Parade Features Fight in Fashions

DALLAS—P—With a band playing old-time songs and half its members dressed in grandmother's clothes, Little Below the Knee Club women stopped downtown Dallas traffic yesterday with a parade proclaiming long skirts old-fashioned and impractical.

"Shall it be This?" and "Grandma Wore This" were the banners on early model cars filled with women dressed in the long skirts of the Nineties and the Twenties.

"Be Sensible" and "Be Practical" were the placards on the snappy new convertibles filled with girls sitting on the back of the seats, legs crossed, dresses a little below the knee.

"Don't know what they're trying to do but guess it's a good idea" was a comment on the street.

Josiah D. Malcolmson, almost 75 and a veteran of the Spanish-American War with "a medal to prove it," knew "The shorter the better," he declared.

Malcolmson put on his old campaign hat and rode in a truck in the parade under a sign "Old Soldiers Still Have Young Ideas."

Spectators leaned out of downtown office buildings, lined the sidewalks and pushed out into the street along the five-block route of the 20-minute parade.

They whistled at the girls in the convertibles and laughed at the old-fashioned styles, especially at one husky man dressed in a long-skirted dress with elaborately padded hips.

"Pour it on," they yelled at three women in bathing suits on a truck, drenching with pails of water from a barrel a boy and a girl labeled "Dress Manufacturer" and "Fashion Artist."

Mrs. Warren J. Woodward, the Dallas housewife who started the L.B.K. Club two weeks ago and has watched the idea spread across the country, rode at the end of the parade in a sedan proclaiming her

GOOD NEIGHBORS FLOW LAND FOR INJURED FARMER—When farmer Cecil Henson was struck in the face by crank thrown by his tractor, seriously injured about the head and hospital, his 24-acre farm near Cheney, Kans., became quiet. Although his 1947 wheat crop was harvested, Henson's land needed plowing for next year's crop. Then 23 good neighbors with tractors descended on his farm, and in a few hours, the plowing was done. Henson, whose left eye will have to be kept closed for a while as a result of his injuries, rested easier in his Wichita hospital bed when he heard the news. "I've got the best friends and neighbors in the world," he said.

Tax Reallocation Approved

With only one box unreported Gray County voters approved the reallocation of county taxes by a vote of 282 to 233, and with four boxes unreported, were defeating the constitutional amendment by a count of 267 to 171.

Box No. 7, Farrington School, was unreported in both county and state elections. It lists 25 poll taxes paid. Boxes 5 and 17 of McLean and Box 4 at Alameda were reported totally, but did not report on the constitutional amendment.

Up until 8 p.m. votes cast against the reallocation of taxes topped those in favor by the slim margin of three votes. At 8:10 Box No. 6 at Laketon gave the reallocation of taxes its first boost and placed it in the lead. From then on as the boxes came in the count for the reallocation grew until shortly before 9 p.m. it led with a margin of 46.

In direct contrast with the general trend over the state to amend the state constitution to provide aid for state institutions of higher learning, Gray County defeated the proposal by 96 votes.

Unreported for this were: Box 4, Alameda School; Box 5, McLean, City Hall; Box 7, Farrington School; and Box 17, McLean, Methodist Church. The four boxes carry a total eligible vote of 431 and could swing the constitutional amendment. Other than Gray County the totals on this election over the state at 8:30 p.m. according to Associated Press figures gave the amendment 16,774 while 11,793 were cast against it.

However, election officials here expressed doubt whether the unreported boxes would vote heavily enough to swing the constitutional amendment in this county.

Of Gray County's 4,119 eligible voters only a little more than 515 turned up to cast their ballot. Box 10 of the Court House showed 148 votes cast out of 850 eligible voters. This means that $40,000 of the county's 1948 revenue will be diverted to the paving of county roads, according to the resolution passed by the Gray County Commissioners Court in a special session last Wednesday. The $40,000 now on hand is augmented by $35,000 now on hand in the Lateral Road Fund.

But she said she enjoyed "every minute" of the 8,000 mile trip from Seattle to Yokohama and return.

Further Changes In Loan Forecast WASHINGTON—(AP)—The British government may request the United States to approve further changes in the $3,750,000,000 loan agreement within two months.

Washington officials frankly acknowledged this probability Saturday, saying they are far from sure the concessions already granted the British will enable them to survive their grave dollar crisis.

TRADE AGREEMENT STOCKHOLD—A high Finnish source said last night that Finland would open negotiations in Moscow early in October for a new trade agreement with Russia.

New Government to Include All Parties

ATHENS—P—King Paul last night, instructed Constantine Tsaldaris to form a new Greek cabinet a few hours after an internal dispute brought about the collapse of the government of Royalist Premier Demetrios Maximos.

Tsaldaris is a former premier and Ioké Maximos is a member of the Royalist Populist Party—the strongest political organization in parliament.

On leaving the palace Tsaldaris told newsmen he had been given carte blanche by the King in forming the new government. He declared he would endeavor to include all political parties—including the Liberals and those whose withdrawal yesterday caused the crisis—in the cabinet.

Maximos' cabinet fell unexpectedly after its members disagreed over the effectiveness of Rightist measures against Communist-led guerrillas. King Paul promptly told political leaders that Greece's current peril precluded her being without a government for "even a few hours."

As soon as possible after the new government is formed Parliament will be convened and new elections will be held, Tsaldaris said. The word "party" will be deleted in the functioning of his cabinet, the Premier-de-Visite added.

Tsaldaris did not say whether he would name Napoleon Zervas as a minister. The fall of the Maximos cabinet was provoked in part by a demand that Zervas be removed from the key Ministry of Public Order.

Although it was understood that Tsaldaris probably would ask Zervas to stay, there was some speculation that he might be offered another portfolio.

This marks the second time that Tsaldaris has been called to head the government. He was vice premier and foreign minister in Maximos' cabinet.

The United States has backed the Greek government with $300,000,000 to aid in economic recovery and restore order. U. S. State Department officials in Washington said privately that they regarded the fall of the government as an opportunity for Greece to organize a more representative cabinet. Officials emphasized that the United States would take no direct hand in formation of the new government.

Maximos turned in the resignation of his entire cabinet when the three former premiers, Sophocles Venizelos, George Papandreu and Panayotis Kanellopoulos, all representing center or moderate parties, announced their resignation.

The three former premiers demanded that portfolios be shifted in a cabinet reorganization giving them the security ministries because they said the new government in those posts had "failed" to get results in putting down Greek guerrillas.

They demanded that Napoleon Zervas be removed from the Ministry of Public Order and replaced by Kanellopoulos, and that George Stratos be removed from the War Ministry and replaced by Papandreu.

Foreign Minister Constantine Tsaldaris, who has just returned from representing Greece at the U. N. in New York, told reporters he had objected to any such change, and had insisted instead upon more drastic measures against the guerrilla rebels.

He said he had urged the complete banning of Communist propaganda outlets in Greece, including the two Communist newspapers, and the publication of broadcasts from the radio operated by Gen. Markos Vafiades, the guerrilla chieftain.

King Paul, who received Maximos' cabinet resignation, at once began a round of conferences on formation of the new government. One of the first to be received was Tsaldaris.

Texas Coast Battened Down for Small Storm

GALVESTON—(AP)—Two hundred miles of the rich Texas coastal country were battened down last night in preparation for a tropical storm that sneaked close to the shoreline before being discovered by ever alert weather observers.

The Weather Bureau in a 6:30 p. m. advisory described the disturbance as a small tropical storm whirling off the Texas coast over the Gulf of Mexico which might reach hurricane proportions before striking the coast near Galveston late last night.

The bureau said that reconnaissance flights of Navy and Army planes reported the storm to be moving northwest at about 10 miles an hour, attended by 50-mile-an-hour winds near its center.

It was located about 120 miles south of Galveston at a latitude of 28.2 and a longitude of 93.2. Nasty, overcast weather with high tides was forecast.

The first warning, issued at 1:45, came as thousands of voters of the 15 counties in the Ninth Texas Congressional District were choosing a successor to the late Rej. Joseph J. Mansfield, who was responsible for many projects in this area intended to minimize danger from seasonal hurricanes.

Hurricane warnings immediately were ordered from Matagorda, about half way up the crescent-shaped Texas coast, to High Island, 25 miles east of Galveston, northwest storm warnings south of Matagorda to Port O'Connor and northeast storm warnings north of High Island to Lake Charles, La.

It was the fourth tropical storm of the season in the Gulf of Mexico. Only last Thursday a disturbance that caused uneasiness all along the coast from Florida to Texas as dissipated into squalls off the upper Texas coast.

The first disturbance struck along the lower Texas coast, causing several million dollars damage, mostly to crops. Ten days ago another storm wrought great damage in the vicinity of Tampoco, Mex., and caused several deaths.

Residents here, long-used to tropical storms, were securing storm shutters on their windows. P. J. Naughton, weather meteorologist, warned them to remain indoors during the storm to avoid danger or injuries from flying glass or other objects.

Galveston is on the east end of Galveston Island. Residents on the other end of the island were cautioned to remain indoors.

Sergeant's Wife Takes 'Needless' Trip—8,000 Miles

SEATTLE—(AP)—After more than 8,000 miles of "needless" travel, Mrs. Mrs. Barksdale of Gladewater, Texas, was reunited with her Army Master Sergeant here yesterday.

Barksdale, stationed at Fort Worth, Texas, Army Air Field, reported he was in "probably the world's largest doghouse" when a mixup in signals last month sent his attractive wife, Gladys, 26, to Japan at almost the same time he was landing here from Japan.

Mrs. Barksdale came back on the transport Fred C. Ainsworth, arriving Saturday.

The sergeant was waiting at the pier, but for a few minutes Mrs. Barksdale thought there had been another slipup, because a reporter found her before her husband did.

"I was hoping he'd be here to meet me," she said. "John can start preparing that doghouse right now."

Then the Barksdales found each other and all was forgiven.

Mrs. Barksdale said the family's travel troubles began July 22 when she left Gladewater under Army orders for Japan to join her husband. Unknown to her, while she was on her way to Seattle, her husband was en route here. His ship docked July 29 while Mrs. Barksdale was at Fort Lawton waiting for the Ainsworth to sail. Two days later she sailed.

She didn't know her husband was in Texas until she reached Yokohama, and he didn't know she had sailed until he got home.

"I think it was all the Army's fault," she said. "He was here at least two days—at least that's what they told me."

But she said she enjoyed "every minute" of the 8,000 mile trip from Seattle to Yokohama and return.

Clark Called on To Take Action In Marshall Case

MARSHALL—(AP)—Sen. William Langer (R-N.D.), chairman of a U. S. Senate Post Office Subcommittee hearing complaints against supervisory personnel in the Marshall Post Office, said Saturday he was asking U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark "to take whatever action is necessary, criminal or civil, for trying to intimidate a committee of the U. S. Senate."

Langer made the announcement at the opening of the hearing yesterday afternoon after first reading a news story in the Marshall News Messenger for Aug. 15 in which Myron Blalock, National Democratic Committeeman from Texas, was quoted as saying the announced visit to Marshall by Republican Senators to investigate alleged mistreatment of Marshall Post Office employees "is interesting and amusing."

The North Dakota Senator asked Dillard Rogers, chief investigator for the subcommittee, to subpoena the original copy of a telegram Blalock sent to Postmaster General Robert Haugen and First Assistant Postmaster Jeff Donaldson and instructed him to send it to Clark by registered mail.

The telegram, as quoted by the News story Langer read, said "it is publicly reported that Republican Senator Langer expects to personally visit the city of Marshall to investigate mistreatment of employees of the post office. It is most interesting and amusing."

"It will be quite interesting to see the formerly deposed Republican Governor of North Dakota, under the guise of a 'holier than thou' investigator digging around the post offices of the country for some political ammunition."

"Having experienced a disastrous meeting with Howard Hughes, the Republicans now desperately turn to the investigation of Civil Service operations of post offices for political thunder."

"The complaints apparently resurrected by Sen. Langer's committee previously have been investigated by post office authorities whose duty it is to make such investigations."

"Apparently the Republicans intend to pick up these dead charges and complaints for the purpose of trying to create some political talk. This is a more pleasant pastime for them than an investigation of Senator Brewster's connection with Pan-American Airlines."

Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel (D-Texas) was present at the hearing but did not take part in its proceedings.

J. T. Rummel, rural mail carrier who signed the complaints in behalf of other employees, was expected to be the chief witness. The complaints alleged that certain supervisory personnel prevented office operations from running smoothly.

Jester Works to Promote Good Will AUSTIN—(AP)—Gov. Beauford H. Jester, broadcasting by means of a radio transcription made in Guatemala, Friday night expressed the belief his visit had helped to bring Guatemala and Texas closer together.

"The major purpose of my visit to Guatemala is to meet the officials of the Guatemala government and its people and to signify the desire of the people of Texas to be their good neighbors," the Governor told his radio audience.

British Cabinet Called to Decide On Imports Cuts

LONDON—(AP)—The British Cabinet was called Saturday to meet Monday in its second "crisis" meeting in less than two weeks, perhaps to decide upon the cuts in foods and other supplies the British people must endure in the current economic reform.

The call coincided with a warning from Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, "General" of the British economic campaign, who declared in a nationwide broadcast that the British people were not working hard enough or fast enough to avert an economic collapse and must be prepared for a stream of drastic government orders under its recently granted emergency powers.

"Time is running against us faster than the drain of dollars," he said. His speech punctuated a week of developments which included the British-American agreement in Washington to put a moratorium on the drain on Britain's $3,750,000,000 American loan by other nations converting sterling balances into dollars, and to "freeze" the $400,000,000 undrawn balance of the loan.

The British government announced that the step meant Britain would have to trim her U. S. purchases drastically to come within her dollar resources.

Sir Wilfred Eady, chief of the British delegation to the Washington dollar talks, will be on hand Monday to report to the cabinet. Washington dispatches said the second phase of the negotiations, the relaxing of the dollar loan agreement to permit Britain to shift more of her purchases from dollar areas, now was proceeding on a "technical level."

Also yesterday Britain joined other sessions of the British Empire in invoking currency controls to husband her foreign credits. Officials at Rangoon said no one would be permitted to take more than 270 rupees (about $50) out of the country.

Missing Small Girl Is Found in Brair Patch

MARION, O.—(AP)—Twenty-month old Carolyn Jeanette Peterson was found alive yesterday after having been missing from her home since Wednesday, the State Highway Patrol reported.

The girl, who had been feared kidnapped, was found in a briar patch about 1,000 feet west of the farm home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson of nearby Waldo, O.

She was brought to City Hospital here. Her condition was described as fair. Hospital attendants said she had suffered some from exposure.

4,400 Jews Being Taken to Germany

LONDON—(AP)—Britain announced Saturday that the 4,400 Jews of the Exodus were being taken to Germany where they presumably will be disembarked by force if necessary with the objective of returning them to France by rail.

But at the same time the Jewish agency of Palestine instituted against British officials on behalf of the refugees which agency officials said might prevent the Jews from being put ashore in Germany or anywhere else outside British territory.

The Jews, balked in their attempt to run the immigration blockade of Palestine, were somewhere on the ship seas on three British "cage" ships en route to Gibraltar and Hamburg after staging a 24-day "sit down" strike in which they refused to go ashore on French soil and the French government refused to use force to make them disembark.

They have been afloat since July 11 when they sailed secretly from Sete, France, on the Exodus 1947, only to be intercepted by British destroyers and boarding parties and returned to Port De Bouc, France.

Should the Jews decide to refuse to land voluntarily they could be forcibly removed from the vessels. Upon sailing from Port De Bouc yesterday, many of the Jews said they would not land except by force.

A British spokesman said the Jews will not be allowed to remain on British ships at Hamburg.

The Foreign Office announcement said the French had been asked to receive the Jews back into France by train from Germany because they had sailed from that country for the Holy Land last month.

U. S. Fears Red-Dominated Guerrilla Forces May Try to Seize Government

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States government is apprehensive. It was indicated last night that Communist-dominated Guerrilla forces may try to seize control of the Greek government with foreign support.

Loy W. Henderson, director of the State Department's Office of Near Eastern Affairs, spoke of that possibility in a radio broadcast, even as the Greek coalition government fell in bitter dissension over plans to reshuffle key posts.

Before he went to the air: 1. Reporters were given to understand that there is some American optimism over the prospects of getting a new, more efficient government regime which can, with American help, speed restoration of Greek economy.

2. In a formal statement, the State Department accused the Greeks of foreign neighbors—Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia—of supporting the Guerrilla warfare in Greece, and repeated its contention that international action is necessary to maintain Balkan peace.

Henderson appeared on the NBC Network's foreign policy broadcast—a regular Saturday night feature—with George C. McGhee, coordinator for the American aid program to Greece and Turkey which has been accelerated in recent weeks to meet the threatening crisis.

Although the broadcast obviously was prepared in advance of the Greek cabinet collapse, Henderson declared that "free government" might be seized upon as a pretext by other countries to furnish more assistance to the Guerrillas with some cover of legality.

Henderson said also that United Nations attempts to halt the civil strife have been "consistently obstructed by Russian veto."

He made it plain that United States efforts to obtain international intervention have not ended and will be pressed next month before the United Nations General Assembly where Russia cannot exercise its veto powers. Any decisions the Assembly may make, however, will be in the nature of recommendations only.

Henderson said that if "a serious situation develops in Greece before the General Assembly meets, drastic action will be necessary."

He added: "If that action is taken by members of the United Nations in support of the charter principles it should not, and will not, mean that we withdraw our aid from Greece."

Three Men Held in Marihuana Catch

LAREDO—(AP)—Three men were held in the county jail here Saturday after Customs Patrol Inspectors seized 150 pounds of marihuana on the bank of the Rio Grande River north of here last Wednesday night.

The men were arrested and U. S. Commissioner Frank Y. Hill held the three for the Federal Grand Jury after a hearing Thursday.

The marihuana was in four suitcases, rolled ready for use in cigarettes. Customs officials said the marihuana had a value of $113,000 in Chicago.

Strikes, Steel Shortages Holding Up Nation's Production of Autos

DETROIT—(AP)—The nation's automobile industry has about 80 percent greater production capacity than it had before the war but it may be well into next year before fullest use of it can be made. Harassed by parts and materials shortages, chiefly sheet steel, the industry has abandoned hope that 1947 will be a record year in car and truck output. It apparently will do well if it turns out 3,500,000 passenger vehicles and 1,000,000 commercial units.

Latest blow to the industry's hopes for a sharp upturn in this year's output is General Motors' curtailment of production schedules, attributed to sheet steel scarcities. Other manufacturers apparently have had to hold back assemblies for the same reason.

Some of the Ford plants continued to feel the effects of the recently settled strike in the Murray Corporation plants. Studebaker, which obtained sheet metal parts from Murray, plans to resume car assemblies Tuesday after a shutdown of nearly three weeks.

It was indicated yesterday, however, that while most of the larger Ford plants will be in production early this week, some branch factories will remain closed.

Thus production is likely to be little, if any better than it was during the last five days. Last week's assemblies numbered approximately 58,500 passenger cars and about 20,000 commercial vehicles built in the United States.

DOCTOR WOODWARD'S AMBITION

By Elizabeth Seifert

Copyright by Elizabeth Seifert; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THIS FUTURE POP MEAN, non-union chief, chairs at the lively forced on him by a partially paralyzing stroke. He tells Dr. Malcolm Glenn, top obstetrical surgeon, that Woodward, the new staff doctor, is due to arrive anon. After his visit to McAnn, Glenn straps up with the aid of his nurse, Susan, before going into the operating theater.

II

THIS operating room was, actually, a theater. The audience upon the circling benches was enthralled. At sight of Dr. Glenn, the nurses, both blues and whites, sat forward and drew in their breaths a little. The students and other doctors settled themselves more comfortably upon the thin cushions which only seemed to soften the stone beneath their spines.

All eyes were upon the tall man in white. For a second this gaze turned to the nurse who tied the mask about his nose and mouth. But when Dr. Glenn moved, the eyes returned to him, and stayed with him. The lights went on. He stepped to the table, spoke to the Head, to the anesthetist, glanced at the chart, looked up at the benches. He began to speak, to lecture, explaining the case—a matter of high blood pressure. He took care of the jellyvep. The baby was born, taken to the side table; the pediatrician took charge. Next week, the new man, Woodward, would be there. Today, Dr. Glenn must watch this doctor, barely out of school.

Between cases, Dr. Glenn lectured. Twice, as he talked, he jerked his head as if to shake his hair out of his eyes. Once he sighed deeply. Susan Perry, his nurse, watched him closely, and spoke a low word to one of the other nurses.

THE pattern of operating room routine is set firmly in a mold to the surgeon's liking. Each person knows his steps, his duties. Each does them, and could do them, probably, in total blindness. But if one of the cast falters a very little, it throws the rhythm off beat, and the others notice.

So, today, when Dr. Glenn stopped for a minute and looked down at his white shoes, heads went up, hands paused, all over the room. Susan came swiftly to his side, went with him into the scrub-up room. Behind them, significant glances were exchanged.

"What's up?" said the sophomore Medic, who was marking his first o.b. observation in his log. "Headache." The sophomore Medic was scornful. "So what? Glenn's kind are no joke. He'll come out of there pea-green, and as sick as a dog."

"And operate?" "Watch him. And take notes. His last one is always his best one." The sophomore hunched forward. The new case came in. Brack, Dr. Glenn's assistant, stepped to the lecture desk. He was a small man with a black mustache, and a corrected club foot. Dr. Glenn stood away from the table, looking down at the floor. Susan Perry spoke to the circulating nurse, watched Malcolm. The woman on the table was being anaesthetized locally. The lecturer's voice droned on. The lighted doorway of the scrub-up room was filled for a second with the tall form of another doctor, a dark man who glanced at Malcolm, then nodded to Susan. The nurse went with him to the basins, helped him with gloves.

Glenn's brother, the senior whispered to the sophomore. "Diagnostics, isn't he?" "Yup. He helps in a pinch like this."

Martin went to stand beside Malcolm, his shoulder rubbed his brother's, his dark eyes were reassuring. The case was ready; it was Martin who glanced at the assistant, who took over the lecture. It was Martin who approached the patient. Malcolm stood back, his eyes closed. Susan and Martin worked together—until all at once Malcolm was with them, his hand stretching for the scalpel, his fingers even more swift, more sure than they had been on the earlier cases.

The child was born, swiftly, safely, and without a mark or a scratch upon him. Those in the operating room breathed a relaxed, relieved sigh. Dr. Malcolm Glenn held his attention to the business still in hand. Finished, he shrugged his chin out of his face mask, looked up at the class, nodded, glanced at his brother; one could see the spark of affection pass between them. He went with Martin and Susan into the scrub-up room.

"Well," said the sophomore. "So that's what a headache will do for you!" "The right kind of headache," agreed the senior. "I understand brains are required for migraine."

THE Glenn home was one of the prettiest on faculty r.w. It was a Cape Cod cottage of white-painted brick, with a blue roof and shutters. It spread across the top of one of the town's many hills; below it was the southward stretch of the river, and one of the many bridges. This afternoon the house was breeze-swept and pleasantly noisy with the stir of a home where there are young people.

There was the pleasant perfume of fresh flowers in the study off the living room. The telephone rang; the knocker on the front door lifted and dropped. Nancy set the phone down, ran for the door, lifting her eyebrows resignedly at her older son and his leg cast.

"It's the express truck," Jerry told her. "Let Pete get it." Nancy dropped down upon the wide ottoman and laid her hand on Jerry's cast. It was dirty, scribbled with ribald messages from his friends. "That darned horel! Too bad you're laid up during this wonderful weather."

"Heck, I don't mind. I just sit here and watch the pieces whirl past my head. Oh, gosh—" Nancy jumped up, sprang at Pete, her youngest. "Don't bring that in here!" she cried. "It's dripping!"

Pete backed away, his arm filled with the big carton which undoubtedly was dripping "Mom's birthday ornaments," he said. "Good old thwarted lover never fails. What we'd do for cetera this time of year, I don't know, come the guy ever gets himself another girl."

"At his age?" drawled Jerry. Nancy whirled on him. "Alexander can't be a day older than your father!" she snapped.

"Alexander, yet," said Pete, letting the kitchen door swing to behind him and the cetera. Nancy frowned after him. She gathered up three long, flat packages from the coffee-table. "You'd think I was doddering," she tumbled.

Nancy was a pretty woman to mother these stalwart sons, slender, erect, her skin clear and youthful. Her golden hair was piled in becoming curls upon the top of her head.

With her arms full, she stooped to straighten a cushion when the front door burst open upon a bevy of girls in light, summer dresses,

Services Today for Marines Killed in Crash

SEATTLE—(AP)—The bodies of all 32 Marines who died in the crash of a transport plane on Mount Rainier last December 10 have been found on rugged Thoma Glacier, the Navy announced yesterday.

Twenty-one bodies were located by two National Park Rangers and a Navy man who braved treacherous ice conditions and cramming rocks on a survey exploration Friday, said Capt. A. O. Rule, commanding officer of the Sand Point Naval Air Station. The other 11 bodies were found last Monday.

"But we still don't know whether we'll be able to remove the bodies," Rule added. "The party had to withdraw from the glacier because of a terrific rock bombardment."

Memorial services for the 32 victims will be conducted on the lower slopes of Rainier today.

A new species of bird, Sutton's warbler, was discovered within 100 miles of Washington, D. C., only eight years ago.

Revival

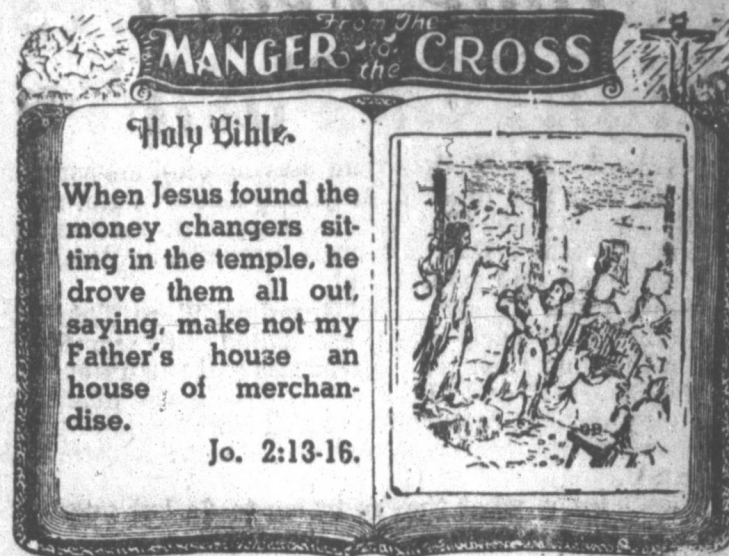

Now in progress at the Light House Mission, New Town Cab-ins, 1301 S. Barnes St., sponsored by workers from the Assembly of God. Mrs. Essie Calbert of Coleman, Texas is the evangelist. The public is invited to attend.

Movement of Grain Speeds Up in Month

AUSTIN—(AP)—Movement of grain and grain products speeded up in July to give revenue freight a boost in the Southwestern District, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has reported.

Loadings totaled 311,385 carloads for a 9 percent gain in July, according to data of the Association of American Railroads.

Loadings are now almost 50 percent above prewar 1935-39 figures. Grain and grain products loadings climbed 72 percent, exceeding July 1946 loadings by 56 percent. Total for the month was 52,892 carloads. Merchandise loadings were steady at 23,768 carloads, with forest products third at 24,774.

President and Wife Will Not Attend Daughter's Debut
HOLLYWOOD—(P)—Margaret Truman, the President's 23-year-old daughter, expressed confidence as she prepared to make her concert debut last night as soprano soloist before at least 15,000 persons in Hollywood Bowl.

"I actually think this performance is going to be harder on my family and friends than on me," said the young, blonde singer. She expressed disappointment that President and Mrs. Truman will be unable to be in the audience.

"I've worked hard preparing for this and I'm confident," Miss Truman explained. "But all mother and Dad can do is sit back and wait for the reports."

The concert will not be broadcast. Earlier this year Miss Truman made her professional bow as a soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra on a nationwide radio program.

Pine Mills Lumber Production Is Up

AUSTIN—(P)—Southern pine mills lumber production plummeted to 75 percent of prewar production from June to July, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has reported.

Average weekly production per unit dropped 1 percent during June. Rapidly advancing wholesale and retail prices and heavy rain contributed to the decline.

Pioneers Even Final Series by Finally Defeating Oilers 8 to 2

The ... WAY it LOOKS to Bob Bray

THE SCHOOL BOARD IS EVIDENTLY determining that Pampa High School is going to turn out some strong football teams in the next few seasons. For next year, they have employed five new coaches, while dismissing three and they have promoted one member of last year's staff.

Recently, the board has announced the hiring of John Bond, former Texas Christian University football coach, to coach the Gorillas. Bond has been employed by the Gulf Oil Company here for the past year. Under his coaching, the Gorillas should enjoy a good season, and better still—Harvester Coaches Tom Tipps and Ambra Noonester should be able to look forward to some good material graduating to the Harvesters each season.

Dwayne Lyon, a former West Texas State College footballer, and a second coach, as yet unnamed to us, will tutor the Pampa Junior High Reapers. Lyon, who graduated from WTSC this year, is expected to arrive here tomorrow.

Dick Livingston, former Gorilla football and basketball coach, has been promoted to Harvester basketball coach. Livingston, who had a strong Gorilla basketball team last year, is planning to start his basketball boys working out shortly after school begins and hopes to have a strong club ready when the season gets under way.

FRANK BAKER, PAMPA COUNTY Club pro, told us yesterday that we might well expect a tough battle for the Top-O-Texas Tournament Championship this year. He indicated that both W. E. Holmes, Jr., Shamrock, and Jack Walker, Memphis, were expected to be among the entrants. Holmes, who is the defending champ, beat Walker 1-up 24 holes in the final match to grab the crown.

Another entry who Baker says will bear lots of looking is Plavich's Jack Williams, who has won several of the major tournaments in West Texas, already this season. Others are C. F. McGinnis, tourney winner in 1943, and both Grover and Johnny Ahlin, who have been hooding some sharp golf recently.

Local entries in the tourney are to start qualifying this afternoon or may qualify any time up until Friday. Out of town entries and players trying for the medalist prize may qualify Saturday. Entry deadline is 3 p. m. next Saturday. There will be a driving contest Saturday and a putting contest next Sunday. Prizes for all flights are on display at the J. O. Penney store.

ALTHOUGH IT WAS PROBABLY unknown to him, Lubbock's first baseman, Virgil Richardson, was playing the same kind of ball he played for Pampa last year, last Thursday night, when he blasted a four-bagger that beat the Albuquerque Dukes, 5-4. The Dukes' defeat gave the Oilers a little tighter grip on their hold on first place.

Last Night's Game
Lubbock's league leading Hubbers edged the Oilers here last night, 10-9, in the eleventh inning, after the Oilers had stacked up a five run lead in the first two frames.

Virgil Richardson, Hubber first sacker who is a former Oiler, scored the winning run when relief hurler Dub Scott issued a wild pitch. Richardson had doubled to third when left fielder Zeke Willemson grounded out, shortstop to first.

CLOVIS—Sparked with two circuit blows by Manager John Bottarini, the Clovis Pioneers handed the Pampa Oilers an 8 to 2 defeat here Friday night. It was the Pioneers' last game with the Oilers and their first victory in 20 tries this season.

The game was highlighted by Bottarini's two homers and Harold Smith's, who went the distance for the Pioneers, pitching. Smith struck out 11 and walked 2 of the 34 batters to face him while holding the Oilers to 8 hits.

The Pioneers jumped on Panaranto for 8 hits, including Bottarini's homers and touched Payte, who believed Panaranto in the sixth frame, for 5 hits. The Oilers brought in one run in the 5th frame off two hits and one in the sixth off two hits and an error.

Favored Bruins Fall 16-0 Before College All-Stars
CHICAGO (AP)—Although the football season still is just around the corner, a terrific upset already is on the books—the All Stars 16 to 0 triumph over the Chicago Bears.

The score doesn't begin to indicate the beating the National Football League champions took last night as 165,840 spectators who poured $355,000 into the till watched in surprise and near disbelief in Soldier Field. The Bears failed to score beyond the All-Stars' 30 yard line.

The All-Stars' great field general and passer, George Ratterman of Notre Dame, and mercurial Buddy Young of Illinois engineered two touchdowns in the first quarter to topple the Bears for the first time in five appearances in the classic.

The All-Star line, patched with guards at tackle positions because of training injuries, became a defensive nightmare for the Halas boys, holding the Bears' high octane ground game to a total of 35 yards by rushing. The fast-charging forwards also short-circuited the Bears' vaunted aerial attack which started for only 81 yards as Sid Luckman completed eight passes and absorbed several long losses being trapped and spilled.

Charley Trippi, the Chicago Cardinals' $100,000 investment; Doc Blanchard of Army, Jim Mello of Notre Dame, Boston Yankee Ed Ryskovich of Illinois (Buffalo Bills) and other prize players performed up to standard but Young and Ratterman made the All-Stars sparkle.

At the outset the All-Stars marched 82 yards to score. Young sipped down the sidelines 31 yards on a lateral from Ratterman; Trip added 19, Mello belted 15 yards and the final six through right tackle.

The second score capped an 87 yard thrust in six plays. Ratterman, faking a punt, tossed five yards to the feet-footed Negro who stepped off 36 more behind excellent blocking of four teammates. Ratterman then hit Jack Zilly (Los Angeles Rams) with a 40-yard pass.

The All-Stars stabbed the one yard line twice in the last half but failed to cash in. In the first crack to the one, Blanchard failed to snare a pass on last down.

Ernie Case of U.C.L.A. (Baltimore Colts) placekicked one point after touchdown and missed one. In the third period he booted a 23-yard field goal after Guard John Mastrogale of Notre Dame (Pittsburgh Steelers) pounced on George McAfee's fumble.

Dodgers Grab Expensive 8-5 Win Over Reds; Reese, Stanky Injured
BROOKLYN (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers nipped the Cincinnati Reds, 8-5 yesterday to maintain their six game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League but the victory may prove to be a costly one for the Brooks.

Ed Stanky and Pee Wee Reese, the Dodgers' star keystone combination, both suffered ankle injuries during the hard fought game by hard-running base runners.

The Reds, apparently incensed by the knee injury suffered by Pitcher Ewell Blackwell at the plate two days ago when he collided with Brooklyn's Pete Reiser, came at the Dodgers with spikes flying.

Stanky was spiked over the left kneecap by Tom Tatum in the first inning. Outfielder Carl Furillo also was spiked going into third but stayed in the game.

The Dodgers sewed up the game in the very first inning, scoring five runs as many hits off Johnny Vander Meer.

BOSTON (AP)—Red Barrett's Braves mates made four runs in the first off starting Johnny Lefly Schmitz and then five off relief man Doyle Lade in the second and sailed on to a 10 to 4 win over the Cubs in the last game of the series yesterday, the winners making 15 hits for 23 total bases.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals needed a three-run homer by Joe Medwick, a startling eighth inning triple play and another piece of art-tight defense in a threatening ninth inning situation to subdue the last-place Philadelphia Phillies 5-3 yesterday. Medwick's homer in the sixth overcame a 3-1 Phillies lead and gave the Cardinals an even split in their final series here.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Batting around and scoring eight runs in the second inning, the American League leading New York Yankees crushed the Cleveland Indians, 13-6.

Weatherall Hurls No-Hitter To Whip First Baptists 5-2

James Weatherall pitched the first no-hit game of the Kiwanis Softball Season last night when the Presbyterian Senior Boys whipped the First Baptist Seniors 5-2. Weatherall set a new record for strike-outs as he fanned 17 of the men he faced during the 7 inning contest.

Bobby Jack Phillips, Baptist hurler, was not at all bad in his role as pitcher, allowing the Presbyterians only a hit in the sixth inning as a grand slam homer with one man on base. Aubrey Barton collected the roundtripper with Weatherall parked on first in the fifth inning. The Baptist run came when Weatherall became a little wild and walked 4 men. Weatherall gave up 6 charity bases while Phillips allowed four.

The first Methodist Senior Boys game from behind to run wild and score 10 runs in each of the last 2 innings of their game with the Calvary Baptist Boys, to win 24-8. The Methodists had trouble getting their big bats started working, but the Baptists went right to work from the very start and led until the final last 2 innings. Bill Speer received credit for the Methodist win, as he took over from James Gallemore in the fourth inning while his team was trailing by 2 runs. Jimmy Cox went the route on the mound for the Baptists.

The Calvary Baptist Jr. Boys jumped to an early lead and never relinquished it, taking out the lead fighting Nazarene Boys 10-8. The winners crossed home plate twice in the first inning and then were blanked by Nazarene pitcher Trolinger until the fifth inning where they began their scoring again by crossing home plate 3 times. Gerald Matthews hurled for the winners and he never let the Nazarenes get out of hand although they threatened a rally in the sixth inning but this uprising was quickly stifled and the losers could muster no more than one tally in the final remaining frame.

Eugene Bynum pitched his Central Juniors to a very easy 31-5 victory over the varying Presbyterians. The Baptists led throughout the contest and they played almost flawless ball scoring in every inning while Bynum was giving the Presbyterian batsmen a hard time at the plate. Carl Stephenson was tagged with the loss for the Presbyterians allowing the winners 27 earned runs.

The First Baptist Senior Girls came from behind and scored 4 runs in the fifth inning to overtake and defeat the First Methodist Seniors 11-9. Avis Kelly was the winning hurler and she pitched an excellent ball game, never being in to serious trouble except in the fourth inning where the Methodists went into the lead, scoring 5 runs. Pat Pierson was credited with the Methodist loss, but she too, pitched a good ball game and the story might have been different had it not been for the Baptists big second and fifth innings.

Betty Nelson only allowed 7 Central Baptist Senior Girls to reach first base as her McCulloch Methodist Girls gave them a very thorough trouncing, 34-2. Due to the high score and big margin, the game was only four innings long, but this was time enough for the Methodists batters to pounce on Baptist pitcher Pat Young for 34 runs with 22 of them coming in 1 inning.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A four-run sixth inning with two-baggers by Pete Suder and Bill McCoskey highlighted the attack of the Philadelphia Athletics as Dick Fowler held the St. Louis Browns to four hits for a 4 to 0 victory yesterday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five Washington errors didn't keep the Senators from beating the Detroit Tigers 5 to 3 yesterday as the Nats scored all their runs in the last three innings to win behind the combined four-hit pitching of Marino Pieretti and Milo Candini.

DETROIT (AP)—Five Washington errors didn't keep the Senators from beating the Detroit Tigers 5 to 3 yesterday as the Nats scored all their runs in the last three innings to win behind the combined four-hit pitching of Marino Pieretti and Milo Candini.

BOSTON (AP)—Ten strokes under par for the first half of the tournament and playing like a champion, Elsworth Vines, of Los Angeles led the field yesterday as the third round of the 72 hole 15,000 Reno Open Golf Derby started. He teed off with 134 shots behind him. Vines' 87s for the first two rounds were acquired by nine hole scores of 33-34 for each round.

Close up to the pace, ready to swoop in at the first signs of faltering on the part of the leaders, were Ky Laffoon, St. Andrews, Ill. and Herman Keiser, Akron, O., with 137s.

Pitching Features Semi-Pro Tourney
WICHITA, Kans. (AP)—Pitching was in the spotlight yesterday in the National Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament after the winners of three games last night held the losers to a total of one run.

Cowboy Thornton held the Kirksville, Mo., Red Roosters to two hits as the Alpine, Texas, team started off the parade with a 6-0 win. The loss was Kirksville's second and eliminated the team.

Team Start Workouts For Oil Bowl Classic

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—High School stars from Texas and Oklahoma open workouts today for the tenth annual Oil Bowl game here Aug. 29.

The Texas squad, coached by Joe Coleman, Odessa, and Joe Golding, Wichita Falls, had one replacement, Vernon Glass, Corpus Christi, replaces Kyle Eote, Thomas Jefferson, (San Antonio), who said he would not be able to participate.

Sponsor of the game is the Maskat Temple Shrine of Wichita Falls. The day's fourth event, Suzanne Zimmerman of Fortland kept pace with Miss Curtis as a meet double-winner by retaining her 100 meter backstroke crown with a 1:17.6 triumph, one-fifth of a second slower than the meet record. Yesterday, Miss Zimmerman recaptured her 200 meter backstroke crown.

Miss Zimmerman and Brenda Eeeler of Los Angeles, who yesterday was dethroned by Miss Curtis in the 100 meter free style, finished ahead of another Dutch contender, Miss Irene Van Peggelen, in the century backstroke event.

Cherry to Shift Steers from "T" To Single Wing AUSTIN (AP)—Next month a quiet, friendly man will bet a cool twenty years coaching that he can take a strong single wing team and in 90 days mold it into a smooth operating "T" team capable of beating some of the nation's top teams. Earl Cherry, head football coach at the University of Texas, has turned down several college coaching jobs while he was an assistant coach. Now he has a university team, and with it, problems a-plenty. Cherry has been a close student of the "T" for the past four years, only one man on his staff has had actual experience with it. A few people feel that Cherry may be junking Bobby Layne, last year's leading passer from the wing formation. Cherry said that on the basis of spring workouts Layne is just as deadly from the "T" and operates very smoothly from the quarterback position. Those who have worked with the efficient Cherry label him a shrewd operator, and say that any change he makes is for the best. From being a three-sport star at Texas Christian University, where he captained the football team in his senior year, Cherry moved into High School coaching. During Cherry's seven year stay in Amarillo, his teams lost only four games. For three consecutive years, his undefeated Golden Sandstorm swept to the Texas Schoolboy championship. Very pleased with the 30-day spring workout, Coach Cherry and his assistants plan long workouts to make the most of the 20-day period before actual competition begins. Eck Curtis, newest addition to the Texas coaching staff, is the "T" expert who will handle the backfield. During a 10-year stay at Breckenridge, his teams swept to seven district, two district, and one quarter-final championship. His Highland Park team of 1945 scored 468 points, holding opponents to 53, and ended the season with a 12 won, two tied, record. With the exception of Curtis, all other members of the staff are ex-Longhorns. Bully Gilstrap moves into Cherry's old job of coaching ends. While in school Gilstrap lettered in baseball, track and football, making All-Southwest Conference end in 1923-24. He coached at Kerrville Schreiner Institute 12 years, his teams winning the State Junior College championship twice. Ed Price, former nine-letter man at Texas, will coach the Longhorn line. Price has been a member of the coaching staff for 10 years. All-Conference in baseball and basketball, Price was an outstanding man. Jack Gray, best known for his good basketball teams, was another All-Conference end. He lettered three years in football and basketball, becoming one of the first generally recognized All-America basketball players in this section. Gray will become chief scout.

Guerrillas (Continued From Page 3) The United Nations is being bypassed. That point—previously made by Herschel Johnson on behalf of the United States before the Security Council early this month, also pointed to the possibility of an American request for international action outside the UN to halt the civil strife.

McGhee disclosed that June 30 of 1948 has been set as a "target date" for completing reconstruction work in Greece for which Congress has appropriated $350,000,000. The charges against the Greeks' Communist-dominated neighbors were leveled in a State Department formal document bundling up reports of the United Nations group which earlier this year investigated allegations the northern Greek frontier had been violated by the three countries.

The statement said the UN document clearly showed that "Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia have openly and defiantly rejected any cooperation" with the investigating group. "Then it declared: "In the State Department's opinion, the work of the UN subsidiary group reinforces the conclusions of the Balkan Commission's report that Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia have supported the Guerrilla warfare in Greece and underlines the necessity for international action to maintain peace in the Balkans.

The subsidiary group was created by a directive of the Balkan Investigating Commission which itself was formed by the Security Council. It includes representatives of all nations which hold Security Council memberships. "Although barred by Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia from conducting on-the-spot investigations in territory of these countries," the statement said, "the subsidiary group collected a great deal of very important evidence on the Greek side of the frontier regarding violations which have occurred.

Washington Senators Sign Waco Grid Star WACO (P)—The Washington Senators were due to receive their latest recruit soon. Buff Dozier, sparkplug of the Waco High school football team last season, was signed as a pitcher by the American League club's Joe Cambria and left yesterday to join the team. Pants in Boots; Skirts Stay Out MADISONVILLE (AP)—Regardless of how long skirts get and how many cattle a woman owns, no woman member of the Madisonville Sidewalk Cattlemen's Association will be allowed to stuff her skirt hem in her boots. The association, self-appointed boot-wearing regulators for the world, met in special session last week to confront the crisis in skirt lengths, and decided to leave its celebrated rules unchanged. Rule 3 of the association allows the owner of as many as four head of cows to stuff both pants legs in his boots. "We don't care how long Paris and New York experts decide Women's skirts should be," the members declared, "no fashion will stay up (or down) astride a horse."

Market Briefs

WALL STREET STOCKS
NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The stock market during the past week displayed an irregularly lower trend but bullish contingents derived some satisfaction from the fact that three years ago the market was in a similar position. The market was not particularly weakened by the government's anti-trust and price-fixing charges against the steel, rubber, technical and brake lining industries. Light offerings were attributed partly to suspicion regarding the business outlook, with the cloudy export picture stressed following the shift in the Anglo-American loan pact suspending sterling convertibility temporarily. Dwindling dollar resources abroad, it was feared, would substantially restrict purchases from the United States. Mounting labor difficulties provided a restraint. While some dividends and earnings were ignored marketwise, special issues exhibited a certain amount of strength. Fluid short covering and quick-turn buying provided intermittent support as professional elements felt that the list was in technically good shape for a fall rally if the news warranted. Modest recovery tendencies cropped up toward the end of the week but lack of real demand made these unimpressive. The President's forecast of a record budget surplus for 1948 and Washington assurances that a recession was not in sight failed as stimulants. The financial sector derived some satisfaction from a point at 165.8 on the week. It was the third successive week without a single million-share session. The aggregate for the five days of 3,672,065 shares compared with 3,661,560 the week before and was a low for any 5-day or 6-day stretch since the period concluded April 29, 1944.

Construction Men Enjoy Big Week

AUSTIN—(AP)—Texas construction men enjoyed their third biggest week of the year as contract totaling $18,117,403 were awarded, the Texas Contractor Building trade journal has reported. Non-essential building took the lead with awards amounting to $3,367,630. Industrial buildings accounted for the bulk of this, lettings running to an even $6,000,000. Residential building contracts were close behind non-residential at $8,028,370. Homes costing less than $7,000 took care of the major portion of this total and established the fourth highest week of 1947 for this category. There were contracts on 1,044 homes in this price bracket for a total of $7,408,370. Houses in the more than $7,000 class attracted few Texans. Fifteen contracts were let throughout the state for an aggregate of $246,800. Lettings of 16 duplexes amounted to $152,000. Awards for apartments which will provide 56 one-family units another $218,000. Engineering contracts totaled $1,721,403. Total Texas construction for the year now stands at $404,524,233.

Joy Hutchens, Gene Turner Wed In Home Ceremony

In a simple home wedding Sunday morning, August 17, at 9 o'clock, Miss Joy Hutchens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Hutchens, 721 N. Hobart, became the bride of Eugene Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Turner of the Cabot-Kingsmill Camp. J. P. Crenshaw, minister of the Francis Avenue Church of Christ, read the double-ring ceremony in the home of the bride's parents. Two baskets of peach gladioli were arranged with two seven-branched candelabra and two palms to form a background for the exchange of vows. Miss Mary Jo Goffman played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Mona Cox as she sang, "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "Always." Mrs. David Tubbs, in a yellow dotted Swiss street length dress with brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of painted daisies was matron-of-honor. Bob Davis served the bridegroom as best man. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length white crepe dress with white accessories. She carried a white Bible.

Tips for Teens

By ELLIOT WILLIAMS The easy, girls. Avoid taking things for granted unless you want to be a sister to all the men in your life. It's the girl who gets into a tizzy over every date who seldom has dates. Ever noticed? And the character who considers every boy a possible date instead of a possible friend spends for time with "hags" than with the "stags." So take it easy and don't take anything for granted in your date-life. Remember that actions speak louder than words. One date, for instance, doesn't mean a steady date every Saturday night. So don't expect it. Sure, you can encourage the idea, but he must think it originated under his own cut, not in your mind. When you say goodnight at your door, add, "If we're lots of fun. Let's do it again!" Or, if he says, "I'll give you a buzz sometime," it's your cue to reply, "When do you think you'll phone." "I wouldn't want to miss your call." The fact that he was romantic in the moonlight doesn't mean he's ready to give you his class ring either. Maybe he was just moonstruck. Perhaps he plays Romeo with every date, whether it's Betty, Jane or you. He said you're out of this world? Maybe he means it. Take it easy; time will tell. But it's also possible that he's a fast operator who thinks sweet talk is expected or will "up" his popularity, sounding smooth and sophisticated. If he means it, he'll prove it in a dozen little ways that mean more than words. He's such a handsome boy that he looks dreamy in everything from a beat-up sports shirt to a tuxedo? Looks aren't everything, so take it easy. It's personality that counts in real romance. The boy with freckles may be lots more fun and a more sincere friend.

Inventories of Texas Wholesalers Are High

AUSTIN—(AP)—Inventories of Texas wholesalers remain high despite attempts to hold them down, standing 54 percent above those of a year ago at the end of June, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has reported.

Automotive supply dealers saw their inventories double from June, 1946, to June, 1947, while electrical goods were up 84 percent, tobacco 63, and the hardware group advanced 70 percent.

Sales of wholesalers were 21 percent above the year-ago June level, but the May-to-June slump of 4 percent brought the state's average down considerably, said the research bureau report.

Only electrical goods sales increased from May to June. Sales of drugs and sundries dropped 23 percent, and there was a 22 percent decline in sales of machinery, equipment and supplies (except electrical).

The bureau reported both wholesalers and retailers began cutting back inventories two months ago as manufacturing began to level off, and durable goods kept dealers' inventories at a high level.

Warning Issued to Truck, Bus Operators

AUSTIN—(AP)—Texas truck and bus operators were warned yesterday by Director Homer Garrison of the Department of Public Safety against being cheated in purchasing equipment.

"We have had reports of truck and bus operators being high-pressured into buying electrical or mechanical signalling devices said to be required by the new uniform traffic code which goes into effect Sept. 5," Garrison said.

"The law does not require every truck and bus to have such a device," he advised. "An apparatus to signal for stops and turns is required on a bus only when hand-and-arm signals cannot readily be seen because of the way the vehicle is constructed."

Garrison also gave advance warning to reckless drivers that traffic officers will begin an immediate crackdown under the newly incorporated reckless driving clause when the uniform traffic code becomes effective.

He said there would be a period of "gentle enforcement" until drivers become acquainted with other new features in the law.

Eichelberger Runs Works For MacArthur in Japan

(Editor's Note: William C. Barnard, Texas-born staffer of the Dallas bureau of the Associated Press, visited Japan in July on assignment with a heavy bomber group of the Army Air Forces. Here is his intimate word picture of Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, the American Occupation Force in Japan.)

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
YOKOHAMA (AP)—The floor of the bedroom rocked gently, the walls groaned, the chandelier swung turn out fine, and for him it always does.

"Just look at him—he's 61 years old and he went through four years of the hardest Pacific fighting. Young officers dropped out like flies with malaria and other tropical diseases. The general lost weight but he wasn't sick a day. Now he works 10 hours a day at headquarters and takes stuff home with him every night. He is tough as a boot."
Indeed, the general looked fit; lean, well muscled, broad-shouldered, very erect. Six feet one inch tall, 185 pounds. A roughly hand-some man—long faced, prominent nose, full brows, steady, cool eyes, large mouth that slips easily into a smile.

"He's the occupation of Japan," the captain said. "General MacArthur makes the policies and leaves the rest of it up to General Eichelberger. It's General Eichelberger who feeds the people, regulates imports and exports, manages the occupation. I don't know how he keeps up with it all, but with him everything clicks just right, if you get what I mean."
The general's strong, restive hands were with a folder on his desk. Behind him flags of the United Nations drooped from their masts. His office in Eighth Army Headquarters here is large, tastefully decorated. On both sides are offices of secretaries and aides. The general uses no buzzers—he shouts amiably to summon assistants—calling them by their first names.

"Let's have some tea," the general suggested, then he grinned: "You know you get to like the stuff if you work at it long enough."
"Mary, we need tea," he called, and a Wac Captain, smiling broadly, prepared in the doorway.
"Cold or hot?" she wanted to know.
"Hot," said the general decisively. "You have a nice set up here, General," the visitor remarked.
"We stay happy," Eichelberger replied. "Miss Em says all the assignments we have been on together have been happy ones."

All down the line of Pacific fighting, Eichelberger was a soldier's soldier—going in for the landings, hacking through the jungles, taking his chance with snipers. He told his officers during the first cold winter in Japan: "I'd better not catch any of you fellows with oil stoves if the enlisted men's barracks don't have them first."
General Eichelberger doesn't call it the Eighth Army. To him it is the "Amphibious Eighth." Fifty-two landings in the Philippines alone.

"He busts a button every time he mentions the Eighth," Captain Tomlinson said. "There never was a man prouder of an army."
The general's office is lined with photographs and maps. A picture of General MacArthur carries the inscription "To the Eighth Army, with Admiration and Affection."
Nearby, in another frame, are these words, signed by MacArthur: "No army of this war has achieved greater glory and distinction than the Eighth."
"I wouldn't take anything for that," says Eichelberger.

A native of Urbana, Ohio, Eichelberger was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1909 and served in Indiana, Texas, the Panama Canal Zone, New York and Arizona. During the first war he served with the American Expeditionary Forces, Siberia. He had been superintendent of West Point two years when, in January, 1942, he was released to organize the 77th Division which was reactivated under his command.
When Eichelberger returns to the United States, he wants to tour Texas.
"So many of my officers in the Amphibious Eighth came from Texas A. & M. College," he said. "I heard plenty about Texas from them. They were all fine fellows. A. & M. must be a great school to produce officers of that type."
In 1913, Eichelberger was married to Miss Emma Gudgeon of Asheville, N. C.
Their's has been a 34-year ro-

Texas Today

Everybody is talking about changes in women's styles. We want in on the act, too.

It's common knowledge that Dallas women are leading a fast-spreading national revolt against the far-below-the-knee style in dresses—a style that is hard on both cash and comely calves.

One indignant woman started it. She is Mrs. Warren J. Woodward, a Little-Below-The-Knee Club was formed. Newspapers from coast to coast printed stories about it.

National radio networks took it up, interviewing Dallas women on the round-the-world broadcasts. Then, Gabriel Heatter, in a there's-a-good-news-tonight tone of voice, featured it.

Many women attended a Dallas rally. A retail merchant who sells dresses told the women he was on their side. Saturday the women plan a downtown parade.

Down in College Station, wives of veterans at Texas A. and M. went on record as condemning what they called wasteful styles.

"Women whose husbands are in school under the GI Bill can not afford to throw away their wardrobes at the whims of so-called fashion dictators," said Mrs. Jack Tippitt. "Furthermore, these styles are definitely not good for a tall girl."

She is six feet one.

"To get a new wardrobe means cashing bonds," said Mrs. D. R. Fincher. "Long dresses are terribly unbecoming," said Mrs. W. H. Kluge.

The men students, like most other men, were heartily against the new styles.

A Dallas survey, for example, found most men against, some few for it in a cautious sort of way.

Sid Pietzch, radio news director, said he was in favor of a slow descent. This sudden drop was too much for him—and his pocketbook.

George Schepps, president of the Dallas baseball club, said he liked long skirts but added: "Let's not get them down to the ankle."

Mayor Jimmy Temple of Dallas said Los Angeles had the most practical solution: No skirts at all.

Dobie Asks for Another Leave

AUSTIN (AP)—J. Frank Dobie's future as a professor at the University of Texas "depends on the administration," the Summer Texas university student newspaper, has quoted the folklorist as saying.

Dobie, outspoken critic of the university administration and board of regents since the dismissal of Dr. Homer P. Rainey as president, has been on leave of absence four years. A new rule adopted by the regents in January, requires faculty members to return to duty after one year's leave of absence.

The Texan said Dobie has applied for another leave this fall and quoted him as saying: "I do not intend to teach at that time, and as for whether I will teach in the spring, that depends on the administration."

University President T. S. Painter said the matter would go before the English department in the next few weeks but declined to comment further, the Texan said.

Economists No Too Disturbed Over Cut In Foreign Buying

By SIGRID ALNE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington economists are not too disturbed over the possibility that the British, Canadians and Australians may have to cut their buying of American goods.

Here are the figures which are important:

1. Together, the United Kingdom, Canada and Australia bought $1-767,000,000 worth of American goods the first half of this year.
2. In the same period we exported, all told, goods worth $7,552,000,000.
3. Our national income is now at the rate of $193 billions, the Department of Commerce estimates.
4. It is unlikely the three parts of the British commonwealth would cut their buying by more than half. They sell enough here to cover half of what they are buying.

That might mean the U. S. could lose about a billion in exports the next half year. But that would be only a seventh of our exports in terms of the last six months, and a mere drop in the bucket when stacked up against our $193 billion national income.

Canada and Australia have made no announcements yet. But government economists guess the cut will come in such things as refrigerators, washing machines, radios, cosmetics, vacuum cleaners and perhaps, some oil.

Britain is also likely to cut in purchases of meat, canned fruits, powdered milk, and dried eggs.

Economists say that could mean two things here:

1. More American products would have to be sold at home, and the prices on those might drop a little which would be a boon to the American consumer.
2. Some factories might cut production, and lay off hands. But it would scarcely mean unemployment, since there are still plenty of jobs for a man who doesn't mind a shift.

One Washington economist, associated with big American interests, said there's a major long-time worry. The rest of the world through necessity could set up a trading system which would leave us out for two reasons: We don't buy enough foreign goods, and our prices are too high.

 Well, I see that the Democrats are strongly considering San Francisco as the place for their national convention next year and if they do meet there it will certainly prove that all great events come in threes. The United Nations met there in 1945 and I was born there a year or so before that. I think my native city would be a perfect site for a big political affair. I attended both national conventions in Chicago in 1944, and I noticed that the speakers yelled themselves hoarse to create a fog that would cover up what they were saying. San Francisco has a fine natural fog.
 Los Angeles would be a nice place for the convention, too. If they were deadlocked and couldn't choose a candidate, somebody might stand up in the audience and scream for Clark Gable—or they might listen to me.
 can box-office rolling up the profits.
 I think England made a terrific blunder. The film industry was voluntarily trying to do something for England. The film makers had offered to impound a big share of their funds. Hollywood was doing everything it could to get a better break for British pictures in this country.
 It's a kick in the teeth to probably the friendliest industry to England anywhere in the world. And I think English morale will suffer. The British prefer to laugh with Crosby and Hope than to mourn with Cripps.
 Holland first introduced thimbles into England in 1675.
 I think we can still beat Russia with psychology; if we don't, we must defeat her by force of arms. It is time we told her so.—Rep. Charles Eaton (R) of New Jersey.

 The day's program consisted of an old fiddlers contest, a fat man's race, a square dance, a boxing contest, along with stinging and string music throughout the program.

Robert Taylor Happy at Plateau of Movie Fame
 By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Having reached the third and most important area of film stardom — the plateau—Robert Taylor is a thoroughly happy man.
 Bob, an honest and likeable guy, was relaxing between takes of "The High Wall" and ruminating on current state of his career.
 "I never was happier making pictures," he said. "I didn't have to worry about the fans chasing me all over town. I don't have to fret about publicity and fan mail—although I don't mean that's not important. If I turn a picture down, that's that—the world doesn't come to an end."
 "All I have to do is make a picture now and then. The rest of the time I can spend hunting and doing the other things I want to do."
 Bob has earned the leisure. He started in pictures in 1934 when he was 23 and within two years was a top box-office star. He has been in screen prominence ever since, except for his wartime hitch in the Navy.
 He is now comfortably situated on that profitable plateau of popularity with such companions as Gable, Grant, Tracy, Bogart, Cooper, Power and MacMurray.

HOLLYWOOD, (NEA) — Janet Blair just doesn't believe in Hollywood traditions, I guess.
 She's working in a costume picture over at Columbia in "The Black Arrow," is a switch for Janet, the former band singer who always has played flip modern gals. But the long blonde wig and all those clothes in all this heat are getting her down.

"But movie queens always faint on a costume picture. It's tradition."
 "Baloney," said Janet. "I'm not one of those dames who is so fidgeted down that she faints every fifth step she takes."

The role, a blonde princess opposite Louis Hayward in "The Black Arrow," is a switch for Janet, the former band singer who always has played flip modern gals. But the long blonde wig and all those clothes in all this heat are getting her down.

She lifted up a heavy woolen skirt. "Look," she said, "underneath—14 petticoats."
MITCHUM TO SING
 Short Takes: Tamara Toumanova, the ballet star, will soon be singing writer Casey Robinson for a divorce—Edna Skelton, ex-wife of Red, and director Frank Borzage are straining at the leash. — Bob Mitchum will sing opposite Loretta Young in "Rachel." He says, "It's a perfect role for Nelson Eddy." And maybe that's why RKO has such a tough job talking him into taking the part.

Irene Dunne is headed for Hollywood before she takes the South American jaunt—Robert Young is investing some of his dough (and he has plenty) in an outfit manufacturing farm machinery. To grow more corn?—Greer Garson gets Joel McCrea as her next leading man.

Rudy Vallee is storming at the front office at RKO. He wants nothing but heavy roles from now on. Wants to emulate Dick Powell's switch from crooner to tough guy.

Bing Crosby and his pal, Bill Morrow, arrive at James Park Aug. 27 for a holiday and then they will play in the Sept. 15 golf tournament there. Meanwhile, Paramount is testing Marilyn Maxwell for Bing's feminine costar in "A Connecticut Yankee."

STILL STALLED

The UN Atomic Energy Commission has abandoned all hope of progress toward agreement in 1947. And, as things now stand, there is no prospect of agreement on atomic energy control until another calendar year arrives. The Soviet delegation remains adamant, and nothing in the way of discussion or suggested compromise by the Commission's majority will budge it.

Only the other day Andrei Gromyko gave the United Press a restatement of the Soviet position in answer to an article by Frederick H. Osborn, deputy American representative on the Commission. The explanation was full of weasel words, but it was evident that Mr. Gromyko still thinks everybody is out of step except Russia.

The amazing thing about this article was that, after all the thousands of words that must have been spoken in the Commission meetings, Mr. Gromyko's thoughts seem to be precisely where they always were.

He calls the Soviet proposal "the only correct approach" to the problem's solution, although all the nations on the Commission except Russia's shadow, Poland, take the opposite view.

He still insists that the majority-adopted United States plan would give this country "a position of monopoly in the field of atomic energy," although anyone who can maintain an open mind while reading must see that it wouldn't.

He still insists that any atomic energy control system must operate within the Security Council, complete with veto. He takes the position that the UN Charter is incapable of amendment, and that elimination of the veto would "undermine the foundation on which the entire edifice of the United Nations rests."

Yet Mr. Gromyko must surely know why the American control plan eliminates the veto. He says again that unanimity of the five permanent Security Council members must be operative in "all questions of substance having relation to the maintenance of that peace."

All this is old stuff. That very fact is what makes the situation so discouraging. Perhaps Mr. Gromyko, as a dutiful Communist, does not dare or wish to deviate an inch from the line of conduct set for him.

This leads the United States, as the strongest power opposite Russia, to adopt a line of action which it might not prefer under happier circumstances. Surely the American people want no atomic armament race or any monopoly if an adequate system of control can be set up. However, neither they nor any other realistic nation would want to trust themselves to the Russian system, which leaves the matter of atomic energy uses and control to the good faith of individual nations.

It is not necessary to go over the abundant examples to suggest that good faith is not the most notable feature of Russian foreign policy. Therefore it becomes doubly necessary for the American government to try to maintain its supremacy in the atomic field with all possible vigor, and to guard with extra care whatever "secrets" it may still possess.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG news behind the news

BLUNDER - The Republicans' failure or inability to capitalize on their postwar investigations of the Roosevelt-Truman Administration may turn out to be their costliest blunder of the 1948 presidential campaign, which has been opened far earlier than he was expected. G.O.P. leaders privately make no attempt to conceal their chagrin over their performance in this field. The Brewster-Ferguson group so far has failed to uncover evidence of corruption, undue use of influence or mismanagement of the kind that shocks the public. They have not convinced the American people that F.D.R. precipitated or was responsible for the Pearl Harbor disaster, which was their major political indictment. They had great expectations on this expose. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was expected to provide fertile soil for exploitation for next year's presidential struggle. But the attempt to show that Jesse H. Jones, former chairman, had favored certain friends and big interests fizzled out. In fact, a majority of the Capitol Hill Republicans sided with Mr. Jones, if only because of the shabby treatment they thought he received from Mr. Roosevelt.

DROP - The two other major inquiries - the Kansas City vote scandal and the Hughes airplane affair - also petered out. Despite plans to resume these investigations in the fall, it is generally believed that the opposition leadership will be willing to drop them. Topnotch Republicans concede that, despite the Pendergast machine's ballot-box frauds, it will be impossible to depict Mr. Truman as a political gangster. He just does not fit that picture. And there will be no partisan gain in proving that the Kansas City Democratic organization was and has been crooked for years. It took no senatorial investigation to demonstrate that. The effort to show that Elliott Roosevelt influenced his father to profit Howard Hughes raised a laugh instead of public blood pressure. The crowd in the Senate chamber and back home, rightly or wrongly cheered the scheduled victims and hissed the senatorial cast.

PHENOMENON - The fact that no national, political or personal scandals have emerged in the aftermath of our $341,000,000 war impresses observers at the Capitol as some sort of miracle. But there are numerous reasons for the phenomenon that are not generally admitted. The G.O.P. failure cannot be attributed solely to their lack of investigative talent, although Senator Homer A. Ferguson of Michigan has been a disappointment in the Pearl Harbor and Hughes affairs. Detroit's former "one-man court of inquiry" has not measured up to such illustrious investigators as Tom Walsh, Jim Reed, Hiram Johnson, Thad Caraway, Burt Wheeler etc. And the help he got from his committee aides and colleagues was decidedly second-rate. INDIFFERENCE - The public apathy and indifference has been due mainly to the general belief that war is such a wasteful enterprise that it cannot be conducted without the mispending of billions of dollars. Moreover, even in pre-war years, F.D.R. had accustomed the nation to expenditures of vast sums. The same postwar prosperity which re-elected Calvin Coolidge in the face of the Harding-Daugherty-Fall revelations is also operating against the G. O. P. Despite high prices that tend to offset wage increases, there is a spirit of "eat, drink and be merry" in the atmosphere. Indeed, President Truman shares Mr. Coolidge's luck. The Vermont Yankee was not a pal of the Ohio clique, and it was impossible to depict him as an associate of the dead Marion editor's circle. Mr. Truman had only a speaking acquaintance with a President who is also dead and the public is inclined to hold him blameless for his predecessor's grand opera regime. SOLID - President Truman's search for a 1948 running mate has taken him far and wide, for he realizes that his No. 2 man must be picked with greater thought and care than the convention gave when it nominated Henry A. Wallace in 1940 and himself in 1944. He must be a figure who will bring to the ticket a class of voters whom Mr. Truman may not be able to corral. The hunt has not been finished, but the White House talk usually turns to the name of James V. Forrestal of New York. In fact, it is generally believed that he was chosen as Secretary of National Defense under the new setup so as to give him a buildup for the nomination. Despite his prominence and performance during the war, he is not

TOP JOBS by Peter Edson

WASHINGTON (NEA) - There are now about 180 jobs in the government which are worth having - if you exclude the Presidency, membership in Congress, the Federal judges, the generals, the admirals and the ambassadors. Some people may even feel that these jobs aren't worth having. Anyway, these 180 top positions are the $10,000-a-year-and-better spots held by the heads of departments, commissions and administrative agencies. Sixty-five of these are cabinet or little cabinet offices - secretaries, under- and assistant-secretaries.

The secretaries now get $15,000 a year. The chairman of the Export-Import Bank, William McC. Martin, Jr., gets $15,000. Only one official gets more. Chairman David E. Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission gets $17,500. The four members of his commission get $15,000. Of the non-cabinet rank jobs, less than 20 pay $12,000. The majority get $10,000. That used to be a lot of money, though today it will buy about what $7500 did before the war.

Still, if it takes only 180 $10,000-a-year men to run the vast Federal machinery at the top, you might think there would be no particular hurry in filling that many jobs. But the turnover in these jobs is terrific. Day after day, a large part of the President's time must be spent in trying to find good men for his official family.

BILL WOULD RAISE PAY - In the last Congress, freshman Republican Senators Ralph E. Flanders of Vermont and Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut teamed up on a bill to raise the pay of the top administrators to salaries that would attract and keep the best grade of executives.

Flanders is a businessman himself. Baldwin is a good governor from a big business state. Both know that it takes brains to run anything. They therefore proposed raising Cabinet salaries from $15,000 to $20,000. The under-secretaries, the Solicitor General, the assistant to the Attorney General, $17,500. Heads of agencies would get $17,500, $15,000 or $12,500, as the President might designate.

Flanders and Baldwin estimated that the total cost of the increases would run a little under $700,000 a year. Total present payroll for these top men now runs about $1,900,000. It's around a 36 percent increase. If it sounds like a lot, bear in mind that Congress gave itself the equivalent of a 30 percent increase last year, and the pay of Federal judges was also raised.

But money isn't the only thing that makes it difficult for the government to hire good brains. It's the public whipping these people have to take - particularly from Congress itself - that makes these jobs hard to fill.

Congress went home without confirming the new five-member National Relations Board and its new General Counsel, among the most important jobs in Washington today. Congress created them, but Republican senators let the word out that they are on trial. Who could do a good job if there were a possibility that he would be bounced out of it five months from now, for purely political reasons?

For nine months, the United States was without a Solicitor General. The Senate refused confirmation on President Truman's nomination of Philip B. Perlman for that job. For about half that time members of the Atomic Energy Commission spent most of their day in Senate chambers, hearing themselves personally abused while they were up for confirmation. In lesser degree, Gordon Clapp, of TVA, went through the same grilling.

CAUSE FOR RESIGNATION - Edgar L. Warren of the Conciliation Service had the experience of having Congress consider the refusal of appropriate money for his salary. When the appropriation was confirmed, Warren promptly resigned, and nobody could blame him.

The only other type that can stick out in government jobs is the independently wealthy like Defense Secretary James Forrestal, Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman, Assistant Secretary of the Navy John Nicholas Brown or Assistant Secretary of State William Benton. If anybody in government has taken a beating these past two years it is Benton, who has had to fight to salvage something for the U. S. foreign information program. "There comes a time," he says, "when transients like myself have served their useful purpose and should resign." Yet he is sticking it out, and nobody would have given up and gone home long ago. The wonder is that more don't.

The American crisis is problematical, that of Europe exists. The first would be a crisis of over-production, the latter is a crisis of penny - Georges Bidault, French foreign secretary, well known to the public or to politicians. He is a solid rather than a spectacular figure, and not a headline showman.

FORRESTAL - The New Yorker has definite assets, however. He acknowledged the Empire State as his birth and residence state. He was head of Dillon, Read and Co. investment banker, until he entered federal service. His name on the Democratic ticket might attract many conservative business men and industrialists who would otherwise vote Republican or stay at home. He won their friendship and admiration during the war years when they served at Washington as dollar-a-year men.

In 1924, when the Republicans needed a big banker's name to give the quiet Mr. Coolidge reinforcement, they picked Charles G. Dawes of Chicago. Mr. Forrestal may be his 1948 counterpart, especially in view of Mr. Truman's remote resemblance to the Vermontor.

Common Ground by R. C. HOLES

WHAT IS DEMOCRACY? A reader asks whether certain acts by government agencies are in harmony with the fundamental principles of true democracy.

It writes that a certain branch of the county free library offers the loan of books to applicants. In the event the branch does not have a particular book desired by the applicant, the branch attempts to borrow the book from the county libraries through the state and from the state library. The clerical and mailing expense of searching for and bringing the book to the branch library is borne by the libraries involved (indirectly, the taxpayers) with the exception of postage for mailing inquiries and notices which is paid by the applicant. In one particular case which gave rise to the question of what is the conformance with the basic meaning of true democracy, an individual known to the reader filed requests with the branch library for 31 books which the library is endeavoring to locate and bring to the branch library for the applicant's temporary use.

Of course before one could intelligently answer that question, one would have to define what democracy means. There are many interpretations of true democracy.

I believe as commonly practiced, this action by the branch library is absolutely in harmony with true democracy. True democracy undoubtedly means majority rule. That the majority can take from one to give to another.

The late President Warren Harding when he was President said "We are gradually drifting toward a pure democracy and in pure democracy ever last long." Democracy as commonly practiced and used means nothing more than mere "majority rule." This means of course, that the majority has a right to coerce unwilling people to pay for the services to satisfy the majority. If the majority thinks it can coerce the minority into paying for books, food, transportation and entertainment for them, they will certainly do so.

Let us see what a few thinkers of the ages have to say about what democracy means: Edmund Burke said "A perfect democracy is the most shameful thing in the world."

Emerson said "Democracy becomes a government of bullies tempered by editors."

Goldsmith said "Who can direct, when all pretend to know?"

P. C. Morehouse said "The most popular man in a democracy is not the most democratic man, but the most despotic man. The common folk delight in the exactions of such a man. They like him to boss them. Their natural gain is the government." Montesquieu said "The tyranny of a prince in an oligarchy is not so dangerous to the public welfare as the apathy of a citizen in a democracy."

Seneca said "Democracy, which is more cruel than wars or tyrants."

W. H. Sewall in his History on John Quincy Adams said "Democracies are prone to war, and war consumes them." F. C. Morehouse said "The problem of democracy is not the problem of getting rid of kings. It is the problem of clothing the whole people with the elements of kingship. To make kings and queens out of a hundred million people: that is the Problem of American democracy."

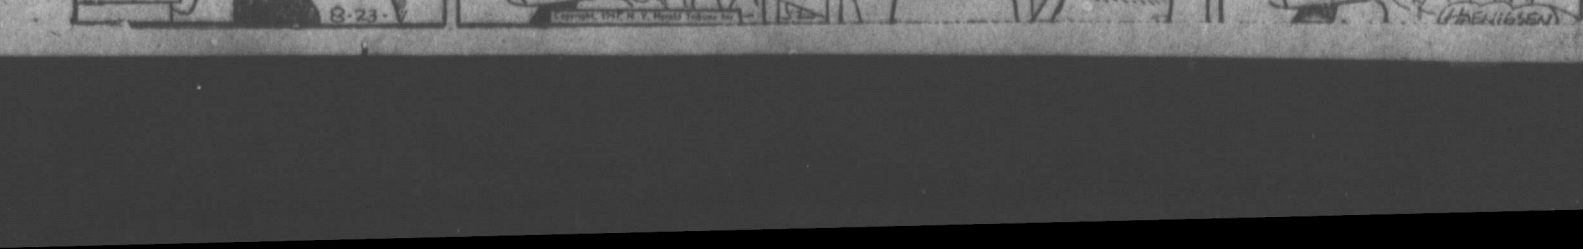

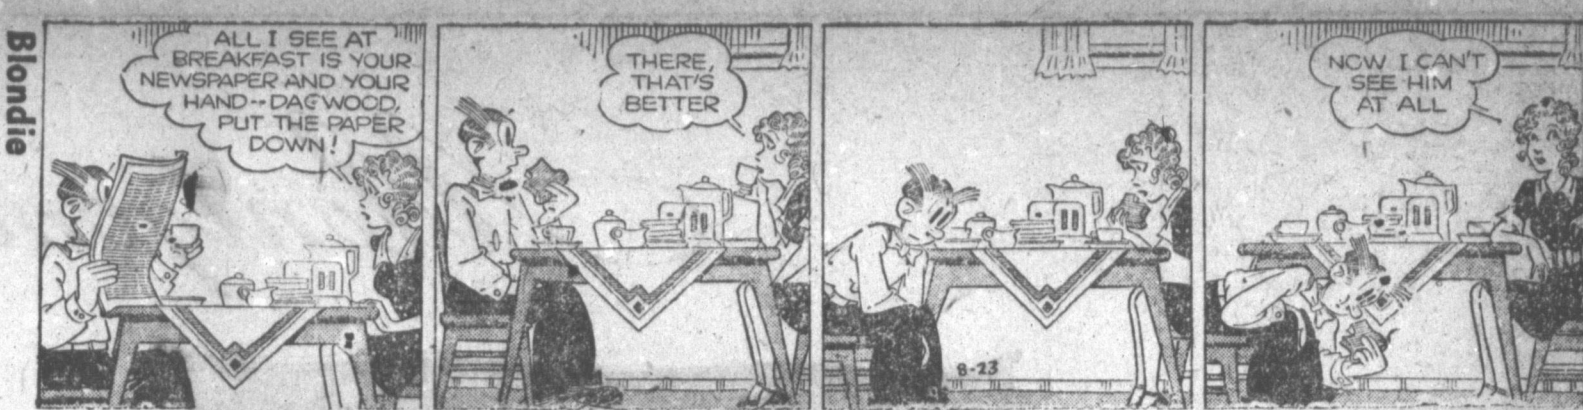

On the other hand if we take the interpretation of democracy as expressed by Walt Whitman, once above example would not be in harmony with democracy. Whitman said "I speak the password primeval. I give the sign of democracy. By God! I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms."

All people could not have other people paying for their books, therefore it wouldn't be in harmony with Whitman's interpretation of democracy. That, however, is not the kind of a democracy we in the United States are trying to practice. Nowhere has there ever existed that kind of a democracy. Whitman's idea would be a government under eternal law, a government in harmony with the Ten Commandments.

The problems of labor and management can be analyzed and settled as surely as those of world peace - by men sitting around a table talking things over. But they must be men whose attitude is right - Mackenzie King, Canadian prime minister.

WELL, HOW ABOUT A HALLWAY THEN? I USUALLY WALK IN MY SLEEP ANYWAY!

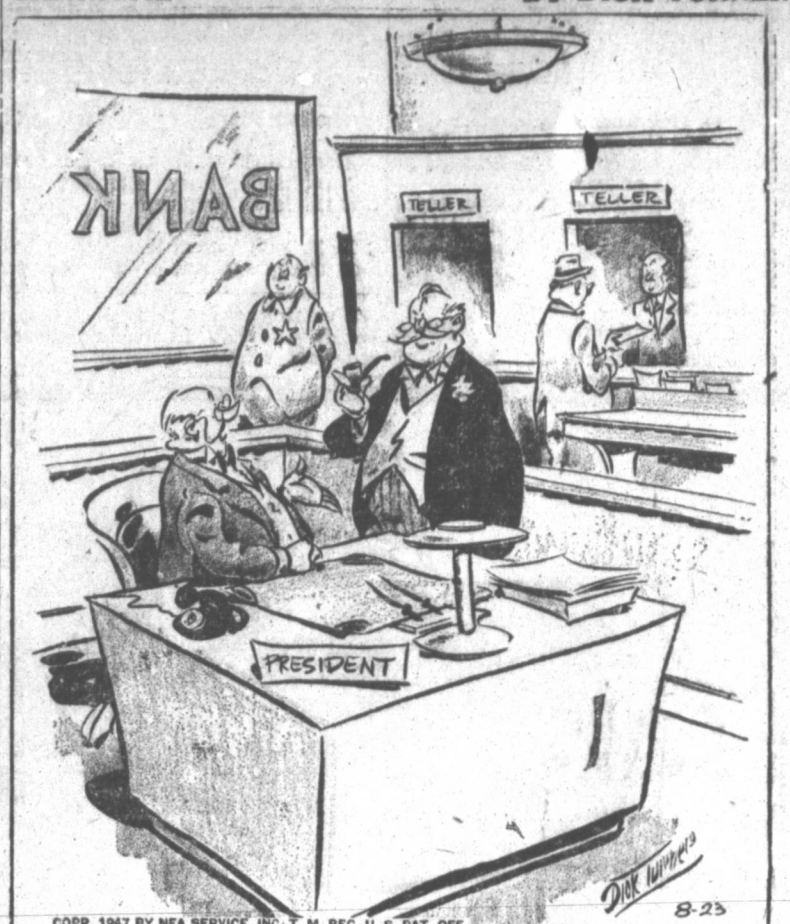

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—Two important things happened to Mark Evans, a mining engineer, during the snowed-out winter he spent alone in the Canadian wilderness. He found a vein of gold ore of fabulous promise. And he fell in love with Kathleen McDingle. When his miner's pick uncovered yellow metal he had come to look for, he knew his days of poverty were over. In the spring he would be able to sell his discovery for at least a million dollars. At night, when the wind beat against the tight-closed door of the old abandoned cabin he had made habitable, he would stretch out in front of his log fire and dream of what he would do with his riches. It was then that Kathleen McDingle came into his life in an odd way. While cleaning debris from a shelf over his bunk he found a scrap of newspaper apparently torn from the society section. It showed the face of a beautiful, sensitive girl with dark hair that hung to her shoulders. The caption beneath the picture said she was Kathleen McDingle of the McDingles of social register fame and that she was visiting friends in Montreal. "By golly I'm going to marry her," he told himself suddenly one night. To a lonely young man who had just found a gold mine it didn't seem a strange decision. He began making his plans. When spring came Evans went to a leading mining company with his ore samples. In a few weeks he closed a deal with the firm that assured him of his million—and more. He left at once to find Kathleen McDingle. The house was big and old and impressive. Mark felt a little timorous after ringing the doorbell. The door swung open and he found himself gawking into the face of a beautiful girl with long dark hair. "You're Kathleen?" he stammered. "Yes," she said pleasantly. "You're even prettier than the picture," said the bemused young engineer. "I don't know what—" she started to say uncertainly, but Evans didn't let her finish. His story came out in a swift torrent of words. He told her of his gold strike and the discovery

 (Subbing for Mackenzie)
 The Netherlands are rattling the skeleton of the late Japanese Field Marshal Count Jurochi Teruchi in the apparent hope of convincing world opinion that the Republic of Indonesia is an illegitimate offspring of Japan's "co-prosperity sphere." The Dutch appear to be reviving this argument as an offset to the widespread popular inclination to side with the Indonesians as underdogs against the Europeans who have ruled the Indies for three centuries. This inclination, obviously, is placing them at a disadvantage in all discussions of the Indonesian conflict.

Nubertus J. Van Nook, Holland's acting governor general in the Indies, this week revived the theme that Teruchi indoctrinated Indonesian President Soekarno and vice-president Mohammed Hatta with the independence tug. This theme was first expounded by Dutch spokesmen to a few of us foreign correspondents who arrived at Batavia on Sept. 15, 1945. We were called a "preoccupation party." There were not enough troops ready for a full-blown Allied occupation. That came more than a fortnight later when the trouble began.

A badly-advised Dutch government spokesman told us then that his government would offer amnesty to Indonesians who would give up ideas of overturning Dutch sovereignty. He said Soekarno and Hatta were Japanese puppets but he acknowledged that Teruchi had been expelled from Java by the Dutch for their political antics in behalf of independence long before Japanese influence had been imposed on their beautiful isle.

The villain now drawn into the piece—Count Teruchi—was nowhere about at that time. He was at his headquarters in Saigon, Indo-China.

Teruchi was quite a character and the British, in their wit-matching with him, departed from the norm of understatement to concede that he was a combination of all the evil they could think of—until they learned to pacify him with Scotch Whisky. "Operation Scotch" was a delicate business. Teruchi was opposite number to Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten and he was stubborn. Also, he was a cripple from a paralytic stroke some months before and was therefore excused from the Singapore surrender ceremony of Sept. 12, 1945.

However, Mountbatten had his own Royal Navy physician in Saigon with instructions to rally the aged and feeble Japanese, if possible, to a point where he would be able to stand unassisted and hand over his heirloom Samurai swords at some future time. Teruchi was an ornery convalescent and this had great military importance in the immediate post-war mop-up. He still commanded a great unbeaten Southeast Asia Army which outnumbered the Allied occupation forces. He was, of course, under the command of Mountbatten after the surrender but he demurred on many orders and for a while complicated the Allied occupation no end.

Then the British discovered his addiction to good Scotch. They devised a military-medico formula: Give the old rascal enough for purposes of amiability but not enough to kill him off before he could surrender.

Finally, Teruchi was carried in a common chair into the garden of a government palace at Saigon in mid-Autumn, 1945, and tottered the last few steps to give up his centuries-old swords. He said he would do all in his power to effect the orders of Mountbatten and kept his promise thereafter.

Absorbing more butter than plain bread, Teruchi is no longer considered slimming.

Average Length of Life of Americans Climbing Steadily

NEW YORK—The average length of life in American wage-earners and their families, which has been climbing steadily, passed the 65-year mark in 1946, according to the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. This represents a gain of 19 years in the average length of life in our industrial population in the past 35 years.

The actual figure for 1946, based upon the experience among company's active policyholders, was 65.57 years, or about two thirds of a year greater than that for 1945, and a gain of more than two years since 1941, our last prewar year. The increase in the average length of life has been greater for wage-earners and their families than for the population as a whole. In 1911-1912 the average for the industrial population was almost 6 1/2 years less than that in the general population. This bargain has been steadily reduced until now the difference is less than one year. The U. S. Marine Corps was organized and permanently established during the administration of President John Adams in 1798. Life jackets on shipboard are stuffed with reindeer hair.

LONG SKIRT RESISTANCE SPOTTY, SURVEY SHOWS

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor
Despite parades, placards and oratory condemning the return of long skirts, women will wear 'em and like 'em this fall, an Associated Press survey of stores, stylists and customers indicated today.

Happily oblivious of such organized resistance as the "Little Below the Knee Club" in Dallas and teenage demonstrations in other parts of the country, store executives the nation over reported almost unanimously that the new longer-skirted fall fashions are selling like hot cakes.

Dane F. Hahn, manager of the ready-to-wear group of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, said: "Acceptance of longer skirts is good throughout the country. To every action there is a reaction, and the present objection to long skirts are merely emphasizing the importance of the trend. In some quarters they may not be immediately accepted, but in general the public will go for longer dresses."

Typical of retail store comment was that of Ralph Leech, buyer of women's and misses' coat, suits and dresses for Saks Fifth Avenue, New York, who said: "We have found no customer resistance whatever to longer dresses. Women of all ages are crazy about them."

And from Dallas, the much publicized opposition center, comes this report.

The "Little Below the Knee Club" with the slogan "Hold that Hemline" now claims 1,500 members, but Laurel Marcus, president of the city's leading fashion store, Neiman-Marcus, reported: "Smart women everywhere are accepting gratefully the longer skirts."
