Cows Don't Show For Contest Fun

By DORIS E. WILSON
News Staff Writer

MIAMI — It was Reunion Time at the cow calling contest in Miami Saturday. The cows didn't come, but people did.

Former residents from all over the United States and the Panhandle of Texas, as well as longtime residents of that pretty little city, nestled in a valley, gathered under towering Elms to renew old ties of friendship.

No one, it seemed to a Non-Miamian, went by just one name. Nametags attached to summer dresses and short-sleeved sport shirts carried the first name, the old family name, and the new married name.

And no one was just the son or daughter of so-and-so. Anyone, who has lived in Miami 50 years or longer, could trace lineage a way back. And they did.

Beginning at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Old Timers began making their way to the American Legion Hall, where approximately 250 had registered before downtown Miami closed up shop and went to Roberts County Park for the Cow-Calling Contest and Miss Miami Beauty Contest.

Raking in the honor for being the eldest feminine Miami present was 92-year-old Mrs. Mabel Kivlehen who lived in Roberts County for more than 83 years before coming to Pampa to reside in a nursing home.

Mrs. Kivlehen recalled she and her parents, the Mark Cunninghams, came to Miami and in a covered wagon.

"We stopped in Mobeetie to spend the night. There were soldiers there and they were getting ready to leave the next morning. We left, too, and went to the Canadian River and bought some land."

And Mrs. Kivlehen has lived in Miami ever since.

After Ray L. Dickerson, 81, collected the prize for being the eldest male Old Timer at the roundup, he was not available for comments about his Miami heritage.

To Mrs. Lillian Walker Black, who now lives in Eugene, Ore., went the distinction of being the Miamiian who traveled the

Eggers Brings GOP Campaign To White Deer

WHITE DEER — Forceful leadership in the state capitol and a firm hand with riot leaders on college campuses were pledged by Republican gubernatorial candidate Paul Eggers, a Wichita Falls attorney, at the Carson County Republican Rally Saturday evening on the lawn of White Deer's Community Building.

Mrs. Rcy Simmons of White Deer was in charge of arrangements for the county-wide picnic which preceded remarks by Eggers and Malouf Abraham of Canadian, who is seeking the GOP post of state senator.

"If young people go into schools buildings on state property and deny other young people their right to be there, we wouldn't wait a minute. We would move in and throw them out," Eggers said.

Eggers urged his constituents to have a winning attitude through the summer campaign months ahead.

Addressing remarks to young Republicans, Eddy Vickers of Skellytown, Area Three president of Young Republicans of Texas, urged getting involved with politics. "It is a good way to learn what being an American is all about... an opportunity to get to know candidates and their platforms."

Vicker's area covered 31 counties from Floydada north, including most of the 18th congressional district.

Gray Countains Give Nod To Lefors Candidate

Phil Cates of Lefors won the approval of Gray Countians Saturday as voters in the Democratic runoff elections gave him a margin of 1600 votes to Ray Trospser's 807 for the party's nomination for representative to the Texas Legislature.

Trospser, of Higgins, trailed in all Gray County precincts, including absentee voting.

Though all counties in the 79th Legislative District had not reported, Cates appeared to have at least a 1,000 vote lead late Saturday night.

Jack Hazelwood of Amarillo took a fast lead over Max Sherman, also of Amarillo, in the 31st Senatorial District race.

In Gray County, Hazelwood polled 1,268 votes to Sherman's 937.

Complete results for the district were not available late Saturday.

Area Results

Area election results in Saturday's Democratic runoff are as follows:

Roberts County
31st Senatorial District: Jack Hazelwood, 174; Max Sherman, 174. 79th Legislative District: Phil Cates, 178; Ray Trospser, 162. County Judge: Newton Cox, 214; Kelley Patterson, 138.

Wheeler County
31st Senatorial District: Sherman, 798; Hazelwood, 709. 79th Legislative District: Trospser, 827; Cates, 599. County Judge: George Hefley, 920; Garland Abernathy, 578.

Hemphill County
31st Senatorial District: Sherman, 306; Hazelwood, 222. 79th Legislative District: Trospser, 383; Cates, 135. County Judge: Bonnie Conyers, 283; Ray Risley, 257.

WEATHER

PAMPA AND VICINITY — Clear in partly cloudy today and Monday. High today, upper 80s. Low tonight, mid-50s. High Monday, upper 80s. Winds variable 5-15 mph.

FRIED CHICKEN and campaign talk were featured at the Carson County Republican Women's county-wide picnic Saturday at Community Building in White Deer. Participants in both areas of interest were from the left, Mrs. Bob Poole of Groom, Carson County Republican Women's Club president; Republican gubernatorial candidate Paul Eggers of Wichita Falls; Dr. David Levy of Groom, Eggers' Carson County campaign chairman; and Buddy Biggers of Skellytown, Area Three president of Young Republicans of Texas. ### LOTS TO DECIDE

Epperson, Hinton Tie In Commissioner's Race

Candidates for the post of place on the November general County Commissioner from election ballot.

Don Hinton and W.C. Epperson each received 682 votes in the election. In absentee elections and will have to cast lots to determine who gets a ballotting. Epperson edged Hinton 88 votes to 85.

Dear Abby: We Seem To Have A Problem...

A 20-year-old woman told Pampa police Friday night she married a 36-year-old man in Pampa Wednesday.

A 21-year-old woman told Pampa police Friday night she married the same man in Mexico May 17.

Police are investigating to see whether or not charges of bigamy can be filed against the man.

According to reports, officers received a call from Highland General Hospital about 10 p.m. Friday. Hospital spokesmen told police there was a woman there in a very nervous state.

Upon arrival, police found the 21-year-old woman. She had been given a sedative to calm her down and she told officers her husband had married another woman.

Officers located the man and the woman alleged to be his second wife at the hospital. The three were taken to the police department for questioning.

The 21-year-old said she had married the man in Mexico in May. She told police she had a marriage license, but her husband tore it up.

The man said he didn't remember what happened in Mexico because he was drunk.

The 20-year-old woman said she was married to the man in Pampa last Wednesday. She cried and said she didn't believe he was already married.

Police consulted District Attorney Guy Hardin, who told them he would consult with all parties involved Monday.

Officers then advised the man and two women to go their separate ways for the night.

According to Article 13.26 of the Texas Election Code, candidates receiving an equal number of votes in the runoff elections must cast lots as prescribed by the party's executive committee in the county in which the election was held.

Party chairman Harold Comer said the committee would decide how lots would be cast Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the 31st District courtroom.

Hinton, who was present in the county clerk's office after the count was completed, indicated he would rather draw high card.

Epperson could not be reached for comment. (See TIE, Page Two)

The man took his second "wife" to stay with friends. He took his first "wife" to a motel. The police officer who worked the case Friday night called in sick Saturday.

The man said he didn't remember what happened in Mexico because he was drunk.

Elliot Richardson New HEW Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon removed Robert N. Finch as secretary of a demoralized, politics-ridden Department of Health, Education and Welfare Saturday and made him a White House counselor with cabinet rank.

Finch will be succeeded at HEW by Undersecretary of State Elliot L. Richardson, 49, pending Senate confirmation. Richardson's reputation as a hard-nosed, innovative administrator will be put to a severe test in a department so big that many in Washington regard it as unmanageable.

"I believe this change is in the best interest of the whole administration," President told newsmen at the White House with Finch and Richardson at his side. "It will bring to the White House a man I need. It will bring to HEW a man with great administrative experience."

Finch's ouster—an aide said he had not requested the transfer—ended a stormy tenure at HEW during which he found himself criticized from within and outside the department and repeatedly overruled by the White House.

"It's a higher calling but a lower salary," Finch cracked about his new job. He received $60,000 a year as HEW secretary; the top pay for a White House counselor is $42,500.

The President said Finch, a close friend, political ally and fellow Californian, would advise him on a broad range of matters, with emphasis on education and the problems of youth, and would travel with him on foreign and domestic trips.

"I regret having him leave HEW but I need him here," said Nixon, who said he had not had Finch's advice on many problems in the past. Indications were that Finch had little choice in the matter.

"The President just called him over to the White House Friday and said he wanted him as chief counsel," said HEW Undersecretary John G. Veneman. "Only he put it in tougher terms."

Veneman said Finch had not asked for reassignment and had "mixed emotions" about leaving HEW.

Finch, 44, was administrative assistant to Nixon as vice president in the Eisenhower administration, directed his 1960 presidential campaign and was lieutenant governor of California when Nixon brought him back to Washington in early 1969 to join his new cabinet.

His position at HEW deteriorated over the months to the point where 1,800 of his employees signed a petition questioning the quality of his leadership. He agreed to meet his departmental critics face-to-face nearly three weeks ago, but backed out at the last minute because of illness.

His doctors said Finch was suffering "extreme fatigue." Finch's troubles began when the White House rejected his choice of Dr. John H. Knowles, director of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, to be assistant HEW secretary for Health and Scientific Affairs.

He lost his civil rights chief, Leon E. Panetta, who resigned complaining that the Nixon administration was deliberately retreating from civil rights commitments of previous Democratic administrations. Finch himself got nowhere in his fight against the White House's approach to school desegregation.

General Dynamics Plans Large Layoff

FORT WORTH (UPI) — General Dynamics Corp. said Friday it will lay off more than half the total work force of its Fort Worth plant. The announcement came after the company learned its contract bid was rejected for the proposed B1 supersonic bomber.

Company spokesmen expressed "severe disappointment" over losing the multi-billion dollar B1 contract to North American Rockwell of Los Angeles.

The company said it will lay off 14,000 workers by the end of 1971 unless production is extended on the company's controversial F111 fighter-bomber.

"We feel that our B1 proposal was a sound one," GD announced, "and that our organization has unparalleled experience in the development and production of supersonic strategic aircraft."

"Our plan for the immediate future is to bend every effort toward keeping the F111 tactical fighter-bomber and the F111 strategic bombers in production beyond their currently planned completion in 1972."

The F111 was grounded recently after several of the planes crashed.

"The F111 is just starting its operational career with the Strategic Air Command and many improvements can be expected in later models," the company said.

longest distance. She had lived in Miami about seven or eight years as a young girl and had married there. Even though she has been away more than 50 years, she still considers it "home."

Immediately following a noonday picnic, Miamians gathered around a raised platform in the shade as 10 pretty teenagers, dressed in summer frocks, lined up for final judging in the Miss Miami Beauty Contest.

A pretty, 17-year-old, red-haired, green-eyed Miami High School junior Jeina Talley was crowned Miss Miami from a field of 10 contestants. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Talley of Miami.

And to Marilyn White, daughter of Miami Baptist Church pastor, Rev. and Mrs. T. W. White, went the title of "Miss Congeniality."

Miss Talley was crowned and presented a dozen red roses by the 1966 Miss Miami, Katie Ehmman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ehmman.

Sumptuous picnic dinners had settled enough by the time the anticipated Cow Calling Contest event rolled around.

Mounting the platform, amid unsolicited advice from admiring friends, were nine feathery contestants. Sharon Pickett, Mildred Cunningham, Shirley Brogdon, Jane Bright, Sylvia Martin, G. L. Beane, Addie M. Lard, Theima Paris, and Kathleen Green.

Winning a "hoonoooy" that could be heard clearly by the judges, who were hidden out across the creek under some bushes, was John Brogdon who lives on a ranch northwest of Miami, called in the first prize of $50. And she does "call cows occasionally," she said.

Second prize of $25 went to Mrs. Pitcock.

Winner of the $50 first prize in the men's division went to Charles Clark of the 7-Bar Ranch near Miami. Even though his "hoonoooy" could be heard the clearest by the judges, a friend confided Clark is most of his cow-calling days from an airplane and a horn.

Second place winner was Rex Johnson of Miami.

It's educational to attend a Cow Calling Contest. First, you learn in a city-held contest, no cows come.

Judges are stationed far enough away from the cow-calling area they cannot see the contestants and can only hear their voices.

Contestants are numbered and judges identify the calls by one, two, three, etc.

There are some finer points to the art of calling cows. It was noticed Saturday the two champion cow-callers had similar techniques.

To achieve a bone-chilling, spine-curling call, that cows just love, the trick seems to be to cup your hands around your mouth just so, tilt your head to just the right angle, lean heavily on your right foot and point your left toe.

The cows will come everytime.

Honored guests, in addition to the Old Timers, who have long kept the Miami tradition of friendliness alive, were residents of Girls Town, near Borger.

Republican candidate for governor, Paul Eggers paid a surprise visit, shook hands around and had his picture taken with the 1970 Miss Miami. A dance beginning at 9 Saturday night in the County Barn was to wind up the festivities until next year.

Home Burglarized Of Fishing Gear

Police Saturday were investigating the burglary of a residence at 1018 S. Schmieder.

According to reports, the occupant of the house, E. Jack Ironmonger, told officers he had been in New Mexico and upon his return found $125 worth of fishing equipment missing from his home.

Among the items taken from the house were two fishing reels, a tackle box containing assorted fishing equipment, and an ice cooler.

Reports said the house was entered by picking a lock on the door.

RECALLING MIAMI'S early days are Mrs. Lillian Walker Black, former Miamian, now living in Eugene, Ore., who traveled the longest distance and 92-year-old Mrs. Mable Kiviehen, who was the eldest Old Timer at Miami's Cow Calling Contest and Pioneer Roundup Saturday. See story Page 1.

$31 MILLION

State May Lose Money After Crawford Decision

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas could lose $31 million in federal highway aid because Attorney General Crawford Martin changed his mind about ambulance regulations, UPI learned Saturday.

Martin's about-face May 25 on ambulance equipment standards came after Rep. William S. Healy, D-Paducah, had urged that Martin reverse his opinion. The attorney general had originally upheld the State Health Department's authority to require minimum equipment and two trained attendants on ambulances in Texas.

The equipment and attendant requirements are part of federal guidelines that if the state fails to meet—could result in the loss of 10 per cent of the $270 million highway construction funds and all of the $4 million highway safety funds Texas is slated to receive from Washington this year.

Authoritative sources Saturday told UPI that Healy, chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, and Rep. Richard C. Slack, D-Pecos, the committee's vice chairman, demanded Martin's original judgment be changed.

The sources said the demands were made on Dr. James E. Peavy, state health commissioner.

Peavy said a number of ambulance companies from small towns contacted him to express their concern—primarily over the proposed regulation to require two attendants on each ambulance.

"In some of the smaller areas that make very few calls it would be prohibitive to have men on an ambulance all the time," Peavy said. "We're anxious to keep all of the companies in operation."

Peavy said he asked Martin to reconsider the original opinion upholding the state agency's authority to promulgate such a regulation because "some of the ambulance people just felt that his opinion was questionable."

Health department workers charged with enforcement of ambulance regulations said they were "flabbergasted" when Martin issued the second opinion and "surprised" that Peavy even requested the reconsideration.

Woods explained three directors will be elected to represent District 13-North on the state board. Awards for outstanding programs of public education and successful fund-raising Crusades will be presented at the luncheon.

According to recent figures, Texas is leading the nation in the largest Crusade gain for 1970. The Texas Crusade goal is $3,000,000. Gray County has raised $7,958 to date.

Delegates expected to attend the district meeting from this county are: Mrs. Bob Andis, vice president; Mrs. O. C. Penn, secretary; Mrs. Kermit Lawson, District 13-north director, and Mrs. Jim Terry, local director.

Smith said Friday the latest transfer is needed because revenue in the DPS's drivers license fund is falling short of estimates used by the Legislature in writing the state budget. The governor said Col. Wilson E. Speir, DPS director, alerted him to the problem several months ago.

"We decided to watch collections closely and prepare a course of action that would insure continued funding of DPS programs at the level contemplated by the Legislature," Smith said.

Earlier this year Smith transferred $13.5 million from medical school construction funds to the Welfare Department when that agency faced the prospect of having to cut aid payments. Further transfers to the Welfare Department when that agency faced the prospect of having to cut aid payments. Further transfers to the Welfare Department are expected in the fall.

In April Smith transferred $50,000 from unbudgeted funds of the meat inspection program to the Animal Health Commission.

Neither Nixon nor Finch mentioned the furor in their meeting with newsmen.

The President said Richardson was the "best qualified man in the country" to take over at HEW.

A former law clerk to the late Justice Felix Frankfurter and former assistant HEW secretary for legislation in the Eisenhower administration, Richardson was a U.S. attorney in Massachusetts, lieutenant governor and state attorney general before Nixon appointed him to the No. 2 post in the State Department in January, 1969.

Richardson took part in the planning sessions of the National Security Council that led to Nixon's controversial decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia.

Residents in the area of Hobart and Florida streets got a nose full of natural gas early Saturday morning when an automobile went out of control and knocked a gas meter from the ground, causing gas to leak for almost 30 minutes.

According to police reports, a car driven by Donald Lee Brunson, 20, 2137 N. Banks, was traveling north in the 1000 block of Hobart street when his car crossed the center dividing line, struck a curb, knocked the gas meter from the ground, and came to rest against a light pole.

Pioneer Natural Gas Co. employees were called to turn off the leaking gas, but it was several minutes before they arrived and several more minutes before they were able to get under the car to close the leaking gas line.

Damages were estimated at $500 to the car and $50 to the gas meter.

Brunson was taken to city jail and booked for driving while intoxicated.

Influential members of Congress dissatisfied with his presentation of Nixon's welfare reform proposals, ordered Finch to rewrite them, and representatives of the National Welfare Rights Organization occupied Finch's office one day in protest.

Within the department, the biggest in government after the Defense Department, there were complaints that Finch was letting the federal health programs go to ruin, that he was paying too much attention to California politics, and that a lack of direction at the top had turned the department into a jungle of political infighting.

The friendliest stretch of highway in the Panhandle is the 23 miles of West US Highway 60 between Pampa and Miami. Everyone waves and smiles. It might be a friend or neighbor passing. Lots of former Miamians now turned Pampans attended the annual Cow Calling and Pioneer Roundup in Miami Saturday. Among them Louise Sewell, also attending the outdoor event were E.C. and Polly Sidwell, Rex McAnelly standing under a shade tree talking business. Nona Payne, who was going on to the Carson County Republican Roundup in White Deer. Republican governor's candidate Paul Eggers shaking hands. Mildred Cunningham of Miami taking notes. Miamian Juanita Haynes playing the piano like only she can. People walking across a swaying expansion bridge that spans a creek leading into Roberts County Park. ## Heart Seminar In Perryton For Nurses

The Texas Heart Association and District 23 of Texas Nurses Association will sponsor a heart seminar for registered nurses and professional nursing students in the Perryton Country Club June 10.

The one-day seminar will start with registration at 8:30 a.m., according to Miss Vernel Meador, District TNA president and Highland General Hospital's director of nursing services.

Planning to attend from Pampa are RNS, Geneva Gobin, Beverly Kempa, Ellen Caskey, Jessie Newberry, Amy Russell, Helena Stubbs, Melody Stewart, Bessie Franklin, Marcella Helbert, Frances Prall, Dorothy McMurtry, and Ruth Steger.

Miss Meador said several licensed vocational nurses and 13 nursing students will attend to hear the discussions of outstanding professionals of Amarillo.

Speakers are Mrs. Beth Perdue, RN, of the instructional staff at Northwest Texas Hospital; Dr. Henry E. Martinez, thoracic and cardiovascular surgeon; Don E. Gholston, Cardiologist; Miss Maxine Bodeen, RN, assistant chief of nursing service, Veterans Administration Hospital, Amarillo.

Woods said the district meetings provide an opportunity for unit leaders to examine new local cancer control program measures and to "share ideas that have worked for other county units in the District."

"A special feature of the meeting will be a Plans and Evaluations Session where state, district and local volunteers will establish district program objectives for the coming year," Woods added.

The guest speaker for the luncheon session will discuss the society's new million dollar clinical research investigation program.

THE COLUMN item last week about children needing trees for a happy childhood... triggered the memory of Jean Hogsett, who recalled that during her school days at Sam Houston back in the 19XX's an organization... probably the Pampa Garden Club... presented each student with a small tree to plant for their very own... Alas and alack, Jean said, her tree died... but some of the others didn't... today they are sturdy reminders of those carefree days... and are providing beauty and shade for the present generation of school children... there's a bit of good philosophy here... but we'll let our readers do their own philosophizing.

MOST ADMIRED DEPARTMENT: Katie Vincent, whose twinkling wit, brightens the days of those who know her... and whose love of people and interest in them is as great now as it was when the Panhandle was a pup!

THE GRAND OLD PARTY is beginning to light the fire under political campaign cauldrons... starting off with a reception for all Panhandle candidates Friday evening in the Continental Room of the Holiday Inn West in Amarillo... lots of political dignitaries present to shake hands and exchange views with the press and constituents... among them the Republican gubernatorial candidate, Paul Eggers, who likes the air and the support he receives from the Panhandle... and while the voting had not been completed as of this column deadline, 18th congressional party leaders were expected to name Mrs. Jack Hart of Gruver as the new district... committee women to replace Frances Fatherson, who resigned from the post last Fall... Carson County GOP supporters put all their lances in one big basket for a county-wide picnic Saturday night in White Deer City Park, where Paul Eggers again was candidate guest of honor... hear via the political grapevine that Bob and Marty Price are expected back in Pampa for a visit the weekend of June 20... not sure whether Marty and the children will remain for the summer or not... but they have so many friends here who are hoping so!

TOO SAD DEPARTMENT: The April 18 tornado is still echoing through the hallowed halls of the city, chamber, and county governments... and the latest sad sound, of course, is there will be no Fourth of July Fireworks Display and no early August Top O' Texas Rodeo due to the damage at the Recreation Park arena.

WE PROTEST: Absolutely no screen or on-camera credit was given Pampa's Beryl Nash, when her group "The Union Tunesters" presented "Tell It Like It Is" Tuesday night over Channel 10... Beryl, of whom Pampa and her father, B. R. Nash, are mighty proud, wrote and directed the modern-day spiritual program performed by singers from Elk City, Okla... the music was litting... and the words had a message couched in soul music.

SUMMERTIME HAPPENING: There's been a round of parties and dinners for Laura Imel's brother, Harold Barnes of Washington, D.C., who's been here visiting for the past 10 days... ## Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL, Executive Secretary ARC
Our chapter of the American Red Cross is happy to announce an addition to the Water Safety Instructor, staff, Duncan McCarroll, 2119 Christine St. Duncan took WSI training at Trinity University. While he is home for the summer he will be working with the Red Cross swimming program.

The Red Cross Board met in the Red Cross office Tuesday morning with 10 persons present. They voted to meet the 2nd Tuesday in July in the Red Cross office at 7 a.m. Reports of standing committees were given and plans for the summer months were made. Swimming classes at the Pampa Youth Center have been completed and the following boys and girls have received beginner cards. They were Luke Stiggins, Pam Prather, Laura Stolla, Christine Stolla, Stephanie Fontenot, Phillip Fontenot, Stan Williams, Julie Hampton, Donna Ward, Michael Mayes, Kirk Sanders, Deanne Foxworthy, Adela Swanson, and Jolene Black.

In another class of Beginners, the following passed and received their cards Roxanne Kirby, Matt Kirby, Timmy Hartin, Polly Gowdy, Laurie Hampton, Darryl Prather, Robbie Cunningham, Randy Cunningham, William Lewis, Kathy Kite, Don Kite, and Brenda Kite.

The following received their Advanced Beginner Cards were Jerri Carter, Stephanie Fontenot, Zackery Adcock, Katie Sharp, Tony Hartin, Vickey Carter, Cheryl Miser, Scott Barrett, and Rob Williams.

The following received Intermediate cards Robbie Lee, Scott Barrett, Stephanie Fontenot, Dusty Neef, Melinda Collingsworth, Lezlee Lee, Penny Miser, Amy Turner, Jerry Carter, and Vickey Carter. These classes were taught by Mrs. Jackie Marlar, and Mrs. Nell Carter, both WSI for Red Cross.

There are nine new Red Cross Volunteers who will serve juice to the patients at Highland General Hospital during the summer months on Saturday morning and afternoon, and on Sunday afternoon.

They are Teresa Akst, Debra Scheu, Laura McAnnely, Hudson, Kim Lloyd, Debbie Griffin, Michelle Norton and Susan Morrison. We are proud of these girls and know that they will make patients stay in Highland General Hospital more enjoyable. The girls serve juice to the patients, deliver flowers, mail, magazines, run errands and help in many ways. Several of the girls are working with the handicapped school this summer.

Registrations are going fast, so if you have not registered your child for the summer swim program, come by the Red Cross office and get your child in our Learn to Swim Program this summer. Fee for the use of the pool is $1 and lessons will be taught at the municipal pool.

Some lady left her sunglasses in the Red Cross Office when she registered her children. Come by and pick them up as you might need them this summer.

Stanley Belt, one of our First Aid Instructors is moving to Plainview. Stanley will be on the police force in Plainview and plans to go to the Baptist College there. We will transfer Stan's card to Plainview.

Swedish Leader Visits U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Swedish Prime Minister Olaf Palme has assured U.S. officials that despite sharp differences over Southeast Asia policies, his government condemns the hurling of eggs and racial insults at the American ambassador.

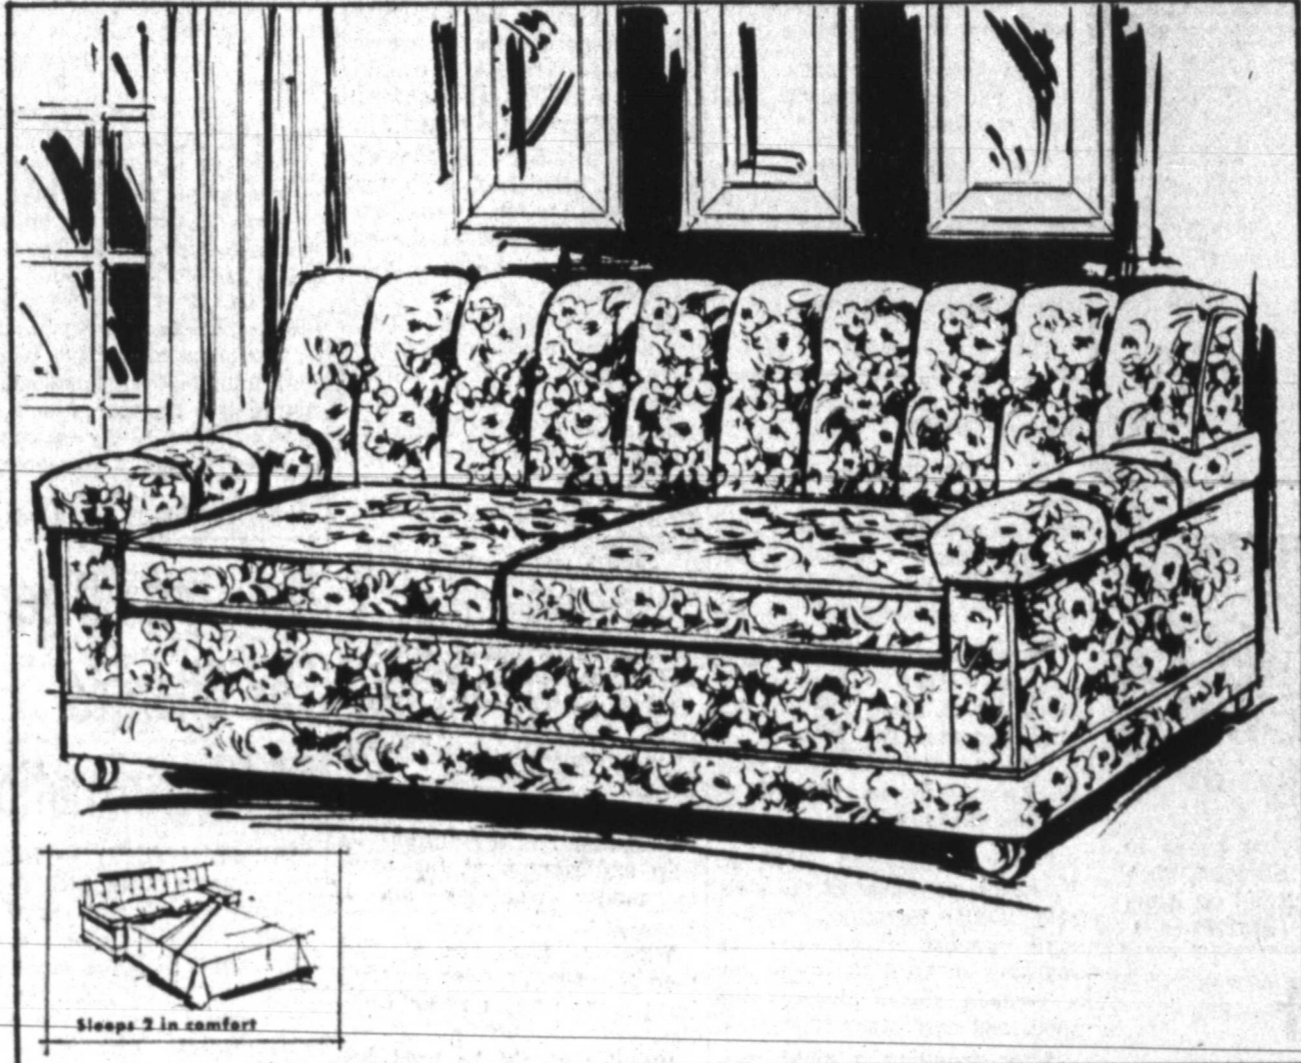

Palme met with Secretary of State William P. Rogers Thursday for a three-hour lunch—described by State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey as "most cordial"—to discuss world problems. The Swedish official is in the United States on a three-day private visit.

He told Rogers "that recent attacks on U.S. Ambassador Jerome Holland and his family have been the work of a small number of Swedes and do not reflect a majority viewpoint in the Scandinavian country, according to diplomatic sources.

Careful Eye Kept On Storms By Citizen Band Radio Club

MOBILE UNITS of Pampa's Citizen Band Radio Club move into out-lying areas to watch clouds when threatening weather strikes the area. Above, Ocie Stewart, club member, radios a report of cloud conditions from his post near Price Road on Kentucky Street.

By BEN KECK
News Staff Writer

They go out and sit on lonely country roads and watch the rain and the lightning and the movement of the clouds.

They keep in constant contact with police departments and base stations.

They help keep the public informed as to the intensity of the severe storm. And if the storm strikes, they are ready and willing to help in rescue and cleanup operations.

They are the members of Top O' Texas Citizen Band Radio Club. They are on Operation Weather Watch.

The CBR Club has a membership of 23 families. When severe weather threatens the area, fathers, mothers, and children go into action to watch the storm.

The men usually go into outlying areas. The women stand by at home and operate base stations. The children do whatever else needs to be done to keep officials abreast of pending disaster.

Penny Pennington, 1515 N. Faulkner, president of the club, said CBR members worked until almost dawn on the morning of April 18 — the day a tornado ripped through the south and east edges of Pampa.

After spending a night watching the clouds, they were the first to see the tornado. They were the first to notify police disaster had stricken the city.

Police Chief Jim Conner said the city police department appreciates the help of the club.

"They provide us with a CB radio," Conner said. "The CB system is separate from our police communications network, and a separate radio is required to maintain contact with the CB units."

Conner also said the club is a great help because they can watch the storm from farther out of the city than local police units can.

"We certainly do appreciate their help," the Chief said. "They are always anxious to help us anyway they can, anytime we call them."

D.W. Swain, 1041 N. Faulkner, the club's Weather Watch chairman, said Weather Watch is the club's most important community service.

"People hear a storm has hit the area," he said. "They have relatives here and are unable to get through by telephone. Part of our program is to relay messages."

When a tornado hit Miami two years ago, members of Pampa's CBR Club set up radio relay teams from Pampa to Miami. They carried food, clothes and other supplies to the victims.

The club has three Red Cross approved First Aid instructors. Most of the members have had advanced First Aid training. The club itself is affiliated with the Red Cross disaster unit.

Most members of the club have at least two radio units — a base station in the home and a mobile unit in the car. Some members have as many as five radios.

Club members can recall many experiences not connected with the Weather Watch operations. Like the winter of 1968, when the club received a call from Panhandle to help search for an 80-year-old woman who had wandered from a rest home.

And one club member recalls an incident at Lake Meredith when the radio came in handy for getting help to a boat that had caught fire on the lake.

Other than Weather Watch, CBR Club members contact law enforcement officials whenever they come upon automobile accidents and other emergencies. They radio for help and remain at the scene to render whatever aid is necessary.

Whether you are a club member or not, owning a citizen band radio carries responsibilities.

"Radios cannot be used just for the heck of it," Pennington said. "The Federal Communications Commission prohibits idle chit-chat. A CBR unit has to be used for business or emergency purposes."

CBR club members said they have considerable investments in their radio equipment. A car unit can cost anywhere from $100 to $500.

Club members have faith in the radio units and people who operate them.

"They are great for traveling," said Pennington. "I'd rather have a radio than a spare tire."

Pennington said many people who own and operate citizen band radio equipment are not members of the club.

"This is a family club," he said. "We try to provide a service to the community; a service our children can be a part of."

The 1970 officers of the club are Pennington, president; Jim Miser, vice-president; Carolyn Hood, treasurer; Ida Hartman, secretary; Johnnie Nichols, publicity chairman; Rex Taylor, program chairman; and Swain, Weather Watch chairman.

Board of Directors are Perry Nichols, J.W. Hartman, and Lloyd Rash.

Wallace Supporters Suggest Brewer Bought Black Votes

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — "What kind of a deal would a man make for 250,000 votes?"

The backers of George C. Wallace supplied both the question and the answer, contending that if elected governor, Albert P. Brewer, Wallace's opponent, would name 175 blacks to the state highway patrol.

Brewer took over the governor's chair two years ago when Laurleen Wallace, who was elected as a stand-in for her husband, died of cancer. Wallace soundly whipped Brewer last Tuesday in a runoff primary in which Brewer was attempting to win a four year term of his own.

Although Brewer hammered away on a variety of issues, including schools, law and order, and taxes, Wallace hit upon the one that jarred the voters into action.

He warned repeatedly of the "black bloc vote" and said if he suffered defeat, blacks would take over the reins of state government and hold them for the next 50 years.

Brewer, who called the campaign the "dirtiest" he'd seen in his political career, lamented that race was "the one issue we couldn't win against."

Wallace, long accustomed to having Alabama voters rubber-stamp his every campaign bid, found himself in trouble following the first primary May 5. Brewer, while failing to get a majority, had outpolled him by 11,000 votes and Wallace faced an uphill fight.

On the night of the first primary, as he sat in front of his color television set and watched Brewer take the lead, he began to talk more and more about something he'd mentioned, but had not emphasized, in the first campaign—the "black bloc vote."

By the time he made his speech to campaign workers that night, Wallace had apparently decided on the issue which he rode right down to the wire.

In the speeches that followed, Wallace repeated over and over that Brewer received "250,000 black votes" and asked what kind of a deal would a man make for 250,000 votes? Wallace forces answered their own question in newspaper advertisements.

Wallace produced returns from black precincts in the first primary which indicated Brewer carried them by tremendous margins. "Why, there's more opposition in Sosivet Russia," Wallace cracked.

Seeking to again take the initiative, Brewer was forced to play down his "performance, not promises" pledge and make some promises.

He said he would reduce the cost of automobile tags and abolish the sales tax on drugs and medicine—which he called a "tax on misery."

Despite this, and the pointed references to tax hikes during the Wallace administration, Wallace set the tempo of the runoff campaign.

Brewer could not stem the Wallace tide.

When it was over Wallace wished Brewer "luck" and said his election had assured Alabama a continued "place in the sun."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — My naturally sunny disposition balks at making bad news worse. But there is no way to avoid it.

Here's the bad news: According to a report released this week by the National Commission on Product Safety, three major federal consumer protection programs are largely ineffective.

And here's what makes it worse: In at least one program, even such protection as we are getting apparently is unconstitutional.

The Constitution, by dint of the 14th Amendment, entitles all citizens to "equal protection of the laws," right? Okay, now let us examine a situation recently encountered by Glyn V. Harris of Dalton, Ga.

Seems that Harris made inquiry at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare regarding federal standards for flammable fabrics, which was one of the safety programs included in the aforementioned report.

Learns about Standards

Houston Citizens File Charges Of Discrimination

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston area citizens have filed formal charges of unlawful racial and ethnic discrimination against four major Houston employers, 13 related unions and two major referral unions, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission announced Thursday.

William H. Brown, chairman of the EEO commission, said his office is forbidden by law to reveal the names of those charged.

"The companies charged have all been served with copies of the charges," Brown said. "So they know who they are."

The commission said those charged discriminate in recruiting, hiring and upgrading blacks, Mexican-Americans and women.

The unions were invited to appear before the commission at hearings this week, but all refused to appear. None of the companies charged was invited to the hearings.

Specifically, he wanted to know about proposed standards for carpeting in institutions participating in the Medicare program. Here is what he learned.

1. Under the flammable fabric act, the Commerce Department has adopted the so-called "tablet" or "pill" test as a national flammability standard for carpets used in homes, offices, theaters, etc.

2. Under the Hill-Burton Act, HEW has adopted the "Steiner Tunnel Test" as a standard for carpets installed in health care facilities built with federal funds.

3. Both of these tests, plus "any other appropriate testing procedures," will be considered in setting standards for Medicare facilities.

Harris contends, and I agree, that the dual test standards amounts to unequal protection of the laws.

Tests Cause Discrimination

Should it develop that the Commerce Department has the safer test, citizens under its carpet jurisdiction "would necessarily receive the greatest amount of protection," Harris points out.

But should it develop that HEW has the safer test, citizens under its carpet jurisdiction would be better protected.

Either way, we obviously have large groups of Americans who are second class citizens, rug test-wise.

Hijackers Get Jail Sentences

MIAMI (UPI) — Two airplane hijackers were sentenced to jail in two separate federal courts Thursday—the hijacker of a light plane getting 20 years and the pirate of a jetliner only two.

Former teacher Thomas George Washington, 29, was sentenced to two years by Federal District Court Judge Joe Eaton on a charge of interfering with the crew of an airliner.

Washington, who had his 2-year-old daughter with him, hijacked to Cuba an Eastern Airlines Philadelphia-Miami flight that carried 151 persons on Dec. 20, 1968.

Pampa Man Becomes A Legend As Chaplain In Army R&R Center

(EDITOR'S NOTE: — The following article is a reprint from the May 2, 1970 "Pacific Stars and Stripes" about a former Pampa resident, Major Wesley Geary, now an army chaplain stationed in Hawaii. He was graduated from Carver High School and Texas College in Tyler before going on to obtain a graduate degree in religion from Southern Methodist University in Dallas. The son of Mrs. Naska Powell, now living in Pueblo, Colo., Major Geary began his ministry at the age of 11 in St. Mark's CME Church here in Pampa.)

By SPEC. 5 JOE BARBERIS SCHOPIELD BARBACKS, Hawaii (Sp) — In June, Ft. De Russy's Rest and Recuperation (R&R) Center loses a legend.

That legend is Chaplain (Maj.) Wesley Geary of Pampa, Texas, whose hilarious antics have calmed women's electrified emotions for nearly three years as they have waited for their loved ones arriving on R&R from the Republic of Vietnam.

Completing his tour of duty then, Chaplain Geary will return to the mainland for reassignment. His fame, passed on by word of mouth by returning wives, has already spread throughout the U.S.

What appears to be a combination of spontaneous and planned confusion is in reality a landmark in the art of psychology. His routine makes the women laugh and is beautifully effective. His "confusion" is perfectly organized.

Although Chaplain Geary relies heavily on humor during his presentation, much serious and valuable information is dispensed, and the women appreciate his informal manner. According to the chaplain, women so nervous and preoccupied cannot be given a cold, military-like lecture — the information would pass right over them — so he instituted the present method for his briefing.

His presentation begins as the plane touches down at the airport. While the men are processing through customs and public health and riding to the R&R Center, Chaplain Geary keeps up a steady barrage of running commentary, ranging from a block-by-block description of the servicemen's bus ride to how new arrivals are to be greeted in the best Hawaiian tradition.

"I do this about 10 times a week," said the Chaplain. "The routine changes a little and I try to bring in different things. Sometimes we are late gathering information on flights, and I have to spend more time talking. I try to work in new things to kill time and have fun with those waiting. You can really have fun with parents."

Emerging from the semi-carnival atmosphere are also many words of wisdom. "I try to tell the women about the services available at the R&R Center and what it has to offer," continued Captain Geary. "I warn them about thefts and safeguarding valuables. I use the purse routine all the time and also the one concerning keys."

WESLEY GEARY

For the casual visitor who aimlessly wanders into the R&R Center during Chaplain Geary's purse routine, the experience is like a bombshell. As 125 women look on, two burly MPs lead a handcuffed, loudly protesting Chaplain Geary, who has some six to eight purses on one arm, back into the R&R Center.

It's all designed to acquaint women with the dangers of carelessly leaving their purses in unsecured areas or with strangers, and it starts with the chaplain asking several women for their purses to use in a demonstration. They comply, he walks out, the MPs walk in, and the point is made graphically clear.

"I use the key routine to emphasize leaving the hotel room key at the hotel," said Chaplain Geary, "rather than carry it around with them and possibly losing it."

After the briefing, the women form two lines through which their loved ones pass as the men leave the buses and enter the R&R Center. Despite the tension, many humorous incidents take place during the "big moment" when couples and families are reunited.

"Well, there have been some then watch their wives race after them with outstretched arms to catch them... and some girls just simply pass girls reaching out for the same guy... one girl asked what kind of money was used in Hawaii... I've also seen guys walk right by their wives and humorous ones," added Chaplain Geary. "I've seen two out."

Chaplain Geary's briefings have not always gone that smoothly. In fact, at one time some women met their loved ones at the airport while others waited at the R&R Center. The result: continuous delays, confusion, and added expenses.

The chaplain would race to the airport, instruct the women there, wait for the embracing to end, and finally attempt to move the emotionally tensed couples into the Malibu Service Club for their final briefing.

Since wives at the airport could not use the military buses, they had to find and pay for their own transportation, delaying the final briefing by their late arrival.

"It was then that we finally revamped our procedures, and I started this method of having all the women come to the R&R Center. Now we have only an occasional problem of couples lingering in the line and not moving directly to the service club for the briefing.

"As a result," continued Chaplain Geary, "one of the goals is to help the girls to get their men back into the auditorium as soon as possible for the briefing. It's much easier to instruct the women about the importance of getting the men into the briefing room before the men arrive than it is to hold up the whole thing while members of the R&R staff board each bus and instruct the men on the buses. Actually, we let the women get them moving."

Where did the chaplain's technique in psychology first develop?

"It all started in character guidance classes at Ft. Sill, Okla.," said Chaplain Geary, who found it to be an ideal solution in keeping awake troops exhausted from physical training and classroom work.

And how has the reaction been to his routine at the R&R Center?

"Well, many women bring their husbands back to the R&R Center to see the show after they've been here for awhile," added Chaplain Geary. "And the men find it as enjoyable as do the women."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two groundless myths persist on Wall Street, one is that the average investor always buys and sells at the wrong time and the other is that institutional investors are a stabilizing force in the market, Wright Advisory Reports says. An examination of odd-lot transactions indicates that individual investors purchase most heavily at market bottoms and sell most heavily at market highs. But mutual funds at the last three market lows, had a ratio of cash and equivalents to total assets half again as great as at the previous highs, Wright says. Evidently they tend neither to increase reserves by selling when stock prices are high nor to invest reserves more heavily when prices are low, the firm says.

Stampede rallies are more likely in the stock market's future than climactic selling periods, the Neill Letter of Contrary Opinion says. The market is now dominated by institutional investors, who "work alone, but don't think alone," and who are handling an "astounding amount of money," it adds. The market is taking on a new pattern, reflecting fund operators' greater fear of missing a fast rise than of taking a loss, the letter says.

AND ROSEHIP TEA PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Thursday's graduation dinner at Moses Brown School will consist entirely of organic foods as part of an ecological "eat-in." The menu will include leek soup, sprout salad, deviled eggs from naturally raised chickens, lobster caught in the seas of Antarctica and rosehip tea.

Bush, Bentsen To Speak Today

DALLAS (UPI) — U. S. Senate candidates Lloyd Bentsen Jr. and George Bush will speak at the 24th annual meeting of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association which opens Sunday in Dallas.

Bush, Republican congressman from Houston, will talk Monday. Bentsen, a Houston insurance executive and the Democratic nominee for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Ralph Yarborough, will speak Tuesday.

Other featured speakers include Federal Power Commissioner John Carver; James Akins, the director of the U.S. State Department's office of fuels and energy; Henry Wilson, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, and Frank Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute.

John Hurd, Laredo; Oilman recently nominated by President Nixon to be ambassador to South Africa, will preside at a lunch Monday.

Delegates will review proposed legislation on oil import quotas, incentives for exploration and development of natural gas and controversy over suggestions for a unitization law in Texas to require pooling of production efforts on adjoining oil leases.

Ted Looks For Enthusiasm

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — "What do Henry Ford, John F. Kennedy and Ted Williams have in common?" began a recent newspaper article entitled, "Your Child's Creativity." The article continued:

"A burning drive for achievement.

"Were they born with it? Most people would say yes, accepting the fatalistic attitude which has done so much to destroy talent in young people. But today, psychologists know that they are wrong. Achievers are not born, they are created by skillful, knowledgeable parents (and teachers)."

Williams was shown the piece while sitting in the Washington Senators' dugout. He was pleased but also a little embarrassed to be placed in such company. Yet there is no doubt that he is an "achiever." He set a goal as a teenager to become the greatest hitter who ever lived and, he says, "Certainly nobody ever worked harder at it." If he did not reach that goal — the jury is still out on that — he did get very, very close.

When he became manager of the Senators last season, that was a new challenge. At season's end, he was named American League Manager of the Year. One startling change he made was in fostering fatherly batting averages for some Senators who had used wet mops at the plate in previous years. Players from other teams are always seeking batting tips from him. Stars like Al Kaline and Carl Yastrzemski have attributed some of their success to his suggestions. Williams bubbles when he talks hitting. It is his passion; it is his life.

He was asked what it is that makes a great catcher.

"First thing you look for in a kid is enthusiasm," he said, in that animated, bell-clear, sure, warm style of his. "They gotta have that. Desire. Enthusiasm." Slapping his thigh with a clap, "Eenthusiasm!"

"You can't work too well with a blah kid," he went on. "But somewhere along the line there's gotta be something. If you can't find it, then an atomic blast won't get something going in him.

"But you show me a kid who's got enthusiasm for anything, for music or cars or fly-tieing or art or track or poetry — anything — and I say you got a chance to direct that into something to his advantage, that he can use forever.

"A kid doesn't have to say he's got the desire. You can see it by his actions. Hell, a guy who comes back to the bench after striking out, and doesn't say a word, but slams — just SLAMS the bat into the bat rack, and he can hardly contain himself, he might not say — but he'll have it. I remember when I was a young player, I had no patience with myself. When I'd strike out, I'd scream sometimes. Scream out of my own frustration.

"But when you see enthusiasm, you gotta encourage it. And, oh, it's so easy to encourage. Either 'em up a little bit, especially when they're down. Maybe not BUTTER them up, but, well—I remember one of my players last year was in a slump in early June. I looked up his record. And I looked him. 'Did you know that if you had just 10 more hits—10 more — you'd be hitting 40 points higher?'

"Gee, I didn't realize that," he said.

"And I remember when Carl Yastrzemski first came up with the Red Sox and I saw him in spring training. He had had a big year in the minors and everyone knew he'd be a helluva big leaguer. But I saw he was wrapping that bat around his neck and swingin' big.

"I didn't want to come right up to him and say that he was not swingin' right. I thought of 25 years before, when I asked Lefty O'Doul for advice, and he said, 'Kid, don't let anybody ever change you.' Imagine an all-timer saying that to me! Biggest boot in the tall anybody ever said to me. That made such an impression, and I thought of Yaz and how I could impress on him that he was gonna be a helluva hitter but that he'd have to compact his swing.

"So I said, 'Yaz, the pitchers up here are tougher and quicker. To keep pace, you gotta be quicker, too.' I meant for him to compact himself. He eventually did. He had to, or he wouldn't have hit. And it goes back to O'Doul, who'd tell you that black was white and you'd believe him because he had such a beautiful personality. You picked up what he told you because he was real, and because he was honest."

GIANTS TOP CUBS, 5-3

Brewers Snap Skein At Orioles' Expense

Compiled From UPI

The Milwaukee Brewers ended a five-game losing streak before a delighted home town crowd by beating the Baltimore Orioles, 6-4, Saturday behind Tommy Harper's hitting and base running and rookie Danny Walton's 12th home run.

Harper collected two hits and a walk, stole two bases and caused a balk while Walton's two-run homer in the sixth accounted for the Brewers' winning runs.

Run-scoring singles by Thurman Munson and Gene Michael in the second inning and John Cumberland's six-hit pitching enabled the New York Yankees to score a 3-1 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Danny Cater started the Yankee flurry in the second inning with a single and went to third on Curt Blefary's looping hit to left center. Munson and Michael followed with their singles.

The Boston-Kansas City game in Boston was postponed Saturday because of rain. The game was rescheduled today as part of a doubleheader starting at 1:30 p.m.

In the National League, Willie McCovey's three-run homer, his 18th of the year, helped San Francisco end a four-game losing streak as the Giants stopped the Cubs, 5-3 in Chicago.

Gaylord Perry, who gave up 11 hits, picked up his eighth victory of the year against six losses.

Starter Bill Hands, who has not beaten the Giants since 1968, ran into trouble in the third inning when he gave up a single to Bob Heise.

After Heise was sacrificed to Perry, Hands walked Frank Johnson. Ron Hunt was retired on a routine fly but Willie Mays singled home Heise with the first run of the game and McCovey then hit the first pitch into Waveland Ave. and the Giants a 4-0 cushion.

In night action, Philadelphia was at Houston, Los Angeles was at Pittsburgh, San Diego visited St. Louis, Atlanta hosted Montreal and New York was at Cincinnati.

Sports Briefs

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys Saturday signed three draft choices, two free agents and a basketball player from Utah.

The draft choices were Wyoming running back Joe Williams, 12th round; Tennessee tight end Ken DeLong, 15th round, and Nebraska center Glenn Patterson, 8th round.

Signed as free agents were Kansas center Dale Evans and Iowa State defensive back Larry Holton. Basketball player Walt Hawkins will be tried out as defensive back.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Kay Schultz Saturday announced his resignation as director of the Big Ten Conference Service Bureau effective Aug. 1.

By DAN PACKARD

The duo of Warren Mayo and Norman Coulter forged a tie with Earl Crouch and Paul Coronus in the first round of the Pampa Country Club Partnership Golf Tournament Saturday with a net aggregate score of 134.

The leaders will take a one-stroke edge into today's final 18 holes over the team of Ed Myatt and Creel Grady, which finished the first round with a 135 total.

John Frisch and Bill Lemons followed at 137.

Coronus and Crouch, both 14 handicappers, fired gross scores of 82 and 80, respectively, giving them net totals of 68 and 66. Crouch covered the distance with a 42 on the front nine and 40 coming in. Coronus carded 40 on each nine.

Mayo also made the tour with equal scores, 37-37, and ended up with 68 after subtracting his six handicap. Coulter shot 38-37 with a nine handicap for a 66.

Although Mother Nature provided the tourney with ideal playing conditions, Club Professional Hart Warren noted that scores were not as low as he expected. "I don't think anyone is used to playing without the wind," he quipped.

Lagging just behind the leaders with 139s are the teams of Vernon Watkins-Buster Carter, Gene James-Don Mitchell, Jean Martindale-Charles Hill, Stu Youngblood-Deck Woldt and Pete Blanda-Elmer Wilson.

Eight teams are jammed at 140.

Today's final round will begin at 9 a.m. under the best ball system. "The high handicappers have an advantage under this system," said Warren, "and the real good players have an edge with team totals so we use two different systems in an effort to give everyone an even chance."

Continuing he commented, "There's a little bit of difference playing best ball. I look for some 10, 12, 13, underers today."

Winners will receive trophies and a $250 gift certificate which will be divided.

Holes will be moved because of the spike marks around the cups caused by the large amount of traffic.

TALKING OVER the day's round are the teams of Gel Green and C. R. Hoover (left) and Howard Buckingham and Buck Worley, (right).

HEBERT, LOTZ TRAIL BY 1

Graham Retains Kemper Lead By Sinking 20-Foot Birdie Putt

By TERRY WOOTEN

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Lou Graham rolled in a 20-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th hole Saturday to retain his one-stroke lead after three rounds of the $150,000 Kemper Open.

Graham's closing birdie gave him a one-under-par 71 for the day and a 54-hole total of 10-under-par 206. He held a one-stroke lead over Lionel Hebert and Dick Lotz and two over Steve Reid, Larry Hinson and Grier Jones.

Art Wall, who trailed Graham by a single shot going into Saturday's round, fell back with a two-over-par 74 for a 210, four strokes off the pace. Arnold Palmer, who was only three back, also had a 74 for a 212.

Hebert, in third place after the second round, shot a two-under 70 Saturday to climb into the runnerup spot where he was joined by Lotz, who had a 69. It looked like a three-way tie until Graham surged ahead on his birdie at 18.

Graham, who has not won a tournament since the 1967 Minnesota Classic, parred the first nine holes of the lush, soggy Quail Hollow Country Club course Saturday. Then, he picked up birdies on No. 10 with a five-foot putt, 14 with a nine-footer, and the 18th with the 20-footer.

But his key hole was the 599-yard 15th where he drove into the woods, but recovered to gain a par five.

"There was a little opening there and I hit a five-iron over the lake," he said. "That was the biggest hole of the day. I could have easily made a double or triple bogey."

Graham said his heart was pounding as he swung. "I could just see an eight on that card," the 32-year-old pro from Nashville said.

In at 209 was Terry Dill, while Bob Lunn and Gibby Gilbert joined Wall at 210.

Jones, a newcomer on the tour, came into the 18th at 10-under-par and a solid chance to tie Graham. But he drove the woods, hit a tree coming out and took a double bogey six.

Reid's 68 was the best round of the day.

Englehorn Deadlocks Lady Carling Event

LUTHERVILLE, Maryland

(UPI) — Shirley Englehorn of Palm Desert, California, charged into a first place tie with Carol Mann after two rounds in the $22,500 Lady Carling Open golf tournament Saturday at 139.

Miss Englehorn, winner of her last two tournaments, fired a 34-33-67 to set a new course held by Miss Mann Mickey record at Pine Ridge formerly Wright.

Miss Mann blew up to a 38 on the front nine and finished with a 71 after her 68 on evening day led the field. The 54-hole tournament concludes Sunday.

Five strokes behind the co-leaders at 144 were Kathy Whitworth, Kathy Ahern and Sandra Spuzich.

Six birdies marked Miss Englehorn's sparkling comeback under cloudy skies and temperatures in the 50's. She used only 26 putts and five of her birdies came on putts within five feet.

Sandra Palmer of Fort Worth, Tex. broke the second round a stroke off the pace but fell out of contention with a 76 and a 14 total.

Echelon Wins Belmont

NEW YORK (UPI) — High Echelon, on his own in a Triple Crown classic for the first time after stablemate Personality was scratched, took the lead in the last 50 yards to win the $138,750 Belmont Stakes Saturday at Belmont Park by three-quarters of a length.

The grey-coated son of Native Charger had finished third in the Kentucky Derby and fourth in the Preakness Stakes won by Personality. He was considered second-best in Mrs. Ethel D.

Jacobs' Belmont entry, but he outgamed Needles N Pens in a driving finish to give his owner his first victory in the Belmont and her second in a Triple Crown race.

Needles N Pens, making his first stakes start of the season, took second in the male and a half run over a sloppy track in a photo finish over Naska with Clumber fourth.

High Echelon, with brown mud covering his grey hide as well as the pink racing silks on turn and both passed Naska, who had taken the lead from Clumber at the head of the stretch.

Needles N Pens fell back slightly then rallied again to nip Naska by a neck for the place.

Clumber, who had set the pace from the start until the homestretch, was fourth and then came betting favorite My Dad George, who had been second in both the Derby and the Preakness.

Jockey Rotz, scoring his first Belmont triumph in 10 attempts, was given the ride on High Echelon even after Personality was scratched because "he seems to get more out of the horse than anybody else," according to trainer Jacobs, who now has saddled the winners of four $100,000 races this year.

High Echelon and Needles N Pens both came from far back in the field of 10 on the last

Bonallack Wins British Amateur

NEWCASTLE, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British Walker Cup captain Mike Bonallack became the first man to win three British Amateur golf championships in successive years Saturday when he beat aging Bill Hyndman of the U.S. 8 and 7 in the final.

It was Bonallack's fifth win all told and his second straight over Hyndman who has the eneviable distinction of becoming the tournament's first three-time loser this century.

Hyndman, the golfing grandfather from Huntingdon Valley, Pa., held a one-up lead after the first 18 holes of the 36-hole final which he toured in a two-under-par 69, but Bonallack crushed him in the afternoon round. It was a sad end to Hyndman's gallant and courageous bid. It was his third appearance in the final in five championships attempts and the fourth time he has ended up "the bridesmaid." In 1955 at Richmond, Va., Big Bill lost to Harvie Ward in the U.S. Amateur.

There was no doubting Hyndman had the class to give Bonallack a close match, but over 36 holes he just didn't have the stamina following a gruelling week of competition and a total of 123 holes of golf before the final round.

The 35-year-old Englishman unleashed a tremendous birdie burst to turn the match just when it seemed 54-year-old Hyndman at last was in line for the coveted trophy. Hyndman, loser by 3 and 2 against Bonallack at Hoylake, England last year, and also losing finalist in 1959, held a two-up lead after a magnificent eagle two on the 16th in the morning round.

Then Bonallack, who squandered chance after chance on the front nine, got hot. He birdied the 17th—and Hyndman matched it—but another birdie on the par five 18th reduced Bonallack's deficit to one as they went into lunch.

The quality of play was such that Hyndman shot a four-under-par on the back nine and still only led by one hole.

HAMILTON ON POLE

Sunny Skies Forecast For Motor State 500

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTON, Mich. (UPI) — Sunny skies with temperatures in the high 70's and blistering speeds over one of the nation's finest ovals were forecast Saturday for the Motor State 400 mile race at Michigan International Speedway today.

The weather forecast was in sharp contrast to virtually every other race that has been run at MIS since it opened in the fall of 1968. The earlier races were marred by threatening skies and intermittent rains.

Forty cars were entered for the second running of the Motor State with purse money totaling $72,000.

Four of the fastest men in stock car racing were up front in the field. The Petty team of Plymouth Superbirds were in the front row with Pete Hamilton on the pole

Jury To Begin Probe Monday In Icer's Death

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI)—A Nassau County grand jury will begin hearing testimony Monday to unravel circumstances surrounding the death of New York Ranger hockey player Terry Sawchuk.

Sawchuk died last Sunday, a month after he was admitted to a Long Island hospital following a scuffle with teammate Ron Stewart.

An autopsy by Dr. Elliott Gross, New York City medical examiner, showed the former hockey star died of "pulmonary embolism."

Dr. Gross said the autopsy also showed a "trauma" or injury, to Sawchuk's liver, which was operated on at New York Hospital where he died after being transferred from Long Beach Memorial Hospital on Long Island, where he had undergone surgery to remove his damaged gall bladder shortly after being admitted there.

Sawchuk was admitted to the hospital on April 29 suffering from internal injuries following what has variously been described as "horseplay" or an "altercation" with Stewart.

Nassau County District Attorney William Cahn, who presented the case to the grand jury, is expected to call seven witnesses.

Among those expected to testify are Stewart; Rosemary Sasso, a 24-year-old nurse who witnessed the struggle on the lawn; Ben Weiner, a restaurant owner and friend of Sawchuk; Dr. Denis Nicholson, who was summoned to the house to treat Sawchuk; detective Matthew Bonora, who conducted the investigation into the case; and ranger coach Emile Francis.

All the witnesses are expected to be finished giving their versions on Monday, and it is likely the grand jury will reach a decision on whether to indict Stewart by Monday night.

Sawchuk was buried Friday in Michigan.

Fine Points Must Be Known To Appreciate Car Racing

By BOB COCHNAR
NEW YORK (NEA)—Your traditional brand of sportswriter is generally shocked when confronted with a bloke who baldly states that he finds baseball excruciatingly dull.

The writer, affronted, may explain pompously (as he would to a child who finds flowers confusing that the game can't be properly appreciated unless the fine points are known. The wobble of a bat, the position of a shortstop, the direction of the wind, the slight juggling of a plug-of-tobacco in the pitcher's mouth—all contribute to an understanding of the sport.

And the same writer, still the traditionalist, tends to consider motor racing an aberration fit only for juiced-up crackpots, effete snobs and mentally deficient sadists. The sport, to him, is also a bore after the first lap or so.

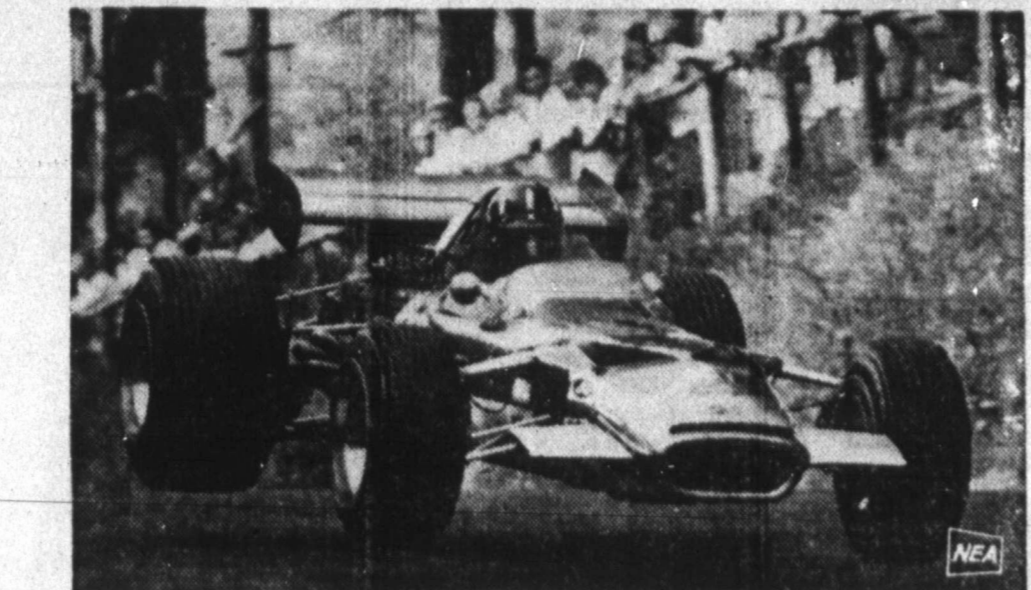

It is difficult to determine if Melvin Durslag, a Los Angeles sportswriter, is made of traditional stuff, but in a recent issue of TV Guide he quite clearly exhibits a wholesome ignorance of a sport which is now ranked sixth in national sports readership interest, according to a wire service survey.

Durslag writes that "the argument against racing is irrefutable. It kills and maims. It also encourages speed at a time the nation has never been more safety-minded on the roads. This is especially the case with stock-car races. When kids old enough to drive watch them on the tube, are they inspired to get out and floor their V-8s?"

A good question, perhaps, to which neither Durslag nor anybody else has the answer. Further, his broadbrush, Agnewish statement that "racing kills and maims" ought to be altered to "can kill and maim," as can boxing, hockey and football.

Durslag also assumes that boredom inevitably sets in "after 30 minutes, particularly if a driver gets in front." A driver is usually always in front (that's the way racing is), there are areas within races which merit watching: Will No. 5 get around No. 4? And what's happening in the back of the pack?

There are, like baseball, the fine points to consider. How does a driver take a particular turn? Is the car just out of a pit stop really screaming around the track to make up time? Is he moving faster and with more skill than the leader? And what about the drivers? What kind of intense discipline must they have to negotiate through speeding traffic, around turns on the edge of adhesion? Are we watching brute, flat-out speed or cautious control? As Grand Prix driver Juan Fangio

GRAND PRIX DRIVER GRAHAM HILL is practically airborne in his Formula 1 as he maneuvers the car into a straight.

once said, "I always drive slow enough to win."

Durslag suggests that "the solution to the boredom problem in auto racing is shorter events. For today's cars, besides, a 500-mile race may be too long. We recall a while back that only 6 of the 3 starters finished at Indianapolis. We have suggested to the management there the (Kentucky) Derby distance of a mile and a quarter. When 15 horses start in the Derby, 15 usually finish."

This is, of course, patent nonsense. One of the thrills of racing is not knowing who will finish. Even the leader can be frustrated with a fouled plug. Racing is that unpredictable.

The best solution to the "boredom problem" is to discover what racing is all about.

Not everybody is going to consider racing the greatest spectacle ever created by contemporary man; some people are nutty about curling and log-rolling contests. But as long as the automobile remains an important part of the American experience, racing will be here, gaining more friends and offering the spectator an exhilarating performance of speed, skill and absolute control.

COLLEGE GALA TO BEGIN FRIDAY

Street Is Questionable Starter For UT's World Series Opener

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—As soon as the University of Texas appeared headed for a berth in the College World Series, it was almost certain that a black cloud would hang over pitcher James Street.

The Longview pitcher-quarterback has been the Longhorns' most valuable player for the past three seasons, but trouble seems to follow him when it comes time for the national series. In his only two previous outings there, he was defeated.

This year, it's doubtful that he'll get a chance to redeem himself.

Street compiled an impressive 8-1 season record before Texas played Pan American in the NCAA District 6 playoffs. In that game, Street whirled to try to pick off a Pan American base runner at second base, and reinjured a slow-healing groin muscle that kept him out of action earlier in the year.

Texas officials list him as a question mark for the college series which opens Friday in Omaha, Neb., but the Longhorn pitching staff can't be considered exactly bankrupt because of the loss.

Coach Cliff Gustafson will rely even more heavily on sophomore fireballer Bert Hooten, 10-1, who has given up only two earned runs in his last 52 innings on the mound. Hooten pitched a two-hitter in the opening game of the playoff double-header with Pan American.

Then Hooten—known as "The Bear" among his teammates—came on in relief in the second game to put down a Pan Am rally and bat in the winning run with a squeeze bunt in the 11th inning.

The 1970 Longhorns—who have played and won more games than any baseball team in the school's history—carry a 35-6 regular season record into the series. But Gustafson scheduled three doubleheaders this weekend as a warmup, so the Horns have played a total of 47 games since the schedule opened.

Five starters will be making their second straight appearance in the Omaha playoffs for Texas. They are center fielder Jack Miller, right fielder David Hall, shortstop Lou Bagwell, second baseman Pat Amos and catcher Tommy Harmon, who all saw action last year when the Horns finished fourth in the world series.

McLain Anxious To Pitch Again But Nervous About Fans' Feeling

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI)—Denny McLain is finding his suspension from baseball may have been a disguised blessing to his pitching but is uneasy about his reception by Detroit Tiger fans when he returns to uniform July 1.

McLain, suspended by baseball commissioner Evvie Khun in March for alleged gambling connections, told an interviewer he'd already started "shaping up the pit-bog wizardry that won his 31 games two years ago. He said he'd been pitching daily to a former Tiger catcher now coaching baseball here.

"I wasn't thinking too much about July 1 a couple of weeks ago," said McLain, "now I'm excited about it. I'm looking forward to it as much I guess as when I first broke into baseball."

"I don't know what my reception will be like," said McLain who shared the Cy Young Award last season, "but I do know I'm counting the days now. I'm getting keyed up and I'm going to be ready."

McLain said the idle time as a result of the suspension had added new strength to a shoulder he injured a few seasons back.

"The shoulder has given me no trouble at all," McLain said. "I haven't felt this good since I hurt the shoulder several years ago."

The Tigers play the New York Yankees July 1 and McLain feels he'll be ready for the call.

"I feel right now I could go at least five and maybe seven innings," the Detroit ace said.

By the time July 1 rolls around, I'm sure I could go at least seven innings—maybe the whole distance.

"I'm not too sharp right now on the curve," he continued. "Personally, I feel my control is as good as it will be. Of course, I'm going to need to pitch to live hitters, but the arm feels great."

Lakeland High School baseball coach Jim Handley, who also played for the New York Mets, echoed McLain's confidence.

"He's hitting the spots right now," Handley said. "That's only something you can do when you are letter perfect. His ball is moving and as far as I'm concerned, he couldn't have much better control."

Veeck Scheduled For Testimony In Flood Case

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Curt Flood trial contesting baseball's reserve clause enters its final innings Monday with former major league owner Bill Veeck among those scheduled to testify.

The trial, in weekend recess, resumes Monday in the courtroom of federal district judge Irving Ben Cooper.

Veeck owned three clubs in the majors, the Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox—and is currently running Suffolk Downs race track in the Boston area.

Flood initiated the suit after being traded by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Philadelphia Phillies. He refused to join the Phillies and its sitting out the season while the case is being tried in the courts.

Flood's attorneys are also expected to recall Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association before winding up the case, which has dragged on for three weeks.

Organized baseball is expected to rest its case Monday after calling one more witness—an economist.

Before Friday's adjournment, John Gaberin, the chief labor negotiator for the baseball owners, testified that the reserve clause which binds a player to one team unless traded was necessary for operation of major league baseball.

How ever, Gaberin also claimed in his testimony that Flood's suit brought a breakdown in the negotiations between owners and the players that might have brought a modification of the reserve clause.

Czech Takes Men's French Open Crown

PARIS (UPI)—Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia trounced favored Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia, 6-2, 6-4, 6-0, Saturday to capture the men's singles title in the $100,000 French Open tennis championships and become the first Czech to win the title since 1952.

The women's single crown will be decided Sunday with defending champion Margaret Court of Australia facing Helga Niessen of West Germany.

Francoise Durr and Gail Chanfreau of France took the women's doubles title by beating Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals of the U.S., 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

It marked the second successive French doubles title for the Durr-Chanfreau combine and was worth $1,100.

Kodes, winning the biggest match of his career, received $10,000 for the title. The last Czech player to win the French Open was Jaroslav Drobný, who achieved the feat 18 years ago.

Kodes, whose best showing before Saturday's match was making the semi-finals of the Italian championship, thrilled the crowd of 10,000 at Roland Garros Stadium with his booming serve and steady play.

The handsome long-haired Franulovic, who beat America's Cliff Richey and Arthur Ashe on his way to the final, was slight favorite for the title held by Australia's Rod Laver as he took a 2-0 lead in the first set. It could have been the dampness of the weather or the tension of facing his biggest match ever, but somehow Franulovic never caught fire after that.

The quick hard-hitting Kodes broke Franulovic service to win the next six games in a row and take a first set lead.

Kodes, varying his game by sometimes rushing in on his booming serve, and sometimes holding back, won his service everytime in the second set but lost to his opponent's serve as the two Eastern Europeans battled to a 4-4 tie. Kodes went ahead 5-4, and Franulovic double-faulted for the fifth time to give Kodes the set.

Indonesia Takes 1st In Badminton Event

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI)—Indonesia won the Thomas Cup world badminton tournament Saturday by downing defending champion Malaysia, 7 to 2 at the Indoor National Stadium.

As Indonesian non-playing captain Irfan was represented with the cup by Malaysia's Timbalan Yang Di-Pertuan Agong (Deputy King) the crowd cheered wildly.

After the presentation of the Indonesian committee sang "Long Live Indonesia" and patriotic songs and carried the players and cup around.

The secretary of the International Badminton Federation Herbert Scheel said the next tournament will be held in 1973 but the venue has not been decided.

WILBUR TO CARDINALS

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—John Wilbur, a starting guard for the Dallas Cowboys the past two seasons, was sent to the St. Louis Cardinals Friday in exchange for a high draft choice.

A former standout at Stanford University, Wilbur, 27, joined the Cowboys four years ago as a free agent. The California native is 6-3 and weighs 240 pounds.

Pampa Assistant Pro After Berth In Open

The assistant pro at Pampa Country Club, Martin Reeves, will be in Dallas Monday to compete in the sectional qualifying round for the U.S. Open which is scheduled June 18 in Chaska, Minn.

Reeves and 39 other golfers from throughout the state will fire 36 holes at the Dallas Athletic Club course in an effort to rank among the top five and advance to the Open.

To qualify for the sectional round, the linksters had to make the grade in local competition at either Dallas Athletic Club, Braeburn Country Club at Houston or Amarillo Country Club.

The 24-year-old Pampa competitor earned his Dallas trip by carding a 146 after a three-man playoff in Amarillo.

Several fine golfers will be on hand to provide Reeves a stiff test. Two regulars on the pro tour, John Schlee and Rives McBee will be there as well

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

BATON LESSONS — The Center is again sponsoring the baton or twirling lessons for young people this summer during the month of June. Classes are meeting on Monday, Wednesday and Fridays from 1:30 P.M. on. Beginners and more advanced twirlers are placed in separate classes. Kim Gilbert, noted baton expert from the Pampa High School Band, is conducting the classes. The only qualifications you have to have is a Center membership and have a balanced baton.

SWIM LESSONS — Parents you must act quickly now to get your children enrolled for our swim classes — are really filling up. We do have some lessons left, but if you call and they are filled be sure to put your child on the waiting list. We do fill several vacancies from this list during the summer.

All of our classes meet Monday thru Friday for 10 meeting dates lasting one hour each day. Instructors are well qualified Red Cross Water Safety Experts and are the best in the Panhandle area. All classes are free to Center members and $4 for non-members with memberships always on sale at the front office. The list is:

- June 15-26 — 9:00 Inter. 10:00 Swimmers; 11:00 Beg.
  - June 29-July 10 — 9:00 Polywogs 10:00 Adv. Beg. 11:00 Beg.
  - July 13-24 — 9:00 Inter. 10:00 Swimmers; 11:00 Beg.
  - July 27-Aug. 7 — 9:00 Polywogs; 10:00 Adv. Beg. 11:00 Beg.
  - August 17-23 — 9:00 Jr. and Sr. Lifesaving $4.00 to everyone.
- TEEN DANCES — The teen dances are still being held on Friday night from 9-12 p.m. Teens interested should come out to our dances. We feature a live band each night. Bands such as the Cords, Nirvana, Wolf Gang, Tyne, Euphoria, Stoned Existence and others will be playing here this summer. Admission is $1.50 each.

MEMBERSHIPS — With the new health facility addition the Center now has two types of memberships, the limited and unlimited. The limited membership is for those who like to play in the gym, swim, or use the recreation hall, but does not want to use the health facilities. This membership is $5 for six months or $8 per family limited membership sells for $12 for six months or $20 per year.

The unlimited membership entitles you to full use of all the facilities here. For an individual this costs $65 for six months or $118 per year. For a husband-wife combination the cost is only $90 for six months or $160 per year.

We are offering a student and an education membership for the three months during the summer. Any parent who is a member who wants to bring sons or daughters who are 16 years of age or older or school teachers and administrators are eligible for this 3 month membership lasting thru June, July and August. This membership sells for $35.00. We do have easy installment plans for this also.

JUDO CLASSES — The judo classes are still meeting this summer on Monday and Thursday nights from 7-8:30. Sam Moot is conducting the classes. If you are a male, 8 years of age or older you are invited to join the class. You need only be a Center member to participate. Why not come out and watch one of the classes.

JENNINGS-HALE

Brenda Jo Jennings

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jennings, 716 Doucette, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Brenda Jo Jennings, to Joe Vernon Hale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold V. Hale, 932 S. Banks. Marriage vows will be exchanged June 27 in the Highland Baptist Church. Miss Jennings graduated May 28 from Pampa High School and is employed in the box office of a Pampa theater. Her fiancé was a 1968 graduate from Pampa High School and attended West Texas State University one and a half years. He is employed by a computer equipment supply firm in Tulsa, Okla.

Suzanne Jane Benton, Dennis Michael Cate Exchange Double-Ring Vows In Candlelight Marriage Ceremony In First United Methodist Church

In the sanctuary of the First United Methodist Church of Pampa, Suzanne Jane Benton and Dennis Michael Cate exchanged wedding vows in a twilight-ceremony Saturday. Dr. DeWitt Seago, pastor, officiated at the double-ring service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Benton, Star Route 2, Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M.A. Cate of Verhalen.

BRIDE
Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown fashioned by her mother of white chiffon over satin designed with a scoop neckline and chapel train. The empire bodice was joined to the softly gathered skirt with a blush pink band overlaid with Alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls.

Long, full sleeves of chiffon were gathered at the wrist and edged with the lace which fell in folds over the hands. Tiny, handmade pink rosebuds were centered in the lace medallions outlining the bodice and framed the edge of the Guinevere cap which was covered with lace and chiffon over satin. She wore an add-a-pearl necklace which belonged to her mother and the traditional blue garter, presented by the maid-of-honor. A borrowed silver dime was worn in her white satin slippers. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of pink rosebuds and white split carnations.

ATTENDANTS
The bridal attendants were Dianne Phillips, maid-of-honor; Mrs. Gerre Joiner, matron-of-honor, and Jennifer Benton, bridesmaid. Their floor-length gowns of Christian Dior design were fashioned in sheer-basile in colors of blue, pink, and green with matching shoes. Dainty pastel flower bands accented the empire waists of each and were centered on the headpieces which were Dior bows matching their gowns. They carried nosegay bouquets of yellow carnations and split mums with pastel ribbon streamers.

Bruce Cate of Verhalen served his brother, as best man. Groomsmen were Steve Martin and Richard Croxdale, both of Lubbock. Ushers were Jay Carpenter of Lamesa, Will Ed Winters of Alpine, Maxwell Barr of Vincent, Roger Parker of Dallas and the bride's brother, Jim Bill Benton of Pampa, Fla.

Vows were exchanged before the altar which was flanked by spiral candelabra decorated with lemon leaves and garlands of greenery. Pews of honor were marked by white satin bows.

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother wore a princess style blue dress of original design with iridescent paillets outlining the neck. The bridegroom's mother selected an ensemble of yellow and white crepe. Their corsages were white gardenias presented by the bridegroom.

Pre-nuptial organ selections included "Prelude in Classic Style" by Young. The processional was "Hyfrydol" and the recessional was Beethoven's "Ode to Joy" from the Ninth Symphony. Organist Tracy Cary accompanied Kathy Horsman of Lubbock as she sang "Du Ring" and "Helt mir ihr Schwestern" from the "Frauenliebe und Leben" by Schumann. Gerre Joiner read selections from "The Prophet" by Khalil Gibran. After the vows, the couple knelt and Mrs. Horsman sang the "Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

RECEPTION
A reception was held in the church parlor following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with an heirloom cloth of hand embroidered linen squares joined with lace belonging to her great aunt, Mrs. H. Ralph Kerbow of Lubbock and originally used for her golden wedding anniversary.

An arrangement of smilax with the bride's bouquet, crystal candelabra with white tapers and the attendant's bouquets accented the three-tiered wedding cake and crystal punch service. The bridegroom's table was covered with a gold damask cloth used by the bride's great-grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. H.C. Kerbow to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. A coffee service of brass and copper and the maid-of-honor's bouquet completed the table decor.

Members of the houseparty assisting at the reception were Jo Ellen Duncan, San Antonio; Cathy Brown, Houston; Glenn Scott and Melissa Martin, Lubbock; Molly Cate and Viki Cate, Verhalen; and Lynn Taylor and Mary Jane Rose, Pampa.

For the wedding trip the bride wore a navy blue and white knit ensemble with accessories to match. Her corsage was pink rosebuds lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Pampa High School and received her Bachelor of Music degree from Texas Tech University in May where she was on the Dean's Honor List. She is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon and was awarded the Outstanding Performance Certificate by the Music faculty of Texas Tech University for 1970.

MRS. DENNIS MICHAEL CATE ... nee Suzanne Jane Benton

Jo Linn Whitsell, E.D. Burt Jr. Pledge Double-Ring Wedding Vows

Jo Linn Whitsell was united in marriage with Earl Daniel Burt Jr. in an afternoon ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church May 31 with the Rev. Martin Hager officiating for the double-ring service.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wilber R. Whitsell Jr. of 1003 Christine. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Daniel Burt Sr. of Bossier City, La. They were married on the 23rd wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal wedding gown of white silk organza over French taffeta, featuring an Empire bodice of Venetian lace. The lace was repeated at the cuffs of the long full puffed sleeves.

The high mandarin collar was centered with a cameo that belonged to her bridesmatron, Mrs. Howard Hendricks. A six pence borrowed from another bridesmatron, Mrs. Thomas Byrd, was worn in her shoe. For something blue, a friend of the bridegroom's mother loaned a blue sapphire and diamond bracelet.

The detachable chapel train complimented the gown. Her illusion veil was caught in a satin tiered bow. The bouquet was a cascade of white killian and marguerite daisies entwined with green fern and white satin streamers.

Bridal attendants were Linda Kay Tinsley, of Orlando, Fla., a cousin of the bride; Mrs. Howard Hendricks of Lafayette, La., and Mrs. Thomas Byrd of Bossier City, La. All were dressed in formal-length yellow silk shantung gowns and carried white killian daisies on a satin wired butterfly shaped frame.

Janet Lea Whitsell and Jon Warren Whitsell, sister and brother of the bride, were candlelighters. The soloist was Miss Brookie Hudson of Bossier City, La. Janet and Brookie were dressed in gowns similar to those of the bridesmatrons.

Earl Daniel Burt Sr. was his son's best man. Thomas Byrd and Dick Taylor of Bossier City were Harold Leone of Houston and John Scott Skelly III of Pampa.

Organist, Mrs. Fidelia Yoder, provided wedding music with the processional, "Trumpet Voluntary," and recessional, "Maestoso." Vocalist Brookie Hudson sang the "Wedding Prayer."

Wedding vows were repeated before an altar flanked by arrangements of baskets of white gladiolas and yellow killian daisies. Two seven-branched candelabras garlanded with greenery guarded the kneeling bench. Pews of honor were marked with floral arrangements.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a yellow taffeta and net cloth which held the punch bowl, a floral arrangement and three-tiered wedding cake which was served by Mrs. Herbert Moore and Mrs. Russell Pugh.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a brown peau de soie and net cloth. The same bridal couple decoration used by the bride's parents on their wedding cake formed a topping for the bridegroom's traditional chocolate cake. Bronze and yellow daisies held in a brass coffee pot were used for the centerpiece.

Coffee served from a brass service was served by Mrs. John T. Tinsley and Mrs. Jimmy Davis.

Guests were registered by Georgianna Ryan of Plattsburgh, N.Y.

The bride is a student in her junior year at Louisiana State University of Baton Rouge, La., where she is a member of Alpha Delta Sorority. Upon graduation from Louisiana State University in January, 1971, the bridegroom will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force. He is a member of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity at LSU.

Pre-nuptial events were a tea shower given by friends of the bride at her mother in Bossier City, La., and a rehearsal dinner party held in the Pampa Club the night before the wedding.

KEEN-CALLOWAY

Vicki Elaine Keen

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Keen, 1008 Terry, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Vicki Elaine Keen, to Ronald Dean Calloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Calloway, 1823 N. Nelson. Marriage vows will be repeated July 11 in the First Baptist Church of Pampa. Miss Keen is a 1969 graduate of Pampa High School and is attending West Texas State University where she is a member of Mary E. Hudspeth Honor Society. Her fiancé graduated from PHS in 1968, attended Oklahoma State Tech in Okmulgee, Okla., two years and is employed in Amarillo.

Area Residents Sponsor Dinner

WHITE DEER (Spl) — Dan Simmons and his fiancée, Sandra Lorentzen, both of Hartford, Conn., were week-end guests in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Simmons of White Deer, and were entertained at a dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Biggs Horn of Amarillo. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Rudyard Eidenborough, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Mrs. Earl Tubb, and Mr. and Mrs. Simmons.

Mrs. Earl Tubb and Mrs. Elizabeth Brown of Amarillo honored their grandson and his fiancée with a reception in the home of Mrs. Tubb. Mrs. Harry Eidenborough presided at the bride's book. Refreshments were served by Mrs. W.C. Powers, Mrs. B.O. Bentley and Mrs. Rudyard Eidenborough. The centerpiece of roses and mock orange was arranged in an antique epergne belonging to Mrs. Biggs Horn. Following the reception, the family were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Simmons for a buffet dinner. Simmons is a systems analyst for an airline. Their wedding date has been set for July 18, in Boylston, Mass.

Couple Announces Marriage Plans

WHEELER (Spl) — A wedding is being planned for Saturday, Aug. 1, by Miss Rita Lackey and Danny Fillingim, according to an announcement by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Lackey, of Samnorwood, formerly of the Kelton-Twitty Communities. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Willis Fillingim. Miss Lackey is a graduate of Samnorwood High School. Her fiancé is a graduate of Briscoe High School. He is attending college at West Texas State University. Nuptial vows will be exchanged in the Samnorwood Baptist Church.

Candlelighted Wedding Vows Unite Laura Donaldson, R.C. Montgomery

Laura Ann Donaldson became the bride of Richard Cann Montgomery in a double-ring evening marriage ceremony May 27 in the First United Methodist Church. The Rev. H. DeWitt Seago, pastor, officiated for the candlelighted service.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joe R. Donaldson, 2530 Duncan. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Montgomery Jr., San Angelo.

Given in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I" avowal, the bride was dressed in a floor-length white dress of Irish linen designed on Empire lines. The elbow-length cape of imported Spanish lace was gathered to a wide band at the back and accented with a row of small covered buttons down the back.

She carried a nosegay of white roses and wore a three-tiered illusion veil with a headpiece of imported Spanish lace.

The bride was attended by Susan Rodke, Abilene, as maid of honor and her sisters, Gail Donaldson and Jill Donaldson, as bridesmaids. All were dressed in floor-length pink crystalline satin gowns designed on empire lines with square necklines and small puffed sleeves. They each carried a pink and fuschia bouquet of gladiolas and gladiola buds.

Charles A. Montgomery Jr., the bridegroom's father, assisted his son as best man. Rick Brock, Bartlett, and Mike Naeve, Fort Worth, were groomsmen. Naeve and Richard Donaldson, the bride's brother, seated wedding guests.

The bride's mother wore an apricot silk dress with a corsage of cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue-green dress and a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. J.E. Gunn played traditional organ music for the wedding ceremony which was performed amid a setting accented with lemon leaf clusters on the altar and choir rails. Two candelabras with pink tapers on both sides decorated the altar. Urns of pink and fuschia gladiolas were placed on both sides of the altar with an arrangement of pink and fuschia gladiolas as an altar centerpiece.

For the reception in the bride's home, the serving table was decorated with silver candelabras, white carnations and white chrysanthemums accented with greenery. The traditional four-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Mrs. C.A. Sowers, the bride's aunt, of Crawfordville, Ind., assisted at the punch service, while Mrs. Billy B. Davis served cake and Sarah Montgomery of San Angelo registered guests.

For the wedding trip to Red River, N.M., the bride traveled in a pastel blue linen dress and matching jacket with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Pampa High School and attended the University of Texas at Arlington. She is a senior at the University of Texas at Austin. The bridegroom, a San Angelo Central High School graduate, attended Angelo State University, Texas A&M University, and is a graduating senior at UT at Austin. He is employed at an Austin bank.

Pre-nuptial events included a bridesmaid luncheon hosted by Mrs. Charles Cook and Mrs. M. McDaniel, a cocktail party sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Billy B. Davis, a rehearsal dinner at Pampa Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Montgomery Jr., a dinner with Dr. and Mrs. E.S. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Eben Warner Jr., as hosts and a supper with three couples as hosts. Messrs. and Mmes. E.L. Henderson, Fred Neslage, and E.A. Myatt.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E.Y. Murphy, and Dana Murphy, and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Anderson, all of San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Sowers, Crawfordville, Ind.; Dennis Scott, Little Rock, Ark.; David Fetherer, Canyon; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Turner, Cathy Karen, and Scott Truner, all of Oklahoma City.

Your Horoscope
JEANE DIXON

SUNDAY, JUNE 7
Your birthday today: You begin a thriving, prosperous year. You must continue to make your own luck by diligent effort. Enterprises which are going well enough are perhaps in danger of over-expansion, particularly now. Check again in six months and see if you still want to spread out. Romantic interests stay alive all year. Today's natives are sensitive, emotional, highly intuitive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do your share of the community's Sunday customs. Be willing to meet strange and interesting people; find or give a good party this evening.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Gather your friends around you and compare notes. Chronic problems are subject to fresh approaches, as people's ideas change with time. Make the effort.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): This is a pleasant Sunday provided you sidestep a temptation toward extravagance. Make the rounds briefly to find any new friends.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Original projects thrive. Home life is better than public excursions. Your drift-pattern includes a sudden expensive whim — if you can see the financing of it, go ahead.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Intellectual pursuits should take most of your attention. Bring correspondence up to date. Your money gets away from you quite easily right now — watch how you spend.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Start with the people nearest you and let everybody share your bright side. Find something small that would make somebody happy, and make a gift of it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Invite your friends to share favorite pastimes for a welcome, normal Sunday. The evening hours promise to be especially agreeable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Things look so good today you have to watch out that you don't go too far. There are moments of unusual insight. Mates who don't see your viewpoint may need a little quiet persuasion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): This Sunday marks a high tide in your spiritual growth. Strive to get the most from the experience. Social ties continue active, but guard against overdoing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Plan something that your friends can share at least in some part. But watch your tendency to make too many promises for the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do something special for those you care about. The cheer you spread will increase your own happiness as well.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Public amusements attract young people today. If you feel you are one of them, go along. If not, gather a small group for at-home entertaining.

MONDAY, JUNE 8
Your birthday Monday: If you have a well balanced plan for your personal growth, this year should bring you much fulfillment. If you have no plan, begin one since this is your time of opportunity. Political and social talents produce results, if you adapt. Monday's natives usually have a complex or dual nature — good-natured but harboring caustic views.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Creative enterprises go well. Speculative efforts have unexpected, probably dismaying results. Knowledgeable people give you much to think about.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your path in the outside world Monday is more strongly favored than at home. Property matters are better postponed a little longer. Older people require patient listening.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You can acquire quite a lot by simply asking for it. But the urge to demand too much would spoil everything and get you nothing. Be helpful and courteous — and sensible.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You can get the encouragement of powerful people, if they can avoid publicity. Much that is obscure opens up upon investigation. Friends are full of unrealistic schemes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your work should not be rushed. Take an occasional pause for reflection. Other people lend support and if you have projects ready, considerable future gains are indicated.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Personal plans improve your standing in the community. Your hobbies attract collaboration in surprising places.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Monday is propitious for developing new work teams, bright ideas, but not so favorable for purely speculative ventures. Concentrate on enterprises you can watch closely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Retrieve borrowed items, collect payments due you. People you care about don't understand all the details — work it out a bit at a time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Make peace with those (See HOROSCOPE, Page 17)

Evening Nuptial Service Unites Patsy Glover, Harold D. Hyman

Patsy Ann Glover repeated marriage vows with Harold Dee Hyman in an evening wedding ceremony May 23, in Central Baptist Church. The Rev. with cascading satin ribbon. Maid of honor, Sally McKnight, Lubbock, was dressed in a full-length pink organza and carried pink and white daisies. Bridesmaid, Jaleen Kolinsky of San Antonio, wore a full length blue organza dress. Another bridesmaid, Carol Richards of Austin, was dressed in a yellow organza full-length dress. Miss Kolinsky

Bach; "Herr Jesu-Christ, Dick Zu Uns Wend." by Bach. Vocalist, Suzanne Benton, sang "Ee Thou With Me," "One Hand, One Heart," and "Wedding Prayer."

Four seven-branched candelabra were entwined with salad foliage. Two urns of white gladioli decorated the church which had its bridal aisles decorated with aisle candelabra entwined with salad foliage and white satin bows.

For the reception at the church, a crystal epergne containing white butterfly roses and candles adorned the table which was covered with a white satin floor length cloth.

The three-tiered cake was decorated with pastel roses and a miniature bridal couple. Mrs. Bob James, Mrs. J.W. Buchanan and Mrs. Joe Shelton assisted at the punch and cake service as Mrs. Alex Kolinsky registered guests.

For the wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the bride traveled in a white and navy blue coat dress and wore cymbidium orchids for her flowers.

The couple's home is in Lubbock until December while the bridegroom is completing his senior courses in mechanical engineering at Texas Tech University. The bride is a 1970 Texas Tech graduate with a bachelor's degree in business administration.

The rehearsal dinner was held in the Pampa Country Club.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. T.T. Glover, Purcell, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob James, Oklahoma City; Mrs. J.W. Buchanan, Purcell; Mr. and Mrs. George Nunn and daughter, Konawa, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Hyman, and family, Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Hyman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Whitmore, and family, and Mrs. C.L. By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I notice that on occasion you have reprinted articles on request, which I think is fine, especially those which uphold morality in young people. However, I urge you to reprint the 10 Commandments for the 20th Century Husband. With so much infidelity going on and the divorce rate skyrocketing, it is needed now more than ever.
Thank you.

GRATEFUL SAILOR—
FPO SEATTLE

DEAR GRATEFUL: With pleasure, Ten Commandments for the 20th Century Husband:

1. Thou shalt put thy wife before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter, and thy son, for she is thy lifelong companion.
2. Abuse not thy body either with excessive food, tobacco, or drink, that thy days may be many and healthful in the presence of thy loved ones.
3. Permit neither thy business nor thy hobby to make of thee a stranger to thy children, for the precious gift a man giveth his family is his time.
4. Forget not the virtue of cleanliness.
5. Make not thy wife a beggar, but share willingly with her thy worldly goods.
6. Forget not to say, "I love you." For even though thy love be constant, thy wife doth yearn to hear the words.

Cleaners Advise Ways To Store Bridal Gown

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Quick, now. What's "new" today, can be a "something borrowed" next generation — provided "something old" is followed with "something blue".

The question is not a new kind of mental torture designed to prepare one for working the London Times crossword puzzle. It comes from Virgie Rogers, public relations chief of a chain of dry cleaning stores here. She says it translates to this: Today's bridal gown can be stored successfully by borrowing some helpful hints from grandmother.

Many an heirloom gown has been carefully wrapped in blue tissue paper and stored in a trunk in an attic. Why blue paper? Mrs. Rogers was at a loss to explain. She thinks it may have something to do with that "blue" in the bridal dictats — something old, new, borrowed, blue. The tissue paper for contemporary gowns ought to be put between the gown's folds to protect each layer from the weight of the layer above. Folds are rounded instead of creased, as a result. In grandma's day, gowns were stored in attics rather than basements because of moisture in basement areas. Dampness or moisture causes mildew, a fungus growth that thrives on cotton, linen and rayon. To keep contemporary bridal gowns bright and sparkling for little sister — or even daughter — Mrs. Rogers suggested: —Never apply cologne to the gown itself. The alcohol in the cologne can affect the dye in a garment and the small amount of oil in the cologne may cause yellow or brown stains. —Try not to spill champagne, wedding cake or ice cream on the gown. Such stains can damage it. —The gown should be cleaned immediately after use. Allowing the soiled garment to hang for

Nixon's Daughter Lives Privately In White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Tricia Nixon is proving you can have a private life in the White House.

Her public appearances are rare even at the glamorous gatherings in her showcase home at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. It takes a special occasion like Father's Day to get her to a White House worship service on Sunday.

And though she is the envy of many members of the swinging set with her ringside seat to the "evenings of entertainment" in the East Room, the blonde Presidential daughter passes up most of the memorable performances.

Even White House staffers were surprised that she would forego the show stopping appearance by handsome British Shakespearean actor Nicol Williamson.

She also skipped Broadway singer Pearl Bailey who was a smash hit when she performed at the state dinner honoring West German Chancellor Willy Brandt.

While others were begging for invitations for the Johnny Cash show — and everyone below 30 in the White House turned out for the country singer's rehearsal — Tricia stayed away.

Truly yours,
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
P.S. Next Sunday the TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR WIVES

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen this problem in your column, but I would sure like to.

How long should a hostess wait for late dinner guests? Last evening my husband and I attended a party at the home of friends. We were invited for 7 o'clock and arrived promptly. So did everyone else, with the exception of one couple who came steaming in full of apologies at 8:45! The hostess held up dinner for this couple. By that time I had developed a hunger headache and my husband exceeded his quota of cocktails. Need I tell you what kind of an evening we had? Your comments would be very much appreciated.

BURNED UP
DEAR BURNED: I think 15 minutes is long enough to "hold up" a scheduled meal for a tardy guest. George Washington is said to have set a good precedent. He instructed his cook to inquire not, "Have the guests arrived?" but, "Has the hour arrived?" It's still a good rule.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOOKS YOUNGER": Are you bragging or complaining? When men between 25 and 30 ask you out, look them in the eye and say, "Thanks a lot, but I am 34 — a little 'old' for you, but if you have a friend between 35 and 45, send him around."

Judith Courtney and Carl Q. Comstock. The Rev. W. Cecil Findley, campus minister, read the double-ring candlelight service in Grace Memorial Chapel of Wichita State University, Wichita, Kans.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. R.L. Courtney, Wichita, Kans., and niece of Glen Courtney, Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Comstock, Wichita, Kans.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line silhouette of organza over taffeta with Alencon lace trim around the empire waistline with a high neckline and bishop sleeves. The matching mantilla was held in place by a camelot cap edged with Alencon lace. She carried white roses and daisies atop a white Bible, and wore a string of pearls which her mother had carried and worn in her wedding.

and family, Lamesa; Mrs. John Stephens, Burnet; Mr. and Mrs. Burl Ledbetter, Las Cruces, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Don Grady and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thornberry, Clarendon.

MRS. CARL Q. COMSTOCK
... nee Judith Courtney

They were dressed in pink dotted swiss, empire gowns designed with long sleeves, and spiralled with rows of lace, and carried pink daisies for their flowers. The flower girl was dressed similarly to the bridesmaids and carried pink daisies.

James Comstock, Wichita, Kans., assisted his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Larry Reynolds, Michael Rice and Wayne Comstock, all of Wichita, Kans., with Bruce Glen Courtney, of Pampa as taper lighter.

Robert Ray Courtney, the bride's brother, and her cousin Robert Courtney of Prairie Village, Kans., and Frank Palmer, Wichita, Kans., seated wedding guests.

Mrs. Thelma Quackenbush, organist, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Mrs. Glen Courtney, vocalist, as she sang "O Perfect Love," and "At Dawning." Bill

Prokes played the violin solo, "To A Wild Rose."

After the reception at the Campus Activity Center, the couple took a wedding trip to Hawaii. The bride who attended Pampa schools two years is a junior elementary education major at Wichita State University. The bridegroom is employed by an airline in Kansas City, Mo.

Designer Compromises With 'Cheating Skirt'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Designer Bill Blass neatly solves the mini-midi hemline hassle. He shows a "cheating" skirt length.

This means in essence that the mini, or well above the knees length, makes the skirt's underlayer. The midi goes on as an overskirt with divided center front. Sometimes, the division is a simple slit up the front.

At other times the designer for Maurice Rentner, Ltd., cuts the overskirt to the waistline in an inverted V.

"Cheating" is not Blass's word for his compromise length. The word belongs to Maurice Maurel, the UPI photographer who covered the Fall and Winter opening of the collection for press, buyers and celebrities at a New York Hotel.

Often the long and short of it showed in coat and dress combinations too. Blass showed midi coats, slim of line, often belted falling right over milady's boot tops at mid-calf. Beneath them, dresses were three and four inches above the knees.

Blass, one of the most influential designers in the country, was on the boot kick with all his daytime clothes and often showed boots for evening, too—sleekly fitted jobs done in metallic meshes. A favorite for daytime: Snakeskin printed boots with tweeds or some of his muted, somber-looking prints.

Prints were big for Fall with almost every firm in New York's garment industry. Blass did florals, "pretend" tiger stripes combined with black, and the reptile prints.

Among the other collections shown for press and buyers was that of Cecil Chapman, the woman who made a big name for herself in the 1950s with her bare-topped evening dresses and for clothing the television stars.

Miss Chapman is less skin conscious these days. She dipped necklines in some cases with her evening wear but the commentator told the audience the neckline could be raised if that was wanted on clothes shipped to the stores.

Her fiance is also attending SAGC, where he is majoring in the Christian ministry.

POLLY'S POINTERS Nail Polish Brings Sheen Back To Pearl Buttons

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. E.D. wanted to know how she could bring back the sheen to pearl buttons that have become dull from laundering. I suggest clear nail polish. If that makes them too glossy, try the frosty clear, which might look better. They can be retouched any time it is needed.

I think Irma had a good idea for making candles fit in the holders but we would hesitate about letting the wax that melts off run down the drain. It immediately hardens when reaching the inside of the cold drain, even when flushed with hot water.

Thanks for the reminder, Esther. A cloth or paper towel could be put over the drain to catch the wax and then both removed and put in the trash can.

Polly's Problem DEAR POLLY — While attending a kitchen shower for a bride-to-be, one of the guests presented an attractive "corsage" made of various kitchen utensils. Among them were several scouring pads made from colorful plastic onion bags. I would like to know how to make these scouring pads and such corsages, too.

DEAR POLLY — After the family has gone to bed, I like the "pick up" cluttered living room so when the sun comes up I will have at least one straight room. After washing any snack trays, carrying out the pop bottles and newspapers, I was always faced with full ash trays, which I was afraid to empty, so I always left them. One night, I decided I could not bear to smell the stale contents, so I took them to the kitchen and looked around to see how I could safely dispose of them. I dumped 'em all the contents of the ash trays in the center of a piece of aluminum foil, folded it up to make a neat, air-tight, package, then squeezed this in my hand. No more worrying! I washed the ash trays and went to bed with a clear mind.

DEAR JUDY — A dash of baking soda over the ashes and cigarette butts would be a bit of double insurance if you are not too sure about any remaining sparks. Why not ask each one of the family to carry his own tray and bottle back to the kitchen before taking off for bed — not much for them to do and would save you some steps?

DEAR POLLY — While sewing on the machine, I discovered that the material was being pulled. I sharpened my old needle with an emery board, just as though I was sharpening a pencil, and the needle worked like new.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite homemaking idea, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper.

Handicapped Children Display Confidence

LONDON (UPI)—At first it seems like any other adventure playground. Happy children climb and swing amid squeals and yells.

Then you notice the frail boy batting a cricket ball and braces on his legs. After five straight misses, he hits one hard.

The fair-haired girl inching up a ladder four times her height lurches unsteadily on the rungs. Still, she climbs higher. It is Britain's, and perhaps the world's, first adventure playground designed for handicapped children. It opened two months ago inside the walls of a sprawling vicarage garden in central London.

"Handicapped children are overprotected," said Lady Allen of Hurtwood, the spry 73-year-old woman who is behind the adventure playgrounds.

"Their courage is phenomenal. But they usually haven't had a chance to show it until they come here," she said as she gazed across the playground on a recent drizzly morning.

"They're mostly in a classroom and lack the opportunity to be outside like normal children. That's what is missing in their lives and it is something they can find here." Lady Allen, once a landscape architect, started Britain's first adventure playgrounds on bombed sites following World War II. "I'd always been interested in the environment in which people live—particularly children, because it seemed they'd be left out of the planning," she said.

"I decided to devote whatever talents I had to improving the environment of children. And children want more than asphalt and swings on their playgrounds."

The idea of an adventure playground especially for the handicapped child sprang from the success in the middle 1960s of vacation clubs for handicapped children which used facilities of schools between terms.

American Indians Call On President For Land Return

SANTA FE, NM. (UPI)—American Indian tribal leaders have called on President Nixon to support pending legislation to return lands in the Blue Lake area to the Taos Pueblo Indians of Northern New Mexico because of the land's sacred value to Indians.

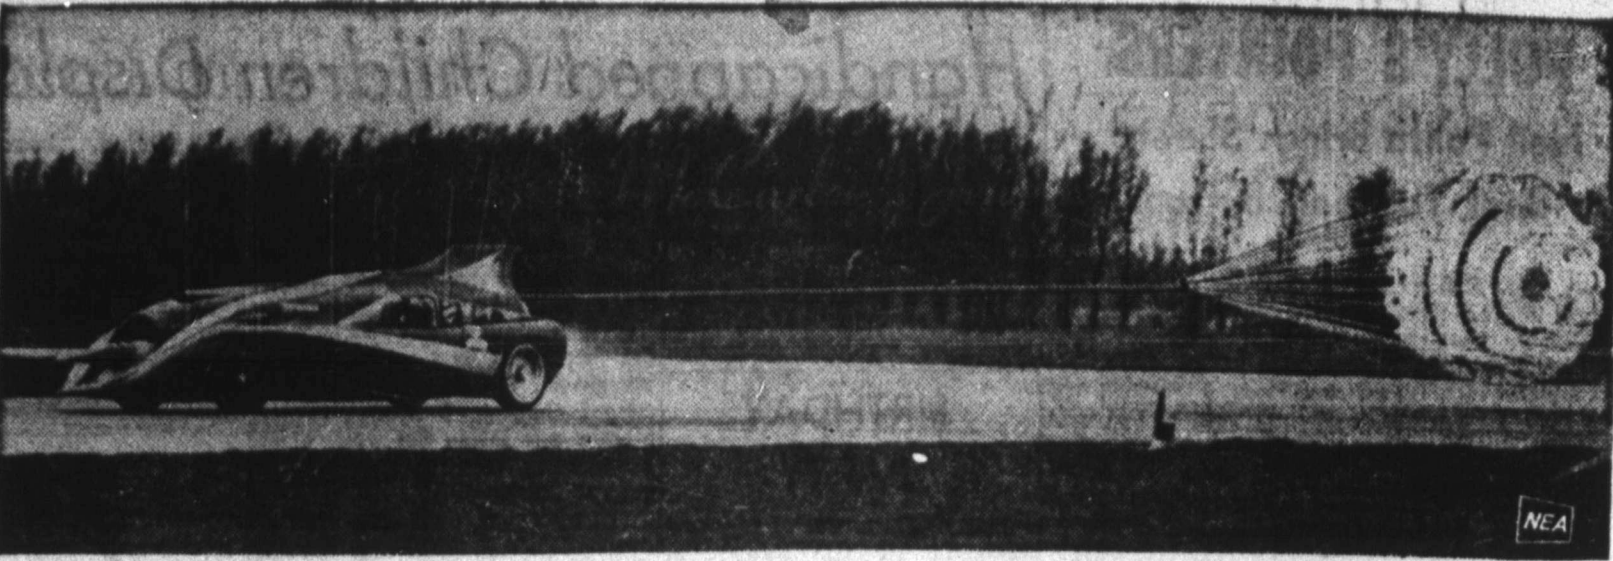

The appeal was wired to the President during a recent inter-tribal conference in Denver, sponsored by the National Congress of American Indians and the United Tribes of North Dakota.

The Blue Lake area contains the tribal shrines and holy places of the Taos Indians and is essential to the practice of their religion, John Ranier, first vice president of the congress said.

Leaders of the 26 tribes and organizations joined to sign the telegram.

The Indian Claims Commission has ruled that the land, which is in the Carson National Forest and administered by the Agriculture Department, was taken illegally by the federal government.

Legislation to transfer the land to the Interior Department for use by the Indians has been blocked by the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, despite the fact it has been passed twice by the House.

Gamma Rays Produce New 'Atomic Rice'

MANILA (UPI)—The miracle makers who produced high-yield rice to fill Asia's empty bellies but in the process lost the flavor now have put back in again with the help of deadly gamma rays.

Dubbed "atomic rice," the new, better-tasting "grain—the staple diet of Asia's teeming millions—is undergoing advanced field trials and agricultural scientists say it should be on dinner tables within a year.

Developers of the new rice report higher grain quality, earlier maturing and greater resistance to disease than the original miracle rice developed by the Philippine-based International Rice Research Institute (IRRI).

The miracle rice which hit the world in 1966 helped spark the so-called "green revolution" making many previously hungry countries self-sufficient in food. But there had been reports of farmers switching back to the traditional low-yield varieties in the face of widespread complaints over the taste of miracle rice, called IR8.

The greatest impact in Asia of atomic rice is expected to lie in its grain quality, what makes it taste better.

Dr. Iluminado G. Valencia, 43-year-old chief of the Agricultural Sciences Department of the Philippine Atomic Reactor Center (PARC) that made the breakthrough, said three new varieties of the Indica rice preferred throughout most of Asia, are not plump and chalky like miracle rice.

The new grains, narrow and with "very little" of the chalky belly, are better tasting, he said.

But atomic rice retains the same high-yield qualities of miracle rice, about 11,520 pounds per 2.4 acres for atomic rice against 12,240 pounds for miracle rice, about 11,520 pounds per 2.4 acres for atomic rice against 12,240 pounds for IR8. Instead of the 120 days from planting to harvesting for IR8, atomic rice matures in about 95 days.

Valencia said two problems the new strains have not solved are the need for lots of water and nitrogen, requiring expensive nitrogenous fertilizer.

Valencia is leaving for South Korea later this month to help develop radiation mutation techniques on the Japonica rice, a fluffier, stickier type eaten there as well as Japan and most Western countries where it is normally used in rice pudding.

Unleaded Fuel--The Answer To Pollution?

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Unleaded fuel is the answer to air pollution problems caused by motor vehicles. True or false?

That is a question attracting widespread attention lately. The answer? It depends on who you ask.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. says: "The ultimate solution to obtaining an essentially pollution-free automobile now appears to include advanced emission control devices that will require unleaded gasoline."

Pennzoil United Inc. says: "Reduction of lead in gasoline is not the best solution to the nation's problem of reducing exhaust emissions."

Neither proponents nor opponents of unleaded gasoline can be accused of stalling over combatting air pollution. The controversy is, what is the best answer and how can it best be solved. The only unanimous agreement has been there is a need for solutions.

The auto industry has pledged to come up with whatever type engine it may take to provide cleaner exhaust fuels, the oil industry has pledged to make the type fuel necessary for efficient performance of those engines, and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has become the coordinating government agency.

Honor America Day Scheduled For July 4

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A big "Honor America Day" rally has been scheduled for July 4 on the Washington Monument grounds, with comedian Bob Hope, one of the leading participants, predicting a turnout of possibly half a million.

Hope said Thursday it would be "the biggest celebration in America's history." He said President Nixon might appear, the objective, Hope said, is to demonstrate that "Americans can put aside their honest differences and rally around the flag to show national unity."

An antiwar rally last November on the monument grounds drew crowds estimated at up to a quarter million or more.

Police Continue Public Relations Project In LA

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The sheriff's department finally approved distribution of 90,000 "Deputy Dan" coloring books to Los Angeles school children Friday in a campaign to promote friendly relations between youngsters and deputy sheriffs.

Insurance of the booklets was halted last week after a deputy complained that the California bear on Deputy Dan's helmet looked more like a pig.

Proxmire Says Air Force Made Bad Negotiations

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., charged the Air Force today with "weak, supine behavior, in negotiations with the Lockheed Corp. for the C5A cargo plane.

Proxmire planned to introduce an amendment to the 1971 military authorization bill that would cut out $200 million in contingency funds for the C5A and temporarily freeze the remaining $344 million in the bill for the plane.

He said, in a prepared Senate speech, the fund would be frozen until Lockheed provides a comprehensive cash flow analysis of the precise financial condition of the company and a precise production status of the plane.

House Passes Small Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House voted Thursday to appropriate $2.3 billion for foreign aid for next fiscal year, one of the smallest amounts since the program was begun after World War II.

The bill, passed 192 to 152 and sent to the Senate, would provide $1.6 billion for economic loans and grants, $350 million for military assistance, with the balance going for military credit sales, Cuban and other refugee assistance and U.S. contributions to various international banks.

Before final passage the House defeated an amendment to end the freedom airlift of Cuban refugees by deleting $800,000 from the bill.

amendments would insist that the Everglades National Park get a fair of 16.5 per cent share of South Florida's water supply during droughts, and authorize $25 million to provide for construction of canals and pumping stations.

—The House Appropriations Committee approved a bill to provide $7.4 billion for farm price supports, anti-hunger programs and related agricultural activities.

—The House Rules Committee voted 7 to 4 to recommend creation of a special committee Asia War and report back in 45 days.

—The Senate Interior Committee delayed until at least June 18 the nomination of Dr. Jr. Richard Lucas as director of the Bureau of Mines.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The toughest competition television networks may face for viewer attention this decade is being developed right in their own laboratories.
 The development is the television cassette—film and tape cartridges that will be able to be played at home via units either attached or built in to any video set.
 But network programming seems certain to be affected. Artists, theatrical works and other special broadcast attractions that might do better in cassette sales could well be lured away. At least, networks will undoubtedly be forced to compete furiously for them.
 On the other hand, routine shows like situation comedies, Western series and standard variety outings seem safe for the networks, for surely no large amount of people would be willing to pay for them.
 Most important, though, is the fact that live, spot happenings—in short, news events—are an unmatched network commodity. In this field, cassettes can't be competitive, and there may be the happy prospect of more network emphasis on reality programming.
 The two big networks are trying to protect themselves financially on all flanks as a

Liquor Director Returns To Work

SANTE FE N.M. (UPI) — The job until officially notified of his discharge.
 Cargo, who left Santa Fe Thursday for several days of rest in Northern New Mexico, said he was taking the action because McCulloch campaigned against him for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator and because the liquor director maintained a fulltime law practice in Albuquerque. The governor lost Tuesday to Anderson Carter in the Republican senatorial primary.

TWA Hijacking Gives Urgency To Commission To Stop Piracy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The perilous hijacking of a Trans World Airlines jetliner for eight hours Thursday has given new urgency to a White House plan for creation of a special commission to devise ways to stop air piracy.
 Authoritative government sources said Friday that the idea of a presidential commission composed of high federal officials, airline executives and pilots "is under active consideration at the White House, and a decision is expected soon."
 The panel would study the problems involved and "come up with something definite that would help the government stop hijacking," the sources said.
 The White House had no comment on the report nor on the harrowing events of Thursday which culminated in the arrest of Auther G. Barkley, 49, of Phoenix on federal charges of hijacking the TWA Boeing 727 over New Mexico with 58 persons aboard.
 Barkley, who demanded a $100 million ransom from the Supreme Court and was actually given $100,750 at one point by TWA officials, was seized by FBI agents on the plane.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS

Recently the news media, both TV and newspaper, have carried pictures of lucky fishermen carrying home a big string of fish. Some people do not understand how this could be so in lakes that are relatively new.

Howard Drew and John Tilton, with the Texas Electric Company, have compiled an information booklet explaining the why of the fish in such reservoirs as Lake Meredith and Lake McClellan. Water in a large number of the lakes is also used to generate electric power plants. The booklet is titled, "Fish and Kilowatt's."

We are quoting the section on Fish in Texas Reservoirs. "As soon as a reservoir is built in Texas it is stocked with game fish. For a time these fish grow rapidly and in the first few years of the reservoir's life fishing is good. But soon the rough fish that get into every reservoir have multiplied to the point where they are competing with the game fish and after three or four years there are more rough fish than game fish. Fishing then begins to decline, the game fish become scarce or smaller in size and rough fish such as buffalo and carp make up about 75 percent of the fish in the reservoir. This situation generally continues throughout the life of the reservoir.

Although there are a number of reasons for this, the most important is that the game fish developed in the warm streams of Texas are not suited to the conditions found in these artificial reservoirs. Over many years, the Texas game fish adapted to the natural conditions that occur in the Texas rivers where the stream flow is irregular and water temperatures can be as high as 110 degrees. As a result, they prefer moving water and warm temperatures. The maximum growth for game fish occurs in water between 75 and 85 degrees. But in the reservoirs, because of stratification, temperatures this high are usually found only in the upper strata. The deeper waters are colder and the game fish are unable to grow or reproduce in them.

"Stratification limits the distribution of the nutrients and minerals that are necessary for fish to live. This is particularly true in the summer when these materials are most needed and when there is less rain to carry them into the lakes from the watersheds. The deeper waters in the reservoir's carbon dioxide and in some large reservoirs as much as 50 percent of the total volume supports little aquatic life, particularly during the warmer months."

The Water Code Advisory Committee of the Texas Legislature held hearings in Austin on Friday and Saturday of the past week to give the Water Conservation district an opportunity to sit in on a review, that has just been completed, on the laws governing both surface and underground water districts.

The underground water districts such as the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District were created under Article 7880-3C.

Frank Daugherty, local representative of the Internal Revenue Service, advises me a special meeting will be held in the Hospitality Room of the Citizens Bank and Trust Company at 8 p.m. June 17.

The purpose of the meeting is to inform taxpayers on what steps they should take to claim tax deductions for property damage and losses and how to claim immediate tax benefits for tornado and storm damage.

The meeting will be conducted by John Sloan, administrative officer of the Lubbock Internal Revenue Service Office, and Arlen Ruthart, administrative officer of the Plainview office.

Sloan is coordinating the disaster tax information program throughout the ten-county area. Ruthart is an Internal Revenue Agent instructor for the Dallas District, in addition to his duties at Plainview.

We encourage all those that had losses due to the tornado and other storm losses to take advantage of this meeting. We are especially grateful to Frank Daugherty and the area Internal Revenue officials for their help in getting this information to the public.

Some areas of the county have not had any effective rainfall for over two months. Heavy rains have been reported for the Kingsmill area, hail took its toll in this area, however. Many irrigation farmers are planting milo at present. In some cases they are watering it up because of a dry out after pre-watering.

Harvesting of dryland wheat will be in full swing this week if the weather continues dry. Yields will be better than most people expect them to be chiefly because of above-average winter moisture. Cooler than average temperatures and rainy weather that delayed planting last fall will add to the above-average yield. Very little insect trouble was experienced in this year's wheat crop.

Waggoner Ranch Barn To Become Museum

LUBBOCK—Acquisition of a large historic barn from the famous Waggoner Ranch near Vernon in Wilbarger County for the Ranch Headquarters complex at Texas Tech University was announced Saturday by Jerry Rogers, director of the outdoor living museum.

The 60x80-foot building will be moved to the 12-acre site of the new museum on the Tech campus at 4th Street and Indiana Avenue.

The barn is the eighth historic structure to be donated to the setting.

"When completed, the complex will preserve and interpret headquarters which will present some 20 historic ranch buildings, each in its native Clay counties with its history of ranching in Texas and throughout the American West, and will provide an educational and recreational facility for students and the general public," Rogers said.

The Waggoner Ranch was established by Daniel Waggoner, born July 7, 1928, in Lincoln County, Tenn. He came to Texas in 1848, locating first in Hopkins County. In 1851 he established his ranch in Wise County, Texas, purchasing 15,000 acres near present Lake Bridgeport. He married Nancy Moore in 1848, and after moving to Wise County Aug. 31, 1852, a son, W.T. (Tom) Waggoner, was born.

By 1871 the Waggoner Ranch had expanded into Wichita and headquarters three miles east of present Wichita Falls. Dan Waggoner utilized the profits from large herds driven to Kansas by his son, Tom, to purchase vast amounts of land in Wilbarger, Foard, Wichita, Baylor, Archer and Knox Counties, forming the nucleus of a great ranch empire.

About 1880, the headquarters were moved to the Peace River near Vernon. From the mid-1880's to shortly after 1900 the Waggoners leased additional rangeland just across the Red River in Indian Territory, Quanah Parker, the famous Comanche Indian Chief, worked occasionally for the Waggoners riding fence on the leased lands in his buckboard.

In April 1905 Tom Waggoner and S. Burk Burnett, owner of the 6666 Ranch, were hosts to Theodore Roosevelt, the president of the United States, on a wolf hunt on the leased lands near Frederick in Indian Territory.

In 1903, the China Creek headquarters in northeastern Wilbarger and Wichita Counties and developed as farm land. The remaining land in Wilbarger and Wichita counties was broken up into four divisions, White Face, Four Corners, Santa Rosa and Zacawista.

Dan Waggoner died in Colorado Springs, Colo., in September 1902 and Tom Waggoner inherited the ranch.

The legend of the dilemma of ranchers striking oil when drilling for water possibly started with Tom Waggoner in 1909. He thrust a fence post in disgust down a well filled with oil instead of water and abandoned it. A year later, the Electra Field was discovered nearby, as was the Burk Burnett Field, and the oil industry began to develop.

The Electra Field and the city of Electra were named for Tom Waggoner's daughter.

The statue of Will Rogers on the Texas Tech campus, presented to the University by the Amon G. Carter Foundation, was executed by Electra Waggoner Biggs, a niece of the original Electra Waggoner and granddaughter of Tom Waggoner. Mrs. Biggs and her husband now live at Santa Rosa on the Waggoner Ranch.

The Waggoner brand evolved from D61, used in Wise County, to D71, used in Wichita County, and finally the famous three reversed D's in a triangular arrangement was adopted after the move to Wilbarger County in the 1880's. The brand was ideal because it can be recognized easily when looking at an animal from the front, and it is very difficult for rustlers to alter. The brand used at present is a single reversed D.

In his later years, Tom Waggoner began to pursue his dream of "owning the finest string of race horses in the world." In addition to obtaining and improving some of the finest racing stock in Texas he built Arlington Downs at Arlington, Texas in the early 1900's. The day after Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson signed the pari-mutuel betting bill into law, in May 1933, Tom Waggoner suffered a stroke.

He witnessed only a few races from an ambulance before his death on Dec. 11, 1934. After the Texas Legislature repealed the betting act in 1947, Arlington Downs faded into oblivion and Tom Waggoner's dream went with it.

C.L. Douglas, a ranch historian, once heard Tom Waggoner say, "A man who doesn't admire a good beef steer, a good horse, and a pretty woman... well, something is wrong with that man's head."

The Waggoner Ranch has been a leader in seeking improved ranching methods and technology, Rogers said. R.B. Anderson, manager of the ranch from 1941 to 1953, and later deputy secretary of defense and secretary of the Treasury, in the Eisenhower administration, experimented with dehydrated feed grain pellets for fattening stock. The ranch-owned plant was the only factory of its kind at the time. This method of feeding became popular among ranchers.

The tradition of progressive operation is continued by John Biggs, present manager of the W.T. Waggoner Estate. Over one half million acres are kept in range grasses, and 26,000 acres are cultivated in small grain crops to provide winter grazing.

The estate maintains one of the world's finest herds of quarterhorses, numbering about a thousand head, and is especially renowned for the Poco Bueno line of horses.

In announcing the gift, manager Biggs counseled Texas tech to "use this building for the benefit of future generations. Help people to understand that establishing a ranch on the nineteenth century frontier was not an easy task." Historic buildings for the Ranch Headquarters Museum project are being selected by a blue ribbon committee of ranch history experts.

Control of undesirable brush on rangeland will increase yields and profits on range in this area. Chemical control will increase yields as much as three or four times, if proper range management is carried out after spraying. The sprayed area should be rested for one full growing season after spraying. This allows the better grasses to come back and the seeding grasses to get a good start before grazing begins.

Some of the people who controlled brush on their Rangeland last year were Harvey Hudgens and Craig Morris in the McLean area, and Fred S. Vanderburg, Sr., 15 miles south of Pampa. They all got good control on their brush.

Ranchers planning to spray brush this month are Johnny Haynes, Lester Bailey, Ercy Cubine, Craig Morris, C.J. Magee, and Mrs. James B. Noel, all of the McLean area.

HEAT PAY

CHELSEA, Mass. (UPI)—Chelsea firemen want heat pay. The firemen, members of Firefighters Local 937, are negotiating with the city for a new contract. One of their demands is for an extra day's pay when the temperature goes above 90 degrees.

The Ranchers listed above all have Great Plains Conservation Program Contracts on their Ranches.

Chemical control on brush should be completed by June 15.

The Pampa Soil Conservation Service office will be glad to answer any questions about brush control or any other Soil and Water Conservation problems.

DENIES PROBLEM

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's top health officer, Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, has denied there is a moral problem in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) health programs.

"You know," Egeberg told a House commerce subcommittee hearing Monday, "they all have to bitch a little but I don't think that's a morale problem."

IT'S BARELY POSSIBLE that "Scandy" is imitating human litterbugs in this little charade. Photographed in New York's Central Park zoo, the 5-year-old, 700-pound polar bear seems to be drinking from a beer keg and then tossing it aside. Could he be called a "polar polluter"?

Gregory, Fortas Urge Change By Peaceful Means

ORONO, Maine (UPI) — Former Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas and black comedian Dick Gregory urged University of Maine graduates Thursday to use moral and peaceful means to rectify the injustices of the nation.

"You have the power to change the course of this nation," Gregory told 1,200 graduates and guests at the university.

However, the civil rights worker urged youth to turn away from "dynamite and the gun" in favor of "morality." Students he said, should become part of a great moral force working to better America.

Fortas called on young people to continue to assert their demands, using "peaceful demonstration and demand."

"Today we have begun the painful, agonizing, anguish-filled process of rectifying the injustices that have existed in this nation for so many years,"

Fortas said. "We are handing you a new world we have just started to create."

"If America falls, and it very well might," Gregory said "you young folks will have nobody to blame but yourselves because us old folks just have the power to corrupt."

Smith Says Census Indicates Challenge

CRANE, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Preston Smith said Thursday that low preliminary census figures indicated residents of Texas' rural communities and small towns may face a challenge equal to that faced by "frontier busters" that settled them.

"Right now the people of Texas — whether they live in the largest city or the smallest rural community — have some problems as tough for them as were those that confronted the 'frontier busters'."
