Question Of The Week

Should Legislators Get $10,000 Pay Raise?

By T. D. ELLIS Pampa News Staff Writer

"Do you think House and Senate members should vote themselves a $10,000 a year pay raise?"

MRS. OPAL HUGGINS "They are getting enough."

1 Vote Keeps Foreign Trade Program Alive

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18-UP—President Eisenhower's leaders feared defeat Friday in their drive to push his liberalized foreign trade program through the House without major change.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) temporarily saved the program Thursday for the Republican administration by a one-vote margin.

But as debate continued Friday the strong opposing vote against the measure frightened Republican leaders and prompted them to seek a compromise with Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.).

Despite White House opposition, Reed seemed determined to attempt to write into the reciprocal trade law the strongest tariff protectionist language in its 21-year history.

Buttonhole Doubtful Members Democratic and Republican leaders were buttonholing doubtful members on both sides of the aisle for the final showdown vote.

President Eisenhower was reported to have written a letter to Martin urging the House to support his program. Martin said he was expecting a letter from the President and if it arrived would read it to the House.

Reed hoped to revamp the bill on a motion to recommit it to the ways and means committee—the only weapon left for protectionists.

Reversing itself in a dramatic see-saw battle, the House Thursday beat down efforts to open the bill to a stack of restrictive amendments. The final victory came on the third roll call.

A ninth suit was filed seeking recovery of money paid out under the program, hearings were held in both ends of the Capitol, and Attorney General John Ben Shepley told a meeting of the Veterans Land Board that Sen. Jimmy Phillips' "high-handed actions" jeopardized possible criminal prosecutions.

Friday's continuation of the special House investigation into the $100 million program was scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Comments: Jim Hargrave, 717 W. Francis, barber: "I think $15,000 a year is a pretty good salary, although I don't think they are being paid too well for the time and expense they have to go to. I don't think they are due that much raise, but $5,000 a year would be a pretty good jump."

Miss Marilyn Tucker, 1309 E. Francis, student: "No, I don't think congressmen should vote themselves a $10,000 pay raise. They might deserve a little more money than they are getting, but not that much."

C. P. Buckler, 410 Buckler White Deer Land Co.: "I think they are entitled to a raise. I think they need it living up there. My idea is a $500 raise in pay, though. It just costs more to live in the nation's capital than it does here in Pampa."

Mrs. M. M. Stokes, 1109 S. Hobart, housewife: "If it takes that much more for them to live there, then they should vote themselves a pay raise. We have to have senators and representatives. That is a pretty good jump in pay and it doesn't seem that living conditions have risen that much in the past year. What did they do last year?"

Mrs. Opal Huggins, 2107 Duncan, credit manager: "No, I don't think congressmen should get a raise. I think they are getting a pretty good salary as it is. If they vote an increase, in pay it will mean an increase in taxes, and they are high enough as it is. The government is spending more money than it takes in now."

Tracy Boss, 512 LeFors, school teacher: "Yes, I think congressmen should vote themselves a pay raise. I feel the job we expect from those gentlemen is worthy of the proposed salary increase, and if any are not doing the job it is up to their constituencies to elect men who are worthy of both the position and salary."

Mrs. Dorothy Holmes, 901 S. Osborne, bookkeeper: "No, I don't. I think they are pretty well paid as it is. If they deserve a raise, I don't think it should be $10,000 a year."

J. M. Bell, southwest of Pampa, farmer: "I don't think congressmen should get that much pay raise. It would be out of proportion to other salaries. It seems too much of a raise at one time. Very few people are making more money than they were last year, so why should the congressmen?"

Mrs. Ruby Capps, 1101 Huff Rd., school teacher: "I hadn't given it much thought. I feel it should be (See RAISE, Page 3)

J. M. BELL "It's out of proportion."

W. H. COOPER "Don't need that much."

Texas Checks Really 'Hot'

AUSTIN, Feb. 18-UP—The government of Texas was writing out checks Friday, but banks over the state promised to hold the warrants until there was money in the treasury again.

Texas went "broke" Thursday when the general revenue fund, from which state checks are paid, was exhausted, and State Treasurer Jesse James said the fund probably will remain at a deficit until early in May.

Hill is chairman of the Senate Labor committee which is handling the school construction aid bills. Other developments: Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) announced he is opposed to outright grants of economic aid to Asia except where "absolutely necessary" but will support increased "point four" technical aid.

Mansfield is chairman of a Senate foreign relations subcommittee on technical assistance. The administration is working out a proposed aid program for free Asian nations.

The Senate Internal subcommittee summoned for more secret testimony Angus Cameron, one of the publishers of a book by Harvey Matusow, turnabout Communist informant who now says he lied at government trials. Cameron told newsmen Thursday he complied with a subpoena to produce galley proofs, contracts and other documents related to Matusow's book, "False Witness." The subcommittee is investigating Matusow's sudden change of mind about his testimony in various trials and investigations of Communists.

Bank Work Week To Remain Same Pampa's two banks will continue to operate on a five-day week, despite a legislative proposal to make a five-day work week for banks optional.

The proposal today awaited only the signature of Gov. Allan Shivers to become law. The two local banks will continue to be open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday. Floyd Imel, Citizens Bank and Trust Co. president, and A. A. Schumeman, First National Bank president, said today.

The new five-day work week for banks is for the benefit of banks in the larger cities in Texas, both Imel and Schumeman indicated, adding that the proposal had been in the works for some time. Labor troubles are attributed to have been one cause of the proposal.

JIM HARGRAVE "Half the proposed raise."

Phillips Wildcat Promising Find

Phillips officials today were concerned about their No. 1-A Troy wildcat well, 16 miles northeast of Pampa, which kicked off and flowed Thursday night.

Water Problem For with the oil came water. On a 10-hour test, the well flowed 175 barrels of oil and 14 barrels of water. It came through a one-inch choke the first hour and through a half-inch choke the remainder of the test. The last hour it flowed 21 barrels of oil and one barrel of water and gauged 1,450,000 cubic feet of gas.

School Aid Legislation Woes Posed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18-UP—Sen. Lister Hill warned Friday that legislation providing federal aid for school construction will be killed if attempts are made to include anti-segregation provisions.

The Alabama Democrat condemned proposals to write into the school construction measure a provision requiring that federal aid be withheld from areas where segregation still exists.

Sen. Irving Ives (R-N.Y.) has said he is preparing such a clause to insure that schools receiving the aid have carried out the Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation.

Hill said the proposal would "not be germane" to the school construction legislation. He pointed out that the Supreme Court itself has not determined how its anti-segregation ruling should be carried out.

Hill is chairman of the Senate Labor committee which is handling the school construction aid bills.

Other developments: Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) announced he is opposed to outright grants of economic aid to Asia except where "absolutely necessary" but will support increased "point four" technical aid.

Mansfield is chairman of a Senate foreign relations subcommittee on technical assistance. The administration is working out a proposed aid program for free Asian nations.

President Hails Tachen Removal In Chiang Wire

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18-UP—President Eisenhower sent a message to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek Friday hailing the evacuation of the Tachen Islands as an example of "close and effective cooperation" between the United States and Nationalist China.

The White House released an exchange of messages between Mr. Eisenhower and the head of the Republic of China.

During the night Chiang cabled the President through the Chinese embassy here:

"On the successful completion of the re-employment of the army of forces from the Tachen Islands, I wish to convey to you my deep appreciation for the assistance and co-operation which you have directed to the Chinese government. I also wish to express my admiration for the efficiency and high spirit displayed by the United States officers and men in this operation."

Mr. Eisenhower replied: "I have received your kind message of appreciation for the assistance rendered by the armed forces of the United States in the re-employment of the armed forces of the Republic of China from the Tachen Islands.

"The manner in which this cooperative endeavor was carried out is a source of real gratification to me and, I am sure, of mutual satisfaction to the officers and men, both Chinese and American, who were responsible for its success. They may justly take pride in having participated in this demonstration of the close and effective co-operation of our two countries in the interests of peace and the defense of freedom."

Evacuation of Chinese civilians, Nationalist soldiers, and military supplies from the Tachens was completed successfully last week without Red intervention and with no casualties from enemy action. The Navy called the operation "routine."

Toll Road Bonds Go On Market CHICAGO, Feb. 18-UP—A $140 million bond issue to finance the Dallas-Houston toll road will go on the market next week.

Glore, Forgan and Co., a Chicago investment firm, said Thursday that two types of 40-year revenue bonds would be sold.

Four per cent interest would be paid on $10 million in closed indenture bonds and 5 per cent on $27 million to $30 million open indenture bonds.

Truckers Up In Arms Railroads Accused Of Fostering Tax The bill would levy a graduated tax on motor vehicles weighing more than 15,000 pounds.

Taylor said the proposal would force "an arbitrary 5 per cent increase in truck rates, and follows the historical practice of the rails to place Texas producers at a competitive disadvantage in northern and eastern markets."

Lawmakers in the lower chamber took less than a minute Thursday to pass by voice vote a bill authorizing the State Board of Insurance Commissioners to regulate insurance securities. The measure now goes to the Senate.

Present insurance stocks are not regulated by the state in Texas and this measure, by Rep. Joe Pyle of Fort Worth, would require a "full and fair disclosure of the character of insurance securities." The board could deny registration of any insurance stocks it finds are worthless or involve fraud.

MEXICO'S TOURIST APPROACH ACCENTUATES THE NEGATIVE

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 18-UP—Mexico's Tourist Bureau is asking visitors to stay away from Mexico City.

The Bureau says a current travel boom has crowded all first-class hotels and people who have to live in second-class quarters might get a bad impression of the country.

US, Chiang Reports On Battle Different

TAIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 18-UP—Conflicting Chinese Nationalist official reports said a Communist task force wiped out a Chinese Communist fleet of 14 vessels Friday in an air-sea battle 120 miles north of Formosa.

The Navy said a fleet led by deputy commander Rear Adm. Li Yu-Shu sank three "sizeable" gunboats and two landing craft in a morning battle off Taishan Island southwest of Nanchi and "almost completely destroyed or damaged" the remainder.

Col. Lu Ta, Nationalist military spokesman, said planes and warships sank seven of the landing craft carrying 2,000 troops and damaged four other Red vessels. Lu indicated the battle was "still continuing."

Battle Lasts an Hour The Navy, which said the battle ended at 9 a.m., reported the Communist force was made up of two warships, four gunboats and eight landing craft. It said the battle lasted an hour. It was understood two Nationalist destroyers were involved in the attack.

Presence of Communist landing craft in the area led to immediate speculation the Communists might be preparing an attack on Nanchi, northernmost Nationalist island outpost.

They predicted snow for the Panhandle, upper South Plains and the west and north portions of North Central Texas.

A strong southerly flow of moist air off the Gulf causes clouds over Texas Friday and set the stage for showers which may turn into thunderstorms or snow as the cold front nears.

Rain or sprinkles were falling at mid-morning at El Paso, Waco, Dallas, Fort Worth, Lubbock, Mineral Wells and Del Rio.

Temperatures were expected to drop to lows of perhaps 15 degrees in the Panhandle and upper South Plains Friday night and into the 20s in extreme northeast Texas.

Forecasters said most of the state would get some of the rain — or snow in the northern part — but it would be heaviest in the eastern part of West Texas and in North Central and Northeast Texas Friday night.

The Weather Bureau ordered wind warnings posted for all Corps of Engineers lakes in North Central Texas, predicted winds of 30 miles an hour on Lake Texoma and 25 miles an hour on the others.

Texarkana, in the extreme northeast corner of the state, nosed out the Panhandle Friday for the lowest temperature in the state, recording a low of 43 at Dalhart, the lowest in the Panhandle.

Brownsville was the warmest place in the state, with the temperature falling no lower than 67 degrees during the night.

The accusation, fired by James E. Taylor, executive director of the Texas Motor Transportation Association, came as House members observed their first five-day work week of the 54th session. The Senate was in weekend adjournment.

Taylor said the "weight-distance" truck tax, introduced this week by Rep. Charles D. Kirkham Jr. of Cleburne, was "the climax of years of effort by the rails to destroy their competitors."

Kirkham said his proposal was an "alternative" to an administration-backed measure to boost the state gasoline tax from the present four-cents a gallon to six-cents. The revenue would be used for highway construction.

Ex-Pugilist Admits Theft Of Jewelry

HOUSTON, Feb. 18 (UP)—A 26-year-old former prizefighter has admitted a $22,700 jewelry burglary in Hobbs, N. M., but even a lie detector couldn't get out of him where he hid the jewels.

Police gave the lie detector test Wednesday night to Billy Gene Peters, who was arrested in Brownsville last Friday. They said he admitted the burglary but wouldn't tell where he hid the loot.

Detective H. K. Thompson said "he's smarter than the detector." Thompson entered the case last December when he got a tip that "a suitcase full of jewels is floating around the Houston-Beaumont area." The tip led to the arrest of Peters' father, Leon, 58, and recovery of some of the jewels.

Ever since the burglary last Aug. 8 pieces of the stolen jewelry have been showing up in pawnshops in Houston, San Antonio and Corpus Christi. But some $18,000 worth of loot is still missing, police said.

Both father and son have been charged with burglary and felony theft in Hobbs and the younger Peters is charged additionally with robberies in Brownsville, Rockport and Aransas Pass.

Movie Projectionist Refuses To Run Controversial Film

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 (UP)—Two motion picture operators, through documents filed in federal court, said Thursday they had refused to run machines to show a movie here because they believed it helped foster communism.

Their views were contained in answers to a suit filed by the Independent Production Corp., Inc., producers of the movie "Salt of the Earth."

Old News Rehashed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (UP)—News in the papers 100 years ago was pointed mostly in the direction of George Washington's birthday anniversary, which was just around the calendar corner.

The monument in honor of our first leader was growing from the ground up at the moment. But it wasn't growing very fast. What was needed was money, and it was coming in slow.

Pastboard models of the proposed monument were placed around town, with money boxes in front begging for a pittance here and a dime there.

The lead editorial in one of the main papers of the day, pleaded: "People of the District and congress and visitors. Contribute to one of the best and most patriotic modes of celebrating the birthday of the father of our country. Contribute on this occasion to the erection of this monument."

There must have been some suspicion of whether there was harmony among those in charge of the project. A "select committee of the House" met and "examined the officers of the Washington National Monument Society, its architects, its builders, its books and all its transactions — with the view of removing from the mind of the country the distrust which prevails regarding the character of those having the work in charge."

An editorial in one paper commented, about Washington's birthday: "Whatever there is to be of ceremony has not been heralded with the usual spirit... but we doubt not there will be respectful observance of the day which gave to the country and the world one of the immortal names not born to die."

Today, we speak of millions for new buildings. The House of Representatives in 1855 was concerned with a bill calling for $300,000 "to continue work on treasury building." That big bank of stone still stands solid as "the rock of" and in the home of records, uncountable on the inside and also of uncounted pesky starlings in the caves on the outside.

On Page 1 of the local papers a year ago there was a lot of trivia. One person announced in a paid classified ad that someone he had lost "4 or 5" keys and would love to have them back. So much, in fact, he said at so much per word, that he would be willing to get up a liberal reward, "as well as thanks."

There was to be auction that week for 50 barrels of hams and flour, "just received." "Fine for family use," the advertisement said.

Mystery Sub Hunted Off Florida Coast

MIAMI, Feb. 18 (UP)—Navy planes searched Thursday for a mysterious submarine seen without a brief instant in the moonlight by two Coast Guardsmen before it disappeared on the Florida coast.

The sailors sighted the craft 30 miles from the Air Force secret guided missile center at Cocoa, Fla.

"It was definitely a submarine," they said. "A Navy spokesman said the United States had no submarines operating in the area. He added that it had not yet been decided whether to label the craft friendly or hostile."

The object was sighted by MBI-C Clifton W. Benson of Wilmington, N. C., and Engineer 2-C Charlie Jones of Columbus, Ga. They said the oblong conning tower of the submarine appeared briefly in the moonlight about 4 a.m. Wednesday.

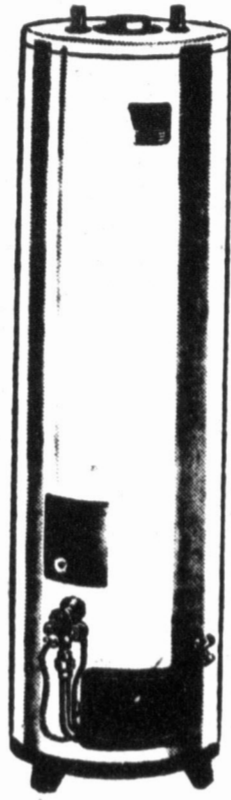

"I've been around boats all my life and that was definitely a submarine," Benson said. "There's no doubt about it. The deck was awash when we first spotted her, but I could see the conning tower."

The Navy's destroyers were originally designed to carry one specific weapon — the torpedo. Their primary mission now is anti-submarine warfare.

Dallasite Plunges To Death

DALLAS, Feb. 18 (UP)—John Moroney, 55-year-old member of one of Dallas' first families, jumped off a patio atop the 11-story Santa Fe building annex Wednesday night to his death.

Mrs. T. F. Fry, a switchboard operator for radio station WFAA, said she saw Moroney go out on the patio and looked out to see him walking toward the edge. Before she could call out he dropped his blue overcoat over a protective wall and then dove over head first.

The radio station's studios look out on the parapet. The body was horribly crushed when it hit Jackson Street in front of the building only a few blocks from the heart of downtown Dallas.

A note found on his body directed the "contents of my billfold" be turned over to his wife, Mrs. Ines Moroney of Dallas. He had $851 in cash and a $500 check in his pocket.

Moroney was an oilman and attorney and retired in February, 1951, as chief of the legal department of Interstate Theaters. He sold his stock at that time for $840,000.

Moroney had been missing since Wednesday, when he failed to keep an appointment with his tax attorney.

Underground Water Talks

(Continued from page one) ground water district was initiated in Carson County with 150 signing in Feb. 1954, according to A. L. Stovall, chairman of the Carson County Water Users Association, the group set up to back the petition.

The pros and cons of the underground water district will be heard at the Feb. 25 meeting of state water engineers in Panhandle. Flip Breedlove of Clarendon said there will be a meeting there Monday at 7:30 p.m. at which Broadhurst is again expected to talk. McLean will have a meeting in the vocational agriculture building this afternoon, at which time they will name their delegate to next Friday's meeting.

Broadhurst said that all of the nine counties should send delegations to the meeting to present evidence to the board of water engineers as to why or why not they should be included in the district.

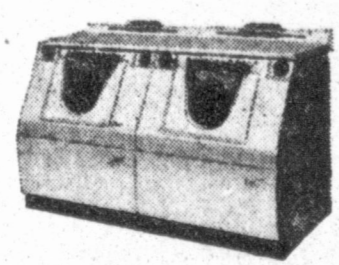

Representing Gray County will be Loyal Bird, delegate-at-large; Irvin Cole, from Pct. 2; Fred Haiduk, Pct. 3; and John Harnly from Pct. 1. McLean, in Pct. 4, will select its delegate this afternoon. County Agent Ralph Thomas is expected to accompany the Gray County delegation to the meeting of the board of water engineers.

Among the others attending Thursday's meeting were County Judge Bruce Parker, Jim Strawn, unit conservationist from Gray County, J. E. McCrary, secretary of the Carson County Water Users Association and H. M. Nichols, Carson County agent.

Washburn, Friend To Be Arraigned

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Feb. 18 --UP-- District Attorney Aubrey Stokes said he will ask for an April or May trial at Friday's arraignment of Harry Washburn, 38-year-old Houston contractor, and ex-convict Andrew H. Nelson, charged with murder.

The murder charges resulted from a Jan. 19 car-bomb killing of San Angelo social leader Mrs. Helen Harris Weaver, 52.

District Judge Joe L. Mays said he would not set bond for Washburn at the arraignment Friday.

Washburn Indicted

A Tom Green county grand jury returned indictments Feb. 12 against Washburn, former son-in-law of the dead woman, and Nelson, a 45-year-old admitted burglar.

Sub A-Device To Be Dropped

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 18 --UP-- The Atomic Energy Commission announced early Friday the first nuclear device explosion of its 1955 series will be touched off at 12:30 p.m. est.

An Air Force bomber was scheduled to drop the device over the Yucca Flat testing ground, site of 31 previous tests.

The shot originally had been set for 9:30 a.m. but was set back three hours about 45 minutes before the operation was to begin. Some 50 planes were expected to take part in the test but ground troops were not to be used.

The device ready for firing was a substitute for the atomic shot originally scheduled for the opening of the current test series.

AEC officials had planned to drop another, and more powerful, atomic device from a 500-foot steel tower but adverse weather conditions forced postponement of the firing four times.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

NOW IT'S VEGETABLES! ... and even some fruits! That's what they're making jewelry of now. And it's not imitation either — it's the real thing — only gold vacuumed, or something like that. And all to make us women look more attractive, or make us feel like we are anyway. If you're intrigued into reading further, the article below is by Elizabeth Toomey of the United Press.

If your husband gives you a bog whortleberry leaf on your next birthday, don't be surprised. Shortly after that you may be pinning a broccolo tip to your suit lapel, clipping a couple of strawberries on your ears and jangling a bracelet of carrots and radishes. This is a new kind of jewelry, which started with the experiments of a Swiss chemist before World War II and now has been purchased patents and all, by an American businessman. He is building a factory in Puerto Rico to mass produce the unique product.

"Anything that has pores we can vacuum vaporize," Stuart Reichstein, vice president of the New Imperial Crown, Inc., said proudly. He held in his hand a delicate, feathery pin of gold.

"Parsley!" he exclaimed. "Who has ever done anything like this? Leonardo da Vinci couldn't have done it at his prime."

A man standing nearby muttered, "There's parsley under them that gold pins," and Reichstein frowned.

"The jewelry is neither sprayed nor dipped, but vacuum vaporized with 24 karat gold," he explained. "The process releases the inert gases from the substance and replaces it with gold. A leaf or a vegetable retains its exact natural form. Each piece of jewelry is slightly different."

Reichstein had a sample case filled with pins and earrings which were made in Switzerland and will be sold here until the Puerto Rican factory gets in operation later this spring.

The Swiss sent school children out on leaf-gathering forays. That bog whortleberry, for instance, is a European blueberry bush which makes a gold leaf pin about two inches long.

The current stock also includes Alpine blackberry leaves, wormwood leaves, jasmine leaves and golden currant leaves.

"We'll include many new things when we get started," Reichstein predicted. "We plan to use open pods of peas, small carrots, broccolo, asparagus and small radishes. We may try to do something with tropical foliage, too. There's no limit."

Women Of Holy Souls Parish Council Hear Talk By Rev. Edmund Hartigan

Rev. Edmund Hartigan of St. Joseph's parish, Amarillo, was guest speaker at the recent luncheon meeting of Holy Souls Parish Council of Catholic Women. The event was in observance of National Catholic Press month.

The women in Christ's life was the topic of Father Hartigan's speech. He pointed out that Christ exalted the vocation of womanhood, and performed several miracles for women.

"Jesus paid his debt to his mother by kindness to other women," he explained. In conclusion, he stated: "Seek Him for He is the same Christ today as He was yesterday."

Father Moynihan thanked the hostesses for their work and Father Hartigan for his talk.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. R. E. McKernan, council president, introduced the out-of-town guests. They were Mrs. P. M. Carroll of Phillips, diocesan president of Catholic women; Mrs. Sam Kotara of Groom, president of the Pampa district of Catholic women; Mrs. C. H. Mihm of Berger, diocesan chairman of public relations; Mrs. Fred Haiduk of White Deer, district chairman of social service and immigration; Mrs. Louis Zaveranik and Mrs. James Wolf, both of Phillips, guests of Mrs. Carroll and Sister Mother Mary Magdeline, inspector general of schools, San Antonio.

McNamara announced that the Altar Society luncheon will be Mar. 17, with the losers of the membership drive entertaining the winners and new members. The Society will also sponsor a rummage sale Feb. 25 and 26 in the Duncan building, next to Johnson's cafe.

Mrs. Mike Roche, chairman of social service and immigration, reported she received a letter of thanks for packages sent to Germany in December. It was announced that Mrs. James W. Archer and Mrs. W. B. Herr arranged the display of books, magazines and newspapers, honoring the Press month. The women were reminded of the Parish Council meeting Mar. 27, to be a Day of Recollection for all women of the parish and those in adjoining towns. Closing prayer was given by Mrs. P. M. Carroll of Phillips.

Cereal Foods Talks Given Merten HDC

Cereal foods for breakfast was the program presented to members of the Merten Home Demonstration Club recently by Mrs. V. Smith and Mrs. L. F. Watt.

Whole grain products furnish carbohydrates, energy-giving foods, the women pointed out. Inadequate energy foods lead to fatigue and impaired functioning of the various parts of the body.

Excessive energy food leads to overweight, they advised. The most important cereals that have vitamins and minerals are wheat, oats, rye and corn. Thiamine in these products acts as a protection for the nervous system and stimulates body growth, they pointed out.

Rolled oats, cooked in milk and scarples, were served during the social period.

Attending were Mmes. Jack Prather, Archie Maness, John Brandon, T. G. Groves, D. A. Rife, V. Smith, Jack Howard, V. S. Day and L. F. Watt. Mmes. Bert Jones and John E. Cornett were welcomed as new members.

RUTH MILLET

"Believe me, the mother-in-law problem is no joke," writes a woman reader.

She goes on to explain: "I have honestly tried in every way I know how to be a kind and considerate daughter-in-law. But while pretending to like me, my mother-in-law does everything she can to belittle me to my husband and to friends."

"The truth doesn't seem to stand in her way. For instance, she will say to friends who ask how my husband and I are getting along, 'I really see them so seldom,' even though she has dinner with us on an average of twice a week.

"In such ways as that she can give the impression that I neglect her, without saying a word against me."

"That is just a small incident, but it is typical of the way she manages to put me in a bad light. I don't know how to combat her tactics, and so she is making my life miserable."

You can't change your mother-in-law. But you can keep her from making you miserable just by refusing to take her attitude that seriously.

Simply say to yourself, "my mother-in-law isn't fond of me and would rather put me in a bad light than in a good one. Nevertheless she is my husband's mother and I must treat her with consideration and kindness. If my treatment of her is not repaid in kind that is to her discredit, not mine."

That sensible attitude will keep you from being miserable and eventually your mother-in-law's hidden barbs will fool no one who really knows you.

For actions speak louder than words, and if your actions show you are a good daughter-in-law you'll get credit for being one.

Decorations followed the theme of the bride-elect's colors of pink and turquoise. The serving table was covered with a white cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink gladioli. Turquoise candles flanked the centerpiece. Mrs. Ivan Day and Mrs. J. M. Baker presided at the silver tea and coffee service.

Mrs. Vernon Day registered the guests. Miss Janice Miller assisted Miss Day with her gifts, and Mrs. Marie Wade greeted the guests at the door.

F.AROUK'S FRIEND IRMA

Irma was excited. Irma Capece Minutolo, that is. She's excited because Ek-King Farouk, whose constant companion she has been for the past 18 months, has given her permission to go into the movies. But he says she has to be dignified. That irks Irma a bit. "I would be awful good in roles where I have to wear a bathing suit. I'm a good swimmer," she says.

Disc Jockeys End Marathon Record Play

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18.—UP—Two tired disc jockeys, who played the same wacky tune more than 1,300 times in a 59-hour radio marathon stunt, admitted Thursday they had a "bear by the tail" in "Shiggy Boom."

The two disc jockeys—Bill Stanley, 31, and Bill Elliott, 38—went for more than two days without sleep and with only coffee and doughnuts to eat, but they said WNOE program director Bill Stewart was the real hero of the endurance contest.

"He started it out and then drove us on," said Stanley, still dazed by the wail of the rhythm and blues tune. Radio station WNOE went on the "Shiggy" jag at 6 a.m. on Monday and, despite protests from listeners, continued until Mayor Chep Morrison "ordered" it to stop at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Stanley and Elliott said they did it for "the spirit of Mardi Gras" but admitted that the nationwide publicity kept the platter spinning. "We were just going to spin Shiggy for a few hours," said Stanley, "but then it got to rolling and we couldn't let go. People were calling us from all over the country."

"How do I feel? Man I'm numb. I got no feeling left in my arms. I wore the same socks all the time and it got so I couldn't stand myself."

Stanley said the fear of losing their jobs hung heavy over the transmitter station where they were barricaded in the early hours of the stunt.

"I thought they were going to fire me but Stewart said if anyone was going to get fired it would be him, so we went," Stanley said.

'Little Men' Cause Most Big Wars

By CHARLES M. MCCANN, United Press Foreign Analyst. The invasion of the Romanian Legation in Bern, Switzerland, by anti-Communist Romanians is a reminder of the trouble little men can cause in the relations between nations.

It was a group of little men, like those concerned in the Bern incident, who caused World War I when they assassinated Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria-Hungary.

It is a reminder also of the system under which a country is conceded sovereignty over the premises its embassies and legations occupy in foreign capitals.

The Bern police, for instance, had to get the permission of the Romanian Charge d'Affaires to enter the grounds of the Legation from which he and his staff had fled.

Little Men Slay Archduke. Archduke Francis Ferdinand was slain at Sarajevo on Austrian soil by little men who were Austrian subjects. But the assassins were Bosnian Serbs, who opposed Austrian rule. Austria blamed Serbia, holding that a Serbian Terrorist organization fomented the assassination and provided the weapons for it. The resultant crisis caused the First World War.

Between the two world wars, there was an international crisis involving France, Yugoslavia and Italy when little men belonging to a Croatian Terrorist organization assassinated King Alexander of Yugoslavia and French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou at Marseille, France, on Oct. 9, 1934.

It developed that the terrorist organization had its headquarters in what was then Fascist Italy, and was encouraged by Mussolini. Italy refused to surrender the men behind the assassination plot.

Savinkov's Attempted Murder. It was a comparatively little man, Boris Savinkov, who tried to get Bolshevik Russia and Germany at war again in 1918 by organizing the assassination of the German ambassador to Russia.

The Bolsheviks and Germany had signed a peace treaty, while the war continued in Western Europe. Savinkov, a veteran Social Revolutionary Terrorist of Czarist days, had turned against the Bolsheviks. He organized the assassination, on July 6, 1918, of Count Wilhelm Harff-Mirbach, the German ambassador. Savinkov hoped Germany would declare war against the Bolsheviks but at that time, the Germans were too busy fighting on the western front to bother much about Mirbach.

Incidentally, it was Savinkov who organized the plot to assassinate Nikolai Lenin on Aug. 29, 1918, by a girl named Kaplan. Had Lenin been killed, instead of being merely wounded, the course of world history certainly would have been changed.

Progress Made In Converting Sea Water Into Drinking Stuff

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—UP—The government is making promising progress toward conversion of sea and brackish water into fresh water at a practical cost.

That day of cheap roasts, however, may be from five to 10 years away, a government expert said Thursday.

However, expert David S. Jenkins said American researchers can learn a lot from foreign scientists.

Jenkins is director of the government's saline water conversion program. He wants Congress to extend the life of the program and to increase the money for such work from $2 million to $8 million.

"Foreign scientists in such countries as Holland, Belgium, France, Italy, Australia, and South Africa are doing great work on the problem," he told the United Press.

"We can jolly well learn a lot from them a sort of foreign aid in reverse. I've visited some of the countries and what I've learned is that we've got a lot to learn."

Jenkins reported to the House Interior committee Wednesday on what progress is being made in this country in changing sea to fresh water.

He said that some 10 laboratory processes are under study, and some 10 more are "gleams in our eyes." But the most promising found so far, he said, is the Hickman still for large-scale vapor compression. "Although yet in its infancy," he said, "this process... may make possible production of fresh water from sea water for about one-fourth of the cost of distilling sea water by the most economical process in use at present."

Missouri Bank Bandits Sought

SOUTHWEST CITY, Mo., Feb. 18.—UP—County and federal officers continued a search Thursday for three armed bandits who Wednesday took about $50,000 in a bank robbery here.

New Coffee Price Is Set

BOGOTA, Columbia, Feb. 18.—UP—The government Wednesday night decreed a new price for green Colombian coffee in a move to protect its main export item from the fall of prices on the world coffee markets.

An average minimum price of 57 cents (United States) a pound was set for various types of mild Colombian coffee in the decree announced via a nationwide radio broadcast by Finance Minister Carlos Villaveces.

The minimum will be paid to producers by the Colombian Coffee Federation and private companies which buy coffee for export. The government will make up the difference to the purchasers if the world market price drops below the 57 cents a pound level.

Southwest City is in the very corner of southwest Missouri, where Oklahoma and Arkansas meet.

Hit-And-Run Accident Fatal

HOUSTON, Feb. 18.—UP—A 24-year old waitress was killed and her husband seriously injured in a hit-and-run traffic collision Thursday but police soon captured the driver who fled the scene.

The victim was Mrs. Beatrice Howell. She was riding in the taxicab of her husband, Douglas, 26, when the cab was rammed at a street corner by another car. Police said Gilbert Cantu, 20, a delivery man who was driving the other car, ran from the scene but was captured a few blocks away. Mrs. Howell died at Jefferson Davis hospital. Howell was admitted to the hospital with a fractured back.

Police charged Cantu with negligent homicide, failure to stop and render aid, and driving without a license. Police said he also ran a stop sign.

SEEKING AND FINDING GOD

"Ye shall seek Me, and find Me, when ye shall search for Me with your whole heart." Jeremiah 29:13.

Christianity is essentially a seeking religion. The Bible story almost begins with the account of God's seeking Adam, who had sinned against God and was trying to Hide from Him. Jesus said of Himself, "I am come to seek and to save that which is lost." So God is constantly seeking man.

But the Bible tells us also that man must seek God. God takes the initiative; He is always seeking man. But man must seek God. As the prodigal son sought his father — as any offender must seek out the offended party to try to make amends — so must man seek God. Isaiah calls upon man to "seek ye the Lord while He may be found."

Man must seek God with his heart. God can never be found merely by a quest of mind. To be sure, man exercises his intelligence in his search for God, but it is with his heart that he finds God. "Ye shall find Me when ye shall search for Me with your heart." This is because the heart is the seat of the emotions; and God is not found simply by intellectual inquiry nor by the doing of deeds, but God is found as man gives his heart to the search.

But the Scripture says that God will be found of man when man seeks Him with the WHOLE heart. Many go about searching for God half-heartedly, and wonder that God does not reveal Himself to them in all His fullness. We have been told that we must love the Lord our God with ALL our heart. And when we search for God, it must be with the whole heart. Love knows only one unpardonable sin. It is the sin of apathy, or of half-heartedness. If the darkened, lost, groping soul would find God then let him hear God say, "Ye shall seek Me, and find Me, when ye shall search for Me with your whole heart."

Harvesters, Bobcats Resume Series Tonight

Game Is A Must For Local Quint

By BUCK FRANCIS Pampa News Sports Editor

The District I-AAAA basketball playoff will be resumed tonight at Harvester Fieldhouse when the home-standing Hustlin' Harvesters hope to get back in the running in the championship series with the San Angelo Bobcats.

The Bobcats surprised the Harvesters in the series opener Tuesday at San Angelo, 54-48.

The Harvesters must win tonight to revive their hopes for the district crown. Should the Harvesters turn the trick tonight, then a third game would be played Saturday night, also at Harvester Fieldhouse, to determine the District I-AAAA championship.

The Harvesters captured the Northern I-AAAA Division while San Angelo won the Southern Division.

Winner of the overall District I-AAA championship series will meet Jefferson of El Paso in bi-district play next week. Jefferson gained the right to represent 2-AAAA last night when Austin EP upset El Paso High in the final game.

Had El Paso won last night she would have tied Jefferson for the title and a playoff would have been necessary.

The Harvesters went through their final paces yesterday before taking on the invading Bobcats tonight.

Ken Hinkle and Benny Cartwright have just about recovered fully from their illness that plagued them on the trip to San Angelo Monday.

Both boys have been taking shots and each took part in yesterday's final pre-series drill.

Gary Griffin suffered a slight ankle sprain in the workout the Harvesters held Wednesday immediately upon returning from San Angelo. But Big Zeke is expected to be ready for full time duty tonight.

The other two starters, E. Jay McIlvain and Buddy Sharp are reported to be in fine physical shape.

The two centers of tonight's game, Gary Griffin and Curtis Crook, are the top scorers for their respective clubs. Griffin has poured in 524 points in 25 games while Curtis Crook, 6-5 Bobcat pivot man, has scored 385 points in 22 games.

In Tuesday's series opener, Crook hit 20 points and Griffin 17. Rounding out the top five scorers among the Harvesters are E. Jay McIlvain, 413; Ken Hinkle, 231; Benny Cartwright, 170; and Buddy Sharp, 132.

Following Crook for the Bobcats are Bobby Joe Walker, 200; Frank Trevino, 171; Billy Pope, 87; and Albert Miranda, 77.

San Angelo left home yesterday and stopped last night at Plainview for a workout in the Plainview High School gym. The team was due in Pampa late this afternoon.

Chisox Expect Plenty From Walt Dropp

By UNITED PRESS

Big Walt (Moose) Dropp can forget all that fancy-pants stuff the Detroit Tigers were trying to teach him and go back to swinging from his socks.

That's the official word Thursday from General Manager Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox, who acquired the Tigers last fall in an announced effort to add home run punch to their lineup.

Dropp hit exactly four homers last season, but Lane says it wasn't his fault.

Because, said Lane, Dropp was told by the Tigers to stop slugging for homers and try instead to be a "spray" hitter who whacked singles to all fields. The result was his average zoomed from .248 the previous year to .261. But his run-batted-in dropped from 96 to 44.

Lane Makes Statement "We did not acquire Dropp to spray the ball around the park but to aim for the fences," said Lane. "He should be back into the 85 to 100 RBI category, which is not too much to expect."

Dropp will be the Sox' cleanup hitter. Manager Marty Marion already has announced, and Lane said he'll get plenty of chances to clean up. Lane pointed out that the first three men in the Sox' batting order, Chico Carrasquel, Nellie Fox, and Minnie Minoso, "reached first base 780 times in 1954."

While Lane happily counted homers that haven't been hit yet, Arnold Johnson, owner of the new Kansas City A's, just as happily counted cash.

Johnson disclosed that the team already has sold "slightly more" tickets than the 304,666 sold by the A's in all their last season at Philadelphia last year. Johnson also said the renovation work on Municipal Stadium was behind schedule, but that 30,700 seats would be ready for opening day.

Other Teams Sign Players Meanwhile several other teams announced the signing of players, but there were no "big names" in the group.

Relief pitcher Ernie Johnson, who had a 5-2 record last season, became the 34th Milwaukee Brave to sign, leaving 13 players still out of the fold.

The Philadelphia Phillies signed shortstop Bobby Morgan, who batted .268 homers but batted only .216 after being acquired from Brooklyn last season.

The Detroit Tigers signed outfielder Jim DeLugg, a 24th Mariner, along with pitcher Dick Mattow, who had a 5-4 record, and pitcher Bob Schultz, who was purchased from Pittsburgh after having an 18-11 record at New Orleans.

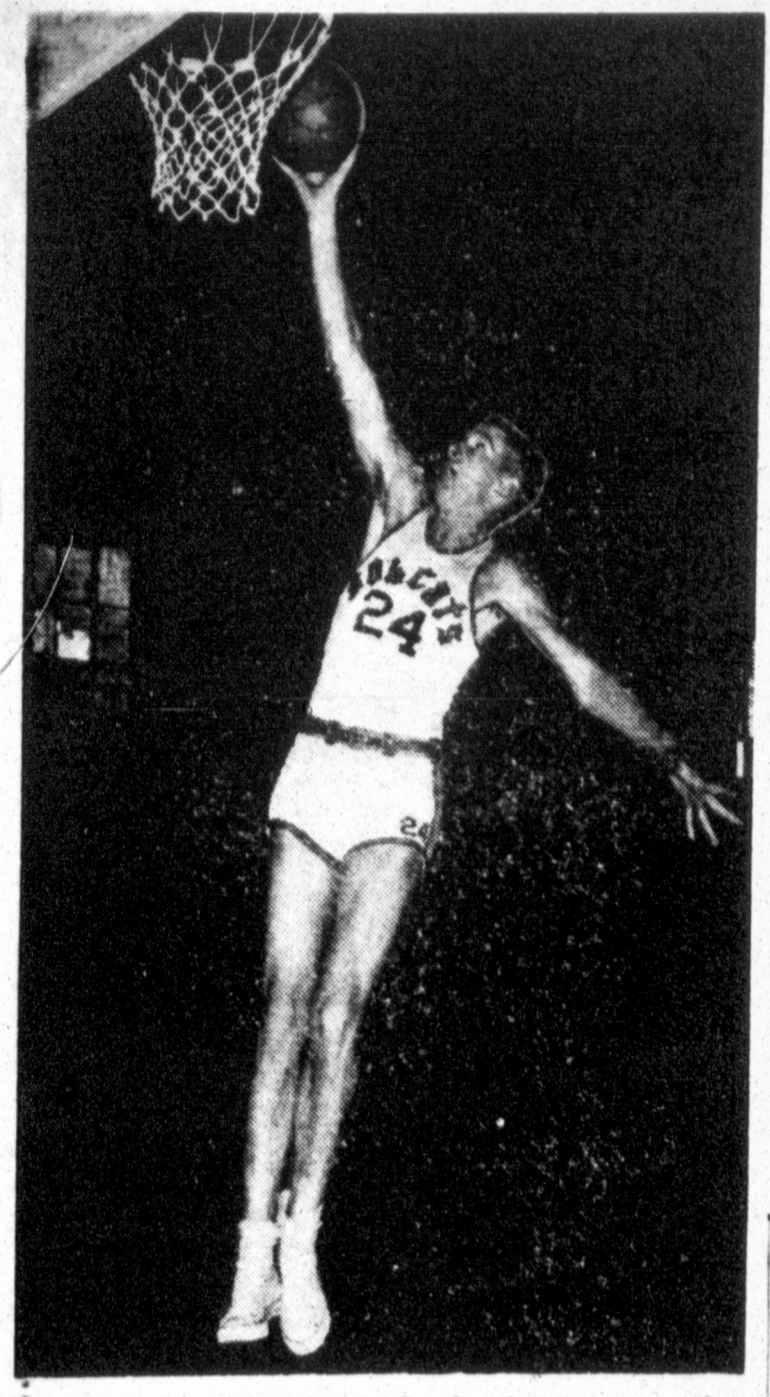

The Boston Red Sox signed pitchers Truman Clevenger (2-4 with Boston) and Al Curtis (3-5 at Louisville), and outfielder Al Van Alstyne, who hit .279 for Louisville.

The Chicago Cubs signed rookie pitcher John Andrew, who had a 2-9 record at Shreveport where he was voted "most valuable player."

And the Cleveland Indians signed a "bonus baby," 15-year-old pitcher Al Womack of West Columbia, S.C.

Bears Sign Guard

CHICAGO, Feb. 18--(UPI)--Kline Gilbert, offensive guard for the Chicago Bears, has signed for the 1955 National Football League season with the Bears. Gilbert of Mississippi has played both guard and tackle in his two seasons with the club.

BOBCAT GIANT -- Curtis Crook, above, was easily the outstanding star for the San Angelo Bobcats Tuesday night when the 'Cats upset the Harvesters in the opening game of their District I-AAAA championship series at San Angelo, 54-48. Crook, 6-7 center, poured in 20 points and got a majority of the Bobcat rebounds. The series resumes tonight at Harvester Fieldhouse. (Photo Courtesy San Angelo Standard-Times)

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

AN AMARILLO SPORTS scribe, apparently, is trying to get the Harvesters defeated in the District I-AAAA championship series with the San Angelo Bobcats which resumes tonight at Harvester Fieldhouse.

The Sandie scribe, Putt Powell, has already been given an "assist" in getting the Harvesters beaten in the first game of the series Tuesday night by something he put in print.

And Putt is continuing to belittle the San Angelo Bobcats which would raise the ire of any athletic team.

The more he runs down the Bobcats, the harder it is going to be for the Harvesters to win the I-AAAA championship series.

As we brought out in this space yesterday, Coach Norman Mullins of San Angelo was grateful to Putt for getting his charges fired up for Tuesday's game.

Mullins, through sports editor Bob Millburn of the San Angelo Standard-Times, got hold of a recent Amarillo paper which contained a "nasty" article, so far as San Angelo was concerned, written by the Putter.

We didn't know what the article said until our return from San Angelo. Here is a portion of the article and it is no wonder that the Bobcats got "fighting mad."

"The San Angelo team couldn't win in the Northern Division and they would have not even finished in the first division if the district had not been divided this year."

He wrote further that the San Angelo-Pampa series should be called the "courtesy series" and that there would be no need for a third game in the playoff series.

This apparently, was calculated to create a sense of complacency among the Harvesters.

The San Angelo coach put this article to good use. He posted it in the Bobcat dressing room to let the cagers read it over.

This, of course, fired the Bobcats up and they went out and played better than they knew they were normally capable of.

Mullins had only a two-word comment to make when he was during the regular season, then asked by the San Angelo sports scribe as to what he thought was the turning point of the game. The brief comment was: "Putt Powell."

And Putt isn't letting up on the Bobcats. Mullins, you can be sure, is collecting all of Putt's articles during this series.

Here is what the Putter had to say in his column Thursday: "Jefferson of El Paso clinched a bid for the District 2-AAAA basketball championship by beating Austin 78-65, last night. El Paso High is tonight at Harvester Fieldhouse, 7-45, a play-off will be fought Saturday night."

"The winners will meet Pampa in bi-district series next week. I believe that the Harvesters must win tonight at Harvester Fieldhouse (Friday) night and again Saturday night at Pampa."

What they will. San Angelo had its hour of glory Tuesday night with a 96-48 victory and Amarillo 4-3.

Putt, anyway, contradicted himself in two of his articles this week. In a Monday a.m. story, Powell wrote the following: "Pampa's favored Harvesters finally won the District I-AAAA Northern Division basketball championship but not until they edged Amarillo's surprising Sandies in a 'sudden death' playoff game Saturday night at Fair Park Coliseum before 5,000 fans."

And in the final standings, Putt has Pampa with a 5-2 record and Amarillo 4-3.

Baylor Clinic Attracts 110

WACO, Tex., Feb. 18--(UPI)--A three-day football coaching clinic attended by more than 110 high school coaches from Texas and Louisiana entered its second day Friday.

Thursday, the group heard Baylor Coach George Sauter and former New York Giant's professional coach Steve Owen. Sauter discussed the "running game and ball handling," and Owen lectured on the "umbrella defense" which he made famous.

Among the coaches attending the clinic are A. E. Kotrola of Houston S. F. Austin; Gene McCollum of Port Neches; O. A. Phillips of Nederland; Byron Rheme of Dallas Sunset; Bill Sheffeld of Lufkin; Leo Buckley of Kilteen; Bill Stages of Corpus Christi; Gene Mayfield of Littlefield and Zac Henderson of Jena, La.

Jefferson Clinches 2-4A Cage Crown

EL PASO, Feb. 18--(Special)--Austin beat El Paso 61-55 Thursday night to hand 2-AAAA title to Jefferson. El Paso, defending champion, had eliminated Yalata 38-33 Wednesday night. Jefferson beat Austin 78-65 Wednesday.

Jefferson finished with 6-2 record winning last five games while El Paso and Yalata tied for second, with 5-3 marks.

Mike Furman of Austin killed El Paso with 22 points in the final game to the district scoring match by El Paso's Jack Eton in 1950 and tied by Yalata's John Holmes this year. Holmes totaled 154 points to break old Mark of 152 held by Eton.

Otto Munoz helped Furman with 12 points and Bob Dunn added 10. Joe Chavez led El Paso with 10.

College 5s Put Pro Rules To Trial

NEW YORK, Feb. 18--(UPI)--Four of seven eastern college basketball coaches who watched Manhattan College defeat New York University, 78-61, under professional rules said Friday they liked what they saw.

Two of the coaches said they would have to see more college games played under National Basketball Association rules before deciding whether they liked the idea. Only one coach who was polled after Thursday night's Madison Square Garden game said he did not want the pro rules in the college game.

Using NBA rules meant Manhattan and NYU used a 24-second limit on field goal attempts, eliminated the college one-and-one bonus rule and zone defense and used a 12-foot foul lane instead of a six-foot with the defending team occupying the two inside positions or free throws. They also were charged two free throws for backcourt fouls, dropped the automatic two-foul shots in the last three minutes and were allowed five personals per team per quarter. Two shots were charged for each foul thereafter. They played four 10-minute quarters.

'Dog-Fight' In Lone Star Loop

By UNITED PRESS

A three-way, down-to-the-wire battle shaped up Friday for the Lone Star Conference basketball title, with defending champion East Texas, Southwest Texas and S. F. Austin tied.

East Texas New a chance to take over the undisputed lead Thursday night as the Lions bowed to S. F. Austin on the latter's home floor at Nacogdoches 69-59.

Southwest Texas pulled up even with S. F. Austin atop the circuit with a 7-3 record as the Bobcats trimmed Texas A&I 78 to 45 at Kingsville.

Charles, Norkus Pitted In TV Bout

NEW YORK, Feb. 18--(UPI)--Ezzard Charles will be the "question mark of the year" when he faces slugger Charley Norkus in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

What kind of a fighter is he now, at 33, after two beatings by heavy-fisted Rocky Marciano and after five months of idleness?

He'll provide the answer as he tries to start his fourth campaign to recapture the heavyweight crown. He and 28-year-old Norkus, of Port Washington, N.Y., are slated for 10 rounds, nationally televised and broadcast (NBC) at 9 p.m. est.

Cincinnati's Ezzard is favored at 3-1 because the odds-makers believe he can salvage enough of his former speed, skill and punch to beat Norkus, who is also a problem man. Norkus has been a notorious in-and-outter although he seems to have settled to serious fighting now.

Ex-champ Charles, ranked third among current heavyweight contenders, will start yelling for another title shot if he stops Norkus or beats the ex-Marine impressively.

Similarly, Norkus--ranked ninth--will start shouting for a challengers' fight with top contender Nino Valdes if he defeats Ezzard. Sept. 17 when he was stopped in the eighth round by champion Marciano.

Silver Foxes placed Joe Carrillo, Jose Rodriguez and Fernando Baquero on all-tournament team. Carrillo led rebounders with 129 snags in eight 2-AAA games and tallied 103 points. Rodriguez hit for 123 markers and Baquero and Rodriguez deadily from out. Carrillo best under basket but can score from further out and Rodriguez, also very dangerous under boards.

Nasario Olivera and Joe Esquivel other starters not to be ignored and Luis Martinez No. 1 sub must be watched too.

Floyd Scores 44 Furman Romps To 125 To 76 Victory

By UNITED PRESS

Is Darrell Floyd, Furman's "new Frank Selvy," an even greater scorer than fabulous Frank himself?

That was a question Dixie basketball fans could well ponder Friday in the wake of Floyd's latest exploit, a 44-point spree Thursday night to lead Furman in a typical 125-76 romp over Davidson and to push his nation-leading scoring average up to 35.9 points per game.

It now seems virtually certain that Floyd, 22-year-old dark-haired forward from Thomasville, N.C., will finish his junior season, as Selvy did, as the national scoring champion--and with an average far exceeding Selvy's 29.5 junior year average.

His 44 points Thursday night gave him 754 for the season, exceeding Selvy's junior total of 738. And his total of 1,148 points for two seasons is within hailing distance of Selvy's mark of 1,329 for his first two seasons.

St. Louis ranked 18th nationally, downed Wichita, 81-78, to send its Missouri Valley Conference record to 6-1. An even split of four remaining League games would clinch at least a title tie for the Utes.

St. Louis, ranked 18th nationally, downed Wichita, 81-78, to send its Missouri Valley Conference record to 6-1 with four games to play. However, the Billikens are only a half-game ahead of Tulsa (5-2).

In other leading games Thursday night: Manhattan, bound for the National Invitation Tournament, ran its record to 15-3 by trouncing New York University, 78-61, in a game played under the professional rules as an experiment. Niagara, also bound for the NIT, pushed its record to 16-5 by routing St. John's, 82-62; Dartmouth whipped Yale, 78-62; Washington and Lees upset Richmond, 91-85; Georgia Tech routed Georgia, 75-54; Utah State trounced Brigham Young's hopes of overtaking Utah in the Skyline Conference, 76-71; and Santa Clara edged San Jose State, 60-57.

Leading games Friday night include: Harvard - Pennsylvania, Lebanon Valley - Villanova, Texas Tech - Arizona, Bowling Green - Ohio University, Dayton-Cincinnati, Clemson - South Carolina, Penn State - Colgate, College of Pacific - Loyola (Calif.), Holy Cross-Fordham, Hardin Simmons - Texas Western, West Texas State - New Mexico A&M, Oregon State-Washington State, Oregon - Washington, Virginia Tech - Virginia, and Western Kentucky-Xavier.

Hogan Accepts Colonial Bid

PORT WORTH, Feb. 17--(UPI)--Bantam Ben Hogan, the semi-retired king of pro golf, Thursday accepted the No. 1 invitation to compete in the 10th annual Colonial National Invitation Golf tournament May 4-8.

76 Better Par In 1st Round Of Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 18--(UPI)--Seventy-six men bettered par and another 18 equalled it in the first round of the $12,500 Texas Open but big Mike Souchak's assault on PGA records pushed the former Duke football player out in front of them all Friday.

The Durham, N.C., golfer, in carding an 11-under-par Thursday for an individual round, shot a breath-taking back-nine 27 that not only matched his age but broke the PGA record of 28 for nine holes.

His was not the only brilliant golfing performance as the touring professionals showed wholesale contempt in near-perfect weather for the abbreviated Brackenridge Park course.

Freddie Haas Jr., of New Orleans was two strokes behind Souchak as golfers teed off for Thursday's second round. Haas couldn't miss with his putter Thursday and he came in with 23-29--62, John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., who needed only a birdie going in 18 to tie Souchak Thursday, instead double bogeyed the water-guarded last hole and was bailing with a 33-30--63.

Two foreign golfers, Al Balding of Toronto, Canada, and Peter Alford of Dorset, England, were next with 64.

Seven men had 66 Thursday: Mike Kirk of Louisville, Ky.; former National Amateur Champion Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex.; Jack Burke Jr., of Klamath Falls, N.Y.; Johnny Palmer of Charlotte, N.C.; Reece Alexander of Cleveland, Ohio; Paul McGuffin of Wichita, Kan., and Bob Rosburg of San Francisco.

The first round low amateur was Billy Green of Midland, Tex., with a 68.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18--(UPI)--Kline Gilbert, offensive guard for the Chicago Bears, has signed for the 1955 National Football League season with the Bears. Gilbert of Mississippi has played both guard and tackle in his two seasons with the club.

How To Budget

Wouldn't it be wonderful if each of us could adopt the same procedure the Government follows when we make out our budget? It would go something like this: He: "What should we do in the way of home improvement this year, dear?"

She: "What are you working on, your income tax or the budget?"

He: "The budget." She: "Oh, goody. That's such fun! It's so much fun to plan. And to know that whatever we want to buy we can insert in the budget and get it!"

He: "Well, not quite everything. Remember last year I wanted that two-tone Cadillac with the green sidewalls; the Chris Craft with the collapsible bar and two marine engines; the television set with built-in thought control; and the trip to Burma. The old man chiseled me down on practically everything. No green sidewalls, no collapsible bar, and I only got as far as Cairo."

She: "I know dear. He's awfully difficult at times. But I keep reminding you to tell him he can pass the costs off to the customers. After all, everyone else is budgeting up to the hilt. Why shouldn't we? The trouble with you is you're conservative. Put in at least 50 per cent more than you really need. Then if he cuts you down, you're bound to have what you want anyway."

He: "It's getting doggone difficult to figure out anything I really want anymore. That's the trouble! How about rebuilding the front half of our house this year..." and putting five more stories on our apartment house?"

She: "No wonder you never get any place. Why, that's ridiculous. He'll begin to think you're not worth what you're budgeted for. You want a completely NEW house, with 18 rooms instead of 12. And you want four more apartment houses, not an addition to one. I just can't figure you out."

DOES THIS MAKE ANY SENSE? Of course not. It is completely nonsensical. Yet, this is exactly what the Government does. It dreams of the most fantastic luxuries, always for the supposed good of others.

It plans what it will spend FIRST, then it demands and takes from the taxpayers. Virtually every bureaucrat worthy of the name adds at least 50 per cent to his demands over and above what he thinks he really needs. Such a procedure will not work privately.

In private life we figure out how much money we are going to have first! Then we, of necessity, limit our spending to the amount of money we know we are going to have in the first place.

In fact, that is the only logical type of "budget" there is. What the Government prepares cannot be classified as a budget. It is totally unrelated to any previously specified amount of money. What passes as a budget is in fact the demand of the rulers. There is no budgeting about it.

The Government demands. Then it takes the money. If this procedure cannot work privately, why should it work for a government? It obviously will not work for anyone, government or no, indefinitely.

And so long as governments resort to it they will be filled with injustice, greed, and dishonesty.

Hankerings

Hank Crashes A Party Of Los Angeles Gourmets

By HENRY McLEMORE

When I was a little boy, and Pampa was preaching the gospel in south Georgia, I ate at a second table almost every Sunday. A visiting preacher had my place at the table. An evangelistic singer, a silver cornet player, a girl good with the hymns, and a foreign missionary, sat where my sisters and brothers usually sat.

We used to peep through the wire eating, because what they didn't eat was what we got. Since then I have heard some great horn players, but until this day my favorite horn player is J. Peetworth Mippis, because J. Peetworth never ate more than a wing.

This is all a lead-up to last Monday, when the Los Angeles Food and Wine Society held a dinner at Chianti Restaurant. I am not a member of the Los Angeles Food and Wine Society, but I am a friend of Pat and Elsie Russo, who own and operate Chianti.

As soon as I heard that the Food and Wine Society was holding its dinner there, I asked Pat and Elsie if I could come.

They asked me if I belonged. I had to tell them the truth, which is a bit shameful. I told them that I had been blackballed by Chids Restaurants, and was still on the waiting list of Fig 'n' Whistle. They told me straight out that I had no business around Chianti when the Food and Wine Society was eating there. I could see their point, but being a newspaperman before I am a glutton, I made a vow that I would see what went on in Chianti when the best-developed taste buds in Los Angeles were turned loose.

So, about ten o'clock when the meal was really rolling, I took a chance on being shot as a Peeping Tom, and peeped through a side window. One peep and my mouth watered like a public fountain. I don't know what the fancy name of the dish is, but it was a whole chicken, all covered with a sauce that was prettier than a 7 or an 11 when you're coming out, and waiters kept pouring wine that made me wish I hadn't accepted a 12-jewel watch for taking a temperance pledge when I was a youngster. Then the waiters brought on another dish, but I can't tell you exactly what it was, because the view through a Venetian blind at night isn't any too good, especially when you are drooling and licking your lips with your tongue.

I stayed at my peeping post until the last member of the Food and Wine Society swallowed his brandy and left. I didn't mind my vigil because I had seen how the "other half" eats. When no one was left but Elsie and Pat I knocked at the door.

"What in the world are you doing here?" they asked. I didn't explain that I had been outside since the first of the meal. After all, I have my price. I simply told them that I would like to have dinner; that I was hungry.

So I had antipasto, a touch of pasta, veal with lemon and butter sauce, a bit of bel paese cheese with a cold apple, and a cup of espresso.

No second table for me. But I can't help but admit that I wish I had been in Chianti when the Food and Wine Society fellows were going at it. Day in, and day out, it's the best Italian restaurant I have ever been in. When it puts its very best foot forward Chianti must border on the sublime.

I am going to try to join the Food and Wine Society of Los Angeles. I have a friend who is a member of the National Geographic

Why Private Business Planning Better Than State

By R. C. HOILES

It seems strange that here in the United States there is any need of explaining why private business planning is better than state planning. In other words, why private enterprise is better than state socialism. Few people think they believe in state socialism, yet they advocate many things that are a part of state socialism.

It appears to me that the primary reason why private business planning is better than state planning is that in every case the welfare state, or state planning, in order to benefit one person another must be injured. In every case communism, in order to help one group or one person, must harm another. It does this by using the power of the state to tax one group to benefit another. This is harmful for three reasons: It not only injures the party from whom the fruits of his labor are taken by reducing his ability to grow and develop and use the talents God gave him, but it also injures the bureaucrats using the force of the state to get control of other people's wealth; it also in the long run weakens the character and the moral fiber of those who receive the material handouts. It is a complete denial that each man should get all he produces, which is the basis of the Jewish and Christian ethics. It is also the basis of justice.

No One Injured In Free Enterprise

In contrast to the above, when things are secured on a voluntary basis, both parties to the transaction are benefited. They both believe they make a profit or they would not enter into the exchange of goods. Of course, free enterprise doesn't give either party the right to use fraud to make a temporary larger profit. In fact, it does not even pay and it is not good free enterprise business to use fraud. It does not begot confidence, and the basis of real free enterprise is mutual confidence—a mutual belief that specializing in business and exchanging products benefits everyone.

Some people seem to believe that some people can be harmed when goods are exchanged on a voluntary basis. This belief possibly comes from the idea that the individual has a prior right to sell the products of his labor to others and that he need not compete with others as to price and quality—that if he loses a customer he is injured or hurt. In reality, he is not injured or hurt, because he does not own the customer. He has no natural right to sell his labor or merchandise unless he can benefit the customer more for what the customer gives him than anyone else can. He is no more injured than a thief is injured who steals an automobile and has it taken from him by the sheriff. He has lost nothing, because he does not own the stolen automobile any more than the entrepreneur or the worker owns the other party he is trading with.

Besides the fact that both parties are benefited in a voluntary exchange from a material standpoint, they are also benefited from an intellectual and spiritual standpoint. It stimulates them. Men are freely exchanging goods and services and dividing labor greatly increases the total production. The whole is always greater than any part of its parts. In a planned economy, we only use the brains and energy of part of the people. In a free economy we use the brains and energy of all the people. One hundred men or a thousand men freely exchanging goods and services produce a great many times more than they could produce if each one attempted to produce only what he needed for his own use.

It is for the above reasons that this column is constantly attempting to show how much better off everyone would be if we discarded all forms of socialistic action, such as government credit, protective tariffs, subsidies, immigration quotas, drafting soldiers—all of which are violations of a free economy. And of course if a man believes in a free economy and the blessings that come from a free economy, he cannot believe in tax-supported schools, that are based on involuntary transactions.

To summarize, private business planning is better than state planning or state socialism because it produces good will, while the initiation of force or state planning can never produce good will, but can only cause resentment and hate and eventually war as we are having in various forms today.

What the patronage soreheads do not realize, despite attempts to educate and placate them by Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and White House dispenser Sherman Adams, is that the old-fashioned "spoils" system is as outmoded as the horse-and-buggy method of travel from the three state capitals to Washington.

In the first place, 20 years of unbroken Democratic rule have helped to kill and discredit the ancient system. Presidents Roosevelt and Truman blanketed many thousands of jobs under Civil Service, and made them untouchable by grasping and hostile politicians. It may be conceded that F.D.R. and the Missourian expanded the Civil Service umbrella for selfish and partisan motives, and not on the basis of high principle. They simply sought to anchor Democrats in their jobs. But the fact remains that, regardless of their reasons, they did extend the merit system as never before. They enlarged Civil Service coverage and protection.

Now, contrary to popular opinion, the Civil Service idea does not automatically mean economy, efficiency, or perfection. It can be, and it often has been—manipulated, neglected and operated on behalf of political spoilsmen. But its basic purpose seeks selection of the right man or woman for the right assignment. The same philosophy generally applies to Army promotions, and thus the Civil Service selective methods appeal to Eisenhower as a military man. They also command the support of Philip Young, chairman of the Civil Service Commission.

But there are other more practical reasons why Republicans cannot satisfy their patronage needs and demands under the first Republican Administration in 20 years, to wit: Civil Service records reveal that about 1,000,000 Federal jobs have changed hands during Ike's first two years. It would appear from these statistics that 1,000,000 "patrons" had been rewarded. But here are the facts:

About 800,000 positions were under Civil Service, and, therefore, untouchable. More than 100,000 were overseas, and were not attractive to the home guard of patronage applicants. The Foreign Operations Administration is due to die on June 30. Another 50,000 consisted of poor-paying, seasonal jobs which nobody wanted.

D. C. Patronage Situation Is Like Comedy Of Errors

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The political patronage situation at the Nation's Capital has become a comedy of errors.

Suspicious Democrats on Capitol Hill have set up a watchdog squad to make sure that the Eisenhower Administration does not load down the Federal government with Republicans fired from their state positions by newly installed Democratic Governors in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Meanwhile, GOP politicians from Albany, Trenton and Harrisburg run excursion trains to Washington to find out why President Eisenhower has not "turned the rascals out." There is, of course, no invidious meaning in this use of the word, "rascal." He is simply a fellow holding a job wanted by a "patriot," who happened to pick the winner in the last election. They are relative and interchangeable terms.

Although patronage complaints stem from every state, the three Eastern States are the Administration's chief concern for obvious reasons. Under Republican control for many years, they had become a Social Security haven for thousands of GOP jobholders. They are being turned out as fast as Governors Harriman, Meyner and Leader can dig up Democratic replacements.

Finally, and most important, a candidate for President has only a bare chance of election or re-election unless he carries one or two or three of these electorally important states of relative importance are Illinois and California, which are under Republican control at the moment.

What the patronage soreheads do not realize, despite attempts to educate and placate them by Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and White House dispenser Sherman Adams, is that the old-fashioned "spoils" system is as outmoded as the horse-and-buggy method of travel from the three state capitals to Washington.

In the first place, 20 years of unbroken Democratic rule have helped to kill and discredit the ancient system. Presidents Roosevelt and Truman blanketed many thousands of jobs under Civil Service, and made them untouchable by grasping and hostile politicians.

It may be conceded that F.D.R. and the Missourian expanded the Civil Service umbrella for selfish and partisan motives, and not on the basis of high principle. They simply sought to anchor Democrats in their jobs. But the fact remains that, regardless of their reasons, they did extend the merit system as never before. They enlarged Civil Service coverage and protection.

Now, contrary to popular opinion, the Civil Service idea does not automatically mean economy, efficiency, or perfection. It can be, and it often has been—manipulated,

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Many people know from sad experience that an attack of virus pneumonia leaves one physically feeble and mentally depressed for a long time. Nevertheless, it is unusual for the effects to last for three years as described by Mrs. G. She writes that ever since she had virus pneumonia three years ago she tires out easily, has to lie down in the middle of the day and can't ride or walk far.

Fortunately this is much longer than most people suffer the ill effects of virus pneumonia. Too many do, however, complain of easy fatigability, slight cough and lack of pep for months after the acute illness is over. Also, some of those who have suffered this strange disease are so weakened in their resistance that they are more susceptible to attack by other germs which may make complications worse than the original trouble.

I CANNOT OFFER any particular suggestions on how to avoid or treat such long-lasting aftermaths of virus pneumonia but those who have them should take more rest than they ordinarily do and should make every effort to build up their health and strength by diet, fresh air, sunshine or whatever other measures the doctor may suggest. Virus pneumonia usually starts much like influenza. Cough with a running nose and watering of the eyes is common. The lungs are involved in a peculiar patchy manner. The physical examination of the lungs reveals differences from lobar pneumonia and the X-ray picture is also different.

APPARENTLY VIRUS pneumonia is caught from someone else just as lobar pneumonia usually is. About two or three weeks are likely to elapse between exposure and the beginning of symptoms. The temperature goes up more slowly than in lobar pneumonia; cough is present early and becomes more and more annoying but not much mucus is brought up.

Prof. Brameld Finally Gives Hedging Answer To Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Professor Theodore Brameld was a little sluggish but he has finally come through in a strange, roundabout way with answers to some inquiries of mine which were prompted by the honor that he did me at a mental scrimmage in New York by a group of individuals who called themselves intellectuals, including, of all people, Eleanor Roosevelt. Professor Brameld set me up just fine on an otherwise gloomy day by acknowledging me as an exemplar of something called anti-intellectualism. This is a homemade word that the double-dome is bandying about with the earnest self-consciousness of a sea lion trying to thread a needle with a one-inch rope. Anti-intellectualism is their crude, clumsy way of saying misgrammarianism, which means the hatred of effrontery to set himself up as a person of superior culture.

Anyway, on Jan. 17, Brameld, who teaches something called educational philosophy at New York U, was quoted to that effect and soon got a letter from the Rev. Rix Pierce Butler, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church at Rosedale, L. I., stating that mention of this savant reminded him that when he was a student at union theological seminary, a professor presented him to Brameld with the remark that Brameld was "the outstanding Marxist thinker of our generation." I addressed questions to Brameld at New York U, and it has taken all this time to get an answer which came, rather strangely, in the envelope of Ernest Angell, attorney. Mr. Angell had advised Brameld to reply and he enclosed a letter from Brameld to Angell, but not to me. In that letter, Brameld said he did not remember ever having been introduced to the Rev. Dr. Butler, and therefore could not have any recollection of any such words. Moreover, he said, in remarkably explicit language, "I am not a Marxist."

"As a professional student of philosophy," he further said, "I have fundamental reasons for being unable to accept the Marxist theory. Mr. Pegler was referred to by Prof. S. Stanfield Sargent at the conference of Jan. 16th. As the person appointed to summarize the conference, it was my duty to include the name of Mr. Pegler in my remarks along with the names of others earlier mentioned by the speakers."

I am just dumb enough in my misgrammarian way to doubt that there is any such philosophy as the philosophy of education. And I volunteer that the clap-trap which is being needed into youth today in college and in the armed forces where the poor kids have to hold still and submit, in the guise of "social science," is quackery slanted to prepare them to accept the pessimistic ideas of the old world. Certainly the so-called social sciences yield little respect for the Constitution of the United States, for they are socialistic at least as the world "social" in that vague title suggests. The Constitution provides a Republican form of government with verbotens against Socialism notwithstanding which fact our massive swindle supported by a massive payroll tax is brazenly and defiantly called "Social Security."

As devotees of these misgrammarian essays may recall, the Reverend Butler responded promptly with a baffling text which he attributed to Brameld in a book called "a philosophic approach to Communism," which is not mentioned in the learned brow's number in Who's Who for 1954-55. This is an interesting omission inasmuch as he did list this work in Who's Who for 1950-51 along with others which are dropped out of the '54-'55 edition, namely, "Minority Problems in the Public Schools," "Design for America" and "Workers' Education in the U. S."

The text submitted by Doctor Butler left me reeling and when he added that Brameld did the philosophic approach to Communism at the University of Chicago under the presidency of Bob Hutchins, late of the Ford Foundation and now of the Ford Fund for the Republic, he explained a lot to me, and possibly to you. Still I keep wondering why Brameld did not mention these titles in this year's Who's Who and you are allowed to give your curiosity a little rope, too.

I did manage to get hold of "Design for America," which I will not clutter your mind with any details of, beyond a conviction that you would not pick it for company in a hammock or a dentist's office or on a desert island, if you had your option of a telephone book. However, I did observe among the, as it were, screen credits in "design" Miss Ona Swanson, student assistant. This book was printed in 1946 and I just happened to notice that Brameld said in Who's Who that he married his second wife in 1949 a party of that very name without stating what happened to his No. 1 wife. Putting two and two together I do not get anything but a pleasant confirmation of my old adage that love is wonderful, even among the double-domes, although I would be inclined to say it is much too good for them.

Meanwhile, I have received an enormous file of volunteered information about Brameld who seems even more sinister to me, if possible, than I see to him. However, to close today's lesson, I will observe that he was vice-chairman of the mayor's council on "Human Relations" in Minneapolis in 1946-47 and that "Human relations" was the subject in which a young woman was studying for a "masters degree," at New York U, when she was murdered in a Greenwich Village hideaway last week. It soon came out that as a practical experiment in human relations the girl had been cutting up with a social worker named Ernest Jackson who is a married man and a Negro. I wish I knew whether this co-ed had been on of Doctor Brameld's students.

THE NATION'S PRESS

SOUNDS LIKE MCCARTHY (Chicago Tribune) Sen. McClellan of Arkansas, the new Democratic chairman of the permanent investigations subcommittee, has announced that he will reopen the case of Maj. Peeres and call as witnesses Secretary of the Army Stevens and John G. Adams, army counselor.

Peeres is a dentist who refused twice to respond to army questionnaires directing him to state whether he had any subversive connections. Notwithstanding, he was promoted to major. Sen. McClellan, McCarthy's predecessor, got interested and examined

Peeres. The major resorted to the 5th amendment 33 times when asked whether he was a Communist and had engaged in communist activities. McCarthy demanded he be court-martialed. Instead, the army rushed him back to civilian life with an honorable discharge two days later.

Sen. McClellan says he does not know whether "absolute carelessness, indifference, or some kind of conspiracy" was involved in the Peeres case. McClellan sat for more than a month as a member of the committee that heard the charges made by Stevens and Adams against McCarthy and Roy Cohn, the committee counsel. He could not have been unimpressed that the Peeres case had a direct bearing on this affair, but he was not curious. He and his Democratic colleagues entered a minority report castigating McCarthy and Cohn. Later, in the senate, McClellan voted for condemnation of McCarthy's general conduct.

Now the senator shows a willingness to entertain the idea of a "conspiracy." His open-mindedness comes somewhat late in the day. He should also watch his language. Does he want to expose himself to criticism on the grounds that his "methods" are not nice and that he is practicing "McCarthyism"? He should be warned by what happened to the Wisconsin senator.

NANCY, THIS IS...ER...WAS MY BOY FRIEND! Illustration of a woman and a man.

It certainly doesn't require federal appropriations for parents to take their children to Sunday School and in other ways to provide examples of worthiness. The problem of juvenile delinquency will be solved through the home and the church or it will not be solved.

When Solomon wrote, "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it," I doubt very much that he contemplated any grants from the royal treasury to help in this process.

PICTURE NEWS

AROUND THE WORLD

LOOKING FOR A FRIEND—And George Fox (11) of St. Francis needed one when he grabbed a rebound and glanced around for a pass receiver while still in mid-air. This occurred after a tally attempt by Manhattan in their basketball tilt at Madison Square Garden. Manhattan players in view are Ed O'Connor (58) and Jimmy Lake, right, and they're keeping a close watch on Fox, realizing that everything that goes up must come down.

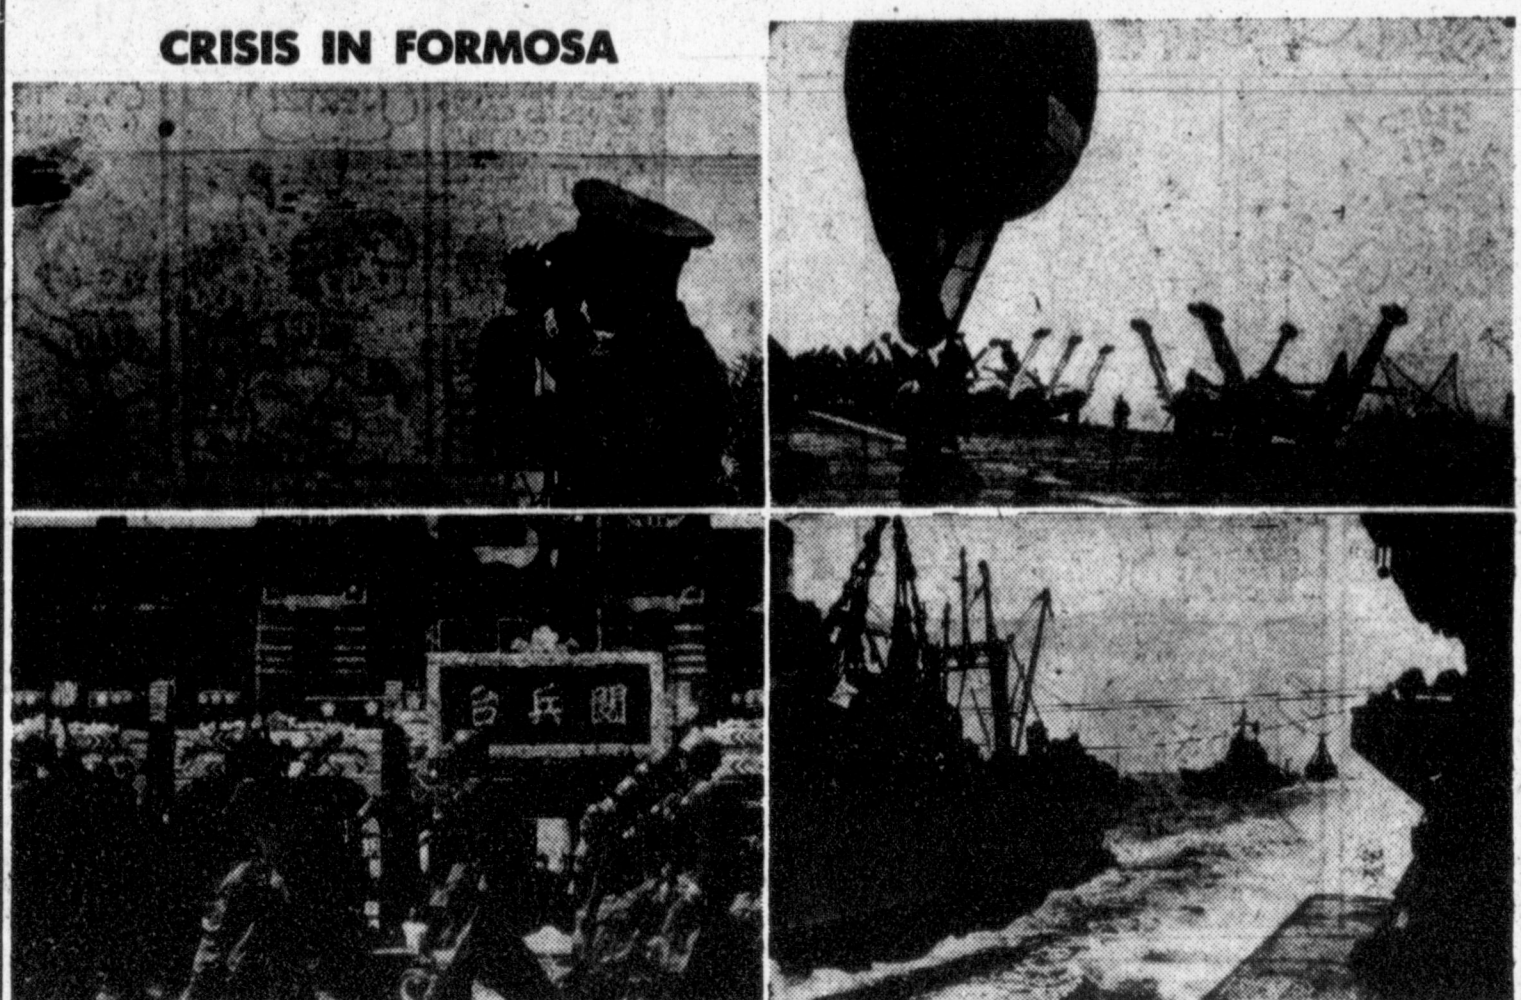

BACK IN ACTION—The grounded freighter Lake Charles is floating again, although with a down-tilted bow, after pumping operations in Manhattan's East River. Water-tight boxes, or cofferdams, were constructed in the flooded forward holds and water pumped out. The vessel rose 11 feet, enough to enable her to be towed three miles to a drydock in Brooklyn for repairs. The Panamanian freighter collided with a Japanese freighter, the Marinsan Maru, in a dense fog last November.

A FICKLE DOG—Robbie is a cocker spaniel in St. Louis, Mo., that recently changed his mind about whom he wanted as his master. The dog was owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Blanner, but when postman James Morris took over the neighborhood route, Robbie began to cover it with him every day—all 15 miles. After seven months of trying to discourage the dog, the Blanners gave Robbie to the man he so wants to be with.

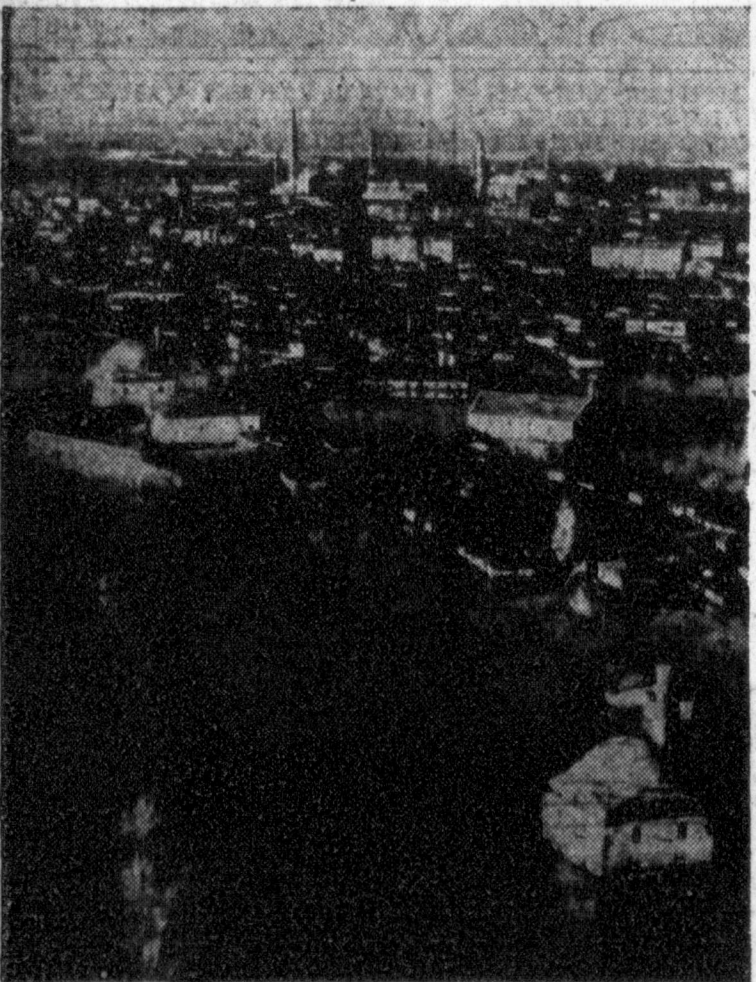

WASTE OF TALENT—Vivacious Gina Glanton, who's a mermaid if ever there was one, seems to be making some sort of call of the wild—perhaps for a merman. Gina was vacationing in Tampa, Fla., from her duties as a radio actress. Too bad she isn't seen on television, but maybe she will be.

CRISIS IN FORMOSA

TURKEY, TOO—With so much of Europe under flood waters these days, swollen torrents from the Mariza, Arda and Tunca Rivers in Turkey have covered the city of Andinapolis, near the Greek-Bulgarian-Turkish border. More than 600 homes were hastily evacuated when flood water struck this area.

WAR IN AFRICA—Mau Mau marauders are being tracked down near Kenya, South Africa, by the most modern methods. Peter Becker, right, leader of an eight-man tracking team, uses a walkie-talkie to coordinate a search with other teams. Armed with machine guns, the patrols have helped reduce cattle rustling and other terrorist activities.

WELL SUITED—Looking his dapper best, this young gentleman is all set for Sunday school or an important social function in a nylon-lined Eton suit. The bow tie, Eton hat and handkerchief have stripes to match his shirt. All combine to make him well dressed.

IT'S THEIR DAY—Elephants and camels from a circus on the outskirts of Rome are lined up in front of their tents as an Italian priest renders them a special benediction. The occasion was St. Anthony's Day when, in accordance with Italian tradition, all animals receive a blessing from their patron saint. Every four-legged performer in the circus was remembered.

ALL ALONE—This snow man in Oberhausen, Germany, was the only picket in a one-day strike of some 30,000 workers at a steel mill. He and his sign represented the cold shoulder the workers gave to a plant manager.

Income Tax Primer No. 11

Tax Credits On Retirement Pay

By RICHARD A. MULLEN
Written for NEA Service

There is one more tax break which must be explained before you are ready to decide which tax return to use for reporting your 1954 income. It is called the credit for retirement income and can only be claimed on Form 1040.

The idea behind this new retirement credit is to reduce the taxes for elderly people who retire on income from their own savings and investments so that they receive much the same tax break given to persons who receive social security benefits or other non-taxable pensions or annuities.

Here's how the credit works:

- All taxpayers over 65 and taxpayers under 65 who are retired under a public retirement system established by the United States, or a state, territory, possession or political subdivision (except an armed forces retirement system) are allowed a credit against their tax of 20 per cent of their "retirement income."

"Retirement income" is defined as income from pensions, annuities, interest, rents, and dividends. The amount taken into account in any one year may not exceed $1200 for each taxpayer minus the sum of:

- Exempt social security or Railroad Retirement Act pensions or annuities received;
- Other tax exempt pensions or annuities received, such as a veterans' pension (but not armed forces retirement pay based on disability resulting from active service); and
- In the case of a taxpayer under 75, any earned income in 1954 in excess of $900. Earned income means salaries, wages or other compensation for personal services. Once a taxpayer is 75, this third reduction does not apply.

Schedule K of Form 1040 indicates that items 1, 2, and 3 above must be subtracted from your retirement income even though your retirement income is less than $1200. This is a mistake and will not be followed by the Internal Revenue Service.

The Commissioner has advised his field offices to disregard this part of the form whenever the retirement income is less than $1200. The correct way to determine the limitation on retirement income is to subtract items 1, 2, and 3 above from $1200 regardless of the amount of your retirement income. You then enter this amount on line 5 of Schedule K or your retirement income, whichever is the lesser. For example, suppose you have retirement income (that is, income from pensions, annuities, interest, rents, and dividends) of $1000 in 1954. Suppose you also had income described in items 1, 2, and 3 above of $500, in 1954.

The amount to enter on line 5 of Schedule K is the lesser of $700 ($1200 minus $500, the sum of items 1, 2, and 3) or your retirement income of $1000. Since $700 is the lesser, show that amount in line 5. Do not subtract the $500 from your retirement income of $1000.

Do Not Use Form 1040A if:

- You qualify as "head of household" or "surviving spouse."
- Your personal deductions exceed 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income.
- You have any reimbursed expenses, out-of-town travel expenses, transportation expenses related to your work, or expenses as an outside salesman. (See article 4.)
- You have dividend income in excess of the dividend exclusion. (See article 5.)
- You are entitled to the credit for retirement income explained above in this article.

You May Use Short Form 1040 if:

- Your adjusted gross income, item 6, page 1 of Form 1040, is less than $5000. You cannot itemize deductions on the Short Form 1040.
- DO NOT Use Short Form 1040 if: Your personal deductions exceed 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income.
- Long Form 1040 can be used by any taxpayer who itemizes his deductions on page 3. This form must be used whenever the adjusted gross income shown in item 6, page 1, of Form 1040 is $5000 or more.
- Those of you using Form 1040A will not have to compute your tax. Just fill in both sides with the required information. The District Director of Internal Revenue will

'Charro Days' In Progress

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Feb. 18—UP—Brownsville's annual Charro Days celebration opened Thursday with a booming shout of greeting by a fiesta official to thousands of persons from both sides of the Rio Grande.

Much of the downtown area was blocked off and left for hot dog and shrimp stands. Brownsville residents turned out in traditional old-fashioned south-of-the-border costumes.

Promptly at 10 a.m., A. A. Hargrave, a Charro Days official, mounted a bunting-covered platform and shouted "grito." The traditional opening was magnified by a powerful public address system and could be heard for blocks.

The pre-Lenten celebration is described by Charro Days officials as "South Texas' answer to the Mardi Gras." The fiesta continues through Sunday, with events scheduled in both Brownsville and Matamoros, Mex., just across the Rio Grande.

A children's costume parade is scheduled for this afternoon. Later during the weekend there will be four other dances, along with pageants, dances, rodeos and Mexican bullfights.

TV Flicker Enrages Man

MILL VALLEY, Calif., Feb. 18—UP—Wade Cook, 49, railroad brakeman, fired a Luger pistol into his television set and killed himself Wednesday night when he became enraged because the TV flickered in the final rounds of the Bobo Ols-Tiger Jones fight.

Mrs. Jewel Cook, 48, told Deputy Sheriff Guy Gibbs that her husband was irate when the TV screen kept "flopping over." She said he took a pistol from his gun collection and shouted:

"I'll fix that. . . ." He fired the gun into the set. Then, she said, Cook went to the kitchen and shot himself. He was dead on arrival at Marin General hospital.

up the tax table printed on the instructions for Form 1040A to compute your tax and send you a refund of a bill depending on whether or too much tax or too little tax was withheld from your pay.

The tax table automatically gives you a $600 credit for each exemption and a deduction of about 10 per cent of your income for such items as contributions, medical expenses and the like.

Those of you using the Short Form 1040 should fill in Pages 1 and 2 showing all your exemptions and all your income and the schedules of Page 4 if applicable to you. Then find your tax from the Tax Table on the last page of the official instructions.

Just follow the simple instructions at the top of the Table and be sure to select the exemption column that corresponds to number of exemptions you claim on page 1. Then enter the tax in Item 7, on page 1. The last few steps necessary to complete your Short Form 1040 will be described in tomorrow's article.

Those of you who itemize deductions or who have incomes in excess of $5000 must use the tax computation schedule on Page 3 of the return to compute your tax.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Hollywood on TV: Fasten the seat belts on the living room easy chairs. A telefilm series titled "At Home With the Flynns," starring Errol Flynn and wife, Patrice Wymore, may be just what television needs.

I mean the homey, folksy, just-plain-mortals touch.

Like episodes about the beautiful blonde on the yacht next door. Or the problem of the missing car.

Errol, Patrice and small daughter, Arnella, face the cameras for the reported "intimate peek at their private lives" in Portugal next June. There will be 39 episodes in the series, with many to be shot aboard Errol's luxury yacht, the Zaca. "Come with me to the porthole, honey, and let's look at the moon."

I already can visualize the opening show:

It's a domestic comedy aboard the Zaca. Patrice says a cablegram saying Ava Gardner's stopping by for lunch. But there's only one magnum of champagne left in the cooler. Pat signals Errol, who comes up in a diver's suit from a treasure ship he's exploring and dumps $8,000,000 worth of pieces of eight on deck.

"But there's only one bottle of champagne," wails Pat. Then . . . Well, I guess you get the idea.

"But that blonde on the yacht next door is intriguing, at that."

RUTH BOWMAN ABOUT Red Skelton's TV rehearsals: "It's like group psychiatric therapy. . . . With the Lassic and Rin Tin Tin telefilms clicking on home screens, a couple of producers are hustling a series on Black Beauty, the horse. The chubby Donald Keeler you see as a "Porky" on the 'Lassic show, by the way, is Ruby Keeler's nephew. The onetime filmfamous star, now the golfing champion of Balboa, is laughing: "I'll soon be known as Donald Keeler's aunt."

Fate of the leading ladies on "Big Town" is a big mystery on Hollywood's TV Alley. Jane Nigh, the original Lorelei, was ready to resume the role after dating the stork but Beverly Tyler took over. Then she was replaced by Trudy Wroe. Now Trudy's been dropped.

There's a sameness about Big Town plots but at least the show offers suspense about the identity of its leading lady. Thirteen weeks seems to be par for the course.

High-Handed Actions Laid To Lawmaker

AUSTIN, Feb. 18—UP—Attorney General John Ben Shepperd Thursday accused Sen. Jimmy Phillips of "high-handed" actions and said his removal of Veterans Land Board records jeopardized possible criminal prosecutions.

Shepperd also filed the ninth in a wave of lawsuits seeking recovery of money paid out under the veterans land program.

The suit was filed in 3rd District Court seeking recovery of $70,707 and named John W. Flanagan, Eddie Zimmerman and R. A. Taylor Jr., all of Crystal City, as "promotion defendants."

Taylor is county judge of Zavala county.

"Senator Phillips couldn't have helped the defendants involved more had he been working for them," the attorney general said at a meeting of the Veterans Land Board.

In addition to Shepperd, those attending the meeting included General Land Commissioner J. Earl Rudder, chairman of the Veterans Land Board; Dennis Wallace, chief clerk of the General Land Office, and Clark Diebel, executive secretary of the Veterans Land Board. Gov. Allan Shivers, third ex-officio member of the board, is vacationing in California.

The suit Shepperd filed boosted to $1,538,505 the total sought to be recovered by the state in the nine suits.

The suit seeks recovery of funds paid out under the veterans land program in a transaction involving 11 veterans, mostly of Latin American extraction, for land in Zavala county.

The state alleged that the promotion defendants "falsely and fraudulently represented" to the state that each of the 11 veteran defendants desired to purchase a tract of land "purportedly owned by the defendant John W. Flanagan."

Rescued Yank Loses Leg

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 18—UP—An American airman who survived 79 hours in sub-zero temperatures in northern Saskatchewan before being rescued, was described in good condition Thursday after amputation of his right leg below the knee.

Doctors said the leg of Capt. Thomas L. Pittman, 34, of Riverside, Calif., was so badly frozen there was no chance of saving it.

Pittman was one of the three survivors of the B-47 jet bomber which exploded and crashed Saturday while on a routine flight from March Air Base, Calif. The Stratofort crashed about 110 miles west-northwest of the Pas, Man.

Pittman was spotted and rescued Tuesday afternoon, after spending four days and three nights in deep snow and unable to move. His leg had been broken.
