

The Board gave almost no weight to the fact that Oppenheimer had and who do not equate it with their own "standard of living." Whether or not leadership could have averted, or can still stop, the trend toward socialism, may be open to question; that a glorious fight for freedom might enliven the American scene is not. Whether a fight for freedom will be crowned with success, is less important than the fight itself, for if nothing comes of it, the fighters will be a gain, and they cannot help but keep alive the values that will make America a better climate for their offspring to live in.

There is no accounting for the emergence of these superior men, these "sports of nature," who sporadically shape the course of mankind. They come, as if were, from nowhere and nobody has yet conclusively explained their advent. But, they come. When in her own time and her own pleasure Nature deems America ready for and worthy of them, she will give us the men who will make the good fight. It seems reasonable to assume that their first objective will be - repeal of the Sixteenth Amendment.

deceived atomic security officers and the General Advisory Committee on several important matters, including Communist efforts to obtain A-bomb secrets and his part in delaying H-bomb experimentation.

It passed over his continued association with Red sympathizers. It even minimized the arrogance he exhibited in believing that he alone should decide what was and was not disloyal or indiscreet conduct. In short, it excused his human frailties and idiosyncracies to such an extent that it found him to be a loyal and patriotic citizen.

The Gray Board denied him future "clearance" for thermonuclear secrets for two reasons only. The first was that he undoubtedly delayed development of the H-bomb for four years even after Truman gave the go-ahead order. The second was that Oppenheimer "could go fishing for the rest of his life" without hurting or helping future developments in this field. He is not an "indispensable man" in preparing for a possible thermonuclear conflict.

The Board based these decisions on detailed testimony by Dr. Edward Teller, the Hungarian-born physicist known as "father of the H-bomb." A friend of Oppenheimer, he testified with obvious reluctance. But the following colloquy between him and Robb are the most important passages in this historic controversy.

Robb: In your opinion, if Dr. Oppenheimer should go fishing for the rest of his life, what would be the effect upon the atomic-energy and thermonuclear programs?

Teller: The effect would be negligible. There are several kinds of tumors as well as many locations. Some are very slow growing and benign; others are rapidly growing and malignant. In spite of all these difficulties, however, a great many tumors can be found and successfully removed surgically.

Tumors of the brain may lie almost anywhere inside the skull. The symptoms, therefore, depend on where the tumor is located, and its size.

In some cases, it may produce difficulties in swallowing. In other cases, the symptoms may involve the hearing, the eyesight, or muscular coordination in one part of the body or another. Headache is a fairly common symptom of brain tumor and so is persistent vomiting. Of course a person can have any of these symptoms from some other cause.

If a brain tumor is suspected, the nervous system must be carefully examined to find out exactly where the tumor is before an operation is even thought about. Such tests include examining the muscular strength, the vision and hearing, and the nerve reactions.

Fluid must be removed from the spinal canal or the openings in the brain and examined. Other fluids may be injected into the canal which will show up in X-rays and thus help in locating the tumor.

Air can be injected into the spaces in the brain - this sounds rather fearsome but is not - and this too helps to locate the area of the tumor. In some cases, measuring the electrical waves which pass through the brain is also of great value.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JOEDAN, M. D.
About one person out of 100 dies as a result of a brain tumor. As soon as this danger became fully realized, the resources of medical science were thrown into the battle. As a result, today many brain tumors can be discovered early and can be successfully removed by the highly skilled surgical methods which have been developed.

Tumors of the brain may lie almost anywhere inside the skull. The symptoms, therefore, depend on where the tumor is located, and its size.

In some cases, it may produce difficulties in swallowing. In other cases, the symptoms may involve the hearing, the eyesight, or muscular coordination in one part of the body or another. Headache is a fairly common symptom of brain tumor and so is persistent vomiting. Of course a person can have any of these symptoms from some other cause.

If a brain tumor is suspected, the nervous system must be carefully examined to find out exactly where the tumor is before an operation is even thought about. Such tests include examining the muscular strength, the vision and hearing, and the nerve reactions.

Fluid must be removed from the spinal canal or the openings in the brain and examined. Other fluids may be injected into the canal which will show up in X-rays and thus help in locating the tumor.

Air can be injected into the spaces in the brain - this sounds rather fearsome but is not - and this too helps to locate the area of the tumor. In some cases, measuring the electrical waves which pass through the brain is also of great value.

There are several kinds of tumors as well as many locations. Some are very slow growing and benign; others are rapidly growing and malignant. In spite of all these difficulties, however, a great many tumors can be found and successfully removed surgically.

When we let them alone to do things in their old imperial way, packing the white man's burden and doing incidental, though not spectacular, good for the lesser breeds, the British have a knack for such adventures. They routed a Communist beach-head out of British Guiana by old-fashioned strong-arm methods and didn't bother to offer explanations which would serve no good purpose and would only hurt the truth, at that. And our prestige has never been lower.

Now, by a process which the people of the United States never even contemplated, we have elected ourselves to "world leadership" which means that to enforce our will we will on unwilling areas and populations. We will have to flex our muscles with money or full back. We wouldn't let the British carry on as before and we can't succeed in their old place because we haven't the candor and determination to say that back ward people are backward and in need of a competent government or competent management of their international relations in trade and diplomacy.

Whatever other information our government may have had, and of course it had some, it did receive it from an extensive report prepared from personal study by the young in Guatemala by Dr. J. B. Matthews and his wife, Ruth, also a Ph.D., a professor and an expert in such matters. This document was done for a private client by a pair of fact-finders whose efficiency may be measured by the enormous - unpopularity among Communists, follow-travelers and agitators to anti-Communist forces - edious; the term "spy-masters" - Although it was a confidential report, it was sent immediately to both the FBI and the CIA and copies were made available to anti-Communist forces all over Latin-America, including Trujillo and his government in the Dominican Republic. About the time that the Matthews finished their study, which has not been published, the New York Herald Tribune ran a story of its own which disagreed with the Matthews report.

Is it cynical, and does one go too far in stating that the CIA, a secret department of the American government, has a duty and a free hand to look up revolutions in small countries to kick out Soviet puppets? Cynical one may be in so stating, but that is the fact nevertheless and that fact is one of the excuses for the total secrecy of the CIA whose appropriation of their pile they see no reason why they should stress it up for people they don't know now and don't much care if they ever know. Of the perhaps half dozen Texas oil kings I have met, not one was anything but a fundamentally terrible fellow. They tell me that one noted oil man, a fellow who has been up and down several times, is notoriously a bad - tempered, opinionated man, an annoying article in Texas or anywhere else. But he's the only such one I ever knew. The others are warm-hearted, friendly, gregarious and kind of spiteful. If they encase all this in garments which look and fit as though they had come out of a mail order book in 1905, I don't see that any major harm has been done to anyone.

In most cases addition to shyness betrays an insecurity. Man is trying to cover his frailties of the spirit and psyche with camouflage clothing. You take a Texan, now - what has a man with an oil well, amounting for him not to be insecure about? Nothing. There's no damn care if he looks impressive which look and fit as though they had come out of a mail order book in 1905, I don't see that any major harm has been done to anyone.

Fair Enough...

We're Not Allowed To Ask About Secret CIA Work

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK - Not to put too fine a point upon it, one of the obvious duties of our Central Intelligence Agency is to organize, touch off and exploit revolutions such as one in Guatemala where the Communist menace is imminent and acute. We are not allowed to know anything about the CIA and there is a sentiment to the effect that it were somehow disloyal and a service to the enemy to discuss this mysterious outfit at all. But practical persons, not necessarily with special knowledge of "intrigue," must recognize as a fact the expediency and necessity for swift, efficient, successful blows in such crises as the one in Guatemala.

Had that coup been managed with efficiency and determination by qualified individuals, the anti-Soviet forces would have captured the situation with negligible bloodshed or none at all. The Soviet political outpost in Central America and right upon the Panama Canal would have been eliminated and the Soviet and Communist prestige in Latin-America would have been discredited. Instead, as these lines are written, there seems to have been a half-hearted, ill-managed fiasco, as I hear that one American reporter close to the scene wrote that the war correspondents outnumbered the revolutionary anti-Soviet army, which may have been a coarse jab but was close to the truth, at that. And our prestige has never been lower.

When we let them alone to do things in their old imperial way, packing the white man's burden and doing incidental, though not spectacular, good for the lesser breeds, the British have a knack for such adventures. They routed a Communist beach-head out of British Guiana by old-fashioned strong-arm methods and didn't bother to offer explanations which would serve no good purpose and would only hurt the truth, at that. ## Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

A colleague working the Hollywood side of the street is a nimble fellow in the brain department and it is his way of life to sit on his front porch late on a California evening and arrive at sage conclusions. One of Herb Stein's decisions is that "the almost negligible mark of distinction of Texas oil millionaires is a set of garters." Before any Texas puller, let's look into this. Stein isn't too far wrong - if at all.

The worst - dressed man anybody ever saw on the American continent, which admittedly takes a staggering amount of territory, is a Texas multi-millionaire named Howard Hughes. The evidence is that Hughes is not an oil millionaire but an oil tool millionaire, which is first cousin. He makes tools used in the drilling for and production of oil. He also is a man only believed to visit elegant restaurants and night clubs garbed in a collection of threads that wouldn't be caught dead dragging in. Nonetheless, he is welcome in these deadfalls and it is not on record that his handlers turn in when he comes padding into the bank in sneakers. If his bankers and the STATE CLUB are not amused by his odd looks in Texas I see no reason why anyone else should be.

Another gem given to bizarre fashions in dress is a man who has almost as much money as Hughes and who, curiously, has like Hughes a close affinity to the airplane business. This is a man who could say, if he would, that half the planes in the air over America today would not be there if it were not for his bright mind and what he invented. He doesn't say he. But then those planes are made of concrete miter. He is a man who carries negligible sums of cash in the pockets of his rumpled trousers, often doesn't shave for three days, ignores scuffed shoes, and has to be tied and carried into barber shops for his quarterly haircut. Nonetheless, he is a man who could write a casual check for $5,000,000 and have it honored in any one of several banks.

Many Texas oil millionaires, from humble sources, which is no mark against them. Most of us came from humble sources. By application, hard work, intense, wracking gambles and, in some cases, a stroke of luck, they have come to riches and affluence. As broke but ambitious young men they were not in line for the dud bit and now that they have dredged up their pile they see no reason why they should stress it up for people they don't know now and don't much care if they ever know. Of the perhaps half dozen Texas oil kings I have met, not one was anything but a fundamentally terrible fellow. ### Tickets For Rodeo Here Available

Tickets for the Top of Texas Rodeo, Aug. 4-7, are now being offered Pampa business concerns to be sent complimentary to their customers and friends over the area, according to Paul Crouch, Rodeo association president.

In a letter to these concerns, Crouch stated that quite a few concerns used the tickets last year with good results, adding that the tickets were "fine goodwill builders."

The tickets will cost the busiactually used by the customers to whom they are sent. At the close of the show the tickets will be counted and the firms will then be billed for them.

Mrs. Iris Ragdale, who is in charge of preliminary work for the rodeo, said that many of these firms already have requested their tickets, but that there still are many more available.

Cutting Sales Technique - The Big 'I' - Combat Time

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, who is quite a salesman himself, turns out to be just another pushover for a good salesman's line.

Proof of this has been demonstrated by 15-year-old Beth Weinstein of Schenectady, New York. She is the Junior Achievement Award winner in a national contest to find the best kid salesman in the U.S. She has just won a $200 scholarship in a contest with 1400 other young salesmen.

The product she sold Secretary Weeks was a $1.98 knife holder. This is the paragraph in her sales letter that overcame Secretary Weeks' low sales resistance:

"What with all the arguing, bickering and petty politicking going on every day, wouldn't it be a good idea to hang my knife rack where our statesmen in Washington could put away their knives and concentrate on working for the common good of our country — say, working on world peace instead of on television charts that tell how many times David Schine had a pass from the Army?"

Note: Secretary Weeks isn't going to hang the knife rack in his office for the statesmen to part their cutlery in, however. In mailing his check to Miss Weinstein he wrote:

"You can be sure that the knife rack will be put to good use in the kitchen of our home."

Speaking of salesmanship, the 220-cent "Infant Care" pamphlet still remains the No. 1 best-seller on the list of the thousands of publications of the U.S. Government Printing Office.

Since it was first issued by the U.S. Children's Bureau in 1913, over nine million copies of "Infant Care" have been sold. It has been run through eight editions and has been revised for every reprint.

Other best-sellers on the GPO list are: "Prenatal Care," over four million copies; "Your Child From One to Six," over three million copies, and "Your Child From Six to Twelve," one million.

Rep. Dwight L. Rogers (D. Fla.), has introduced a resolution in the House to prohibit television broadcasts of all congressional hearings. In making his proposal, Representative Rogers said:

"It is not a healthy situation for our people to daily look upon the recent 'show' and conclude that all such workings of congressional committees are carried on in any such manner."

"When Sam Rayburn of Texas was Speaker of the House," says Representative Rogers, "he refused to admit the television of committee hearings. His wisdom in so doing has been demonstrated most forcibly by what has been displayed in the Army-McCarthy hearings in the past eight weeks."

What the fascination of these Army-McCarthy hearings was — that they could hold so many people, bug-eyed and hypnotized in front of TV sets, day after day — has puzzled many psychologists.

The hearings were a fight — and everybody loves a fight. They were full of surprises — and peowere unrehearsed and perfectly natural. The dramatic interest was real and not artificial.

But the one psychological stimulus that seemed to hold most observers was that they put themselves right around the hearing table as participants.

This shows up in the post-mortems, when people say, "If I was McCarthy, I'd have done so and so." Or, "If I'd have been Symington, I'd have socked him." Or, "Why didn't Mundt make 'em answer?" Or, "Jenkins was too soft on this." Or, "Why didn't Welch ask him that?"

Any dramatist who can make this audience feel that they are actors on the stage has a sure hit. After President Eisenhower finished speaking to the National Citizens for Eisenhower conference in Washington, another speaker got in a few words which drew wild applause from the enthusiastic Ike supporters.

As James L. Murphy, chairman of the national citizens' group started to say something over the mike, a booming voice broke in demanding: "Wait a minute, Jim. Let's all say who we want for President in 1956."

Everyone cheered. The man who had made the suggestion was Eisenhower's most ardent fan — Marty Snyder, General Eisenhower's mess sergeant in World War II. Marty is the fellow who staged that famous one-man demonstration for Eisenhower at Chicago in 1948.

Now he's supposed to have political ambitions of his own. He wants to run for Congress in New York's 20th district.

The incumbent congressman is Democrat Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr.

A recent brag by the 45th Infantry Association, on its 511 days in combat during World War II, was accompanied by a resolution, printed in the Congressional Record, recommending that the commander of this infantry outfit be made a permanent member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

This has now drawn a reply from Quantico, Va., Marine Corps base.

"Please inform the 45th Infantry," it says, "that we of the United States Marine Corps are in deep sympathy with them for their 511 days in combat. Since we were used to doing the same job in three or four days, our time in combat couldn't be as high as theirs. So using their time as the basis for selecting their CO for the JCS is unfair to decent combat men."

There are no truly "national" holidays in the United States. Congress has never enacted a law setting aside a day as national holiday; such observances are set by state legislatures.

BEHRMAN'S CONTINUES ITS PRE-4th of July SALE

This will shock you

On the three days of the July 4th weekend, the Texas Department of Public Safety expects that

31 people will be killed in Texas traffic accidents

650 people will be injured in Texas traffic accidents

2200 Texas traffic accidents will cause a loss of $1,953,000 from property damage.

If you plan a trip for the weekend, please drive carefully. Observe these simple, easy to follow safe-driving suggestions:

1. Drive a safe car: good brakes, good lights, good mechanical condition.
2. Observe the speed limit.
3. Heed traffic signs.
4. Don't pass on hills.
5. Stay to the right.
6. Follow other cars at a safe distance.
7. Look well before backing, and before entering or crossing intersections.
8. Give proper hand signals.
9. Rest when you become tired.

If every Texan on the highways this weekend will resolve to observe those rules, perhaps the actual loss will be less than the predicted loss of life, time and money. If we can save one life, or even one crippling injury, extra care will have paid a rich dividend.

Can't Say She Isn't A Clean Shot

DETROIT — UP— The blast of a caliber pistol and the gentle hum of a washing machine make a combination that means music to the ears of a suburban Detroit housewife.

Mrs. Alice Matthews, 36, of Grosse Pointe, says that pistol shooting and house keeping do mix. In fact, she says, every woman should know how to handle a gun.

Mrs. Matthews, a slender brunette and former national outdoor pistol shooting champion has successfully combined the two. A bullet trap is posted beside her washing machine. Ammunition, gun-cleaning equipment and lubrication tools are on a stand at one end of her basement firing range. A gun case stands beside the kitchen door.

She won the national championship in 1952 and is competing again this year.

Mrs. Matthews started her gun-slinging hobby 12 years ago through the influence of her husband, George, who is classified as a master by the National Rifle Association. She limits her shooting to pistols.

A .380 caliber Beretta is on the nightstand ready for "dry shot" practice most anytime, she says.

Washington, New Delhi Talks Appear A Victory For Reds

By CHARLES M. MCCANN

United Press Foreign Analyst

The two big conferences just held in Washington and New Delhi seem to have resulted in a diplomatic victory for communism.

The Washington conference between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Winston Churchill showed that there still are wide differences between the United States and Great Britain.

These differences include immediate policy in Southeast Asia to prevent further aggression and the possibility of peaceful co-existence between Democracy and world communism.

Wants to Wait a While

Churchill wants to wait a while before he commits Britain to participation in a Southeast Asia security pact. Also, though he has been a consistent and active anti-Communist since the Bolshevik revolution of 1917 he cherishes the belief — which he did not always hold — in the possibility of peaceful co-existence. President Eisenhower believes peaceful co-existence is possible only if the Communists unexpectedly become peaceful.

But the New Delhi conference between Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai disclosed no differences in policy between India and Communist China.

On the contrary, those two leaders of 960 million Asiatic people seem to have been brought closer together — for the present.

Their conference was based on the idea that peaceful co-existence between the Communist and non-Communist worlds is entirely possible.

It was based largely, too, on the idea that Nehru and Chou should constitute a sort of joint voice of Asia in Asiatic affairs.

The Nehru-Chou conference is likely to strengthen "neutrality" in East Asia and make it more difficult to get the cooperation of some East Asiatic countries in any pact against Red aggression.

Judgment and Timing

As regards co-existence, incidentally, some of the statements made on that issue by Churchill, Nehru and Chou might almost have been written by the same man.

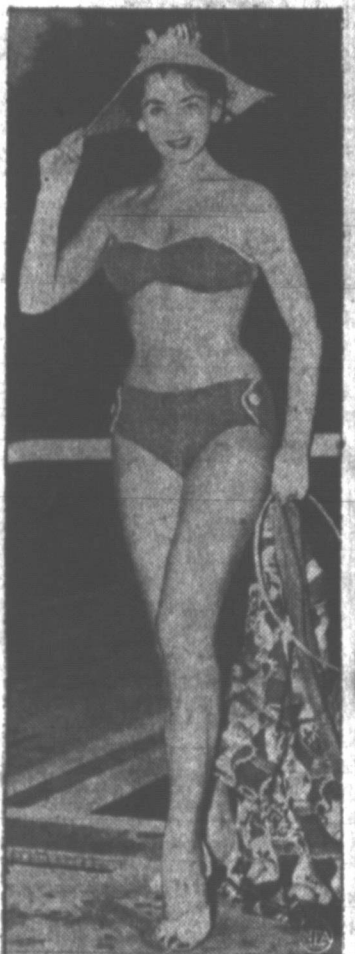

Thus the Communists seem to have more reason than people of the free world to be happy over the outcome of the Washington and New Delhi conferences.

But the Red diplomatic victory is likely to be temporary. The differences between the United States and Britain are differences of judgment and timing only, as British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden put it in a speech before he and Churchill left for Washington.

The Anglo-American differences will not last. The beautiful friendship between Nehru and Chou could well be fleeting. With Chinese Red dragon breathing hotly down the neck of countries over Southeast Asia, Nehru's part of the co-existence may not be comfortable even though it is peaceful.

The Sets Holiday

WASHINGTON, June 30—UP— President and Mrs. Eisenhower will spend Fourth of July week end at Camp David, the White House retreat in the mountains of western Maryland, it was announced Tuesday. The chief executive and the first lady probably will leave here early Friday afternoon by auto. They were expected to drive to their farm at Gettysburg, Pa., to check on reconstruction of their old Pennsylvania Dutch farmhouse. Mr. Eisenhower is expected to return to Washington late Monday.

Steel Price Hike Seen

PITTSBURGH, July 1 — UP—

Industry observers looked Wednesday for possible increases in steel prices to compensate for higher wage and social benefits granted 600,000 CIO United Steelworkers employed in the basic steel industry.

A new agreement signed Tuesday by the union and top producers gives steelworkers a five cents an hour wage increase and a boost in minimum pension benefits to $140 a month. Insurance benefits also were improved.

Worth of the "package" settlement ranged from eight to 12 cents an hour per man, depending on pension costs from company to company.

Japan's dye industries shipped a record 15,420 pounds of dyes to foreign markets in 1953.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Sterling Hayden, who did it once before, is telling pals that he may quit the movie game for something that will make him happier. . . . Maybe Groucho Marx married Eden Hartford in Cannes as reported and maybe he didn't. Gumbo, Harpo, Chico and other relatives haven't had any official word from him about the hitching and are inclined to doubt it. . . . Frances Bergen, Edgar's pretty frau, will be popping up in New York televisions as a dramatic actress. Bergen okayed the live emoting for his wife, who made her film debut in "Titanic." . . . New record I can do without: "When Liberace Winks at Me."

Spike Jones, touring in the hinterlands, reports: "One town was so small they had a sign right in the center of it reading: "You Are Now Entering and Leaving Powell, Wyo." Modern west note: After a 2-million modernization, The Last Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas will be named the New Frontier. Betty Hutton and Charlie O'Carroll signed the divorce papers, with both agreeing to what's hers in hers and what's his in his. . . . MGM's scheduled "Don't Go Near the Water" for Esther Williams. . . . John Derek and Debra Paget will love it up in "The Annapolis Story" for Allied Artists.

MGM has leased stage space in its big London studios to Roy Rich, who will make two feature pictures for TV distribution.

Maurice Chevalier, barred from entering the U.S. by the State Department, is before the camera in France in a new movie tagged, "I Have Seven Daughters."

Susan Hayward isn't expecting either of her 3-year-old twin sons to get the acting bug while they're on location with her in Utah for "The Conqueror."

"They're in school plays and they do skits with the Cub Scouts," she told me, "but I don't see any acting talent or any inclination in that direction."

"At the moment, they both want to be Marine generals. Last year they were to be men from outer space. They're normal kids."

Jennie Lee likes the drive-in movies. "The dialogue is great," she says, "especially in the car parked next to you."

Maria Riva's advice to would-be stars about learning acting know-how now that movie studios are demanding experienced players. "Extra work in live television is the best training job and the most lucrative. For one day of walking across the stage or for going from one room into another, an extra gets 50¢."

The future stars will come from TV extras who make a study of the business.

Ida Lupino was talking about throwing in the towel as an actress a few months back, but she's in greasepaint again for "Private Hell — 36."

The telefilm work proved to her, she says, that the ham in the Lupino make-up is still as fresh as anything in Betty Furness' refrigerator.

"Sweetie," she told me, "Television has given me a whole new audience. Kids who never saw me on the big screens write fan letters and ask me why I don't do more feature pictures."

Ronald Howard, 33-year-old son of the late Leslie Howard, will "frighten" TV audiences this fall, predicts Sheldon Reynolds, with his amazing resemblance to the famous star.

Howard failed to impress movie studios with his acting talents a couple of years ago and returned to Hollywood, where he's now playing Sherlock Holmes in a telefilm series produced in London by Reynolds.

About Howard, Reynolds says:

"No one ever believed he could do anything. They always imagined he was imitating his father. But he's great at comedy — and that's the way we're playing Holmes this time."

Until he was signed for the TV role, Howard, married and the father of three children, played "Anyone for tennis?" bits on the London stage.

Short Takes: Steve Cochran, none too rhapsodic about scripts offered him, will star in "Come Next Spring" for his own independent company. . . . Film production is booming in Cuba, of all places, with some of Mexico's top stars treading the sound stages near Havana. . . . Jane Russell is looking gum. She had her heart set on playing a role in "The Ten Commandments," but Anne Baxter tied it up for herself.

Safety Group Hears Reports

Twelve members of the citizens safety commission met Wednesday for breakfast at Johnson's cafe and heard reports from three committees. Warren Haase, chairman of the finance committee, told the group the Chamber of Commerce had offered to handle the office work of the commission. R. D. (Jimmy) Wilkerson reported that the traffic projects committee had originally thought to adopt a project of painting pedestrian lanes but that the city commission had already begun work on the lanes. Wilkerson suggested his committee send the city commission a letter of commendation for their action. Aubrey Jones, chairman of the publicity and education committee outlined the work his committee has done in contacting and enlisting civic clubs in the safety drive. The next safety commission meeting will be as soon as an ordered safety film arrives, said Jack Vaughn, chairman of the commission.

Turn Children Loose In The Back Yard To Enjoy Safe And Fun-Filled Summer

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Summer is the time and the back yard is the place to relax. The rules of playtime procedure for small children.

Some of the prescribed routines that must be followed indoors can be set aside in warm weather to the mutual benefit of a busy housewife and her off-spring.

"Water play," for example, is a ready-made outdoor pastime. Nursery-school teachers have told us frequently that small children seldom get enough "water play." With some reason, I think, because few of us can permit a child to dabble and splash to his heart's content indoors.

On warm, sunny days, however, the picture changes. Even a toddler will enjoy patting and splashing his hands in a little pan of water. A small wading pool is fun for older children, but so, we discovered, is an old dishpan with a couple of inches of water in it.

It can serve as a lake for "boats" made from twigs and leaves, as a wash tub for doll's clothes and as the source for the "mud" ingredient for mud pies. Naturally when small children are playing around a pool you

"Right in your own back yard," as the old song says, there's a summer of safe fun for the children. "Water play," highly restricted most of the year, is an all-around favorite for nearly all children, and even a good splash can be made into a game.

MUST keep an eye on them, I prefer to add water to pool or pan as it's needed rather than fill up the container all at once.

If your kitchen can-opener slices can tops off smoothly, save the empties for mud-pie molds, dip-pers and "measuring" cups. I also like flexible plastic cups and old wooden mixing spoons as useful tools for the grubby-dabblers.

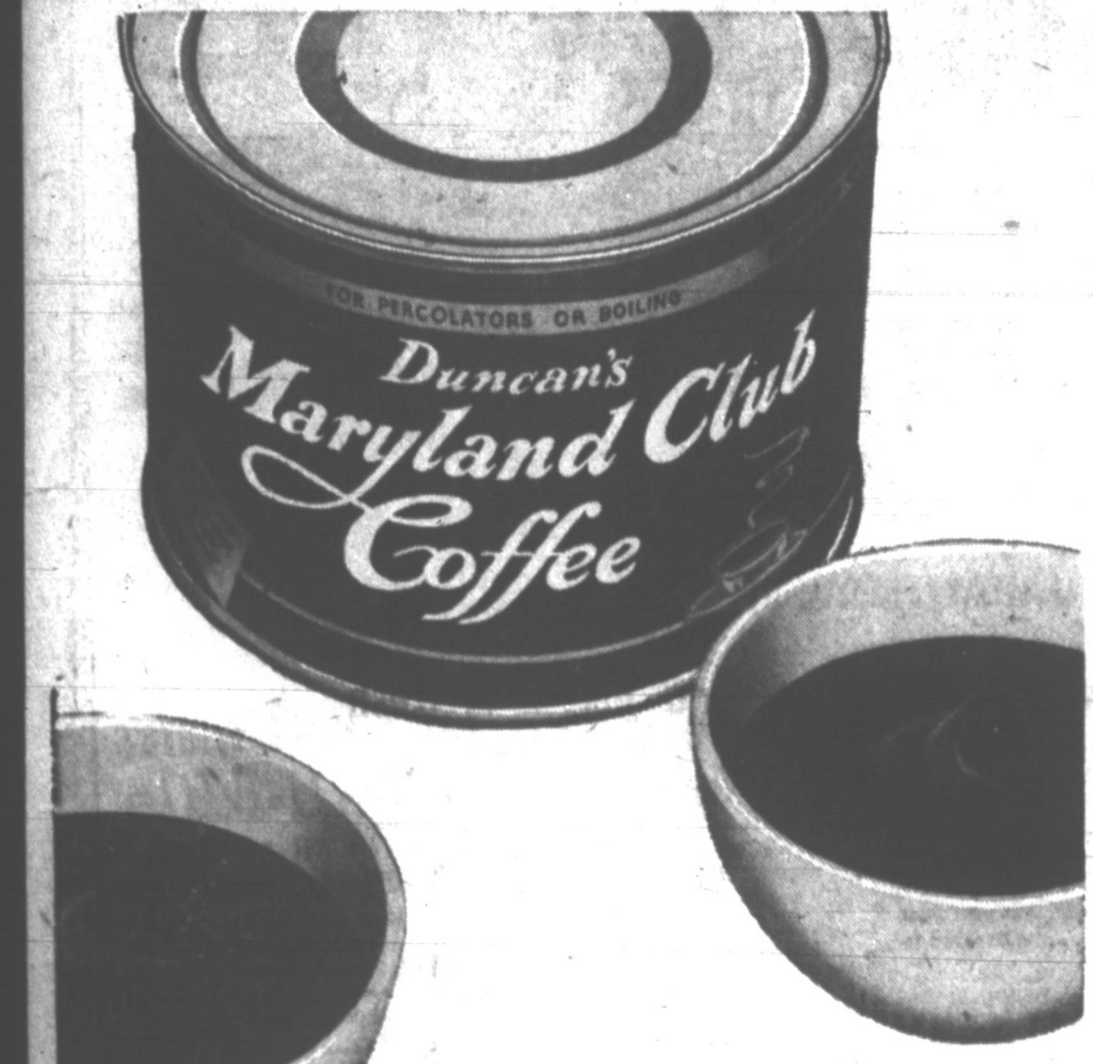

These utensils, don't get hot to the touch, are almost unbreakable and their rounded edges mean fewer hurts if one child takes a crack at another.

Left-over soap sponges and a scrubdown outdoors that's fun (and cleansing) even for children who protest identical treatment in the bathtub.

Instead of insisting on prompt attendance at the lunch table, try carrying lunch to the players in the cool of the porch or under a shady tree. Play will cease with fewer squawks, and the kitchen stays considerably neater.

I find that a tomato basket,

Busy Bee Home Demonstration Club Has Long Record Of Service To White Deer

By JO-HY SMITH
WHITE DEER — (Special) Recent installation of playground equipment in White Deer's City park will encourage youngsters and parents to use the park more frequently for picnics as well as for leisure. The Busy Bee Home Demonstration club was responsible for its being there.

The Busy Bee Home Demonstration Club was organized in September, 1947, after several of the farm women began discussions on creating activity which would be an out-of-the-home activity, as well as something that would produce greater interests in the home.

Charter members were Mrs. J. W. Stamps, Edward Dittberner, Alvin Lewis, Curtis Phillips, Jay Phillips, Glendon Young, and Wallace Bichsel. Only one charter member is still with the club, Mrs. Jay Phillips.

Since its organization, the Busy Bee Club has earned approximately $800 to further its goals and projects. Means of raising funds were through pie suppers, grab bags, traveling boxes, vanilla sale and bake sales. Evidences of where the "money" went to are noted in the White Deer branch of the Carson County libraries, in the city park, and in the group membership of the club.

The club offered to help the library three years ago. Since that time it has installed large venetian blinds across the front window, made decorations to display at Christmas time, and donated many books.

Each summer, during the month of July, a Children's Story Hour is held in the library. This hour is sponsored by the club for the youngsters of the community. Children look forward to this activity and attend regularly. At the end of the season, a county-wide picnic is held in Berger's

Huber Park, with special awards given to children among each town's group. White Deer usually has between 50-60 children attending both the story hour and the picnic.

The club adopted a large French family during one year, providing it with clothing, food packages, seed packages and a large Christmas box. Each year, CARE packages have been sent overseas, and donations are given to the drives of various organizations. The Busy Bee Club sponsored the cancer drive this year.

Thirteen members are now enrolled in the club. Most outstanding activity this year, in addition to the park improvement, was the forming of another demonstration club in White Deer, which has a membership of twelve.

Members also sponsored a first aid course. Alvin Lewis of White Deer is credited with saving a Pampa man's life, through first aid training received at the course. Lewis was recipient of the Medal of Honor for his deed, and has since received training at Omaha, Neb., to instruct first aid classes for the surrounding area.

County council has been representative of each club in the county, and the Busy Bee group has had several members who have worked on it. Mrs. Jay Phillips has served as county THDA chairman and the past year Mrs. Gene McCormick was council secretary. Mrs. McCormick will be one of three delegates from Carson County to the annual state Texas Home Demonstration meeting to be held in Dallas in August. This is her second time to represent the county at this meeting. Mrs. Jay Phillips and Mrs. C. L. Nicholson have represented the county in other years.

Officers for the Busy Bee Club the past year were Mrs. Gene McCormick, president; Mrs. L. A. Puckett, vice-president; Mrs. Dale Burch, secretary; Mrs. Jay Phillips, treasurer; Mrs. C. L. Nicholson, reporter; and Mrs. Joe Wheeler, council representative.

Miss Katherine Smith Is Honored With Tea By J. W. Duncan Family

Miss Katherine Smith, bride-elect of Bill Duncan, was honored recently with a tea in the home of Mrs. J. Wade Duncan, east of city. Mrs. Duncan's daughters, Mrs. John R. Spearman IV and Miss Cynthia Duncan, were co-hostesses.

In the receiving line were Mrs. J. Wade Duncan, and Mrs. E. E. Smith of Shamrock, mother of the bride-elect. More than 75 guests attended the affair.

The honoree's chosen colors of ice-green and white were used as the decoration theme. The serving table was covered with a floor-length ice-green organza cloth over taffeta. The centerpiece was an arrangement of white carnations and baby breath, centered with a hurricane lamp filled with green grapes and limes. It was flanked by crystal candelabras.

Presiding at the silver tea service were Mrs. R. A. Thompson Jr. of White Deer and Mrs. Jack Stroup of Shamrock. Mrs. Elton Higgins of Hereford served the tea sandwiches. Miss Letta Cherry of Canyon registered the guests, and background music was played by Mrs. Bill Epps of Canyon. Miss Cherry and Mrs. Epps will be Miss Smith's attendants.

Others in the houseparty were Mrs. Wade Thomason and Roscoe Pirtle, and Misses Wadene Thomason and Roy K. Thompson.

Miss Beverly Henry And Wayne Moore Are Married In Double-Ring Ceremony

McLEAN — (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Burl Henry of Kellerville announce the marriage of their daughter, Beverly Ann, to Wayne Herbert Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore of McLean.

Vows were exchanged in a double-ring ceremony in the home of Rev. Thomas Raper, Methodist minister, Clovis, N. M. The bride wore a navy blue street-length dress of glazed cotton with white accessories.

Miss Harlene Moore of McLean, sister of the bridegroom, served as maid-of-honor. She wore a two-piece pink dress with white accessories.

Present at the wedding were the bride's parents and Mrs. Dink Brooks of Amarillo, sister of the bridegroom. The couple will make its home in Keys, Okla., where the bridegroom is employed by an oil drilling company.

The bride attended school in White Deer and McLean. The bridegroom is a 1954 graduate of McLean high school.

You'll get better wear from your sheer nylon stockings if you buy them long enough in both the foot and the leg. Select a foot size that is one half inch longer than your foot. And, in selecting the leg length, consider whether your legs are thin or heavy.

Sub Deb Club Plans For Slumber Party

Plans for a slumber party were made at a recent meeting of the Sub Deb club in the home of Miss Mary Kennedy, 206 N. Sumner.

A food committee, headed by Miss Meredith Brooks, was appointed and time for a meeting was set. The party is slated for Friday night in the home of Miss Nickie Lewter, 808 E. Francis.

Plans were also discussed for a travelling dinner rush party to be held July 8. An invitation committee was chosen. Its members include Misses Peggy Ward, Meredith Brooks, Nancy Jameson and Marilyn McDaniel.

Members were urged to bring books for the new library, which will be presented next week.

On the agenda was the election of a secretary. Miss Patsy Ward was chosen. Next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Miss Carol Waggoner, 428 E. Browning.

It was also decided ten members will go on a Rodeo Hoopster trip. Those expected to represent the group are Misses Pat Taylor, Marilyn McDaniel, Jo Tooley, Marlene Kolb, Charlotte Parker, Carol Waggoner, Tommie McDonald, Jean Smith, Nickie Lewter and Mary Kennedy.

This Is My Dish . . .

Chocolate Pie With Whipped Cream Is Favorite Of The Carl Caldwell Family

One of Mrs. Carl Caldwell's dishes that is a favorite among the members of her family is chocolate pie with whipped cream. "I make others," she stated, "but the family is always a little disappointed if it's not chocolate."

Mrs. Caldwell, like so many good cooks, doesn't always follow a recipe, but she did write this one down for us. She cooks for her husband, and her four children — two girls and two boys. The Caldwell home is 422 N. Somerville.

The Caidwells, native Texans, came to Pampa during the winter from Petosky, Mich. Mr. Caldwell is manager of McLellan's store. Mrs. Caldwell also has a recipe for caramel pie, made with "browned" sugar. However, this is her family's favorite.

CHOCOLATE PIE FILLING
Heat 2 cups milk to boiling point, but do not boil. In the meantime, mix together in mixing bowl:
2 tbs. cocoa
1 cup sugar

pinch salt
8 tbs. flour
Beat 2 or 3 eggs. Add enough warm milk to make about 1 cup. Add to sugar and cocoa mixture. Pour into hot milk slowly, stirring constantly. When thick, remove from heat. Cool until lukewarm. Add 3 tbs. butter and 1 tsp. vanilla. Pour into baked pie shell and serve with sweetened whipped cream.

Tea For Two Idea Receives New Slant

WATERVLIET, N. Y. — UP — Tea for two has been served up in many different ways, even in songs, but who ever heard of it served on a 10-gallon Sombbrero? Mrs. William Bird not only concocted this zany idea but won first prize with it in a recent women's club hat parade. She wore her sombrero complete with cups, saucers, spoons, teabags and two jumps of sugar.

Adults Need Milk Too

It's a common practice in most homes to serve milk to the youngsters with their breakfast. But do the grown-ups drink it, too? In most cases the answer is no. In fact, the U. S. Department of Agriculture says grown-ups don't get nearly enough of this nutritious food for their health's sake. Adults need the equivalent of 2 1/2 to 3 cups every day in one way or another. There's nothing better than milk to build up energy, particularly after several hours—say from dinner for several hours—say from dinner the night before until breakfast. You can get more milk into your breakfast by cooking cereals or poaching eggs in it. French toast adds milk to the menu. So does cheese toast. Scalded milk makes good eating. Production of milk is running high this month—so much so that throughout the nation June has been designated Dairy Month. Dairy men are producing milk at an annual rate of 134 billion pounds a year, almost three billion pounds more than last year and nine billion pounds more than in 1952. Meanwhile, consumers haven't been using as many dairy products as they have in the past. In 1949, for example, per capita consumption reached 821 pounds, an all-time high. Last year the figure was 132 pounds lower at 689 pounds. According to USDA, if consumption now were as high as it was 12 years ago, there would be a shortage of milk of between seven and eight billion pounds. Price-wise milk is much lower than it has been in recent years. However, no other food you buy can pay you back with greater nutritional value than milk.

Cold Storage Items Are Running High

Homemakers can call on record high stocks of food in refrigerated storage space. The Agricultural Marketing Service, which checks on food supplies as of the last day of every month, reports that $3.9 billion pounds were in storage on May 31—a record high for this date. Frozen fruit stocks ran more than 60 per cent greater than a year ago. Frozen orange juice supplies increased sharply during May—nine million gallons—and by the end of the month totaled almost 37 million gallons. A year ago at this time only 24 million gallons were on hand. Consumers made a run on frozen vegetable stocks during May, withdrawals were almost three times the average May withdrawals and 50 per cent greater than last year. Despite this heavy movement from out of storage, stocks of frozen vegetables stood at nearly 434 million pounds on May 31 compared to 361 million pounds a year ago. Every month new records are set for stocks of butter and American cheddar cheese. Butter stocks now total 412 million pounds and American cheddar cheese, 492 million pounds. Total stocks of poultry are now at their second highest May 31 level since 1947, being exceeded only by the stocks on hand May 31, 1952. Pork and beef were the only major food holdings smaller than a year ago at this time. Beef stocks totaled 127 million pounds compared with 185 million May 31, 1953. Pork stocks reached 292 million pounds—about 29 per cent under the 5-year average holdings for this season and also about 15 per cent less than stocks a year ago.

Meat Prices Drop

Wholesale meat prices throughout the United States have dropped 11 per cent during the past six weeks, the American Meat Institute reported today on the basis of figures supplied by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. The institute added: "Wholesale prices skidded downward 2 per cent during the week just closed as compared with the previous week."

"Retail meat prices in Chicago, generally typical of the country as a whole, averaged 3 per cent below prices of a month ago. Chuck roast at retail was down 7 per cent from prices of a month ago—it dropped 3 per cent during the past week alone. Greatest declines in pork at retail were registered in rib-end loin roasts which had declined in a month by a whopping average of 17 per cent, center cut chops having declined 8 per cent, packaged sliced bacon 8 per cent.

Rice and Beet Salad

One of the most delicious ways to serve cold beets is in a fluffy rice salad. Make it with wonderful packaged pre-cooked rice for the real quick-easy way. No cooking is required since this rice has already been "cooked" for you. Combined with the other ingredients, garnished attractively and served with tangy iced tea you have a complete luncheon that's light and luscious, not too filling yet plenty for the diet-wise.

- 1 1/2 cups (15-ounce package) packaged pre-cooked rice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups boiling water
- 4 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons salad oil
- 4 tablespoons vinegar
- 2 teaspoons grated onion
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 3 teaspoons horseradish
- 2 cups sliced, cooked, fresh or canned beets
- 6 hard-boiled eggs, sliced lengthwise

Add packaged pre-cooked rice and 1 teaspoon salt to boiling water in saucepan. Mix just to moisten all rice. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 13 minutes. Then uncover and let cool to room temperature. You'll be able to make an effective flower arrangement if you keep the following facts in mind: Containers and flowers should be considered as a unit. Round flowers, such as roses, tulips, daisies, gladioli, snapdragons and delphinium, should be combined.

THE MARQUEE
BY DICK KLEINER

The Record Shop: Mahalia Jackson, who's been a favorite in some circles for years, is widening her circles. People are discovering that this is one of the finest singers around. The reason for her slow-motion recognition is that she operates in a very specialized field. She's a gospel singer.

"There is nothing as beautiful as singing the praises of the Lord," says Mahalia Jackson, a big woman who has drawn 20,000 into a tent to hear her sing. And she practices what she preaches, because she can make an old-fashioned gospel "shouter" for a lovely hymn take on new meaning and life.

Of late, her records are being noticed, too, but it took some doing. Mrs. Bess Berman, a youthful grandmother who runs Apollo Records, had to convince her it was the right thing to do. The very devout Miss Jackson refuses to appear in person in night-clubs or theaters, and was hesitant about her records winding up in bars and such via jukeboxes.

"But I finally convinced her," Mrs. Berman says, "by telling her that's where the sinners are." Mrs. Berman, and Apollo, are doing some fine things on records. They have a new group, The Larks, which is exciting comment, and what with gospel songs and jazz and assorted odds-and-ends, Apollo is pretty active these days.

But back to Mahalia, who takes a fairly modest view of her own vocal skill. "I'm just an instrument of the Lord," she says. "Sometimes the Lord is using me stronger than other times, and then I sing real beautiful. But I never know when He's going to feel like it."

Her highly individual style — she uses her voice like a musical instrument — has been copied of late by many pop singers. Some critics claim the entire Johnnie Ray - Frankie Lane - Kay Starr - Sunny Gale school of singing is a direct result of Mahalia's vocal inventions. The similarity is startling.

But give one listen to her singing "The Lord's Prayer" or "Believe." There's only one Mahalia Jackson.

The old pop tune, "Lullaby of Birdland," originally written by George Shearing, has been given lyrics. And Ella Fitzgerald has recorded it, on Decca, for release shortly. This lullaby is no sleep inducer.

The first original cast album ever made before a show opened was cut by Decca. It's Guy Lombardo's "Arabian Nights," at Jones Beach on Long Island. It stars Lauritz Melchior and Helena Scott. The show is booked for the entire summer, so there was no reason to wait for reviews before cutting the record.

It costs money to launch a singing career, especially for a crooner. MGM's 19-year-old Tommy Mara is bidding for the big time, and he's made up picture buttons and membership cards and a list of gimmicks. He's hired a full-time secretary and a press agent. All this adds up — but Tommy's dad is fortunately in the chips.

Dick's Picks: Eartha Kitt's "Mink Shmink" (RCA) is in the Kitt tradition. Also good are "Through" (Jeffrey Clay and Sammy Kaye, Columbia); "Crazy Jones" (Burt Ives, Decca); "With All My Heart" (Guy Chorney, Tiffany); "Bella Bella Bella" (Dick Contino, Mercury); "Who Can Say?" (Mitsi Mason, MGM); "Vera's Veranda" (Loul Monte, RCA); "Turkish Delight" (Alfredo Rainbow); "Anyplace Anytime, Anywhere" (Don Cherry, Decca); "Linger In My Arms" (Tommy Edwards, MGM).

You can find anything on albums — Columbia has issued an LP with the Azuma Kabuki musicians, the Japanese artists with the weird (to Western ears) sounds. And MGM has a fine new album of Gypsy Music, for all you gypsies.

TEC Fills 146 Jobs During June

More job placements were made in June than in the previous month, but the number was far less than for June, 1953.

There were 146 placements — 111 of them non-agricultural — by the Pampa office of the Texas Employment Commission. During May there were 106 and in June, 1953, there were 204.

Explains '54 Lag: More shifting of jobs was the reason for the higher number of placements a year ago, according to Bill Ragadale, local TEC manager, who pointed out the TEC month ends the 30th.

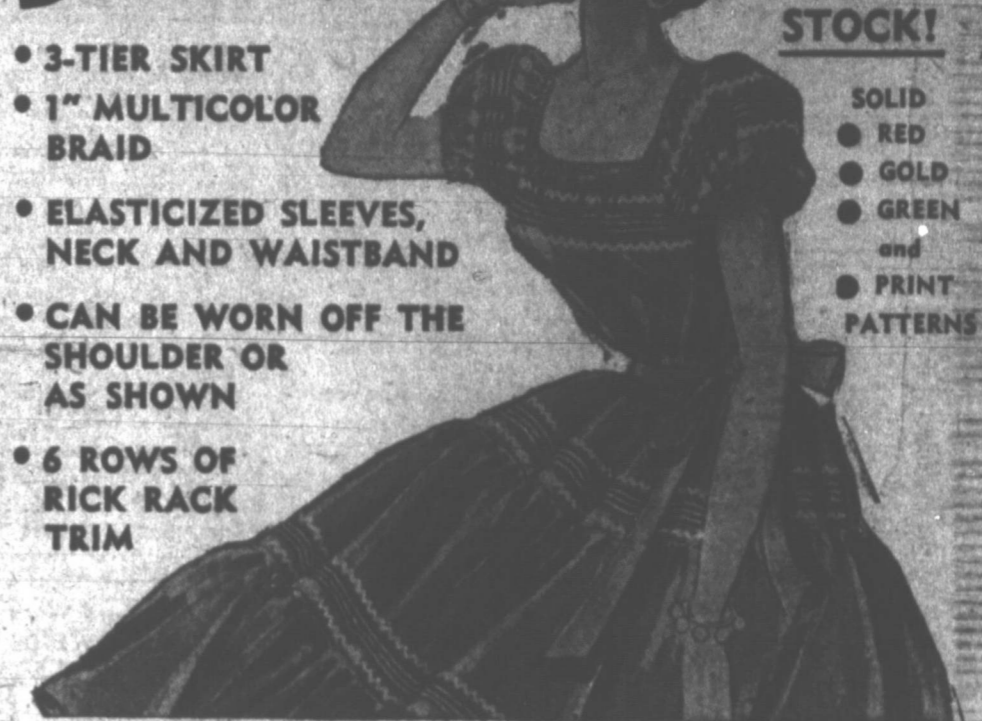

Initial claims for unemployment compensation paralleled the placement figures, he continued. There were 71 in June, 58 the month before and 125 in June, 1953.

Number of weeks claimed — actually, the number of man-weeks claimed — was 414 in June and 444 in June, 1953.

Type Jobs Filled: More than one-third of the non-agricultural placements handled in June by the local TEC office were for construction jobs. Ragadale went on. There were 45. Twenty-four went into wholesale and retail trade and 16 into private households.

Looking at the statistics another way, the manager said, there were 61 persons placed in various types of unskilled jobs, 21 in service jobs (like cleaners and barber-shops), 13 in clerical and sales posts and 11 in skilled work.

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., July 1 —UP—Forty-seven French soldiers wounded in the Indo-China fighting flew Thursday aboard a C-97 U.S. Air Force Stratocruiser to Westover Air Force Base, Mass. on their way to Paris.

The giant mercy plane took off before midnight (pdt) after the wounded rested at the base hospital, an Air Force spokesman said. The 16 stretcher cases and 31 walking wounded, advance guard of some 500 homeward bound disabled soldiers, appeared in good spirits after their flight from Honolulu. Flight nurses said it had been a "smooth" trip.

The first man off the plane after the 10 hour, 20 minute flight from Honolulu was Cpt. Charles Le Bon, a tall smiling paratrooper. He was greeted on the ramp by Louis de Guiringaud, French consul general in San Francisco.

Meanwhile, the second of the "wrongway airlift" planes arrived at Hickam Field, Honolulu, with 52 French wounded. The plane was expected to arrive here late Thursday.
