By T. D. ELLIS
Quizzing Cameraman
"Do you think Red China will try to carry out its threat to take the Island of Formosa, I feel sure they won't succeed in doing so though. Seems to me like we are going to have war but I couldn't say when."

bluff has worked up to now and I think she is bluffing again." ... Earl McKeney, Paducah, farm laborer: "The Communists may try to take Formosa but with the American Air Force, Navy and Army defending the Island they won't succeed. It sure looks like we're in for another war to me." ... George Passmore, 2110 N. Russell high school student: "I think the U. S. will prepare to defend Formosa most but I think Red China is bluffing. I don't think she is ready for war with the United States. Frankly I think and hope she backs down on the Formosa issue."

Your Heart's In Your Hands
Doctor Can Help
If You Do, Too

(Fourth In A Series)
 By DR. WILLIAM A. BRAMS
 Distributed by NEA Service

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A person who's just had a heart attack is not in the mood for jokes. If anyone tells him with sober face that his illness is really a blessing, he'll pray for the strength to slug them.

But what they say may be largely true.

A heart attack just severe enough to drive a man to a doctor is a blessing of sorts in disguise. There are many, mild, unrecognized cases of coronary thrombosis. Unless there has been an attack, the doctor does not have a way of detecting the process which brings it on. Now that, in this case, he knows, he can give the man proper treatment and try to avoid a recurrence.

The patient is fortunate, too, that his heart attack happened today. Treatment has greatly improved and, with modern drugs and care techniques, doctors are salvaging countless lives that could not have been saved even five or six years ago.

Perhaps you would like to know what the doctors can do to help if you have a heart attack, too. The first goal of the treatment — to relieve your heart of every possible load — is perhaps the hardest to achieve.

Your heart is hampered severely by the damage done by a blood clot which has dammed up a vital fuel line and cut its supply of oxygen. It is badly in need of a rest until it has had enough time to rebuild its blood vessel system, but it still must continue to work. For the moment it stops, you die.

We accordingly have to compromise. We cannot put your heart in a cast or splint, or turn it off for a while as we would an electric light. It must keep up its tireless rhythm, day and night as it always has, in order to keep you alive. So the basic item is bed rest — lying as still as possible, permitting yourself to be fed and bathed.

The quieter you are, the better chance you give your heart to mend itself. But these words, as soon as said, have to be qualified. For while your heart, it is true, needs rest for healing, complete rest is bad for the rest of your body.

If your attack is light, your doctor will encourage you to change your position in bed from time to time and instruct you in gentle leg exercises. This eases your muscles, saves you from soreness and stiffness and prevents congestion of lungs. But most important of all, it helps to prevent further clotting.

If your heart attack is severe, however, you cannot exercise on your own, and the doctor may order massage.

In addition to bodily rest, you also need peace of mind. When you get excited or angry, your glands produce more of their products, your muscles tense themselves, your blood flows faster and your breath comes quicker — all of which mean more work for your heart. So your doctor may draw the line at any undue excitement, such as that of too many visitors.

As you know, the root of your trouble is lack of oxygen. In most cases of coronary thrombosis, the doctor is ready to give you oxygen — which is one reason you are better off at the hospital. It may not be needed at all, or for only a short time, but in other cases it is administered for several days.

The effect is often dramatic. Oxygen itself, without the help of drugs, has been known to end the pain. It also eases the labored breathing that so often brings great distress.

We have not learned to solve the basic problems: to reduce, prevent or eradicate the hardening of your arteries, and to wipe out the blocking blood clot. But we have learned effective methods for stopping formation of second clots in either your heart or your legs as you lie immobile in bed.

Anti-coagulant drugs, such as heparin and dicumarol, prevent the blood from forming clots and keep it fluid. They are kept up until you are almost ready to leave the hospital. When they are stopped, your blood returns quickly to its shorter, normal interval of clotting.

Patients sometimes ask us why we cannot continue these drugs for years, to forestall another attack. Our answer is we do not know enough about them yet to justify routine use.

Other drugs you may get, either by mouth or injection, are the so-called vasodilators, which means "expanders of the blood vessels." The one that we use most often is aminophylline.

Like so many other items in the treatment of coronary thrombosis, these drugs are valuable simply as an aid to your heart in doing what only nature can do. Your heart is its own best healer; only it can remove the clot.

Give it your best support by heeding your doctor's instructions.

Next: Keeping well is a full-time job.

Hardship Bill To Seek More Cotton

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4-UP — Sen. Price Daniel (D-Tex.) said Thursday he will introduce a bill Friday to increase 1955 cotton acreage allotments for individual hardship cases.

Daniel said his measure would redistribute unutilized allotments to farmers whose plantings have been cut below five acres.

"There are over 18,000 cotton farmers in Texas whose acreage allotments have been reduced below five acres," he said. "These and even larger family-size farms will suffer terrible hardships if something is not done to remedy the situation."

Similar bills have been introduced in the House.

Howard Co. Steer Wins Houston Show

HOUSTON, Feb. 4-UP — A 1,130-pound Hereford steer named Buster and owned by Lile Lewter, 10-year-old Howard county 4-H Club member, reigned Friday as grand champion of the 23rd Houston Fat Stock Show.

The steer was selected the champ Thursday night and won over a Yankee Aberdeen-Angus, Dusty, owned by Harvey Hartter, 42, of Carlock, Ill. Dusty took the reserve grand champion honors.

Young Lewter is the son of Howard county farm agent Durward Lewter, of Big Spring.

The crowd at Thursday night's performance was somewhat reduced due to the cold, drizzly weather. But, a large delegation from the Texas Legislature braved the cold and attended the show in a body.

Harter's entry was picked as the best Angus in the 1955 show in addition to taking the reserve honors.

Winners in other classes included a 1,065-pound Shorthorn owned by Danny Lyons, 15, of Pflugerville, the best in its class, and a 1,045-pound Brahman owned by Charles Knipe, 17, of Danbury, A Fredericksburg boy, Dayton Crenweige, 17, who showed last year's grand champion, was the winner of scramble calf honors this year. He showed a 975-pound Hereford.

Hagler's Girl May Lose Her Citizen Papers

FORT WORTH, Feb. 4-UP — Shapely, German-born Elisabeth Bergmann Smith Hagler may have her American citizenship revoked if a Dallas immigration agent can determine that she got it by fraud.

The agent is J. L. (Jack) Adkins, acting chief of the U.S. Immigration Service in Dallas. He interviewed the woman Thursday and said he would try to prove that she married a U.S. sergeant for a passport instead of love.

After the interview, Adkins said "we are investigating certain charges — I can't say what they are — to determine whether they are true."

The woman is now married to David Fred Hagler Jr., who was charged with murdering a man whose charred body was found in a burning station wagon near Davis, Okla., last October. The body has never been identified. Hagler is fighting extradition to Oklahoma.

Formerly, Mrs. Hagler was married to Sgt. Dewey Smith, a U.S. soldier, in Germany. She came to the United States as a war bride and then divorced Smith last July, a month after she had received her citizenship papers.

He then overruled the motions, one for each of the two defendants.

Vel Land Probe Continues As Legislature Adjourns

AUSTIN, Feb. 4—UP—The Legislature was in weekend adjournment Friday, but House members of the veterans land bill remained in session for an afternoon session of 83 years.

The newly formed investigation group headed by Rep. Joe Burdett Jr. of Kerrville, scheduled a 2:30 p.m. hearing of state officials. The bill called to testify included representatives from the offices of the state auditor, attorney general and department of public safety.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the Capitol Thursday, Sen. Jimmy Patton of Arleton charged that completion of veterans land block (multiple) deals were hastened by communications from Attorney General John B. Shepperd to his staff members.

Shepperd told the Senate investigating committee a couple of nights ago that he knew of only two block deals before last Christmas, and one was turned down while the other never was filed formally.

Questioning resumed. Phillips said he will resume committee questioning of Shepperd Monday morning and will back up his charges then.

"I didn't start this investigation without information which, to me, was sufficient to lead me to believe the attorney general has personal knowledge of block deals which he has not yet told the committee," the senator from Arleton said.

The House investigation committee voiced a plea prior to Friday's meeting that all county and district attorneys in Texas "make known to this committee any and all matters considered by you to be in violation of the law, or that suggest mal-administration of the law, or otherwise indicate any irregularities."

It also asked for "any information from any citizen which might lead to the discovery of a violation of the laws" governing the $100 million veterans land program. Several grand juries are currently probing administration of the program in their areas.

House Debating Bill
The House was in the process of debating a bill to revive the State Board of Naturopathic Examiners when it quit Thursday until Monday. The measure is sponsored by Rep. Henry Lehman of Giddings.

In other legislative action: The Senate approved a measure validating bonds issued by Laredo to finance its share of the international bridge spanning the Rio Grande.

Matusow A Red Plant, Solon Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—UP—Chairman Francis E. Walter of the House un-American Activities committee charged Thursday that turnabout witness Harvey Matusow was "planted" by the Communist party to pose as an ex-Communist informer.

The Pennsylvania Democrat said in a House speech he "thoroughly convinced" that Matusow "has always been a Communist," instead of having left the party in 1951 as he claims.

Matusow, who has labeled more than 180 persons as Communists, now claims he deliberately lied in some cases.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (R-Mich.) asked Walter if Matusow was "planted" by the Communists to discredit Communist investigations.

"There is no question about it," Walter replied.

Walter said he had read part of Matusow's book which will be published soon. He said it follows the "Communist line."

Matusow began his career as a professional witness in 1952 before the House committee in testimony about Red activities in youth groups.

Farm Income At 9-Year Low

AUSTIN, Feb. 4—UP—The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said Friday Texas farm cash income during 1954 dropped to the lowest level for any year since 1945.

The research bureau made a preliminary estimate that showed cash income last year was down 1 per cent from 1953 and totaled $1,848,000,000.

Research associate William S. Lowe reported that most of the commercially-important crops produced higher income in 1954 than in 1953, despite the drop.

Cotton lint income showed a boost of 13 per cent, wheat 12 per cent and oats 9 per cent. But, income from peanuts was off 22 per cent.

Farm cash income from livestock and livestock products was below 1953, with the only exception being sheep and lamb income. This was up 14 per cent.

China Coastal Islands Fought For By Warlords For Centuries

By WILLIAM MILLER
TAIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 4—UP—The islands off the China coast have been fought over for centuries by Chinese pirates and warlords.

Economically they are largely worthless rockpiles. But in the long, bitter China civil war they have assumed explosive significance.

The several island chains are strung out along 350 miles, from Amoy in the South to Haimen, in the North. All together there are thousands of these volcanic out-croppings. They are inhabited principally by tough Chinese fishermen and goat herders.

Constant high sea winds confront efforts to grow food on the islands and only the wiry grass on which the goats feed relieve their bleak aspect.

Quemoy Most Important
Most important of the string of islands are Quemoy, in the South; Tachen, at the far northern extremity of the chain; and Matsau, which is approximately half way between.

Largest and most important from both Nationalist and Red China's viewpoint is Quemoy, the cork in Red China's important port of Amoy, in Fukien Province. In Nationalist hands it makes Amoy useless to the Communists. In Communist hands it would represent an important link rock back. From that moment Jamison's eyes turned bleary.

Jamison was nearly out on his feet. He saw Jamison totter weakly against the railing, holding to it one-handed.

Too late he realized the utter ruthlessness, the complete cunning of the man. Jamison's free hand streaked upward, paused behind his neck. It came outward and down, carrying the glitter of a knife. Crotch felt the cold blade pierce the skin of his arm, pinning his jacket tight to the boat's framework.

But there would be no reprieve for Jamison. He had slipped in throwing the knife. He was clutching weakly at the railing. As Crotch stared wide-eyed, Jamison went overboard.

Crotch stood with his legs firmly braced to the heaving deck, watching the river. He stood for several moments before dimly making out the dark outlines of a body. There was no life remaining in the floating corpse... Jamison was dead.

HE was vaguely aware of his crew throwing the Claromore's men onto their own deck. He heard Melott's sharp yell: "Get rid of that gangplank! Cut the line!"

Then Crotch's answer: "Let their crew get their own passengers to shore. Or let them swim!"

He became conscious of someone beside him, finally her soft fingers touching his arm. "You have always fought your battle alone. You always will—you do not need anyone. You don't need me."

He had released his jacket from the knife and was wiping the blood that trickled from a corner of his lips, his handkerchief showing the stain of a bad cut. "Need you?" he murmured softly. "I need you more than ever."

His arm had come around her back and now she drew nearer. "A woman does enjoy being courted for a little while," she said. Her eyes picked up a happy twinkle. "Captain, it will be so wonderful being courted by you!"

(THE END)

But there would be no reprieve for Jamison. He had slipped in throwing the knife. He was clutching weakly at the railing. As Crotch stared wide-eyed, Jamison went overboard.

Crotch stood with his legs firmly braced to the heaving deck, watching the river. He stood for several moments before dimly making out the dark outlines of a body. There was no life remaining in the floating corpse... Jamison was dead.

XXXVI
CROTCH shrugged, returning to his pilothouse. He rang Melott to turn his paddle up for the contact with Jamison's boat.

He was sure in his mind Jamison was lying, that his hull damage had already been repaired, and the Claromore could be withdrawn from the gravel bar on her own power.

He said to Goss tightly, "Get below and see that our Cocopalps are ready. If you find Queenie, better tell her to come topside. You can expect trouble as soon as you tie fast to the Claromores."

Goss reached after the rifle that was sheathed beside the wheel, and plunged down the ladder toward the lower decks. He knew as well as Crotch the outright piracy of which Jamison had many times been guilty.

Below, on his own deck, he noted his crew arming themselves with timber from the wood-bunkers—stout pieces from the San Diego's hog-framing, railing lengths and hardwood hand-rais his axmen had cut last night from the beached navigation packet.

He saw with a flurry of relief that Queenie was leaving her quarters, and then he spied Sugar Logan coming forward to meet her. Logan would be bringing her to the safer cabin deck.

The safety valve began shrieking. He had brought the General Heath within a few feet of Jamison's ship, and now Goss heaved a line which was caught on the opposite boat and made fast. Jamison's men were lifting a gangplank over the rail. It had hardly been secured in place before they came charging across.

They flourished lengths of firewood in their brawny hands, their throats flinging forth battle cries.

HOME AND CHURCH — ESSENTIAL ALLIES

Paul, in his letter to Philemon, addressed not only this friend but wrote to "the church in thy house." From the beginning the church and the home have been inseparably linked. Often a residence was the meeting place, and always the members were thought of as constituting a "household of faith."

Separate church and home, and what have you? The church without the home is handicapped at every point of its purpose. No church can command enough time of parents and children for adequate Bible study.

Individuals can be won to Christ from a godless home, but the difficulties are multiplied both in winning them and in enlisting them. A church may teach the principles of Christian living ever so effectively, yet if in the home these principles do not find their first and most fruitful expression, the work of the church is clearly discounted.

On the other hand, what if the home undertakes to do without the church? Almost certainly it becomes a Bibleless home, a home with little concern for the winning of its members to Christ, a home in which Christian living is exceedingly difficult if not impossible. Multitudes of homes are today going on the rocks because they are ignoring Christ and the church.

Christ spent thirty years of his life on earth as a member of a family which He must have made an ideal home. Thus He Himself united church and home — and what He joined together let us not put asunder!

APPLICATIONS FOR THE HARVESTER head football coach position are continuing to trickle in, according to Herman Whatley, president of the school board. "We have had several letters and telephone calls asking about the job," Whatley said today.

Luisetti Is Still Active

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in the series on what has happened to the champs of yesterday.

By NORMAN RITTER SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4.—UP—An athlete now he's just another "double-chin has-been," but the man who devised basketball's most famous one-handed push shot as active in the game as when he was breaking scoring records at Stanford University.

"I seldom miss a game around here, and of course I have my basketball school and I'm glad to say that over the years we've taught the game to some 14,000 youngsters," said Luisetti.

Luisetti stoutly proclaims that basketball is a much bigger game today than when he was establishing himself as an all-time all-American with the Stanford teams of 1926-28, but at the same time he favors a return to some of the old rules.

Kluszewski Signs, Sets Out To Better '54 Performance

By UNITED PRESS Ted Kluszewski said Friday he hoped to improve on his impressive 1954 performance by the Cincinnati Redlegs' 235-pound first baseman soft-pedaled talk that he will challenge Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs.

Kluszewski, who said he is only a couple of pounds over his playing weight, blasted 49 homers and drove in 141 runs to lead the National League in both departments last season. He hit .326 and finished second to Willie Mays of the New York Giants in the most valuable player awards balloting.

BLINGING SAMMY BAUGH

seems to have been "fast talked" into taking the head coaching post at Hardin-Simmons. Baugh told reporters he went into the meeting with his mind all made up to say "No" to accepting the head coaching job at the Cowboy school.

"Only yesterday I was telling her that I might not even have a job at Abilene tomorrow," Baugh had told his spouse that he wouldn't accept the head coaching job and he didn't know whether or not he would remain as an assistant, the job he has held the past two years.

The annual Men's City Bowling Tournament will get underway Saturday night at the Pampa Bowl. Starting time tomorrow has been set for 7:30 p.m.

Gavilan, Durando To Fight Tonight

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—UP—Kid Gavilan, the Cuban song-and-samba mauler, says his comeback fight with Ernie Durando Friday night will be far different from the recent return performance by that other ditty-and-dance guy, Sugar Ray Robinson.

"I no look like Robinson to-night," declared the ex-welterweight champion. "I be 30 times faster than I was in October."

Peres Bout Possible HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 4.—UP—World Flyweight Champion Pascual Peres of Buenos Aires, Argentina, has been asked to meet the winner of Saturday night's John Ortega-Keeny Teran bout in either a title or non-title bout.

Harvesters, Bulldogs Battle For Lead

2500 Fans To Watch Rivals Clash

By BUCK FRANCIS Pampa News Sports Editor Pampa's Hustlin' Harvesters, out to revenge last week's setback by the Borger Bulldogs, will be gunning for their 44th straight home court victory tonight when they entertain the 'Dogs at Harvester Fieldhouse.

Both Pampa and Borger are tied for the 1-4A lead with the Amarillo Sandies, each with 2-1 records. The fourth team in the Northern 1-4A loop, Lubbock, is winless in three conference starts.

Borger, too, is the only team that holds a win over the Harvesters in the Fieldhouse here. The Harvesters have played 44 games in the Fieldhouse since it was completed in January of 1952.

Utah, ranked third in the nation behind Kentucky and San Francisco, easily extended its season record to 16 wins against only two defeats by trouncing Los Angeles State for the second straight night.

For Borger, Gerald Meyers, Mike Kelley and David Hatcher, rank second, fifth and eighth respectively. Meyers has 53 points in 1-4A action (3 games), Kelley 44, and Hatcher 35.

UCLA and Stanford, tied for the lead in the southern division of the PCC, with 3-1 records, play host to California and Southern California, respectively, and will meet the same teams again Saturday night, North Carolina, leading the ACC with a 7-1 mark, is host to Duke.

And it was a happy, happy night for Concordia College of Minnesota, which ends a 29-game losing streak by beating Morehead Teachers, 86-62.

Kentucky Five Rebounds; Rips Florida

By UNITED PRESS Kentucky's nation-leading basketball team served sharp notice Friday that it has no intention of collapsing despite its troubles with upsets and a resigning player.

Rebounding from its surprise defeat by Georgia Tech and hardly missing star player Linnville Puckett at all, the Wildcats handled dangerous Florida with impressive ease, 87-63, at Lexington, Ky., Thursday night to stay in the thick of the fight for the Southeastern Conference championship.

The victory gave Kentucky a 13-2 overall record and a 5-2 conference record. Alabama leads the loop with a 4-1 mark.

Utah, ranked third in the nation behind Kentucky and San Francisco, easily extended its season record to 16 wins against only two defeats by trouncing Los Angeles State for the second straight night.

After Beating Kentucky Ga. Tech Fans Forgive Coach For Three Dismal Seasons

Hyder rubbed out the memory of three sad seasons during which his teams lost 55 and won only 15 by twice beating the team that was rated as the best in the nation—and both times the team was Kentucky.

However, the 43-year Tech head man admits that there are several unusual factors that helped his team pull off two of the greatest upsets in the history of basketball.

Hyder said that when the Tech men first upended Kentucky in Lexington to break a 129-game home winning streak, they probably got Kentucky unaware.

Tech Shades Texas, 79-74

Texas hoped Friday it would finish out the week with a better showing in conference play than the 79-74 losing the Longhorns took Thursday night in an inter-sectional clash with Texas Tech.

Thursday night's game between Tech and Texas was close all the way to the halftime, when the Longhorns led 35-34. But the Red Raiders jumped to a quick lead soon after the second half began.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE 10 YEARS MAKE

Judging from Communist China's recent acts, it's hard to believe this sign once did appear on the Bund, Shanghai's Broadway. But it was hung in September, 1945, to welcome Adm. Thomas Kincaid and his 7th Fleet, five years before Chiang was chased from the Chinese mainland. Today Shanghai is part of Communist China and the same 7th Fleet, under Adm. Alfred Pride's command, is alert and ready to help the victims of Red China's aggression.

Solon Asks Tax On Gas In Pipelines

AUSTIN, Feb. 4—UP—Rep. Curtis Ford of Corpus Christi proposed Wednesday that the state levy a tax of a penny and a half per 1,000 cubic feet of residue gas moving in pipelines. The residue gas bill would exclude gas injected into the earth, gas produced with oil and lawfully flared, and gas used for lifting oil unless it is sold for that purpose. The bill is one of three Ford offered affecting natural gas. A second bill introduced by Ford would compel a natural gas producer to pass gas production taxes on to the purchaser of his gas. Failure to do so would constitute "economic waste." Ford's third proposal would set minimum prices for sale of natural gas by a producer, and provides that the railroad commission would enforce those prices. Sale of gas at lower than those prices would be "economic waste."

Under the latter proposal, gas having an average total gross heating value of 1,000 or more British thermal units would be pegged at a minimum of 12 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Other bills introduced in the House included: Prohibit producer, and provides that the railroad commission would enforce those prices. Sale of gas at lower than those prices would be "economic waste."

Change the purpose of Abilene state hospital, by Rep. J. B. Walling of Wichita Falls, and name it the Abilene state school, to be used for training of the mentally retarded. At present, the institution houses epileptic patients. Permit county commissioners courts to establish the office of public defender in their counties if they wish, to represent persons not financially able to employ counsel, by Rep. Maury Maverick Jr., of San Antonio.

Pool Conference Talks End PARIS, Feb. 4—UP—The Western European Arms pool conference ended its general discussions Wednesday night without accepting the controversial French plan for an international agency to control arms production and distribution for member nations. The conference agreed instead to set up a working group of experts to continue study on proposals submitted by France, Britain and West Germany.

Ike's Brother Says US-Latin Feeling Good

DALLAS, Feb. 4—UP—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, the President's brother, says that U.S. relations with the Latin American republics are in some respects better than they ever have been. Dr. Eisenhower, who is president of Pennsylvania State College and advises his brother on Latin American affairs, arrived in Dallas Wednesday night to make a speech on Latin American affairs. He said he does not think his speech before the Dallas Council of World Affairs Thursday night could be called a major policy address. "A year and a half ago, I submitted recommendations to my brother as to what could be done to improve our relations in South and Central America," he said. "The speech is a report on what has been done."

Dr. Eisenhower said it is the economic phase of "our relationship with Latin America that we have to keep after." "It is not a matter of help," he said. "It is mainly a question of stable trade relations. The amount of financial help we have given Latin America is negligible compared to what we have spent in other parts of the world."

He said Communists are "everywhere" in Latin America, but he said they don't control labor unions, schools or anything else though they are continually at work especially in the labor unions. "Fortunately, nearly all of the labor unions have good leaders," he said. "Latin America has the Communist problem under control. If they can achieve their just economic aspirations, communism won't have a chance."

Girl Given OK To Test Dad's Will

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 4—UP—A 33-year-old waitress, daughter of the late Texas oil millionaire Craig Francis Cullinan, learned Thursday she has won a jury trial on her suit for a share in Cullinan's $15 million estate.

H. Alva Brumfield, attorney for Miss Barbara Cullinan, said the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday Miss Cullinan can go before a district court jury in an effort to break her father's will. Miss Cullinan was "cut off without a dime" in Cullinan's will, Brumfield said.

The oil millionaire, son of J. S. Cullinan, founder of the Texas Oil Co., shot himself to death in 1950. He was then president of the American Republic Corp., Brumfield said, an independent oil firm.

Roughly half of the estate went to his sons, Joe S. Cullinan II, and Francis Craig Cullinan, Brumfield said. Barbara was excluded. For almost four years, the daughter has been trying to break the will on grounds her father was incapable of drawing up the document.

Miss Cullinan, former student at awank Bryn Mawr College and a graduate of Eastern finishing schools, has been a waitress here for about eight years. "It's the only way she can make a living," he said. "She doesn't know any sort of trade, like secretarial work." Lower courts in Texas had refused to allow the suit to go to trial, and Miss Cullinan's appeal has been with the Supreme Court since 1953. Brumfield said the suit would go into district court at Houston "as soon as possible."

A-Bomb Guard Parr Files Libel Suit

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4—UP—The U. S. Coast Guard is conducting a round-the-clock patrol outside the Golden Gate to guard against ships that might smuggle A-bombs or H-bombs into the port of San Francisco. Twelfth Coast Guard district headquarters disclosed that the patrol has been under way since last May. Three newly-built 95-foot cutters are rotating on 24-hour duty. The boats have instruments to detect radioactive materials aboard ships, according to Capt. John T. Stanley, Coast Guard port captain. The patrol craft normally range from Mile Rock to Bonita Point just within the Golden Gate channel, but could intercept suspicious ships farther out to sea, if necessary.

Similar patrols are in operation at Seattle and Los Angeles, and will be extended to San Diego this summer.

Labor Report Released
WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—UP—The number of workers killed on the job fell to a record low last year, the Labor Department reported Wednesday. The Department estimated deaths in the course of employment at 14,000 last year, seven per cent of 1953.
