Question Of The Week

Does Pampa Need New Fire Equipment?

By T. D. ELLIS Quizzing Cameraman

"Do you think the City of Pampa could afford to spend $30,000 for additional fire-fighting equipment in order to better protect an estimated $5 million of Pampa property?"

W. RAY MANTOOTH "Can't afford not to."

The incident of the ropes on the flag pole at the post office called our attention to the fact that some of the taller buildings here are too high for the present equipment.

Some of the buildings in Pampa, which are taller than 60 feet, are the Hughes, Combs-Worley, Hotel Pampa, City Hall, Court House, First Baptist Church, Senior and Junior High school buildings.

Ten Pampans said: G. K. Reading, 1200 N. Russell, Senior Resident Engineer for Texas Highway Department: "Any city is a group of people collected to protect any and all establishments and enterprises within its boundaries. I think any building which meets the approval of the city ordinances should receive adequate protection from the city fire department."

Mrs. W. H. Higdon, 531 S. Russell, Rena Ware dealer: "I think Pampa fire department should have the equipment to protect any building within the city limits. I don't know if the city could afford to protect it but it should make every effort to obtain the equipment needed for protection."

Ed Myatt, 1109 N. Starkweather, co-owner Friendly Men's Wear: "I feel that anything the city incorporates in its limits it is obligated to protect to the best of its ability. If the department doesn't have the equipment to scale all buildings in town, then it should be provided."

Mrs. W. E. Melton, south of city, housewife: "I think it would be a worthwhile cause and I think someone should look into the situation and see what can be done if there is that much property unprotected. I might be in one of those buildings when it caught fire."

W. Ray Mantooth, Alamo Hotel, painter: "I think the city can afford the equipment for its own protection. I frankly don't see how it could afford not to have adequate equipment."

Miss Bev Coomer, 940 S. Dwight PHS student: "I think the Pampa fire department should have the equipment to handle any fire regardless of the location. If the city can't afford the equipment now, someone should make arrangements to get it as soon as possible."

Sam Begert, 216 N. Houston, principal, Horace Mann School: "I think it would be a wise move for the city to have, or get the necessary fire-fighting equipment if it is within the limits of the available funds."

Mrs. Nell Tinnin, 618 N. Frost, housewife: "I most assuredly do. I am a property owner and I think we, the citizens of Pampa, should protect ourselves by insisting that the fire department have the modern equipment necessary to protect all property in Pampa."

C. Herbert Lowe, 604 N. Russell, minister: "I feel the city could not only afford, but think it would be necessary for the city to get the equipment. A fire department can not efficiently operate if it is not adequately equipped."

Mrs. Lennie S. Richardson, 1820 Hamilton, housewife: "Any life is worth $30,000 and I think a city of Pampa's means could afford fire-fighting equipment sufficient to protect and insure the people and property under its protective custody."

The figure of $30,000 is the estimated cost of a new truck with an 85-foot aerial ladder; however, adequate protection might be obtained with the addition of less expensive equipment.

Playwright Gets Lesson NEW YORK - UP - Playwright Robert E. Sherwood left for Yugoslavia for an on-the-spot geography lesson Wednesday. Sherwood has been assigned the job of writing a movie script for Michael Todd's production of Tolstoy's famed classic, "War and Peace," which will be filmed in Yugoslavia. Sherwood said he wanted to study the terrain.

Miller To Defend Fred Williams

Dusty Miller, Amarillo criminal lawyer, has been employed to defend Fred C. Williams, 31-year-old Pampa, accused of the murder Feb. 23 of Pampa laundry operator Oran J. Payne in the home of his estranged wife, Mrs. Juanita Ellen Williams, 622 N. Banks.

Miller called District Attorney Bill Waters this morning and said that he had been retained by the family. Williams is free on $5,000 bond. He was indicted by the grand jury several days ago.

Winds, Hail Hit Valley

By UNITED PRESS Howling winds and hail storms hit the flood-stricken Ohio River Valley Friday as the stream's muddy crest rolled down on Louisville, Ky.

Winds clocked at 58 miles per hour struck the sudden city of Cincinnati, where the flood crest claimed two lives as it swept down the river only 24 hours ago.

At Pittsburgh, Pa., scene of flood waters earlier this week, the winds rose to 80 miles per hour. Three persons were injured when a chimney collapsed, and wide areas of Pittsburgh were blacked out as the winds blew down power lines and lightning burned out transformers.

A tornado warning was issued in Ohio as savage hail storms covered most of the state's midsection, hitting Columbus to the accompaniment of winds clocked at 69 miles per hour.

25 Roofs Sipped Off In the eastern Ohio town of New Comerstown 25 roofs were ripped off or damaged.

Elsewhere in the nation, chocolate-grey dust clouds settled over an eight-state southwest area, but a new dust storm cut visibility to zero at Lamar, Colo.

A 64.1-foot crest was due to hit Louisville at about noon, but flood walls were expected to prevent major damage.

Eldredge Sentenced

The amended motion in the case of convicted rapist, Howard J. Eldredge, 41, of 613 S. Henry, was overruled this morning by District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich.

Eldredge's defense counsel H. M. Hood of Berger, immediately gave notice of appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin, and was given 90 days to perfect the appeal.

Eldredge was convicted March 1 of the rape of his 15-year-old daughter on Christmas Night, and was sentenced this morning by Judge Goodrich to 40 years in the state penitentiary, pending the further direction of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Chiang Kai-Shek Orders Stopping Of Finnish Tanker

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 11 - UP - The Nationalist government has ordered its navy to intercept the Finnish tanker Aruba carrying 13,000 tons of jet plane fuel to Red China, authoritative sources said Friday.

The tanker, which passed through Port Said recently with jet fuel from the Romanian oil fields, was thought to be somewhere between Suez and Singapore.

The Nationalists believed its destination was the port of Foochow at the mouth of the Min River and near the Nationalist offshore island of Matsu.

The Communists have recently massed large concentrations of jet planes in this area of southeastern China, including modern MIG-17s, an improved version of the MIG-15 apparently for attacks against Matsu or Formosa.

"We will capture this ship if we can," a high-ranking Nationalist official told United Press.

The Nationalist navy previously captured two Polish and one Russian tanker which attempted to ram jet fuel through the Nationalist China blockade.

Communist China warned the United States only Wednesday it would have to bear the "full responsibility" if it "dares" to try to intercept the tanker.

Warning to U.S. The Peiping regime ignored the Nationalist navy as such and warned the United States against daring "to direct and help the traitor Chiang Kai-Shek to intercept the Finnish tanker."

The Communist warning, broadcast by Peiping radio, said the "cargo carried by the tanker is the property of the Chinese people" and said any attacks on it would be "piracy" and a "violation of freedom of navigation on the high seas."

The Nationalist navy has carried out a blockade of the coast ever since the Communists seized the mainland and has shrugged off strong warnings, including some from Russia, about intercepting ships.

From the introductory chorus and band number, "Muskrat Rumble," to the closing and very stirring rendition of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," mirth and laughter reigned supreme with comedy routines provided by the end men and Mr. Interlocutor, Bunny Shultz, and all was combined with the delightful rendering of many a charming "black face" tune.

Sparking the program were such outstanding emcees as that of Jack Dunham in his "Mummy's Little Cold Black Rose," and those of Gray County's "rotund" sheriff in his vocalizing in "The Preacher and the Bear." Liberace and "George" were captivately rendered by the versatile duo of Dr. Joe Donaldson and Joe Tooley, respectively. Blues singer Mary Ann Guthrie performed with genuine New Orleansian color "Birth of the Blues."

Janie Sims and Otto Mangold performed in a jitterbug specialty which was marked for no lack of enthusiasm on their parts or that of the audience. Max Press' 21 did a tap dance routine to "Blue Skies."

Show Stopper "Saturday Night Fish Fry" was undoubtedly the top show stopper, featuring before the footlights in solo parts James Evans, Harold Payne, Hansford Ousley, and Pressnell. In the quartet spotlight were the "Lion-Hearted Four" doing "Mobile" preceded by the splendid vocal rendition of "Hearts of Stone" by Lavinia Webb, June Johnson, and Hope Osborne. Henry Grubea was a featured instrumentalist with his trombone solo "Lasses Trombone." And a deep south banjo solo by Tommy Adkins playing "Blue Skies" topped off a program which will be talked about by many Pampans for some time to come.

Curtain time tonight is at 8 o'clock. There are still excellent seats available. Dollar-wise, it's a rewarding entertainment value. School children are admitted for 50 cents.

Week-Long Lull Broken

TAIPEI, Formosa - UP - Communist artillery shelled Nationalist held Quemoy island Friday, breaking a week-long lull in the Formosa Strait.

A defense ministry communique, the first in seven days, said Red guns at Amoy and on two nearby islands fired three barrages, totaling 32 rounds, on Quemoy.

The shelling began at noon-12 midnight Thursday est. and the last shot was fired two hours and 15 minutes later.

The communique said no damage was done.

Penicillin Founder Is Dead

LONDON - UP - Sir Alexander Fleming, the discoverer of penicillin, died Friday. The white-haired scientist was 73.

He died in his London home, not far from St. Mary's hospital where he discovered penicillin by accident. It was one of the most momentous accidents in the history of medicine.

The beneficial accident came about this way:

Fleming was putting about in his small laboratory in 1928. A speck-sized fleck of wind-borne mold was wafted through an open window. This was an event that set off a chain reaction leading to the eventual discovery of penicillin in 1942.

The speck settled in a saucer containing a germ culture. Fleming absentmindedly took a look at it through a microscope. The germs in the saucer were dying.

There the accident ended, and the genius took over. Working with the whistler-like vegetable molds such as housewives see on decayed fruit, Fleming made penicillin, the drug that almost miraculously prevents multiplication of bacteria in the human body.

But it was characteristic of the quiet and retiring scientist that he did not profit commercially from penicillin's discovery.

He was born in Ayshire, Scotland, in 1881. He was graduated from St. Mary's medical school, taking almost every honor and prize in his class.

After that, most of his life was spent in teaching at St. Mary's and at London University. The only break in this routine came when he served as a captain in the British Army Medical Corps during World War I.

In 1918 Fleming married Sara McElroy, who died in 1949. They had one son, Robert.

He married his second wife, Greek bacteriologist Amalia Cookson, in April, 1953. She worked with him at the Wright-Fleming Institute, which was the center of his life to the last.

He painted a bit, and kept swimming and exercising an excellent talent as a rifle shot. He talked little.

Once, when a reporter noticed a picture of movie actress Mariene Dietrich on a table, he asked Fleming why he kept it there. "We're just good friends," Fleming replied.

Demo Plan On Tax Cuts Gets Strength

WASHINGTON - UP - A Democratic compromise plan for cutting income taxes gained some strength Friday as the Senate moved into the second day of its tax debate.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), an opponent of any income tax reduction, conceded the compromise formula has picked up some votes. But he was still confident the plan will be defeated when it reaches a final vote next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Chairman Styles Bridges (N.H.) of the Republican Policy Committee said a recheck of GOP senators showed them still almost solidly behind the administration in opposing a tax cut.

If one Republican voted for the compromise, three Democratic votes would be needed to defeat it, assuming all senators voted or paired. An authoritative Democratic source said indications are that three or four Democrats will vote with the Republicans against the plan.

The compromise would give each taxpayer a $20 tax cut and a $10 reduction for each dependent, except for those with incomes of less than $5,000 a year. It also would provide offsetting increases in taxes on business and stockholders.

Other developments: Informed sources said a group of freshmen Democrats in the House are drafting a declaration calling for a drastically different approach to U.S. foreign policy.

The group is considering, but has not agreed on proposals calling for a United Nations trusteeship for Formosa and free elections to determine who shall rule the Nationalist-held island.

MILITARY PAY A bill raising military pay, which sailed through the House 399 to 1 Thursday, headed for rougher treatment in the Senate. Observers said the Senate may lower the increase, reducing the total $745,845,015 annual cost of the raises. The House bill would boost by amounts ranging from 6 to 25 percent the pay of enlisted men with more than two year's service and of officers with more than three.

Sensors investigating the stock market boom heard another expert suggest that stock trading be put on an all-cash basis if the market takes another sharp upturn. The recommendation was made by Benjamin Graham, head of an investment fund and part-time finance professor at Columbia University.

Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) said (See PLAN, Page 3)

Dust Gone In Pampa

There is to be no more dust in Pampa today as Texas skies are clear to partly cloudy. The forecast for Pampa and vicinity is slightly cooler, less wind, and clear to partly cloudy skies. The temperature at 9:00 a.m. was 60 degrees.

According to the United Press the remnants of Thursday's dust clouds that plagued the Panhandle and South Plains drifted over North Central Texas Friday, but subsiding winds were expected to minimize threat of another "duster."

The wind hit 53 miles an hour in gusts at Amarillo Thursday to stir up drouth-caused dry topsoil to boil into towering clouds of dust—the worst of the new year. Visibility was cut to one-quarter mile at Dalhart and Childress. Visibility at Pampa was down to less than a mile.

Temperatures remained mild and another unseasonal hot day was in prospect for most of the state with readings again soaring past the 90-degree mark.

The mercury climbed to 95 at Cotulla Thursday and hit 94 at Fort Worth, Mineral Wells, Laredo and Alice, 93 at Dallas and Del Rio and 90 at Waco, while the coolest spot was 75 at Dalhart.

The maximum temperature at Pampa Thursday was 79 degrees with the low last night reading 44 degrees.

WASHINGTON — UP — The squeeze on the farmers' pocketbook "tightened appreciably" in the past year, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

In a farm cost report, the department noted a 4 per cent decline in the farm parity ratio from the last quarter of 1953 to the last quarter of 1954. It said "almost all" of the decline was due to lower prices farmers received for their crops.

The cost of living and of producing items the farmer had to buy, meanwhile, rose about 1 per cent during the period, the department said.

The parity ratio is a calculation which balances farm prices against

Silt Hangover Gives Wide Area Great Big 'Headache'

OKLAHOMA CITY — UP — Cities up to 1,000 miles east of the dust had more than 15 miles in the clear Friday. In the early morning, visibility was 15 miles at Amarillo, Tex., at the Oklahoma Panhandle city of Guymon, and at LaJonia, Colo.

Winds that raged up to 90 miles per hour in Wyoming and kicked up soil in seven states slackened Friday, but the pall of dust extended as far east as Evansville, Ind.; Bowling Green and Paducah, Ky., and Memphis, Tenn. Paducah is 915 airline miles east of the western border of the Oklahoma Panhandle.

A weather bureau spokesman at Oklahoma City said winds aloft were pushing the silt eastward at an 80 to 90 mile-per-hour clip and that in all probability some of the southwest dust will reach the Atlantic Coast.

Visibility at Fort Smith, Ark., was 500 airline miles east of the dust source was reduced to 1 1/2 miles Friday by the cloud of silt. In contrast, Dairhart, Tex., where

Houston Oilman Dies In Crash

NOME, Tex. — UP — Victor C. Creed, 56-year-old president of a Houston oilfield construction firm, was killed Thursday when his auto crashed into a bridge abutment near here.

Creed, president of Creed-Quady Inc., was en route to Houston on Highway 90 at the time of the accident. State Highway Patrolman D. E. Wood said he apparently was traveling at about 60 miles an hour when the car skidded off the road shoulder and smashed into the bridge crossing an irrigation ditch.

Creed had spent the day in Beaumont on business.

Wood said Creed may have fallen asleep at the wheel. He said the impact was such that the front seat was pushed back into the rear seat of the car.

Creed had been president of Creed-Quady Inc. since Jan. 1. Until that time he was president of Joe Smith & Co. Inc., another oilfield construction firm.

When Mamie Gets Sick, Politicos Begin Talking

WASHINGTON — UP — The angry Republican explosion of protest against a political reference to Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower's health just about added up Friday to some more pressure on the President to be a candidate next year for re-election.

He doesn't want to do it. But the heat is on.

Not in years has the capital seen a political maneuver so quickly organized and effected as Thursday's on the subject of Mrs. Eisenhower's health.

Republicans individually and in groups mauled Democratic National Committee Chairman Paul M. Butler for a news conference suggestion that her health was one reason Mr. Eisenhower would not run again.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.), former speaker and now Republican House leader, opened the attack which continued throughout Thursday. It became a bitter, personal assault on Butler, whose character and conduct were shredded in angry debate.

"Low Animal in Human Form"

"Loath some; irresponsible; scoundrel; low animal in human form," were some of the Republican bouquets for Butler as members addressed the House and Senate in angry terms.

Astonishing to many in Washington was the scope and vigor of the Republican rebuke. It scarcely could have been less than inspired and organized by someone, although over a period of 20 years members of Franklin D. Roosevelt's family were the subject of public and private comment considerably less flattering than Butler's comment on Mrs. Eisenhower's health.

Parties and Presidents usually ignore such, although Woodrow Wilson once threatened to horse-whip a writer for a family reference and Harry S. Truman sent an almost unmailable threat to a music critic who had criticized daughter Margaret's singing voice.

Evidence of Recognition

The organized co-ordination of the Republican uproar was evidence enough of the party's recognition of Mr. Eisenhower as the best Republican bet in 1956 and its determination to put him up again. And Republican orators may have been fired to greater heat by suspicion that there was some subliminal message in Butler's remarks. The capital grapevine reported that the President thought Butler was playing "kind of low" politics.

The only qualified witness was the White House physician, Dr. Howard Snyder. He said that aside from a heart condition of which the public long has been aware, Mrs. Eisenhower's health is basically good. The heart condition was described as a "murmur" which sometimes limits her activities. She sometimes has suffered from over-fatigue. She does not like to fly at high altitudes. She is bedded right now for a few days with flu.

Otherwise, said Dr. Snyder: "There is no illness."

Huff, Warren In Car Collision

A two-car accident Thursday in the 100 block on North Ballard resulted in minor damage to both vehicles. No one was injured, according to police department reports.

A car driven by Chester A. Huff, 67, of 708 N. Gray was in collision with a 1953 Pontiac driven by Helen C. Warren, 32, of Pampa. Damage to both cars was estimated at $140.

No Survivors In C-54 Crash

TAIPEI, Formosa — UP — A ground search party reached the wreckage of a United States Air Force C-54 Thursday night and reported no survivors among the 14 airmen aboard.

The four-engine transport crashed Sunday into a 10,000-foot mountain in southern Formosa covered with dense jungles and inhabited by unfriendly natives.

Although the wreckage was sighted from the air Monday it took a search party of four U. S. airmen and 70 Chinese Nationalist troops until Thursday night to reach the scene.

The plane, based at Tokyo, was enroute to Hong Kong.

Prisoners Have Tax Problems

HOUSTON — UP — A federal grand jury has indicted two inmates at Huntsville state prison for allegedly collecting refunds of $206 on income taxes they never paid.

The indictments, returned Thursday, were against Audrey J. Merkel, 32, serving a 10-year term for assault at Llano, and Kenneth Jenkins, who was charged with preparing and filing Merkel's claim.

The refund was paid on a claim by Merkel on taxes which he swore had been deducted from his wages in 1951 and 1952. Merkel was sent to prison in January, 1950.

PLAN

The United States is about to perfect a means of preserving food through atomic radiation, thus eliminating the need for refrigeration. A subcommittee headed by Price was shown behind closed doors Thursday meats and vegetables which had been subjected to atomic radiation and then stored at room temperatures for eight months.

A Senate subcommittee warned there may be 1.7 million juveniles in trouble with the police in 1960 unless the current rising tide of delinquency is curbed. The committee said more and better schools, expanded public housing and an enlarged mental health program would help ease the problem.

SECURITY

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) charged there is "a complete lack of uniformity" between government agencies in carrying out the administration's security regulation. He said the Justice Department, "which is supposed to be coordinating it," shows "probably the worst ignorance" about the program.

Jane Talk

Pampa News Women's Editor
By JANE KADINGO

THE MYTH THAT A BRIDESMAID must never look lovelier than the bride is exploded in today's column by a famous beauty expert. A lovely bridesmaid enhances the contrast of the all-in-white bride, he maintains. Here are his reasons and his suggestions for bridal-party makeup.

"DON'T TAKE TOO LITERAL-ly the unwritten law that you must never outshine the bride," says Max Factor, Jr., addressing the Spring's big crop of bridesmaids. He insists that the more colorfully and excitingly her bridesmaids are dressed, the more breath-catchingly lovely and ethereal, by contrast, the white-clad bride will look.

In calling out color cues to girls who, right now are rehearsing for the big event, Factor warns against make-up shadows, if the church is dimly lit.

The way to fight them, says the Hollywood expert, is to wear a foundation that reflects a maximum of light. That would be a color lighter and brighter than your own skin. With it, wear a little pastel cheek rouge (harmonized, of course, with lipstick and color of dress). Be sure however warns Factor, there's no blue undertone to your cheek rouge to look dark in a half-lit church, cast unwanted shadows.

After all of your make-up is on, including face powder, sponge your face with an astringent, pat skin with an astringent-dipped sponge, wrung almost dry. This will make your skin look luminously lovely; give it a sheen that will seem almost to glow in the darkness.

Wear a lipstick shade that's in harmony with the pastel coloring of your gown, but favor the brilliant shades of the clearly reds, the brighter reds, the pure reds and the golden flame shades. With little or no blue undertone, such lipstick shades will fight shadows, keep your lips from looking hard, sometimes black.

If, however, you're going to be a bridesmaid at a brilliant spring-time or summery wedding in or out of doors and Lipstick shade: Factor.

Your cue, then is to wear as natural-looking make-up as you would normally use. The more natural it is the lovelier your skin will look in intense daylight. In that event, lipstick shades can have all the nuances of pink, orchid, coral, and bluish reds that bridesmaids' pastel gowns are apt to have. Some color harmonies are suggested.

Dress color and Lipstick shade:
Powder blue, Red, Red Rose; Violet or mauve. Crushed Rose; Turquoise. See Red; Sea green, Riding Hood Red; Yellow or Champagne. Golden Flame; Shrimp or coral, Coral Spray.

SO THAT THE NATIONAL reputation for long-stemmed American beauty won't suffer from whopping cableknit socks girls are wearing up-to-here for warmth, Max Factor, Jr., steps pu with a suggestion or two.

To keep those cold weather guards from making your legs look like the goalie's of a hockey team, see that socks blend with the color of the coat worn above.

Another tip is to be sure that your coat is in character with your knee-highs: a sports coat of the camel hair or tweed type, never a dressy coat.

Bulky cableknits look smartest says Factor when they're color-blended with both your coat and stocking-covering — the knit hood or stocking cap you also wear for warmth.

SPANISH DANCE — Barbara Henry, center, is the center of attention during a Spanish dance presented by fifth and sixth grade students of Horace Mann School during a recent program. ### Ladies Class Has Luncheon Meeting

The Loyal Women's Class of the First Christian Church held a social meeting in the home of Mrs. R. J. Sailor Sr., west of city. The affair was a covered-dish luncheon and a handkerchief shower honoring Mrs. A. D. Wilson and Mrs. C. H. Darling, who are moving to Clarendon. Gifts were presented by Mrs. Sailor and Mrs. Ray Tinsley.

Opening prayer was led by Mrs. Tinsley, acting president. During the short business session, a report of the district convention in Canyon held Monday and Tuesday was given by Mrs. J. F. Meers and Mrs. Oscar Shearer.

Decorations followed a St. Patrick's Day theme. The main serving table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a large green shamrock. Flanking the centerpiece were green tapers in crystal holders. The individual tables were centered with miniature shamrocks.

Attending, other than those already named, were Meses, M. F. Attechock, C. H. Munday, C. H. Wood, Mercer Denmore, Grace Meadows, Oscar Frahtier, Oscar Huff, C. W. Lawrence, Tom Eckard, Beasie Schaeffer, W. G. Kinzer and Verda Adair.

Rebekahs Slate Sale Of Rummage Today

The Pampa Rebekah Lodge will sponsor a rummage sale today and Saturday with the proceeds to go toward charity. Site of the sale will be the 500 block of South Cuyler in the Jess Hulseley building.

The sale was previously scheduled for several weeks ago, but had to be postponed.

RUTH MILLET

"The frustrating thing about housekeeping," says a woman reader, "is that you never reach the place where you can fold your hands and say, 'Everything is fine, just the way it is.'"

"By the time you get the living room looking the way you want it to, some other room is crying for attention. So you are forever making curtains, etc. It is a never-ending job."

Sure, homemaking is a never-ending job. But that doesn't necessarily mean it is a frustrating one. Whether or not the thought that there are things to be done is frustrating, challenging depends entirely on your own attitude.

The woman who hates housework and groans about all the things that aren't the way she would like to have them takes a defeatist attitude toward her job. Everything looks like more trouble than it is worth and she wishes she could just once get everything done and be able to stop and say "This is it."

But the woman who enjoys homemaking sees things yet to be done as a challenge and an opportunity. She is happy planning and contriving and figuring what she is going to do next.

Actually, if a woman could reach the place where she could say "My work is finished" she would be in a sad state. For it would be boring to have a house that offered no challenge.

Just a little while of sitting with folded hands and thinking that there was nothing left for her to do would drive her crazy with boredom.

So don't bemoan the fact that yours is a never-ending job. That is the wonderful thing about homemaking. And it is probably one reason why women live longer than men. As long as they have houses to run they can never feel that their work is done or that the world has passed them by.

Horace Mann Has Musical Program

The Horace Mann choir, under the direction of Mrs. John Branham presented a musical program recently for Texas Public Schools Week. Mrs. Fay Dellis Adams was accompanist.

Some of the selections in the "Songs of America" section were "America Shake Hands," "O Solo Mio," "Roundup Lullaby," "Home on the Range" and "Trail to Mexico." The Indian song was "Pale Moon," and American hymns included, "Morning Invitation," and "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

One of the numbers was a Spanish dance with Priscilla Goodwin, Judy Essary and Barbara Henry, as Spanish girls; and Tommy McPeak, Larry Taylor and Jay Russell as cowboys.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

If you get a telephone call about a subject you do not want to discuss in the hearing of a visitor, don't lower your voice or try to talk so your visitor won't be able to understand the meaning of what you are saying.

Instead say "I have a caller. I wonder if I could call you back later when I have time to talk?"

Baby has no sense of time, so it's no wonder a toddler dawdles. Nagging only angers him, for he doesn't know time is passing. Try to move his interest along to the next thing at hand.

Leather Tooling Explained At Meet Of Merten HDC

Mrs. D. W. Swain presented a demonstration on leather tooling and lacing of leather purses recently for the Merten Home Demonstration Club, which met in the home of Mrs. Archie Maness, 431 N. Sumner.

The event was an all-day session, with a covered dish luncheon at noon.

During the demonstration, Mrs. Swain made a leather pouch bag. She pointed out that the leather must be soaked in water before tooling work can begin. The leather must not be too wet or too dry.

Members present were Meses. Archie Maness, Jack Prather, A. M. Nash, V. Smith, D. A. Rife, V. S. Day, Mrs. Clyde Edmondson was welcomed as a new member. Visitors were Miss Helen Dunlap, county HD agent, Mrs. Frank Stephenson, Mrs. W. R. O'Neal and Master Michael Jones.

Baptist Ruth Class Has Business Meet

The Ruth Class of the First Baptist Church met recently in the home of Mrs. Jim Dean, 716 Bradley Drive, with Mrs. Dean, vice president, in charge.

For the program, Mrs. Robert Hogan discussed and reviewed the "Church Covenant." During the social period refreshments of salads, sandwiches and soft drinks were served.

Attending were Meses. Walter Guenzel, Ross Bussard, Jim Johnson, Henry Bensal, Dee Burba, John Ramsey, Bob Fugate, Hogan, Dean and S. E. Waters, class teacher.

Skellytown HD Club Has Planning Meeting

SKELLYTOWN — (Special) Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. R. W. Fitzgerald with Mrs. Guy McKenney, acting president, in the absence of Mrs. Hugh Wall, in charge.

A council report was given by Mrs. Everett Crawford. It was announced that family night will be held in the memorial building in Panhandle April 28. Colored slides will be shown, and Miss Elaine Bennett, an exchange student to Germany, will speak. The district meeting will be held April 12 in Spearman. Plans were made for all Skellytown home demonstration members to attend.

Next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Hugh Wall, Miss Charlotte Tompkins, county agent, will demonstrate the different variations of muffins.

Refreshments of cake and ice cream were served. Attending were Meses. Cecil Shipley, Clarence Hoskins, Everett Crawford, W. S. Berry, W. L. Aubert, Guy McKenney, Clifford Coleman, and Clifton Hanna.

Auxiliary Of DMF Holds Bingo Party

The Auxiliary of the Daughters Men's Fraternity, Cities Service gas and production departments, sponsored a bingo party recently, with approximately 80 persons attending.

Decorations in green and white followed a St. Patrick's Day theme. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served. Prizes were baked goods.

Hostesses for the event were Meses. O. V. Batson, I. B. Carlton and E. H. Eaton. The event was held in the Cities Service club house.

Mrs. J. C. Vollmert And Mrs. Otis Nace Give Talks On Texas To Varietas Club

Varietas Study Club met recently in the home of Mrs. J. G. Doggett, 914 N. Somerville, with Mrs. H. H. Butler, president, in charge.

Program leader was Mrs. J. C. Vollmert. Opening the program on Texas was Mrs. W. A. Wagoner who played piano selections of Texas songs.

Mrs. Vollmert told about Texas as a fashion center, giving the history of Neiman-Marcus store in Dallas. She pointed out the store is now run by four Marcus sons, and has made a chief contribution to the Arts not only as a fashion center of Texas, but of the world.

"Yes, It's True What They Say 'About Texas' was a humorous talk given by Mrs. Otis Nace. She explained that when a Texan talks about the weather, fish or money, he isn't bragging. She also told of some of the better jokes about Texas.

"The typical Texan has long filled a deep need in the hearts of all citizens of democracy," Mrs.

Nace pointed out in a more serious vein. "The need is to feel that somewhere there exists freedom and unlimited opportunities which characterized the period of the last American frontier where a man could seek and find a pot of gold at the foot of every rainbow and fulfillment of dreams limited only by the capacities within himself. This is a democratic ideal. As long as it remains so, America will continue to be stirred by the courageous and the free — the typical Texan."

Attending were Meses. H. H. Butler, J. G. Cargile, Cecil Dalton, H. P. Doster, H. T. Hampton, W. C. Hutchinson, J. A. Hopkins, Dow King, Otis Nace, Luther Pierson, J. R. Spearman, Ralph Thomas, J. C. Vollmert, W. A. Wagoner and J. G. Doggett.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
The school term that my arithmetic teacher introduced me to fractions, I developed a chronic depression. It was over the phrase "common denominator." I did not know what one was.

Other children did. Joyously they could bounce up to announce the "common denominator" of one fourth and five eighths while I sat in my seat, sunk in deep gloom over my failure to understand.

I asked nobody for help with my arithmetic homework.

By spring vacation, my marks had become the subject of family agitation. A tutor was hastily hired. Some time during our first hour together, she said, "A 'common denominator' is just a grown-up name for this big number here. See how both these smaller numbers divide into it perfectly? That's all there is to a 'common denominator.' Now we copy the big number under these two lines . . ."

By the end of my second hour with her, I could do fractions. I had not needed anyone to do my homework for me. All I'd needed was someone who could talk simply.

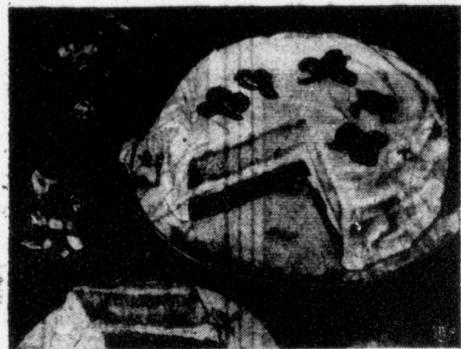

I do not know all the children in the world who have been discouraged by homework. Those I have known have been discouraged over it because of adult failure to talk simply.

Teaching is the ability to clarify. To clarify for children you have to talk simply.

Some of their teachers can't. That is why Eddie will come home spalled by an assignment to produce a "book review" on Ivanhoe. I hope it will occur to us that he doesn't know what a book review is. If it does, his dismay will not affect us. We won't imagine that we have to write his review. We won't hover over him nervously as he tries to produce what he hopes will be one.

We'll just say, "A book review is just writing down your reasons for liking or not liking some book. Did you like Ivanhoe? What's your best reason? All right, there's your first sentence. I like this story of the knight, Ivanhoe, because he was brave and kind to Rebecca."

"Is it good or bad to help a child with homework?" several readers have asked me recently.

ROSE AND SHAMROCK CAKE, baked from prize recipe, is a St. Patrick's Day treat.

COOK'S NOOK

Rose And Shamrock Cake Is Based On Prize Recipe

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Mrs. A. G. Madison of Richmond Hill, N. Y., won $1000 for a novel way to use leftover cake with fruit flavored gelatin. That was at Christmas time and the New York World Telegram and Sun awarded her the cash prize.

But with St. Patrick's Day ahead, Mrs. Madison has adapted her Easy Christmas Cake to March 17th, calling it Rose and Shamrock Cake.

"It is also easy," she says. "Have two round sponge layers, place them in layer pans and pour a package of lime-flavored gelatin over one layer and a package of cherry-flavored gelatin over the second. Chill about 2 1/2 hours, or until gelatin is firm. Whip 1-2 cups cream and sweeten with 2 tablespoons sugar. Spread cream between layers and over top and sides of cake. Decorate with green cherries in a shamrock design."

cherries in a shamrock design." Rose and Shamrock Cake (Serves 8 to 10)

One package lime-flavored gelatin, 1 package cherry-flavored gelatin, 2 round sponge cake layers, 1 1/2 cups whipping cream, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Prepare each flavor of gelatin separately, according to package directions. Place cake layers in layer pans. Pour the lime-flavored gelatin over one layer and the cherry-flavored gelatin over the second layer. Chill about 2 1/2 hours, or until gelatin is firm. Whip cream and sweeten with sugar. Spread cream between layers and over the top and sides of cake. Decorate with green cherries in a shamrock design.

Note: To remove the chilled layers, dip bottoms of cake pans in hot water just long enough to loosen gelatin around sides of pan. Then slide cake from pan.

Week-end visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. St. John were Mr. and Mrs. Alton Seitz of Guyton, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hogan and family. Mr. and Mrs. Seitz also visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Seitz, also of Mobeetie.

Abilene Lady Lost 4 Pounds A Week With Barcentrate

"I have been a user of the new improved Barcentrate for about 3 months," writes Jean Richardson, 425 Butternut St., Abilene, Texas. "I think it is wonderful; the weight I have lost. I have averaged losing 4 pounds a week. It doesn't leave you with that tired, worn-out feeling so many have when they go on a strenuous reducing diet. I have tried many ways to lose weight, but find nothing to equal the new improved Barcentrate."
If the very first bottle of Barcentrate doesn't show you the way to take off ugly fat, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Beck of Dumas visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Sims, Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hogan Pampa visited, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hogan Monday evening.

Quick Road Okay Asked

WASHINGTON—UP—Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks Thursday urged prompt congressional approval of the administration's $101 billion highway program.

A Senate Public Works subcommittee is considering the administration program and an alternative measure sponsored by Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.). The latter would authorize a total of $8 billion over five years in federal aid funds to be matched by the states.

Weeks said he opposed the Gore bill because it "injects the federal government to a far greater degree into the state systems at the expense of the federal interest."

Weeks defended the administration's proposal to finance the 40,000-mile interstate system of super-highways with bonds issued by a proposed federal highway corporation.

Tax Regulations For Sickness, Dividends, Retirement Income

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first $50 of dividends you received during the year, and it is written by the top federal tax official to help taxpayers make out their 1934 returns. This one takes up new deductions for illness, dividends and retirement income.

By T. COLEMAN ANDREWS
Commissioner of Internal Revenue
WASHINGTON—UP—Income when you are sick or injured, income from dividends, and retirement or annuity income are all subject to new regulations under the revised tax code of 1934.

On the basis of questions which taxpayers have been asking at internal revenue service offices in all parts of the country, I shall try to set the picture straight. Accident or health insurance payments, and amounts you receive as compensation for your injury or sickness, are exempt from tax.

The new law also permits you to exclude from your income up to $100 a week of pay you received while you were sick or injured, if the sickness or injury caused you to be absent from work. But there is a special rule for sickness. The pay you receive for the first week of absence from work cannot be scratched off your total income unless you have been hospitalized.

The hospitalization does not have to fall within the first week of sickness; just sometime within the period of absence from work. This first-week proviso does not apply to absence for injury.

The amount you may exclude from your income is limited to the amount your employer continued to pay you for your absent time, but in no case may you exclude more than $100 per week. Even if you earned $1,000 a week you may exclude only $100 a week.

If you make any exclusion from your income for sickness or injury, be sure to attach a statement to your return explaining the circumstances.

They Will Take Days To Identify

MASCOTA, Mex.—UP—Authorities reported Thursday the 26 victims of Mexico's worst plane crash were burned beyond recognition and that it probably would take days to identify them.

(The Mexico City newspaper Ultima Noticias speculated the plane crash may have resulted from "sabotage or mutiny aboard" by four Mexican "dangerous forgers and drug traffickers" being flown to Guadalajara for trial.)

The bodies, including those of four Californians, were brought down Wednesday night from fire blackened El Cabro, a 9,000-foot peak of the western Sierra Madre near Mexico's west coast.

The 23 passengers and three crew members were killed Tuesday afternoon when a twin-engine Mexican airliner crashed into the peak and exploded 20 minutes after it left the coastal resort town of Puerto Vallarta.

Two rescue crews, hampered by brush fires started by flaming gasoline, took more than 15 hours to reach the scene and bring the bodies to this village 12 miles away. They reported the bodies and the wreckage scattered over a wide area.

Those are the general rules for pension or annuity income for which you are not taxable. The new law also provides new rules for the amounts on which you pay tax.

Under certain conditions, it allows you a credit against your tax. The credit is 20 per cent of your retirement income, up to a maximum of $20 per person.

To be eligible for this credit, you must have reached 65 by the end of the year, unless you were a civilian employee of the federal, or a state or local government, and are receiving income under a public retirement system.

Winston Favors Sale
Of US Rubber Plants

WASHINGTON — UP— Chairman Vinson of the House Armed Services committee Thursday endorsed administration agreements for the sale of government synthetic rubber plants to private operators.

"I find myself in complete agreement with the disposal program," Vinson said as the committee met to consider the sales plan, under which 24 war-built synthetic plants will be sold for $285,643,000.

WASHINGTON — UP— The government reported Wednesday that unemployment took a seasonal rise in February to 3,283,000, up 26,000 from January. But the total was 288,000 lower than in February, 1954. This is the first such drop since the fall of 1953 when a business slump started.

Japanese Premier
For 'Two Chinas'

By RUTHERFORD POATS

TOKYO — UP— Prime Minister Hirota Thursday called for a "two Chinas" solution to the Chinese crisis and pledged Japan work toward bridging the gap between East and West.

In an exclusive interview with United Press, Hatoyama discussed controversial aspects of his "coexistence" foreign policy. It was his first interview since he led his Democratic party to an election victory last week.

He replied to foreign critics who edict he will lead Japan toward opportunistic "neutrality."

Wants Permanent Peace

"Japan is definitely with the free world but the free world wants and needs permanent peace," the partly paralyzed politician said.

"While keeping good relations with the free world, I want to use Japan's position to ease the tension or bridge the chasm between the Communist and non-Communist worlds by normalizing a situation in the East. The people expect me to do this," he said.

"This is not neutralism in the sense," Hatoyama declared. He said he hoped war in the Far East could be averted, preferably by a negotiated settlement.

Hatoyama said he would welcome a formal cease-fire that tended to stabilize the conflict in a "two Chinas" arrangement.

THE MARQUEE BY DICK KLEINER. TV STAGE RECORDS PEOPLE.

A few fast facts: NBC rumored to be quietly planning a film city in New York against the day when the unions will let networks make their own TV films. Norman Bell Geddes is reported to be drawing plans for the studios...

Spring Byington has discovered a new drawback to being a TV star - it's frightfully expensive. The very pleasant heroine of CBS-TV's "December Bride" found herself in a script that called for her to take up oil painting.

So she went out and bought $400 worth of equipment and started painting. Now she's really enthusiastic about her new hobby, so she's turning her attic into a studio. Cost of the conversion - $1700.

Everybody knocks Arthur Godfrey. I think somebody should tell some of the good things he does. OK, Counsel for the defense, Tom Lockard, has the floor. Tom is one of the Mariners, the quartet that's been with Mr. G. longer than any of his regulars, except Janette Davis.

"Like our day off," Tom said. "Arthur didn't have to do it, but he's given every one on the show an extra day off. We all have Saturday and Sunday off, and now we get one day off during the week too."

How about your songs - does he pick them?

"No," laughed Lockard. "Most of the time he doesn't even know what we're singing. About the only time he says anything is when he happens to hear us sing something at rehearsal and he doesn't like the song. He'll say, 'I don't think that song does you guys any good. If we think it's a good number and say we'd like to do it, he'll just shrug and say, 'Well, it's OK by me.'"

"But that maybe happens once in six months or so. Most of the time, he never says a thing. Actually, we find him a good guy to work for."

And there you are. The Mariners, on the surface, seem like a happy crew. And the surface is the best place to find mariners, as anybody knows.

"Sure we're happy," Lockard says. "We'll stay here forever, if we can. Any quartet - even the top recording groups - would gladly swap with us. We get a good, steady salary, we don't have to go on the road, we have easy hours. It's a fine life - the best spot in show business for a quartet."

The facts of the Mariners' life are pretty well known. The four of them - Lockard, Jim Lewis, Martin Karl and Nat Dickerson - met in the Coast Guard during World War II. What isn't known is that the Coast Guard pulled them out of the water.

During his absence, she offered to appear at Mocambo one night to entertain.

The idea spread, and customers who have sipped champagne and wiggled the mambo at the pteryx, from Benny and Hope to Dan Dailly and Jane Russell, offered to pitch in and be the floor show for one-night stands.

Since such appearances can not be made for free because of union rules, each star has to be paid the union minimum of $25.

Other celebrities who are playing to packed houses during the 11-day tribute include Van Johnson, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, Jeff Chandler, Lisa Kirk, Gordon MacRae, Ann Blyth, Dinah Shore, the Ritz Brothers and JoAnne Gilbert.

Behind their debut on the sa-lon circuit is a story of the big, sentimental heart of show business. Now and then it is exposed in this often heartless town.

Charlie Morrison, the likeable, well-known proprietor of Mocambo, became ill Jan. 19 and has been confined to his bed at home ever since.

Last week Marie Wilson decided the nicest get-well card his movie star customers could send Charlie would be good business at the club

Objectionable
Records Taboo

HOUSTON — UP— Houston's juvenile delinquency and crime commission moved Thursday to ban the playing of "objectionable" records which may be heard by juveniles over local radio stations.

The commission, headed by I. Olshan, met Wednesday with managers and program directors of five local stations to discuss what Olshan called "an alarming situation."

"We do not want to set ourselves up as censors," Olshan said. "We believe the radio stations can do this themselves. However, if it doesn't work we may have to take other steps."

Olshan said the radio station managers themselves suggested that a list of "objectionable" musical recordings be made up. The list, he said, could contain as many as 100 titles and could even include some "hit" tunes that were "suggestive."

Olshan said the situation was alarming because the radio audiences hearing the "suggestive" tunes consist mostly of juveniles. He would not name any of the tunes, although Dr. H. A. Bullock, a commission member, came to the meeting armed with copies of several recordings he considered objectionable.

Radio stations represented at the meeting were KUNZ, KPRC, KTHH, KTRH and KUHF.

Military Pay Bill Cleared

WASHINGTON — UP— The House Rules committee has cleared for House action Thursday a bill to raise military pay. As approved Tuesday by the Armed Services committee, the bill carries raises from 6 to 25 per cent for enlisted men with more than two years service and officers with service of more than three years.

Pope to Make Address

VATICAN CITY — UP— Pope Pius XII was to address Rome's 200 Lenten preachers Thursday in his first mass audience since December and his first appearance before the Lenten group in three years. The Pope was to deliver a 20-minute speech in the Consistorial Hall of the Apostolic Palace.

Eccles Favors Stock Trade
Margin Hike To 75 Per Cent

By DAYTON MOORE

WASHINGTON — UP— Marriner S. Eccles, former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board recommended Thursday that margin requirements for stock trading be raised promptly to 75 per cent.

That would mean a stock buyer would have to put up three quarters of a stock purchase in cash. The current requirement is 60 per cent cash. The remainder is financed on credit.

Eccles said the increase in margin requirements is necessary to slow down the rise in security prices.

Eccles told the Senate Banking committee investigating the market boom that margin requirements should be increased to 100 per cent if the value of stocks continues to rise.

Stocks, after declining in three previous sessions, reversed at the opening in New York Thursday. Opening gains ranged to more than $1 a share and restored a large part of Wednesday's losses.

"The rapid increase in the price of stocks generally during the last year, supported by a growth in brokers' loans of more than $800 million indicates the need for further control of stock market credit," Eccles said.

Winthrop H. Smith, a leading New York broker, testified Wednesday that increasing margin requirements to 100 per cent would not stop speculation.

J. K. Galbraith, Harvard economic professor, also testified this week that margin requirements should be raised to 100 per cent.

Some Wall Street experts saw his testimony as responsible for the dip this week in stock market prices. But others discounted this.

While Eccles was chairman of the Federal Reserve in 1946, margin requirements were raised to 100 per cent for about one year. They later were reduced first to 75 per cent and then to 50.

Eccles, a slight, dour man who wore half-rimmed glasses and a dark red bow tie with white figures, also recommended that the government tighten up on housing loans to slow down the construction boom.

Nation's Weather Map Out Of Kilter

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
WASHINGTON —UP— The nation's water map still is out of kilter. A year ago the water map was spay turvy, what with drought here and drought there, and drought there should be wet, and drought there should be dry.

Sigma Delta Chi Opens Convention

DALLAS —UP—Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journal fraternity, opened a two-day convention Friday with John Abney, United Press picture manager for Mexico as a featured speaker. Abney will tell story of his capture by the Costa Rican rebels during the recent uprising in that Central American country at 11:15 p.m. Saturday in the Crystal Ballroom of the Baker hotel. Another principal speaker will be G. Lucas, 1954 Pulitzer prize winner and staff writer for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who will speak Saturday night at a dinner honoring new initiates. Registration opened Friday with women present from all areas of the state. Thirty-nine-year-old Abney is a native Texan, having from Lumberton, Texas, and was a freelance writer before taking up a newspaper career. During World War II he served as an intelligence officer in the Marine Corps and was aboard a B-28 bomber that was shot down in the Pacific over New Britain. A Navy rescue plane picked him and other survivors up. Abney set up the Acme picture bureau in Mexico City in 1949 and stayed on when Acme was taken over by United Press. Abney, an old weightlifter, has taken up an interesting sideline. He has become a professional wrestler in Mexico City under the name of "Earthquake McGoon."

He covered the Guatemala revolution in 1954 and the Costa Rican uprising this year. During the latter he was taken prisoner for a brief time by the rebels. His charm, knowledge of Spanish and his glib tongue were credited with maneuvering him out of his difficulties with the rebels.

near-empty reservoirs that should be full. The Geological Survey reported Thursday that the dryness that has plagued the Southwest for years now has spread northward into Oregon, part of the big Northwest area which is dotted with power water to operate. Stream Flow Down The survey said the February stream flow in Oregon was deficient. For the John Day River it was the lowest February since 1887 and on the Grande Ronde River near LaGrande it was the lowest for February in 45 years. A survey spokesman summarized the nation's water map: "There is a remnant of last fall's drought in southern Georgia and Florida, the West still looks kind of bad, and the Columbia basin may have a little less water than usual. Most of the water supply in Oregon is down." Improvement in South He added that the survey's February report shows an improvement in water supply in the South east of mid-Texas, with the exception of southern Georgia and Florida. "This, he said, has been enough to alleviate severe drought conditions which were noted last October. This is true also of most of the Central States area, although there still were some bad spots at the end of February, such as one centering in Shelby county, Illinois. "In West Texas and north through the west there is still a very considerable drought," the spokesman said. Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay said last October the survey's water report indicated a drought of major proportions comparable to the dust bowl conditions of the 1930s was building up in the Southern and Central States.

Government Suffers Loss WASHINGTON —UP— The government suffered a net loss of more than $365 million on its farm price support programs during the first seven months of fiscal 1955, it was announced Thursday.

Crooner's Son Joins Show HOLLYWOOD —UP— Gary Crosby, young son of Bing, joins the cast of the "Tennessee Ernie Show" next week. The 21-year-old crooner's son signed an exclusive radio contract with Columbia Broadcasting System to appear on the show and also agreed to make television guest appearances with the same network.

Thoughts

If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin; but now they have no cloak for their sin. — John 15:22. Our sins, like to our shadows when our day is in its glory, scarce appeared; towards our evening how great and monstrous they are! — Suckling. And he humbled these, and suffered these to hunger, and fed these with manna, which thou knewest not, neither did thy fathers know; that he might make thee know that man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord doth man live. — Deut. 8:3. It is in vain to gather virtues without humility; for the Spirit of God delighteth to dwell in the hearts of the humble. — Erasmus. Better is a poor and a wise child than an old and foolish king, who will no more be admonished. — Eccl. 4:13. Man's worst ill is stubbornness of heart. — Sophocles. And beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself. — Luke 24:27. The truth of the Scriptures are so marked and inimitable that the inventor would be more of a miraculous character than the hero. — Rousseau. Whereupon he promised with an oath to give her whatsoever she would ask. — Matthew 14:7. Promises retain men better than services; for hope is to them a chain, and gratitude a thread. — J. Petit-Sen. And the angel of the Lord appeared unto him, and said unto him, The Lord is with thee, thou mighty man of valour. — Judges 6:12. How strangely high endeavors may be blessed, where piety and valor jointly go. — Dryden. For thou art my hope, O Lord God: thou art my trust from my youth. — Psalms 71:5. Youth, health, and hope may fade, but there is left A soul that trusts in heaven, though thus of all bereft. — Emma Embury.

AFL Approves Ward's Strike
WASHINGTON —UP— The AFL teamsters union executive board Thursday authorized a strike involving some 20,000 workers — mostly warehouse workers — at 11 Montgomery Ward Co. mail order plants around the country. Union President Dave Beck said the board later will decide a strike date and the extent of the strike. Asked when he thinks the strike date might be set, he laughed and said, "Easter's coming, isn't it?" This was taken to indicate the date would be the first week in April — about the time the Easter shipping rush is at its peak. The 11 Montgomery Ward mail order plants are at New York, Baltimore, Albany, N.Y., Chicago, St. Paul, Minn., Kansas City, Mo., Denver, Portland, Ore., Oakland, Calif., Fort Worth, Tex., and Detroit. The dispute involves both the method of bargaining for employees at these plants, including some retail workers, and the terms of bargaining, Beck said. The teamsters union has been certified as the bargaining agent for all the plants involved except at New York, where the union is asking for a bargaining representation election, and Fort Worth, where an election will be held Friday.

Patterson Rites Held In Mobeetie

Final tribute was paid to another long-time resident Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Adelia Patterson, generally known as "Mammy" Patterson, 87, was buried in the Mobeetie Cemetery by the side of her husband, Mr. W. R. Patterson, who preceded her in death by several years. Adelia Marrow was born April 5, 1867, in Jack County and died in her home in Mobeetie Monday night. She, with her husband and family, came to Mobeetie in 1917. Four sons and four daughters survive. They are R. C. of Abert; Harley E. and Aubrey A. of Amarillo; Jess R. of Mobeetie; Mrs. Dora Dix, Wellington; Mrs. Tassie Leonard, Pampa; Mrs. Bessie Andrew, Olton; and Mrs. Ethel Gunn of Wauka, Okla. One sister, Mrs. Sammy Boyd, Henryetta, Okla., and one brother, Ben Marrow, Wingard Wells. She also leaves 29 grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren and 11 great-great-grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted in the First Baptist Church in Mobeetie at 2 p.m. where she had been a member since moving to Mobeetie. Leonard T. Field, local pastor, officiated. Grandsons acted as pallbearers; and funeral arrangements were under the direction of Kirk-Mason Funeral Home in Wheeler.

McCloy Thinks Pension Funds No Boom Cause

WASHINGTON —UP— John J. McCloy, a leading New York banker, said Thursday he does not believe growing purchase of stocks for pension funds are a major factor in the booming stock market. McCloy, chairman of the board of Chase National Bank, submitted a statement to the Senate Banking committee investigating the boom following two jittery sessions on the New York stock exchange. The market dropped sharply Tuesday. And it narrowly swung down and up twice Wednesday with a good portion of traded stocks closing with net losses. Some Wall Street experts believed the declines of the past two days were triggered by testimony before the committee headed by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.). But Fulbright said he could see no justifiable connection between the testimony and the market declines, and a top New York broker, Winthrop H. Smith, agreed with him in testimony Wednesday. Previous witnesses had said that stock purchases, particularly of the "blue chip" issues, for pension funds and similar trusts, have contributed in varying degrees to the market boom. Such buying is for long range investment and has cut down on the available supply of stocks at a time the demand is increasing, they explained. But McCloy discounted the importance of such buying. "It is our judgment that common stock purchases for pension trusts, or indeed for trusts generally, are not a major factor in the determination of common stock prices," McCloy said. Most stock purchases for trusts were for pension funds, he said. He estimated about 400 million of common stocks were bought for them last year. "It is only a small fraction of the value of stock traded on the exchange," he pointed out. McCloy, former U.S. high commissioner to Germany, also said that buying of U.S. stocks by foreigners is a minor factor in the stock market. Foreigners were reported to hold $3.4 billion of U.S. stocks at the end of 1953—less than 3 per cent of the total value of those listed on the New York stock exchange.

The pastor, Rev. Raymond T. Dyess, will have charge of the service which will open with the hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy," by the congregation. The Affirmation of Faith will be led by Floyd Sackett. The choir will sing the anthem, "The Young Sins be as Scarlet," and Miss Luwana Andrews, organist, will play the offertory.

Women In The Church

Four hundred deaconesses of the Methodist Church — teachers, social workers, parish workers, religious educators, nurses — will gather in Nashville, Tenn., on the campus of Scarritt College, for the second quadrennial convocation of these commissioned representatives of the denomination's Board of Missions. According to Miss Mary Lou Barnwell, executive secretary for Methodist deaconess activities, there is greater case work and group activities in call for trained young women in Methodist homes for children than are now being recruited.

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, as secretary of the Council of Bishops of the Methodist Church, has issued the following statement in connection with the observance of the 43rd birthday of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., March 12: "One of the agencies making highly significant spiritual contribution to the life of American girlhood is the Girl Scouts. The nation is aware of its patriotic spirit of the sound pedagogical principles upon which its educational program is based, of its splendid contribution to the social life of American girls. We must become increasingly aware of its spiritual significance. Girl Scouts understand and practice the high duty of service to country, but are equally obligated to do their 'duty to God.' The Church has been proud to cooperate with the Girl Scouts of the United States of America through the years, and is pledged to continuing cooperation."

Miss Glora M. Wyner, authority on the Near East and a secretary of the International Missionary Council (New York and London), is on the first leg of a six-month globe-girding trip to study "the recent resurgence of Buddhism, Hinduism, and Islam," and to counsel Christian missionary agencies as to the meaning of this development for future Christian missions. Dr. Wyner's studies will take her to Japan, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Indonesia, Malaya, Thailand, Burma, Pakistan, India, Ceylon, Lebanon, Iran, Egypt, Jordan, Israel, Cyprus, Libya, Tunisia, Algeria, and Morocco. She will confer primarily with the leaders of the National Christian Council in these countries, but also with leaders in Christian educational institutions, with representatives of indigenous churches, and with missionaries.

The evening worship service at the church will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday. The church is located at 200 E. Foster.

Church News

A dedication service for the Cross of ST. PAUL METHODIST CHURCH will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday. It is one of the largest crosses in the Southwest and is believed to be the only outside Cross to be lighted in white neon.

The church's chain of prayer and the climax of two weeks of home prayer meeting will begin at 5 p.m. Saturday evening in Fellowship Hall. It will be a 24-hour prayer vigil.

The first in a series of Bible studies of women of the Bible was held this week by the Women's Society of Christian Service. Next session will be 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the youth chapel of the educational building.

Rev. Richard Crews of the FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH will begin classes on the "Meaning of Church Membership" beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday. Sessions will be held at that time, ending at 11:30 a.m. each meeting, through the Easter season. All children of the Sunday School and church are invited to attend. It is for both members and non-members.

Rev. Bill Cloud and his family are slated to arrive in Pampa Tuesday to take over the work of the new Lamar Christian Church here. Rev. Cloud will preach in the First Christian Church Mar. 27. A fellowship supper and reception for Rev. Cloud and his family and new members of the church since Jan. 1, will be held at 7:15 p.m. Mar. 18.

A school of stewardship will be held Mar. 20-21 and Rev. John Mullins will be here to preach Mar. 20 at the morning service and to lead a self-study of stewardship at the evening service.

The minister, Rev. Crews, will begin a series of sermons on the theme, "Committee Unto God."

The fact that health and holiness result from spiritual understanding of God's nature will be brought out at CHRISTIAN SCIENCE services Sunday.

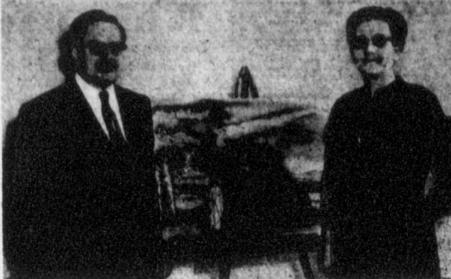

The lesson - sermon entitled "Substance," will include the following passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (241:19-21, 23-24): "The substance of all devotion is the reflection and demonstration of divine Love, healing sickness and destroying sin. . . One's aim, a point beyond faith, should be to find the footsteps of Truth, the way to health and holiness."

The power of God is also stressed in selections from the King James Version of the Bible including the following (Hebrews 4: 12): "For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discernor of the thoughts and intents of the heart."

Radio program over KPND 12:45 p.m. Sunday. "How Christian Science Heals."

"Youth and The Church" will be the sermon topic discussed by Rev. Woodrow Adcock of the FIRST METHODIST CHURCH at 8:45 and 10:55 a.m. services Sunday. The Wesley and Carol Junior Choirs will sing "God Is Love" at 8:45. The Sanctuary Singers will give the anthem, "The Beatitudes," at the 10:55 a.m. service.

The evening worship service at the church will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Oklahoma Couple Is Leading Revival At Nazarene Church

A revival meeting is now in progress at the Church of the Nazarene, 500 N. West. Services will continue until March 20, with Evangelist R. F. Lindley and wife of Bethany Okla., presiding. The Lindleys have traveled thousands of miles each year in interest of the Lord's work.

Rev. Lindley will be placing special emphasis on personal evangelism and soul winning. He is vitally interested in larger and better Sunday Schools, also. Prior to entering the Evangelistic field, Rev. Lindley was pastor in Oklahoma City for two and one-half years.

He doubled the church membership and built a large Sunday school with a record attendance of more than five hundred. He pastored at Arpelle, Okla., for three years and here the church membership was more than doubled with a record attendance of more than 600 in Sunday School.

Rev. Lindley is in his third year of Evangelism.

Special singing each evening will be by Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Land.

7:30 p.m. will be directed by the youth. Larry Cox will speak on "Youth — The Key to the Kingdom." John Jones will speak on "God's Will For Me." Nancy Coley will talk on "My Dedicated Life to God and the Church." Linda Steele will close the silent meditation with a poem and Nancy Coley will lead the responsive reading.

The church radio broadcast is from 10:00-11:00 a.m. over KPND every Sunday morning. The Methodist Men's Hour is heard over KPND from 9:00-10:30 p.m. every Sunday.

The Upper Room devotional series is heard each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. over KPAT. The Thought-for-the-Day devotional series is heard each week day at 12:30 noon and on Sundays at 12:15 p.m. over KPAT.

Special music for the Sunday morning service at the FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH will be "Praise Ye The Lord," by the church choir. In the evening, the choir will sing, "Hallelujah For The Cross."

Monday the men of the church will visit Central Baptist Church for an associational evangelistic rally, sponsored by the Baptist Brotherhood.

The deacons and their wives will hold a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in Johnson's Cafe. Bob Allford is chairman.

A concert will be given in the church at 7:45 p.m. by the Hardin-Simmons University symphony. The group is on tour and will play in Shamrock and Pampa Wednesday.

Thursday will be churchwide visitation day. Sunday Joe Whitten will conduct a church music survey at both morning and evening services.

SPEAKER

Dr. W. W. Moore, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Borger, will be the main speaker at the Palo-Duro Associational Brotherhood meeting to be held on Monday night at 7:00 p.m. in the Central Baptist Church. The emphasis for this meeting is evangelism and a large group of men are expected to attend.

St. Paul's Slates Spiritual Crusade

"Give God a Chance" will be the topic in the Spiritual Life Crusade to be held at the St. Paul Methodist Church beginning Sunday.

Rev. Alby Cockrell, visiting evangelist, will begin the week of Evangelism on Sunday evening. Rev. Raymond Dyess will lead the song service.

Mrs. Faith Heaton, the regular nursery attendant, will have the nursery open each evening of the meeting.

Medications for Lent

By DR. J. CARTER SWAIM
Written for NEA Service
Lent, when we remember our Lord's temptation and our own sore trials, is apt to be a sober time. Yet James 1:2 (RSV) says: "Count it all joy, my brethren, when you meet various trials. We do not ordinarily associate joy with testing — times. Yet in the New Testament those two things are often spoken together. Jesus did not promise his followers an easy course, yet he did point the way to a deep and abiding joy. "In the world," he said (John 16:33, RSV), "you have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

In our marriage ceremonies we hear the saying, "whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." Jesus really said: "What God has joined together, let no man put asunder" (Mark 10:9, RSV). It applies to marriage, but to other things, too. Wherever there are two things that God has joined, man must never tear them apart. It is clear from the New Testament that tribulation and joy are inseparably joined. If during Lent we are conscious of the one, let us remember that through it we can obtain the other.

One of the joys that comes from tribulation is the growth of character. James 1:3 (RSV) puts it this way: "the testing of your faith produces steadfastness." Paul has a more detailed analysis of this psychological process. He writes to the Romans (8:3, RSV): "we rejoice in our sufferings, knowing that suffering produces endurance, and endurance produces character, and character produces hope, and hope does not disappoint us."

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

ENVOY H. C. SEAGO
The Salvation Army
Pampa, Texas

"But seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and His righteousness: and all these things shall be added unto you."
This is one promise of God's that is first in the Christian life. If our life is to be a success as a child of God, if we do not start right we can never end right. We can claim all promises of God, if we put Him first.

In this chapter Christ is warning us that we can be so intent on material things that we neglect the spiritual things of life. He is saying "Seek ye first." Put God first; do not get tied up with material things until you cannot find time to go to worship and fellowship with others.

Some people will never have anything here; others will have plenty. Yet they can all have treasures in Heaven by seeking first the Kingdom of God. The writer has faith to believe that God will supply all his needs. God owns the cattle on a thousand hills. It all belongs to Him. The Great God Who feeds the little sparrows and clothes the lillies, will not neglect His children, for we are of much more value. He proved His love by going to the cross for our sins. Do we love Him?

Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or pen, or sword?

Nay, in all these things we are more than conquer through Him that loved us.

For I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor heights, nor depths, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the Love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

"But seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you."
—Romans 8:35.

Five Entries Received For Pampa Oiler Batboy Contest

Entries began to pour in for the annual Oiler Batboy Contest yesterday.

John Carleton, Oiler Public Relations man, reported yesterday that five boys had entered the contest.

Carleton said entries for the contest would likely continue to flow during the remaining days of the contest which runs until March 18.

Boys, who are between the ages of 11-14 years, are eligible to enter the contest. Just fill out the entry blank below and send it to BATBOY contest, Box 1800, Pampa.

The winner of this year's Oiler batboy contest will receive a complete baseball uniform and will earn a complete trip around the West Texas-New Mexico League with the Oilers. The winners' parents will also receive a season pass to the Oiler home games.

The runnerup will serve as the visiting teams batboy. He will also receive a complete baseball uniform. The Oiler batboy uniform will be white while the visiting team batboy will receive a grey uniform.

The English teacher of both the winner and runnerup will be special guests of the Oilers opening day.

Following are the rules of the Oiler batboy contest:

1. Boys between the ages of 11-14 are eligible.
2. Entrants must be attending school and Sunday School in the Pampa area.
3. Entry must be made on a contest entry blank carried in the local papers or on a sheet of paper that carries the information requested on the official entry blank.
4. Each boy must write an essay of 50 words or less on why he wants to be the 1955 Oiler batboy.
5. The entry must be in the words of the boy and sincerity, honesty, clarity, and originality of statement will be the basis for selection of the four-boy field for the finals.
6. The entry of each boy must be signed by his parents or guardian.
7. Last year's winner and runnerup will not be eligible to enter this year.

BLUES DOWN WHITES, 13-0

Squad Game Ends Reaper Grid Drills

The 1955 edition of the Pampa Junior High Reaper football forces wound up a 20-day spring training session yesterday afternoon at Harvester Stadium.

In a regulation squad game, the "Blues" defeated the "Whites" 13-0.

Halfback Duane Glover scored both of the Blues' touchdowns. Dickie Watkins ran over the extra point after one of the TD's.

Coaches Deck Woldt and Norman Phillips were well pleased with the showing of the Reapers in yesterday's squad tilt.

About 30 boys took part in the squad game yesterday.

The Reaper coaches praised the line play of Delbert Simmonds and Gary Matlock of the Blues and Henry Spencer and Paul Brown of the Whites.

Also drawing special attention defensively were linebacker Don North and halfback Bobby Smith of the Whites.

Following are the boys who took part in yesterday's intra-squad session:

BLUES

Center — Rex Williams.
Right guards — Delbert Simmonds and Harlan Prescott.
Right tackle — Larry Schultz.
Right ends — Jerry Rockwell and Dois Mitchell.
QB — Jay Baker.
Halfbacks — Duane Glover and Don Fox.
Fullback — Dickie Watkins.

WHITES
Center — Kevin Chisolm.
Right guards — J. W. Henderson and Henry Spencer.
Right tackle — Paul Beisenhutz.
Right end — Freddie Watkins.
Quarterback — Charles Coffee.
Halfbacks — Tommy Hill and Bobby Smith.
Fullback — Don North.

Two boys, both quarterbacks, missed yesterday's session because of injuries. They were Harold Cook and Larry Trollinger.

JACK LOCKETT, THE HARVESTERS' new football coach, was in town yesterday.

About all that we have been able to find out on his venture here was to bring a fellow along with him to get him approved by the school board as an assistant coach.

So, it seems very likely that the Harvesters will have at least two new members on next year's coaching staff.

The fellow Lockett brought along yesterday, we understand, played for Oklahoma last year.

Official announcement of any changes in the coaching staff, of course, will come by way of the school board.

It may be forthcoming in the next few days.

BELEATED CONGRATULATIONS to Dwayne "Papa" Lyon, Harvester line coach, upon the arrival of a new daughter in the Lyon home Monday.

It's the second daughter for the Lyons.

Dwayne is a pretty busy man these days. He takes the Harvesters' track team to Graham today. And you parents know that a new arrival in your families can keep you pretty much occupied alone.

RED FACE DEPARTMENT — Jake Saxton of the Borger-News Herald wrote in his paper two weeks ago that Phillips and Childress shouldn't have been paired in the first round of the Region 1AA basketball tournament.

Saxton said Phillips and Childress should have been seeded because both could beat Seminole, the favorite in the other first round game.

Well, Childress edged by Phillips, 71-70, but lost to Seminole in the finals, 60-54, and Seminole proceeded to win the state Class AA cage title.

And speaking of Seminole, all five starters for the High Plains team will return next season.

WE HAVE COMPILED A FEW statistics on the final round of the just completed Harvester cage season.

Before giving them to you, we'd like to put in this final word about District 1 - AAAA basketball strength.

Even though the Harvesters failed in their quest of a third straight state cage title, we still contend that 1-AAAA is the toughest district in the state.

We are sure that no other district in the state can boast of five teams as strong as the Harvesters.

AMARILLO, BORGER, LUBBOCK AND SAN ANGELO.

Well, here are some facts and figures on the 1954-55 Harvester cage season:

Individual
Most points for season — Gary Griffin, 620.
Most points in one game — Griffin, 37, Pampa vs. Childress, Dec. 21.
Most free throws for season — E. Jay McIlvain, 133.
Most free throws for one game — McIlvain, 11, Pampa vs. Amarillo, Jan. 25.
Most personal fouls committed, season — Griffin, 112.
Most times fouled out — Griffin, 5.

Team
Most points game — 91 (Pampa 91, Clovis 48, Dec. 10).

Girls Start State Tourney

AUSTIN —UP—Opening round play in Classes A and B opened Friday in the Texas Interscholastic League's fifth annual girls' basketball tournament, with the finals scheduled for Saturday.

First round play in Class AA got underway Thursday night with Angleton edging Abernathy 54-53 and Bowie nipping Gatesville 59 to 56. Angleton and Bowie will meet Saturday at 3:30 p.m. for the crown.

Class B play was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Friday with Midway of Waco meeting Mayfield. Defending champion East Chambers of Winnie was to clash with Skidmore-Tynan at 10:20 a.m. Italy was to face Balmorhea at 1:45 p.m. and Navarro (Geronimo) was to meet Cotton Center at 3:10 p.m.

Class A opening round competition will get underway Friday night, with Granbury pitted against George West at 7:30 p.m. and Goldthwaite against defending champion Dimmitt at 8:50 p.m.

The tournament is playing in three divisions this year for the first time, with competition in Classes A, A and B. Previously, AA and A were combined.

Elaine Mathews of Angleton led her team to victory. She sank two free throws after time had run out. In the Bowie-Gatesville contest, Carol Ann Smith, Bowie forward, established a tournament scoring record by hitting 43 points.

I have been on the short end too often to deny that there is no such thing as a fisherman's luck, but by far and large no angler can deny that the man who knows his stuff is the man who consistently gets the most fish.

Nowhere is that more true than in fishing for black bass and trout — or as far as that goes, any species of game fish, fresh or salt water.

Most of our game fish are arrogant perfectionists who have nothing to do with a blundering angler. At the same time skill isn't all technical. You can be a tournament bait or fly caster and still fail utterly on lake or stream.

Actually, I have seen that very thing happen. I well remember a trip not too many years ago when my companion was one of the finest trick casters that ever cast a tournament plug. His accuracy on the stage was uncanny, but on Lake Texoma the poor fellow could not keep his plug out of the brush, let alone place it accurately.

I don't know what was wrong except that he was completely lost and lacked that intuition, peerless ingredient, or sixth sense that makes a good fisherman — the ability to think like a fish.

It's that ability to know what and where to fish, to be able to float a fly down a fast riffle so that it looks like the real McCoy . . . The knack for knowing just where in the lee of a water splash or stump or rock that big one is lurking, or to spot that eddy under an overhanging willow that spells a c-t-t-o-n and knowing in

Cards Crush Yanks On One-Hitter 7-0

By UNITED PRESS

The New York Yankees' "penant" winning" winter deal with the Baltimore Orioles looked like a $250,000 lemon Friday in the wake of the most humiliating Grapefruit League opener in their spring training history.

With Bob Turley, the key man in the massive, 16-player transaction, treated like a batting practice pitcher, the Yankees were crushed, 7-0, Thursday by a St. Louis Cardinal team composed of Stan Musial and eight rookies.

What's more, the proud New Yorkers were limited to just one hit — an infield dribbler — by a quartet of rookie pitchers without a single inning of major league experience among them.

Larry Jackson, Floyd Woodridge, George Schultz and Herb Loford collaborated in the one-hitter, infielder Gil McDougald beating out a slow bouncer off Woodridge for the Yankees' only safety. The Yankees hit only five balls out of the infield in the entire game and had only two baserunners in the last five innings.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, rocked Turley for seven runs and eight hits in three innings. The big fireballer struck out two batters but he walked three and three of the hits he yielded went for extra bases.

To make matters worse, Don Larsen, who also was obtained in the Baltimore deal, is 18 pounds overweight and reported Thursday for X-ray treatments on a sore arm. Larsen has engaged in only two light workouts so far this spring.

The Grapefruit League openers provided plenty of wierd baseball, as usual, but also produced significant developments in several camps.

The Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Milwaukee Braves, 3-2; the Boston Red Sox took a 6-3 victory over the Washington Senators; the Chicago White Sox whipped the Cincinnati Redlegs 10-7; the Cleveland Indians nipped the Chicago Cubs 9-7; the Philadelphia Phillies downed the Detroit Tigers 4-2, and the Pittsburgh Pirates took a 3-1 win over the Kansas City A's.

Plug 'n' Trigger

some vague and undefinable way just what to do or where to place that plug under such conditions.

That's a combination of skill and experience that no angler acquires overnight. Like all good things they take work, tears, and sweat, to develop.

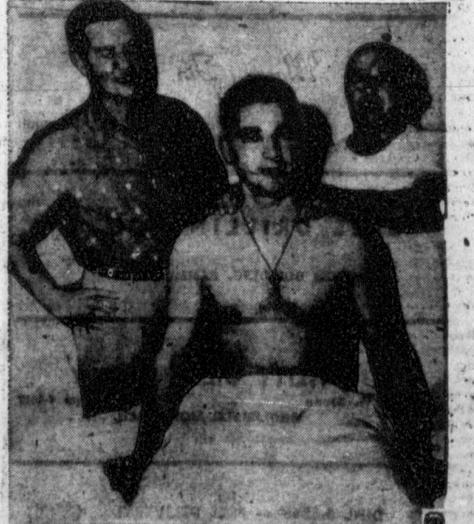

In that sentence alone you have the answer why I am not going to stick my neck way out and tell you just what plug or fly to use and when. You can get your ego fractured doing that.

At the same time there is no risk to stop and think, or rather reflect, on past experiences as to just what does pay off and when, speaking of lures of course. That's what you can call outsmarting the fish.

When you finally realize that you have outsmarted Mr. Bass, then, and only then, do you taste the real thrill in fishing.

To the contrary of modern business methods, it's the take-it-easy angler that makes the best fisherman. Watch a real old timer in the art of angling work over a stretch of water some time. He works every square foot of likely looking water with the patience and skill of an artist. And he is an artist in the field of angling. The contents of his stringer or creel doesn't determine the amount of fun he has had.

And . . . you never hear him complain about fisherman's luck

SMU Favored Over Bradley Tonight

MANHATTAN, Kan. —UP— Southern Methodist rated as favorite over Bradley, but experts looked with equal favor on Colorado and Tulsa in Friday night's NCAA basketball action in the new $2 million Ahern Fieldhouse at Kansas State College.

Of all the 15 other teams in the NCAA regionals, none had a worse record than Bradley's 8-19. However, followers of the Peoria, Ill., team pointed out that a year ago Bradley had a 30-30 15-12 record and swept through to the finals before losing to LaSalle, 78-92.

Bradley lost three of its starters and was slow to hit top form this season. But Coach Bob Vanatta glows with pride over the way the team "built up a head of steam" in the last few weeks. He said his squad "has the spirit and hustle to be a winner."

SMU figured to have an advantage, however, both in size and scoring power. Aces of the Texas team include 6-8 Jim Krebs at center, "Mr. Inside," who has averaged 23.5 points per game; Capt. Art Barnes, who has averaged 12.4, and Joel Krog, a 6-3 forward whose specialty is gathering in rebounds.

Colorado placed its hopes in its 6-7 center, "Burdette" Halderson, and 6-3 forward, Bob Jeangervard, who consistently provided the points that brought the team its first undisputed Big Seven Conference championship. Back of these were two small, speedy guards—Tom Harold and Charley Mock.

Tulsa, which was selected to represent the Missouri Valley Conference after it had finished in an 8-2 tie with St. Louis University, probably had the most outstanding performer in the Manhattan field in Bob Patterson, 6-4 forward.

The Kansas City boy smashed all sorts of scoring records at the Oklahoma school and broke the Valley Conference mark, too, piling up 305 points in 10 games.

The winners Friday night will play Saturday night for the right to make the trip to Kansas City next week-end for the semi-finals and finals.

Giants, Indians Open 18-Tilt Spring Exhibition Series

World Series Foes To Play In 12 Cities

PHOENIX, Ariz.—UP—The New York Giants and Cleveland Indians were to put the 1954 World Series on tour Friday in the opener of what should be one of the most successful series financially in spring training history.

Joe Margoneri, who was 14-10 at Nashville last season, was slated to make his debut for the world champions while Herb Score, the spring's most publicized rookie, is expected to be unveiled by the Indians. Score had a 22-5 record and struck out 330 for Indianapolis in the American Association in 1954.

The Giants were idle, except for routine workouts Thursday, while the Indians opened their Grapefruit League schedule with a 9-7 triumph over the Chicago Cubs at Tucson, Ariz. Doubles by Hal Nagon and Jim Cleverly were the key blows for the Indians.

The Giants and Indians meet a total of 18 times in 12 different cities this spring culminating the series with an eight-game trip through the Southwest and South next month. The Giants won last year's Series, 13-8, and went on to sweep four straight from the Indians in the World Series.

MIAMI, Fla.—UP—Manager Charley Grimm singled out catcher Del Crandall Friday as the key man in the Milwaukee Braves' hopes of winning the National League pennant this year.

"We can go all the way if Crandall goes all the way," Grimm said. Crandall made Grimm's appraisal look good Thursday night when his two homers provided the Braves with their only runs in a 2-1 loss to the Brooklyn Dodgers at Miami Stadium.

"We're solid at every position except catcher," Grimm said. "We need Crandall back of that plate. We can go all the way if he doesn't get hurt. We'll be hurt bad if he's injured."

The 26-year-old Crandall is often described as the best young catcher to enter the league in 10 years and a potential Gabby Hartnett.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—UP—The Baltimore Orioles opened their exhibition game schedule Friday against a Cincinnati Redleg squad which couldn't do a thing right in its 1955 debut.

The Redlegs bowed to the Chicago White Sox, 10-7, in their exhibition opener at Tampa, Fla., Thursday with eight different Cincinnati players committing errors. In addition, first baseman Ted Kluszewski escaped injury except to his pride when he was struck in the face by a wild throw.

Kluszewski left the game but expected to play Friday. Minnie Minoso's grand-slam home run led the White Sox to the triumph.

The Orioles wound up their pre-exhibition game training schedule Thursday with Coach Harry Brecheen being hit on the right ankle by a liner off the bat of rookie pitcher Carl Fowle. Fowle, who hit .284 for Anderson, S.C., last season, is slated to be the Orioles' cleanup hitter Friday.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—UP—Tom Casagrande's eye-opening performance indicated Friday that the 40-000-bonus pitcher may be ready to come into his own for the Philadelphia Phillies this year.

Casagrande struck out five batters in three innings Thursday as the Phillies opened their exhibition schedule with a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Casagrande took over in the seventh just before the Phillies rallied for three runs with Willie Jones' two-run double the key blow.

The Phillies play Friday against the Chicago White Sox, who defeated the Cincinnati Redlegs, 10-7, in their Grapefruit League opener.

SARASOTA, Fla.—UP—Ted Lepio and Milt Bolling, a pair of light-hitting infielders, continued Friday to surprise Manager Mike Higgins with their show of power for the Boston Red Sox.

Lepio, whose long batting practice drives astonished teammates earlier this spring, homered to break a 3-3 tie and pave the way for the Red Sox to beat the Washington Senators, 6-3, Thursday. And Bolling knocked in three runs with a double and two singles.

Lepio, 25, hit .258 last season while Bolling, 24, hit .249. The Red Sox played the Detroit Tigers Friday and the Senators journeyed to Fort Myers, Fla., to play the Pittsburgh Pirates.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—UP—Catcher Jack Shepard and first baseman Dale Long filed early bids Friday to nail down regular jobs with the Pittsburgh Pirates this year.

Shepard, who hit .304 in 82 games for Pittsburgh last season, and Long, a towering 210-pounder who was with Hollywood in 1954, each collected three hits Thursday to lead the Pirates to a 9-5 win over the Kansas City A's.

A crowd of 2,288, including Connie Mack, saw the Pirates win the game on shortstop Dick Groat's ninth-inning single. Groat, former Duke basketball star, was in military service last season.

LaSalle, Dons Lead Way Into NCAA Regional Playoffs

A defending champion LaSalle with 95-61 preliminary round victory over West Virginia, and San Francisco, ranked the nation's No. 1 team at the end of the regular season and riding a string of 22 regular season victories, are the early choices to meet in the final round, Utah and Kentucky rank right behind.

Eight of the teams in Friday night's doubleheaders are survivors of preliminary round games Tuesday; the other eight are conference champions who had a "bye" in that round.

Here's how they will square off:
AT PHILADELPHIA
LaSalle (23-4) 14 points over Princeton (13-10) and Villanova (17-9) six over Canisius (17-6).
AT EVANSTON, ILL.
Kentucky (22-2) two over Marquette (23-2) and Iowa (17-4) 11 over Penn State (18-8).
AT MANHATTAN, N.Y.
Southern Methodist (15-8) six over Bradley (8-19) and Colorado (16-5) three over Tulsa (20-6).
AT CORVALLIS, ORE.
San Francisco (24-1) five over Utah (22-3) and Oregon State (21-7) over Seattle (22-5).

Friday night's winners meet Saturday night at the same site for the regional title. Regional winners then go to Kansas City where, on March 18, the Philadelphia winner will meet the Evanston winner for the Eastern championship and the Manhattan winner will meet the Corvallis winner for the Western championship. Eastern and Western winners will meet on March 19 for the National championship.

LaSalle, defending champion which shattered the tourney record with 95-61 preliminary round victory over West Virginia, and San Francisco, ranked the nation's No. 1 team at the end of the regular season and riding a string of 22 regular season victories, are the early choices to meet in the final round, Utah and Kentucky rank right behind.

East Texas Reaches NAIA Semi-Finals

By BILL ROSENRETER

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—UP—Teams from Illinois, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas moved into Friday night's semi-finals of the NAIA Basketball tournament, but just one seeded squad managed to remain.

Top-seeded Western Illinois of Macomb, runner-up in last year's tournament, squeezed past Gustavus Adolphus of St. Peter, Minn., 50-49 Thursday night for its second consecutive victory by one point. It had survived the night before by 86-85 over Northeast Missouri.

East Texas State of Commerce overcame an early deficit and eliminated second-seeded Beloit, Wis., 66-57; Southeastern Oklahoma of Durant took its quarter-final triumph over third-seeded Steubenville, Ohio, 96-77, and Arkansas Tech of Russellville coasted downhill after the halftime in a 93-74 State, used a running game to build up a 40-33 halftime lead. But it then went into a slow, deliberate style and the East Texans began to close the gap, then move ahead. A final five-minutes of ball control by the Texans retained the lead. Jim Miller was high-point man with 20 for the winners.

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia —UP—Tony Trabert of Cincinnati gained the finals of the Barranquilla International Tennis tournament Thursday by whipping Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., 6-4, 6-4, 6-3. Trabert will meet the winner of Friday's semifinal match between Herb Flam of Los Angeles and Tom Brown of San Francisco in the title round.

Southeastern Finishes Hot

Southeastern started with an easy, cool pace, but finished hot after holding a 39-26 halftime edge. Steubenville just couldn't guard the Oklahomans' basket well enough and failed despite a 46-point effort by Paul Brownlee for the third-seeded losers. Southeastern's Jim Spivey was high-point man for the Oklahomans with 28.

Center E. C. O'Neal led Arkansas Tech to an easy win with 39 points. The boys from Arkansas controlled things after the half when they led 51-43. Joe Miller scored 27 points to lead Alderson-Broadbudd and drew assistance from Carl Hartman and his 19 points in their losing cause.

Economical Way

America's independent schools are getting a much needed shot in the arm, financially.

Approximately 50% of these institutions have been running in the red columns for the past several years, but now there is hope that a new day is dawning for the nation's finest educators. Some of the large corporations, such as General Motors, General Electric, DuPont, etc., have recently upped their contributions to private schools, all the way from a few thousand to a million dollars.

There's a very plain dollars and cents reason for the "new look" business is giving the educational institutions which are not government-supported.

Dr. Frank Sparks, president of the Wabash college, puts it this way: "In seeking new sources of support, we come to the same two answers every time, either corporations or tax support. With taxes the burden comes right back to the corporation. I told my businessmen friends, 'You're going to have to pay the bill either way. This way it will cost you only a fraction.'"

As a typical example it was figured that if Denver University went on the tax rolls, it would cost a certain Colorado corporation $67,000 in additional taxes. The company immediately made an annual pledge of $10,000 to Denver U. as insurance against such an eventuality.

This is a fascinating development. The gun, held by the government, has backfired. This financial jujitsu, the coercion of the government being used by private institutions to keep themselves private . . . and solvent.

While we cannot hold with coercion, we can be delighted at the use of strength of the big bully, by the little fellow who is being picked on.

The future of America is in the hands of our independent schools. They need support, plenty of it.

If businessmen come to understand that they will pay for education either voluntarily or involuntarily, then they will, as a rule, select the voluntary way. As President Sparks says, "It will cost you only a fraction."

Loses Validity

An old adage declares that two people can't profit by taking in each other's washing. But under a Welfare State it evidently no longer holds water, according to Human Events.

In England two housewives were officially hauled in recently for agreeing to take in each other's washing so as to qualify for jobless insurance benefits. To obtain these benefits, a party must show that he or she had been employed. So, one of these enterprising housewives hired the other and vice versa, in accordance with the terms of this extraordinary laundry deal. Then, each as an employer stamped the other's national insurance card signifying that they were working. After a few washings, each fired the other, and both collected jobless insurance for the next six months. Then they re-hired each other and started a new cycle of benefits.

One of the basic flaws in the Welfare State is that it breeds dishonesty and graft — becomes, in fact, honey-combed with it.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

A problem which no doubt worries the families of all those afflicted with epilepsy as well as those who have it themselves relates to the inheritance of this disease. Questions of many kinds arise: "Should those with epilepsy marry?" Recently a reader asked, "If a father is subject to epileptic seizures is his daughter likely to take these spells?"

Many aspects of this problem

The Mayor of Florence, Italy, recently expropriated an iron foundry and handed it to its employees.

The Mayor, Prof. Giorgio La Pira, is, according to news reports, an ascetic who believes all the world's problems can be solved by Christian love.

Well, I am a little puzzled. No doubt Mayor La Pira means well but just how he reconciles stealing with Christian love is hard for me to understand.

Moreover, the news story said, for several days prior to the Mayor's action, the employees of the foundry were on a sit-down strike.

I am still more puzzled. What I should like to know is whether La Pira gave the foundry to the workmen to show them that, even though they owned it, they would have to work, and some one would have to manage things with a fair degree of wisdom. If cashable paychecks were to be ready for them on pay day—or whether he gave the plant to them as a reward for their striking.

The news story said La Pira is trying to govern Florence according to the rule of St. Francis. But I think even St. Francis would have difficulty in seeing how this curious action of the Mayor's fits into the conception of solving all problems by Christian love.

are exceedingly difficult to answer and frankly there is some difference of opinion about the answer. To the second question, however, one can say fairly definitely that the daughter of an epileptic father is not likely to have epilepsy though it is possible.

THESE ARE REASONS for believing that epilepsy is essentially an hereditary disease and runs to some extent in families. This definitely does not mean, however, that children of epileptic parents will always have the disease and as things stand now the decision on marriage and childbearing for those with epilepsy must be taken on an individual basis. There is also a recently advanced theory that epilepsy may be associated less with heredity than with complications occurring before, during or just after birth.

About three-quarters of those who develop epilepsy show signs before they reach the usual marriageable age. Thus they will be in possession of the facts. The decision on marriage depends partly on how severe the convulsions are and how frequently they come. Also, an instrument called the electroencephalograph, which measures the brain waves, is extremely useful. The electroencephalograph records the electrical waves which are passing through the brain at all times. In epilepsy these waves are different from normal waves and give important information on the severity of the disease.

WHAT ARE THE chances that a person with epilepsy will have an epileptic child? Some time ago the family histories of nearly two thousand victims of epilepsy were studied in an attempt to answer this question. These 2000 patients had over twelve thousand parents, brothers and sisters, and children. Of the twelve thousand only about one in forty had a history of more than one seizure.

WITH THE HELP OF the history of past seizures, the family history of the electroencephalograph, the physician is able to give a rough estimate on the chances that any given child of a marriage would be subject to seizures.

Disarming Erroneous Economic Beliefs Come Before War Disarmament

I have been reading "Plowshares and Pruning Hooks," as published under the authority of the Bishops of the Methodist church. The book was written by several Methodist leaders. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman wrote the chapters on "The Meaning of Peace" and Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk wrote the chapters on "Disarmament." Since 1950, Dr. Van Kirk has been executive director of the department of International Justice and Goodwill for the Federal Council of Churches of Christ of the U. S. A.

Dr. Van Kirk starts one of his chapters with this statement: "If the race in arms is to be stopped, it will be stopped at the political level, through the United Nations."

Dr. Van Kirk is advocating another larger government rather than trying to get people to understand the beliefs that are bound to lead to war. It certainly seems to me that these Methodist leaders have an entirely different concept of what brings about peace than what Jesus Christ had. Jesus never advocated collective security. His concept certainly was that security comes from living in harmony with moral law — that there is no other security. But here we have the leaders of a great church discarding this concept of righteousness and wanting a bigger government with the church leaders directing the government. They have repeatedly expected that the government should take from one to give to another, and certainly there will be no real peace with ideologies of this kind. They are a complete denial of the fact that just powers are derived from the consent of the governed. They are instead contending that governments derive their just powers from might or the will of the majority. Jesus certainly didn't have much faith in the will of the majority or He never would have said:

"Enter ye in at the strait gate; for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."

MAIN BELIEF THAT LEADS TO WAR

In trying to analyze what are the seeds that develop into laws that bring about war, I came to this conclusion: It is the belief in most men that producing wealth harms someone. It is the belief that when someone under a free enterprise economy produces wealth that he takes it from someone else. It is the belief that free enterprise is like gifts or gambling or robbery or taxation used to benefit certain groups—the gain of one is the loss of someone else. The error in this belief is that under a free enterprise system both parties gain materially and spiritually.

Now, what kind of laws does this belief that an individual producing wealth is dangerous or harmful to someone else result in? When people so believe, they insist on protective tariff laws to protect some groups from competition. They insist on immigration quotas to keep men from freely migrating to where there is the most need for the talents that God gave them. Immigration quotas and protective tariffs are the primary causes of war. People would not believe in protective tariffs or immigration quotas if they believed that the gain of one is the gain of all in a free enterprise economy.

When the government starts to protect one group against the competition of foreign workers, it is only natural for them to begin to protect those groups who have the most votes from competition. That is the reason we have laws favoring organized labor, groups that contend that they cannot raise wages for their special groups without taking away from some individuals their right to help establish values.

This belief that the gain of one in free enterprise is the loss of others, that causes the government to try to protect people from competition, leads to the government going into the regulation of credit and money. This has caused the United States Government to regulate its writers' contracts when it borrowed money payable in gold dollars and less than six months after that completely repudiated that obligation.

So these Methodist leaders, and all those people who believe that the United Nations is our only road to peace, are putting the cart before the horse. The ideologies of the United Nations are the complete antithesis of those of the Declaration of Independence. The United Nations, that the Methodist Bishops contend will promote peace, contends that the individual is entitled to his food, shelter and clothing, whether he earns it or not and whether they are voluntarily given him or not. The Declaration of Independence contends that every person has a right to these, provided he can get them on a voluntary basis. The Declaration of Independence is the real road to peace. It recognizes that the gain of one is the gain of all under liberty, and that liberty will promote peace and that peace cannot be promoted without liberty.

The believers in the United Nations believe that peace can be promoted without liberty. The United Nations is based on a denial of a man's rights in private property. It is based on the theory that man gets his liberty and his right to own what he produces from the state rather than from God. They will not mix.

If my contention is wrong that the seeds of war come from the

States Rebel Against Hatch Act Provision

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Headed by the "green mountain boys" of Vermont, a score of states are staging a rebellion in the Federal Courts and on Capitol Hill against Washington's attempt to censor the activities of state officials by withholding funds through application of a generally unknown provision of the Hatch Act.

This statute, which has been called foolish and unenforceable even by its sponsors, bars political activity by Federal employees below the policy-making level. But it also applies to personnel of any state, county or municipal agency which receives loans or grants, large or small, from the Federal government. Today, almost every political subdivision enjoys this largesse.

Thus, by tightening the purse strings on various local agencies—highways, health, farm conservation, unemployment compensation etc.—the bureaucrats at Washington can dictate to the states, counties and cities in a way that hurts. And in 14 years, the Civil Service Commission has brought against 28 states 596 complaints of this kind, of which about 100 were instituted since President Eisenhower took office.

The Vermont case illustrates geographically the snoop and dictatorial tactics of the Federal agents. It has also led to the first state protest against this attempted domination of local governments, and to a protest movement now sweeping the country. Here are the facts:

W. Arthur Simpson, Vermont's Social Welfare Commissioner, presided at a Republican state convention in 1950. He also wrote a letter to a Boston newspaper in which he declared that the late Senator Taft was not an isolationist. He did not identify himself as a state official in this letter, signing it as a private citizen and expressing only his personal views.

The Civil Service Commission ruled that these actions violated the law against "pernicious political activity." It ordered Vermont to suspend Simpson without salary for 18 months, or to forfeit Federal welfare contributions equal to Simpson's salary for two years, which amounts to $11,000. These are standard penalties under the law.

Vermont refused, declaring that Simpson's services were worth more than the loss of $11,000. Then the Montpelier authorities appealed to the Federal Court, challenging the whole principle of the Hatch Act in these words:

"We are menaced by philosophies of government hostile to the Republican form of government and the democratic way of life. There should be, there can be, no abridgment of free speech guaranteed under the Constitution of the United States, so long as one believes that the gain of one in free enterprise is the loss of another in error. I would be glad to have it pointed out.

The Nation's Press

COLLAPSE OF A RED ARTICLE OF FAITH

(Chicago Tribune)

The speech a few weeks ago of Nikita S. Krushchev, boss of the Communist party in Russia, complaining of the backwardness of soviet collectivized agriculture, has paid an unexpected dividend. The communist state of Yugoslavia, which started out spicing the soviet union but has professed to have taken an independent national course in recent years, has announced it has abandoned collectivization of agriculture.

This decision followed by three days the speech in which Krushchev made the startling suggestion before the Russian party central committee that American farmers are more efficient than collectivized soviet farmers and that the latter ought to emulate American methods in developing a corn-bog agriculture.

Implicit in Krushchev's address was the hint that soviet collectivization is no more popular with the soviet rural population than it was 20 years ago when Stalin forced it on the country by means of terror. If there were not resistance, disorganization, and great waste in the system, Krushchev would not be publicly bemoaning the state of affairs, and the central committee would not be setting new goals for agricultural development intended to improve the live stock situation and "to insure sufficient food for the population."

Yugoslavia, even after her break with the soviet union in 1948, continued to press for the collectivization of agriculture, but by 1951, as a result of the resistance of the peasants, the drive was abated. But, while peasants were being permitted to retire from the collectives, the Tito dictatorship reorganized some collectives and formed new ones, so that there was no reduction in the official number of collective farms.

Peg Blasts 'New Racket' Of Forced Union Insurance

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The new racket of forcing American workers to buy insurance "welfare benefits" which are some cases illusory, is complex to the point of mystery. That is on reason why even Congress has only a vague idea of the vastness of this racket and the public has only a jumbled notion. The individual workers who have been forced to stand for this are a little better aware, but it must be understood that some have been quite well pleased. For example, Frank M. Darling, of Chicago, president of Local 1031 of the Electrical Workers of the AFL, apparently the largest local union in the country, composed almost entirely of women testified that 2,084 of his subjects had babies and more than 1,000 by hysterectomies in 1953, paid for by Union Casualty of New York. The claims were about $900 apiece on the average.

Testifying before a special subcommittee of the house committee on welfare and labor investigating "welfare funds and racketeering," Mr. Darling said, Leo Periman, the ingenious operator from Prague who actually brought Union Casualty into being in the 1920's, "complained very bitterly about the money the company was losing on the program."

Mr. Darling said some of his subjects who were ill would call up two or three times a day. "They even call up to tell us about their operations," he said. "They really do."

However, there was no convincing evidence in the long, bewildering record that Union Casualty actually did lose anything. In certain cases, Periman, a clever insurance operator who had had experience in mass coverage in Czechoslovakia, did business with the respective unions only rather than with joint trusts representing both employers and unions. In all cases, the insurance companies, the employers and the unions resort to the fiction that the union actually personifies the workers and "represents" them. Periman repeatedly said unions under discussion in specific cases were the "clients." Therefore, rebates at the end of each of the several years under inquiry were paid to the unions.

Periman had no idea that he and Union Casualty nor his operating company called United Public Service Corporation, which managed Union Casualty on a percentage agreement had any obligation to ascertain whether these rebates were divided among the individual insured members or eventually to the union bosses. Union Casualty is the business interest of Alfred Baker Lewis, a Socialist Party functionary, who is constantly writing letters to editors all over, defending unions against charges of corruption, but without stating that unions are the customers of the insurance business which pays him a good income.

Periman revealed a high opinion of his intellectual powers, but he was capable of astonishing blunts of double-talk when Congressman Clara Hoffman and William McKenna, the committee counsel, tried to nail him down on facts, which might have embarrassed him. His masterpiece went into the record when Hoffman and McKenna were trying to make him explain an item of $84,000 of his personal income in 1951. Periman had sold out his half-interest in his so-called service corporation, realizing $200,000 on stock which had cost him only $40 a few years before. Presently, he was claiming that he halved the selling price $200,000. The racket had run its course.

The service corporation, which was a parasite on the insurance company, was now by law limited to a commission of 2-5 of one percent. It had previously received 15 per cent on business in states other than New York and 12 1/2 per cent on New York state business. Periman unloaded a few months before this calamity struck. When McKenna asked him what consideration he got for reducing his sale price of his half-interest from $200,000 to $100,000 Periman said: "The officers and directors of the company demanded and received a modification of the agreement this would be my answer to the congressman, which told me that whatever I had in that company, here is an instance where I have a decisive interest in a corporation and officers decided to cancel the contract in which I was participating, based on that cancellation, where they are no more exclusive representatives of that corporation of the insurance company based on the fact that their compensation went down to two-fifths of one per cent at that time, they have a gross income of $90,000 a year primarily as a consideration for a vested interest."

A little later, McKenna flintly warned Periman: "I am afraid, Doctor, if we have to stay here all night we are going to get the answer to this."

It does not appear, however, that he did get an intelligible answer although by interpretation Hoffman and McKenna did make their point. Periman and Lewis, now president of Union Casualty, were the founding fathers. But it was Periman who had the original bright idea of forming the service corporation to "manage" the insurance company and bustle business. It seems from the record at Lewis got peanuts where Periman received an enormous income, though Lewis carried the target or the outfit, so to speak by writing pro-union letters and making orations to small gatherings in cities where his business connection was not scrutinized by the press.

Periman drew pay from three companies. He grossed $103,962 in 1950, $88,000 in 1951. He is agreed with a finding by Mr. Hoffman that he got more than $400,000 in salaries and commissions "from 1948 on through 1951."

U.N. MEMBERSHIP

Have you noticed how those who insist that Red China ought to be welcomed into the United Nations, begin with the argument that the U.N. is—or should be—a "universal" organization. Opponents point out that the U.N. Charter itself specifically limits membership to "peace-loving states" which are willing and able to accept and carry out the obligations of such membership. The argument then changes quickly to: "Well—Soviet Russia is a member of the U.N., and she's just as bad—if not worse—than Red China!"

The apparent assumption of this last argument is that since we were mistaken about Russia's qualifications for membership—we should now compound that foolish error by overlooking Red China's flagrant disqualification of herself for membership.

It never seems to occur to such people that it is both more moral and more sensible to rectify the old error, and then refuse to commit a new one! How can we rectify the error of our earlier pipe-dream that Soviet Russia was a "peace-loving state" able and willing to live up to the principles of the Charter? What can the U.N. possibly do about a present member who has persistently violated the first?

Reds Are Guilty Big news, four years later, Russia is still guilty as guilty as stated. Her own U.N. representative admitted his nation's guilt when he boasted of the military aid it was supplying to Communist China all during the Korean war, a war in which 35,000 American boys died fighting for the United Nations! This boast was made in March 1953—over two years after the U.N. had officially declared Red China to be an "aggressor." How does Article 2 of the Charter read? It says: "All members shall give the United Nations every assistance in any action it takes in accordance with the present Charter, and shall refrain from giving assistance to any state against which the United Nations is taking preventive or enforcement action."

Big news, four years later, Russia is still guilty as guilty as stated. Her own U.N. representative admitted his nation's guilt when he boasted of the military aid it was supplying to Communist China all during the Korean war, a war in which 35,000 American boys died fighting for the United Nations! This boast was made in March 1953—over two years after the U.N. had officially declared Red China to be an "aggressor." How does Article 2 of the Charter read? It says: "All members shall give the United Nations every assistance in any action it takes in accordance with the present Charter, and shall refrain from giving assistance to any state against which the United Nations is taking preventive or enforcement action."

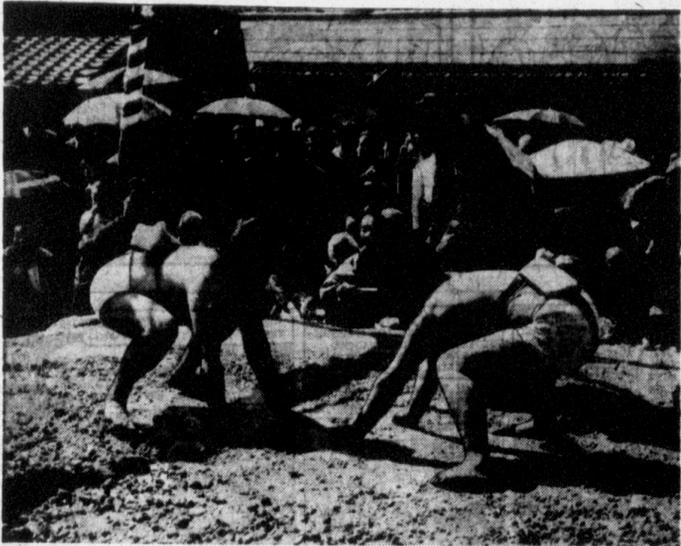

Deliberately close their eyes to Article 6 of the U.N. Charter, which reads: "A member of the United Nations which has persistently violated the Principles contained in the present Charter may be expelled from the Organization by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council."

When this Article 6 is waved under their noses, they acknowledge its existence, but then they gleefully exclaim: "But—the Security Council cannot possibly recommend Russia's expulsion—because Russia herself would veto such a resolution!"

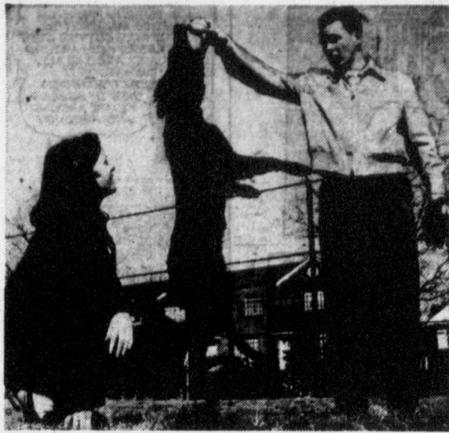

Air Is Cleared Altogether too many Americans have been stopped cold by this argument, and reluctantly concluded that there was no way around it. David Lawrence is therefore performing a real public service when he points out in his February 25th U. S. News and World Report that the Soviet Union, being a party to this dispute, would have no right to veto on its behalf! He reminds us all that Article 27 of the Charter covers this very point very clearly when it declares that in decisions of the Security Council, "a party to a dispute shall abstain from voting." Therefore, if the other members of the Security Council could ever summon up enough moral courage to consider expelling Russia from the U.N. for her persistent violation of its principles,—they would defy Russia any right to veto the move.

Thus far, of course, there have been no signs of any such moral courage, which leads us to ask what we can therefore expect from an organization that likes to brag about the principles upon which it was founded, but which refuses to do anything at all about a member who persistently violates those principles.

PICTURE SPORTS NEWS AROUND THE WORLD

TO THE LADIES!—Two husky bare-chested Japanese women bend on all fours before tackling each other in a display of Sumo wrestling. The match was part of the southern village of Irami's celebration of a local festival. Some of the celebrating seems to have been rough.

ON THE BALL—Even the Irish setter wants into it when the baseball-loving Carrolls—Tom and sister Gloria—enjoy a session in New York. Tom played for Bishop Loughlin High School in Brooklyn and is a $40,000 bonus shortstop signed by the N.Y. Yankees. Gloria plays softball.

RODEO QUEEN—Pretty cowgirl Carole Tyler, 19, was chosen this year's Rodeo Queen in Phoenix, Ariz. She'll reign from the saddle of Tony, her palomino, over the World Championships.

SHIPBOARD SHAPE-UP—British heavyweight champ Don Cockell apparently wasn't taking any pleasure cruise back to England from New York where he signed to fight Rocky Marciano in May. Once aboard the Queen Mary, Cockell started a workout with the life rings. The fighter, his manager and his trainer were in the U.S. only long enough to make final arrangements for the title bout with Marciano. It will take place in the Kezar Stadium in San Francisco.

JUMPING THE GUN—When the temperature in Dallas, Tex., got into the 70s, Ann Neyland and her dog, Nell, took advantage of it. They went fishing, and while Ann dozed, it seems that watchful Nell kept her eyes expectantly on the water, hoping to see some bubbles.

"RUNS" IN THE FAMILY—There's spring in the step of five-year-old Christine Bareford, as she takes a training trot alongside Mike Grinsdell, nine, in London. Mike is the youngest member of the Victoria Park Harriers, a star in his own right, but Christine is following in her dad's footsteps; he's famed and swift half-miler Derek Bareford.

WEIGHTY DECEPTION—Dropping into the clubhouse in Bradenton, Fla., to weigh himself, Milwaukee Braves' pitcher Warren Spahn was puzzled by some unexpected poundage. His young son, Greg, is committing the sabotage. Spahn and his teammates are in Florida for their spring training.

RUSSIAN PLAYGROUND—Snow-covered towers and big painted animals give a playland atmosphere to the children's section of a recreation park in Moscow. The Russian children must derive considerable pleasure from the fairyland appearance of their playground.

SOLID COMFORT—At least the ice is solid and Mike Saternis, left, and Harry Masichuck, both of Stafford Spring, Conn., are making the best of it. They've dropped fishing lines through holes in the 14-inch-thick ice to "jig for smelt." Their backs are kept warm by the auto heater and they can listen to favorite radio programs at the same time.

TWO POINTS—Alex Hannum (4) of the Milwaukee Hawks drove past Gene Shue (7) of the N.Y. Knicks to score during their game in Manhattan. Ray Felix, of the Knicks, is tangling with an unidentified Hawk, left. Milwaukee won, 79-72.

PREPARING TO ASCEND—Manager Ralph Myhre is assisting Norm Cummings, of Auburn, Me., as Middlebury, Vt., College's top ski jumper prepares to ride the school's new ski lift. Cummings, a sophomore, was second to University of New Hampshire's Norwegian ace Jon Rissnes at the Dartmouth Carnival.

SNOWSHOE HANDICAP

IT'S DIFFERENT—The sprawl above took place during what began as an outdoor basketball game, a feature of the winter carnival at Plymouth, N.H., between the Plymouth Teachers' College Jayvees and the Plymouth American Legion. Played on snowshoes, the game soon developed into a crude kind of soccer before it became a free-for-all, 22-22 tie. A player, top photo, is trying for a basket while, below, framed by an unmatched pair of snowshoes, another player tries more of the same. The teams were dressed in too cumbersome a fashion to permit much dribbling of the ball in the season's screwiest event.

This Is The Week's Good And Bad On The International Beat

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

THE GOOD
1. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gave the Chinese Communists a grim warning of what they may expect if they attack Formosa—and possibly if they attack the Nationalist outpost islands of Quemoy and Matsu. If the Reds engage in "open armed aggression," Dulles said in a broadcast speech, it probably will mean that they have decided on general war in Asia.

THE BAD
1. Well informed American sources in Tokyo were reported fearful that a general war in Asia may be only weeks away. Dispatches from Washington, London and Taipei, Formosa, said that Chinese Reds have moved long range artillery and a full air division of new Russian-built MIG17 jet fighters to positions near the Nationalist-held offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

2. A new dispute over the tiny Saar coal region threatens to delay final ratification by both West Germany and France of the treaties which provide for German armament. West Germany wants the way left open for the full return of the Saar when a German peace treaty is signed. France wants to retain its economic rights in the Saar.

3. Some powerful leaders of three political religious sects are trying to overthrow the American-supported government of Premier Nao Dinh Diem in southern Vietnam in Indo-China. Dispatches from Saigon, the capital, report heavy fighting between Viet Nam National troops and Rebels of the sects.

Irving School Officials Now Have 2 Weeks

DALLAS —UP— Ousted teachers and officials in the strife-torn Irving, Tex., school system granted a March 26 election to settle their dispute, had two weeks Friday to convince a majority of the voters that the old school board must go.

County Judge W. L. Sterrett ordered the election Thursday and set its date. An affirmative vote would abolish the Irving Independent School District and move the schools under control of the Dallas County Superintendent of Education.

A petition with 37 signatures had left Sterrett with no alternative but to call the election that the Irving Citizens committee admits is designed to get rid of the present school board and its president, Charles E. Young.

It was the board that fired Superintendent Dr. John L. Beard, seven principals, two other officials, the board attorney and 215 teachers, bus drivers, lunch room workers and clerical help. Most of them were dismissed after a March 1 strike by teachers and workers over dismissal of Beard and other officials.

The school board, in a formal statement, said it "is certain Judge Sterrett has followed the law and had no choice but to call the election."

"We deplore the fact that 37 people (the petition signers) can capriciously bring about, in an effort to serve their own ends, an activity which will take from $2,000 to $3,000 in election expenses from the school children of Irving," the board statement said.

William S. Ward, spokesman for the teachers, said his group "is trying to get the facts to the public and will continue to work on that. We are 100 per cent pleased by Judge Sterrett's order."

Amarilloan Dead In U.S. 66 Wreck
A MARILLO —UP—Claude Straughan, 56, of Amarillo, was fatally injured Wednesday night and five other persons were injured in a three-car wreck on U.S. Highway 66 east of Amarillo.

Straughan's brother Everett, 40, was reported in critical condition in St. Anthony's hospital. Their sister, Mrs. Glenn Hall, 43, of Amarillo, was in poor condition. Her husband, Glenn Hall, 45, was in fair condition, and Carl R. Weiss, 23, of Silverton, was in good condition. Weiss, Hall and G. A. Robbins of Denver City, who was not hurt, were drivers of the three cars.

Robbins said he had stopped on a road crossing Highway 66. He saw another car, later identified as Hall's, start north across the highway. At the same time, he saw another car—Weiss'—coming from the east and realized they would collide.

He said Weiss jammed on his brakes and hit the side of Hall's car, which spun and hit Robbins' car.

Youth Drowns Himself
RACINE, Wis. —UP—The body of a 12-year-old boy who was afraid to go home because he had poor grades in school was found Thursday in Lake Michigan. He was identified as Richard Bentz Jr. He left a note behind saying he was drowning himself because he was in trouble at school.

28-year-old drummer, played his drums for 58 consecutive hours, then collapsed on an ambulance stretcher Wednesday night as a sheriff waited to arrest him for moving mortgaged property—his drums.

Wells claimed the 58 consecutive hours is a world record. He played his drums continuously in the window of a downtown department store from 12:04 p. m. Monday to 10:04 p. m. Wednesday night.

As he started to get into the stretcher—"It's doctor's orders"—he kept tapping his drums lightly and asked the crowd of several hundred who had gathered for his finish:

"Is that it?"

The crowd answered that it was and Wells collapsed on the pillow of the stretcher. He said he has

Czech Film Star Is Found Dead

MEXICO CITY —UP—Miroslava Stern, beautiful Czechoslovak movie star whose name had been linked romantically with that of Luis Miguel Dominguin, was found dead Thursday with a portrait of the Spanish bullfighter clutched in her hand. Police termed her death a suicide.

Oscar Stern, father of the blonde 25-year-old actress known professionally as Miroslava, said his daughter has been "sad and nervous" since Dominguin's marriage last week to Italian actress Lucia Bose in Las Vegas, Nev.

Police said Miss Stern killed herself with an unknown poison. Her body was found lying across her white-covered bed in her apartment Thursday afternoon. She apparently died Wednesday night.

Police said she left three notes to her father, brother and lawyer, but none gave any explanation for her suicide.

Miss Stern was one of the stars of the Spanish-speaking screen. She came to Mexico about 15 years ago. She was not married.

Polio Labmen Are Hopeful
OKLAHOMA CITY —UP— Polio researchers will be "greatly surprised" if the Salk vaccine for paralytic polio does not prove effective, a highly optimistic National Polio Foundation official said here Thursday.

Warren T. Kingsbury, assistant director of chapters, said the foundation is proceeding on the assumption that a report on the vaccine, administered in nationwide field trials last year, will be favorable.

"On the basis of everything we know to date we hope to start vaccination of certain groups of children in April," Kingsbury said. He added the $9 million research project paid for by March of Dimes contributions "is far from a gamble."

Results of last year's testing program are being compiled by a University of Michigan laboratory staff headed by Dr. Thomas H. Francis. A target date of April 1 has been set for release of the Francis report.

NLRB Favors Re-Hiring
SAN FRANCISCO —UP—A trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board recommended Friday an El Paso, Tex., firm offer to re-employ two discharged employees.

The firm is the Tex-Togs, Inc., a manufacturer of children's clothing. The two employees are Teresa Perez and Esperanza A. Minjarez. No labor organization was involved.

The trial examiner was William E. Spencer, from the San Francisco branch office of the NLRB. The two employees in their complaint with the board had charged unfair labor practices on the part of the company.

Spencer recommended to the full NLRB board that the firm be ordered to "cease and desist from discouraging membership in a labor organization" and to offer to restore the two discharged employees to their jobs, plus "any loss of pay they may have suffered..."

Amarillo Drummer Drummed Himself Into Hands Of The Law
AMARILLO —UP—Billy Wells, a 28-year-old drummer, played his drums for 58 consecutive hours, then collapsed on an ambulance stretcher Wednesday night as a sheriff waited to arrest him for moving mortgaged property—his drums.
