COACH OTIS HOLLADAY AT WHITE DEER has been an attentive sideliners at the Harvester grid workouts this week.

Holladay, who will enter his second year as the White Deer head coach next fall, is seriously thinking about using the Split-T formation next season and, of course, he is picking up a lot of valuable data on this formation at the Harvester drills.

Holladay used the straight T last year but he believes his boys are more fitted for the Split-T — thus the possible change.

The White Deer mentor, a former McMurry College gridders, is rather optimistic over the chances of his Bucks next fall.

"We'll be lacking in weight," Otis says, "but we'll have the experience this fall that we didn't have last year."

One of the biggest squads in White Deer history turned out for football last fall but many of the boys were out for the grid sport for the first time.

The Bucks had about 40 boys out last year and most of these will be back next season.

"If we don't have tough luck with injuries we may do all right," Holladay reckoned.

The Bucks were hard hit with injuries last year.

One of the Eller twins, Ray, was sidelined in mid-season with a fracture. And Ray was one of the most experienced boys on the squad.

When a team is shy of experience all ready, it's a pretty good luck when you lose a veteran hand.

The Eller twins, incidentally, are among only a few Bucks who'll be lost via graduation this spring.

The loss of this pair will be keenly felt, of course, but Coach Holladay believes he has some

Toth Wins Third As Texans Win

AUSTIN, Tex., May 7—UP—Elmer Toth picked up his third victory here Saturday night as he pitched the Texas City Texans to a 1-0 victory over the Austin Indians.

but the scenic designer discovered that Coney's famous beach sand wasn't right for the color camera.

Since the sand was supposed to represent the Sahara Desert, which has a reddish tinge, it was decided to get white sand and tint it. Coney's sand is beige rather than white. So 12 tons of sand were purchased from Rockaway Beach.

To appease Coney Islanders' pride, a pall of the local sand was mixed in.

Swim Suit Exec 'Brave'

HOLLYWOOD—UP—A swim suit executive Saturday picked the 10 movie stars who would look best wearing his product and bravely left out such imposing charms as Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell.

Mayor Monroe (no relation), vice president of the Jantzen Co., said those generous curves so much admired in the past aren't chic anymore, and the slender or "nature look" will be the thing on the nation's beaches this year.

His selections were Janet Leigh, Grace Kelly, Jane Powell, Debbie Reynolds, Deborah Kerr, Pier Angeli, Audrey Hepburn, Jeanne Crain, Piper Laurie and Leslie Caron.

"Reducing parlors are filled with females trying to attain the nature look," Monroe explained. "men like their women to be natural, comfortable and happy."

Farm Chief Hits Gas Tax Hike

WACO, Tex.—UP—The president of the Texas Farm Bureau doesn't think the proposed two-cent increase in gasoline taxes is fair to highway users, he said Friday.

J. Walter Hammond, the head of the bureau, said cities and counties shouldn't be "deceived by the bait being dangled before them to get their support."

Hammond said the $7 million right-of-way fund promised city and county governments amounts to only one-ninth of the total revenue expected to be raised by the two-cent tax.

The tax, he said, will bring in at least $64 million. He indicated he thinks a natural gas tax, instead of a gasoline tax, would result in a more equal assessment.

Two-thirds of Texas' natural gas now leaves the state with only a token tax, he said.

Santee Runs Mile In 4:07 At Miami

MIAMI, May 7—UP—Wes Santee, America's top miler, fell seven seconds short of the magic four-minute mile Saturday as he bested a 12-mile-per-hour breeze in the University of Miami's invitational mile run.

Although he failed in his try to become the first American to run the mile in less than four minutes, it was the 39th time he had turned the distance in less than 4:10.

V-E DAY

Pampa High School Band played and R. Virgil Mott led the singing. Rev. R. L. Gilpin gave the call to worship. Rev. A. L. James gave the invocation. Dr. Douglas E. Nelson led the responsive reading. Rev. E. Douglas Carver directed the prayer. Rev. R. G. West read the scripture. Rev. Henshaw led the Lord's Prayer. And Rev. E. B. Bowen gave the benediction.

Right afterward, the First Baptist Church staged revival services. At 8 p.m. Miss Bonnie Nell McBee presented a recital in the Church of the Brethren, assisted by Miss Evelyn Thoma and Miss Sharilyn Rose Pocock, violinists, and the Red Cross board of directors met in the city commission room. The Business and Professional Women's Club cancelled their meeting scheduled for the same time.

Fifteen minutes later Mrs. Willard T. Buck presented a group of piano pupils in a recital in Lefors.

That night unmarried military personnel and married personnel who had no residence of the Pampa Army Air Base were confined to the post. Married personnel living off the base were confined to their homes.
The next morning police officers reported there had been no arrests the previous day and night and no complaints had been received. It had been "almost unbelievably quiet," they said.
That was May 8, 1945, in Pampa. Exactly 10 years ago today.

It was V-E Day, Victory in Europe Day, the day President Truman made a proclamation announcing the end of the war in Europe and scheduled the following Sunday as a Day of Prayer.
The Pampa Daily News, then The Pampa News, ran an editorial on V-E Day, 1945, that is probably as applicable now as it was then. It said, in part:
"Are the goals of freedom and prosperity and lasting peace any less desirable and demanding than the goal of victory in war? Do military victories mean that we may now forget their lessons and return to selfishness, suspicion, disunity and hatred at home and abroad?
"We were given the answer to that question 26 years ago, and we did not need it. If we and the other great powers again fail to heed, then we shall be no better than Adolf Hitler, who said death of millions in this war was 'merely an episode.'"

Others in this section will be Paula Anderson, who will play Debussy's "Clair De Lune"; Don Sprinkle, to present Handel's "Pavane"; Peggy O'Neal, to play Debussy's "Prelude Pour Le Piano"; Janis Foster, playing Haydn's "Concerto In D Major"; Cynthia Duncan, presenting "The Witch's Dance" by Mac Dowell; Ann Price, who will play Chopin's "Military Polonaise"; and Williams' "Concerto in F Major." For the concerto Mrs. Carr will play the second piano parts. Concluding number of the program will be Liszt's "7th Hungarian Rhapsody" by Joyce Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Gordon. A prize will be given for the outstanding number in each group. The public is invited to attend.

Change Make-Up For New Season

By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor. Change of hat for spring? Definitely. New shoes and gloves? Fine idea. Fresh new perfume? Yes, indeed. How about a change of make-up? Your complexion changes with the seasons and you should honor its feminine temperament by dressing it up with a change of face. If you wear a make-up foundation, pick a new one. Get one somewhat lighter than your winter shade. This creamy base colors, protects and satins your skin. Apply it sparingly, a dot here and there. Blend it in well. With suits and dresses having lower necks in the warm weather, put it on your neck, all the way down to your collarbone, too. Take off the excess with a blob of cotton, then powder. Your powder should probably be lighter, too. Don't kill the delicate pastel pinks that are so popular by using a deep tan powder shade. Try for something that's as natural as possible. Several well-known manufacturers have made a big to-do over their new lipstick color. What is it? Red. Just plain red. This, of course, is flattering to all hair colors. You may want to try a tube of this exciting new color. But whether you shun it or not, do get a different color from your winter one. It will cheer you up.

Comparatively speaking, the most inexpensive items one ever buys for his home is his furniture. The richness of natural walnut has been combined with the informality of natural rattan by Ficks Reed for a new concept in living and dining room furniture. If Baby is sick and must take dissolved aspirin or other medicine, give it to him on his usual spoon. Let him look at it first. Hold him tilted slightly back so none will waste if it's an expensive prescription.

TO PLAY — Miss Ann Price, left, and Miss Cynthia Duncan, right, will be among Mrs. May Foreman Carr's piano students to be presented in recital Monday. Miss Price will play "Military Polonaise" by Chopin and "Concerto in F Major" by Williams. Miss Duncan will play a duet with Miss Janis Foster, "Morning Mood" by Grieg, and will present a piano solo, "The Witch's Dance" by MacDowell. (Photos by Clarence's Studio)

Working Parents Face Special Problem Of Obtaining Good Care For Children

When family finances reach the point where it becomes necessary for Mother to go out and find a job too, the family with very young children comes up against a special kind of problem — obtaining good care for the youngsters. Parents in growing numbers have faced this problem in recent years. Back in 1948, less than 11 per cent of families with both parents working had children under six. But today, the latest available statistics show that this figure has increased to 15 per cent, according to a Census Bureau report cited by the Institute of Life Insurance. The increase means that in 1,500,000 families where both parents are presently working, there are children under six. In 1948 there were only 800,000 such families. How do families arrange for care for their youngsters, from the time Mother and Father dash off to work, until they return home? Parents understandably want to keep their young children right at home if they possibly can. It is almost inevitable that they first look to relatives for assistance. A grandmother who lives with the family may care for the baby, possibly regarding this as her tangible contribution to the household. Other grandmothers with homes of their own, come in for the day. In many homes, someone outside the family is hired to care for young children when Mother goes to work. In this way a grandmother can be "saved" for an emergency, such as when the regular nurse falls ill. Some mothers may find that full-time help is so costly that practically all of the money they earn is spent for baby's care. But others manage to set aside a good part of their income for the children's education, for improving the house, to help meet current family expenses, or for whatever reason they may have for working. Often mothers do everything in their power to postpone working until their babies are at least three years old, because this is the age at which children are ready to enter group activities with other children. Group care may be organized as a nursery school, play group or day care center under the sponsorship of churches, communities, voluntary agencies and by individuals. With the increase in the number of families where the mother is working, some communities have expanded public day care programs for children, and more new facilities have been provided by non-profit religious groups and voluntary agencies. To a small extent, business firms have also arranged for child care services to appeal to new women workers. However, most new nursery schools have been organized privately. Effective licensing laws, some state, some local, are helping to insure that youngsters in these nursery schools receive more adequate care under competent supervision, but Miss Judith Casman, day care consultant of the Child Welfare League of America observes, there are still wide variations in the quality of child day care across the country. BABY

Cubed carrots or cut-up unsweetened canned peaches are easy first "solid" foods for the Baby about to leave bottled junior foods. He may want to try picking them up in his fingers. Let him. Baby may decide to give up the bottle meal by meal or he may do it all of a sudden. He may even go through a period of not caring for either bottle or cup. Sometimes this is connected with teething; but in any case don't be alarmed. The warmth of a blanket depends upon the ability of the nap to hold still air between its fibers. Altar Society Of Holy Souls Church Plans Activities For New Club Year

Holy Souls Altar Society members met recently in Parish Hall, with Mrs. E. J. Dunigan Jr., new president, in charge. Other new officers present were Mrs. J. A. Sheldon, vice president; Mrs. L. J. Flaherty, secretary; Mrs. Elvin Svoboda, treasurer; and Mrs. L. R. McBride, parliamentarian. During the business session, it was announced that Altar Society dues are to be collected by June. Members may contact the prefect, the president or the treasurer. The women voted to have a joint luncheon meeting with the Parish Council of Catholic Women in October, Mrs. Tom Wade, Mrs. George Dillman and Mrs. H. W. Waddell were appointed to plan the affair. It was also decided to replace the general June meeting with a board meeting. Mrs. Dunigan reminded the women that it is the duty of members to call the priest, Altar Society president or the prefect in case a member of the family is seriously ill, so a spiritual bouquet may be sent. Mrs. Roger Willet is chairman of the sick committee. She also told the group that the fourth Sunday of each month is Communion Sunday for society members. They are asked to sit in a body in pews reserved for them. Mrs. A. D. McNamara, Mrs. S. W. Kretzmeier and Mrs. W. B. Herr were appointed chairmen of the prefects. Mrs. Tom Wade, outgoing president, thanked the members for their cooperation during her term. Father Myles P. Moynihan expressed his thanks to the ladies for a clean and well-kept church. "Your work is for God and a Church and we don't know how God will repay you," he stated. The meeting was closed with the reciting of the Rosary for the sick and for world peace. During the social period, refreshments of cookies and coffee were served.

Grooming Taught By Armed Services

One of the career possibilities that occurs to girls setting out of high school is the armed service. The services, along with nursing, are appealing especially to teenagers who want further education but may not be able to swing it financially. Thousands of young women who are able to pass the requirements for these two interesting fields enter them every year. They offer training that has value long after one has ceased to be a career girl. Travel possibilities are appealing, too. An interesting booklet that came across our desk points up another value in the services. Much publicity has been given to uniforms designed for the women's armed forces by big name designers. Now the Toilet Goods Association has published, for the Department of Defense, a booklet on grooming for women in the armed forces. Grooming to go with a uniform designed by experts whose design prices usually run into three figures should be of the same fine quality.

Whole oranges are now in the health news picture. Citrus bioflavonoids help keep our 62,000 miles of tiny blood vessels elastic. In whole oranges, top scientists report, these health-giving citrus bioflavonoids are 10 times as concentrated as in strained orange juice.

Well, this morning we received a large carton of California navel oranges from our friend, Russell Z. Eller of Los Angeles. He sent along with the sweet oranges a few recipes that used whole slices (rich in bioflavonoids). Let's take a healthy look.

Bolled East Indian Fresh Orange Slices

Cut large, seedless, unpeeled oranges into cartwheels 1/4-inch thick. Top each with 1/2 teaspoon butter or margarine. Broil 2 minutes, placed 4 inches from the source of heat, with oven control set to broil and preheated. Top with 1 teaspoon Indian chutney. Serve hot. Eat rind and pulp. Serve with meat or poultry.

Broiled Minted Orange Slices

Cut large, seedless, unpeeled navel oranges into cartwheels 1/4-inch thick. Top each with 1/2 teaspoon butter or margarine. Broil 2 minutes, placed 4 inches from the source of heat, with oven control set to broil and preheated. Pour 1 teaspoon mint syrup over the surface. Serve hot. Eat rind and pulp. Serve with meat or poultry.

Toasted Fresh Orange Salad

Toss 1/2 head each, lettuce and romaine, 3 slices fresh oranges and 1/4 cup French dressing. If desired, serve with cottage cheese.

Fresh Orange and Shrimp Salad

Arrange orange cartwheels on lettuce around a mound of cooked shrimp. Serve with mayonnaise or French dressing.

California Orange Sauce

Combine 1 1/2 cups sliced fresh navel oranges, 1 tablespoon each, fresh lemon and lime juice, 1/4 cup sifted confectioner's sugar and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

Trousseau Needs: New Light Fabrics

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK — (NEA) — For the bride on a spring or summer honeymoon, the new lightweight wool fabrics provide the perfect answer to packing problems.

They take less room in a suitcase, resist wrinkles, hang out readily and are good in nearly any climate including that of the tropics; where a wool coat is often an absolute necessity in the evening.

The ensemble in lightweight wool is a good choice; dress can go places alone or with the coat and the coat provides useful wrap. Another wise buy is the sheath dress with matching jacket. Usually, the dress is sleeveless or has tiny sleeves only and so can be worn out to dinner, dress up with open sandals, little clutch bag and sparkling fake jewels.

Pleats that stay in for keeps, the dress with color-coordinated sweater (sometimes lined with the dress fabric), the sleeveless sheath that's wearable both day and evening are all happy thoughts for the bride on a honeymoon.

So, of course, is the robe in sheer, soft wool, the featherweight pastel tweed suit for travel, by plane or train, the wool maillot that keeps the wearer warm during the drying-off process after a swim. Then there's the knitted beach shirt in wool that can go over casual clothes at other times during the day.

Mrs. George Cree Jr. Installs Officers At Twentieth Century Allegro Luncheon

Twentieth Century Allegro held its spring luncheon and installation meeting recently in the Pampa Hotel dining room. Hostesses were Mmes. James Evans, Robert Karr, Bill Waters, Price Dosier Jr., and Charles Hickman Jr.

The luncheon table was centered with a blue Maypole, surrounded by blue and yellow daisies. Yellow ribbon extended from the Maypole to each plate and was attached to a yellow rose, the club flower.

Mrs. George Cree Jr., outgoing president, was installing officers. She likened the organization to an orchestra and presented each new officer with a miniature instrument denoting her part in the "orchestra."

Mrs. Al Greiner, reporter, was given a trumpet, "a fitting symbol of the office — even as the trumpet's sound must be clear and distinct, just so the publicity must be informing and understandable."

Treble Clef Group Has Buffet Dinner

The Treble Clef Club held a buffet dinner for its last meeting of the club year in the City Club Room. Hostesses were Mrs. Bob McCoy, J. G. Morrison and Calvin Whitley.

The program, following the dinner, was under the direction of Mrs. John Gill. Gale Howard played several piano solos, including "Impromptu in C Sharp Minor" by Reinhold and "Waltz in C Sharp Minor" by Chopin. Mary Kennedy and Ruth Adcock presented a flute duet, "Ave Maria" by Bach, and Cynthia Duncan played a piano solo, "The Witch's Dance" by MacDowell.

Vocal solos by Mrs. James Godfrey of Borger included "La Villanelle"; "Voices of Spring" by Strauss; "Dancing Dolls" by Poldini, and "The Wind's in the South Today."

Mrs. Cree said. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Adams, was presented a violin as "the instrument most like the human voice — your responsibility is to be the voice of the club through the notes and letters you will write during the year," Mrs. Cree advised.

Mrs. Bill Waters, critic, was given a flute "not played often in most orchestras, but when its notes come forth they must be steady and clear." Parliamentarian, Mrs. Bill Craig, was presented a bass horn. "Always there, ready to do her part." A sheet of music was given Mrs. Ewert Duncan, treasurer, as "The books must be correct at all times." Mrs. Cree explained, Mrs. Raymond Harrah Jr., recording secretary, was given a drum as "her pen is busy just as the drummer's stick is busy when the movement of the music is accelerated."

Mrs. Don Cain, vice president received a piano as this instrument "sets the tempo of the other instruments and carries the complete theme of the number."

Mrs. G. M. Walls, president, was given a baton as "at each movement of the baton, strains of melody flow forth as each musician, in perfect harmony and timing, follows the director's leadership," Mrs. Cree stated.

Mrs. Cree gave each of the outgoing officers a blue carnation tied with yellow ribbon. Mrs. Price Dosier Jr., outgoing vice president, expressed the club's appreciation to Mrs. Cree for the year's activities and presented her a gift.

Members present were Mmes. John Adams, Joe Black, Clifford Braly, Don Cain, Bill Craig, George Cree Jr., Price Dosier Jr., Ewert Duncan, James Evans, John Frisby, Charles Hickman Jr., Robert Karr, James Leverich, Sam Pruitt, James Thompson, Bill Waters and G. M. Walls. Mrs. Ben Fallon was welcomed as a new member, and Mrs. Harold Rinehart of Lamar, Colo., a former member was a guest.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

"What did your husband give you for your birthday?" Some women ask such personal questions of their friends, but it isn't good manners to be so inquisitive. It just might be he didn't buy her anything or she has already exchanged the gift he gave her for something else.

One good answer to the impertinent question is — "a dozen beautiful arguments."

Skellytown Woman Entertains Friends

SKELLYTOWN — (Special) — Mrs. Raymond Davis recently held a party in her home in the Skelly Schafer camp.

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served. Attending were Mmes. Louie Karlin, T. A. Ingram, George Porter, J. M. Chapin, Jimmy Davis, Ray Davis, Walter Reed, R. C. Heaton, and Lewis Richards; J. R. and Elizabeth Davis, David Heaton and Richard Porter.

Newsmen, Builders Exchange Views

By RICHARD E. MOONEY

WASHINGTON, May 7.—UP—Representatives of this city's three newspapers and a group of builders exchanged views this week on the influence of the press on the construction industry.

The newsmen said in a panel discussion that they were looking for real estate news that would be interesting to the reading and buying public. They felt their columns would be more than "bulletin boards" for the information of the trade.

Some members of an association of builders who operate in Washington's suburbs replied that builders did not get enough credit in the newspapers. They offered several suggestions for news, features and advertising in real estate sections of the papers.

Good Will Idea

The newspapers were represented by two real estate editors, a financial editor and real estate advertising managers. Their discussion was heard by about 150 members of the suburban Maryland builders association.

One of the editors asked the builders to be leg men for the newspapers, keeping their eyes open for unusual developments while they are building. He said he did not want stories about bulldozers which go out of their way to avoid jostling a bird's nest, but he did like the story of a builder who rigged a tent over some work he was doing in winter to keep the project moving.

The financial editor suggested a builder might win news space (and public good will) by contributing an old, worn out bulldozer or a steam roller to a project he has constructed, as some railroads have put old steam engines on permanent display in communities they serve.

Need Full Information

The other real estate editors advised the builders they must be prepared to give reasonably full information on any story they offer, be it the sale of a building, the purchase of land or the opening of a new development.

One builder complained the news columns and pictures do not give enough credit, or any credit, to the builder involved. Another asked no plug for his company, but said "we do expect you to generate interest in our products." He said the newspapers are not "doing the builders a fair job" and told the editors and advertising men "the real estate section was created by builders' advertising; by our money."

One builder asked that real estate sections give more news space to feature stories about homes and housekeeping, as some magazines do. But an editor said "builders complain whenever we go overboard with features."

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH

Read II Samuel 18:31; 19:4

Many people have lost hope. Multitudes of people, ignorant of the spiritual laws of life, and enmeshed in the results of their own mismanagement, have abandoned all faith in their own ability to make life work. Perhaps they have resorted to the use of drugs or alcohol in the hope of finding some escape. Having lost faith in themselves they have also lost faith in life itself. They have been disappointed so many times, they suffer from so much frustration, they feel themselves so unequally matched against circumstances, that they have become cynical.

"What can one man do?" is the common cry coming from people last Saturday for Flint, Mich. to visit her son Bob and family.

Dr. John L. Witt made a business trip to Del Norte, Colo. last week. Eph Shaffer accompanied him from Clayton, N.M. on to Colorado and back.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hickox of Lark have a new grandson born Apr. 13 to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin of Pampa.

who are going down under the accumulated pressures. All the time an intelligent faith stands ready to help them.

The great souls of the race have not lived in bombproof shelters. On the contrary, they have suffered all the blows that have fallen upon any of the rest of us. They have, however, discovered the resources which enable them to survive disaster. "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me" (Phil. 4:13) was the explanation Paul offered for his remarkable spiritual survival.

We must know that the forces which strive in our behalf are as powerful as any that ever contend against us. There are, for instance, more forces fighting for our health undermining our well-being. If that were not so, then the race would have become extinct long ago.

By the same token, the friendly forces outnumber the unfriendly ones, else all the world would have gone mad centuries ago. If other men have managed to master life and make it work, then we can do likewise.

For the myriad forces which labor in my behalf, and for the per-istent solicitude with which I have been surrounded, O God, I offer my grateful thanks. Living in thy midst, I will keep alert, but I will refuse to provide hospitality for any fears, Amen.

Try to list a series of natural forces that are enrolled in your behalf: the ultraviolet rays which keep the world sanitary, the blessed relief of sleep which wipes our memory clean of many unhappy recollections. Then give thanks to God.
