Biggest Atomic Test Of Year Rocks Las Vegas 75 Miles Away

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — UP The most powerful atomic explosion of the 1955 test series shook Las Vegas, 75 miles distant, like a Vesuvius eruption Tuesday, cracking windows and setting off half the burglar alarms in town.

Store were cracked by the shock that rumbled across the desert and over an intervening mountain range.

Windows in the AEC field office here noticeably rattled as the shock wave hit here minutes after a tremendous white flash, covering four western states, signaled the pre-dawn detonation of the whopper.

The experiment was another major test of a secret nuclear device for the Department of Defense, exactly what kind of device the Atomic Energy Commission did not disclose.

A brilliant 10-second flash, intensely white for one second and then fading to orange for nine seconds, lighted half the horizon of this gambling city.

It was the first nuclear explosion of Tuesday's double-feature atomic test. A second shot, this one a high altitude test 15,000 feet over Yucca Flat, was scheduled for any time between noon and 3 p.m. (est.), weather permitting.

Early-rising in Salt Lake City, 270 airline miles away, saw the flash as deep red, fringed with blue and green.

SPRING AND BAREFOOT TIME

It's springtime, barefoot time and sticker time, and children all over Pampa and the Texas Panhandle will be calling for assistance with the goathheads and sandbars, just as Gale is doing here. She is the one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen D. Gallagher, 730 E. Murphy.

Ike Sees No Early Attack By Reds

WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower does not believe that Red China is prepared to attack Quemoy and Matsu islands in the near future.

He disagrees emphatically with those U.S. military and naval leaders who have recently been saying that war may begin in the Formosa Strait by mid-April.

On the basis of all the military and political intelligence reports available to the White House, he feels that Red China does not yet have enough airfields along the coast to undertake a full-scale attack soon.

The President does not discount the danger of war in the Formosa Strait at some later date, when Red China has massed more strength, particularly air power, on the coast opposite Quemoy and Matsu.

His objection is to recent news stories reporting that some of his top military advisers regard the conflict as imminent.

The White House believes that it knows who inspired these reports, but the President does not plan, at present, to administer any direct personal rebuke to the sources.

He feels that public knowledge of his displeasure at the war scare talk should be a sufficient warning to the officials concerned.

Report Malenkov Inspecting Siberia

STOCKHOLM — UP — A member of a Swedish engineering delegation just back from Russia said Tuesday ousted Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov has been sent to Siberia "on an inspection tour."

The report came from Sture Ekefalk, technical director of the Swedish power plant board who spent 18 days in the Soviet Union inspecting Russian power plants.

He said his delegates failed to meet Malenkov, now minister of electric power stations.

Ekefalk, a member of a delegation of seven Swedish technical experts who returned from Russia Monday, commented on Malenkov's disappearance from the Moscow scene.

Sent Personal Regards "Our program did not include talks with Malenkov but he sent us his personal regards and complained that he could not receive us because he was carrying out a wide inspection tour of Siberian power plants," Ekefalk said.

Ekefalk's interview with United Press broke six days of silence on the whereabouts of the former premier who was fired for concentrating on the production of consumer goods instead of heavy industry.

Malenkov last appeared in Moscow a week ago Wednesday at a session of the Supreme Soviet of the Russian Republic.

Bitter Personal Blast At Ike Delays UAW

3 Bids Made On Machine

City Okays Deed On 2nd Test Hole

The Pampa City Commission today accepted three bids on a ditching machine, heard a report on the chemical analysis of one water well test site and okayed a deed and a contract on a second.

Those bidding on the ditching machine and their bids were Conley, Lott and Nichols, of Lubbock, $20,832.20; Browning - Ferris Machine Co., Dallas, $24,025; and Plains Machinery Co., Amarillo, $22,100. All bids included trade-ins on the old city ditcher.

The bids could only be accepted today; a decision on one of them could not be made, as the public letting of the city's $300,000 water improvement bond issue will not be till next Tuesday. Mayor Tom Rose explained. The same thing was true of bids last week on two water wells, pumps and allied equipment.

City Director of Public Works James Cowan to the commission the water level on Test Hole Site "A" was 355 feet and that there are two sandy areas that seem to have the same type of water content as the Hobart Street Park area. Site "A" is in the north of Crawford, between Love and Llano.

The commission approved a deed for Test Hole Site "B" with Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Osborne, Jr. That one is located one-quarter of a mile south of the Pampa Lumber Co., just off Hobart. Commissioners also okayed a contract with H. E. McCauley who owns three tracts adjacent to Site "B."

By terms of the contract, McCauley will get 30,000 gallons of water a month free, provided he grants no one else the rights to drill for water on his land, including himself, unless the well produces less than 200 gallons. Once the city abandons its well, the contract is off.

In other action, the commission approved the division of insurance on the Lovett Memorial Library, okayed a plan on a new city addition, passed on excuses for absences from city commission meeting and took under advisement a proposal for issuing season tickets for use of the municipal swimming pool.

Harry Gordon, Garvin Elkins, Ott Sheenmaker and Martin Turner insurance will divide up the income. (See BIDS, Page 5)

Former Panama Chief Sentenced

PANAMA — UP — The national assembly Tuesday sentenced former President Jose de Guizado to six years and eight months in prison for his part in the murder of his predecessor.

The national assembly stayed in session all night to convict Guizado of complicity in the machine gun assassination of the late President Jose A. Remon at the Panama City race track last Jan. 2.

CHARALAMPOS SOCRATES IOSSIFOGLU, REALLY SIMPLE

WASHINGTON — UP — The Senate received a committee report Monday with the title CHARALAMPOS SOCRATES IOSSIFOGLU.

Through a typographical error, the name "Charalampos Socrates Iossifoglu" had been run together. Under a bill which the Senate passed, Iossifoglu, a Locust Valley, N. Y., shipping executive, and his family, would be granted permanent residence in the United States.

Door Opened For Federal Dam Aid

The Canadian River Municipal Water Authority board of directors Monday knocked down the proposed cost of a privately financed program for the dam-and-reservoir project.

At the same time, though, the board opened the way for federal financing of the project north and west of Borger, near Sanford, in the event private financing did not turn out to be economically feasible.

The board unanimously voted to endorse pending legislation in the Texas Legislature which would cure the present conflict between state and federal laws governing the project.

Lynn Boyd, one of the two directors from Pampa and the only candidate on the ballot for mayor of Pampa, and James Cowan, city director of public works, were on hand for the special board meeting in Plainview.

Further action on Senate Bill No. 339, introduced by Sen. Grady Hazelwood, Amarillo, and its companion measure in the House, designed to remove the conflict, is being withheld to await the endorsement of all authority directors.

As Boyd said today, "We are exploring all the possibilities, trying to get the cost of the project down."

At the Monday meeting, George Finger, Borger, whose committee had been working on the problem, said it was hoped that by the sale of 26 million gallons of water per day to North Plains industries the price to the cities could be reduced from 22 cents a thousand gallons to 18 cents.

Boyd, who seconded the motion of S. B. Whittenburg, Amarillo, to resolve the state-federal law conflict, said the worst thing about the private financing contract was that "we have to take the water winter and summer. Pampa's problem is still one of peaking."

Bevan appeared for two hours before a special party committee set up to consider his future conduct and to determine whether he should be kept in the ranks of the group whose leadership he has defied openly.

It was doubtful the tough, silver-tongued Welshman flattered either "I'm sorry" or "I'll behave" during his session with the political court.

Religious, Political Life Hit By Sen. Neely

CLEVELAND — UP — A bitter personal attack on President Eisenhower's religious and political life by a U. S. senator forced CIO United Auto Workers to postpone until Tuesday a vote on their proposed strike fund.

An early vote had been planned Monday night by delegates at the UAW's 15th annual constitutional convention on the proposal to triple monthly dues to $7.59 from the present $2.50 to raise a $25 million strike reserve.

The delegates decided to delay the vote after Sen. Matthew M. Neely (D-W. Va.) gave the President an hour-long tongue lashing in a convention speech.

Attendance Publicized Eisenhower never joined a church until after he became President, Neely charged. "Since then his attendance at church has been well publicized."

"Away with hypocrisy," Neely charged. "If that is an unfair statement they can make the most of it."

In Denver, the Rev. Robert S. Lutz, who preached to Mr. Eisenhower during the President's two vacations there, quickly came to the chief executive's defense.

Lutz said the President had been unable to join a congregation previously because he had never been in one place long enough.

"By personal contact I know him to be sincere in his faith," the reverend said.

Policies Attacked The President's foreign and domestic policies also came in for criticism from the West Virginia Democrat. He charged Mr. Eisenhower with being an "Alice in Wonderland" and compared the present administration with the Tower of Babel. He called it an "everlasting monument to confusion."

He described the President as "first in war, but he is also first in confusion and first in repudiating campaign promises."

"He was unqualified when he was nominated, unqualified when he was elected," said Neely, "and he has demonstrated every day since that he doesn't know where he is going or what he's going to do when he gets there."

The senator predicted that Mr. Eisenhower would seek a second term because "the big business groups that pushed through the offshore oil lands giveaway and other deals" would see to it.

He made the statement in testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations committee urging quick U. S. ratification of the Paris treaties, which have already cleared the big hurdles of French and German ratification.

Dulles also said that the system of arms controls, worked out by western European nations as part of the Paris agreements, might be "usefully discussed between the East and West" as a possible pattern for a world disarmament plan.

The Paris agreements provide that West Germany and the six nations allied in the Western European Union will set up an international council which will fix limits on each nation's military forces armaments production. The decisions would be made by majority vote of the council.

Pastor Says Ike Sincere In Religion

WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower's pastor, the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, Tuesday defended the chief executive against a Democratic senator's charge that he is making political capital out of his church attendance.

Rev. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church here, said that everything the President does is under constant observation.

"The religious life of the President is so transparently sincere as to be self-validating," he said.

His statement came in answer to a speech by Sen. Matthew Neely (D-W. Va.) accusing Mr. Eisenhower of "hypocrisy." Neely made the charge in a speech before the United Automobile Workers (CIO) convention Monday in Cleveland.

Elson said Mr. Eisenhower will be remembered for many great and notable achievements as a military commander and statesman in one of the most difficult periods in the history of the world. When everything has been evaluated it may well be that his greatest contribution will be that which is made by example and public utterances toward the renewal of America's spiritual vitality.

Earlier, Rev. Robert S. Lutz, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Denver which the President attends while vacationing there, also described Mr. Eisenhower as a man "sincere in his faith."

Neely told the 3,000 UAW delegates that Mr. Eisenhower belonged to no organized religious faith before his election as President. But his church attendance has always been "well publicized" since he entered the White House, Neely said.

Right-To-Work Bill Is Vetoed

TOPEKA, Kan., — UP — Gov. Fred Hall Monday vetoed the controversial right-to-work bill to outlaw the union shop in Kansas.

The bill would have prohibited any labor-management contract requiring that all workers be union members. This would have outlawed the union shop in the state. A House attempt is expected to be made now to pass it over his veto.

Demo Hurls Big Business Charge At Ike

WASHINGTON, March 26 — UP — Speaker Sam Rayburn said Saturday night that in the first two years of the Eisenhower administration "we have witnessed the complete triumph of the big banker-business combine."

"The present administration, far from opposing the increased concentration of economic power in any area, has condoned and even encouraged it," Rayburn said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Independent Bankers Association.

"This, of course, is not the first time that the forces of monopoly have marched forward to victory under the protective cover of a friendly administration in Washington," the Texas Democrat added.

"We seem to be in the throes of the third great forward surge of monopoly in the history of our country," Rayburn said. "The last two such movements ended in catastrophe."

Meditations for LENT

By DR. J. CARTER SWAIM
Written for NEA Service

One of the show places of New York used to be the Charles M. Schwab mansion, along Riverside Drive, built at a time when men of wealth were vying with each other in luxury and extravagance. Mr. Schwab's dream castle is said to have been the most resplendent of them all.

Its design combined features of three French chateaux in the Loire Valley. Its walls were of granite, two feet thick. The dazzling interior decoration sent the cost over the $8,000,000 mark, and led Andrew Carnegie to complain that it made his own 60-room house "look like a cottage."

The palace brought very little to Mr. Schwab. The servants required to keep it going and the guests who came to parties that tried hard to be gay, brought home to its owner the words of Ecclesiastes (5:11, RSV): "When goods increase they increase who eat them; and what gain has their owner but to see them with his eyes?" After Mrs. Schwab's death, Mr. Schwab moved to a hotel. Following the market crash of 1929, the house could not be sold for love nor money. When it was being erected, Mr.

Schwab said he was building it to last forever, but a few years ago it met the ultimate humiliation. It was reduced to rubble under the impact of a two-ton iron ball handled by a wrecking crew. Here is a 20th-century illustration of the fact that "the things that are seen are transient, but the things that are unseen are eternal" (II Corinthians 4:18, RSV).

Jelke Defense Begins Case

By JACK WOLLISTON

NEW YORK — UP — The defense in the Jelke vice trial Monday opened its campaign to prove that state's star witnesses were prostitutes long before and long after they met the young oeo heir.

The 13th day of the trial of Minnie F. (Mickey) Jelke opened with several witnesses called to discredit the stories of call-girls Pat Ward, 21, and Marguerite Cordova, 26.

The state charges in this, Jelke's second trial, that the young playboy induced these girls into a life of prostitution and shared their earnings.

A girlfriend of Miss Ward told how she and Miss Ward visited comedian Joey Adams in Waldorf-Astoria hotel room.

The witness, Grace Appel, 21, who knew Miss Ward for 11 years while they were neighbors on New York's Lower East Side, testified that at one time during their visit with Adams she remained discreetly in another room while Miss Ward and Adams were alone.

Jelke won a retrial on the ground that his first one, two years ago, was closed to press and public. In another effort to discredit Miss Ward's six days of testimony as the state's star witness, the defense may introduce in evidence a letter which she wrote to a Stamford, Conn., man begging for $200 after she had broken off her association with Jelke.

Butter, Cheese Subsidy Asked

WASHINGTON — UP — The dairy industry renewed Monday a proposal that the government subsidize butter and cheese when surpluses get unusually large.

Otie M. Reed asked that the government buy butter and cheese from processing plants and sell it back to them immediately at unspecified lower prices when surpluses reach emergency proportions.

Reed represents the joint committee of the National Creameries Association and the American Butter Institute. He also made the proposal to congress last year. Reed proposed such a plan again Monday before the Senate Dairy subcommittee.

Cops Who Filmed GM Cars Nabbed

DETROIT — UP — Three police officers who secretly photographed future models of General Motors cars they were guarding in the hope they could sell them to competitors faced possible prosecution for grand larceny Monday.

State police seized Elmer E. Bolla, 27, Thomas Robertson, 32, and Richard DeClaire, 23, Bolla's brother-in-law, and charged they had tried unsuccessfully to sell the secret photos to Ford and Chrysler for $1,000.

General Motors, which keeps its designs for future models under close guard like other auto makers, said the plot might have cost $4 millions in changing designs if the pictures had fallen into the hands of its competitors.

Robertson, a suburban Roseville policeman, operates a protection service in his spare time. Bolla, a Macomb county deputy sheriff, and DeClaire worked for him. Both Robertson and Bolla were suspended from their police jobs after their arrest by state police during the weekend.

The men were arrested when an independent designer in nearby Mt. Clemens — whom they had contacted after being turned down on the sale offer by Ford and Chrysler — paid them with marked bills.

CAUTION!

YOU MAY BE THE VICTIM OF A FAST-TALKING ARTIST
AND, SO, WE OFFER YOU THESE SUGGESTIONS

Be on your guard when approached by certain out-of-town roofing and siding salesmen. It's always wise to consult your local lumber dealer and compare notes and figures. You'll save if you take local, friendly advice. You'll have few, if any, regrets later. You'll avoid buying inferior materials and poor workmanship. Home owners throughout the country have learned the hard way and now they take caution . . . they consult the man in their home town with whom they live and see every day. Don't be pressured or kidded into buying a roof or a siding job at prices which in the end cost you more than your local dealer asks. Your local, reliable lumber dealer will give you estimates without cost. Be sure to consult him!

HERE'S WHAT YOU SHOULD PAY

ROOFING

Roofing is sold by the bundle or by the square. It takes three bundles or one square to cover an area 10x10 ft. An average size roof, completely applied, should cost about

$6.39 Per Month

SIDING

Asbestos cement siding is the most popular type. This is also sold by the square. An average home can be resided, including all labor charges for as little as

$11.19 Per Month

This Includes Tufflex Insulation

HERES WHAT YOU SHOULD GET

No. 1 quality Rubberoid tite-on 230 pound shingles. The latest colors and patterns (no discontinued lines or factory seconds.) Applied by local workmen and sold by a local merchant who will be right here to back up a guarantee of complete satisfaction.

Johns-Manville First Grade Abestos Siding. All siding looks good when it's first applied. But it takes first quality material, skillfully applied, to hold up year after year. Because we're here in town to stay, we take pains to see that everything's okay. We want you to be a satisfied customer for years to come.

Please Note: Our own workmen apply INSULATED SIDING on an average house, including labor and materials, and insurance on labor, for as little as $14.38 per month.

Attempts to place the American flag on top of the 60-foot flag pole in front of the post office fail, and thereby point up the fact that the city's fire-fighting equipment can't reach the top of some of Pampa's buildings.

—Recent News Story

Now, there's a problem, if there ever was one. Take the City Hall. What if the fire department couldn't get to Beuna Cox, or Libby Shotwell, Fern Dawson, or Ida Fitzgerald? They'd probably be on the top floor of the building if it caught fire.

Would the firemen have to hold a net down below for them to jump into? Or would they get the ladder up as high as they could and have the gals jump to the top rung? Or what?

Or the Hughes Building. Suppose Bob Parkinson, the weatherman over at Station KPDN, was up on the roof checking on the thermometer when a fire broke out downstairs. What would he do?

Would he have to shimmy down the side of that flat-sided building, and end up maybe creating the sidewalk in front of the entrance? Course, Warren Hasse and Coy Palmer, his bosses, could hold out their arms and try to catch him as he plummeted. It could buckle their knees, too, though.

Then there's the high school, that building that glistens in the sun on rainless days... of which Pampa has had more than its share. Don't know whether Ben Sturgeon, Ken Hinkle or Bobby Conway, or any of the other athletes in the school, might be ever doing any PT up there on the roof, but it'd be a long jump to the ground for them, no matter how good condition they are in.

Maybe there's some guys in school who are practicing to be weight-lifters, or some such strongman tactics, who could be down below and catch the dropping bodies. Still, that would be weight-catching rather than weight-lifting, wouldn't it?

If Curtis Weaver or Mary Mays were caught up on the roof of the Pampa Hotel and the fire engines showed up, ready to put out a fire on a lower floor, they'd sure have to do some fancy stepping.

Don't imagine that that water tank at the north side of the building would be much good. Unless, that is, it sprung a leak and leaked in the right direction. They'd just have to take their chances on the waiting arms of the firemen gathered below, it looks like.

There might be an occasion when Roy Buzzard, Herman Whitley and Rufe Jordan would be on the roof of the First Baptist Church when the whole structure caught fire. Right then, at that point might here, they could wish that the City of Pampa had gone and spent those thousands more dollars and got some more fire equipment, something that would reach them up there. Walking down a long-enough ladder sure beats a long jump.

Jimmy Thompson and Mickey Johnson could be trapped in the Comb-Worley Building and could race to the roof. And what a joyous sight it would be for them to see an 85-foot aerial ladder extending overhead, all ready to take them off the threatened building.

Charley Wilkerson, though, wouldn't have that problem. He could ponder, he could think, he could wonder. But, in the end, he'd have had the solution all along. For him, because he's on the first floor to start with.

It'd be Politicians Day on the roof of the Courthouse, if it started to buzz. Helen Sprinkle, Lewis Goodrich, Bill Waters, they've all got offices on the third floor. Viola Jordan, of course, is worse off yet—she's on the fourth floor, she lives there.

And there might even be a political problem there. For the Courthouse is on county property, and that even includes the parking areas on Brown and Russell. Imagine

Even Barkley's Staff Has Hard Time Keeping In Touch

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — UP — What's new in Washington: Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky bounces around so much that his own staff can't keep track of him. According to Mrs. Flo Braten, the former veeep's long time assistant: "We have to read the Congressional Record every day to see where he's been."

Sen. Lyndon Baines Johnson of Texas went back to Mayo's at Rochester, Minn., recently for a check-up. The saw-bones there suggested that Johnson return to Washington and take some heat treatments twice a day. The gentleman from Texas told his physician: "Doc, where I'm going back to Washington—it will be easy to carry out your orders."

Maybe in Washington cops are cracking down on some of the free-loaders who get traffic tickets fixed. Anyhow, the criminal division of municipal court took in more money in fines last week than any previous week in history. Total $46,782—almost $20,000 of it from parking fines.

Animals are a little like people. They react to the run-away from God's time, like from daylight to standard and the other way around. Dr. William Mann, head of the Washington zoo, says that monkeys are very happy when the clock is moved ahead because they get their lettuce and grapes earlier. But they squawk like mad when the clock is turned back on them.

The great William M. Mann, by the way, has been on the shelf recently. A little ailing. In 13 years he never has missed a Shrine circus. He's about to. But he got a flavor of the circus, anyhow—he being the country's No. 1 circus man. The Shriners brought a three-month-old lioness to his place across from the zoo to growl a howdy to the wonderful old guy. The "doc" felt better.

Don't say that Washington cops aren't filled with the milk of human kindness. The other day, Pvt. Roy Taylor, the whistle-blowingest officer in the world blew one at a street car, which had a green light on 14 Street. He stopped the car.

Hoodlums Storm NY Classroom

NEW YORK—UP—Ten teenage hoodlums stormed a high school classroom Monday.

They backed a woman teacher against a blackboard by holding a bayonet at her throat and then gave three terrified students a severe beating. The leader of the all-Negro gang told the teacher to "keep quiet and mind your own business" while his companions methodically punched and kicked the three students.

Police, who arrived shortly after the hoodlums escaped, said they believed the 10 youths were a "war party" from a juvenile gang bent on revenge.

None of the 10 attends Evander Childs high school in the Bronx where the incident occurred, police said.

10 Missing Aboard Two Shrimp Boats

TAMPICO, Mex.—UP—The owner of two shrimpers feared sunk by the weekend's tropical storm in the Gulf of Mexico planned Tuesday to dispatch another boat to search for the missing craft. Ten men are aboard the two shrimpers.

Winds of near-hurricane force whipped a 300-mile stretch of the coast during the storm, causing considerable property damage. At least 15 small boats took shelter at the island of Lobos near Tampico.

In Coatzacoacoas, Vera Cruz state, four small launches sank in the Coatzacoacoas River, but their four crewmen swam ashore.

The missing shrimpers, "El Capitán" and "El Vigilante," owned by the firm Gonzalez Hermanos, set out more than a week ago with five men aboard each bound for Soto La Marina, near Galveston, Tex.

HATS ALWAYS FASCINATE ME, as they do so many women. Fortunately, I like to look at them or see them on other people more than I like to wear them myself. The other day, I came across an article on hats and one on accessories. It seems it's food in the fashion news now. If you don't believe me just read about it.

THE NEW LOOK in millinery, running, and there is more of the cap at back of the head in draped or molded variation of the cone. The sailor hat covers a wide area. For instance, instead of the plateau as the standard tiny hat, there are many miniature sailors with the same effect. Some sailors have pleated or fluted brims that place them in a dressier class, and then there are the medium-sized brimmed sailors with bigger crowns, and only a band or sash for trimming.

YOU CAN WEAR the fruit from the tree and the vegetables from the garden this spring and summer. Delectable food items are now appearing in everything from hosiery to jewelry. No longer do we have just plain red, yellow or green. Now, it's called cherry, apple, radish, pineapple, lemon, lime, coconut, lettuce or blueberry. It's a definite fact food products are responsible for the colors we will be wearing.

Kitchen Carve Easter Turkey And Reassemble For Serving

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

If you carve your Easter turkey in the kitchen and then reassemble it on a platter for dining room service, things will be pleasantly simplified.

This is how you can do it.

1. Roast turkey in usual manner, planning roasting schedule so that turkey is done about 1/2 hour before dinner is to be served.
2. Remove any skewers and cord used in trussing, then place turkey on cutting board.
3. Remove wings, making a circular cut around the wing joint. If desired, cut off wing tip from each wing.
4. Remove legs: Cut through skin between body and leg. Press leg away from body, with flat side of knife, down to cutting board. Cut through joint holding leg to back and skin on the back.
5. Divide each leg into the drumstick and thigh (or second joint) pieces.
6. Separate breast section from back section: Insert knife blade through wing-joint opening (made by removing wing). Cut outward through cartilage in the ribs to the abdominal or cavity opening. Repeat on other side. Grasp end of breast (point of keel) firmly in one hand and hold back down firmly to cutting board with other hand. Pull breast section up and over, away from the back, until shoulder joints break. It may be necessary to use knife to cut these joints.
7. Loose breast meat from each side of breastbone: Cut close to the keel bone on either side to loosen meat. Continue loosening the meat along the "floor" of the breast down to the lower edge. Using fingers at this point may free it faster. Repeat on other side. Now, the meaty sliceable parts of the turkey have been separated from the less meaty non-sliceable parts: 2 wings, 2 drumsticks, 2 thighs, breast meat in 2 pieces — one from either side.
8. To arrange for service: Place breast bone on platter. Replace breast meat on either side of keel bone. Arrange a wing, drumstick and thigh piece along one side of the breast. Repeat on second side. Garnish as desired.

Stuffing: If turkey was stuffed, remove it from cavity after breast rack and back sections are separated. Serve from separate dish. Note: If it is necessary to heat the turkey, place parts in roasting pan. Cover and heat in a slow to moderate oven (325-350 degrees F.) 20 to 30 minutes. Stuffing may be reheated in a covered casserole, or in a bag of aluminum foil.

Robin Hood Thief Sought In Dallas

FORT WORTH - UP - A 32-year-old alleged Robin Hood-type bandit was hunted in Dallas Tuesday as Denton officers charged two of his younger brothers with receiving part of the loot from a bank robbery last Saturday.

Sought was Matthew Lafoon of Fort Worth, charged in 16th District court in Denton with the $2,042 armed robbery of the Justin State Bank, 24 miles north of Fort Worth in Denton county.

Charged with "receiving and concealing" were Charles Lafoon, 31, and Leroy Lafoon, 18, brothers who gave officers a fill-in on their brother's activities during the past weekend in Fort Worth.

The accused robber gave each of the brothers more than $100 of his loot, then took them to the Fair Oaks shopping center here a few hours after the robbery and outfitted them with new clothes.

The brother trio then went to a Jacksboro highway tourist court and drank beer together through Saturday night and into Sunday morning.

Each time they went out for more beer, Charles and Leroy told officers they called a different cab company to avoid arousing suspicion.

About 1 a.m. Sunday, Charles and Leroy went home, leaving Matthew in the tourist court.

Shortly thereafter, local officers and FBI agents learned he went by cab to the Union station in Dallas, called another cab and went to the Adolphus hotel.

DR. JOE DONALDSON

Optimist Banquet Fetes Boxers

Dr. Joe Donaldson urged all boys who participated in the Optimist Club boxing program to make good use of their home life in his address to the kid boxers who were honored guests of the Optimists last night at a special banquet.

"You probably don't realize it now but it is very important that you co-operate in every way with your parents," Dr. Donaldson said. "By doing so it will make your home life much more pleasant."

Dr. Donaldson also expressed the importance of attending church regularly. "I can't say too much about this," Dr. Donaldson said and "you'll certainly enjoy life more by making it a habit of attending Sunday School and church."

About 70 boys and Optimist Club members were on hand for last night's fete at the Poole's Drive-In Dining Hall.

Mayor Tom Ross spoke briefly to the group.

All boys attending the banquet were introduced by their respective team coaches. The boys were divided into six teams during the past year.

Wheat Case Probe Asked

WASHINGTON - UP - Rep. Charles A. Boyle (D-Ill.) wants congress to investigate the dismissal of criminal charges against five men accused of "slugging" wheat shipments for the Bunge Corp. of Minneapolis.

The five named by Boyle were Robert F. Straub, Andre Hercher, Simon Kern, Walton F. Mulloy and E. H. Thornton Sr. Boyle did not know their home towns but said all represent the Bunge concern.

Boyle said shipments of high grade wheat sold to the government at support prices was "slugged," or mixed with wheat that was unfit for human consumption. He said it was certified as "first class wheat only" and the Bunge Corp. thus was "fraudulently able to obtain $1.7 million in subsidy payments."

Nothing that the Bunge Corp. has pleaded guilty and paid a $5,000 fine, Boyle said.

"It seems incongruous to me that the individuals actually involved should have criminal charges against them dropped because of 'insufficient evidence.'"

Need For More School Space Is Discussed

There will be an estimated 200-400 more students in the Pampa public school system next year, Pampa Schools Supt. Knox Kinard told the Pampa school board Monday afternoon.

And that remark led to a discussion by the board of the need for two new school buildings in the near future. Dickering for potential sites is underway.

The school board also approved the purchase of three new 20-passenger school buses and a new air compressor; turned down a bid of $50 on an old school bus and agreed to send a telegram to the Texas Legislature supporting a proposed bill on school tax bonds.

Joe Shelton, school bus superintendent, who was on hand for the board meeting, estimated the new buses would cost about $2,000 each. And he pointed out that he thought the schools could receive a $500 trade-in allowance for the old air compressor.

The proposed bond bill in the legislature would save an estimated $60 million a year in interest rates, Kinard told the board. At present, only 50 cents of the constitutional limit of $1.50 on the tax rate can be used for bond retirement, Kinard explained. With new bill in power, the bond limit would be 10 per cent.

"It would make a much better market for bonds," the superintendent commented, indicating how much more school construction would be necessary in future years. Kinard also mentioned two other proposed bills in Austin. One concerns teacher retirement - a change from 5 per cent of salary up to $3,600 to 6 per cent up to $8,400. The other concerns the making valid of all teaching certificates and regulations for the use of a new certificate in the future.

Sam Begert Elected TB Group Chief

The Gray County Tuberculosis Association held a meeting of its board Monday at noon in the Pampa Hotel. The election of new officers for the year was the chief item on the agenda.

Those elected to serve on the board for the next year include Sam Begert, president; Mrs. C. L. McKinney, vice president; Mrs. Paul Bowers, second vice-president; Mrs. Patsy Brown, executive secretary, and B. R. Nuckels, treasurer.

New board members elected were Dr. Julian Key, Bob Peterson, and Dr. Harold Fabian.

The board reviewed some of its activities for the past year and found that the principal item of cost was the paying of hospital bills and doctors bills for families unable to meet the expenses. A great deal of the money was spent for the care of children afflicted with tuberculosis.

The total amount collected in the 1954 Christmas seal campaign came to $2,187.35.

The board elected to send Nuckels and Begert to the State Tuberculosis meeting in Galveston on April 15.

Absentee Vote Now Totals 4

The city and school board absentee voting today continued to mirror the apparent disinterest of voters in the elections.

Only four persons had voted absentee by late this morning for the Pampa school board, according to School Business Mgr. Roy McMillen. And today was the last day that it could be done. Election is Saturday.

And so far, not a single person had voted absentee in the election for mayor and city commissioners, City Secy. Ed Vicars reported today. Last day for voting absentee in the city election is Friday. Election will be held April 5, one week from today.

A FULL SCALE BASEBALL program for boys will be in operation in Pampa this summer if the negotiations for the Teen Age League can be worked out.

The Teen Age League will allow PONY League graduates to go right on playing baseball until they're through high school.

In other words, boys of our community can start playing baseball at the age of eight and continue right on through high school.

The Little League, which was introduced in Pampa last year, takes in boys ages 8-12 while the Pony League, also starting in Pampa last summer, consists of boys 13 and 14 years of age.

The proposed Teen Age League will take up where the Pony League leaves off, 15-17 years of age. Any boy too old for the Pony League and who will be eligible for high school sports for the ensuing year, is eligible for the Teen Age League.

There is a lot of work to be done toward organizing the Teen Age League. Efforts are now being made to turn the Teen Age League into a completely community affair.

The Optimist Club, which sponsors Little League and Pony League, is also getting behind the Teen Age League.

The Optimists, however, don't feel they have enough personnel in the club to take on the Teen Age League alone. Thus they are seeking help from the other civic organizations in the city in form of manpower.

The boys pick up more baseball experience during the summer than they do in the spring time which is the period of the year the Harveters play. Not only is the time short for high school baseball during the school months, cold and otherwise inclement weather prevents activity much of this time.

By playing baseball in the summer months the boys are virtually ready for action from the start the following spring with the Harveters.

The real primary purpose of the summer leagues, though, is to furnish some wholesome recreation for schoolboys during the non-school months. School and its activities keep students pretty much occupied during the school months, but unless some sort of a program is set up in a community for the summer months, the boys are more apt to get involved in something they would be sorry for later.

Our local police department reported last fall that there was less juvenile delinquency in Pampa last summer than in any summer period in several years. Little League and Pony League were given credit for this decline.

We hope the Teen Age League will become a reality for this coming summer. It might even put our juvenile officers out of business.

Each team would go under the name of both the commercial sponsor and civic club. For example, if the Lions Club furnished the personnel for running the team sponsored by John Doe Plow Company, the name of the team would be John Doe Plow-Lions Club team.

The sponsor's fee for Little League and Pony League is $250 for the first year but since uniforms for the Teen Age League will run a little higher than the two younger leagues, the sponsorship fee for this league has been tentatively set at $300.

Whether it's $250, $300 or $500 for the sponsorship fee, the money for this purpose is well spent. It helps to offer wholesome recreation during the summer months for some 500 youngsters of our community.

Then the sponsorship fee stays right in Pampa, anyway. All uniforms and equipment are bought locally.

Once our kid baseball program gets into full operation, Little League, Pony League and Teen Age League, you can rather expect the kids to be pretty "salty" by the time they start playing for the Harveters.

4 Starters Due To Repeat In 1955 Openers

By FRED DOWN United Press Sports Writer

Only four of last year's 16 opening day pitchers were expected Tuesday to be on the firing line April 11 and 12 when the curtain goes up on the 1955 major league pennant races.

With the big inaugurals only two weeks distant and the teams about to leave their permanent spring bases, the only repeaters from last season appeared to be Steve Gromek of the Detroit Tigers, Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies, Harvey Haddix of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Carl Erskine of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Another possibility is Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees but Manager Casey Stengel is expected to turn to veteran southpaw Ed Lopat to try to get the team off on the right foot against the Washington Senators.

The world champion New York Giants are virtually certain to have 21-game winner Johnny Antonelli on the mound to oppose the Phillies' Roberts while the American League champion Cleveland Indians probably will open with 23-game winner Bob Lemon against 19-game winner Virgil Trucks of the Chicago White Sox.

Top candidates to open for the other teams are Bob Rush of the Chicago Cubs vs Art Fowler or Gerry Staley of the Cincinnati Redlegs; Vernon Law of the Pittsburgh Pirates vs Brooklyn and 21-game winner Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves in the National League.

In the American League, it's expected to be Bob Porterfield for the Washington Senators against Joe Coleman of the Baltimore Orioles in the April 11 "Presidential Opener." Alex Kellner opening for the Kansas City Athletics and Frank Sullivan getting the nod for the Boston Red Sox.

Rainouts continued to harass many of the teams in Florida Monday with six games washed out. The recent bad weather has several of the managers moaning over their difficulties in giving promising rookies final looks but the situation hasn't reached the critical point as yet.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, meanwhile, continued to surprise their rivals when they ran their winning streak to five games with a 2-1 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals. Preston Ward singled to drive in both Pittsburgh runs in the third inning and shortstop Dick Groat saved a tie with a leaping catch for the third out in the ninth.

Rookie Art Ceccarelli pitched six hitless innings and Art Dittmar closed out the game effectively as the Kansas City Athletics squeezed out a 3-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers in the other Florida game.

In the West, the Chicago Cubs rocked Ruben Gomez, a 17-game winner last season, with the tying run in the ninth and four more in the 10th to beat the New York Giants, 14-11. Ernie Banks knocked in five runs with two homers, a double and two singles to lead the Cubs' 15-hit attack. It was the Cubs' first win in five tries against the Giants this spring.

Hairston, Frazier Join Oiler Camp

Two more Oilers arrived in camp yesterday that brings the total to 13 that have reported. Only one of the 14 who have signed 1955 contracts hasn't made an appearance at the spring camp at Oiler Park.

The Oilers were expected to get down to serious business this afternoon on their third day of spring camp.

"We'll start our infield workouts Tuesday," Manager Grover Seitz revealed yesterday.

Seitz has been withholding infield workouts because of cold weather and also to allow the infielder's arms to get in good shape before breaking down.

All but one infielder are in camp but Paul Halter, a utility man, will likely fill the vacancy in the infield. Pete Carmona, second baseman, still hadn't arrived in camp at press deadline today.

The other infielders already in camp are first baseman Joe Fortin, third baseman Johnny Bruga and shortstop Rach Slider.

Two catchers are also on hand to complete the infield lineup. They are veteran Jack Hall and rookie Jerry Bupp.

Six pitchers are now in camp with the arrival of Frazier last night. Frazier is a veteran from Cincinnati, O. He is a right hander.

The other five pitchers in camp are Red Dial, Jack Venable, Bobby Votaw, Dean Higgins and Chubby Haynes.

Outfielder Hairston arrived in camp late yesterday from his home in Memphis, Tenn. That completes the outfield lineup with Sonny Tims and Halter already in the fold.

The Oilers held a batting drill for the first time yesterday. Seitz sent his charges through two rounds of batting practice.

New Secret, former Oiler and who is working out with the team, and a local and lotter, Chubby Haynes, collaborated in pitching yesterday's batting drill.

Another local sandlotter, Glenn Adams, is also working out with the Oiler nine. Adams hit one of the two out of the park during the drill.

Healed S'boy Battle Due In Texas Relays

AUSTIN — UP—Abilene, Class AAAA track and field champion, will return to the Texas Relays this week end for the first time in eight years with a squad threatening to dominate the schoolboy division of the two-day meet.

Conflicts with the district track and field meet have prevented the Eagles from returning to the Texas Relays since 1947, when they failed to gain a single place in the track carnival.

However, this year's Abilene high school entry, blessed with relay strength, is expected to battle Baytown, Houston Lamar, Dallas Sunset and Corpus Christi Miller for top honors.

High School Winners Listed First-place winners in the high school division last year were San Antonio Brackenridge — winner of two relays—Corpus Christi Miller, Amarillo, Baytown, Sunset, Houston John Reagan and San Benito.

Two individual schoolboy champions will defend their titles—Sunset's Eddie Southern, hurdles champion, and high jumper Johnny Hill of Corpus Christi Miller.

Southern won the hurdles in 14.4 seconds last year, but has a 14.4 performance to his credit this season, and may threaten the relay mark of 14.3 seconds set in 1943 by Augie Ertuth of Brackenridge.

Southern also will be out after the 440-yard dash title, having run the quarter this year in 49.1 seconds, well under the relays record of 49.5.

Singleton is Worth Watching Chief competition for Southern in the hurdles was expected to come from Bob Singleton of Galena Park (third-place winner last year, and C. F. Alsbrook, Wallace Wilson of Baytown appeared to be Southern's top competition in the quarter.

Abilene appeared to be a threat to three relays records. The West Texans' best mark in the mile relay, 3:25.0, has been bettered by Baytown, but Abilene defeated Baytown in their only meeting this season. Baytown's best time is 3:23.2, better than the relays record of 3:24.8 set in preliminaries last year by Sunset.

Abilene has run the 440-yard relay in 43.3 seconds best time in the state this year and near the relays record of 42.9. Baytown, Houston Lamar and Corpus Christi's Ray and Miller also have highly-regarded spring relay combines.

Abilene Sprint Team Favored In the sprint medley, Abilene was clocked last week at 3:33.0. That was well off the Texas Relays mark of 3:26.9, but with Bob Mooshart running the 880 anchor, Abilene was expected to stand off Baytown and other challengers in Friday's finals.

Walter Hayes of Corpus Christi Ray was favored to take the shot put crown. He hit 54 feet, 5 inches last week, only 4 1/2 inches short of last year's winning throw by Paul Schumann of Houston Regan.

A free-for-all was expected in the 100-yard dash, with no one expected to approach the record-equaling 9.6-second performance of San Benito's Bobby Morrow last year.

In the high school class, 54 teams have entered 560 contestants.

Cubs Clip Giants; Banks Gets 5 For 5

TUCSON, Ariz. — UP—The Chicago Cubs sought their sixth victory in seven spring meetings with the Cleveland Indians Tuesday in the final game of their Grapefruit League series with the American League champions.

The Cubs have beaten the Cleveland A team three times in four meetings and added two wins over the Indians' B team.

Manager Stan Hack's crew, now at a 7-7 level against big league teams for the spring, clubbed out a 14-11 win over the New York Giants Monday. Ernie Banks led the Cubs' 15-hit attack with five hits—two home runs, a double and two singles that drove in five runs.

Fowler had a 12-10 record and a 4.1 mark against the Cubs in the season. Staley, acquired from the St. Louis Cardinals, had a 7-13 mark last season but his lifetime record against the Cubs is 19-10. Both are right handers.

The Washington Senators, who play the Redlegs Tuesday, have recalled 22-year old catcher Steve Korcheck from Chattanooga. Korcheck, optioned only Sunday, was recalled when it was learned that regular catcher Ed Fitzgerald is suffering with a chipped bone in the third finger of his right hand.

Joost arrived Monday after a trip from California and said he had to accept the Red Sox' offer "because it was a matter of economics."

Joost, a free agent, spent most of the spring working out with the Cleveland Indians.

The Chicago White Sox, who were to be hosts Tuesday to the Red Sox, announced they have optioned Joe Kiriene, Western League batting champion in 1954, to San Francisco in the Pacific Coast League. Kiriene hit .342.

Blackwell May Sign LAKELAND, Fla. — UP—General Manager George Weiss was expected to announce Tuesday that the New York Yankees have signed Ewell Blackwell, former National League pitching great, to a contract.

Blackwell, who has suffered with a sore arm for a year and a half, was granted a 30-day trial period with the Yankees this spring. If they don't sign him Tuesday, Blackwell must be given his unconditional release.

Blackwell has been impressive in two exhibition games this spring.

The Yankees were to play Tuesday against the Detroit Tigers, who dropped a 3-2 decision Monday to the Kansas City Athletics.

A's Option Pair WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — UP—The Kansas City Athletics announced Tuesday that they have optioned rookie pitchers Bill Oster and Hal Raether to Columbus in the International League.

Oster, a left hander, had an 6-1 record and 6.18 earned run average with the Athletics last season while Raether, a right hander, had a 1-2 mark and 3.60 ERA for Savannah.

The Athletics, who shaded the Detroit Tigers, 3-2, Monday were to play the surprising Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday. The Pirates Monday beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 2-1, for their fifth consecutive triumph.

Giants Break Camp PHOENIX, Ariz. — UP—The world champion New York Giants enjoyed an off-day Tuesday before breaking camp to join the Cleveland Indians for an eight-game trip through the Southwest and South.

The Giants play the Indians in Tucson, Ariz., Wednesday and then play them on successive days in San Antonio, Houston, Dallas, New Orleans, Montgomery, Columbus, Charlotte and Knoxville. The series between the 1954 World Series rivals is expected to be one of the most successful financially in the history of spring training.

Loes Left Behind JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — UP—Pitcher Billy Loes was included Tuesday in a group of four players who will be returned to Vero Beach, Fla., for special training while the Brooklyn Dodgers travel north.

Loes, a right hander, was recalled from the minors to replace the injured Steve Korcheck of the Washington Senators.

MY BIG BREAK

By CARL HUBBELL Written for NEA Service

Just being an Oklahoman born to like baseball was about the closest thing to a break I can find in my career.

You see, in the years when I was plodding my way through the minor leagues, it took an awful lot of liking the game to stay with it professionally. There were an awful lot of bus rides. Unless you were a boy wonder — and I wasn't — it was a long and discouraging trail and you got little help. Veterans didn't show you the tricks of the trade. It was up to you to learn your way around.

I spent five and a half years down below and had to develop the screwball before making good with the Giants.

I was fortunate enough to get in three World Series and five All-Star Games.

I was elected to the Hall of Fame, named director of the Giants' farm system.

I list these achievements merely to stress a point.

It is that I was just plain lucky enough to like baseball well enough to stick to it when things were tough.

The 15 1/2 years I enjoyed at the Polo Grounds and what has happened since were well worth the struggle and waiting.

GIVES BUCKY AN ASSIST

Dressen Eyes 1st Division With Sens

This is the 14th in a series on the 1955 prospects of the major league clubs.

By LEO H. PETERSEN ORLANDO, Fla. — UP — Chuck Dressen believes his Washington Senators could finish in the first division, and if they do he will credit the manager he replaced, Bucky Harris, with an assist.

Harris, who piloted the Senators to a sixth-place finish in 1954, then left to take over the Detroit Tigers, thinks Dressen is aiming too high and told the United Press that he was afraid "Chuck is due for a rude awakening in July or August."

"I put that story up on the bulletin board in the clubhouse and have been needing my players about it," Dressen said. "So far it's been quite a tonic and maybe it will be Bucky, not me, who will be in for a rude awakening in July or August when he sees us ahead of his Tigers."

aim is Too High Dressen admitted, however, that he may be aiming "too high" because he has "a big shortstop problem, although his club is pretty well set elsewhere.

Right now, John Kline, who hit .319 at Birmingham last season, is the leading candidate for the shortstop post. He is ranked ahead of Jerry Snyder, who wound up at the position last season when Pete Runnels was shifted to second base. But Snyder hit only .234.

Runnels will be at second with Eddie Yost, one of the best in the business despite his 1954 average of .256, at third, and Mickey Vernon, twice the American League batting champion at first.

Vernon Slips Vernon slipped to a .290 average last season and Dressen said he understood that Mickey "always gets dead tired during the last month of the season."

"So I'm going to rest him now and then by shifting Roy Sievers from left field to first base," Dressen said. "That way maybe Mickey will be able to go at top speed all the way."

When Vernon does play first, the outfield will be Sievers, Jim Busby, a fine defensive player and a .290 hitter, in center and Tom Umpitt in right. Umpitt was a disappointment last season, hitting only .219, but Dressen said he believed he had straightened out the former Red Sox player.

Red Heads To Play In Perryton Soon

PERRYTON — (Special) — The Olson's All-American Red Heads, world champion professional girls basketball team, will meet the Perryton Independents in the school gymnasium on Monday night, April 4 under the auspices of the Perryton Rotary Club.

The champion girls team will play under men's rules. They defeated 134 men teams last season and are considered favorites in their game here.

A Red Head Featurette presenting the entire team in trick shooting, fancy ball handling and comedy routines will be seen at halftime.

The team, originated in 1936 as C. M. Olson's "Terrible Swedes," is the foremost women basketball team in the nation and has many imitators. They have played before 4,500,000 spectators during their years on the road and they annually draw large crowds for every appearance.

Optimists Approve Teen Age League

The Optimist Club unanimously approved the proposed organization of a Teen Age League in Pampa at its board of directors' meeting last night.

The proposed league will consist of boys between the ages of 15 and 17. All boys signing up for the league must have at least one more year of eligibility remaining in high school sports.

While the Optimists voted last night to get the ball rolling toward the organization of a Teen Age League, the club does not plan to sponsor the operation of the league alone.

The Optimists will seek help from other civic organizations in Pampa in operating the league.

Primary purpose of the league is to enable all boys graduating from the Pony League to continue playing baseball and to offer wholesome summer recreation for all boys of high school age.

It is hoped that the Pampa Teen Age League will affiliate with the Texas Teen Age League. The Optimists are awaiting word from Texas Teen Age League officials in Waco upon joining this organization.

Each civic club in Pampa will be contacted this week in regards to assisting with the Teen Age League.

TV Oscar Show Has Become A Well-Disciplined Affair

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD — UP — Oscar night in Hollywood has become a disciplined TV show, but in the old days the more informal event was colorfully sprinkled with bloopers.
 Wednesday four excited stars will collect top film acting honors at an Academy Awards presentation that has been "dry-run" into perfection.
 Because of the demands of television, the players aren't allowed long-winded introductions. In the '30's and '40's such speeches have vened up the affair.
Wrong Frank
 One year the late Will Rogers was announcing the best director award. He talked on and on about "my good friend, Frank." Director Frank Capra was halfway to the stage when Rogers suddenly boomed: "The winner is Frank Cooper." Capra slunk back to his seat.
 In those days the awards were handed out at a banquet. By the time the guests partook of dinner and juice of the grape, the speeches got longer and the reporters sleeper. One year pro-

New Military Reserve Plan Is Approved

WASHINGTON — UP — A House Armed Services subcommittee Monday approved legislation to start a new military reserve program. It includes a modified universal military program to train up to 250,000 young men yearly.
 The committee vote was 9 to 1. Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La.) said the new reserve plan embodies many of the features requested by President Eisenhower. It is calculated to produce a ready reserve force of 2.9 million men by 1960, he said.
 Its key feature—the new modified UMT program—calls for a six month training program for men 17 and 18, followed by 7 1/2 years duty in the reserves.
 Men not joining the training program would continue to be subject to draft for two years active military duty, as at present.
 For the first time, reserve duty would be mandatory for draftees and trainees. Under present law men leaving service go into the reserves but are not required to take an active part.

Prayer Room Opened For Congress

WASHINGTON — UP — The new Capitol prayer room opened for the use of congressmen Monday. It was opened officially a week ago, but only for "inspection" by House and Senate members, their families and friends, and other Capitol visitors. From now until congress adjourns, admittance is for members only.
 The small room, just off the rotunda and equidistant from the House and Senate chambers, was designed as a quiet place of meditation and prayer away from the usual hustle and bustle of congressional proceedings.
 It is wholly non-denominational since the aim was to offend no religious group. The room's most striking feature, aside from the plain oak altar, is a stained glass window donated anonymously by a group of California citizens.
 The window, the only one in the room, has a main panel depicting the figure of George Washington kneeling in prayer. Immediately above are the words: "This nation under God."
 The idea of the prayer room was first advanced by Sen. A. S. Mike Brooker (D-Ola.) and Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) They have been working together towards its construction since February a year ago.
 "From the comments I have heard," Hays said, "the room will be widely used."

Squirrel Story Brings Out All Sorts Of Similar Tales

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON — UP — Backstairs at the White House: the squirrel population was not involved in the recent trapping program.
 The squirrels may seem quite friendly and tame as they stand begging. You can hand the squirrel the nut. But don't try to pick Mr. Bushy Tail up. If you do, chances are he'll bite the daylight out of the nearest available finger.
 Leroy Anderson, a cameraman for NBC television, got a badly clawed hand the other day while enticing a squirrel closer to his camera with peanuts.
 A number of reporters wanted to ask Mr. Eisenhower at his last news conference about his squirrels but they were admittedly reluctant to raise the subject. They thought the President would blast 'em right out of the water.
 It developed later that if asked about the squirrel program, he would have given the details his press secretary released to the public 48 hours later. As of last Wednesday on news conference day, Mr. Eisenhower wasn't angry at all about the fur over his golf green and the squirrels.
 What with Sen. Richard L. Neuberger of Oregon, a Democrat, trying to have the law on the President for violating the District of Columbia anti-trapping ordinance, Mr. Eisenhower's attitude next Wednesday just might be a little bit different.

Cold Keeps Snake Haul To Only 550

OKENE, Okla. — UP — The International Association of Rattlesnake Hunters was ready to sic a rattler on the weatherman Monday, as they counted a meager haul of 550 snakes taken in this year's rattler roundup.
 The low catch was blamed on unseasonably low temperatures, which kept the snakes inside their dens at near-by Salt Creek Canyon. The cool weather failed to discourage sportsmen who take part in the annual snake chase, however. Chief reptile warden Joe Durham estimated 16,000 hunters attended the unusual event.
 Jimmy Davis, a Watonga, Okla., hunter brought in the biggest snake, a 5 1/2-pound diamond back measuring 67 1/2 inches. He received a trophy, the snake was sold at auction for $25.50. Purchaser was Ed Meehew of Okene. Second prize winner was Charlie Shottess, Longdale, who bagged a 63 3/4-inch rattler.
 The total weight of the catch was 779 pounds. It is not uncommon for a hunt to net 5,000 pounds. The association buys the snakes for 50 cents a pound, then sells them to drug houses for use in making medicines.
 Sun shone on the snake-infested area, but cool temperatures still lingered from a current cold snap.
 "It was just too cold," said Ed Lamie, chief rattler for the association. "The snakes wouldn't come out and the hunters weren't too anxious to go in after them."

Sub Highway Bill Slated

WASHINGTON — UP — Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.) said he would introduce a substitute Monday for the administration's proposed $101 billion road-building program.
 "Case's measure would help finance the construction through a special license fee on heavy trucks and buses. It also would levy tolls on new bridges and tunnels in the interstate super highway system and have the government charge for utility lines on the highway right of ways.
 The administration measure would rely on gasoline taxes.
 Case, a co-sponsor of the administration bill offered last month, said he had not consulted the White House about his substitute bill. But his action appeared to have killed the slim chance that congress would approve the administration measure.
 Case's proposal calls for federal-state construction of about $70 billion of new highways in the next 10 years, compared to about $68 billion proposed by President

Union Grab

We are now witness to a peculiar phenomenon. Labor bosses, nursed on the battle of infant socialism which bred a dislike and a distrust for all capitalists are now turning to capitalism for their investments.

Only a few weeks ago we commented here on the fact that government itself had finally come face to face with reality and was going to ask private enterprise for private financing of its projects such as TVA. It would seem that regardless of its size, the government realized that industry was bigger. And what it couldn't whip, it had to join. After all, all taxes come from industry and government runs on taxes.

This move on the part of labor unions to buy into corporations such as Montgomery Ward and company is part and parcel of the same move. Having failed despite years of lying and cheating propaganda to wreck American industry, labor's goons now plan to take over industry via the back-door route.

If they couldn't destroy business and force the country into chaos and complete governmental paternalism through a headlong attack, then perhaps the flanking maneuver will get more results. In any case, this is what is happening.

Big labor unions actually have billions of dollars in ready cash at their disposal. Coercive dues collections plus fines, assessments and "contributions" make up about $80 million a month of tax-free income.

The giant "welfare" racket inaugurated recently is estimated at a yearly gross of something in the neighborhood of three to five billions exclusive of other income. Since no useful goods or services are exchanged for these sums which are acquired through extortion, it stands to reason that the big labor bosses have plenty of cash to spend.

And now there is a rush among the brass-knuckle boys for stocks and shares and a chance to get rich in the free market economy they've said so much against.

Big government and big labor unions have everything in common except legality. The government uses coercion, threats of force and force itself. It interferes in the economy and has been for some years competing with private industry. The same words can be used regarding unions except that the competition is just getting underway.

A long time ago when this nation was very young, those patriots who brought it into being decreed a separation between church and state. No decision of theirs was more fortunate. What we need now is a similar separation of both government and unions from business.

If these two agencies of raw force are allowed to take over our industry, then, indeed, free men, who only seek to make their own way unhampered, will become a vanishing species.

THE NATION'S PRESS

RUBBER LAWS

(The Wall Street Journal) Nowadays the Government is big business but it is about the only business operator we know of where a contract, no matter how firmly drawn, isn't a contract. The Government can always, and frequently does, change the rules after the contract is signed.

Recently Congress passed a law directing the Executive Branch to dispose of the wartime synthetic rubber plants. There followed a long period of negotiation in which a number of private companies made bids in good faith on the plants. A number of them have now been "sold" for considerable sums of money. Or have they? Chairman Patman of the House Small Business Committee is pushing a bill which if passed would repeal the action of the previous Congress and nullify the sale. So whether the purchasers have purchased anything depends.

Frankly, we don't know enough about rubber plants to know whether the purchasers made a good buy or the Government a good deal. But we do believe that the U. S. Government ought not to make its contracts entered into in good faith subject to rubber laws.

UND FOR WHAT KIND OF REPUBLIC?

(U S A) More than 5,000 persons signed scrolls in tribute to Dr. Harold C. Urey, Chicago University Nobel Prize winner, professor of chemistry and nuclear studies. The scrolls were presented to Dr. Urey in Chicago on February 22 at a testimonial dinner given him by a group seeking a "new trial" for convicted atom spy Morton Sobell.

Dr. Urey vilified the judicial system of our Republic by charging that Julius and Ethel Rosenberg and Morton Sobell were not properly tried and that "the verdict and sentence were not justified."

A signer of the testimonial scrolls to this self-appointed one-man-judge-and-jury was Robert M. Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago, now head of the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Republic.

Does Mr. Hutchins believe his support of Dr. Urey is for the American Republic? Or is it against our Republic and for the type of People's Republic existing behind the Iron Curtain?

This question needs an answer and the evidence necessary for the correct answer is rapidly being given to the public of this Republic.

Under the direction of Robert M. Hutchins, the Ford Fund for the Republic is lending its support to J. Robert Oppenheimer, a self-confessed perjurer and to Dr. Harold C. Urey, a mouth-piece for the Communist propaganda line that the executed atom spies were "innocent."

Large Rancher Discusses Government Schools

I want to pass on to the readers a letter written by William H. Rapp, a large rancher in Colorado, to the Gazette-Telegraph, one of Freedom Newspapers.

He discusses the government school question so rationally and from such a practical standpoint, that I believe his letter will throw light on the kind of education we need. From here on Mr. Rapp is speaking:

"For years I have been a strong supporter of our public schools and have traveled over the entire state to help protect the local government of our schools. After doing this I find that in almost every case the ones that are the advocates for the tax-supported schools are always dissatisfied with these same schools. I noticed at the same time that the ones who sent their children to private schools were usually pleased with them. I began to wonder what was wrong with our public school system. After reading your editorials in your fine newspaper the last ten years, it dawned on me what was the matter. After thinking back I found that all my enemies and practically all the neighborhood quarrels were a direct result of the differences of opinion concerning schools, not only in my area but all over the state.

"We do not quarrel with our neighbor over the type of tractor or automobile they drive because they have to pay for them and are not forcing me to help pay for them.

"After giving it due consideration I decided that private schools are the only way we could have peace and harmony in our educational system because I believe we should have freedom in our choice of education as much as freedom of religion.

"Since I have been recommending private schools I have many people say to me that I have no solution for the education of the poor. I firmly believe that no private school, if the people that supported it are not already taxed for public schools, would deny the right of a few poor children to sit side by side their own children if there were no other means of education.

"Whenever did a church deny the right of the poor to enter and receive the same benefits as all others who attended? I have faith that American people would be charitable enough to do this and value education enough to support the private school. If the American people in general are not of such a mind, then the public school will eventually fail because it takes a majority to vote for the system of tax-supported public schools.

"If by this same assumption, that the American people cannot privately educate their children, then by the same reasoning they would not be able to feed, clothe and house their families. The time will come, if this condition is not checked, the American people will be just as shocked at anyone suggesting that the individual should feed and clothe his children as they are today at the private school.

"We all agree that well-being of a child comes first before it can be properly educated. If private enterprise cannot accomplish this, then socialism is our only alternative. Why are all the billions spent to defend the invasion of communistic government which believes that the welfare of everyone depends upon the government?

"The educators have repeatedly claimed that we have no solution but we in turn make the same claims to them. How are we going to pay off $27,000,000,000 debt, subsidize the farmer, give pensions to veterans, build national highways, build for defense, old age pension, guaranteed salaries, slum clearances, socialized medicine and many other socialistic ideologies which nearly all of our educators highly recommend? It will be the working people, who will have to pay for these measures because whenever we tax the rich, the increase in taxes is passed down to the producer. For example, when the taxes on our oil industries are increased, invariably the cost of gasoline goes up to the consumer.

"We would like to ask the people who are for this tax-support system of government how we, the producers, can carry a any more taxes and still exist. If we don't have something we can call our own, we will lose our initiative to produce anything. For several years, I have been looking to this intelligent group to answer how we can meet more and more of their demands. The reason for their silence on this matter is because they have none.

"In conclusion, free American industry, the farmer and all other private enterprises have had surpluses over the years and I firmly believe that there would be a surplus of private schools if there were no so-called free tax-supported schools to compete with them. How would they farmers survive, if we were taxed to support government farms and give the products of these far to the public? I think we would have the same situation as prevails in Russia."

Pressures May Force U. S. To Modify Foreign Policy

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A drastic modification of the stiff-necked American policy toward Red Russia and China may result from pressures exerted on the Eisenhower Administration by such contrasting personalities as Senator Walter F. George of Georgia and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who is expected to succeed Winston Churchill as Prime Minister.

Eden has informed Secretary John Foster Dulles that Britain cannot and will not join in any military effort to hold the Quemoy and Matsu Islands against Chinese attack. His people, especially the labor unions, are asking why Britishers should die for two barren, volcanic blobs of earth within artillery range of hostile mainland batteries. Recruiting and drafting men for such a venture would be almost impossible, according to 10 Downing Street.

Eden's warning has had a profound effect at Washington. For if our closest ally will not support us here, it is certain that the United Nations Assembly will not give even moral sanction to a Quoy-Matsu defense, or provide any military reinforcement.

The British advance even more realistic arguments. In their opinion, there is a chance that the Americans might be forced to withdraw from these offshore points, if the Russians furnish planes, submarines and heavy artillery to the Chinese Communists.

Such a military disaster, on top of the Reds' success in Indo-China, would be fatal to Western prestige among Asians. It would weaken every alliance we have negotiated for collective security in this area, from South Korea to Thailand.

Therefore, according to the British, it would be wise to bow out than to be driven out. It is bitter tea they brew, but they are more experienced in Oriental psychology than American diplomats.

London will support us in any resistance to attempted conquest of Formosa and the Pescadores, at least morally, for this would be regarded as another example of major Communist aggression. Even so, it will be difficult to persuade the British people to make grievous sacrifices for these vital links in our Pacific defense chain. It would be like asking American boys to die for Madagascar!

Finally, the British do not place great faith in Chiang Kai-shek, either as a military expert or an exponent of free democracy. They do not hold with the Knowland-Briggs belief that millions of mainland Chinese will rush to his bedraggled colors, if he should make a move to re-assert them from the Reds. In official and popular British opinion, Chiang is all washed-up!

Senator George, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, voices the opinion of most Britishers and many Americans in demanding an immediate Eisenhower-Churchill-Bulgarian conference. Indeed, despite demurrers, there is belief that the Administration does not resent his suggestion. George is really running interference for Ike against Republican Chiang fixers.

European are almost unanimous for such a meeting, despite past failures and Yalta warnings against secret diplomacy. Recent revelations of the devastating and civilization-destroying nature of H-bombs have necessitated one last desperate try for world peace and agreement. After all, they live under the guns, except that now they are A and H detonations.

Moreover a high-level talk is a domestic political necessity with Churchill and Premier Faure of France. The British Conservatives face election this or next year, and they must run as the peace party. Faure has only a narrow majority in parliament, and many of his nominal supporters clamor for the diplomatic gesture proposed by Senator George and Foreign Secretary Eden.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Our first question today comes from a writer who is worried about the seriousness of a so-called dropped stomach.

Q—How serious is a dropped stomach and is there any treatment for it?
P. E.
A—There are few doctors today who pay much attention to so-called dropped stomach or intestinal. The position of these organs inside the abdominal cavity varies from person to person and tends to be lower in a thin person than one who is stouter. Rarely does it cause any symptoms which need treatment and rarely if ever is any treatment indicated.

Q—One of my Fallopian tubes is open and the other one closed. Several people have told me that with this situation I could not have both male and female children, but just one sex, depending on which the first child was. What do you say about this?
Mrs. G. G.

A—It simply is not true. You are just as likely to have children of both sexes as anyone else.

Q—I had never heard of the douloureux until my wife came down with it a few weeks ago. Now she has been suffering something terrible and has been told that the only thing to do is to have an operation, but that it would leave her face and tongue numb. Would you please write about this?
R. V. A.

A—The condition is a disorder of one of the so-called cranial nerves which come from the brain direct and supply a part of the face. The cause of the douloureux is absolutely unknown. The pain is likely to be rather continuous and becomes virtually intolerable. Medical treatment is unfortunately not likely to be successful, although injections with alcohol at the proper points may bring some relief. All too frequently the only way to relieve the pain is by cutting the nerve entirely and this does result in numbness and other nerve signs.

N. Y. Times Yalta 'Scoop' Deserves No Press Plaudits

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

TUCSON, Ariz. — My contempt for the New York Times is one of the most enjoyable sensations in my experience, but those of my colleagues who have belittled the scoop that failed in the matter of the Yalta Papers are arguing against old-fashioned gut up and gut. The same complaint was heard a few years ago when Arthur Krock, then head of the Times' Washington bureau, got an exclusive interview with Harry Truman, who snarled back with his irascible charm that he would give his interviews to whoever he dam well wanted to. There are reports of skulduggery in the State Department in spite of which, if such there was, the Times reporter who got the galley proof and had it exclusively for a time, deserves the same recognition that we gave the Cleveland hitter who slapped that long ball into the hands of Willie Mays. What was his name?

The Times is not one of the papers which have been clamoring for his further and redundant but pleasuring proof of Roosevelt's treachery. It will not enjoy the report and we may expect it to minimize the perfidy here disclosed. The thing to do now is to dig out the deleted parts, as John O'Donnell, of the New York News, already has done, in part, with a magnifying glass, and then ransack the records for more of the same. How many prisoners of war did Ike deliver to the Russians for massacre or slavery?

Elliott Roosevelt long ago divulged the repartee in which Roosevelt and Stalin talked of a massacre of 50,000 German staff officers. Elliott, a freeloader, bided around one of the big show-parties until he caught Stalin's eye and was invited to draw up a chair. Churchill, who had sent the black and tans to Ireland without a qualm, was horrified at the brutality of this proposal. He said the British would never be a party to such a slaughter. So Roosevelt, with his ever-ready party, said all right, they would pare down the number to 49,999.

The frustration of the Times' copy by a process of inflation strikes a note reminiscent of the time that Roosevelt, Ickes and a select few others each got a sheet of uperforated three one stamps from Jim Farley, knowing they had enormous value in the philatelic market. Jim said he didn't know that at the time. I believe shamus because whatever your opinion of his career in politics, larceny is out of his line. One of those who got a sheet could not resist the temptation to double-cross the rest so his little treasure hobbled up in Virginia. All philatelists are crazy, anyway, and the news of this set them to jabbering all over the country, with the result that Farley turned an embarrassment into a slight financial profit by printing thousands of im- perforated sheets of the same stamp and selling them at face value to a lot of dopes who then had nothing but so many ordinary three-cent stamps. Of course, the original sheets still were rarities because they were autographed by their scandalous author through their scandalous history. Roosevelt's very own sheet, with certified proof that this was the one by which he tried to graft $100,000 might be worth $100,000 still on that account. For that matter, Jim's might be a treasure, too.

I almost had an experience similar to that of the Times fellow in the case of Elliott's dead-beat loans from John Hartford of the A and P Grocery Chain and three others, including a Brooklyn clubhouse hanger-on named Charlie Harwood who thought he was putting up $25,000 as the price of a job as district judge of the United States Court. My first tip came from William Griffin, a red-hot hibernian who hated Britain and was indicted by the cabal in the fake mass-sedition case for trying to compel Roosevelt to keep his promise not to send "your boys" to any foreign war. Griffin loathed Roosevelt with a passion that warmed his soul. So one night, in the Stork Club, he sent me word that Elliott had chiseled more than $300,000 from four individuals including $200,000 from Hartford. Our Leader was still alive and I will ever regret my inability to stick the proof of his own part in this con-game right down his gullet, but it was a long job. The break came when a friend of mine who was close to Hartford told me to talk in on him because John was ready to talk. He was and he did.

Most of our press ignored it until finally Muley Doughton, the chairman of the House ways and means committee, had to call for an investigation, which took a suspicious course. The subcommittee did not hold any hearings or examine any witnesses. They had me winging because I am a shoe-leather and telephone reporter with no occult powers. I drove them crazy haunting the corridors and popping in to ask them what was going on.

Finally, they announced that they were going to issue a report tomorrow. So about noon I called on Doughton and some secretary handed me a skinny little document which was nothing but the majority report vindicating My Leader as a man for the ages and his son as no crook and the minority version that it was a rotten scandal all the way. That was all there was.

But where were the questions and answers? Oh, that stuff had not been printed.

The Democrats decided to save a little money so they just prepared 12 or 14 sets of photostats for the press.

All right, where was my set? Oh, but I was too late. They had dumped them on a table in some room in the capitol and called in some genial fellows friendly to the Roosevelt family. The photostats were all gone. Snatched up. You know — the early bird!

I was ready to end it all when Bill Hutchinson, of the INS, told me that the Democrats had not dared withhold it from the press associations.

So Bill let me have his and there, my friends, is a priceless record of the perfidy of a crooked president which is a historic treasure for the Westbrook Pegler Memorial Library, thanks to the Marjory Bill Griffin, who went through Hell on earth for Ireland.

Circumstances May Force Hank To Visit Grand Canyon

By HENRY McLEMORE

It looks as if my typewriter and I can't avoid the Grand Canyon much longer, and that the show-down is near.

Both of us have been dodging the Grand Canyon for years, knowing that once we got there we'd have to try to describe it, and neither of us feels quite up to it. But when we drove into Flagstaff yesterday some inconsiderate inn employes remarked to Mary that she supposed we were going to visit the Canyon when we were so close by. That sent her to a map and she is bound and determined to go, and won't listen to me when I say that I have heard that the canyon isn't all it is cracked up to be, so to speak, and besides, the mules you ride down to the Gorge are ill-tempered this time of year, and likely to bite and kick you.

Of course I know it is probably Nature's greatest wonder, and that is what scares me. Any columnist who went to the Canyon and didn't put down his impressions on paper would be drummed out of the ranks. Come to think of it, the Canyon would be difficult for a writer to ignore. He could go around Bright Angel Lodge blindfolded, or sit in the lobby of the El Tovar and read newspapers, but what would people say?

If I fall to do justice to the Canyon — and the odds are now 1000 to 1, with my typewriter — it won't be the first time that I have come a cropper when confronted with indescribable beauty. I wore out three typewriter ribbons trying to get my portable to do right by the Taj Mahal.

I tried it first by moonlight, and the sight of it bathed in a golden glow was much too much for me. Then I tried it by sunrise, and again it threw me as it all but dazzled the sun by its brilliance.

I finally settled with a description of the Taj at midnight on an overcast night, and from a distance of ten kilometers, I released that description, and later was to learn that a London stenographer picked up a large disturbance which was interpreted as John Ruskin spinning in his grave.

I did a little better with the Pyramids and the Sphinx, managing to hold down my adjective output to around two thousand. Niagara Falls was a tough one, too, as I believe that the only praise I drew for my description came from my mother. And that praise was lessened by the fact that she had not yet seen it of the time.

About the only world-famed sight that I ever did adequately write the New York skyline. But that was due to long practice, and close study of postcards.

But canyons are new to me. Cathedrals and mountains I take in stride, as I do lakes, fields of wild flowers, and cliffs lashed by heavy seas. But I'll be a pure beginner at the Grand Canyon, and you can bet that my thesaurus will get a good thumping over.

If between now and tomorrow you think of any good substitutes for "deep," "gorgeous," "breathtaking," "gee whis," "golly," and "awesome," please wire them to me.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

STREET SCENE—An Army tank corps soldier looks at the damage done to a civilian auto in an uneven bout with the tank in the background in Fort Worth, Tex. Two other cars were damaged when tanks in a parade ran into traffic difficulties. One woman was injured, but there were no fatalities.

DIRECTIONS MADE EASY—At the Anti-Cruelty to Animals Society in Chicago, Pat Cearfoss is reading the tag on Bootsie, a cat sent to the society prepaid express from Norfolk, Va. It reads: "My name is Bootsie. I am the favorite pet of a 10-year-old girl, so be nice to me." Employees at the shelter were puzzled about how to find the owner of the cat.

IT'LL BEAR WATCHING—A tiny atom smasher is getting the earnest attention of individuals who spotted the generator in a window of a book shop in Chicago. Borrowed from the University of Chicago lab, the unit was being used to help publicize a new book by Laura Fermi, wife of the "father of the A-bomb." Looks like it was serving its intended purpose.

IT'S THEIR DAY—Tjitski and Folkje de Vries, Siamese twins who were separated earlier this year by Dutch surgeons in Leeuwarden, The Netherlands, are getting along even better than can be expected. They're pictured on their second birthday, looking both happy and healthy.

PICTURE NEWS

AROUND THE WORLD

DOUBLE PURPOSE—Alfred Angelo's bridal gown, "Return Engagement," is a two-piece dress with redingote. The coat can be altered after the wedding by removing the train; it then becomes an evening coat of parchment satin. The gown, shown with an already shortened coat, is a strapless affair of net and tulle.

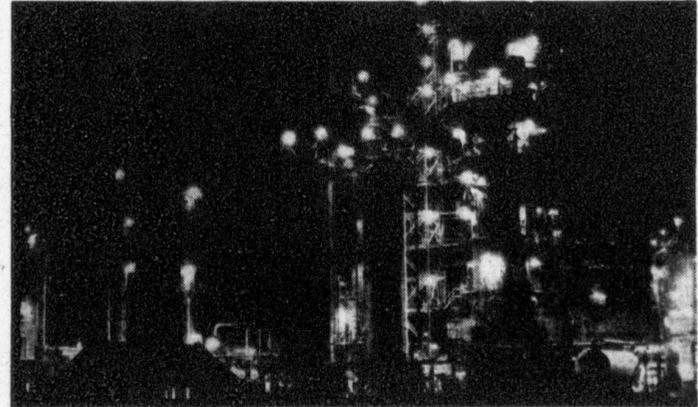

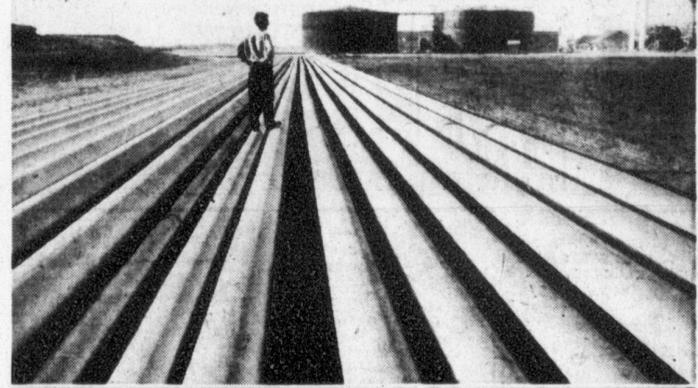

AIN'T SHE SWEET?—She's curvaceous Abbe Lane, singing-actress wife of bandleader Xavier Cugat in Hollywood. Abbe is posing for some gentlemen of the press after being named "The Girl Most Likely to Drive Even a Psychiatrist Crazy," by a group of doctors who showed very good judgment.

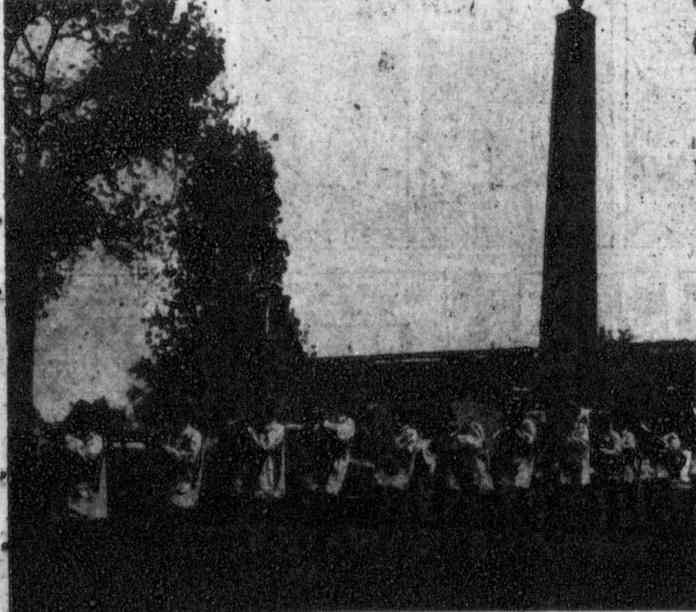

UNEXPECTED GUESTS—As this bride came out of a church in Bury, Lancashire, England, she had to stop and accept best wishes from one of a pack of hounds forming the guard of honor. The groom is British star show-jumper Alan Oliver, and all near relations of the couple are horse and dog fanciers.

NO TROUBLE AT ALL—Agile Natasha Badgley makes it look mighty easy as she does a split down by the seaside in Miami Beach, Fla. Daily exercises keep Natasha trim and healthy, as well as tanned and active. The straw hat she's waving is purely an added decoration.

TWO VIEWS—The photo at top makes a folding fan of pipes which will serve a refinery being constructed near Fremantle, Australia. Begun two years ago, it covers a 950-acre site and can process 3,000,000 tons of crude oil a year, beginning early in 1955. Below, a catalytic cracking plant is shown lighted at night. It resembles a Christmas tree.

THEIR OWN IDEA—An unusual idea for costuming brought this group out for a wedding in Paris. They're students of the Beaux Arts School and they're certainly making a lot of music as they file across a boulevard. Their outfits mean something they alone understand.

BIDIN' HIS TIME—A priest in Rome is shown beneath the arch of an ancient Roman bridge after casting his line into the Tiber River in hopes of catching a fish. This peaceful scene is just a stone's throw from the heart of The Eternal City.

Woman Indicted In Kidnap Case

BEAUMONT, Tex. — Mrs. Pauline Schulze, admitted kidnaper of a newborn baby she first tried to claim as her own, was freed from jail in $5,000 bond late Monday shortly after a Jefferson county grand jury indicted her. No trial date was set. The grand jury, in a surprise move, returned the true bill just before the Houston practical nurse's attorney began pleading in court for her freedom on a writ of habeas corpus. The indictment charged Mrs. Schulze, 29, with kidnaping Carolyn Sue Wharton from the nursery of Beaumont's East Texas Baptist Hospital less than a half-hour after the little girl was born March 19. Baby Unharmed The baby was found unharmed 13 hours later at Mrs. Schulze's Houston home, identified by footprints and returned to the mother, Mrs. Helen Wharton, who was not until then that her child had been kidnaped. Foreman, colorful Houston criminal lawyer who usually works only for high fees, was put on the witness stand in Mrs. Schulze's habeas corpus hearing Monday and testified that he was representing her for free. He said he took the case on request of the accused kidnaper because "I was asked to help a sick woman." Mrs. Schulze had been held in Jefferson county jail in $15,000 bond. Foreman last Friday filed an application for reduction of the bond to $5,000 and a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. The hearing on his action had been set for 2 p.m. Monday. Indictment Is Rapid Judge Owen M. Lord had just called court to order and Mrs. Schulze was brought to court when the grand jury handed up the indictment. This meant that the burden of proof that the $15,000 bond was excessive rested on attorney Foreman. Had not the indictment been returned, it would have been up to the state to prove the bond was excessive.

Three Killed, 7 Hurt In Crash

BRACKETTEVILLE, Tex. — UP — Three persons were killed seven miles east of Bracketteville Monday night as a head-on collision on U.S. 90 caused instant death to all involved in the crash. Two Del Rio Red Cross workers were in one automobile and a San Antonio soldier was in the other. Police tentatively identified the soldier from papers in the car as M. Sgt. Scott W. Stamps of San Antonio. The dead women were Mrs. Cleo Wilson and Mrs. Phil Garon. The ages were not available, nor were details of how the crash occurred in a valley in the road. Major Operation Is Televised ATLANTA — UP — Thousands of television sets a close-up view of a major operation Monday night as surgeons removed cancerous tissue from the lungs of a 57-year-old man before the television cameras. In a half-hour public service program, WSB-TV telecast "live" from Atlanta hospital the removal of the infected lower left lobe of the lungs. Immigrant Group Tagged "Red" WASHINGTON — UP — Senators were advised Monday that an organization lobbying for immigration legislation has been listed by the attorney general as a Communist group. Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) chairman of the Senate International Security subcommittee, named the organization as the American committee for the protection of the Foreign Born. Westmore to Marry Actress HOLLYWOOD — UP — Bud Westmore, Universal Studios chief make-up artist, said Tuesday he plans to marry pretty Jeanne Shorean, 25, this Friday. For Westmore, 37, it will be his third marriage, while it is the first for Miss Shorean, a winner of several beauty contests.

Airline Helps Uranium Hunters

DALLAS — UP — An airline Tuesday inaugurated an in-flight training for passengers between Denver and Amarillo who want to learn to hunt uranium. A special hostess added to the Denver-Amarillo flight, has been briefed by the Precision Radiation Instrument Co., of Amarillo on the use of the Geiger counter and scintillator. She will use actual ore samples to show any interested passengers how to operate the two machines. Braniff International Airways said the special hostess, sent in addition to a regular hostess, will work the 10:30 a.m. Amarillo-to-Denver flight and the 12:37 p.m. return flight. Don Schomburg, the airline's Amarillo manager, said passenger reaction would determine whether this new cabin service is continued or even added to other routes. A regular hostess also travels on the flights. Schomburg said the new wrinkles in air travel was started because of a boom in the ore hunting business and a corresponding increase in air travel to Amarillo by both amateur and professional prospectors. Denver already is an active uranium center, he said.

36 Million Take Daily Coffee Break

Between 8 a.m. and the noon hour, when the appetite cries out for a snack, comes a pause in the day's occupation that is known as the coffee break.

By H. D. QUIGG

NEW YORK—UP—Every working day 36 million Americans take a brief break at their place of work to sip the brew of the bean that Brazil has an awful lot of.

The figure—supplied with a happy smile by the Pan-American coffee bureau—is an up-to-the-minute estimate on the basis of industrial and business surveys, and it's up one million over last year. It does not include farmers or housewives.

The coffee break, starting during World War II, has come on with a rush. It's now a full-blown American institution, as sacred to some indoor toilers as the siesta is to the populace of some sunny climes.

National jokes have been built upon it. Romances have flourished in the steamy fragrance of the cardboard cups. A whole new business has been founded to supply them demands. The National Safety Council has given it a pat on the back as a fatigue-reducer and hence a reducer of disabling injuries. Labor contracts have included it, in some instances.

A national survey of 1,160 companies disclosed that 80 per cent of them had had "breather" periods for coffee and relaxing in effect only since 1941, the year the United States entered the war. Nearly half of that group had started the time-out period after he war ended.

In Chicago, a survey of 170 companies disclosed 128 of them have a policy of regular rest periods. And 23 of the remaining 42 firms permit employees to take coffee breaks without a formal policy of such.

The business of catering to the coffee-break trade is a brisk one, with its big impetus coming in the last two years. In New York, a spokesman for the Schrafft's Restaurant chain said that firm was into coffee-break catering "very deeply."

Every morning from the chain's restaurants special carts, equipped with waitresses, thermos jugs of coffee, pastries, orange juice, and paper cups, go out to some 300 client firms. They serve some 40,000 coffee-break customers daily in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston.

The Wall Street Journal quotes two big New York restaurant chains as reporting the coffee-break business is "tremendous." It says a Chicago catering concern hit a $200,000 sales figure last year and cites the success of Dallas' new Coffee Time, Inc., and Detroit's like-named Coffee Time.

To curb time-loss caused by exodus of numbers of persons from the premises during coffee breaks, a majority of companies that have regularly-set breaks have provided for service on the premises.

The most widely used method now seems to be the company cafeteria. This is followed closely by portable canteens, vending machines, and stationary canteens. The latter—three can be placed closer to the worker's desk or bench and thus save time and reduce congestion.

Employers differ on whether the coffee-break is good, bad, or indifferent as far as productivity goes. But it seems here to stay. The bosses like a little break for coffee, too.

High Octane Gas Made By New Method

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — UP—Auto makers of the present and future are assured of plenty of 100-plus octane gasoline by a new process announced Tuesday by Universal Oil Products Co., at the annual convention of Western Petroleum Association meeting.

David W. Harris, president of the company of Des Plaines, Ill., said the new process, called "reforming" will have no immediate effect on motorists now, but will help with cars that may be produced in the next few years.

The new process was revealed in a technical paper delivered Tuesday. It was prepared by Henry W. Croft, Dr. Vladimir Hanzel and Melvin J. Sterba of Universal.

Harris said the catalytic reforming process by an entirely new concept will enable refiners to produce economically gasolines of quantity and quality required for high compression engines that automobile manufacturers are now testing and may soon offer to the public.

He noted that as auto makers increase compression ratios, it is necessary for the refining industry to make higher octane gasolines, because low octane ratings—such as 80 octane, for instance—explode too quickly in the high compression chamber of the car engine.

The car knocks and operates inefficiently if an explosion occurs before the piston has finished its upward thrust and is ready to go down again.

To avoid this, some of the higher powered models required about 91 octane fuel and many models moved into this category this year.

In the new process the low octane fractions are separated from the gasoline flowing from the catalytic zone and retained in the system until completely converted to high octane product. This recycling operation may be repeated several times and octanes far above 100 octane can be obtained.

The reforming process eliminates all the low octane material now included in any gasoline produced in a once-through reforming operation.

The paper said the reforming is flexible enough to permit a refiner to literally choose the octane number of the product he wants to produce by adjusting the operating conditions.

Asia-Africa Talks Unlikely To Cause Trouble For U. S.

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

It appears to be increasingly unlikely that the big Asian-African conference to be held in Indonesia will cause any trouble for the United States and its allies.

In fact, as things are shaping up, the conference might even bring the Chinese Communists around to a more reasonable attitude.

The two big figures at the conference which is to open April 18 will be Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India and Premier Chou En-Lai of Red China.

Nehru May Raise Issue
Nehru, the leader of the "Neutralist" movement in East Asia, is most likely to raise the issue of the admittance of the Chinese Reds to the United Nations.

It is likely also that he may bring up the question of South Africa's race segregation laws.

But the conferees can merely talk about these issues.

It is difficult to foresee what Chou En-Lai will do. Certainly, he will have to make sure that he plays a leading part. He will be the voice of the Communist world and further it is not often that the Chinese Red government is invited to any general conference.

Chou to Behave
It will be surprising if Chou does not put himself upon his good behavior.

He and Ho Chi Minh of northern Viet Nam in Indo-China will be the only Communist chief delegates among the 28 who will attend the conference at Bandung.

One reason many diplomats believe that Red China is unlikely to force the United States into war at this moment is that Chou will want to make a good impression in Bandung, and represent his government as one that seeks peace.

The make-up of the conference is interesting. Seven of the 28 countries are aligned with the West—the Philippines, Thailand, Ceylon, Japan, Pakistan, Turkey and Iraq. Four—India, Burma, Indonesia and Egypt—are leaders of the ident Ramon Magsaysay's personal envoy to the United States, would be about as safe a spokesman for the views held by the western allies as Secretary of State John Foster Dulles would be. Garcia, who is vice president and also foreign minister, is a firm friend of the West also.

In addition the delegates will include Premier Mohammed Ali of Pakistan, Foreign Minister Wan Waithakon of Thailand and Premier Adnan Menderes of Turkey. They may be depended upon to oppose any move in the conference which would react unfavorably against the western allies.

FITTING COSTUME

Lovely Darleen Guidry of Port Arthur, Tex., wears a novel bathing suit decorated with spoils of cotton. The outfit is suitable, as she recently was named National Sewing Queen. She is shown holding her reward, a miniature sewing machine.

Harlan Takes Justice Post

WASHINGTON—UP—John Marshall Harlan, distinguished New York attorney and former judge of the U. S. Court of Appeals, took his oath of office Monday as an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

The solemn swearing-in ceremony in the court chamber gave the high tribunal a full complement of nine justices for the first time since Justice Robert H. Jackson died last October.
