IN CALIFORNIA

National Guard Called In To Quell Rampage

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — About 300 National Guard troops were bivouacked in the student community of Isla Vista near the University of California at Santa Barbara and 300 more were en route from the Los Angeles area this morning after three straight nights of campus violence.

Gov. Ronald Reagan called in the National Guard at the request of Sheriff James Webster after rock-and-bottle throwing melees which injured seven police officers, two students, and at the peak involved some 1,200 students. There were 16 arrests.

Sheriff's Lt. Michael Swan said, "The guard will be used but exactly how and when will be determined sometime later in the morning."

Some 400 "hardcore agitators" using hit-and-run tactics withdrew to their apartment dwellings around midnight Thursday night after battling 350 police, sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen for more than seven hours.

Officers in hard-hats with plastic eye shields withdrew after a see-saw battle between demonstrators hurling rocks and Molotov cocktails and officers firing tear gas.

Spearman Files For Second Term As School Trustee

JOHN SPEARMAN
... Pampa rancher

John Spearman, school board president and one of two incumbents in the April 5 trustee election, announced today he filed for re-election Thursday afternoon.

With six days left before the midnight March 5 filing deadline, the other incumbent, John Gikas, who has served nine years on the board, said today he expected to announce his intentions within the next day or two.

The first candidate to file, Bob Wilhelm, filed Feb. 11, a week before trustees officially called the election. Candidates may file either with Homer Craig in the school business office at Pampa Junior High School, or with the board secretary, Warren Hasse.

Spearman, a Pampa resident 41 years, owns and operates a farm and ranch 10 miles east of Pampa. He and his wife, Angela, have four children, John Jr., 16, a Pampa High School junior; Mary Margaret, 15, a Lee Junior High School freshman; Melinda, 13, an eighth grader at Lee; and Jay, 12, sixth grade student at Austin Elementary School.

A 1947 graduate of Pampa High School, where he was named best boy citizen of his graduating class and was a National Honor Society member, he graduated from Texas Tech in 1951 with a B.S. Degree with a major in animal husbandry and minor in economics. He is a member of First United Methodist Church and a director of the Top of Texas Rodeo Association.

Serving his first three-year term on the board, Spearman stated "I feel that a good school system is important to our community and especially to our children, who are our most important possession. Their education and future are directly affected by our schools and our teachers. I want our children to have the best educational opportunities possible."

City To Start Tree-Planting Project

Planting of some 300 trees and miscellaneous shrubbery along the banks of Red Deer Creek from Hobart to Cook streets is expected to start next week.

A contract award for purchase of the trees and shrubbery was awarded this forenoon to Tom's Tree Place, Lubbock, as city commissioners met in reconvened session.

The contract price was low bid on 18 items for a total of $4,129.20. The Lubbock firm was one of four bidders.

B.M. Wofford, city engineer, said planting of the trees and shrubbery is expected to be completed by March 15.

The $4,129.20 cost will come out of the $100,000 contribution of the Gray-Pampa-Foundation for beautification of city parks.

Work of planting the trees and shrubbery will be done by city park department employees, Wofford stated.

AT CUB PACK 98's Genius Night Thursday in Travis Elementary School Cub Scout Glen Roth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Roth, 2201 N. Sumner, earned the title of "genius" by creating a covered-wagon from miscellaneous articles provided at the pack's Blue and Gold Banquet. He is pictured here with his scoutmaster, Bob Herby. Glen was among 70 other cubs creatively competing with tin cans, coathangers, string, rope, corks, chains, tacks, beads, nails, peanuts, cloth, leather, wood and sponge rubber.

Pampa Passes First Hurdle Of HUD Bid

Pampa's application for a $625,000 federal grant to help build a Canadian River Water treatment plant cleared its first hurdle yesterday when a subcommittee of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission gave unanimous approval to the project.

The subcommittee action came after a 20-minute discussion in the Amarillo Club at Amarillo and following a review of the proposal by Pampa City Manager Charles Hill.

The water subcommittee's approval now will go to the PRPC for final okay at its regular meeting next Wednesday.

The Panhandle commission's report will go to the Department of Housing and Urban Development regional office in Fort Worth where the Pampa application already is on file.

The regional HUD office then will forward its recommendation to the national HUD office in Washington which has the final say in granting or rejecting the application.

The $625,000 grant, if finally approved, will supplement local bond funds for the construction of the water treatment plant and mains to connect it with Pampa's present water distribution system at a total cost of $1,411,400.

Naples Is City On Rise

POZZUOLI, Italy (UPI)—The very ground under this Naples suburb of 70,000 has risen 28 inches since September, a geological phenomenon that has caused an estimated $2.4 million damage.

City authorities ordered a 60-patient hospital evacuated Thursday for fear that another further shift in the earth would cause it to collapse.

This was the latest safety precaution ordered against what is known as bradyseism, or "slow earthquake," a geological quirk that causes the ground to rise or fall.

The harbor master and his staff, customs and port police have abandoned their offices. A school, a teacher's training college and about 100 homes developed cracks and likewise were evacuated.

Pozzuoli, home of several hundred families of U.S. sailors stationed at 8th Fleet headquarters in Naples, is situated on a thin crust of earth over a sea of molten lava, believed linked to the system venting at nearby Mt. Vesuvius.

The area was known to the ancient Greeks at the "fiery fields" because of the steam and vapors pouring from cracks in the ground—cracks the ancients thought were the entrances to Hell.

New York Quints Are Making It

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Kienast quintuplets have been taken off their special oxygen-enriched air and their doctor is "guardedly optimistic for their survival."

The parents of the three girls and two boys, Mr. and Mrs. William Kienast, have tentatively named four of them.

The names picked were Amy, Sarah, Abigail and William Gordon. But a spokesman at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center said those names may be changed and are "not at all official."

"Those kids are doing okay," said one of the doctors after checking the infants born six weeks prematurely to 27-year-old Mrs. Margaret Kienast on Tuesday night. Mrs. Kienast and her 38-year-old salesman husband already have two small children, a 4½-year-old daughter, and an 18-month-old son.

To Settle Disputes In Labor Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon asked Congress today for broad new powers — including a compulsory settlement process — to deal with labor disputes in the transportation field such as the threatened stoppage of the nation's railroads.

Declaring present laws covering labor disputes in the transportation industry are inadequate, Nixon advocated what he described as a "final offer selection" to break deadlocks.

He asked Congress to extend the present 80-day cooling off period allowed the government for up to an additional 30 days, to permit the government to compel partial operation of struck transportation industries if needed and to impose the compulsory settlement machinery as a last resort.

Under the last procedure, each of the parties would be given three days to submit either one or two final offers to the labor secretary. The parties would then be given five days to meet and bargain over the final offers. If no agreement was reached a special group of three neutral panelists would be set up by either the disputants or the President and the special group would choose one of the final offers as the final and binding settlement.

Nixon said this procedure would be preferable to compulsory arbitration which rail unions have always opposed in the past because it would encourage both sides to "compete to make the most reasonable and most realistic final offer—one which will have the best chance to win the panel's endorsement."

In his special message to Congress, Nixon said: "Our highly interdependent economy is extraordinarily vulnerable to any major interruption in the flow of goods."

Work stoppages in the railroad, airline, maritime, longshore or trucking industries are more likely to imperil the national health or safety than work stoppages in any other industries."

The railroads and airlines are not subject to the Taft-Hartley law but are dealt with under a separate railway labor act.

Nixon said whenever possible the government should stay out of private labor disputes, but "when the public interest requires that government step in, then it should do so through procedures which bring the current conflict to an equitable conclusion without weakening the self-reliance of future bargainers."

A prolonged bargaining dispute between the railroads and four shopcraft unions has brought the industry to the verge of a nationwide stoppage. Only two court injunctions have prevented a total stoppage and the present injunction is scheduled to expire Monday at 4 p.m. EST.

Nixon said that the railway act's emergency provisions have been invoked 187 times in the past 45 years but work stoppages have occurred at the rate of more than one per year since 1947 despite the cooling-off period.

The President told Congress the railway act "actually discourages genuine bargaining" because both sides in disputes have come to regard the government participation as a normal part of the negotiating process.

Other portions of the transportation industry such as maritime, longshore and trucking industries are covered under the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley act which Nixon helped write in 1947 when he was a congressman. It provides that when the threat of a labor dispute imperils the nation's health and safety, the President may appoint a board of inquiry and petition a federal court for an 80-day cooling off period.

RECORD ACCIDENTS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A record 8,329 train accidents during 1969 killed 179 rail employees and five passengers, according to the Federal Railroad workers union.

It said 16,709 employees and 294 passengers were injured. A railroad accident was defined as one caused from "the operation or movement of trains, locomotives or cars which result in more than $750 worth of damage."

Panhandle Man Walks Six Blocks To Death

By DEL CONNER
News Staff Writer

SKELLYTOWN — Stretched out on the bathroom floor of a strange house he had never entered before, his cap and shoes neatly arranged on a bed he had never slept in, 61-year-old Noble F. ("Rusty") Yates of Panhandle died Thursday afternoon in Skellytown.

A Borger woman, Mrs. Susie Green, tried to render aid but could offer nothing but comfort.

Mrs. Green is caretaker of the presently unoccupied home at the southwest corner of First and Ash where Yates, a state highway employee passed away. She was checking the oil in her car in the driveway of the house when Yates came walking up the street about 4 p.m., having left his state highway truck parked six blocks away.

Mrs. Green said Yates approached near her car and said, "Lady, can I use your bathroom? I'm sick."

She said he appeared confused. "His walk was straight but he had a slight difficulty with speech," Mrs. Green said she thought the man appeared very sick. She insisted he had not been drinking.

Mrs. Green showed him to the door of the house and gave instructions to find the bathroom. She then returned to her car and almost immediately she heard a loud thud from the house. She re-entered the house to find the fallen man.

At that time Yates was unconscious but still breathing. The phone in the house was disconnected.

Mrs. Green immediately placed a cool towel on Yates' head, loosened his belt and removed his shoes. She placed another towel under his head.

She dashed to her car and drove to Skellytown City Hall where she met Jack Cornwell, Skellytown water superintendent. They rushed back to the scene.

Cornwell entered the house and states he felt for Yates' pulse but could find no sign of life; "I knew he was dead."

Two pill bottles, apparently belonging to Yates were found in the bedroom adjoining the bath. It is surmised the pills were prescribed medicine.

Leland Gibson, proprietor of a Skellytown cafe and old friend of Yates' told this reporter he had coffee with Yates a half hour before the tragedy. Gibson added he knew Yates had suffered a heart ailment for some time. Gibson said Yates complained of not feeling well while they were having coffee.

Inside the house, Yates had removed his dentures. It is not known whether he took a pill nor whether it would have saved his life had he done so.

Carson County Sheriff John Nunn, who was at the scene, said there was no sign of foul play. Sheriff Nunn said, "the contents of the pill bottles will be analyzed."

The home, where the death occurred, is reportedly owned by the Lester Vans who are out of town.

Born May 31, 1908, in Davis Okla., Yates moved from Borger to Panhandle in 1936. Where, in addition to his employment with the highway department, he and his wife, Ruby, owned and operated a cafe.

He was a member of Carson County Masonic Lodge and of the James McCaskey VFW Post.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by two sons, James Clinton of Tokyo, Japan, P.W., serving with the Marine Corps in Honolulu; two brothers, Doyle of Stinnett, Orville of Weatherford; half-brother, Homer Jefferson of Mammoth Springs, Ark.; two sisters, Lola Christiano of Erie, Pa.; Mrs. Grace Clark of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Services, with Poston Funeral Home in Panhandle, are pending the arrival of the two servicemen sons.

Teacher 'Sacked' For Showing 'Blurb'

PORTALES, N.M. (UPI)—For 10 minutes Wednesday, it looked like old times in Timothy Taylor's journalism class at Portales High School.

Then principal Russell Knudson showed up and Taylor, a 23-year-old teacher, was back to being unemployed.

Taylor, a graduate of Eastern New Mexico University, has vowed to go to court over what he has termed a "forced resignation" resulting from the introduction of an underground newspaper in one of his classes.

Taylor made an impromptu return to Portales High School Wednesday to withdraw his resignation and resume teaching his class. He left a letter stating he was withdrawing his resignation in Knudson's office then walked into his former class and told the substitute he was taking over.

"I was in control for about 10 minutes before the principal came in and told me he wanted me in his office," Taylor said.

A conference between Taylor, Knudson and Supt. J. C. Cozzens followed, after which Taylor agreed to leave the school, taking his case to the New Mexico Education Association and the American Civil Liberties Union.

"I plan to ask the NMEA for help and I also have an appointment with an American Civil Liberties Union lawyer in Albuquerque Thursday," Taylor said.

Taylor's case has created a split between students and administrators. Monday, 21 students staged a sit-in demonstration in support of the teacher, then kicked off a fund-raising drive so he could obtain a lawyer.

Taylor has charged Knudson and Cozzens forced him to resign because he showed the "Berkeley Barb" underground newspaper to students in one of his classes.

The teacher said he told his students the newspaper was "hypocritical" because it used a Vietnam war picture to promote attendance at a Black Panther meeting and labeled it "a horrible journalistic technique."

Neither honking horns nor a few attempts at gentle persuasion could convince the fowl to retreat. By the time police arrived, however, they had made a "clean getaway."

LION'S CLUB MINSTREL SHOW - MARCH 13th -14th DON'T MISS IT!

Hollywood In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Men, the hustlers of feminine fashion will fleece you of a minimum of a thousand dollars in the next year or so, according to courtier Ray Aghayan.

Aghayan designs feminine wardrobes for television and motion pictures, and in some cases male attire. He is a nominee for an Oscar this year for best costume design.

The death of the miniskirt is imminent, he says. And it's going to cost you.

There's no way a miniskirt hem can be let out 10 inches or more.

Midi Is Coming Thing

Aghayan said, "The midi (for middle of the calf) look is the coming thing in fashion.

That means skirts will be about 12 inches above the floor or four inches or so below the knee.

Aghayan is a small man who pays little attention to his own wardrobe. He wears open neck shirts, a sweater or vest, comfortable slacks and shoes. Changes in fashion don't hit his bank account.

"The very short skirt," he continued, "is good-looking on the very young. Girls 19 and under."

What about 20-year-olds?

"I don't consider them young."

Aghayan has been circumspect in designing clothes for females in television. A miniskirt today is fashionable. In reruns five years from now she will be as dated as Claudette Colbert in her ankle-length skirts from the 1930s.

Actress Can Set Pace

"When I design clothes for a TV actress I'm aware there may be as many as 25 million women watching and being influenced," he said. "If a certain actress is seen often enough she can set a fashion pace."

Aghayan reckoned that a modest wardrobe of 10 or so new things would cost the average female (more likely her husband) $1,000 to make the change from the old look to the new.

"The hippie look is unfashionable now," Aghayan concluded. "Women want to look more feminine. The mystique is returning."

Aghayan only grinned when it was suggested that the mystique was irreparably damaged by the vistas of feminine flesh displayed by the miniskirt.

Father Of Quints Vows Won't Be A Next Time

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Kienast quintuplets, exercising the prerogative of all newborn babies, howled lustily throughout their first day of life Wednesday, delighting doctors concerned with breathing problems connected with premature births.

The five children were born six weeks early Tuesday night to Mrs. Margaret Kienast, Far Hills, N.J., who had taken fertility drugs to overcome ovulation problems.

Mrs. Kienast, 27, had also taken the drug Perganol before the birth of her other children, a 4 1/2 year-old daughter and an 18-month-old son. She and her salesman husband, William, 38, had been warned to expect triplets and possibly quadruplets.

Pediatricians at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center expressed their pleasure at the fact the babies lungs were in such fine working order, indicating they had overcome early breathing problems.

"For a complicated delivery we couldn't hope for the babies to be in better condition than they are now," said Dr. Stanley James, the hospital's chief pediatrician. "Three of the infants were having breathing difficulty but as of this morning all signs are they are making a successful adaptation."

All five babies were born in 10 minutes, and ranged in weight from three pounds, four ounces, to four pounds, six ounces.

The quint, two of them identical and the other three fraternal, have been placed in isolettes, and will be observed carefully for the next month to make sure their progress

Washington Window

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Students of the American system of government have long disputed whether a president truly receives proper information on which to base vital decisions.

This scholarly dispute is eminently valid today. Even President Nixon has conceded privately that it takes considerable time and effort to acquire information pertinent to a basic decision, particularly when it involves a traumatic, highly emotional matter such as the Vietnam War.

This was one reason why Nixon said publicly at the start of antiwar "moratoriums" last fall that in arriving at presidential policy, he had no intention of being swayed by street demonstrations. Peace activists dredge up this Nixon press conference observation repeatedly to demonstrate the evils of the establishment.

In fact, David Dellinger, one of the "Chicago Seven" defendants who has been sentenced to five years in jail, referred to Nixon's remark in a public appearance here recently, shouting "who in the Hell does he think he is?"

George E. Reedy, who was associated for nearly 20 years with former President Lyndon B. Johnson and part of that time as White House press secretary, is examining the decision-making process and other aspects of the presidency in a new book, "The Twilight of the Presidency."

Reedy observes that quite aside from LBJ, there is a continuing tendency on the part of White House staffs to wrap a chief executive in a blanket devised by the staff itself. Reedy believes the White House as now structured inevitably isolates a chief executive from reality.

Demos Mull Over New Party Head

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nine Democratic governors have asked former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to consult with them before he nominates anyone to be the new Democratic national chairman.

The governors invited Humphrey to meet with them at breakfast Friday to discuss the matter. Humphrey has already asked former Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien to take the job, but O'Brien has not replied.

Gov. John N. Dempsey of Connecticut said there was a feeling among Democrats attending the National Governors Conference that they should have more voice in party affairs. Dempsey said O'Brien would make a good chairman but there was some feeling that the party would be "better off with a new face."

Husband Asks Another Woman To Beat Wife's Evil Spirits

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—Sheila Garmon told police Wednesday night her husband left town Sunday bound for either Texas or Louisiana. Before he left, however, he instructed another woman to "give us 20 lashes each day until he returned."

Mrs. Garmon's 5-year-old daughter is an epileptic. But Mrs. Garmon was told she was being punished for putting a spell on the girl.

Washington County Prosecutor Mahlon Gibson plans to file charges today against Mrs. Garmon's husband and three other persons. They are accused of repeatedly torturing Mrs. Garmon and her 16-year-old sister for over a month because the women were believed to be witches.

The women claimed they were chained to a washing machine and were beaten repeatedly with a rubber hose and several braided ropes. The women were hospitalized in satisfactory condition today with bruises over their entire bodies and facial cuts.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—To Attorney General John N. Mitchell:

"Dear Sir:

"In recent days the Justice Department has been roundly criticized (and in some cases squarely criticized) for having subpoenaed the notes taken by newsmen at the scene of a couple of disturbances.

"Curiously enough, much of this criticism has come from within the journalism fraternity, which viewed the department's action as an infringement of freedom of the press.

"I quite agree that a constitutional issue may have been involved. Nevertheless, I should think that most reporters would welcome the service your department apparently was prepared to perform. I know I would.

"Has Large Sheaf Of Notes

"I happen to have upon my desk at the present time a large sheaf of notes that I have made while covering various events around Washington.

"While I am not certain that these notes pertain to any of the cases your department might be interested in, you are certainly welcome to subpoena them.

"In fact, you don't even have to go to the trouble of drawing up a subpoena. I have already placed the notes in a large manila envelope which I am voluntarily mailing to you under separate cover.

"All that I am asking in return is just one small favor on your part:

"When you find out what is in the notes, please pass that information along to me.

"Perhaps I should explain that these happen to be notes that I let get 'cold' on me. In other words, I didn't translate them soon enough after I had scribbled them. And now I haven't the foggiest notion what they are about.

"Unable to Figure Content

"Most of the other newspapermen now operate under this same handicap. We have to use our notes within a certain time (in my case about 45 minutes) or we will never be able to figure out what they say.

"Since the notes your department subpoenaed were more than a few hours old, I assume that you must have some way of decoding cold notes. Possibly the job can be done by an FBI handwriting expert.

"At any rate, I feel sure that the notes I am sending you contain enough material for several columns, so please put someone to work on them right away.

"Once they have been decoded, feel free to use the information in any way you see fit. In exchange for a legible copy, I'll give any rights I might have under the First Amendment."

First Baptist Church

The pastor, Dan B. Cameron, will be in the pulpit for both services of worship Sunday in the First Baptist Church. He will announce his sermon subjects.

David Campbell, minister of music, will direct the Sanctuary Choir, in the anthem "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee" arranged by Campbell. He will present Mrs. Morris Belote who will sing a solo, "Grace So Amazing" by Gene Bartlett. Miss Eloise Lane, organist, will play "Melody in G" by Guilmet for the organ offertory for the eleven o'clock morning worship.

The Youth Choir will occupy the choir loft for the 7 p.m. evening service and sing an anthem for the special music, "Gentle Shepherd" by Blake is the selection Miss Lane has chosen for the organ offertory.

The pastor will teach the third lesson from the Book of Daniel this Tuesday during the noon hour. Visitation begins at 9:30 and lunch is served at twelve. A cordial invitation is extended to anyone interested in Bible study to come.

The W.M.U. will sponsor the Week of Prayer for Home Missions next week. Meetings will be held Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings at ten o'clock and Wednesday evening at 6:15. At the Wednesday evening meeting, which is the regular prayer meeting hour, Royce Denton who works with Pioneer Mission in New York State, will be the speaker. All of the women of the church are invited to attend the morning meetings and all church members are invited to participate in the Annie Armstrong Easter Offering.

According to Roy Korwegay, minister of education, the "Junior-Stay-For-Church Club" had a fine response last Sunday. He invites all Juniors to participate again this Sunday.

The Youth Choir left this afternoon by bus to go to Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, where they will sing for a YWA Home Party.

Other men, has presented Christ, the true idea of God, healing the sick and the sinning and destroying the power of death. Jesus is the human man, and Christ is the divine idea; hence the duality of Jesus the Christ" (P. 473).

Christian Science Church

The lesson-sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday on the subject of "Christ Jesus" begins with a golden text from Luke: "The Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

One of the passages read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, explains the Christian Science interpretation of the title, "Jesus the Christ," as follows: "Jesus is the name of the man who, more than all

Church Of God

Members and friends of the Church of God will observe "Pastor Appreciation Day" on Sunday.

Rev. John B. Waller, the pastor, is married to the former Juanita Ruth Gilliam. The Wallers have three children: Janice, of Hurst; Jerry Wayne and Johnny B., both of Tulsa, Okla. Rev. and Mrs. Waller have five grandchildren.

Before coming to Pampa to pastor in April, 1968, Rev. Waller held pastorates in Jacksonville, White Settlement, Fort Worth, Seagraves and Tyler. He is presently District Pastor for the Pampa District which consists of four area churches. He has served on the Church of God State Council and is a member of the Pampa Ministerial Alliance.

Among the Reverend's hobbies are oil painting and fishing. He likes to paint animals and landscapes and has won first and second prizes in the well-known Tyler Rose Festival. He is a member of the Pampa Art League.

First Christian Church

On Sunday March 1, Dr. Eugene Boring will deliver the morning sermon. Dr. Boring is Associate Professor of New Testament at Phillips Univer-

City, Zoid, Okla. Next Sunday, March 8, Rev. Shelby Anglemeyer of Ft. Worth will be in Pampa to assume the duties of interim minister for us.

March 4, there will be choir practice at 7 p.m. Functional Committees will meet at 7:30 p.m. with Official Board immediately following.

Church Of The Nazarene

The West Texas Ambassadors for the Panhandle area will be in Pampa all day Saturday. The Ambassadors are young people from each Nazarene church in the Panhandle. They meet each month in different churches to distribute literature, canvass, witness, and present a service in song.

Rev. Ed Purcell of Amarillo Hamlet Church is the director for the area. Select youth from each church are commissioned as they meet qualifications to become members of the Ambassadors.

"Night of Song" will be presented Saturday at 7 p.m. by the youth group at the Church of the Nazarene, 800 N. West St. where Rev. Chas. Spicer is the pastor. The public is invited to this service of patriotic, folk and religious songs.

Five youth from the Pampa Church of the Nazarene are either commissioned or working to be commissioned: Vickie Miller, Martha Shaw, Mona Tyrrell, Debbie Huthless and Dolores Riggs.

The Church Of Christ

Sunday Morning Family Bible Study will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. Romans: Chapter 3 will be covered.

Bro. Euster Mullin will speak in the 10:30 a.m. service on the subjects, "Compromises". The sermon is based on God's dealings with Pharaoh in Exodus: Chapters 7-12. A look at that climactic moment in Pharaoh's life will be studied.

In the 7 p.m. service the subject will be, "The Church We Want To Be", based on Acts: Chapters 24.

Teaching services for the young are to be held at 6 p.m. The public is invited to attend all services.

First Assembly Of God

The film, "Through Gates of Splendor," which depicts the story of five young missionaries who died at the hands of the savage Auca Indians in Ecuador, will be shown at First Assembly of God Church on March 1st, at 6 p.m.

This is the authentic filmed story which stirred millions as it appeared in Life, Reader's Digest, and the six books on the subject, and as it was reported over radio and television networks.

Much of the picture was photographed by the men themselves shortly before they were killed. Seen in the film, in addition to the five men and their wives, are Auca, "George," "Delilah," Dayuma, and Rachel Saint, Betty Elliot and her daughter, Valerie, now living with the Auca killers.

There are scenes of Nate Saint's little airplane executing the amazing bucket drop, landing on the incredibly short sandbar which the men called "Palm Beach," the tree house, the ingenuity, the careful and dedicated preparation, the failure and subsequent victory as the two women were permitted to enter where the men were not.

Produced for the Auca Missionary Foundation, narrated by Betty Elliot from white books, "Through Gates of Splendor" and "The Savage," "My Kinsman," the story was taken. This is one of the most remarkable missionary films ever made.

The film is being released by Gospel Films, Inc. of Manistique, Michigan.

First Presbyterian Church

The sacrament of Holy Communion will be observed at the First Presbyterian Church at both the 8:30 and the 11 a.m. worship services this Sunday. Rev. Martin Hager, pastor, will use "After the Ball is Over" as his sermon topic, with the text being taken from First John 4:1-12.

The Chancel Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Bill Mackey, will present as the anthem, "Let There Be Light," at the 11 a.m. service.

The offertory, by Organist Mrs. Fidelia Yoder, will be, "Unto Us Is Brought Salvation" by Bach.

The Junior High Fellowship will meet Sunday evening, 8 p.m. at the Pampa Roller Rink. They are asked to bring a dollar each.

Religious Paradoxes Point Out The Weaknesses In Strength

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

One of the most astounding paradoxes of Christian teaching is the assertion that in weakness there is strength.

Conventional wisdom takes exactly the opposite view. To be weak, it says, is to be helpless, ineffective, frustrated and despised. It is to invite trampling by the strong.

The world in which the Apostle Paul lived—the world of the first century Roman Empire—was even more ruthless, more oriented toward power, than our own.

Yet it was Paul who said: "When I am weak, then I am strong."

No casual observer would have described Paul as weak. Moreover, he knew himself to be extraordinarily gifted.

Needed The Experience

And that is why he needed the experience of weakness in order to become truly strong.

Paul explained it in one of his letters to the church at Corinth with his usual blunt candor.

"To keep me from being puffed up with pride... I was given a painful physical ailment," he said.

Paul had seen many sick people get well when he laid his hands upon them and prayed for their recovery in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. But when he sought healing for himself, he got no for an answer.

"Three times I prayed to the Lord about this, and asked Him to take my infirmity away," he told the Corinthians. But the Lord's answer was:

"My grace is all you need; for My power is strongest when you are weak."

The Weekly Message of Inspiration...

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

GORDON BAYLES
(Interim Pastor)
Central Baptist Church

"Passing through Troubled Waters," (Exodus 14:18 - 14:31, 22.....)

Trouble is the common lot of us all. It's a truism that "all God's chillun got trouble". Life begins with a cry and ends with a groan. The Bible says, "Man is born unto trouble, as the sparks fly upward." "In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world." "For our night affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

And "What is trouble?" you ask. You could get a variety of answers to that question. Trouble is final exams when you're unprepared; or it is a flat tire when you are late for an appointment; or it is running out of money away from home — or simply running out of money at home! Trouble is all of these and many others far more serious. Yes, there is such a thing as trouble!

But in our pitiful judgments what we often label trouble may really be blessings in disguise. That sickness, that lost job, that unfaithful friend, that financial loss — don't be too quick to label it a wolf at the door. It might be a sheep in wolf's clothing, or an angel unawares. In the light of heaven's throne you will see that it was right — all right. When trouble breaks your heart and makes your knees buckle, when the wind and rains beat against your soul, and when the tears flow like a fountain from your eyes, just remember the price of pearls. We must bleed before we can bleed!

What can you do with your troubles? Surely the answer is clear. Sir Harry Lauder, a great Scottish Comedian, received the tragic news that his son was killed in the war. He went to his room and wrote these soul-searching lines: "In a time like this there are three courses open to a man. He can commit suicide. He can try to drown his sorrow in drink... or he can turn to God." These are the three choices open to each of us.

If you use your hand, there is only one choice that makes any sense. Turn to God! Then down the road of time you will be able to testify that once you were stopped in your tracks by what appeared to be an impossible, lowering mountain. You were forced to climb it with bleeding hands and a breaking heart, until you finally reached its summit and there you found the still waters and green pastures of God's sufficient and satisfying grace. It is in days of trial and nights of trouble that God's power becomes very real and very wonderful.

Hear the conclusion of the whole matter. Let your troubles lead you to Christ and they will prove to be the best friends you ever had. For man's extremity becomes God's opportunity. Jesus says, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The fight against inflation is going badly, as indicated by the news, but the stock market seems to have already discounted the pessimism engendered by this news, Spear & Staff says. The market has been gradually edging higher on steadily increasing volume, the firm says, but the tangible monetary developments awaited by Wall Street now appear to be "somewhat further away than ... anticipated."

If the money markets become "disenchanted with the prospect of an imminent change in policy," Standard & Poor's says, the latest rally could undergo a correction. Nevertheless, chances have improved that a basing process has started. The firm suggests accumulating undervalued issues with a part of reserves.

The market has been gathering technical strength over the past few weeks even though the averages have been able to score only limited gains, E.F. Hutton Inc. says. Improved showing in the advance-decline figures is one sign of this, the firm says. Other signs are more favorable volume statistics, better readings in the high-low figures and odd-lot data, and a more robust performance by the transportation and utility indexes.

The bond market can continue to improve gradually, as long as new issues are realistically priced to sell, Goodbody & Co. believes. However, the firm says, "over-enthusiasm on the part of dealers along with a lack of any real move to ease credit could very well precipitate profit-taking and stem the current price rally."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bulgaria and Romania soon may ship pork products—mainly canned hams—to the United States.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday it will study those nations' meat inspection standards and then declare whether the standards are equal to those of the United States, which would open the way for imports. In all, 40 foreign countries now are qualified to ship meats of all kinds to the United States.

Other major shippers of canned hams include Poland, Yugoslavia, Denmark and the Netherlands.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—It was a bubble blowing "Pink Happiness Day" at UCLA Wednesday.

Ron Shendrov, 23, a graduate student in speech, passed out 30,000 pieces of bubble gum donated by a Philadelphia firm in the interests of "creating goodwill, happiness and sharing."

"It worked so well we are planning on doing something on a national basis," Shendrov said.

HEARS TESTIMONY
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The special Army board investigating the alleged My Lai massacre heard 40 minutes of testimony Wednesday from Gen. Bruce Palmer Jr., the Army's second in command in Vietnam when the incident happened.

No comment was made on Palmer's testimony. He was the highest ranking officer called to testify so far in the Army's investigation.

RECOGNITION for 20 years as a top agent for Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co., Pampan Ott Shewmaker this week was given an appreciation symbol in the form of a diamond-studded bronze and sterling silver pin by District Manager Emory Underwood of Amarillo. Starting with the company in February, 1950, Shewmakers' salesmanship efforts have won for him and his wife trips to New York, Washington, Miami, Fla., New Orleans and the Bahamas.

Dallas Families Recoil From Shock Wave Of Plant Closing

By PRESTON MCGRAW
DALLAS (UPI) — Larry Cross, a young red-haired general utility man at Ford Motor Co.'s Dallas assembly plant, slashed a finger Jan. 9 and when 1:30 p.m. came he was in the first aid office waiting to have the cut sewed up.

An important meeting was scheduled in his section, and he asked the doctor whether he could go to the meeting and return later to have his finger treated. Cross felt something was going on he ought to know about.

"They are going to close the plant up," the doctor said. "That's all I can tell you about. Now hold out your hand."

While Cross, 23 years old with 5-12 years seniority, a wife and three small sons, tried to digest the stunning news that he soon would be out of a job, the doctor sutured the cut finger. Cross underwent a double shock.

The finger now is healed and most of the shock has worn off. Cross hopes to transfer to Ford's Louisville plant. The company will pay $735 of his moving expenses.

Cross' wife, Brenda, 21, trying to keep Gary Wayne, 5; Terry Don, 3, and Barry Allen, almost a year old, quiet in an almost paid for home, is still worried.

Her father, Howard Irby, 42, has worked at the Dallas Ford plant 21 years. Her brother, Howard Jr., 19, has worked at the plant two years. They have the same problem as her husband.

"He (her husband) and my daddy are both pretty sure they are going to transfer," she said. "But I have lived here all my life, and I sure hate to think about leaving and buying another house with high interest rates and all."

The crosses, like thousands of other American families, are caught in a recession Washington induced to stop four years of inflation. Tight money and a tax squeeze on consumers have sent 385,000 industrial workers from production to unemployment lines from January, 1969 to January, 1970. Another 400,000 are expected to lose jobs this year as the squeeze gets tighter.

In recent months the auto industry alone has laid off 20,000. Pan American World Airways, which lost $25 million in 1969, is trimming its work force by 2,000. General Electric dismissed more than 2,000 in Syracuse and Utica, N.Y.; Collins Radio, more than 1,500 in Dallas and Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Chrysler, 1,225 in Los Angeles and Newark, Del.

Sheller Globe, 200 in Keokuk, Iowa; Budd Company, 1,500 in Detroit and Pennsylvania; General Dynamics, 1,600 in Pomona and San Diego, Calif.; Ft. Worth and Rochester, N.Y.; Ling Temco Vought, 313 in Garland, Tex.; Haynes Corp., 450 in Winston-Salem, N.C.; Norton Co., 300 white collar workers in Worcester, Mass.

The list is long and for each layoff, families are faced with looking for another job with another company or living on welfare.

The crosses of Dallas have only the anguish of dislocation. Ford has offered to relocate them.

Ford has assembled automobiles in Dallas since 1914. The present assembly plant has operated in the same place for the last 45 years. When the last automobile comes off the assembly line today, the plant will have assembled about 3.3 million "big" Fords and trucks.

The Ford plant employs 1,900 persons. The payroll totals $17.2 million a year, and an economist estimates that has a $67.9 million "multiplier" effect on the Dallas economy.

The Chamber of Commerce estimates that Ford's 1,900 workers are .002 per cent of the total Dallas labor force. The current unemployment rate in Dallas is 1.6 per cent.

"It appears to me that between efforts of Ford to lessen the impact and the need of this area for good workers and skilled workers that they can be absorbed," said Warren G. Woodward, an airline vice president who is president of the Chamber of Commerce.

A Ford official said that more than half of the 1,900 employees are eligible for retirement benefits. Most hourly employees who do not remain with Ford are eligible for separation payments. So are salaried employees.

J.C. "Pete" Bratton, 52, a chassis and general repairman with 25 years seniority, does not want to leave Dallas. He plans to go into an automobile repair business.

Tiny Guyana, facing the Atlantic Ocean on the north and jutting into Brazil on the south, doesn't often make the news columns.

When she has done so in the past it usually concerned violence—violence between the East Indian majority and the former Negro slaves who make up the next largest group, or violence associated with Dr. Cheddi B. Jagan, a 51-year-old dentist who at one time seemed about to create the second Communist state in the American hemisphere.

But as of midnight last Sunday, the atmosphere was one of celebration and the only violence was the dancing in the streets.

Guyana had become the first former British colony in the western hemisphere, after the United States, to become a republic.

Guiding spirit behind the change was Guyana Prime Minister Forbes Burnham, who took over when Guyana achieved independence from the British in 1966 after stormy years under Jagan's leadership. Burnham, a Negro, has brought East Indians into his government and worked hard to improve the lot of East Indians who make up more than half of Guyana's population.

By switching to a republic, he hopes to find what he calls a "colonial mentality" and to forge his racially-divided country into a "dynamic force for progress."

With help from the United States, Britain and Canada, Guyana's gross national income rose 9 per cent in 1969, to $221 million.

Exports chiefly of bauxite, alumina, sugar and rice brought in $128 million, $10 million more than the country spent on imports.

But even with Guyana's positive proof of progress, she is not yet out of trouble.

Venezuela is claiming 50,000 square miles of Guyana's total of 83,000. Dutch Surinam is claiming another 9,000. Surinam borders Guyana on the east and Venezuela on the west.

SC Decrees "One Man, One Vote" Applies To Every Hamlet, Town

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court made clear today that its "one man, one vote" doctrine applies to every government unit of any size which elects officials by popular ballot to perform government functions.

The 5-3 ruling came on an appeal from a group of Kansas City, Mo., residents who invoked the principle in connection with a junior college district election of trustees.

The majority, in an opinion by Justice Hugo L. Black, noted that the court has consistently held in a long series of cases that the states must insure, so far as practicable, that each person's vote counts as much as any other person's.

"While the office of junior college trustee differs in certain respects from those offices considered in prior cases, it is exactly the same in one crucial factor—these officials are elected by popular vote," the opinion said.

Astros Will Explore Moon's Hills In April

By AL ROSSITER JR.
CAPE KENNED Y (UPI) — Apollo 13 Astronaut Fred W. Haise said recently he and James E. Lovell plan to explore a hilly region of the moon in April, collect valuable subsurface samples and possibly climb a mound 250 to 400 feet high.

Haise, Lovell and Thomas K. Mattingly are scheduled to set out on the nation's third moon surface expedition April 11.

Haise discussed his surface activities at a moonport news conference. He said the mound, called Cone Crater, is one of the more interesting features on the rolling stretch of terrain called the Fra Mauro Formation that he and Lovell are scheduled to explore during two moonwalks.

The rim of cone crater stands an estimated 250 to 400 feet above the surrounding land. The crater itself is 150 feet deep and 900 feet wide. At its base is a layer of rock apparently gouged out from the moon's crust by the meteoroid that formed the crater.

"We hope to get to at least the base of cone crater," Haise said. "It would certainly be of interest to get up to the rim. Just pictures of that would be of extreme interest and, of course, the high ground would give you a magnificent panorama."

"You could see a good deal more of the countryside than you could see from walking around on the lower terrain."

While Haise talked to newsmen, project officials postponed the conclusion of an important flight readiness test.

Small Town In Oklahoma Does More Than Its Patriotic Duty

COWETA, Okla. (UPI)—A few years back when the high school boys were looking for a big night, they'd pile in someone's car and drive up to Tulsa for a movie. And maybe on Sunday they'd go over to Fort Gibson or Lake Tenkiller and go fishing.

Those were good times and everybody was everybody's buddy in this pleasant little town resting on a hook of the Arkansas River.

There were 68 in the graduating class of 1967, 31 boys and 37 girls. More than half the boys, 18 in all, went into the army when they graduated. They hated to split up.

This week they buried Jimmy Campbell over in Vernon Cemetery on the east ridge of the town. He was killed in Vietnam, the fourth of that batch of 18 that joined up together, the third since the first of the year.

Four other young men from this town of 2,800 have died in Vietnam previously and, well, the townspeople have had enough.

No one here is unpatriotic, and there's no talk of any of those demonstrations—there's never been any here and not likely to be—but there's just been so much grief recently.

So many from a town so small to die so far away, that they feel they've done their share for this war, they feel enough of their young men have been sacrificed.

State Rep. V.H. Odom of neighboring Wagoner has asked Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., to help the town. Odom and his constituents say the casualty rate for the town is unusually high for its size.

Harris was asked to try and have the 22 other Coweta soldiers still in Vietnam—10 of them from the 1967 high school class—transferred out of the war zone. There has been no official response to the request.

The four 1967 graduates who have been killed besides Campbell are Phillip Sanders, Eddie Pulliam and Donald Sloat. The four were members of the American Division. The other four combat victims from Coweta were Billy Carver, Grover Boston, Dallas Perryman and Frankie Faught.

At Coweta high school everyone knows everyone else and there are few secrets. The members of the 1967 graduating class "were all close friends," recalled School Superintendent Daniel Mann.

Three of the four victims from the class were high school athletes. Campbell and Sloat played football and Sanders was a basketball player.

"That Sloat boy was a real outstanding athlete," Mann said. "He had size and weight and everything to be the better athlete."

"They were all four very fine boys. The Pulliam boy and the Sanders boy were married. Each left a wife and baby."

"We are sort of in a state of shock wondering when we're going to lose another boy," he said.

As Dr. L. L. Nelms, the town mayor put it, "they were all just average boys. But they were good boys. The army doesn't want bad boys."

There is no one he can think of "to blame or find fault with" for what has happened.

Dr. Nelms said he expected the city council to offer an official memorial for the boys.

Nearly 400 people attended the funeral Monday for young Campbell. They overflowed the First Christian Church and some stood outside.

The Rev. Dean Lavelle delivered the sermon. In a message he described as one of his hardest to prepare, he tried to express the cost of freedom.

"We must restrain evil tyrants," he said, "and to do this some of us must die."

The Campbell family is not bitter, the minister said.

"Their reaction to the war hasn't been different than any patriotic American family would feel," LaVelle said.

"Naturally they are disturbed." They raised Jimmy to be a patriotic boy, he said.

"To do his duty to the best of his ability. They know he did this and they realize his dying was something some of us have to do."
