Jones Proved The Docs Were Wrong

By JIM DEAN
Pampa News Managing Editor

For a man who supposedly came west to die in 1929, Aubrey Jones has crowded a heap of living into the last 26 years.

Since leaving his native area of Waco, Jones has taught school for 11 years, served two years as desk sergeant in the Pampa Police Department, and, in December, completes his tenth year as head of the Tax Department of the City of Pampa.

Jones wound up a crowded two-year schedule in 1945 when he turned down an appointment to the

Indictments In Grain Fraud Case Dropped

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — UP — Attorney General Herbert Brownell told three Republican senators Monday that indictments were dropped against five defendants charged with defrauding the government in wheat deals because of weak cases against them.

But Brownell said the case against the Argentine Bunge Corp., Minneapolis, Minn., has not been dismissed. Four of the five persons indicted were employees of the Bunge Corporation.

The three senators asked Brownell Friday to explain the case. They are Sens. Edward J. Thye (Minn.), George D. Aiken (Vt.), and Milton R. Young (N.D.).

Took Part In Probe

The three senators in 1953 took part in a Senate Agriculture committee hearing, which dug up the evidence on which the Minneapolis grain shipping firm, four of its officials and the manager of an elevator at Galveston, Tex., were indicted.

They were accused of involvement in an operation whereby frost-damaged Canadian wheat, listed as "unfit for human consumption," was brought into the United States, mixed with high grade U. S. government-owned grain and sold for milling purposes.

The government charged it had been defrauded of $1.7 million through the transactions involved. Brownell said the Bunge case was not dismissed and that the dismissals related to the individuals and not the corporation.

He said the corporation's guilty plea would appear to establish the government's right to civil recovery. "It is expected the government will recover every dollar in the case, Brownell said.

If it comes from a hardware store we have it, Lewis Hardware, Adv.

FBI Academy in Washington, D. C., to take the tax office helm.

Proved Worth

He took the job on the proposition that he would have three years in which to see if he liked the job and if the city officials liked his management. That he has served nearly 10 years in the office testifies to the mutual satisfaction.

During that crowded period from 1913 to 1945 Jones was serving as head of the Science Department of Pampa High School, working nights as desk sergeant in the Pampa Police Department and teaching a special class in elementary aeronautics at Pampa High School in cooperation with Pampa Air Base officials.

Jones' story in the West begins after Doctor's at the Baptist Sanatorium in Waco suggested that he move for his health.

"They told me I was about to die," Jones recalls, "but I had different ideas about that."

He moved first to Memphis in the summer of 1929. He weighed only 132 pounds at that time and was six feet tall.

Felt Better Here

In this area he began to feel better, Jones remembers, and the following year he moved to Canyon, where, with the help of Dr. J. E. Hill, brother of a friend of Jones back in the Waco area, he was able to enroll at West Texas State Teachers College.

Jones' attending WTSTC was perhaps more accident than anything else. He had stopped at a service station for a drink of water, and noticed the attractive buildings on the college campus. He asked what it was and then decided to look around.

When he saw the picture of the school president, Dr. Hill, on the wall, it reminded him of someone he knew. When he talked with Dr. Hill, he learned of the relationship with his native area, and before the conversation was completed, arrangements were made for Jones to attend school there.

During the next four years, Jones ran the dairy on the college-operated farm. At times, he directed as many as 72 students who worked at the dairy.

Married Teacher

It was at West Texas State Teachers College that Jones met and married his wife, Rachel, a school teacher who was attending summer sessions at the college.

Mrs. Jones has been a teacher at Baker School since 1941. Jones was graduated in 1934 and went to Wheeler County where he taught school and served as principal for four years.

From there he went to Grandview and served as principal and teacher until 1941 when he joined the faculty of Pampa High School. In his present endeavor, Jones feels great strides have been made in developing the idea in the mind of the public that the tax department

Low Cost A-Power Due Soon

Expert Optimistic Over Possibilities

EDITOR'S NOTE: Rep. Carl T. Durham (D-N.C.), has lived with the development of atomic reactors since 1946 and has become a leading congressional expert on the subject. In an exclusive United Press interview Durham gives the most optimistic prediction so far on how soon atom power will be commercially competitive with coal and oil and open water power.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — UP — Rep. Carl T. Durham said Monday atomic power plants will be developed within the next five years to produce power as cheaply as coal, oil, or water.

The North Carolina Democrat, vice chairman of the Senate-Atomic Energy committee, said in an interview that "we'll come up with a reactor in the next couple of years to produce power as cheaply as any power produced by any heat element in this country." He said that means oil and coal, and even water power.

Durham's estimate is the most optimistic official expression so far on the length of time it will take for atomic power to become commercially competitive with present lower cost sources of power.

Durham, who has closely watched the development of atomic reactors since 1946, sat in a leather swivel chair as he discussed the subject, turning frequently to gaze out the window of his Capitol Hill office.

"The heat is there," he said, "turning the problem over in his mind."

"Private enterprise would take it up overnight," he said "if it had to pay 20 mills a kilowatt for power (from other sources)." It's a problem of bringing down the costs, he said, Tennessee Valley Authority power, for instance, is four mills.

"My prediction is that it will come about in the next few years," Durham added, considering his words carefully. "I wouldn't say in one year, in two years, three years or four, but not beyond five years."

An atomic-powered plane will be developed, too, Durham said confidently, leaning back in his chair, his feet swinging free of the floor. "We've got to get something to hold the heat," he said. "But the outlook is very good. They'll build it."

"How soon will that be?" "I wouldn't predict the time on it," he replied. "We'll build it, I said we'd build the sub."

2nd Missing Pampan Found

The second of six former Pampan being sought so that stock dividends can be turned over to them was uncovered today.

He is Charles C. Clark, whose only known address was Box 707, Pampa. His sister-in-law, Mrs. John Clark, a former Pampan who lives now in Odessa, called the Pampa Daily News today and said he was living in Evansville, Ind.

Clark was one of the six ex-Pampan named last week in The News as being sought so that their stock could be paid dividends by the Tracers Company of America. Last week Mrs. Edgar Brown, Lefors, a former employee of Earl B. Butterick, one of the six, reported he was living in De Queen, Ark.

Mrs. Clark said her brother-in-law had not lived in Pampa for 18 years. In Pampa he was a building contractor. Now, she said, he is a drilling contractor. She said she would contact him.

Cabinet Split

Second-Ranking German Resigns

BONN, Germany, Feb. 28 — UP — Vice Chancellor Franz Blücher offered his resignation to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Monday in an open cabinet split over passage Sunday night of the Paris armistice, a spokesman for Blücher announced.

The West German lower house (Bundestag) passed the armistice and thus put the future of Germany's promised new 12 division army squarely in the hands of the temperamental national assembly of France.

But a related Franco-German agreement to put the coal-rich

Saar under international control divided the nation and precipitated an open rebellion in Adenauer's four-party coalition.

Blücher is leader of the right wing of the Free Democrats (FDP), which voted against the Saar agreement. He voted for it himself, but two other FDP ministers abstained and one voted against it in open rebellion against Adenauer.

The tension between Adenauer and the FDP reached a new high Sunday when an FDP Chairman Thomas Dehler launched a bitter personal attack against Adenauer and accused him of "lying" on the Saar question.

Water Bond Vote Margin Is Boosted

Pampans actually voted better than 15-to-2 Saturday to authorize the purchase of $200,000 worth of bonds to take care of present city water needs and provide for those of the future.

The actual vote was 715-95. City Secretary Ed Vicars today reported the corrected total and explained the previously reported totals for Wards 3 and 4 were incorrect.

This is the corrected vote by ward: Ward 1, 354-27; Ward 2, 248-31; Ward 3, 54-24; and Ward 4, 59-13. The votes in Wards 3 and 4 Saturday night were reported as 78-54 and 72-59.

What happened, Vicars explained, was that he misread the "for" vote as the total of the "for" and "against" votes and "against" vote as the "for" vote.

That the city secretary said today, makes 810 the total vote in place of the 926 previously reported.

This is just one reason that the Pampa City Commission must officially canvass the vote, which it will do Tuesday morning during its regular meeting. The commission will also set the date and name the judges for the municipal election scheduled April 5.

Repatriates Sing Communist Praises

HONG KONG, Feb. 28 — UP — A New York man and woman who came out of Communist China singing its praises and proclaiming their guilt as "spies" denied Monday they had "spouted the Communist line" to hasten the release of the woman's husband from a Peiping jail.

The two, Mrs. Adele Austin Rickett, 35, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Malcolm Bersohn, 29, of New York city, arrived in Hong Kong Sunday from Peiping, leaving behind Mrs. Rickett's husband, Walter A., still in a Red prison.

Mrs. Rickett and Bersohn, described by veteran observers as examples of a new high in Communist "brainwashing," served sentences of 3 1/2 years for "espionage." They had nothing but praise for their captors and criticism of the United States "imperialistic" policies.

The State Department in Washington called their cases "tragic" and said they apparently had been "turned into parrots" by their captors. A spokesman said he saw no reason to fear that other Americans in Red jails would be held until they succumbed to Communist "treatment."

Mrs. Rickett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Austin of Yonkers, N. Y., suggested that she may be posing as a "brainwash" victim to protect her husband and a close friend still in Communist hands.

Told of this in an interview with the United Press, Mrs. Rickett and Bersohn denied this.

"I had no idea of trying to lessen his sentence or effect his release," Mrs. Rickett said. "At the same time I know he is in good hands."

She said her parents should not worry about her since she is in "good health." They had suggested she might need hospital treatment after her long ordeal.

A-Blast Awaits Weather Report

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 28 — UP — A weather briefing Monday will determine whether the "granddaddy" device of the 1955 nuclear test series will be detonated Tuesday by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The shot, equivalent of 50,000 tons of TNT, has been postponed twice because of adverse winds which would throw radio-active fallout over populated areas.

Jury Being Picked For Eldredge Trial

The statutory rape trial of Howard J. Eldredge, 41, of 613 S. Heary, got underway today in 31st District Court with an estimated 65 members of the 100-person special venire answering Judge Lewis M. Goodrich's call.

Eight Called

The first two veniremen — Dude Balthrope, Pampa area farmer, and Eugene Folsom, Pampa carpenter — called for preliminary investigation were disqualified. By late this morning a total of eight persons had been questioned and two were picked. They were W. W. Bratcher and C. H. Cox; both Pampans.

Scant minutes after 10 a. m., the time set for the trial to begin, Sheriff Rufe Jordan cried, "Hear Ye, Hear Ye" to open the trial. Judge Goodrich announced that only the defendant, officers, lawyers and news reporters would be permitted inside the railing.

Those on hand inside the railing included Eldredge; H. M. Hood, Berger, his attorney; Dist. Atty. Bill Waters; County Atty. Don Cain; Texas Ranger Frank Probst; Chief Deputy Sheriff Shuck Nickols; Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard; Dist. Clerk Helen Sprinkle; Court Reporter Bob Baker; Judge Goodrich, Jordan and newsmen.

An estimated 40 spectators — a good half of them women — were present in the courtroom in addition to the veniremen.

Judge Goodrich swore in the venire, then excused them temporarily. They remained in the Courtroom and were questioned individually. Eldredge remained calm, leaned back in his chair and smoked thoughtfully during the preliminaries. His attorney leaned forward in his chair and listened as Waters questioned each venireman.

100 In Venire

There were 84 men and 16 women in the venire as originally called by Judge Goodrich. Among the 84 was John Wilkinson, who has since been named Berger director of public safety. Many of the 100 were excused before this morning.

As each juror is selected from the venire, he or she will be placed in the custody of an officer and will not have any outside contact until after the trial is concluded, Judge Goodrich said. It is expected that the selection of jurors for the case will take up today and possibly Tuesday.

All jurors must be freeholders in the county and householders in the state and must be able to read and write, Judge Goodrich explained. If the first two questionings are any indication, the reason for most disqualifications will be that the potential juror either has a preconceived opinion of such a case or he is against the death penalty in principle. The penalty for conviction in Texas is from five years in the state penitentiary to death in the electric chair.

Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama's Democratic party, conservative but pledged to seek co-existence with all nations including Red China and Russia was working control of parliament and the right to form a new government.

He immediately rejected talk of merger or coalition with the other conservative bloc, the Liberal party of former Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, and said he would form a one-party cabinet.

The House of Representatives, elected in Sunday's record vote by more than 37 million Japanese 76 per cent of those eligible will elect the new prime minister about March 10.

Final unofficial returns gave the Democrats 186 seats, Liberals 111, Left Socialists 89, Right Socialists 67, Labor - Farmers four, Communists two and others six.

The two conservative parties suffered a net loss of eight seats while the left-wing parties gained a net of 21 seats. The anti-American Left-Socialists scored the biggest gain, a 15-seat advance.

The Socialists won just enough seats to block a threatened conservative move to revise the "MacArthur" constitution which bans full scale rearmament and makes the emperor a figurehead. Constitutional amendments require a two-thirds vote in the house, and the Liberals and Democrats combined fell 15 votes short of this.

Commies Ring Quemoy Island

TAIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 28 — UP — The Chinese Communists have ringed Quemoy Island with Soviet built artillery of the type that shattered the French defenses at Dien Bien Phu, military sources said Monday.

The sources said the artillery can reach every corner of the heavily defended island outpost with devastating fire for the first time. The sources said they called the threat a critical one and pointed out Quemoy's only airstrip had been "mined" to Red guns in the past.

Quemoy is Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's largest offshore island base. It is about four miles from the big port of Amoy which it blocks and at one place is only 2,000 yards across open water from a Red held island.

Quemoy, with a peace-time population of 50,000, is roughly seven miles across but in the past the Communists could shell only about half of it with their small artillery.

Hospital Closings, Revisions Ordered

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — UP — The Hoover Commission angered some organized veterans and stirred sure controversy in Congress Monday with a proposal that the government revise and curtail its vast medical programs, particularly those for ex-servicemen.

The commission said the government through the years has obligated itself to give full or part medical care to 30 million persons. It said it found "a great deal of waste" in the numerous medical programs.

Among other economies, it recommended closing some Veterans Administration hospitals as inefficient or unneeded. It proposed new restrictions on free hospital care for veterans whose ailments are not due to military service. It said monthly government payments to veterans disabled in service should be "more realistically related" to their loss of earning power.

Collins Protests

Seaborn P. Collins, national commander of the American Legion, protested the commission's findings.

"The American Legion is shocked and disappointed by Hoover Commission proposals which would close hospitals," he said.

The Hoover Commission recommended Monday that 19 Veterans Administration hospitals be closed.

The hospitals are located at: Mt. Vernon, Ky.; Aspinwall, Pa.; Erie, Pa.; Beckley, W. Va.; Clarksburg, W. Va.; Amarillo, Tex.; Bonham, Tex.; Marlin, Tex.; Boise, Idaho; Fargo, N. D.; Minot, N. D.; Grand Island, Neb.; Ft. Thomas, Ky.; Grand Junction, Colo.; Iron Mountain, Mich.; Lake City, Fla.; Miles City, Mont.; and Sioux Falls, S. D.

place government services to disabled veterans on a purely dollar-and-cents basis," Collins said.

"The Hoover Commission recommends the closing of 19 Veterans Administration hospitals. We find it impossible to reconcile this move with the fact that the existing number of VA hospital beds is short of the total authorized by Congress."

"The Hoover Commission apparently wants to make ability to earn the single criterion for determining the veteran's entitlement to disability compensation. To do this would be totally unrealistic and a reversal of the present fair standard."

To Take Long, Hard Look

Collins said he is sure congress will take a "long hard look" at the commission proposals. This is seemed assured. The report touched on issues which in the past have proved untidily controversial.

Kansas Wheat Belt Top Soil Left Loose By Freeze, Thaw

AMARILLO, Feb. 28 (UP)—Sudden, sharp temperature drops with alternate freezing and thawing have left top soil in such dry and loose condition that wind erosion poses a serious threat to the general winter wheat belt area in Kansas, the Santa Fe monthly crop report said Monday.

Several dust storms already have occurred over the southwestern wheat territory, although they haven't lasted as long nor been as severe as last year.

The report added that the danger of wind erosion also exists in many areas of the Texas Panhandle where there hasn't been enough moisture to bring wheat up to a stand.

Ranges Poor to Fair
It said western ranges were in poor to fair condition insofar as grazing conditions are concerned. The only improvement noted was in the eastern parts of Oklahoma and Texas.

Agricultural Agent R. I. Cross said the wheat belt moisture picture continued spotty. The general winter wheat belt area south and west of Dodge City, Kan., still remains in critical need of more moisture, he said.

Eastern New Mexico moisture was enough to bring wheat to a stand, but considerably more is needed if the crop is to last through the windy spring months.

The only favorable moisture conditions reported were in Oklahoma, where there has been enough to bring wheat up to a stand and provide some cover. The exception, however, is the Oklahoma Panhandle counties.

Some Moisture from Snows
Northern Kansas has received enough snow to provide a good cover for wheat, and a considerable amount of moisture after the snowfalls melted.

But the report said very little grazing has been provided by wheat and small grain pastures in eastern Colorado, Kansas, western Oklahoma and West Texas. Range conditions in New Mexico were reported as still poor and dry, although moisture conditions were said improved in the south.

The report took note also of frost damage in mid-February in the Rio Grande Valley areas, but said it generally was limited to tender vegetables and cotton acreages that had just come up. Considerable cotton replanting now has been started in the valley, the report said.

House Ag Committee Meet Turns Into Cooking School

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (UP)—The lovely new blond congresswoman from Minnesota, Coysa Knutson, has stirred up a fuss about how a housewife ought to make spud lefse.

Mrs. Knutson, who is proud that she is the first woman in a long time to become a member of the House Agriculture committee, brought the matter up in meeting.

The discussion was about the 90 percent farm crops support bill. And Mrs. K. mentioned "lefse."

A member who was not of Scandinavian extraction said: "What in thunder is lefse?"

"I'll show you," said the nice little blonde. "And right here in this room, the 34 members of the committee, including me, will partake of same."

Way to a Committee's Heart
And by golly the other day they did. And, also by golly, if you haven't tasted "lefse and butter," it's about time you did.

Right after the meeting, the lady from Oklee, Minn., (Pop. 494) where she and her husband run a small hotel, got on the Edison. She called Mrs. Rudy Gustafson and Mrs. M. O. Zenner of Ferguson Falls, Minn., and they promised to send airmail some lefse. The Chamber of Commerce shipped butter from Waubun, James Stretch, who sent it, knows good lefse when he tastes it with butter, of course.

Lefse, if you didn't know, is bread, and you never tasted the likes of it.

When Mrs. Knutson made her remark, in the interest of 90 percent parity, about butter and lefse, she gave her own recipe.

She said she didn't mess around with measurements of this and that... things like flour, shortening and salt and potatoes.

"You just have to know, and I couldn't write it down to save my life," she said. "The potatoes are mashed, in my recipe, with a little flour and shortening mixed in and then baked on the top of a wood stove or an electric grill if you want to be fancy and modern."

Doughfoot Still Backbone Of The Army

By H. D. QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

To all former doughfeet (or is it doughfoots?) everywhere: Getis, your breed ain't out of style yet. Not by a long m-i shot.

Let 'em have their atom bomb tests, lighting up the sky. Let the flyboys go out and break the sound barrier. Let the Navy plough up the ocean with atomic-powered tubs.

When it comes to going in and taking an objective held by the enemy, what do you think they're using nowadays? Atoms? Nope. Jet planes? Hardly. They use the infantry—just plain walking soldiers.

And talk about new-fangled weapons, in an attack problem carried out by two battalions of foot sloggers at Camp Edwards, Mass., against a simulated aggressor force, the weapons they used were—guess what? Rifles, Mortars, Machineguns. Even a clever little device called a bayonet.

For defense, they used ("keep digging," hollered the sergeant) holes in the ground—the individual kind—hand-tailored to fit your own chassis.

Even the expense of the operation—a 15-day, live-ammunition training exercise for 4,000 troops—cost 30 cents per day per man. Maybe that's why they called it "Exercise Shoestring."

The troops who moved in for combat training over the 14,000 acres of spongy, scrub-bearded Cape Cod soil of this camp were from Fort Devens, Mass., under the command of Brig. Gen. E. G. Gjelsteen. They comprised the 7th regimental combat team, plus supporting quartermaster, medical, ordnance, and other units.

"This exercise has been made possible only through the practice of stringent economy and careful planned utilization of available funds," General Gjelsteen said. The command is proud of having swung the exercise without asking the Department of the Army for money.

The operation cost $15,000. Two-thirds of that came from First Army funds and the rest from Fort Devens.

This correspondent followed along behind Easy Company of the Second Battalion in a two-mile advance through scrub oak to capture a hillock named "Moe"—an "enemy" stronghold. In case you have forgotten, here are some impressions of infantry warfare:

Noise: Nothing makes so much racket as an infantry company blazing away with 10 types of weapons. Mud: Sticks to your feet. Scrub oak: Your feet stick to it. Signs: "If you go beyond this point, you'll get shot sure as hell."

Col. Hamilton A. Twitchell, commander of the regiment, said that nowadays the infantry at war might very well find its forward units having to stress independent action, since atomic and electronic weapons of the enemy might destroy and jam our communications.

Turkey Regains Long Lost Leadership In Middle East

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

The new Turkish-Iraqi defense treaty has created a new situation in the Middle East.

Turkey has regained the Middle Eastern leadership which it lost as the result of World War I.

Egypt, which had made a strong bid to take the leadership, has suffered a humiliating defeat in its attempt to block the Turkish-Iraqi pact.

The eight-nation Arab League, in which Egypt was the leader, has been seriously and perhaps fatally weakened by Iraq's action in aligning itself with Turkey and thus with the Western powers.

Advices from Cairo now report that Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser may join Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru as a "neutralist."

It was reported also that Egypt might recognize Communist China. This, in a sense, would be a slap at the United States, which favors the Turkish-Iraqi treaty.

The Turkish team of President Celal Bayar, Premier Adnan Menderes and Foreign Minister Fudat Koprulu of Turkey has been exceedingly busy for some months.

Turkey had laid the basis for co-operation with the Western Allies when it joined the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in 1951.

Last April, Turkey signed a mutual defense treaty with Pakistan. T's treaty was an important one. It endorsed the Western defense chain from Arctic Norway to the Himalaya Mountains, Iran was the day.

Then, on Aug. 9, Turkey signed a 20-year alliance with Greece and Yugoslavia. Greece is a fellow member of the NATO organization. Yugoslavia is not, but Marshal Tito, its Communist president, is aligned with the West against Soviet aggression.

The Turkish - Pakistani treaty linked two important Moslem nations.

Now Turkey turned its attention to the other Moslem nations of the Middle East none of them signed with the Western grand alliance.

It was disclosed that Bayar, Menderes and Koprulu hope to get Iran into the Western alignment. There seems good reason to hope that this most important alignment may materialize, especially after the long visit of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi of Iran to the United States.

But the Turks decided to get Iraq in line first. Premier Menderes arrived in Baghdad, the Iraqi capital, on Jan. 6 to negotiate a mutual defense treaty.

Egypt, the leader of the Arab league, was outraged. It called an emergency meeting of the league. But nothing came of the meeting.

The Turkish-Iraqi treaty was signed Thursday.

It is expected that the Bayar-Menderes-Koprulu team will start to work on Iran next, and on Arab League members Syria and Lebanon later.

Nugent Trial In 6th Week

FORT SILL, Okla., Feb. 28 (UP)—Lt. Col. Paul V. Liles, who testified his Communist captors said he could either "see the truth" or "be destroyed," was to continue testimony Monday in the collaboration trial of Maj. Ambrose Nugent.

The court martial of Nugent, 45-year-old Merrill, Wis., career officer, on nine counts of collaborating with the enemy while a prisoner during the Korean war, entered its sixth week Monday.

Liles, a West Point graduate from Birmingham, Ala., was on the stand when the court recessed Friday for the weekend. He said the North Korean prison camp commander, Colonel Kim, told him there were two sides in the world, "the side of truth and the side of aggression," and that the Americans were captured fighting for the side of aggression.

"If you do not see the truth you will be destroyed," Liles quoted Kim as saying.

Several witnesses have testified during Nugent's trial that Liles, as senior officer in the camp, told them he would take responsibility for any propaganda efforts they were forced to make.

Liles testified he made a propaganda broadcast for the Reds when he was in a weak condition and was given the choice of talking or walking 160 miles to Prison Camp No. 5.

"I never could have made it," he said.

Shamrock's NEW CLOUD MASTER

Try a tank full of Shamrock's new Cloud Master for 1955. You'll recognize a smooth, new power the first time you press the accelerator. And no wonder. The same aviation alkylate that raises the octane of aviation gasoline is now used to raise the octane of Shamrock's new Cloud Master. This means fewer deposits and high, high octane. In fact, no matter what car you drive, Shamrock's new Cloud Master gasoline exceeds the octane requirements. For new, quick power from your car, stop at the green and white Shamrock soon.

Blizzard Traps 200 In Mountains

By UNITED PRESS

The Far West's worst blizzard of the year trapped more than 200 skiers in mountain lodges Monday and blocked two trans-continental highways with mounting snow drifts.

The storm raged through much of California, swept across the Rocky Mountains, and was still belting parts of Utah and Nevada Monday.

Meanwhile, fog covered much of the nation's eastern half, cutting visibility to zero in parts of the eastern Great Lakes region. The murky weather was partially blamed for an Illinois plane crash which killed two persons and for at least seven fatal auto crashes in the Chicago region alone.

In Utah, heavily-drifted roads and a threat of death-dealing avalanches made it impossible for an estimated 215 skiing enthusiasts to make their way down from four ski lodges high in the Wasatch Mountain range.

—40 More Find Refuge
Three of the lodges, housing 175 of the skiers, were in the Alta region. Forty more skiers found refuge in a lodge in the Brighton area, where 30 inches of new snow was reported.

Forest rangers said the avalanche danger was so acute around Alta that road equipment could not run the risk of trying to clear the highway. Meanwhile, rescue crews temporarily gave up their fight to reach the Brighton lodge.

The rangers said they would have to wait for clearing weather to start firing a 75-millimeter artillery piece at the mountain drifts, forcing them to unleash their avalanches.

The marooned skiers, meanwhile, were reported to be supplied with enough food for a long stay in the mountains.

Elsewhere in the storm-battered area, wind-whipped drifts forced the closing of Highways 40 and 50 across the Sierra Nevadas. The Feather River route, the only other east-west highway in the region, was closed to cars without chains along a 25-mile stretch.

Skiers poured helter-skelter along these highways as the storm hit, causing such a traffic jam on a 65-mile stretch of Highway 40 in Cabot that it had to be closed so snow-removing equipment could get through.

In Nevada, meanwhile, the snow was so deep that three ski tournaments were cancelled because roads were blocked.

Texas Gets Weather Like Spring

By UNITED PRESS

Unseasonably warm weather turned Texas thoughts toward spring Monday.

The temperature soared as high as 90 degrees, at Laredo, Sunday.

A cold front that was impressive in size—it stretched back into Canada—but which didn't have much spunk, crept across the Red River and did manage to plunge temperatures as low as 32 degrees at Wichita Falls Sunday morning.

The leading edge of the front took a swipe at a section of Fort Worth, kicking up north winds clocked at from 10 to 15 miles per hour at Meacham Field for about two hours, but then quickly receded northward. The front was not charted at either Carter Field, Fort Worth, or Love Field, Dallas, weather stations.

The weather bureau forecast continued warm temperatures Monday with a few widely scattered showers in Central and East Texas.

A weak, eastward moving cool front may lower temperatures in West Texas Monday night and bring dryer air and cooler weather across the state Tuesday.

There was some light drizzle in the Dallas-Fort Worth area Sunday but no other weather stations reported precipitation.

First Voters Need Exemption

Pampans who have turned 21 since Feb. 1 will have to apply for an exemption this week if they want to vote in the city and school elections.

The deadline is Thursday for the school board election and Saturday for the city election, County Tax Collector Jack Back said today.

School board election will be held April 2 and election for mayor and city commission will be April 25.

The law states that exemptions for those turning 21 must be applied for in the county tax office 30 days before the election.

For those who turned 21 before Feb. 1 and neither paid a poll tax nor got an exemption, it is too late now Back said.

School Board Holds Meeting

The Pampa school board met at noon today in Owen's Cafe and discussed books and elections.

A school textbook committee was chosen and the board officially called the April 2 Pampa school board election, the latter a requirement of the law.

It was the second meeting within a week. A week ago tonight at a special board session, Board President Herman Whitley announced the selection of Jack Lockett as the new head Harvester football coach.

Subsidy Addict

There's a perversity about human beings which makes all of us reluctant to admit we've been wrong.

Take the case of the multi-subsidization of the farming industry. Now, most everyone knows this is wrong.

There just can't be any moral justification for some of the American people to be robbed, so that others in a supposedly classless society can maintain a so-called "standard."

And there certainly is no justification, moral or otherwise, to taxing the people so that money can be provided to buy up products and get them off the market so that those taxes are added to the cost of the food when you do go down to buy what is left.

This is paying for all the food three times: once when you are taxed, once when artificial scarcities are created, once when you actually buy it.

But why can't we admit we've been wrong and stop this whole sorry business? We ought to know better.

About 1500 BC, Joseph, as the first Secretary of Agriculture on record, contrived a 20 per cent tax on all produce raised in the land of Egypt. And when the famine came (as is inevitable with the government gobbling up a fifth of everything that is produced) Joseph and the Pharaoh managed to fitch all the wealth from all the people until complete state socialism was the accepted order. Egypt fell shortly thereafter and has never managed to struggle up through the heat and sand from that day to this.

You'd think we would have learned our lesson. It is in Genesis, if you'd like to look it up.

But comes now a "system" for getting us away from the government supported farm prices program, provided by the Izaak Walton League of America. The "system" is practically painless.

Instead of getting the government to buy up all this excess croppage, we get the government to buy up all the excess land on which the excess croppage is produced. This is the same type of device which we all are apt to follow when we get caught in a falsehood. We tell another to cover up the trace of the first.

Now, two wrongs don't make a right. And this program is just as bad as the first. In fact, it could lead to some dandy complications.

For instance, it's highly probable that instead of having farmers raising crops which the government has to buy up, the farmers will instead get busy and buy up land which the government will have to buy up.

Why don't we just become honest instead? It's so much simpler. Let's just admit that this business of subsidies is wrong from start to finish and quit it cold. It might mean a temporary hangover, similar to the anguish suffered by a dope addict when he breaks the "habit." But everybody knows that the addict who gets cured is a much improved individual.

So will we, too, be improved when we get off the subsidy.

THE NATION'S PRESS

FINANCIAL BACKERS OF WORLD CONSPIRACY SHOWN IN REPORT

The Southern Conservative

There is one government report which comes as near to exposing the giant overall plan for World collectivism and those financing the plot, as could possibly be assembled in one volume.

This is Union Calendar No. 926, House Report 2681, 83rd Congress, Second Session, which may be obtained from the Government Printing Office in Washington.

This report is a summary of the findings of the Special Committee of Congress to investigate tax-exempt Foundations and while the objective of the Committee was not the exposure of such a conspiracy, it has done just that.

The findings of that committee reveal a vast network of interlocking subversive groups committed openly to changing the form of the American government to a World Socialist State with the large Foundation furnishing the "risk capital" for establishing this New Social Order.

The law dealing with the granting of tax-exemption by the Treasury Department contains the stipulation that those receiving tax exemption shall be engaged strictly in "educational" activities and any sort of "political" operations on the part of those receiving such tax exemption, automatically deprives them of such privilege.

Smart lawyers for the Foundations have argued and have gotten by with it, that the Foundations are not engaged in "politics" because their representatives do not appear before Congress, as such, and favor or oppose certain legislation. They are too clever to engage in such crudities.

Instead, they subsidize groups and individuals who do their dirty work for them and all these groups are inter-related and their work correlated, with the common objective of killing off the American Free Enterprise system and substituting national

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

President Benson Of Harding College Defends Government Schools

In the last issue I quoted a letter to Dr. Benson written on December 13, 1954. Now I am reproducing Dr. Benson's answer to my letter, together with my answer to Benson's letter dated January 4:

"Dear Mr. Hoiles: "Thanks for your letter of December 13 asking if it would be satisfactory for you to publish your questions and the answers that I gave.

"Yes, Mr. Hoiles, this is quite all right. I rather assumed when I was answering your questions that you would probably like to publish the answers and I have no objection. Likewise, I have no objection to your commenting on my answers. Thanks for the opportunity to use an equal amount of space in commenting on your comments. However, I believe that my statements are clear enough that they hardly need any elucidation from me.

"I note you object to my comparing illiteracy to the effects of leprosy and the like. However, actually there is a very close similarity. Mr. Hoiles, ignorant, uneducated people very often make a poor living and very often constitute the people who live in our slums and those are the very places where disease does develop. Plagues have arisen in various cities that arose in the communities where the ignorant and unlettered were.

"Your statement that most revolutions and rebellions have been led by literate people is true but if there were not a lot of illiterate people to follow them, they would not be able to succeed.

"I will hold open the opportunity to reply further after your comments have appeared but at the present time I am holding that in reserve.

Here is my answer to Dr. Benson:

"Thank you for your permission of January 4 giving me letter to print the questions and quote your answers.

"Before we do that, we want to be sure that we understand the words we are using. The three questions formerly asked contain the word 'coerce.' Would your answers be the same if we substituted for 'coerce' the words 'initiate physical force'?

"Some people regard coercion as persuasion, but we did not have that kind of coercion in mind. We had in mind 'initiating physical force' or 'aggressive force.'

"Would you mind answering whether it would be a violation of the Golden Rule for Group A to set up a church and use aggressive force to make everyone in the community help pay for it or leave town?

"Would it be a violation of the Golden Rule for two or more groups to set up a church and make all other groups help pay for it or leave town?

"There might be several groups setting up schools in the same community. Would it be a violation of the Golden Rule for one group to initiate force against the other groups to make them help pay or leave town?

"I think we would throw a little more light on the subject if you would answer the following questions, asked in my letter of the 13th:

"1. Would it not be coveting for the majority to force the minority to pay for Georgi Malenkov textbooks and teachers — to force stubborn and ignorant people to help pay for his textbooks and teachers?

"2. Is that not legalized stealing — to make men pay for something that they believe is harmful?

"3. And where does the dignity of the individual go, which is certainly one of the cornerstones of the Christian religion, when an individual does not have the right to choose how he should educate himself and his children?

"4. Just Law can a man be a steward of his life if the majority has a right to take his energy rather than the way the individual believes God directs him to use?

"Your answer that Group A setting up a school and using aggressive physical force to make another group help pay for it or leave town is certainly an astounding answer. Especially is it an astounding answer when you do not even qualify that it must be an astounding answer when it leaves the logical conclusion that a minority group has a right to force another minority or a majority group to either help pay to support the school or leave town.

"Do you concede that the Golden Rule, which embraces the Commandments, is a proper standard to determine what is right and wrong for an individual, but is not a proper standard to determine what is right and wrong for groups?

"Thanking you in advance for your answers."

MacArthur May Have Hurt Ike's Disarmament Policy

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Administration leaders, including President Eisenhower, are concerned lest General Douglas MacArthur has supplied Moscow with anti-American arguments in the current world disarmament negotiations before the United Nations. Possibly inadvertently, "Mac" has placed "Ike" in an embarrassing position on this grave issue.

After MacArthur's recent Los Angeles address, urging that the United States proclaim its "readiness" — not merely its willingness — to head a movement for abolition of war, he received thousands of complimentary letters, for he has a great following. There was, however, no significant comment from Washington, which takes the view that only Soviet obstinacy blocks even a beginning at disarmament.

A letter from Representative Victor L. Antuofo (D. N.Y.) drew a prompt reply from the former Far Eastern Commander. The New York member asked MacArthur if it would be helpful for him to introduce a House resolution, declaring that it is the will of the American people to abolish war as a means of settling international disputes.

Antuofo's letter described MacArthur as "the greatest living soldier, and, therefore, qualified to speak on this subject."

MacArthur's immediate answer threw cold water on the Antuofo suggestion. MacArthur declared that even "totalitarian" peoples hate war, but that their leaders "defy the will of the masses."

Then follows the MacArthur comment which, so certain officials fear, casts doubts on Eisenhower's repeatedly defined position, as well as on the American Government's official program at today's U.N. and all future world conferences. He wrote:

"So, in my opinion, it would take more than the Congressional expression, which you suggest, to trigger a worldwide movement for the abolition of war.

"It would take a ringing affirmation of a dedicated leader commanding universal respect, capable of arousing the conscience of mankind into a crusade against lagging leaders, who, in the mad lust for ever increased political power, willfully ignore the realism that war, as an instrument of political power, has been outmoded by the advance of science."

Then, MacArthur seems to apply his criticism of "lagging leaders" directly to President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles. He continues:

"I do not know when this nation will be blessed with such a leadership, but I pray that it will be before it has been drawn through the tragedy of another and infinitely worse cataclysmic movement."

Aside from the direct dig at Eisenhower, Dulles and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, MacArthur's program cuts directly across the President's position.

Ike believes that postwar American policy, including the original offer to include Communist countries within the Marshall Plan, evidences our desire for peaceful and friendly relations, and a minimum of arms. His atom-for-peace proposal was advanced by him as further proof.

He believes that Russia's rejection of all our disarmament offers, as well as Russo-Chinese aggression, results from Moscow's ambitions for world domination. Therefore, he feels that we must build from strength until the Kremlin gives more sincere and practical demonstration of a desire to cooperate.

Pending that period, the White House thinks that the MacArthur idea would be interpreted as weakness by the enemy and neutrals. There can be another move along this line only after the Western European Defense pact has been ratified and mutual security armies are actually in training.

Both London and Paris agree with the Eisenhower viewpoint, as against MacArthur.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Each year I receive a good many inquiries, principally from elderly men, regarding a common disorder known as enlargement of the prostate. Sometimes these letters refer to symptoms and the writer does not seem to know what is at fault. On other occasions the correspondent clearly knows where the trouble lies but does not know what to do about it.

It should be said at first that simple enlargement of the prostate — hypertrophy — is associated with increasing age. The prostate is a sex gland lying at the outlet of the bladder, and it enlarges instead of shrinking (as it does in some) its increase in size tends to interfere with the free flow of urine.

WHEN THIS OCCURS the first sign of difficulty may be getting up at night more often. Sometimes it starts with delay and difficulty in beginning urination. It is frequently associated with incomplete emptying of the bladder which leads to thickening of the bladder wall, lessened ability to hold the urine and increasing frequency.

The amount of pain, irritation, and local discomfort present from enlargement of the prostate varies from man to man. The sleep can be disturbed and, just as important, there is real danger of developing kidney trouble because of the backing-up pressure from the urine held in the bladder.

SOMETIMES A MAN with an enlarged prostate urinate finds himself unable to urinate at all. The bladder then has to be emptied by the use of a tube, called a catheter, which is passed into the bladder. With the help of a catheter the bladder can be emptied and the symptoms relieved temporarily. However, it is not usually safe to rely on the use of the catheter tube indefinitely nor to leave one in place for very long because of the danger of infection.

According to official figures, price levels in Chile showed a jump of 20 per cent in 1952, 56.1 per cent in 1953, and 71.15 per cent in 1954.

Herbert L. Matthews, NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, writing recently from Santiago, said: "Thoughtful Chileans are asking themselves whether 1955 will not bring the long dreaded avalanche. Two classic factors have been operating at the accelerating rate for years: Government budgetary deficits and a wage-price spiral."

"Chilean inflation is by now built into the economic structure. The social services are exceptionally generous. All Government and industrial white collar employees automatically have their salaries adjusted every year to the rise in the cost of living. Manual workers have adequate political power to force similar increases and they do not wait a year to demand them."

Before we start "telling off" Chile, maybe we had better ask ourselves whether we have yet done enough to discourage a similar trend in this country. We can, no doubt, build our house of cards higher before it topples than Chile can build hers, because ours is built on a much broader base. But topple ours will, as well as Chile's, if we build it high enough. And, the higher we build it, the greater will be the catastrophe when it eventually collapses.

Hank Recalls Boredom Of Days In Baby Crib

By HENRY McLEMORE

(News Item: Boredom and loneliness are two of the main reasons for a baby's crying, according to British child-health expert Ronald Illingworth.)

How right you are, Illingworth! Congratulations. I hope every parent in this country reads your message and takes it to heart.

And how I wish my parents had had the benefit of your wisdom when I was cradle, crib, and playpen bound. I look back on my first years as perhaps the most exasperating of my life, especially the first six months.

I was bored almost to extinction. I used to lie by the hour on my back in a crib watching a pink Celluloid duck swinging back and forth over my head. I used to think I'd go crazy if they didn't get me another color duck, or switch to some other form of wildlife.

Then there was that infernal rattle. Many was the time I wanted to knock off a few hours of sound sleep only to have some grown-up in my face. I remember I used to take secret exercises in the hope that I could build my little muscles to a point where I could reach up and smash swinging duck, noisy rattle, and all.

But even worse were the long hours spent on the lawn stretched out in a baby carriage, tucked in like a sardine, so I could enjoy the fresh air and the sunshine. Talk about being bored! Try that sometime. That wouldn't be much fun even if you were an adult and could read the Racing Form.

People stopping by to peer down at you in the carriage didn't do much to relieve the boredom. Added to it, in fact, all they said was something that sounded like, "Wa-wa, itsey-bitsy, coo-coo." Listen to that sort of guff in wet diapers for long, and you're in danger of losing what little mind you have.

Well do I remember how bored I became trying to learn to walk. It was fun when I was left alone and could try steps when I wanted to. But at the most inconvenient times someone was always picking me up, holding me by the tips of my fingers, and seeing how far I could manage to get without going ker-plop.

I used to long for the power of speech so I could tell my loved ones that not only were they wearing out my bottom and exhausting my patience, but they were wasting both my time and theirs.

"Lissen, folks," I longed to say. "I am about a month away from taking my first step. Let me crawl around a little while longer, and then one fine day I'll stand up and tear about the room like a little freight train."

Illingworth is right about the loneliness. It isn't the loneliness of being left by himself in a room that gets a baby. It is the loneliness of seeing things going on all about him, hearing things going on, and not being able to take part in them because he is an infant.

I would hear my father and older brother mention baseball and say they were going out to see it. I didn't know what baseball was, but I remember wishing they'd put my booties on me and take me along. A chuck under the chin as they went out the front door wasn't enough.

Yeah, I am glad that first year is 'way in the past.

I am also glad that I screamed my head off a great deal of the time. Serves 'em right for boring me almost to extinction.

Before The Dishes Are Done

By BETTY KNOWLES HUNT

FORMOSA AGAIN!

President Eisenhower has finally decided that the time has come for the U. S. to stop retreating before the Red advances in Asia. He has thus asked for and received almost unanimous Congressional approval for his demand that the U. S. defend Formosa the Pescadore islands and "closely related localities" with whatever force be required.

Only five years ago, in December 1949, Dean Acheson's State Department was "writing off" Formosa as of no importance to us, in a secret memo to its department diplomats. And telling how to "prepare public opinion" for the subsequent or eventual loss of Formosa. Indeed, it instructed them to "counter" any suggestion that the loss of Formosa was of any consequence to the U. S. — a "diplomatic line" which certainly contradicted flatly the "military line" on Formosa up to that time!

This miserable memo was the culmination of a long and catastrophic phase of our Asian policy, which had begun with our gradual and then open desertion of our ally, Chiang Kai-shek, had led to the disastrous Marshall mission to China, then the withdrawal of our aid to Chiang, and finally his retreat to Formosa. The Acheson secret memo writing off Formosa — was also intended to write off Chiang and his Nationalists, and then lead to Red China's recognition and admittance to the U. N.

Ex-President Herbert Hoover and the late Senator Robert Taft both immediately denounced this write-off of Formosa, and insisted that Formosa was strategically important to our own Pacific defense line. For this stand, they were both ridiculed loudly by the entire "left-wing." They, and any supporters of their argument, — like General MacArthur and Senator Knowland, were promptly labeled "Formosa Fascists" and denounced bitterly. President Truman himself joined the fray and insisted that the U. S. would not "pursue a course which will lead to involvement in the civil conflict in China." Dean Acheson, a few days later, on Jan. 12, 1950, in a famous speech to the National Press Club, went out of his way to ridicule Senator Taft as "this distinguished statesman who is often in error but never in doubt."

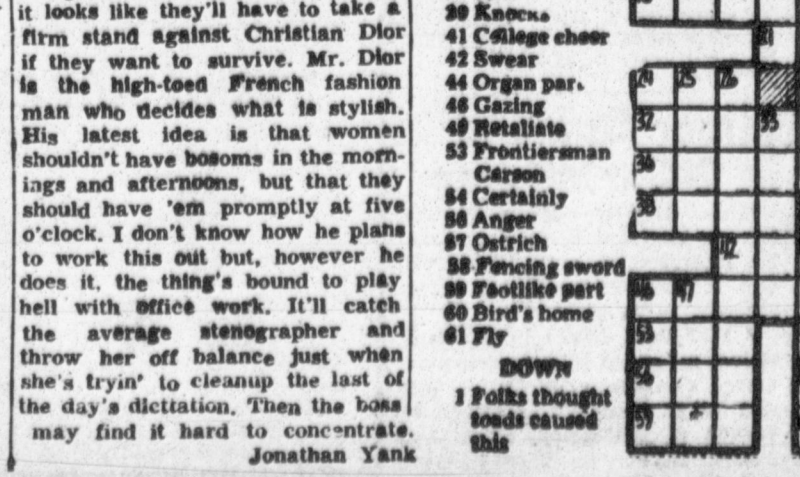

He scorned Taft's insistence upon Formosa's importance to defend as "this silly adventure," and then promptly proceeded to draw a defense line of his own — which pointedly omitted both Formosa and South Korea!

In June, the Communists marched confidently across the 38th parallel into South Korea, and it was at this crucial point that President Truman was forced to reverse both his own and Dean Acheson's former arguments. He suddenly declared that our 7th Fleet would "defend Formosa," and in a support of this he argued that its occupation by "communist forces would be a direct threat to the security of the Pacific area and to United States forces" — the very argument previously made by Hoover, Taft, MacArthur, Knowland et al. — and for which truth they had been scorned and derided!

But reversals in policy can still be touchy, subjects — and when General MacArthur, on August 27, 1950, in a message from Korea to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, asserted loudly that Formosa was vital to the defense of the U. S. and must be prevented — at all costs from falling into the hands of a hostile power — President Truman tried unsuccessfully to suppress this speech!

The CRACKER BARREL

Most business men are pretty complacent about Communism, but it looks like they'll have to take a firm stand against Christian Dior if they want to survive. Mr. Dior is the high-tied French fashion man who decides what is stylish. His latest idea is that women shouldn't have bosoms in the mornings and afternoons, but that they should have 'em promptly at five o'clock. I don't know how he plans to work this out but, however he does it, the office's bound to play hell with the thing work. It'll catch the average stenographer and throw her off balance just when she's tryin' to clean up the last of the day's dictation. Then the boss may find it hard to concentrate. Jonathan Yank

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

ARRANGEMENTS OF FAMILY PHOTOGRAPHS in a living room, den or bedroom has become more and more popular during the last few years. I've seen many different arrangements... it leaves room for creative effort depending upon how much time a person wants to spend on it. Decorators are now even giving suggestions for the right wallpaper background. I saw one arrangement on wallpaper with a lattice and cute idea. Here are a few more suggestions on arrangement. The pictures were hung on the "lattice"... a clever ment.

IF YOU HAVE a family album and most people still do keep these delightful records of growth and change, how often do you look at it? Television, talk, card parties and the movies seem to take precedence over such an old-fashioned pastime as poring over the photograph album. Many decorators today are taking family photographs out of the album and putting them up on the wall in unusual arrangements that are decorative and at the same time give a warm, personal feeling to a home.

Many wallpaper patterns are ideally suited as a background for a family picture gallery; pictures don't have to be framed, but may be mounted and pasted to the paper in such a way that a motif in the paper gives the effect of a frame. Pictures that aren't framed or covered by glass should be sprayed with a coating of clear plastic. Pegboard is an excellent material on which to hang pictures; it is particularly suited for walls in children's rooms where toy models, souvenirs and school memorabilia can be hung along with photographs of parents, grandparents and favorite friends. Pegboard permits frequent change and eliminates wall damage.

Decorators frequently vary the sizes, shapes and materials of the frames in planning a portrait gallery for a client. This variety adds importance and richness to the wall. Another effective decorator trick is to mount several photographs on a textured fabric like velvet, linen or raw silk and arrange the photographs within one large frame. Such a treatment looks well over a mantel, bookcase or hall table.

Those who have natural wood or painted cabinets will find that door panels make an excellent spot for photographs. Here again just mount the portrait directly on the wood, letting the paneling serve as a frame.

There are many ways to reurrect the family album and put your favorite photographs, both old and new, to good decorative effect on your wall.

PUT THE SPACE under your windows to use by building storage shelves for linens, books and magazines, suggests the Pfaff Sewing Institute.

A Star Gives Her Recipe For Dieting To Start Before Gaining Much Weight

Donna Reed Makes Watching Her Diet An Everyday Ritual

(EDITORS NOTE: Here is the first of a seven-day series in which Academy Award winner Donna Reed shows how she makes calorie-counting a normal part of everyday living — and shares it with her husband and children. Teamed with Miss Reed, is Supervising Nutritionist G. Dorothy Williams, head of nutrition education for the New York City Health Department.)

By DONNA REED
(Written for NEA Service)

As a star, I'm faced with pretty much the same problems facing all other human beings. Only my problems sometimes seem more complex.

For one example, there's a matter of weight. The average person can gain or lose a couple of pounds without finding it a matter for concern. But this isn't true with me. The cameras are cruel about catching an extra pound or two. So I'm weight-conscious, like many other Hollywood actresses.

Perhaps this is a good thing in a way. Because ideas about food have changed gradually over the years. My aunts and uncles talk nostalgically about the good old days when dinner was a thick soup followed by meat and potatoes three vegetables, a salad, a hot bread, relishes, pie or cake and coffee with lots of cream and sugar.

But were these really the good old days? I don't think so. There's no fun in eating so much weight that you then must go on a strict diet and stay there over a period of months in order to lose. I'd much rather watch my food intake daily and start cutting calories as soon as I notice the hand on the scale begins moving up.

Barbara Carlson Feted At Shower

Mrs. Frank Kelp of Pampa and Mrs. Larry Fuller of McLean complimented Miss Barbara Ann Carlson, bride-elect of James Crow of Austin, with a gadget shower and coffee recently in the home of Mrs. Fuller's mother, Mrs. John F. Studer, 1220 Christine.

The honoree was presented a corsage of pink daisies to which was attached a chain of measuring spoons.

The serving table was centered with an arrangement of pink daisies and white stock in a copper bowl. Placed among the flowers were various kitchen gadgets. The centerpiece was presented to the honoree. Refreshments of coffee, fruit and rolls decorated in the bride-elect's colors of pink, green and white, were served.

Attending were Mrs. Bill Waters, sister of the honoree; and Mmes. Lee Moore, Dwayne Lyon, John Spearman, Bill Braly, Russell West, Frank Kelp and Larry Fuller.

Actress Donna Reed weighs in on the scales at the corner drug store, where she checks constantly as part of her plan of "dieting BEFORE you get fat." She watches her food intake daily, starts cutting calories as soon as scale moves up.

Follow Star's Advice Before Getting Fat

By G. DOROTHY WILLIAMS
Supervising Nutritionist
(Written for NEA Service)

Before you start planning your own diet from the seven-day diet plan that follows, bone up on these basic rules:

1. Size of portions is important. Eat the amounts indicated; more will increase calories; less will mean decreased nutritive value.
2. No sugar or fat is to be added to these meals. Use (a) non-caloric sweeteners, (b) salad dressing made from lemon juice or vinegar or tomato juice with spices, herbs, paprika and pepper, (c) do not use butter or margarine on bread unless indicated, (d) cut off all extra fat from meat. Where "beverage" is indicated, it means black coffee or tea with lemon and non-caloric sweetener.
3. Snacks can be a problem. Remember that the cocktail hour means calories. In general: 2½ oz. wine equal 70 calories; a highball, 100; a cocktail, 125, or 8 oz. beer, 125.
4. Don't forget breakfast. Meals at regular hours prevent that "all gone" feeling and helps with your reducing plan.
5. That big salad with a spicy dressing saves the day. Eat plenty of raw vegetables; they satisfy.
6. Don't make exceptions. A slow steady loss in weight is best.
7. Learn to like these foods. Reduce and stay that way.

Texas Federation Of Women's Clubs To Participate In Achievement Contest

Mrs. L. E. Dudley, Abilene, president of The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs has announced that Texas clubs will participate in the General Federation Community Achievement Contest, co-sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

Named to head this special committee are Mrs. A. P. Curry Jr., Fort Worth, recording secretary of TFWC and a member of the executive committee; Mrs. O. G. Rudy, Monahan, chairman of the Community Affairs Department; Mrs. James Dennis Jr., Jacksboro, junior chairman; Mrs. John Berry, Clyde, chairman of the Community Service Division, with Mrs. Dudley as ex-officio member.

This will be a project contest for the 1955-56 club year, with winners of the $60,000 cash prizes to be announced at the General Federation Convention in Kansas City, Mo. May 14-19, 1956.

This community improvement contest is offered to clubs as an aid for their continuing work for their communities. Every community is in need of something — many need a great many things — to bring them nearer to the ideals of what they should be. Clubwomen in their long experience in the field of community service have found the best medicine for ailing communities is self-help, the best "doctor," the average citizen.

Emphasis will be on cooperation and participation of other groups and individuals with the clubs which are privileged to bring to their communities this opportunity to win recognition and splendid prizes. The achievement of true cooperation among organizations and people in all walks of life on any community project may well be the most fruitful result of any project undertaken. Mrs. Theodore

Aids Auto Ride

Tire truing is another great step in the search for a perfect automobile ride. Tire research indicates eight out of ten tires that have been driven more than 2,000 miles are out-of-round — even though those tires are within .125th of an inch of roundness when they left the factory!

A tire that is not round as the molecules of rubber align themselves with the stresses of the tire. The stretching causes high spots and disheveled areas on the tread. The irregularities vary from 1/4th of an inch to 3/8ths of an inch on passenger car tires, to over one-half inch on truck tires.

What's Blasted

As the irregularities on the tread strike the ground there is not only a bump, but the wheel is slowed in its turn because of the drag of the greater tire circumference at that point. At 60 miles an hour a 1/4 inch of irregularity develops 2,000 pounds of treadweight!

Even a 1/32nds of an inch high spot will give bumps, slaps and jumps that overtax the bearings, bushings, pins, shock absorbers

Pampa Office Can Help You Win A Vacation In Europe

A lucky Pampa secretary who has dreamed about spending a vacation in Paris, London, Brussels and other glamorous European capitals may soon see her dream come true — and it won't cost a dime, according to Miller.

Harry Miller, owner and operator of Pampa Office Supply Co., 211 N. Cuyler, (telephone 4-3553) announced a Dream Vacation contest for secretaries. First prize is a two week TWA Skyliner tour of Europe for two, including five days in Paris.

Plus $1,000
And to make the dream more dreamy the winner will receive an additional $1,000 in cash so she can bring home those frilly Parisian fro-frous, and shop in the exciting stores of the Rue de Rivoli.

The nationwide contest, sponsored by the Mosler Safe Company, is designed to acquaint office personnel and management with the pitfalls of storing valuable records in obsolete safes.

Entry blanks may be picked up at Pampa Office Supply and must be postmarked no later than April 22. A total of 517 prizes valued at $10,000 will be awarded.

Other Prizes
Second prize will be a... Helbro's "Queen" diamond wrist watch; the 5 third prizes will be $125 "Hi-Fi-ET" fully automatic record changers by Stromberg-Carlson; the 10 fourth prizes will be $99.50 Revere "40" eight mm. movie cameras; the 500 fifth prizes will be $5.50 bottles of Lenthene "Tweed" perfume.

Those who may enter this contest include secretaries, stenographers, bookkeepers, bookkeeping assistants, clerks and any other office employee who can obtain information required on the entry blank.

About Safes
The basic purpose of an office safe is to protect a firm's accounts receivable, tax, inventory and other business records from fire.

The trouble is that appearances are often deceiving as far as safes are concerned. Many safes in use today, are actually potential incinerators. Yet they may look just as solid and secure as can be.

Your boss may be using such a safe, right now, without even realizing the risk he's taking. It may

Safety Council Picks Students For Committee

The Pampa Citizens Safety Council Publicity Committee today decided to add two school students to its membership, selected a regular meeting date and kicked around some ideas for safety.

On hand at 7 a.m. today in Johnson's Cafe were Joe Cantrell, council president; Mrs. Lillian Jordan, council vice president; Miss Beuna Cox, committee chairman; and Bob Oelty, Henry Gordon, J. C. McWilliams and Ed Nash.

Miss Cox suggested that a representative from both the Pampa High School and Pampa Junior High School be made members of the publicity committee. Committee members agreed and Cantrell said he would take care of it.

The fourth Monday of the month at noon will be the regular meeting time of the committee, members decided. It will probably be in the Pampa Hotel. The next meeting will be March 28.

Among the ideas for safety advanced during the meeting were a running list of traffic accidents in the papers and over the radio each day; some "good, hard messages" to make people aware of the accidents that can occur and the attendance of law enforcement officials at the next meeting of the committee to give accounts of some mishaps that have happened in the past.

There was one startling fact brought out: there has not been a new traffic ordinance in Pampa since 1929.

Bette Davis Returns After 3-Year Layoff

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28—UP—Bette Davis, back from the wilds of Maine for her first movie in three years, tells how a critical operation kept her off the screen, and nearly spelled curtains for one of filmdom's first ladies.

The big-eyed Miss Davis, a little curvier but still with her decisive gestures and dramatic voice, brought a little life back to Hollywood when she swept into town to star in "Sir Walter Raleigh" at 20th Century Fox Studio.

For three years she has been living in virtual retirement near Portland, Maine, with her husband, actor Gary Merrill. But it wasn't just the beauties of Maine that kept her from the film cameras, she said.

"I was operated on two years ago for a bone tumor on my jaw," she explained as she rested in her Bel-Air Hotel room after a day of wardrobe tests at the studio.

"Two years ago last month, and I'm only now recovered. It was a very strange experience. I haven't been in pictures because I wasn't allowed to work. I've been quite ill, but I'm much better now. My face will always be a little numb, I guess."

"It took me so long to get back to feeling good. After such an operation you have to rebuild your entire system. Any doctor will tell you there's no rougher operation."

No scars are visible on the famous Davis face, however. As she was being fitted earlier at the studio for 12 neck ruffs she'll wear in the movie, she looked much the same as she did when she created the identical Queen Elizabeth role in 1939 for "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex."

"This always has been one of my favorite parts," she said. "They mentioned this film two years ago found these words neatly lettered on the right door: Through this portal pass the world's bravest women."

Keeping pace with progress notes: A Hollywood Boulevard men's shop is advertising "Atomic Neckwear."

Harry Green, the dialect comedy star on Paramount's contract list in the early '30s, declared bankruptcy in London. His son, Roland, is married to British film queen Joan Rice.

India's Try For Monopoly Falls Short

By DELOS SMITH United Press Science Editor

Nature and science have thrown a double block on India in its attempt to establish a world monopoly on the new "miracle drug," reserpine.

Its sole source of supply was supposed to be from the roots of the plant, rauwolfia serpentina, which was believed to grow only in India, and thus India seemed to hold all the cards.

Six months ago it clamped an embargo on the export of rauwolfia serpentina roots, which meant that when stockpiles were exhausted reserpine could only be extracted from the roots in India.

But an American pharmaceutical house now is extracting reserpine on a commercial scale from Rauwolfia heterophylla which is a kind of botanical first cousin of the Indian plant and grows abundantly in Central America, from Mexico southward.

Furthermore, chemists now are close enough to understanding the chemical make-up of rauwolfia that it shouldn't be long before they are making it themselves in laboratories, the United Press learned.

Reserpine was isolated from the Central American rauwolfia first in Brazil. Dr. Francis A. Hochstein and his associates in the Charles Pfizer research laboratories duplicated that feat and put it on a commercial basis; they also found that rauwolfia heterophylla contains six other basic chemical compounds which are in rauwolfia serpentina plus a brand new one.

What these other rauwolfia compounds do to and for the human body is not known precisely, but since reserpine has such dramatic effects—which are not fully understood—the possibility is plain that the related compounds are laden with potencies, too.

Reserpine is a calmer-downer—a "tranquillizer." It has come into widespread use by physicians for some varieties of high blood pressure, and it is exciting the world of psychiatry by its calming effects on some kinds of mental patients.
