Shivers Recaptures Grip On Texas Demos

MINERAL WELLS, Tex., Sept. 15 -UP- The state Democratic convention has re-affirmed Gov. Allan Shivers' grip on the party and, in so doing, increased his personal potential for the presidential year of 1956. The convention, meeting Tuesday, assured Shivers and his conservative supporters of two more years' control of the party. They have ruled since 1950. There was only one record vote, and the conservative whipped Shivers' liberal opposition 4,317 to 1,739 in it. Texas Republicans, who met Tuesday in state convention at Fort Worth, meanwhile reported their "honeymoon" with the Democrats, in full bloom two years ago, may be over. In vivid contrast to 1952, when the GOP took over all of the Democratic state candidates, the Republican convention adopted a series of resolutions aimed at fostering a two-party system in Texas and heard a keynote speech that was sharply critical of the Democrats.

Vote Down Liberals The record Democratic vote was on a liberal attempt to force the convention to accept district recommendations for membership on the state committee. When that was rejected, Shivers' lieutenants proceeded to pack the committee with conservatives, disregarding the nominees from liberal districts. Since the 62 state committeemen and women hold office until September, 1955, they insure Shivers' control of the May, 1956, state Democratic convention's machinery. That meeting will pick the Texas delegates to the national Democratic convention. Shivers probably will be Texas' favorite son for the presidential nomination in 1956. And, although he may not be a serious contender, the Texas governor is sure to be a powerful leader among Southern conservatives.

Young Envisions Building Taller Than Empire State EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert R. Young, the financial go-getter who won control of the New York Central railroad earlier this year, has his eye on a new target. He wants to build the "biggest" office building in the world on the site of Grand Central Station in the heart of Manhattan. This is the first in a series of three dispatches on America's skyscrapers and how they rank among the world's architectural wonders.

Young, who promised New York Central stockholders he would make more money for them, says the railroad is losing $24 million a year operating the 60-year-old Grand Central terminal that is a midtown Manhattan landmark. Much of this deficit, he says, results because the railroad is paying taxes on the "air rights" above the six-story terminal building and getting no revenue or use out of the space. Young asked Webb & Knapp to figure out some way to use this gold mine of air. Zeckendorf and his architects came up with sketches and models of an 80-story office building which, Zeckendorf said proudly, is "the most unusual of its kind ever contemplated."

Dulles Flies To Germany Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 -UP- Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will fly Wednesday night to Germany and Britain to deal personally with the talks on German rearmament. Dulles will fly directly to Bonn, capital of West Germany, for talks with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. After talking with the West German leader he will fly to London arriving there Friday, for talks with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Minister Anthony Eden. Reds Give 3 Yanks Freedom

Newsmen, Seaman Held 18 Months

HONG KONG, Sept. 15 -UP- Two American war correspondents and a young U. S. merchant sea captain returned to freedom and daylight Wednesday from 18 months in dark, bed-bug infested jail cells in Red China. The three-former United Press correspondent Richard Applegate, International News Service writer Donald Dixon, and Capt. Ben Krasser said their Communist captors: 1. Never permitted them to see daylight during the entire year and one-half of their captivity. 2. Never permitted them to communicate and did not even indicate to any of them whether the others were alive. 'Stupid and Bewildering Questions' 3. Bombarded them with "stupid and bewildering questions," especially about American "germ warfare" in Korea and about their "invasion" of Chinese territorial waters and insisted on phoney "confessions."

Dr. Hampton Will Direct Adult Classes Pampa's Adult Education program was launched Tuesday evening with the election by acclamation of Dr. Ray N. Hampton, president, and Mrs. Dorothy Station, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Adrienne Foster, who presided at the meeting attended by more than 30 people, emphasized that the adult education program is not a teacher-pupil relationship, but is meant to encourage thinking and discussion of the problems facing people on all levels, from the family to international problems. "The courses may sound formal, but there will be no one in the group, including the discussion leader, who will have any concrete answers. The program seeks to air fundamental ideas facing men."

All Incumbents Renominated In Nine-State Vote

Odds Against GOP Repeat Of '34 Upsets

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 -UP- It will be 20 years this fall since Franklin D. Roosevelt, few compare with that spectacular achievement in November, 1934. It is the American political tradition that the party in power loses House and Senate seats in the off-year polling when the White House is not at stake. And it is American political experience that a President usually carries into office with him congressional majorities fat enough to withstand losing a few House and Senate seats. Instead of losing seats in the 1934 election midway in FDR's first presidential term, the Democrats gained. They jumped from 60 to 69 Senate seats and from 313 to 322 in the House. Considering the fact that it was an off-year contest, that is the worst congressional election licking the Republicans ever suffered.

WHEN MEN SING IN BATHTUB THEY'RE ALL WET, SAYS HERE

OXFORD, England, -UP- A British scientist believes that moisture in the air makes men sing in the bathtub. Geographer O. Hinchcliffe of Glasgow University told the British Scientific Association Wednesday that climate affects human behavior. "It has been suggested that increasing humidity so affected the vocal cords that those who were least gifted with song burst forth when rain was imminent," Hinchcliffe said. "It might also solve the problem as to why men sang in their baths."

Ike Vanguard Girds For Deficit Combat

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 -UP- Receipts The administration Wednesday counted on new government economies and bigger tax revenues from an "almost sure" business upswing to combat an unexpected increase in the estimated federal deficit. Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey announced Wednesday night that a new review of the fiscal 1955 budget points to a deficit of $4.7 billion - more than one and one-half times the $2.9 billion President Eisenhower predicted last January. Humphrey promised at a news conference that the administration would order new economies - even in the field of national defense - to whittle the deficit down before the fiscal year ends next June 30.

Albuquerque Bank Robbed

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., Sept. 15 -UP- A chunky man whose manners belied his rough dress robbed the five-point branch of the Bank of New Mexico of more than $125,000 in currency Tuesday and made a clean getaway. State police set up road blocks immediately after the branch manager, Adriano Salazar, reported that the vault had been "cleaned out" by the apologetic gunman. But for 15 minutes, Salazar, six other bank employees and a customer had cowered in the unlocked vault before reporting the robbery apparently enough time for the robber to get beyond immediate apprehension. He had told them that accomplices were covering the front and rear entrances, and that they were not to raise an alarm for half an hour. The Albuquerque FBI office said early Wednesday there was "nothing to report" on the robbery. The FBI said the best estimate of his loot was $125,095.

Texas GOPs Elect Chairman; Launch Attack On Ex-Allies

FORT WORTH, Sept. 15 -UP- Past differences were forgotten Wednesday after Texas Republicans held a state convention devoted to attacks on the Democrats, their allies two years ago. Keynote that T. Hutcheson opened the meeting Tuesday with a blast at Texas' dominant party for its ingratitude. He charged conservative Democrats asked for all the help they could get to renominate Gov. Allan Shivers, then denied the Republicans had assisted them. Harmony prevailed throughout, with John Q. Adams, Harlingen, being elected state chairman without opposition. Adams was appointed to the post earlier in the summer, when Alvin Lane of Dallas resigned. "Some day we are going to have

Vote Involved 5 Senate, 91 House Seats

By UNITED PRESS All incumbent congressmen seeking renomination were successful in primaries held Tuesday in nine states but an interim-appointed senator was defeated in his bid for a full term. In light balloting, the nine states selected nominees for five seats in the Senate and 91 in the House. States involved were Colorado, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New York, Utah, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin. All of the states except Utah, New York and Washington also named candidates for governor. Five senatorial seats were involved in the balloting including two in New Hampshire and one each in Colorado, Massachusetts and Minnesota. Tuesday's balloting virtually completed the lineup for November's election in which the two parties will fight for congressional control. Rhode Island must still hold its primary and New York will nominate candidates for governor in party conventions later this month. Perhaps the biggest upset posted was in New Hampshire where Sen. John W. Upton, filling out by appointment the term of the late Sen. Charles W. Tobey, was defeated for nomination to a full term. Rep. Norris Cotton successfully risked an almost-certain fifth term in the House to whip Upton easily for the Republican nomination. In another interesting highlight, Democratic Sen. Hubert E. Humphrey was squared away against Republican nominee Val Bjornson to fight for the Minnesota Senate seat in the November election. Humphrey has been chosen by the GOP as a prime target in the party's bid to increase its holdings in Congress. A state-by-state summary of primary results:

COLORADO Former Rep. John A. Carroll won an easy victory over Denver Mayor Quigg Newton for the Democratic senatorial nomination and expressed confidence that he would beat Lt. Gov. Gordon Allott, unopposed for the GOP nomination, in the November election. Four incumbent congressmen and two Democrats won renomination without opposition. Democratic Sen. Edwin C. Johnson and Republican state legislator Donald C. Brotzman were unopposed for the gubernatorial nomination.

NEW YORK Warren L. Schuesser beat Marty Snyder, President Eisenhower's old mess sergeant, for Republican nomination to the 20th district congressional seat now held by Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. Snyder charged a misconduct. Roosevelt, meanwhile, won at least 14 of 18 (See INCUMBENTS, Page 2)

The Mart is now the largest commercial office building in the world, its capacity topped only by Washington's Pentagon, which has 6.2 million square feet of floor space. The 80 floors would carry the skyscraper to a height of somewhere between 1,000 and 1,200 feet, and capping this would be an observation tower which would make the building higher than the 1,472 foot Empire State. Real estate men estimate a skyscraper of such height would cost around $20 a square foot to build, or a total in the neighborhood of $100 million.

Students To Rename Guerrillas

A new name for the Harvester B squad, until now known as the Guerrillas, was one of the chief orders of business at the Pampa High School Student Council meeting Tuesday morning.

The Council instructed each home room to submit one or two name suggestions during home-room meetings Wednesday, from which the name choice will be made by the team, coaches Orville Lewis and Marvin Bowman, and Principal Jack Edmondson.

Miss Carol Foster was elected Lions Club Sweetheart for the month of September.

Student Council President Ben Sturgeon appointed E. Jay McVain, SC chaplain, and D. I. Wilkinson parliamentarian.

Council Sponsor Mrs. Ruby Capps announced that work will begin Friday on the list of names, addresses and phone numbers for the 1954-55 student directory. Students whose addresses or phone numbers have been changed are requested to correct them in the office this week.

Student behavior in the cafeteria was discussed and Sturgeon stressed that any future honor systems in cafeteria or study halls will be based on present conduct in the cafeteria.

The council will sponsor the sale of Harvester booster tags to be worn by students the rest of this week and to the game, Friday night.

An evaluation of "Howdy Week" was made to go on record for the benefit of future councils.

Fund officials are urging contributors to use bank drafts this year in making their donations.

Philips Stakes New Locations

Two new Philips locations, one on each side of the Phillips No. 1 Delp, have been staked out in Gray County.

One is the Phillips No. 1 Talley "A", located some 1 1/2 miles south and east of the Delp which is 16 miles northeast of Pampa. The Talley is staked out in Sec. 118, Blk. M-2, BS&F Survey.

Other is the Phillips No. 1 Troy "A", located in Sec. 86, Blk. M-2, H&GN Survey. It is some three-quarters of a mile south and east from the Delp.

Both of the new stake-outs, Philips officials reported late this morning, will be as deep or deeper than the Delp which has been producing some 200 barrels of oil per day. The Delp, located in Sec. 110, Blk. M-2, BS&F Survey, blew in the morning of Aug. 14.

Arkansas Man Gets Jail Term

George Marlot, Broyles, 46, of DeQueen, Ark., was sentenced to three days in county jail and fined $125 and costs Tuesday afternoon in county court on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

He was picked up Friday on U.S. Hwy. 66 by the highway patrol.

INCUMBENT

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Wesley Powell, a 38-year-old attorney who almost upset the late Sen. Tobey in 1950, could only place third in Tuesday's voting as Cotton knocked Upton out of the Senate. Cotton's nomination was tantamount to election in New Hampshire which is almost solidly Republican. Cotton has said he "dislikes" the "methods" of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin. Republican Sen. Styles Bridges was unopposed for re-nomination.

MASSACHUSETTS

Democratic State Treasurer Foster Furcolo won nomination by a wide majority to try to defeat Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, unopposed for GOP re-nomination. Robert F. Murphy, minority leader of the Massachusetts house, won a 2 to 1 decision over Francis E. Kelly for the Democratic nomination for governor. Gov. Christian A. Herter was unopposed for Republican re-nomination. Among Massachusetts congressmen unopposed for re-nomination were GOP House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., and House Democratic whip John W. McCormack.

MINNESOTA

Val Bjornson was chosen by Republicans to try to unseat Sen. Hubert Humphrey, fiery liberal who was re-nominated by his party. Five Republican and four Democratic incumbent congressmen won over Paul Rasmussen for the Democratic - farmer - labor gubernatorial nomination.

WISCONSIN

William Proxmire, the Democrats' unsuccessful 1952 gubernatorial candidate, was nominated to try again against Republican Gov. Walter Kohler who was re-nominated without opposition. As a side-light on statewide voting, Harlan Kelley of Baraboo was defeated for re-nomination as Sauk county district attorney. Kelley was the prosecutor who initiated legal action against a "Joe Must Go" club that tried to recall Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

UTAH

Red-haired Reva Beck Bosone, who was Utah's first congresswoman from 1949 to 1953, won Democratic nomination in the Second District over Salt Lake City attorney Warwick C. Lamoreaux in the state's only congressional contest.

VERMONT

Mrs. Consuelo Northrup Bailey, who once chased bootleggers as a lady state's attorney, became the first woman in Vermont history to win Republican nomination for lieutenant governor. She beat two male opponents, including a former governor. Lt. Gov. Joseph B. Johnson won Republican nomination to succeed Gov. Lee Emerson, retiring to accept an expected nomination as federal judge.

WASHINGTON

The absence of races for governor or senator caused light voting and only two of the state's seven incumbent congressmen were opposed. Both the opposed representatives, Republican Jack Westland and Walt Horan, were leading for re-nomination.

Finishing Touches Due On Library

Plastering and painting are pretty much all that remains to be done before the completion of the Lovett Memorial Library, scheduled for Nov. 1.

The only thing that might hold things up is a current strike of the insulators, according to a Tri-State Construction Co. employe. Tri-State, of Amarillo, has the $237,000 contract on the building which is being erected from funds of the Fannie Lovett estate.

The walls and part of the roof are already up and most of the concrete for steps, parking area and sidewalks has been poured.

Tri-State was awarded the contract Feb. 23 by Estate Executors M. K. Brown, C. P. Buckler, and W. Purviance.

Dixon of New York said that for 15 months he did not see daylight or have any exercise. Applegate, of Medford, Ore., and Krasner of New York, reported similar treatment.

They said they were never allowed to go out of buildings unless they were handcuffed blindfolded.

Applegate appeared pale and weary but had lost none of his sense of humor. "We must have been somewhere," he said to Dixon and Krasner as they spotted the correspondents.

Applegate said the crewmen of the Chinese gunboat that seized his yacht on March 21, 1953, were the "most incompetent bunch of dumb-jerks I have ever seen."

"You can say that for me, too," Dixon said.

Applegate, who did most of the talking, said the Red Chinese came aboard his yacht, "Kert," about 5 miles off British-held Lantau island and told them they were intruding in Chinese waters.

"They consider all waters between Hong Kong and Macao as Chinese," Applegate said.

Chinese crewmen aboard the "Kert," which was on a shakedown cruise, tried to explain to the Communists that the yacht was in international waters but the Reds ordered them to pull into Lapselmei.

DR. HAMPTON

It was decided not to elect other members of the board until the initial meeting of the groups in another two weeks. The discussion leaders and one member of each discussion group will be members of the new board. Those taking the courses will be charged a 50-cent fee to defray costs of phone calls and mailing charges.

Other courses are contemplated for the fall, according to Dr. Hampton. Among those recommended are "Jefferson and Our Time, Family Education in A Democratic Society, Problems of Law and Justice, World Affairs are Your Affairs, World Politics, Your Money and Your Life, and Mass Media."

Dr. Hampton requests all those interested to contact the adult education secretary if they wish to undertake any of the programs set up or contemplated.

A committee of three men Friday will go through all the cards signed this week in school by prospective Scouts.

Jack Dunham, Scout survey chairman, late this morning said there were probably 100 boys in each Pampa public school who have indicated interest in the Scouting program.

Dunham, Bill Craig and Phil Pegues, the Santa Fe District Scout executive, will be the committee that handles the cards.

State GOPs Rap Shivers For Snubbing

FORT WORTH, Sept. 15.—UP—Republicans opened their biggest state convention in Texas history Tuesday by telling Texas Democrats the "honeymoon may be over" and calling on all party members to quit voting in Democratic primaries.

Thad T. Hutcheson, temporary convention chairman, aimed his keynote speech directly at Gov. Allan Shivers' refusal to recognize GOP help in his recent third term victory, and rapped Texas' "two-in-one" Democratic party for calling on Republicans to be "Democrats-for-a-day" to help beat one factional candidate or another.

Hutcheson, a Houston attorney, said "in a couple of years from now they will be calling on us Republicans to come into the Democratic primary and save John Ben Shepperd from Creekmore Fath"; save Ben Ramsey from Fagan Dickson, or J. J. Holmes from John C. White or Cyclone Davis!"

Recognizes Right of Voter

"I gladly recognize the right of each voter to decide this question under the dictates of his own conscience," he said, "but for those who decided that a vote for Allan Shivers is a vote for Texas' there must have been heartick disappointment—and in all of us the bitterest resentment — when the governor last week quickly discounted any Republican help in his victory . . . and said our national committeeman, Jack Porter, was to be considered 'in the same bucket' with (Ralph) Yarborough and 'the top dogs of the CIO.'"

Hutcheson said he didn't want to be misunderstood, that there "is no doubt in my mind that the better man won in the August runoff." But, he said, "I dislike his reaction to our party and our cause."

VISITS PAMPA

Senior Captain Beulah Carroll of the Salvation Army Divisional Headquarters in Dallas, and former head of the Army's corps here from 1945 to 1947, visited Pampa Tuesday to inspect and talk with Sunbeams, Girl Guards and their leaders at headquarters, 111 E. Albert. (News Photo)

Legislators Will Discuss School Problems

HOUSTON, Sept. 15.—UP—Legislators from 14 states will study some of the South's major educational problems at the Southern Regional Education Board's Third annual legislative work conference here Thursday through Saturday.

The group will consider such topics as the expected effects of booming enrollments in southern schools and colleges, results of the recent south-wide southern regional education board's mental health research project, and effects of extra fees paid out by out-of-state college students. Educational television also will be discussed.

Adron Doran, president of Kentucky's Morehead College, will speak when the conference opens Thursday with a welcome from Gov. Allan Shivers and an address by Dr. John E. Ivey Jr., Southern Regional Education Board director.

36 Injured In Bus Wreck

LINDEN, N. J., Sept. 15.—UP—A bus carrying 57 passengers plowed into the rear of another bus, which rammied a station wagon in a chain reaction collision Monday, injuring 36 persons, police reported.

Two ambulances shuttled six victims between the accident scene on Route 1 and two hospitals in Elizabethtown to the injured from the three vehicles.

Police said the most seriously injured was Earl Hoyer, 51, Bedford, driver of a bus owned by the Asbury Park Transit Co. The vehicle, traveling from New York to Asbury Park, N. J., crashed into the rear of a bus driven by John Wolterstorff, 50, West Keansburg.

Nude Statue Gift Rouses Sicilian Ire

GELA, Sicily, Sept. 15 —UP— A politician's gift of a statue of a "naked husky" had this town involved in an artistic war Tuesday.

There hasn't been anything like it since American art circles were divided over the relative merits of the famous nude, "September Morn."

The statue is perched on top of a towering white column smack in the middle of the main square.

Its subject is a pretty girl who is completely without clothing.

Some intellectuals say it is high art. The more staid element say it is "shocking."

The statue was donated to the town sight unseen by Christian Democratic Senator Salvatore Aldisio last year.

At the time, Aldisio was notified that he was getting a statue from the Sicilian government in gratitude for his public services.

Without a second thought — or a first look — Aldisio presented the statue to his home town here on the southern coast of Sicily.

Aldisio thought it was a fine idea. So, apparently, did the town fathers. They relegated a statue of King Umberto I to oblivion and made way for the new art treasure atop a white column over a fancy water fountain.

They put it in the central piazza, the post of honor in Gela. Across the way was the parish Church of the Matrice.

The day of the unveiling came. The crowds gathered, the sunshine was bright. But when the speeches were done and the statue revealed, there was only a dead silence.

Then one old woman spat out: "It's a naked husky!"

The controversy was on.

Parr's 'Friend' Freed From Jug
FORT WORTH, Sept. 15 —UP— Mrs. Betty Bushy, a plump blonde who describes herself as a former friend of Duval county's "boss" George Parr, Monday received a birthday present a day early.

Mrs. Bushy, who says she will be 20 Tuesday, was released from the county jail after her attorney posted a $4,000 bond for her. She was charged here and in Dallas.

When questioned Mrs. Bushy denied being "friend" of Parr. She said she was in 1936, Tex., and she was arrested before a Duval county grand jury.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Hollywood news, gossip and humor are the daily ingredients of Erskine Johnson's column. But from time to time he writes on other subjects. During his vacation, some of these columns are being reprinted as "The Best of Johnson."

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)— This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones:

Where times never goes by. Those clocks in film scenes are never wound. The ticking would interfere with perfect dialogue recording. . . . Where there are only two seasons — summertime and option time. . . . Where Jeanette MacDonald, during World War II, wore a star on a charm bracelet for her Newfoundland dog that went to war. . . . Where you sometimes think there are more sound stages than sound minds. . . . Where keeping their wives in the bluebook keeps some of the citizens in the red.

"This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones where old-fashioned stage-coaches have vanity mirrors out of camera range—so glamor dolls can powder their noses. . . . Where MGM once changed the title of a picture from "Happy Married" to "Happy Buried." . . . Talking about a scene for a picture, Michael Curtiz, the Hungarian-born director, said:

"It's so exciting, it makes your blood curl."

Where a tailor on Vine Street calls his shop a "culetaria."

THIS IS HOLLYWOOD, Mrs. Jones, where:

The screams from leading ladies in horror pictures usually are provided by professional screamers—at $25 per scream. . . . The first Hollywood city ordinance forbade more than 2000 sheep being driven down Hollywood Blvd. at one time. . . . Where a sign in a Hollywood jewelry store window reads:

"Wear a fraternity pin—a sign of distinction, Easy credit."

Where this sign appears in a beer parlor:

"The wife can't be any madder. Stay awhile and have a few more drinks."

This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones, where Tom Collins, a Hollywood bit player is married to a girl named Ginger Ayle. . . . Where pictures run in cycles and producers run in circles. . . . Where a painting in Mickey Rooney's den depicts Greta Garbo as a fan dancer.

Where a "B" producer calls his home "Sleeve's End." Everything in it is on the cuff. . . . Where more than 800 registered "doubles" rent parts of their bodies, or all of it, to the movies. Their legs, hands and feet double in close-ups for stars, and others perform difficult stunts. . . . Where trees are tailor-made. The prop department nails strips of bark to forms of any shape or size.

THIS IS HOLLYWOOD, Mrs. Jones, where the late Fannie Brice insisted on having her name spelled "Fannie" in billing, but signed all her personal letters "Fanny." . . . Where department stores have special shopping rooms for stars — so they won't be mobbed by tourists.

Where there are more cat and dog hospitals than hospitals for humans. . . . The average screen fight, lasting two or a half minutes, takes 12 hours to film.

Where the first actor to play a dual role in a movie was veteran star Jack Mulhall. The picture was "Pat and Mike." He played a policeman named Pat and a gangster named Mike. . . . Where artificial rain on a movie set is sometimes part milk—to make it photograph better.

THIS IS HOLLYWOOD, Mrs. Jones, where:

Of the 167 trained dogs used in movies and TV, only three are thoroughbreds. Mixed breeds are the most intelligent for movie work. . . . Where party giver No. 1 Eliza Maxwell leased her expensively furnished Beverly Hills home to actor John Loder or one condition—that he wouldn't give any parties.

Where Spanish explorer Gaspar de Portola was the first white man to see the area now called "Hollywood." The year was 1769, and when his expedition reached Cahuenga Pass his men engaged in a knife battle with Indians, setting quite a style.

Where Binnie Barnes was once asked if she could remember her first stage role.

"I don't remember exactly," she said, "but I think I played a potted plant."

Fred Astaire's Wife Succumbs
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15 —UP— Mrs. Phyllis Astaire, wife of screen and stage dancer Fred Astaire, died Monday at the Astaire home in Beverly Hills after a long illness.

The nature of the illness was not disclosed. She was 46.

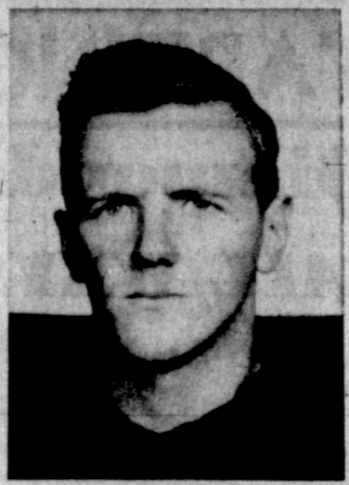

The couple was married in New York in 1929. Surviving children are Fred Jr., 18, a daughter, Ava, 12, and her stepson, Astaire's son by a previous marriage, Peter, 25.

TO APPEAL

Mrs. Ruth Redmond, Yonkers, N. Y., holds a picture of her son, Hugh, who has been sentenced to life imprisonment by Chinese Reds for spying for the United States. Mrs. Redmond plans to appeal to the State Department to see if they can do anything about the sentence. Meanwhile, the Peiping government announced it has freed three Americans seized off Hong Kong in their yacht months ago.

Coveralls? Yes, that's right. PHS cheerleaders hope to be all decked out in them at the pep rally Friday morning. Take a look-see, and while you're at it, notice the new yell that cheerleaders Jo Tooley, Pat Reynolds, Carol Henry, Nancy Moore, John Jones, DeWayne Maddox and Larry McWilliams will introduce. Jo is putting in action one in particular that she learned at the cheerleaders' school in Dallas this summer. It's really cool. Believe it's named "Be Calm, Be Collected." Looking forward to learning it.

Say, cast an eye at those real gold Harvester T-shirts! They are gold with green printing. Last year's were green with gold printing. Even Coach Noncaster is the proud wearer of one of the "bits of brightness." Neat!

"Dig that crazy mixed up spaghetti," heard someone say the other day as she peered quizzically at a page in the shorthand book. Am inclined to agree.

Although "Howdy Week" and the party Friday night helped to alleviate strangeness to a certain extent still see some sophomores peeking around doors and corners before entering PHS halls. Recently caught James Weatherred peeking around a corner before he dashed madly up some side stairs to avoid an encounter with some upperclassmen who were standing around quite innocently. (???)

Congratulations to Carol Paxson who has been chosen Student Council secretary to D. L. Wilkinson who will serve as SC parliamentarian, and to E. Jay McVain, SC chaplain. This office of chaplain was newly created in the Pampa High Student Council last year toward a more Christian council and school.

While on the subject of congratulations and back-tracking a little to "Howdy Week," to Lee Ledrick and his committee are tipped hats of recognition. They were responsible for the atmosphere-setting Howdy posters and signs which put the halls "in the mood."

Now hear this! Here is an opportunity, one of the first, by the way, for you, as a teenager, to start proving that you support the youth center. Student Body President Ben Sturgeon has announced that meetings are being held Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. in either the City Club or Palm Rooms by the men who are pushing the whole center deal. Ben says that they want youth to attend these meetings so that they can find out just what is being done for them and express their ideas and opinions. Come on now — here is the chance — let's all go!

Talk about a proud papa — that's Robert Payne, PHS choral department head. He was proudly displaying three-month-old daughter, Carol Linda, the other evening, proclaiming, "Oh, you should just hear her talk!"

Speaking of the choral department, the A Cappella Choir has begun and will continue to hold weekly rehearsals on Mondays at 7:00 p.m. Their first program is October 19.

So far nothing has been done about the problem of 24 uniforms.

Demos Pick Walker For Judge Post

MINERAL WELLS, Tex., Sept. 15 —UP— The Democratic state committee Monday selected Ruel C. Walker, Cleburne attorney, as the party's nominee for justice of the State Supreme Court.

Walker, who graduated from the University of Texas law school in 1934 with Gov. Allan Shivers, will fill the vacancy left by the death last June of Associate Justice Graham B. Smedley.

His name will go on the ballot for the November general election, but Shivers is expected to appoint him to the court within the next few days. More than four years of Smedley's term remain.

The Cleburne man has never held an elective office, but Shivers appointed him to the non-paid post of chairman of the Commission of Higher Education.

Walker has been prominent in the conservative wing of the Democratic party, and was a state committee member in 1950-52. He was chairman of the credentials subcommittee at the national Democratic convention in Chicago two years ago, which seated a conservative delegation headed by Shivers over a rival liberal group.

Walker told the committee he hoped he can "measure up to your expectations."

"All I can say is that I am very, very humble in the face of one of the greatest offices offered anyone in the legal profession," he said.

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Top O' Texas children deserve the best we can give them. They deserve the best possible instruction as to the facts about government and taxes. Can our children learn the disadvantages of big government from a government institution? Can our children learn the disadvantages of big taxes from a tax-supported institution?

Our tax-supported school system does not give individual teachers a chance to advocate a limited government. How can a tax-supported school teacher teach that tax-supported medicine (socialized medicine) is wrong? How could a tax-supported school teacher really teach that the social security tax on wages is wrong?

Many, many Americans worry about the growth of taxes and the growth of government. We believe they are rightly concerned. We believe the election of Eisenhower was "a desire for a change." But the growth of government results from beliefs held by American citizens.

American citizens believe government should provide "social security," subsidies, federal aid for education, etc., etc. More and more taxes for more and more things! What is the source of these beliefs? The prime source of the growing belief in big government and little individuals is our government tax-supported school system which must by its very nature and example, favor bigger and bigger government.

Tax-supported education or religion favors whatever government a country has.

Both education and religion deal with beliefs. The experience of the human race led the founders of the United States to prohibit government religion. But, as they had not had a similar experience with tax-supported education, they failed to include a prohibition of tax-supported education with their prohibition against government religion.

Since education includes religion and religion includes education, the prohibition in our Constitution against government religion would really prohibit the government education we have. But mass faith in government education closes minds against this logical conclusion. The increasing belief in turning to government to solve problems results from a religious faith which can be called statism. It is a faith in government rather than in God.

Today, more and more people recognize that Communism is a religion. Some day we will recognize that statism is a religion which our tax-supported school system fosters. When that day comes and we extend our constitutional prohibition of state churches to include state schools, we will have made the greatest step towards freedom of the individual which yet remains to be made. When all schools are placed on a voluntary support basis, as our churches have been placed, we will have a free choice between many different schools to support and attend.

The extension of freedom of choice to schools will improve our schools and also improve our churches because both of them deal with beliefs. And the beliefs that are taught in our churches today are largely a result of the beliefs which our preachers received when they attended tax-supported schools.

Our children deserve the best that we can give them. The best that we can give them is freedom to choose between many schools freely competing for the privilege of teaching them.

Kid Vandalism Best Fought With Razor Strap At Home

By HENRY McLEMORE

By J. F. McEVROY

I was talking the other day about vandalism in the public schools, and what our parents need to do about it in the good old days. It may interest you to know that vandalism in New York City's parks and playgrounds last year cost the taxpayers more than a quarter of a million dollars. The bill for wanton destruction and damage in the public schools was even bigger. One of America's greatest public servants, Robert Moses, head of the New York State parkways for 30 years and Commissioner of New York City Parks for 20 years, told me, "This is not the hooliganism of adult criminals, but a destructive all-year-round Halloween of juveniles on the loose whose parents are irresponsible, careless, stupid, or just don't give a darn about other people's property. Mind you, only a minority — less than 5 per cent of the users of public property cause most of the trouble — but they can wreck what the other 95 per cent have a right to enjoy."

I asked him if anything had been done about it and he said: "I have been trying to get a city ordinance passed that would hold the parents responsible. For each offense where they do not exercise reasonable diligence in the control of a child under 16 who damages public property, they can be fined to the amount of the damage, not to exceed $25."

call the Goo-goo," said Bob Moses. "Self-constituted organizations of well-meaning but impractical do-gooders. They represent a formidable front of interlocking letterheads, embroidered with names of people who have never had to repent a shrub, replace a pane of glass, or put a new nose on Admiral Farragut. "They tell me that holding parents responsible for damage to public schools or other property will create tensions in home. That beats me. If Junior worked over his mother's best mirror with a hammer or sawed a leg off his father's pet chair, it might cause some tension in the home. But I guarantee it would be on the seat of Junior's pants. All I ask is that these people be taught the same wholesome respect for your property and mine. "Junior may get a lot of fun out of breaking school windows, tearing up park benches, and heaving paving blocks into the river, but Pop is going to take a dim view of all this if he has to go to court and pay five or ten dollars for Junior's happy vandalism. "Every city large and small has this problem in more or less degree, and all of us have tried education, supervision, cooperation of teachers, social workers, religious and secular organizations, result: the situation is getting worse all the time, everywhere. New York's problem is no different than other cities. It's only bigger — for example, there are close to a million school children going to New York City's schools. "I visited the workshop where a crew of artisans is kept busy all year long restoring mutilated park monuments. Vandalism had built a bonfire around a huge bronze statue of Ericsson, inventor of the Monitor and had melted off one arm, one leg and all of his vest buttons. On the bulletin board was the work schedule in progress calling for a "new head for Lorelei," "sword for Lafayette (Brooklyn)," "new scales for Justice," "replace sawed-off ear of water-nymph."

The master artisan in charge, Italian-born Walter Beretta was making a new hand for Verdi. "The kids are always breaking off the fingers," he said, "so now I am making this hand with the fingers closed all in one piece. They'll have to break the whole hand off." He added sadly, "And they will, too. "When I asked him, "Don't the kids break fingers off statues in Italy?" his dark eyes flashed. "Little Giuseppe break one finger off Verdi in Italy and Papa would beat him to a pizza!" All in favor say "Aye."

The American Way

A RUSSIAN FAILURE

By GEORGE PECK

(Editor's Note: George Peck is Chairman of the Board of the National Labor-Management Foundation and Executive Editor of its Official Publication, PARTNERS.)

One of the major disappointments to the blackguards who control the Kremlin has been their failure to infiltrate the ranks of the sons and daughters of men and women who migrated to this country from Europe. They counted some chickens before they were hatched — they assumed that the offspring of these new Americans would welcome their pagan ideology.

With the exception of a few isolated instances, these American citizens of foreign forebears are turning deaf ears and giving the cold shoulder to these would-be destroyers of capitalistic America. There is a simple explanation for this spurning of the Russian propagandists, one, however, that the masters of the Kremlin will never understand.

Most dictators are stupid and the Russian rulers are no exception. They overlook the fact that, the United States was first of all settled by people who had come from other countries to escape certain restrictions of their religious and social liberties and who set up on this continent a new social and economic order of life.

Had our Russian friends(?) studied a bit of history they would know that after the Revolutionary War, word began to trickle back to Europe that here in America something new and beautiful had been launched; and that millions of Europeans, weary of oppression and lack of opportunity, cast longing eyes at America, determined that someday they would pull up stakes and migrate to this land of opportunity.

Malenkov's mob of monsters would have learned that during the 19th Century, millions did actually come and that America welcomed them and put them to work. Here they began to enjoy the things about which they had dreamed; here they found no caste system; here they discovered that a man by skill and application could carve his own niche in society; here they could worship God as they pleased; here they found liberty.

But of the multi-millions who looked with envious eyes across the seas and planned eventually to come here, only a comparatively few millions actually came, for it takes a great deal of courage to tear oneself up by the roots and trek to a foreign land.

The Communies failed to take into account that those immigrants who actually came were those who not only wanted freedom and opportunity but who had the intestinal fortitude to reach for it. They had the real pioneering spirit that was so necessary to assist in developing the United States of America. They were the strong, the courageous, the intelligent of the country from which they came — not the weaklings, the fearful and the unintelligent.

They contributed largely to the building of what has become the greatest citadel of liberty and the greatest civilization the world has ever known — a nation whose citizens have achieved a standard of living heretofore undreamed of. The rosy reports these newcomers had heard about this glorious land, they found to be no exaggerations. They came — they worked — they participated in the good things — and were satisfied.

That is why the Reds have failed to arouse even a spark of interest among most of our citizens of foreign ancestry. Blood will tell. These people are the direct descendants of the strong, heroic and mentally acute of Europe. Yes, indeed, there is something to heredity, especially when it takes root in good soil. The courage which inspired the forebears to come here to America is now reborn and relives in them — they are not in the market for any "ism" but good sound Americanism.

That fact is too much for the small minds of Malenkov, Molotov, Vishinsky and their pals to grasp — but it does explain their great unsuccess in trying to peddle Communism to our Americans of foreign lineage.

There is just enough substance to the charge to force Eisenhower and Dulles to deal with France through third parties. That measures the depth to which Anglo-American prestige has fallen in France and in Western Europe generally.

Our Belgian and Dutch intermediaries, however, have now abandoned hope of pounding logic into the hard but emotional heads of French statesmen. They begin to suspect that premier Mendes-France, supposedly the ablest and strongest French leader, has feet of political clay. It looks as if he prefers personal power to a program of world peace.

Low Countries Fight For Adoption Of EDC By France

By RAY TUCKER

BRUSSELS — Julius Caesar's characterization of the Belgians and Dutch as "the bravest of all the Gauls" he conquered, still applies to the Low Countries' support of the Western Alliance against Russia.

In combination, Belgium and Holland, compared to France, have a small percentage of natural and industrial wealth, population, etc. Flat and unprotected by rivers and mountains to the east, the two countries are far more vulnerable to a Russian attack, than any other Western European country.

They suffered far more severely from the Hitler conquest and occupation than did their neighbor to the south. Paris is only a four-hour train ride from this Belgian capital. Thus, they have greater reason to fear war with Russia.

It is not recognized that Mendes-France has been giving only lip service to EDC ever since he took office as Premier. He believes that his country's most serious problems are domestic.

Let the American people and politicians, however, not be the first to cast a condemnatory stone at the fearful French. We lighted their hopes twice in the search for establishment of world peace — in 1919, when the GOP kept the U. S. out of the League of Nations and in 1933, when F. D. R. abandoned Europe in an effort to liquidate the depression.

It would seem, though, that the French, like the Belgians and the Dutch, would profit from these tragic experiences and not act with a selfishness and recklessness that might lead to World War II. Free Europe was never more downcast since Dunkirk days, than it is on these Isles of September.

French sensibilities necessitated this indirect and roundabout approach. Paris will listen to scolding, criticism and reprimand from these friendly neighbors that it would not accept from Washington or London. Even the mildest forms of Anglo-American pressure or intervention are resented as "Yankee domination," and exploited by European Communists.

There is just enough substance to the charge to force Eisenhower and Dulles to deal with France through third parties. That measures the depth to which Anglo-American prestige has fallen in France and in Western Europe generally.

Henri-Paul Spaak, of Belgium, who can be compared to Woodrow Wilson, Jan Smuts and F. D. R., as a zealot for world peace, labored with the French delegation, citing the patient attitude of the Low Countries' group. "Forget your prejudices toward Germany," Spaak said, "although I admit the Germans' crimes against the French are many and grievous. "But look upon the European Defense Alliance as a guarantee of French security backed by United States and Great Britain. It is the safeguard you have been seeking for years. "Consider the alternative: Both the Americans and British are im-

The CRACKER BARREL

Taylor Caldwell, the eminent novelist, has written an eloquent prayer that bears repeating. Part of it says, "Weep, you Fifth Amendment Communists! Weep for our dead sons whom you betrayed! Weep for us, who are middle-aged, and never knew you, and never knew that you had condemned us to death — until now!" Yes, they should weep for the millions who are now enslaved in Europe, in Asia. For the millions who are dead in the executioner's lime pit. They have plenty to weep about. But, from the looks of things they never will.

Ike Could Be At The Helm In Attacks On McCarthy

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — The Republican Party has allowed itself to be gutted, the Senate has made a disgraceful spectacle of itself and Major General Kirke B. Lawton has been muzzled and railroaded out of the army after 35 years of loyal service — and still we don't know which individual was guilty of promoting the fifth amendment dentist from captain to major.

All the scandal of these miserable months goes straight back to the question: "Who promoted Captain Peress to major and gave him an honorable discharge?" That is all there is to it.

Who promoted and permitted the discharge with honor of a man who refused to say whether he had ever been a member of an organization devoted to the conquest of the United States by a foreign enemy? Senator Joe McCarthy couldn't get an answer to that question. And then, instead, we went through the amazing, alarming experience of this enormous dramatic political spectacle in the United States Senate with many newspapers lying themselves black in the face in a concerted campaign to discredit the senator and protect the guilty person.

It is silly to deny that President Eisenhower and his palace guard of sinister, mysterious persons who shoulder off true, constitutional Republicans of impeccable patriotism, is at the top of the chain of command in this historic situation. Thus it appears that Eisenhower, an old army man, a five-star general, could, in the last word, be protecting the man who promoted and discharged this dentist. Eisenhower could be the one who is leading the counterattack against McCarthy for demanding the truth. And, though he seems to be very solicitous of the dignity and rights of one general, by name Zwicker, who defied McCarthy and got a proper hiding for protecting the guilty person, Eisenhower has indirectly aided the flagrant persecution of General Lawton for giving information about Communist traitors and friends of traitors at Fort Monmouth.

General Lawton fought the Reds at Fort Monmouth. He named seven so-called institutions of higher learning which were sources of suspects in this extremely important center of our radar defense. It was no special offense to name these. Harvard is used to it. Harvard is callous and abandoned, what with His, Pressman.

Witt and probably a hundred others, some of them old proteges of Felix Frankfurter. Mass Tech was another one. It was no mortal sin to name Tech. God knows the Chicago University has had miles of such publicity. Chicago has no more patriotism or pride than Harvard. And Chicago, lest we forget, is a Rockefeller school, endowed by a cruel, acquisitive, sanctimonious old guru who hired Ivy Lee to unstick his evil reputation after the battle of the hogback at Ludlow, Col., and began to believe Lee's own bon mot that the Rockefeller was the perfect flower on the stalk of civilization.

Well that makes three — Harvard, Tech and Chicago, which General Lawton named as sources of infection at Monmouth.

In addition there was Minnesota, Michigan — uh! uh! better be careful. That's five names. Shall we change the subject? Because the next one is Columbia, the university of which General Eisenhower, a savant with the equivalent of a leaky roof education was arbitrarily named president for a spell after the war.

The seventh name was the College of the City of New York. So General Lawton was put on sick report when he was no sicker than you are. He was posted to Walter Reed Hospital but continued to live in his quarters at Fort Monmouth. He was ordered to the Pentagon, and men who had served with him over the years were afraid to speak to him. They looked away. They acted as though spies were watching to destroy them if they even said "good morning" to the man who named the seven names.

And when Senator McCarthy called the general as his witness in the "censure" investigation, the Department of the Army, under McCarthy's enemy, Robert T. Stevens, secretary of the army, ordered him not to talk. He could a late confidant, but he army won't let him. In the decline right now. Nevertheless, he the man who gives commands to the secretary of the army.

I know what I am telling you. This is the truth. And it all goes back to the guilt of the individual soldier in the army who approved the promotion and honorable discharge of an officer who refused to say on oath whether he had ever joined a society of an enemy committed to the annihilation of the United States.

Work when there is no profit in it, but this decline in production is a threat to the existence of the State, which it meets by use of force—slave labor camps, for instance. This in turn induces a slave psychology. Men lose their capacity for improvement when they lose their sense of individual dignity. This civilization integrates and becomes an archaeological curio.

Must our civilization follow in the same groove? There are a number who so maintain. For about three centuries, they point out, this bit of modern civilization called America thrived under the life-giving rays of freedom. Now it is entering the inevitable regime of absolutism, which will eat into the vitals of our Society and ultimately destroy it. When Society collapses so does the State that feeds on it. America is doomed, they say.

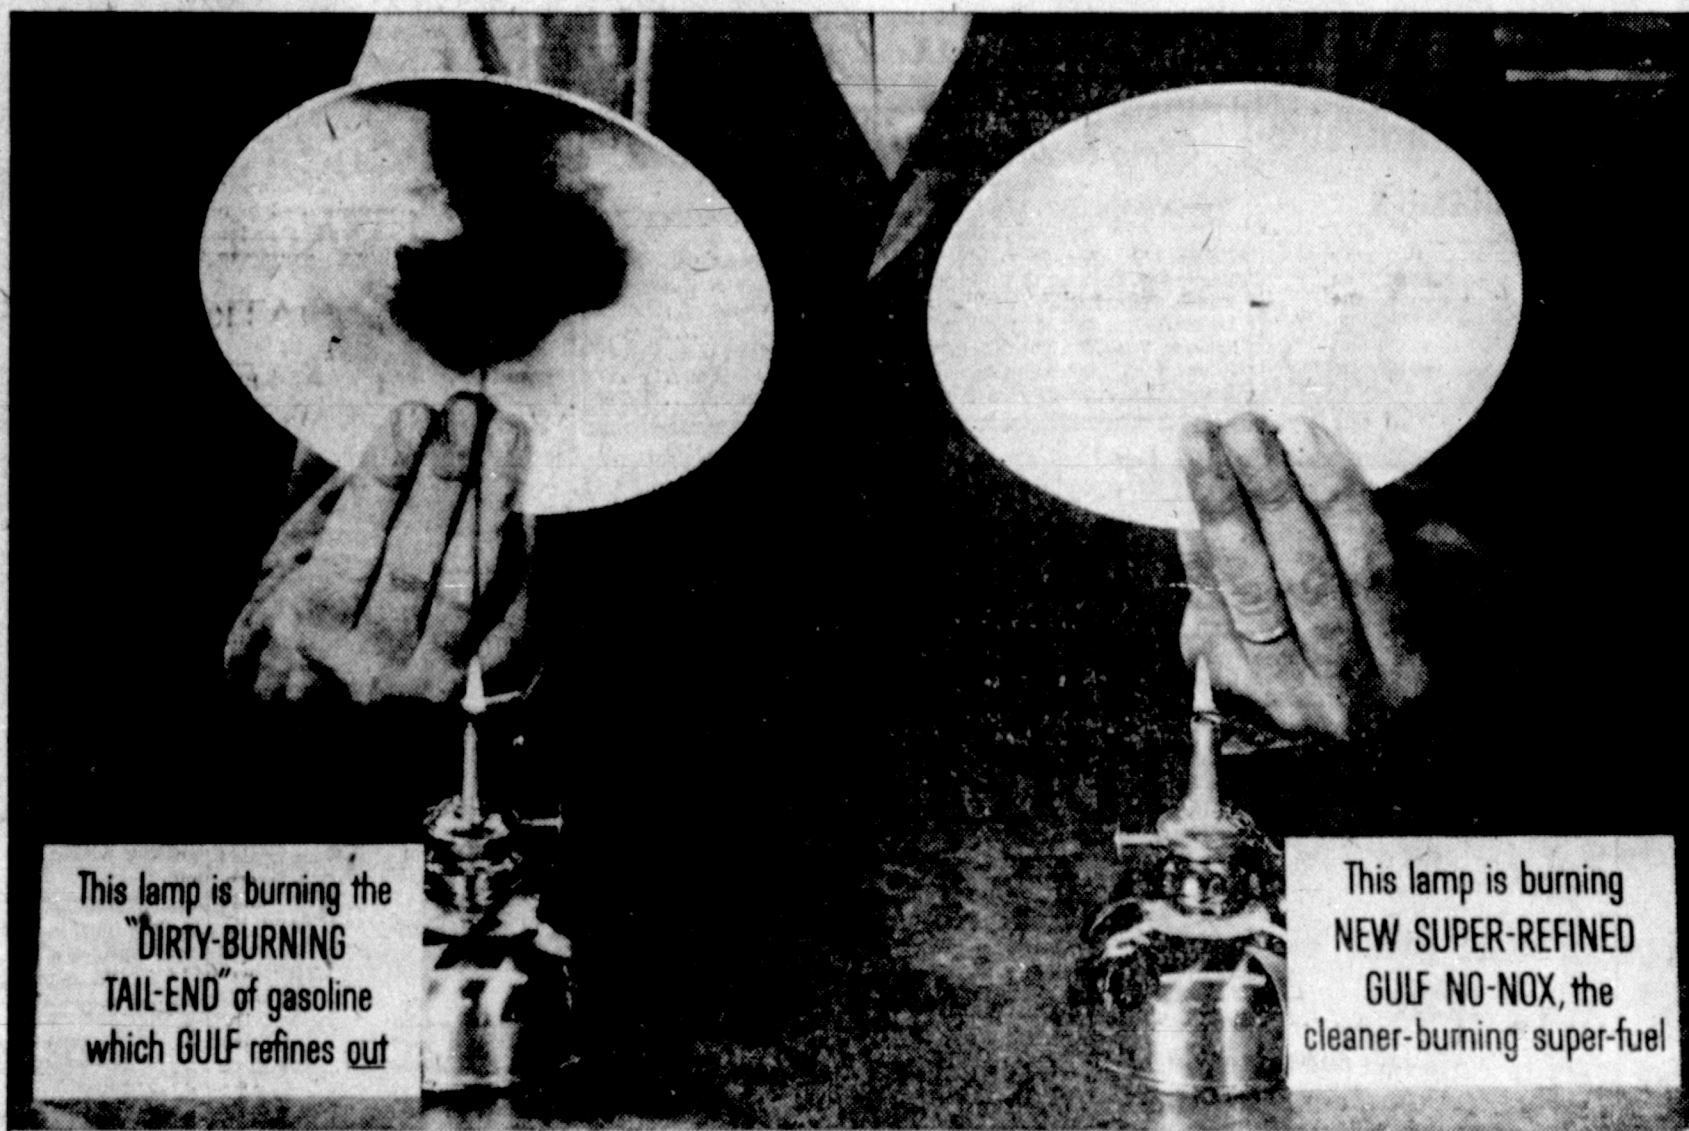

Maybe so. Maybe our civilization must obey the ineluctable forces of history; maybe it is in the decline right now. Nevertheless, men do what they are impelled by their natures to do, not by what history dictates. The stars in the heavens tend to their eternal business, while we mortals must travel within our own specific orbits. It was no historic imperative that directed the pens of those who signed the Declaration of Independence; there were many at the time, the Tories, who deemed the venture foolhardy and undesirable; they could have argued the historic uselessness of all revolutions. Nevertheless, the reels, none of whom were driven to it by economic necessity, put their signatures to what at that time seemed to be their own death warrant. Why? For lack of better answer, let us say that they were made of a peculiar kind of stuff and could not do otherwise.

Gulf announces a completely new and different gasoline!

▶ Now—Gulf refines out the “dirty-burning tail-end” of gasoline—the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines. Result:

a cleaner-burning super-fuel that gives you thousands of extra miles of full engine power... free from knock or pre-ignition.

Proof:

Instead of trying to fight troublemaking deposits with so-called “miracle-additives”—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place.

That's why Gulf, in making new Super-Refined

NO-NOX, refines out the carbon-forming, “dirty-burning tail-end”—more than a cupful in every gallon. Just look at the plates the Gulf scientist is holding in the unretouched photo above and see what a difference Gulf super refining makes!

Starting with your first tankful, this new, super-refined, super-powered fuel will give you these immediate and lasting benefits:

- ▶ More complete engine protection than so-called “miracle-additive” gasolines. Why? Because Gulf refines out the “dirty-burning tail-end” of gasoline, the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines—and then treats this new Super-Refined NO-NOX to give it a complete range of protective properties. It protects every part it touches against harmful deposits—carbon, rust, gum.
- ▶ Extra gas mileage. Why? Because new NO-NOX is specially blended for the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.
- ▶ No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's super-compression engines. Why? Because the anti-knock power of new Gulf NO-NOX has been stepped up to an all-time high.
- ▶ Stall-proof smoothness—no more worries about carburetor icing in chilly weather, or vapor lock on warm days. Instant starts, too—and fast, fuel-saving warm-up.

Road tests show: New Gulf No-Nox actually makes cars perform better than new... even after 15,000 miles!

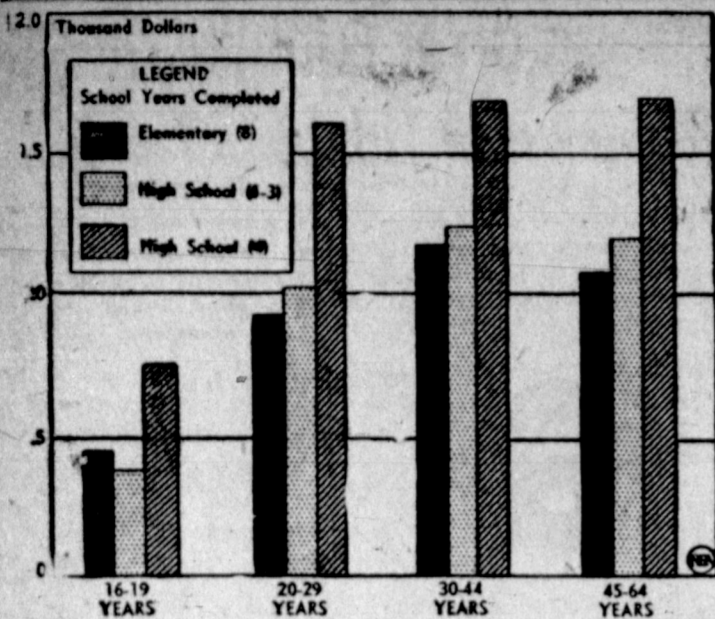

TRUE! Under all conditions—Gulf test cars showed: Higher-than-new horsepower! Better-than-new on gasoline mileage! And not a single trace of carbon knock or pre-ignition at any time, even on the steepest mountain grades!

COMPLETELY NEW! SUPER-REFINED

Sahli said the drive would embrace four states, and will be aimed at those now in this country without permission. The area covered will extend as far north as Milwaukee, Wis., cover northern Illinois, northern Indiana and extend into Michigan, Normally, Indiana and Michigan are outside the district headed by Sahli.

He estimated that between 20,000 and 30,000 persons may be subject to the drive. He said an airlift will be part of the system set up to return them home.

Many Mexican nationals now in this part of the country came here as agricultural workers. Some have found employment in factories.

Sahli said that those who promise to return to Mexico at their own expense will be given a letter saying this is their intention, and will be allowed a reasonable time for departure.

For those who lack funds or do not wish to return to Mexico voluntarily an airlift will be established.

Three C-46's which can carry 50 passengers each, have been borrowed from the Air Force, Sahli said. After processing here, the aliens will be taken to McAllen, Tex., where another staging area will be established, then to Port Isabel, Tex., and to Brownsville.

Senator Henry Clay's Punch Recipe For Congenial Gatherings

WHAT HENRY CLAY didn't know about politicking you could put on the tail of a coonskin cap. He knew well how to win folks over to his camp and he won them over best when they could partake of some of his famous Kentucky hospitality. This included a special punch he conjured up himself, which went as follows:

Sen. Henry Clay's Kentucky Punch
2 gals. of water
1 gal. of brandy
2 small cans of ginger
2 small cans of lemon juice
1 small can of sugar
1/2 small can of cream

Daniel Webster Said It First

OLD DANIEL WEBSTER thought quicker and spoke up louder and clearer than most of the other talking men of his day, so he got to be the first one to say a lot of famous things. For instance, he was first to say: "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable." He also was the first famous American to call James Crow's bourbon "the finest in the world" and all the other prominent citizens who were thinking just that kicked themselves real hard for not saying it before Mr. Webster did.

A WARNING to Counterfeiters and Name Stealers of the 1890's

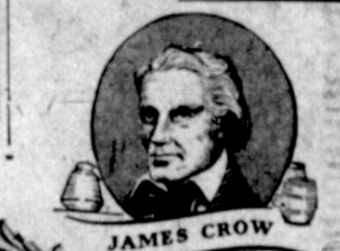

"The courts have issued more than 1800 writs and cease and desists against would-be imitators of the Old Crow name and label. YOU WILL NOT SUCCEED EITHER. Also, no matter how genuine your label looks, you cannot imitate Old Crow's quality, and if the law doesn't find you out, the public will."

The Moon and Time for Good Whiskey-Making

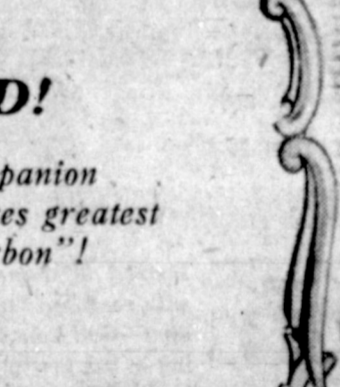

IN THE old Kentucky frontier days everyone went around saying: "Mix your mash in the moon's first quarter. And your whiskey will taste just like it oughter."

Of course, if there was a spell of cloudy weather that hid the moon's first quarter no whiskey got made that month. Which was probably a good thing, because most distillations in those days were fit to fill neither cup nor watering trough.

"To all of this moon-made uncertainty, James Crow put an end in 1835 when he brought pure science to the art of whiskey-making, and established Kentucky whiskey as the finest made."

Famous Confederate General's Letter

GEN. JOHN HUNT MORGAN, in time of peace a southern gentleman, in time of war leader of Morgan's Raiders, once wrote a friend: "Let me know how I can get some Old Crow whiskey to you. The return mail will carry you a demijohn..."

Fake Brawl Too Realistic

GALVESTON, Sept. 15 — UP — A publicity man's brainstorm to pep up a male beauty contest with a fake fight between girl judges almost went haywire Sunday night with a 200-pound cop the involuntary victim.

Ray Liedtke, 25, Houston — with 18-inch biceps and a 48-inch chest — was named the Gulf Coast's first "Mr. Adonis" Sunday night, then two of the judges — both girl wrestlers — squared off to debate the decision.

Christie Mitchell, the publicity man, thought the impromptu battle would delight the spectators, but he forgot to warn burly patrolman I. M. Luper.

Luper stepped between wrestlers Carol Cook, Akron, Ohio, and Ruth Boatealle of Houston, and was promptly floored with a stomachful of knuckles.

"Mr. Adonis" was almost forgotten in the rush of bathing beauty judges and contest officials to placate the policeman who picked himself up and retired discreetly out of range.

"That wasn't no fake punch somebody threw at me," he said, rubbing his stomach.

Oilman Gives Estimate Of Reserves In Tideland Fields

SANTA FE, N. M., Sept. 15 — UP — Oil reserves in the offshore "tidelands" may run as high as 500 million barrels, a prominent oilman said here Monday, but he noted it is costing from two to three times as much to drill wells as it did on land.

This insight into offshore drilling was given by L. W. Clark, assistant secretary of the Standard Oil Co. of Texas in a talk before the annual convention of the New Mexico Petroleum industries committee.

"To date, the oil giants have gambled over $300 million in offshore work," he said.

It is plain, he said, that offshore drilling "is not a business to enter on a shoe string unless... you want to get stung."

He cited the high payments made for oil leases in the tidelands, specifically one of nearly $1,000 an acre off the coast of Louisiana.

"Profits to date have been scant. There is only one company I know of that has even started to break even," he said. "How profitable the tidelands will be still remains to be seen."

Another speaker, Lloyd F. Tharshouser, vice president of Continental Oil from Houston, Tex., called for a continued fight against the "ravenous four D's" of high construction, "diversion, dispersion, dissipation and dishonesty."

Pampa News Women's Editor

GRASSES, WEEDS, wheat, thistles, dock, cattails, and old pieces of wood are not normally thought of as beautiful or especially decorative items. But there is one Pampa woman who makes them so. . . Mrs. Martin Stubbe. From these items, she creates lovely and attractive centerpieces.

HOW DOES she do it? She gathers these items from the countryside or roadside — mainly between here and Wheeler or around Le-fors, she says. She then hangs them up in her garage by the stems with pieces of string. Any place will do, she advised, that is free from dampness. She allows them to dry, generally about two weeks, before starting her centerpieces.

Some of them, especially the wheat, she often leaves their natural color. Others she sprays with different colored water paints. For this, she says any spray will do, even the type in which window cleaner comes.

She sometimes uses a clay base for the arrangements and sometimes uses styro-foam. If styro-foam is used, you don't have to use clay, as the ends of the dried plants will stick into it. This base may be sprayed the desired color or left its natural white. If a clay base is used, it is stuck to a board that has been stained. The board bases can be rectangular or square, but Mrs. Stubbe thinks they look better if the corners are rounded. Or she may use a pottery or copper bowl.

To go with many of the arrangements she has interestingly shaped pieces of wood, which she treats with a laundry bleach. She uses the shape of the wood as a basis for her arrangement.

In making the centerpieces, Mrs.

Stubbe uses the formula that the height should be no more than three times the width, and vice versa. For vertical arrangements, a needle point holder is required. One of her centerpieces is made from a feathery type weed similar to Queen Anne's lace, she found along the roads around Pampa. She dipped the weeds in aluminum paint and sprayed them with silver glitter before the paint dried. For the base, she used white styro-foam. Of course, the weeds had to be dried before she could work with them.

For a Christmas arrangement, she used juniper limbs, the berries of which she colored with red nail polish. In the center of the arrangement she placed three candles of different shades of green and of different heights. A pottery bowl with a holly design completed the attractive decoration.

For a Thanksgiving arrangement she used the natural-colored wheat with a turkey figurine in front of it.

Mrs. Stubbe says that now is the time to gather the grasses, weeds, and other items that go into the arrangements as they are just right at this time of year. She also pointed out that the dried plants are so easy to work with that you can re-arrange any of them if you like to try a new arrangement. Artificial fruit also goes well in the centerpieces, she added. Especially grapes.

Mrs. Stubbe inherited her interest in the dried plant arrangements from her mother, who belonged to a garden club in Shamrock. "It's so inexpensive," she stated, "and makes the roadside so much more interesting to you."

DRIED PLANT CENTERPIECE — Mrs. Martin Stubbe, 1718 Hamilton, places a lovely centerpiece of dried flowers she has made on a table. Mrs. Stubbe says it makes the countryside much more interesting to you when you're always looking for a weed, grass or plant for an arrangement. (News photo)

Professor Raps Women's Groups

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — UP — "Confusion and futility" is the too common result when women join clubs and organizations, according to an Ohio educator.

Prof. Grace Coyle of Western Reserve University at Cleveland said there are three chief reasons why most women join clubs — to gain culture on the "weekly discussion" plan, to "climb the social ladder" and because of a "confused desire to do good."

"The worst development in women's groups, she said, is when a 'do-good' organization picks its members from the social register rather than from the ranks of the qualified. She said that in the end, the professional worker probably will have to take over the duties of such volunteers anyway.

"The result is confusion and futility," she said. "When membership on the board of a camp of underprivileged children becomes a social prize and excludes competent but socially ineligible women, its effectiveness is lowered," said Professor Coyle, who teaches in the university's school of applied social sciences.

"The purpose of many women in joining a club to fill idle time — a form of unpaid boondoggling," she said.

"Others regard a club as a symbol of conspicuous leisure," she continued. "There is a lack of consistency in the type of women's organization which offers a series in Malayan culture one year and a course in wine cookery the next."

SUSPECT

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

THE STORY: Private Detective Jim Dunn has been retained by Mrs. Kit Carlson "to get something on her mother-in-law. It develops that there was a sudden death at Mrs. Carlson's home on the corner of 1st and 2nd streets. Mrs. Carlson is suspected by the family of murder. Dunn and Nancy, his wife, are in possession of a car in the Colorado Rockies.

"The younger one then? Mrs. Hilton, though you don't look like her type to me."

Dunn took the order from the Denver real estate company from his pocket, put it on the bar. "Maybe this'll help."

Toby Argyle's eyes moved quickly down the typewritten page. They returned to the top line and began a slower reading. He dropped the paper at last, pushed it back toward Jim. "Mrs. Oswald ain't going to like this."

"Look, Mrs. Argyle," Jim said. "All I know is I was hired to come up and get this place ready for my boss who'll arrive tomorrow."

Toby Argyle nodded slowly. "Shouldn't think a city fellow like you'd take such a job though. Lonely place—The Spires."

"A job's a job," Jim said. "Sure. But there're lots of jobs. Hope you get paid plenty for coming up here."

Jim Dunn thought he knew what was coming and played along. "You bet. These California people don't know the value of money."

"California—eh? See from the paper her name's Gelstrap. Funny sort of name, but I guess that cuts no ice. Now look son. Mostly local people work for the Carlsons."

Jim hesitated, then decided there was no particular point in pushing Argyle into a definite offer for desertion. "I can always leave if I don't like it," he said lightly. "Meantime, the rest of the staff outside'll be getting tired waiting. Could I have the keys?"

"More outside, huh? All right, young man. Maybe you know what you're doing. I'll get the keys out of the safe."

Toby Argyle came back at last, with a bunch of keys on a length of wire. He twisted the ends of the wire more securely, tossed the keys on the bar. "There you are, young fellow. Sure you and the others won't spend the night? Could get an early start in the morning."

"Thanks, but I guess I'd better obey orders."

He found the side road, cut the jeep's wheels to the left, crossed the main highway and started down a steep incline. A well-made bridge spanned a rushing creek at the bottom and the ascent was equally steep, with the road narrowing. It wound around huge boulders the size of five-room houses.

He slammed on the brakes as he rounded a sharp turn. The headlights of the jeep stopped a scant three feet from a high iron gate, whose ponderous double doors blocked the road.

Dunn got out, walked closer to read the rather faded sign, "No admittance without key." And just to leave no doubt as to the seriousness of the prohibition, there were added smaller words, "Authority of The Carlson Estate." A slim chain was looped around the two center-bars of the gate sections and fastened with a padlock.

Dunn fingered through the keys Toby Argyle had given him. None of them bore the same brand name as that on the padlock. Just to be certain, however, he tried every one that would go in at all. None worked. He looked at the wire which held the keys together, remembered Toby Argyle's twisting together of the ends. He whistled softly through his teeth, got a firm grip on each section of the gate and managed a really worthwhile rattle. The chain tightened and loosened, clattered dismally in the still night air.

The light in the cabin went out. "Hey!" Jim called. "Hello the house!"

His voice sounded unnatural. A young man stepped into the light.

Cover Seed Is Available

Winter cover crop seed has been received by the Gray County supervisors of the Soil Conservation District, Jim Strawn, district conservationist, reported today.

Available are Austrian winter peas and hairy vetch seed from Paul Kennedy, McLean.

"Some of the cover crop seed has been used here limitedly over the last several years, and it looks pretty encouraging for the prevention of wind erosion during the winter and spring months," Strawn said.

Strawn advised the use of 50 pounds of the peas per acre or 20 pounds of the vetch.

Evaluation Causes County Budget Hike

The proposed Gray County budget for 1955 is $18,742,833 higher than the one for 1954. The increase is largely due to a higher county property evaluation, from $41,150,000 to $42,250,000 in 1955.

On file in the office of County Clerk Charlie Thut, the proposed budget is $751,831.66, compared to the $733,088.83 for 1954. The 1954 figure includes both what has actually been spent and what will be spent this year. The actual budget in 1953 was $729,891.78.

A public hearing on the proposed county budget will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in the County Courtroom of the Courthouse. County commissioners spent a good part of Monday going over each item in the budget.

The budget is broken down into six major parts. They with their allotments for 1955 are jury, $7,718; roads and bridges, $358,685; general fund, $97,871.76; permanent improvement, $50,525; officers salary, $138,306.90; and interest and sinking funds, $98,725.

Actually, County Auditor Ray Wilson pointed out today, it amounts to 14 separate items, as there are seven different road and bridge funds and three interest and sinking funds.

Woman Found Dead Had Paid Ex-Mayor Visit

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 15—UP—Former New Orleans Mayor Robert S. Maestri admitted to police that a wealthy real estate woman who died under mysterious circumstances visited him in his suite at the Roosevelt hotel shortly before her body was found Tuesday.

Maestri, who occupied a suite on the 11th floor where the body was found in a corridor, said he was "acquainted with the woman and had a business transaction with her during the night."

The rate can be reduced proportionately but not less than 10 pounds of the vetch or 15 pounds of the peas to an acre," he said.

Both cover crop seeds have been used very successfully in the east and southeast, especially in soil building. Strawn said they are grown for seed production mainly in the northwest.

The county has 2,500 pounds of the vetch, and 2,000 pounds of the peas, selling at $18.75 and $10.00 a hundred weight respectively.

the Perry LeFors Field Board met with county commissioners during the afternoon to present the minutes of an airport board meeting in which the construction of a county-owned hangar was approved.

Three of the airport board members will retire from the board Oct. 1. They are S. A. Cousin, McLean, E. J. Dunigan, Jr., and D. E. Holt, president. The court must appoint three replacements.

The airport board requested an operating budget in 1955 of $3,065. It was pointed out the estimated revenue at the field should amount to $2,000, leaving a net cost of $1,065.

The court accepted—but took no action on—a petition on paving 6 1/2 miles of road west from Lefors to Bowers City and dedicated a tract of land in the Red Deer Addition.

Representatives of the airport board told the court that a sum of $15,000 in the 1954 budget for permanent improvements at the county field had not been used and requested an additional $25,000 be appropriated by the court for a new hangar.

The court approved the request. And it was pointed out the proposed hangar can be leased for $167 per month, thereby saving the county $75-per-month rental at the field. The airport board also approved the renewal of contract with M. W. Alford, airport manager, for one year, beginning Oct. 1.
