Salk Vaccine Troubles Outlined

Health Service Vows Better Job Next Time

By HERBERT CHESHIRE
WASHINGTON — UP — The U.S. Public Health Service said Friday it is ready to do a better job of handling expected new vaccines for other diseases because of lessons it learned from troubles with the Salk polio vaccine.

U.S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele gave this assurance to President Eisenhower in a massive report outlining problems encountered with the Salk vaccine and how they were solved.

The report said the Salk vaccine proved faulty in some instances because original safety tests developed in research and thought to be more than adequate failed to work properly in mass production. But Scheele told the President new safety requirements and expanded safety tests now being required by the government doubly insure the vaccine's safety. He said he now has "every belief" that this vaccine will fulfill its bright promise as a major advance in the prevention and control of polio.

The report said that development of the Salk vaccine should lead to vaccines for controlling other virus infections. It said that as a result of its experience with the Salk serum, the health service is ready to deal more efficiently with "problems of equal complexity (which) will be raised by development of other new viral vaccines."

The report gave this explanation of why some Salk vaccine produced contained live virus before (SEE VACCINE, Page 3)

Bid Made To Mend Texas Demo Split

DALLAS — UP — Judge Jim Sewell "re-invited" Mrs. H. H. Weintert of Seguin Saturday to participate in the visit to Texas next week of Paul Butler, national chairman of the Democratic party.

Judge Sewell, of Corsicana, is chairman of the Democratic Advisory Council of Texas. That is the organization which is sponsoring Butler's visit. Mrs. Weintert is Texas' National Democratic committee woman.

Butler's visit was arranged several weeks ago. It ostensibly was to mend a split in the party which got out of hand in 1952. That was when Gov. Allan Shivers, titular head of Texas Democrats, backed Republican Dwight Eisenhower for president.

Butler is to arrive in Lubbock June 14. He plans to stop off in Big Spring, Dallas, Waco, Houston, McAllen, Weslaco, and San Antonio. Before the windup, he will drop in on former Vice President John Nance Garner of Uvalde.

House Group Kills Dixon-Yates Funds

Money Allotted For New TVA Power Plant Instead

WASHINGTON — UP — The House Appropriations committee Friday denied President Eisenhower's request for $6.5 million for the Dixon-Yates project. It allotted the money instead to a new power plant for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

It dealt this sharp rebuff to the President's controversial private power proposal in recommending to the House a $1,276,216,242 money bill to finance federal power, flood control, and rivers and harbors projects, plus the Atomic Energy Commission, in the 12 months starting July 1. The Atomic Energy Commission was hard hit by cuts in the bill.

The total was $512,948,758 less than the President requested, a cut of about 28 per cent. This was the sharpest reduction applied so far this year by the appropriations group against any presidential money request.

One of the deepest cuts was made in operating funds for the Atomic Energy Commission. The committee allowed the AEC $618 million for making A-bombs and H-bombs and other activities, a cut of $27 million below Mr. Eisenhower's budget requests.

The committee noted that with unspent funds still available, the AEC will have on hand for the year a total of $1,358,847,000, compared to the $1,325,251,000 contemplated in the President's budget. The lawmakers said they did not question the importance of the AEC's work but felt that "economies can be effected" to make up the cut.

Other cuts were applied to TVA. Bonneville Power Administration, the reclamation bureau, and the civil functions (rivers and harbors and flood control) of the Army Engineers.

Southwestern Power Administration got a $450,000 cut in its operating and maintenance funds but picked up $6 million extra in a continuing fund for financing its contracts with co-operatives. Southwestern Power Administration got by without any cut.

Loaded With Controversy
The bill, loaded with controversy, comes up in the House next week, probably Wednesday. Republicans promised a fight on two main provisions: Elimination of the Dixon-Yates funds and the extra allotment for the Southwestern Power Administration.

20 Auto Plants Closed

'Wildcat' Strikes Hit General Motors

By REY W. BRUNE
DETROIT — UP — General Motors Corp. Friday closed down 20 plants in various parts of the country because wildcat strikes had thrown parts supplies at manufacturing operations out of balance.

The company said it was forced to take the action, despite the fact that most of the wildcat strikes have ended, because here were temporary shortages of parts in some manufacturing plants.

A spokesman said the plants, employing 59,260 union members, were expected back in operation by Monday.

Meanwhile, contract talks between GM and the CIO United Auto Workers appeared headed into the same kind of a stretch drive that produced the union's first guaranteed wage pact with Ford Motor Co. earlier this week.

CIO President Walter Reuther recalled that the Ford talks went to the limit before an agreement was reached guaranteeing Ford workers "between 60 and 65 per cent of their normal take-home pay during 26 weeks of layoff."

"We're prepared to go to the limit with General Motors too," Reuther said. "Where there's life there's hope and there's a lot of life here."

Reuther voiced his optimistic outlook after a long bargaining session that broke up shortly before midnight. The UAW scheduled morning meetings to take up "local issues" Friday before meeting with the company in a formal afternoon session.

The 385,000 GM workers will be free to go on strike at midnight Sunday if no agreement is reached by then.

CROCKETT CRAZE BOOSTER PRICES FOR COON PELTS

NEW ORLEANS — UP — "There's a bright future for trappers," Chief Ted O'Neil of the Louisiana Wildlife Commission said Friday and they owe it all to Davy Crockett.

The popularity of Davy Crockett coonskin caps has boosted the price of raccoon pelts from 50 cents to $3.50, O'Neil said.

Post Office Men Get Pay Increase

WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower Friday signed into law a bill giving the Post Office Department's 500,000 field workers an average 8 per cent increase in pay.

The boost, which will add $160 million to the department's annual payroll, is retroactive to March 1. Under the terms of the new law, each postal worker will receive at least a 6 per cent pay boost. A reclassification feature in the measure will give the average worker an extra 2 per cent.

Mr. Eisenhower's action ended a two-year struggle between congress and the White House on the question of postal pay raises.

"Fair Pay Increase"
In signing the measure, Mr. Eisenhower stated that the bill provides "a fair pay increase" to every employe and "represents the greatest step forward for our postal employes in more than a century."

"The new law will bring about the elimination of inequities in the postal field service which for years have violated the principle of equal pay for equal work and discourage employes from seeking advancement," the President said in a statement.

During the course of the congressional-presidential controversy over postal pay, Mr. Eisenhower twice successfully vetoed pay boost measures—a 5 per cent increase bill last year and an average 8.8 per cent last month.

The Senate and House promptly rushed through a compromise 8 per cent bill was killed. Both houses sent the revised measure to the White House earlier this week.

Prelude to Action
The President's action was a prelude to similar congressional action on legislation to provide a similar pay increase by some 1 million other federal Civil Service employes.

The Senate already has passed a bill to give these workers a 10 per cent boost. But the administration is expected to be backing a measure, now pending before the House Civil Service committee, to increase the pay of these federal employes by an average 6 per cent.

General Quits, Says Expenses Force Change
FORT WORTH — UP — M. J. Gen John B. Montgomery, regarded as a rising young officer in the Strategic Air Command, said Friday he resigned because of "family and medical expenses" and he is considering "several offers" of private jobs.

He said he resigned rather than retired, because "I am young enough and healthy enough to make a living and don't have to fall back on government benefits."

Secretary of Air Harold E. Talbott accepted Montgomery's resignation Thursday "with regret." Montgomery is the only Air Force general officer to resign since World War II who would have been eligible to retire instead.

Two Newsmen Jailed For 'Blackmail'

CANBERRA, Australia — UP — The House of Representatives, in an unprecedented move, Friday sentenced two newspapermen to three months imprisonment for attempting to blackmail a member of parliament with press attacks.

One of the newsmen shouted: "No journalist in the land will feel free if you establish the precedent against me!"

Convicted of a breach of house privileges were owner Raymond Fitzpatrick and reporter Frank Browne of the Bankstown Observer.

The house privileges committee found the newsmen guilty of trying to intimidate and silence Labor Rep. Charles Morgan of Sydney by attacking his reputation in their newspaper.

The liberal-dominated house passed a resolution affirming the sentence set by the privileges committee. The resolution defeated a motion by Labor opposition leader H. V. Evatt that the punishment should be limited to fines.

Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, who moved the motion, said the committee had found Fitzpatrick and Browne engaged in a conspiracy of blackmail to silence Morgan.

Menzies said Browne displayed unparalleled arrogance. He said a severe reprimand was not enough and that imprisonment was the only remedy.

Fitzpatrick, 55, a powerfully built contractor from Sydney, nervously shifted from one foot to the other during the charge and then quietly apologized.

Browne, 53, a short, balding clowning who specializes in throwing verbal darts at prominent political figures, reacted exactly the opposite. He shouted accusations and made a dramatic appeal.

Ship Afire In Atlantic
HOUSTON — UP — The Bloomfield Steamship Co. freighter Neva West, was reported on fire in mid-Atlantic, the company's Houston office was notified by radiogram Friday morning.

The Neva West is outbound from Houston with general cargo for Bremen and Rotterdam.

An official of the steamship line said first information did not indicate the vessel is in serious danger. A message from the captain said a hole was being cut in the deck to permit use of water and steam hoses in the No. 1 hold.

Cripple Who May Never Walk Again Gets College Degree Today

By DON THACKREY
PALO ALTO, Calif. — UP — Col. Walter Shegda, who can't walk now, was given his bachelor of arts degree from George Washington University in stride Friday.

Shegda, 37, is paralyzed from the waist down and completed much of the last two years of work for his degree while confined to an iron lung.

The degree, bachelor of arts in psychology, was given Wednesday and University President Cloyd H. Marvin made the award by long distance telephone.

"I now want to attend law school at Stanford if they'll have me," Shegda said. "My application is pending for entry there in the fall semester. I would like to teach or practice law if I could get my degree."

"I suppose the practicing would have to come before the teaching," Shegda, married and father of two children, was stricken with polio while stationed at the Pentagon and attending evening classes at George Washington in 1953.

"The professors used to come out to Walter Reed hospital during visiting hours to give me lectures," Shegda recalled. "I couldn't raise my hand so all I could do was listen. Then they would give me supplementary reading to do and my wife, Veda, would read it to me."

Later Shegda was transferred to Warm Springs, Ga., and continued work toward his degree by correspondence. There were frequent telephone calls between Shegda and his professors during this period and the colonel's examinations were given by the chief psycholo-

Before diving, make sure the water is deep enough and has no hidden objects that might cut you or break bones.

Never swim alone. Make sure someone is nearby who can help in case you get cramps or run into some other trouble.

Distance over water is misleading—don't overestimate your endurance or try to make like a Channel swimmer.

If you do go in for distance swimming in open water, have someone in a boat follow along for safety's sake.

Swim at a safe place, preferably where there are life guards. If you tire in swimming, float.

Swimming is fun and you, too, can learn the hows and whys of swimming by registering for the Red Cross Water Safety program which will be held in cooperation with the Summer Recreation project in Pampa this summer.

MAE Is Common Code For Men Around Eisenhower

By LYLE C. WILSON WASHINGTON—UP—MAE is even less back for a highly situated politico to relate in confidence to friends after a White House visit than any other group depends the President's decision whether to seek a second term.

Sherman Adams is chief of the group, most of whom are actually in the White House.

When FDR was here it was "the White House gang." Former President Hoover had his early morning "medicine ball cabinet." Way back under the term "kitchen cabinet" described the informal group of advisers closest to President Andrew Jackson.

Many of President Harding's troubles could be traced to the men from whom he took too much advice, "the Ohio gang."

Pick One Top Advisor Some presidents pick one top and unofficial minister as President Coolidge chose merchant Frank W. Stearns of Boston, Mass., and Woodrow Wilson picked Col. E.M. House.

These advisers or groups of advisers usually are more powerful in their influence upon a president than the members of his cabinet or big league politicians.

It will come as bad news to most Democrats that the MAE are consistently plugging for Mr. Eisenhower to run again.

The President probably has not yet made up his mind. He has told intimates from time to time that he is through—that a second term is out. But it is remarked in Washington that reports of these sometimes annoyed disavowals of further political ambition have been less frequent lately.

It was not unusual 12 months or even less back for a highly situated politico to relate in confidence to friends after a White House visit that Mr. Eisenhower had said he would not gain seek the presidency.

The MAE appear to be partly responsible for the decrease in such remarks. The enthusiasm for his renomination recently became so great that Mr. Eisenhower requested his top White House aides to cease discussing in public the desirability or likelihood of a second term. But these aides are not discouraged in their eager efforts to make the presidency a more comfortable job.

Staff System Helps The staff system of administration which the President brought to the White House from the Army could and, doubtless, does considerably ease the burden of executive responsibility. The MAE are responsible for making the staff system work.

The greatest triumph of the second termers, however, popped up only last week when the President took off for his Gettysburg farm in an Oklahoma-bull, twin-engine Aero Commander. The MAE have worried considerably about the 85 miles of winding and sometimes narrow road over which the President must travel to his country home.

It is a dangerous, two-hour drive. And two hours is too long. The Aero Commander can make it in 30 minutes, sometimes less. Mr. Eisenhower will use his small airplane again this weekend after receiving a degree from Penn State at State College, Pa., of which his brother Milton is president. It is 75 miles from state college to Gettysburg. The airplane will do it in about 15 minutes.

Mr. Eisenhower has said he wants to spend more time on his farm. That is one reason he has hesitated about a second term. The handy, new airplane, makes Gettysburg a suburb of Washington for the President. He now can spend any week night on the farm, breakfast there and be on time for work in Washington.

That little airplane may persuade the President that another term wouldn't be so bad, after all. The MAE can take a bow.

Americans Rush To Adopt Illegitimate Austrian Tots

By ROBERT BRANSON SALZBURG, Austria—UP—The scheduled withdrawal of U. S. occupation troops from Austria has brought about a deluge of requests from childless American Army couples here for adoption of illegitimate Austrian babies, welfare officials said Friday.

Mrs. M. F. Schantl, head of the Salzburg welfare office, said the clamor to adopt children to take back to the United States was unprecedented.

"Adoptions have averaged two or three babies a week in recent years," Mrs. Schantl said. "This morning there were 20 applications on my desk—all from Americans."

The American occupation forces are due to leave Austria 90 days after the Austrian state treaty is ratified by the Big Four powers and Austria. They probably will pull out around October.

Many of the illegitimate children were fathered by American soldiers. A number of unwed mothers are registered prostitutes, Mrs. Schantl said.

"The American couples who come to us for adoption often display little interest in the background of the real parents," she said. "Just so the child is healthy and good looking. One mother told me she wanted a baby even if its father was a Russian."

One American wife has applied for permission to adopt three Austrian babies, including one not yet born.

"Most of the applicants are alike in one respect," Mrs. Schantl said. "They do not want to be introduced to the child's real mother, or even to see her."

Each adoption application must be approved by an Austrian court and written consent must be obtained from the real mother.

When American Army couples are involved, the Army must also approve the adoption and the U. S. State Department; must issue a visa for the baby.

Magazine Asks Suit Be Quashed

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—UP—The magazine Confidential sought Thursday to quash a $1 million suit filed against it by actor Robert Mitchum who accused the publication of giving a false account of his actions at a Hollywood party.

Attorney H. F. Birnbaum filed a motion for dismissal of the suit in Santa Monica Superior Court Wednesday in behalf of Robert Harrison, the magazine's president and publisher.

Mitchum charged in his suit that the magazine falsely stated he took off his clothes at the party, sprinkled himself with catnip and announced he was a "well-done hamburger."

Birnbaum asked dismissal on the ground the magazine is not doing and has never done business in California, has no property or assets here and is distributed through wholesalers.

Hearing on the dismissal motion was set on June 17.

AMA Keeps Ban Against Osteopaths

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—UP—The American Medical Association Thursday continued its ban on doctors of medicine teaching in colleges of osteopathy.

The action climaxed a spirited 90-minute debate on the floor of the house of delegates, governing body of the AMA. At the end of the debate a written ballot was taken and the delegates voted 101 to 81 to accept a minority report of one of its committees which had the effect of continuing the ban.

The minority report was submitted by Dr. Milford C. Rouse, of Dallas, Tex., members of the AMA's reference committee on medical education and hospitals. Four other members of the committee submitted the majority report.

The reference committee reports were on the findings of a special committee which studied the teaching of osteopathy in five of the nation's six osteopathic colleges. This special committee, headed by Dr. John W. Cline, of San Francisco, had reported its findings to the House of Delegates Monday.

100 Years Ago, Treasury Balance Drop Worried U.S.

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS WASHINGTON—UP—A century ago, Washington was in a lather over the fact that the balance in the national treasury had shrunk to $18.5 million. One paper commented with considerable alarm that this was "the falling off of more than $10 million."

On the less serious side, the Department of Navy was on the market for a lot of things. It advertised it would like to purchase such items as scrubbing brushes, shaving boxes, buttons, beeswax (1-4 pound cakes "pure"), combs "coarse and fine-toothed," jack knives, thimbles, mustard seed, and corks for bottles, "the best quality."

A Mr. J. Thompson advertised that he had lost his wallet containing a 30 promissory note and $14 in cash. If the finder would please meet him at midnight, Thompson said, at the corner of M. and 24th streets, the finder could keep the $14, "and be entitled to my thanks for the promissory note."

Fact Used The Department of Agriculture took advantage of the fact that the Congress was not in session, and therefore taking up no space in the public prints to plug four "new varieties" of wheat. The Hungarian, the neopolitan (south—"too tender for the north") and the samar and early moe. The latter two, the department allowed, were right fine for the north. They would ripen in the land of the wheat a week or so ahead of the other varieties and would "surely secure a good crop."

Franklin Pierce, the president in 1855, was reported in the personal notices to be enjoying himself in "pleasant confines" in New England. The Chief Executive wrote a personal note to one editor, who was "kind enough" to publish it. "I trust," said the Chief Executive, "that everything is all right down there. If it is not, it would please me if you would let me know by return post."

The papers were great hands in the old days to clip and print items from other papers. One sheet pilfered an item from California, which reported that "a Colonel Hall lately pulled a vegetable out of his garden weighing 70 pounds which he calls a beet."

Inflation Seen The ugly mug of inflation was on the Washington scene, and the papers let the folks know about it in editorials. The fact also was magnified in ads. One land-owner sort of apologized when he offered a 10-room house for rent near the Department of Treasury on F. St. There also was room on the premises for a store or office, the owner said. The rental was $500 per year.

A city ordinance was passed, reluctantly perhaps, allowing refund to B. F. Stewart in the amount of $50 for an unexpired license for keeping billiard tables. "Mr. Stewart," the ordinance said, "is out of business and doesn't have any billiard tables in his place any more."

Picture Ban In US Court May Be Lifted

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., UP—Attorney General Herbert Brownell indicated Thursday night that the rule barring photographs during judicial proceedings might be relaxed if photographers prove they can "protect the interests of justice."

Brownell, speaking before the annual convention of National Press Photographers' Association, said he was "recommending" at the forthcoming convention in August in Philadelphia that a model court room be set up so that press photographers can show their stuff—that they can have their day in court so to speak—to show that this kind of press photography can be done to protect the interest of justice for all concerned.

The attorney general said that recent incidents had suggested the need for "another look" at cases from the judicial photographers from the judicial proceedings.

However, he also upheld the controversial privilege of a judge to restrict the activities of newsmen and photographers covering criminal trials.

He said a "trial is not a free for all. The press may not impair or subvert the process of impartial and orderly decision either by court or jury. It may not divert the court of control of the proceedings."

"Under existing decisions and rules of court, there can be little question but that a trial judge has the right to designate the time, the manner and the number of photographs to be taken during a criminal proceeding."

Brownell pointed out that "in response to requests," the U. S. Court of Appeals and the Federal District Court for the District of Columbia have agreed to relax their rules on photography in courtrooms.

He said the photographer might now photograph with consent of the parties to be photographed. However, other photographs can be taken only by consent of the judge at trials and hearings.

Gray County's able 4-H land judging team did it again. For the third consecutive year the boys copped honors in the annual state 4-H Roundup at College Station. Word was received this morning that they "ran off" with second place in a field of nine district winners. Gray County's finest are, from the left, David Miller, John Dial, Sam Condo, alternate, Michael Pri ce, and their coach, Assistant County Agent Jerry Mobly. Price and Miller were members of the 1953 and 1954 teams which won third place honors.

Mercury Dips To 44 Today

"Button Up Your Overcoats" was the well-sung song of many a Pampa as he turned on the heater upon awakening this morning. The low was recorded at 44. The weatherman at Radio Station KPDN said it has been many a moon since this chilling pre-summer theme has been recorded in the Panhandle. Rubbing his hands he said the low was 28 back in the mid-thirties on a June day. But don't get apprehensive, the weatherman says Saturday will find us with balmy, warm temperatures here in the Top o' Texas, though skies will be cloudy. The thermometer read 61 at noon, and it wasn't expected to climb much higher today. Only a trace of moisture was measured in the Pampa area following intermittent showers Thursday and today.

White's new assignment is part of a general shift brought about by the promotion of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor to be Army chief of staff, succeeding retiring Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer is being moved up from command of the Eighth Army post to succeed Taylor as commander of the entire Far East command and United Nations command.

The Shick car suffered approximately $10 damages.

City Paving Men Rushed

City Street Department's agenda so far as paving streets are concerned looms busy. At present members of the department are winding up paving a 10-block area in the Jarvis-Sone Addition, according to Russell Cartwright, superintendent. At 18th and Duncan the department has begun building a water-dip to drain water down to the E. Fraser Addition. Cartwright estimates that the project will be finished this summer. It covers an area 4 1/2 blocks wide and five blocks long. In the North Fraser Annex No. 2, paving will start within the next 10 days to two weeks, on an area three blocks long and five blocks wide, Cartwright said. In addition to the paving and waterdip projects the department has recently completed fogging the entire city, and spraying will begin this Monday. This is the fourth year of the intensive fogging-spraying campaign, according to City Manager Fred Brook.

(Continued From Page One) the new safety requirements were set up. It said the original concept held that polio virus inactivated by formaldehyde would "render the virus harmless but still capable of inducing the production of antibodies." Falls to Follow Course But it said it was later found in actual production that "the process of inactivation did not always follow the predicted course." Live virus "not infrequently occurred after the expected completion of the inactivation process." The report outlined in great detail how polio began cropping up among some children who were inoculated, the later bans on release of new vaccine, the long investigations made of manufacturing processes, the order for more stringent safety tests and the resumption of vaccine clearances. The report said much of the confusion resulting from the vaccine situation could be laid to the fact that "events have been telescoped in time so that the vaccine has been developed, tested and used in a matter of months instead of years." It said most great medical advances have "always involved a certain amount of acceptance of risk, trial and error."

RUTH MILLET

When they were married five years ago she planned to keep her job for a year or so. But she is still working. Whenever she has suggested that now might be the time for her to quit, her husband has seemed reluctant to have her stop.

She writes: "It isn't as if we had saved the money I have made. We've frittered it away on expensive trips, a new car every year, entertaining, etc."

"I am sure we would get along just as well financially if I quit my job. And I think we could lead a much happier life. Do you think I would be making a mistake to go ahead and quit my job — even though my husband disapproves?"

No, you wouldn't be making a mistake. Going along as you are now isn't getting you any place. You are just living up to every cent you both make.

But worse than that, your husband is beginning to count on your pay check to get the two of you the things you want.

Jane Talk

Pampa News Women's Editor

IF YOU'RE ONE OF THE GYPSIES taking off in all directions — biggest summer exodus in history predicted for Europe, Canada, South America and all points of the U. S. — what beauty aids to take can be as important a consideration as getting your passport or the family jalopy greased up for the trip.

WHEN GYPSIES ask Max Factor, Jr., if they're sure to find in Timbuktu that simply d-i-v-i-n-e shade of lipstick they're wearing, he replies: "In all probability, but why take precious time out from your travels to search for such a small requisite when you can take an extra one with you?"

Since his company ships cosmelle products around the world, Factor is the person to answer the vacationer-to-be's question. But, as he reminds you, "The women of different countries have different tastes in cosmetics. It may be the fashion for a lovely senorita in Caracas, Venezuela, for instance, to keep her skin its rich creamy shade, whereas the North American beauty may be following a fashion to make hers look as deeply tanned as a Gaucho's."

The Hollywood expert says, that it's always a good idea to take along both toilet soap and flakes for basin laundry. Hotel and lodging accommodations in many countries do not always supply soap, and when one gets into a tub at midnight or begins to wash out nylons for morning wear, sans soap, a stashed away supply becomes a gold mine. It's a good idea to take along enough of your own brand of deodorant, too.

Factor also suggests squirreling away in your luggage enough bobby pins and curlers (if you use and lose these) and a home-permanent refill, if you expect to stay abroad to out-last your permanent. Cleansing tissues won't be excess luggage, because you can use them to fill crannies. Include basic grooming products — simply to save you trouble in replacing — and your specialized needs in vitamins and medicines. And, Factor reminds you, don't forget band-aids for blisters you're apt to raise on museum-going, feet.

For a vacation in the U.S., what you stash away in your bags depends upon where you're going and what kind of dress-up occasions are in store. If to a city, don't worry about replenishments. But if you're going to a retreat so far from civilization that the country store keeper thinks an eye-shadow is a new-fangled visor, you'd better stock up on what you're going to need. But go easy. You don't want to take a little warehouse along!

Two items you're apt to be glad you took along, Factor thinks, are (1) a water-softener, if you're going where hard water makes skin-care, shampoos and even laundry tough-going and (2) a small hand hair-dryer, if you're going to be in the water almost as much as you're out.

If you take bottles of perfume, cologne, already opened, screw stoppers or caps down tight, and seal with tape. Also tape lids down on all powder boxes which have been opened.

NEW TRANSPARENT SLIPPERS that offer no more concealment for would-be Cinderellas than a glass bowl for a gold fish call for a quick review of the foot-care rules.

According to Max Factor, Jr., horny cuticle is one of the worst obstacles in your way to prettying up your toes. His suggestion is to try filling it down with an emery board. If cuticle is soft, oil it, soak it, use a cuticle-remover, and shred it off.

While coaxing blemishes to take leave, camouflage them with make-up, so these foot defects won't make such a glaring appearance through "glass" slippers. To a corn or bunion of the white variety, apply and blend out creme rouge so that it takes on the over-all flesh tone of the foot. If the blemish is red, subdue angry color by masking with foundation make-up.

Suppose heels are colorless or chalk-white? Here's another spot for your creme rouge to go. But where heels are reddened by friction with shoes, calm down color with face powder or a foundation make-up.

Begin the habit, early in this

BABY

At about the age of one year, Baby develops a very favorite toy. It may be a blanket, a sieve or a stuffed animal. Latch onto this knowledge. Be sure that said toy doesn't get lost or chewed up in the laundry. Take it along on trips or for "first aid" on nervous occasions.

Hot days are coming on. Be careful about roasting Baby. The carriage with hood up can be as uncomfortable, parked, as a parked car is in the blazing sun. Unless he gets a breeze, give Baby a chance to play on a blanket in the shade.

Baby's overall straps seem to be too long when they're bought, and too short too soon. Instead of removing the buttons and sewing them on again about every three weeks, just install new buttons whenever they're needed. They make easy-to-use hand-me-downs this way.

Stockings with large denier number, which means coarser yarn, will snag more easily than the finer-yarned ones, but they run less easily. It depends upon which you do to stockings most frequently.

So perhaps you do step in an April puddle. But do, for heaven's sake, look up and ahead when you walk. In avoiding the puddle you may also avoid old friends, employers, family, possible husbands and all the fun of spring.

Butter-up their appetites with zesty butter sauce for steak, herb butter for broiled tomatoes, and chili butter for corn.

COOK'S NOOK

Sauces Add New Delight To Meats And Vegetables

By GAYNOR MADDOX

We use a lot of butter in our cooking. Seems to improve the flavor of all foods.

Steak broiled with dabs of butter gains a natural sauce and rich, brown surface color. Tomatoes, topped with butter and herbs taste better.

(Shopping tip: Flavor is most important in butter, and is perishable. Therefore, we buy and keep butter in the paraffined carton. The carton protects flavor; prevents pick-up of off-flavors.

Butter Sauces for Steak
Zesty Butter: One-quarter cup (1/2 stick) butter, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon minced pimento, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco. Cream butter; mix in remaining ingredients. Spread over hot, broiled steak.

Mustard Butter: One quarter cup (1/2 stick) butter, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard. Cream butter; gradually stir in mustard. Spread over hot, broiled steak.

Herb — for Broiled Tomatoes: This spreads eight tomato halves. One-quarter cup (1/2 stick) butter, 1-16 teaspoon each thyme, marjoram, and rosemary. Lightly sprinkle each tomato half with sugar and salt. Cream butter; add remaining ingredients. Use to dot each tomato half before broiling.

Chili Butter: For 8 ears of corn. One-half cup (1 stick) butter, 1/2 teaspoon chili powder, 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco. Melt butter; add remaining ingredients. Brush on corn.

POWER, NORTHWEST HEADACHE

The Pacific Northwest, for two decades considered a sort of hydroelectric wonderland, is facing the possibility that in five or 10 years its population and industry growth will surpass its power production. Instead of last winter's peak generating capacity of 7,750,000 kilowatts, the demand in the winter of 1964-65 will probably be 14,000,000. So more dams will be needed to harness the Columbia River and its tributaries. Map shows the dam situation in the region. Controversial projects are those proposed dams which are meeting delay due to the fight between public and private power advocates.

Demo Fuss Breaks Out Anew In Planned Meet At Tyler

TYLER, Tex. — UP — Dr. Howard Bryant, a physician, oilman and Democratic leader, accused the Democratic Advisory Committee Thursday of lowering the chances of success of a Democratic peace meeting in Tyler June 16. Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler will attend the meeting, which will be a lunch, and will afterward make himself available for conversation by any East Texas Democrat—liberal or conservative—at an open house. Dr. Bryant is a liberal Democrat. He was the heaviest contributor to Gubernatorial candidate Ralph Yarborough's campaign last year. The idea of the lunch is to heal the breach between conservative Democrats and liberal Democrats.

Miller Indictment Dismissed

MONTEPELIER, Vt. — UP — A federal judge Thursday dismissed the indictment against Manuel S. Miller, who with his wife held police at bay outside their Bethel, Vt., home for 11 hours last month. U.S. District Judge Ernest W. Gibson dismissed the indictments on the grounds they did not specify that Miller knew he was impeding federal officers when he and his 44-year-old wife, Lucille, barricaded themselves in their home and threatened to shoot police if they entered.

Federal marshals had been ordered to take Mrs. Miller to Washington, D. C., for mental tests in connection with charges she counseled youths not to register for the draft. Miller was continued free in $10,000 bail pending resubmission of his case to a federal grand jury. The Millers were subpoenaed on May 3 by tear gas after refusing to submit to the marshals for 11 hours. Mrs. Miller was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington.

Tax Office Claims Parr Owes $687,012 To U. S.

WASHINGTON — UP — The Internal Revenue Service has claimed $687,012 in back income taxes and penalties against George B. Parr, San Diego, Tex., federal tax records disclosed Thursday. Parr has appealed the claim to the U.S. tax court but no date has been set for a trial.

The government claim involves $356,537 in allegedly unreported taxable income for the years 1945, 1947 and 1951, plus $186,368 in fraud penalties and $144,107 in interest.

Parr, in his appeal, admitted that he and his wife received $500,000 in addition to his reported income of $56,456 in 1945 but denied allegations that this was taxable income or that he had attempted to "evade" the federal income tax laws.

The additional $500,000, according to Parr's appeal, was used to purchase a 56,000-acre ranch in LaSalle and Webb counties, Tex., for more than $400,000. The Internal Revenue Service also charged that Parr and his wife received $162,000 in taxable income which Parr failed to report in 1947 and that this money was used to pay off an outstanding federal income deficit of $161,828.

Parr conceded that the sum was "evidenced by bank deposits" in 1947 and that it was used to pay the outstanding tax deficiency but denied the charges that he had violated the federal income tax laws.

The Internal Revenue Service claimed that Parr received a total income of $122,455 in 1951 instead of the $44,688 which he reported in his tax return.

Parr denied the charges concerning his 1951 return.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY! MOVIES - TV - RADIO by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Guys and Dolls: Mickey Rooney has crossed his name off the list of "Unhappy Stars." Squared away with his income debts to Uncle Sam, a real hombody in his marriage to red-haired Elaine Mahlen and co-partners with Maurice Duke in a company producing movies and telefilms, he's saying: "I've never been happier. This stage of my life is far more exciting than the old days at MGM. I'm doing things that I've dreamed of doing for years. Now I'm a real part of the motion picture industry."

Coming up on his slate of movies after he completes "A Twinkle in God's Eye" are the life stories of golfer Sammy Snead, which he will direct, and jockey Johnny Longden, in which he will star. The Mick's company also produces his telefilms, "Hey Muligan."

EX-MOVIE QUEENS wondering about Fay Wray's portrayal of a one-time star in Alan Ladd's "The Darkest Hour" can relax. Fay isn't pulling another "Sunset Boulevard" on her seniors. "There's nothing detrimental to our ever-loving profession in the hire an actor if they know he can be seen for free on television. They don't come right out and say it. But it's happening just the same."

HOLLYWOOD'S importing foreign delicacies at a fast clip to fill the shrinking list of movie queens, and the latest bit of yum-yum to arrive is dark-eyed Lilliane Montevecchi.

Half Italian and half French, Lilliane clicked as the gypsy in the new Stewart Granger starer, "Moonfleet," and now has an MGM contract with big roles coming up in "Week End at Las Vegas," "The Last Hunt," and "Lust for Life."

But no eye-rolling, hip-shaking, French-doll roles for Lilliane if she can help it. Says Hollywood's new ooh-la-la: "Mebbe all Americans think of French girls, but is not true. I show zem, I wan' try to be actress — really a actress."

CORNELL WILDE and Jean Wallace are costarring in their third movie, "Storm Fear," but they have no fear about the unwritten law that says a Mr. and Mrs. shouldn't put on double harness before a movie camera.

Blonde Jean intends to do pictures for other studios, but says: "This is so much fun. Cornell and I are in on our pictures from the start. We talk to writers, we plan, we exchange ideas. It's stimulating. Besides, it keeps us together. We don't like to be separated."

She's also purring happily over Cornell's new role of director. "If I had anything to do with it at all," she says, "it's that I pointed out to him how cruel and tragic the movie industry can be."

Ex-Eagle Editor Joins NY News

NEW YORK — UP — Frank D. Schroth, former editor and publisher of the Brooklyn Eagle, has joined the staff of the New York Daily News "to champion the interest of the people of Brooklyn."

A news announcement published Thursday said "Schroth will play an active part in further developing the position of the News in the Long Island area, concentrating on the borough of Brooklyn."

News publisher F. M. Flynn said Wednesday, "Mr. Schroth's long experience in Brooklyn, his high ranking in the community and his extensive interest in all things Brooklyn place him in a position of continuing to champion the interests of the people of Brooklyn."

Delegate To Boycott Butler Trip

AUSTIN — UP — Mrs. H. H. Weinert, Texas' Democratic national committeewoman, said Thursday she will boycott the trip to Texas next week by National Chairman Paul Butler.

Mrs. Weinert said she had no quarrel with Butler, a former Democratic committeewoman from Indiana whom Mrs. Weinert enthusiastically supported for election to head the party.

She accused County Judge Jim Sewell of Corsicana and other liberal Democratic loyalists of attempting to lock out Texas Democratic conservatives.

"I have represented both factions too long to change now," Mrs. Weinert told reporters. "The national committeewoman received an invitation to attend all functions in connection with Butler's scheduled visit to Texas June 14-18."

However, she wired Sewell, chairman of the Texas Democratic Advisory Council, rejecting the invitation. "Your recent rude, ungalant and discourteous treatment of me makes me doubt the sincerity of your invitation. You, better than anyone, can explain the reason for my absence," Mrs. Weinert said in a telegram to Sewell.

Free?

Despite maudlin croonings of the lyricists the best things in life are seldom free. Let us consider the plight of one Huntington Hartford of eastern parts.

If you've ever wandered through a museum or gallery of Modern Art and wondered uneasily who had flipped their lid — you or the perpetrators of the Things hanging on the walls — you have a friend and a champion in said Mr. Hartford.

In a full page ad appearing in the Wall Street Journal, sponsored by a group called the Citizens Union Research Foundation, Inc., Mr. Hartford uses some 6,000 words and well-chosen words to lambaste what he calls the fiasco of modern painting.

Mr. Hartford doesn't agree with a leading art critic, Sir Herbert Read, whom he quotes as observing that "the modern work of art is a symbol, which by its nature is only intelligible to the initiated." He argues, instead:

"If you are the kind of person who can enjoy a symphony of Beethoven or a novel of Tolstoy or a piece of sculpture by Rodin without the help of footnotes, then you can enjoy a great painting... without professional assistance."

As an example of the totally unrecognizable art world beloved by the critics, he quotes from a description of a typical modern artist's career, published by the Museum of Modern Art in New York: "Shortly after his arrival in Paris he evolved what he later called 'the paranoiac-critical method' defined as a 'spontaneous method of irrational knowledge based upon the interpretive-critical association of delirious phenomena.'"

Another example of the type of symbolism that Mr. Hartford thinks will remain forever unintelligible to the uninitiated is culled from a critical discussion of an important modern work appearing in the magazine Art News: "Ambiguity exactly sought and exactly left undefined has been its recurrent theme."

Mr. Hartford thinks that artists, dealers and critics have been able to get away with pictorial murder because museums are traditionally free. People won't buy books if they are dull and unintelligible; they won't listen to concerts if the music grades on the ear. In his opinion, if the art-loving public had to pay $4.80 a ticket to spend an evening looking at paintings, the turkeys would be swiftly stripped of their surrealistic disguises.

Right there Mr. Hartford draws a bull's eye on the canvas on his easel.

You can get away with murder if you can persuade the public they are getting something for free along the general lines that it is foolish to sneer in a gift horse's face.

Take the state school system! It's free "education," isn't it? So why complain about the product!

Take the farm subsidies! The gravy to the benefitting farmers is free, isn't it? Why all the complaints?

Take the welfare program! It's free charity, isn't it? Why object to it? Just think what a wonderful country we live in. Nobody has to pay for the schools, for the subsidies, for the welfare program! That's the way it looks except, of course, on payday when you compare what the pay voucher says and what the cashier gives you. The difference is what you pay in part for some of the "free" things around you.

THE NATION'S PRESS

PROPERTY RIGHTS AND SECRETARY DULLES (Chicago Tribune)

Sen. Bricker of Ohio has again complained that opponents of his proposed constitutional amendment to keep the Constitution, laws, and sovereignty of the United States inviolate against attrition by means of treaties and international agreements have deliberately endeavored to confuse the entire issue. He said in a speech in New York that those who fight the amendment know that they can't win on the moral issue involved and, accordingly, endeavor to resort to legal double talk.

The senator said that New York newspapers have unfairly reported the debate, and he criticized Secretary of State Dulles for his attempt to backtrack on the dangers of the treaty power in his testimony earlier this month before the senate judiciary committee.

On that occasion Dulles tried to explain away a speech he had made in 1952 at a regional meeting of the American Bar Association, when he said that treaties afford a method for an unconstitutional extension of the law and thus contain a peril of nullifying the Constitution.

affecting property—is expendable. That theory invites the question: If one constitutional right can be tossed overboard, what is to prevent the others from going the same way?

Mr. Dulles is said to be a lawyer. If so, he cannot be unfamiliar with the opinion of the late Justice Robert H. Jackson for the Supreme court in West Virginia State Board of Education vs. Barnet, Mr. Justice Jackson then said:

"The very purpose of a Bill of Rights was to withdraw certain subjects from the vicissitudes of political controversy, to place them beyond the reach of majorities and officials and to establish them as legal principles to be applied by the courts. One's right to life, liberty, and property, to free speech, to a free press, freedom of worship and assembly, and other fundamental rights may not be submitted to vote; they depend on the outcome of no elections."

Justice Jackson, in these remarks, made no separation of rights guaranteed by the Constitution into those which might not be touched or suspended and those of a lesser nature, which politicians might feel free to sacrifice, either because they were swollen with the power of "mandates" from the electorate, or because they had some notion that international exigencies might justify scrapping the Constitution. No, the justice, speaking for the court, held that all of these rights were on a par, and that all were equally beyond alteration or repudiation by elected servants of the people.

Mr. Dulles apparently is too busy playing the statesman to remember what law he learned. His testimony against the Bricker amendment is a perfect illustration of what Sen. Bricker was talking about when he said that his opponents try to confuse the legal issues.

UN Not Bound By Law

In the last issue I was quoting from Dr. V. Orval Watts' book "The United Nations, Road to War." In the last article Watts showed how the Founding Fathers limited both the state and federal governments. He goes on in this manner:

"With Jefferson they believed it necessary to bind every government official and department, including Congress and every local or state official, by the chains of constitutional law. They would have agreed with Woodrow Wilson that the history of liberty is the history of the limitation of governmental power, and that a concentration of government power is what always precedes the death of human liberty."

The UN Is Not Bound By Law "And now let us ask if this is the kind of limited government we have in the United Nations Organization? Does the UN Charter bind the Security Council or the Assembly as the Federal Constitution binds the Senate and Congress of these United States?"

"Does the Charter bind even the President of these United States, or does it release him from the chains even of our own Constitution?"

"So far, the only limits on the UN have been those arising, not from its constitution or other law, but from conflicts among the Member States, and these States are themselves generally lawless. The Charter permits the UN to take any course of action upon which a sufficient number of the Member States agree, especially if the permanent Members of the Security Council agree."

"And since the United for Peace Resolution of 1950, the Assembly claims authority to take any action approved by the majority or two-thirds vote of its delegates regardless of the Security Council's failure to act. This makes it possible for a majority of two-thirds of the Assembly to become the final and complete concentration of government power, bound by no law except what it declares to be the law at any given moment."

"This appeared in the Korean War, to which UN spokesmen often point with pride as an example of what the Organization can, and should, do in acting as a world police power."

"The Soviet member of the Security Council was absent when the North Korean section of the Third Communist International attacked South Korea. The remaining members therefore voted to stop that aggression."

"However, instead of letting the Military Staff Committee direct the strategy of that action, as the Charter provides, the Council set up a new 'Unified Command' under the control of the U. S. Government, and gave it complete command of the Korean 'police action.'"

"Thereupon the Soviet representative returned, vehemently protesting that the Security Council had acted illegally, as indeed it had. The Charter provided no such method of by-passing the Military Staff Committee and thus depriving the Soviet Chief of Staff of his share of authority over the UN forces defending South Korea."

"Of course, the other leading UN States paid no attention to the Soviet protests. Instead, the Assembly adopted the United for Peace Resolution by which it claimed the right to exercise any authority which the Charter gave to the Council."

"What kind of a government is it in which this sort of thing can go on?"

"When the UN can thus make its own law to fit the occasion, no one can say it is a lawful or law-abiding institution. It is not a police commission enforcing law, but the beginnings of a world dictatorship."

"The fact is that in principle, and hence in practical effect, the UN is lawless. It is an unlimited organization of unlimited governments, above the law and beyond the reach of any impartial judge."

"Even the U. S. Government throws off all constitutional restraints when it serves as a member of the United Nations. Since the Supreme Court rules that treaties and executive agreements override all other American law, the President uses this device to by-pass the Constitution. President Truman did this, for example, when he invoked his supposed authority under the Charter to send U. S. troops into war in Korea without bothering to ask the consent of Congress."

"An organization that is to enforce justice must itself be subject to law. This is impossible when the same body, the Security Council or General Assembly, serves as legislature, police commission, judge and jury."

"The government that keeps peace in the world must be so limited, its power so decentralized and divided, its divisions so built to check and balance one another, that it is itself bound by law."

"It cannot be above all law and all judgments, able to make and enforce any statutes on which the majority of its delegates agree, whether they act as puppet delegates of dictatorships or as popular representatives of democracies."

"Instead, it must be the servant of governments and of citizens who themselves are law-abiding, bound by law derived from the moral law, written into the nature of man and the universe."

"Can anyone seriously maintain that the UN is such an organization today, or that the Member States who now compose it will make it such an organization. Fortunately, the Member States

Military Reshuffle Shows Far East Is Major Concern

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's reshuffling of the Pentagon's high command — the Joint Chiefs of Staff and leaders in the field — represents more than an attempt to rebuff a sagging military morale, although that was the answer he gave when he was asked for his advice by the White House.

Admirals Radford and Burke, as well as General Nathan Twining, head of the expanding Air Force, have several qualities in common, which account for their retention or elevation by Eisenhower. They did their major fighting during World War II against the Japanese in the Pacific. They believe that the greatest threat to the United States will arise in that area, not in NATO-strengthened Europe.

Moreover, unlike so many of their predecessors, they do not fear or shudder at a military showdown with the Russian or Chinese Reds, separately or in alliance. Their belief that both the Moscow and Beijing armies and navies and air units are phony Potemkin backdrops is beginning to prevail at Washington.

Eisenhower's reliance on this kind of military talent has political and diplomatic significance. Radford, and Burke, a Virginia Democrat, have both the confidence of the Congressional Armed Services Committees. In appearance a dapper, friendly man, he is unusually forceful and convincing, which will be a help in obtaining appropriations.

It was not without reason that he announced the change in Pentagon personnel before next month's proposed "Big Four" Conference. The military seems to be gaining supremacy in Russia, Bulganin is Premier, Zhukov is Defense Minister and Konev heads up Russia's Moscow-made NATO of satellite powers.

He disagreed with General Omar Bradley, Truman's retired military expert and Ike's World War II pal, that a general conflict with China would "have been the wrong war in the wrong place at the wrong time."

Ike's implied rebuke to his finest field commander in Europe is impressive. Radford also believed that have not yet agreed to give the UN the military forces necessary for it to impose its will on any government, except possibly on the government of South Korea.

The United States delegates propose plans for such forces, and the maneuvers of the Military Reserve Units in 1951-52 shows that some persons in our federal government have been willing to establish military forces to act under the UN orders, even to the point of overriding all other authority in this country. At the moment, however, it is more likely that some of the other treaty organizations — NATO, for example — might become the military arm of some super-national government.

"But if the Member States of the UN cannot agree on military action, they can and do agree on two lines of policy which make the organization increasingly effective as an agency for world statism and violent conflict." (to be continued)

with JAMES C. INGEBRETSEN President, Spiritual Mobilization

Our progress comes from what we don't consume. And this is as true under Socialism or Communism as under capitalism.

The big difference between regimentation and free enterprise is in who decides how much we are not to consume and to what use it is to be put. In free enterprise, everyone has a part in answering both these questions. In regimentation, they are both answered by whoever is dictator. In a "mixed economy," they are answered to some extent by the people themselves and to some extent by their political overlords.

But, in any case, there must be a nonconsumed "surplus" for investment in greater production facilities before there can be greater production. And private enterprise is much more efficient in producing such a "surplus" than is regimentation for the simple reason that a person cannot very easily be forced into producing more than he consumes. But, when that which he produces and does not at once consume remains his for later consumption, then all his instincts for the security of himself and family join to encourage that postponement of consumption which has provided the capital out of which has been built our material prosperity.

Our founding fathers several times learned this lesson the hard way in early and disastrous colonial experiments with communal production. Let us trust we shall not have to repeat the lesson.

It was not without reason that he announced the change in Pentagon personnel before next month's proposed "Big Four" Conference. The military seems to be gaining supremacy in Russia, Bulganin is Premier, Zhukov is Defense Minister and Konev heads up Russia's Moscow-made NATO of satellite powers.

Ex-Army Office Holders Are Zeroed-In By Critics

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Congresswoman Edith S. Green (D-Ore.) has taken out after all the admirals and generals being appointed to high government jobs after their retirement.

The fact has been noted that the high brass have been doing all right for themselves in big-pay private industry jobs after retiring on a pension at the end of their military careers.

General of the Armies Douglas MacArthur, chairman of Remington Rand, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, chairman of American Can, Gen. Walter B. Smith, chairman of American Machine and Foundry, and so on.

There may be a little sour grapes on the part of Mrs. Green over that. But the thing that really upset her was what happened in the U.S. Immigration Service.

First, Lieut. Gen. Joseph M. Swing, a West Point classmate of Ike's, also retired, was named commissioner of immigration at $17,500 a year.

Then two other retired generals were named as assistant commissioners at $11,800 a year. They were Maj. Gen. Frank H. Parttridge and Brig. General Edwin G. Howard.

Comment Rep. Robert B. Molohan (D-W.Va.): "Swing only wanted his 'cronies' in the jobs." Spurred on by this, Rep. Green set Legislative Service in the Library of Congress to work on compiling a list of retired brass now in high civilian jobs.

Thirty names were turned up. But the list isn't as bad as it sounds.

Eleven retired and reserve officers get no pay at all, or get only their pensions on the Battle Monuments Commission.

Four are paid $50 a day when they work on the job, which isn't often. Three are no longer working for the government.

That leaves only a dozen. There have always been about this many. They have been picked because they were good administrators and they have given distinguished public service. This is today's list:

Brig. Gen. Frank B. Berry (U.S.A.-Ret.) now coordinator of retary of defense for Health and Medical Affairs, $15,000 a year.

Maj. Gen. Joseph S. Bragden (U.S.A.-Ret.) now coordinator of public works planning, Council of Economic Advisers.

Vice Adm. Walter S. Delaney (U.S.N.-Ret.) now deputy director Defense Assistance Control, Foreign Operations Administration, $15,000 a year.

Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton (U.S.A.-Ret.) now president Export-Import Bank, $17,500 a year.

Gen. Graves B. Erskine (U.S.M.C.-Ret.) now assistant secretary of defense for Special Operations, $14,800 a year.

Brig. Gen. Herbert Raymond Loper (U.S.A.-Ret.) now chairman, military liaison, Atomic Energy Commission, $16,000 a year.

Maj. Gen. Hugh M. Milton II (U.S.A.-Resigned) now assistant secretary of the Army for manpower and reserves, $15,000 a year.

Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons (U.S.A.-Ret.) now deputy assistant to the President, $15,000 a year.

Rear Adm. Lewis L. Strauss (U.S.N.R. - Ret.) now chairman Atomic Energy Commission, $20,000 a year.

Brig. Gen. Herbert Davis Vogel (U.S.A.-Ret.) now chairman Tennessee Valley Authority, $15,000 a year.

Brig. Gen. Elbert Parr Tuttle (U.S.A.R.) now a judge, U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, $17,500 a year.

Brig. Gen. Henry C. Byroade (U.S.A.-Resigned) now U.S. ambassador to Egypt, formerly an assistant secretary of state.

Serving at $50 a day, when they work are:

Brig. Gen. Everett R. Cook (U.S.A.F.R.) now commissioner, Rubber Producing Facilities Disposal Commission.

Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid (U.S.N.-Ret.) commissioner, American Battle Movements Commission.

Brig. Gen. E. C. McNell (U.S.A.-Ret.) special assistant to secretary of the Army.

Lt. Gen. W. S. Paul (U.S.A.-Ret.) now assistant to director, Office of Defense Mobilization for plans and readiness.

Courteous Cab Drivers Have Remedial Effect On Hank

By HENRY McLEMORE

If you think you are bad off, let me tell you where I am.

I am in the Statter Hotel in Detroit, surrounded by America's best taxicab drivers. Taxicab drivers who have never scraped a fender, never cussed at a big bus that cut in front of them, never dirtied a white wall against a pedestrian, and always ended a day of driving with a clean conscience.

I am sure you are going to ask me where these men came from, so I'm going to tell you. The Plymouth Motor Corp. asked me to come to Detroit to talk to the 25 best taxicab drivers in America — taxicab drivers who were selected for "The Four-Star Driver" awards for carefulness, character, and contributions to their communities. I was told that I would meet the men who have driven hundreds of thousands of miles without accidents, without ever knowing what a judge looked like, and without ever having been given a summons. A child could see my problem. I stand alone among Plymouth's chosen taxicab drivers.

When they were selected they were given a $500 award, plus a trip to Detroit from wherever they lived, and two to three days of sightseeing.

I was given nothing to come here. I came out of curiosity. I wanted to see if Plymouth was right and if there were such men as the 25 they had chosen. I wanted to talk to them, and ask their advice, as I am not a good driver. I have trouble getting in my own garage, and Mary usually has to stand behind and guide me right and left. When I back into a tight parking place I always lock bumpers with the car behind or in front of me. If I run over anything the "anything" is a prized thing. If my brakes slip, my car hurtles into a group of Campfire Girls baking frankfurters in the sea's edge. If my brakes tighten, I chrom in to the Sheriff of my county. I gather from what I have written that I am an unlucky man in my own car.

The first man I talked to was Robert Kelly, a former United Press man, and a man I worked with years ago. I asked Kelly if he thought I could escape alive.

Kelly did not answer me, which did not surprise me, so I started talking to the taxicab drivers. A man from San Francisco told me he had driven a million miles and had never hurt anyone.

It's not much fun meeting someone who has always done what you would love to try to do, so I asked another Plymouth Four-Star taxicab driver what he thought in the worst mistake that everyday drivers make. This was his answer, and I think we all might benefit from it: "Everybody's right, but me."

You can take that for a sassy remark, but think it over. You lose face as a driver, but you get home in the same condition as you left.

This must be the tenth or twelfth convention I have attended in Detroit, but I tell you truthfully this Plymouth gathering of safe drivers is the first that has given me ideas on how to live an extra year or two.

From here on out I'm going to try to handle my car as sensibly as cab drivers do, judging by their presence with Plymouth in Detroit. I would like to tell the 25 drivers that their trip to Detroit places a new responsibility on their shoulders — else they'll let us ordinary motorists down.

I would like to end this column with a highway motto that I just thought of: "If you think it is fun to go to the undertaker, talk to the people who have been there."

Sales man (displaying an expensive electrical appliance) — Madam, I assure you this model is so simple that a child can operate it.

Tired housewife — That's just the trouble — they usually do.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Isaiah 26:3-12
Knowledge is a power. A knowledge of a law is equivalent to the possession of power. When we completely recognize the fact that we are living in an orderly world in which law governs every aspect of life, and when we know we are at liberty to invoke laws according to our choice, life becomes a thrilling adventure and an eternal responsibility. We are no longer able to accept life without protest; there is much of it we are at liberty to discard.
We know what kind of a world hate and jealousy will produce. In fact, we see such worlds all about us for countless thousands of people are living in them, and the hard lines upon their faces suggest the struggle such living entails.
We know too what kind of a world lust and passion will produce. We catch glimpses of such worlds every day in the newspapers, in modern fiction, and in cinema advertising. In spite of the fanfare with which all such is accompanied, the thoughtful person cannot fail to see that the world of lust is a diseased world, suffering a living death and offering only short-lived satisfactions.
On the other hand, we know what kind of world gentleness will produce, for such worlds are filled with songs. We likewise know what kind of a world can be made out of faith, for there are those all about us whose lives are validations of the prophet's promise: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee." All this means, of course, that knowing the difference between these two worlds, we can choose the one we prefer to live in.
I have deceived myself many times, O God, but I have never deceived thee. I come now in the spirit of deep humility, praying for forgiveness for the obstinate way in which I have tried to substitute my will for thine, my way for thine, my judgments for thine.
Try for one day to change your environment. Start out by smiling at each person you meet. Make a deliberate effort to see the beautiful and the interesting in everything about you. Look for it, and then at the close of the day measure your spirit.

How the real man of God's creator is divinely protected, maintained, and sustained will be brought out in the lesson-sermon entitled, "God the Preserver of Man," at CHRISTIAN SCIENCE services Sunday.
Keynoting the lesson-sermon is the golden text from Isaiah (43: 2, 3): "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee; when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burned; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee. For I am the Lord thy God, the Holy One of Israel, thy Savior."

Women In The Church

Five young women are studying at a National Missions School of Practical Nursing (Presbyterian), opened recently in Cordele, Ga. The school is the first approved school of its kind open to Negroes in the state. An in-service training arrangement with Grady Hospital in Atlanta and the new community hospital in Cordele gives the students additional valuable experience. The school's twin project, a day care center for tots of working mothers, maintains an average daily attendance of 15 to 20 children.
The rapidly changing character of the American home challenges the church to keep pace, says Dr. Richard E. Lenz, director of the National Council of Churches' adult and family life departments.
"The nation is filling up with children and older adults, and churches are facing the need for more space, more Sunday church school teachers, and completely changed programs for parishioners." This is made evident, he says, by U. S. population changes since 1940, even though the 14 to 24 year old group is ten per cent lower. The number of both those under five and over 75 have increased by more than 70 per cent, and those in the next age groups (five to nine, and 70 to 75) have doubled. Dr. Lenz adds that "it is clear that many adults not now teaching in the church school must be recruited for that responsibility or thousands of children will either be denied Christian teaching or be crowded into groups too large for good work." With the great wave of children's enrollment now at the threshold of the Sunday church school's junior department, and with no sign of a let-up in the number of children to follow, he points out that "the need for larger quarters and more teachers is permanent."

The Rev. H. B. Loyd of Brownwood, superintendent of the Brownwood district, reported churches in the district made a net gain of 1693 members during the year.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

RICHARD W. CREWS, Minister
First Christian Church
Pampa, Texas

WE NEED THE CHURCH

It is true that the church needs us, but far more we need the church. We need its fellowship, the inspiration of its worship and above all we need its Christ.

In days of turmoil and stress the church is a symbol of calm and balanced living. It offers us a sanctuary from the noise and confusion of the world, where we can "reap the harvest of the quiet mind." It offers the great spiritual resources of God's love and guidance if with all our hearts we truly seek Him. It offers Christian love which drives out all fear, and Christian fellowship which dispels all loneliness. In times of sorrow it speaks from God a message of comfort and strength. When we are complacent about the world's evils it challenges, inspires and enlists us in the high endeavor to achieve a better world and better men to live in it in the Spirit of Him Who said "Behold, I make all things new."

Let us then, this Sunday and every Sunday, go into the house of the Lord to worship for truly "Strength and beauty are in His sanctuary."

THE OILERS' POSTPONED GAMES are rapidly catching up with last year's record total.

Last night's postponed game at Clovis was the 10th time the Oilers have been idled by inclement weather. This is only six shy of last year's 16 postponements and the season isn't half over.

Of the 10 postponed games have been made up so the Oilers will have at least 11 doubleheaders coming up this season, the two regularly scheduled twinbills on July 4 and Labor Day plus the nine postponed games that must be made up in doubleheaders.

In the only doubleheader played by the Oilers to date, the locals swept a pair of the Plainview Ponies here a couple weeks ago.

The Oilers, thus, are starting off this season in their doubleheader success as they enjoyed last season.

In last year's 18 twinbills, the Pampanas swept both ends 12 times, split five and lost both games only once.

The locals, weather permitting, will meet Clovis in a doubleheader tonight at Clovis.

El Paso is the only club in the league that has been having decent luck with the weather. The Texans have had only two games postponed and have already made one of these up. El Paso has played 51 games to date while the Oilers have gotten in only 42.

Clovis, like the Oilers, have also had 10 postponements this season and have made up one, giving them 42 games for the season. None of the other clubs surpass the Oilers and Pioneers in postponements.

Abilene has had nine postponements and made up one for 44 games to date. Here is a complete run-down of the number of games each club has played. (Each club has had 52 games scheduled):

El Paso 51, Plainview, Albuquerque and Amarillo, 46 each; Lubbock 45; Abilene, 44; and Pampa and Clovis, 42.

Subtract the above numbers from 52 and you have the number of doubleheaders each team faces this season plus the two that are regularly scheduled.

IF PAUL HALTER HITS SAFE in the first game of tonight's doubleheader at Clovis, he will break the club record for this season in hitting in most consecutive games.

The Oiler centerfielder has hit safely in the last 12 games and will be shooting for the "unlucky 13" tonight.

Oilers Again Are Sidelined But Hike Lead

By UNITED PRESS

High winds which whipped through eastern New Mexico Thursday night called gusty halts to two scheduled West-Texas-New Mexico League games and the pace-setting Pampa Oilers saw two of their challengers, Plainview and Abilene, beaten.

The Lubbock-Albuquerque and Pampa-Clovis contests were postponed because of chilly winds which made pitching and fielding hazardous.

In the only two games played, El Paso beat Abilene 8 to 3 and Amarillo downed Plainview 7 to 4.

El Paso used a 13-hit attack to defeat Abilene. The Texans saw Kenny Yoke pitch a seven-hitter to outthrust Jay Haney of Abilene, the loser. El Paso scored three times in the third to wrap up the game. A two-base error put Dick Honacki on base, then Jim Mangin's single sent Honacki home and Denny Dobbins singled in the third run. Gerry Mackay hit a homer to open the inning.

Amarillo staved off a ninth-inning Plainview rally to take the victory. Playing on a muddy field and with a steady rain, the Ponies scored their last-ditch runs on I. B. Palmer's leadoff homer, three successive singles by Doug Lewis, Dean Smith and Pat Knox and Dale Perry's double. The winning pitcher was Marshall Bridges, who yielded 11 hits, with Jim Lemons, the first of three Pony pitchers, getting the loss. Pat Wright also homered for the Gold Sox.

Friday night, Abilene plays at El Paso, Amarillo at Plainview, Lubbock at Albuquerque and Pampa plays a doubleheader at Clovis.

Conrad Reaches French Q-Finals

PARIS—UP—Lt. Joe Conrad of San Antonio, who hopes to complete an international "grand slam" this weekend, played compatriot Bruce Cudd of Portland, Ore., Friday in the quarterfinals of the French Amateur golf championship.

Conrad surprised the golfing world last Saturday by winning the British Amateur crown at St. Anne England, and earlier teamed with Cudd in leading the U. S. Walker Cup team to victory over Great Britain at St. Andrews, Scotland.

Bill Campbell, of Huntington, W. Va., captain of the Yanks' Walker Cup squad, also held down a berth in Friday's quarterfinals, along with Don Bisplinghoff of Orlando, Fla., and Li. Jim Gray of Jacksonville, Fla.

Campbell was pitted against A. H. Perowne of Britain, Bisplinghoff met K. G. Thom of France, and Gray played Henri de LaMaze of France, the defending champion.

The semifinals also were scheduled Friday, with the winners meeting Saturday in a 36-hole final.

Conrad won the British title in the wind and rain, and proved to be a good "mudder" again Thursday as he gained the quarterfinals with two victories in a steady downpour.

NFL Eagles Sign Trainer PHILADELPHIA—UP—Jess Alderman of Alexandria, Va., has been signed as associate trainer with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, succeeding Tom Floyd, who died last month.

Amarillo, Borger Tournery Winners

Despite cold and rain, the Bell Telephone Invitational Tournery got underway last night at Phillips Park in Bowers City.

Only one game was played with Plains Chevrolet of Amarillo defeating Phillips, 16-1. Philblack of Borger won the second game of the scheduled twinbill without lift, a glove since their opponents, the Memphis All-Stars, failed to show.

Play continues tonight with Phillips Men's Club of Borger meeting Plains Machinery of Amarillo in the first game at 7:30 and Bell Telephone of Pampa meeting Hawbaker of Amarillo at 9:00.

Admission price for the tournament at Bowers City, seven miles south of Pampa, is 25 cents.

In last night's game, play was called in the third inning with Plains Chevrolet holding a scant 1-0 lead but when play was resumed, the Amarilloans ran wild.

The delay, which lasted for 15 minutes, only served in Phillips pitcher James Shew getting cold because he had trouble getting anyone out after play was resumed.

Plains turned the game into a rout in the top of the third with a 12-run rally. The Amarillo team battered completely around twice in the big third inning.

Jerald Mastler was the big gun in the Plains big inning. Mastler led off the inning with a homerun and then came back the second time in the inning to slam another homer, this time coming with the bases loaded.

And Mastler made it three roundtrippers for the night in the fourth inning.

Paul Giedel went all the way for the winners and allowed three hits. The only Phillips run came in the fourth on a walk to Alvin Ward and successive singles by Bill Clay and Bob Clark.

Joe Hildebrandt got the other Phillips hit.

The line:
Plains Chev. 100 (12)3-16 13 0
Phillips 000 10 -1 3 4
Giedel and Schantz; Shew, Clay, Sparts and Clark.

Moore Believes Basilio's Chances Good Against Tony

SUMMIT, N. J.—UP—Carmen Basilio, who meets title holder Tony DeMarco for the welterweight championship in Syracuse, N. Y., Friday night, has an added rooster in light heavyweight champion Archie Moore.

Moore, in training here for a title defense against middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson in New York's Polo Grounds, June 22, said that he had seen Basilio fight several times and that he thinks the Catania, N. Y., boxer has a good chance of beating DeMarco.

"I've seen Basilio fight several times and I think he's a great little fighter," Moore said. "He has earned a chance to fight for the championship and I'm glad to see him get it. He certainly deserves it."

Moore worked three rounds with spartan Clint Brown Thursday thus far to 19.

Meanwhile, at Asbury Park, where Olson is in training, trainer Freddie Bianchi said he thought the middleweight king was rounding into shape sooner than expected.

Play Begins In College World Series

OMAHA, Neb., —UP—The 1955 NCAA college world series opened Friday with Wake Forest, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion, battling Colgate, NCAA District 3 champion.

Coach Red O'Hara's Colgate club, making its first post-season appearance in the 69-year baseball history of the school, sports a 16-5 season record, with one tie, and for the Wake Forest team, which had a 24-8 season under Coach Taylor Sanford.

In later games Friday, the three favored clubs are matched against the series "small college" entries.

Following the Colgate-Wake Forest contest at 11 a. m., Southern California, Pacific Coast Conference champion with a 29-7 record, goes into action against Colorado State of Greeley, which won the Rocky Mountain Division title with a 24-7 record.

Hard-hitting Arizona, which has played 42 games for a 37-5 record this year, opens at 5 p. m. against Western Michigan, which beat out Big Ten Conference champion Ohio State for District 4.

The Oklahoma Aggies, who sailed through 22 games unbeaten before dropping one of the three District 5 playoff games to Oklahoma, were pitted against Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., in the nightcap at 8:30 p. m.

The losers in the first round will be pitted against each other in the first two rounds Saturday, and the four winners will be paired off Saturday night.

Konstanty Making Comeback As Part Of New York Yankees' Pitching Staff

By UNITED PRESS

Every club in the National League waived on "washed up" Jim Konstanty last August but the way he has been pitching for the Yankees, he may be able to wave back at 'em all with a World Series share in September.

No one except the Yankees wanted Konstanty from the Phillies last summer, yet any number of clubs in both leagues would grab the bespectacled, 38-year-old right-hander with the .058 earned run average now.

Konstanty, the most valuable player in the National League in 1950, flashed much of that old-time form Thursday as he pitched one-hit ball for 4 2/3 innings and registered his third victory without a loss in a 7-3 triumph over the Tigers.

Just Two Earned Runs

So far this season, Konstanty, who now throws with a peculiar delicate, dainty-like motion, has allowed only two earned runs in 16 appearances. He balled out fourdering Whitey Ford Thursday with two men on base and a three-and-a-half-inning, then got Phillips to hit into a double play.

The victory stretched the Yankees' lead in the American League to five games.

The Red Sox beat the shidding Indians 4-2, handing Cleveland its third defeat in a row. Herb Score started for the Tribe but was knocked out for the second time in three games although he struck out nine in the five innings he worked. Errors by Score and Jim Hegan helped the Red Sox score two runs in the third and they added the clincher in the fourth on doubles by Jim Piersall and pitcher Frank Sullivan.

Rain and cold weather caused postponement of the doubleheader between the White Sox and Orioles in the American League and of the games between Cincinnati and Brooklyn and Milwaukee and New York in the National League.

Kansas City edged Washington 4-2 in another game, while the Chicago Cubs beat the Pirates 6-2 and the Phillies blanked the Cardinals 2-0.

Art Ditmar survived a rocky start and capped a fourth-inning four-run rally with a two-run single that gave the Kansas City Athletics a 4-2 victory over the Washington Senators.

Southpaw Chuck Stobbs went the distance for the Senators, yielding all of Kansas City's runs in the fourth when they put together two hits, three walks and an error by Bob Kline for their winning margin.

The Cubs continued to get good pitching and timely hitting to beat the Pirates and chop a half game off Brooklyn's National League Paul Minner held Pittsburgh to six hits, including Frank Thomas' fifth homer, but it was a seventh inning homer by veteran Walker Cooper that snapped a 2-all tie and put Chicago in front for good.

Robin Roberts achieved his ninth victory with a smooth three-hit effort that gave the Phillies the 2-0 decision over the Cardinals. Roberts struck out nine and didn't walk a man to beat rookie Larry Jackson.

Thursday's Star

Robin Roberts of the Phillies for his three-hit 2-0 triumph over the Cardinals.

Favors Pay TV

NEW YORK —UP—Robert Hall, former director of athletics at Yale and one-time chairman of the NCAA's television committee, is in favor of pay-as-you-go-TV. Hall, who has made an exhaustive study of the sports TV problem, filed a memorandum with the Federal Communications Commission Thursday asking it "to make available to the public the benefits of pay-as-you-go telecasts of sports events."

Signs for Bonus

PHILADELPHIA —UP—Dallas Green, a righthanded pitcher from the University of Delaware, has signed for a "moderate" bonus with the Philadelphia Phillies. The 20-year-old Green, from Wilmington, Del., was assigned to the Syracuse club of the International League.

Tigers Sign Bonus Player

DETROIT —UP—James Brady, a 19-year-old lefthanded pitcher from Jersey City, N. J., who was sought by seven major league clubs, has signed a bonus contract estimated at $25,000 with the Detroit Tigers. Brady, who will complete the present semester at Notre Dame next week, will join the Tigers in New York, June 14.

Dodgers Sell Black To Cincinnati Reds

BROOKLYN —UP—Pitcher Joe Black of the Dodgers was saved from the minors Friday by a broken bone in another man's wrist.

Black was traded to Cincinnati Thursday for about $15,000 in cash and a minor league player to be delivered later to one of the Dodger farms. The Redlegs, already desperate for pitching, decided to gamble on Brooklyn's hero of the 1952 campaign, when they learned that Bud Podolsian, a starting hurler, had smashed a small bone in sliding into a base Tuesday.

Black had been up for sale for some time but nobody had made a satisfactory offer for him until General Manager Gabe Paul of the Redlegs closed the deal.

The Negro right hander from Plainfield, N. J., won 15 games and lost only four in 1952 and won rookie of the year honors for his standout relief work which was a big factor in Brooklyn's successful pennant drive.

But the better began to catch on to Black's cunning and in 1953 his record dwindled to 4-3. In 1954 things became worse and after failing to win a game with the Dodgers he was sent back to the minors.

Baby 'Dies,' Is Revived

SAN ANTONIO (UP)—A baby died Thursday only 20 hours after his heart stopped beating and he was revived during an operation to dislodge a peanut in his bronchial tube.

The 16-month-old boy, Raymond Collins, was the son of Sgt. and Mrs. Fred Collins of Hubbard, Tex., who was flown here Wednesday night to Brooke Army hospital for the delicate operation.

During the operation, the boy's heart stopped beating. Surgeons opened his chest and massaged his heart until it resumed beating.

The child revived and even regained consciousness, then relapsed into a coma and died 20 hours later.

Doctors said the operation had failed to uncover the peanut from the child's throat.

The boy's father is stationed in Korea and was granted an emergency leave to fly home to the bedside of his son. But, his leave came too late for him to see the child alive.

Funeral services are pending.

NO DUMMY SHE

This window "mannequin" in a San Francisco store window had scads of pedestrians doing a double-take. They'd look at the "dummy" for several minutes, admiring its lifelike appearance. Then the "dummy" would move. The bathing suit model is actually Carole Nielson, a finalist in the Miss San Francisco contest. She got a big kick out of reclining with complete immobility and then suddenly coming to "life."

No Winners In Final Puzzle

Explanation of more difficult clues:

CLUES ACROSS:
8. Quite true if you wanted to Devise a will. You wouldn't Revise a will — you would either add a codicil or make a new will.
9. Disappointment with his Driver is certainly apt to worry a golfer and may put him off his game. There is no reason to suppose that unsatisfactory Drives "put him right off his game" because few golfers, if any, are satisfied that their Drives are completely satisfactory. That is, golfers are used to a certain number of unsatisfactory Drives.
10. Rats is best. The clue mentions "associated." Rats and mice are definitely associated, since they both belong to the rodent family. There is no definite association between Cats and mice. Cats would be better in the singular — in the expression "Cat and mouse," for example, Bats is poor.
11. The thought of having a Tent, yes; but he would be much more liable to be thinking in terms of "going camping" and all its pleasures or something of that sort, rather than just of "having a Tent."
12. All such artists need Nerve — an animated, enthusiastic approach to their work. Nerve is more limited in its application, since not all acts are the "dangerous" kind, needing Nerve.
13. Sewing is more apt since when Sewing you have both hands occupied, the smudge gets in your eyes, the ash drops on your work, etc., You Can Saw with one hand — or you may be running a mechanical Saw.
14. Bill is more apt, having a direct bearing on "money." The provisions of a Will are just as likely to be concerned with property. Till is not favored.
15. Constant Pain clearly can have this effect in any case. Rain will only depress such a man if he has a particular reason for wanting dry weather.
16. The clue specifies really good ones. This favors Skits, since people only want the best when it comes to entertainment, but Suits, on the other hand, are in good demand in variety of qualities. Many people do not want really good Suits (which are, of course, at really good prices).
CLUES DOWN:
1. Rebate fits the careful wording of this clue. The clue implies that this is connected with a settlement (and the quicker the better). Rebate is very apt, in many cases being allowed on an account for the sole purpose of encouraging a quick settlement. A Debate is simply a discussion or argument — not necessarily about anything that needs "settlement."
2. Lies best fits the word "complicate." If a witness Dies, it cannot make the case more complicated; it can only add difficulties to the presentation of evidence in court, or to the compilation of evidence. Misleading or conflicting evidence from one who Lies can certainly complicate things.
3. Sedge is a closer fit to the wording of the clue which suggests that the height is determined naturally or by natural growth. Sedge is apt to grow higher in some places. A Hedge is often allowed to grow higher in some places.

4. "Shift workers" is a perfectly natural expression and fits the clue nicely and will limit argument. Shift workers is not the natural way of expressing it and sounds odd. Fast workers, for example, is more natural in such a case than Swift.

16. A small child certainly has "a tiny Wrist," but, when very young, its Waist measurement may be comparatively large.

18. This is a close choice so we seek out some "clue" in the wording. For instance, the clue implies that this is a male part ("actor"). This should rule out a female part. This is true of Lear, but not necessarily of Lead.

19. Sons is best since the clue stresses "emotional." The blood ties between a man and his Sons link strongly with the "emotional" aspect of the clue. He may renounce his Sins for purely moral reasons.

21. Jam is best. "Better than nothing" suggests some sort of makeshift, or something not particularly esteemed. A Ham sandwich, however, is quite a popular form of snack, and may be all a person wants. Jam, therefore, fits the clue wording better.

Iberia was the Greek name for the peninsula including modern Spain and Portugal.

The game of whist acquired its name from the silence originally observed during play.

World's four longest rivers are Missouri - Mississippi, 4220 miles; Nile, 4000; Amazon, 3900; and the Yangtze, 3400 miles.

May Mishaps Kill 10 In Panhandle

Highway Patrolmen of the Amarillo district No. 5, composed of 26 Panhandle Counties, investigated 146 accidents during the month of May in which 10 persons lost their lives and 73 were injured, according to a monthly report issued by the Amarillo office.

The 29 patrolmen worked 4,785 hours during the day and 2,466 hours during the night traveling 78,438 miles making 571 arrests for various traffic law violations.

The group listed speeding, driving while drinking, miscellaneous hazardous driving violations, following too closely and failure to grant right of way respectively, as the principal violations that were causative factors in the May accidents.

They made 155 speeding arrests and 31 Driving While Intoxicated arrests while issuing 1166 warnings for hazardous violations during the month.

The group also made four investigations for restoration of driver's licenses and served 28 safety responsibility demand orders.

Legion Chief Denies Spat In London

NEW YORK — UP — Seaborn P. Collins, national commander of the American Legion arrived here Thursday and denied he had been rebuked by Lord Louis Mountbatten because of an anti-Communist speech.

Collins delivered the speech to a convention of the British Empire Service League, a top veterans organization.

Following Collins' speech, Lord Mountbatten, league head, departed from a prepared speech, according to reports, to remark that the league was an organization devoted exclusively to veterans affairs. This was construed in some quarters as a reprimand to Collins for making a "political" speech.

Collins said, "there was no rebuke. I heard Lord Mountbatten's speech and I did not take it as an affront. There was absolutely no incident that I know of created by my address and insofar as I know I think the British take the same viewpoint."
