

South Vietnamese Reeling From American Shock Treatment

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Girls in snack bars wear Rolling Stones T-shirts. A slender young man speaks English like a Pentagon memo. A middle-aged woman drives a bulldozer. A rice farmer watches cowboy movies on television. All this and more since the Americans came. It has been a blitz. One year there were 16,000 Americans. Four years later, there were more than half a million — 10 times as many as the French colonialists ever numbered. The Americans paid a week's wages for a taxi ride, built an airport in two weeks and blasted an acre of jungle into compost on the chance of killing one Viet Cong. A Vietnamese could make a fortune just picking up after them. "With the French, it was an infiltration system," says a Vietnamese professor, "with the Americans, a shock treatment." Most of the Americans have gone, but South Vietnam still is reeling. A society that was once simple and orderly has grown new classes and new appetites. The U.S. military needed people to wash clothes and lug boxes, so it hired them. U.S. agencies and contractors needed people to type, lay bricks, cook and fix air conditioners, so they trained them. The Americans needed Vietnamese experts for "nation building," so they sent them to school. To keep inflation down and morale up, television sets, wrist watches and a million motorbikes were imported to sop up the incoming dollars. English has supplanted French as the most popular foreign language in secondary schools. Employment of Vietnamese in the "U.S. sector" peaked at more than 160,000 in 1969. The average employe of the Americans earned two to four times the average income, creating pockets of affluence.

The Sears Roebuck "wish book" is popular reading in magazine stalls. Vietnamese officers' jeeps become family cars by night. Civil servants rely on graft and military men on black marketeering to provide luxuries. No government program has succeeded in stopping them. The war displaced an estimated seven million South Vietnamese at one time or another and started a great migration to the cities. Officials hoped that, when peace came, the uprooted would drift back to the land, but they have changed their minds. Nguyen Van Anh, vice minister of national planning and development, foresees an even greater influx into the cities as South Vietnam's million-man armed forces are demobilized. It is not all bad, says Anh, because, "by bringing people into the army, we have given them a glimpse of the world outside their villages and we have opened their minds. Without the war, this process might have taken most of a century." The war also has had an incalculable impact on the Vietnamese family. Children have grown up with fathers gone. Working wives frequently earn more than soldier husbands. Before the war, less than one-fourth of the university students were women, but now the percentage of coeds is well over one-third. The draft and the high cost of setting up housekeeping caused registered marriages in Saigon to drop although the city was growing. The nuptial age rose by four years for both sexes, and the latest statistics show women initiated 960 of 1,140 divorces. Hundreds of women have paid a month's salary or more for cosmetic surgeons to sew Caucasian-style folds into their eyelids or make their noses thinner and straighter. Much newer Vietnamese architecture shows no relationship to tradition. New homes are ornamented with cement parabolas or triangles, and there is no trace of French or Chinese discipline. "Experimentation?" a Vietnamese homeowner was asked. "Dislocation," he answered. American music is popular among Vietnamese teen-agers, but it is not theirs. A people with every reason to sing the blues can't get the hang of the sound made by black Americans. "The most significant of our shortcomings," an American official wrote recently, "has been that we have failed to provide a dream. At no time have we attempted to tell the people what is at the end of the rainbow. What is the great aspiration which can make their suffering tolerable and their sacrifices worthwhile?" Don't the Vietnamese already have a dream of their own? Yes, say many Vietnamese. When asked to describe it, they talk simply of prosperity and peace.

Briscoe Asks Legislature To Toughen Crime Laws

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked the legislature today to pass a wiretapping law, to toughen parole and confession statutes and reinstate the death penalty for certain crimes. Briscoe appeared before lawmakers near the start of his first full day as Texas' chief executive and advocated toughness toward drug pushers and other criminals. "Our crime picture in Texas is clouded by evidence that organized crime has become an insidious presence within our borders, involving the narcotics traffic, gambling and even auto theft," Briscoe told a joint session of the House and Senate. But he added: "Texas is in the frontier stage of organized crime. We still have time to react and to do something about it." Specifically, he recommended: —A law permitting police to use "electronic surveillance" or wiretapping as it is commonly called—to fight organized crime. —At the same time, the uses of electronic surveillance must be carefully limited and the penalties for abuse of this power must be high. No bill will ever have my support which does not protect law-abiding citizens from the invasion of their privacy," he said. —Legislation requiring that "good time" credits for a prisoner's good behavior come off the top of his sentence and not be credited toward his minimum time for parole as they now are.

"A prisoner should not be eligible for parole until he has served a longer portion of his sentence," Briscoe said. —New laws or constitutional provisions giving judges power to deny bail when they feel the release of a prisoner "would endanger the public. Experience proves that those released on bond commit a large percentage of crimes." —Repeal of laws against the use of oral or unsigned confessions as evidence in criminal trials. "This will bring Texas into line with all other states and the federal government," Briscoe said. —Reinstatement of the death penalty in certain cases, including the murder of policemen and firemen. The U.S. Supreme Court recently ruled that the death penalty, as applied in Texas, was unconstitutional.

Briscoe was not as specific in his drug recommendations, nor his proposals on public officials' ethics, education, economy in government, the environment and the energy crisis. "To the extent that we can do so, within the confines of the Bill of Rights, we simply must stop the use of dangerous drugs. We must be tough and unyielding to those who supply drugs to the users, and save our compassion for those whose weaknesses have embroiled them in this awful existence," he said. Revision of penalties for marijuana possession should be considered only along with the complete revision of all Texas drug laws, he said.

Police Officer Testifies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A police officer testified today that a search of the hotel rooms occupied by some of the Watergate political espionage and burglary defendants produced a personal telephone directory with numbers at the White House and the Executive Office Building. Officer Robert G. Denell said the rooms were searched after hotel keys were found in the pockets of five men captured inside Democratic party headquarters last June. Denell said he found in a dresser drawer a flip-up phone number file containing under the H-index page, the entry Howard Hunt, the abbreviation W.House and the number 202-456-2282, a number on the White House exchange. The officer said also listed was the name George and the number 202-347-0355. Asst. U.S. Attorney Earl J. Silbert said this number was for a phone installed in Room 16 of the Executive Office Building next door to the White House on Aug. 15, 1971. He said it was disconnected March 15, 1972. Denell identified a long list of items taken in the search of Room 214 of the Watergate Hotel, including $3,566.57, and various items of identification of some of the men arrested in the case.

Haig Discusses Revised Peace Draft With Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. met for an hour tonight with President Nguyen Van Thieu to discuss a revised draft of a peace agreement. There appeared to be growing evidence that a cease-fire was nearing. While the U.S. Embassy would not disclose the substance of the conference, it appeared that Thieu gave President Nixon's special envoy some answers on the revised draft. Haig had waited in the wings all day while Thieu met for 7½ hours with his National Security Council four military corps commanders at Independence Palace, reportedly to discuss what steps South Vietnam would take to protect the territory and people it now controls, once a cease-fire goes into effect. Spokesmen would not say whether Haig would meet with Thieu again or when he would leave Saigon. Haig also is scheduled to confer with the leaders of Cambodia, Thailand and Laos. Asian diplomatic sources in Washington said they believe an agreement ending the war is very near. They anticipated that Nixon, in his inaugural address Saturday, would propose postwar rehabilitation of the economies of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos through continuing economic and military assistance.

This Washington report said there also is expectation that the Soviet Union Communist China and other major powers will join the United States in guaranteeing the cease-fire. South Vietnamese officials said Thieu's lengthy conference with his key advisers also dealt with modifications of the protocols to the agreement that spell out how it will be carried out, such as the size of the international force to supervise a cease-fire and the method by which prisoners of war will be freed.

South Vietnamese sources said on Tuesday that Nixon and Thieu planned to declare a unilateral cease-fire Friday on the eve of Nixon's inauguration. Sources said today that Nixon and Thieu still plan to declare a cease-fire but the day may be pushed back. The Presidential Palace issued a denial of a Columbia Broadcasting System report quoting palace sources as saying South Vietnam and the United States were ready to declare a cease-fire. But it was not clear whether the statement was intended to deny the cease-fire report or to deny that the report originated at Thieu's palace. One senior U.S. official noted earlier, however, that it was possible that the story was leaked deliberately to CBS because of objections by the Saigon government to some conditions it feels Nixon is imposing on it.

These sources said Thieu has little choice but to join in signing the final treaty because of the threat of a cutoff of U.S. military and economic aid. Haig met with Thieu for 2½ hours Tuesday, but no more meetings were reported today. A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy said the general spent the day doing "staff work" at the embassy.

Insurance Official Gives Evidence In Osorio Trial

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A former official of the National Bankers Life Insurance Co. returned today to the witness stand to face more questioning in the conspiracy-embezzlement trial of one-time NBL President John Osorio. Sam Stock, once a defendant in the case, told Tuesday how the NBL's $300,000 pension fund evaporated in a series of deals linked to the Texas stock fraud scandals. Both he and Osorio were trustees of the fund during the period in 1970 that Houston financier Frank Sharp's empire, which included the Dallas insurance company, collapsed under investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Stock was to undergo cross-examination by the defense today in the trial resumes in U.S. District Court. Stock was separated from this trial when he pleaded guilty in a federal court in Dallas to filing a false annual report on the NBL's depleted employee fund. Osorio, 50, somewhat dapper and not without charm, is accused of conspiracy and embezzlement of NBL pension funds during the decline of Sharp's financial dynasty. Five Apollo astronauts testified Tuesday they did not authorize the purchase of 22,500 shares of NBL stock in 1970 which figures prominently in this case. They refused to accept the stock, issued in their names and bearing a total price tag of $641,250, and the securities eventually were picked up by the NBL pension fund. In succession, astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Allen Bean, Richard Gordon, Thomas Mattingly and Fred Haise told of receiving word that they had bought the stock for a cost of each of $128,250. When they rejected the stock, Conrad testified, Sharp became "quite perturbed, quite angry," but none of the five could identify the person who ordered the securities in the name of the astronauts. James Lovell, commander of the near disastrous Apollo 13 mission, said he had told his colleagues of the availability of the stock at Sharp's request, but, likewise, was unaware that the securities were being purchased in their name. He said the retirement fund absorbed nearly $28,000 in interest fees on the purchase of the NBL stock before it was finally sold for the $641,250 which the fund had paid for it. The second transaction involved a $105,000 loan from Sharp's bank to buy 7,900 shares of Master Control stock, which Stock said first was ordered by a sister firm, South Atlantic Co. The former NBL official said Osorio told him Sharp personally guaranteed the loan and a profit for the pension fund. As it turned out, the fund twice paid interest on the note to the Sharpstown bank and finally pledged its entire assets as collateral on the loan.

Denell said he found in a dresser drawer a flip-up phone number file containing under the H-index page, the entry Howard Hunt, the abbreviation W.House and the number 202-456-2282, a number on the White House exchange. The officer said also listed was the name George and the number 202-347-0355. Asst. U.S. Attorney Earl J. Local Officials Dislike New Consolidation Plan

By TEX DEWESE
Gray County Judge Don Cain and Pampa City Manager Mack Wofford are not in tune with a proposal coming up Saturday at a national conference in Florida to explore city-county government consolidation. The National Association of Counties, with headquarters in Washington, D.C., has called the conference which will open Saturday and run through Monday at Jacksonville, Fla. The NAC says the merger of cities and counties into single governmental units, or the consolidation of some of their functions, is a major trend in local government that is being studied in hundreds of areas across the nation, according to NAC's director of public affairs, Alan L. Dessoff. Twenty communities, according to NAC, already have fully consolidated their governments and scores of others have consolidated specific governmental functions. Officials of the association claim their experience has shown that merger of cities and counties, or some of their individual functions like law enforcement, environmental protection, finances, data processing and purchasing, usually results in more efficient government operation at lower cost. Commenting on the NAC claims, County Judge Cain said: "Basically, I have been opposed to the concept called 'metro government.' I do not believe something can be worked out for Miami and Dade County, Fla., and applied to Pampa and Gray County. I am sure there are some functions of local government that might be consolidated to save money and to provide better service to the people. Such should be carefully studied and local governments allowed to work out their own solutions. I do not believe this can be done by men at a distance who would impose a master blueprint for all cities and counties in the land." City Manager Wofford expressed practically the same ideas on the consolidation proposal. Wofford said he could go along partially with consolidation of some functions where service could be given at lower cost, but was not in accord with full consolidation of city and county government. Wofford said the City of Pampa now is providing Gray County with some tax department services and fire department protection. "Gray County and Pampa also have a joint ambulance service," Wofford said. "But I think as Judge Cain does that we should each be allowed to explore and solve our problems individually." The city manager added that he, too, is opposed to so-called "Metro Government" as such. "Maybe it can be made to work in certain specific areas where there are many small entities," Wofford said, "but I do not believe we need it in our area."

Center, the City of Jacksonville and Jacksonville University. The conference will feature a report on "Consolidation: How It Is Working," by William McDougall, executive director of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. There's Still Time To Pay Those Taxes
A reminder was issued from the city tax department today that 1972 taxes are due. Deadline for paying the city tax is Jan. 31 and more than 2,000 courtesy second notices were mailed yesterday to taxpayers who may have forgotten that unpaid taxes become delinquent Feb. 1. Penalty for not meeting the Jan. 31 deadline is 8 per cent plus interest at the rate of one-half of one per cent per month. Mrs. Grace Gibson, tax office manager, reported today 68 per cent, or approximately $603,800, of the 1972 taxes have been paid to date. The 1972 total tax levy is $887,828 based on real and personal property valuation of $51,617,940, based on a tax rate of $1.72 per $100 valuation. Of that total valuation figure, $40,462,090 was for real estate and $11,155,850 for personal property, according to Mrs. Gibson. Today's reminder means only 12 days remain for property owners to beat the Jan. 31 deadline.

200 Persons Expected At League Meet

Indications were today that approximately 200 persons will be in attendance in the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium Heritage Room tomorrow night when Pampa plays host at a quarterly meeting of Region II of the Texas Municipal League. Officials from cities and towns over the entire Panhandle have made reservations for the dinner meeting at which State Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo will be the speaker. A delegation of nearly 50 persons from Amarillo, headed by Mayor L. Ray Yuhue and City Manager John Stiff and their wives, will be in attendance. Mayor John Colquitt of Dalhart will preside at the dinner meeting set for 7:30 p.m. A social hour beginning at 6:30 p.m. will precede the dinner. Only business on the evening's program will be the annual election of officers for Region II.

Public Hearing Planned On Sewage Plant Study

City Manager Mack Wofford said today a public hearing has been set for Tuesday, Jan. 23 on the anticipated effect on the environment of the proposed modification of Pampa's sewage treatment plant. A preliminary application for a federal aid grant on the proposed $340,000 project has been approved by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission and sent to Washington. Wofford said anyone who wishes to appear and testify at the public hearing on Jan. 23 may do so. Following the hearing, he said, a formal application containing specific details will be made for a government grant of approximately $260,000, or 75 per cent of the total project cost.

New Bill Would Lower Marriage Age For Men

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Men could marry at age 18 without parental consent under a bill submitted by Rep. Lynn Nabers of Brownwood.

Nabers' bill would lower the age from the present 19. The Texas Family Code already allows young women to marry at 18 without their parents' approval.

The measure also would allow boys of 16 and girls of 14 to petition a court in their own names for permission to marry if their parents refused to consent. A judge could give this permission if he found marriage would be in the couple's best interests.

Nabers' measure also would change provisions in the code to provide that "a man and a woman" instead of "persons" must appear before a county clerk to obtain a marriage license.

There have been recent instances in which homosexual couples sought marriage licenses, but the late Atty Gen. Crawford Martin ruled they were not entitled to receive the licenses.

Another provision of the bill would enable parents to obtain annulments of marriages between boys under 16 and girls under 14.

A suit would have to be filed within 90 days after the parents learned of the marriage and within 90 days after the boy's 16th birthday or the girl's 14th birthday.

The bill was filed with House Chief Clerk Dorothy Hallman for formal introduction and reference to committee later.

Sen. Jack Ogg of Houston filed a bill in the Senate providing the death penalty for several categories of murder.

cluding the slaying of policemen, firemen or prison guards; murder for hire; assassination of public officials; and killings during the course of a rape, robbery or other crime.

Rep. Joe Salem of Corpus Christi filed a bill requiring registration of one's party affiliation at least 30 days before voting in a party primary election.

He said his bill, if passed, would reduce the amount of cross-over voting in primaries, "when an individual voted in the primary of one political party, then voted in the general election for the nominees of the other political parties."

Other bills filed Tuesday included these measures:

—HB106 by Rep. A. L. Dramberger of San Antonio, giving county commissioners power to regulate land use outside of cities.

—HB106 by Rep. Charles Tupper of El Paso, allowing cars to turn right on red lights.

—HB97 by Rep. Jim Kaster of El Paso, changing the composition of the State Board of Morticians to put public members on it. The board now consists of six undertakers.

Police Check Two Cases Of Exposure

Two incidents of indecent exposure were reported to Pampa police Tuesday night with one case solved and the other under investigation.

A 16-year old Pampa girl was followed by a man as she left the library. She beat him to her car and locked the doors. He approached the drivers door and exposed himself but left when the girl started screaming.

She was so upset she drove home before calling officers. She gave a description. The area was searched to no avail.

She told police the man was about 20 years old, six feet, tall, medium build with short, dark hair. He had on a short-sleeve blue sport shirt with a square tail and straight-legged trousers.

In the other incident, officers apprehended a 15-year-old boy after calls that a man was standing in the door of a residence and exposing himself to passersby. When officers arrived, the youth fled the back way but was caught.

He has been living with kinamen who are out of town. Police are holding him in protective custody until their return.

Man Turns Himself In

A 25-year old San Angelo man, Jerry Rex Mathney, was placed under $1,000 bond by Judge Nat Lunsford, yesterday after he turned himself in for car theft.

Shortly after the vehicle was reported stolen, officers received a call from a man who told them he wanted to give himself up for car theft.

Police said they found him at 21st and Hobart Sts., sitting under the wheel of the stolen vehicle.

They said the man told them he had a drug problem and decided the way to get help was to turn himself in.

The owner of the vehicle plans to file charges in the incident.

Water Maps For Tax Help Ready

The 1972 water decline maps needed by irrigation farmers and others for water depletion credit on their 1972 federal tax returns are now available.

The decline maps are prepared by the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, South of the Canadian River, in Texas on an annual basis.

Irrigation farmers and others, including accountants, may obtain the 1972 decline maps and other maps of prior years from the Browning Blue Print Company in Amarillo. Since 1962, irrigation farmers and others have had the privilege of claiming water depletion credit on their federal tax returns.

The Internal Revenue Office in Amarillo will be able to furnish form Number 665 that is used to calculate the depletion credit.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

We are planning increases in the rates for some out-of-state calls.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has filed a new schedule of interstate rates with the Federal Communications Commission which increases charges for some customer-dialed calls during weekday business hours, for some operator-assisted calls, for some person-to-person calls, and for WATS (Wide Area Telecommunications Service).

All rates for interstate Long Distance calls you dial yourself without operator assistance in the evenings, at night, and on weekends will remain unchanged.

The new rates for Long Distance calls become effective on January 22, 1973. The new rates for WATS become effective on March 13, 1973, unless suspended by the FCC.

Here are the provisions of the new interstate rates:

- Some of the rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, will be increased five cents or 10 cents for the first three minutes.
- Some of the rates in all time periods for operator-assisted station-to-station calls (that includes credit-card, collect, third-number, hotel-guest, and coin telephone calls) will be increased five cents for the first three minutes.
- Some rates for person-to-person calls in all time periods will be increased five cents or 10 cents for the first three minutes.
- The rates for each additional minute on some calls in all time periods will be raised in a range from one cent to five cents.
- Interstate WATS rates will be increased about two percent.
- Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance during evenings, nights, or weekends will remain the same.

Interim rates and supporting data have been filed with the Federal Communications Commission. The increases for Long Distance calls have been authorized by the FCC on an interim basis to be effective January 22, 1973. The FCC will conduct additional hearings on the lawfulness of the rates, and FCC rules permit any interested persons to appear and participate.

This will be only the second general increase in interstate Long Distance rate levels in almost 20 years. During this period, in spite of inflation, interstate Long Distance rates have been reduced repeatedly. Even with this increase, the level of the new rates will still be below the 1953 level. Yet in those 20 intervening years, the cost of living has gone up more than 50 percent. The new rates are designed to increase total revenues from interstate service by about two percent.

Examples of Long Distance rates for coast to coast calls

	Station to Station Dial a Number	Operator Assisted	Person to Person
Weekdays 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Sat. and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sun.	70¢ first 3 minutes	$1.40 first 3 minutes	$1.55 first 3 minutes
Evenings 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sun. through Fri.	85¢ first 3 minutes	$1.40 first 3 minutes	$1.55 first 3 minutes
Nights 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. daily	35¢ first minute (minimum call)	$1.40 minimum call (3 minutes)	$1.55 minimum call (3 minutes)
Weekdays 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon. through Fri.	$1.45 first 3 minutes	$1.85 first 3 minutes	$1.95 first 3 minutes

Rates shown (tax is not included) are for the days, hours and durations indicated and for the types of calls specified at the head of the columns. Rates may be even less, of course, on out-of-state calls for shorter distances. Dual-rate surcharges apply on all interstate calls (excluding Hawaii and Alaska) completed from a residence or business phone without operator assistance. They also apply on calls placed with an operator from a residence or business phone where direct dialing facilities are not available. Dual direct rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel-guest, credit-card or collect calls, or to calls charged to another number because an operator must assist on such calls. One minute minimum calls available only at the times shown and additional minutes are 20¢ each, coast to coast.

Radio & TV News

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Sonny & Cher Comedy Hour," usually seen Wednesday nights on CBS, makes way tonight for a show starring owls, bats, hyenas and something called a Texas blind salamander.

Don't switch the dial yet. It's a good program. No kidding. It enlightens on the subject of darkness. In fact, that's the whole point of the show.

The program, "Strange Creatures of the Night," is the season's first special from the National Geographic Society. It's a quiet, true-life thriller the whole family can watch.

This excellently photographed documentary covers two areas — how animals with sight act at night and how creatures trapped in total darkness underground have evolved and survived without sight.

Most of the filming was done without the battery of high-intensity lights normally needed for night photography. The producers instead used a new electronic image-intensifying device attached to their cameras.

The available light — from the stars and moon — was augmented by infrared floodlights that cast beams apparently undetected by the animals that were being photographed.

The result was a fine, unhurried look at the nocturnal habits of such diverse creatures as the hyenas of East Africa and the feared vampire bats that feed on cattle herds from Mexico to Argentina.

The East African footage — filmed in a grassy, gently rolling depression that once was a volcano — was incredible.

It showed the hyena, not as the cowardly scavenger of popular lore, but as an aggressive, deadly animal that kills in order to survive within the confines of the extinct volcano.

The most chilling scenes were of a hyena pack as it slowly circled a full-grown female rhinoceros at night, tormenting her mercilessly and trying to snatch away her 1-month-old offspring.

The hyenas almost succeeded. They badly mauled the smaller rhino.

But, ironically, they were scattered by a lion that found the mother rhino too formidable an opponent; it didn't press the attack.

The segment also showed what is being done to control — but not exterminate — the blood-sucking, frequently rabid vampire bat that kills 100,000 cattle a year in Mexico alone.

The vampire bat, the show emphasizes, "is neither good nor evil. He is just another creature trying to survive."

Managua Undergoes Rebuilding

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — There are still "thousands of dead" buried in some parts of Managua, but evacuation of survivors from the Dec. 23 earthquake has been completed and the reconstruction phase has begun, the country's ruler says.

Gen. Anastasio Somoza said building has started on 15,000 houses donated by the United States and other members of the Organization of American States.

"We are cleaning up the city," he said. "Within a year we will return to normal."

Foreign relief workers estimated between 10,000 and 12,000 persons died in the quake, which destroyed 600 blocks of the capital city. Damage was estimated at $1 billion.

Unfamiliar Name Tags Dotting Map Of World

WASHINGTON (AP) — By latest count, the world has 147 independent nation states—give or take a few—and a bunch of unfamiliar name tags dotting the map. Another is due in July.

Preparations are underway for nationhood for the Commonwealth of the Bahamas Islands, a Caribbean neighbor which has been a British possession.

The Bahamas are expected to retain their name but not British Honduras, London's Central American colony, when it gains independence at some still unspecified future date.

British Honduras is slated to turn into Boelize, the land's native name, when the new national flag rises over the capital.

Sri Lanka is the island off the tip of India which became the independent country of Ceylon in 1948. Last May, becoming a republic under a new constitution, it adopted a name from its pre-British colonial days.

The biggest state in the heart of Africa isn't the Democratic Republic of the Congo any more. It's Zaire.

Bangladesh, the latest entry into the family of nations, was the eastern-wing of Pakistan on the map before its break-away war in 1971.

All this comes with the continuing country explosion set off since World War II with the dismemberment of once great empires and the yearning of the newborn for an identity of their own, minus a lot of colonial reminders.

Only 70 states covered the globe a generation ago. The nation-state population has more than doubled since.

The postwar entries extend over about one fourth of the world's land surface, not counting Antarctica. Their citizens number more than a billion, a third of the global total.

The largest crop comes from the old British and French estates. France, once the greatest landholder in Africa, now owns only tiny French Somaliland in that continent of 42 independent countries.

Of the last 25 to reach nationhood around the world, all but two used to be British.

When once-colonial lands get the new name they often are sensitive about being properly addressed, relates the State Department Geographer R. D. Hodgson.

But not Sri Lanka, Hodgson said. He said that after the name change the Colombo government wanted Ceylon kept in parentheses after its new designation. That way established products associated with Ceylon, such as Ceylon tea, are less likely to suffer a sales drop.

Revenue Head Named
WASHINGTON (AP) — Graham W. Watt, deputy mayor of Washington, was named today to head the Treasury Department's Office of Revenue Sharing.

Watt, 46, who has been deputy mayor two years, will head the government's effort to provide state and local governments more than $30 billion over the next five years.

VOICE OF BUSINESS

Typical American Does Not Understand Profit Systems

By ARCH BOOTH
WASHINGTON — America began as a nation of small businessmen. Most people worked for themselves—on the farm, at a trade, or as small shopkeepers. Consequently, these ancestors of ours got a lot of practical, everyday exposure to simple business economics.

Today, most of us are on someone's payroll. The age of specialization and of giant corporations has given us a high standard of living, but it has also robbed us of some valuable insights into the way the economy works.

As a result, the typical American today misunderstands the nature, function and size of profit.

Economic Illiteracy
The point is, we no longer get a well-rounded education in economics by experience, and most of us don't get one by any other means, either. We know all of the problems of the consumer, and none of the problems of the producer.

Right now, free-enterprise capitalism is coasting along the past reputation. A lot of people are for it not because they really understand it's advantages, but rather, because they think they're supposed to be for it. That kind of support rests on a foundation of sand.

What's the answer? Better economics curricula in the public schools is probably the ultimate solution. But that would take a movement comparable to the one that revolutionized math and science teaching after the Sputnik shock in the late 1950s.

In the meantime, there is a remarkable organization that is making a lot of headway on its own. It's called Junior Achievement.

Junior Achievement, Inc. is an international business education program in which high school students organize and manage their own small-scale companies under the guidance of adult advisers from business and industry. The advisers are limited to advising. The kids must make the decisions themselves, and learn from the consequences.

Each Junior Achievement "company" lasts for one school year. That's so the kids involved get to participate in all phases of the corporate life-cycle, from formation to liquidation.

There are usually 20 students in each corporation. They are the board of directors, the working force and the sales staff. They elect their own officers, choose a business, and capitalize it through sale of stock at $1 a share.

They set up production lines and plan distribution. They advertise, promote and sell their company's product or service. They pay themselves salaries, wages or sales commissions. They keep books and records.

They pay rent for their work space and equipment, and must meet depreciation charges on equipment and machinery. They pay taxes. And they pay dividends, if the company is profitable. The company takes about two hours a week of their time.

Results
Does it work? Surveys indicate that the teen-agers who have participated in the Junior Achievement program have a far more sophisticated understanding of our economy than the average American.

For example, in a poll JA veterans estimated profit at seven cents per dollar of sales.

Submarine Land
Only 2 per cent of the area of the United States lies under water. The Nation's land area totals 3,540,938 square miles; its water area 74,185 square miles.

There are 16 ounces in an avoirdupois pound, 12 ounces in a troy pound.

Travis County Picks Woman Judge

AUSTIN (AP) — Mrs. Mary Pearl Williams, a White House aide under former President Lyndon Johnson, has been chosen as judge of Travis County Court at Law No. 2.

She is the first woman judge in Austin at the county level.

Mrs. Williams was selected by the county commissioners court to replace Judge David McAngus, recently appointed by outgoing Gov. Preston Smith as a district judge.

The commissioners picked Mrs. Williams, wife of University of Texas law Prof. Jerre S. Williams, over a list of mostly male lawyer applicants.

Mrs. Williams was state chairman of Women for Johnson-Humphrey in 1964 and served in Washington as a consultant with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from 1966 to 1967 and a lawyer for the Office of Emergency Preparedness Executive Office of the President from 1968 to 1970. She remains a consultant to the OPE.

Itemize Deductible Taxes and the Interest

By RAY DE CRANE
(Eighth in a Series.)

Even though you may never have itemized your deductions before, the widespread adoption of income taxes by states and cities may make it advisable to do so this year.

In addition to their Federal income tax, millions of people are being taxed at three benefits, Railroad Retirement Act pensions or any workmen's compensation you may have received.

Also add to your sales tax deduction the amount of sales tax you may have paid on the purchase of a car, boat, mobile home or camper. Sales tax paid on materials purchased to build a home is separately stated on the bill and the tax rate on the materials is the same as the general tax rate in your state.

Favorable rulings by Internal Revenue Service during the past year make possible a larger interest deduction than was permissible in former years.

In the past when finance charges were paid on an installment sale, IRS restricted the allowable interest to 6 per cent of your average monthly unpaid balance.

This was despite the fact that recent Truth in Lending legislation made it common knowledge that department stores, oil companies, other merchants and credit card companies and banks were charging interest on unpaid accounts of up to 18 per cent a year.

For the first time IRS has now ruled that all finance charges on a typical charge account or credit card are considered to be fully deductible interest.

Retain all monthly statements on your revolving charge account and credit card statements. When paid, this interest is deductible in full.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
(NEXT: Child and Dependent Care Deductions.)

more levels on their income: by the community in which they work, by the community in which they live and by the state. The federal income tax is not deductible; but all the others are.

Added to your real estate taxes, state and local sales tax, state gasoline tax and personal property tax, your list of deductible taxes may give you a head start in topping the 15 per cent of adjusted gross income figure and make it wise for you to itemize all your deductions.

The state and local income taxes which were withheld from your pay may not tell the full story. Did you also make estimated tax payments to these sources? Don't forget to include that in your total.

Again this year Internal Revenue has provided tables for the computation of the allowable sales tax and gasoline tax.

If you are using the sales tax table, don't forget to add to your adjusted gross income any Social Security

Regional Chambers Schedule Joint State Meet In Austin

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce will join the other three Texas regional chambers of commerce Jan. 30 in Austin for a meeting of the Texas State Chamber of Commerce.

The state chamber is a confederation of West Texas Chamber of Commerce, East Texas Chamber of Commerce, South Texas Chamber of Commerce and Lower Rio Grande Chamber of Commerce.

Claude W. Brown of McCamey, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, announced today that business and professional men from all parts of the state will be in Austin to hear Gov. Dolph Briscoe and other top state officials at this Texas

State Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Other speakers will include Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby, and House Speaker Price Daniel, Jr. Attorney General John Hill has also been invited to speak.

Herbert C. Patry, Jr., president of the state chamber, said the event will probably become a biennial affair to be held soon after the opening of each new legislature.

Speakers will be introduced by the presidents of the four regional chambers of commerce. They are Claude W. Brown, West Texas; John Cypher, South Texas; William Nix, Lower Rio Grande Valley; and James A. Wilson, East Texas.

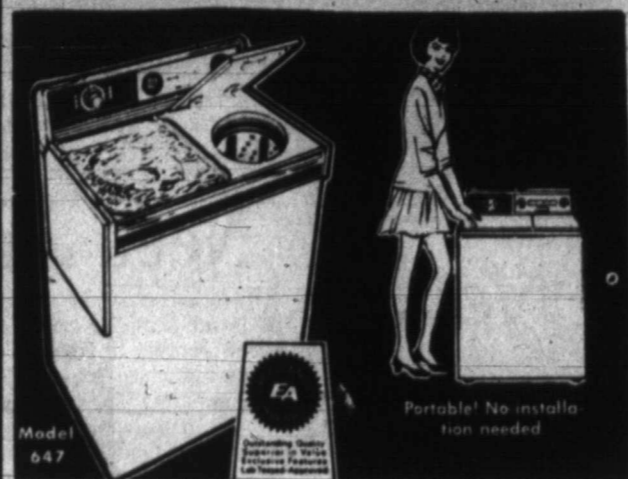

The day's activities will also include a reception for members of the 63rd Legislature, and various meetings of the four regional chambers of commerce.

Gov. Briscoe will be the luncheon speaker, and the other state leaders will appear during the afternoon program. The State Chamber meetings will be at the Sheraton Crest Inn. Agreements on joint positions on several major issues facing the state are expected to be reached during the day.

HEY, CULLIGAN MAN—Are you getting tired of dingy clothes, film on your dishes and spotted silverware? Soft water by Culligan Water Conditioning is just what you need to get rid of all of those problems. You also need much less detergent when you wash clothes or dishes in softened water. If you are tired of putting up with the hard water problems call the Culligan men at 665-5729 or go by the office at 314 S. Starkweather.

Soap And Soft Water Are Pollution Solution

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The public hasn't been told both sides of the phosphate detergent story, Wayne A. Pettyjohn, a professor at Ohio State University, told the Sixth International Water Quality Symposium. One fact they haven't been told is that phosphates are not necessary when soft or softened water is used. If people returned to the use of soap and soft water, they would not only spare the environment, they would save money as well, Pettyjohn said.

Charging that proponents of detergents were misleading when they stated that soap didn't get clothes clean and that it formed a curd, Dr. Pettyjohn said. This statement is true, but only if we are referring to hard water. A curd is not formed and soap does an exceptionally fine job when used with soft water, especially hot soft water. In addition, soap consumption in soft water is reduced some 60 per cent and detergent requirements are also lessened.

Pointing out that there was no reason to use phosphate detergents in soft water, Dr. Pettyjohn said the public didn't realize the purpose of phosphates was to soften water, or that there was a better way of doing it. "The most desirable and, over the long run, the least expensive method of removing the hardness minerals from water is by means of a water softening appliance," he told the Symposium.

Pettyjohn dismissed the charge that since ion exchange softeners require salt for regeneration, there might be a serious environmental problem if everyone switched to a softener. "I strongly suspect," he said, "that the brine effluent from water softeners would have little or no effect on the stream quality in most areas." He also dismissed as untrue the charge that the increased use of soap would reduce dissolved oxygen in streams and cause ecological stress. With the use of soft water, he said, there would be virtually no change in dissolved oxygen in streams.

Branding as false the claims made by detergent manufacturers that there wouldn't be enough soap to go around if everyone switched to it, Pettyjohn said. "This might be true if the nation's water supply consisted of hard water. The use of soft water, however, would decrease soap consumption by some 60 per cent or more." He went on to quote an unpublished report by the Grace Company which found that even with increased soap usage, assuming a conversion from detergents to soap, a surplus of raw materials was available.

Pettyjohn challenged the statement made by detergent manufacturers that water softeners were expensive. He said that, particularly in hard water areas, it was expensive not to have a softener. With a saving of as much as 87 per cent of soap, plus other spinoffs (such as savings on plumbing repairs and appliance deterioration), the original installation cost of a water softener quickly paid for itself. Because softened water cleans so much faster and better, Pettyjohn said, it would also save the homeowner hours of needless drudgery.

The symposium emphasized that "Water Is What We Make It", underscoring the fact that water quality improvement technology is presently available to provide the best water for every purpose.

These services and equipment for quality water have been supplied for the past 27 years to Pampa and the Top of Texas area by Soft Water Service Co., "Your Culligan Man".

Do not gamble on unknown or off-brand equipment, an established company that is without a local repair and service department.

We will be here tomorrow to service what we sell today.

The International Water Quality Symposium is an educational forum sponsored as a public service by leading manufacturers of water conditioning equipment, among them the Culligan International Company. Culligan is represented locally by Soft Water Service Co., 314 S. Starkweather, Pampa.

Senators Propose Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress would have to make annual public disclosure of their finances under legislation proposed Tuesday by Sens. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md. and Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill.

It provides that senators and congressmen would have to report the amount and source of their income, assets and debts, financial transactions involving more than $5,000, and gifts exceeding $100.

Financial statements also would be required of congressional employees earning $22,000 or more a year.

Mathias and Stevenson, who held informal hearings last month on congressional reform, said in a statement that public disclosure is "the best medicine to restore the health of Congress' public image."

Numerous financial disclosure bills have been introduced in the past without getting anywhere.

You're Not Getting Any Younger--Boyle

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — You may not be a relic yet. Your heirs may not be able to market you as an authentic antique.

But, on the other hand, you're not getting any younger if — You have more than one knot in your shoestring because you can't bear to throw anything away.

There's no doubt you feel more at home when visiting a museum than when you're in a modern art gallery.

A confused small child is more likely to call you grandpa or grandma than dad or mom.

You know exactly what you'd like to have on your tombstone, but you also are unwilling to fork up the money for an inscription that long.

You make more deposits than withdrawals in your saving account.

It's possible for you to survive a Christmas and still have some money left over.

When you go to a vacation resort, you spend more time sitting in a front porch rocking chair than you do on the golf course or tennis court.

You eat only half as much as you did 10 years ago. You also take about half as many showers, because you rarely do anything to get up a sweat anymore.

It's easier for you to think up half a dozen reasons not to go to a party than think up one reason to go to it.

You're never in so much of a hurry anymore that you can't take time to say, "Thank you," when someone is unexpectedly nice. You also get a big misty-eyed and feel like crying when someone goes out of his way to do you a favor.

You feel patriotic when they play the Star-Spangled Banner. Your mind doesn't stray, you listen to the words as you sing or hum them, and you think about what they mean. And it makes you angry if the tune isn't played exactly the way you like to hear it.

You like to have people ask you what your opinion is during a discussion, but that doesn't happen very often.

You know that somebody else must be getting your share of sex now, but, as far as you are concerned, — well, he is welcome to it.

Former Picturesque Saigon Bar Now A Noisy Freak Gallery

SAIGON (AP)—The picturesque terrace bar where Somerset Maugham sipped his gin at sundown and Graham Greene took notes for "The Quiet American" has become the noisiest and most noisome freak gallery in Saigon.

At nightfall the terrace of the Continental Palace Hotel, situated on Lam Son Square just across from the National Assembly building, becomes a collecting point for assorted prostitutes, transvestites, lesbians, homosexuals, pimps, beggars and bums, in and out of uniform—left over from all stages of the war, going all the way back to the days of the French.

Habitues call it "the Continental Shelf," because of the strange stratum of subhuman existence that attaches itself to the venerable rattan chairs under the slowly rotating ceiling fans.

Wizened old waiters in their high-collared white duck colonial uniforms still move among the bamboo tables as if nothing had changed since the days when French officers talked optimistic strategy amid willow ladies in flowing do dais. Now the waiters bow goes to wayout hippies in bra-less T-shirts, hot pants and false eyelashes, of whose sex they cannot always be certain.

Alors, Saigon's most famous bar has become an outdoor market selling everything from today's newspapers to yesterday's newly minted antiques and tonight's call girl.

Wave after unbelievable wave of hawkers ventures from table to table peddling silk-screen drawings, paperback books, dirty pictures, model sailboats and Chinese junk lacquer paintings, musical instruments, black market cigarettes, brassware fashioned from 105-howitzer shells.

The balloon boy, then the girl with the tray of pineapples on her head and the old man selling masks.

Bedraggled still in diapers, and some who have never worn same, with little packets of peanuts wrapped in a twist of newspaper, and necklaces of freshly cut jasmine "for the girl friend," as they noisily proclaim. A beggar woman with a baby at her breast, a different one each week, shouts oaths at the ungenerous.

The tough-talking teen-aged cowboy selling his sister on the motorbike parked outside demonstrates Saigon's wartime upward mobility from shoe-shine boy to newspaper peddler to pimp about town.

Several nights a week an alcoholic Vietnamese general who legend says the war long ago drove around the bend shows up to make a fiery speech from a table top or to sing sad songs interspersed with his own weeping hysteria or to take off his clothes and shout anti-American slogans before the green and white national police jeep arrives. Lately he has been seen in two new poses: carrying a three-foot lotus tree, the symbol of peace, and darting among the tables with his face blackened, aiming an imaginary gun as a self-assigned night fighter.

The long bar against the wall under the old wooden fighter plane propeller is by garish custom reserved for transvestites in tight pants and silk shirts cut to the navel, and the tables in the corner seem set aside for a half-dozen deaf mute prostitutes who gesticulate wildly and obscenely at would-be clients.

Life is a cabaret, old friend, so drink away the impending doom.

In the dust outside a limless beggar grovels for a tossed 100

piaster (25 cents) note or a cigarette, and as the afternoon sun washes the yellow facade of the Caravelle Hotel across Lam Son Square, the Dickensian scene becomes more frenetic.

Darkness comes with a squeal of bats and a giggle of whores and the unmistakable sweet smell of marijuana.

Until the 11 o'clock curfew siren sounds, the Continental Shelf is almost surrounded by a sea of roaring Hondas and rickety blue-and-yellow French minicabs, producing such a torrent of sound that one can hardly hear one's self being propositioned.

San Antonio Paper Gets A New Look

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Subscribers to the San Antonio News have had their first look at what officials of the newspaper call "a departure from the old-fashioned, classical approach to journalism."

The News, which Harte-Hanks Newspapers, Inc. publishes here along with the San Antonio Express, arrived at doorsteps Tuesday afternoon with a bright color layout.

"Regular readers of the News will recognize little from the old product except its name," said the announcement in the morning Express to herald the new version of the News which was to be published later in the day.

The News competes with the San Antonio Light five afternoons a week, while the Express is San Antonio's only daily morning paper.

Publisher Charles O. Kilpatrick's description of the new News he and other helped design terms it a "people" paper, heavy on family interest and personalized material.

Kilpatrick said the News now will emphasize fun and enjoyment and will be dramatically visual "with lots of graphic and photography that tend to seize the eye."

The News, in its policy of news content, will be positive, attempting to prove that news doesn't have to be bad to be news, the announcement of the change in format said Tuesday morning.

Local news will be accentuated, said the announcement. The announcement said New features will include pictures pages, a page called Cavalcade for stories of broad interest and another page called Interest.

The Limits Of Lib

Who Should And Should Not Work

(Last of Two Parts.)

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Dorothy Becker, corporate vice-president of Staff Builders, a large temporary employment service that has nationwide offices, maintains that there are two sides to the liberation-career syndrome so in evidence right now. And she believes that it may be right for some women but not for all. It is her contention that the liberation movement has done a great wrong to some women.

"Instead of giving women freedom of choice, it has done exactly the opposite and has made women who are happy as homemakers feel guilty because they like what they are doing."

"But I think the fault lies more in the manner in which the movement has been presented than in the feminists themselves," she said.

Mrs. Becker feels that women should be permitted to choose whether to stay at home or rise to a top job in business. But the key words are "permitted to choose," and without stigma.

A mother and housewife herself for 20 years before going back to work in 1961, she says that in her present job she has talked with women who should not, in her opinion, be returning to the career market at all but feel under pressure to do so.

Mrs. Becker gave her views on women she believes should not go back to work.

First are those who go to work because of women's lib pressure and those who want to take a job because all their friends are working and have made them feel out of the mainstream.

Another type is the woman who would become a martyr if she got a job, telling the kids not to bother her with their homework and cutting her husband down to size by reminding him of her contribution to the household finances. Even if her husband has no job, Mrs. Becker says, this kind of woman shouldn't work.

"If her working will destroy her husband and family," she said, "they would be better off on welfare."

The other type of woman who shouldn't work, she believes, is the one who is self-indulgent but in being so, still preserves her family. She is happy gabbing on the phone with friends and spending the afternoons watching soap operas.

"There are women who enjoy this kind of life and they shouldn't be told that they're wrong if they do. These women have as much right to do as they wish as other women who pursue a career."

Mrs. Becker disagrees with the National Organization of Women's resolution which urges women not to do vol-

Your birthday today: Relationships grow readily, include sudden poignant moments of stress and release. Today's natives tell others what to do, and manage most things they want.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Temper or temperament gets you nowhere although solid results of consistent work do. Expect a critical eye from all hands.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Much accumulated energy lets you and the challenge is to contain and channel its impact constructively.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Healthy self-interest should lead you to claim for yourself all that is due you. Creative projects come to turning points.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Concentrate on the constructive activities at hand despite efforts to awaken old differences. Avoid needless delays.

Leo [July 22-Aug. 22]: Present a calm face to the world as you seek inner guidance, consult your psyche in whatever manner works best for you.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Impulsive corrections of minor discrepancies add to the problem rather than help. Remember that machines do not care.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Much is said, little is done.

Your Horoscope

and it's just as well. Today's disturbing thoughts are to be quietly checked, perhaps never verbalized.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Everybody seems headed in the same direction you are, so start early, select a route that skips the crowded spots.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Be ready and willing to supply all the means—group and partnership resources aren't immediately available.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Prefer the natural course over the synthetic—rest is needed. If what you planned is difficult, it's better to skip it.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 19]: Review your working methods, see if traditional approaches will do as well. Technical consultations are a good investment.

Pisces [Feb. 20-March 20]: Compromise offered to keep the peace complicates matters. A firm line to keep yourself out of group activity is needed.

Dear Abby

Husband takes the term 'close relatives' serious

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is with my husband, age 32, and his two nieces, ages 16 and 17. [They are sisters.] We went to an all-night roadside inn to have breakfast at 2 a. m., and my husband disappeared with the 17-year-old for two hours. They said they were upstairs looking at the view.

When they came back I didn't say anything, but I was plenty mad. Whenever my husband and I take these two nieces out, he takes turns dancing with them and leaves me sitting. It's gotten so he never takes me out alone, he's always got these girls with us. He has fixed them up with dates with some of his friends who are his age, and for all I know my husband could be seeing them himself. He has disappeared for whole nights and comes home with lipstick on his shirts.

I have told the girls' mother about this and she says I am silly to worry, but I don't think I am because there was a lot of talk about incest in their family between my husband's younger brother and his older sister.

When my husband says goodbye to these nieces, he kisses them on the mouth. My question? Is this healthy?

JEALOUS IN COLORADO
DEAR JEALOUS: It's not healthy, and neither is the relationship between your husband and his young nieces. Set this swagler down and talk to him like a Dutch Uncle, or that uncle will be in Dutch for fooling around with minors.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a little problem we need help with. We have been going to a doctor for the past four years since we've moved to this town. Once, when our regular doctor was on vacation his partner filled in for him, and Abby, the partner was fantastic! I liked him so much better than my regular doctor.

My husband also had the partner and liked him better than our own.

We would like to switch over to the partner but we don't know how to go about it. We are so afraid of hurting our first doctor's feelings.

Do you happen to know how doctors feel about this sort of thing?

MRS. B.
DEAR MRS. B.: I doubt that a doctor would be overjoyed to learn that a patient preferred his partner, and would like to switch. But a patient has a right to choose his own doctor—unless he goes to a clinic where it is understood that he will take whichever doctor is available. Read on. Another reader has your problem in reverse.

DEAR ABBY: About two months ago my doctor took in a partner. The problem is that when I go to my doctor's office, the nurse tells me I have to have the partner.

I like my original doctor, and since I am paying the bill I feel I am entitled to get the doctor of my choice.

I am told the new doctor is "just as good," but I still prefer my old doctor. Please tell me what I can do about this. I don't want to make a trip to the doctor's office, and then go home without seeing a doctor because my own doctor won't see me, which is what I intend to do if this happens again. Please advise me.

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: The next time you want an appointment, tell your doctor's secretary which doctor you want to see, and make it clear that you will see no other! It is common practice for a doctor to have his partner (or some colleague) substitute for him while he is on vacation or in an emergency, but no ethical doctor will arbitrarily transfer a patient to his partner without the consent and approval of the patient.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69786, L. A., Calif. 90068. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69786, Los Angeles, Cal. 90068.

If you haven't got around to using the Stayman convention as yet, we don't recommend that you try the Jacoby transfer. They fit together like bread and butter provided you use what we call a very nonforcing Stayman.

In this variation the no-trump bidder must allow for the possibility that responder's two clubs has been made with a very bad hand and must not go past two spades on his own hook.

Now take a look at the North hand. Your partner opens one no-trump. You don't want him to play there and you are right. He won't make one no-trump.

Playing ordinary bridge you can respond two hearts and hope for the best. It won't happen. You just can't make two hearts.

Playing the transfer you can bid two diamonds and let your partner struggle with the two hearts. He won't make it any more than you would but better action is possible. You respond two clubs!

You plan to bid two hearts if your partner rebids two diamonds but something nice happens. Your partner has spades and bids two of that suit.

You pass and let him play there. West opens the queen of diamonds and your partner has no trouble making the two-spade contract.

A king of spades opening would probably have beaten him but somehow, or other people don't find such brilliant and unusual leads.

presented guests with packages of rice in lavender net with white ribbons.

THE BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage with the "her mother and I avowal," wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta. The fitted bodice was styled with a Sabrina neckline, natural waistline and long, fitted lace sleeves that ended in ruffles.

The bouffant, floor-length skirt, featuring rows of ruffles in waterfall fashion, swept into a chapel train.

Her veil of imported illusion fell from a coil and she carried a cascade of white roses with streamers of ivy and miniature roses.

The bride wore a pearl necklace, belonging to her mother, for something borrowed and she wore something old and a penny in her shoe.

ATTENDANTS

Serving her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Gail Snell. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Scott, cousin of the bride, Amarillo, and Mrs. Beneva Robertson, aunt of the bride. They wore floor-length gowns of lavender organza over matching taffeta, designed with fitted empire waist and long sleeves, with white inserts and lavender ribbon.

Melissa Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Harris,

Lefors, was flower girl. She wore a floor-length gown of lavender organza over white satin and carried lavender carnations and white chrysanthemums. The attendants flowers were bouquets of lavender carnations, white feathered mums and baby's breath.

Ronnie Gattis was best man, and groomsmen were Jim Griffith and Charles Burk, all of Pampa. Gary Parks, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer. All male attendants wore tux with lavender shirts and boutonnieres.

MOTHERS

The bride's mother was attired in a floor-length gown of lavender organza with an overlay of matching taffeta, styled with long full sleeves. The bridegroom's mother wore a floor-length skirt of rust with white-blouse and black vest. Both wore corsages of pink baby roses.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Lefors High School and recently completed a semester of secretary training at West Texas State University. The bridegroom is a 1969 graduate of Pampa High School and is presently employed by Ryan Oil Construction in Anaheim, Calif.

For the wedding trip to Anaheim, where the couple plan to reside, the bride traveled in a lavender dress.

"Eat All" Packages

COLLEGE STATION — "If predictions of some food scientists are correct, consumers may really get to eat what they pay for," according to a foods and nutrition specialist.

Karen Kreipke with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, noted this week that edible containers such as ice cream cones, pie crusts, and gelatin capsules may have encouraged food scientists to look for more.

Citing recent developments, she explained that "coatings which act as a release agent in the frying pan, such as Myvacet, have been used on fresh poultry before freezing to reduce moisture losses by 85 per cent."

"Some coatings also add a nutritious substance to the product."

"Water soluble films are already available for packaging instant tea, dehydrated soup and powdered drinks."

"Can you imagine dropping an envelope of soup into boiling water and stirring a minute while the soup powder, as well as the envelope, dissolve?" she grinned.

Turning to some possible stumbling blocks, Miss Kreipke listed sanitation and strength as problems.

"Edible containers must be protected from dust and bacterial contamination, which will add to packing costs and increase cost to the consumer."

"These edible containers also must be strong enough to withstand touching and handling as well as strong enough to hold the product."

"So far, no coating has been found suitable for all products," she reported.

"Except for beeswax and cheese rind, there are very few examples in nature to exploit industrially."

"So while edible containers are a possibility, there are many problems to solve before we can expect to eat all that we pay for when we buy food."

Winter sweaters, those angora-blend pastels, should be kept out for warmer weather. Thin sweaters make a good replacement for jackets and shawls for spring and summer evenings.

DAR Members Study Virginia Colonies

Mrs. W.S. Dixon, regent of Las Pampas Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, presided at a luncheon meeting held recently at Furr's Cafeteria. Mrs. J.M.

Daughtery, chaplain, gave an invocation and Mrs. Dixon led in the pledge to the flag and the American Creed.

Mrs. John Spearman and Mrs. Louise Sewell received the official welcome for new members and were presented with the booklet, "What The Daughters Do."

In giving her defense committee report, Mrs. L.A. Barnes spoke on, "Communism, Versus Gun Ownership." She told that the communist strategy is deeply concerned with two objections (1) arming of the right people (2) disarming those who might meet violence with violence.

Mrs. J.B. White, vice-regent, presented Mrs. A.D. Hills, who gave the program, "The Germanna Colonies in Virginia." She told that three groups of colonists came to Virginia during the administration of governor Alexander Spotswood.

They came over from 1714-1719 and were settled at or near Germanna, situated on the Rapidan River, about ten miles northwest of present day Chancellorsville, being the first actual settlers in what is now Orange County, Va.

She explained that people lured by the prospects of mining and religious freedom, came from the German region of Nassau-Siegen.

The men, skilled in mining and making iron and the women, who had housewives skills of spinning, weaving, knitting, sewing, and cooking as well as other arts which traditionally supply the amenities of home, were fitted to undertake the hardships of settlement in a wilderness of a strange land.

Eggs And The Consumer

COLLEGE STATION — Egg shoppers should understand several points about the product, especially size and grade.

Judy Ann Grubbs, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University, discussed eggs with those factors in mind.

"Texas Egg Law requires that all eggs sold in Texas be labeled as to size and grade to assure consumers the highest quality eggs for the money."

"Grade refers to the egg's interior quality and condition and appearance of the shell."

"Egg size is based on weight per dozen."

"Size and grade standards set by the Texas Egg Law and the U.S. Department of Agriculture are the same," the specialist noted.

"According to these standards, extra large eggs must weigh at least 27 ounces per dozen; large, 24 ounces; medium, 21 ounces; and small, 18 ounces. If the shopper keeps these figures in mind, she can make a better egg buy."

"Also, high quality eggs, such as Grade AA and Grade A cover a small area when broken out of the shell."

"Their yolks stand up high and are surrounded by a large proportion of thick white with very little thin white."

label says," Miss Grubbs explained.

A TAP shield on the egg carton means the eggs were produced in Texas, and a USDA shield on the carton means eggs were packed under USDA supervision.

In 4 Overtimes Pampa Wins 48-46

By CLAY LIVELY
It took four quarters and as many overtime periods to do it, but the Pampa Harvesters were able to hold on and snatch a 48-46 victory from the much taller Monterey Plainsmen last night in Harvesters Fieldhouse.

The first of the seemingly endless overtime periods was made necessary when Monterey's Blake Christie tied the game 40-40 with only 13 seconds left on the clock in the fourth quarter.

Up to that point the Harvesters had led in the game all the way since coming from behind in the first period, to tie the game 8-8, after the Plainsmen jumped out to an early lead.

Pampa went ahead with 1:06 left in the opening frame and was never headed until Christie's shot.

Pampa's Freddy Wilbon controlled the rebound at the beginning of the first three minute overtime period. The Harvesters went ahead 42-40 as shot by Wilbon.

Monterey's 6'6" Dan Irons tied the game up again 42-40 in the closing seconds of the extra period.

When the buzzer sounded to start the next overtime, the Harvesters stole the tip and the Plainsmen stalled the ball for an interminable period and then made a shot to get ahead 44-42.

Pampa finally got the ball with 19 seconds showing on the clock when a Monterey player held the ball too long and was called on a six second violation. A.J. Brewer got the tip on the jumpball to Wilbon.

The Harvesters called time-out with only 14 seconds showing and Steve Richardson got in under the basket to score a lay-up with seven seconds left to tie the game again 44-44.

Pampa again got the ball on the tip-off beginning the third extra period. Richardson once more scored the vital points for the Harvesters; this time on two free throws with only 24 seconds gone in the frame.

The Plainsmen held the ball for the next 2:23 and called time-out with 13 seconds showing. Alvin Wade hit on an 18-foot jumper to tie the game once again, 46-46, at the end of three extra periods.

Wilbon again controlled the tip against the four inch taller Irons to start the fourth overtime. On this go-round it was the Harvesters who stalled for time, waiting for a good shot. Freddy Wilbon hit the basket for Pampa on this scoring effort to put the Harvesters out in front 48-46 with one minute left.

Monterey took the ball down the court but failed to score when a short shot went out of bounds. It still wasn't over.

Pampa's A.J. Brewer attempted a long jump shot and the Plainsmen got the rebound and called time out with only one second left in the fourth extra frame.

A length of the court pass to Irons was too late and the Harvesters had the win.

After going ahead 40-8 near the end of the first quarter the Harvesters tied until Christie tied the game up toward the end of regulation play.

Pampa led 12-8 after one quarter, 23-18 at the half and was ahead by nine, 35-26, going into the fourth frame.

Freddy Wilbon led the Harvesters in scoring with 21 points. Richardson, with 10 was the only other Pampa player to hit in double figures. Irons led the Plainsmen with 20 points.

The victory marked the last non-district game for the Harvesters this season and ended their record to 12-7. Monterey suffered its eighth loss against 13 wins.

Pampa opens District 3-AAAA action Friday night against the Caprock Longhorns in Amarillo.

Monterey's Taylor 2-6; Christie 1-3; Davidson 4-8; Myatt 3-6; Wade 2-4; Irons 2-20. TOTALS - 32-34. POULED OUT - Davidson.

Renfro Unhappy

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys all-pro cornerback Mel Renfro is said to have told close associates that he wants to be traded, preferably to the Los Angeles Rams.

The Dallas News reported today that Renfro has never particularly liked the Dallas area and has retained a home on the West Coast in recent years.

Renfro, contacted late Tuesday, said, "I have made no decision on whether to leave Dallas. My agent will be in town next week to discuss the situation with Coach Tom Landry. It is no secret that I have been unhappy for several years."

He has lived in the Los Angeles area in recent years and now is building a home in Portland, Ore.

Landry said he knew nothing about the situation, but added, "I hope Mel will be with our club and, personally, I would do anything possible to keep him here."

Asked about Renfro wanting to be traded, Landry said, "Well, it would be difficult to trade him because you just don't go out and trade a blue chip player like Mel and get equal value. I don't know of anybody who could take his place."

Renfro's contract calls for about $50,000 a season. In the past he has had salary differences with Cowboys General Manager Tex Schramm.

Carlton Signs
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A tall, dark-haired young man with a mustache approached the reception desk in the office of the Philadelphia Phillies.

"Is Paul Owens in please?" the visitor asked the receptionist.

"Who wants to see Paul Owens?" the girl retorted.

Yes, there is at least one person in Philadelphia who didn't recognize super pitcher Steve Carlton.

The embarrassed young lady waved Carlton toward Owens' office where a few minutes later he affixed his signature to a contract that made him the highest paid pitcher in baseball.

The Phillies wouldn't disclose the exact amount, but Director of Player Personnel Paul Owens said it was more than the reported $150,000 earned by Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The 27-year-old Carlton immediately set a goal for himself for 1973 commensurate with his lofty salary figure—reportedly $165,000.

Basketball Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
My arm," admitted Billy Keller, "is a little tired."

The 5-foot-10 Indiana guard pumped in a career high 38 points—including an American Basketball Association record-tying six three-point goals—as the Pacers beat Denver 130-113 Tuesday night, for only the second time in seven meetings this season and moved into a tie with the Rockets for second place in the Western Division, 5½ games behind Utah.

In the only other ABA action, Julius Erving poured in 46 points as the Virginia Squires rallied to defeat the Memphis Tams 127-122.

National Basketball Association scores: Boston 106, Buffalo 102; New York 102, Phoenix 101; Atlanta 130, Detroit 129 in overtime; Baltimore 112, Los Angeles 104; Milwaukee 108, Philadelphia 92; Chicago 100, Portland 89; Cleveland 100, Golden State 98; Seattle 125, Kansas City-Omaha 122.

Keller hit his first four attempts from three-point range and apparently had one in the final second that would have given him the record by himself, but the referee ruled he was inches inside the three-point line.

"We put it together," Keller said. "We ran and rebounded. This was a ballgame the guys were up for. Playing them six times and getting beat five times, we were due. I think this was one of my best ballgames. Every guy on the court was giving me the ball."

Keller was backed up by Mel Daniels with 23 points, George McGinnis with 22 and Darnell Hillman with 21.

He watched Maddox miss a birdie putt of longer distance before he rapped in his attempt for the $5,000 first prize.

Cox, who a PGM spokesman said missed his Tournament Players Division card in the last TPD tryouts by one stroke, won $13,674.99 overall in the 10 PGM tournaments.

Each of 64 entrants paid $4,000 in stake money and PGM spokesmen said at least 25 players won their money back.

Ralph Johnston, who was a shoo-in for the low aggregate score in the 10 events, finished second in this week's event with a 140 total.

Johnston, of Decatur, Ga., won $2,500 for rounds of 68-72. The low aggregate score also netted Johnston an all-expense-paid trip for two to Las Vegas.

Players Pick Redskin Back

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NEA) — Larry Brown, the irrepressible running back of the Washington Redskins, was today named the winner of the 18th annual Jim Thorpe Memorial Trophy as the most valuable player in the National Football League.

The recipient of the award, instituted by Newspaper Enterprise Association in 1955, is determined by a vote of his peers, the players on the 26 teams in the National Football League.

Brown was the runaway winner this season, just as he had run away from tacklers to lead the National Football Conference in rushing.

In a season which produced nine men who gained more than 1,000 yards on the ground — a decade ago only five different men in professional football history had attained that figure — the compact Redskins' runner was the nonpareil.

He is the first ball carrier to win the coveted trophy since the great Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns in 1965.

"I'm really honored," said the latter-day Brown, with feeling, when told of his selection. "It's a surprise and I don't even know what to say. That's the same award that went to Jim Brown and John Unitas — all these individuals I've admired."

Brown has completed his fourth pro season with the Redskins. He was an obscure eighth round draft choice from Kansas State when he reported to Vince Lombardi's first Washington team in 1969, with marginal size (5-11 and 195 pounds) for a running back in the NFL.

Lombardi liked his moves as a runner and his guts but couldn't figure a reaction lag until he checked Larry's hearing. A special device fitted in his helmet saved his career.

Football has brought the good life to Brown, but he doesn't forget the poverty of his childhood, spent in a rough Pittsburgh area. A college sociology major, he works with deprived children.

On Christmas Day, with reserve Redskin quarterback Sam Wyche and Harold Bell, who runs a local "Saturday" program at the Hillcrest Recreation Center for ghetto kids, he threw a party for 100 youngsters.

Little Likes Miami's Line

DALLAS (AP) — Now that most of America knows the identity of Miami's "No-name" defense, Larry Little would like for you to take a minute to learn the cast of the Dolphin offensive line — he likes "Miami Maulers" if you want to give them a tag.

Miami's offensive line, headed by All-Pro guard Little, destroyed Washington's front four in last Sunday's 14-7 Super Bowl VII victory.

"They say Washington didn't seem to have much spark but I like to think we knocked the fire they had out of them," said Little. "We have a tremendous offensive line and for the most part nobody has ever heard of them."

"We've got Norm Evans at right tackle, I'm the right guard, Jim Langer at Center, Bob Kuczenberg at left guard and Wayne Moore and Doug Krusan alternating at left tackle."

"I sure am proud of the job these guys did."

Evans and Little are the only members of the Miami offensive line on the American Conference squad of Sunday's Pro Bowl game with the National Conference All-Stars in Texas Stadium Sunday.

Little said "Anything is possible with the material we've got on this (Miami) team and I'm talking about doing it again next season and going 34-0."

He said "I feel sorry for Washington because I know the private hell they are going through. It happened to us last year and was a lesson well learned. If you lose the Super Bowl, the whole season is down."

'Presidents' Warming Up In Bullpen

By PAUL HARVEY
No American statesman ever sought the Presidency as overtly as did Dick Nixon. Methodically and meticulously he groomed himself and his public image.

Now, seeking to emulate his success formula, at least a dozen worthy opponents are warming up in the bullpen.

There's nothing wrong with a politician aspiring to the Presidency. The bush-league ballplayer who wants a job in the majors goes after it.

In academia it's standard operating procedure for professors to promote their own interests with writing and research.

In the executive suite it's done with needle and knife and late lights.

It's all right. In every area of competitive human affairs we're all kept moving by the guy behind who's always trying to pass. Nowhere is this contest more fascinating than in big-league politics.

Sen Charles Percy of Illinois established himself as an administrator, then as a lawmaker; now he's seeking to identify with international affairs.

He's argued that his week in Saigon was research, but his public utterances about peace prospects while there were obviously designed to make sure you knew he was there.

I'm not being critical; in national politics, rule one is stay in the news. Rule two is identify with people, their grievances, their desires.

Identification with the cause of peace is supersafe.

Texas' John Connally is burning none of his bridges. He will stay a Democrat. For now, anyway. The man who headed Democrats for Nixon will remain identified with this Administration while leaving the door open for nomination by either party.

That position is at once enviable and precarious. It's a long walk on a swaying rope.

Handsome Sen. Frank Church of Idaho will begin early in the new year a highly newsworthy investigation of the impact of U.S. corporations on foreign policy. David will be throwing rocks at Goliath: Guess who'll get the cheers. And Sen. Church estimates his investigation "will last three years."

Alabama's Gov. George Wallace from a wheelchair continues expertly to mesmerize voters, publicly advises the Democratic Party to "get in step with the people." If it does, he'll be available to lead the counter-march.

Black Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts has said he may seek the Presidency. He means the Vice Presidency. And fellow New Englander Sen. Edward Kennedy says he will not seek the Presidency; he means he employs that public-relations army to make sure the Presidency seeks him.

California's Gov. Ronald Reagan travels abroad, seeking an additional dimension to his silhouette. New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller wants to.

Each of these and Spiro Agnew has a four-year plan of his own.

What worked for Richard Nixon takes planning and patience. John Lindsay tried to skip ground school and he crashed on takeoff.

Now, if this makes a political run for the roses sound like an ego trip, so be it. But in the process, and without much heraldry, politics has been immensely upgraded.

Despite some holdovers, today's politicians are more self-made than machine-made. If you'll allow me one more metaphor, we have some real fine thoroughbreds prancing around in the paddock seeking your favor.

"And Now, a Brief Pause for a Station Break"

RAY CROMLEY Fire the No-Good, Save $2B a Year

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is a way to save $1 billion a year in defense without decreasing our military strength.

Similar cuts percentage-wise could be made in the budgets of most other major departments in the federal government with no decrease in efficiency.

The savings would add up to more than $2 billion a year.

Administrators say these results could be achieved by selectively cutting civilian employees by 10 per cent. Some administrators would put the figure much higher.

Every key administrator in the government surveyed by this reporter agrees there is this much deadwood.

In most instances the experts estimate that with this 10 per cent goal the efficiency of the offices involved would actually increase substantially—without the remaining 90 per cent having more work to do. In some cases, the 90 per cent remaining would have less to do.

This paradox is simple to explain. The 10 per cent are bottlenecks. They slow the work. They delight in red tape. They snafu projects. And they hold down good men and good ideas.

This is not to suggest most government employees are deadheads. The number of able, efficient government workers is extraordinarily large. The problem is that it is next to impossible to remove inefficient, mediocre workers in the numbers necessary for efficient operation.

Outgoing Defense Secretary Melvin Laird explained the problem vividly in a talk with this reporter. As things are now, he says, when you cut a tenth of your civilian personnel, you don't remove the bureaucrats you want to eliminate. What results is that you fire too many of the new young able people you have brought in most recently in order to beef up your department for the future. It is a losing game.

The problem in defense (and in most other agencies of the federal government) is the system called bumping. In most cases, when you remove a man from his job (for incompetence or whatever), he then usually has the right to bump (take over the job of) someone with less seniority in his line of work.

The bumped man then has the right to bump the next level down, and so on through the system. Thus the man you want to fire isn't fired. Someone somewhere down below him loses his job instead.

The men and women leaving, therefore, may be some of the ablest workers in your shop.

Thus, under present regulations, a 10 per cent cut in civilians could result in a serious decline in efficiency.

This need not be if Congress will change the laws.

The same problem does not exist in the uniformed military. After the most recent cutbacks ordered by Congress, this reporter had a series of talks with key administrative officers in the Pentagon. Without exception, these men were pleased with the results.

The cutbacks gave them a chance to remove those officers and noncommissioned officers with less potential in the military. There is no bumping system.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. is a cooperative federation of 33 Protestant and Orthodox churches which seek to advance programs and policies of mutual interest to its members. The World Almanac says. The Council was formed in 1950 by the merger of 12 inter-denominational agencies, which today have an aggregate congregation totaling about 42 million.

Looking at the big picture, we see the American people single out for special honor the chief architect of the credit-for-Soviet policy.

With that type of thinking abroad in the land, no wonder that the tax payers is defathered. And you can't really blame the Russians for not resisting the temptation to do so. If they didn't take advantage of American naivete, somebody else would.

Reader's Hands
Fall Asleep

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am a 44-year-old truck driver and am experiencing difficulty with my hands "going to sleep" when I retire at night. I am wondering if it is caused by poor blood circulation. My doctor thought it might be caused by tension and prescribed medicine for tension which does not seem to help.

Also, could this develop into arthritis, because now I seem to suffer from swelling in my fingers when I awaken and occasionally experience elbow and muscle soreness in my lower left arm. It seems I read in your column that poor circulation could be corrected if treated early enough, and I am naturally concerned.

Dear Reader—The sensation of your hands "going to sleep" at night is usually related to decreased blood flow to the arms. It's often related to the position one sleeps in. If you put your arms up over your head, the stretching of the muscles around the collarbone at the shoulder region can sometimes press down on the arteries to the arms and decrease the circulation. You can also have this occur by lying on the arm in the wrong position and creating pressure or if someone else sleeps on your arm causing pressure.

As a truck driver, you might have more tendency to external obstruction to your arteries from mechanical means than some other people, mostly because you probably have well developed shoulder and neck muscles related to your occupation. Young, healthy soldiers have been described with this problem if they carried a heavy backpack that pulled their shoulders back. Literally, the collarbone and muscular structures pressed against the arteries causing trouble during the daytime. There are some disorders to the terminal portions of the circulation, which can involve the small arteries and veins, that can also cause swelling of the hands and some of these difficulties.

The pressure on the artery caused by muscles and tendons which causes this difficulty can oftentimes be identified during examination by moving the arm backward to see if the pulse at the wrist diminishes significantly as compared to when the arm is in its normal forward position. By rotating the arm in different positions and noting what happens to the strength of the pulse at the wrist, the doctor can often get a pretty good idea if there is external obstruction causing a problem.

Of course, you can analyze your sleep habits and try to sleep with your arms "at your side without lying on them or having any other source of pressure to see if this helps your problem.

I doubt that your symptoms have any relationship to arthritis. It is not usually associated with the sensation of your hands going to sleep at night.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Cholesterol" booklet.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Social Security Could Trip Nixon

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Nixon's dismissal of Robert M. Ball as commissioner of Social Security raises some serious questions about how to achieve and maintain skillful management in the government bureaucracy.

Since the agency has always been deemed to be off-limits politically, it would be a bad slip if the President were to name a successor whose experience suggested he was less a qualified social insurance expert and more an out-and-out political appointee.

But, actually, that is the shallow, obvious aspect of the matter, easy to judge. There is a deeper issue.

Ball has headed the Social Security Administration for nearly 11 years, and for roughly an equal time before that he was deputy commissioner of SSA's predecessor agency. His entire working career falls within the social insurance realm.

Does this kind of service make a man go stale and leave him empty of new ideas?

There is a school of thought that would say yes, automatically. The proponents of this view contend that turnover at the top level should occur fairly frequently. The argument can be guessed. Change assures regular infusion of fresh ideas, new energies, flexibility. Men of long tenure, it is suggested, cannot fill this need.

The argument has undeniable plausibility. The woods are full of executives and administrators whose energies flag and whose imagination runs thin. Rigidity and complacency often set in all too quickly. Against this very real prospect, change—even systematic change—looks like a sound rule.

Yet there is a strong counter-argument put forth steadily in the field of public affairs. Its core is that there are always men with a great capacity for self-renewal, continuing growth, and adaptability to altered circumstances and problems. Such men not only can meet new challenges, but have a way of searching them out.

Here again, the contention has undoubted force. The corporate and government landscape is well dotted with figures whose long service in top posts is a consequence not of power but of demonstrated abilities maintained through markedly changing times.

Proponents of this point argue, inconceivably, that to dispense with or shift such leadership from its proved realm is to waste rare human resource, to deprive a society of commanding individuals who serve its institutions as a keystone holds an arch together.

Does Robert Ball deserve such an accolade as this? There are a good many men in the U.S. Congress and many practiced observers of public service performance who believe he does.

He has presided over Social Security during its transformation from an agency of modest scale to one of enormous size and increasing complexity, and seen it hailed as the best of bureaucracy. In 1965 he laid over the huge framework of the Medicare program, a task reasonably pictured as one of the greatest peacetime administrative assignments in history. He is a tireless innovator who knows his field as he knows the lines in his hands.

In 1972, Congress handed SSA new challenges for 1973 and 1974. Everything in the record suggests Ball was the man above all to meet them. His expertise is unmatched, and at 58 his powers and talents seem undimmed. He is a public servant of genuine distinction. In casting him out, President Nixon has made a gross error in judgment.

STOPPING SKYJACKERS

The growing number of airplane hijackings calls for stern action to protect the innocent. Unfortunately many governments of the world are unwilling to take necessary steps to stop these crimes.

The number of hijackings has been mounting rapidly. Charles Tuller, a U.S. government official wanted for bank robbery and murder, escaped to Cuba after hijacking a plane. Three convicted men took over a Southern Airways plane, held it for 28 hours, wounded the co-pilot, and extorted over a million dollars in ransom money before forcing the plane to Cuba. A gang of Arab terrorists threatened to kill all the passengers aboard a Lufthansa jet unless the Arabs who murdered the members of the Israeli Olympic team were released.

So far most countries have taken only ineffective measures to stop these crimes. Just as in far too many domestic criminal cases, the lawbreakers receive better treatment than the victims.

Carefully trained, armed guards could be stationed on airplanes to apprehend hijackers. Most passengers would be glad to have such a guard on board because it would help to ensure that they would reach their destination.

Airline employees, who must live with the threat of hijacking are preparing for action to protect themselves and their passengers. The 50,000-member International Airline Pilots Association, representing pilots of 64 countries, may soon refuse to serve countries which fail to return skyjacker's Delegates representing 300,000 ground crew workers from 23 countries have voted not to handle planes of countries granting hijackers asylum.

If governments would be as firm as these airline employees, the hijacking problem would soon be solved.

Cured Over Counter?

Two Philadelphia scientists have recently criticized the lack of effectiveness of non-prescription daytime sedatives. And their revelations only add new fuel to the controversy raging over nonprescription, over-the-counter (OTC) drugs, says, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The one who stands to benefit most from any stricter regulation of OTC drugs is the consumer—the same consumer who annually pays—millions of dollars for various types of patent medicines which do little more than lighten the weights of pocketbooks, according to NEA.

In regard to the recent sedative study, Karl Rickels, M.D. and Peter Heshbacher, Ph.D., say that well-designed and controlled studies of nonprescription sedatives are needed if the consumer is to be protected from drugs which may be ineffective and at times potentially dangerous. The report is published in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Assn.

Their study was a two-week trail of the relative effectiveness and safety of four products: Compoz, one of the large-selling nonprescription sedatives; aspirin, sometimes taken as a sedative; Libritabs, a commonly used prescription daytime sedative; and a placebo ("sugar pill") which has no medical effect other than psychological.

Neither Compoz nor aspirin had any better effect than the placebo as a mild sedative, the scientists report. The prescription sedative was much more effective.

The scientists studied 166 patients who suffered mild to moderate anxiety symptoms, at times accompanied by depression or other emotionally caused complaints. Neither patients nor doctors knew which of the four products the patient was receiving.

The study clearly indicated "the relative ineffectiveness of Compoz and aspirin in the short-term symptomatic relief of mild to moderate anxiety, tension and related complaints in private general practice."

In conclusion Rickels and Heshbacher argue that "if clinical (human) trials are required to establish the efficacy and safety of drugs prescribed under physician supervision, a requirement that is clearly warranted, then such trials may be all the more necessary in the case of drugs taken without such supervision."

Although over the past few years the Senate Monopoly Subcommittee, under the guidance of Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has done a lot of investigation in the area of OTC drugs, not enough of substance has been accomplished.

Even with all the adverse publicity received by many OTC medications, gullible consumers still shell out hard-earned dollars on drugs which are probably no more beneficial than a good dollop of chicken soup, taste worse and can do a lot more harm.

Cold Car Seat Is Peril

A cold auto seat, the kind you encounter when you get into a parked car on a frigid winter morning, is more than unpleasant. It can cause all kinds of trouble, from backaches to rheumatism to kidney problems.

So says the 1973 edition of Baer's Agricultural Almanac, quoting Swedish experts, who ought to know something about frigid winters.

Not only does a cold car seat cause aches and pains; it also lessens the driver's skill at the wheel, the Swedes declare, bringing on a loss of ability to make judgments, a decline in the sense of feeling and a drop in precision of muscular activity.

One Swedish auto manufacturer provides electric heating for the seat through a wiring system activated when the ignition key is turned on.

This phenomenon sounds like something new for the venerable almanac, published by John Baer's Sons of Lancaster, Pa., and "a useful guide and entertaining companion for farmer."

suburbanite, and city-dweller for the past 148 years.

Then again, those open-air buggy seats must have been a mite shocking to our ancestors on frosty mornings back in the last century.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

A Plug For Electrical Safety

By MR. FIX

Just because there are no signs posted around your house reading "DANGER: HIGH VOLTAGE," doesn't mean there isn't danger present from electricity.

Even the ordinary 110-120 circuits in your home can be lethal under certain conditions. Whether electric current is lethal depends on the amount of current present, its frequency, how conductive your skin is at a particular moment and the path the current takes through your body.

The slight tingle you feel when encountering electric current on a dry day can be totally different on a wet, humid day or if your skin is wet. In the latter instance, the current could knock you over.

So one clue to safety when working with electricity is to avoid dampness and damp places. Basement, bathroom and kitchen are dangerous areas. So is almost anyplace outdoors.

A rubber mat, rubber overshoes are good to use when standing on a damp basement floor or outdoors. It's best to avoid using electric hedge trimmers and other electrical devices outdoors when the grass is wet.

Be especially wary of older tools. In recent years manufacturers have taken steps to eliminate hazards. Many small electrical tools are made with shockproof casings. Virtually all portable electric tools are made so they can be grounded easily.

The grounding device is the third prong, the round one, you find on the plug end of the cord. The third prong is connected to a grounding wire. Most modern electric receptacles are designed to handle the triple-prong plug. If you have outlets that won't accept this kind of plug, you can buy an adapter. This is a two-prong plug that fits a standard outlet. It has holes for the three prongs on the cord. There is a wire on the adapter which you connect to one of the screws on the covering plate of the wall outlet.

While most outlets are properly grounded, some are not, particularly those added on by inexperienced handy-men. If in doubt, have your wiring checked by a qualified electrician. The ground wire is there to lead off minor current leakage from the appliance.

Shooting stars are meteors usually no bigger than a pebble or grain of sand. Seven or eight may flash across a wide horizon during any hour of a clear night.

Frank Lloyd Wright designed the Beth Shalom Synagogue in Elkins Park, Pa.

Only the soles of the feet are used for footprinting because the toes seldom make a clear impression.

Of all the 132 islands, shoals, pinnacles and reefs that form Hawaii, only seven are inhabited by any real degree.

STAND ON RUBBER MAT WHEN WORKING IN DAMPBASEMENT

AVOID USING ELECTRICAL DEVICES OUTDOORS WHEN GRASS IS WET

GROUND ALL ELECTRICAL TOOLS

If a short develops in the appliance, the current will blow a fuse instead of giving you a shock. You can check older appliances for current leakage. Use a neon tester. One lead is held against the metal casing of the tool or metal frame of the appliance. The other lead should be held against an object which you know is grounded, such as a cold water pipe. The electrical item should be plugged in. If the buzzy lights there is a short. Reverse the plug in the outlet and check both ways. If a short is indicated, check for a bare wire that may be touching the frame. You may be able to eliminate the hazard by bending the wire out of the way or connecting it correctly.

MONTGOMERY WARD

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and consequently misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a tire's tread wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wear Allowance
40,000 miles.....	None Given
45 month.....	$13.00
40 month.....	10.00
39 month.....	8.00
36 month.....	6.00
33 month.....	5.00
30 month.....	4.00
24 month.....	3.00
18 month.....	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.
