

Britain Seeks to Ease Terms of U.S. Loan

Funds for British Are Fast Dwindling

WASHINGTON—P—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder announced today that discussions will start Monday with British officials on easing terms of the $3,750,000,000 American loan to Britain.

Snyder told a news conference that the National Advisory Council on international monetary problems, headed by himself, will conduct the discussion on behalf of this country.

The British delegation, which will fly here this week-end, will be headed by Sir Wilfred Eady, special assistant to Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton.

Although no formal requests have been made, it is understood that England will ask concessions which would permit her to conserve her dwindling dollar supply by increasing imports from British dominions and decreasing imports from the United States.

The present terms of the loan agreement prohibit Snyder from making any such proposals.

Snyder emphasized it was his understanding that the conference would be strictly limited to the British loan and would not delve into other aspects of the British "dollar crisis" or European aid.

Two other developments in the international economic scene: 1. Snyder scotched "persistent rumors" in London's financial district that the treasury planned to increase its price on gold from the present $35 an ounce to $50.

2. The British withdrew another $150,000,000 of their U. S. loan, leaving only $850,000,000 available. At the recent rate of withdrawal treasury officials estimated the loan would be exhausted in October, instead of next June 30, as contemplated.

Besides the expected proposal to increase British buying from her dominions advance reports indicate the British delegation to the talks here may seek a modification of the loan terms which make the pound freely convertible into dollars.

The treasury secretary said he could not guess how long the conference will last. He plans to go to London for the opening on Sept. 10 of the annual meeting of the board of governors of the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

The importance of the talks was emphasized by the announcement that the National Advisory Council will speak for the United States. Members of the council include Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, Secretary of Commerce Harman and heads of the Federal Reserve System and the Export-Import Bank. In dealing with routine matters they act for them.

It was the National Advisory Council which agreed last month to relax one clause in the loan agreement with the aim of permitting greater trade between the United Kingdom and British territories.

The conference here is expected to be confined to discussions of the terms of the agreement. Britain has appealed for relaxation of two specific clauses, seeking to relieve the drain of her dwindling store of dollars.

These clauses require Britain to convert pounds into dollars upon request in current trade transactions, and prevent Britain from reducing her imports from the United States in order to increase them from her dominions and colonies. (Britain's loan from the United States was handled similar to a loan an individual gets from a bank but leaves on deposit there. The treasury simply set up a $3,750,000,000 fund, from which Britain could draw for dollars as needed.)

Treasury officials have estimated the entire credit will be exhausted by Oct. 1 if the present rate of withdrawals is continued. Originally, it was estimated the funds would last until June 30, 1948, by which time the British government would have repaid the loan.

'Crisis' Bill Becomes Law

LONDON—P—Government officials met with trade union leaders and industrialists today to make plans for combating British economic ailments with the newly voted and extensive controls over labor, industry and wealth.

The controls became law with King George's assent after receiving final Parliamentary approval from the House of Lords this morning. The "crisis" bill empowers the labor government to control the economy by resources and guide labor into essential industries in efforts to achieve economic recovery.

The House of Commons voted 193 to 84 to adjourn until Oct. 20, beating down Conservative and Liberal opposition to shorten the recess to Sept. 16 in view of the economic situation.

Anthony Eden, speaking for the Conservatives, declared the $3,750,000,000 U. S. loan would be exhausted before the recess ends and that the Labor regime had not told Parliament what practical steps it would take in dealing with the nations plight. (The British have drawn against the $500,000,000 of the credit, leaving only $850,000,000, the U. S. Treasury reported.)

Winston Churchill scheduled a 20-minute radio address for Saturday night which was expected to be a reply to Prime Minister Attlee's speech of last Sunday appealing for national cooperation.

Those at the talks included ministry of labor officials and the 14 members of the joint Consultative Committee of the British Employers' Confederation and the Trade Union Congress.

Informants said the Joint Committee would be asked to advise the labor ministry on the government's appeal for longer working days.

The predominantly Conservative House of Lords voted to meet Sept. 9 to consider actions the government might take under its "crisis powers."

While the House of Lords, sitting by itself, would have little control over any government action, the Marquis of Salisbury, Conservative leader, said he believed it should meet again in three weeks, if only to keep an eye on the situation.

If the other house is not willing to take such a course, he is entirely in their affair," he declared. "We in this house must regard ourselves as trustees of the British people."

Before acting on the motion for a summer meeting, the House of Lords was scheduled to consider possible amendments to legislation giving the government almost unlimited powers to deal with Britain's growing economic crisis.

The possibility appeared slight, however, that the Lords would attempt any major modifications of the measure, which passed its second decisive reading by voice vote yesterday. If there are any amendments, the House of Commons, which gave the bill final approval yesterday, will be on hand to dispose of them.

Rio Conference May Be Asked to Mediate Civil War

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil—(AP)—The dawn arrival of Justo Prieto, self-styled "observer for the Paraguayan rebels," indicated today the Inter-American Conference might be asked to mediate a civil war in that landlocked country.

Prieto, former foreign minister of Paraguay, said the American nations could not be indifferent to the war and the Brazil and Argentina must consider mediation as a duty. Both countries have tried, but failed; Brazil on three occasions.

The conference was called to consider hemisphere defense solidarity. Some diplomats predicted Argentina would insist on measure for economic cooperation, possibly a "Marshall Plan" for Latin America, to match proposals of U. S. cash to assist Western Europe and Asia.

"President Truman saw off leaders of the U. S. delegation, headed by Secretary of State Marshall, at the Washington Airport, and expressed best wishes for a successful conference."

"I am glad to have this delegation—as it has so many times in the past—working for peace in the world, particularly in the Western Hemisphere."

The United States delegation to the conference, opening in the Brazilian Capital Friday, is headed by Secretary of State Marshall and includes Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) of the Senate Foreign Relation Committee and Warren R. Austin, U. S. delegate to the U. N. Security Council and former Republican senator from Vermont.

After wishing the delegation good luck, President Truman said he hopes the Rio Conference will set an example for the rest of the world.

Vandenberg commented: "I agree with that." Secretary Marshall, replying to the President's brief, informal speech, said that he and his colleagues are flying south "in the interest of what is very important in the world of today—the solidarity of the Western Hemisphere Nations."

Austin said the "unique thing about the Western Hemisphere is development of unity out of diversity."

He called the forthcoming conference of foreign ministers the "second chapter in the Act of Chapultepec, with endless possibilities for world peace."

The Act of Chapultepec, drafted in Mexico in 1945, was a plan for integrating the solidarity of the Western Hemisphere through military and political cooperation.

The Rio Conference, which Mr. Truman himself may address when he attends the closing phases, was called to write a formal military defense treaty for this hemisphere.

Mr. Truman told Secretary Marshall and his colleagues that they are today as they have been many times in the past working for peace in the world, particularly in the Western Hemisphere.

Austin said that the "U. N. needs this spirit of the Western Hemisphere."

Asserting that the "spirit of Mexico City" is being carried to the Rio Conference, Austin said: "This is very hopeful for the United Nations—that this regional organization be strong and contribute to the world peace."

Two Boys Returned Here in Car Theft

Two local teen-age boys, one of them recently released from Gatesville Reformatory, were returned here from Spearman last night by Chief of Police Louie Allen and held in connection with the theft Monday of a car owned by H. C. Huffline.

The boys, Lon Stevens and Leon Cecil Darby, were apprehended Monday night following a collision with another car. Sheriff J. B. Cook of Hansford County, Cook called Allen on the phone Tuesday morning and gave local police the license number, motor number and other identification of the car in which the boys were riding. The car, model, and numbers checked with the description of Huffline's car. Allen brought the boys back from the Hansford County jail and lodged them in the city jail pending further disposition of the case.

Price Investigation Order By Clark Termed 'Fantastic'

WASHINGTON—P—Rep. Crawford (R-Mich), a leading Congressional critic of OPA, today labeled as "fantastic" Attorney General Clark's order for an investigation into food, clothing and shelter prices.

The lawmaker said it appears to him to be aimed at bringing about a depression at home to help foreign nations buy more goods here. He added that Clark ought to turn his attention to the administration's fiscal policies which, Crawford contended, are the cause of high prices.

The National Federation of Small Business announced meanwhile that Clark's program is in line with what that organization has been urging since last spring.

George J. Burger, the federation's Washington representative, told newsmen member reports indicate particular concern over "growing economic concentration in distribution businesses."

The Justice Department itself was silent on what leads, if any, it may have uncovered to prompt Clark's promise of jail terms for anyone found guilty of "conspiracies" to force prices up and keep them there.

New York spokesmen for the three industry groups cited said their records are clear.

Most Congress members still in Washington adopted an attitude of waiting to see what their own communities find out during a series of cross country studies this summer and fall.

But Crawford was quick to challenge Clark's motives.

"If there is one step that could have been taken since '33 to push prices up and which hasn't been taken, I don't know what it is. The administration has embarked upon policies of restricted production, it has revalued gold and it has resorted to record deficit financing in time of peace."

"Recently the administration has proceeded on a world-wide program of extending dollar credits to other nations before home production has had a chance to catch up with home demand. Now it seems that we are going to get all our creditor nations together to precipitate a depression in the United States so the dollars they have borrowed will purchase what they planned."

"Mr. Clark seems determined to help bring about that depression by investigating our people instead of the fiscal policies of the government."

Crawford was one of OPA's most bitter foes during the congressional fight in 1945 over extending the price control agency.

Victory Medals to Be Distributed

World War II veterans of Pampa, who have been authorized by the War or Navy Departments to wear the Victory Medal may obtain the medal on or after August 15 at the local Recruiting Station located in Room 4 Post Office Building, Pampa, upon presentation of their discharge certificate or similar papers bearing the required authorization. It was announced today by recruiting personnel.

Although several military veterans have earned this honor by their wartime service, Capt. Eugene Safford explained, the medals have only recently been coined by the United States Mint, and no general distribution has yet been made. In place of the medal itself, veterans awarded this honor have worn the ribbon bar which ordinarily substitutes for the medal on all occasions except formal ceremonies.

Capt. Safford states that most all veterans in this community are eligible to receive the Victory Medal. He pointed out that the discharge papers of most eligible veterans received from active duty since V-J Day bear a notation that the individual is authorized to wear this medal.

Senators Argue Reopening Feud Hughes, Brewster

WASHINGTON—(P)—Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) said today a subcommittee to decide whether to probe deeper into the "side issue" feud between Howard Hughes and Senator Brewster (R-Mo.)

But Senator Pepper (D-Fla) declared that in his view the next step, if there is one, will have to be taken either by the full Senate or the Justice Department.

The two ranking members of the subcommittee outlined their opinions in separate interviews at the Customs Bureau stepped into the picture in an effort to make certain that the main Hughes inquiry can get underway again November 17.

Frank Dow, acting commissioner of customs, rotated collectors at all ports yesterday to stop John W. Meyer, Hughes' free-spending publicity man, if he tries to leave the country.

Meyer's unexplained absence last Saturday after an earlier committee subpoena for him expired was one of the reasons Ferguson cited for ordering a postponement in the two week old investigation into Hughes' $40,000,000 worth of wartime airplane contracts.

Meyer originally flew here from Paris to testify about his party-throwing activities in behalf of Hughes, But Dow, in issuing his order to customs collectors to seize the party contact man's passport, said he shows up, emphasizing he had no knowledge that Meyer might be headed abroad.

"Just a precautionary measure," was the way he described it.

Meyer was reported to have been in New York yesterday.

With Hughes' back in Hollywood, Brewster vacationing in Maine and most subcommittee members turning their attention to other matters, there was little left here to keep the controversy alive. But Brewster said at Portland last night that "We've just begun to fight."

Both Ferguson and Pepper agreed that even if the subcommittee wanted to, it would be unable to dig any formal findings on the "you're another" feud.

Hughes testified that Brewster, chairman of the full investigating committee, offered to stop the inquiry if the airplane designer would agree to merge his Trans World Airlines with Pan-American Airways, and support a bill to consolidate all United States overseas air traffic into a single company.

Brewster flatly denied this and asked Attorney General Clark to make a full investigation.

Pampa Boy Tells Of Ocean Trip to Scout Jamboree

Five Boy Scouts of the Adobe Walls Council are now in attendance at the World Scout Jamboree in Miosson, France. The Scouts, Jimmy Campbell, Laurie Porter, Robert Lee Epps, all of Pampa; Boardman Barby, Beaver, Okla.; and Stanley Jones, of Canadian, are part of the contingent of 1,550 Scouts and Scouters that are representing the United States at the Jamboree. Approximately 30,000 Scouts from 40 nations are attending the Jamboree.

A letter from Robert Lee Epps, dated August 1, and written aboard the United States Army Transport, General C. H. Muir off the English Coast, to Mr. Brown, National council representative for the Adobe Walls Council, said, "We visited Washington D. C. and saw all the memorials and buildings which constitute our government. We also saw Mount Vernon, home of George Washington. We went to New York and saw Rockefeller Center and all at the Automat. We have had a wonderful time. I have not been seasick at all."

The Jamboree contingent touched European soil, Saturday August 2, at Antwerp, Belgium. They received ovation from waiting Belgian Scouts, civilians on the dock draped with flags of the United States, Belgium, and the City of Antwerp.

Accompanied by Belgian Scouts, several hundred of the Scouts with a band paraded through the streets of Antwerp to the monument for fallen Belgian sailors, where they placed a wreath of flowers. Similar ceremonies by the Scouts were carried out at the monument for the late King Albert and fallen Belgian soldiers.

DALLAS—(P)—The Luscombe Airplane Corporation plant at Garland created a problem by solving a problem.

First it was rats, now it's cats. L. H. P. Klotz, company president, had endured flourishing colonies of rats and mice at the plant as long as he could. The only solution, he was advised, was cats.

He appealed to his friends, his employees and the city animal shelter. This resulted in a couple of dozen cats being brought in. Nature did the rest.

And now cats—more than 40 of them—are about to take the place.

City Calls for Bids on Laying of Curb and Gutter

Acceptance of bids and calling for others took up the major portions of the City Commission's session yesterday afternoon when the contract for ditching of 40,000 feet of sewer in the Western Hemisphere.

The contract on the project was made with the Parkown Construction Company of Pampa.

The Commission accepted the bid of the Pampa Hardware Company for installation of a 10-gallon water cooler in the City Hall at a cost of $235.80.

Another bid from the Bennett Manufacturing Company, Alden, N. Y., for 18 trash receptacles to be placed at various sections throughout the city was also approved. The square metal cans will be bolted to the curbs in the mid city section and secondary business streets.

Because the city has been unable to obtain a foreman for the laying of curb and gutter, bids were called for by the Commission. The gutter installation will precede the paving of the first 11 blocks. Plans and specifications for the project are in the office of the city engineer. The contractor will be selected by the city's steel curb and gutter forms.

In addition to the 11 blocks of scheduled paving, the Commission next week will include all other paving that have been filed with the city secretary to be placed into the first ordinance. All other petitions for paving that are to be included in the first ordinance will have to be in the city manager's office by noon Saturday.

Another bid for the removal of 17,000 feet of cast iron pipe from Camp Howze was called for by the Commission. Negotiations for its purchase and payment were completed last week when City Engineer Steve Matthews and City Engineer Dick Pepin visited the camp. The pipe, when brought to Pampa, will be used for water mains in the city, especially along Brown St.

The Commission passed the first and final reading of a resolution approving the widening of Hobart St. and agreeing to provide the rights-of-way, curb and gutter and other necessary utilities. The County Commissioners Court Monday also passed a like resolution.

Regular operating bills amounting to $10,589.25 were approved along with an expenditure of $6,484.81 for several carloads of sewer pipe.

Producers Say Oil Demands for Year Can Be Met

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—(P)—An expected demand for petroleum products within the United States exceeding that of war years can be met, representatives of the major oil producing states agree, but they say there is no immediate reserve to care for any emergency.

Winding up a three-day meeting of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission here, state officials and industry leaders launched a series of technical discussions today, primarily concerned with developing new sources.

R. A. Catlett of Washington, chief of the Federal Bureau of Mines Petroleum and Natural Gas Division, is scheduled to describe research on the production of liquid fuels from oil shales now under way in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah.

The Commission Economics Advisory Committee reported that domestic and export demand this year and next will be about nine percent heavier than in 1946. The committee said availability of more steel for pipelines and tank cars would help solve the problem but supply in the Midwest would remain acute.

The chairman of the National Petroleum Council, Walter S. Hallmark of Charleston, W. Va., told the commission's 250 delegates yesterday that "due to an unprecedented and wholly unexpected demand the valves of industry are practically wide open and there is no adequate reserve in production available for use in the unhappy event of war."

Other speakers criticized the recent Supreme Court decision in the California Tidelands Case and pressed for Federal encroachment on the oil business and on States. Rights governing titles to lands.

The commission decided to hold its next meeting at Oklahoma City, December 4-6.

Oilers Land in Three-Way Tie as Gold Sox Win 5-2

AMARILLO (Special)—Pampa's Oilers were pushed to a three-way tie with Lamesa and Albuquerque for 3rd place in the West-Texas-New Mexico League, here last night, when they bowed to the Amarillo Gold Sox 5-2.

Frank Mekules, giant Amarillo righthander, calculated the Oilers for eight innings last night but Pampa broke loose for a pair of runs in the ninth to spoil his shutout.

The Oilers were able to solve Mekules safely only three times in the first eight chapters.

Tom O'Connell, who homered in each of the three games here, pitched a homer over the 300-foot centerfield fence to break the scoring ice for the visitors. A double from the bat of Ray Bauer and a chop single down the leftfield foul line by Frank (Whitey) Warren produced Pampa's second run.

The Gold Sox dented starter George Payne for two in the first inning and hoisted the count to 3-0 in the second when young Vince Liberto bombed a homer.

The winners added another in the fourth on two singles and an infield out and a Pampa bobble helped them to their final tally in the fifth.

It was one of the fastest games here this season, requiring only one hour and 37 minutes for the nine innings.

Slugging Central Baptists Blast First Methodist Senior Boys 19-12

The First Methodist Senior Boys jumped to an early lead in their game last night with the Central Baptists, but were unable to keep it as Ronnie Maxwell pitched the Baptists to a 19-12 tie. The Methodists led until the third inning when the Baptists ran wild to cross home plate 13 times taking an undisputed lead, which they never lost. The losers threatened a rally in the fourth when they scored 6 runs but there were not enough to subdue the strong Baptists.

Scoring in every inning of play, the First Baptist Senior Boys overwhelmed the weak hitting Calvary Baptists by the score of 23-2. Emmett Riggs allowed the losers only 5 hits and gave up only 5 charity bases while Jimmy King, who started on the mound for the Calvary boys, gave up 15 walks and allowed the winners to hit almost at will.

The McCullough Methodist Junior Boys rallied for 11 runs in the fifth inning to defeat the First Methodists 26-13. Home runs by Bob Hulsey and Jimmy Baines helped to further the McCullough attack at the plate while John Snyder, who started a masterful job of pitching, Ronald Beard hurled for the losers and kept the McCullough Boys pretty well in hand until the last two innings when they scored 19 of their 26 runs.

In another Junior Boys game, the First Baptists routed the Nazarenes 32-6 in a game that went the complete 7 innings. Dickie Davis lost for the Nazarenes as he pitched the Baptists scored 6 runs in the first frame and never let up their blistering pace as Gayle Trolinger did his best for the Nazarenes on the mound but could not stop the rampaging Baptists.

With the score tied at 4-4 going into the bottom half of the seventh, the First Methodist Senior Girls scored a run that sent them ahead and earned victory over the fighting Calvary Baptists 5-4. Pat Pierson hurled for the Methodists and did an excellent job, blanking the Baptists the first three innings before they began their scoring. Edeyne Pryor tossed for the losing Baptists and it seemed as if she might have a shutout over the mighty Methodists, but the Methodists finally got their big bats working and scored all 5 of their runs in the last three innings of play.

In probably one of the highest scoring contests that will be seen all year, the First Methodist Junior Girls bested the First Christian Juniors 48-23. The winners scored 10 runs in the first frame and were never in serious trouble. Margaret Ruth was the winning pitcher while Clara Washington was charged with the loss.

Mary Agnes Wall May Take Women's Western Amateur Title

EVANSTON (P)—Mary Agnes Wall, the "Craig Wood" of women's golf who seemed destined to remain as runner-up and never a winner, now appears on the threshold of her most important championship.

The Menominee star cashed in for the Michigan State Crown this year after finishing second three times, and her game now is so sharp she is rated a good chance of taking the Women's Western Amateur title.

Like Wood, who suddenly emerged from the "bridesmaid" role to win the National Open and the Augusta Masters' seven years ago, Miss Wall seems ready to vault to the top.

Miss Wall entered today's second round of the Western Amateur against Alice O'Neal, an able youngster from Indianapolis who yesterday pulled the most lopsided triumph of the first round with an 8 and 7 win over Mrs. Howard Greene of Northbrook, Ill.

The defending champion, Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., as well as the three medalists remained in the running along with other highly-favored contestants.

Sports Round-Up

By SKIPPER PATRICK (For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

KANSAS CITY (P)—Co-winners Tom Baird and T. Y. Wilkinson of the Kansas City Monarchs declare the major leagues have only scratched the surface of outstanding talent in the Negro American and National baseball circuits.

The Kansas City promoters broke in three of the four Negroes now in the majors—Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson and Willard Brown and Henry Thompson of the St. Louis Browns. The Baird-Wilkinson team, now in its twenty-seventh season, predicts that with better training and coaching the Negro leagues would fairly blossom with major league stars.

GRID GLANCES

Coach Bernie Masterson's Nebraska Cornhusker griders should win all of their games this fall if they get by their first four without taking a licking. Three of the first four are Indiana, Minnesota and Notre Dame. . . Iowa State is the other. . . The University of Wyoming may be in for a brighter era in football. Wyoming's head coach Bowden Wyatt, the Tennessee All-American of 1938, Assistant Dick Hitt and President Duke Humphrey, former Southeastern Conference prey, each had a hand in turning out an Orange Bowl and conference champion at Mississippi State before the war.

BIG SIX BRIEFS

Southern Methodist University's Mustangs, who won the "All Big Six Conference" pre-season basketball tournament last year, won't defend their title in Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium Dec. 18-20. . . The Big Six fathers passed up the Mustangs in favor of Hank Ibs's Oklahoma A. and M. Aggies who have been waging an unsuccessful (thus far) battle for Big Six membership. . . Some of the fellows in the know say the Big Six will admit the Oklahoma school as soon as the Aggies show they can string along with the conference's rules. . . Meantime, several Big Sixers will continue playing the Aggies in football, baseball, basketball and track.

SOUTH-OF-THE-BORDER COOKING

Booker Daniels, a former star pitcher for the Kansas City Monarchs who sold his talents to the Mexican League a season ago, wants to come home. . . and quick! Just to prove he's serious, Daniels writes his former bosses:

" . . . Get me back and I'll pitch in batting practice, exhibition games and drive the bus."

Newport Net Tourney Starts Third Round

NEWPORT, R. I. (P)—With all of the eight young foreign entries, over here seeking grass court experience on the sidelines, the historic Newport Casino Singles Tennis Tournament entered its third round stage with 12 of this country's top 20 campaigners in the round of 16.

With national singles champion Jack Craver limiting his Casino activities to the doubles competition, the survivors are paced by another star Davis Cupper, second-ranking Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Calif.

The last of the foreign youngsters were eliminated during the second day's routine action, which saw Chauncey D. Steele, Jr., of Cambridge, Mass., the New England sectionalist, Hilt, wearing down Raoul Abdesselem, one of France's young hopefuls, for a 7-5, 2-6, 6-4 decision and Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., who is third seeder here, eliminating Indian's M. Mohan by 6-4, 8-4 margins.

Refinery Blaze Loss Estimated At Near $150,000

WICHITA FALLS—(AP)—Officials of the Panhandle Refinery here today began figuring the losses resulting from a blaze which roared at the plant for nearly four hours yesterday.

Starting around noon when a tank of gasoline overflowed and ignited, the fire quickly spread through the installations.

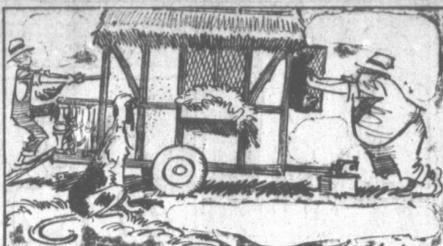

Refinery officials declined to make an immediate estimate of damage, which they said was covered by insurance, but fire department officials placed the loss at about $150,000.

Fire and accompanying small explosions completely destroyed the materials warehouse, ten wholesale gas tanks, welding and machine shops, the salvage warehouse and

Pampa Is Rated A Richer Market

NEW YORK (Special)—A higher standard of living and a stronger consumers market prevailed in Pampa than in most communities in the United States, according to Sales Management's 1947 survey of buying power, covering all cities of 10,000 population and over.

With a retail sales of $21,351,000 in 1946, a large increase from the $16,975,000 of the previous year, the city did 92.2 percent of the nation's business with but .013 percent of the population of the nation. It also was ahead on a statewide basis, accounting for 48 percent of Texas' retail business with only 24 percent of the state population.

How well the average Pampa fare is shown by its effective buying power, which amounted, after tax deductions, to $2,888 in spendable money, compared to the average of $2,784 received per family in the West South Central states.

The survey stamps the city a richer market by assigning it a "quality of market index" of 115, meaning that its purchasing power is 15 percent above that of the average community, regardless of size.

Generally speaking, 1946 income in the United States remained at about the 1945 level. Sales rose considerably but much of the money came from previously accumulated savings. Last year's savings, $15.2 billion, were the lowest since 1941.

Man on Tractor Killed by Train

SAN ANGELO—(AP)—A collision between a Santa Fe locomotive and a tractor at a street crossing yesterday resulted in instant death for a man identified as Ash C. Barefield, 55.

The engine, pulling one car, was backing into the city when the accident occurred. Witnesses said the man, who was driving the tractor, apparently did not hear the signal.

Missouri officials have estimated that cats kill 12,000,000 birds a year in that state.

Wheeler County's Veterans Have Three Vocational Schools

SHAMROCK—(Special)—Wheeler County's third vocational agriculture school for veterans opened in Shamrock last Wednesday night with an enrollment of 14.

Classes are being conducted on Monday and Thursday evenings of each week with Fred Farmer as supervisor. The classes, two hours in length, are held in the FFA building on the High School campus. They begin at 8 p. m.

Farmer stated today that he would like to boost the enrollment to 20 and urged veterans who are interested in attending to contact him or Harris Zeigler, Wheeler County service officer.

To be eligible to attend the school a veteran must have active management of a farm, either through ownership or rental agreement. Checks similar to those drawn by veterans in college or doing on-the-job training are received by the vocational students. Married veterans receive $9.00 per month; unmarried ones receive $8.00.

A class, with 20 enrolled, is under way at Mobeetie, and another, with an enrollment of 16, is being taught at Kelton.

Persons interested in enrolling in any of the classes should contact Zeigler whose office is in the rear of the F. & M. Bank building.

Pink-Blue Shower Tuesday Evening Fetes Two Ladies

Members of the Chatter Chat Club met at the home of Mrs. J. A. Grubbs, 1011 N. Duncker, Tuesday evening to honor Mrs. Glen Waggoner and Mrs. Roy Boyd with a pink and blue shower.

The refreshment table was cleverly decorated with two "ladies in waiting" dressed in blue and white, guarding two hand painted books in the shapes of baby heads topped with silver crowns. These were flanked by two pottery figurines containing blue delphinium, pink and white daisies and baby's breath. Games were played and the gifts and figurines were presented to the honorees.

Plate favors were "ladies in waiting" surrounded by daisy petals. Refreshments were served to Mesdames J. L. Harrison, Howard Archer, G. G. Williams, O. G. Smith, L. E. West, W. L. Harrison, James Clapper, C. W. Coffin, J. C. Payne and Dorothy Barrett.

WE, THE WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Among animals the female of the species has the best memory, says a Frenchman, who is internationally known for his animal behavior experiments.

Among human beings the female ought to have the best memory; she certainly called it to use it more.

Mama not only has to remember all her own daily chores connected with running the house and looking after her young ones, but she has to remember for Papa and the young ones, too.

Remind me to see so-and-so about such-and-such," says Papa to Mama—thereby comfortably clearing his mind.

"I'm supposed to take my gym suit to school tomorrow," says Junior—and it's Mama who is supposed to remember that little detail.

Then there are all the odds and ends Mama remembers without being asked, do so, from reminding Papa to get his hair cut to jogging Junior's memory about feeding the dog or watering the lawn.

A MAN HAS HELP

A man has a mother to remember for him until he is grown, a wife to remember for him after he is married, and as soon as he is successful enough, he has a secretary to remember for him at the office.

So a man doesn't really need a very good memory. But a woman does. Whether married and mistress of a home or single and working for a man, she usually has to remember for two.

Because slip covers wear out fastest on chair arms, the smart home owner will buy extra fabric to replace these vulnerable spots.

HUMAN ENGINEERING

Several psychologists recently have questioned the worth of intelligence quotient, or IQ tests. Some of them have even been so courageous as to say that they thought these tests may do more harm than good.

This may surprise the majority of us who, innocent of psychological learning, have accepted the intelligence quotient as gospel. A high IQ has been the badge of mental superiority for 30 years and more. A low IQ test, frequently brought despair to the parents of children who, as the result of these tests, have been given statistical dunce caps.

To be sure, a good many youngsters with an IQ of genius rating didn't turn out to be geniuses. But the faith of most laymen in the IQ wasn't shaken. Now along come some learned men to say, as others have been saying more quietly right along, that the tests don't tell the whole story, that they're arbitrary, inaccurate, misleading, and so on.

For those who are dismayed by these charges, an article by Hannah Lees in the current Collier's magazine is recommended reading. It is called "Doing What Comes Naturally," and tells the story of Johnson O'Connor's aptitude tests which begun at General Electric 25 years ago, have blossomed into Human Engineering Laboratories in 10 of the country's major cities.

The human engineers consider that aptitudes are "as inherent as blue eyes and more so than curly hair, and have little relation to intelligence and even less to environment or childhood conditioning." The scientific testing of aptitudes apparently is not yet developed fully, nor do the human engineers claim that possession or lack of certain aptitudes guarantee success or failure. But their quarter-century work demonstrates that they have found the knack of putting the square pegs in square holes.

Psychiatry today is a vogue as well as a science. There are relatively few professional psychiatrists, but many people tend to go in for "home remedy" psychoanalysis. They read books on the subject, grope blindly and suffer needlessly.

Some parents may torture themselves wrongly in trying to connect a child's backwardness in school with an emotional injury arising from their own shortcomings. They may fret about an apparent misfit whose talents might be only undeveloped, not absent. Few adults, in looking at their children or themselves, seem to suspect that an innate skill might be a separate and largely unrelated part of their individuality.

Throughout modern civilization there have been countless people who were unhappy and unsuccessful because, without knowing it they had jobs that they didn't like and weren't fitted for. Certainly that is true today. And it seems reasonable that many psychological disturbances have their origin in this fact, rather than in some deep-seated emotional block.

We don't mean to discount the value of psychiatry, or to present aptitude tests as the be-all and end-all. But surely if such tests, given generally, could steer a few million people toward work that they would like best and do best, there would be more individual happiness and more general efficiency in a country and a world that could use plenty of both.

Russians Do Not Want Dollars

BY MELCHIOR PALYI, PH.D.

When Molotov got up from the table at the Paris conference and left, it was a great surprise all over the western world. Why, how could anyone refuse to take a couple of billion dollars? Molotov left, leaving behind what so many people like to regard as another puzzle of the allegedly mysterious Russian diplomacy. Pretty soon, the public mind found a very vague idea, wanted—some simple explanation of the fact that Russia had to refuse the dollars.

Indeed, she had to refuse, or could have accepted only to sabotage and delay the program. American diplomacy has its first victory over Russia, and a very clever one, so clever that one wonders whether it was planned that way. Maybe we stumbled into a victory, not we who were going up to Or did the State Department know in advance the obvious: that Soviet Russia could never co-operate on the Marshall Plan?

Whatever that Plans means, and so far it is still a very vague idea, it certainly implies that the Europeans have to get together and discuss the why and how of their own dollar needs. Suppose, e. g., the Hungarians would come in and say that they have an unfavorable balance of payments, an excess of imports over exports amounting to $ X millions. They would have to specify that imbalance, and it would turn out that they are exporting eastward and importing from the West. Westward they have to pay; eastward, they do not get paid. Under one title or another, the Russians take out the cream of Hungary's production for no return in goods (which they do not have) or in gold. The mere disclosure of these facts in an official statement would put Moscow on the international spot, and the next thing would be a united world front putting pressure on the Soviets to relax in Hungary. Incidentally, the Hungarian case is very typical of Russian policy in the satellite countries. Hungary has to pay a very substantial reparation, say $100 millions a year, and do so in goods specified by the Russians, much of which she has to import. In addition, the Russians value the goods and this is part of the infamous Potsdam agreement, at 1938 prices which were anywhere between one-half and one-quarter of present prices, thereby doubling or quadrupling the value.

Most nations are willing that the measures adopted shall be binding on all states. But the governments of Brazil, Cuba, Chile, Mexico, Panama and the United States do not accept this sweeping commitment. Certainly it is "binding" on those countries which are not.

PALATIAL — The delegates will deliberate in Hotel Quidandina, a palatial structure 4 1/2 miles from the City of Rio de Janeiro said to be the most fantastic hotel in the world. It can house 700 guests. Its builder, a genius named Joaoim Koila, spent over ten million dollars to make it a wonderland. Architects drew 35,000 plans before construction began. Dorothy Draper was brought to Brazil to design decorations.

Delegate's children have a special dining room of their own and are served by waiters of small stature. After eating they vote on what movie they will see in their own little theatre.

Tropical birds in glass cages, lavish indoor and outdoor swimming pools, 350 private suites with balconies overlooking the lake and other features should put the visiting statesmen at ease they will be able this time to get together and write a security pact.

Customs Districts Consider Merger

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Treasury Department reported today that the Customs Bureau is considering a merger of administrative purposes of the Sabine and Galveston Customs Districts into a single district with headquarters at Houston, Texas.

A hearing on the proposal is scheduled for Friday before Undersecretary A. M. Wiggins, a spokesman said. No date has been set for the contemplated merger.

The Sabine District includes the ports of Port Arthur, Beaumont and several sub-ports.

The spokesman said the shift would not affect the port-of-entry facilities at any of the cities, although there would be slight personnel changes involved in a transfer of headquarters to Houston.

Commercial interests at Galveston have protested the proposed move, and the Chambers of Commerce at Beaumont and Port Arthur have asked to be heard. Each of the communities will present testimony at the hearing Friday.

Gracie Reports

BY GRACIE ALLEN

Well I see where a Texas throat specialist says that the best way to avoid laryngitis is to keep your mouth shut. Come to think of it, that's the best way to avoid a lot of other troubles, too.

If his theory is right, he's certainly wasting his time in Texas. He should go to Washington, set up a laryngitis clinic outside of Congress and make himself a fortune.

He also said that when a man feels the urge to shout he should save wear and tear on his throat and whistle instead. I passed this on to George and he tried it the last time I got ball for new hats, but it didn't work. He found that he couldn't whistle and turn blue in the face at the same time, so I had to beg him to go back to shouting.

When the real nation of Hungary's liberation. But that is just the beginning of her troubles. She "owes" $100 million or so to Germany for military equipment, of what have you, received during the war. Now then, the Soviets claim of German property including that claim. Since Hungary cannot pay—the military equipment is gone, and besides the Russians would not want it, nor do they accept payment of German property, they are kindly permitted to pay in shares of industrial corporations carefully designated by the Russians who become owners of 51% of the stock and commander the industrial output into Russia.

But come back to Molotov and the Marshall Plan; the reason usually given for the Russian "departure" is that the Plan would strengthen capitalist ideology against the communist. True enough, but that is not the essential reason. Far more important to Russia are the $2 or $3 billions she exacts annually from Central Europe for which no American loan could offer a substitute. Moreover, she has the opportunity to bolshevize those countries by permitting them to restore their western ties. So, she had the choice between accepting our benevolence and losing out in Central Europe; or holding the letter and losing her share in the dollar downpour. There could be no question that she prefers the second alternative. Our diplomatic victory consists in the fact that she must compete for money to withdraw without any threat or pressure on our part. At home and abroad, our government appears as having tried to be kind to the Soviets, and the Soviets as having refused our kindness for ulterior motives. The resulting advantage is more than diplomatic, it is financial as well. We got rid of Russia and her nine satellites and need not bother financing them any longer. Give us the tremendous burden on the American economy and the inflationary effects on our prices which the further support of the distressed economies of the world involves, we are better off by having less "clients." And we got rid of them through no fault of ours.

But from the long-term point of view, it is a hollow victory. It means that the most compelled Russia into the arms of bolshevism, of poverty, and inhuman humiliation. It means, in effect, that we default in our moral obligations even to such countries as Poland and Yugoslavia who fought on our side. It means that Russia can proceed now in bolshevizing those countries, or rather in accelerating the pace of bolshevization. Her intentions are gone, and as a matter of fact, she makes an economic and political victory out of her diplomatic defeat by proceeding to invade Central Europe into the Soviet system. The break between East and West has become official on the economic front, with very serious consequences, especially for Europe.

British policy will be to keep dollar-borrowing to a minimum. It is very hard to negotiate with people to whom you are in debt. When you cannot pay up they feel a bit superior.

—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

Indirect wars are already in progress at different points of our continent and if we let these rivalries fester, it is the old Europe, where they will disappear.

everybody was supposed to be having fun downstairs. It didn't make sense. I got curious. So I leaned out and looked up and down, trying to place it. I placed it right off. There was an open window above mine, on the eighth floor. Miss Brady's bedroom.

"The doctor's capable old hands moved at once to the girl's temples and wrist as if he trusted only what he could touch and count. Mark watched. There was a bruise under the bandage, ugly, swelling.

"If you can talk," he said softly, "I'd like to hear what you have to say. . . How long have you been conscious?"

"Since last night. Late last night."

"Anybody know?"

"Her smile was wry and painful. 'Am I crazy? No. Not even Eister. . . I've been wondering when you'd get around to me. I wanted to talk to you.' Her eyes clouded.

"I thought I heard music last night. I was still groggy but I thought I heard a music box. And if I did—"

"You heard it. I was out in the hall, outside this door. I found the box, and I know what it was used for. Does that fit in with what you know?"

"It fits something," she said. "You know she was murdered, don't you?"

"Do you know?"

"Maybe we'd better get together. Blow by blow description. . . I was working on a night job when they had the party and I took time off. But the party was too young for me, so I went up to my room for a cigaret. You can check with Jewell, she took me up and I think she knew who I was. I lived on sixth then, in the room under this one. When I got there I wrote some letters and had a smoke. But I turned out my light for that and sat on the window ledge with the window open. That was when I heard the music the first time. I knew it was a box of some kind, but I didn't know whose. And

D. V. Biggers, former physical education instructor and Gorilla football coach at Pampa High School, has been named principal of Hopkins School, Hueyln Laycock superintendent of County Schools, announced this morning.

Biggers, who was an instructor here in 1945-46, was with the Perryton School system last year. He holds a Bachelor's Degree from West Texas State College.

Biggers' wife also will teach at Hopkins during the coming year.

Indeed, to quote Egyptian Prime Minister Nokrashy Pasha, things might easily get out of hand in this country unless the Council puts an end to England's occupation of the Valley of the Nile.

The prime Minister's language before the Security Council was pretty strong, and possibly somewhat DEWITT MACKENZIE rhetorical, but there can be no question about Egyptian resentment against the exercise of British influence in Egypt and the Sudan.

This feeling has produced a floodshed in the past, as Nokrashy Pasha points out, and what has happened once can happen again. In any event, a quarrel whose focal point is a Moslem Nation which is surrounded by sympathetic countries of the same faith isn't conducive to good health.

The bitterness of the Egyptians against the British runs back for many decades of English domination. The hostility was particularly strong at the time of the first World War when the British established a protectorate over Egypt and appointed Prince Hussein as Sultan. The Prince was an angry and unwilling figure-head but accepted because he hoped he might do something for his people.

This anti-British feeling has persisted to greater or less degree. Just now it is greater, as Cairo presses its claims to the whole Nile Valley, including the Sudan. The British warned that the Egyptian arguments for annexation of the Nile territory could apply equally to Ethiopia, Uganda and the Belgian Congo.

Britain has asked that the Egyptian case be taken off the U. N. agenda as without justification. She shows every intention of protecting her interests in the Nile territory.

Security Council order the British to withdraw their troops from the land of the Pharaohs and clear out of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan places of the Council in a most uncomfortable position and increases an already tense situation between the two countries.
