Additional Connection With Oil Area Is Sought

(Special to The Herald) SAN ANGELO, July 11.—San Angelo business men today signed a contract with the Texas & Pacific Railway company for extension of the Abilene & Southern road from Ballinger to this city, approximately 35 miles.

A certificate of necessity and convenience will be sought of the railroad commission next Tuesday.

Provide Right-Of-Way President Lancaster of the T and P was here last Thursday and presented the proposition to the city and it was accepted.

This is the first extension of the Abilene and Southern since it was built by the late Morgan Jones, multimillionaire of Abilene.

Additional saturation was first encountered around 2,380-81 feet and on last reports had continued four or five feet.

CITY GETS HATCHERY

52,000-Egg Plant To Be Installed On East Third

Efforts to establish a baby chick hatchery in Big Spring have been successful, according to information from the Big Spring Feed and Seed Company at 411 East Third street, which has agreed to furnish necessary space to D. M. Logan and Son of Colorado for establishment of a hatchery here.

The Logan Hatchery, as the concern is known, intends to start operation in Big Spring by December 1 and the company has promised to install the largest incubator manufactured. The plant proposed by Mr. Logan has a maximum capacity of 52,000 eggs.

H. M. Neel of the Big Spring Feed and Seed Company said his company was making a sacrifice of space to accommodate the hatchery proposition, but believed that it was for a worthy cause.

TURNER IN LIME WITH MORE OIL

World Area Test Not Yet Assured Of Production

More saturated lime was cored in Glasscock Brothers' No. 1 Turner last night and this morning, but still operators feared the well is noticeable of commercial production in its present condition.

Whichever depth is correct, the fact remains that No. 1 Turner must reach the saturated World pay within the next 15 or 20 feet or chances for production in the new horizon will be extremely limited.

Additional saturation was first encountered around 2,380-81 feet and on last reports had continued four or five feet.

California Endurance Flyers Still Aloft After 221 Hours

TRIAL ON FIREARMS CHARGE BEING HELD IN COUNTY COURT

Testimony was finished in county court at noon today in the trial of B. C. Ringer of Forsan, charged with unlawful possession of firearms.

H. R. Debenport, county judge, prepared his charge to the jury before lunch and ordered court to reconvene at 2 o'clock this afternoon when the charge was to be read and arguments started.

Ringer, the defendant, was arrested in Forsan late last month by Miller Nichols, Howard county deputy sheriff. He waived examination and made bond in justice court the day after the alleged offense was committed.

The defendant and two other witnesses testified this morning that the arresting officer found no gun on his person or in his automobile, but two state witnesses testified that the deputy sheriff found a weapon on Ringer when the arrest was made.

Defense attorneys and the court clashed this morning over a technicality in the matter of an officer's duty of searching without warrants.

Ringer's counsel asked the defendant if Deputy Miller Nichols served a search warrant before looking for a gun.

James Little, county attorney and prosecutor pointed out that a search warrant was not required when an officer was acting on information that a person was in unlawful possession of a gun.

Judge Debenport quoted the law on such a case saying that an officer was merely performing his duty in searching on information that a person had possession of a gun and that he was liable to punishment if he did not act on the information and search the person in question.

James B. Littler, defense attorney, asked that his bill of exception be noted. Again Judge Debenport quoted the law on such a case and again Littler noted de-fense exceptions.

Board Believes Reasons For Delay Not Supported

Acting quickly following receipt of a letter from A. J. Crawford, owner of the Crawford hotel, in which he declared his decision not to erect the Crawford annex at this time, and publication of some of the reasons he advanced for the basis of his decision, the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, in a special meeting at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Crawford building, named a committee of five which left early today by automobile for Carlsbad, New Mexico, to confer with Mr. Crawford on the matter.

Those in the party were Ray Wilcox, untiring worker for advancement of the city; B. Reagan, president of the West Texas National Bank; Louis Price, vice president and cashier of the First National Bank; T. S. Currie, active vice president of the State National Bank; and Manager C. T. Watson of the Chamber of Commerce.

Census in the directors' meeting was that Mr. Crawford had reached conclusions concerning prospects for future business here that were incorrect. It was felt by laying the matter before him in a detailed manner he would see fit to erect the annex, the plans for which call for addition to the hotel of social and recreational facilities incorporated in better hotels of the day.

Opinions expressed in the meeting were that there is a field here for profitable operation of a hotel larger and more complete than exists and that much business not being obtained here would be attracted by a more complete hotel plant.

The board had been informed Mr. Crawford planned leaving Carlsbad tomorrow for a vacation of two months. It was accordingly decided to have representatives go to his home today for a conference, so that a final decision might be obtained at once.

Love's Entry Forces Wet-Dry Split In 1930 Political Fight

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, July 5.—Senator Thomas E. Love's announcement for governor this week definitely splits the race, he feels he can force the issue, upon the wet-dry issue which split Texas democracy last year.

Sen. Love must take his request for having his name put on the primary ballot, to State Chairman D. W. Wilcox of Georgetown, who last year served notice that those who quit the party would be kept out of it in future.

That will be the supreme test of the party's attitude toward Hoover, and it will come long before election day. Observers here contended that it will only add fuel to the flames if the party organization attempts to rule him off the ballot.

He occupies the technical position of majority leader in the state by virtue of the majority that went for Hoover; though his friends have no pretense that he can carry the votes in his own race that were cast along with his negatively in the Smith-Hoover election.

Sen. Love has been exceedingly busy during the long legislative session. His handwriting is upon important measures, even though he did not individually carry the fight through for them.

For instance, this week Sen. Love by preliminary strategy, put two state senators on record as refusing to support the plea of Congressman John C. Box that the party take control of its affairs out of the hands of the repudiated national chairman, Rankin.

Then Sen. Love succeeded in putting through the legislature, to win Gov. Moody's immediate approval, his bone-dry bills for repeal of the search and seizure law and the "evidence clause." These laws attempted to prohibit searches without warrant, and to penalize unlawful searches, and to prohibit use of evidence illegally obtained.

Opinions. Lawyers say the repeal measures simply made the law conform to court decisions, but this victory is excellent campaign fodder.

In these bills, Sen. Love enlisted the support of Miss Margie Neal, woman senator, and her name appeared first on them, by custom designating them as the "Neal bills."

Then Sen. Love daddied the plan of combining an increased gasoline tax and a 50-per cent reduction in automobile license fees into a single law. At earlier sessions he could not get this double-barrel measure considered. He secured an opinion from Attorney General Claude Pollard holding such two-purpose law a valid form.

In the measure and led the fight that put the plan into effect. Love's campaign for governor will have a bearing, as determining not merely one individual's political success, but a definite trend in the affairs of the democratic party in Texas as it starts back from the debacle of 1928.

His first announcement for governor had rather a hopeless air. It implied, without saying so, he had no hope of victory, but felt impelled to make the race as a continuation of his old fight. He said: "With neither toward none, and charity for all, I shall be a candidate for governor, as an anti-Tammamy democrat, before the democratic primaries next year."

"I have a message to carry to the people, and I know of no other way to do it. I feel that the time has now come when my friends, and my enemies as well, are entitled to know what I choose to do."

Approval of the attorney general's department on a $3,000 bond issue passed in the Highway school district No. 13 for construction of a new school house was received by county officials Saturday, announced H. R. Debenport, county judge.

The bond issue was passed several weeks ago and contract let on the construction job by members of the district school trustees and Miss Pauline Cantrell, county superintendent of schools.

Rules Given For Safer Motoring

As a contribution toward greater safety and more pleasant driving conditions on the highways of the country this summer, the Ford Motor Company has listed twelve rules as suggestions to motorists and has distributed them to dealers over the country.

Announcement of the suggestions was made today by J. F. Wolcott, Ford dealer in this city, who will display the list prominently in his place of business.

"These rules," said Mr. Wolcott, "are merely common sense applied to automobile driving. Every experienced motorist knows all of them. It is our hope, however, that by stating them concisely and posting them where they will come to the attention of a great many motorists, we can so emphasize them as to make a real contribution towards greater highway safety."

The twelve rules are: 1-Courtesy comes first. Consider the rights and privileges of others. 2-Keep your mind on your driving, and anticipate sudden emergencies.

3-Learn the "feel" of having your car under control. 4-Obey all traffic and parking regulations. 5-Keep to the right, and comply with road markings and signs.

6-Signal for stops and turns. Watch the car ahead. 7-Slow down at crossings, schools, dangerous places.

8-Never pass cars on hills, curves, crossings. 9-Adapt your driving to road conditions—rain, ice, soft spots and ruts.

10-It doesn't pay to take the "right of way" too seriously. 11-When you drive, remember the times when you're a pedestrian.

12-Know the law. It was passed for your protection. "It is estimated that 20,000,000 persons will tour on American highways this summer," Mr. Wolcott continued. "Recognition of the rights of others will be essential. Many unpleasant accidents and fatalities will be avoided if motorists, at times of close situations, will recall these rules and act accordingly. They are the recommendations of the Ford Motor Company offered to give greater peace of mind to those who travel by automobile."

Sheep Industry Is Prosperous

By SAM ASHBURN
Written For The Associated Press
SAN ANGELO, Tex., July 6.—July finds sheepmen of the southwest buying bucks for the incoming season, fighting worm cases, accepting low prices for wool and good prices for lambs.

Rains at the end of June improved the range situation and ended a feeling of suspense that creeps over the ranch industry when the sky is blue too long.

Lambs, the great number of which are contracted, are doing well and some of the lambs dropped in February are weighing now 60 to 65 pounds. It was the greatest spring the sheep country ever witnessed and the lamb crops are the best in 35 years. There was little demand at the first of the month but it will take what is left of the uncontracted lambs to care for contracts.

There has been a good deal of sore mouth but the dry weather helped that situation. Big head, too, has been bothersome. The worms have been very bad and ranches all over the southwest have been trapping for flies to reduce the losses. Shearing is over and the shearers have gone to New Mexico where there are half as many sheep as in this state.

Leases for sheep lands are high, commanding up to $1 an acre and these prices obtain not only in the old sheep country but farther east in the new territory, devoted to them. Sheepmen have marched clear up to the banks of the Rio Grande, turned around and started back. Counties that fifty years ago had plenty of sheep only to go out of the business in the Cleveland administration are again boasting of 150,000 head of sheep and miles of wolf proof fencing.

Prices of sheep have dropped with the price of wool and that has helped some to get into the game. Cattle, on the other hand, are as high as they were last year. The wool ware houses are being planned in several parts of the state. Up in the Panhandle they are buying lambs to feed on the maize crop and many think the Panhandle of Texas alone will feed 50,000 lambs this fall if not more.

God in His divine wisdom must truly have realized that the opportunity was ripe to add to His heavenly treasures a pearl without price. Let us endeavor to console ourselves with the belief that Little Jim was plucked from our midst to serve a higher purpose and to fill a mission which would have been entirely without his sphere had he remained below, and may the heartbroken parents, relatives and loving friends turn their faces heavenward and say, "Oh, God, thou hast taken one of our rarest earthly treasures; but with absolute faith in Thy heavenly judgment we bow to Thy gracious will."

A large concourse of friends followed the body to the cemetery where Little Jim was laid to rest; there to await the resurrection morning when God shall raise His sleeping children to partake of a new and celestial life.

A FRIEND. A well that brings oil exploration in Howard county within corporate limits of Big Spring, Fuhrman Petroleum Company's No. 1 Read, northeast of the business district, was spudded this week and is reported drilling around 150 feet, according to information received this morning.

No. 3 Read is 2310 feet north and 530 feet east of the southwest corner of section 41, block 22, township 1 north T&P Ry. Co. survey, and is slightly more than one quarter mile northeast of the T&P station here.

Automobile loads of visitors were parked before the store in large numbers throughout the evening. Alfred Collins, who with his brother, Dick, owns this new store and Collins Brothers No. 1 at Second and Runnels streets, headed the reception staff, assisted by Granville (Red) Coats, who will manage the new store.

Huge Irrigation Project Is Started Near Raymondville

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex., July 6.—Construction of one of the largest single irrigation projects in Texas has started near here. Wilbrey County Irrigation District No. 1 voted $7,500,000 in bonds for installation of a system to supply 129,000 acres of land with water.

A main canal which would serve as a ship canal if placed conveniently is the beginning of the system. This canal will be 25 miles in length, will be 130 feet wide at the top and 90 feet wide at the bottom and 14 feet deep. The canal is to pass through the two large drainage lakes. These lakes will have a storage capacity sufficient to hold 250,000 acre feet of water, to comply with the provisions of the state board of water engineers that the district provide storage for two acre feet of water for every acre of land in the district.

Green is in charge of the records having to do with the clemencies and the papers involving land patents. He has the files so well in hand that he can put his fingers on papers many years old when it is necessary to refer to them. He has been an invaluable employee. Incidentally when it is necessary to put the governor's signature on papers, and he is authorized to do so, he does it so well that the governor cannot detect it from his own handwriting.

Green came to the governor's office in 1907 with the administration of the late T. M. Campbell, and has been there continuously thru the terms of O. B. COMPTON, James E. Ferguson, William P. Hobby, Pat M. Neff, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson and Dan Moody. He is often consulted with reference to customs of the office.

He has never "gossiped" to a governor about his predecessor, and does not talk of things that transpired in the past.

But he managed to get ahead in the world, amassing a fortune estimated at a billion dollars and a mountain of distrust and ill will hemmed him in on all sides.
But the ill will is gone, and so is most of the fortune. The fortune was spent so wisely, with so much regard for human happiness and well being, that the ill will has just about disappeared. Nobody mistrusts John D. any more. Very few, if any, hate him. He has handled his money well, pouring out millions in treasure to relieve distress and suffering in every part of the globe. If he keeps up his present pace, John D. will die comparatively poor in this world's goods, but rich beyond the dream of avarice in the gratitude of the millions who have seen him metamorphosed from the ogre of corporate greed thirty years ago to the hale and hearty, generous, kindly old man of today.
John D. Rockefeller has set a good pattern for every rich man to follow. With Andrew Carnegie, he has been the world's greatest philanthropist. Carnegie appealed to men's minds; Rockefeller administered to their bodies. Both began as poor boys, and each expressed the fear that they would die too rich.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

—Wichita Times.
E. G. Senter of Dallas, lawyer, newspaper man and former state senator, has formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor. Mr. Senter is one of Texas' most energetic and ardent advocates of reform in judicial procedure. That is the chief plank in his platform and it is the hobby he will seek to ride into office.
We do not expect Mr. Senter to be very much of a factor in the race. We are in sympathy with many of his ideas and wish that his program, in the main, could be carried out. But he will run under too many handicaps. He was one of the ablest opponents of state-wide prohibition in the days when that was an issue, and whatever his present views may be, his record on the liquor question will cost him thousands of votes. He fought a valiant but futile fight to prevent racetrack betting being outlawed in Texas; that was 20 years ago, but not remote enough to be entirely forgotten. In addition, he is the type of man who makes enemies very readily. In a fight he is one of the most rasperious combatants imaginable. Those whom he causes to dislike him usually continue to do so, wholeheartedly.
If he becomes an active candidate it should add interest and fervor to the campaign, but it cannot be expected to affect the outcome.

EDSON WHITE, PRESIDENT OF ARMOUR AND COMPANY, SAYS:

THE AVERAGE MAN organizes himself into a rut, which seriously hinders his progress. Of course, he doesn't realize it, and he won't admit it, but he really standardizes himself and his job to a point where he will not consider new ideas.
He rises at the same hour every morning, shaves and dresses in the least possible time, eats the same sort of breakfast that he eats every other morning, follows the same identical route month in and month out, does his work according to long established routine, gets home at the same hour every evening, eats supper and groomses if the wife or daughter drags him away from the newspaper or radio in order to take in a movie or play or bridge.
The average man always sees the same things and always talks to the same people on the same old subjects. No wonder he gets into a rut. The trouble is he has organized himself too well. He does things by habit or routine instead of by thought and reason. He has had all of his problems settled for years, and he makes decisions without having to think whether they are right or wrong.
The man who is worthwhile in the business world is the one who refuses to get into a rut, either as regards his habits or his thinking. He keeps his mind open to suggestion; he is willing to try new ideas. He seeks facts, weighs

OUT OUR WAY

Hollywood's Sights and Sounds

BY ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD.—The tragedy of the "face on the cutting room floor" occurs less frequently now since talkies came to bring more thorough planning and efficiency into picture-making, thus largely eliminating unsentimental "faces" before even the cast is chosen.
But the frequent long waits between spots, also brought on by talkies, serve to highlight now another character in movie life—the "star shadow".
Not so dishearteningly, ironically, the position of the extra who figuratively wears the shoes of a star, yet never appears on a screen.
The "stand-in" man or woman, singled out from the extra mob because of some personal resemblance in stature or features to a star, serves as double during the long waiting periods when camera angles are determined and lighting effects arranged.

Short-Lived Glory

Practically all the big stars, those pampered by their studios, have "stand-ins," who stand, sit or walk in the star's place on the set while lighting experts work out their problems.
With a "stand-in," the star can rest in his dressing room until such irksome details are settled, but when the cameras grind and the makes record it is the star who faces them, while his "shadow" on the sidelines, looks wistfully or obviously bored, according to the degree of his ambition.
It is amusing, yet pathetic, to note how some of the "stand-ins" will adopt the mannerisms and bearing of their respective stars. If the star walks strutingly, so walks his "shadow." If he smokes a cigarette with nonchalance, nonchalantly smokes the "shadow."
If the star combs her hair in certain style, the girl "shadow," adopts that coiffure. Some of the "stand-ins" bask in the reflected glory, however brief and small, of their positions, but to others, their work is but an easy if tiresome means of earning pay.
Extra's Pay
The pay, for all their eminence on the set, is that of the ordinary extra—$7.50 a day. But the job usually lasts longer than that of an extra who reaches the screen, and once called for duty, the "stand-in" is likely to get the job again for the star's next picture.
them, and makes decisions, accordingly. He is imbued with the idea that improvement is always possible, and that there is a better way to do most anything.
HE WHO REFUSES TO FOLLOW THE RUT, SOMETIMES GETS INTO THE MIRE, BUT FREQUENTLY HE FINDS A BETTER AND SMOOTHER ROAD ON WHICH TO PROGRESS.

Bo Broadway

BY JOSEPH VAN RAALTE
NEW YORK, July 11.—A married man should guard his glances; but it's all right occasionally to let the ears wander, as it were.
Take the case of Eddie Dowling, husband of Ray Dooley. Not so many months ago Eddie was a prominent member of New York's Army of Talented But Imprecisious. He is still talented, but because he did a little fine, fancy and judicious listening at the right time, he's worth about $2,000,000 today.
When he was hammering together "Honeymoon Lane" he hired a very attractive chorine who took an immediate fancy to the cut of Edouard's jib. The night of the premiere she suggested that he sit in with her and several male acquaintances at an after-theatre "conference."
Eddie, who is nothing if not obliging, appeared at the party and was introduced by the chorus lady to three prominent Democratic leaders. They are so darned prominent that if their names were introduced here it might cast doubt on a perfectly authentic story.
The chorine spent the evening demonstrating to Eddie's satisfaction that she was on terms of perfect intimacy with the Three Wise Men of Gotham. So that next day, when she suggested that he and she pool their resources and take advantage of a market tip one of them had given her, and the other two had O-kayed, Ed. kicked in with his entire wad, a little less than $4,000.
Their flier netted them a handsome profit. The operation was repeated, not once but many times, so that their joint Grouch Bag today has a bulge like the bunion side of the pastor's shoe.
Now that Brother Dowling has a Bradstreet rating of worth Mazda Yane is waiting to see what he'll do, remembering Touchstone's observation: "Call me not fool till heaven hath sent me fortune."

FOUR SOULS!

Some day, somebody with the requisite imagination is going to do a great play or story around The Understudy.
They're a pathetic crew, The Understudies, hovering in the shadows, this side of attainment, doomed for the most part to be a lifetime of eclipse.
This, by way of preface to a little anecdote about Katherine Kennedy O'Connor, best known of Broadway understudies for stars of first magnitude.
Miss O'Connor stood on the sidelines for the temperamental "Jinnie" Eagles in "Rain." She stepped on the stage in Jeanne's place 30 times in one season.
When "Interference" was produced Miss O'Connor moved heaven and earth to get the part of "Deborah Kane," the blackmailer. There never was anything on earth she wanted more than that part which is probably why she didn't get it. When you want a thing to the point where it begins to hurt, usually the hurt lasts.
Miss O'Connor was taken sick and went down to New Mexico, where she opened a dramatic school in Albuquerque. The fame of the establishment spread to Denver, where a high-class stock company was putting on "Interference," and the manager of the company conceived the idea that nobody connected with the stage would do for the part of "Deborah Kane" but Miss O'Connor. He wired, asking if she'd consider the part and the manager probably never will understand the fervor of her acceptance. For a moment he thought he'd made a mistake.

The incident is a perfect example of Fate's favorite trick: Scratching plum pudding off the menu and substituting doughnuts.
A SAD TALE
Fifty thousand glasses clinked a sad goodby the other day when the old-time bar equipment stored hopefully at the Hotel McAlpin against the day when—but what's the use. It won't come back, so let's forget it and start this story over again, right?
Fifty thousand cocktail, wine and Tom Collins glasses; 110 cocktail shakers; 25 silver containers for holding alluring little blue-white lumps of tinkling ice—remember Gene Field's poem on "the clink of the ice in the pitcher"?
Tough story to write, this. Better take another crack at it:
Frank A. Duggan, president and general manager of the Hotel McAlpin, the other day sold the hostelry's entire bar equipment, which is going to be put to immediate use.
No, sir, not the way you think. Stanley Howe, Bermuda hotel man, purchased the crystal and silver that at one time or another has been dalled with by most of Mazda Lane's celebrities, and which will now be employed in the work of soothing the fevered tongues of Signor Cook's justly celebrated tourists to the Isle of Delight.
Henry Ford says the home of the future will be kitchenless. Where in the world will we keep the can-opener?

WASHINGTON LETTER

By Rodney Dutcher
New Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—The time seems definitely past when this country had an attack of the jimmies every time a gentleman of great wealth was proposed for high public office.
There's a millionaire president in the White House, a partner of the Morgan firm serving as ambassador to Mexico and another multimillionaire, Charles Gates Dawes, representing us at the Court of St. James. Not even the worst of our demagogues bother to howl about such facts any more. They couldn't stir up any interest.
Nevertheless, in considering the general subject of millionaires in the public service, it is possible to go to the other extreme. It is possible—a fact, it has been all too tempting a possibility for some writers—to harp to the point of banality and far beyond on the pure and noble spirit of self-sacrifice which may have led some of these gentlemen reluctantly to accept their jobs.
They Like The Jobs
To use the expressive diction of the late Al Smith, most of this is so much bologna. The day has not arrived when high public offices are unattractive to millionaires who have made their pile. Occasionally one may burn with zeal merely to serve his country and apply his talents officially to help his fellow man. More often the job will satisfy an ego, social ambitions or merely a desire for a change. Whatever the reason may be, there is good ground to question the idea that most wealthy men are most of all interested in continuing merely to make more money for the rest of their lives.
A stream of words has been pouring out of Washington lately apparently designed to prove just the opposite. These pious yarns have principally dwelt upon the "sacrifice" of presidential appointments to cabinet posts, assistant secretaries and jobs such as those on the new Federal Farm board. Certain born pre-essays who wandered into the newspaper business through error have created a class which they call "the new patriots." It has been made to appear that only by the most heroic labors, by the most heart-rending and soulful pleas to their better natures and by the most frantic appeals to their patriotism, has President Hoover been able to tear these "new patriots" from their money bags to march behind him in his great effort to fulfill America's destiny.
If anyone ever said that President Hoover reluctantly sacrificed himself to accept the republican presidential nomination he would be laughed at, naturally and justly. Nothing is much funnier than some of the quadrennial pre-convention stories about men who are unwilling to accept such honors, unless it's the post-election stories about the men who are retiring from office because they can no longer "make the sacrifice." There is only one presidency, of course, but there are innumerable consolation prizes for men who can never hope to make the White House.

Take Mellon, For Instance
Everyone knows of the yen which develops among millionaires for the senate and for diplomatic posts and cabinet posts. The senate is full of men who have made large wads of money and are now quite willing to die where they are. So is the higher diplomatic service. And one doesn't recall any paupers in the cabinet, either. The prize there is Andrew W. Mellon, the third richest man in America, who has been sacrificing himself more than eight years and gives every indication that he will insist on continuing to sacrifice himself until someone pries him out of the treasury with a crowbar. Few men ever got such a big kick out of sacrifice as Uncle Andy.
At adolescence when engaged in the struggle away from his parents' dependence on his father's fortune often comes a revolt from the parents until then he has never rebelled. It is at this time that that you suggest in the course is sufficient to encourage another.
Every child must go through the period if he is to be a man. The way he goes through the amount of havoc he wreaks on his parents' and his own training and the sight with which he is met, the time.
One way to keep your children which may be dearly is to see to it these years he meets interesting grownups whom he one after another surrogate ideals in place of the ideal which he has rejected.
See that your children terms of equality on the table, on in the room, men and women well and who are successful in their own meet men and women personalities are so attractive finds among them, whom he would emulate.

IDEALS
By Alice Judson Peale
The ideals and ambitions of children are compounded of many things. They spring from inner urges—the drive of some talent that demands expression. They are given impetus by reading.
Accounts of heroism, discovery, invention and conquest fire the child in his early years with the desire to achieve something great in his own life. But most often and most continuously children are

ORDINANCE PASSED BY CITY DADS

Building Permit Code Is Clarified By Action Taken Last Night

Questions that have existed in the past pertaining to building permit requirements for construction in Big Spring were automatically clarified last night at a regular session of the city commission at which was passed on first reading a clear cut building permit ordinance.

Regular order of reading proposed city ordinances three times prior to final passage was dispensed because the question presented an emergency.

Mayor R. D. Matthews attended last night's session. It was the first meeting Mr. Matthews has been able to attend for several weeks due to illness. Commissioners present were W. W. Inkman, C. W. Cunningham and W. A. Gilmore. M. H. Morrison, commissioner and James T. Brooks, city attorney were absent. V. R. Smith, city manager and Malinda Chestnut, city secretary, met with commissioners.

By the new ordinance passed all contractors, carpenters, builders and other persons erecting a building or making additions to any building within corporate limits of Big Spring is required to first secure a permit from the city secretary. Building permit fees were reduced from $2.50 for the first thousand and one dollar for each additional thousand to $1.00 for the first thousand valuation and 50 cents for each additional thousand thereafter.

The complete ordinance as passed by commissioners and signed by R. D. Matthews, mayor, and Malinda Chestnut, city secretary, follows:

SECTION 1

"It shall be unlawful for any contractor, builder, carpenter or any other person, to erect a building, or make an addition to any building, within the corporate limits of City of Big Spring, Texas, without first having applied for, and secured from, the City Secretary, a permit for its erection.

SECTION 2

"The application for such building permit shall be filed with the City Secretary, shall describe the lot or lots upon which the proposed building is to be located, shall state the use to which the building is to be put, the number of stories in height, the area of ground floor, the character of material of which the building is to be constructed, and the estimated value of the completed building.

SECTION 3

"The application shall be in writing, and shall be sworn to before some officer authorized to administer oaths under the laws of this State, such application to be made by the applicant, or his duly authorized agent.

SECTION 4

"The City Secretary shall charge a minimum fee of $1.00 for a permit, and if the estimated value of the proposed building, or addition, exceeds $1,000.00, the fee shall be 50 cents additional for each additional $1,000.00 valuation or fractional part thereof. When proper application has been made, and the proper fee paid, the City Secretary shall issue a building permit.

SECTION 5

"All ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed, but buildings erected within the fire limits of the City shall also be required to conform to all specifications as laid down in ordinances previously passed by the governing body of this City, and none of such ordinances are repealed hereby. The fact that there is no adequate ordinance governing the granting of building permits by City of Big Spring, Texas, creates an emergency and the rule requiring the reading of ordinances at three separate meetings is hereby suspended and this ordinance shall take effect from and after the date of its passage upon its first reading."

TIMELY ADMONITIONS GIVEN BY SPEAKERS AT C-C OPEN MEETING

"Why not have faith?" Lots of people here have cold feet. We now have the best business in our history, compared to its volume before the recent period of extreme prosperity. Good towns in Texas have not been built by men who doubted the future of their towns. Look at one or two of our neighboring towns. They have a group of men who will say "let's go" and the whole people fall in line for anything of benefit to their communities. This is no time for jealousy among us. It is a bad time for any of us to hate a neighbor. It is the time to make our prosperity permanent."

Brooks Heard

This spoke Judge J. T. Brooks Tuesday evening in an address before more than 300 men, women and children who attended the second quarterly open meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of Big Spring at the New Wells. The program was marked by a bountiful picnic lunch for which food was furnished by the women of the city and drinks by the Chamber of Commerce. Music of fine quality was furnished by the Big Spring band, augmented by a group of Mexican musicians. Two charming local girls, Misses Dorothy Jordan and Jessie D. Boykin, gave readings that added much to the program.

The program opened with an invocation by Rev. Dow H. Heard, Judge Brooks, President E. A. Kelley who presided during the program, Ray Wilcox and Manager C. T. Watson of the chamber spoke.

Trade Territory

Judge Brooks' topic was "Extending Trade Territory." Among various recipes for extending the city's trade territory, Judge Brooks prescribed good roads as the most effective.

"We have built roads in the past but they were not permanent. Soon we are to launch a movement to build, of really permanent materials, the state highways north and south, east and west through the city, in addition to certain lateral roads," he said.

People like to trade in a town whose people believe in it, he declared. "And, if all of us believed in it as we should some of us would not be sitting around talking of a 'lull' in our prosperity. We may not build a large city here soon but we've got a cracking good town," he added.

New Water Supply

Judge Brooks told of watching five new wells on section 33, where the meeting was being held, placed on the pump and their feat of producing as much water as all other city wells combined. "I believe the water question has been solved. Our growth is only limited by our water supply. The railroad is to start its large, new shops soon. The refineries have built plants here. The cotton crop is in good shape. Why not have faith in Big Spring?"

Cantaloupe Trains

Some interesting information concerning operations of the icing plant for railway refrigerator cars here. In 1928, he declared, 20 per cent more cars of cantaloupes were sent here than in 1927. Last Sunday was the forty-second day of the cantaloupe movement for this season and at that time 29 per cent more cars had been iced than at the same time in 1928, he declared.

The benefit to Big Spring from operation of 190 cantaloupe trains last year and more than that number this year, is considerable. Extra train crews, machine shop service, engine crews further stimulate growth of the railroad payroll, he pointed out. Last year the 190 trains, all operated on passenger train schedules, all made perfect connections at East St. Louis, Ill., with trunk line trains for eastern states, a fact highly complimentary to the efficiency of Texas & Pacific men and machines.

Wilcox Speaks

Ray Wilcox, always ready with a few humorous thrusts to spice a speech, called attention to the fact that local people organized a $60,000 company to establish an improved airport here. A total of $43,000 was subscribed, and $26,000 in cash has been collected. Of the balance, $13,000 is considered sure for collection.

"We're putting you all on notice that we must have $8,000 to pay for improvements being built on the airport now. When it is completed we will receive AIA rating from the department of commerce, the war department and the United States Chamber of Commerce," said Mr. Wilcox.

President Kelley, in his characteristically forceful manner, brought out that the common allusion to a Chamber of Commerce as "they" rather than "we" was entirely incorrect, and that the whole people should take the attitude that the Chamber of Commerce is "we" and not "they" working together for good of the community as a whole.

Kelley Is Heard

"Anybody who attempts to do things for the common weal will be criticized. A critique is not condemnation but an effort or exami-

what is bad. That is the foundation to find what is good and action of constructive building," he declared.

Method of the House of Rothschild were used as an illustration of the benefit of "sticking together."

Last year's Chamber of Commerce activities were marked by the office building project, just now bearing fruit, he pointed out. This year, as a culmination of work started last year, the airport is being made one of the best in the southwest. And, a major project now before the organization is a county-wide road building program, which will be submitted to the people in the form of an election to decide upon issuance of road bonds, said Mr. Kelley.

One of the most gratifying things of the year is a decided change in the attitude of people residing outside the city in the county toward the people of Big Spring, and the Chamber of Commerce, he pointed out.

Highway Board

The state highway commission's attitude toward the county, compared with that which it assumed a year or more ago was also mentioned. Points which the county felt were not properly beneficial to it have been abandoned, until the commission has promised that if the county will raise $550,000 the state "will do the rest" toward permanently improving Highway 1 and 9.

The Chamber of Commerce has appropriated a sum to help residents of the Foran, Ross City and neighboring territory with improvement of a first-class road leading through the principal oil field settlements into Highway 1, said the speaker. Other activities mentioned included the following under direction of the committee on agriculture: February poultry show; county fair in October which, it is hoped, will be expanded this year; Farmer's Short Course in March; tour by 20 farmers through courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce to the Plainview Dairy Show; participation in hearings on ink boilerwom legislation, and a visit by Delos M. James, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, for an address on marketing methods, applied to the farmer.

Watson Talks

In his short address Manager Watson declared he believed Big Spring people should not buy bread, cream, milk and other commodities produced in other cities where the same products are produced here.

Speaking of the picnic meeting Mr. Watson said "if we'd do this more often we'd like each other more."

Prof. W. C. Blankenship announced the Merchants' Carnival to be held Thursday and Friday evenings at high school for benefit of the Superannuate endowment fund of the Birdie Bailey Missionary Society, Methodist church.

L. A. Eubanks of the retail merchants association, urged local people to enclose in letters to friends and business conferees facts concerning Big Spring. He urged that some item of importance concerning the town's facilities or prospects to be printed daily in the local paper.

Man Accused Of Theft By Bailee Makes Statement

Arnie Watson, charged in Howard county with automobile theft by Bailee in connection with temporary loss of a rent car Monday, made a statement to James Little, county attorney, Tuesday morning that he had intended driving to Alabama.

Following his examining trial before Cecil Collins, justice of peace, Watson was remanded to the Howard county jail on default of $1,000 bond.

Watson told county officials that he has lived in and near Big Spring nearly eight months, two of which he spent in oil field work and six months at a local refinery. He said his home was in Andalusia, Ala., and that he had started there when arrested in Colorado by members of the Mitchell county sheriff's department at the request of local sheriff's organization.

Deputies Andrew Merrick and Carl Bayer returned Watson from Colorado yesterday afternoon.

Marriage may bring flighty young men down to earth, but it will be a precarious route that John Charles Krajick, left, will take to his wedding. He is literally going to jump into matrimony. Krajick is one of ten army men holding the world's parachute record, and he intends to leap out of a plane at 5000 feet and drift down to a field at Newark, N. J., to say his "I do's" with Miss Elizabeth Sals, center. By manipulating the cords of his chute, he expects to be able to maneuver right to the side of his bride-to-be and the minister. The couple here are being congratulated by Captain J. O. Donaldson, chief of the Newark Airport.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrington are the guests of Mr. Harrington's parents who live in Wichita Falls. Mr. Harrington has been employed in Big Spring for some time past, coming here a few years ago from Wichita Falls. Mrs. Harrington was graduated with the 1927 high school class here and attended Baylor University at Waco in 1927-28. She has been employed in the offices of Peters, Strange and Bradshaw, architects, for the last year.

Highland Park Assured Water

An adequate supply of municipal water was assured residents of Highland Park last night when the city commission authorized V. R. Smith, city manager, to purchase necessary materials to complete a six inch main to that addition.

The water situation in Highland Park has been a source of worry to city officials for several months since the addition started its growth. The small main through which Big Spring has become inadequate water was supplied that section of to furnish an unlimited supply, but completion of a larger main will relieve the situation.

The commission meeting in regular session adopted a new building permit ordinance and set August 1 as the last day on which the $3 per male capita tax for street maintenance can be paid.

School Damaged By Earthquakes

LOS ANGELES, July 9 (AP)—Earthquakes which rocked Los Angeles and vicinity yesterday, causing injuries to four persons and damage to a few buildings, left an aftermath of uneasiness in some districts today in spite of the statement of Ralph Arnold, a seismologist, that a recurrence of the tremors was unlikely.

East Whittier school in the suburb of Whittier was the principal building damaged. The concrete structure, fifteen years old, was badly cracked in the extreme walls and a part of the roof and walls fell. It had been closed for the summer. Other buildings were also damaged in Whittier and vicinity.

Two children were hurt when a washing machine overturned, and two oil workers at the Santa Fe Springs field near Whittier were struck by falling objects from derricks. Officials at the field said two producing wells were stopped by the quakes.

MANY APPOINTMENTS SLATED FOR ATTENTION BY GOVERNOR

BY RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, July 8.—Gov. Dan Moody, who recently has filled vacancies on the University of Texas board of regents, the teacher college board, the board of water engineers and the prison board, and named the nine-member judicial council, still has many other official appointments to make this year.

Heading this list is the selection of the state auditor, to set up a brand-new department in the state government. This law is now in effect, but Gov. Moody said he will take his time to hunt someone to head the department who is not an applicant for the job.

Gov. Moody also is to appoint the third member of the new board of pardons and paroles, and reappoint the two present members of the pardon board. These appointments will be made about Sept. 1.

The nine-member state game commission, replacing the present one-man administration of the game department, will be appointed before September 1, and Former Senator A. E. Wood of Austin is known to be scheduled as chairman of the new commission and Will J. Tucker, present commissioner, as executive secretary.

Governor Moody also will appoint the nine-member state board of education, created under authority of a constitutional amendment to replace the present three-member ex-officio board of education of which the governor is chairman. When he names this board he will officially abolish the state textbook commission to be named by the board of education.

A provision that would have barred State Supt. S. M. N. Marrs from re-election as superintendent was stricken by the last legislature from a corrective department of education bill. That said no individual who "heretofore or in future" accepted campaign contributions from representatives of textbook companies would be eligible. The "heretofore" was stricken out. Supt. Marrs said a representative of a book company had personally made a contribution to one of his former campaigns, without his knowledge.

Gov. Moody will have the appointment of a six-member board of pharmacy.

Next Jan. 1 he will be called upon to appoint a member of the board of control to a six-year term. This for the first time will give him a majority on the control board. Term of R. B. Walthall, original Neff appointee, will expire.

Those appointed on the jury of view are J. G. Crawford, Wylie Davis, Ches Anderson, J. D. Wright and Lem Stallings. The distance over which the most plausible route exists is eight miles, it was stated. Commissioners are expecting little difficulty in securing the right-of-way.

Approval of the county treasurer's report for June and transfer of funds from one road and bridge fund to another road and bridge fund completed business of commissioners, it was stated.
