Would You Approve Salk Test For Your Children?

By T. D. ELLIS
Quizzing Camera-man

"Would you be willing to have the Salk polio vaccine used on your child?"
With the polio season coming up and with plans completed for the vaccination of all Gray County first and second graders if the federal government passes on the effectiveness of the vaccine your Quizzing Camera-man thought Pampans would be eager to express themselves on this question.
Ten Pampans said:
Mrs. Jimmie Bossay, 1040 S. Christy, secretary: "Yes I would. I haven't read too much about it but I have two children and I am in favor of anything that is progress in the fight against polio."
R. E. White, 1112 S. Wells, pumper with Gulf Oil Co.: "I don't see why it wouldn't be O. K. I feel if the government gives the green light then it is probable that the vaccine is good and will give immunity against polio."

Mrs. John Richards, 215 Sunset Dr., operator Mode O Day: "I have enough faith in my family doctor to respect his opinion and I would follow his advice. As long as there are no ill effects from the vaccine it is worth a chance."
Aubra Nooncaster, 2239 Christine, PHS teacher: "Yes I think so. I would like to know more about it but I feel it would be necessary to confer with my family doctor before giving my consent."
Mrs. Albert Reed, NE of city, housewife: "Yes I am going to give my consent when the vacination begins here in Pampa. I think the vaccine is worthwhile."

Mrs. Travis Lively Jr., 1212 Hamilton, housewife: "That is something I have been thinking about and I don't know whether I would give my consent or not. My children are past that age group and I won't have to make that decision. I would want more proof of the vaccine's success before I would consent that it be used on my children."
Al Metz, 717 N. Gray mg. Zale's Jeweler: "I sure would. I don't think the vaccine has been disproven enough to indicate that it is a failure. We can not succeed without effort and I feel the vaccination of school children is a step in the right direction."
Willie Harris, 410 Maple, cafe owner: "Most everyone thinks it is a good thing. As far as I know it is a worthwhile project. I don't have any children but I have several nieces and nephews and if it were left for me to decide about them I would say yes. I would do anything if I could keep them from getting polio."

Mrs. Doyle Tucker, 438 N. Ballard, housewife: "Yes I would. I think with the years of testing on animals and the vaccination of children last year, the vaccine has been sufficiently proven."
Everl Carmon, 2212 Coffee, owner of C&M TV: "Yes I would. It's a cinch the vaccine won't hurt them and I would be perfectly willing to have my six-year-old vaccinated to it."
April 12 has been set as the tentative date for the beginning of vaccinations in Gray County.

WEATHER

WEST TEXAS: Cold wave warning Panhandle. Much colder Friday night and becoming mostly cloudy. Snow flurries Panhandle Friday night. Lowest 8 to 18 Panhandle.

City Shivers As Mercury Drops To 11

Pampans today were buffeted by a snow-carrying wind that dropped the mercury 60 degrees in less than 24 hours and brought a trace of moisture. And there was more to come.
The thermometer dropped to a low of 11 degrees at 9:30 a. m., following a high reading of 71 Thursday afternoon, according to Station KPDM, Pampa weather bureau.
Snow began falling early this morning, but during the day it did not have much chance to stay on the ground—the wind was too high. Perry LeFors Field personnel reported winds up to 35 and 40 miles an hour. By late this morning, the only snow on the ground was that which had stuck in cracks and what was caught along the fields and in grassy areas.
There was only a trace—less than .01 of an inch—of moisture, KPDM reported. As one KPDM man put it, "You can't catch it long enough to measure it." Barometer reading was 30.20.
Today was just a continuation of that cold-again-hot-again weather that has plagued Pampa and the area all week. Weathermen say that, at this time of year, it is normal for a cold wave to hit every 36 hours, decreasing in intensity as the days go by. This one, however, "was a lot colder than expected."
The forecast for Pampa and the vicinity today was more cold and cloudy weather, with the mercury dropping to between 8 and 18 degrees tonight. Snow flurries are supposed to accompany the cold wave, KPDM said.

British Will Release Disarmament Reports To Offset Red Version

Claim Soviet Press, Radio Distort Facts

By N. C. TRALER
LONDON — UP — The British foreign office said Friday the western powers will release the secret proceedings of the London disarmament conference because of persistent Soviet "leakage and distortions."
A foreign office spokesman said the western representatives protested to Soviet delegate Jacob Malik at Thursday's meeting against the latest violation of the conference secrecy rules by the Soviet press and radio.
The spokesman said the western delegates protested "some time ago" in the five nations United Nations disarmament subcommittee meeting against an earlier Russian breach of secrecy.
Proceedings Must Be Told
"In due course the proceedings of the disarmament nations subcommittee will be told," the spokesman said.
The spokesman said a statement by Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko Thursday night on the disarmament proceedings "is a gross breach of the rule of secrecy." Gromyko pulled out of the conference Thursday for a surprise visit to Stockholm.
Moscow radio broadcast his statement in the form of an interview with the Soviet Tass news agency.
"If the Soviet delegation insists on distorted versions it shows clearly that all they are out for is propaganda," the spokesman said in the sharpest rebuke of the conference to Russia.
"Nothing to Hide"
"We have nothing to hide and we have maintained secrecy of our own proposals as well as those of the other side," he said.
Consultations among the western delegations will determine the timing as well as the methods of releasing details of the conference which opened here on Feb. 25.
The spokesman said the object of this proposed release is to "correct distorted versions in Pravda and in Gromyko's statement."

SEN. PHILLIPS SETS NEW U.S. FILIBUSTER MARK

AUSTIN — UP — State Sen. Jimmy Phillips, Angleton, Friday shattered the national filibuster record of 22 hours and 26 minutes held by Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat.
Phillips breastst the previous mark at 9:15 a. m. and continued toward a new goal as he doggedly sought to have a "measly" $2 million added to a proposed $9 million appropriation for John Sealy medical school at Galveston.
Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, presiding in the absence of Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, asked if Phillips would "yield to the chair." Hardeman pointed out that it was 9:15 and said, "The chair would like to recognize the fact you have broken the record of Wayne Morse, why I don't know."

New Freeze Front Threatens State

By UNITED PRESS
A new cold front bearing Arctic air and a promise of more snow in springtime for the Panhandle and upper South Plains rushed through Texas Friday and a cold wave warning was issued for three fourths of the state.
Noon weather forecasts warned of temperatures as low as eight degrees in the Panhandle before dawn Saturday.
Freezing temperatures will extend as far south as a Lukin-

Austin-Del Rio line, the weather bureau said.
A cold wave warning was issued for East, South Central and West Texas. Snow flurries were forecast for the Panhandle and South Plains by Friday night.
Skies clouded over as the front banged through the state. It roared past the Dallas-Fort Worth area about 9:30 a. m. and forecasters expected the frontal system to reach the upper coast by Friday night.
Dust was stirred up as the front whipped through, but the mass of cold air flowing in directly behind was expected to clear the dust quickly and prevent a general dust storm.
The localized dusting was concentrated in the eastern portion of the Pampans and South Plains and eastward down the Red River Valley, the weather bureau said. Some of it will drift on across North Central and the northern portion of East Texas.
While there was quite a bit of snow behind the front, no general precipitation was expected in Texas.

The area around Pampa got the same treatment from the weather.
In Shamrock the blowing winds, laden with snow, dropped the mercury to 17 degrees early today. And this cold wave "just about finished the flowers." In Perryton, it was 18 degrees at 7 a. m. today and the snow was coming down in large flakes, buffeted by some wind.
It was snowing only slightly in McLean early today, though the winds were clocked at 35-40 miles an hour. The temperatures were in the low 20s. The mercury was 16 in Panhandle early this morning and, like Pampa, there were wind and snow.
Actually, the cold weather was not too bad a thing for the wheat farmer, Asst. County Agent Jerry Mobly reported today.
For, if it were warm, it might dry up the small amount of moisture down at the roots. As it is, it may keep the roots alive.
The snow has not been enough to do much good or harm, Mobly continued.
"If this is the way we have to get our wheat — the long way, then let's have more of it," the assistant agent commented.
The chilly "spring-like" weather, so far, has not affected the means of transportation in Pampans and the area.
The highways leading into Pampans were reported in good condition — just snow blowing across them, the state highway department maintenance office reported.

Rampaging Rivers Force Families Out

By UNITED PRESS
Families fled from their homes Friday before an immense ice jam on the Niagara River and rising flood waters in Mississippi.
The pounding Niagara ice jam, the worst in 46 years, and the flood crest on Mississippi's Tombigbee River were both products of a series of spring storms which have killed 49 persons across the country.

The young season also hit the West and Midwest with a new blowing snow storm. The snow combined with desert salt flats to lay a weird layer of salty mud over parts of Utah and Wyoming.
The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast a near-blizzard conditions Friday for parts of Kansas and from four to six inches of snow for northwest and central Missouri and southern Iowa. Southern Illinois braced for a possible two to three inches of snow and Kentucky and Tennessee were warned of thundershowers and snow flurries.

Probers See No Subversion In Peress Case

WASHINGTON — UP — Three Senate investigators said Friday they found no evidence of subversion in the case of Joseph P. Kamp, a New York dentist who refused to tell Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) whether he was a Communist.
The subcommittee was called to a closed meeting Friday to debate making a further check on testimony in the case by one of McCarthy's old foes, Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker.
Chairman John L. McClellan said the group would consider summoning C. George Anastos, a former subcommittee staff investigator, for questioning about a disputed telephone call he had with Zwicker about Peress. McClellan said there will be one more public session on the case next week and then the hearings will end.

John W. Davis, 1928 Democratic candidate for president, will leave by train Friday night for New York, where funeral services are planned for next Monday.
Davis, renowned attorney who had argued more cases before the U.S. Supreme Court than any other man, died of pneumonia in a hospital Thursday at the age of 81.
The imposing, zealous man lost the presidency to Calvin Coolidge in the biggest political contest of his career but his 140 Supreme Court cases contained pleadings that made legal history.
In 1963 Davis presented South Carolina's case in one of the historic school segregation suits in which the court finally outlawed the principle.
At Davis' bedside when he died following an overnight coma were his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Healy of New York.
Had Davis lived in good health he no doubt would have planned to appear again before the Supreme Court April 11 for scheduled arguments on implementing the school desegregation ruling.

Mrs. Jones was accompanied by her husband Lloyd, owner of the Jones Implement Co.

The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Keahy, Rt. 2, Mobeetie, was dead on arrival at the Hemphill County Hospital at Canadiana. Services will be Saturday afternoon. Arrangements are under the direction of the Stickley Funeral Home, Canadiana.
Keahy was riding his bicycle facing the traffic and going south, according to the report of the local

House Group Hits Benson Farm Plan

WASHINGTON — UP — The House all farm products," the committee asserted.
The report was prepared by a subcommittee headed by Rep. James L. Whitten (D-Miss.). The members filed no minority report, presumably an indication they did not disagree substantially with its findings.
"Evidently, with the Department of Agriculture... political and other considerations predominate to the point of preventing action," the committee asserted.
"Proper actions by the (Commodity Credit) Corporation (agriculture's price support agency) are made subservient to a host of other considerations, many of which, in the opinion of a majority of the committee, are unsound," it says to keep up farm prices.

Good And Bad Of The Week's News

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst
The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

THE GOOD
1. President Eisenhower said that "exploratory talks" could be held by the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia after the ratification of the German Armament treaties. The President, speaking at a press conference, said that if the Russians showed good faith, such talks might lead eventually to a formal conference in which he and the heads of the British, French and Russian governments would seek to ease world tensions. The President appointed Harold E. Stassen a special White House assistant on disarmament. The post was created by the President in his search for a means to end the arms race. Stassen will hold cabinet rank.

2. Final ratification of the treaties providing for the arming of West Germany as part of the free world's defense against Russian aggression seemed certain at last. The French Senate was expected to approve ratification Friday night. The National Assembly already had approved the treaties. President Theodor Heuss of the West German Republic signed the ratification bills for his country after their passage by Parliament.

Victoria Man Heads Texas Beef Council

DALLAS —UP—Leo Welder, 31, Victoria rancher, was named president of the Texas Beef Council Wednesday. He succeeds Roy Parks of Midland.

The council was set up six months ago by the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association. Parks has served as president of the council since it was organized. The council was formed to promote the use of beef and to educate housewives in the better use of cheaper cuts of beef. Parks resigned from the council presidency, he said, because his duties with the cattle raisers association took so much of his time. He will continue to serve as chairman of the beef council finance committee. Parks was made a life member of the council and given an engraved metal membership certificate.

School Aid Dispute Brings Riots

BRUSSELS, Belgium —UP—A seething dispute over state subsidies to Catholic schools exploded into riots and arrests throughout the country Thursday. Police and students clashed in Ghent, Liege, Mons and Malines. In Antwerp, students staged a sitdown strike in the middle of a main street. Mounted police broke up the demonstration after students blocked traffic for several hours. Many students were arrested, but most were released after an identity check. An unknown number were injured, some severely. But few sought hospital treatment because they feared arrest for participating in the riots. The Catholics are protesting against the Socialist-Liberal government's proposal to cut the $64 million subsidy to Catholic schools by $10 million.

SPRING HAS MANY SIGNS, among them crisp feminine lace collars. At least, that promises to be the vogue this Spring. With the wearing of lace collars go the right type of perfume to wear and the right type of cosmetics. Alicia Hart tells about the perfume and Max Factor about the cosmetics.

THE LACY LOOK is lots of fun for spring. It always revives at this season because of the brides who dress in it and like to carry out the theme.
But this spring it's everywhere. The real lace collar, genteel as an heirloom, is having a rebloom. Heavy Irish lace is here and offers with tweed suits, of all things.
Swimming suits have shiny elastic hodies with shocking-looking lace over. Wide-brimmed hats have it, as do tiny Juliet caps.
To go with this very ladylike fashion trend, try a ladylike scent. Something clear and flowery carries a whole impression of graceful china and lovely dresden figurines.

One manufacturer has completed the fragile-lacy scene. A famous perfume of the lacy sort now comes as a liquid skin sachet, that combines a touch of a leisurely way of life.
It goes on the skin directly, just as a perfume does. It's extra-concentrated and will last longer. It might be a help to those women who say "perfume just doesn't last on me."

NOTHING SPELLS perfection more than a collar of immaculate white lace. If you wear one of rose point, or point Venise, as lovely as a bridal veil, or settle for big, bold Battenburg or plain starched lace, Max Factor, Jr., tells you how to make up to it. For your make-up foundation, matched perfectly, he says, to your skin tones, there are three good reasons for staying on the light side:
1. The white next to your face will spotlight your make-up, so the lighter and more natural-looking it is, the less apt you are to have any flaws magnified.
2. A darkish or too colorful foundation will provide too great a contrast with a white collar. The effect is apt to be muddy and unclear, rather than fresh and immaculately clean.
3. Because you don't want make-up smears ruining your white lace, another reason for staying on the light side is to insure the social security of your collar.
Factor's smear-proof technique? Apply invisible foundation make-up to your neck (it's colorless) or a creamy hand lotion that sinks in to the skin. Start it where make-up for your face stops — at the chin and jawline or just above the place on your neck where the collar will rest. After neck make-up foundation is applied, dust over it with white bath powder, and buff with the back of your puff so there is no line of demarcation. If collar is a high climber, the only way to keep it from running amok with make-up on your face is to buff white talc under your chin and jawline.

Twentieth Century Forum Has Program On Symphony Orchestras, Conductors

"American Symphony Orchestras" was the program presented by Mrs. Calvin Jones to the Twentieth Century Forum when it met recently in the home of Mrs. C. V. Wilkinson.
Mrs. Jones gave a brief history of the symphony orchestra from its birth some 300 years ago to the present day. At first an orchestra had only a score of instruments, but grew to include as many as 100, she explained. Today's symphony orchestra usually has from 60 to 100 members.
In the United States, almost every city of any size has a symphony orchestra and great emphasis is placed on bringing good music to all people at little or no cost, she pointed out. Free performances for children, family concerts and free presentations of new music are some of the gifts symphony orchestras are bringing to their cities.
"Some one has said, 'What a marvelous thing an orchestra is,'" she told the women. "It holds within itself nearly every kind of tone from the deepest rumble of the bass tuba and growl of the double bass to the cool, flowing tones of the clarinet and bassoon and to the penetrating call of the flute, the cry of the violin and the scream of the piccolo." All of this force and sound must be controlled and directed and so we come to the conductor.
Mrs. Jones then gave a review of the book, "The Maestro," by Howard Taubman, which is the story of Arthur Toscanini's life and work. The description of him as one who "stands alone in a special niche both as man and as interpreter," pleased Toscanini for he speaks with modesty and humility of his work as a musician, but is fully aware of his ability. Mrs. Jones pointed out, "At times Toscanini has been difficult for his family, friends, colleagues and board of directors, but, at the core, he has been a good man — good for music and good for mankind," she explained.
During the social hour, refreshments were served. Present were Mrs. Jones, Mrs. J. B. Dunagan, William T. Fraser, J. R. Elmer, Dick Hughes, Homer Johnson, Calvin Jones, Frank Kelley, Raymond Laycock, J. R. McCree, M. C. McDaniel, Nolan McKean, Bruce Pratt, Henry Rose, Aubrey Steele, Arthur Teed, Eben Warner, C. V. Wilkinson, Mrs. Helene Bagley of Superior, Neb., was a guest.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Elmer's mother says she thinks she's pampered him to much. At seven, he demands her entire attention. If she gives some to a guest, he will seek out her face powder and spill it.
Recently, because she insisted on a private talk with his Grandma, he stuck all her postage stamps together.
"Otherwise," writes his mother, "he is a good child, never rude or defiant to my face."
Apparently, to be a "good child" in this mother's eyes, you must never openly disagree with her. If such subsmissiveness equals "goodness" to Elmer's mother, no wonder he attacks her powder and stamps. Attacking her opinions is forbidden as evil. What else can he do when they arouse anger in him but discharge it upon less-sacred possessions?
I think that Elmer's mother may be scared of criticism.
Certainly her use of the word "pamper" suggests that she is. For to "pamper" a child means to dominate him, along with your opinions he has that we object to. The fact that we choose to describe such suffocation as "pampering" should interest us exceedingly.
It's an excusing word—a self-protective word that seeks to plead that our oppression is tender, brooding care. It is a word we use when we want to avert any suspicion that our treatment of a child has been imperfect.
Yes, I think that fear of criticism may indeed be this mother's problem.
Until she recovers from it, she will continue to teach Elmer that it's "bad" to disagree with her and "good" to want only what she wants. Under such pressure, he will have to go on detouring any anger he feels at her wishes to her postage stamps.
Why is she so scared of criticism?
How did she respond to punishment as a child? A punished child can burn with a sense of the punisher's injustice. He knows that the punisher has misjudged the action for which he's being punished.
But to live with the punisher, he also knows that he has to trust him. So when he's restored to favor, he puts aside his own judgment of what he did.
To retain the favor he must have to survive, he may get into the habit of letting anyone judge the goodness or badness of what he does. Later, even a little man's criticism may seem so valid that we cannot endure it.
Unless we begin to question the critics of our childhood, we may continue to endow any critic with the justice and authority they claimed.

RUTH MILLET

They have been married only two years but already they have established the habit of letting small disagreements grow into big arguments, so that they seem to be quarrelling a good part of the time.
The young wife wants to know if there is any solution to their problem besides divorce.
There is a solution, but it isn't as quick or easy as divorce. It is for both of them to grow up and stop acting like spoiled children, each determined to have his own way and anxious to prove the other wrong.
All couples have disagreements, and sometimes they lead to bitter quarrels.
But happy couples, whose marriages last through the years, devise techniques for handling disagreements. They don't figure that any time the marriage isn't going to suit them they can call it quits and get a divorce.
Instead of thinking in terms of failure, couples who make a success of marriage work out ways of dealing with their difficulties.
They become expert at avoiding topics they know always lead to a bitter argument. They learn how to stop a little quarrel with a funny remark before it has a chance to become a big quarrel.
They employ such tactics as one breaking up an argument by going for a walk or tackling a hard job or simply saying, "Maybe you're right. Let's try it your way."
But more important even than using such techniques for stopping quarrels is for each to grow up enough so that he or she doesn't always have to be right, or always try to put the blame on the other when something goes wrong.
A married couple has to learn to live and work and think as a team. Constant quarrelling is merely an indication that they are still thinking in terms of "I" and "You" — instead of thinking in terms of "We."

21 Indicted In Veteran Land Deals

CUERO, Tex. —UP—The DeWitt county grand jury Thursday returned 21 additional indictments against five men and subpoenaed former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles to appear before it at 2 p.m.

Thursday's 21 indictments brought to 180 the number returned by the grand jury since it began its investigations into the veterans land program in DeWitt county last Jan. 3.

Indictments alleging falsely interpreting a written instrument were returned against C. T. Erster (one count), T. J. McLarty (nine counts), and Henry Robinson (one count). McLarty is from Denver, the other men from Cuero. McLarty formerly lived at Cuero.

Ed Ledbetter was indicted on seven counts and Ted Frusser on three counts alleging giving false notary certificates.

Each of the men had been previously indicted and posted bond on other phases of the veterans land program, under investigation by two legislative committees and seven other district attorneys.

The grand jury's report condemned what it called "influence peddling" by state officials.

The report criticized fees certain attorneys have received for handling various land transactions. It said "to conveniently designate such sums as 'legal fees' does not in our opinion satisfactorily explain them." No names were mentioned.

U.S. Rep. John Bell, formerly of Cuero and formerly a state senator, testified only Thursday before a special Senate committee in Austin that he had received $38,112 in fees stemming from veterans land deals.

Bell appeared before the DeWitt county grand jury last week.

Housing Was No Problem At Capital 100 Years Ago

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON —UP—A century ago in the nation's capital housing wasn't much of a problem. There was plenty of ground where a man could put up a house and a roof, and if he could not afford that he could rent a place cheap.

An advertisement in one of the papers 100 years ago this week mentioned a "very reasonable home for rent." It was on Missouri Avenue between 2 and 4 1/2 streets. There were "10 or 12 rooms." There were two parlors on the first floor, a dining room and a large kitchen in it, equipped with a pump with "excellent water."

Almost apologetically, it seemed the owner, a F. W. Browning, said that he would have to get $400 a year for his place.

Business in the two houses of congress had simmered down to little that caught the eyes of the editors. There were squabbles, pro and con, on the question of slavery. Also the Indian problem came in for considerable talk.

The postmaster general of the day published a notice about the new postal law. The man was a little disturbed. He said: "Under the new law, all materials must be prepaid and if not, after a decent waiting period, things must go to the dead letter office. Hundreds of thousands of letters are mailed without any direction whatsoever, and many more have the wrong address on the cover."

The postmaster general suggested that people ought to take their letters and packages to the window of the post office—"while the window is open and they can get some advice."

Papers had a habit of picking up items from fellow editors around the country, and in fact the world.

There was one item from Boston relating that the paying teller of the Merchants Bank there had hanged himself in the bank cellar. "His accounts, so far as is known," the dispatch said, "were in order."

A man, also from Boston, who apparently was in business, got a letter-to-the-editor in the Washington prints. Same letter in three papers.

He said: "I promised to inform you of the effect of a remedy recommended to me. I have taken one bottle and am now a well man. I thank you a thousand times. This preparation is the exclusive property of the writer."

Then the writer signed his name.

Boom May Saturate The Market

WASHINGTON —UP—The government is concerned over the possibility that the home-building boom may saturate the housing market.

Albert M. Cole, federal housing chief, made the disclosure in secret testimony made public Thursday by a House Appropriations subcommittee. He testified March 3.

"We are concerned," Cole said, but "we have no alarm about the situation."

He said "we think" the market can support a continued high level of housing construction. Nevertheless, he said, housing officials are watching the market very carefully because "we must be aware of the possibility of saturating the market."

Cole said it is possible that housing construction this year will reach—and may even surpass—the 1.3 million units forecast last November by the Commerce and Labor Departments.

Moreover, he said, "we think" that upwards of 1.2 million or 1.3 million units will be built in 1956.

US Adds Tiny Atom Weapon

LAS VEGAS, Nev. —UP— The United States Thursday added another tactical weapon to its atomic arsenal, a small, highly-portable A-bomb which can be planted by demolition crews to wipe out bridges, dams and troop concentrations.

Army engineers buried one of the newly developed pocket bombs in the Nevada desert Wednesday and touched it off.

The earth erupted with volcanic force and a bright red fire ball winked briefly over the proving grounds. A dirty brown cloud, much wider than usual, boiled up to 10,000 feet before its own weight caused it to settle back, blanketing a 19 mile area.

It was the first underground shot since 1951. The AEC announced the bomb was assembled and planted by the Army Corps of Engineers and ordnance troops, rather than AEC scientists. Some 280 troops watched the blast.

Observers on Mount Cablerston, 45 miles from the test site, did not feel a shock wave or hear the explosion. They estimated the "sat- chel" bomb was equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT, considerably smaller than previous shots in the 1955 test series.

No nuclear tests were scheduled for Thursday.

Galbraith Is Granted Sanity Test

MCALLESTER, Okla. —UP— Dr. Ben T. Galbraith, a 36-year-old heart specialist who confessed to killing his wife and three children and trying to burn their bodies, was granted a sanity test as his lawyers prepared today a defense based on insanity.

District Judge W. A. Lackey ordered the prominent surgeon Thursday sent to Eastern Oklahoma Mental Hospital at Vinita for 90 days. After that period, a report will be sent to the court, which has final ruling on Galbraith's mental condition.

One of Galbraith's medical partners, Dr. C. K. Holland, testified Thursday that the accused man was given electric shock therapy in 1951 at the Kennedy Hospital in Tennessee for a mental disorder. Galbraith pleaded innocent in court Wednesday to charges of premeditated murder, but earlier confessed he killed his wife, Kitty Galbraith, 35, sons Frank, 7, and Jere, 5, and a daughter, Sarah Ann, 4.

He said he hit his wife on the head with a wine bottle and gave the children injections of morphine and arsenic.

Then he said he set the house afire in an attempt to conceal the crime.

Girl Testifies About Jelke's Florida Trip

NEW YORK —UP— Erica Steel, a practical-minded prostitute, told at the Jelke vice trial Thursday how she and Pat Ward earned money from men to finance a Florida vacation for their boy friends.

Miss Steel, 35, fashionably dressed in a tight-fitting black suit and carrying a fur stole over her right arm, was the eighth witness called since the retrial of oleo heir Minot (Mickey) Jelke on compulsory prostitution charges began March 7.

Miss Steel testified that Jelke arranged with her for Miss Ward to move into her apartment while he and Carl Jarrett, Miss Steel's boy friend, went to Florida in February, 1952.

"Jelke asked me if I would allow Pat to move in with me while he was in Florida," Miss Steel testified. "He said he didn't want Pat living in his apartment while he was gone because she had been seeing Johns there and he didn't think it was a good idea."

At this point Assistant District Attorney Anthony J. Liebler asked her to define a "John."

Miss Steel explained that "John" was "a date you might go out with and you receive money."

Walter White Eulogized NEW YORK —UP—Funeral services were held in St. Martin's Protestant Episcopal Church Thursday for Walter White, 61, Executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who died of a heart ailment Monday night. His body was cremated afterward. He was eulogized by Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the board of the NAACP.

Kidnaper's Hearing Is Delayed

BEAUMONT, Tex. —UP—A hearing was scheduled for next Monday on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to gain freedom for Mrs. Pauline (Pat) Schulze, the practical nurse charged with kidnaping a 30-minute-old infant from a Beaumont hospital last Saturday.

Fercy Foreman, Houston attorney, filed the petition for a writ and an application for reduction of her bond from $15,000 to $1,000. It was filed Thursday in Judge Owen Lord's criminal district court.

Lord is out of town and special Judge Harold Clayton set hearing on the attorney's two petitions for 2 p.m. Monday, when Lord will be back in the city.

Mrs. Schulze admitted Wednesday that she kidnaped the infant, Carolyn Sue Wharton, because she wanted to hurt and scare a Houston doctor with whom she had been "friendly." Until then, she had wildly insisted that the baby was hers, although doctors said Mrs. Schulze was surgically sterilized two years ago.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

ROBERT L. WEBB, Pastor
 Trinity Baptist Church
 Pampa, Texas

There has never been, in the history of the world, such times of crisis as we face in the twentieth century. The threat of atomic warfare against the forces of communism, political corruption, the upsurge of crime, juvenile delinquency, and divorce are but a few of our many and varied problems. It is the belief of this preacher that most of the problems of a troubled world are but the magnified problems of the individual.

Because of the crisis we face, we have the greatest opportunity known to the church. Never before has the church had such educated, well-trained leadership. Never in any age has the church been endowed with better buildings and equipment than at the present. The church occupies a lofty place in civic and community life. Greater and more important than any or all of these, the church has the message the world needs. The message of a Virgin-born, Sinless, Crucified, Buried, Risen, and Coming again Lord. The message of one who died on calvary's cross to bring forgiveness of sins and peace of mind and soul to the persons who would put their trust in Him. Somewhere along the way we have forgotten that this is the message that men want and need. This is God's message for this hour. This is the Balm of Gilead to the troubled and sick souls of men and women, boys and girls, in this or any other age.

The greater the opportunity, the greater the responsibility for carrying and living the message that mankind may know about Christ. Jesus laid the responsibility squarely on the church when He went away. Let us stand firm for Him. "I beseech you therefore brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." Romans 12:1.

Tony Frontiero is shown attempting to de-ice the vessel in the sub-freezing cold that prevailed in Manhattan.

SYMPATHIZING—A damaged pelican fountain is being patted sympathetically by kimono-clad Keiko Izumo, two, in a park in Tokyo. The stone bird, which normally squirts water from its beak, was swathed in protective bandages after vandals gave it a very severe sore throat.

TAKING A BREAK—While rehearsing his night club act in New York, singer Harry Belafonte is shown resting for a moment. He's been touring the country with Marge and Gower Champion in "Three For Tonight," which will open on Broadway late next month.

VERY YOUNG HELPER—Laurie Anne Spear, an 18-month-old "Littlest Marching Mother," served in the Mothers' March on Polio for the March of Dimes in Miami, Fla. Laurie Anne is wearing the tag which her father later put on when he took a container in hand to help his wife on the night of the Mothers' March. The tot is certainly off to a good start.

ODD SITUATION—It's one boaters don't run into often, but here some of them contemplate crossing a bridge since they cannot pass under it. They're on the flooded Eure River, near Pont de L'Arche, France, and the boatmen have never encountered this predicament before.

Senator Phillips Sets New Record With Filibuster

By O. E. LLOYD JR.
AUSTIN —UP—State Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton Friday broke his own record for filibustering and, with only a faint squeak left in his voice after a night-long session, appeared to be trying to beat the national record set by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.).

Phillips was seeking to get another "measly" $2 million added to the $9 million appropriation for John Sealy Medical School Hospital, Galveston, in the state spending measure for the next biennium. Phillips' old filibuster mark was set in 1951 when he talked 17 hours and 55 minutes against legislation abolishing the state hospital board, Morse's national record of 22 hours and 26 minutes was set in Congress last April 25, when he sought to defeat the bill returning offshore oil lands to the states.

Voice Almost Gone.
By daybreak Friday, his voice was almost gone and Sen. Searcy Bracewell of Houston had begun asking lengthy questions that required little or no answering by Phillips.

At one point Phillips only nodded. Another senator puffed he couldn't hear the answer, so Phillips gesticulated wildly, banged the desk and raised his arms—but said nothing.

Standing in his stocking feet, with his black shoes neatly placed beside his desk, Phillips told presiding officer Sen. Dorsey Hardeman, "I want a microphone."

When Hardeman told him that was not fair, Phillips complained "there's no prohibition against it," but he did not get the microphone.

Lemon Is Clenched
Phillips, 42, often clenched the same old worn lemon, which he chewed, squeezed and sucked during the night.

Dressed in a dark blue suit, an off-white shirt and black bow tie, Phillips would alternately remove and replace his dark horn-rimmed glasses. He would take out a large white embroidered red handkerchief with quarter-size white polka dots, mop his brow and flourish it like a matador teasing a nearby drowsy bull.

The senator from Angleton, who has become noted for his filibustering since he joined the legislature in 1947, pleaded for the extra appropriation to utilize all the facilities of John Sealy.

"Just as surely as God made night and day, the lights will be on from top to bottom some day in John-Sealy Hospital," he shouted toward the picture-covered Senate walls while his voice was still strong.

Capacity Is Great

The hospital has a capacity of 1,500 beds, but now contains only 800. He said "you have needles, syringes, bedpans—you have beds, everything you need for a hospital but a staff."

He said his amendment would help the other senators' constituents because it would give them a place to go "to get a busted gut fixed or a hare-lip corrected."

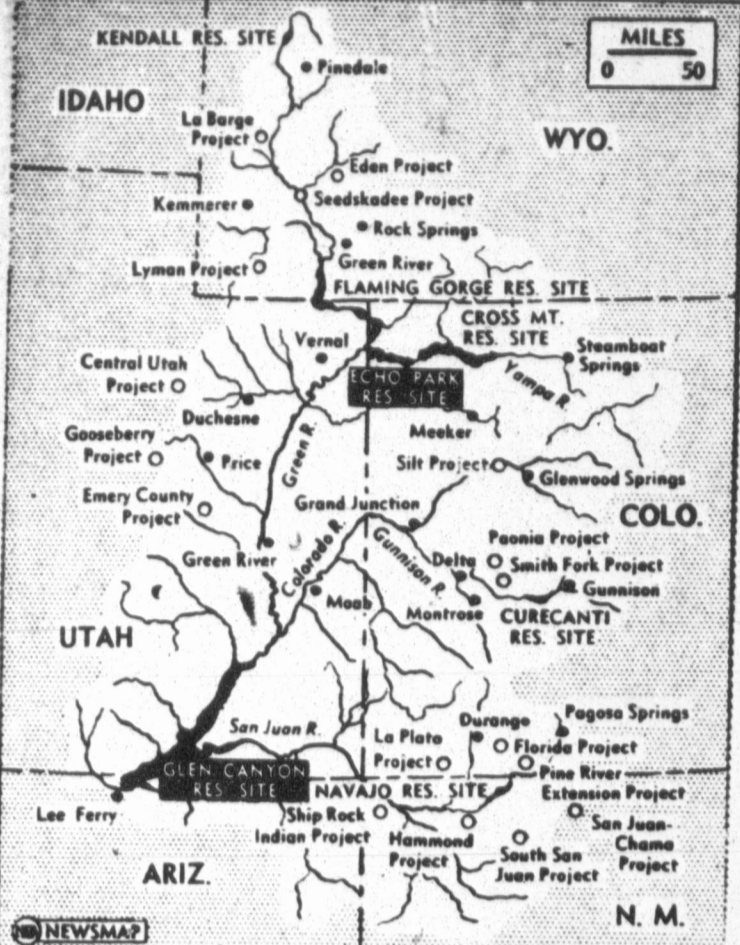

As Phillips' word-worn voice droned on, other senators, still keeping a quorum present, wandered around the Capitol's east wing, conferred over pending legislation, caught up on correspondence, dozed in chairs or paced along a rear corridor.

Only two senators were seated at desks as midnight passed, but one of them was asleep in someone else's chair. Sen. Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo presided virtually throughout the talkathon.

Electronic Brain Unveiled
HOPKINS, Minn. —UP—An electronic brain was unveiled here Thursday which can simulate an Eskimo's igloo or a tropical thatched hut and the effect weather has upon them.

DAM BATTLEFIELD—Here is the area of the upper Colorado River basin over which is being fought the "battle of the dams." One of the two proposed water storage dams involved is at Echo Park, Colo., three miles east of the Utah line. The other is at Glen Canyon, northern Arizona, 15 miles upstream from Lee Ferry. Eisenhower administration program for 1955 calls for an initial $5 million appropriation to begin work if Congress okays the projects. But anti-dam people are fighting hard to squelch the idea. Most opposition comes from downstream Colorado River water users of Arizona and California.

ECHO PARK DAM AREA—Proponents of the proposed Echo Park water storage dam in Colorado say backing up the waters of the Green, Yampa and Colorado rivers would provide a beautiful lake that would transform a "No Man's Land" into a vacation background for millions, besides providing irrigation, flood control and hydroelectric power. Anti-dam folks say backed-up waters would ruin famous Dinosaur Mountain, famed for beds of dinosaur bones. Proponents point out that beds are far below the dam site where reservoir waters could never reach them.

Subcommittee OKs Colorado River Project

WASHINGTON —UP—A Senate Interior subcommittee Thursday approved legislation for the $1.6 billion upper Colorado River basin development.

Two minor points in the legislation are still to be resolved. But Chairman Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.) said they are technical and do not affect the legislation's major provisions.

Anderson said the vote was unanimous in the five-man subcommittee. The measure is expected to be reported formally to the full interior committee next week.

The bill approved by the subcommittee goes far beyond the administration's $1 billion proposal. It includes 20 additional projects proposed by the Upper Colorado River Commission, subject to approval by the Interior Department. The bill authorizes the interior secretary to construct and operate the following initial units of the Colorado River storage project, including dams, reservoirs, power plants, transmission facilities and related works: Cross Mountain, Curecanti, Echo Park, Flaming Gorge, Glen Canyon and Navajo. The measure provides that the Curecanti dam must be high enough to impound at least 940,000 acre-feet of water. Also included are 15 reclamation projects and the 20 additional conditional projects.

FCC Approves Transfer
WASHINGTON —UP—The Federal Communications Commission Wednesday approved the transfer of television station KBTU, Denver, to John C. Mullins, Tulsa, Frank R. Leu, Nashville, Tenn. The FCC said Mullins and Leu are buying all stock in the station for $900,000. KBTU stock has been owned by J. C. Dyer and asso-
