

CARNIVAL BY DICK TURNER

"By the way, what did your parents do of an evening before you started having dates?"

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent (Johnson on KPBN Monday thru Friday, 2 P. M.) HOLLYWOOD—Earl Carroll has a five-and-a-half-acre estate overlooking Beverly Hills and Hollywood that is ideal for mountain climbing, handstands and golf.

Every year Carroll's 60 show-girls, modestly described as "the most-beautiful girls in the world," give their boss a birthday party. It is a wonderful way to throw a party because the boss pays all the bills and the girls get a night off from his Hollywood theater-restaurant and get to wear clothes for a change.

Instead of hiring a hall, the lovelies give the party on the mountainside which Carroll calls home. This year there were nearly a thousand guests, five orchestras, half a dozen bars, searchlights, bouncers, a few movie stars, 384 bald-headed men and a typical Hollywood fight at 3 a. m. between movie villain Steve Cochran and an unidentified male guest.

WHERE'S BIRTHDAY BOY. I didn't see Earl the whole evening. Somebody said as I left that

This Is Happy By PEGGY DERN

THE STORY: Happy Brandon, walking cheerfully through the early morning rain, looks for an address given her by an employment agency. Finding it, she is about to enter the building when a grim-looking young man rushes out, almost bowling her over. Before she catches her breath, he takes her by the arm and wheels her into a nearby restaurant.

HAPPY unlocked the door and pushed it open. Instantly a furry avalanche struck her, and a plaintive voice scolded her for staying away so long. Happy's arms encompassed the big cat and held him close, soothing him until he rumbled gently, like a small dynamo in her arms.

Steve dropped into a deep chair and looked slowly at the room, as though cataloguing its contents: the big sofa-bed, slip-covered in bright chintz, the two big armchairs, one in a matching chintz, the other in a warm ruby-red that echoed the predominant color in the chintz; the small gate-leg table, tucked neatly against the wall nearest the kitchenette.

"No," I was born in the second-floor back bedroom of a theatrical boarding house in Brookline. Aunt Kate Callahan's boarding house. If you'd ever known anything of very small-time vaudeville and cheap musical shows, you'd know about Aunt Kate. She's—pretty wonderful.

"How—where—" she stammered. "How? The door was unlocked and I walked in—anybody could do that. Where did I get your address? From the agency, of course. They said that you were exactly the sort of secretary I needed, so what could I do? You're my secretary, it seems."

"I'll do no such thing!" Happy said stormily. She bent, scooped the cat into her arms, and stroked him tenderly as she looked up into Steve's face. "Oh, well," said Steve largely, "let him stay. I suppose we'll have to."

ought to happen soon. Somebody ought to push somebody into the swimming pool. But nobody did, according to the last dispatch. The only casualty was Miss Jan Hilton, who ducked when she should have sidestepped.

O'Daniel Would Withdraw Powers Of The President

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel last night told the people of Texas they should elect congressmen who will withdraw the powers of the President.

O'Daniel declared in a radio broadcast that the people had put too much faith in the "super-duper intelligence" of the President and have paid less attention to the selection of congressmen.
