Zero Is Forecast For Pampa Tonight

A sudden cold front dropped temperature in Pampa 61 degrees since yesterday, closed the schools for a day and threatened to get worse before morning. Weathermen have predicted a low of zero in the area for tonight with more snow a possibility. This was Pampa's part of a Canadian cold front and it brought winds measuring 45 miles per hour last night and this morning, and the mercury which rested at a balmy 72 yesterday, tumbled to 12 at 8 a.m. today.

All Southwest Gets Cold Wave Notice

A bone-chilling Canadian cold front tore across Texas Thursday and the Weather Bureau issued cold wave warnings for all the Southwest. Temperatures dropped sharply and rapidly behind the front, which ripped into the Texas Panhandle late Wednesday night. Temperatures will reach cold wave proportions over all of Texas except in the extreme south by Thursday night, the weather bureau said.

Food Ideas Make News

There's no season for eating, especially, but every Thursday The Pampa Daily News presents a page of helpful ideas for the kitchen along with a special feature "This Is My Dish," by Women's Editor Jane Kadingo. Today the featured recipe is that of Mrs. Henry Gruben who suggests Sweet-Sour Pork Chops. You'll find other interesting food ideas and plenty of grocery store ads to help fill the recipe bill in today's News.

Light snows which fell in Pampa left but a trace of precipitation, but appeared as considerably more than they were the weatherman said because of snow drifts. No accidents were reported in the area by local police or the Texas Highway department, though school officials considered conditions earlier this morning severe enough to call off classes in the Pampa and Hopkins area. County Schools Superintendent B. R. Nuckols said he expected classes would be resumed Friday.

Mercury Dips 44 Degrees In Midwest

By UNITED PRESS — An icy cold wave chilled the nation's midsection from Canada to Texas and Oklahoma Thursday, dropping temperatures as much as 44 degrees. Cold wave warnings were posted for the entire Southwest and the U.S. Weather Bureau predicted that the Arctic front would sweep as far east as New England and as far south as southern Texas by late Thursday.

Pampa Trims Coffee Price 3 To 7 Cents

The slashes in coffee prices, which have been sweeping across the nation this week, were in evidence in Pampa stores today. Cuts in Pampa independent and chain stores range from three cents to seven cents a pound, a check by The Pampa Daily News showed. Most of the cuts were made in the last day or so, though some were made last week. The price of an average brand pound of coffee today was between $1.08 and $1.13, the check indicated.

Forecasters said the cold will continue through Friday with only a slight increase in temperature. The low in the Pampa area will range between zero and 10 degrees Friday morning, with the possibility of scattered snow tonight. At noon the thermometer was at 22 with the high for the day expected to be about 28. Other reports were at Dalhart where the thermometer dipped to 14 and 16 at Amarillo.

Pact Signing Ends Long Labor War

By CHARLES NOLAND — MIAAMI BEACH, Feb. 10 — UP — AFL President George Meany conveys his executive council Thursday to ratify a historic merger agreement with the CIO and end almost two decades of labor squabbling. Meany and CIO President Walter Reuther signed the historic merger agreement Wednesday after conferences with top leaders of unions affiliated with the two great labor organizations.

Grand Jury Due To Study 9 Cases

The Gray County Grand Jury will meet at 10 a.m. Monday in the Courthouse to consider at least nine pending cases. District Atty. Bill Waters, back today from the annual attorney general's conference in Austin, said there were one murder case, three forgeries, three thefts, a child support case and a second offense of driving while intoxicated on the list. The grand jury, too, may have other matters to discuss, Waters said.

French Crisis Growing

Pinay Gives Up Government Try

By WILBUR LANDREY — PARIS, Feb. 10 — UP — Businessman Antoine Pinay Thursday gave up his attempt to form a new government and plunged France deeper into a cabinet crisis now six days old. Pinay called on President Rene Coty to announce formally the failure of his efforts to line up enough support to become premier for a second time. The 63-year-old businessman had been trying since Sunday to form France's 21st post-war government.

Pinay Gives Up Government Try

Coty was confronted with the task of finding a new candidate to try to replace Pierre Mendes-France. Favored to Get Call — Pierre Pflimlin, 49-year-old member of the Catholic Popular Republicans (MRP), was favored to get the first call. It was the MRP that was largely responsible for topping Mendes-France and for Pinay's failure. The MRP also caused Pinay's fall in 1952 after a term that made him the most popular postwar premier until Mendes-France came along.

TEXAS SERGEANT NOW DRIVING GOERING'S AUTO IN GERMANY

STUTTGART, Germany — UP — Herman Goering's huge silver-and-black Mercedes, which used to carry the bemedalled field marshal down Berlin's Unter Den Linden, is cruising around southern Germany these days with a Texas driver at the wheel. M. Sgt. Sam Hosier, of 1600 North Kansas St., El Paso, is completely unimpressed by his car's history. "I'm from Texas where everything is big, so naturally I need a big car," he said.

First Evacuated Troops At Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 10 — UP — The first regular troops to be evacuated from the Tachens under protection of the U.S. Seventh Fleet arrived here Thursday and Americana said the whole operation was miles ahead of schedule. Original Navy estimates said the evacuation would take 10 to 14 days, but it appeared likely the mass movement would be completed by this weekend. The removal of the Nationalist garrison was the final and most crucial phase of the pullback.

Treaty Gives Warning To Red China

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 — UP — The Senate's overwhelming approval of a defense treaty between the United States and the Nationalist Chinese gave Red China renewed warning Thursday that this country will fight to defend Formosa. The treaty with Chiang Kai-Shek's government cleared the Senate Wednesday night by a whopping 64 to 6 bipartisan vote, far more than the required two-thirds majority, and was sent to President Eisenhower for his signature.

Jury Gets Bombing Evidence

Telephone Calls Take Spotlight — SAN ANGELO, Tex., Feb. 10 — UP — Long distance telephone calls made to and by Harry Washburn, Houston contractor charged with murder, took the spotlight Thursday as a grand jury met to sift evidence in the car-bomb slaying of socialist Mrs. Helen Harris Weaver.

Eagle Review For Scouts Set Tonight

Activity during Boy Scout Week in Pampa picks up today and lasts the remainder of the week. There will be an Eagle Scout conference review at 7:30 p.m. today in the City Commission Room of City Hall, a combination 45th Birthday Party and court of honor at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Pampa Junior High School gym and demonstrations Saturday afternoon in the vicinity of "Municipal Row."

Ex-Scouter Needs Blood

Boy Scout Week, the time of celebrating the organization of the Scout movement, finds one former Scouter in Highland General Hospital. And he has had to have so many blood transfusions that volunteers are needed to supply the hospital's blood bank. The man in the hospital is Jack Pippet, a pumper for Humble near Lefors, who used to be a Scout leader in Oklahoma, according to Paul Beisenherz, Adobe Walls Council Scout executive.

Chuckle Corner

Thought it hasn't a leg to stand on, a he can travel awfully fast. The head of a traffic department says that cold weather is ticklish business. Maybe he wears itchy undies. If you can't sleep nights think how many good meals you could get out of the sheep you could be counting.

U. S. INDIVIDUAL INCOME TAX RETURN 1954

Name: John S. Public
Address: 2733 Parker St., Glenrich, Wyo.

Employer: The Glenrich Repair Co., Glenrich, Wyo.

Wages: $2,700.00
Dividends: $100.00
Interest: $50.00
Total Income: $2,850.00

Exemption: 1
Taxable Income: $2,750.00
Tax: $100.00

Statement attached to return of:
John and Jane Public
2733 Parker St., Glenrich, Wyo.

On June 7, 1954, I took sick leave on account of illness. On June 9, 1954, I was taken to the Memorial Hospital, Glenrich, Wyo., where I remained until June 16, 1954. I returned to work on June 21, 1954, and received $150 payment from my employer for the time I was absent.

During 1954, I used my car for getting from repair job to repair job. I estimate 50% of the mileage was for business purposes. My automobile expenses for 1954 were:

Mileage: $100.00
Gasoline: $75.00
Oil: $4.00
Total: $179.00

Registration: $100.00
Inspection: $5.00
Total: $105.00

One-half of this, or $89.75, has been deducted from the total wages shown on my Form W-2 before entering the amount in Item 2.

Income Tax Primer . . . No. 4

How To Report Wages, Salary

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
Written for NEA Service

This article and the next three of NEA's Income Tax Primer will tell you how to fill out the parts of your tax return where income is reported.

The most important source of income for most taxpayers is wages or salaries, so let's take up first how to handle this income.

Most of the rules on reporting salaries and wages are the same this year as in previous years. Employers are still required to withhold taxes from the salary or wages they pay to employees except in a very few cases, such as farming or domestic service.

Then by Jan. 31, the employer is required to furnish the employee a Withholding Tax Statement (Form W-2) which shows total wages before payroll deductions, and also the amount of tax withheld.

You should get a W-2 from each of your employers during 1954 and you must, as in the past, send one copy of the W-2 to the District Director with your return. There are spaces on both Forms 1040A and 1040 for you to copy the amounts shown on your W-2's.

If a tax was not withheld from your salary or wage, ask your employer how much he paid you during 1954 if you haven't kept a record of the amounts. Report such income on separate lines opposite each employer's name. This includes tips received direct from customers and wages as a domestic servant, farm hand, or casual laborer.

The forms printed with this article show how to report salaries or wages on both Forms 1040A and 1040. After you have filled in that part, the next step is to see whether you qualify for the new tax break for wages earned for only received pay while absent from work on account of sickness or injury during 1954.

Here's how this tax break works:

If your employer has a plan or agreement with his employees that he will continue to pay you during absences on account of sickness or injury. And, during 1954, you received pay from your employer for the period you were absent from work on account of injury, then you can subtract so much of this pay as does not exceed a weekly rate of $100.

If you were paid while absent on account of sickness, you can subtract so much of this pay as does not exceed $100 per week after you have been sick for one full week. However, if your illness is such that you are hospitalized at least one day during your illness, you can subtract up to $100 per week of this pay from the first day of absence.

For example, suppose you were absent from work on account of sickness for 10 consecutive calendar days and your employer paid you $140 for the 10 calendar days, as he had agreed to do as one of your working benefits. If you were not hospitalized during the absence, then you can subtract pay for only the last three days, or $42. However, if you were hospitalized for one or more days during the absence, you could subtract the entire $140, since the rate of payment is less than $100 per week.

There is a place on both 1040A and 1040 to subtract this exclusion, as is shown in the sample form with this article. In addition, you have to attach a short statement to your return showing your name and address, the dates of your absences and whether from injury or sickness, the dates you were hospitalized, and the pay you received for the sick leave. You can use as a guide the sample statement shown with this article.

Just as in past years, employees can deduct certain trade or business expenses from their wages or salaries before entering the total in Item 2 of Form 1040. However, the new tax law has added some expenses which can be so deducted. Keep in mind that these expenses cannot be claimed on Form 1040A. But you can report them on either the short or long form

AIR CONDITIONERS YE!

A carload of air conditioners picked a fine time to arrive in Pampa, but workmen were unloading them this morning at the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad. The air conditioners will keep, no doubt, and come summer, maybe folks will be thinking longingly of today's cold spell.

The children's department of St. Paul Methodist Church will hold a talent program tonight at 7:15 in the Fellowship Hall, 515 N. Hobart. Admission proceeds will be used for the mission work of the church.

The Perry LeFors Field Board meets at 4 p.m. today in the Hughes Building office of Hugh Burdette for its monthly session. The new hangar, which should be completed by the end of the week, is the No. 1 topic of discussion. Ed Simmons, board secretary, reports.

Pampa Roping Club meets tonight at 7:30 in the courtroom of the County Courthouse for a membership meeting, according to O. Mangold, president.

Pampa Rotarians gather at 7:30 tonight for a banquet in the high school cafeteria celebrating the 50th anniversary of Rotary International.

Traffic Safety Committee of the Citizens Safety Council meets tonight at 7:30 in the Chamber of Commerce offices in the City Hall, according to Gene Fathene, chairman.

Agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce meets at 10 a.m. Friday in the Chamber of Commerce offices in the City Hall.

The Ruth Class of the Central Baptist Church will meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the home of Mrs. B. B. Higginbotham, 911 S. Nelson. The session is for members and members in service.

Oxygen-equipped ambulances, Ph. 4-3311, Duenkel-Carmichael. Top of Texas Hereford Breeders meet at noon Friday in the main dining room of the Pampa Hotel, according to E. O. Wedgeworth, secretary.

Mrs. B. D. Brister, 1133 Neal Rd., one of the four Pampa Lions Club Americanization class members "up" for U. S. citizenship, passed her test Tuesday in Amarillo and filed her petition.

She said today she would probably have been sworn in as a citizen when she was over there, but she needed to have two witnesses who have seen her frequently for the last three years on hand with her. She thought it would be another two weeks before she received a summons to return to Amarillo to take her oath.

Mrs. Martin Lantau, another of "the four," is expected to hear any day now from Amarillo and will then go through the same process Mrs. Brister has. Homer Craig, course instructor, said that Mrs. Donald L. Bissel and Mrs. Eva Maria Cash, the others, have not yet heard when to report.

The four are the only ones in the citizenship class who have been in the United States long enough to qualify for citizenship. The others, though they completed the course with "the four," will have to wait.

Texas 'Hidden' Oil Reserve 79.6 Billion

AUSTIN, Feb. 10—The Texas Petroleum Research committee said Thursday that Texas has "hidden" oil reserves totaling 79.6 billion barrels, which exceeds the total oil production of the entire United States to date by almost 8 billion barrels.

The committee said that 94.4 billion barrels of oil had been discovered in Texas thus far and of the total, 14.8 billion barrels had been produced.

According to the committee, the oil still to be drawn from reservoirs will include 15.7 billion barrels to be produced by conventional primary methods of recovery and 10.3 billion barrels that "probably" will be recovered by secondary recovery methods.

With the above deducted, "this leaves 53.4 billion barrels of oil known to be present in Texas oil fields already discovered that lie awaiting the magic touch of the researcher," the committee said.

The research committee is made up of the Texas Railroad Commission, Texas A&M College and the University of Texas. The group has been working to find ways to cause the rocks and sands to give up this known hidden oil.

Local Woman Passes Test For Citizen

Mrs. B. D. Brister, 1133 Neal Rd., one of the four Pampa Lions Club Americanization class members "up" for U. S. citizenship, passed her test Tuesday in Amarillo and filed her petition.

$337,000 House Called 'So Simple'

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif., Feb. 10—Mrs. Raphael M. Dorman said Thursday she was extremely happy with her new home—a $337,000 mansion full of electric protection devices and imported marble bathtubs—because it was so "simple."

Mrs. Dorman's husband, San Francisco division manager for the Bechtel Corp., bought the fabulous "house that fear built" Wednesday at a sheriff's auction for a mere $49,000.

"We fell in love with the house because it has such a basic simplicity," Mrs. Dorman said.

Heated Toilet Seats
The house contains such items as electric eyes, heated toilet seats, a $28,000 imported bathtub of pink marble, radiant-heated terraces and a unique electronic system that permitted the terrified builder to overlook conversations in any room in the house from any other room.

The six-year-old home in this exclusive residential community was built by gambler Sam Termini, who was sent to the McNeil Island, Wash., federal penitentiary when the government got a peek at the purchase price.

At the time Termini built the 10-room residence he owned Nevada's Cal-Neva Lodge, a profitable gambling venture.

Intended Small Cottage
He intended a small $35,000 cottage on the property.

Don Cain Tells Of DA Meeting
At the state attorney general's conference recently concluded in Austin, County Attorney Don Cain who was in attendance said Attorney General John Ben Shepperd introduced the nation's "leading" law enforcement officers in the following words (somewhat paraphrased):

"A man who has a record that every D. A. could be proud of; he had never lost a case, and was known to solve one case a week in 25 minutes flat."

Then introduced to the throng of law enforcement officials was "Mr. District Attorney," television and movie star, David Brian.

onage on the San Francisco peninsula. But he became worried about triggermen and other enemies and wound up with a $337,000 fortress. He put in an electronic fence so sensitive it would snap on a battery of flood lights when a shadow fell on it, stockade-type doors, an armory-plated wine cellar door and a ring of electric eyes inside the sensitive fence.

He paid $220,000 of the bill in cash and started the Bureau of Internal Revenue wondering about how the Termini budgeted their small reported income.

Termini landed in prison for income tax evasion, but Cal-Neva and his electronic lot went on the block.

Nixon Faces Busy Slate
MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10—UP—Vice President Richard M. Nixon Thursday faced another busy schedule on the second day of his three-day visit to Mexico.

Nixon is on a 7,500-mile goodwill tour of Central and South America. He arrived here Wednesday from Cuba.

Mexican Foreign Minister, Luis Padilla Nervo and U.S. Ambassador Francis White headed the official welcoming party at the airport. Other high Mexican government officials and diplomats also were on hand.

In a brief address at the airport, following the official 19-gun salute, Nixon said he came here "to hear the views of the Mexican government" on problems common to both the U.S. and Mexico.

"Mexico and the U.S. should work closely together as equal partners," he said. "We can accomplish much within the family of nations."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—UP—The Agriculture Department predicts continued high prices for most foods this year.

It said Wednesday night that grocery bills will be about the same during 1955 as they were in 1954, when the food price gauge registered a 3 per cent above the 1947-49 period now used as a basis for comparison. The record high for retail food prices so far was recorded in 1946 when they were 4 per cent above the base period.

High consumer purchasing power will keep prices up in 1955 despite record food supplies, the department said.

There were a few exceptions in the forecast. The department said housewives can expect some reduction in prices of rice and pork. But increases were seen for poultry and eggs.

"A rise in prices for canned fruits and vegetables is possible," the department added. "Other changes will follow seasonal ups and downs."

Police Grill Salesman In NY Murder

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—UP—A young clothing salesman with a scratched and bruised face underwent intense questioning by police Thursday about the sadistic rape slaying of pretty Anne Yarrow.

The man, Angelo (Mike) Morelli, 27, was picked up by police Wednesday on a tip he had dated Miss Yarrow, 23-year-old New York University graduate student, last Saturday night. The body of the girl—strangled, raped and mutilated—was found the next day in a bleak apartment on the lower East Side.

Morelli, dark-haired and stocky, told police he spent Saturday night at a movie, in bars and with a prostitute. He claimed the injuries to his face were inflicted by the prostitute who became enraged when they argued over her fee.

Morelli, police said, has denied even knowing the Yarrow girl. The murdered girl's father, Donn Yarrow, of Ventura, Calif., revealed to police contents of a letter Anne had written him shortly before her death.

"Am going out with someone new tonight—Mike—a friend of Fiera's."

Leverich Rites Scheduled Friday

Funeral services for Bobby Leverich, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim E. Leverich, 1824 Christmas, who died Tuesday of leukemia, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the First Methodist Church, Pampa.

Rev. Woodrow W. Adcock, pastor of the church, will officiate and Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home is handling the arrangements.

Palbearers will be Frank Fata, Clifford Braly, Bill Davis, Eben Warner, James Evans and Floyd Watson.

High Bidder on Rice
DALLAS, Feb. 10—UP—River Brand Rice Mills Inc. of Houston was successful bidder at 95 cents a hundredweight for packaging 653,250 pounds of rice that will be exported from Houston to Honduras. C. H. Moseley, director of the Dallas Commodity Stabilization Service announced.

ROTC Airmen Acquire Plane
WACO, Tex., Feb. 10—UP—Members of Baylor University's Air Force ROTC detachment now are making two flights daily in an Air Force C-94 acquired by the detachment for cadet training and orientation flights.

Register for Teacher Convention
DENTON, Tex., Feb. 10—UP—A total of 1,250 students from 95 Texas high schools already have registered for the Feb. 18-19 sixth annual state convention of Future Teachers of America. The 1955 convention theme will be "Teaching—Opportunities Unlimited."

Texan Offers Bonus For Downed MIG

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—UP—Thomas E. Robertson, Dallas, Tex., oil man, has offered to pay $100 to any American pilot who shoots down an attacking Communist plane.

Robertson said he informed the State Department of his offer in two separate letters but has heard "nothing very definite" in the way of official reaction.

"They can't afford to say very much of anything, you know," he explained.

Robertson said he plans to ask other Texas oil men for aid in increasing the offer to $500, maybe $1,000—you can't tell how high we'll get."

The 54-year-old executive said he first mentioned his idea to a group of friends in Miami, Fla., and "they called my hand."

Bill To Cut Bus License Fees Offered

AUSTIN, Feb. 10—UP—The Texas House had before it for final passage Thursday a bill to cut license fees on motor buses, but it also has a warning that such revenue-reducing measures were going in an already short state bank account.

Rep. Max Smith of San Marcos, chairman of the House Appropriations committee, told lawmakers Wednesday they will "have to raise the money to pay for the things you're asking for."

And R. J. Sadler, Perrilla, who was unsuccessful in amending the bill to death, said "what we need at this time is to raise the money we need, not to give money back to any industry." He said the governor recommended increased highway-building expenditures and "why should we give money back to an industry that has the biggest vehicles on the highway?"

The House voted 72-63 on second reading Wednesday for the measure, sponsored by Rep. Jack Bryan of Buffalo, but balked at immediate final passage. Bryan's original bill would have reduced state revenue by $823,000 annually, but an amendment tacked onto the measure cut the loss to about $282,000.

The altered bill proposed reducing license fees for buses weighing 1,000 to 8,000 pounds by 67.5 cents per 100 pounds. Fees for buses weighing 31,000 pounds and over would be reduced $2 per 100 pounds.

Meanwhile, the Senate voted that its committee investigating the multi-million dollar veterans land program need not report back until April 15. The previous deadline was Feb. 15.

In other action, the House approved and sent to the upper chamber a bill changing the name of McKnight Sanatorium at San Angelo to McKnight State Tuberculosis hospital. It also approved a bill providing for summary sale of property on which taxes are delinquent seven years or more.

Fort Worth Doctor Elected
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 10—UP—Dr. Jerry O. Carr, co-chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at Fort Worth, Tex., osteopathic hospital, was elected Wednesday new president of the American College of Osteopathic Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Spelling Bee Is Postponed

The snowy winter weather which closed Pampa public schools today also caused a postponement of the annual Gray County Spelling Bee.

The spelling bee has been rescheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Pampa High School, County Schools Supt. B. R. Nuckolls said late this morning.

There is not too much hurry about holding it, because the High Plains Spelling Bee in Amarillo will compete will not be held till March 12. The national spelling bee is held in the late spring.

There are 21 youngsters from nine schools in the county entered in the contest.

Japan's New Government Will Seek Co-Existence

By RUTHERFORD POATS
 TOKYO, Feb. 10—UP—A conservative government, dedicated to alignment with the free world but pledged to seek peaceful coexistence with Japan's big Communist neighbors is almost certain to emerge from the Feb. 27th national elections.
 All advance indications favor popular endorsement of the two-month old caretaker government of Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama.
 His policies and campaign platform have been carefully shaped for vote-getting appeal to all sections of the Japanese electorate. Among the interesting packages he offers the voters are a call for "independence" without "neutrality" in foreign affairs; revision of the "un-Japanese" occupation statutes; and continuation of the current, generally popular economic policies.
 Merger Agreeable
 Hatoyama's new Democratic party and leaders of the nation's "liberals," have agreed in principle on a merger creating a strong conservative force immediately after the elections.
 If these plans materialize and the Japanese election forecasts pan out, Hatoyama will form the new party and organize a government backed by a comfortable 300-odd of the 467 members of the House of Representatives.
 Chances of a Socialist victory in the Feb. 27 balloting are generally conceded to be non-existent although slight shifts in some election districts could whittle down the recent conservative majority. The two Socialist parties now have 135 seats and, with luck, might pick up 20 to 30 more.
 All House Seats at Stake
 At stake are all the seats in the House of Representatives. It was dissolved Jan. 21 by Hatoyama to clear the way for the elections following the resignation of former Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida and his cabinet on last Dec. 7.
 The most significant contest will be for leadership of the conservative forces when the merger is attempted early in March.
 The conservative merger could force the split Socialists to merge also, giving Japan, in effect, a two-party system.
 The conservative merger is almost a cinch to come off if the Democrats pick up 40 or more of the Liberals' 100 seats. If the Liberals hold on to most of their present seats, there will be a fight over leadership which may stall or even block the proposed merger.
 Yoshida Upsets Plans
 Former Premier Yoshida, whom the Democrats will not accept, has upset the plans by deciding to run for re-election although he has

Group To Help Enforce Law

AUSTIN, Feb. 10—UP—A Texas Advisory Committee on Law Enforcement to head a state-wide anti-crime program was formed at a meeting in Austin Wednesday, General John Ben Shepperd announced.
 The committee, which was formed at the close of the fifth annual Attorney General's Conference, met with Shepperd. Its members are W. O. Baniston of Dallas; J. Marion West, Houston; William R. Crim, Kilgore; Ray Willoughby, San Angelo, and Jack Love, Llano. Baniston was elected chairman of the new committee.
 "Each committee member is a responsible business leader in his community and each has shown a great personal interest in better law enforcement," Shepperd said.

Durante's Condition Improved
 HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 10—UP—Comedian Jimmy Durante has been released from St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica after being treated for a minor stomach ailment. Durante, admitted to the hospital Saturday night after suffering cramps, was under observation until Monday, when he was released.

Col. Says He Got Fair Trial Ex-Patient Charged In Abduction

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 10—UP—Col. Robert V. C. Dunn, 49, said Thursday he thought he received a fair trial by a court martial of two generals and five colonels, who convicted him of flying Air Force mechanics to Pennsylvania in military planes to repair tractors for his farm.
 He was convicted on 10 of the 19 specifications against him. The maximum sentence could have been 11 years and 11 months at hard labor, but he got off with a reprimand and a fine of $1,800 to be paid off over a period of one year.

The tractors actually were half-tractors, which Dunn, former maintenance and supply officer at Laredo Air Force Base, had received as Army surplus. The Air Force mechanics put them into working condition in Harrisburg, Pa., so Dunn could use them on his farm near Kokomo, Ind.

The $1,800 fine, to be paid off at the rate of $150 a month, will be deducted from Dunn's salary.

His conviction followed more than a week of testimony. He went on trial Jan. 21, a week from last Monday. Throughout his trial, he contended he was innocent.

Dunn was court martialled on three charges:
 Wrongful use of aircraft; landing on unauthorized air fields, and unauthorized use of enlisted men.

He was acquitted of charges he lied about the number of flying hours he logged and tried to intimidate a witness against him.

GALVESTON, Feb. 10—UP—Galveston county authorities said Thursday they were holding a 24-year-old former inmate of the State Epileptic Hospital in Abilene on charges of abducting a woman patient from the institution.

The former patient, Jose Alvarado Garcia, also is wanted on a second degree forgery charge at Ardmore, Okla. Sheriff Frank L. Biagge said.

Garcia, in a complaint filed by Mr. and Mrs. Orville A. Nance of Cisco, Tex., is charged with abducting Geraldine Nance, their daughter, from the state institution last Dec. 21, one day after he received his release from the hospital.

Biagge said Garcia was arrested late Tuesday. He said the former patient admitted he left the hospital with Miss Nance, but that he denied knowing where she is now.

Garcia's wife and mother reside in Galveston.
 The former patient told authorities that he went to Ardmore after his release from the hospital where he found a job. Ardmore police said Garcia forged a check and bought a car and drove it to Galveston.

Two Oklahoma law officials were enroute to Galveston Thursday to take Garcia to Ardmore for trial. He waived extradition.

'Knowingly' To Stay In Booze Law

By O. B. LLOYD JR.
 AUSTIN, Feb. 10—UP—A Senate committee, by 7-2 vote, Wednesday killed legislation erasing the word "knowingly" from present law banning sale of beer and liquor to minors.

Sen. Searcy Bracewell, sponsor of the bill fought to revive the measure through a minority report on the Senate floor.

However, Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, presiding officer of the upper chamber, ruled the Houston legislator had failed to rally the re-

This Is My Dish

Mrs. Gruben Prepares Sweet-Sour Pork Chops

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor
Sweet-sour pork chops is a dish Mrs. Henry Gruben, 1157 Huff Rd., likes to make. But any dish might do as well, as Mrs. Gruben likes to cook.

"I like to cook better than anything," she explained. And she has been doing it ever since she "can remember." She says her grand-mother, who also liked to cook, "put up" with her and taught her when she was a child. She now cooks for her husband, who works for the Panhandle Insurance Agency, and her two sons, Carl, 3 and David, 4.

A native Pampian, Mrs. Gruben says she and her family have "been back two years," since living in Houston and Chicago. In addition to her house work and taking care of her two sons, 2 can of drained fruit cocktail. Mrs. Gruben is public relations officer for the League of Women Voters and is benevolent chairman for a circle of the First Baptist Church. She also sews, making a lot of her own clothes.

SWEET-SOUR PORK CHOPS
Brown pork chops in 2 Tbsp. shortening. Season to taste. Remove pork chops from skillet. Sauté apple rings. Add a cup of water, ½ cup raisins, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 Tbsp. corn starch, ½ cup vinegar. Put chops in a casserole. Pour over sauce and bake for 45 minutes at 325 degrees.

Here is a salad Mrs. Gruben sometimes serves with the pork chops.

SALAD
To a large package of cream cheese, softened, add 21 marshmallows that have been melted over a double boiler. Add a No. 2 can of drained fruit cocktail. Put in flat pan or dish. Chill. Cut into squares and serve.

Suggestions For Attractive Desserts Given For Special Days In February

Whether you're planning a party or not on Valentine's Day, you'll want to mark the occasion with a special dessert. Here's one the whole family can enjoy.

Valentine Delight made with new strawberry rennet powder and lady fingers, is attractive and tasty, yet simple to prepare. Serve it in your prettiest sherberts, use lace paper doilies, and scatter hearts or cupid for decoration. And include baby too with his own dish of plain strawberry rennet-custard topped for the day with a spoonful of whipped cream.

VALENTINE DELIGHT
8 lady fingers
2 cups milk (not canned)
2 cups milk (not canned)
1 pkg. Strawberry rennet powder
Whipped cream
Multicolored decoresses
Set out 4 or 5 dessert glasses. Stand 2 lady fingers in each glass. Warm milk slowly until lukewarm, stirring constantly. Test a drop on the inside of your wrist frequently. When it feels comfortably warm (110 degrees F.), not hot, remove at once from heat. Stir in entire contents of package of strawberry rennet powder at one time. Mix until powder is dissolved — not over 1 minute. Pour at once, while still liquid, into dessert glasses. Let stand about 10 minutes, while milk sets. Then chill in refrigerator. Just before serving, garnish the edge of each dessert with a ring of whipped cream. Sprinkle with multicolored decoresses. Place each dessert on a glass plate decorated with string of hearts or other appropriate decoration.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY DESSERT
If you're planning a children's party for Lincoln's or Washington's Birthday, here are suggestions for lovely desserts the youngsters will enjoy. Let them without fear of spoiling their appetites.

2 cups milk (not canned)
1 pkg. raspberry rennet powder
4 marshmallows
4 blue candles
4 cherry lifesaver candies
Set out 4 dessert glasses. Warm milk slowly until lukewarm, stirring constantly. Test a drop on the inside of your wrist frequently. When it feels comfortably warm (110 degrees F.), not hot, remove at once from heat. Stir in entire contents of package of raspberry rennet powder at one time. Mix until powder is dissolved — not over 1 minute. Pour at once, while still liquid, into dessert glasses. Let stand about 10 minutes, while milk sets. Then chill in refrigerator. When ready to serve, top each dessert with a Lincoln's Birthday candle. To make, press a blue candle into the center of each marshmallow. Press red lifesaver candy into side of marshmallow. Candles may be lighted just before dessert are taken to the table.

WASHINGTON'S TREAT
4 tbsps. cherry preserves
2 cups milk (not canned)
1 pkg. vanilla rennet powder
Whipped cream
Maraschino cherries (with stems)
Set out 4 dessert glasses. In bottom of each glass put 1 tablespoon cherry preserves. Warm milk slowly until lukewarm, stirring constantly. Test a drop on the inside of your wrist frequently. When it feels comfortably warm (110 degrees F.), not hot, remove at once from heat. Stir in entire contents of package of vanilla rennet powder at one time. Mix until powder is dissolved — not over 1 minute. Pour at once, while still liquid, into dessert glasses. Let stand about 10 minutes, while milk sets.

Child Can Make Easy Meat Dish

When your children show interest in learning to cook, that's the time to help them. They'll become a real help to you and will probably maintain their interest in cooking.

Ground meat is a good choice for beginning cooks, says meat expert Reba Staggs. It's thrifty and a child can easily prepare an acceptable dish with it. You can get the children a few basic tips such as the seasonings to use with ground meat. For every pound of meat, 1 teaspoon of salt and ¼ teaspoon of pepper are used. If an onion flavor is desired, add 1 tablespoon of chopped onion.

Choose simple recipes so that children will be able to prepare them easily. Another way to keep up their interest is to have them prepare foods everyone will enjoy eating. Such a recipe is Meat Balls en Brochette.

1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
8 small dill pickles
4 wooden or metal skewers
Combine ground beef, salt, pepper and onion and mix well. Shape mixture into 12 small balls. Thread each skewer with a meat ball, pickle, meat ball, pickle and meat ball. Set regulator to broil. Place skewers on a rack in a broiler pan and insert pan in broiler so the surface of the meat is 4 inches from the heat. Broil until browned on one side; turn and brown on second side. 4 servings.

Apple Candy Makes A Treat For Family

Ever tasted fresh apple candy? It's a delicious confection that's so decorative you'll want to make extra batches and pack them in gay ribboned boxes as gifts for family friends. Junior's favorite treat and as a special treat for Dad and the youngsters. The Washington apple growers, who sent us this easy-to-do recipe, say that these apple candies may be made in a variety of gay colors and we especially like the lime, cherry and strawberry-flavored gelatin which accents the fresh apple flavor.

1 pkg. lime, cherry or strawberry gelatin
Apples to make 1 cup strained apple sauce
1 cup sugar
¾ cup broken walnuts or
½ cup chopped almonds
Confectioner's sugar

Combine apple sauce and sugar and cook over low heat until very thick, about 15 minutes. Stir constantly to avoid scorching. Remove from heat. Dissolve gelatin in hot apple sauce and add nuts. Turn into greased 9x5x2 inch loaf pan. Chill in refrigerator. When firm, remove from refrigerator, cut into 1-inch cubes and roll in powdered sugar. Let stand overnight at room temperature to dry. Then roll in additional confectioner's sugar. Store in two layers between waxed paper in a covered container. Makes about 1½ dozen candies.

The stand-by pair of bathmat and toilet-tid cover has a third companion: A contour-cut lavatory base rug.

It's Beef Stew Time!

STEW may properly be called classic because its history is long and illustrious. The first stews, thousands of years ago, used pots of dried skin and dropped broiling hot stones into them to accomplish the cooking. Then some ancient genius invented fireproof pots, thus eliminating the need for the stones. The Greeks thought of adding salt.

Vegetables And Beef — Stew!
In modern terms, a "classic" beef stew is one accompanied by the famous trio of root vegetables — fresh carrots, onions and potatoes. Choose beef stew meat cut from lean, grass-fed beef which has the complete high quality protein, B vitamins and essential minerals found in all meat. Grass-fed beef, brought to market directly from the grassy plains, makes ideal stew meat and gives you a great deal of flavor for a small investment.

Pimientos, Cheese Give Fine Spread
Pimientos plus cheese (Cheddar, Blue and cream) plus wine plus a little cream add up to a really elegant dessert spread. Add toasted crackers and/or apples or pears and a glass of port for one of the simplest yet most sophisticated of meal endings.

This very special recipe for Pimiento - Cheese - Port - Dessert Spread was developed and tested especially to toast National Pimiento Week (February 5-11).

1 can or jar (4 oz.) pimientos, chopped finely
2 cups shredded sharp American Cheddar cheese
3 ounces Blue cheese
1 (12 oz.) package cream cheese
2 tablespoons cream or evaporated milk
¼ to ½ cup California port wine

Wig Wag Wedges

Enjoy hearty breakfasts during "Better Breakfast Month" and all year. Serve baked treats like Wig Wag Wedges often.

Turn the morning spotlight on Wig Wag Wedges for good-eating during February, "Better Breakfast Month." Spicy and sweet, this easy coffee cake sparks listless appetites.

Serve fluffy scrambled eggs with bacon chips, chilled grapefruit juice and hot cocoa. Feature Wig Wag Wedges with plenty of butter or margarine in this luscious meal, planned to give your family a bonus of energy until lunchtime.

Wig Wag Wedges score high in nourishment when you make them with enriched flour. At no extra cost, you can include additional amounts of essential B-vitamins and food iron in your family's diet this easy way. If you haven't time to do your own baking for "Better Breakfast Month," see the tempting array of coffee cakes, rolls and breads displayed at your neighborhood bakery or food store. Check to make sure all the products you buy bear the "enriched" label.

WIG WAG WEDGES (Easy Coffee Cake)
1 package yeast, compressed or 2 ¼ cups sifted enriched flour (about)
½ cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
1 cup milk
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup shortening
Soften yeast in water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and shortening and cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour, yeast and water. Beat well. Add softened yeast and eggs and mix thoroughly. Add enough more flour to make a stiff batter. Beat thoroughly until smooth. Cover and let rise in warm place until light and bubbly (about 1 hour). Add currants and stir down. Spread evenly into 2 greased 9-inch round pans. Sprinkle with Crumb Topping. Make 5 wedge-shaped pieces by pressing lines into batter with floured finger tips. Let rise until light (about 30 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) about 30 minutes. Drizzle confectioner's sugar icing horizontally across each wedge.
Makes 2 9-inch coffee cakes.

Crumb Topping
½ cup enriched flour
½ cup sugar
1 ½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup butter or margarine
Combine flour, bread crumbs, sugar and cinnamon. Cut or rub in butter or margarine until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle over beaten batter. Makes enough for 2 9-inch coffee cakes.

Potato Salad And Franks Make Hit

Next time there's a basketball game, have your teen agers invite the gang in for a buffet lunch. Teen agers are a casual lot and they appreciate the casual in food. Just so there's plenty of it. Home economist Reba Staggs suggests frankfurters with hot potato salad, pickles, cat-sup, mustard, strawberry-whipped cream-out sundae and hot chocolate.

FRANKFURTERS WITH HOT POTATO SALAD
1 pound frankfurters
6 medium-sized potatoes
1 onion, finely chopped
Hot Dressing
Cook potatoes in skins and remove skins while hot. Cut potatoes in 1-2 inch cubes. Add onion to potatoes. Make Hot Dressing. Cover frankfurters with hot water and heat slowly but do not boil. Pour dressing over potatoes and onion. Heat salad until liquid is absorbed. Arrange on platter with heated frankfurters. 6 servings.
Hot Dressing
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon mustard
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
½ cup vinegar
1 egg, slightly beaten
4 slices bacon, diced
Combine salt, pepper, mustard and beaten egg. Cook bacon until lightly brown and combine bacon and drippings with other mixture. Cook slowly until thickened.

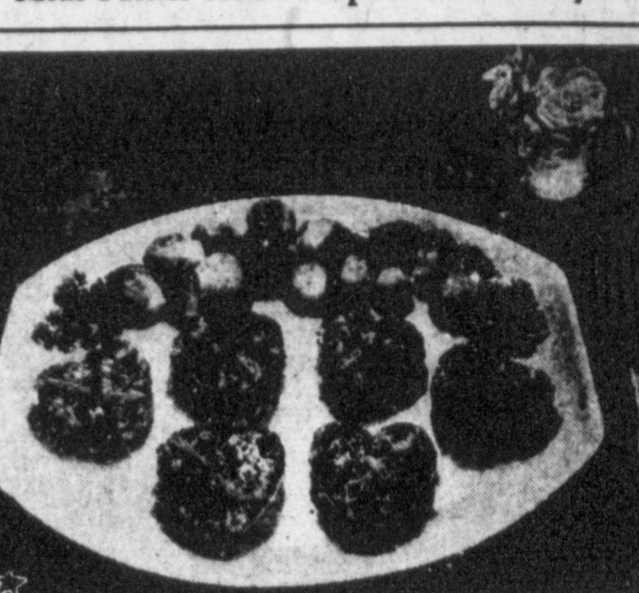

"Cheese Potatoes" Give Meal Variety

Inspired cooking is not all in the realm of soups, sauces and rich desserts. Consider potatoes, a test for cooks if ever there was one.

They're easy to boil, to bake, to fry — acceptable but commonplace. Not always do you want out-of-the-ordinary potatoes, but if your menu needs a little sparkle, try "Cheese Potatoes." These can be made in jig-time, and just incidentally offer a fine way of getting those leftover potatoes out of the refrigerator and onto the table.

1 cup Corn Flakes
½ cup grated American cheese
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
4 medium potatoes, boiled
Crush corn flakes into fine crumbs; combine with cheese, salt and paprika. Spread 2 tablespoons of butter in bottom of shallow baking pan. Cut potatoes in slices ½ inch thick. Place, cut side down, close together in pan. Brush with remaining butter and sprinkle with Corn Flakes mixture. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. Serve at once. Yields 6 servings.

Meat Patties Heart-Shaped for February 14

Valentine Meat Patties are a clever way to do something special for dinner on Valentine's Day. They're quick and easy, too — they're baked in heart-shaped salad molds for 25 minutes in a moderate oven (350° F.).

Rice Omelet Gives Good Economy Dish

With rice and eggs both on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's plentiful food list for this area, what could be more economical than a hearty rice omelet? Try this recipe.

Use 4 eggs; ¾ cup milk; 2 tablespoons flour; 3 tablespoons butter or other fat; ½ teaspoon salt; 2 cups boiled rice. Separate eggs and beat yolks thoroughly. Make a sauce with the milk, flour, 2 tablespoons of fat, and salt. Add rice to hot sauce and stir in egg yolks, and fold this mixture into the well-beaten whites of the eggs. Beat other tablespoon of fat in a frying pan and pour in mixture. As soon as it has set and browned lightly on bottom and sides, place under a low broiler flame for 2 or 3 minutes to brown on top. Then crease the omelet through center with a spatula, fold over, and roll onto a hot platter. Serve at once. Or if more convenient, bake the omelet in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) and serve in the baking dish.

Knit a tweed jacket? Yes, indeed, for beauty at a price. A new yarn is 50 per cent wool, 50 per cent nylon. Done on big needles, the jacket is a lovely tweed-like topper. It washes out, too.

If you don't like the straight and narrow silhouette, pick a dress that floats. Wide skirts are good fashion for spring.

Gangway for Value!

Here comes Mom's own special delivery man, heavy of cargo and light of heart. Home's mighty pleasant, and he's headed there with some of the things that help make it so.

Manufacturers bring his family better and better products all the time — result of constant competition against each other to keep their brands in demand.

That's where Mom's smart. She knows this. So she reads this newspaper to keep up on latest product improvements . . . to learn about entirely new items . . . to find out where she can get them. And when she learns which brands serve her best, she buys by the trademarks that identify them.

. . . that's how Mom keeps home sweet home.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!

MOVIES - TV - RADIO
by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Guys and Dolls: Ingrid Bergman, the most famous movie Swede since Greta Garbo, is still saying "I don't want to be alone. I want to be with Roberto."

Hollywood's again baiting Ingrid with fabulous offers, but unless hubby Roberto Rossellini is included in the deal, she will never accept any of them.

News of an Ingrid still sticking to her loyalty pledge was flashed to me by Kurt Krueger, who just played her lover in a movie. The film was "Fear," directed by Rossellini in Munich and due for release in the U. S. this summer.

"I'd like to make a movie in Hollywood," Ingrid told Krueger, "but Hollywood doesn't seem to want Roberto. And I won't work without him."

Ingrid today? Krueger says: "She's a sensation wherever she goes. She hasn't aged a bit and she still has that peach-and-cream complexion. She never talks back to Rossellini. Her acting is better than ever—she even had ME in tears in one scene."

Best remembered for his Nazi pilot role with Humphrey Bogart in 1942's "Sahara," Krueger left Hollywood five years ago—"I was at a dead-end street"—to play romantic leads in German films. Now he's back for more Hollywood emoting.

JUST AS I'VE always suspected, the English movie industry isn't on it toes. The word "falsies" hasn't reached 'em.

Not that Mona Freeman needs falsies, you understand. But she had just reported at a London studio for the starring role in a mystery flicker, "Before I Wake," and the wardrobe mistress wanted to be helpful.

"And I almost flipped," Mona laughed, "when she asked me: 'Tell me, Miss Freeman, do you need any built-up areas?'"

"She meant falsies, but she'd never heard the word. I assured her I didn't need any built-up areas anywhere."

Mona's career is zooming again now that she's free of an RKO contract which gave her only two movies in two years. She's in "Battle Cry," and currently acting in "The Man From Texas."

Like Grace Kelly, she's the cultured siren type—the type popular again in Hollywood now that the un-cover girls have gone as far as they can go.

DALE ROBERTSON'S contract at Fox has only two more years to go despite publicity that it was a "long term" deal. And he's making no secret of his unhappiness about the studio's failure to continue with the big-star build-up started in "Lydia Bailey."

Says Dale, whose new picture is "Top of the World" for Landmark Prod:

"Somewhere along the line the studio lost interest and began to lend me out. I should have had the support of good stories and good directors. But I didn't get them. I don't say that I can act like Marion Brando, but then nobody took the trouble to find out."

REMEMBER HOLLYWOOD'S Sufferin' Sue?

The doll who could lose husband, children, home and her rabbit-skin coat just because she liked to keep green stamps in the old man's shaving mug.

Before the war she was No. 1 at the box office with the 4-H movie clubbers — four-handkerchief movies lead the Hollywood city parade.

Now with pictures that once made Aunt Sadie rush to the theater for a good cry coming back, Ann Baxter believes Sufferin' Sue will be "a lot more honest this time."

"Hollywood writers," argues Anne, "once made women all white or all black. But women aren't all one thing or all another. They filmed the same situations over and over. Our writers wrote themselves out. Now it's new writers with new ideas."

No, the Taylors, the Gables and the Chandlers don't have to worry about the return of women's flickers. Says Anne:

"You do a picture about men and you don't need a woman. But you can't do a film for women without men. A man is always more important in a woman's picture than a woman is in a man's picture."

Short Takes: Merle Oberon nixed a role in "Alexander the Great" with the explanation, "Sorry, it's not great enough." . . . British censors have banned Marlon Brando's "The Wild One." . . . Roy Rogers is close to a deal with United Artists for his first big-screen movie since 1951. . . The Linda Darnell-Phil Liebmann marriage is on thin ice.

Montgomery Clift's reported in a New York hospital. Ailment unknown. . . Dean Martin on the phone from the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas: "I took over as a blackjack dealer last night and lost $35,000 for the house. Ha-ha. I bet the house isn't laughing."

GI, Witness, Gets 5 Years For No Salute

FORT WORTH, Feb. 10—UP—A Lancaster, Pa., airman who was converted to the Jehovah Witness sect while in Texas Wednesday faced a court martial sentence of five years at hard labor for obeying his religion and disobeying an Army order to salute his base paying officer.

Members of the Jehovah Witness sect don't salute flags or persons. Airman 3-C Gene D. Matt, 20, of Lancaster, was ordered dishonorably discharged and to forfeit all pay and allowances, in addition to the five-year hard labor sentence.

First Lt. Harry M. McMillan of Bristow, Okla., the defense attorney, based the defense strictly on the fact Matt was baptized into the Jehovah's Witness sect last November in San Angelo, Tex., and the religion does not approve saluting flags or persons.

But the Army charged Matt with willful disobedience of a lawful command by a superior officer, a violation of the 90th Article of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

It said Matt, who enlisted in the Air Force in May, 1952, refused to salute the Carswell paying officer, Lt. Col. Clay E. Thompson, Jr. of Graham, Tex., on Dec. 18, 1954.

Prosecuting attorney Lt. Tom B. Medders Jr. of Dallas explained that service custom and Air Force regulations require that men salute when they collect their pay.

Star Worker Defines Its Competition

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 10—UP—Raymond A. Barrows, secretary of the Kansas City Star, testified under cross examination Wednesday that the Star regards "any publication in this area as a competitor either in news, editorial matter or in advertising."

Barrows was on the witness stand for the third day as a defense witness in the government's anti-trust suit against the Star and its advertising director, Emil A. Seas.

Earl A. Jinkinson, special assistant to the U.S. attorney general, conducted the cross examination. He questioned Barrows about Defense Exhibit No. 39 which included a long list of publications other than newspapers being published in the Kansas City metropolitan area. They represented church, fraternal, school and trade journals.

Jinkinson referred to two publications of the Unity School of Practical Christianity, one of them printed in Spanish and neither of which carried advertising. Barrows said he regarded them as competition on news.

"No need to get so riled up, Sheriff! This hyar is just one o' them neighborhood Do-It-Yourself projects!"

Riding With Evacuation Fleet Is Like Playing Slot Machine

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent
WITH EVACUATION SHUTTLE TO TACHEN ISLANDS — (NEA)

SALUTE — Refugee soldier salutes as he boards evacuation craft bound for Formosa.

An LSD (landing ship dock) is an incredible ship, the product of our whizz-whamming, cellophane-wrapped civilization. It swallows small landing craft like the whale did Jonah.

It has a small cut in the forward deck several feet below the surface, like the opening in a refrigerator for an ice tray.

Nationalist landing craft, lightly armored, sit in the deck well. Their Chinese crews, like wan dolls in the ugly down with black hair loose over their foreheads, man the tiny bridges.

An American in a white hat presses a button, and seawater spills into the cut. Slowly the landing craft rises like so many soap dishes in a filling tub.

As the water reaches sea level, a gate lifts and a landing craft — with our handful of reporters and photographers the only passengers — puts out.

Wearing life jackets that puff us like expectant mothers, we chop toward the Tachens to play an historic slot machine, with no possible winning jackpot.

Either the new mandarin masters of China a few miles away will allow our small craft to conduct an orderly evacuation, an efficient retreat, or before many hours their swept-back MIGs — like soaring seagulls picking out flocks of garbage — will claw through the clouds to strike this strange shuttle of mercy.

In which case, some of the young men I now see — American boys, Chinese boys — will be crippled and killed. And they might be the advance guard of millions to follow. The Tachens are closer than you think. A jet bomber does not stop for a visa.

An aging war reporter long grown soft wonders: "Why am I doing it again?" It seems time for bedroom slippers and an easy chair. But let's face it: This is not the age for bedroom slippers and an easy chair. Not for the reporter, feeling slightly queasy in the slapping water of the East China seas. Not for an insurance broker in Kansas City.

For this reporter it's a return trip to the Tachens, but under different conditions with different spirit. Last year I came here to cover the build-up of the Tachens for the invasion of mainland China. I sailed around the islands in one of the Nationalists' armed wooden junks which was sweeping the coast in search of Communist ships.

Another year of advance by the mandarin masters has followed — and democracy is pulling out again.

Young Americans with this armada, who have so much more ahead, know it and don't like it. I talked to them as we steamed with portholes blacked out and cannon fingering the skies.

A group of sailors, tanned and healthy-looking from a recent equatorial cruise, gathered for a smoke in the ship's hospital. There's the inevitable acid smell of medicines, bandages, serums. Corporal Len Bignall, 22, of Marquette, Wash., his hair cropped short as a thumbnail, fingers a hypodermic needle.

"I tell you," he says, "as long as we're going to have this stuff over our heads again and again, let's get it over with, once and for all. Nobody enjoys being away from home. I've seen my daughter, Karyn, just once since she was born. If we're going to fight, let's fight."

Chief Eura Bryant of Miami, Fla., says: "It looks to me like another war. We've been fighting or talking about one as long as I can remember. In Korea we let them stand on their side of the fence and shoot at us. Now maybe we'll go into their backyards."

But the vast armada of cruisers, carriers and jets protecting this shuttle is not going into anybody's backyard — not yet. The young men who man the anti-aircraft guns have orders which show where the free world still stands: Shoot at nothing, no matter what it does, unless it first shoots at you.

Assuming you're still alive to shoot back.

MEDICS ON HAND — Nationalist Medical Officer and nurse watch the refugees arrive.

STANDING BY — A Nationalist soldier and sailor stand by to await orders in the big show.

Fraternity Reprimanded For Bad Taste

DENVER, Feb. 10 — UP — The Kappa Sigma fraternity at Denver University will be kept under strenuous restrictions for the rest of the school year as part payment for the "inexcusably bad taste" it used in the hazing of 10 coeds.

The girls were taken captives by the fraternity brothers and dragged before a kangaroo court to stand trial on charges of stealing Kappa Sigma's symbol — a crescent and star — and also its missing memorial plaque for a member who was killed two years ago in an automobile accident.

The girls were "convicted" and sentenced to have the stolen fraternity symbol painted on their foreheads. The painting got out of hand towards the end when one of the coeds was up-ended and had the symbol painted on the seat of her panties.

The Interfraternity Council ruled Kappa Sigma used "inexcusably bad taste" in luring the girls from their Alpha Chi Omega sorority house with serenades and then taking them away to stand trial.

The Council said the fraternity has been put under strenuous restrictions for the remainder of the school year and on "warning" against misbehavior until June 30, 1957.

Allwyn (Skid) Pirtle, second vice president of the fraternity and captain of the school's golf team, and Don Brown, fraternity president and a nationally-ranked collegiate swimmer, as well as other officers of Kappa Sigma, were given until Thursday night to resign their offices. They also were forbidden to hold fraternity office again for one year.

In additional punishment, the Council is cancelling all campus functions and social gatherings for

Press To See Next A-Blast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—UP—The government announced Wednesday that newsmen and hundreds of civil defense workers will be invited to witness a test next month of atomic violence against a residential community.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Civil Defense Administration announced jointly that the so-called "open shot" has been tentatively set for mid-April at the AEC's atomic proving ground in Nevada.

A civil defense field exercise will be held in connection with the open shot. It will be the first of its kind, with some 350 civil defense volunteers and workers, and aircraft of the Civil Air Patrol's Nevada wing participating. The atomic target will include "several residences," some provided by private industry, new kinds of shelters, and utility installations such as electric equipment, and liquid, natural, and manufactured gas installations.

Premier Change Is Short MOSCOW, Feb. 10—UP—Russia changed premiers in nine minutes Tuesday. Georgi Malenkov's resignation was read to the Supreme Soviet in four minutes. The nomination and election of Marshal Nikolai Bulganin at a later session took five minutes.

Story Grows and Grows

CLANTON, Ala., Feb. 10—UP—Workmen found a 25-cent piece on land once owned by John Higgins and word of the incident was spread. By the time the story made the rounds of the court house for the third time the quarter had grown to $440,000, part of it in gold, and the Internal Revenue Bureau was reported interested in Higgins.

"Not only did I not get any $440,000. I didn't even get the quarter," Higgins said.

"Dad, you can use the car tonight if you want it!"

Chain Bond Idea Cleans Out Banks

HARLINGEN, Tex., Feb. 10—UP—Two bankers said Wednesday that South Texas financial institutions have run out of $25 and $50 U.S. savings bonds because of a snowballing get-rich-quick chain letter campaign.

Cashier J. B. Brady of Harlingen's First National Bank and Vice President R. C. Wheeler of the Harlingen State Bank said their stocks of the bonds ran out several days ago.

The branch reported South Texas was swept clean of small savings bonds "almost overnight."

The Harlingen bankers blamed a nationwide chain letter campaign in which the person who receives a letter is asked to buy a savings bond and mail it to the person at the head of a list of other "investors." Next he is supposed to get two acquaintances to pay him the price of two more bonds.

Thus the investor gets double his money back. The two acquaintances are supposed to find other friends who will make the same deal with them.

The names of the new members of the chain are put on the bottom of the list. The letters say that anyone in the chain stands a chance of eventually getting $37,500.

Said one of the bankers: "Nothing is created. Nothing is produced. This means that for every $37.50 someone makes, someone else loses $37.50. It's as simple as that and certainly this is a case where the buyer ought to beware."

Ike Says Speculation On Cease-Fire Idle Talk

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—UP—President Eisenhower said Wednesday the bellicose attitude of the Red Chinese makes it idle to speculate about a possible Formosan cease-fire.

However, he said the evacuation of the Chinese Nationalist Tachen Islands is proceeding without real interference by the Communists.

And barring any incident, he said, it would be completed very soon.

He did not regard the shooting down of an American carrier attack bomber by Red Chinese aircraft as a serious incident because the plane had wandered off course and the crew was not harmed.

The plane was shot down Tuesday night (U.S. time) while covering the evacuation of the island. A pilot and two crew members were aboard. They suffered only slight lacerations.

Mr. Eisenhower discussed at his news conference the situation in Formosa only in brief generalities.

He was asked about the possibility of a cease-fire being worked out between the Red Chinese and the Nationalists. He replied that since the Communists had declined in such a bellicose manner to discuss a cease-fire with the United Nations, he thought it would be idle to speculate on that possibility.

Mr. Eisenhower said he had heard of no real interference with the evacuation. It looks to him like the operation will continue under similar circumstances, he said.

When asked whether the possible use of nuclear weapons in defense of Formosa would be limited to any degree by agreements with our allies, he spoke guardedly. He said this country will act independently in any international situation where our national interests are primarily involved. He apparently does not regard the American defense of Formosa as having any involvement with other allies except the Chinese Nationalists.

Bill Gives GIs More Benefits

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 —UP—The Senate passed and sent to the White House a bill to let some $1.4 million service men and women accumulate full GI educational benefits. The Senate action was by voice vote. The House passed the message unanimously last month. It will cost an estimated $380 million in the next 10 years. President Eisenhower had terminated Korean war veterans' benefits effective Jan. 31. His proclamation would have halted further accumulation of education benefits by persons who entered the service before the cutoff date. The measure now awaiting the President's signature rectifies that. It will allow those who joined up before Jan. 31 to keep on accumulating educational rights at the rate of 1½ days for each day in service. The maximum is 36 months—four college years. The bill was supported by the administration and the President is expected to sign it soon. Chicago Professor Dies CHICAGO, Feb. 10 —UP—Carl Burk, 88, one of the four original faculty members of the University of Chicago, died Tuesday night of a lung ailment. Cadillac

Where Pride Leads to Economy!

This gasoline station isn't accustomed to being ignored by the cars that pass its way. For it resides at the edge of a great desert—and it is many, many miles to the next fueling point.

But the big, handsome automobile you see here swept by without so much as a sign of recognition! For it is a new 1955 Cadillac—and its owner knows that he can travel from his morning's start until his evening's stop without a single refueling.

Of course, when a motorist decides to order his first Cadillac, he isn't usually aware that the car is so economical to operate—or that it is so practical to own.

He wants a Cadillac for what it is and represents—and for the great pride and pleasure it will bring him.

But it isn't long before he discovers where his pride has led him!

He discovers it first when he prices the Cadillac of his choice. Invariably, he is surprised at its relatively modest cost. Not infrequently, he finds that it actually costs less than the car he is currently driving.

And then, once his Cadillac is delivered, he discovers how frugal it is with a gallon of gasoline. He finds, as we said, that a full tank is sufficient for a full day's drive.

Next, he learns of Cadillac's extraordinary dependability. In fact, he often has to be reminded when the time has come for routine service.

But not until he surrenders his Cadillac to its second owner does he discover the full wonder of Cadillac's economy. For then he learns how amazingly it holds its value—and how little a year's service affects the public's regard for the car.

All this is to say, of course, that you don't have to follow your pride to the "car of cars." You can, if you prefer, make your decision solely on the basis of economy—and still buy a Cadillac!

Come in soon—and see for yourself! We've got the facts—and we'll be delighted to see you at any time!

June Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

IF YOU'VE BEEN LOOKING for a light but enticing dessert for your bridge club or for a luncheon, here's one I picked up from Vivian Huff (Mrs. Chester), 716 N. Nelson. It sounds delicious, and Vivian says it's a favorite of her family. Don't know what she calls it, but it might be named something like "strawberry delight."

THE INGREDIENTS are a package of strawberry or other-flavored gelatin, a few had all four and the remaining a pint of vanilla or strawberry cream and lady fingers. You dissolve the gelatin in a cup of hot water. Then mix in the cream until it melts. Line a bowl with lady fingers or some other cookie. Pour the jelly-cream mixture over the lady fingers. Put in cold place to set. You can serve with fresh or frozen strawberries or other fruit on top, over which you put whipped cream.

ON EVERY HAND is the reminder, "Eat a Good, Big Breakfast." How big is big when it means breakfast? From one of the surveys of the breakfast habits of young people, comes a basic pattern for adequate breakfasts.

Purdue University judged breakfasts of women students by the following yardstick: (1) fruit or fruit juices; (2) cereal with milk or an egg; (3) milk or cocoa made with milk; and (4) whole grain or enriched bread with butter or margarine. Of the students, approximately one-third included three of these types of food and another third, only two types. Only one percent of the women had all four and the remaining a pint of vanilla or strawberry cream and lady fingers. You dissolve the gelatin in a cup of hot water. Then mix in the cream until it melts. Line a bowl with lady fingers or some other cookie. Pour the jelly-cream mixture over the lady fingers. Put in cold place to set. You can serve with fresh or frozen strawberries or other fruit on top, over which you put whipped cream.

Research workers at the University of Iowa found the calorie to be one of the gauges to determine the "bigness" of the breakfast. Young men and women whose balanced breakfasts supplied one-fourth of their daily caloric needs, were able to work more efficiently throughout the morning than when they had less or more food.

Physical activity tests revealed that a basic cereal breakfast consisting of fruit, cereal, milk and enriched bread or butter or a bacon and egg breakfast were equally efficient energy-wise, providing each supplied 25 per cent of the daily caloric needs. So measure and cut breakfasts to energy needs; use calories for youngsters and active adults. Be certain to include the protein and B vitamin contributing food — enriched bread, cereals and milk.

Study Meets Held By Wesleyan Guild

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church met recently in the home of Mrs. W. B. Fountain, 1608 Christine.

During the business session, led by Mrs. J. M. Turner the women voted to hold a Week of Prayer meeting, inviting business and professional groups from other churches to attend.

The devotional, "The Miracles of Jesus," was presented by Miss Lillian Mullinax and Mrs. Lea Harrah continued the study, "The Master Callehth For Thee." A game, "Who Am I," was played with each member giving clues to a Biblical character for other members to identify.

The autobiography of Susan Wesley was given by Miss Alma Wilson and Mrs. Ben Ogden told of closing meditation, "Fret Not Thyself," was presented by Miss Inez Clubb.

Nineteen members attended. Mrs. J. M. Fitzgerald was welcomed as a new member. Another meeting was held shortly afterward to continue the study.

"The Master Callehth For Thee," Mrs. Lee Harrah reviewed the study, assisted by Mrs. Harold Wright who told the story of Martha and Mary. Mrs. F. W. Shotwell gave the closing meditation and prayer.

Attending were Mmes. J. A. Knox, Diana Wood, Ben Ogden, W. B. Fountain, J. M. Fitzgerald, J. M. Turner, J. B. Austin, Irl Smith, Malcolm Denson, Harrah.

"A Nation Of Immigrants" Is Program Given To Civic Culture Club Members

Mrs. Carl Patchin presented the program, "A Nation of Immigrants" at the recent meeting of the Civic Culture Club in the home of Mrs. John Brandon.

During her speech, Mrs. Patchin pointed out that in the latter part of the 15th century, the inhabitants of North America continent were all Indians and are really the only native Americans.

"The Northmen, or inhabitants of Sweden and Norway, first sighted this country in about 1000 and established trade with the natives," Mrs. Patchin explained. "But the true history of this country begins with the discovery of America in 1492 by the Italian, Columbus, then working for Spain."

"Snoevi, a Dane, is said to be the first child born of European parentage on American shores," she told the women. "One of his descendants was one of the great American sculptors in the early part of the 20th Century."

She went on to tell of the Spanish explorations and the claiming of the West Indies, Yucatan, Mexico and Florida for Spain at the end of the 16th Century. She also told of the exploring of the French, who had travelled through the regions of the Great Lakes, the Fox, Maumee, Wabash, Wisconsin, Illinois and Mississippi Rivers to the Gulf. They had traversed from New Foundland to Texas and claimed this territory for France, calling it "New France."

"The British in 1576 discovered territory around Baffin Bay and declared it a part of England," Mrs. Patchin explained. "Drake in one of his explorations discovered the Isthmus of Panama and claimed all land touched by the Pacific Ocean for England."

In 1609 the Dutch sent Henry Hudson up the Hudson River to discover a route to the Pacific Ocean. Because of this discovery, the Dutch claimed the country from Delaware River to Cape Cod, calling the land "New Netherlands," she pointed out.

She also told of the pirates who infested the Atlantic Ocean for many years. Some stayed in the New World and thus had an influence on the mixing blood of a new nation.

James Oglethorpe received a grant of land from the king to be held in trust as a home for the poor," Mrs. Patchin related. "He settled at Savannah, Ga., in 1733. It became a mecca for immigrants who were seeking religious and civil liberty. Chief among the settlers were Moravians and Scotch Highlanders. The Moravians had fled from Austria for conscience sake." The Lutheran Salzburger founded a colony and called it Ebenezer, meaning "hither to has the Lord helped us." Later on John Wesley, founder of Methodism, visited as a missionary and began his work in America there.

She pointed out that even the rum runners from the West Indies influenced the country by bringing in people with different ideas. "America has become the melting pot of the world," she explained. "I doubt if there are any races in the world today that don't have a representative of that blood in this country."

"Immigrants are still coming to our shores and follow the same road to citizenship as our forefathers. Since 1790 when the naturalization law was passed by Congress, a foreign-born person meeting all the requirements can become a citizen, enjoying the full rights of a native-born person."

She pointed out that many foreign-born Americans have brought skills and talents in science, music, art and other fields. She named the composer, Irving Berlin, born in Russia; Dr. Waller Dammrosch, born in Germany, who brought so much music; Senator James J. Davis, a native of Wales; Prof. Albert Einstein of Germany, who gave the theory on relativity which has played an important part in the atomic development; Madam Schumann-Heink of Germany, who "has one of the world's greatest singing voices, and who gave her sons to die on the battlefield"; Sen. Robert F. Wagner of Germany; and Rabbi S. Wise, a native of Hungary.

The business session was led by Mrs. A. C. Houchin. Guests present were Mrs. T. M. Crossfield and Miss Dortha Nell Crossfield, both of Stratford. Members present were Mmes. D. W. Coffman, Emmett Gee, A. D. Hills, Lloyd Kuntz, Henry Link, M. M. Moyer, W. C. Scott, J. B. Townsend, Katie Vincent, Willis White and R. E. Duer.

"Personal Adjustment And Good Living" Is Program Of Twentieth Century Club

"Personal Adjustment and Good Living" was the program presented at the meeting Tuesday of the Twentieth Century Club in the home of Mrs. Frank Culberson.

A few thoughts on the theme were given by Mrs. J. W. Gordon, program leader, followed by a reading of the book, "The Mind Alive" by Harry and Bonara Overstreet, given by Mrs. Loyd Hicks. The authors also wrote "Mature Mind," and this book is considered a sequel to it. It is also considered one of the year's outstanding books on psychology, Mrs. Hicks reported.

The book is divided into two parts, the first dealing with the emotional well-being and obstacles that prevent mental maturity, she explained. The quality of "come-back" is most important in life in order to be well-adjusted. A person must be able to "roll with the blow," to return to the "growth-stream of life," she reported.

The book, Mrs. Hicks stated, pointed out the "symptoms" the immature person possesses. They include a grieving over one's own mistakes, wearing feelings on one's sleeve, seeking sympathy, and Roy complaining that luck is always against them.

There are definite steps toward mental maturity and growth, that which the sick person must take without realizing it. They are, Mrs. Hicks explained, just plain talking it out, accepting oneself in a true light, turning to others or a real concern about others, the realization of belonging in a community, and the ability to live and love deeply.

"The Hazard and The Hope" is the title of the second part of the book, she stated. That which promotes mental health is good, and anything that prevents it is bad, she reported. For the first time the people of this country are faced with mental propaganda being used against them by the Russians. Russia is using and perverting phrases familiar to the American people, the book pointed out. They make the idea of peace look weak and unimportant. They are trying to control the American and world mind.

Peace is vital for mental well-being, the book stated. The Communists, with their play on mental health, stirring up thoughts and confusing us in what we know is right, are a mental enemy.

Mrs. Hicks pointed out that the book said that the quality of tenderness is the biggest element that confuses the Communists, who have no tolerance for tenderness. What we can do to help our mental welfare is to promote tenderness.

The business session was led by Mrs. E. L. Campbell, vice-president, in the absence of Mrs. George Vineyard, president. Mrs. Victor Jamieson reported that a check was sent to the March of Dimes and a subscription to Readers Digest was donated to a Spanish-speaking student in Cuba. Mrs. Joe Gordon gave a Council sleeve and report, and Mrs. McKernan moved that the club participate in a Council food sale to buy books for the library.

Mrs. C. E. High announced that last week clothes were purchased for a boy so he could continue going to school. The devotional was led by Mrs. Frank Culberson.

Mmes. E. L. Campbell, W. R. Campbell, F. M. Culberson, Jack Foster, J. W. Gordon, Raymond Harrah, Loyd Hicks, C. E. High, I. B. Hughey, V. J. Jamieson, Roy McKernan, Fred Neslage, R. H. THIS PIZZA TARTARUGA is the American version of an Italian specialty.

COOK'S NOOK

Pizza Tartaruga, An Italian Specialty, Is A Taste Thrill

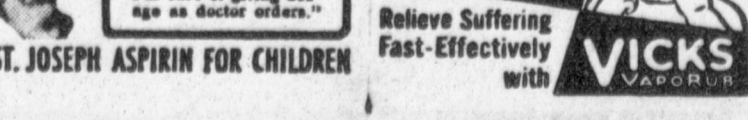

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

In Boston we learned about two Italian recipes from Jean Tucker, a home economist just returned from visiting Italy. She said she discovered them in Rome in a little restaurant on the Appian Way. Angelo, the owner, who acts as cook, waiter and host, gave her the recipes.

Miss Tucker uses a package of prepared pizza mix for hers. Says it's almost as good as Angeloes. Pizza Tartaruga Using a package of prepared pizza mix, empty yeast into a mixing bowl. Add slightly more than 1/2 cup (5 ounces) lukewarm water. Stir until dissolved. Gradually blend in flour mixture to form a smooth ball, adding extra flour if needed. Cover, allow to stand at room temperature 10 to 15 minutes. Heat oven to 425 degrees F.

Next, roll out dough on lightly floured board with floured rolling pin. Spread tomato sauce over it. Cut in two-and-one-half inch strips, then roll up a country sausage in each strip. Place on greased cookie sheet and bake for 20 minutes or until each is golden brown.

Pizza Carousel Using prepared pizza mix, follow directions on package for making pizza pie. Then, arrange sardines and slices of American cheese alternately on top of sauce, making them look like spokes on a wheel. Place sliced mushrooms around edge of pizza. Place a circle of onions in the center. Bake in hot oven 425 degrees F. for 20 minutes.

Skellytown HD Club Plans For Bake Sale

SKELLYTOWN — (Special) — Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. W. L. Aulbert for a Valentine party and business meeting. Mrs. Hugh Wall, president, was in charge.

The club will have a bake sale in the IOOF Hall on Saturday, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Free coffee will be served, and pie or cake may be purchased by the slice at the sale as well as a whole cake or pie. Secret bids on a large Valentine cake will be taken throughout the day, the cake going to the highest bidder when the sale is over. A special bake sale committee was appointed. Chosen were Mmes. Willis Aulbert, Guy McKenney and Clarence Hoskins. The money, which the club makes from the bake sale, will be used to purchase materials to make tables and benches for the city park.

Valentine gifts were exchanged by the members. Mrs. W. L. Aulbert was in charge of a game of "How I met my husband."

Next meeting will be Feb. 18 in the home of Mrs. Cecil Shipley. Miss Charlotte Tompkins, HD agent, will demonstrate the making of doughnuts.

Refreshments of cherry cake, whipped cream, and coffee were served. Attending were Mmes. Clarence Hoskins, Clifford Coleman, Cecil Shipley, Guy McKenney, Ben Ross, George Porter, Clifton Hanna, Robert Marlar, Hugh Wall, Roy Fitzgerald and the hostess.

Methodist Children Plan Talent Program
The children's department of St. Paul Methodist Church will present a talent program at 7:15 p.m. Thursday in the church's Fellowship Hall.

Proceeds will go for missionary projects of the Methodist Conference. Tickets may be purchased at the door for 20 cents for children and 25 cents for adults.

Nice alternative to the beach coat is the beach blazer, copied from the cardigan and cut from gaily striped wool.

We Reach For The Stars, But Settle On An Asteroid

By ANDREW G. HALEY
Fres., American Rocket Society
Written for NEA Service

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — It is certain that in a matter of decades, or perhaps generations, we are going to achieve space travel. But what are we going to do when we finally propel a space ship into outer space?

That's a question top space flight experts have been discussing for some time now. It's an important one because it obviously includes in these troubled times, a lot more than mere exploratory operations.

Several top experts have maintained that our prime objective should be the building of a man-made platform, standing out in space, which would circle the earth — and from it, we would have military advantages unknown to present-day armed jockeying.

I maintain this is a waste of time even to think about. If we are looking for some means of getting a foot into outer space, we should use existing celestial bodies on which to construct our space ports.

These celestial bodies — invisible to the naked eye — are the source of a constant search by Army Ordnance experts stationed at Duke University.

Dr. Clyde Tombaugh, discoverer of Pluto, is consultant for the project. If there are any earth orbiting meteors — the bodies which would make the ideal space ports for our use — this group should discover them.

Dr. Werner von Braun, one of the world's leading rocket power plant engineers, always has maintained that our chief aim should be the building of a huge man-made satellite platform in outer space. This platform would orbit around the earth every four hours. His views were widely published and were the top subject of a symposium of the Second International Congress on Astronautics in London.

Various scientific missions have been ascribed to such a manned platform but a great deal of this data could be obtained from an unmanned prefabricated space vehicle.

Military advantages have been claimed for the platform. In this regard, nothing in the field of rocket propulsion is more certain than that the platform would be blown to bits by enemy homing rockets using proximity fuses, even while the platform was being built. The mission of such a platform must be peaceful.

If its function is that of a refueling station, here again it is wholly lacking in utility because a tanker from earth could go out that far in space and refuel a space cruiser much more easily through the use of techniques being developed on earth at this time, such as the Boeing 707 program.

I also believe that the techniques of initial fabrication of such a space platform are at the present time unknown. We are dealing here in structural components of hundreds and even thousands of tons. Getting these components together in space would require the same precision as on earth. No technique has been suggested for hundreds of workmen, floating around in space, to accomplish such a task.

If the components are delivered by homing devices, we nevertheless must achieve zero impact of the parts to be fabricated. At the present time this is an impossibility.

As R. A. Smith, Fellow of the British Interplanetary Society, puts it, the space platform may come after the moon has been colonized, but "the idea of 'docking' a space ship inside, or on, or even alongside, a space station is suicidal lunacy, inviting disaster for no good reason at all."

The man-made basic structure, even if successfully fabricated, would be too fragile for such operations.

The next point of colonization would be the moon. And following the conquest of the moon, we would come to an extremely interesting and valuable family of space vehicles known as minor planets or asteroids.

I believe these small bodies will play an immense part in the conquest of space. Here we have natural power plants waiting to take human beings on trips of distances scarcely imaginable.

The asteroids by name orbit between Mars and Jupiter, but of late small similar bodies, possibly tail-less comets, have been observed in other orbits. We continue, for the sake of simplicity, to call them asteroids. Some asteroids come as close as 400,000 miles to the earth and have parabolic orbits that go out beyond Jupiter.

A beachhead on one of these would be established by a great supply mission off the moon which would land construction material, provisions and people and the sightseers would embark on trips from 15 years to 80 years — observing a great segment of the solar system on a free ticket, so far as propulsion is concerned.

Substantial protections could be erected against all sorts of unknown hazards such as intense heat and cold, cosmic ray dangers, meteor bombardments, and

Using fusion reaction we might obtain a speed of about 70 million feet per second. This would have the time of the fission reaction but would take 175 years or seven generations.

All this speculation is extremely interesting and it is indulged in by members of the American Rocket Society only during hours of relaxation.

A state of national emergency still exists, the real peace is yet unknown to mankind. Our membership recognizes that its first duty is to aid in the work of successfully defending our country and free people everywhere.

Candidate's Wife Wins Divorce
RENO, Nev., Feb. 10 — Mrs. Elsie R. Proxmire Wednesday won a "quickie" Nevada divorce from Edward William Proxmire, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor of Wisconsin in 1952 and 1954, during a brief appearance in Reno district court. The decree was granted by Judge Grant L. Bowen on the "routine" grounds of "extreme cruelty, entirely mental in nature."

Drunks Receive Punishment
CHICAGO, Feb. 10 — A man and his wife were both found guilty of drunken driving Wednesday in what was believed a court precedent at Chicago. Joseph Ashby, 50, and his wife, Dorothy, drove the same car, but not at the same time. Police said Ashby was stopped last Nov. 25 and he and his wife jumped out of their car and attacked arresting officers. Ashby was subdued, they said, but the wife jumped back in the auto and drove off through a crowd of spectators.

Narcotics Peddlers Arrested
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 — A former clerk/jurist in the office of Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-N.Y.) and eight other persons were arrested here Wednesday on charges of selling narcotics. The girl, Miss Barbara Floyd, 21, of Washington, was arrested during raids staged by a 15-man squad of narcotics agents. The other persons arrested—six men and two women—also were Washington residents.

New Airplane To Be Tested At Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH, Feb. 10 — A tilting-rotor type convertiplane, supposed to combine the best features of the helicopter and conventional aircraft, was scheduled for unveiling Thursday by Bell Aircraft Corp.

Engineers said the craft, built in secret but the result of nearly 12 years of convertiplane study by Bell, will be able to take off straight up like a helicopter and level off for horizontal flight.

But it has not been test flown yet. Thursday's "rollout ceremony" of the XV-3 was just to show the craft to company officers, civic leaders and high-ranking military officers.

Bell said the plane had three-bladed rotary propellers mounted near the tips of a stubby fixed wing. The propellers tilt upward when the craft is taking off, and tilt forward as it levels for flight straight ahead. It takes 10 to 15 seconds to make the change-over.

Like a helicopter, Bell said, the four-place XV-3 can hover, or move forward, backward or sideward with equal ease. As a conventional plane, it is medium ranged with a speed of more than 175 miles per hour.

The sleek-looking shiny job will undergo extensive "tie-down" ground tests, Bell said, so engineers can see how it performs and pilots can get the "feel" of its operation before it is flown.

It is the fifth model of the vertical-takeoff type of craft.

Fighter planes were developed by Convair aircraft and Lockheed aircraft. They rested on their tail assemblies and rose straight up.

A third model was the McDonnell convertiplane. It is lifted by a large rotor blade that is above the regular fuselage. When the pilot has gained enough altitude, he cuts off the rotor and starts up the conventional forward propeller.

A jet convertiplane designed by Bell is blasted up by jet engines and has flown about 20 times at the Niagara Falls, N. Y., airport. With it, the pilot rises as far as he wants to, turns the jets to the conventional position, and flies forward.

Bell said its new tilting-rotor type convertiplane could carry four persons on a mission, or a pilot, a medic and two litter patients. The craft, which is 39 feet long and has a 39-foot wingspan, operates on a single engine positioned behind the pilot. It has skids for landing gear.

Accident Injuries Fatal To Man, 28
DALLAS, Feb. 10 — Cecil J. Griffin, 28, died Wednesday night of injuries received in an automobile accident more than a month ago.

Griffin, who lived at 317 Jim Miller Road in Dallas, was injured Jan. 1 when his car overturned northeast of Seagoville. He suffered head injuries that proved fatal.

Griffin served in the Marine Corps during World War II and in the Korean War.

Ike Praises Newspapers

MEDFORD, Mass., Feb. 10 — President Eisenhower said Thursday community newspapers help make America a better place to live.

The President made the statement in a congratulatory letter to the Medford Daily Mercury, which this year observes its 75th anniversary.

The letter, addressed to Mercury editor and publisher David Brickman, said:

"The community newspapers of our nation perform a uniquely valuable function. They help draw the attention of our citizens to local events, local governmental developments, and local commercial activity.

"In so doing, they help to make American communities better places in which to live. For the results can be unfortunate indeed when people fail to keep a vigilant eye upon conditions in their own immediate neighborhoods and cities."

Rehearsal Set For Minstrel
Second Lions Minstrel rehearsal is scheduled for 7:30 this evening in the Palm Room of the City Hall.

Benny Shultz, director, said anyone who intends becoming part of the show should be present this evening for briefing on proposed rehearsal dates.

"The show, it is anticipated, will be as extensive as in previous years," Shultz said, "with 50 in the chorus, six end-men, Mr. Interlocutor, and a jazz band in the pit."

Georgia Escapee Gives Self Up
GALVESTON, Feb. 10 — Authorities checked Thursday into the story of Franklin E. Adams, 24, who surrendered himself voluntarily and confessed to being wanted in Macon, Ga., for felony theft and breaking jail.

Adams surrendered late Wednesday and told police he had not eaten for two days. Chief of Detectives W. J. Whitburn said Adams confessed to robbing an appliance store in Macon and stealing several radios and other such items.

Whitburn said Adams said he walked out of the Macon jail while the jail keeper was cleaning out his cell.

"I've got time coming, and it keeps hanging over my head. I want to go back and get it over with," Whitburn said Adams said.

How You Fixed?
HOLYOKE, Mass. — UP — School Teacher Anne E. Ceran didn't think much of the "sword fight" some of her pupils were planning until she got a look at the swords. They were long, sharp machete-type steel blades the boys found on a rubbish pile. Police rounded up 14 of the blades.

Top Scorers To Vie In Harvester, Sandie Tilt

Three of the top four scorers in Pampa's McIlvain ranking second in the Northern District 1-A-A-A-A cage circles will be seen in action tomorrow night when the Harvesters and Sandies meet in an all-important contest at the Fair Park Coliseum in Amarillo.

The Sandies own the top scorer of the district in Bob Farrell, 65 points. Farrell has poured in 113 points in five games for a 22.6 average.

Gary Griffin and E. Jay McIlvain of the Harvesters rank third and fourth respectively in the Northern 1-A-A race. Griffin has 93 points to 49 for McIlvain.

Holding down the No. 2 spot in the district scoring is Gerald Meyer, 80 points. Meyer has tallied 101 points in 1-A-A play.

Benny Cartwright of the Harvesters ranks eighth in the district with 48 points while team mate Ken Hinkle ranks fifth with 45 points.

Farrell, Meyer and Griffin are all tied with the most free throws to his credit, 43 with Pampa.

walk away with the flag by defeating Amarillo Friday.

Should the Sandies win, however, the race would end in at least a two-way tie between the Sandies and Harvesters. It would be a three-way deadlock for top rung if Borger defeats Lubbock Friday night.

The Harvesters handled the Sandies when the two teams met earlier here, 63-32. But the Sandies will have the home court advantage Friday which gives the Sandies an even chance of outdueling the Green and Golders.

Amarillo currently owns a 3-2 conference record, the same as held by Borger. The Harvesters own a 4-1 conference record and lead both Amarillo and Borger by one game.

The winner of the 1-A-A Northern race will meet San Angelo of the Southern Division for the overall 1-A-A title. The division playoff will be the best two of three games. San Angelo clinched the Southern crown last week.

Following are the Northern 1-A-A individual scoring charts:

SMU Revives Title Hopes In SWC Race

By UNITED PRESS

Southern Methodist has been six years trying to beat its arch-rival from Fort Worth at basketball, and Thursday could boast a whopping 81-70 triumph over Texas Christian. If rarity makes a thing more valuable, that was indeed the case Wednesday night. It pulled SMU to within a half-game of the Southwest Conference leading Horned Frogs. A TCU victory would have put the Frogs almost out of reach, but now their win-loss record is 5-2 and SMU's is 3-2.

Southern Methodist started shaky Wednesday night, but bounced back with strong determination and could not be held back as it captured its first victory from TCU in 13 games dating back to 1949. TCU beat the Methodists twice before this year, once in tourney play and once when the conference flag was at stake.

An overflowing crowd of 3,000 partisans watched SMU's Jim Krebs edge TCU star Dick O'Neal in the battle of sophomore centers. Krebs scored 25 points, including 11 field goals. O'Neal, the loop's leading individual scorer, was able to basket only 15 points. Even SMU's guard Art Barnes had a better 17 points.

SMU held a slight 21-33 edge at halftime, then got away to a quick start in the second half and bounded to a 60-43 lead with less than one minute to go in the third quarter.

The teams traded baskets in the last quarter, but a desperate Frog quintet fouled its way to defeat in the closing minutes.

Margins Makes Difference
The Methodists outscored the Christians from the field by only a single basket, but threw a 10-point margin at the free throw line and that made the big difference.

Only Southwest Conference team to see action Thursday night will be Texas A&M, which plays Oklahoma City University at Oklahoma City. Both teams have not shown much power this year. The Texas Aggies have a 4-13 season record, while OCU has won just four games in 17 starts.

Medley, Moore District 1-A Cage Tourney Starts Tonight In White Deer

Play gets underway tonight in the District 1-A basketball tournament in the White Deer High School Gymnasium.

Two games are on tap tonight, one each in the boys and girls divisions. Panhandle and Memphis in the girls division will open tonight's card at 7. It will be followed at about 8:30 by a boys game pitting McLean and Panhandle. The tournament will resume tomorrow night with two more games set, McLean and Canadian meeting at 7 in the girls division and Gruber and Clarendon at 8:30 in the boys.

The first round schedule pits the first place team of one division against the second place team in the opposite half.

Winners of tonight's and Friday's games will vie Saturday night for the District 1-A titles.

Guglielmi, Redskins to Meet
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 9-UP --Ralph Guglielmi, Notre Dame's all-American quarterback, said Wednesday he will hold another meeting with Coach Joe Kuharich of the Washington Redskins in "about two weeks" to discuss signing a professional football contract. They were "fairly close" to a settlement during a meeting here Tuesday.

Backing from the fans can go a long way in inspiring a team to victory.
You'll recall the game at Borger recently where the Harvesters fans were outnumbered by about 6-1.
It wasn't, of course, Pampa's fault that there weren't more Harvesters fans there. Borger only sent about 200 tickets for the game and they were gone shortly after arrival here.

Hinkle Surges Past 200-Mark

Ken Hinkle's 16-point performance in Tuesday's game with Lubbock sent his season total past the 200 mark as he strengthened his hold as the third top scorer in the Harvester cage ranks.

Hinkle's total for the year now stands at 204 points, coming on 81 field goals and 42 free tosses.

In the meantime, the top two Harvester point makers, Gary Griffin and E. Jay McIlvain have fattened their scoring averages in the last two games.

Griffin, the season long Harvester scoring leader, has hit 46 points in the last two Harvesters tilts against Borger and Lubbock to push his season total to 184 for a 21.1 average.

NIT Still Attracts Top 5s As Duquesne Accepts Bid

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK Feb. 10-UP --Duquesne's early acceptance of a bid to play in the National Invitation Basketball tournament proves Thursday that despite the NCAA's long attempts to freeze out the NIT it still is the number one choice of some of the nation's strongest teams.

Duquesne, the country's fifth ranking club, undoubtedly could have won one of the nine "member at large" berths in the NCAA post season tournament. But the Dukes chose not to sit around and wait for a possible invitation.

Thus the NCAA loses a top attraction and has nobody to blame but itself.

Back a few years, it was possible for teams to play in both tournaments. But the NCAA tried to run all competition out of business by shifting its dates to compete with the NIT and passing a rule that members could not compete in two post-season tournaments.

There are three basic reasons why the NIT has managed to survive. The first is that the NIT is completed in one week and the competing teams do not miss as much school as when they compete in the far-flung NCAA event. Another is that the independents were kicked around for years in the past by the NCAA, only a select few being invited to the National Tournament. The third is the loyalty of the independents to the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association which ever made them welcome to the NIT.

Such independents, or non-conference teams, as Duquesne, Dayton, Louisville, Niagara, Holy Cross and Cincinnati, to name a few, moaned for years about the short shrift they received from the NCAA. Thus the National Collegiate group certainly can't kick now when they accept as first choice a bid from the NIT, which took them in when the NCAA didn't want them.

And you can bet that the NIT, with Duquesne already in its pocket, will come up with some of the other hot independents such as Cincinnati, Dayton, LaSalle, Manhattan, Marquette, San Francisco, Holy Cross and Lafayette.

What it all amounts to is that, because of the NCAA maneuvering, just as in football you wind up without a legitimate national champion.

HARVESTER BASKETBALL FANS, no doubt, will follow the Green and Golders en masse to Amarillo tomorrow night for the crucial game with the Sandies. Amarillo officials have sent word that there will be plenty of tickets available for tomorrow night's clash between the two arch rivals.

The Fair Park Coliseum, which will be the scene of battle tomorrow night, seats some 5,000 persons.

In all likelihood there will be some 4,000 Amarillians on hand for the game. That means that Pampa should have at least 1,000 at the game to help off-set the backing from the stands that the Sandie fans will likely give their charges.

Backing from the fans can go a long way in inspiring a team to victory.

You'll recall the game at Borger recently where the Harvesters fans were outnumbered by about 6-1.

It wasn't, of course, Pampa's fault that there weren't more Harvesters fans there. Borger only sent about 200 tickets for the game and they were gone shortly after arrival here.

Maglie Only Key Giant Unsigned

By UNITED PRESS
Sal Maglie, a perennial late starter when it comes to spring training, was the only key member of the New York Giants unsigned Wednesday as pitchers Hoyt Wilhelm and Ramon Montant joined the world champion's contented list.
In addition to Maglie, whose tardiness in reporting last spring involved him in a cross-country verbal battle with Manager Leo Durocher, the only unsigned Giants are utility infielder Foster Castleman and rookie Bob Lennon.
Wilhelm posted a 12-4 record and a 2.11 earned run average in 57 games last season during which he and Marv Grissom formed the most effective relief pitching combination in the National League. He is believed to have come to terms for about $17,000. Montant, who had an 11-7 record with Minneapolis, probably signed for $5,000.

Sens' Vernon Also Unhappy

By UNITED PRESS
First baseman Mickey Vernon, "mighty unhappy" over the "sizeable cut" offered him, said Thursday that he and the Washington Senators are "worlds apart" on salary terms for 1955.
Vernon, in voicing dissatisfaction from his Wallingford, Pa., home, joined pitchers Bob Porterfield and Mickey McDermott, third baseman Eddie Yost and outfielder Jim Busby as potential Senator holdouts.
"I spoke to Cal Griffith in Washington not so long ago, but we did not get anywhere," said Vernon, who received an estimated $29,500 last season after winning the American League batting crown with a .337 average in 1953.
Vernon did not reveal the sum Washington is offering but it is believed he is being asked to take a $1,500 slice.
Yost also has sent back two Washington contracts already while Porterfield, McDermott and Busby likewise have put in their requests for more money.
Outfielder Cal Abrams of Baltimore, another player who fired back his first contract, finally signed one calling for "a slight increase" and believed to be in the neighborhood of $16,000. Abrams led the Orioles at bat last season with a .293 mark.
The Philadelphia Phillies signed veteran Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey as a free agent in a move designed to bulldoze their bench. Lowrey, 25, was released by the Cardinals last October.
Larry Jansen, eager to "win my pitching job back," signed his contract as a coach for the Giants with the provision that he will get an opportunity to regain a pitching berth. Laid low by a lame back, Jansen was taken off the active list last July 9 after he had compiled a 2-2 record in relief appearances. "He will get every chance to win back his job," said Manager Leo Durocher about the 35-year-old right-hander.
Outfielder Frank Thomas, the big gun of the Pirates' attack, was scheduled to talk terms with General Manager Branch Rickey in Pittsburgh Thursday. So far, a total of 32 Pirate players have okayed pacts for the forthcoming campaign, with outfielders Jerry Lynch, Lew Walls and Tom Saffell and infielder Dick Smith sending in their signed contracts Wednesday.

Furman Close To Selling Scoring Mark

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (UP)—Furman, although held in check in a 60-53 victory over Virginia Tech, not only retained the national basketball scoring lead Thursday but also kept a good chance of setting a new all-time scoring record.
The Tech game, lowest Furman score since 1952, sliced the Purple Pailidins' per-game scoring average from 100.7 points to 95.9.
But that still left Furman with a comfortable margin over second-place Connecticut. The U-Conn's also had one poor scoring game during the week, a 70-65 loss to Fordham, and had their average drop from 92.4 points per game to 90.1.
Furman still has eight games to play and thus has a chance to set a season scoring record for the third straight year. In 1953, the Pailidins set a new standard of 90.2 points per game and last year they boosted the mark to 91.7.
San Francisco, which took over as the No. 1 team in the nation this week in the ratings by the United Press Board of Coaches, displayed a good reason why it led the nation in defense statistics for the sixth straight week. The Dons have allowed only 49.9 points per game in winning 16 out of 17 games. Oregon State stands second with 52.1 points per game and Oklahoma A&M, national defense leader 15 times in the last 19 years, was third at 54.7.
If you're looking for the best shots in the nation, watch George Washington for the Colonials not only maintained their lead in basket shooting this week, but took over the lead in free throw shooting as well.
From the floor, the defending Southern Conference champions have sunk 47.9 per cent of their shots against 46.1 per cent of second-place Niagara. In free throws, the Colonials have converted 75.2 per cent against 74.5 per cent for Arizona State.
Niagara, thwarted in the field goal shooting average, reigns as the top rebound team in the nation with a 62.1 per cent recovery mark to 60.5 per cent for Kentucky. What's more, Niagara has committed the fewest personal fouls, 13.4 per game. Texas A&M has committed the most, 24.5 per game.

BIG WYEDGE—He's normally 6-5, but Glenn Abney, Los Angeles State center, elevated himself to 6-11 by strapping on these wedge shoes against Utah—and created a furor on their legality. (NEA)

Littler Top Tucson Choice

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 10 (UP)—Gene Littler, fresh from victories in Los Angeles and Phoenix, was favored to annex the $10,000 Tucson Open as play started Thursday, but Frank Stranahan, who recently turned professional, was considered dangerous competition.
Littler, of Palm Springs, Calif., warmed up with a 69 in the pro-amateur event preceding the tournament. Per for the El Rio course is 35-35-70.
But Stranahan, who holds the competitive course record of 61, carded a 68 in a practice round.
Ed Carpenter, San Antonio, Tex., pro, led qualifiers with a seven under par 65.
Dick Mayer paired with local amateur Don Thomson for first place in the pro-am with the best ball 58. The teams of Fred Hawkins and amateur Brad Tankersley and Tommy Bolt and amateur Claude Nichols tied for second with 61.
Tony Holguin, a Texan playing out of Midlothian Club near Chicago, had the low single round among the pros with a 23-30-63. His seven under par work was worth $300. Ed (Porky) Oliver and National Open Champion Ed Furgot tied for second with 64s.
Some observers like to look at young Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., winner of the National Amateur championship in 1951, who shot a practice round 65.
El Rio long has been regarded as one of the softest courses on the winter circuit for the pros. The 72-hole record is 263.17 under par, set in 1919 by Lloyd Mangrum.

Duquesne Holds Foe To Mere 27 Points

By UNITED PRESS
Coaches, and Duquesne, ranked fifth, were two of sixth highly-ranked teams to score victories Wednesday night, the others being San Francisco (No. 1), Kentucky (No. 2), Dayton (No. 14), and Cincinnati (No. 17).
But Villanova, ranked 16th, was a major upset victim. The Wildcats were beaten, 84-79, by a Georgetown (D.C.) team that had not won a game since four regulars were suspended from school 10 days ago.
San Francisco racked up its 15th straight victory in easy style, 72-52, over College of Pacific. Kentucky retained first place in the Southeastern Conference by routing Georgia, 86-40. Dayton ran its winning streak to six games by beating Miami of Ohio, 78-62. Cincinnati just barely squeaked past Xavier of Ohio, 70-69. Duke tied North Carolina State and Maryland for first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference by beating Wake Forest, 73-72.
Duquesne, which Wednesday accepted a bid to the National Invitation Tournament at the earliest date in history, celebrated by tying Carnegie Tech in knots, 62-57.
State's Win Expected
State, ranked sixth nationally by the United Press Board of Coaches, is expected to win the tournament.

Northwestern Hires New Football Coach

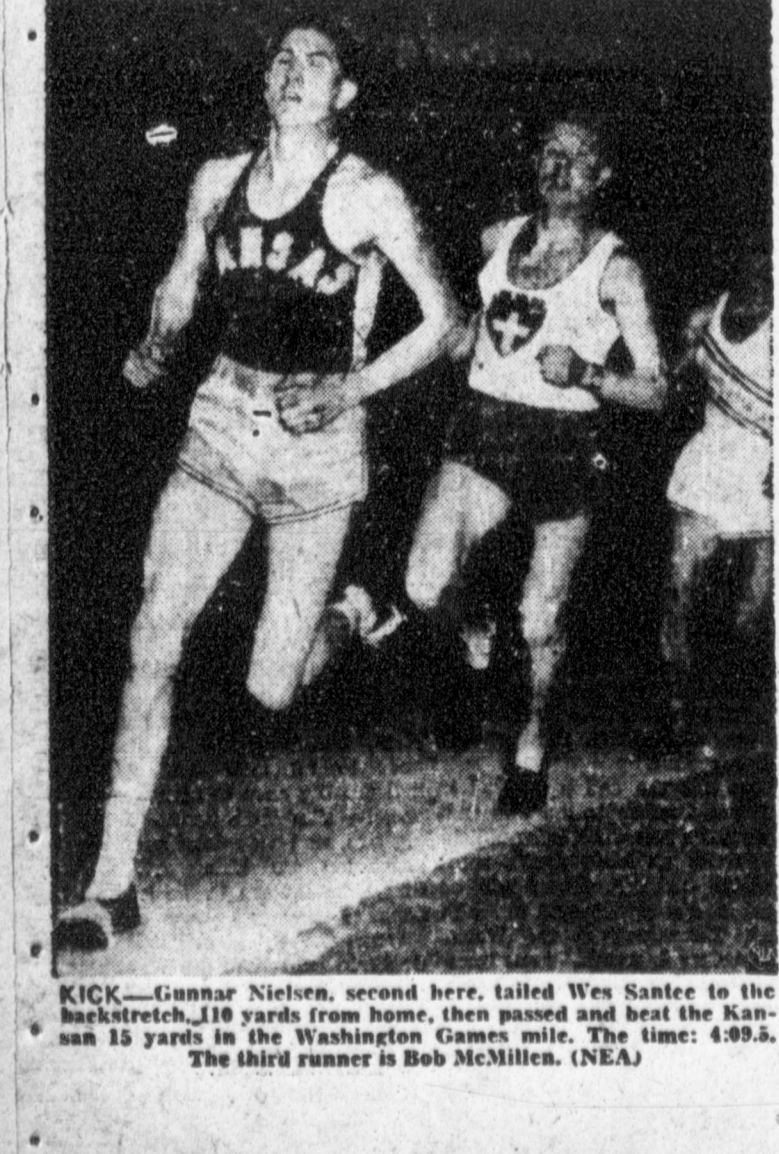

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (UP)—Northwestern's 1955 football team will go back to the straight T formation with variations, new Coach Lou Saban announced Wednesday, but he didn't know what personnel would make the attack work.
"That's the only plan I've got so far," he said. "Just use the straight T. But what we'll do with personnel, I don't know. We discussed personnel before all this happened, but we didn't reach any decisions and I haven't had time to think about it."
Saban, a 23-year-old former Indiana and Cleveland Browns star who joined the Northwestern staff a year ago as the defensive backfield coach, was named Tuesday on a one-year "interim" contract to succeed Bob Voigts as the head mentor of the Wildcats.

Ex-Lightweight Champ Notes Big Change In Sport

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is another in the series on what has happened to the champs of yesterday.
By RUSS GREEN
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10 (UP)—The busy little man swung a hefty left hook that stirred the cigar smoke a little, took count of his blessings and decided he had only one major gripe.
Lew Tender, one of the gamest lightweight boxers boxing has known, said "the fight game sure isn't like it used to be."
Nothing much disturbs Tender these days. He's 56, a little baldish and a little paunchy, which is to be expected of an eight-time grand-pappy. He has a successful restaurant in the heart of the Philadelphia Theater belt and all of his old friends drop in regularly to see him. But he gets his hackles up every time anybody starts talking about boxing.
"Sometimes," he lamented, "I don't even think the fight game is on the up and up. There's business being done. The best fighters always win."
The man who fought six champions, including the incomparable Benny Leonard twice, and who made $1 million in the prize ring "in the days when a guy could keep a buck," also thinks television is hurting the fight business.
"It is hurting the game as a livelihood for hundreds of boys," Lew said. "There are no little clubs. There are only main event fighters and everyone wants to be on TV. They forget before you walk, you must creep. Don't write this off as professional jealousy. But boxing is different today. The guys are softer."
"In my time things were rough. We used bicycle tape on our hands and it felt like an axe. We fought sometimes with an ear hanging off. I broke two hands fighting Sailor Friedman. It was real blood money in those days, but a ring death was a rarity. We were always in shape."
Tender deplored the fact that boxers today won't do roadwork nor train properly.
"They want the soft way out," he said. "In spite of so-called precautions, there are more people killed in the ring in a year now than we had in 10 years."

278 Yanks To Enter Pan-Am

By CONNIE RYAN
NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (UP)—The United States, planning to take 278 men and women to the Pan-American games in Mexico City March 12-26, will have by far the largest delegation and will be heavily favored to win the unofficial team title in this preview of the 1956 Olympics.
Many American nations still are arranging finances, so an accurate listing is not yet possible, but the entry list will be something like this:
Argentina—plans to send 150 athletes; Brazil—will send 132 athletes in 12 sports; Chile—will send more than 100 in 12 sports; Colombia—wants to send 150 but needs government financial support; Canada—will send 46 athletes as it competes in the Pan-American games for the first time; Cuba—expects to compete, but has just settled a jurisdictional dispute over control of amateur athletics and so is late with its arrangements; Uruguay plans to attend, but various groups still are arguing about it; Puerto Rico—plans to take part in several sports, Jamaica, Panama, Guatemala, El Salvador, Curacao, Dominican Republic and Nicaragua, all of whom competed in the Central American games at Mexico City a year ago, probably will be back.
The United States has been rather slow in choosing its teams, and has not yet named its men's track and field team, its wrestlers, boxers, swimmers, basketball team or pentathlon team. The track men will be named Feb. 20, one day after the national indoor championships. Officials explained that no college athletes can take part, since they must remain in school, so the team will be chosen from among athletes who have been graduated.
Nonetheless it will be a strong team, for it probably will include Harrison Dillard, winner of Olympic titles in the 100 meter dash and in hurdles; Parry O'Brien, world and Olympic shotput champion; Bob Richards, Olympic pole vault champion; Wes Santee and Fred Dreyer in the 1500 meters; Mal Whitfield, two-time Olympic 800-meter champion; Herm Wyatt, who has been close to seven feet in the high jump, and Horace Ashefeller in the long distance runs.
The Armed Services will contribute heavily to the other squads, since the Army, Navy and Air Force have set up special training centers for their best athletes, all of whom will be available to the Pan-American squad. The trials for the modern pentathlon and wrestling will be held at an army base, Ft. Sam Houston in Texas, and the boxing trials at an army base in California.
SPTS—24—NORTHWESTERN ...

KICK—Gunnar Nielsen, second here, tailed Wes Santee to the backstretch, 110 yards from home, then passed and beat the Kansas 15 yards in the Washington Games mile. The time: 4:09.5. The third runner is Bob McMillen. (NEA)

K-State Gym Dedication Set Tonight

MANHATTAN, Kan., Feb. 10 (UP)—There'll be no title on the line when Kansas State and Kansas meet Saturday or the 128th time, but there will be enough prestige at stake to keep the backboards hot.
For Kansas State, which is very much in the Big Seven race, there will be a special incentive to win. It will dedicate its $2 million fieldhouse in the memory of the late Mike Ahearn, the "father" of K-State athletics.
It isn't that either Tex Winter or Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen need added incentive. But Mike Ahearn was somebody special at Manhattan and Winter and his 'Cats expect to make a production line when Kansas State and Kansas meet Saturday or the 128th time, but there will be enough prestige at stake to keep the backboards hot.
The Big Seven race showed Colorado and Missouri knotted at 5-1 in first place, with K-State second at 6-2. Kansas was cold at 1-4. Saturday's big game will be played at Boulder, where Colorado and Missouri will meet for the first time this season.

Two Methods

Every now and then, some individual, noting our reluctance to praise excessive government comes up with the accusation, "You must be an anarchist!"

In most instances, such an unwarranted declaration comes from some member of the left of center school of righteousness, who, confronted with the facts which history so loudly proclaims, finds himself impotent to refute them, and, logic failing, relies on accusation instead of articulation.

Let us answer the charge.

There are two types of government. The natural, or normal placing of authority in the hands of those responsible is one type. Then there is the artificial type of government where authority is seized or acquired in any one of a number of ways.

We will discuss them in turn. But let us first survey the need for government.

Cooperation is the single essential feature of civilization. Man, without cooperation, has great difficulty in surviving.

By means of cooperation he not only can survive, but he can improve and raise his standards of survival.

Without cooperation, chaos would result.

Or at least, man's individual desires and urges might place him in opposition to other men.

This situation which has NEVER occurred in all of history is called ANARCHY.

Never has a situation of anarchy prevailed in the pure sense for two reasons. One reason is good. The other evil.

The good reason is that men are always willing to cooperate voluntarily. Thus a situation in which the force of artificial government vanishes, immediately finds men voluntarily assuming whatever duties are necessary in order to preserve order and avoid chaos.

The second reason is that in the absence of the force of government, some individual or group, criminally inclined, will seize the reins of authority. This is government, however it is instituted.

Anarchy is the force of government, real, as in the case of artificial governments; persuasive, as in the case of natural governments.

Anarchy would exist at that brief moment in history when force vanished, and no force of any kind were used. Its duration would be momentary.

Then the forces seeking cooperation either voluntary or involuntarily would assert themselves.

Anarchy would then be a static condition. No such thing is possible. But people sometimes confuse anarchy with mob rule.

Mob rule is a type of government imposed at the spur of the moment in which people out of control do the very things artificial government does when it is in control. But this is not anarchy. It is mob government, using force, and is in fact one of the very worst types of archy.

There are only two known ways of getting cooperation. One is voluntary. The other is involuntary.

The voluntary way is the civilized way. The involuntary way is the barbarous way.

In primitive societies the involuntary way was the only way used. It was presumed that no one would do anything unless he was driven to do what he should do.

Societies founded exclusively on compulsion, in an effort to enforce cooperation, have managed to survive. There are a few examples extant today. Tribes in the Solomons, New Hebrides, and in some remote parts of Africa still rely exclusively on force, provided by an artificial government.

But these tribes have changed little if at all for hundreds of years. They will never change, so long as compulsion is relied on as the exclusive motivation.

These tribes are not civilized. They are savage and barbarous. They have survived, but that is all.

Civilization begins with the first voluntary act of cooperation. If it ends, it will cease with the last such act.

Civilization is marked by the WILLING cooperation of persons, who do what they should do because they WANT TO.

WASHINGTON — A nonpartisan scientific study sponsored by the United States Congress may find that the use of atomic power for domestic use will require a considerable expenditure. Making it fit for use in municipalities and industries will probably be only a few years distant. Success, which is now assured, will pave a blessing to such areas as California, to the Gulf states from Texas to Florida, and to cities on the Great Plains and elsewhere, where water sometimes requires almost medical treatment before it can be drunk or used in manufacture.

The less known venture involves the attempt to convert sea, brackish and highly mineralized waters into a fresh substance suitable for use by municipalities and industries, and, perhaps most important of all, for irrigating millions of parched and unproductive acres throughout the world, here and abroad. Lands now fit only for salt-tolerant and halophytes may be made to bloom with food, fiber and flowers.

Simultaneously — five years hence — cheap atomic energy may power industries to provide standards of living so high that even puny Russian Communists might envy. The market of the future, the market of the first five-year experiment does not appear to be a Communist market.

Private and public efforts to convert substantial war into fresh have been made for many years, albeit sporadically and separately. It can be done. We must see water plants for wastelands and certain overseas bases, where money is no consideration. But the major need is to reduce the conversion cost to a commercially practical figure, as is true of the application of atomic energy to peacetime uses.

In 1952, Rep. — Representative Earl Rogers of California persuaded Congress to pass the Saline Water Act, which provided for a five-year experiment by Interior Department experts. It carried funds for work by private industries, universities and research centers. It also authorized co-operation with many foreign groups and governments tapping for new sources of "liquid gold."

The results have been surprisingly favorable. When the program got under way in late 1952, it was hoped that the cost for freshening 1,000 gallons, or an acre per foot, could be reduced to $50 within five years. A thousand gallons will cover an acre with water one foot deep, and is known technically as a "per acre foot" unit.

Under certain processes already proved practicable, the cost has been cut to about $20 within two and a half years for irrigation purposes, and to $15 for municipal and industrial. These charges are still too high for everyday application, but the price of storing, hauling and distributing water increases every day. Long-term sources are not being replenished, while demand increases dangerously. The gap in cost narrows every year.

Certain cities pay about $125 for 1,000 gallons now, when overall charges on the investment are included. Certain farmlands that produce high-revenue citrus fruits can afford from $30 to $50 an acre foot. More normal crops, such as cotton, etc., cannot pay more than $10.

Conversion of brackish or alkali water for use by cities and factories requires considerably less expenditure. Making it fit for use in municipalities and industries will probably be only a few years distant. Success, which is now assured, will pave a blessing to such areas as California, to the Gulf states from Texas to Florida, and to cities on the Great Plains and elsewhere, where water sometimes requires almost medical treatment before it can be drunk or used in manufacture.

The major item of cost is energy, whether it is produced by steam, waterpower or solar rays. The sun's heat would be the cheapest source, but harnessing it is still far from practicable on the required scale. However, this problem has never been attacked so intensively as now.

Fortunately, the countries most in need of fresh water are bathed in extreme sunlight most of the year — South and Central America, Africa, India, the Middle East. It is the peoples of these lands who may be turned from Communism by these two scientific undertakings, as Washington realizes.

Although authorization for the first five-year experiment does not expire until 1957, Representative Rogers recently asked the Congress to provide for a second five-year extension, thus ensuring continuity. Approval is certain, in view of the California assurance that success is "in a sight." He gave that promise on the basis of a third progress report by David S. Jewell, Interior Department Coordinator for the Saline Water Project.

Is State Production Immoral

I want to discuss an almost universal belief that I believe is the primary cause of our trouble — both spiritual and material. This question was brought to my attention by a statement made by John C. Bennett in "Christian Values and Economic Life," issued by that National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. Dr. Bennett takes the same position as most people do on this question. The question is whether it is moral or immoral for the state to go into any kind of production. Dr. Bennett contends that the state going into business violates no principle. He puts it in this manner:

"When we come to economic life I doubt that there is any type of economic activity that should never be undertaken by the state under any circumstances. For the state to decide what a university should teach about history is to impair or destroy the inner life of the university. But for the state to decide to undertake the manufacture and distribution of any particular products or to provide any particular services is not to destroy the values of those products or those services. The development and distribution of electric power, for example, by the state or any public agency, whether operated or not, violates no principle. The argument against such action by the state has to do with degree of efficiency and with the danger of undue concentration of political and economic power at one point. This kind of argument does not involve an assumption of the inherent incompatibility of functions of the state and economic activities."

Because most people believe exactly as Dr. Bennett believes, this question is an important one. Of course, if one has no standard of morals, or the standard of Russian Communism, then the government going into productive business could not violate any standard, because there are no standards. But if we have the standard of "Thou shalt not covet" and "Thou shalt not steal" and the Golden Rule, then most certainly the state going into any kind of productive business is immoral.

Now, let's analyze this and see if we can defend our position. In the first place, the state cannot go into business without having property, taxes and wealth. The state is a pauper. It produces nothing. Therefore, in order for the state to go into business, it must use someone else's money.

Dr. Bennett is correct in that he says that in the past, the state has gone into business. This it violates the Golden Rule because it takes away from some individual his God-given right to choose how he should be a steward of his life. It takes away from an individual his right to be owner of himself and all he produces. Yes, if we use the above moral standards, it is immoral for the state to go into any kind of productive business.

Or, if we use the Declaration of Independence as a guide to determine whether a thing is moral or immoral, right or wrong, the government going into productive business violates this great moral law, which was really an effort in a big way to put the ideologies of the Commandments and the Golden Rule into operation. The great document contends that all men are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights and that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. But the state being in productive business takes away from some individual part of his production and thus deprives him of part of his life and part of his liberty and part of his right to pursue happiness.

Or, if we take that part of the Declaration of Independence that says: "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed," then the state being in productive business is also a violation of this moral law. It substitutes the collectivist idea rather than using the Christian idea that the individual is paramount and master of himself.

And these great moral guides are entirely different from the lack of moral guides of any form of state communism or state socialism. The idea that the state has a right to be in business other than defending men's lives and property, which every individual has a moral right to do, is a conception completely foreign to Jewish, Christian and American ethics. It is this belief that leads us into one step after another that causes long periods of unemployment, one law after another that takes from one to give to another, one special privilege after another, and the erroneous philosophy of ethics that might makes right, or the end justifies the means.

It is because of men like the authors of this book, published by the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., who advocate collectivism and On-Worshipism that we are in the predicament we are in today. They of course can contend that the state going into productive business violates no principle because they will set down no principles as guides of what is right and wrong. Their only guides are the personal whims of the agents of their organization.

The columns are open to anyone who will answer questions to refute the above contention that it is immoral for the state to go into any kind of productive business. It is a question on which there cannot be too much light thrown. The understanding of this question has much to do with our progress and our general spiritual and physical well-being.

It is great that men may be persuaded to resign their freedom to strong leaders in the hope that conditions will improve.

America's Saline Water Act May Give The World A Drink

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A nonpartisan scientific study sponsored by the United States Congress may find that the use of atomic power for domestic use will require a considerable expenditure. Making it fit for use in municipalities and industries will probably be only a few years distant. Success, which is now assured, will pave a blessing to such areas as California, to the Gulf states from Texas to Florida, and to cities on the Great Plains and elsewhere, where water sometimes requires almost medical treatment before it can be drunk or used in manufacture.

The less known venture involves the attempt to convert sea, brackish and highly mineralized waters into a fresh substance suitable for use by municipalities and industries, and, perhaps most important of all, for irrigating millions of parched and unproductive acres throughout the world, here and abroad. Lands now fit only for salt-tolerant and halophytes may be made to bloom with food, fiber and flowers.

Simultaneously — five years hence — cheap atomic energy may power industries to provide standards of living so high that even puny Russian Communists might envy. The market of the future, the market of the first five-year experiment does not appear to be a Communist market.

Private and public efforts to convert substantial war into fresh have been made for many years, albeit sporadically and separately. It can be done. We must see water plants for wastelands and certain overseas bases, where money is no consideration. But the major need is to reduce the conversion cost to a commercially practical figure, as is true of the application of atomic energy to peacetime uses.

In 1952, Rep. — Representative Earl Rogers of California persuaded Congress to pass the Saline Water Act, which provided for a five-year experiment by Interior Department experts. It carried funds for work by private industries, universities and research centers. It also authorized co-operation with many foreign groups and governments tapping for new sources of "liquid gold."

The results have been surprisingly favorable. When the program got under way in late 1952, it was hoped that the cost for freshening 1,000 gallons, or an acre per foot, could be reduced to $50 within five years. A thousand gallons will cover an acre with water one foot deep, and is known technically as a "per acre foot" unit.

Under certain processes already proved practicable, the cost has been cut to about $20 within two and a half years for irrigation purposes, and to $15 for municipal and industrial. These charges are still too high for everyday application, but the price of storing, hauling and distributing water increases every day. Long-term sources are not being replenished, while demand increases dangerously. The gap in cost narrows every year.

Certain cities pay about $125 for 1,000 gallons now, when overall charges on the investment are included. Certain farmlands that produce high-revenue citrus fruits can afford from $30 to $50 an acre foot. More normal crops, such as cotton, etc., cannot pay more than $10.

Conversion of brackish or alkali water for use by cities and factories requires considerably less expenditure. Making it fit for use in municipalities and industries will probably be only a few years distant. Success, which is now assured, will pave a blessing to such areas as California, to the Gulf states from Texas to Florida, and to cities on the Great Plains and elsewhere, where water sometimes requires almost medical treatment before it can be drunk or used in manufacture.

The major item of cost is energy, whether it is produced by steam, waterpower or solar rays. The sun's heat would be the cheapest source, but harnessing it is still far from practicable on the required scale. However, this problem has never been attacked so intensively as now.

Fortunately, the countries most in need of fresh water are bathed in extreme sunlight most of the year — South and Central America, Africa, India, the Middle East. It is the peoples of these lands who may be turned from Communism by these two scientific undertakings, as Washington realizes.

Although authorization for the first five-year experiment does not expire until 1957, Representative Rogers recently asked the Congress to provide for a second five-year extension, thus ensuring continuity. Approval is certain, in view of the California assurance that success is "in a sight." He gave that promise on the basis of a third progress report by David S. Jewell, Interior Department Coordinator for the Saline Water Project.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Apparently many people are not aware that they are color blind until they are tested for it. This can be dangerous for anyone who drives a car — and for the rest of us — but today many states require this test before issuing an operator's license.

A typical example comes from E.C. who writes: "I recently had to take a physical examination for work and was told I am color blind. Please tell me what color blindness is and whether anything can be done about it."

IT IS REMARKABLE that ordinarily the human eye and brain possess the power to distinguish different colors. If this did not exist none of us could appreciate the enormous variety of color in nature, we should have few artists and those engaged in certain occupations would be severely handicapped.

Color sense is a quality of that portion of the eye known as the retina, which records impressions of light rays and transmits these impressions through the optic nerve to the brain. Some color rays are not consciously appreciated, and some people are more aware of differences in shades of color than others.

COLOR BLINDNESS is considered to be partial or total. There are three varieties of partial color blindness: in one there is a lack of ability to "see" red; this is known as red blindness; in another green is not distinguished, and in the third there is a deficiency in seeing yellow and blue, though red and green can be readily identified. The latter is rather rare.

The totally color blind are those who cannot tell any color from another but only variation in the brightness of the object. To such persons the world is all black, white and gray.

Much Freedom Lost In U. S. Since Roosevelt Election

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

A great deal of our freedom has been wrenched from us or foolishly abandoned since Roosevelt took office with his hypocritical speech, delivered in bell-like tones, in March, 1933. I was there so I remember it well.

Perhaps as many as half of the voters of the United States were born since that day or were too young then to realize what the constitution meant. Most of that lost freedom is beyond recovery, except, perhaps, by revolution or evolution far in the future. Consideration, unthinkable in my youth, is with us to stay. However, some liberties can be retained if we will study the nature and political methods of the enemy proposals, which always are made in the interest of "freedom," "democracy," "peace" and "progress."

The enemy has been checked on the front of unionism. We have not recaptured all our lost constitutional ground but we did check his advance when Congress adopted the Taft-Hartley Law over Truman's veto and again when Congress refused to obey Truman's command to change or repeal Taft-Hartley. The old New Deal labor-slavery law, written by the Communist, Lee Pressman, and offered under the name of Robert F. Wagner, an ignorant, vain old Tammany hack, was a terrible slow to our liberty.

The conspirators were not all Communists. Wagner certainly was not. And Roosevelt was just a vicious adventurer as dishonest and ruthless as Hitler, whom he affected to abhor for his cruelty. Scheming minds in that clique hit upon the "commerce clause" of the Constitution as an excuse to nullify some of the basic rights guaranteed by that very Constitution. There was no plausible excuse for a federal authority with power to compel millions to join unions which were political subdivisions of the Roosevelt party. So they did this "to facilitate interstate commerce" by solving "labor disputes."

Up to that time nobody had ever questioned the American citizen's "right at work" without joining a private society and paying financial tribute to a union imposed upon him by a small group of bureaucrats in the labor relations board. That board was loaded with Communists. It grappled all over like a cancer. You will hear denials of this and some will honestly doubt and want citations to prove it. But a writer in the daily papers cannot reasonably be required to furnish footnote references. If he did, he would have no room left to develop his proposition. The people must do some rooting for themselves if they have failed to heed knowledge which was imparted to them as it developed. And they certainly should take a suspicious attitude and ascertain whether what is still being taught that the Wagner Act was "labor's" emancipation proclamation.

Well, there was no possible honest excuse to punish employers for refusing to sign "exclusive" contracts with professional unionists from New York whereby unwilling workers were forced to join and pay. So the excuse of "interstate commerce" was invoked. An employer has no authority over the private affairs of an employee. The unions and the government were the most vehement advocates of that obvious fact. They resented Henry Ford's surveillance to deter his men from drinking and gambling to the detriment of their families. Yet they crossed themselves up in the same breath by ruling that if an employer did not discharge a worker for refusing to join a union he, the employer, could be sent to prison. That is the actual truth. It was the law! And the Roosevelt party, which stood to gain incalculable millions of the workers' dollars for political campaigns, was the enforcing power through its labor relations board.

Much of the press was half-hearted even when it did perceive the loss of freedom because the newspapers were right under the gun. The New Deal fostered the newspaper guild, which was rotten with Communism as, again, the documents prove to anyone willing to believe the truth. The guild, in concert with other unions also in political alliance with Roosevelt's party, wiped out many newspapers. Even after the Wagner Act was mitigated by Taft-Hartley, the guild pulled a strike in New York which threw about 1,500 unwilling strikers out of work for eleven weeks by the vote of a committee of three representing the editorial and miscellaneous employees of the World-Telegram.

Miss Harriet Van Horne, of the World-Telegram, proposed in the case of this brutal folly that the few workers in the original dispute be pooled as to whether they would compromise the issues and go back to work, allowing the rest of the 1,500 to resume their jobs. For that, this genteel, conscientious young woman was vilified as a disreputable and fined $500. Fines of $500 by the newspaper guild are commonplace. It has in force now a law compelling its subjects all over the country to pay tithes into a strike fund to afford petty allowances to strikers who are called out by arbitrary decision of "committees."

These discussions necessarily will be discursive. But I observe a mighty drive now forming to wipe out Taft-Hartley and restore Wagner's law and, worst of all, to wipe out laws and constitutional amendments in 17 states which have outlawed the closed shop and rioting by unions. Yes, in many states, unions were granted a special, implied right to beat up, kill and intimidate non-strikers, even though they used imported thugs from central union headquarters. Federal and state judges palters I with the criminals and abused employers for refusing to submit to them.

I am announcing the selection of Mr. De Mille. Lieut. Gen. Har- gison the student uniforms to be worn at the new Air Force Academy. I have rolled, tossed, and even stood up in my bed, trying to figure out what they would look like.

In his time, Mr. De Mille has directed 73 pictures, including "The Ten Commandments" (twice), "The Crusades," "Samson and Delilah," "The Godless Girl," "The Volga Boatman," "The Squaw Man," "The Northwest Mounted Police," and "The Plainsman."

He has had Meera last in the desert, Gloria Swanson lost in a bathtub with golden pants, William (Hopalong Cassidy) Boyd lost in the sagebrush, Samson lost in his own haircut, and the Farnum Bros. lost all over the place.

The suit that De Mille designs for the air cadets stands to be spectacular, because that is what he stands for. I see a cadet falling out in the morning wearing a Moses type robe, sandals a la Ben Hur, and a headpiece of feathers.

I also see the same cadet parading in review dressed in buckskin trousers, a soap bubble shirt, and with his rank designated by solid gold bathroom taps. Wash basin taps for a corporal, shower taps for a sergeant.

I also see the cadet dressed in a uniform similar to the one that big one, and was darn near court-martialed for being AWOL the first time I wore it. Took my two the green eye shade and the path of the fly boys got on their feet.

When the fly boys got on their feet, the same cadet parading in review dressed in buckskin trousers, a soap bubble shirt, and with his rank designated by solid gold bathroom taps, wash basin taps for a corporal, shower taps for a sergeant. That's something to think swim through it without touching about.

DeMille's Design For Air Cadet Uniform Puzzling

By HENRY McLEMORE

Ever since it was announced by Lieut. Gen. Hubert R. Hargison that Cecil B. De Mille would design the uniforms to be worn at the new Air Force Academy, I have rolled, tossed, and even stood up in my bed, trying to figure out what they would look like.

"LET'S BE BUDDIES"—In the top photo, one-year-old Kevin McWilliams, of Kansas City, Mo., is trying to get acquainted with Junior, an English bulldog, owned by E. C. Christie of Lake Lotawana. Below, however, Junior proves he's a friendly enough fellow by making some overtures, himself. That big, wet kiss ought to be the beginning of a long friendship.

ROUGH!—Ramon Fuentes lands a long right to the nose of George Johnson during their 10-round bout in Philadelphia. Middleweight Johnson, from Trenton, N. J., floored Fuentes, number three welterweight contender from Los Angeles, in the final round, winning on a split decision.

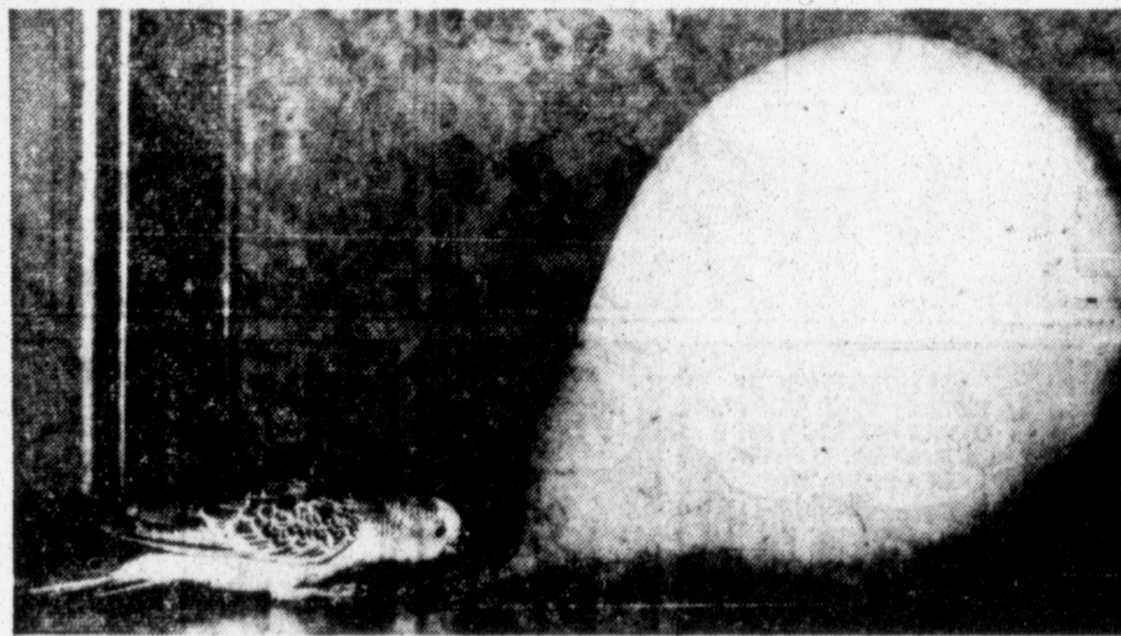

GOSSIP—Or it might be that tiny Linda Baxter, right, is merely discussing their trip with twin sister Susan at a New York airport. The 22-month-old tots were returning to their New York home from a visit with relatives in Dallas, Texas, and the plane ride certainly gave them something to talk about.

UNHAPPY ENDING—Beached near Port Lyautey, Morocco, is the Spanish trawler, Jose Ignacio. The passengers and crew were saved by a helicopter, and the only casualty was the sad and lonely vessel which had reached so humiliating an end to the voyage.

HELL BE SORRY—That parakeet in London is about to get a shock, unless the balloon is puncture-proof—which is doubtful. The bird has edged closer and closer to the strange object and it seems he's about to probe for a tender spot with his sharp bill.

FROM SLOPES TO CURVES—French fashion designer Pierre Balmain was forced to abandon his skis and go back to his "shes" after breaking a leg in a practice session near Paris. Balmain isn't letting the injury stop him from preparing for the annual spring fashion show. He's shown here with one of his models as he drapes material about her lissome figure.

IN THE COCKPIT—A pilot's eye-view of his landing on the USS Essex in the Pacific Ocean is shown here. Coming in at 110 knots, the plane banks for approach, top, lines up and levels off, second from top, comes in dead-center over the deck, and is finally jerked to a perfect landing just short of the arresting barrier. The Essex is with the Seventh Fleet.

FOR DOGS ONLY—Turkish dancer Nejla Ates, featured in the Broadway hit, "Fanny," is trying a costume on her Pekinese dog in New York. The occasion was a canine fashion show at which stage and TV actors brought their dogs to see designs made for the animals.

LEARNING THEIR BUSINESS—Inspecting the finished products of two lads are Eugene A. Borrie, standing left, and John A. Bowman, both unpaid adult advisers of the Junior Achievement movement in New York. Youngsters who join the organization are given instruction in business methods and participate in small corporations which are run like the real thing.

CLOSER INSPECTION—In sharp contrast to the surroundings, a modern U. S. Army helicopter hovers over the ancient cathedral of Pisa, Italy, left, with the famed Leaning Tower in the background. The whirlybird was giving Msgr. Hugo Comozzo, Archbishop of Pisa, a ride over the seat of his diocese. At right is a close-up of the Archbishop and his American pilot.

DOUBLED BEAUTY—Double sets of cut-out acanthus leaves give two-fold beauty to this close necklet and matching earrings and bracelet. A twin-circle shoulder pin can be used in the same gold finish metal to add to the effectiveness of the costume jewelry.

FIRST STEPS—In Palm Springs, Calif., glamorous Gloria Swanson is shown conferring with Richard Hughes, left, and Richard Stamper. Hughes and Stamper are adapting Gloria's hit film, "Sunset Boulevard" into a musical for her to star in on Broadway. Although she has sung in many of her films, Miss Swanson recently made her first recordings in some years.

"WHERE" Where has she gone since yesterday - And left us lonely here? Tonight she seems so far away. Who yesterday was near. No map of ours, on sea or land, Her journeyings may trace; We only know she's reached her home And seen her father's face. And Oh! She knows since yesterday, And she'll be leaving fast; The mists of earth are cleared away, The mysteries are past. The sun of truth in radiance glows All shadowless and bright, Undimmed by any cloud of earth, Unmarked by its own light. And she has grown since yesterday, And she'll be growing still; The bonds of time and sense and space, She's dropped like shackles from the soul. That lured her eager will, We dropped like shackles from the soul. In that first upward flight, The weary toady frets no more. The spirit, freed and light. O dear, familiar yesterday! O sad and strange today! Who would call our glad soul back To rouse the resting clay? Who would wish that she might share, Our sorrow's toil and strife, Whose loomed from death and all its pains Has entered into Life? Linda Kay Fanning

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

Several changes in the new internal revenue code will favor individual taxpayers in the matter of allowable deductions.

In the past, if interest was not set forth separately on installment sales contracts, it was not deductible. Under the 1954 revenue act, a deduction may be claimed equal to 6 per cent of the average unpaid balance of the installment sales contract, providing that this amount does not exceed the payments actually made.

Theft losses are now deductible in the year in which discovered, rather than in the year in which the theft occurred.

The deduction for charitable contributions is still subject to a limitation of 20 per cent of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income. However, an extra 10 per cent may be deducted if it is to a religious organization, a school, or a hospital.

Medical expenses may be deducted to the extent that they exceed 3 per cent of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income. In prior years the exclusion was 5 per cent. If the taxpayer or his spouse is 65 or over, the 3 per cent exclusion does not apply.

Under the new act, the cost of medicines and drugs must first be reduced by 1 per cent of adjusted gross income. The maximum medical expense that can be deducted is $2,500 for each exemption (other than for old age or blindness), and limited to $5,000 on a single return and $10,000 on a joint return.

The working wife has long lamented that she should be able to deduct against her earnings the cost of caring for her children while she is working. Now, child care expenses are deductible if paid by a woman, a widower, or a divorced man. The deduction shall not exceed $600 and may not be paid to a dependent of the person claiming the deduction. The child must be under 12 or physically or mentally incapable of caring for himself. If the adjusted gross income shown on the tax return is more than $4,500, a reduction of the child care deduction must be made.

One of the most drastic changes concerning deductions is that of depreciation. Two new methods of computing depreciation have been added that provide for a much faster write-off of depreciation in the early years.

One method is known as the "double declining balance" method. Under this system, the normal life of the item is determined as in all other cases. This is converted into a percentage figure, and then doubled. This increased percentage is then applied in the first year against the cost of the item to be depreciated. The second year, the same percentage is applied against the remaining cost, and so on indefinitely until the item is disposed of.

The second method is called the "sum of the digits" method. The sum of the years of useful life is determined. In the case of an automobile with a five-year life, 1 plus 2, plus 3, plus 4, plus 5, equals 15. The first year, 5/15ths of the cost is deducted as depreciation. The second year, 4/15ths; the third year, 3/15ths; the fourth year, 2/15ths; and the last year, 1/15th.

Both of these methods provide for greatly accelerated depreciation deductions. However, they can be applied only to new tangible property with a useful life of three years or more that was acquired after 1953. Different methods can be applied to different items as desired.

(This column, based on Federal law, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Mount Etna, Sicily's 10,836-foot volcano, has had more than 80 major eruptions during recorded history, says the National Geographic Society. Its last violent outbreak occurred in 1950. Etna is Europe's tallest active volcano.
