TV Franker Because Fans Are More Sophisticated

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD —UP— Television is franker than ever because audiences are more sophisticated and "grown up," a TV censor decided Monday.

Five years ago network censors were cautious, but now that TV has both feet wet programs are trying more controversial and adult themes.

"We did the opera 'Tosca' recently involving a colored white romance and the response was seven to one in favor of the program," declared the head NBC censor, Stockton Helfrich of New York.

"We did 'Salome' with the dance of the seven veils on a Sunday afternoon, and not one single complaint. We wouldn't have tried these years ago but TV has grown up."

Next the network will try a highly-acclaimed new opera, 'The Saint of Bleeker Street,' already tested by CBS on 'Toast of the Town.' The story involves a health-care boy accused of having unnatural feelings for his saintly sister. There still is "good taste" censoring to be done, however. Unlike the movies, TV did not wait for outside censor groups. Each network has its own censor (delicately called editor) who reads scripts and checks costumes and camera angles.

Parents Of Beaten Sons Leave State

PAULS VALLEY, Okla., —UP— Garvin county authorities Monday checked reports the Loyd George Stanleys whose son was beaten to death by an aunt, have left the state with their four other children. Two of the children were wards of the state.

The Stanleys had been living in Oklahoma City since their son, Loyd George Jr., 5, died in agony Feb. 3 with 18 of his ribs broken, his throat punctured by an ice pick and his lips burned by an electric iron.

County Attorney Raymond Burger and County Judge Garland Hope were unable to contact the parents in calls to Oklahoma City Monday.

Charles Sarackl, manager of the Sky Chef restaurant in Oklahoma City, said Stanley had quit his job there, last Friday night. Sarackl declined to say why Stanley had quit.

A neighbor of the Stanleys said he had seen Stanley leading his car "with a pile of boxes and stuff" at about 11:30 a.m. Monday Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, formerly of Houston and San Antonio, Tex., had been expected to testify at the upcoming trial of his sister, Virginia Thompson, 29, who is charged with murdering the boy. She is now in Central State mental hospital at Norman, Okla., undergoing sanity tests. Mrs. Thompson also is charged with beating little George's brother, James, three, who is still undergoing treatment. Judge Hope made James and a sister, Karen, 9, wards of the court in a hearing two months ago. However, the parents were allowed custody of James.

"Gee whiz, Dad, if I was picking fights I sure would have picked an easier one than this was!"

Drouth-Hit Areas Not Suffering From Dispair

By GAYLORD F. GODWIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Drought and dust storms have brought desolation — but not despair — to the Southern Great Plains.

Conditions are bad. And damage will get worse unless there is rain soon. But there seems to be no great natural disaster impending comparable to the misery and mass emigration induced by the drought and dust bowl conditions of the 1930s.

The present drought, building up since 1930, covers millions of acres, stunting and destroying crops. Roaring winds pick up the dry earth and swirl gritty, choking dust 20,000 feet and more into the air. The winds tear up valuable, almost irreplaceable topsoil, filter it into homes and against livestock and people. It creates acute discomfort.

People are living with the current drought and dust. They are staying put on their farms and in small towns. They have moved many of their cattle herds, some by sale, some by transfer, to greener ranges. But many of them have saved basic foundation herds, ready for a comeback when the rains come.

Grim Cheerfulness
The people have an air of grim cheerfulness mixed with concern about the weather conditions. They feel that rain will come, bringing back lush wheat fields, green ranges and fat cattle.

This impression was gained in last week's drought inspection tour with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson through Eastern Colorado, Southwestern Kansas, the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles, and Eastern New Mexico.

"Conditions are somewhat worse than I anticipated," Benson said after a 700-mile bus ride over the area. He applied that description to the overall condition of the area. He singled out Southwestern Kansas as being "better than anticipated" and the Oklahoma Panhandle as "really better than I anticipated."

Mrs. Judith Holt, postmistress for 18 years at the hamlet of Wild Horse, Colo., said the current storms don't seem as bad as those of 1937. Mrs. Holt said the winds were stronger then.

But Colorado Gov. Edwin C. Johnson, who served his first term during the dusty 30s, says the current storms are worse. He said 2 per cent of Colorado's wheat "may make it if we get a break in moisture."

One Hand Clap Saves Time At Big Washington Banquet

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON —UP— What's new in Washington:

The National Trade Policy Commission held a luncheon at the Statler hotel. The master of ceremonies hammered a gavel and said that when he announced a guest, everybody should give only one hand clap. Idea was to save time. The first time, the audience beat palms like always, by the dozen. But as time wore on, it came down to one clap for the end of the main speech. It was something new in Washington—a meeting winding up on time.

Old Clark Griffith at age 85 looks happily forward to great things for the Washington baseball club he owns. The forward look is at least a decade ahead, but the old man figures he may live to see his grandson, Clark II, son of Calvin Griffith, in a NAT's uniform. The well-stacked youngster is a second baseman for the Friends school eighth-graders here. He is as tall as his pappy, Cal, and weighs 165. The other day, Griff the second won a ball game for his team by clobbering a three-run homer, as the old fox, Clark the first put it, "we could use that boy right now, if the law allowed."

Some of the haberdashers around our town are trying to tantalize senators and congressmen with displays of pink shorts—or walking pants—complimented by navy blue jackets. Complimented in turn with shirts running from canary yellow to dubonnet with string ties. This sort of gaudy get-up would look fine on one of the squire of the Senate or the House—or even pink short pants hidden behind the counter in a committee hearing.

James B. Carey, secretary treasurer of the CIO and president of the CIO Electrical Workers Union, asked one of his secretaries to stick around after hours (or overtime) and type up a report. Jimmy wanted the report to be hand delivered to his home in nearby Silver Spring, Md. The girl didn't want to waste CIO money on cabs, so she called her boy-friend, a lieutenant in the Army, to drive her out to the boss' hut. The soldier in proper brown walked up to Jimmy's door and rang the bell. "Here is your message, sir," said the Army man. "Here you are, my boy," said Carey, and flipped the lieutenant a quarter.

Western Union uniforms and those of the regular Army are pretty much the same under a dim porch light. The soldier held his fire.

Jerry Price, manager of the Glen Echo Amusement Park has his problems. One of them is sailors, who are supposed to be adults. They don't cause any trouble, but with pockets only in their jackets they keep losing their wallets while riding the big roller coaster. A man is kept on constant watch under the coaster around the big dips to return the sailor's payroll when he gets through the run even before the lad knew he was broke.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. —UP— A personal investigation of morals and possible juvenile delinquency in the polygamynous community of Short Creek, on the Utah-Arizona border, was reportedly being made Monday by Sen. William Langer (R-N.D.).

Langer, during a hearing last Friday in Phoenix, Ariz., was asked for federal aid by Mohave County Attorney Bernard T. Cane, who said the situation was completely out of control of county authorities.

It was reported that Langer flew to Las Vegas Sunday night, drove to St. George in extreme southwestern Utah and then headed at dawn Friday over the hitted, dirt road to Short Creek to interview the community's few hundred residents.

Authorities in St. George refused to discuss the reports, but admitted that the Washington county sheriff and all his deputies were "out on something important."

Specialists Meet To Study Drouth Woes

SOCORRO, N. M., —UP— More than 600 arid lands specialists from 18 nations started three days of decisive sessions Monday to evaluate their plans for controlling drouth.

The specialists, attending the 10-day International Arid Lands symposium here and in Albuquerque arrived at the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology Sunday night after touring southern New Mexico, West Texas and northern Mexico over the week end.

Theories for rainmaking, developing drouth-resistant plants and animals, plans to remove the salt from sea and brackish waters, and improved conservation methods were all presented at the first part of the conference last week in Albuquerque.

"Thus far the scientists agree: 1. Man needs more data before he can be prepared to predict drouth, but he can be prepared for it when it strikes. 2. Rainmaking could be the future hope of drouth-ridden areas. 3. Most of the water presently available in arid lands is going to waste, and that proper conservation measures could turn the desert into pasture. 4. On their tour Sunday, the specialists investigated at first hand a typical southwestern dilemma: Dr. Peter Duisberg of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation in El Paso told them that water for irrigating the rich Mesilla valley south of here would be 605,000 acre feet—below normal.

The shortage, he said, comes when ranchers and farmers used more than the average amount of water to soak up property which became more than normally sated and parched during an unusually dry winter. The symposium ends Wednesday.

Bad Judgment
MILWAUKEE —UP— John O. Conrad, 33, was arrested on a charge of pulling a false alarm. The firefighters roared up and collapsed him before he could leave the area. The engine house was only a block from the box.

Canadian Sorority Initiates Pledges

CANADIAN — (Special) — Eleven pledges were initiated into the ESA Sorority by candlelight service in the home of Miss Barbara Hobdy. Co-hostesses were Misses Betty Blackmore, Jane Coffey, Gracie Wright, Pat Hill, and Owen Trowers; Joan Morris, Gena Tubbs, Jeanie Morris, Kathleen Cardinal, Nona Hutcheson, Patsy Popham, Nita Jannel, Shirley Burnett, Peggy Rogers, and Maryle Kellin.
 Members attending were Misses Jean Fite, Blossom Newell, Betty Ward, Peggy Walker, Lillie Jackson, Joyzelle McIntyre and the hostesses.
 Pledges were presented corsages of yellow carnations tied with blue ribbons. The ceremony was conducted by Miss Gwen Tipps.
 A salad plate, iced tea, and soft drinks were served. The serving table was covered with a lace cloth, centered with an arrangement of pink and blue daisies. Quartet tables were covered with blue cloths and centered with miniature yellow umbrellas. Individual favors were plastic nail brushes.
 Bridge was played following the ceremony.

Mrs. H. H. Hicks Is Speaker At Tea; Miss Pat Lunsford Given Scholarship

"You will always be working toward a degree in the task of living," stated Mrs. H. H. Hicks, during a speech at tea Sunday for girl graduates and their mothers, given by the Pampa branch of the American Association of University Women.
 She urged the girls to start building toward "a maturity that will make you happy." She also advised them to keep growing — the kind that comes from within.
 Some of the things the girls would need to reach their goal in life that Mrs. Hicks mentioned were courage, honesty and dependability.
 "Please have some enthusiasm," she urged. "Enthusiasm about the search within yourself."
 She also asked the girls to learn tolerance, and along with it, to treasure friendships, which Mrs. Hicks said were "like highly polished stones." Also important, she pointed out, is a sense of humor.
 "Anyone can smile," Mrs. Hicks explained. "You have to learn to laugh at yourself and with yourself. But don't be funny all the time."
 Things that "seep in to ruin foundations," Mrs. Hicks pointed out included gossip, which she said hurt three people — the one who tells it, "because you don't trust him," "you, because you have to listen," and the person to whom the gossip pertains. She also mentioned envy, jealousy, hate, procrastination and trying to be too perfect.
 "Don't wall yourself up by egoism and timidity," she warned.
 An important attribute in living is self-esteem, Mrs. Hicks stated. "Be glad you are you," she advised.
 "Be yourself. We can't all be a rosebud or a regal lily, but we can all be ourselves. Do keep tenderness in your fingertips. As you walk into your house of tomorrow, remember to make yourself so well-equipped that you can meet all that may come along."
 She also told the girls to keep up their mental activities after leaving school.
 "Learn to pray," she stated in conclusion. "Learn to do His will. Learn to listen."
 One of the highlights of the tea was the awarding of the annual AAUW scholarship to a senior girl. The announcement was made by Miss Sibyl Turner, president. Winner of the scholarship was Miss Pat Lunsford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Lunsford. Alternate was Miss Peggy Ward, daughter of Mrs. M. V. Ward.
 Special music was a dance, "Sweet Sue," by Miss Rhona Finckelstein, a student of Jeanne Williamson.
 Guests were greeted by Miss Evelyn Milan, high school counselor. Mrs. Nicholas Kadingo, program chairman, and Mrs. Hicks. The welcoming address was given by Miss Turner.
 Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Fred Brook, chairman, and Mmes. O. M. Prigmore, E. L. Norman and W. W. Cunningham.
 The serving table was covered with a pink, floor-length satin cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink roses and snapdragons in a silver bowl. Miss Virginia Vaughan presided at the crystal punch bowl. Favors were pink and white tulle.
 Guests were registered by Miss Mary Reeve. The register was fashioned from pink and white satin and decorated with sprays of lily-of-the-valley.

Treble Clef Plans Dinner Meet Today

A buffet supper will be held at 7:30 p.m. today by the Treble Clef Club in the City Club Room. The event was announced previously for 7 p.m., in error.
 Highlight of the event will be the installation of officers. Hostesses will be Mmes. Bob McCoy, J. G. Morrison and Calvin Whatley.

MOTHER'S DAY IS NEARLY HERE, but there are a few days left in which to buy gifts for the wonderful person we all too often just take for granted. The next few days, I'll devote this column to gift ideas, just in case you haven't bought anything yet to remind Mother just how much you love her.

THERE IS LITTLE DOUBT that the most important thing about any Mother's Day gift is the sentiment behind it, but there is equally small doubt that the well thought out gift will be the more appreciated one. For one thing, as the Jewelry Industry Council reminds us, it is a day to give a personal gift, something that is close to heart and home.
 Although we are sometimes inclined to forget it, Mother likes to look pretty as well as anyone else, and for example, a new pair of earrings selected to flatter her own particular complexion and hair coloring will probably make her eyes shine in more ways than one. Earrings can contribute real flattery to the eyes and face because of their color and brightness, especially in the case of the not-so-young face.
 One of the more popular Mother's Day gifts is the charm bracelet which bears some special message for your own Mother. One good thing about a gift such as this is that charms can be added each Mother's Day or on other gift days to complete the story. Local jewelers tell us there has never been a wider selection of storytelling charms whether you are looking for karat gold, gold filled or silver ones.
 Pearls are another favorite gift for Mothers of all types and the Council suggests that in selecting a pearl necklace for your special Mother, you choose its length and size with a thought to the type of features she has. If she has a long slender neck, then she can wear

Mrs. Don Weehunt Feted With Shower

Mrs. Don Weehunt, a recent bride, was complimented with a bridal shower recently in the home of Miss Earlene Rogers, 117 N. Starkweather.
 Hostesses, in addition to Miss Rogers, were Misses Betty Bullard, Martha Wicker, Mary Higgins, Marlene Bowers and Mary Spoonmore.
 The honoree was presented a corsage of orchid-colored carnations, and her mother, Mrs. W. K. Cooper, wore a corsage of white carnations. Guests were greeted by Misses Bowers and Spoonmore. The guest register was a rolling pin.
 The serving table was centered with an arrangement of white and orchid stock, candy tuff and terra daisies. Napkins were orchid, with the names, "Don and Adell," printed in white. Refreshments of punch and cake were served.

Drouth Feed Program To Be Continued

WASHINGTON — UP — The Agriculture Department said Monday the drouth emergency feed grain program will be continued for two more months in part of Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas, and will be reinstated in 19 counties in New Mexico. The Colorado, Oklahoma, and Texas counties to be re-designated as drouth disaster areas will be determined by state drouth committees on the basis of need. The department said eligible farmers and ranchers in the drouth-designated counties may apply until June 15 for feed supplies sufficient to last up until June 30. The re-instated New Mexico counties are: Bernalilli, Catron, Santa Fe, San Miguel, Quay, Valencia, Lincoln, Torrance, Guadalupe, Harding, DeBaca, Otero, Chaves, Curry, Mora, Socorro, Roosevelt, Colfax, and Union. Eligible stockmen will be able to obtain feed grains at $1 per hundred weight below the market price. The transaction is made through established feed dealers. The dealer, who takes a certificate in lieu of the $1 per hundred weight, eventually uses the certificate to buy replacement stocks from government owned grains in surplus supply.

Ike Greets Mom Of Year

WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower, one of seven children, Monday wished the "mother of the year" who is the mother of eight "many more years of happiness."

President Eisenhower also talked over big family problems Monday with Mrs. Leavina Christensen, 75-year-old mother from Pleasant Grove, Utah. Mrs. Fugal described her visit with the President "the thrill of a lifetime."

Actress Dies Of Abortion LOS ANGELES — UP — Detectives Monday investigated the abortion-death of a statuesque Swedish blond actress. The victim, Birgit Johansson, 26, was discovered in her apartment Saturday by Sam Lanier, 25, a telephone company employe. A preliminary autopsy conducted Sunday indicated the girl died from an "air embolism which appeared to be due to an attempted abortion." Coroner F. D. Newbarr said the girl was apparently six months pregnant. Police said no arrests had been made since the investigation began but added a murder complaint would be filed against the person who performed the operation.

Others Beginning To Feel Plight Of Farmer, Rogers Says

In his weekly newsletter to the people of the 18th Congressional District, Representative Walter Rogers writes of his belief that the effects of the farm situation on the general economy are beginning to be felt in many other segments of American life. He said, "Let no one be misled about the effects of the farm situation on the general economy. The plight of the farmer is beginning to be felt in many other segments of American life. In our particular section of the country the farmer has been fighting drouth conditions for four years. In many instances it is a miracle he has survived. Yet, with full knowledge of the plight of the people in the drouth area, the Department of Agriculture has placed three additional heavy burdens on his back: "First: The rug was jerked out from under him when the grain sorghum price supports were reduced by 15 per cent, the great reduction ever visited upon these people. Grain sorghum has been the cash crop of the Panhandle and in addition has kept much of the land from blowing. "Second: The interest rates of particular government loans were increased from 3 per cent to 5 per cent. These were interest rates on money that was being borrowed by farmers to keep their operations going, to keep their children fed and housed, and to remain on the farm where they were raised. It might be noted that many big businesses are being allowed to finance themselves through the government at considerably less than 5 per cent. I ask why a man in distress should be further distressed by such an unconscionable policy. "Third: The Farmers Home Administration is being "re-organized." Many here in Washington feel that this is a shoddy political action done for the purpose of creating jobs for party faithfuls and kicking out present employes. It certainly is not being done for economy as was reported by some in the Department. The cost of operation in Texas alone will be an additional $40,000 a year, according to a conservative estimate by an official of the Farmers Home Administration. Men who have been with that department in the field for a long time and who are in position to expedite the administration of the loans are being down-graded; both in position and salary. There are several other ways to make a man quit in some departments, one being to move him to Alaska; that is, give him his choice of going to Alaska or quitting. The opinion has been voiced here that the so-called "re-organization" is a sordid attempt to gain economic control of many of the small farmers for political reason my mail indicates that the farmers generally are very much upset about the situation. "And to add to these blights, nature again punishes us for misuse of the soil by visiting dust storms upon us. These are problems that cannot be answered by funny pictures of a man with an open umbrella leaving Washington for the drouth area. The situation has ceased to be humorous, and it is time that the farmers of this section received more beneficial action and less talk."

Congressman Rogers feels that he has benefited from the gas hearings. He said, "The gas hearings are drawing to a close this week and will be history when you receive this letter. They have been most enlightening from many standpoints, especially as to separating the sheep from the goats on the question of free enterprise. As I said in a former newsletter, I was completely astounded at some of the groups of individuals who appeared before our committee and supported federal bureaucratic control. In most instances, it came out that the position of these people was being prompted by the feeling that their particular situation or business would be better protected if federal bureaucratic control was invoked. I certainly respect the sincerity of these people, but, of course, question their judgment, because it is a good example of the reason for the old saying: "It all depends on whose ox is being gored." Whether it is the gas business, the peanut business, or any other business, from a hamburger stand to a giant corporation, the tragic price of federal bureaucratic control, price fixing for protection, real or fictitious, is a complete capitulation to policies of socialism, and, in my opinion, cannot be otherwise construed.

"As serious as these hearings have been, there have been many humorous situations. One witness was pointing up the fact that our country is coming from a commingling of interstate of confusion had actually state (federal jurisdiction) transactions with intra-state (state jurisdiction) transactions. He was arguing that the federal government was trying to take over everything by simply referring to each transaction as an interstate transaction. He said that it had gotten to the place where regardless of a man's business, if he took a drink of water in New York and spit in West Virginia, he was in interstate commerce. Another witness who appeared in behalf of a large city for federal control was being questioned at length by me as to his conclusions. He finally said that he didn't want to argue the point but did want to say if I had come from the same city he had, I would probably be making the same statement he was making.

Group Seeks Free Bread For Jobless WASHINGTON — UP — Democratic farm leaders sought Monday to force the Eisenhower administration to offer surplus government wheat to state relief agencies to provide free bread for the unemployed. Rep. W. R. Poage (D-Tex.) said Democrats were ready to ram through the House Agriculture committee Monday a bill which would force the Agriculture Department to reverse its stand against such donations. He said the bill would be acted upon, barring a reversal of department policy at a committee hearing Monday. The committee invited Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson or Undersecretary Trus D. Morse to testify. The hearing will come on the eve of a bitter floor battle over Democratic plans to junk the administration's flexible price support program. Poage, second-ranking Democrat on the committee, said the hearing is "likely to embarrass" Benson because he must either "run out on his subordinates" or take the position of "withholding bread from the hungry." The measure would permit the Agriculture Department to process surplus wheat into flour for distribution to state relief agencies. Committee members weren't too enthusiastic about that. But Democrats asserted that the department should use authority it already has to donate unprocessed wheat to any state requesting it for relief use. Poage said Republicans insisted on hearing Benson or Morse before voting in committee on a wheat give-away bill drafted by the committee staff.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH Read John 17:6-17 There is no escape from life. Large numbers of people, tormented by the tensions of life, undertake to solve their problems by seeking some escape from life, but none has ever been found. It is always necessary to live with other people, some of whom prove irritating. It is always necessary to engage in some struggle with nature. We are to win a living. Sometimes we suffer from the conflict. It is always necessary to choose between our impulses, many of which are highly contradictory. Modern psychological research into the problem of drunkenness has made it very plain that even moderate drinking represents an effort on the part of the drinker to escape from life. When he finds tensions developing he introduces alcohol into his blood stream for the effect it will have upon his nerves. Unable to face the stern facts of life he tries to temper them with alcohol, which means, of course, that the drinker is a sissy. The liquor benumbs his nerves so that he does not experience normal psychological reactions; whatever courage he has under such conditions is synthetic and unreal, not his own. In these later days many people have sought refuge from life in psychological techniques, some of which utterly deny the reality of pain and the actuality of opposition. Such devices have a palliative effect for a time but they do not effect a permanent cure. The one enduring hope is that which rests back upon a solid base of religious faith, intellectually respectable and logically reasonable. There is, however, no substitute for self-discipline which good religion always demands. The cost may be high but it is never excessive. O God, thou hast entrusted me with spiritual powers sufficient to enable me to meet all the responsibilities thou dost expect me to assume. They are about me and within me. What I need from thee are available. I will not fear. Instead I will trust and not be afraid. Amen. Try to remember the thing about which you worried six months ago today. Remind your self of the dreadful anxiety that engaged your mind and sapped your energy. Then note how your worst fears were never realized. Today's fears will also pass.

Nationalist Papers Say US 'Welshed'

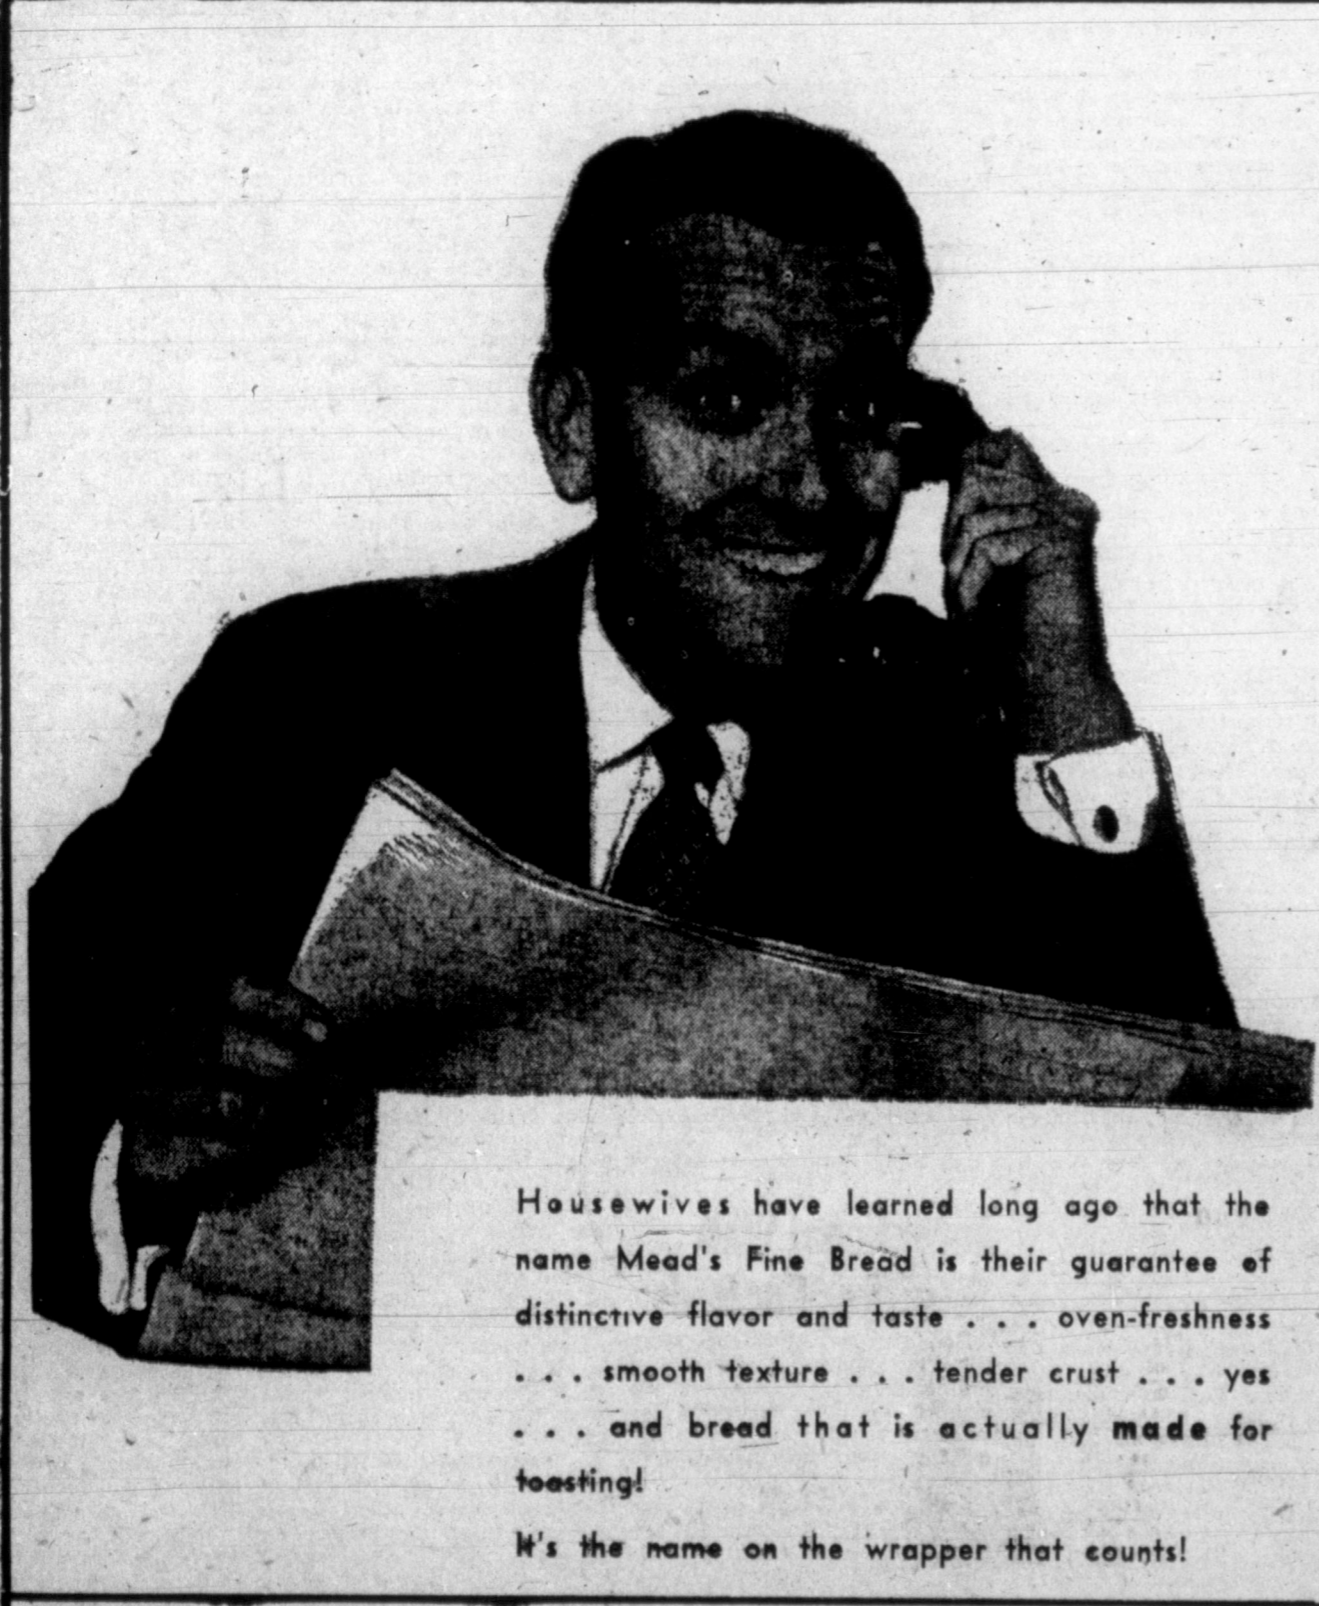

TAIPEI, Formosa — UP — Chinese Nationalist newspapers, in the bitterest attacks on U. S. foreign policy in many years, accused the United States Monday of "welshing" on its promises. The papers also expressed strong suspicions about the stationing of U. S. troops on Formosa and called it a move that would favor the Chinese Communists. The English language China News said that if the United States officially announces talks with Red China "the morale of the free Chinese will slump to a new low that no American base or marine division could very well offset."

Although it was not much contended here that the United States should keep its foreign policy flexible in pace with the changing times, yet the trend of events seems to show it would be better off to be a bitter enemy of Uncle Sam than to be a faithful ally," it said.

THE FIRST of May always brings more than its share of special "weeks." . . . All kinds of Panpans are concerned in some of the first-week-in-May "weeks." . . . Ham Lunas, Mrs. Walter Purviance, Carl Bice, Jeanne Willingham, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ramming, Mrs. Raymond Harrah, Sr., Mary Ellen Kolb, Helen Dunlap, Phil Pegues, Fred and Dorothy Neelago, Faye Terrell, Paul Bensen, all of them. . . . But can you match them up with the "weeks"? . . . There are Be Kind to Animals Week, Baby Week, Correct Posture Week, Good Will Week, Hearing Week, Home Demonstration Week, Motel Week, Camp Week, Family Week, Lila Week and Music Week.

THERE IS a man in town who has been waging what amounts to practically a one-man war. And he's been doing it for years. . . . No other than Henry Gordon, that's who. . . . And what is Hank's gripe? Very simple. It's mayonnaise. . . . Mayonnaise on everything, that's what bothers the KPND newsmen. . . . Now Hank'll go along with the white stuff for salads, egg salad sandwiches, say. . . . But when it comes to meat sandwiches, that's where he draws the line. . . . Hank means a line right through it. . . . Briefly, he wants no part of the mayonnaise routine. . . . Hank is convinced that, if by any chance they happened to serve any of his beloved Lebanon halogata (from his hometown of Lebanon, Pa., of course) in Pampa the odds would be 100-to-1 it would be stabbed, both sides, with mayonnaise. . . . In fact, Hank will tell you indignantly that for the first three months he was in Pampa, he held his hand over his glass of water whenever the waitress came by—he was afraid the glass would turn into a receptacle for the hated mayonnaise.

FOLIAGE in the Panhandle! . . . Well, some tree branches, anyhow. . . . Expect to see Paul West "sawing" through the "trees" in front of the Foster St. theater any moment now. . . . For, after all, the Pampa theater manager will want to boost his latest Tarzan movie in any way possible.

THERE'S SOME things that people have no business in. And we hope that Pampa men will agree. . . . Despite the suggestion of June Harding, our colleague, that Pampa might oughtta have

California Firms Buy Texas Well

GLENDALE, Calif., (UP)—Monterey Oil Co. and Forest Oil Co. announced Tuesday they have bought in an important producing well on a westerly extension of the Priehard oil field in Andrews county, Texas. . . . The well, No. 1-E University, is the first drilled by Monterey-Forest on a joint 640-acre lease. Another is contemplated in the immediate future, the firms said. . . . On a potential test, the new well flowed at a rate of 2,865 barrels a day of 12.5 gravity clean oil, the companies said. It was completed between 12,480 and 12,570 feet.

400 Shorn Sheep Die In Cold Snap

LOS ANGELES—UP—Some 400 newly shorn sheep died of exposure in a surprise weekend cold snap but 100 others were saved by an orchid fancier who crowded the ailing beasts into his green house and watched them munch up his prize blooms, officials reported Tuesday.

The sheep were part of a herd of 1200 pastured near Canoga Park, within the fair-fung Los Angeles city limits. The city animal regulation department confirmed the sheep died of exposure, and not disease, as was first thought. . . . O. H. Wilkins, a National Broadcasting Company lighting director who lives in the area, said he was unable to get help for the shivering sheep by telephone and many were dropping. He said he hauled about 100 of them into his orchid hothouse by a wheelbarrow. . . . There, on advice from a veterinarian, he gave them penicillin shots and sadly watched while the revived animals ate his precious blooms, many of which were worth more than the animal that devoured them. . . . The sheep were property of Nick Costa, of Woodland Hills. A heavy rainstorm followed by a cold snap left several inches of snow in mountain areas over the weekend. . . . The gun is part antelope, part buffalo, part donkey, and part horse.

Panhandle Personals

Mexico, US Sign Pact On Workers

MEXICO CITY—UP—A "friendship pact" was signed Monday night between Mexican and United States government workers.

The document expressed the common aims of the 250,000 Mexican government employees and their fellow-workers in the United States. . . . It was signed by Arnold S. Zander, of Madison, Wis., president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Workers, and Francisco Aguirre Alegria, secretary-general of the Mexican Federation of Government Employees.

The pact was hailed by observers as a first step in the eventual affiliation of United States and Latin American labor groups. . . . more than the animal that devoured them. . . . The sheep were property of Nick Costa, of Woodland Hills. A heavy rainstorm followed by a cold snap left several inches of snow in mountain areas over the weekend. . . . The gun is part antelope, part buffalo, part donkey, and part horse.

White Urges Federal Aid For Farmers

AUSTIN—UP—Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White urged full and immediate federal drought relief for farmers and ranchers Tuesday.

He wrote U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson about federal aid and proposed a three-part program of: . . . 1. Immediate reinstatement of all phases of previous federal drought relief measures which have been curtailed, including the hay shipment program. . . . 2. Reduction of the interest rate on federal disaster loans to maximum of three per cent as contrasted with the five per cent now charged. . . . 3. Re-establishment of a fixed minimum parity of 85 per cent on grain sorghums.

"In drought areas where the farmers' only chance is to make grain sorghum, crop this year, they desperately need assurance of a profit for their product," he said. "A profit loss this year will only mean the continued need for federal aid in years to come."

Benson toured the Texas-Coronado - New Mexico - Oklahoma-Kansas drought area last week. He recommended that relief suggestions on federal aid be put off until a meeting of drought state governors next month in Denver. . . . White told Benson Texas farmers need help now. . . . "I feel the problem is as evident as it will be next month," he wrote. . . . White has just returned from a five-day tour of the drought sector of Texas.

Frustrated Comedian Makes Mint On Gag Greeting Cards

By ALFRED LEECH
CHICAGO—UP—Bill Harris, a frustrated comedian at heart, put humor on a mass production basis and now he's reaping the profits.

Harris, 37, founded a comic greeting card company in 1948 with a staff consisting of himself. Now he has 400 employees, "all of whom get paid."

His business is based on the idea that "people like to make other people laugh."

"And the nice part of it is," he observed, "they're willing to part with their money to do it."

Harris was something of a pioneer. Aside from a few comic valentines, the greeting card business was mostly hearts and flowers until Harris introduced bofs and yoks. . . . Now he's hard pressed to stay ahead of his competitors. Recently he's introduced such novelty items as a birthday card that smokes a miniature cigarette and a Christmas card with a tree that actually grows. . . . Harris' father was a song and ## 300,000 Plates Sold In Dallas Co.

DALLAS—UP—Nearly 300,000 auto license plates were sold to Dallas County motorists in the two-month deadline period between Feb. 1 and April 2 of this year. Tax Collector Ben Gentle reported Monday.

The total—287,360—is an increase of 24,814 over that of the same period last year and brought in a total revenue of $8,228,787 of which the state took nearly $6 million as its share. Some 136,208 tags were sold during the last week of registration to set a record for sales during a single week.
