RISING WATERS -- The creek crossing Kentucky Street near the municipal swimming pool is flooded to within a foot of the bottom of the bridge. The water, approximately five feet deep when this picture was made at 10 o'clock this morning, was still rising. # Vaccine Delay Halts Shot Plan

Texas Plans Local Set-Up If Supply Holdup Continues

By UNITED PRESS

The delay in the distribution of Salk vaccine forced two states to postpone their second rounds of mass inoculations Thursday.

Officials in Michigan and Indiana said new government delays in approving shipments of the precious vaccine had made it impossible to go ahead with their program.

Texas health authorities said meanwhile that if Salk vaccine isn't cleared for the Lone Star State before schools let out, "local arrangements" will have to be made for administering the shots.

"I don't know how that will work out," a state epidemiologist warned.

Officials in other states and cities have already expressed fears that they won't get enough vaccine to complete the mass inoculation of first and second graders before schools let out for the summer.

This would pose an added problem since the children would have scattered and might not be easily rounded up for the inoculations.

The Michigan and Indiana decisions coincided with a government announcement of new holdups in Salk vaccine distribution, possibly lasting several days.

A Public Health Service spokesman said the delay hinged on a federal re-check of vaccine produced by the Wyeth laboratories at Marietta, Pa.

In Michigan, health authorities said the new government delays forced them to postpone all second rounds of shots, except in five counties where the inoculations are already completed.

In Wisconsin, meanwhile, state health officer Carl Neupert called on residents not to worry, even though shipments of vaccine for second round shots have been delayed.

Worries among the states came against a background of mounting activity on the scientific front.

189 New Cases Of Polio

Week's Increase Put At 27 Per Cent

WASHINGTON -- UP -- The U.S. Public Health Service said Thursday that 129 new cases of polio were reported in the nation during the week ended May 14.

That represented an increase of about 27 per cent over the 149 cases reported during the preceding week. It was about 25 per cent more cases than the 151 reported during the corresponding week of 1954.

The total number of polio cases for this calendar year stood at 1,786 compared to 2,271 in the comparable period of last year. For the "disease year" starting April 1, there have been 722 cases in 1955 compared to 718 in 1954.

California, which has been the state hardest hit so far this year, reported 45 new cases during the week ended May 14 compared to 27 in the preceding week. Texas had 19 compared to 13; Michigan 10 compared to one; New York 12 compared to five; Mississippi eight compared to one; Oregon seven compared to one; and Georgia nine compared to four.

The Public Health Service report offered no appraisal of what effect, if any, the polio vaccination program has had on the incidence of the disease this year.

However, it repeated figures announced Wednesday showing that through May 17 the service had received official reports of 77 cases of polio among persons who had been vaccinated, with 59 of these among persons who received the now-embargoed Cutter vaccine.

Adlai Ready To Welcome South Dems

CHICAGO -- UP -- Adlai E. Stevenson is ready to welcome back the rebel southern Democrats who back the rebel southern Democratic President Eisenhower, provided they don't come as "Trojan horses."

The 1952 Democratic presidential nominee said on his return from an African trip Wednesday that there is no room in party plans for "the doctrine of rule or ruin or for Trojan horses."

"Those who have strayed and return in good faith" should be taken back into the Democratic party, he said.

Stevenson mentioned no names. But there has been dispute regarding the admission of Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas and Robert F. Kennon of Louisiana, and former Gov. James Byrnes of South Carolina, to the 1956 Democratic convention as delegates.

Stephen A. Mitchell, former national Democratic chairman, opposed their recognition as delegates. Shortly afterward, Paul Butler, who succeeded Mitchell, issued a more conciliatory statement regarding their admission.

Stevenson said he had received many inquiries about his views on party loyalty.

"Speaking generally, I just don't believe that honorable men who have been elected to high offices as Democrats and by Democrats will come to a Democratic convention if they are publicly, secretly, or even conditionally pledged to support the Republican candidate," he said.

Israeli Attack Outpost

Violence Flares In Gaza Strip

TEL AVIV, Israel -- UP -- Israeli armed forces attacked an Egyptian army outpost in the Gaza strip early Thursday in "retaliation" for an Egyptian landmine ambush that killed three Israeli officers, an Army spokesman announced.

(A Cairo communique reporting the latest bloody incident along the tense border claimed the Israelis suffered "heavy casualties" and left behind large quantities of ammunition and explosives. It said the Egyptians had no casualties.)

(Lt. Col. Salah Gohar, chief of the Palestine affairs department, said the Israeli casualties were confirmed by the presence of many pools of blood and abandoned, blood-stained clothes.")

An Israeli army unit stormed the Egyptian position near Kisufim Wednesday night and blew up all installations, an Israeli spokesman said. The attacking troops suffered no casualties in the operation, the spokesman added.

The Egyptians manning the stronghold fled before the installations were destroyed, the spokesman explained.

The Israeli army said the raid was carried out "in consequence" of Tuesday's explosion of an Israeli army vehicle in the Kisufim area. The blast killed three officers and wounded two others.

Israeli authorities have blamed the Egyptians for the landmine ambush. They said other anti-vehicle mines have been discovered in the area and have been turned over to the United Nations observers. Some of the mines have been inscribed "made in Egypt," the authorities said.

Paul Crossman, chairman of a special committee picked from a committee of 25 which, in turn, was selected by the Gray County Commissioners Court, said today the circulation of petitions would have to await some preliminary sketches and plans by Architect B. R. Cantrell.

The committee of 25 met yesterday afternoon with the commissioners court and the hospital board to report results of the sampling of county opinion. Their unofficial report: 375 for it, 25-30 against it.

Crossman reported that it was the opinion of the committee that it should be a two-story extension, probably extending east from the north wing of the hospital. There would be no basement and all the rooms would be private rooms.

He said it was his understanding that there has been no definite decision on whether air-conditioning would be included in the new extension. Adding another floor to the existing structure was also discussed, Crossman continued, but that idea was turned down. The new extension, however, would be so constructed that another floor could be added to it in the future.

Cantrell was out of town today and could not be contacted to determine how long it would be before he would have enough plans assembled so that the petitions could be circulated. However, he had been instructed to see what type of structure, and how many rooms in it, can be built for roughly $300,000.

There is no doubt that the county-owned and operated hospital is "running full," Crossman said he made an informal check at 7 a.m. every day for the last week and occupancy varied from 85 per cent to 97 per cent. And Hospital Administrator Chet Lander told the DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. -- UP -- Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, who founded a college on a dump heap with $1.50 and became the most prominent Negro woman of her time, died here Wednesday night of a heart attack.

Dr. Bethune would have been 80 years old July 10. She had been ill for some time, physicians said, but her mind remained active.

She collapsed late Wednesday after spending a full day writing at her desk, friends said.

Dr. Bethune was born on a plantation at Mayesville, S. C., one of 17 children. Friends helped her gain an education but she often worked at menial tasks to complete it.

The Negro girls school which she founded in 1905 at the site of a dump heap was combined in 1923 with a boy's school from Jacksonville to become Bethune-Cookman college.

She was president until 1942 and again for one year in 1945 before becoming president-emerita. President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed Dr. Bethune as a director of Negro affairs for the National Youth Administration and as his special adviser on minority affairs.

Pampa And Neighboring Cities Get Heaviest Rain Since 1953

The third day of Pampa's extended rainfall, which this morning reached a high point in intensity, found during the period 3.01 inches falling since Tuesday night, according to Radio Station KPND. It was the heaviest rainfall in Pampa since July, 1953.

The dramatic power of the long-awaited rains was made physical ly apparent in the city this morning with streets virtually impassible for pedestrians. Cars found little trouble in getting around, but passengers had to be let out in alleyways to avoid being "carried away" by the swiftly flowing water paralleling the curbstones.

The weatherman calls for the thunderstorms to let up this afternoon.

noon. Skies Friday are expected to be partly cloudy with little change in temperature from today's expected high in the low 60s. The low this morning was 52. The reading at noon was 55.

Seriously deliberated plans were mullied over in local cafes regarding the building of "bridges" to span the newly-created Panhandie rivers. Duck boards were considered entirely out of the question, since they would float away.

The swell of water in the area was made apparent by the weatherman reporting 5.39 inches in May for the city. The effect on the Canadian River was to raise its water level to 2 1/2 feet as of noon.

Heaviest Since 1953

Not since July of 1953 has so much rain fallen in Pampa in so short a time. During the week end of July 19 and 20 of 1953 5.81 inches fell on the city. On Aug. 21-22, 1954, Pampa had its last major rainfall when 2.19 inches of moisture graced this section of the Texas Panhandle.

City Water Superintendent E. S. Lowrey said the best effect the heavy rains will have is to keep folks from watering their lawns. Utilities in Pampa reported little trouble. Gordon Lyons at Southwestern Public Service said he was notified of only one utility pole washing out in the Lefors area, with a little trouble on rural lines in Miami. Other than this service was in good shape, according to a round-up made by the Pampa Daily News.

City Work Held Up While in the city the Pampa Street Department was busy touring the city to check on clogged sewers. City Manager Fred Brook said that all outside city work was at a standstill. The amounts of water in the streets have prevented

Southwest Rain Tops U.S. Weather Picture

By UNITED PRESS

Torrential rains pounded the Southwest dust bowl Thursday, spelling the difference between bankruptcy and money in the bank for thousands. But they also triggered flash floods and scores of persons fled their homes.

The heaviest rains in nearly a year poured down on the parched wheat fields of eastern Colorado. They soaked the ground where they were needed most. Thousands of farmers who were threatened with bankruptcy only last week joyfully made plans for putting in new crops.

But in West Texas and Oklahoma up to eight inches of rain filled placid creeks with racing flood crests.

Brady Creek sent a 22-foot flood crest smashing against hastily erected sandbag dikes at Brady, Tex., early Thursday. The dikes held but 35 families were forced from their homes and 500 more were alerted to be ready to clear out.

Floods Hit Colorado; 500 Flee

TRINIDAD, Colo. -- UP -- Streams in parts of the southeastern Colorado dust bowl that have been dry for months rose to flood levels Wednesday after 36 hours of steady rains, forcing the evacuation of at least 500 persons from their homes along the threatened Purgatoire River here.

A spokesman at police headquarters in Trinidad said National Guard units were called out and rescue troops were contacting nearby Camp Carson for additional trucks, blankets and food for the evacuees. He said from 500-1000 persons already had been taken out of the area and "and if we don't get some more help soon we're going to lose some lives."

"The power's out and the water line went out early this morning," he said. "We need every man available. We've contacted the Red Cross for food and medical supplies."

He said thus far no casualties have been reported.

The rains—heaviest in two years—drenched eastern Colorado's parched wheatland. The blessed downpour began Tuesday night and could mean the difference between bankruptcy and a fair crop to thousands of farmers trapped by three years of drought.

Bear Creek area was estimated at 15 inches during the past few days. More rains could topple the dikes and send flood waters spreading over a wide area, officials warned.

Elsewhere in Texas, seven inches of rain in just two hours put parts of Eastland under water, temporarily closed two highways, and washed out a railroad bridge.

Sixty persons were evacuated from their homes at Hale Center after eight inches of rain, and hundreds of motorists were temporarily stranded following a two-hour, 2.80 downpour at Wichita Falls. Fifty cars were marooned along a five-block section of just one Wichita Falls street.

At Eastland threatened both cities with floods during the night but the danger was largely past Thursday.

Forecasters said, the rains would continue generally Thursday over all Texas from the Pecos Valley eastward through the central and eastern sections of the state Thursday night and in the eastern part of the state Friday.

White said enough rain has fallen to assure good grain sorghum planting conditions in the producing belt.

"Even though some cotton has been washed or hauled out, it is not too late to replant or to seed those fields that were previously too dry," he said. "Corn prospects look even better than cotton. The benefit to pasturelands is excellent. But the rains came too late to help the wheat and oat crop.

If it comes from a Hardware store, we have it. Lewis Hardware.

Rains that threatened floods in West Texas also raised the outlook for thousands of Texas farmers from "dismal failure" to "very good" in Texas.

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said Thursday that the rains are "the best in the last five years" in Central and North Texas. But he warned that the rains cannot be called drought-breakers.

"The damage done during the last five years cannot be repaired in a week," he said. "We are thankful for the rain but we still need more. We need a wet year to get us back on our feet."

INDOOR PICNIC

Mrs. O. H. Odom's first grade class at Woodrow Wilson School had a picnic planned at city park yesterday afternoon, but the rains came and the outdoor venture was off. But the students and parents gathered in the classroom and had the picnic anyway, and from the looks of the children it was almost as much fun as the real picnic. (News Photo)

Here Is Some More Dope On The Usual -- Brinquin' Up Kids

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK — UP — Here is some new scientific ammunition for use in the never-ending argument on how to bring up children. Two psychologists have experimental evidence that the sons of stern fathers are likely to grow up into men who react to stress with outgoing anger, while the sons of mild fathers are inclined to turn stress-produced anger inwardly upon themselves.

Stanley H. King and Andrew F. Henry experimented with Harvard boys. First, they found who had been the disciplinaries in their homes, father or mother or both, and whether the discipline had been stern or mild. Then they put the boys under experimental stress, and measured their reacting anger by the reaction upon their hearts and vascular systems. Those who reacted outwardly were easy to spot, of course. But people who try to hide their anger — and may suffer from anxiety, as the result — are hard to spot. There is evidence that one kind of cardiovascular reaction goes with outgoing response to stress, such as anger, and another kind goes with a turning inward, accompanied by brooding and covered-over anger. This evidence is not conclusive, but it is suggestive. At any rate, King and Henry used this method to measure the responses to stress at Harvard.

The scientists were unable to draw even tentative conclusions as to how the sons of strict mothers but mild fathers react to stress — their evidence was too variable to be working statistically. This question, they said, needed further exploration.

Indeed, the whole matter needs extensive research, they said. They felt that their results, raised questions, such as: Does the control father exercised in childhood still operate in the boy after he becomes a man? Does the way the boy understands control and discipline truly reflect the amount of control and discipline his parents exercise? Do out-going and inward-turning reactions, to stress become habit rather than unchangeable emotional mechanisms?

In their report to the American Psychological Association, they granted the "limitation" of their studies, and dwelt especially on the difficulty of accurately measuring reactions to stress and the fact that the boys themselves decided whether one or another of both parents were strict or mild.

They would like to see the same kind of study made of a group of young women. They wondered if the same results would be gotten from girls.

Bank Manager Gets Bandit

DETROIT — UP — An irate bank manager who saw an armed gunman escape with $2,000 Tuesday afternoon recovered the money and apprehended the bandit with an assist from a concrete mixer. Bernard St. Germaine, manager of the St. Clair Shores National Bank, gave chase and the chase ended when the gunman's car collided with a cement mixing truck. St. Germaine leaped from his car and disarmed the gunman.

Confederate Vets Oulliving Union Army Survivors 3 To 1

WASHINGTON — UP — In voting reading of only the title. Report Was Poetic
The Judiciary committees noted, port on the bill was there if anybody wanted to read it. Report? It read more like poetry. Woolson, the committee noted, was 108 years old, and the sole survivor of the Grand Army of the Republic.
At his home in Duluth, Minn., not long ago Woolson came down with a bad cold, and it looked for a while as though Woolson would never see 109. The nearest veteran hospital was 165 miles away, a long trip and out of the question for an old man on a cold Duluth day.
So they took him to a private hospital nearby. When he finally got back on his feet, Woolson owed the hospital $1,200. And more medical bills were in sight, what with maturity coming upon him.

"He is the last of an era — of an army," the Judiciary committee said about Woolson. "And if for no other reason than that he alone represents a whole era of American history, we should make some special consideration in his case."

Woolson Wasn't Last
It recommended that the government stand good for Woolson's current and future medical bills. Such action, the House was assured, "Will not set any precedent whatever as Mr. Woolson is the last survivor."
Last survivor, indeed!

There is Gen. John Salling, down in Slant, Va., who celebrated his 109th birthday just Sunday, and Gen. Walter W. Williams, 112, off in Franklin, Tex., and don't forget Uncle Bill Lundy, 107, of Laurel Hill, Fla.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Keep Many Things From Opponent

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service

Many pairs failed to make four hearts with the North-South cards shown today when the hand was dealt in the recent Eastern Championships in New York.

There was, of course, no problem when West opened a diamond. Declarer could run three diamonds, discarding a spade from his hand, and could then take the king of hearts and finesse a heart.

was practically cold for 11 tricks, losing only the two black aces.

When the hand was actually bid many South players raised the response of two clubs to three clubs.

When this "scientific" bid was made, South got to four hearts but went down. West, fully informed about the clubs, opened the ace of clubs.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

The death of an intestate person (one who has made no will) may give rise to many problems regarding distribution of his separate estate.

It may be well to recall that the separate estate of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired after marriage by gift or inheritance.

Now, here is a general idea as to how your separate property will be divided if you do not make a will with contrary provisions prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and if, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of previously-deceased children, the children and their descendants immediately obtain a full (fee) title in two-thirds of the real estate involved.

The rule for distributing personal property—cash, stocks, items not constituting real estate—is different. Here the surviving spouse gets full ownership of one-third, and the children and their descendants inherit the balance.

Now suppose your husband or wife survives, but there are no surviving children or their descendants. If there are no surviving spouse inherits all of the personal property involved.

With regard to real estate, the survivor obtains full title to one-half, and the other half is divided between your mother and father, if both survive you. If only one of them survives, he or she receives only half of this portion, and the other half (or one-fourth of the entire real estate) will be divided among your brothers and sisters (and their descendants) who survive.

Where no parent survives, but there are brothers and sisters and descendants, the full one-half is divided among these survivors.

And, if there are no parents or brothers and sisters (and their descendants) surviving, then the surviving husband or wife inherits all of the real estate.

led his lowest club instead of the ten if he had wanted a return in the lower side suit, diamonds.

It's easy to see what happened. The defenders got two spades, the ace of clubs and at least two club ruffs. South was down two or three tricks simply because he told the opponents too much about his hand.

FLOODED CROPS

Dry land wheat, burned up in the spring and early summer, is now standing in water as far as the eye can see. This picture was taken about five miles north of Pampa along Highway 70. The rains may have been too late to help the wheat but should give the farmland a good underlay of moisture for the next planting season. (News Photo by T. D. Ellis)

Last Uranium Class Slated Here Tonight

The fifth and final class of the Pampa uranium prospecting course is scheduled to be held at 7 p.m. today in 31st District Court room.

The subject of the class will be field equipment and evaluations. Bill Soule, assistant head of the Amarillo College vocational department, the course sponsor, said today.

In the last four weeks—on successive Thursdays—there have been classes on geology and map reading; mineralogy and uranium minerals; land and leasing and claim staking; and prospecting instruments.

More than 100 persons have been registered in the course which began April 21. When the Pampa uranium course began, there was already a similar course underway in Amarillo where 273 persons were registered—the second largest enrollment of its kind in Texas. (Largest: University of Houston with 3,000 enrollees.)

W. H. Fitzgerald has been the course instructor in Pampa and, during each class session, there have been various pieces of uranium prospecting equipment on display.

The whole idea of a Pampa uranium course began when R. B. Brummett, an area farmer, told The Pampa Daily News he knew of at least 50 persons who would be interested in it.

Perhaps the high point of the course to date was the night of May 5 when James W. Allison, Albuquerque, N. M., district geologist for Atomic Energy Commission, discussed land, leasing and claim staking.

Rain Delays Building Of Wading Pool

If the Negro youngsters of Pampa had their wading pool, it would be overflowing today. But they don't have it.

Ever since the City of Pampa was scheduled to begin work—the first of the week—the weather has kept city employees from it.

And today was no exception, as the general rains brought city work to a virtual standstill, James Cowan, city director of public works, explained.

The Pampa Council of Church Women held a drive several years ago and collected $500, which will pay for a major portion of the $627.12 tab on the cost of the concrete for the wading pool. The city is paying the remainder of the concrete bill and is donating the labor on the project.

Once work gets underway on it, Cowan said, the job should only take about a week. The pool will be 28 feet in diameter and will deepen from 12 inches at the edge to 18 inches at the center. It will resemble similar pools in Lions Club Park in Central Park.

Rotary Hears Navy Reserve

The Pampa Rotary Club heard a discussion of the Naval Reserve in their luncheon meeting yesterday in the Palm Room of City Hall.

The group saw a film presented by the Naval Reserve, also, which was in connection with Armed Forces Week.

Jack Foster, who has charge of the program, introduced two members of the Amarillo Reserve Training Center who showed the film. They were EM-1 B. B. Savage and R-M-1 R. E. Coventon.

Nine-Inch Rain Floods Oklahoma

WAURIKA, Okla.—UP—Cloud-bursts of up to nine inches swept southwestern Oklahoma Wednesday night and Thursday forcing an estimated 500 persons to flee their homes.

The U. S. river forecasting station at Shreveport, La., predicted the greatest flood would hit Waurika since the 1951 deluge.

An unofficial 9.40 inches was reported at Comanche, Okla., eight inches at Temple, and more than five inches at Waurika, Duncan and Addington.

The highway patrol and two volunteers in a boat rescued three men from their automobile after it washed off SH 7 between Duncan and Lawton.

The Rock Island railroad tracks were washed away in three places south of Duncan.

At Waurika, sheriff's deputies and the Red Cross evacuated about 10 families from the lowlands. Beaver and cow creek, which merge at the city's edge, were expected to form a single crest about noon.

The entire business district was flooded, and all telephones were out of service at Comanche. Twenty-five families were forced from their homes. Only communication was provided by ham radio operators and mobile units of the Sun-ray oil firm and Halliburton Oil Well Cementing co.

Fifteen families were evacuated by rescuers at Duncan, and another 15 to 25 families left of their own accord.

Grandview Barbecue On Schedule

The rains today apparently did not keep the annual Grandview community barbecue from going off on schedule.

County Schools Supt. B. R. Nuckols received a call from Grandview about 10:15 a.m. today—and it wasn't even raining on the community at the time.

As County Clerk Charlie Thut pointed out, "They've been barbecuing the beef for 24 hours now—it'll have to go off on schedule."

The barbecue has been a Gray County fixture for a number of years. During the political "on" years, all the politicians running for office in Gray County receive a special "invitation" to attend. Last year hundreds of persons, including many a politician, showed up.

One of the features of the barbecue is the auctioning off of a calf, which—when bought—is generally turned right back to the community to provide the next year's barbecued beef.

Lee Infant Dies Wednesday

Raymond Lee, born Wednesday in Worley Hospital, died 2½ hours later.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Lee, 432 Hughes, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wylie J. Davis of Pampa.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p.m. today in the chapel at Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral home with Thurman Tell, minister, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

CC Member Drive Set For Monday

Members of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Monday get out their "geiger counters" for the kick-off of the annual membership drive of the C of C.

Prospectors, divided into 21 teams, will attend a kick-off breakfast at 7:15 a.m. in the Pampa Hotel. Two winning "prospectors" will receive an expense paid week end of baseball in Kansas City.

The two top teams will each select one from their group who will receive the expense paid tour to Kansas City for a week end of big league baseball.

Winners will leave on a Friday of their selection on the "San Francisco Chief" with first class accommodations. They will arrive in Kansas City in time for the first game on Saturday, spending the night in one of the city's leading hotels. The pair will remain for the Sunday game, and then take the train arriving back in Pampa Monday at 8:30 a.m.

The board of directors of the chamber will meet at 10 a.m. Friday in the C of C offices to work out the details of the membership competition, and final arrangements for the expense-paid tour.

Work on the pool has included repainting and the installation of some new facilities in the water treatment plant. The pool has been cleaned up and some of the pool's equipment has been replaced.

Although no date has been set for the opening of the pool, Cowan said that it should be around the first of June.

any garbage collection in the city. Some outlying communities in Gray County have received considerably heavier rainfall than Pampa. McLean and Alanreed reported during the past 24 hours an "inundation" of over 4 inches, and a total of 9 inches for the month of May.

Highway conditions are reported as good by the Highway Maintenance Department. Bus and train schedules were apparently unaffected. It was reported by the maintenance Department that a crew was available to pull anyone out who gets stuck in a strip just east of town between the city limits and Recreation Park, an area which is under construction.

Water is not over the Highways, but they are generally muddy. On U.S. 66 in the southern part of the county crews were reported cleaning out washed in dirt in low places.

Long Flight Of Jets Points To Progress Of Defense Setup

By CHARLES M. MCCANN United Press Foreign Analyst

The flight of four American fighter-bomber planes from Japan to Australia points up the amazing progress of allied defense organization in that part of the world.

It was a dramatic illustration of American striking power—and it ought to make both the Chinese Communists and the Russian Communists do some thinking.

Dispatches emphasized that the planes could have carried atom bombs.

The Thunderjets flew 4,820 miles from Tokyo to a point near Sydney, Australia.

Though they were refueled three times in the air by tanker planes, it is still interesting to note that the distance from New York to Moscow is 4,665 miles.

Weak Once Before

Pearl Harbor day found the defenses of the Western world in the vast Pacific Ocean area woefully weak and completely unorganized. Australians and New Zealanders then—and also Americans and Canadians on the Pacific Coast—had long been alert to what was then called the yellow peril.

Grand Jury Session Set

District Atty. Bill Waters said today that a special session of the Gray County Grand Jury would be called "within a week" after the conclusion of the Fred Williams murder trial scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Monday in 21st District Court.

Williams is charged with the Feb. 23 murder of Oran J. Payne, Pampa laundry operator. Dusty Miller, Amarillo attorney, will defend Williams.

Little Publicity

The meeting was secret and little publicized. But it was one of obvious importance.

The United States striking power which the Tokyo-Sydney jets illustrated has been shown also by the Seventh Fleet.

In the evacuation of the Chinese Nationalist garrison and thousands of civilians from the Tachen Islands, and in the evacuation of Indo-Chinese civilians from Communist northern Viet Nam, the Seventh Fleet showed what it can do in a cold war.

It was certainly not because he thought the United States was weak in that area that Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-Lai made his offer at the Asia-Pacific conference at Bandung to negotiate directly on problems which are causing tension.

The jet flight should make Chou and his fellow Reds less inclined to start anything.

Unsalariated Senate Hears Filibuster

AUSTIN—UP—All work in the unsalaried Senate ground to a halt Wednesday as Sen. Kilmer Corbin dined; with the help of a fellow West Texan, toward the 20-hour mark of a filibuster against a statewide, tax-levying water conservation program.

He protested two provisions of the proposed constitutional amendment as reported out by a House-Senate conference committee.

1. Levying of maximum three cents per $100 valuation statewide ad valorem tax to help finance the $100 million dam-building program set out in the amendment;

2. A provision empowering the governor to appoint members of a water development board to administer the program.

The tax, said the Lubbock senator when he started his filibuster at 2:35 p.m. Tuesday, "is vicious, it's atrocious. It's permanent. It's everlasting and it's on everybody."

He contended that those who benefit from the dams, or those who use natural resources, should be taxed.

Appointment of the water development board by the governor, he said, would ultimately open the way to one-man rule of the Texas water conservation program.

"Why don't we let the governor appoint the legislature?" he shouted at one point.

Even as Corbin launched his tirade, a backwash of discontent was eddying through the Senate over both the House-Senate conference committee report on the mammoth, record-sized $1.5 billion spending program and a Senate sub-committee report of a new tax bill to raise the extra $58 million needed to close the spending bill and anticipated revenue from current state money sources.

Mostly Corbin read aloud—long passages from three books on the history of Texas—entitled "Early Days in Texas," "Texas the Lone Star State" and "Texas—the Story of the Lone Star State"—and from two pamphlets, a report by the Board of State Water Engineers and a brochure on water resources of Texas.

He still had something of an audience at 1 a.m.: Sen. A. M. Alkin Jr., of Paris, who was presiding; Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, who came onto the floor for a while to listen; and Sens. William Moore

Harry Is Saving Up

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—UP—Former President Harry S. Truman apologized as he addressed a joint session of the Missouri Legislature because "when I spoke to you the last time... I promised the next time I would make a bang-up political speech."

"I want to save that effort for the 1956 campaign," Mr. Truman added.

He appeared before Missouri legislators Tuesday. He previously spoke at a joint session on May 12, 1953.

The former President, in his speech Tuesday, defended his foreign policy decisions while the nation's chief executive and said if he were called upon to do it over, "I would make the same decisions again."

He warned that U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations would be a "preparation for a third world war and the destruction of the world." The UN, Mr. Truman said, is "our only hope for peace."

"These new models check out okay on the track—of course we've got to see what the parking garage boys can do to 'em!"

FIREMAN COOKS — Lewis Shelton, a Pampa fireman, is shown opening a can of peaches prior to making a peach cobbler for the firemen's dinner. Shelton learned to make the cobbler from his mother and says the firemen "really go for it." He is one of several firemen who take turns making the meals. (News Photo)

This Is My Dish Fireman Lewis Shelton Makes Peach Cobbler

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

Among Pampa's many fine cooks are the men. Although most of the male cooks specialize in outdoor barbecues, there is a group to whom cooking is an asset while they're "on the job." These are Pampa's firemen.

On duty each day are seven firemen, plus Chief Ernest Winborne, who eat two meals a day in the firehouse. One of the men who has been helping with the meals for a year and a half is Lewis Shelton.

"We swap around every once in a while," he advised, confiding that he'd rather cook than do the dishes. And since some of the men don't like to cook, those that do take turns.

Shelton stated that the average meal for the firemen is "just simple, good food" like fried steak or fried chicken, creamed potatoes, gravy, salad, ranch-style beans and "something like peach cobbler" for dessert.

"If they can have steak or chicken with something else to go with it, they're satisfied," Shelton pointed out. "At home we have to eat what the wife cooks, but up here we kind of eat what we want to. We change it up a little, but that's the main go here."

A Pampan since 1933, Shelton was born and reared in Texas. He has been a fireman for 2 1/2 years and worked at the air base for six years prior to that time. He lives with his wife and two children at 330 N. Christy. He has a son, 22, and a daughter, 16. Both he and his wife are native Texans.

When at home, Shelton cooks some, he stated, and has been doing so for many years. One of his specialties is peach cobbler, which he learned to make from his mother.

"The men here really go for it," he added. "It's a pretty good filling with steak and chicken."

PEACH COBBLER
1 large can of peaches (1 lb. 12 oz.)
Remove Hash from can whole and cut into four slices. Drain Lima Beans and place over and around Hash in baking dish. Melt butter and add flour. Add milk slowly and stir as mixture thickens. Blend in cheese. Pour sauce over Lima Beans and Hash and bake for 30 minutes in oven 350 degrees F. Four servings.

1 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 inch of nutmeg
Put in a pan and heat. For the crust, Shelton uses a pie crust mix, with which he lines the bottom of a casserole. He then pours the peach mixture, and covers with a top crust. Bake for about 30 minutes in a moderate (350 degree) oven. Pour 1/2 stick of melted butter over the top and serve.

Doughnuts, Chicken Recipes Are Given

Here are two fine recipes fried in a new type of shortening. They are mashed potato doughnuts and quick fried chicken.

MASHED POTATO DOUGHNUTS
2 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon melted golden Fluff

1/2 cup mashed potatoes
Golden Fluff for deep frying
Mix together flour, baking powder, salt, sugar and nutmeg. Combine egg, milk and golden Fluff, add to dry ingredients with mashed potatoes. Mix until smooth. Roll out 1/2" dough on lightly floured board to 1/2" thickness; cut with doughnut cutter. Fry in deep hot golden Fluff heated to 365 degree F., turning to brown both sides 3-5 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. If desired, roll in confectioner's sugar or a mixture of granulated sugar and cinnamon. Makes 18-20.

QUICK FRIED CHICKEN
1 frying chicken (cut in pieces)
1/2 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
golden fluff for deep frying
Combine flour, salt and pepper; roll chicken pieces in this mixture. Fry a few pieces at a time in deep hot golden fluff heated to 365 degrees F. 8-10 minutes. Yields 4 servings.

Sao Paulo, mushrooming at the rate of 35 new buildings a day, now is challenging Brazil's largest city, Rio de Janeiro, home of 2,650,000 people. It hopes eventually to surpass Buenos Aires, Argentine capital and South America's largest city.

Roll It Up For The Party

Informal party? Often the best! Especially if the refreshments are as simple as this cake roll, which you proudly serve as homemade. In the morning bake your hot chocolate sponge cake; right before party-time, make a filling of Coconut Cream Instant Pudding — the newest busy-day dessert — spread over cake and roll up as for a jelly roll. Sprinkle powdered sugar over lace paper doily for topping.

Party Roll-Up
1 cup cold milk
1/2 cup cold light cream
1 1/2 x 10-inch chocolate sponge cake
1 package coconut cream instant pudding mix
Pour milk and cream into mixing bowl. Add pudding mix and beat with egg beater 1 minute, or until well mixed. Let stand until set — takes about 5 minutes. Just before using, stir filling until creamy. Spread on cake and roll up as for jelly roll.

Savory Lamb Dish Armenian Favorite

Here's a savory lamb dish that will brighten your menu and win you enthusiastic praise for its wonderful flavor. Long a favorite with Armenians, this easily prepared recipe takes advantage of tender, inexpensive cuts of Texas lamb.

LAMB AND LIMA BEANS, ARMENIAN STYLE
1 pound lean ground Lamb
2 T salad or cooking oil
1 medium-size onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
2 cups cooked dry lima beans (1 1/2 cups uncooked)
1 1/2 cups sliced zucchini
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
2 teaspoons salt
1 bay leaf, if desired
What to do:
Brown lamb in oil, stirring frequently with fork to keep meat separated in small pieces.
Add onion and garlic and cook until onion is yellow and transparent.
Stir in the drained cooked lima beans, the sliced zucchini, strained tomatoes and seasonings. Simmer, uncovered, for about 40 minutes.

If desired, fresh tomatoes may be used, adding about 1 1/2 cups of water, or just enough to barely cover ingredients. If mixture becomes too dry, add more water as needed.
Makes 5 or 6 servings

Old-Time Favorite Made Up-To Date

Stew, an old-time favorite, can be brought up-to-date for any modern homemaker's dinner party. This stew, with its carefully selected seasonings, makes an elegant main course for a guest dinner or family celebration.

Company Meat Stew
1 pound beef stew meat
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper
3 medium onions, sliced
3 tablespoons fat
1 1/2 cups tomato juice
1 cups bouillon
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 cup sour cream
1 small can mushrooms (optional)
Cut beef into one-half inch cubes and roll in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Brown meat and onions in hot fat. Add tomato juice, bouillon and sugar. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours or until tender. Add sour cream, mushrooms, and salt and pepper to suit taste. Serve on cooked rice or buttered noodles.

Younger Set Likes Tempting Desserts

If your teenage daughter entertains her crowd often you need a good reserve of party refreshment ideas for her. These young cooks enjoy easy-to-prepare recipes with just enough "fuss" to make them fun. That's why prepared mixes are so wonderful for them to use.

Flavored freezing mix for instance, is perfect for year-round party refreshments. It takes just minutes to whip up a batch of smooth ice cream. But, best of all, it needs no second beating — it's ready to freeze in fancy molds or refrigerator tray.

COCONUT STICKS

1 cup heavy cream
1 cup milk
1 pkg. vanilla-freezing mix
1/2 cup shredded coconut, cut fine
1 pkg. frozen strawberries, thawed
Combine milk and cream in a deep bowl. Whip until a deep layer of foam forms — takes 1 to 2 minutes. Add contents of package of freezing mix. Whip 1 more minute to dissolve. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze until firm, but not too hard. Cut ice cream in slices 1 to 1 1/2" wide. Roll in shredded coconut. Return to freezing compartment until ready to serve.

For each serving, garnish 2 coconut sticks with a generous helping of strawberries.

CHOCOLATE MACAROON PIE

1 cup heavy cream
1 cup milk
1 pkg. chocolate freezing mix
1 2-3 cups crumbled coconut bar cookies
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter
Whipped cream
Toasted coconut
Combine cream and milk in a deep bowl. Whip until a deep layer of foam forms — takes 1 to 2 minutes. Add contents of package of freezing mix. Whip 1 more minute to dissolve. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze until firm, but not too hard.

While ice cream freezes, make coconut crust. Mix crumbled coconut bars, sugar and butter thoroughly. Press into 9" pie pan. Chill.

1/2 cup tomato juice
1 cup bouillon
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 cup sour cream
1 small can mushrooms (optional)
Cut beef into one-half inch cubes and roll in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Brown meat and onions in hot fat. Add tomato juice, bouillon and sugar. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours or until tender. Add sour cream, mushrooms, and salt and pepper to suit taste. Serve on cooked rice or buttered noodles.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Lamb rib chop.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?
A. It is from the rib section of the lamb and contains the rib bone and rib eye muscle.

Q. How is it prepared?
A. Usually by broiling or panbroiling, but it may also be panfried. For broiling, the oven regulator is set to broil. The chops are placed on the broiler rack. The broiler pan and rack are inserted so the top of 1-inch chops is 2 inches from the heat and 2-inch chops is 3 inches from the heat. When one side is browned, the chops are seasoned, turned and cooked on the second side. Then the second side is seasoned and the chops are served immediately.

A Party Treat For Teenagers

Hamburgers are an undisputed favorite with teenagers and broiled deviled hamburgers are a party treat they'll really "go for."

Broiled Deviled Hamburgers
1 pound ground beef
4 tablespoons catsup
1 1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard
2 teaspoons horseradish
2 teaspoons minced onion
1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
6 hamburger buns
Combine meat and seasonings. Split buns and toast outer surfaces under the broiler. Spread cut sides with meat mixture. Return to the broiler and broil about six minutes, having meat surface about three inches from the unit. (Buns may be untoasted, but toasting gives each snack a crisp touch.) 6 servings.

Canned Vegetables Make Casseroles

Canned vegetables retain a high degree the nutritive value of raw products.

Since some of the vitamins and minerals do dissolve in water, to save food values, use the syrup or liquid in which the vegetables are packed. The syrup or liquid may be used in casseroles, dishes, soups, sauces and beverages.

Canned foods should be stored in a cool, dry, dark place.

CROWNED HASH
2 deviled eggs
1 can (15 oz.) Corned Beef Hash
1-3 cup Chili Sauce
Prepare deviled egg halves using your favorite recipe. Remove Hash from can and cut into four slices. Place in a greased baking dish and top with Chili Sauce. Bake in oven 400 degrees F. for about 10 minutes. Arrange one deviled egg half on each slice of Hash. Makes 4 servings.

HASH N' LIMAS
1 can (15 oz.) Corned Beef Hash
1 can (16 oz.) Lima Beans
2 Tablespoons butter
2 Tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 cup grated cheese

Senate Action Asked On State Billion-Dollar Spending Plans

AUSTIN --UP-- The chairman of the Senate Finance committee said Wednesday he would call for upper house action as early as Thursday on a billion-dollar state spending program, reported out of conference committee.

House financial leaders doubted, however, that the record-sized $1.52 billion bill would be brought up for a vote in the lower chamber before Monday.

And even as Sen. Crawford March of Hillsboro, the Senate Finance committee head, proposed prompt disposal of the bill there was free talk in Senate corridors of additional filibusters.

As the spending bill was reported by the joint Senate-House conference committee, a Senate subcommittee proposed increased taxes to raise an estimate $58 million in new revenue to pay for the appropriations specified in the money bill.

There was open grumbling in the Senate about both measures. The $1.52 billion spending program for the next two fiscal years can draw only about $210 million from the dwindling general revenue fund.

There is a gap of $58 million between proposed spending and income.

It was to meet this gap that the Senate State Affairs subcommittee, in its tax bill report, proposed new one-cent increases in the state cigarette and gasoline taxes and new levies on certain chemicals, department stores, hotels, airlines and contract carriers.

"In our opinion," said Sen. Rudolph Weibert of Seguin, chairman of the subcommittee, "the bill raises sufficient revenue to meet the requirements."

The appropriations conferees recommended this spending program from the general revenue fund: Judiciary system, $7 million; hospitals and special schools, $50 million; state departments, $38 million; junior colleges, $7.8 million; and higher education, $93 million.

Doctor And Wife Are Found -- Soaking

AUSTIN --UP-- A missing Houston doctor and his wife were found Wednesday morning, soaking wet and hungry, but otherwise in no worse condition from spending the night marooned on a thickly wooded shore of Lake Travis.

The couple, Dr. and Mrs. William E. Kirkpatrick, were located at 8:30 a. m., about two miles from the fishing camp they left late Tuesday.

They had shivered through a night of wind, hail and rain so treacherous that rescue boats had to call off their search until dawn. The missing couple was found by Bill Brill, operator of a camp on the lake and a cousin of Mrs. Kirkpatrick.

"It has been a real cold night," Dr. Kirkpatrick managed to grin after their rescue.

These appropriations represent increases in all cases except that of the judiciary system, which received a cut due to transfer of $360,000 to the employes retirement system which now will administer judges' retirement.

Panty Raid Causes Two Oustings

STILLWATER, Okla.--UP--Two Oklahoma A&M College students were expelled, eight were suspended and 14 others placed on probation for participating last Thursday night in a panty raid for which campus Fire Chief Ray Davidson partially blamed "some scantily-clad co-eds."

The three-hour melee was quelled at 1:30 a. m. (est) Friday by firemen and police working in riot formations. Several women's dormitories were damaged, college spokesmen said.

It was estimated that about 2,000 students, one-third of the male Oklahoma A&M enrollment, was milling around. Only about 500 actually participated in the panty raiding, however, with the rest just following along and watching.

Some of the 24 students who were disciplined Tuesday on recommendation of a student government committee were women, the spokesman said, but he refused to specify how many co-eds were involved.

Davidson and others who fought down the riot blamed "some scantily-clad co-eds" they said stood in upper dormitory windows and encouraged the unruly men students.

Weldon Barnes, official college spokesman, said the inquiry into the incident is continuing. So far, he said, two students have been expelled outright, three suspended from attending Oklahoma A&M for one year, four suspended for one semester, one suspended from graduating for one year and 14 others placed on committee probation for periods ranging from one semester to the end of their college studies.

U.S. Beats Texas In A Unique Case
SAN ANTONIO --UP-- The United States won a unique case in which the state of Texas was prosecutor and the federal government the defendant.

It involved two U. S. border patrolmen, Robert A. MacDaniel and James W. Carter, stationed at Carizo Springs, who were charged by the state with beating up and kicking an aged rancher.

A federal jury in the court of U. S. District Judge Ben H. Rice, Jr., Tuesday acquitted the border patrolmen of the assault and assault and battery counts.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read John 17:1-5

Jesus is the lord of life. Among the Greeks, for whom John's Gospel was written, the word "life" had a special meaning. It meant much more than mere physical existence. Rather it meant that indefinable thing we call "the spirit of man" which exists independently of his body. To the Greeks, who thought thus, there was particular significance in the words, "This is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent."

In spite of their glorification of beauty the Greeks held the body under a grave suspicion which amounted almost to fear. "The flesh," they said, "always limits the spirit, preventing it from being spirit and realizing its spiritual possibilities."

Salvation was nothing more than an escape from the body. Their philosophers made desperate efforts to think up some way in which this might be done, so that the spirit of man might declare its independence of the body even while occupying it. The author of the Fourth Gospel boldly declared that if one believed as Jesus taught him to believe he would be emancipated.

Translated into modern terms that mean, that life at its best is reserved for those who live according to the spiritual laws Jesus taught. The greatest freedom any person can enjoy is that which comes to those who, having brought all the resources of their life under a single command, live in harmony with laws which govern in the spiritual realm.

The only liberty anyone knows, in any realm of life, comes as a result of obedience to law. This is why the truth makes us free. To understand this basic principle is to enter life, and "this is life eternal."

For the blessings that have come to me as a result of my obedience of thy laws I thank thee, O God. For the pain that has afflicted me as a result of my disobedience I acknowledge responsibility. Even now thou art seeking to persuade me away from wrong. Amen.

Face this question honestly: Has your religion failed you because it was not true, or have you failed to make it work because you have not been able to summon yourself to live courageously according to your beliefs? Has your religion failed or have you failed?

Escapee Gets Only 15 Miles

TRINIDAD, Colo., —UP— James E. Crain, a parole violator wanted in Los Angeles who jumped from a speeding train to escape an officer, got only 15 miles Tuesday before he was recaptured in a Trinidad cafe.

Crain, 28, leaped from a west-bound Santa Fe train near Wootton, Colo., shortly after he and Deputy Sheriff R. C. White of Los Angeles had left Raion, N.M.

Crain was being taken from the Missouri penitentiary, where he recently finished a three-year term for forgery, to answer parole violation and forgery charges in Los Angeles. White said his prisoner leaped from the train while his back was turned.

Crain, uninjured by his tumble from the train, hiked or hitched a ride from Wootton to Trinidad. He was spotted by an unidentified citizen who had heard of the escape, and within minutes police had taken Crain into custody without a fight.

Crain was returned to Raton and White's custody, to resume the journey to Los Angeles.

J. E. Smith, Veteran News Editor, Dies

DENVER —UP— Joseph Emerson Smith, who at 23 was said to have been the youngest city editor of a metropolitan daily in the United States at the turn of the century, died at his Denver home Tuesday.

He was 78. Smith became city editor of the Rocky Mountain News in 1900 after serving as a reporter on the Denver Post.

He once was scheduled to interview William Jennings Bryan at Denver, but a snow storm held him to a cabin near Bailey, Colo. However, Smith covered his body with kerosene to prevent frostbite and hiked the 55 miles for the interview.

He was refused admittance to Bryan's quarters because of the odor of kerosene, but was later able to talk his way in.

Smith and his wife, the former Eudochia Morrow Bell of San Antonio, Tex., were compiling their personal history of Colorado before his death. However, Mrs. Smith, a former member of the Colorado legislature, said she would continue the task herself.

Smith served as managing editor of the Pueblo Star-Journal before he went to San Antonio in 1909 to become managing editor and editor of two papers there.

Funeral services will be held at Denver Friday. He was survived by his wife and a sister, Mrs. H.C. Lane of San Antonio.

U.S. Probing Galveston Housing Job

GALVESTON, Tex. —UP— The federal government is investigating charges of corruption in the Galveston Housing Authority, Assistant U. S. District Attorney Gordon Kroll said Wednesday.

Kroll said the government is looking into charges that authority workers and materials were used to repair and paint houses of city officials.

The federal attorney said the investigation was started at the request of individual citizens. But the Mayor — Elected George Roy Clough during his recent campaign — Clough took over Wednesday as Galveston's mayor, succeeding Herbert Y. Cartwright.

Clough, during his campaign, produced tape-recorded statements from three former Galveston Housing Authority workers who said they were assigned to work on private jobs for Galveston city officials.

After the charge, local housing commissioners made a hurried investigation of their own and said they could find "no evidence" to support Clough's accusations.

"We are investigating possible use of public materials and labor by Galveston housing authority," Kroll said. "Our investigation is not aimed at any particular person."

L. Walter Henslee is director of the Galveston Housing Authority.

CONTROL PLAN

The government's long-awaited voluntary control plan for distribution of Salk polio vaccine was made public Monday. It recommends a $28,000,000 federal fund to assure that every needy child will be vaccinated free. Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby is shown submitting a blueprint of plan to President Eisenhower at White House before it was made public. Standing are Asst. HEW Secy. Most opera singers would be caught dead (or worse, off-key) before they had a good word to say about popular music. Not Salvatore Baccaloni, the big basso-buffo for the net and Allegro-Royale records.

"I sing popular stuff for my concert encores," he says. (He even sings "Bibbidi-Bobbidi-Boo," and coming out of a basso, that's like Lily Pons singing "Dance With Me, Henry.") "I think that 95 per cent of concert audiences like it. So, at encore time, it's about time I sing something for the 95 per cent."

As for himself, "I sing what I like — it's all music." His latest record has "Bibbidi-Bobbidi-Boo" and "Old Man River" salted in among the arias and Italian songs. The 95 per cent love it.

Piper Laurie's grandmother (who admits to being 29) (but is older) suddenly began disappearing from her home in the afternoons. Her family worried, but all grandma would say was she was going to school. At last, she said she'd tell them what she was studying "when I'm finished and can do it."

One night she called the family together, and appeared with a tremendous package. She disappeared into the den, and came out again — carrying an accordion. At 29 (plus) she'd mastered the intricate instrument. She played "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes." Piper says, it was a wonderful moment.

Paul Lynde finds humor in the little things in life — such as a woman being eaten by a lion or a man being pushed off a tall building. His very special brand of comedy is something (a) he can't help and (b) he thinks is good for his career.

As a child in Mount Vernon, O., Paul says his friends all seemed to be amused by macabre events. And so it was natural for him when he went on to college at Northwestern, to dream up macabre comedy routines for the college shows. He's still using some of those today.

(Incidentally, Northwestern is getting to be quite a talent developer; in school with Lynde were Charlton Heston, Patricia Neal, Ralph Meeker, Jean Hagen, Charlotte Rae, Cloris Leachman and Jeff Hunter, among others.)

Paul's most famous routine he calls simply "Africa." He used it in the stage and movie versions of "New Faosa." He comes out, all bandaged, to tell about his trip to Africa, and all the gloriously gory things that occurred. If you like your humor shuddery, this is for you.

He's also appeared regularly on the Red Buttons Show and many other TV shows, and is in the cast of the revue at the Versailles night club. His night club work is trying, because he can be a smash one night and a bomb the next.

"My routine," he says, "appeals to a certain audience. Some nights nobody laughs. In my Africa number, I have a line about the 'dirty Nile.' Naturally, it's supposed to be funny. Once an Egyptian delegate saw my act and came up afterwards. He didn't get it at all. He was very angry. 'Why do you say the Nile?' he asked. 'Why not the Seine?' in Africa!"

But he still does the same routines. And he thinks it's good for a comedian to be typed. He says if he does his act without "Africa," people will complain. They've seen it before, but they want to see it again.

It doesn't lend itself to regular TV, though. There'll be no Paul Lynde Show, if he can help it. "I'm 28," he says. "I don't want to be finished when I'm 29."

"Damn Yankees" is a gay, lighthearted musical. Broadway's newest hit as Ray Walston and Gwen Verdon as the Devil and his sexy halper, with Stephen Douglass and Jimmie Komack outstanding as ball-players. To a Dodger fan, it seems odd to waste so much talent on the American League, but that's a minor objection. The show will appeal to Dodger fans, too.

One major objection — composers Jerry Ross and Dick Adler have tried a little too obviously to repeat their success with "Pajama Game." Many of the songs and situations are repetitive. Twice is OK, but let's think up something new for next time. However, "Damn Yankees" is a solid hit, — to right center.

Dick's Quickie: A hula dance, as defined by Steve Allen: "Harvest one crop of grass and place it on the right hip. Then Harvest another crop and place it on the left hip. Then rotate the crops."

Roar Missing

After fertilizing the eggs of the female salmon, the male, figuring that life is over for him, dies. Male insects also follow this morbid instinct.

Is there resemblance between these self-deprecating creatures and the American father? An article in Cosmopolitan says there is. It thinks that the popular cartoon portrayals of Dad as well-meaning, but bumbling half-wit, are an accurate measure of the low esteem for him. It quotes this comment of a noted anthropologist: "In few societies is the role of father more vestigial than in the United States."

If the American father has renounced his rights in his own home, we don't wonder one bit. No other man in the world has been so harassed by talk of his family's rights.

To begin with, he has been trained as an American to hate tyranny. So when the feminists called him tyrannical for refusing equal political rights to his wife, he got so nervous he gave her any right she wanted to claim.

Then along came the child psychologists with their demands for the rights of his children. When everybody's rights were finally settled, Dad woke up to find he hadn't any.

He's been solving his problem the only way he could. He's made himself cellar workshops, taken up hobbies gone on fishing trips and joined men's clubs. He's made himself as scarce as possible from the home that regarded the good, old self assertive masculine roar as infringement on other people's rights.

Some people connect that banished roar to our statistics on divorce, juvenile delinquency and effeminacy.

As there's nothing like that banished, baritone roar for clearing homes of the sticky, overconscientious female emotionalism that drives mothers to make big productions out of nothing, it's badly missed.

Nor has it helped that Dad performs his works as a man away from home these days. Time was when his woman and children saw him in conquering action. They saw him hew logs into fences, gentle the mare, make the trade at the store and come back swinging when frost hit the crop he was counting on.

No more. Though Dad may be expressing the same resourcefulness and courage every day of his life, the person who sees him in conquering action is his secretary. The respect which his work as a man should be building in his wife and children is built into a stranger who doesn't need it.

The other day a psychiatrist said: "Today it is hard to be a man."

It's going to get ever harder if fathers don't start reclaiming some of those rights they've handed over to their wives and children.

THE NATION'S PRESS

A TENDER SPOT FOR SECURITY RISKS

(Chicago Daily Tribune)

The United Nations administrative tribunal of the International Labor organization has decreed that the American director general of the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural organization must reinstate three dismissed American employees or pay them damages of $43,800. The three were booted out by Luther Evans, their UNESCO boss, for refusing to appear before a United States loyalty board.

The U. N. tribunal held, in substance, that it makes no difference whether American citizens employed by U. N. or its agencies are loyal to their own country or answer questions when called as witnesses, inasmuch as national patriotism does not enter into their relationship with an international organization.

That agrees with the doctrine stated by U. N. last October that the U. N. job holder owes a primary loyalty to U. N., not his country.

The decision, again, followed a similar ruling handed down by another U. N. administrative tribunal in the firing of 11 Americans who were cited in a complaint by the United States government as disloyal or security risks. In that case, those who lost their jobs were awarded $180,000, and the International Court of Justice at Hague, judicial organ of U. N., upheld the ruling of the administrative tribunal.

In the present case, Dr. Evans acted last December to get rid of David Liff, Peter Duberg, and Mrs. Anette Wilcox. All three were stationed in Europe. Liff originally was subpoenaed to appear before a federal grand jury in New York investigating subversive activities, but refused, from Paris, to honor the subpoena, contending that his international status as a U. N. employee absolved him of any duty of this sort. He was cited for contempt of court, but, again, a U. N. administrative tribunal backed him up in his contention that he could not be forced to come home.

The result of this series of rulings is to advance a U. N. doctrine that any American citizen shielded by employment with U. N. is relieved of any obligation of loyalty to the United States or any necessity to discharge his responsibilities as a citizen. U. N. thus asserts in its own behalf that it exercises a sort of super-sovereignty enabling it to bind all of its constituent member states, such as the United States, to its mandates, and that this authority transmitted to its agencies, like UNESCO, renders them supreme over American laws, courts, and the federal government itself.

We do not see how the United States can tolerate a challenge of that kind to its sovereignty authority for to do so is to admit that this country has no authority or control over its own citizens.

The wife who drives from the back seat isn't any worse than the husband who cooks from the dining-room table.

U. S. Supreme Court Rewrites the Constitution

I was amazed to learn that the Supreme Court of Wisconsin had upheld a zoning law in Wauwatosa that prevented the Lutherans from building a high school in the city.

Wauwatosa is a town of 33,000 population adjacent to Milwaukee. I have been losing faith in the leaders of our country and in the Supreme Court, but when the U. S. Supreme Court refused to hear this decision in Wisconsin, I had another terrible shock as to the rapidity with which we are adopting the Old World philosophy that the state is supreme and the individual is nothing.

It seems that the City Council of Wauwatosa framed a zoning ordinance which permitted a public high school but excluded a Lutheran high school on the ground that the private school imposes on the community all the disadvantages of the public school but does not compensate the community in the same manner on to the same extent.

With that as a background, the U. S. Supreme Court has refused to reconsider the decision "for want of a substantial federal question."

One wonders what the Supreme Court regards as a substantial federal question.

One cannot help but wonder how the Supreme Court interprets the 14th Amendment, of which Section 1 reads:

"All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

And this Wauwatosa case is not the end. The city of Piedmont, California, has referred to the State Supreme Court the rebuff it received from the Court of Appeals when its zoning commission sought to exclude a Catholic parish school from the East Bay district. It is to be hoped, of course, that the State Supreme Court of California will not reverse the decision of the Court of Appeals and prevent a religious institution from establishing a school. This is especially important since undoubtedly the Supreme Court of the United States would not hear the Piedmont case if the State Supreme Court did decide that the Catholic school should be prevented from being built in the city.

It will be remembered that the U. S. Supreme Court also refused to hear the Mary Turner case, who wanted to educate her own children, and which was petitioned to hear it on the above section of Amendment 14.

It is hard to believe that keeping any group of parents, like the Lutherans, or Catholics or Seventh Day Adventists, or libertarians from having the right to build and operate a high school in a city is not a violation of liberty. It seems to me it is the exact opposite from liberty and a form of tyranny of the worst kind. If there is anything that a citizen who believes in the ethics of the Jewish-Christian religions wants it is that his children have an opportunity to learn that "Reverence for the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." And they cannot be reverent to the Lord unless they understand the ethical and moral principles as set forth in the Commandments and the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

If Section 1 of the 14th Amendment does not include religious liberty, which certainly includes the right to teach it as set forth in the First Amendment, then it means nothing. Remember the First Amendment says:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof..."

And the 14th Amendment attempted to prevent any state from violating this guarantee that the citizens of each state are not to have their inalienable rights abridged by the various states, and that it would also seem that the U. S. Supreme Court should hear this Wisconsin case under Section 4 of Article IV, which reads:

"The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government."

If the representatives of the majority in a community or a state can take away from parents their right to voluntarily join together and build and operate a school that will educate their children to believe that there are no exceptions to the ethics of the Golden Rule and the Ten Commandments, then that state certainly does not have a republican form of government. A republican form of government means, as the word implies, that there are some things that pertain to the public and some things that pertain to the consciences of the individuals. And certainly the eternal laws grant parents the divine right to educate their children and not be obliged to make them wards of the state, as this Supreme Court decision of Wisconsin makes the children, and as the U. S. Supreme Court by its refusal to hear the case endorses the belief that children are the wards of the state.

One wonders just how much difference there now is, with these new Supreme Court decisions, between our form of government and that of the Russians and the Chinese, that we are fighting.

It seems very foolish for us to

Administration Criticised For Botching Vaccine Deal

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's chain-of-command system of operating the Federal Government has been subjected to serious and solemn criticism because it contributed to botching the handling of two of the most important problems of the day — manufacture and distribution of the Salk vaccine, and the application of atomic energy to peacetime use at home and abroad.

The Federal failure with respect to the anti-polio vaccine could have been prevented, it is now admitted, if the Administration had assumed control over this medical discovery as soon as Dr. Jonas Salk and his associates concluded on the basis of last year's tests that they had virtually perfected their product. This was the program adopted in Canada, with none of the delays and difficulties experienced in this country.

Instead, Washington stood supinely aside and permitted a theatrical build-up and ballyhoo which raised hopes that the original Francis-Salk report did not justify. Because of the spectacular publicity for which both public and private authorities were responsible, the American people did not read the "fine print" of the scientists' conclusions.

Washington's deliberate policy of aloofness had these results:

- (1) There was no assurance that there would be a sufficient supply for the most needy, who are the children in the first and second grades of school.
- (2) There was no guarantee that the vaccine had been so thoroughly tested that it would be foolproof, save for the 20 or 40 nonprotective percentage conceded by the scientists.
- (3) As the delays and rechecks prove, private and public authorities had not successfully bridged the gap between laboratory experiments and mass production by the drug companies.

The off-the-record explanation for the Administration's official indifference is Washington's preference for private enterprise versus Federal interference, for private versus Federal controls, and the fear of creating a Governmental bureaucracy in the medical field.

Canada, however, handled the problem from a Federal level without encountering any of these dangers. The nonprofit vaccine was bought up by Ottawa, with the provinces sharing half of the cost. Parents obtained it at a minimum price, whereas American manufacturing firms count on $20,000,000 in profits.

Last fall, the Canadian Government arranged for production of the vaccine by two nonprofit universities fighting all over the world while at the same time allowing our own liberties to be whittled away by decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Our real enemy, with decisions like this, is our own government, and not the governments on the other side of the world. Our danger lies at home, not abroad.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Inflammation of the urinary bladder is known medically as cystitis. The most common symptoms include the presence of pus in the urine, pain and frequent urination. When cystitis develops suddenly, as it often does, chills and fever are likely to be present. The victim may suffer from sleeplessness and loss of weight.

The kind which comes suddenly is known as acute cystitis, and the difficulty usually starts near the base of the bladder, but shows a tendency to spread to other parts of the lining membrane of this organ. The wall of the bladder becomes inflamed and is swollen and bright red in color. Regardless of whether it is caused by germs or by chemicals, the best treatment for acute cystitis is to try to find the exact cause and remove or treat it.

CHRONIC CYSTITIS, a condition in which there is a long-lasting inflammation of the wall of the bladder with perhaps pain at intervals and pus either constantly or off and on, is another common problem. This often follows acute cystitis.

In such cases expert study not only of the bladder itself, but of the surrounding tissues including the kidney, must be carried out. One important study can be made by using an instrument with lights and mirrors called a cystoscope. This is passed into the bladder through its external passageway so that the physician can look directly at the bladder wall.

AS A RULE CYSTITIS or inflammation of the bladder should be considered as a symptom of something wrong elsewhere rather than a disease in itself. With modern methods, and especially by treatment with some of the newer antibiotic preparations, most cases of cystitis can be brought under control.

SYMPTOMS OF CYSTITIS are not harmless and rarely go away by themselves. It is foolhardy to neglect them since serious complications can develop in time.

President Shoots Down Flying Saucer In News

BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Any idea that the United States will put a sizable contingent of American ground troops on Formosa for defense of the island has now been given permanent burial by President Eisenhower.

The President told his press conference that while the United States now has a MAAG — Military Assistance Advisory Group — on Formosa to train Chinese Nationalist troops, there has been no suggestion for a major American base on the island.

The President said he had thought of everything that might be needed out there, but he had no recommendation from anyone to make it a permanent station for American ground troops.

This should lay the ghost of that rumor, which has been floating around Washington rather conspicuously. The way these flying news saucers get launched sometimes border on the fantastic.

On Feb. 16, Joseph C. Harsch on Christian Science Monitor wrote a piece on the dangers of the administration's military cutbacks. As an illustration he cited the fact that these cutbacks would make it impossible for the United States to put a couple of divisions of ground troops on Formosa, if it were decided that should be done. He wrote:

"If ground troops of the U. S. Army were put ashore in Formosa and entrusted with the task of defending it, there can be little room for doubt that it would be defended effectively for as long as Washington was willing to leave those troops in the island..."

"Here is plainly a case where America can keep the peace by preventing the Communist from obtaining a prize without war. Whether the failure to hold Formosa would actually jeopardize the security of the United States is another matter. But it would be a loss in prestige which could be averted most effectively by American troops..."

This is apparently the first time this idea got out in the open. Mr. Harsch says now that he does not think he originated it, but just happened to hit on an idea which government officials also were considering.

For a month or more there was no reaction. Then one day in a private conversation with an official of the British embassy, Mr. Harsch learned that his idea had borne fruit and was being considered by the Pentagon.

At about the same time other reporters began to hear rumors that a proposal of this kind was in the works. But the rumor couldn't be pinned down, so nobody wrote it.

Then on April 29 the story came out. Press associations carried the report that unnamed sources in the State Department and the Pentagon were considering establishment of permanent American bases for Air, Marine or Army ground forces on Formosa.

The purpose was said to be to bolster Nationalist Chinese morale and to show the Chinese Communists that the United States meant business in defense of Formosa.

The reports were unquestionably justified at some intermediate level of government planning. But checks at the very top disclosed that Cabinet officers had never heard of the plan.

Four days later, when President Eisenhower was asked about it directly, he scotched the story completely.

For the United States to put ground troops on Formosa would, of course, be a reversal of every doctrine that has been advanced for defense of the island.

The big pitch of Chiang Kai-shek's supporters in the United States has always been that here were half a million Chinese Nationalist troops who were not being used. They have been pictured as raring to reconquer the mainland. All they would need would be a go-ahead signal, sea transportation and air support.

This is, of course, a far cry from the doctrine that it will now be necessary to put American forces on Formosa, just to defend the island.

Mrs. Noah Couldn't Have Packed Enough Suit Cases

By HENRY McLEMORE

If I were a skeptic out to tear down the story of Noah's Ark I would rest my case on one fact, and one alone.

I would simply point out that Mrs. Noah was along on the trip and that when she had finished packing the things she wanted to take along on a trip to last forty days and forty nights, there simply couldn't have been room for all those animals, even if every stateroom on the Ark had bunk-type beds.

As a husband I can easily picture the loading of the Ark, and suffer along with Noah as Mrs. Noah started packing the apparel she wimplily had to have for that long a cruise. And I can hear Noah vainly explaining that it was going to be a wet trip and that summery stuff, that there would be very few parties, if any, so the dressy clothes could be left behind, and that the two of them could get along with what they could put in one suitcase.

If there was any way to prove it, I'd like to bet that the last animal up the gangplank (unless it was Noah, himself) was an elephant, his trunk loaded with hat boxes, shoe boxes, and a couple of cumbersome plastic bags filled with dresses Mrs. Noah hadn't want to get wrinkled.

I'd also like to bet that Mrs. Noah didn't use a tenth of the stuff she took aboard, but that it hadn't been raining three hours before she started bemoaning several items she had overlooked and left at home.

I got to thinking of Noah and his woes, and sympathizing with him today when we decided to spend a few days with Mary's sister who doesn't live more than two tanks of gas away. It's a good thing we aren't taking any animals, not even a pair of anything as bulky as white mice, because if we were they'd have to sit on the hood, as the rest of the car is jammed with what Mary swears she needs for the 72-hour visit.

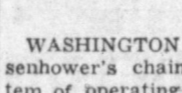

Take shoes, for example. Even if we were going to walk to her sister's, and the route lay over a desert covered with broken bottles, three pairs would seem to be ample. But just about every shoe she has to her name is going along. What she is going to do with them I wouldn't know, unless she plans to spend her nights throwing them at cats on the back fence.

A funny thing about a woman packing for a trip is that she sees no relation between the amount she takes for herself and the amount she packs for her husband. We are going to be together most of the time on this little visit, with me going where Mary goes and vice versa. But when it came time to pass for me she suddenly seemed to come under the delusion that we were going no farther than the village grocery store, or that I would be spending most of my time in a closet at her sister's.

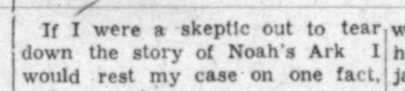

A couple of shirts, a tie or two, a change or two of socks and shorts, and an extra pair of slacks, is all I got in an airplane overnight bag. It's plenty, I grant you, but what's the use of her outfitting herself for any emergency from a fancy dress ball to an afternoon of water skiing, and sending me off with little more than a hobo could tie in his bandana?

Don't ask me why I didn't put my foot down and put a stop to all the unnecessary packing.

If you do, it proves you aren't married and don't know what you're talking about.

The CRACKER BARREL

Before Yalta, less than 200 million people were behind the Iron Curtain. Today, after two years of conferences, over 800 million are subjects of Communist tyranny. And now it is urged that Quemy and Matsui be handed over to the enemy. Why is it that our "conferences" so often and persistently followed the path of appeasement, forcing our friends and allies to give up territory? Why do these "compromises" never result in the Communists giving up anything for the sake of preserving the peace they claim to be so fond of?

ONE OF THE BIG PROBLEMS

for many mothers is getting the small fry to eat. Most children like to eat, but to some sitting still long enough to eat is a chore. Here are some helpful hints on making food or mealtime attractive to the children... and how to combat the "I-don't-want-to-eat-that" problem.

BY HEEDING STORM SIG-

nals one can avoid a deluge of small fry stubborn "No's" which may rival a hurricane for upsetting mealtime atmospheres. Knowing how to recognize the fore-runners of "table time storms" is almost a necessity for parents. Youngsters and appetites easily are parted — a fact to remember when otherwise healthy children daylie over food. The best food can fail to appeal if emotions are in a turmoil. Where meals are peaceful, stubborn feeding problems are not so apt to occur. The dining room should never turn into a court of appeals with fathers forced to play judge and mother is on the jury. Excitement of any kind — particularly anger, fear or other intense emotions — hinders digestion. The overly hungry, overly tired child does not enjoy his food. School-agers, constantly on the go,

BAUBY

Whatever tempting toys Baby is offered, he may tend to prefer kitchen implements. Pots and pans, strainers and big spoons seem to delight his noise-loving soul. Most of these tools can stand it with the exception of the strainer. Better give him that one and buy a new one for yourself. If you fear you may be caught away from home when Baby's mealtime comes around, take along his familiar spoon and cup in your handbag. He'll eat restaurant soup, hamburger and milk if he recognizes his own eating implements. Some mothers, desperately tired of spooning cereal into an uncooperative two-monther's mouth, mix the cereal thin and put it in a bottle with a big hole in the nipple. This may get the cereal into Baby, but it doesn't get him used to the spoon.

NEW YORK —UP— A total of 513 athletes from 47 colleges have been entered for the 79th annual intercollegiate AAAA track and field championships at Tri-Borough Stadium May 27 and 28.

Arnold Sewell of Pittsburgh, who equalled the world indoor 1,000-yard record last winter, is the standout individual entered.

Dallas Signs SMU Pitcher

DALLAS —UP— Tommy Bowers, 21-year-old Southern Methodist University right-hander has signed with the Dallas Eagles of the Texas League.

Bowers signed Wednesday, two days after the Mustangs closed out the 1955 Southwest Conference baseball player in history by SMU Publicity Director Lester Jordan, was named to the all-conference team in 1953 and 1954, and seems certain to be named again this season after posting an 8-3 record.

Bowers was an all-city pitcher with Dallas Crozier Tech in 1951. Among his eight conference victories were five shutouts, one a 17-inning stint, and two two-hitters.

Pampa News Sports Editor

AS YOU HAVE POSSIBLY NOTED, the Pampa boys baseball program is being expanded more than double of last year's program.

And, of course, this will take more funds to operate the program successfully.

Pampa merchants have done well in aiding the boys baseball program with their fine financial backing.

There will be 28 boys baseball teams in operation this summer. Last year there was only 12.

Sponsors for the 12 teams that operated last year are continuing to sponsor these same 12 teams this summer. That would be the eight teams in the Western and Eastern Little Leagues and the four teams in the Pony League.

will be equipped with regulation uniforms plus the usual equipment, catching gear, bats, helmets, protective helmets. Insurance will also be carried on the Teen Ager.

Needless to say, every cent put into this program is well spent.

The baseball program will enable some 600-700 boys to play baseball this summer.

Anyone who would sponsor a Minor League team in the Little League or Pony League or the Teen Age League, is asked to get in touch with Johnny Campbell, John Schofield, Virgil Clay or yours truly.

We would again like to commend the local merchants for their fine support of the boys baseball program here. Without their help the program couldn't be carried out.

At the latest count, nine sponsors had been located for the Minor League teams in LL and Pony League and three for the Teen Age League.

That leaves four more sponsors needed to complete the works, three in the Minor Leagues and one in the Teen Age League.

Sponsorship fee for the Minor League team is $60. The Minor Leaguers will be equipped with T shirts, caps, bats, balls, protective helmets and catching equipment plus insurance on all the boys.

Sponsorship fee for the Teen Age League is $300. The Teen Ager

This year there will be 12 additional teams in the Little League and Pony League program, all of which will be competing in the "Minor League."

These are the boys who weren't fortunate enough to land a spot on a regular team but who still want to play baseball.

Then there will be four teams organized in the Teen Age League. This league will take in boys ages 15 through 18.

will be equipped with regulation uniforms plus the usual equipment, catching gear, bats, helmets, protective helmets. Insurance will also be carried on the Teen Ager.

Needless to say, every cent put into this program is well spent.

The baseball program will enable some 600-700 boys to play baseball this summer.

Anyone who would sponsor a Minor League team in the Little League or Pony League or the Teen Age League, is asked to get in touch with Johnny Campbell, John Schofield, Virgil Clay or yours truly.

We would again like to commend the local merchants for their fine support of the boys baseball program here. Without their help the program couldn't be carried out.

At the latest count, nine sponsors had been located for the Minor League teams in LL and Pony League and three for the Teen Age League.

That leaves four more sponsors needed to complete the works, three in the Minor Leagues and one in the Teen Age League.

Sponsorship fee for the Minor League team is $60. The Minor Leaguers will be equipped with T shirts, caps, bats, balls, protective helmets and catching equipment plus insurance on all the boys.

Rain Postpones Oiler, LL, Pony, Golf Activity

OILER AVERAGES

All baseball and golf activity scheduled in Pampa this afternoon and tonight have been postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

The Oiler game with the Abilene Blue Sox, carded for Oiler Park tonight, has been washed out and will be made up later in the season.

It was the third time in four days the Oilers and Blue Sox were rained out in their series. The first rain-out was at Abilene Monday and then the games the past two nights had to be postponed.

All games in the Little League and Pony League today have also been postponed. These games, too, will be made up later in the season.

The Junior Golf Tournament, scheduled for the Pampa Country Club course Sunday, will still be held on that day unless the rains continue.

The Oilers will go to Amarillo tomorrow to open a two-day stand against the Gold Sox.

After the Gold Sox series, the Oilers will return home Sunday to open a three-game series with the Lubbock Hubbers.

Dick Hairston continues to lead the Oiler batsmen with a .449 average while Tom Pollet paces the pitchers with a 5-1 record.

The Oiler averages, shown at right, include all games played to date.

Ex-outfielder Hal Jeffcoat could land the Chicago Cubs in first division and himself in a fancy five-figure salary bracket all because he had sense enough to attach a 75-cent pitcher's toe plate to his shoe.

Jeffcoat, who made the switch from center field only 13 months ago because he couldn't hit enough, was hitting on all cylinders from the mound Thursday with a perfect 4-0 record and a 2.70 earned run average.

The 30-year-old, right-handed fastballer, whose pitching already has been labeled "strictly first class" by Milwaukee Coach Bucky Walters, an old convert himself, turned in a brilliant double duty effort Wednesday in winning one game and saving another as the Cubs swept a twin-bill from the faltering Phillies 3-2 and 7-5.

Saves Both Games

Jeffcoat came shuffling out of the bullpen in the ninth inning of the opener after Richie Ashburn doubled off Sam Jones to lead off the game and Peanut Lowrey singled Ashburn to third. Granny Hamner's sacrifice fly scored Ashburn but Jeffcoat retired Del Ennis and Willie Jones on pop-ups to end the game.

Again in the nightcap, Jeffcoat relieved John Andre with one out in the fourth after the Phillies went ahead 4-2 with the help of homers by Stan Lopata and Murry Dickson. Jeffcoat limited Philadelphia to one run the rest of the way.

The two victories moved Chicago into second place, 7 1-2 games behind Brooklyn, and the losses gave Philadelphia a record of 15 defeats in the last 16 games.

Harvey Haddix and Barney Schaub combined to hold the Dodgers to seven scattered hits and give the Cardinals their fifth straight victory 3-2. Errors by Johnny Fedres and Pee Wee Reese contributed to the Dodgers' third straight loss.

In other games, the Giants beat Milwaukee 4-2 and Cincinnati downed Pittsburgh 5-1.

WT-NM Slate Cut To 1 Game

Heavy rains brought on a drought of West Texas-New Mexico League games Wednesday night.

Plainview downed El Paso 12 to 5 in the only game played.

Abilene at Pampa, Clovis at Albuquerque, and Lubbock at Amarillo were postponed by rain.

Plainview's crushing win brought it into a tie for second place with Albuquerque and only a half-game behind leading Pampa.

The Ponies pounded four El Paso hurlers for 12 hits to get the victory.

Thursday night the clubs will try to get a full slate at the same sites: Clovis at Albuquerque, Plainview at El Paso, Abilene at Pampa, and Lubbock at Amarillo.

Mathews Out With An Appendectomy

MILWAUKEE —UP— Eddie Mathews, who had just returned to form with three home runs in the last four games, was out of the Milwaukee Braves lineup Thursday for two to four weeks recovering from an appendectomy. He was resting comfortably in a Milwaukee hospital.

Everybody in the Braves organization from General Manager John Quinn on down agreed that Mathews' loss would hurt the Braves pennant chances a lot. Quinn said he believed, however, the Braves bench would pick up the slack.

Manager Charlie Grimm announced a surprise lineup against the Giants with 34-year-old outfielder Andy Pafko at third base in place of Mathews, home run leader year before last and among the leaders last year. Pafko had not been assigned a regular stint at third since he was the regular third baseman for the Chicago Cubs in 1958, when he won the Na-

JOHNSON TESTIFIES Ex-Con Visited Johnson In Dressing Room

PHILADELPHIA —UP— Harold Johnson returns to the witness chair for further examination Thursday after testifying that an ex-convict visited his dressing room before his bout with Julio Mederos.

Highpoint of Johnson's four and one-half hour appearance on the stand at a Pennsylvania Athletic Commission inquiry Wednesday was his testimony that Louis Sacaroma of Miami, Fla., was among the many men who sauntered in and out of his quarters before the nationally-televised bout on May 6.

Johnson lost on a technical knockout when he blacked out on his ring stool at the end of the second round. A medical report showed he was drugged before the bout. The finding prompted Gov. George M. Leader to suspend boxing in the state for 90 days pending an investigation.

Johnson and five members of his inner circle were named respondents in the case by the commission, which termed the bout a "sham and collusive" exhibition. The inquiry opened Monday and resumed Wednesday after a one-day recess because of the Pennsylvania primary elections.

Sacaroma, who has a criminal record dating back to 1920, served five years in the Lewisburg federal penitentiary on a narcotics charge. Johnson said, however, that Sacaroma was not the mysterious stranger who gave him a "bitter tasting" orange he ate before the bout. The fruit has been regarded as a possible agent used to inject the drug in his system.

Johnson said under the examination that the orange given him after the noon weigh-in by a stranger was in his fight kit, and that the bag was out of his sight several times as he dressed for the bout.

Pep Scores Easy Win Over Cadilli

DETROIT —UP— Wee Willie Pep packed his gear into a paper bag and headed for home in Hartford, Conn., Thursday, to see what Manager Lou Viscusi had lined up for him next.

"I'm working on a fight-to-fight basis," said Pep. "Lou has to see if I get busted up before we work on my next bout." Pep, 28, 3-4, was virtually unmarked after he breezed to a 10-round unanimous decision in a grudge rematch with young Gil Cadilli, 128 1-2, of Los Angeles here Wednesday night.

"It was the same as our other fight," said the 32-year-old Pep, "except he had one good round in that one while I had him all the way tonight."

Cadilli was awarded a split decision in a hotly disputed fight March 30 at Parks Air Force Base, Calif., two months ago. The California Boxing Commission later suspended a judge and referee as a result of the decision.

Willie Pep

Ringwise Willie gave out with some post-fight philosophy after jabbing his way to an easy victory in the nationally televised bout. When he was asked about his swinging on the links after he perched a checkered golfer's cap on his head, he said, "You know me."

"I never was any good as a lover (three wives), a gambler or a golfer. All I could ever do was fight."

Pep toyed with his 23-year-old opponent through the first five rounds before opening up in the sixth. He shook Cadilli in that round and fared even better in the seventh when Cadilli, seeking his 27th victory in 31 bouts, tried to force the action.

Judges Joe Greenberg and Andy Brown both scored it 99-87 for Pep and Referee Jackie Swartz awarded it to him 100 points to 81. A slim crowd of 744 paid $833 to see the fight in the Detroit Olympia.

Ag Alumni Not All To Blame, Grubbs Says

DALLAS —UP— "Over enthusiastic" Texas A&M alumni were not all to blame for the Aggies' two-year probation over recruiting violations, the Southwest Conference said Thursday.

Howard Grubbs, executive secretary of the conference, issued a statement contradicting quotes from Aggie Coach Bear Bryant that alumni, not the coaching staff, may have been a little overenthusiastic in recruiting new talent for the win-starved football team.

Grubbs' statement said: "The Southwest Athletic Conference has observed the news reports which attribute the recent disciplinary action taken by the conference against Texas A&M College almost exclusively to the activities of alumni of that institution."

"These reports have been encouraged by or originated with Coach Paul Bryant of Texas A&M. At its meetings on May 13 and 14, the conference had convincing information that Southwest Conference rules had been violated by both the Texas A&M College coaching staff, and alumni."

Ferrari Takes Race CUMBERLAND, Md. —UP— Sherwood Johnston of Rye, N.Y., drove his Ferrari at an average speed of 67.9 miles per hour Sunday to win the national race of the Sports Car Club of America.

Is This Old Barn Built Of Mayflower Timbers?

By ROBERT MUSEL
 JORDANS, England—UP—There is a shabby, old barn in this little settlement of the Society of Friends, the Quakers, that is either one of the most important relics of American history—or just a shabby, old barn.
 Practically everybody agrees that the framework of the barn was made from the timbers of a ship named "Mayflower" sold for salvage to farmer William Russell in 1628.
 But was it THE Mayflower, the one that took the Pilgrims to Massachusetts in 1620? I wish I knew. All I can say after checking around is that some people think it is, but more think it isn't.
 "The story begins when farmer Russell bought the ship hulk for what was then the equivalent of about $500. He upended it on his property in this backwater of London and it made a very serviceable barn indeed.
 Some 30 years later he sold all his property to the Friends. It was in his original farmhouse that William Penn and other Quakers were arrested in 1670 and sent to prison even though they argued they were only worshipping as conscience dictated.
 As time went by the barn became a community center for the Friends, some of whom began to wonder whether the similarity of name might be more than coincidental. One of these was Dr. James Rendel Harris, curator of manuscripts of the John Rylands Library in Manchester and a well known scholar and author.

 He wrote a book in the 1920's which argued that a crack in one of the beams arched across the barn checked with a similar crack in one of the Mayflower beams as reported in the journal of William Bradford, governor of the Plymouth colony.
 Dr. Harris convinced a lot of people, but some of his old associates in the Quakers wonder whether he was writing with tongue in cheek.
 "He was a great leg-puller," said Stephen Thorne, recording clerk of the Quakers.
 The weight of expert evidence is against the barn.
 But here's something to think about:
 Johanna Jones, widow of Christopher Jones, master of the Pilgrims' Mayflower, received permission to sell the ship as salvage in 1624. Four years later a "Mayflower" became a barn in Buckinghamshire.
 Were they the same?

Wife Admits Poisoning Mate's Bottle

TEXARKANA, Ark.—UP—A 59-year-old housewife who said her husband had beaten and threatened to kill her during 11 years of marriage confessed to Sheriff W. E. Davis that she poisoned him by putting strychnine in his bottle of bootleg whiskey.
 The husband, Sam Bell, 56, died mysteriously May 11 while being taken by neighbors in a truck to a Texarkana hospital from the couple's nearby farm home. He told the neighbors he had been poisoned by bootleg whiskey.
 But an autopsy conducted in Little Rock by the Arkansas state medical examiner, Dr. Anderson Nettleship, disclosed "a considerable quantity of strychnine in the body, sufficient to cause his death."
 Mrs. Bonnie Bell, 59, the dead man's wife, confessed Tuesday to Sheriff Davis that she put poison in his whiskey bottle last Tuesday, shortly before they came to Texarkana for a visit. She said she remained in town with a daughter while Bell returned home and, while there, drank from the bottle and became ill.
 The sheriff said he would charge the wife with murder. She had been questioned for three hours before making her confession and told Davis her husband, during their 11 years of marriage, had beaten her several times and threatened to kill her.
 The sheriff said she had bruises on her body.
