

Government To Stage Biggest Civil Defense Test Next Week

EDITOR'S NOTE—The government will stage its biggest civil defense test next week, with President Eisenhower among those shifting quickly to secret relocation centers. The following United Press dispatch describes how the operation will be carried out.

By JOHN L. CUTLER
WASHINGTON, June 11 —UP—

What would happen if enemy planes began raining atomic bombs on 50 American cities, including Washington, the nation's nerve center?

Government planners hope to get some idea next week with "Operation Alert, 1955," the biggest civil defense test ever tried. It starts at 10 a. m. on June 15 and continues through Friday, June 17.

At the sound of the sirens, President Eisenhower and 10,000 government employees will scurry out of town to secret emergency relocation centers from which they will direct government affairs the next two days.

What happens in the other "stricken" cities depends on the pattern of local civil defense plans.

Purpose of the exercise is to test the readiness of civil defense in critical target cities and get some experience in carrying on war-essential functions of the federal government in case the real thing ever comes.

It will be assumed that the Air aggressor aircraft winging toward critical target areas in the Northeast, the Middle West and the Pacific Coast. A warning will be flashed through the civil defense communications network. The sirens will begin to wail at 10:05 a. m. est.

In the Washington area, it will be the signal for President Eisenhower, cabinet members and more than 227,000 federal employees to leave their desks.

Most of them will go no farther than adjacent parking lots. Then they go back to work, or to lunch.

For the President, top officials and selected employees of 31 department and agencies, it marks the beginning of a new experience in mock warfare.

Traveling mostly by private automobile, they are under orders to proceed immediately to 31 previously chosen emergency centers scattered over a radius of 30 to 300 miles. Exact locations, including Mr. Eisenhower's hide-away, are secret.

Some are on government owned property, including military installations not regarded as primary targets. Some are in college towns, where dormitories and dining halls are available.

At least one "tent city" is involved. There the relocated workers will eat, sleep and work under canvas much as though they were on Army field exercise.

Once at the relocation centers, the real work begins. A special communication system will keep the President in touch with the far-flung departments and agencies.

Sentimentally I am disposed to harmony; but organically I am incapable of tune.—Charles Lamb.

Ike Wants To Help Allies Build A-Plants

President Outlines Ideas On 'Atoms-For-Peace'

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., June 11 — UP — President Eisenhower offered Saturday to help friendly nations build research and power reactors to open "the gateway to a broad avenue of world progress."

Dramatically lending new emphasis to his original atoms for peace proposal, the President proposed that this nation:

1. Pay half the cost of constructing research atomic reactors in partnership with free nations which would use them for "peaceful atomic progress." The United States would furnish the fuel free.
2. Make available "within prudent security considerations" American skills and know-how to those friendly nations which would build their own power reactors and operate them for "peaceful purposes."

Inspects New Reactor
Standing before some 20,000 rain-drenched persons in Beaver Stadium, Mr. Eisenhower made his proposal in a commencement address at Pennsylvania State University where he had inspected a new $300,000 atomic reactor.

"Our purpose is to spark the creative and inventive skills latent in the free world, to pool them and to put them to work for the betterment of the conditions under which men must live," the President said.

In making his dual atoms-for-peace proposal, he also suggested that where one nation does not have the skills and resources for construction and operation of a research reactor, the United States would support a voluntary grouping of several friendly nations within a single region to acquire and operate one together.

The chief executive's suggestions went far beyond an existing U. S. program for sharing atomic information with friendly nations and was a new challenge to Russia to join in an international atomic agency to put the atom to peaceful pursuits.

Now Sharing Data
This country now is sharing some non-military atomic information with friendly nations. Ten bilateral agreements have been initiated and 10 more may be completed by the middle of this month.

Under these agreements the United States provides uranium to run research reactors which are built or purchased by other nations and contributes certain information.

These friendly nations now would build research reactors with the United States paying half the total cost which averages about $350,000. In fact, the United States already has embarked on the program.

The reactor the United States will put on display at the atomic energy world exhibit at Geneva in August will be sold to Switzerland for $180,000.

Full Polio Probe Is Ordered

Experts Attack Vaccine Report

WASHINGTON, June 11 — UP — Chairman J. Percy Priest of the House Commerce committee Saturday ordered a full investigation of the Salk polio vaccine controversy.

Priest, a Tennessee Democrat, said his group will dig into the vital issue of the vaccine's safety, the advisability of giving shots during the summer polo season, and the way the program has been handled by the Eisenhower administration.

He said the hearings will get underway about a week from Tuesday.

The problem also will come up for review before the Senate Labor committee which will resume its hearings on several vaccine control bills next week.

Congress should wait until his committee gets all the answers on the vaccine's safety and use, "Congress should not enact any legislation endorsing the mass inoculation of American children."

He spoke out as the government's massive "white paper" on the nation's vaccine troubles came under heavy attack from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, one of the vaccine manufacturers, and others.

The report conceded frankly that the safety standard under which most of the vaccine this year was released had "failed" because of misjudgment on the part of the government, the industry, and some scientists.

10 Killed In B-29 Crash

U.S. Bomber Hits German Mountain

STUTTGART, Germany, June 11 — UP — All 10 crew members of a U. S. Superfortress were killed when their plane, flying up a dead-end valley and with visibility cut to 30 feet by fog, crashed into a mountainside and burned over Germany Friday night, the Air Force announced Saturday.

"There were no survivors," an Air Force spokesman said after rescue teams reached the scene of the crash 1,300 feet up the side of a 2,200-foot peak in the Swabian Alps.

The plane was attached to the 382nd air re-supply group at Molewirth Air Force Base, Huntingdonshire, England. It was an SB-29, a supply transport version of the famed World War II Superfortress and was on a non-stop instrument training flight over Germany when it crashed 13 miles southeast of Stuttgart.

Instrument failure of a miscalculation of the crew while "flying blind" over unfamiliar territory was blamed for the crash. The pilot flying on instruments let down for a practice approach to the Stuttgart air field and was climbing away from the field for a return flight to England when radio contact was lost with the aircraft.

His climb was too slow and he flew up a dead-end valley 900 feet below the summit of the surrounding hills, officials said.

"Visibility was only 30 feet," an official said. "The pilot apparently tried at the last minute to pull the plane up, clear to the peak that loomed in front of him."

Air Force rescue teams and detachments of German police reached the crash scene early Saturday morning near the village of Owen.

The Air Force said that identification of the crew would not be made until Monday at the earliest to allow next of kin to be notified.

GM Wage Talks At 'Crucial Stage'

By LEE LINDBERG
DETROIT, June 11 — UP — Walter Reuther Saturday urged Harlow Curtice, president of General Motors, to enter negotiations with the CIO United Auto Workers, personally but Curtice promptly turned down the request.

Reuther told Curtice negotiations "have reached a critical stage, with time running out and with a number of basic issues still unresolved."

The CIO president said in the past Curtice's two predecessors, William S. Knudsen and C. E. Wilson, "participated when negotiations reached a comparable critical stage."

Curtice said, however, that "Harry Anderson and Louis Seaton have full authority to negotiate for General Motors." Anderson is vice president in charge of personnel and Seaton is director of industrial relations.

Reuther's request that Curtice join the talks indicated the union was getting impatient at General Motors' delay in making a new contract offer.

Reuther didn't indicate in his letter to Curtice exactly what matters still remained to be taken up at the bargaining table, except to say they included "important sections of the working agreement."

Cominform Break Seen As Red Move

By K. C. THALER
LONDON, June 11 — UP — Russia may be willing to break up its notorious "Cominform" as part of a bargain for cooperation with the Western powers, diplomatic reports indicated Saturday.

The Cominform is the Communist Bureau of Information which the Kremlin formed as a propaganda and coordinating agency in 1947.

Reports from behind the Iron Curtain suggest that the dissolution of the Cominform might be promised by Russia as one of its maneuvers in the new "soft approach" it is now using.

Cominform also dissolved. It was recalled that the "Cominform" — Communist International — which was the predecessor of the Cominform was dissolved during World War II as a gesture toward the non-Communist Allies.

The old Cominform was once the directing center of world communism. The Cominform has not had a very bright life. It reached its high point in 1948 when President Tito of Yugoslavia was thrown out

$214,000 In 2 Years

Lev Can't Recall Spending Funds

By HERBERT FOSTER

WASHINGTON, June 11 — UP — Millionaire cap maker Harry Lev, central figure in a pay-off investigation, insisted under a senatorial tongue-lashing Saturday that he could not remember how he spent some $214,000 in cash during a two-year period.

But the Chicago cap king said he slipped not a dollar to government employees in order to get government contracts.

The millionaire manufacturer — whose broken English, odd phrasing, and tributes to the rejuvenation powers of turtle steaks have spoiled five days of hearings — ended his testimony with trouble, apparently, still ahead.

Testimony Made Public

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee, which has been hearing his testimony, made public closed-door testimony gives Friday after it finished Saturday's hearings.

In this testimony, Lev's accountant, Theodore C. Weinberg, disclosed that the Internal Revenue Bureau is challenging Lev's income tax returns beginning with 1950.

Weinberg said he told Lev that the deductions for entertainment and promotional expense must be itemized. He said Lev did not itemize them, merely marking them "estimate." He also indicated he told Lev such expenses could not be claimed in obtaining government contracts.

Parting Shot at Lev
Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) wound up the five days of hearings Saturday with this parting shot at Lev:

"The Tourists Development Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday, June 13, at 10 a. m. to complete the details for handling tourist of the week program this summer.

Tentative plans provide for the "arrest" of a couple of tourists twice a month. They will then be guests of the city for overnight lodging, meals, entertainment, and car service.

The committee felt that the program was very successful last summer, and anticipate good results this year. Jack Vaughn is chairman of the committee.

Hospital Board To Ask County For Bond Vote

The Highland General Hospital Board Friday night decided to proceed with plans to call the $300,000 bond election for enlarging the hospital.

B. R. Cantrell, architect, presented three first-floor plans to the board, all providing for a two-floor addition of 40 private rooms. The plans were for a proposed "T" or "L"-shaped north wing addition to the present hospital plant.

Although the board seemed to favor the "L" shape, they decided to leave the final approval to the hospital, presumably with the bond suggested that the plans be circulated among the doctors for criticism and approval.

Chet Lander led the Board in a discussion of air-conditioning the hospital, presumable with the bond election funds, but no definite decision was reached. Lander favored-

Lander presented his monthly written report to the board and approval of bills was made.

Turncoat GI Wants To Wed Russian

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 11 — UP — The mother of one American soldier who cast his lot with the Communists after being captured in Korea disclosed Saturday her son hopes to marry a Russian girl at Feiping, China, this summer.

Former Pfc. Samuel David Hawkins, one of 21 U. S. GI's who turned down a chance to come home after the Korean truce, wrote that his would-be bride is an employe of the Russian embassy in Feiping.

Mrs. Carley Jones, Hawkins' mother, said her 21-year-old son appears happy and content. His letters, apparently uncensored, tell of his activities as a university student in the Chinese capital.

Hawkins was 17, and had been in Korea two months, when he was captured. Unlike Otto G. Bell, Olympia, Wash., another of the turncoats, Hawkins has not shown any interest in returning home.

Mrs. Jones said Bell's change of heart hadn't been mentioned by Hawkins. Bell has a 21-year-old wife and four-year-old child at Olympia.

Hawkins recently sent his mother a color photograph of himself. He was dressed in western-style suit and brightly-colored tie.

WAGES

600 auto workers and 35,000 CIO electrical workers are scheduled to walk out at midnight Sunday unless a new settlement is reached.

Both sides appeared hopeful they could reach accord before midnight Sunday—the strike deadline for 350,000 General Motors auto workers and another 35,000 employees who belong to the CIO United Electrical Workers Union.

Neither side would comment on whether General Motors has submitted its answer to the "guaranteed semi-annual wage" plan embodied in the new three-year Ford contract signed last Monday. The Ford plan guarantees the firm's 140,500 workers between 60 and 65 per cent of their normal take-home pay during a half-year layoff.

CIO President Walter Reuther said after negotiating the Ford contract he was going after equal or better benefits from General Motors.

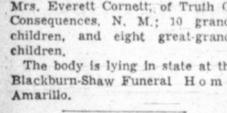

It was doubtful if either side would tackle a brand new guaranteed wage plan with the strike deadline so near. It would take long sessions, interspersed with caucuses, for company and union negotiators to digest a complicated jobs-pay set-up with which they were not basically familiar.

After Friday night's session which broke up shortly after midnight, Reuther said he still was hopeful a settlement could be reached before the deadline.

HOME GONE -- Two young members of the Howell family and a neighbor peer out of what remains of their home. The family's home, 10 miles southeast of Shamrock, was completely destroyed. (News Photo)

Shamrock Citizens Gave Freely To Storm Victims

By JOEL COMBS
Pampa News Staff Writer
SHAMROCK -- A long, black, fingerlike funnel dipped down from the clouds and brought unbelievable destruction to the homes of at least five families in the Shamrock area on May 25.

About five o'clock in the afternoon it was, just before supper, when Mrs. H. V. Parrish, who lives about eight miles east of Shamrock, looked out the window and stared at devastation crossing the highway, less than 300 yards away.

"We've got to get out of here," she screamed to her husband, and the cellar door slammed shut behind them scant seconds before whirling winds blew away their home -- completely.

The twisting holocaust then continued on its relentless way, leaving a clear-cut path as it went and striking terror in the hearts of many before it diminished.

Then came reports of dead livestock, (one ranch lost 78 head of cattle), destroyed homes, frightened and desperate people like the Bond Ward family who, fleeing the storm in their car, evacuated it when water reached the running board. They sought safety by clinging to a tree in a ravine while the winds twisted and ripped at their bodies, jerking loose their five-year old son. Miraculously the boy was caught by a member of the family and the little group somehow survived the five-minute ordeal.

Shocked Citizens
Stories like this and of people's homes and belongings destroyed shocked the citizens of Shamrock on that May afternoon when the winds had quieted. "What if it had hit town?", "How many are hurt?", "I was never so scared." These and other evidences of terror were heard.

But this is not a story of terror! Neither is it a story of sadness, nor despair, nor helplessness before the winds.

It is a story of faith and hope... a story of humanity aiding itself. It is a mirror of the big American heart, free to help who it wants in the way it chooses. And this is how the particular incident happened in the Top of Texas.

The citizens of Shamrock and surrounding communities, seeing the desperate need of the five families most severely hit, promptly began to do what was necessary to alleviate the situation.

sorely needed articles and gave them to the appreciative storm victims.

Funds were set up in the banks; grocery stores became gathering points for clothes and food; restaurants and filling stations sent out articles; quilting parties were held and in many other ways supplies and cash were raised.

No member of the Ward, Hill, Parrish, Stove or Howell families was forgotten.

"A pick-up full of clothes left behind and one grocery store man reported: "We've just been letting the people leave their money here for the families and already over $100 has been collected," said another individual.

The Keltom Community gave a shower for the Ward family, contributing over $200 in cash and various articles of clothing, furniture and food.

Collections Taken
One man collected over $100 just sitting on the gate at one of the damaged homes with a cigar box in hand while curious tourists viewed what was left of the house.

The Good Samaritan club gave thousands of articles of clothing and bedding -- quilting comforts and other items.

Churches and other groups contributed needed supplies.

In many cases, individuals didn't bother with the collections, they just walked up and handed a check or currency to the appreciative families who didn't ask for help but graciously accepted what was offered.

Yes, the organizations whose purpose it is to relieve the blow in event of disaster did their work, too. They provided clothes, food, and housing for the storm victims. Their help was appreciated, too.

But the meat of this story is that Mr. Top of Texas citizen saw a need and filled it. He didn't pass the buck and say, "Some one will take care of it." It seemed like everyone contributed in one way or another, and they were glad to do it.

The original meaning of "carol" was a ring dance, and the carolers danced as they sang.

In 1944, the original publishers, Charles Scribner's Sons, published the first supplemental volume, bringing the set to 22 volumes.

The supplement contained listings of persons who died no later than Dec. 31, 1935, finding entries for 652 persons by 358 contributors.

The original work was published in 1928. It is to the credit of the American Council of Learned Societies that they have looked on the work as a continuing enterprise.

Persons included in the work are only those who have definitely contributed to the making of America in some significant way. Average or commonplace figures are not included.

BOOK PATER

In the shelves of the library's work, which rivals the British reference section is housed one of the great works of American scholarship, the Dictionary of National Biography.

Entries for the dictionary presented a problem -- how to determine what names should be entered. Three limitations were set up, in view of ambiguities which the appellation "American" presented.

1. Living persons would not be included.
2. No one who did not live in the territorial confines of what is now known as the United States would be included.
3. British officers in service in the colonies following the Declaration of Independence would not be included in the DAB.

With the founding of the American Council of Learned Societies in 1922 a committee was appointed to investigate the possibility of understanding the tremendous task. Naturally, funds for the project stood as the greatest road block to starting the work. The estimated cost ran to half a million dollars.

Plans for the project were submitted to the then publisher of the New York Times, the renowned Mr. Adolph Ochs, in whose memory the proposed 54-volume collection of the writings of Thomas Jefferson is now being published. Ochs backed the scheme. With the coming of 1926, editorial offices were opened in the nation's capital to undertake the monumental task. The original work was published in 1928. It is to the credit of the American Council of Learned Societies that they have looked on the work as a continuing enterprise.

Biggest thing in Low-Priced cars

Hottest-Selling Buick in History
No wonder you see so many '55 Buicks on the highways -- they're rolling up bigger sales than ever before in history -- capping the popularity that has already moved Buick into the top circle of America's best sellers.

locally for just about the price of the well-known smaller cars -- even below some models of those very same cars.

Buick Sales Are Soaring To New Best-Seller Highs
That, for sure, is one reason why Buick sales go higher and higher and higher. More and more people are finding that you can buy a Buick for the price of a smaller car, so more and more people are getting this bigger buy for their money.

They want the bigger package of sheer automobile for the money that they get in Buick -- bigger in power thrill, in roomy comfort, in riding steadiness, in structural solidity.

They want the added prestige and pleasure of owning Buick styling and size -- and the added safety and sureness of Buick roadability and handling ease.

They want, too, the spectacular performance and better gas mileage of Variable Pitch Dynaflo -- easily yours at modest extra cost.

And they certainly want the choice Buick offers of a car in every price range, with each one the buy in its field -- the low-price SPECIAL, the supremely-powered CENTURY, the extra-roomy SUPER, and the custom-built ROADMASTER.

Why don't you come in for a visit and see how much real automobile your money can buy here?
*Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Young Pampa Girl Aims For Theater

By BILL KERR
Pampa News Staff Writer
Aspirations are often lofty, but it takes guts to go into a field in which almost 90 per cent of the people are unemployed most of the time.

To keep body and soul together the starving minions of the theater are often found working at the most menial of tasks in order to stay near their first love.

A recent survey pointed up these statistics about employment in the theater, but there's one little girl (a shade over five feet tall) who's willing to chance the odds in an effort to one day appear before the footlights as a professional star.

She's Mary Wills, 18-year-old recent graduate of the Pampa High School, who realizes the trek to Broadway is over a bumpy but well-traveled road, whose width continually is shrinking. There are only 29 theaters left on the Great White Way out of the 75 in 1929.

Best Actress
But Mary surmounted the greatest stumbling block of her career, when she got her first starring role. No bigger thrill will come to her, as she ascends the ladder in her chosen field.

Before November Mary had never actively taken any part in the high school Thespian Society. And since that short time she has won the high school dramatic award and was voted the best actress at the regional competition at Lubbock in April, for her part as Mrs. Manningham in Patrick Hamilton's "Angel Street."

It was no shallow honor. Among the competitors she faced were many girls who had considerable coaching, and one contender had even attended dramatic school.

where she has been visiting with her brother and niece.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Boone of Long Beach, Calif. and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Sanders of Perryton visited in the home of their sister, Mrs. Mable McAdoo.

Roger Haley spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dixon. He is attending the summer semester of West Texas State College in Canyon.

The Joe Martinez family left Monday for a two week trip to Lubbock, Lovington, N.M., and Mexico City and other points in Mexico.

Mrs. George Neu has left for Alva, Okla. where she will enter school there for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rippestein and girls of Pampa visited in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stout and with the Ted Butts Family.

Mary, though short on training, only actively participating in the Thespian's a short six months, was able to come through because of her innate ability.

Dramatic Coach
"Much of the credit for my modest success," according to Mary, "goes to our wonderful dramatic coach, Miss Helen Schafer, speech teacher at the high school. Without her help and encouragement, I'm sure I'd have fallen short of the mark."

Mary says she didn't become active in dramatics at the high school probably because of her shyness, but is was reading about Gertrude Lawrence, one of the former great luminaries of Broadway and the London stage (they have the same birthdays) that brought Mary out of her shell.

Tryouts were being held during November for "The Curious Savage" by John Patrick. Mary decided to read for one of the parts. "I was certainly mighty scared when I thought of the competition I knew I'd be up against," Mary emphasized, "and the week I had to sweat it out before the part winners were posted, was without doubt the most anxious one I've ever gone through."

Mary's name was there at the top of the roster, and it was a thrill which comes but seldom in a theatrical lifetime.

"To me, I believe it will never be excelled by anything I may later accomplish," the aspiring actress said with an ebullient air.

N.Y.C. in Fall
Mary had hopes this summer of being an apprentice in summer stock at the Plymouth Theater, Plymouth, Mass. Her dramatic teacher, Miss Schafer was going to recommend her, but in view of financial limitations Mary decided to stay on the local scene and work for the summer.

She hopes to garner a few dollars before she embarks for the New York scene where she intends entering dramatic school in the fall. Regarding finances Mary said, "Daddy has certain commitments on his salary, with a family of nine boys and girls."

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ira T. Willis. He is a drifter for Cree Drilling Co.

Heavy Play Reading
But Mary doesn't intend getting state while she chafes at the bit before her solo venture to the Empire State. Characterization is now her main concern and she's devouring several of the latest plays just to keep her hand in. Lately she's completed studying, "The Fifth Season," "The Deep Blue Sea," "The Time of the Cuckoo," "The Seven Year Rich," "My

Three Angels," and "The Climate of Eden."

Mary, who possibly in her subconscious emulates a certain Broadway top-biller because her hair style is somewhat "Tallulah-ish," seems to be made of the stuff necessary for the theater. Her every move is geared toward getting to that longest street in the world — Broadway.

School Bus Driver At It For 31 Years

By RONALD WATERS
Pampa News Staff Writer

Joe Shelton, who has been driving city school buses for 25 years, recalls that Pampa — in 1902 — consisted mainly in a few scattered houses, a box-car depot, and the Matador Headquarters. Shelton has been in charge of the school bus barn shop for 31 years, and is still "going strong." He has hauled second and possible third generation children on his bus runs, carrying the children of children that he had carried a generation before.

Joe was born in a dug-out on the banks of McClellan Creek, close to Alanreed. For several years at this locality, his father ran a stage stand for the coach line that ran from Wichita Falls to Clarendon and on to Old Mobeetle, Tascosa, and Dodge City. Shelton recalls that his father always had four horses, and sometimes mules, ready to hitch on the stage. Little mail was carried in those days.

In 1906, when Shelton was 18 years-old, he left home when his parents moved to McLean. "I was like a lot of other young fellows, I had to see the world," recalls Joe, so he went "prowling around" New Mexico and Colorado. Later he went to work for Jim Williams in Letors, drilling wells, digging post holes, and working on the farm.

Pampa In 1911
In 1911, Shelton came here to stay and found that Pampa had grown to a community of some 700 or 800 people. He went to work for Shorty Heiskell, now of Heiskell Drilling Co., thrashing wheat and drilling wells. It was hard work, turn you loose," recalled Shelton, Joe recalls, but he has done little but work hard all of his life.

Along came World War I and in 1918 Shelton found himself stationed in San Antonio on special duty in the Medics. "On special duty, you're just stuck — they don't turn you loose," recalled Shelton as he vividly described the influenza epidemic that . . . "got pretty rough." After a few months service, the War came to an end, and Joe was discharged Christmas.

In April, 1919, Shelton met Estelle Cecil on a double date with a friend. Shortly afterwards, Estelle became Mrs. Joe Shelton. They now have a son, Charles Shelton, in the City Equipment Shop; one daughter, Mrs. Bobby Skeen of Clovis; and three grandchildren.

25 Years On Bus Run
Shelton then . . . tried to farm a little, but I didn't make any fortune." So he gave up the farm, went to the school board, discovered that they . . . "wanted me to take the shop over for them," and has been driving school buses and doing mechanical repairs ever since.

There were five school buses, when Shelton began in 1923, now there are 21 — including some old "frame" buses with new engines. Joe reflects that it rained all Fall in '23 "I never saw it rain like it did that year. Yes sir, she was rough, no roads to it."

For 25 years, Shelton ran three regular school bus runs with children "packed in." "When you deal with a bunch of kids — all ages, all sizes all kinds — you never know what to expect," stated Shelton, "I never get tired of watching the little Dickenses, they always come up with something."

First president of the United States Senate was John Langdon, of Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

A Country Of The Soo

The Soo Canal is 100 years old this summer. It follows an old water route — the rapids which drop 20 feet in the mile the St. Mary's River runs between Lake Superior and Lake Huron.

The site was first seen by the French explorer Etienne Brule in 1622. The canal now handles more tonnage than the Panama, Suez and Kiel canals combined.

First permanent settlement came in 1668. Father James Marquette founded a mission.

Singing Has Big Business Echoes

(Last of Three)
By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) One of Perry Como's brothers once tried to give his mother a picture of just how much money her singing son made. He spoke of record royalties and TV salaries and money from endorsements and the figures were pretty impressive. Mrs. Como smiled and nodded and then said:
"Any man who makes $75 a week steady, that man makes a good living."
Perry Como makes considerably more than $75 a week. So do the other top chanters. That's why the mad scramble for fame. There are few winners but for those who do win, there's a genuine, old-fashioned fortune.
Como is now big business. There's a suite of offices in one of the Rockefeller Center buildings that is headquarters for Perry Como, the industry. He employs a conductor, an arranger, a music copyist, secretaries, managers, accountants.
It has to be that way. His TV show, his records, his personal appearances, his many other activities add up to a complicated enterprise. The commodities are a voice and a personality. They are sold on the open market to the highest bidder. The only difference between selling Como and selling soap is that there isn't enough Como to go around.
To Como, the man, all this means that he is in the baritone chips. There are no authentic figures on his income. But his lovely home, large donations to charities and scale of living indicate rich returns.
Besides such tangible things as money, becoming a top star brings fame. To some the fact of being recognized on the street, stopped to autograph, and otherwise idolized is the important thing. Como is modest, and while he submits good-naturedly to the clamoring of his fans he prefers the peace and quiet of his home.
But fame is the price of stardom. There is now a Perry Como Store in his home town, Canonsburg, Pa. It was dedicated one day when the city declared a holiday and all the schools were closed for the celebration. That's part of stardom and fame, too.
Another part is the almost complete lack of privacy. Wherever a well-known star goes he is recognized. He cannot eat in a restaurant in comfort. Even the waiters ask for autographs. He cannot go to a movie without drawing a crowd. His home, no matter how carefully he guards the address, is bound to be a magnet for throngs.
His daily life is generally tiring. There are rehearsals, conferences,

AN EX-PAMPAN, JOHN BOND, has taken over the head football coaching reins for Shamrock's Fighting Irish "Big Jawn," as he is more commonly known, succeeds Scott McCall, who resigned recently as the Irish head coach after nine years of service. McCall goes to Stephenville next fall.

Bond coached the Reapers here back in 1950-51 before going to Shamrock as the junior high coach there. He has been the Shamrock junior high coach since 1952.

Bond left here the year before our arrival in the Top of Texas but from all reports from Big Jawn's friends here, the Irish officials did well in selecting a successor to McCall.

It seems that Bond is a genius in winning friends and influencing people.

It all started when he was a star member of the McLean football team back in 1940. Bond played fullback for the Tiger teams in that era.

Big Jawn then really came into his own when he continued his education at TCU.

He was named the "Most Popular Wog" (freshman football team at TCU) and was named the "Most Conscientious Player" on the varsity team in his sophomore year.

Bond was not only popular with his fellow athletes, but his classmates as well.

He was elected Class Favorite in his sophomore and junior years at TCU.

The future outlook in Shamrock football appears to be bright, to say the least.

Bond's junior high team of last fall won seven games and lost only one.

These kids, of course, will be playing under Bond in high school. And I imagine their desire to play football for Big Jawn will be as keen as it was in junior high.

Anyway you look at it, the Irish football program is in good hands.

NOT THAT IT MATTERS MUCH but Amarillo scribe Puff Powell pulled a "tasty" on rest of the newspapers around District 1-AAAA.

We received a story through the mail Friday concerning the final count on the "all sports trophy" in 1-AAAA for the past school year marked "For Sunday Release."

Well, this same story came out in Friday afternoons Amarillo Globe.

GALVESTON Closes Shop

GALVESTON, June 11—UP—The Galveston White Caps baseball club folded Saturday night and the Big State League President Howard Green said the Class B circuit would operate as a seven-club loop "at least temporarily."

Club President Louis Menotti revealed his decision to give up the franchise over the park's public address system while some 500 fans watched the White Caps play Harlingen in the final game of series here.

Galveston was supposed to start a road trip Sunday at Corpus Christi and in Port Arthur Corpus Christi Manager Connie Ryan revealed his club would play the Plymouth Oilers semi-pro team from Sinton on those three nights.

Menotti had first announced his club was folding last week end, but an emergency drive for funds brought pledges of nearly the $10,000 he said he needed to keep the White Caps franchise might the club operating. Collections during the past week, however, had netted only a little more than $5,000 of that amount and Menotti said he could not continue.

Another factor was the small turnout at the park for Saturday night's "crucial" game.

Green said that "nobody wants to drop out," so the league decided to operate with seven clubs for the time being. A location for the White Caps franchise might be developed, he said, but the possibility seemed remote.

Both Tyler and Harlingen had been reported in financial difficulty and Harlingen announced last Monday that it would have to fold unless $10,000 could be raised within a week.

Manager Ford Garrison of the Harlingen Capitols said here Saturday night, however, that he had talked to his home officials Saturday and that things seemed "to be working out" at that end.

GROVER SEITZ ... Oiler skipper suspended

Grover Seitz Is Suspended Indefinitely

ABILENE, Tex., June 11—UP—Hal Sayles, president of the West Texas-New Mexico baseball league, announced the indefinite suspension Saturday of Grover Seitz, manager of the Pampa team.

The suspension came when Seitz refused to leave the field during Friday night's doubleheader at Clovis, N.M., after he was removed from the first game for arguing with umpire John Petrock. The umpire ordered the game forfeited to Clovis.

Seitz also was tossed out of the second game in the ninth inning after he shouted at Petrock during play. When the umpire went to the coaching line to warn Seitz, the latter headed for the dugout. Seitz was restrained by his players and removed from the field.

Seitz also was accused of entering the umpires' dressing room between games and of using profanity on the field that could be heard in the stands.

Pricnett Wins Golf

SUNNINGDALE, England, —UP—John Pricnett of England won the 2,000 sterling Daks Opens golf tournament Friday with a 72-hole aggregate of 275. Welshman Dai Rees was second at 278, while Max Faulker of England finished third at 281.

Is WT-NM League Trying To Oust Pampa Oilers?

"The umpires and League President Hal Sayles must have it in for me and the Pampa ball club," Grover Seitz, Oiler manager, told Warren Hasse, a member of the Pampa Oilers Community Baseball Association, following announcement Saturday that Seitz had been suspended indefinitely over Friday night's rubarbas at Clovis.

"It looks like they are trying to get me and the Oilers out of the league," Seitz said.

Seitz gave this story of Friday night's incidents:

"In the first game, I went out to the plate in the third inning to protest a call and plate umpire Petrock said, 'What are you doing here?'"

"I said, 'Who did you want to come out, the bat boy?'"

Petrock then took out his watch and said, 'You have two minutes to get out of the ball park or forfeit the game.'"

It was then that Seitz became enraged and refused to leave the ball park.

In the second game, some Clovis fans were riding Seitz and one hollered, 'Who won the first game, Grover?'"

To which Grover quipped, 'Petrock.'"

Petrock heard Grover's reply and rushed over and tossed him out of the game.

Seitz was then restrained by the Oiler players when he threatened to rush Petrock with a baseball bat.

President Sayles is going to give Seitz a hearing Thursday in a meeting in Amarillo. The umpires, Petrock and Helkie, will be present for this meeting.

Seitz will also take some of the Oilers along to the meeting and he says that he can get some Clovis players to attend to back him up to the fact that he was not riding the umpires before Petrock pulled his "chip on the shoulder" act in the first game.

Seitz will remain with the ball club for the rest of the current road trip which ends Monday night at El Paso.

Joe Fortin will direct the club on the field until Seitz is re-instated.

Clovis And Rain Stop Oilers, 14-3

Home Runs Smother Pampa In 7th

CLOVIS, N. M. — In a contest delayed 33 minutes by a thunderstorm in the fifth inning, the Clovis Oilers wrapped up a 14 to 3 victory over the Pampa Oilers Saturday night with a home run barrage.

Rain and delay took the starch out of Tom Gallagher's one-hit pitching, but Bob Danielson, his relief in the sixth, stopped the Oilers in fine style while the Pioneers padded a slim 3 to lead with three home runs and a 19-hit attack.

Lincoln Boyd powered two of the homers to account for six runs. The first was a grand slam in the seventh and the second, a two-run homer in a 7-run Clovis 8th.

Pete Trabucco also homered with a mate aboard in the eighth.

Pampa moves to El Paso for a new series Sunday.

Nashua Streaks Home Far Ahead Of Field In Belmont

By RAY AYRES
NEW YORK, June 11—UP—Nashua romped to a nine length victory in the 87th running of the $119,000 Belmont Stakes Saturday to vault to sixth place on the all-time money winning list as he salvaged what was left of the triple crown after losing to Swaps in the Kentucky Derby.

Two weeks ago Belair Stud's king of the eastern three-year-olds set a track record in winning the Preakness Stake but his chances of joining the eight horses who have swept to glory by taking each of the spring classics were gone forever the day Rex Ellsworth's western champion ran away from him in the stretch at Churchill Downs.

Closest to Nashua at the end of the testing mile and a half race was Barclay Stables' Blazing Count with Clearwaters Stables' Portersville third.

But the winner's share of $83,700 belonged to Nashua without the shadow of a doubt once jockey Eddie Arcaro let him run at the top of the stretch. The victory boosted the husky colt's earnings to $653,690 and left him behind only Citation, Stymie, Armed, Native Dancer and Assault on the list of the turf's greatest money winners.

It was the sixth time Belair Stud's internationally-famed red polka dot and white silks have flashed to victory in this great test of a horse's stamina as well as speed. It was the sixth time trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons saddled a winner and Eddie Arcaro rode one.

Arcaro, who holds the Kentucky Derby and Preakness riding records, now is tied with Jimmy McLaughlin for the Belmont title. McLaughlin rode six winners between 1882 and 1888.

Arcaro let C. V. Whitney's Little

Dell set the early pace after taking the lead at the start, but dropped back into second place almost immediately.

The crowd of 32,097 watched the colt it had backed down to 3 to 20 with complete confidence, however, for Arcaro just didn't ask Nashua to do any thing until the field hit the top of a stretch.

The colt dashed under the wire in 2:29 flat. It was far off the track record of 2:27 3/5 set by Bolingbroke in the 1942 Metropolitan Handicap but one of the fastest Belmont Stakes on record.

The crowd bet more to show than to win on Nashua, who paid $2.30 and $2.10 across the board in winning his fifth $100,000 added race of the year.

Blazing Count returned $11.40 and $2.10 while Portersville paid $2.10. It cost Belmont Park $14,411.55 to make the show payoffs as required by law.

Jabneh was fourth, with Flying Fury, Little Dell, Mr. Al L. and Retamero completing the field.

Uncle Gus was withdrawn Friday and Rajput and Courtship were scratched Saturday.

Spec Goldman Captures Texas State Amateur Golf Crown

By KYLE THOMPSON
HOUSTON, June 11—UP—David (Spec) Goldman, a 46-year-old Dallas contractor, capped a 26-year bid for the state amateur golf championship Saturday by turning back Pete Hessemer, a Houston collegian just half his age, by a 4 and 2 margin in the 36-hole final.

The sandy-haired Goldman, who had never won a major title in his long and illustrious career—that dated past young Hessemer's birth date, putted superbly on River Oaks Country Club's 6,500-yard layout to squelch his rival's every bid to overtake him.

Although he got "awfully tired" along toward the tag end of Saturday's scheduled 36-hole grind, Goldman capitalized on his experience to pull him out of potential trouble several times late in the match.

Six Down at Lunch Time

Goldman, only one over par for the first 18 holes, had his young rival six down at the lunch-time rest period and stretched it to seven on the first hole of the afternoon round.

But his young rival battled back gamely and chipped the margin down to only three holes only to see Goldman recover and keep the tide running in his favor.

Goldman one-putted four of the last five greens on the morning round in warm, sometimes gusty weather to pile up a big lead that turned out to be the decisive factor before the day was out.

Goldman one-putted for a par to go seven up on the 19th hole, but Hessemer rallied for birdies on the next two to cut that margin to five. They halved the 22nd, but Hessemer trimmed his deficit to four holes by taking the 23rd with a par.

Goldman won the 24th with a bogey and the 25th with a par to go back six up, but Hessemer promptly fired two more birdies at him to win the next two and turn the front nine of the afternoon round in even par and only four down. He sank a 30-foot uphill birdie putt on the 27th.

The Houston youngster pared the margin to three by taking the 30th with a par but they halved the next two holes with pars and the 33rd with birdies to leave the match dormie.

On the tell-tale 34th, which Hessemer had to win to prolong the match, his second shot strayed to the right of the green and he had to pitch across a trap to get within 12 feet of the pin. Goldman was on in two, 35 feet away, but he rolled it to within two feet of the cup and got an easy par, while Hessemer missed his putt for a par and lost the match.

Trans-Miss Tourney On Tap This Week

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 11—UP—Many of America's top amateur golfers, including defending champion Jimmy Jackson, St. Louis, turned up their shots Saturday for the Trans-Mississippi Golf tournament.

Jackson had tournament officials worried or a time last week. After he lost in the fifth round of the British Amateur tournament, Trans-Mississippi officials expect to hear from him. But he did not inform officials he would be on hand to defend his crown until he arrived home Thursday.

Jackson was defeated in the British tournament by Lt. Joe Conrad, the 1952 Trans-Mississippi champion. It has been hoped Conrad would play in the tournament this year. But after he won the British

San Antonian Is Lefty Champ

SEGUIN, June 11—UP—Allan Mitchell, veteran San Antonio campaigner, won his third state left-hander's golf championship Saturday with a 4-and-2 victory over J. C. Thorpe of Corpus Christi.

Mitchell, who took the title in 1940 and 1942, led Thorpe five up at the end of the morning 18 and built the margin to seven up by the 27th hole, but Thorpe won the 29th, 30th, 32nd and 33rd in a rattle rally. Mitchell closed out the match with a par on the 34th that built his margin to 4 and 2.

Home runs in a cluster brought life back to the collapsed Cleveland Indians Saturday after they handed the first place Yankees five runs in the first inning, then went on to win 7-6 in a tenacious uphill battle climaxed by Bobby Avila's game-winning single with two out in the ninth.

But the big lift came in a cannonball fourth when Al Rosen and Vic Wertz drilled two-run homers off lefty Ed Lopat and Jim Hegan made it an equalizing five-run rally with a bases-empty blast.

The opening Yankee rally had been sparked by Ed Robinson's three-run homer. After Larry Doby put Cleveland in front 6-5 with the fifth homer of the game, the Yankees again deadlocked it in the sixth on singles by Yogi Berra and Irv Noren and a sacrifice fly by Robinson.

Houtteman Wins Fifth
Art Houtteman, who pitched eight innings of five-hit relief ball, found his fifth triumph in the ninth when Avila brought in the game-breaker after Hegan singled, and moved up on Art's sacrifice and an infield out.

Virgil Trucks won his fourth straight game meant his sixth of the year, pitching the White Sox to a 10-0 triumph over Washington. In achieving his 23rd victory against only nine defeats for his career over the Nat. Trucks scattered seven hits. Chicago pounced on Dean Stone for four runs in the first inning and breezed to a 14-hit triumph.

Detroit ended Boston's five-game winning streak after the Red Sox scored four runs in the opening inning, finally taking the decision, 7-5, on splendid relief pitching by rookie Werner Birrer and timely hitting by Ferris Fain and Al Kaline.

Raschi in Comeback Role
Vic Raschi's comeback pitching job, a five-hitter, gave the Kansas City Athletics a 2-1 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles. Joe DeMaestri brought home both K.C. runs with a double in the fourth inning off loser Duane Pillette, making his first start after overcoming an elbow ailment. Raschi struck out six and walked but three in scoring his first victory.

The Braves, acting much like their fellow Indians of the American League, also rallied belatedly for a 7-4 triumph at Pittsburgh on homers by Billy Bruton and Johnny Logan in the ninth.

Yankees-Tribe In 'Big' Doubleheader

CLEVELAND, June 11—UP—The Yankees and Indians play their annual "big" doubleheader at Municipal Stadium Saturday, and although the Indians are in a serious slump, nearly 80,000 fans are expected.

In the schedule arrangement, the Yankees usually play one Sunday date at Cleveland. The Indians' management always arranges this as a double-header and it generally is a sellout in baseball's biggest park. This year, the Yankee Sabbath appearance in Cleveland is considerably earlier than usual but the crowd still will be tremendous.

The clubs in past seasons have had their entanglement in late August or early September. Two years ago, Cleveland breathed its last gasp while dropping both games, and New York went on to win the pennant by 9 1/2 games.

It's Sellout
The tables were turned last September, however, and the Tribe's double victory hammered home the final nails in the Yankee coffin. A crowd of 84,587 sat and stood in for that one to set a new all-time baseball attendance record. Club officials said Sunday's twin bill has been a sellout almost since the schedule was announced. Seventeen trains will carry passengers from such distant points as Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y., Dayton and Columbus, Ohio, and New Castle and Erie, Pa.

Hundreds of chartered buses will complete the trek from out-of-towns.

The two games mean considerably more to the Indians than to the Yankees. The fast-fading Tribe would find itself well down the league ladder by dropping both ends, and despite 99 remaining games on the schedule the bulge could be too much to overcome.

Pitchers Named
The Yankees, however, could drop both contests and still hold a comfortable lead to take back home after their second swing through the western cities.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees will use Bob Grim (4-2) and Bob Turley (8-4). Cleveland Manager Al Lopez said he would pitch Bob Lemon (7-5) against Turley, and use Early Wynn (7-1) in the other game.

—ley, New York's strikeout artist, will be gunning to overtake Cleveland rookie Herb Score for the league lead in that department. The Yankee fireballer has fanned 92 so far this year, to Score's 101.

Racer Crash Kills 65 Spectators

By ROBERT AHER
LE MANS, France, June 11—UP—A sports car hurtling at 160 miles an hour off the Le Mans race track Saturday, exploded in the air and spread flaming death in a densely-massed throng of spectators.

Le Mans police headquarters Saturday night put the tentative death toll at 65 and said the number might be even higher. More than 100 persons were reported injured.

(In New York, a representative of the American Automobile Association contest board said he had no record of any racing accident that approached this casualty toll.)

Le Mans police headquarters Saturday night put the tentative death toll at 65 and said the number might be even higher. More than 100 persons were reported injured.

France's Pierre Levegh was driving the silver-grey Mercedes when the crash occurred. His American teammate John Fitch, of Stamford, Conn., was standing on the sidelines in the gray crowd of 250,000 waiting to take his turn at the wheel when the accident occurred.

The Mercedes crashed into the back of the Austin Healey, hurtling into the air and exploded like a fragmentation bomb on the grandstand side of the track.

Flipped Over Double Barrier
The rear end of the Mercedes was flipped over a double barrier of wooden fences, straw bales and sand into the crowd massed at a point near an underpass leading to the grandstand.

The front of the racer landed 20 yards away on the barrier setting it afire. The front axle and wheels along with part of the chassis scythed through the crowd.

Spectators in pain and terror arose as fragments of the car rained down on the crowd. Smoke and flames spread over a wide area. Panic stricken spectators tried to fight their way through the crowd.

For 100 yards along the track bloody pieces of clothing and even some pieces of bodies were scattered. Blood stained spectators wandered along the barriers.

But the race went on despite the tragedy and the screaming ambulances which rushed to the scene. Wards, private rooms and corridors were filled with injured.

Many persons who had escaped the flaming debris, were suffering severe shock from witnessing the ghastly scene at the track, doctors said.

The accident was the worst in a series of bloody crashes on European and American auto racing tracks.

Celinese Wins On Perkins' 1-Hitter, 8-3
Celinese broke into the win column Friday night for the first time in the Teen Age League with an 8-3 win over hitherto unbeaten C. R. Hoover Oil Co., previously known as the Optimist Club.

John Perkins went the route for the Celinese nine and allowed only one hit.

Catcher Gene Brown spoiled Perkins' no-hit effort with a line shot single between third and short in the second inning.

Perkins struck out 14. His own wildness, however, deprived him

C. R. Hoover Oil Co. rounds out the sponsor's list in the Pampa Teen Age League.

Hoover is a newcomer to Pampa.

Hoover Oil Co. will take over sponsorship of the team formerly known as the "Optimist Club."

The other three Teen Age sponsors are Atlas Tank, Celinese and Pampa News.

The dark brown colt, by Menetrier out of Fleur Blue, rambled to a six-length triumph as a 14-to-1 shot, seventh choice in the field. The outside horses took the other payoff positions too, as Reverta Knoll Farm's Smokecreen, a 10-to-1 choice, finished second, and Foothill Farm's Salmon Peter, finished third at 45-to-1.

Blue Choir, owned by Mrs. Harry L. Nathanson of Chicago, never was far behind. Jockey Ronnie Baldwin held him off the pace as stretch, but moved him into fourth position midway down the backstretch as Hasty House Farm's Sea O Erin set the pace.

As the field turned into the home stretch Blue Choir moved to the inside and won going away.

Faulkner Leads Daks Open
SUNNINGDALE, England—UP—Max Faulkner of England Friday carried a two-stroke lead over John Pritchard, an assistant pro at Sunningdale, into the third round of the 2,000 sterling ($5,600) Daks Open golf tournament. Faulkner shot a 71 Thursday for a 36-hole total of 136.

Double Main Event On Wrestling Card
Ramon Torres, the handsome Calif., who gave Bob Grigiel a real scrap here last week, returns to the Pampa Top of Texas Sportsman's Club arena Monday night to do a main event chore against mischievous Frankie Hill Murdock.

Frank Faketty, clever strong man who mixes professional boxing knowledge with wrestling enthusiasm, returns to meet young Gene Detton of Amarillo in the event.

Each match is scheduled for two best falls of three or one hour.

By way of a curtain raiser, Virgil Benny Trudell of Montreal, Canada, goes against solemn Salvador Flores of Mexico City in a one-fall or 20-minute bout.

It adds up to an interesting evening at the Sportsman's Club, leasing for wrestling by the Pampa Shrine Club, with benefits going to Shrine's crippled children hospital.

Bad-mannered Murdock has become almost a fixture, in recent weeks, at the Pampa theatre of wrestling. He has a big job coming up, and the fans will not be on his side when he tangles with clean-cut, handsome Ramon Torres, one of the brightest prospects among the younger wrestlers for fame and fortune.

The Mercedes crashed into the back of the Austin Healey, hurtling into the air and exploded like a fragmentation bomb on the grandstand side of the track.

Flipped Over Double Barrier
The rear end of the Mercedes was flipped over a double barrier of wooden fences, straw bales and sand into the crowd massed at a point near an underpass leading to the grandstand.

The front of the racer landed 20 yards away on the barrier setting it afire. The front axle and wheels along with part of the chassis scythed through the crowd.

Spectators in pain and terror arose as fragments of the car rained down on the crowd. Smoke and flames spread over a wide area. Panic stricken spectators tried to fight their way through the crowd.

Yankees-Tribe In 'Big' Doubleheader

CLEVELAND, June 11—UP—The Yankees and Indians play their annual "big" doubleheader at Municipal Stadium Saturday, and although the Indians are in a serious slump, nearly 80,000 fans are expected.

In the schedule arrangement, the Yankees usually play one Sunday date at Cleveland. The Indians' management always arranges this as a double-header and it generally is a sellout in baseball's biggest park. This year, the Yankee Sabbath appearance in Cleveland is considerably earlier than usual but the crowd still will be tremendous.

The clubs in past seasons have had their entanglement in late August or early September. Two years ago, Cleveland breathed its last gasp while dropping both games, and New York went on to win the pennant by 9 1/2 games.

It's Sellout
The tables were turned last September, however, and the Tribe's double victory hammered home the final nails in the Yankee coffin. A crowd of 84,587 sat and stood in for that one to set a new all-time baseball attendance record. Club officials said Sunday's twin bill has been a sellout almost since the schedule was announced. Seventeen trains will carry passengers from such distant points as Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y., Dayton and Columbus, Ohio, and New Castle and Erie, Pa.

Hundreds of chartered buses will complete the trek from out-of-towns.

The two games mean considerably more to the Indians than to the Yankees. The fast-fading Tribe would find itself well down the league ladder by dropping both ends, and despite 99 remaining games on the schedule the bulge could be too much to overcome.

Pitchers Named
The Yankees, however, could drop both contests and still hold a comfortable lead to take back home after their second swing through the western cities.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees will use Bob Grim (4-2) and Bob Turley (8-4). Cleveland Manager Al Lopez said he would pitch Bob Lemon (7-5) against Turley, and use Early Wynn (7-1) in the other game.

—ley, New York's strikeout artist, will be gunning to overtake Cleveland rookie Herb Score for the league lead in that department. The Yankee fireballer has fanned 92 so far this year, to Score's 101.

Softball Tourney Here Postponed

The first annual Bell Telephone Invitational Softball Tournament has been postponed until next week.

Cold weather forced the tourney sponsors to forego activity that was scheduled over the week end. One game was played Thursday night, despite inclement weather, but when the weather didn't break Friday night, tourney director Al Linder elected to postpone the tourney one week.

The tournament will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights on the Phillips diamond in Bowers City.

Big Suppliers Not Expected To Be Banned From Gas Trade

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON, June 11—UP—A majority of the house small business subcommittee which investigated abuses in the retail gasoline trade, will turn down any recommendation that big supplier companies be banned from the retail business, it was learned Saturday. The recommendation is expected to come from the subcommittee staff headed by counsel George Arnold. Arnold sharply questioned both suppliers and retailers during the recent inquiry.

Industry sources said it was evident he and committee members were not in agreement on what questions should be asked. Deals With Four Charges The staff is now drafting a preliminary report. It will deal primarily with these charges: 1. That the big companies coerced defenseless station operators into carrying certain lines of oil, grease, tires, batteries and accessories under threat of loss of their gasoline contracts. 2. That the companies maintained profit margins at such a low rate an independent operator could not compete with company-operated stations.

3. That the companies start price wars to jettison excess gasoline by giving allowances to favored dealers, thus discriminating against the independents. 4. That filling stations are operated by a succession of "suckers" who enter the business after being assured of big profits but wake up with their contracts cancelled and their investment lost.

Subcommittee Chairman James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) would not commit himself on the divorce proposal, although he once was reported planning such legislation. But Reps. Tom Steed (D-Okl.) and Timothy P. Sheehan (R-Ill.), the other committee members, said they would stoutly oppose it.

Would Affect 200,000 Dealers Such a bill would affect 200,000 retail dealers and scores of supplying companies, among them six which get the lion's share of the wholesale business. Sheehan told the United Press, "It may well be the recommendation of the counsel but I sure wouldn't support it." He added that he "is positive that divorce is not the answer on the basis of the testimony so far." Rep. Steed said the proposal would apply to (1) Stations owned and operated by major companies; (2) Stations owned by major firms but operated by others on a commission basis, and (3) Company-owned stations operated individually on lease.

Steed said he can see "an inherent danger" in category one, more so than in two or three. He said that where a company owns and operates a station, "it can juggle prices very easily." As for two and three, he said:

New Landlords Won't Help "I doubt if we can solve the problem by changing landlords. Few of those operating the stations now can afford to buy them. Normally, the best landlord—if you have to have one—would be the oil companies, since they are interested in making the stations a success."

Steed said the committee will reach no conclusions until the staff boils the recent testimony "down to essentials." Chairman Roosevelt hopes the report will be ready for the full committee within 10 days. Chairman of this group is Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.).

Some quarters believe the committee will not recommend legislation but will urge that the suppliers take voluntary corrective action.

Peg O' Pampa

HOPE THAT BY TODAY it has warmed up... it sure was sold for a couple of days this week... more like fall than summer... Peg heard, unofficially, that Friday morning was the coldest it has been at this time of year since 1919... and it's only been that cold in June three other times... sure can believe it... but of course, that was unofficial... Peg ain't a weatherman... not even a very amateur predictor... but we never are satisfied... when we start sweating in the heat, we'll wish we had a little more of this week's cool weather... being so unseasonable, causes lot of colds... and besides, it's unfair to those like Peg who put away all their warm clothes!

POTPOURRI... Among the college students here... for a short while anyway... was pretty Carol McCune... Peg heard she has returned to Denton for summer classes at NTSC... understand Mrs. Ewing's granddaughter was here, too... don't know if she still is here, or not... Loretta Killingsworth's daughter and children are visiting her... and Mrs. C. S. Boston had her brother and his family here this week... Peg sure knows there are a lot more, she just hasn't run into them... or heard about them... this is the season for company... and for visiting... welcome back to Jane and Bitz Hoover... been in Washington, DC... understand they're glad to be back in the Panhandle, though.

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK... Love should be stronger than pride, broader than self-love, and deeper than sentimentality or emotion. (Mary Kimball Morgan)... Pure humanity, friendship, home, the inter-change of love, being to earth a foretaste of heaven (Mary Baker Eddy)... Whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God. (Book of Ruth)... The desire to be beloved is ever restless and unsatisfied; but the love that flows out upon others is a perpetual well-spring from on high. (Lydia M. Child)... I chose my wife as she did her wedding gown, for qualities that would wear well. (Oliver Goldsmith)... The happiness of married life depends upon making small sacrifices with readiness and cheerfulness. (John Selden).

THE COUNTRY CLUB SOCIAL COMMITTEE certainly has planned lots of wonderful affairs this month... everyone was so looking forward to the treasure hunt... held yesterday... sorry Peg can't tell you who was there... and who won the prizes... but this had to be written beforehand... just know Margaret and Zobo Deer did a wonderful job... Peg heard Al Curry helped with the ryming clues... she is always so clever... Al and Bob... Margaret and Zobo and Larry and Rilla Jarrets were the hosts... a buffet supper was planned... and Peg heard the decorations were to be super-duper... the prizes were out-of-this-world... were on display all week... Peg spied a beautiful dark green lava bowl... and a fancy clock... Lynn Crider is chairman of the bingo game... for next Friday... and a unique dance-swimming affair is planned for the 25th... going to have dancing until midnight... then a 'midnight dip' in the pool... with a lifeguard on hand, of course... guess there was always a bunch taking an after-dance dip... so they decided to incorporate it into the program... sure will be fun... Peg and Mr. Peg won't miss it... both loving to swim so... and of course, the treasure hunt was a must... going back to the dance... the H. C. Feederers and the Eben Warners will be hosts... so come on out, you people... with all the work everyone is putting into the parties... it would be a shame not to have a big crowd for all of them... puts a wonderful 'zip' into the summer social season.

QUIZ COMING UP... what's a psycho-ceramic? ... a cracked pot! ha... ha... ha... you'd better laugh... I dug through the recesses of my brain pretty thoroughly for that one... hard work... although Mr. Peg will say that since I haven't much of a brain, it couldn't have been too hard work... ah, me... such lack of appreciation of my talents.

JUNE IS THE MONTH everyone associates with love and marriage... and we have quite a few young brides... and brides-to-be in Pampa... pretty, sedate Jackie Merchant will take the step soon... Peg also just heard that vivacious Mona Cruise will be a June bride... and there are many more... that Peg has mentioned from time to time... thinking of all the young brides put Peg in a poetic mood... here is one of her favorite poems of love... seems to me an ideal thing for every young bridegroom... or prospective bridegroom to say to his bride... or fiancée... Believe me, if all those endearing young charms, Which I gaze on so fondly to-day, Were to change by to-morrow, and fleet in my arms, Like fairy-gifts fading away, Thou wouldst still be adored, as this moment thou art. Let thy loveliness fade as it will, And around the dear ruin each wish of my heart Would entwine itself verdantly still. It is not while beauty and youth are thine own, And thy cheeks unprofaned by a tear, That the fervor and faith of a soul may be known, To which time will make thee more dear! No, the heart that has truly loved never forgets, But as truly loves onto the close, As the sunflower turns to her god when he sets! The same look which she turned when he rose! by Thomas Moore.

HERE AND THERE... spied Clifford Braly the other day in a bright pink shirt and a charcoal gray suit... very snazzy... saw Betty Whitney shopping... heard Martha Lee and Bill McComas and children are on vacation... guess they went to their home in Kansas... heard Shotgun Layne and family are on vacation, too... can't quite remember where, but think it's someplace in Colorado... they had houseguests this week, too... understand Opal and Ruhl Samples expected guests this week... Mr. and Mrs. David Post Jr. and family are in Houston for a wedding... then Peg was told they are going fishing and camping on the Gulf... hmmm!... sure is nice way to spend a vacation.

IT ALWAYS AMAZES PEG with the ideas for parties that people think up... it's really wonderful... a creative art... The Pampa Council of Church Women have come up with a new idea... such a nice thing to do... it's called a 'primrose party'... for all the men and women in Pampa... 70 years old or older... Understand they plan all sorts of prizes... for the youngest and the oldest... for those with the most grandchildren... and great-grandchildren... certainly will be a wonderful thing for the old people... we get so involved with our own parties, we sometimes forget the older people like to party, too... Bet they'll have a marvelous time meeting and talking with people their age... going to be the 23rd in the library... so if you know of anyone who'd like to go... why don't you make sure they are able to go... understand transportation will be provided... Mrs. R. B. Dial is in charge of that.

WHAT A WONDERFUL DISPLAY OF ANTIQUES at the Ladies Golf Association luncheon Friday... and the women gave some interesting talks on antiques... one of the biggest crowds there Peg has seen... spied Mrs. Charles Hickman Sr... Mrs. H. E. Schwartz... Mrs. Clifford Braly Sr... Mrs. Ham Lina... Mrs. Knox Kinard... Mrs. Lynn Boyd... Mrs. Bobby McCoy... gracious Mrs. Walter Purviance... Margaret Deet... Mrs. Florence Esmond... Mrs. H. E. Carlson... Theresa McKinney... Mrs. Ivan Noblit... Mrs. I. B. Hughey... Marge Brauchle... Teed Hicks... Lois Watkins... Mrs. L. W. Jolly... and oh, so many more... Peg's mind is in a whirl... going to have an art program next week.

Bethel Deane Matthews Becomes Bride Of Louis T. Ammerman Jr. Saturday

In a double-ring ceremony at 8 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church, Miss Bethel Deane Matthews became the bride of Louis Theodore Ammerman Jr., Dr. E. Douglas Carver officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Matthews, 902 E. Francis, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Ammerman of Rifle, Colo. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of nylon tulle and French chantilly lace over satin. The neckline of the fitted bodice of lace over satin was formed by a drape of nylon tulle, fastened with sequin-covered clips. The long lace sleeves came to calla tips over her hands. The bouffant skirt of nylon tulle was styled with a lace polonaise drape in front and tiers of nylon tulle, creating a bustle-effect, down the back. Her fingertip veil of pure silk French illusion fell from a queen's crown accented with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias and stephanotis over a white Bible. For "something old," she carried a hand-crocheted linen handkerchief that belonged to the bridegroom's great-grandmother. Mrs. Paul Adair of Dumas, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an ice-blue gown of tulle over nylon net and taffeta. The fitted bodice was styled with a draped neckline of nylon tulle, accented with sequins, and the bouffant skirt was waltz-length. She wore half-gloves of nylon tulle and carried a fan covered with feathered-carnations. Her headpiece was a coronet of ice-blue tulle. Miss Barbara Matthews, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Johnson and Miss Jane Prichard. All wore gowns and accessories identical to those of the matron of honor, with Miss Matthews in open blue, Miss Johnson in cotton blue and Miss Prichard in royal blue. Anna Johnson was flower girl and Larry Johnson was ringbearer. Anna wore a gown, styled similar to those of the feminine attendants. Bill Schuman of Fruita, Colo., served as best man, and Paul Adair of Dumas was head usher. Ushers were Kenneth Morrison of Dumas, Gayle Mullanax of McLean, both cousins of the bride; and Pat Dalrymple of Rifle, Colo. Mrs. Matthews, mother of the bride, wore a white two-piece ensemble with wedgewood blue accessories. Mrs. Ammerman, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a three-piece dress of rose lace with white accessories. Both wore corsages of white rosebuds. The couple was married beneath an arch covered with salal leaves and flanked by baskets of white gladioli. The arch was backed by jade palms and seven-branched candelabra with white tapers. Miss Eloise Lane, organist, played the traditional wedding march.

As Joe Whitten, vocalist, sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Lord's Prayer." A reception was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. The serving table was covered with a blue net cloth over white satin. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Other appointments include candelabra and blue fans of graduating shades. Background music was provided by Mrs. W. H. Fuller, and Miss Peggy Magerkurth of Dumas, cousin of the bride, registered the guests. Assisting with the serving were Mmes. E. L. Anderson, Bill Winborne, Rufe Jordan, V. L. Hobbs, W. R. Dunn and W. A. Greene. For traveling, the bride wore a beige linen suit with matching gloves and hat and avocado accessories. Her corsage was of white gardenias. They plan an early fall honeymoon through the West and states. GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend: I would appreciate some advice, as I am a very worried mother. You see, I have a 15-year-old son, my only boy, whom I love very much. But he is in a stage where I just can't do much about his behavior. Not that he is disobedient, as he will obey me, but after he makes a lot of fuss about it.

His father is very strict with him, and lots of times I have to lie for him. For instance, when he wants to go to midnight shows, I tell my husband he is going to stay with friends over night. Another time he didn't come home at all, and I fixed up his bed to look as if he were there. After my husband left for work I went looking for him. He had spent the night with a boy friend, and he came home as if nothing had happened.

DON'T WANT TO WORK. Also, he never wants to work, not even to buy his own clothes. He has a part-time job where he could go to work if he wanted to. I know all his friends, as they are sons of people I used to go to school with, and they seem to get a lot of freedom. They are nice boys. I've had them here in my house several times, and they seemed very polite, but they go anywhere they want to go. They ask my boy to dance, of which I don't approve, but I let him go so he won't make a scene.

And whenever he is cutting the lawn for me or cleaning the yard and joking with me, it's because he wants to go some place with those boys where he knows his Dad will not give permission. I can talk to his dad about it, and he promises to come home at 10:30 p.m., and finally gets home after midnight, and there I am turning the clock one hour or two until he comes home.

MOTHER BLAMED

Grace, I could go on and on with these incidents, and it is all my fault, so my husband tells me, and if he ever gets into trouble it's going to be my fault. But now my son is working and you know the reason he is working is because they are going to form a club, and he is going to buy longings to unsupervised clubs. He should belong to clubs at school or those sponsored by the church of YMCA. Make it clear to him that he can belong to no other kind of organization and make it stick.

PROVIDE CHAPERONES

You can control what goes on at parties he attends by making sure that they are properly chaperoned. No teenager of 15 should be allowed to attend unchaperoned parties and dances. Talk this over with his friends' parents and see if they don't agree with you. Don't concern yourself with his attitude. You have lived longer and naturally are wiser and have experience to back up your judgment. If he proves unhappy at having to obey (and he will if he is typical of his age) don't be influenced. Continue to follow the course you know is right and if you are firm and consistent you can bring him into line. Remember that discipline now will save him much unhappiness later. Growing up is largely a matter of learning self discipline which is learned from parents' discipline. If he fails to learn this lesson he will be in the trouble his father prophesizes.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

We can ease a child's acceptance of a new baby by:

... announcing its coming quietly, as though we regarded our news, not as startling, but as natural and to be expected.

... avoiding introductory questions like, "Wouldn't you like to have a little brother or sister?"—and all pretense of offering Billy a choice he doesn't have.

... dislodging him from his crib or bedroom in advance of the baby's need for them so that he doesn't resent it for their loss.

... refusing to say, "I hope it will be a girl this time and suggesting that we had a preference before Billy was born, too.

... resisting the temptation to insist on the "fun" he will enjoy with the newcomer. Infants sleep, eat, digest and cry—but cannot provide older brothers or sisters with their ideas of "fun."

Controlling our family's over-enthusiasm for the unborn child with its hint that nobody's been too satisfied with the born one.

... avoiding promises like, "This will be your baby as well as mine"—and the inevitable, resentful discovery that our infant is not his brother's or sister's possession at all, but our own demanding responsibility.

... recognizing that our news creates the natural occasion for questions on the processes of birth.

... remembering that explaining our pregnancy makes females appear most important, over-privileged creatures—and that small sons will appreciate hearing that their sex played a part in our glorified state.

Forgetting to promise small daughters that they can "have a baby, too," knowing that no doll ever made can possibly duplicate the real baby we bring home from the hospital.

... promising to kiss Billy goodbye before we leave—and keeping our word whether he's asleep or awake.

... arranging it possible for a private reunion so that we can reappear in our home, not as the strange mother of another stranger, but in the familiar likeness of Billy's memory of us.

... making use of the stories of his babyhood to remind him that the newcomer isn't the only person we have nursed, burped, oiled and changed diapers for.

... never forgetting that the more relaxed is our own acceptance of the baby, the less we will have to press for Billy's acceptance of it.

Fine china should be washed as soon as possible after meal-time because food deposits may "eat" into the surface of designs. Coffee can also discolor the inside of cups if dregs are allowed to stand.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Edwards of Borger announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Beverly Ann, to Robert Joseph Moore, son of Mrs. Lena Moore of Skellytown, and the late Mr. Byron R. Moore. The couple will be married Aug. 13, in the First Methodist Church of Borger. The bride-elect was graduated from North Texas State College, Denton. The prospective bridegroom will graduate from NTSC in August.

BABY

If Baby is slated for his injections according to your state law, they will probably be given in three doses a month apart. Don't fret about his remembering what happened last time. Babies this young don't remember an uncomfortable shot over five minutes, according to the doctors who give them.

A Baby who has rebelled at the insulting thought of water may begin to get cranky as the days grow hot. Offer him water again, he may be thirsty. In many cases, a Baby over a year finds that water is just what he wants.

Baby learns to drink from a cup a sip at a time. He will continue to drink at this pace for some time. As long as you're holding the cup for him, he sure he doesn't get too much for one gulp, or it may cause him to cough or let it run down his chin.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

The bride who receives a gift from a husband and wife should either write her thank-you note to both of them or if it is addressed to the wife alone, the husband should be included in her words of thanks.

After all, it's the husband who will probably get the bill for the gift.

RUTH MILLET

The less time you spend with any of these women the happier you will be:

The woman who thinks men have all the best of it and that women never get a square deal. An hour's conversation with such a woman can make a fairly contented woman unhappy with her lot and resentful of her husband.

The gossip. Nothing you hear from a gossip will make you feel better or happier. And after you have left her you will wonder unhappily if you said anything you don't want repeated.

The woman who puts a money value on everything. Let such a woman come into your home and suddenly things look shabby — because you are seeing them through her appraising eyes, instead of through your own rose-colored glasses.

The wet blanket. This type of woman can find a flaw in anything you are happy with—and she will take delight in pointing it out to you. Never make the mistake of telling her your plans or showing her anything you are proud of.

The bossy manager. Unless you are a very strong character, you will get help and advice you never asked for and will have plans made for you that you never wanted made. The "born-manager" just can't let anyone else's life alone.

The complainer. No matter how happy you feel when you start talking to a complainer, you are sure to end up by feeling gloomy. The complainer scatters gloom wherever she goes — and the only way to dodge the gloom is to dodge her.

You are almost sure to know some of these women. But the less you see of them, the happier you will be.

Miss Merchant Is Honored At Shower

A miscellaneous bridal shower was given recently in the home of Mrs. D. E. Williams, 1330 Williston, in honor of Miss Jacquelyn Merchant, bride-elect of Richard Crossman.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Williams were Mmes. H. E. Schwartz, O. B. Worley, W. L. Brake, R. A. Baker, O. W. Theisen and Bernice Ellis.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Merchant, the bride-elect and Mrs. Paul Crossman Sr., mother of the prospective bridegroom. Guests were registered by Miss Kay Baker. Background music was provided by Miss Nancy Williams and Miss Thera Warner.

The serving table was covered with a white organdy cloth over blue. The centerpiece featured a doll with a rose gown resting on a bank of pink carnations, rosebuds and greenery. Behind the doll was a white "tree" from which an umbrella frame hung, decorated with satin bows and rosebuds.

Assisting with the serving were Misses Betty Ann Williams and Dorothy Zaniel, and Mmes. James Gallemore and Ivan Martin, all of Pampa, and Mrs. Miron Doreman of Amarillo.

Out-of-town guests for the shower included Miss Merchant's grandmothers, Mrs. Cal Merchant of Clarendon and Mrs. R. M. Jenness of Amarillo, and her sister and niece, Mrs. Miron Doreman and Janet of Amarillo.

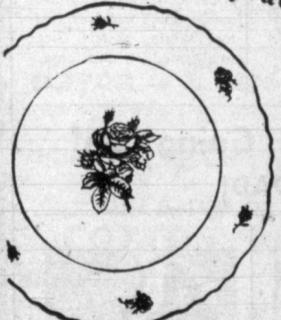

A recipe that calls for sour milk can still be used, even if there's only sweet milk in the house. Add a tablespoon of vinegar to one cup of sweet milk and it will sour for cooking purposes.

Brannan Hits Advice For Low Wheat Pest Control Price Drops

DENVER —UP— Former Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan said Friday night that the low price support for wheat would lead to disaster for grain producers and a "slightly delayed disaster" for livestock producers.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson announced at Washington Friday that next year's support rate is only 76 per cent of parity if growers approve strict marketing quotas in a national referendum June 25.

Brannan pointed out that, since wheat competes with corn and all other feed grains, when the market price of wheat drops enough it will result in much wheat being purchased by feeders. The stockman who grows his own grain is going to be hurt very, very badly," Brannan predicted because "this cattle will follow the market which is set by the man who buys the grain."

"That man lives along the Atlantic seacoast and he's the guy who is setting the philosophy of the Eisenhower administration," the former secretary in the Truman administration said the low support price is "a disastrous blow to all grain producers" and a "slightly delayed disaster for all livestock producers and for every

In view of the recurrence of pests in home gardens, Miss Helen Dunlap passes on these words of advice to gardeners.

She writes: As the warm weather approaches, the home gardener should check vegetables, flowers and yard plants for insects. It is a continual process to avoid insect damage during the growing season.

Bagworms are attacking ornamental plants, such as arbovitae and cedar-like plants. Some also attack althea, elms, roses and oaks. They can be controlled now, when they are feeding, by the use of stomach poisons. The usual chemicals used are: chlordane, toxaphene, or lead arsenate sprays. The preparations to use per gallon of water are: two teaspoons 40 per cent chlordane; or one tablespoon 60 per cent emulsion concentrate toxaphene; or one tablespoon lead arsenate. Either one of these three sprays will do the work.

Cut worms are destructive to plants also, especially the young merchant and every farm community in the nation."

Brannan said the low wheat support price was another step in "the administration's program for liquidating the traditional pattern of American family agriculture."

Weekly Grain Roundup

FORT WORTH —UP—USDA— Weekly grain:

Most Southwest cash grain prices closed Friday slightly higher than a week ago, the Agricultural Marketing Service reported Saturday.

Wheat advanced 6c a bushel, yellow corn 4 to 5c, Texas red oats 2c, white oats from the north 1 1-4c to 1 3-4c, white corn 1-4c to 2 1-4c and barley 1c a bushel. Milo lost 5c on the low end of the range and held steady on the high.

These price changes are based on wholesale carlots, Texas common freight rate points, from June 3 through 10.

Milo declined 5c Monday and 10c Tuesday, but rallied later in the week to close at $2.50 to $2.60 per 100 pounds. This upward swing came after demand improved for tight offerings.

Good demand boosted wheat prices. With the short crop and harvesting half over in Texas and Oklahoma, there was a mad scramble for supplies this week, especially after rains stopped the harvesting.

No. 1 hard wheat, ordinary protein content, was quoted Friday at $2.52 1-2 to $2.66 per bushel, Texas common rate points.

At Oklahoma country elevators, wheat prices were strong, spots up 2c to 7c a bushel. The market closed at $2.06 at Guymon and Hooker, $2.10 at Alva, Frederick and Lawton, $2.12 at Blackwell, Clinton, El Reno, Oklahoma City and Yukon, $2.13 at Enid and Medford and $2.14 at Bison and Hennessey.

We're Happy, But

All of us have seen in the papers from time to time news stories about the footpad and thug who holds up a victim and then throws back "carfare money" while making off with the real swag.

We can't help having the same feeling about the return of the four American airmen from prison in Red China.

Sure we're mighty pleased that these four have been returned. We're happy for the men themselves, and for their families and friends. But at the same time we can't help wondering about the others to be still in the hands of the Communists.

It may be comforting to some to know that President Eisenhower has said that he "will continue efforts to free the jailed Americans." But the long months of effort to date have brought about pretty slim returns when we consider that there is no legal or moral grounds for the incarceration of the Communist-held prisoners.

Calling them "jailed" and with it the implication that the detained Americans are being confined in the sort of jail that Americans know is a bit of propaganda that should be taken with a grain of salt by those who might have read the above quotation.

These people are not "jailed" or even in prison as we know prisons here in the United States. They are victims of enslavement in concentration camps and trying to minimize their condition to take the heat off the Eisenhower administration is sheer propaganda. Their overseers are not prison guards such as we have in this country. Many are fanatical Communists who feel that they are doing "the cause" a favor by removing the capitalist swine from the face of the earth. Without doubt some are sadists who enjoy suffering for the sake of suffering.

To say that "every effort" is being made to free the rest of the Americans held by the Chinese Reds is pure hogwash.

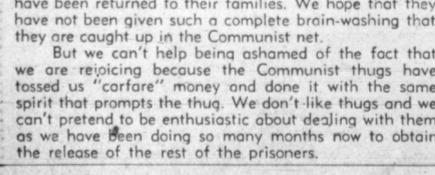

Some effort is being made, of course. People from the State Department and other governmental agencies are meeting with representatives of the Red Chinese. Our people are asking the Reds if they won't please return the illegally held Americans. And the Reds are answering anything they happen to feel will be good strategy at the moment.

But this is a long way from "every effort" that could be made by the government of the United States of America. As the most powerful nation in the world there are all sorts of things that could be done short of war and there is still war as an "effort" to free the men. We could, for instance, impose all sorts of financial restrictions on any nation or government that refused to join with us in the demand that the Americans be freed. We could withdraw all our troops from foreign lands and let these nations stew in their own juice for a while. We could throw the Soviet followers now in this country into the pokey and hold them as hostages. We could set a deadline, with a warning of what action was to be taken if the deadline is not met and then show that we are not bluffing. We could throw the United Nations out of the United States and toss out all of the people attached to the U. N. in New York, Washington and elsewhere in the U. S.

These are only a few of the things that could be done. And we could remember the reason why these people are in the position they are — at least those in military service. We could remember that we went to war in Korea for a whole of a lot less of a reason than we now have for going to war. We could remember that Harry S. Truman ordered us into the Korean war and place the responsibility for that act right where it belongs. We could remember that we were not brave enough nor powerful enough to have a military force made up of volunteers and that many, if not all, of those servicemen being held by the Reds were in the uniform of their country because they were drafted if they didn't volunteer.

Yes, we are really pleased that four of the men have been returned to their families. We hope that they have not been given such a complete brain-washing that they are caught up in the Communist net.

But we can't help being ashamed of the fact that we are rejoicing because the Communist thugs have tossed us "carfare" money and done it with the same spirit that prompts the thug. We don't like thugs and we can't pretend to be enthusiastic about dealing with them as we have been doing so many months now to obtain the release of the rest of the prisoners.

We talk of France being "the pro-American or even consistently keystone of western defense." But friendly to America? All that is is a keystone or millstone? true. UN Restricts Peaceful Effort

Here is the way Dr. V. Orval Watts in his new book "The United Nations, Road to War" explains how the United Nations restricts peaceful effort:

"First, the UN delegates agree on siphoning from U. S. taxpayers the largest possible flow of funds for supporting socialist policies throughout the world. Thus they help build the predatory governments that make war, while they deprive the taxpayers of funds that would build peaceful, private enterprise.

"Second, UN Member States agree in operating agencies to restrict international trade, travel and communication. Among the chief agencies for this control is the International Monetary Fund, which uses a multi-billion dollar capital to control foreign exchange much as the International Materials Conference controlled trade in various raw materials.

"The founders of this agency promised it would promote international trade by making the money of one country readily convertible at fixed rates into the money of other countries. Actually, it has greatly restricted trade, as various economists predicted it would when the fund was organized. Using mainly U. S. tax funds, it has subsidized political price-fixing in foreign exchange; and in enforcing their fixed rates, governments restrict every form of international cooperation by their citizens. For example, they restrict travel by limiting the amount of foreign exchange which their subjects may buy. In the same way, many governments restrict their citizens' purchases of foreign books, magazines and newspapers. They restrict international movements of capital, and they restrict both imports and exports of goods.

"Nothing could more effectively prevent the growth of international cooperation, understanding and goodwill.

"And it was planned that way by men who belonged to the collectivist reaction against the American Revolution. The chief American author and promoter of the plan for this fund, for example, was Dr. Harry Dexter White, since identified as part of a communist spy ring in our government at that time. He later became Executive Director of the Fund and put several of his communist friends in key posts under him.

"Whether or not there are communists in the agency now does not matter. It still serves the same purposes as it did when it was founded, and it can serve no other. It is an agency for applying the legal violence which the collectivist says is preparing mankind for Utopia. It is one more means for pushing mankind along the UN road to war."

United Nations Vs. United States
Then Dr. Watts points out that the Third Communist International in all countries (including the United States) issued this formal declaration of war:

"Communists disdain to conceal their aims. . . We declare war upon the whole world with all means at our disposal, including force of arms."
Then Dr. Watts writes:
"This declaration has been spoken, printed, and repeated in all languages for three decades. It can be bought, in print, from any communist bookshop, and from a few non-communist ones, in the United States today.

"Remember, too, that the conspiratorial agents of this sworn enemy of peace control many key sections of the United Nations, and they operate freely throughout the entire organization. There is no legal way to prevent this.

"Therefore, we should not be surprised that the UN can do nothing to stop, oppose or even rebuke the most flagrant aggressions that continue in all parts of the world."

"Instead, the United Nations Organization serves as an instrument for communist purposes as it works ceaselessly, everywhere, to expand governmental authority over individuals and to centralize that power under control of an international bureaucracy.

"Big Government is the vice that destroyed the great civilizations of the past. Its burdens of doles, restraints and militarism fomented conflicts, squandered wealth, and demoralized the people, until at last it collapsed with the breakdown of the enslaved society.

Freedom Is Revolutionary
The founders of these United States knew this. In their struggle to be free they resisted and defied not only the King of England but their own Committees of Public Safety, their State legislatures and 'King Congress' itself. A Stone For Beria

THE NATION'S PRESS

THE BRITISH ELECTION

(Chicago Daily Tribune)

In a British general election conducted between yawns the Conservative party under Anthony Eden scored substantial gains which will give it a more comfortable margin in parliament for the next five years. The campaign was quiet and stirred no one in particular. Altogether 75 per cent of the electorate voted — a much better percentage than in American Presidential elections — this was considered a light vote in Britain.

The turnout fell more than 7 per cent from the last previous general election in 1951, when the Conservatives, although failing to win a majority of the popular vote, ousted the socialist regime of Clement Attlee.

The relative apathy of this week's election reflected a widespread belief that there was little of importance to argue about, or, if there were, the Conservative and Labor parties did not offer a sufficient distinction, one from another, to present the cleavage in sharp focus.

The Laborites clung to the discredited socialist ideas which no longer command the faith of any substantial number of followers, but for their part, the Conservatives have come a long way toward the same position. Over the last 40 years or so, the Conservatives did much to add to the principles of a free market and limited government.

Originally the Conservative idea was to head off the once powerful Liberals and the emergent Socialists by stealing their ideas. In fact, the Conservatives introduced much of the socialist fundamental doctrine into the operations of government, long before the Labor party first came to power in 1929.

In 1951, when the Conservatives came back after the Labor triumph of 1945, the party nominally dedicated to private enterprise and the free market found itself confronted with a socialist fabric of nationalized industry, economic controls, high taxes, and proliferating bureaucracy, much of which was the logical development and inevitable outcome of Conservative policy over the years. While some of these encumbrances were cast off, it was found impracticable to make a clean sweep, and indeed, the Conservative party chairman, Lord Woolton, was on record that Conservative belief in free competition should not be allowed to become a doctrine "as rigid as socialism."

Thus, what were the choices allowed the British electorate? To reaffirm that the future belonged to a system of socialism which had proved a failure in practice and which everyone knew could "re-build society" only at the cost of state coercion fatal to all personal liberty? Or to give lukewarm assent to the continuation of an enfeebled Conservative body of principle, which if it did not evoke enthusiasm or much hope, at least sought to avoid the worst excesses implicit in socialism?

The vote shows that Britons took the less bitter medicine. Their half-hearted support illuminates the spirit in which most Americans also bring themselves to vote these days, for here, too, the nominally conservative party which has inherited the honored name of Republicanism has now compromised its character, much as have the Conservatives in Britain, by going far toward the Democratic left, with its false tenets of "security" and "welfare," only purchasable thru heavy taxation, ever increasing federal intervention, and a dwindling area of personal maneuver and self-dependence.

We do not think that we exaggerate in saying that the resurgence of conservatism both in Britain and the United States is effectively stifled because no party and few politicians are willing to give it expression. Parties no longer are in real opposition, but operate from the same premises and, very largely, seek to entice with the same promises. When there is an apparent lack of fundamental differences between them, the voter has little reason to cast his ballot either in confidence or in hope, and he has nothing to cheer.

Friend — So do I, but I found a clever way to get around the awkwardness of asking to have the name repeated. I just ask, "Do you spell your name with an F or an I?" It usually works splendidly.

Man — I know. I heard about that before. It worked with me, too, until one time I met a girl I wanted to know better. Now she won't even look at me.

Friend — Why is that?

Man — Well, when I was introduced to her, I didn't catch her name, so I asked whether she spelled it with an F or an I.

Friend — What was her name?

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Like a number of other diseases which were formerly considered rather rare myasthenia gravis appears to be more frequent than was previously believed. First described in the 17th century it did not become fully recognized until 1878. Since then, at least until recently, there has been little sustained effort to learn more about this disease.

Before discussing this further I should like to say a word of caution to one correspondent who says, "I have every symptom of myasthenia gravis. I can't walk without aid, have a hard time to swallow and my eyes are blurry. I can't talk, that is to keep up a conversation, because I get so nervous. My left hand quivers all of the time."

The writer of this letter should not jump to the conclusion that the cause of the difficulties is myasthenia gravis since some of the symptoms do not fit. Actually, it is highly dangerous for a patient — even a doctor — to make a diagnosis on himself or herself.

At present it should be said that myasthenia gravis is a disease of unknown origin so far lacking any sure cure. It may attack at any age in either sex and is not confined to an economic level, nation or race. Although the symptoms vary, extreme fatigue is typical, drooping of the eyelids, double vision, difficulty in walking, difficulty in holding up the head or arms, trouble in smiling, speaking or swallowing are among the most frequent symptoms.

Only the muscles which are moved voluntarily and not those which are automatic as in the heart are involved. Although one speaks with too great confidence, it is felt that the condition is the result of some change in the chemical balance which prevents the nerve impulse to the affected muscles from passing from the brain to the muscles themselves.

Experts Agree Indo-China Crisis Point For West

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The new crisis spot for the Western Allies, and especially the United States, has been fixed definitely by diplomatic and military experts as Indo-China. As a result of French-American differences, this key country in Southeast Asia may become another Communist satellite.

Although it has not been publicized generally, Washington and Paris are at serious loggerheads in Southern Vietnam, the part of Indo-China which the Free World still controls. Ho Chi Minh's Communists hold the northern section under the Geneva Pact. An election has been scheduled for August, 1956, to determine whether all Indo-China shall stay on our side or go Red completely.

Today, all signs indicate that the people might vote Communist, largely because of resentment against "French colonialism" and our failure to provide anything better. In our worship of theoretical idealism, we apparently plan to repeat the mistake which F.D.R. made with respect to India, Indonesia, Egypt and other nations, not then ready for self-government.

In Southern Indo-China, the Eisenhower Administration has supported Premier Ngo Dinh Diem on the ground that he is a popular ruler, as against the French puppet emperor, Bao Dai, whom Paris subsidizes on the Riviera. The French resent our interference, although they had to acquiesce for economic and diplomatic reasons. We have taken over their task of financing their erstwhile colony.

But Paris intends to demonstrate its objection by withdrawing all their 70,000 troops from Indo-China within the next few months. political, military, economic and diplomatic complexities, to the United States. The natives, of course, welcome the departure of the French, and, for the time being, at least, are friendly toward us.

An American military mission is now training and building a South Vietnam force to defend the southern section, when and if Ho Chi Minh renews his expected drive for Communist domination of that part of Asia, including the rice rubber and in resources of Thailand, Burma and other adjacent terrain.

But, as Chiang Kai-shek's rout on the China mainland forecasts, it is doubtful whether Premier Diem's American-trained troops can resist successfully Ho Chi Minh's forces. While talking prettily and placating about European and Formosan problems Moscow and Peiping may open front.

In that even, unless we agree to fund Communist conquest of Southeast Asia, with its rich stocks of rubber, rice, tin and many other strategic materials essential to the Reds, we must go to war with the Red hordes. Only time and tactics will tell whether it will be "localized," as in Korea, or whether it will touch off a global war.

The belief at Washington is that, if President Eisenhower and his new and more audacious military advisers show a determination to use air and naval strength on behalf of Premier Diem and Southern Vietnam, Ho Chi Minh and his Red Allies will not dare to attack.

The 1956 election for Indo-China's self-determination will probably be

EVERYONE SAYS MY SUIT FITS AS THOUGH I WERE POURED INTO IT!

The pretty young girl was taking her first train journey alone. Her mother had warned her repeatedly to be careful not to talk to strange men, but the station Pullman porter asked her: "Porter—Where are you going, Miss? Girl—Los Angeles. The porter assisted her onto the train. Settling back comfortably in her seat as the train pulled out, she smiled to herself. Girl—Certainly fooled that one. He doesn't know I'm really going to Boston.

An ex-sheepman, while in a narrative mood one evening, told a party of friends about a fellow he once rode with. He said, "There had passed between us for more than a week. One night as we rolled up in our blankets he suddenly asked: 'How'd you do?' There was no answer, but the following morning I noticed him packing up. 'Teller—Going to leave?' 'Teller—What for?' 'Sheepman—For such argument. —

The cub reporter had one bad habit. His stories were too long and wordy. After being warned to cut them short, he reported an accident death as follows: "Jones looked up the elevator shaft in the hotel building to see if it was on the way down. It was. Age, 48."

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Mark 3:1-5

How shall we think of miracles? The miraculous has always occupied a large part and place in religion, for as an old Eastern philosopher once said: "There can be no great religion without its great mystery." This is inevitable because of the nature of the facts with which religion deals, and all faiths including Christianity, have claimed miraculous powers for their founders, their ceremonies, and their institutions. So important is the miraculous in the thinking of some religious people that they say: "Dispense with miracles and you have destroyed religion." They worship a God is supernatural power, and to deny him the right to perform miracles would be equivalent to a denial of his divine character.

laws according to which God worked, and he used that knowledge. I have seen thee today in the miraculous, O God. What could be more miraculous than some growing thing? What birth could be more miraculous than any birth? The whole complex and amazing world in which I live is packed with miracles, because thy laws are working everywhere. Amen.

Make a list of ten commonplace experiences of today which would have been considered miraculous in George Washington's day. Then spend a few minutes in reverent thought about the way God has revealed his secrets to thoughtful men in all lines.

Perryton Yards Contest Over

Such a doctrine of miracles is apt to prove dangerous for the reason that it bases faith on the accidental, the unusual, or the occasional, rather than upon the character of God. It assumes that God can be God only as long as he cannot be comprehended by man. Such a faith is certain to be shaken to its foundations whenever anything once considered a miracle is explained on the basis of some newly discovered law. It has happened quite frequently, for instance, that what was considered miraculous in one age is accepted as a commonplace in another. Some of Jesus' healings are now understood to have been a wise working of solid psychological law of which men were then ignorant, but which is now well understood. This does not detract in the least from the honor due to Jesus; he had a superior knowledge of the PERRYTON — (Special) — The yards of Mrs. Frank Spencer and Miss Grace Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Shrader were considered equal by judges in the first official judging of yards in the 1955 Perryton yard contest.

No other prizes were awarded since judges felt that the Spencer and Shrader yards were far superior to all others at this time.

The contest, which is now in its third year is sponsored by the Perryton Garden Club and the Chamber of Commerce. It is designed to improve the beauty of Perryton yards and alleys.

A piece of flannel wrapped around the head of your sewing machine and stitched in place makes a convenient pin cushion.

CONTROVERSIAL

—When Model Margaret Rowe, 19, was chosen England's candidate for the "Miss Universe" contest, there were squawks from English connoisseurs who prefer traditional straight and unprovocative 34 - 24 - 37 British contour. Margaret shapes up as 37 - 24 - 37. Defensively one of the judges said: "This is a different approach."

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Behind the Screen: Hollywood's glamor babes will soon be changing their eye colors as often as they switch from blonde to brunette to redhead.

Dr. Louis Zolmer, pioneering with movie stars in the use of tiny plastic lenses, made the prediction for me and I can already hear Tin Pan Alley's new hit song, "I Saw Red When Her Big Baby Blue Eyes Turned Green On Me."

The noted optometrist started with plain corneal lenses to help near-sighted movie kings and queens who stumbled about on sound stages. Now he's tinting the dime-size specs so that stars can be blue-eyed, brown-eyed or even heliotrope-eyed to meet the increasing volume and demands of color movies.

Blue-eyed Debra Paget, wearing the lenses, is brown eyed in "The Ten Commandments." Others who have worn the tinted lenses include Esther Williams, Marilyn Maxwell and Anne Baxter.

Says Doctor Zolmer: "You can do anything in them — play love scenes, swim under water and even fall off a horse."

JEAN WALLACE and Cornel Wilde hit the stratosphere. I can spill it, when they discovered that co-producer Raymond Stross had removed Jean's voice from the sound track of "Star of India" and had dubbed in the speech of Claire James, British actress Stross plans to wed. Cornel re-inserted his wife's voice, added a new music score and is ready to release the picture in the U. S.

Ballerina Jeanmaire, displeased with her own dancing, lived up to her French temperament with a mile-long string of expletives, in French, on the set of "Anything Goes."

"She said," was the censored reply," she goofed."

WASN'T IT RUBIOSA, and not Zsa Zsa Gabor, who called off the marriage plans? ... Red warning light for the director of the May 30 television of "The Petrified Forest," starring Humphrey Bogart: Bogart's tugging pals: "I hear that some TV directors are murder. I don't know as how I can put up with all that directorial nonsense." ... Hollywood "Uranium" strike notes: Toy Geiger counters for the kids, going on the market soon, are manufactured by film and TV actor Carlyle Mitchell.

The Witnet: Imbued with the spirit of the sea, or maybe with just spirits, Jeff Chandler, George Nader and Lex Barker sent me these nautical definitions from the "Away All Boats" location in the Virgin Islands:

"Binnacle: A game played every night by the off-duty watch. Deck: What you play binnacle with. Captain: The guy who runs the ship. Flying Bridge: An insecure dental plate. Winch: A sailor's girl friend. Rudded: Sailor's expression — "I rudder stay in bed today." There are more but I'd rudder ship the whole thing.
