

Pampa Elects New Mayor, Retains All City Commissioners

GENE FATHEREE

FRANK DIAL

The mayor of Pampa will be new, but the four city commissioners will be the same for the next two years.

Pampans yesterday elected Lynn Boyd mayor and returned commissioners Gene Fatheree (Ward 1), Frank Dial (Ward 2), W. B. Neel (Ward 3) and W. D. Varnon (Ward 4) to office.

A total of 352 Pampans voted in the city election, which is considered an extremely light vote.

Boyd, Fatheree and Dial were unopposed for office. Boyd got 335 votes from the city's four wards. Both he and Fatheree got 109 votes in Ward 1. Boyd got 59 and Dial 57 in Ward 2. But in Ward 2 each had a write-in candidate against him, Charley Beard got 1 vote for mayor and Frank Roquemore got 1 for commissioner.

The closest race was in Ward 3 where Neel got 64 votes and D. S. Buckner, making his first bid for political office, got 43. Boyd got 91 of the 107 votes cast in Ward 3 and here, too, he had a write-in candidate against him. Mrs. Willie Smith picked up 1 vote for mayor.

Varnon easily led the field in Ward 4 with 54 votes. His nearest opponent, Earl Lane, got 17 votes. And E. C. Schaffer, third man on the ballot for commissioner, got 5. L. R. Jack Nichols also got a write-in for commissioner. Boyd got 76 votes in the ward, 1 less than the total vote cast.

Mayor Tom Rose declined to run for reelection. There were three absentee votes cast, 2 from Ward 2 and 1 from Ward 1, the two northside wards.

Violent Storms Put Damage In Millions

Big Hail Stones Wreck Texas Buildings, Autos

By UNITED PRESS

A tornado, vicious thunderstorms, rain and hail as big as lemons did millions of dollars worth of damage to homes, stores, automobiles and crops across 200 miles of North Texas Wednesday and there was danger of more storms.

Lee Barnes, an elderly watchman at an oil well in the north part of Sherman, one of the worst hit areas, was killed.

At least 22 persons were reported injured. They included 15 at Sherman south of Buffalo Springs, in Texas; two oil well drillers Hedy the Wichita Falls area, Mrs. J.R. Copeland, 25, and J. S. Crawford, 20, at Midway, four in the Jacksboro area and one at Newport. The wind blew away their front man hurt at Newport, Jess Win-porch and blasted out their windows, was found wandering in a daze in the wreckage of his home.

Two-and-a-half inches of hail fell at Biardstown in 30 minutes.

Rodeo Group Plans Entry

Top of Texas Rodeo grand entry committee met with the executive board this afternoon to select the design and place the order for a set of rodeo parade flags. Twenty-five flags were to be selected, including a new Top of Texas Rodeo flag to be used in the grand entry and parades in Pampa and neighboring communities.

Indo Has Truce Of 7 Days

Ike's Envoy Wins Shaky Agreement

SAIGON, Indo-China — UP — Gen. J. Lawton Collins, President Eisenhower's special envoy, won a seven-day truce Wednesday after Indo-China rebellious warlords and pro-American Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

The agreement that again ended off civil war came after hectic hours of night-long bargaining. Premier Diem and his armed rivals, the powerful "United Nationalist Front," agreed at dawn to sheath the sword and maintain an armed truce for a week.

While Collins put pressure on Diem, his French colleague, Gen. Paul-Henri Ely, high commissioner and commander-in-chief of the French expeditionary corps, worked with Diem's die-hard adversaries, the politico-religious sects.

Wednesday's agreement extended until Tuesday the three-day truce that ran out at 7 p.m. Tuesday night.

Fearing open hostilities without a new truce, the presidential envoy and his French counterpart moved in to prevent new bloodshed.

During the stalemate the sect leaders who are determined to oust Diem seemed to have patched up their internal differences. But at the same time the American-backed premiership appeared to be losing control over his main domestic support—the national army.

DISC JOCKEY FILIBUSTER ON AT EAST TEXAS STATION

TYLER, Tex. — UP — A disc jockey "filibuster" tried to break a record Wednesday — but not the record some listeners wanted broken.

Allan White and Art Roberts began playing the record, "Italian Wallflower," at 8 p.m. Tuesday night over radio station KTBB.

They said they did not plan to stop playing the same song until they have broken a non-stop record of 44 hours recently set by two New Orleans disc jockeys.

Eden Takes Over As Prime Minister

LONDON — UP — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden officially succeeded Sir Winston Churchill Wednesday as British Prime Minister in a simple ceremony at Buckingham Palace.

The silver-gray Eden, first divorced man ever summoned to be her majesty's first minister, accepted with a solemn kiss of his sovereign's hand.

The 57-year-old Eden accepted the seals of the nation's highest office from the queen in an act of history that court circles predicted will mean an easing of royal etiquette.

Five years ago Eden took his political life in his hands by breaking off his first marriage after 27 years.

Wednesday the divorced diplomat rode, hatless and handsome, through the stone arches of Buckingham Palace not just to be received by the queen who is defender of the faith, but to be charged by her with the highest office she can confer.

Churchill Era Ends
The glorious era of Winston Churchill ended when Eden bowed and bent over the sovereign's hand an hour before midday.

Churchill, who resigned Tuesday at the age of 80, packed quietly at No. 10 Downing Street to make his last official exit Wednesday from that residence of prime ministers.

He and Lady Churchill are spending Easter at Chartwell before flying to Sicily Tuesday for a rest.

11 Killed In Gun Battle

ACAPULCO, Mex. — UP Eleven persons died in a blazing gun battle touched off by a drunken fan at a cocktail in the nearby village of Petatlan Tuesday.

An undisclosed number of persons were wounded in the wild exchange, at least two of them so seriously they were given little chance of surviving.

Spectators said the fight started when a pistol-waving intoxicated man shot and killed a policeman who had tried to disarm him. Police and fans immediately joined in the battle that converted the small arena into a scene of death.

The Petatlan chief of police and several of his officers were among those killed.

Nationalists Say Reds Could Attack

By WILLIAM MILLER
TAIPEI, Formosa, — UP — Authoritative Nationalist Chinese sources said Wednesday the Red Chinese have the "capability" to attack Matsui or Quemoy islands immediately. But the informants said they are confident a battle for air supremacy over the Formosa Strait will precede any major Communist assault.

The sources said they felt that a Communist military campaign against Formosa and its off-shore island outposts will not be a sudden all-out attack but rather a gradual buildup of military pressure.

In background interviews with high-ranking authorities, the United Press was told:

1. The Communists will eventually attempt to take the off-shore islands by force, probably moving against Matsui first. Theories that Moscow will restrain the Red Chinese are "absolutely wrong."

2. The Communists have had forces in position to attack Quemoy for some time. They are now rapidly building up forces around Matsui.

3. The Nationalists at present hold absolute air and naval supremacy in the Formosa Strait. This was not the case at Tachen and Hsueh which the Nationalists abandoned earlier this year.

4. The off-shore islands are valuable as a block to Communist coastal shipping and as radar warning points. Once the Communists clear Quemoy and Matsui they will be able to move "entire hold armies" into position opposite Formosa at will. It was claimed.

CORNICANA — UP — Mrs. Doris E. Shelton, 55, of Fairfield was killed and seven other persons were injured in a two-automobile head-on collision 10 miles south of Corsicana on U. S. 75 Sunday. Her husband, Cliff, 42, was critically hurt.

Pampa News Has 48th Anniversary

The Pampa Daily News today celebrated its 48th anniversary of service to Pampa and the surrounding area.

Yesterday's issue which had stories on Churchill's resignation, a new Cabot purchase, the details for the dedication of the Canadian River Bridge and the opening of city water improvement bond issues bids, completed the old year.

The News has come a long way from the day in 1907 when J. M. Smith began operation of The Pampa Crony in one of the four rooms of the building across the street from the Liberty Hotel. L. L. Ladd, of Miami, who operated the paper there, staked Smith to the Pampa paper and Smith lived in the other room in the back of the building — a real estate office had the two rooms facing the street.

Today The News has a modern plant, which is completely equipped to bring its readers the local and worldwide news of the moment. But, in 1907, the "inside" of the paper was printed elsewhere. Then only local news was handled in the Pampa office of the paper.

H. L. Case, who still lives in Pampa, was the man who ran the first paper off on an old George Washington hand press. He was in The News office this morning, recalling the "old days" with E. Roy Smith, the present publisher. He recalled how the entire newspaper "plant" was a room 16 feet square and how they used to "dip ink, a spoon at a time" so that the print on the paper would be uniform.

Joe Smith, son of the man who began the paper in Pampa, took over the paper later on. He was the one who changed the name from The Crony to The Pampa News. In 1924, the Nunn Warren Publishers of Panhandle bought the paper and in 1926 it became a daily. Case remembered.

It has been a daily ever since. And Case still reads the paper for which he was the first printer.

Pampa Bank's Bid Gets Water Bonds

The bid submitted by the First National Bank, Pampa, and the First Southwest Co., Dallas, was the winning one yesterday for the selling of the City of Pampa's $200,000 water improvement bond issue.

The Pampa City commission made the selection shortly before noon yesterday and, right afterward, awarded the contracts for two water wells, pumps and allied equipment and for a new ditching machine.

H. H. Heiskell, Pampa, was awarded the contract for the wells, pumps and equipment with a bid of $25,000 on the wells and alternate bids of $19,384.20 and $22,985.40 on the pumps and equipment.

Plains Machinery Co., Amarillo, got the contract for the ditching machine with a bid of $22,100, which includes trade-in on the old ditcher.

The water improvement bonds winning bid was for an average interest rate of 1.9255 per cent and a net interest cost less $4,000 cash "good faith" premiums of $21,180.50. A total of $80,000 worth of the bonds will be for 1 1/2 per cent interest and will run from 1958 through 1969. The remainder, $120,000, will be for 2 per cent and will run from 1960 through 1963. A cash premium of $319.50 is also being offered.

Dedication Group Plans For 3,000 Guests April 29

Program details for the dedication of the Canadian River Bridge April 29 were worked out at bridge site, Tuesday, and plans were begun for handling the 3,000 guests who are expected to attend.

Fred Thompson, program planning chairman, said sheriffs from the three counties immediately concerned with the bridge on State Hwy. 70 connecting Pampa with Perryton, will handle the traffic which is expected to converge on the site for the dedication. On the traffic committee are sheriffs J. J. Jordan, Gray County; Ray Pagan, Ochiltree and St. Carr, Roberts County.

The dedicatory address will be delivered by E. H. Thornton, Jr., chairman of the Texas State Highway Commission.

Thompson said the bridge which will formally be opened on the 29th of April, but will probably be open to use sometime around April 20 "just as soon as the road topping is completed."

No formal area invitations will be sent, Thompson commented, but everyone is invited to take part in the festivities. "We're preparing barbecue for 3,000 guests."

The only invitations which will be sent are those to state officials and people outside the three-county area represented in the bridge dedication.

EASTER MUSIC PROGRAM PLANNED

The newly organized Church Choir of the First Baptist Church will be featured in three different services Easter Sunday. They will sing at 8:30 and 11:00 a. m. services and at 8 p. m. services. The choir, under the direction of Joe Whitten will sing "Holy Lord God" and the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's Messiah. The evening music will be "Crown Him." There are 43 voices in the Church Choir, the president is Mrs. Lonnie Richardson, the organist is Miss Eloise Lane and the pianist is Mrs. E. Douglas Carver.

Teen Topics

By MARLENE KOLT

A welcome is extended and an air of anticipation felt as PHS looks forward to hearing the West Texas State College A Cappella Choir sing in assembly tomorrow morning.

Pampa grads singing in the group are Patsy (Stovall) Crossman, Jan Baker, and David Whately. Choir director is Houston Bright.

There's another banquet on the way for the seniors next Tuesday. Host is the First Methodist Church. Don't put away your formal duds yet; seniors are invited to travel in them to the end of the rain.

Plans are running fast and fancy among the Sub Debs for their annual Shipreck Dinner - Dance being held tomorrow night at the Country Club.

After speaking of David, hear that he sang a role in the opera "Gianni Schicchi" which was presented by a group at the college last week end.

"How do you speak to an angel?" (What an angel?) Jon Carroll can claim to be a self-made angel, or so the bent wire halo that he wore in Student Council last week would testify!

Sub Debs and Esquires and their dates will be swimming around "Under the Sea." Starting time is 5 p. m.

After the dance Eileen Moore will be hostess to the girls at a slumber party. Moore's new house is a dream.

It's always good to see ex-PHSians home. Saw Su Stone and Carolyn Weinheimer recently. Carolyn, by the way, has been modeling in New York. Congratulations to her on her success.

Congratulations Hearts and flowers to Charlotte Hoggatt, E. Jay McIlvain and Philo Grommon who are April's Lion's Club Sweetheart, Junior Rotarian, and Junior Kiwanian.

"We're the greatest class alive. We're the Class of '55!"

And the seniors proved their slogan by filling the dining room of the First Baptist Church for the banquet last Thursday night. Despite bluster and uncertain weather, and wasn't that food scrumptious?

Everybody's still chattering about the antics Kid Day. Did you hear about Mary Spoonmore bopping Bob Schoofield over the head with her all-day sucker when he filled her shoe with water from a water gun?

Witness Says Solon Hired To Aid Deals

AUSTIN - UP - San Antonio land dealer Ralph Stocum told a Senate committee investigating the veterans land program that he hired U.S. Rep. John Bell of Cuero to expedite two deals and cut him in for half the profits.

It will be good as always to see the college kids home for Easter. This Easter, think beyond your new clothes and try to picture the crucified Christ rising from the grave. It's a beautiful picture, isn't it?

Stocum said Tuesday night the sum paid Bell, a former state senator, totaled $16,250. But the speculated land dealer said the checks were paid payable to T. J. McLarty, a former Cuero land operator named in 21 criminal indictments connected with veterans land investigations.

"English parrot" is another name for the eastern evening grosbeak, which is about the size of a catbird, has a large, thick, pale-yellowish beak and a body which is black, white and yellow.

Stocum said Tuesday night he filed "somewhere around $33,000" in two Dimmitt county land transactions on which he had Bell's services.

"He was to receive half the net to me," said Stocum. "I figured Bell was probably the best man to handle it for me. I couldn't expect him to work for nothing. It was my proposition to him."

Continued drought afflicts the prospects in the South Plains area. The pump-irrigated section covering portions of 10 counties between Canyon and Lubbock has only fair prospects.

Stocum was one of seven witnesses called by the committee Tuesday for questioning about witness profits, but only four of them answered questions.

McLarty's name also figured in Bell's earlier testimony, when he said he loaned McLarty at least $5,000 and that $3,850 had not been paid back.

Wheat Crop Drouth Hit

The condition of the wheat crop, in the dry-land wheat area, to the west, north and east of Amarillo, is suffering from severe drouth, according to the Wheat Harvest Control Office, Amarillo. Normally, the area contains the largest state acreage planted.

Plant development is considered extremely small, with little or no crown root development. Even though some moisture was received last Thursday, high winds and blowing dust are rapidly offsetting any advantage these rains may have caused, the report continued.

Iranian Premier to Resign?

TEHRAN, Iran - UP - Premier Faziollah Zahedi wants to resign because of illness, but Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi has refused to allow him to step down, it was reported Tuesday night. Ardeshir Zahedi, son of the premier and aide to the Shah, said his father has told Mohammed informally of his desires and has been urged to stay on. An official decision is expected Wednesday.

There were spiced elections in two suburban Dallas towns, Grand Prairie and Irving.

The "Grand Prairians for Good Government," which campaigned as a reform group, won the majority and three of four places on the city council. The fourth city council place will be decided by runoff.

C. R. Sargent defeated incumbent Grand Prairie Mayor John Daugherty 1,181 to 1,394, missing a runoff by 29 votes.

Texans Generally Indifferent To Vote

By UNITED PRESS
Thousands of Texas urban residents elected city officials Tuesday, in many instances somewhat indifferently and frequently showing a decided inclination to turn out the incumbents.

The city manager question proved Corpus Christi an exception, however. An estimated 70 per cent of the qualified voters turned out in the Gulf Coast city to elect attorney Farrell D. Smith mayor, along with his slate of four council candidates, by a vote of almost two-to-one over former state Rep. Gabe Garrett and his ticket.

Smith led the "all city ticket." He and Minor Cull, W. J. Roberts, B. E. Bigler and M. P. Maldonado advocated maintenance of the city manager form of government.

Garrett and his slate ran on a campaign of abolishing the city manager. Smith got 13,087 votes to 6,819 for Garrett.

Two Defeated in Valley
In the Lower Rio Grande Valley, two incumbent mayors were defeated while six others won.

Dallas Mayor R. L. Thornton Jr., and his Citizens Charter Association slate of councilmen candidates were unopposed and only some 2,200 persons voted Tuesday in what amounted to a formality.

The El Paso municipal election also amounted to little more. W. T. Misenheimer, 47, nominated by Democratic primary earlier for mayor with endorsement of outgoing Mayor Fred Hervey, and other Democratic candidates were unopposed.

San Antonio, where previous municipal elections have waxed hot and heavy, drew comparatively little interest from voters this year.

Councilman Defeated
At Fort Worth, T. L. Carleton, the city councilman who was tried but acquitted on a charge of arson in connection with the fire that destroyed his radio supply shop, was defeated.

Two candidates for his Place 9 position, Barney E. Holland and Truett Kinzey, apparently will be in a runoff. Two other incumbents, Edd Kane in Place 3 and J. D. Buddie Thompson in Place 8, were trailing their opponents but were expected to go into runoffs with, respectively, Dr. S. E. Garrison and A. A. Jackson.

Chicago Remains In Demo Hands

CHICAGO - UP - Chicago's powerful "machine" kept the nation's second largest city a Democratic stronghold Wednesday with a decisive majority victory.

Richard J. Daley, the party boss in Cook county, rolled up a final 708,890 to 581,461 margin over a young Republican anti-crime crusader, Robert E. Merriam, in Tuesday's election.

The decision was hardly ever in doubt as Daley, a stocky, 52-year-old father of a seven children, jumped to a quick 100,000 vote lead and held on to it.

The mayor-elect claimed victory three and a half hours after the polls closed Tuesday night. The 36-year-old Merriam conceded a half hour later.

The victory kept Chicago in the Democratic camp where it has been an outstanding tenant since 1931. The Democrats have lost two majority elections in the last 67 years.

Nevertheless, Merriam gave the Democrats their closest mayoral race since 1933, when the late Ed Jones, who had been elected by Republican George T. McKibben.

Merriam's "fusionist" bid lost because he couldn't arouse Chicagoans sufficiently with his charges of vote frauds and a "wide open city" under the Democrats.

The election weather Tuesday was ideal. But only 1,300,121 Chicagoans went to the polls. The veteran Democratic "machine" can usually count on at least 600,000 votes in such elections and Merriam knew he would probably need a 1.4 million vote turnout to have a chance.

The Democrats' continuing domination of Chicago politics was good news to the party's national leaders. Adlai E. Stevenson, the party's last presidential candidate, and Illinois Sen. Paul H. Douglas had staked a large part of their political reputations on a Daley victory.

Nature threatened the Southwest with more violence Wednesday on the heels of tornadoes, savage winds, and dousing thunderstorms. In other parts of the nation, westerners dug out of the worst blizzard in history in Montana and Wyoming and North Carolinians fought to keep a mammoth forest fire from two fishing villages.

Two Plead Guilty In DWI Cases

Two men pleaded guilty in county court this morning to charges of driving while intoxicated.

Sentenced to three days in jail and fined $100 and costs was Lewis Herman Trussell, 46, of St. Rt. 2. He was picked up by Pampa police Tuesday night in the 2000 block on Alcock.
A. J. Watson, 37, of 1405 S. Barnes, was picked up in the 300 block on S. Cuyler, at about 9 p.m. Tuesday. Watson's sentence was continued until 10 a.m. Thursday.
Gene C. Wilson, 25, of Cordell, Okla., was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail for swindling with a worthless check which he passed on Feb. 12 to Mattie E. Fenton at the Waffle Shop, 928 S. Cuyler. Wilson pleaded guilty.

Mainly About People

The Gray County Roll Judging Team will be selected following the county elimination Thursday at 4 p.m. The team will compete in the district elimination at Plainview, Saturday, according to Assistant County Agent Jerry Mobly.

MAYOR

tion, light as the vote was, was that Ward 3, the southeast section of the city, polled only 2 votes less than Ward 1, the northwest part of town and the most populous one of the four wards.

The pre-election campaign season was conspicuous by the lack of any real campaigning. Scarcely a calling card, and only a few newspaper advertisements were the signs of the campaign. And not a single campaign speech was heard.

The vote will be canvassed at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the City Commission Room of City Hall at a specially-called session of the present Pampa City Commission. The new mayor and the four commissioners will be sworn in at the meeting of the commission, scheduled for 9 a.m. Tuesday.

The other two cities in Gray County holding a municipal election yesterday were McLean and Lefors.

McLean Mayor Ed Lander was returned to office with 152 of the 171 votes cast. He had no opponent. Incumbent Cecil Callahan and Newcomer Boyd Meador were elected to the McLean City Commission. Callahan got 120 votes and Meador got 110. Incumbent Ruel Smith polled 86.

City Marshal Charley Nicholson was reelected to office with 157 votes. His opponent, Luke Armitage, got 32. And D. A. Davis, city secretary, received 148 votes. He was unopposed.

Davis labelled it a "fairly good" vote for a municipal election. In Lefors City Councilman Jim Trout and Newcomer Bob Call each received the 15 votes cast to win the election to the Lefors City Council. Those were the only two offices up for election this year.

In Miami, voters reelected the mayor to office, but returned two newcomers to the Board of Aldermen. Mayor R. J. Bean got 127 votes for mayor, while his opponent, W. M. Byers, got 75. There were write-ins for J. B. Saul and Jim Reeves.

Scott W. Corbin and Randall Gill beat out Incumbent Newton Cox for alderman. Corbin polled 138 votes and Gill got 113. Ellis Lochie received 84 votes and Cox got 68. There were no write-ins.

Miamians only get a brief respite this week before they go back to the polls Saturday. Then they will vote on a proposed bond issue for a community center. The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday.

CANADIAN
Canadian residents turned out in record numbers yesterday to return the incumbent mayor to office, but to send two new men to the Canadian City Commission.

The total vote was 720, highest in Canadian municipal history. Mayor Moutou Abraham defeated M. A. (Nick) Morgan for mayor by a vote of 289-351.

L. B. (Curley) Owens and Bill Flewelling were elected to the city commission with votes of 413 and 329. Incumbents Claude Jones, who received 300 votes and Furman Williams, who got 239, were defeated. Also defeated was W. L. Helton, who had previously filed for mayor but changed his mind at the last moment and filed for commissioner instead. He got 108 votes.

Experiments at the South Dakota State College agriculture experiment station show vegetables will produce better and earlier yields if protected from wind.

Man Found Dying In Car

PERRYTON — A Perryton man yesterday morning was found in the back seat of his car parked out in front of his house — shot through the right temple, but still breathing.

But Miller Cunningham, 34, a Perryton resident since 1951, died just about the time he arrived at the hospital, according to Harold Hudson, Ochiltree County Herald editor.

There was a .22-caliber rifle found on the seat beside him, Hudson reported. Ochiltree County Sheriff Ray Phagan made an investigation, but by this morning no coroner's inquest into the cause of death had been made and none was apparently contemplated.

Mrs. Cunningham, the victim's wife, found the body. But no note had been found by late this morning, Hudson said. The victim was an employe of Towns Home and Auto Store, Perryton.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the First Methodist Church, with Rev. A. B. Cockrell, pastor, officiating.

Surviving, in addition to his wife, are a daughter, Carolyn, Perryton; his mother, Mrs. Agnes Cunningham, Booker; a sister, Mrs. John Hocking, Riverside, Calif.; and his grandmother, Mrs. Antone Slovacek, Beck.

Burial will be in Booker cemetery.

Charge Wife With Murder Of Husband

HEMPSTEAD, Tex. — UP—Mrs. Betty Bushey Morris, a 29-year-old expectant mother, was under a charge of murdering her husband Wednesday, but officials weren't too sure of making it stick.

Mrs. Morris was charged Tuesday with murder in the car-jump death of her husband, Waco attorney James Morris, near Navasota Sunday. She was arrested in Beaumont, Tex., shortly afterwards but allowed to attend her husband's funeral there.

Waller County Attorney C. W. Karisch, who filed the murder charge Tuesday on complaint of Pat Midkiff, editor of the Waller County Record, said Wednesday his case against Mrs. Morris was, at best, "very weak."

"In fact," he said, "if our investigation doesn't pan out we may just dismiss the charge against her. We'll have to see how it works out."

6 From Gray Attend Spur Feeder's Day

Feeder's Day at the Spur experiment station was attended by some 300 area people among them six Gray Countians.

Attending the all-day program Tuesday were Irvin Cole, Paul Bowers, Leldon Hudson, Jess Coleman, County Agent Ralph Thomas, and Assistant County Agent Jerry Mobly.

Several lots of steers were shown, Mobly said, all of which were receiving experimental feedings of the hormone stilbestrol and auromycin. Conclusions reached at the station following extended experimentation found that feedings of stilbestrol had increased rate and effect of gain, among steers, but the feeding is not recommended for breeding stock.

Mobly pointed out that researchers agreed that auromycin tests with large steers had proved inconclusive, though previous tests have shown the antibiotic to be effective in younger, more unthrifty calves.

On the afternoon program demonstrations were given on conservation practices, including leveling and terracing.

Desk Alarm
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — UP—Customers' eyes popped, officials grabbed the arms of their chairs and police chaos running into the Home Federal Savings and Loan Assn. Building here. Then an embarrassed secretary explained that it was an alarm clock in her desk.

Frank Bartholomew New President Of United Press

NEW YORK —UP—Frank H. Bartholomew Wednesday became president and general manager of the United Press.

His election, announced last Dec. 30, was effective Wednesday, the 20th anniversary in the presidency of his predecessor, Hugh Ballie, who advanced to chairman of the board.

"It is a challenging job to head up a news organization at a time when the world situation depends so much on the free flow of accurate information," Bartholomew said. "Ballie has set a fast pace in this spot and I am indebted to him for intelligent coaching and inspiration over the last 24 years."

"I'm proud to quarterback the U.P. team, in my opinion the finest news agency staff in the business."

Moves From Pacific Division
Bartholomew moved to New York this week from San Francisco where he had been in charge of U.P.'s Pacific area. There his territory included the Pacific Coast states, Hawaii, Mexico, Central America, Alaska, Australia and

New Zealand. He had been a vice president of the service since 1938, a director since 1949 and first vice president since last August.

Like his predecessor, Bartholomew began as a reporter and worked his way up through the ranks to the presidency. In his new post he is in charge of U.P.'s world-wide service to 4,349 newspapers and radio stations which receive the news report directly from the agency's major news bureaus. Hundreds of other newspapers and radio stations abroad get U.P. dispatches through regional agencies.

The new president signs his cablegrams and memos "Bart" and is known by that abbreviation throughout the service.

Repetitious Exploits
Despite his administrative duties of recent years Bartholomew has found time for numerous reportorial exploits.

First Aid Course Set

Mrs. H. R. Jeter, Red Cross first aid instructor, will offer the standard 18-hour first aid course to 14 members of the Salvation Army's Girl Guards, according to Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, executive secretary.

Mrs. Jeter, who was authorized as an instructor in 1953, will begin instruction Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Army headquarters, 111 E. Albert. The last course she taught was at Girl Scout Camp La Jita, Utopia.

Frank Stallings, chairman of the Red Cross first aid program, will teach in the City Hall. The course is open to all who have completed the standard course and hold a current card.

Pampa News Women's Editor

THE MEANINGS OF WORDS and the origins of festivals are always interesting, I think. Here is an article I came across on the origin of the word Easter, and some of the symbols connected with that day that go back to pagan times, before Easter was given its special religious significance.

IT IS FROM the Anglo-Saxon word eastre, the decorated egg, which came such an elaborate thing that the name Easter is derived, and it came to represent a challenge history tells us that Easter was celebrated as a joyous day of new beginning, even before it was given the religious significance with which we now associate it.

According to the Jewelry Industry Council, the gem-like colors of the Easter eggs which we give on this day, as well as the colorful attire we don in honor of the occasion, have very significant meanings. So when you choose a ruby red necklace, a red hat, or a crimson pair of gloves to make bright your Easter outfit, you honor several meanings. The Chinese, for example, think of red in terms of a symbol of life and happiness and use it as a color for bridal garments and present red colored eggs to celebrate the birth of a child.

It was the Persians who really introduced the fabulously ornamented eggs on the occasion of their Spring festivals, long before the birth of Christ and the advent of the modern meaning of Easter as we know it today. As time

Faberge's works of art were exquisitely enameled and jeweled and in most cases contained "eggs within eggs," each one a jewel of workmanship which represented various symbols connected with Easter.

Today in our country, jewelers still contribute much to Easter happiness, although most of today's "jeweled" Easter eggs take the form of wearable pieces of jewelry such as pearls to flatter your Spring suit or, especially this year, a necklace or earrings in gold or myriad colors to brighten the neutral tone of your new grey or beige costume.

If you are a charm collector, and who isn't these days, you will be particularly aware of the array of unusual charms making Easter this year. There are little gold filled churches, to remind you of the quiet beauty of Easter services, a gold calendar of the month of April, with a small diamond or colored stone marking Sunday, the tenth. Or you may prefer your charms in silver, like the miniature prayer books, Easter rabbits and Easter eggs which are available, too.

MATURE PARENT Interior Decorator To Speak At Meet Of Women Golfers

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Yesterday Mrs. K. miserably with a bad cold, cleaned her 12 ground-floor windows. She had to drive herself to this unnecessary labor.

For Mrs. K. lives out of unknown fear that any weakness in her, moral or physical, will somehow be punished. And she washed her windows out of the same motives that used to compel martyrs to avert God's wrath by torturing themselves.

She is, of course, just as intolerant of weakness in others. For example, when her daughter Grace leaves her bed untidy made, Mrs. K. pursues the subject for hours. If Grace scorches a cooking pot, tells a lie, loses money or in other ways renders less than a perfect performance, her mother cannot release herself from fascination with these sins.

This fascination is as useful to Mrs. K. as it was to the martyrs. However, though it supports her sense of virtue, it's been very hard on Grace. As a result of it, she has become a most incompetent girl.

Her bedroom is always in chaos because she cannot maintain it in the perfect order her mother requires. She leaves the scorched pot in the sink because no scouring could erase her mother's memory of the scorch. She makes no effort to repay the money she's continually borrowing from Mrs. K. because repaying it would only revive new criticism of her need to borrow.

Thus, Grace is in perpetual flight from correction of her faults. The demand for ideal performance from her has ended in no performance at all.

Grace deals with this absence of real performance in the only way she can. She imagines herself giving the ideal ones.

For example, though her school record is mediocre, she will assure you that she's going to win a college scholarship. Overweight, she's always publicly pledging herself to diets she cannot keep.

Last summer, fired from a file clerk job after two weeks, she met this hard reality with her customary dreaminess. Grace was not fired; she had resigned. A friend of an uncle had said something about a much better job. She spent the rest of the summer in idleness expecting it to come through.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend
I was wondering if you could help me with a problem. My mother is 68 years old and was married about a year and a half. She and my stepfather split up last fall. She does not know where he is and she is not divorced.

She owns property which she had before her marriage and she gets $50 a month from it which she lives on.

Our problem is that she wants to build on other property by selling the present for money with which to build and she was wondering if her husband did come back if he could collect anything for support or if he could get part of her property.

Also could you tell me if a child is responsible for the support of a parent? If so can they be taken to court even though they are in another state? M. S.

Dear M. S.
In order to avoid all legal complications, your mother should divorce your step father. I suggest she talk to a lawyer about starting divorce proceedings at once.

There is also the problem of inheritance in case of her death. Her lawyer should advise her about a will since she probably doesn't want her missing husband to claim any of her property but would want it to go to her children.

I believe a parent can always go to court to force his children to support him as witness the recent case of the movie star, Van Johnson, who was forced to contribute to his mother's support, although he claimed that she had deserted his father and him when he was a small boy and that he had never seen her until he became widely known as a motion picture star.

Aside from the legal aspects of this case, I believe that morally a child is responsible for his parents' support as stated in the Commandment, Thou shall honor thy father and thy mother ...

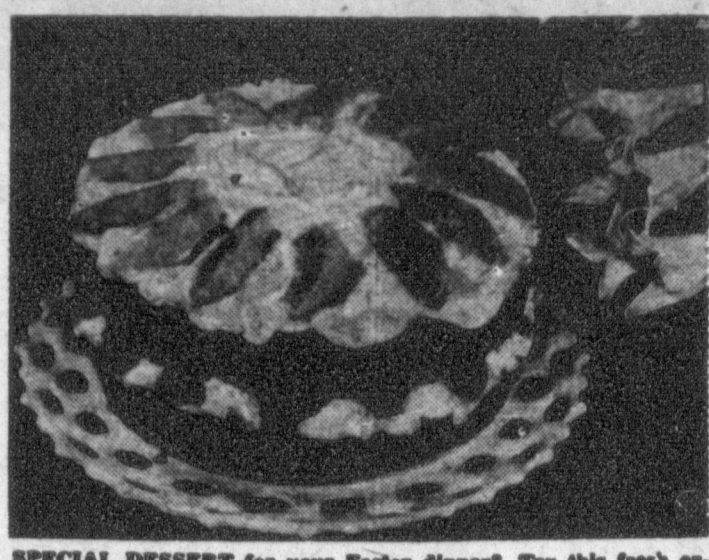

DIVORCEE'S NAME
Dear Grace Friend
A friend and I have a disagreement. I am divorced, have a son and have kept my ex-husband's name. She says that now my divorce is final I should be Miss Mary Smith and I say I should be Mrs. Mary Smith. If I had taken back my maiden name I know I would be "Miss" again, but I didn't.

Wondering
Dear Wondering
You are right to continue the use of "Mrs." It is correct to add your maiden name as follows: "Mrs. Mary Jones Smith" or "Mrs. Jones Smith." However the great majority of divorced women do just as you do and use the "Mrs. Mary Smith" style.

The meringue topping on pies won't pull off during slicing, if the knife is buttered.

SPECIAL DESSERT for your Easter dinner? Try this fresh orange blitz torte.

COOK'S NOOK

Fresh Orange Blitz Torte Is Easter Dessert Special

By GAYNOR MADDOX

We traveled through Florida recently from Miami on the east coast to Tampa on the west coast. All around Lakeland (near Tampa) we drove slowly through miles of orange groves. The trees were in bloom and the air had the fragrance of many weddings.

With Easter in mind, we decided in that lovely atmosphere to create a special dessert using fresh oranges reminiscent of those blossoming in Florida groves.

Fresh Orange Blitz Torte
(Yield: 6-8 servings)

One and one-third cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1-3 cup shortening, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, 4 eggs, separated, 1-3 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar, 3/4 cup sugar, 6 medium fresh oranges, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, 1 tablespoon sugar (optional).

Sift first three ingredients together (Set aside for later use).

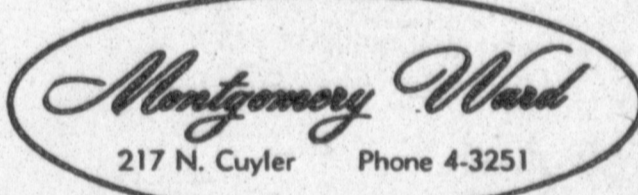

Cream shortening, 1/2 cup sugar and orange rind together until fluffy. Beat 3 egg yolks, one at a time. Add flour mixture alternately with milk. Line bottoms of two lightly greased, round 8-inch layer cake pans with waxed paper. Grease paper lightly. (Do not grease sides of pans.) Divide batter evenly between the 2 pans. Spread uniformly over the bottoms. Add cream of tartar to egg whites. Beat until they stand in soft peaks. Gradually beat in the 3/4 cup sugar. Spread uniformly over the unbaked batter.

Bake 25 minutes in a pre-heated very slow oven (250 degrees F.). Increase heat to moderate (350 degrees F.). Bake 20 minutes. Remove from oven. Cool. (Meringue will settle, but this is as it should be.) Remove from pan. Before serving arrange fresh orange slices or sections and whipped cream (sweeten cream with 1 table-spoon sugar if desired) between layers and over the top in shortcake fashion.

Skelly Family Given A Going-Away Party

Fans Study New Dangers For Shapely TV Stunt Girl

By ALINE MOSSBY

HOLLYWOOD — Television fans sit up nights these days thinking up new ways to risk the necks of a shapely brunette and her husband. The doomed "victims" are Alma Woolman, a stunt woman, and Harry Woolman, a veteran of 28 years of dangerous stunt work in TV and the movies.

Stunt workers are the daredevils who, for a living, fall from horses, crash the stagecoach or tumble downstairs while the star sits calmly in his dressing room. The Woolmans are no efficient in their stunts that viewers of Art Baker's "You Asked For It" on ABC-TV write in to demand they perform impossible-sounding tricks.

Recently on the show at some striking viewer's request the striking brunette lay on top of a car while her husband drove it through a tunnel of fire.

"I didn't know I was going to do that stunt until shortly before the show," the stunt woman said with a smile. "Harry seldom tells me, but no matter what he dreams up for me, I do it because he knows what he's doing."

For Alma's plunge into the fire before the TV cameras, she lay stomach down on the hood of the car and wore a fireproof suit. The inside of the 60-foot tunnel of excelsior bales was soaked with 15 gallons of gasoline and set afire.

"There was a six-inch leeway on each side of the car," said Woolman while his wife sat calmly by, inspecting her fingernail polish.

"I drove about 60 miles an hour, keeping the car straight on its course even though I could see nothing."

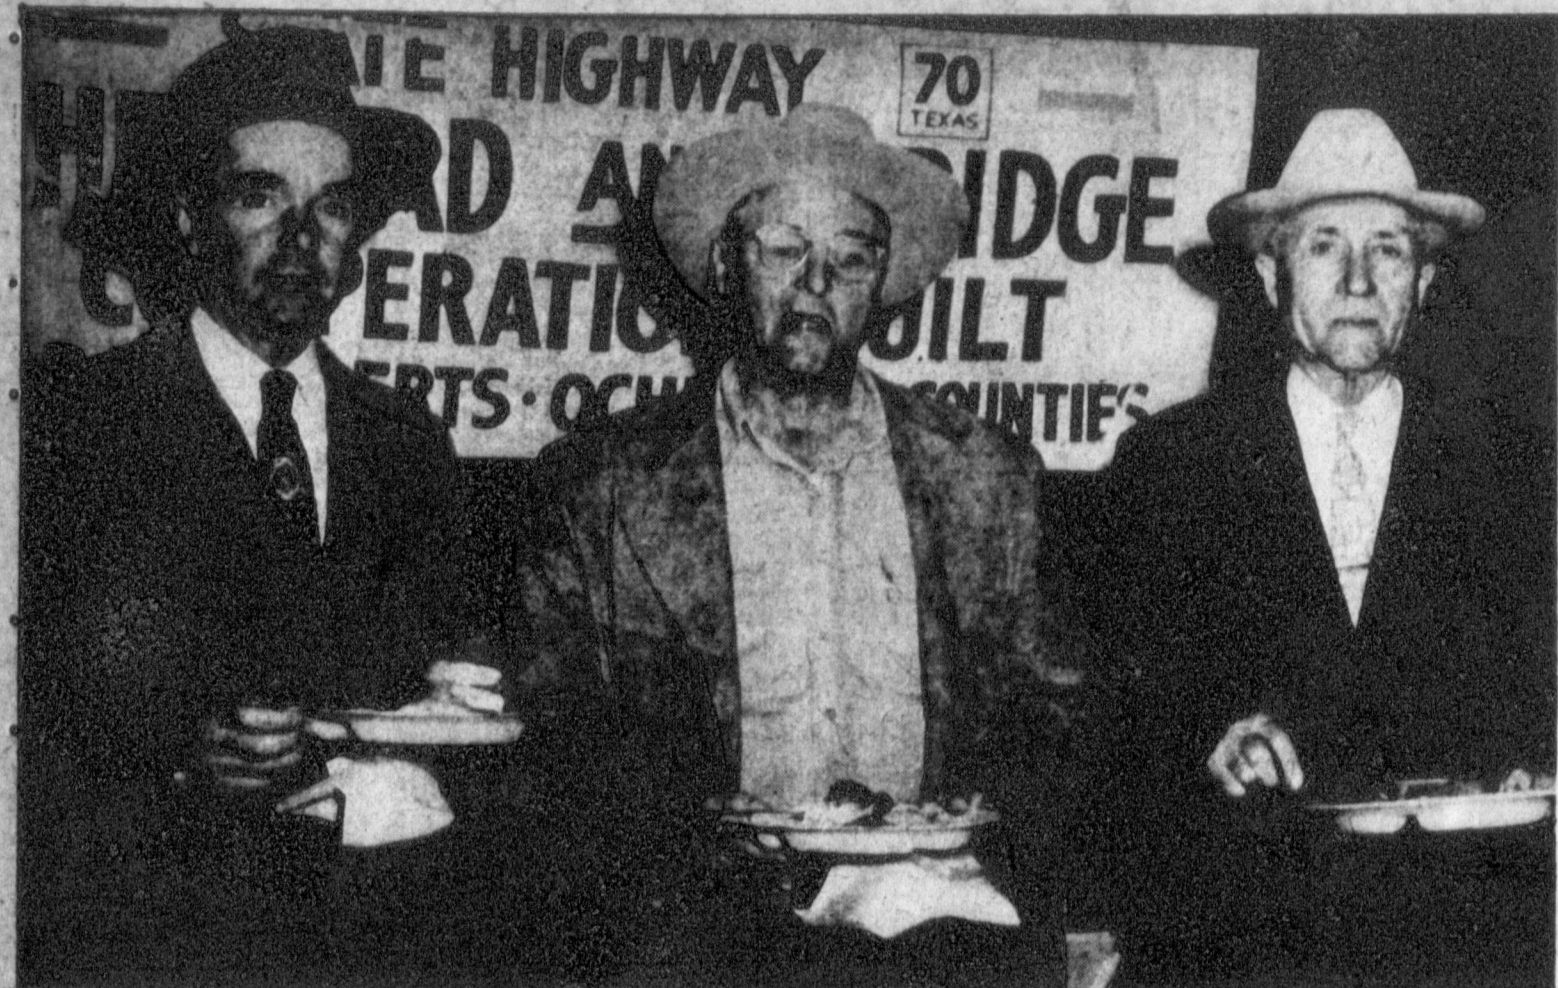

At TV viewers' eager requests, Woolman drove a car over a 400-foot cliff (he jumped out just before the plunge). He also flew an airplane into a house (after fixing the wings of the cheap plane so they could fall off upon impact) and crashed a car headon into another car.

"Somebody wrote in asking that we jump off the Empire State building," Harry said.

Short Of Food, Red China Not Prepared To Fight War

EDITORS NOTE: How far will Red China go in its threat to 'liberate' Formosa? Will it risk a major or even a limited war? How well is it prepared for war? Some high American military men believe that a Red attack on Matsu and Quemoy is imminent. President Eisenhower does not. An expert estimate of the situation in the Formosa Strait is given in the following dispatch by the United Press manager in Hong Kong.

By WENDELL S. MERICK
HONG KONG — UP — Red China is in no shape to fight either a major or a minor war. But that is no assurance that the Peiping government will not start one.

The answer to that contradictory statement is bound up in the internal situation in China today.

Communist China, with nearly 600 million people, is short of food. Floods, drought and insects have stowed both agriculture and industrial progress.

The Red army needs a thorough overhaul. It has perhaps as many as 4 million men in uniform—but not all have weapons. It needs more youth and more brains if it is to fight a modern war.

Sabotage Is Evident
Evidence exists, and even appears in official Communist publications, that considerable sabotage is being conducted by anti-Red agents and Chinese Nationalist sympathizers. Frequently the sabotage is effective.

The Communists need to weed out ineffectual officials who clutter their party and lower-level governmental organizations. Inefficiency, in some cases disregard for the Communist program, have diseased provincial, county and city governments.

The Communist party needs better qualified leaders, especially in administrative positions.

Surface Facts: Red China, considering itself self-admitted elements, it seems on the surface ridiculous that the Communists are seriously thinking about going to war over Formosa.

Why, then, is there such anxiety even expressed in the highest military circles in Washington—over the possibility of an outbreak of war this spring?

The answer is that the Nationalist stronghold of Formosa represents not only a military but a political threat to Red control of the mainland.

Formosa's Venture Certain

The feeling among experts here is that the time must come when the Communists will have to conquer Formosa—or try to. If they do not, they will risk the loss of popular faith on the mainland in the strength of their regime.

It is possible the Reds may figure that going to war over Formosa could do what Pearl Harbor did in the United States.

The argument is that while Communist China is not industrially far ahead of the United States, the outbreak of hostilities might whip up such patriotic fervor that production would soar and the people would turn against those of their neighbors who have not been passionately pro-Communist.

That would be a gamble, of course. But Formosa can not be left in the hands of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek forever without the risk that the people on the mainland will lose confidence in Red leader Mao Tse-Tung and his cohorts.

Reds Might Open Fire
It is believed that if the Reds were pushed into a position where they were faced with the threat of serious loss of face, they probably would open fire.

Some observers of the China scene believe that it is partly because of this situation that the United States government is playing a cat-and-mouse game on the issue of defending the Matsu and Quemoy Islands.

The United States is not either committing itself to defending the islands or daring the Reds to take them, it is suggested, because in either case it would be imperative for the Communists to attack or face loss of prestige in Asia.

The answer to the whole business seems to be that it is up to the Communists to decide whether there will be war.

Road-e-o Date Reset To May 8

The second annual Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce teenage safe-driving road-e-o will be held the afternoon of May 8 on Atchison, between Ballard and Stark-weather.

Joe Gidden and George Reed, co-chairmen of the event, yesterday told the JayCees of the new date for the safe-driving contest. The date was changed from May 1, because that is the last day of the state JayCee convention in San Antonio where many Pampa club members are expected to be on hand.

Preliminary written tests will be given the week of April 18-25 to high school students in Pampa, Lefors, Miami, McLean, Canadian and White Deer, Gidden and Reed said. Last year only Pampa was included in the competition.

But the actual driving test itself will be given only in Pampa, they emphasized. Prizes will be awarded to the top three winners.

Other road-e-o officials will be Horton Russell, coordinator; Kenneth Rotan and Gidden, publicity co-chairmen; Fred Myers, location, course and equipment; Pat Patton, judging and scoring; Bill Tarpley, eligibility and screening; and Ray Duncan, prizes and awards.

Alsepet Has Fox Hunt
CHICAGO — UP — There was a fox hunt at Chicago's Midway Airport Tuesday. A large silver fox broke out of a crate inside a cargo plane and it took five handlers 15 minutes to capture him.

Court Visitors Are Limited
WASHINGTON — UP — The Supreme Court has placed a "three minutes only" tourist sign outside its dignified, marble-columned chamber so as many visitors as possible can see the court in action. Long waiting lines, composed largely of students on spring pilgrimages to the capital, gave Marshal T. Perry Lippitt the three minute idea.

JACK LOCKETT, PAMPA HIGH SCHOOL'S new football coach, arrived in Pampa yesterday for the Easter holidays.

Lockett, who is working at Oklahoma U., is in town for spring training. Lockett called all his forces together last night to begin preparations for spring training.

The spring training session is due to start April 25.

Lockett plans several other meetings with his assistants during his visit this week.

Carl Allison, of course, who is a member of the Oklahoma baseball team, won't be on hand for these sessions. Allison is the new Harvester assistant.

Baker Moves Up In Boxing Ranks

MILWAUKEE, Wis. —UP— National Boxing Association ratings advanced heavyweight Bob Baker to the rank of outstanding boxer. Fred J. Saddy, chairman of the NBA championship committee, said Tuesday.

Harold Johnson was restored to his old position of logical contender for light heavyweight title in the ratings.

Also recognized were the new champions — welterweight king Tony De Marco of Massachusetts and bantamweight Raton Macias of Mexico.

Saddy said the NBA is allowing De Marco the customary six months period in which to defend his title.

But he said he hopes De Marco's first defense will be against Carmen Basilio because of Basilio's fine record.

Both Basilio and De Marco signed Tuesday for a title match. The bout is scheduled for June 10.

Rankings put Robert Cohen of French Algeria in the rank of logical contender for Macias' title.

Saddy said Cohen and Mario d'Agata of Italy, the only logical contenders for the bantamweight title, are inactive due to injuries, and are expected to return to the ring soon.

Featherweight king Sandy Saddler is the only champion who has no logical contender for his title in the NBA ratings. In his last fight he beat Red Top Davis. The NBA had previously considered Davis the logical contender for the crown.

The new NBA ratings are:

Sharp Bats In Winning Run As 'Dogs Fall

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

Big John Perkins batted Keith Hughes in a brilliant pitching duel yesterday as the Harvester baseballers carved out a 2-1 decision over the Borger Bulldogs at Harvester Field.

Perkins gave up only two hits and struck out 10 Bulldog batsmen in turning in possibly his best performance of his career. The only Bulldog run was unearned.

Hughes was almost as invincible as Perkins as the Harvesters managed only five hits. But the Harvesters made good use of their bingles.

After Borger had gone ahead in the first inning with their only run that came via two Harvester errors, the Green and Golders tied it up in the third when Jimmy Farish slammed a bases loaded single to center to score Tommy Darling from third.

A perfect throw from centerfielder Larry Summers cut Buddy Sharp down at the plate with the potential lead run.

Sharp, however, settled matters in the fifth inning when he tripled over the head of rightfielder scooter Darden to score Bill Fulenwider, who had singled, from first, all coming with two outs.

Borger threatened to catch up in both the sixth and seventh innings but Perkins braced on each occasion to kill the threats.

A walk and an error put Bulldogs on second and third in the sixth inning with one away. But Perkins retired the next two without further damage.

In the seventh, the Bulldogs again put two on with one away via a walk and an error before Perkins got Mike Kelley on a strikeout and Bob Dyke on a groundout to end the game.

Gerald Meyers scored the lone Borger run in the first inning when he was hit by a pitched ball to get on and then scored on two successive Harvester errors.

Perkins had a no-hitter working through the first four innings before an infield hit by catcher Clifford Blanks broke the ice in the fifth. Blanks was quickly wiped out attempting to steal. The other Borger hit also occurred in the fifth, a double by pitcher Hughes.

Yesterday's game was a non-conference affair. It was the final tuneup for the Harvesters before opening their District 1-AA schedule Saturday with a doubleheader against Plainview's Bulldogs at Oiler Park.

8 Harvester Golfers Named

Harvester golf coach Weldon Trice has named eight boys to compete in the District 1-AA meet Friday.

The 1-AA meet, to be played on the Amarillo Country Club course, will be a 36-medal play tourney.

The Harvesters will enter two teams.

One of the teams will be composed of Don Prigmore, Bill McLeod, Joe Chisum and Sammy Houchin.

The other team will consist of Bert Watkins, Les Howard, John Dial and Bill Russell.

Amarillo and Borger will also enter two teams in the tourney while Plainview, the fourth member of 1-AA, will enter only one team.

American Netmen Win
MONTE CARLO —UP— Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., and Gardner Mulloy and Tony Vincent, both of Miami, Fla., gained the fifth round of the Monte Carlo International Tennis tournament Tuesday with straight-sets victories. Larsen defeated George Borret of England, 6-3, 6-2; Mulloy beat Donald Fontaine of Canada, 6-2, 6-0; and Vincent eliminated R. Sneyers of Austria, 7-5, 6-4.

RESTING UP — Buddy Sharp, Harvester rightfielder, is taking a brief rest in the above photo after he had pounded a long triple to drive in the winning run for the Harvesters in yesterday's 2-1 victory over the Borger Bulldogs at Harvester Field. Oilers In Opener Today At Amarillo

The Pampa Oilers and Amarillo Gold Sox were greeted by warm temperatures this morning as they prepared for this afternoon's exhibition tilt at Gold Sox Park in Amarillo.

SMU, Rice Win SWC Tilts

Southern Methodist University and Texas A&M College were co-leaders of the Southwest Conference baseball race Wednesday after the Mustangs blanked Texas Christian 3 to 0 Tuesday, for their third straight win.

In another game Tuesday, the Rice Owls won their first conference game 3 to 1 from the Texas Longhorns, who have a conference 1-3 record.

Tommy Bowers hurled a three-hitter for SMU to win his third straight conference game. He spaced three singles and struck out 11. The only consolation TCU had was two base-loaded double plays which held down the score.

Tuesday's game left TCU in the conference cellar. The Frogs were previously defeated by Texas and Texas A&M.

Wolda Almost Hurls Shutout
John Wolda of Rice pitched shut out ball for eight innings of the Rice-Texas clash at Houston. However, he tired in the ninth and Billy Arhos relieved him with the bases loaded and one out. Arhos fanned the first batter, but the second walked home a run. Then he forced Tommy Snow to ground out weakly for the final out.

Sens Arrive Home To Face Dodgers

WASHINGTON, D.C. —UP— Manager Charley Dressen is slated to play host to his old team—the Brooklyn Dodgers — Wednesday when his Washington Senators make their 1955 debut in Griffith Stadium.

The Senators thus are the first major-league team to arrive at its home base.

The game also will mark the first time that Dressen and his successor in Brooklyn, Walt Alston, have been in opposing dugouts.

Alston was not with the team when the Dodgers played the Senators for the first time this spring on March 22. The Senators won that game, 4-3.

The Senators arrived home with an excellent 12-7 Grapefruit League record despite a 13-2 loss Tuesday to the Cincinnati Redlegs. Dean Stone, a 12-game winner for the Senators last year, was routed in the first inning when the Redlegs scored six runs.

The Dodgers were beaten, 8-0, by the Milwaukee Braves Tuesday.

Pierce Disappointing
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. —UP— Billy Pierce, who is being relied upon for a 15 to 20-victory campaign, was one of the biggest disappointments Wednesday in the Chicago White Sox camp.

Pierce yielded only two hits for six innings Tuesday but suddenly tired and suffered his fifth loss of the spring as the St. Louis Cardinals scored a 6-3 victory over the White Sox. Pierce has not won a game.

The victory also enabled the Cardinals to clinch the spring series. It gave them a 5-2 lead with only two games left to play.

Rookies Larry Jackson, Herb Moford and Bob Tiefenauer combined in a six-hitter for the Cardinal win. Red Schoendienst hit a two-run homer for the Cards.

Cubs Edge Exporters
BEAUMONT, Tex. —UP— The Chicago Cubs, sporting a fine 13-6 spring record, scheduled a routine workout Wednesday before en-training for Chicago where they meet the White Sox in a two-game cross-town series Saturday and Sunday.

The Cubs completed the traveling phase of their exhibition schedule Tuesday when they beat the Beaumont Exporters, 5-1, for their sixth straight win. Sam Jones shut out the Texas League team for seven innings while Ransom Jackson and Jim Fanning hit home runs.

The Cubs will remain here overnight and then take off for Chicago Thursday.

Turley Beats Barons
LYNCHBURG, Va. —UP— Bob Turley, an early spring bust, flashed the form Wednesday which persuaded the New York Yankees to acquire him in their 18-player winter deal with the Baltimore Orioles.

The 215-pound fireballer struck out 11 batters and allowed only four hits Tuesday as the Yankees beat their Birmingham farm club, 2-1. Turley drove in the Yankees' first run and Mickey Mantle accounted for the second with his fifth home run of the spring.

The Cubs will remain here overnight and then take off for Chicago Thursday.

Maglie Back In Old Form; Beats Indians

Sal Maglie gave the New York Giants' pennant chances "that neat, smooth look" Wednesday with a razor-sharp performance that convinced the 37-year-old tough pitcher "I can still pitch nine tough innings."

"I wanted to prove to myself that everything was all right," Maglie said after beating 23-game winner Bob Lemon in a 5-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians. "I've proved to myself now that I've still got it over the long haul."

Maglie, who won 14 games last season and still is regarded as the world champions' key pitcher because of his amazing ability to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, scattered nine hits, walked four batters and struck out four as he became the Giants' first route-going hurler of the spring. Maglie's earlier spring outings were only fair and it was feared in some quarters that old age was catching up with them. He will be 35 on April 26.

Manager Leo Durocher's confidence also was buoyed by the signing of 36-year old left-fielder Monte Irvin, who hit two home runs, including a three-run drive that snapped a 1-1 deadlock in the ninth inning. Rookie outfielder Bob Lennon followed with another homer.

The Giants' victory once again tied the spring version of the 1954 World Series—this time at eight victories each. The teams play Wednesday at Charlotte, N.C., and then wind up their 18-game series Thursday in Knoxville, Tenn.

Good pitching was the order of the day—with a few exceptions — as the 16 big league managers stepped up their mound schedules in preparation for next week's opening games.

In other games Tuesday: The New York Yankees edged out their Birmingham farm club 2-1; the Milwaukee Braves took an 8-0 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers; the Cincinnati Redlegs blasted the Washington Senators 13-2; the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago White Sox 6-3; the Chicago Cubs took a 3-1 decision over the Beaumont Exporters of the Texas League; the Kansas City Athletics clobbered Winston-Salem, N.C., 20-4, and the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Boston Red Sox 17-12 and 8-2, in a doubleheader marked by 43 hits and 20 extra base blows.

In other games Tuesday: The New York Yankees edged out their Birmingham farm club 2-1; the Milwaukee Braves took an 8-0 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers; the Cincinnati Redlegs blasted the Washington Senators 13-2; the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago White Sox 6-3; the Chicago Cubs took a 3-1 decision over the Beaumont Exporters of the Texas League; the Kansas City Athletics clobbered Winston-Salem, N.C., 20-4, and the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Boston Red Sox 17-12 and 8-2, in a doubleheader marked by 43 hits and 20 extra base blows.

Good pitching was the order of the day—with a few exceptions — as the 16 big league managers stepped up their mound schedules in preparation for next week's opening games.

Sultry Blonde, Anita Ekberg, Not Playgirl, But Actress

By ALINE MOSSY HOLLYWOOD —UP— Anita Ekberg figured Wednesday one reason why her movie career took more than two years to get off the ground: Hollywood tabbed her as a playgirl. Anita is a long-legged, sultry blonde from Sweden who was Miss Sweden in the 1951 Miss Universe contest. But so far her film career has consisted of busy checkbook photos and gossip column items about her various suitors. She's lived in Hollywood since 1952 but until this year never worked. Meantime, she's been a familiar figure around nightclubs and in her white Jaguar sports car. In this gaudy town of non-serious playgirl, she admits, "this has not been good for me."

"People think I'm just a playgirl, just joking around and not serious about my work," she says in her Swedish accent.

"They see me around town for two years, not doing anything. They just don't know the reason—they don't know my trouble with the immigration authorities. I did not have necessary papers to work for a year and I couldn't accept jobs. If I had, the immigration people would have sent me back to Sweden. "Winning that beauty contest hindered me, too."

When Anita was sent to Hollywood to be a hostess at the Miss Universe contest, Universal-International studio signed her. After six workless months she left the studio.

"People say I caused trouble and did not keep appointments, but they do not know I could not speak one word of English," she said indignantly.

"I was able to stay here without a job because my parents are quite well off (in Malmo, Sweden) and I had money that I earned as Sweden's top high-fashion model." Last fall at a cocktail party, producers Bob Fellows and John Wayne spotted Anita and she was at last able to work, signed her for their own company, Batjac productions. Anita was demoralized with a shapeless outfit and no make-up for her first role as a Chinese refugee (with blue eyes) in "Blood Alley."

But movie fans will have a look at the much publicized Ekberg shape in a new Martin and Lewis comedy, "Artists and Models."

Anita is tall (5'7") and has high cheekbones and blue eyes. She also has intelligence and a sultry air that should take her out of the checkbook ranks into the true glamour girl category.

"A beauty contest can make you familiar to the public but it hindered me more than anything," she said. "A producer won't put you in a movie if you're more beautiful than the star. You can get in a lot of trouble. "If you want a good part, the producer knows you have no experience. "Now I hope people change their minds about me because of the two roles I've gotten."

Section Hand Killed By Train

AMARILLO, Tex. —UP—A freight train killed a section hand and Denver Railway section hand near Amarillo when it hit the small handcar on which he was sleeping.

Authorities identified the dead man as Robert Marshall Bell Jr., 29, of Amarillo, a former Hobbs, N. M., resident. Potter county Deputy Sheriff Henry Maggard said Bell apparently fell asleep on the handcar after finishing his lunch. The handcar was on a rail siding, but Maggard said part of it stuck out over the main track and the freight knocked it over a 10-foot embankment.

Opposition Predicted On Plans To Cut Military

WASHINGTON —UP— Sen. Dennis Chavez predicted Tuesday that the Senate Appropriations committee will oppose administration plans to cut military forces, by some 300,000 men in the next 18 months.

Chavez (D-N.M.) is chairman of the Military Appropriations subcommittee considering the administration's $34 billion defense budget. The group was to hear testimony from the Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries.

Chavez said he feels there should be no manpower cuts now and thinks the majority of the full appropriations committee will agree. He said the committee and congress can vote additional funds to maintain military forces at their present strength but conceded the administration can't be stopped from making the reduction anyhow.

One of Chavez' subcommittee colleagues, Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), said, however, he will support the administration plan. He said President Eisenhower is "a great military man" and "I am willing to follow his advice" rather than that of "armchair strategists in the Senate."

Ellender said he agrees with the President that the greater firepower of atomic weapons will permit smaller conventional ground forces.

Other developments: Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) said that as soon as the House returns from its Easter recess he will take the floor to deny he is anti-Italian. Walter had been quoted by a Washington Star reporter as referring to Italians in an interview as "daggoes" and as making other prejudicial statements about them. Walter said he was misquoted, a charge the Star denied. Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said he will draw no "hasty conclusions" but feels the Tennessee Valley Authority's proposal to issue bonds to help finance future expansion needs thorough study. Kefauver, a TVA supporter, said it is regrettable that the government-owned power agency must seek financial aid outside congressional appropriations and its own income for future growth. The administration refused to boost TVA funds and ordered the agency to work on a self-financing plan for expansion.

Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson told a secret House Appropriations subcommittee hearing Feb. 10 that all-out war in Asia is not inevitable. He said he believed the Red Chinese "will hesitate a long time before taking a step which will engage them in a war with the United States."

Assistant Secretary of State Samuel G. Waugh told the same subcommittee the State Department favors selling surplus food to Russia in exchange for strategic materials needed by the United States. But he said the State Department is only one of five agencies which determines how farm surpluses shall be sold abroad.

A Senate Small Business subcommittee will begin hearings Wednesday on government competition with private industry. A Senate Labor subcommittee will begin hearings April 14 on proposals for raising the minimum wage from 75 to 90-cents per hour.

Military Dictatorship

We're apparently four years behind the times on the subject for discussion today but it seems important enough that it is still worth bringing to the attention of others who might be just as far behind the news as we are.

The subject is the oath of office taken by our military men upon being commissioned into the service of the United States.

Here is a reproduction of the oath taken by our fighting men prior to April of 1951:

"I (name, serial number) having been appointed a (grade) to the Army of the United States, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign or domestic, that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely with no mental reservations for the purpose of evasion; and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office upon which I am about to enter; so help me God."

Here is a reproduction of the oath taken by officers since April, 1951:

"Sec. 8, I, (name), do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States of America; that I will serve them honestly and faithfully against all their enemies whosoever; and that I will obey the orders of the President of the United States and the orders of the officers appointed over me, according to the regulations and the Uniform Code of Military Justice."

No one has to be much of a reader to readily see the difference in the two oaths.

The first is designed to permit men to serve in the armed forces and still maintain their fundamental right to believe in freedom under the Constitution.

The second is an ideal oath if it is desired to set up a military dictatorship in "legal" fashion.

Note that in the new oath the entire idea of the Constitution is eliminated.

Note that the person taking the oath pledges allegiance to the name of the United States of America and that this name could be continued whether we had a Constitution or not or whether the country was under military dictatorship or not.

No one can escape recognizing the meaning of the words "I will obey the orders of the President of the United States." That's just about as flat as it can be made and there can be no question about what would happen should "the President of the United States" order military personnel to attack anywhere inside or out of the United States.

Note that this is to be done under "regulations and the Uniform Code of Military Justice," a man-made code that can be changed at the whim or direction of those in authority.

There you have it. The President of the United States, at any time he so chooses, can order our military personnel to obey his command and they are bound by the new oath to carry out the orders — regardless of what they are. There is no opportunity for anyone to point out that the President orders an officer to violate the Constitution the previous oath would permit the right to refuse to carry out the order.

If you wanted to set up a military dictatorship, what sweeter arrangement could you ask for than to have all the military might of the nation pledged by oath to serve your orders?

THE NATION'S PRESS

FEEDING THE RED ARMY ON RED DOPE

(The Chicago Tribune)

If you heard that, during World War II, Russia conducted a systematic educational program within the Red Army to show the United States to millions of soviet soldiers in the most favorable possible light, and that the lecturers were known American agents tolerated by the Red army, would you believe it?

The answer is that you would not. You would know that it was simply impossible. Yet that very thing, in reverse, was done in the American army. Systematic propaganda, some of it written and some of it given to American soldiers in lectures by actual or covert Communists, was forced upon 8 million American soldiers, in order to convince them that the soviet union was a great and noble ally and that the communist system was good and, in time, might be perfect.

This program was handled by the army's so-called information and educational division. The program of indoctrination was comprehensive, continuous, and compulsory. Of course, the army lectures did not trumpet the praise of Russia on every occasion. But at every point where the indoctrination touched the communist world conspiracy, the captive audience of 8 million Americans was deliberately misled. And the reason for that was that Communists had pro-Communist infiltrated the indoctrination and education division and had free rein to peddle communist propaganda.

The chief of the program section of the orientation branch, which worked up the material for indoctrination, was a Communist, and he was the one who ordered that the material be so misleading. He was the one who ordered that the material be so misleading. He was the one who ordered that the material be so misleading.

The whole story is attested by the unanimous vote of the senate subcommittee on Security, which reported on the matter in a report which was published in the New York Times.

Juvenile Delinquency Increase Is The Result Of The Means Used To Cure It

The Chicago Tribune the other day had an editorial reporting how juvenile delinquency has been increasing and the various means used to combat it. It put it in this manner:

"The United States department of health, education, and welfare gets out a printed news release on juvenile delinquency. The latest shows that the federal government is buying itself with this problem on a wide front — and concedes that juvenile delinquency is now probably at an all-time high in the United States.

"A senate subcommittee under the chairmanship of Sen. Kefauver is continuing hearings beyond its expiration date, which was Jan. 31. No less than 17 bills relating to the general problem of delinquency and of its particular aspects have been introduced in Congress. We hazard the opinion that more of them will accomplish much.

"The department itself has established a division of juvenile delinquency service in the children's bureau, but what it is supposed to do is not very clear. Two women workers in the children's bureau have also published a study which suggests that all 'old methods' employed by the social workers have not been successful. Some observations in this study suggest the outlook that delinquency will not be brought under control until all of the social disorders of the country are corrected.

"For example, it is said that friendly counseling and provision of access to community facilities do not reduce delinquency; that the usual group work services of a conventional character also appear not to have much effect, and that 'psychiatric treatment is inadequate to overcome the influence of grossly unfavorable social conditions and is often unacceptable to families who live in the slums.'

"We can only gather from this last statement that psychiatric attention might be welcome to subjects if all slums were eradicated and, we assume, replaced with public housing, although this might not be true unless all other unstated 'grossly unfavorable social conditions' were simultaneously rectified.

"The inference from this patter is that juvenile delinquency might not be so much of a problem if the federal government spent a vast amount of money on social leveling, although nontechnical observation would suggest that delinquency, manifested in tendencies such as those of vandalism, is almost as acute a problem in middle class and higher income residential areas and communities as it is among slum dwellers.

"The general impression derived from the department's survey is one of admitted futility in registering progress toward mastery of this problem, together with a firm determination by the department and the federal government to sew a vest onto the button of juvenile delinquency. The goal is limitless expansion in the areas of social amelioration, at added expense, of course, to the taxpayer."

The Reason for the Increase
The reason, of course, for increased delinquency is that the parents have come in contact with men and women who claim to be educators who are practicing the theory that men who hold government positions can do things that would be unethical and dishonest if done by them as individuals. When the youth of the land is grabbed and under the control of the government that has a monopoly of coercion, it is only natural for the youth to believe that might makes right — that they can do things collectively that would be wrong if done as an individual.

The way to correct juvenile delinquency and adult delinquency is to "Seek ye the first kingdom of heaven and all these things will be added unto you" instead of constantly increasing.

One of the most touching moments in "The Long Gray Line" occurs when West Point cadets, including young Dwight Eisenhower, take an oath swearing to uphold the Constitution. Americans do not love their country because of geographic vanity but because it has a Constitution which guarantees their rights as free men and women. It, therefore, is obvious to learn that the new induction oath required of those entering the Armed Services omits all references to upholding the Constitution. It reads, 'I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States of America; that I will serve honestly and faithfully against all their enemies whosoever; and that I will obey the orders of the President of the United States and the orders of the officers appointed over me, according to the regulations and the Uniform Code of Military Justice, and do hereby acknowledge to have voluntarily enlisted this date.' Gone is all reference to upholding the Constitution. Why? Can it be because the States of France Treaty, under which American soldiers can be tried in foreign countries, automatically deprives them of their Constitutional rights? Can it be that with the defeat of the Bricker Amendment, we already are ruled by treaty law (without being told of it) and that we've already been quietly deprived of our Constitutional rights?

Ike Worried By Blunders Made In Official Family

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The Democrats' request that President Eisenhower exact greater teamwork — "skull practice" — among his Cabinet members and policy makers has obtained results, whereas friendly suggestions to this effect in the past had failed to jar Ike into action.

Recent Democratic visitors have told the President, albeit gently, that it was impossible for them to co-operate with him, especially on foreign affairs, if the flow of contradictory and confusing statements from supposedly "responsible sources" was to continue.

Similar suggestions have reached the White House and the State Department from abroad, where our seemingly wavering and indecisive foreign policy has created an impression of "American unsteadiness."

But Ike himself has finally been disturbed by some of his associates' blunders and inconsistencies. He did not like the way the release of the Yalta papers was handled, although he felt that he had to support the action after it was done.

The Yalta episode had a bad effect on us abroad. On Monday, Secretary Dulles informed Prime Minister Churchill that the documents would not be made public, in deference to his objections. Several days later, and without careful notice or preparation, they were tossed into the reporters' laps because a Dulles assistant had slipped a copy to a New York news man.

An even more serious example of poor teamwork occurred with respect to the report that the Chinese Reds were about to launch a full-scale attack on the Matsua and Quemoy Islands. This alarming forecast, which was voiced by Admiral Robert B. Carney, Chief of Naval Operations, has been questioned by Ike and Dulles. But it inspired needless opposition criticism that certain prominent GOPers constituted, in effect, a "war party."

Healthy and avowed disagreement among Government officials is regarded as a good trait. It is regarded as a tolerant spirit at Washington, and a lack of authoritarian philosophy. F. D. R. enjoyed and encouraged feuds within his official family.

He used to roar with laughter when "Carmudgeon" Harold L. Ickes took pot shots at Henry A. Wallace, Cordell Hull and Jesse H. Jones. More often than not, Roosevelt secretly sympathized with the crusty Interior Secretary's criticisms of his Cabinet colleagues.

But the vocal and policy clash tried in foreign countries, automatically deprives them of their Constitutional rights? Can it be that with the defeat of the Bricker Amendment, we already are ruled by treaty law (without being told of it) and that we've already been quietly deprived of our Constitutional rights?

Democracy Has Dubious Application To Baseball

Things looked very good for our club that spring until this Gleason showed up the second week at Sarasota. We had a good bunch left over and some real good kids from the farm and the best part of it was everybody was hustling because they all liked Charlie Dissenant, he was that kind of a fellow. Well, so one morning this Gleason came out to the park and he walked up to Charlie and he said the old lady sent him, he is going to be director of human relations, brotherhood and democracy.

Charlie thought the bum was crazy, he did not look like he knew anything about baseball, but you never can tell. But, the old bluster was always boring in, and the day before this Gleason, she busted into the dressing-room to make a spiel.

She stood there squawking, how people must always practice democracy, if one guy is hitting .380 then we will have to make some kind of a democracy deal for guys hitting down around .220.

Well, we were so kind of excited we did not pay much attention what she said but afterward I remembered she said this name "Gleason" a couple of times. So when this bum showed up the next day, it kind of came back to me so I whispered to Charlie Dissenant, I said, uh-oh, I bet this is the brotherhood bum the derrick was talking about yesterday.

Well, Gleason is an Irish name, like Cronin, so Charlie said pleased to make your acquaintance Mr. what did you say your name is? The guy said "Gleason, we are the Bulgarian branch of the family, in Bulgaria it is pronounced McFarland, but I want to be absolutely American, so I Americanized it from Mike McFarland to Patsy Gleason.

So Charlie said, well ask Lefty Martin for a suit and I will look you over. But Gleason said, oh I do not need no suit for my work. So Charlie said, well, to make a long story, what work do you do? The guy said I am a special consultant in brotherhood and democracy, there is too much inequality around here. Charlie said well if you can equalize some of these pop-fouf bums so they can just hit a long fly when we need one, I will settle for that. But Gleason said, oh, no, that is not the way you get democracy and brotherhood, that is Nazi-Fascism, you have been brain-washed.

Gleason said you get democracy by leveling down the peaks and filling in the valleys, then the .220 hitter is just as good as the .380's.

Charlie said how do you do that? Gleason said, well, first of all, the .380's only get one strike and no such thing as a ball. If they do not swing, it is a strike-out and it takes three singles to count for a hit.

Charlie said, gee, Patsy, I feel funny calling you Patsy, it seems to me like I ought to call you Boris, but anyway, Patsy, I do not think Bud Ewing is going to like that. Bug is excitable, he hit .384 last year and made most valuable player and I do not want to be the one to spring this deal on him he might bust things up.

Gleason whipped out a pad and pencil and said I will report this to madam.

Charlie said who? Gleason said madam, and Charlie said, oh, the derrick. Gleason said, who? Charlie said, oh that is just a kind of a humorous kidding name the boys have got for the old lady. They all love her, a wonderful old tomato, but the way she looks and walks reminds you of a derrick.

Gleason put down some notes and that same afternoon the derrick came around and told Charlie Bud Ewing is traded to the Browns, Charlie nearly had a stroke. He said, traded, for who? Who did you get? She said I got 10 players for him. They all hit .038 last year and one of them is a girl, a wonderful character she played first base on Mount Holyock seminary. Her father is on the United Nations. Charlie said a dame? We cannot see a dame. The tomato said nonsense, this lady majored in democracy. You will have no trouble.

Well, I hate to think back, it is hard to believe those kind of things could happen, but excuse me, I have to hit a few. Come around again some day.

"The Day may dawn when fair play and love for one's fellow man and respect for justice and freedom will enable tormented generations to march forth, serene and triumphant, from the hideous epoch in which we have to dwell.

"Meanwhile, never flinch; never weary, never despair."

"These recent words of Churchill's ought to evoke an echo in the heart of every true man and woman living today.

We are not the only ones who have lived in a "hideous epoch." Caesar's lions were perhaps just as terrible to the early Christians as science's atoms are to us today. But those heroic men and women never flinched, never weaned, never despaired. Although much more in the minority than are their spiritual descendants today, they never doubted that what they believed in would triumph over the seemingly invincible forces that opposed it. In the light of what has happened since then, ought not we to have the same unflinching faith as they had "in all these things we are more conquerors through him that loved us"? For, if God be for us, who can be against us?"

Box Lunch Plagues Hank's Road Tour

By HENRY McLEMORE

Deliver me from temptation, evil and the box lunch!

That has been my prayer ever since Mary and I started on this automobile trip through the Southwest several weeks ago.

But so far it has gone unanswered, and I continue to log mile after mile in a sea of crumbs, eggshell fragments, fruit peelings, coffee stains and paper napkins.

Each day lunchtime finds us pulled up alongside the highway "enjoying" a meal put up by the hotel at Mary's request, so she puts it, "we can eat when we want, what we want, and in a pretty outdoor spot."

Mary is not alone in her love for box lunches while travelling. Most of the women in America have this same blind spot, and if all the husbands who have felt like throwing hard-boiled eggs and ham sandwiches at their wives while motoring would do it, then the air would be solid ham and eggs from Maine to San Diego.

I am sure that a study of the past would reveal that pioneer women packed a box lunch before climbing into a covered wagon and heading West, and that Martha always had a hamper packed when she and George left Mount Vernon for Philadelphia or New York by carriage.

any, is blocked by a billboard advertising a restaurant specializing in charcoal-broiled steaks, lobsters, and apple pie like Mother used to make, if she was lucky.

Neither the male lap nor the automobile steering wheel was designed for use as dining table. The first gives way under the slightest pressure, and the second not only twists and spins but often sounds the horn.

To continue, no box lunch ever has enough of the right sandwich. If both the man and the wife dote on chicken sandwiches, then the box never has but one of these against about ten bologna ones. This calls for martyrdom on the part of both parties, and why should luncheon be spoiled by people having to be martyrs when half a mile up the road in either direction there is bound to be a restaurant where a man could get 100 chicken sandwiches if he wanted them?

Thermos jugs don't like to ride in cars. They show their displeasure by popping their corks, hiding their little caps, and rolling on the floor and breaking themselves. Sliced tomatoes feel the same way about auto travel, and I am positive they hug one another in their waxed paper suits so that when opened their juice will run all to you know where and back.

There is never the proper amount of salt and pepper mixed together. The proportion is always 100 grains of pepper to 1 of salt or vice versa. You either season yourself to death or salt your tongue as if it were a dried mackerel.

The cake frosting is always stuck to its wrapping, and to get it off you have to lick and lick until your face is smeared like a Commendo. I'd like to box the ears of every box lunch in America.

FOR THE BIRDS—Fred Lowery, 45, is so good at whistling that he's now making records in Chicago to teach birds some simple tunes. Almost blind since he was two, Lowery earns $35,000 a year by whistling. He learned the art as a lad when he attended school for the blind in his native Texas, won a whistling contest and was off on a career.

GUEST OF HONOR—When New York's famed Roxy Theater celebrated its 28th birthday, ever-glamorous Gloria Swanson was on hand to welcome patrons with a piece of cake. A movie of hers was the first to play at the Roxy. Miss Swanson will appear next season in a musical version of "Sunset Boulevard."

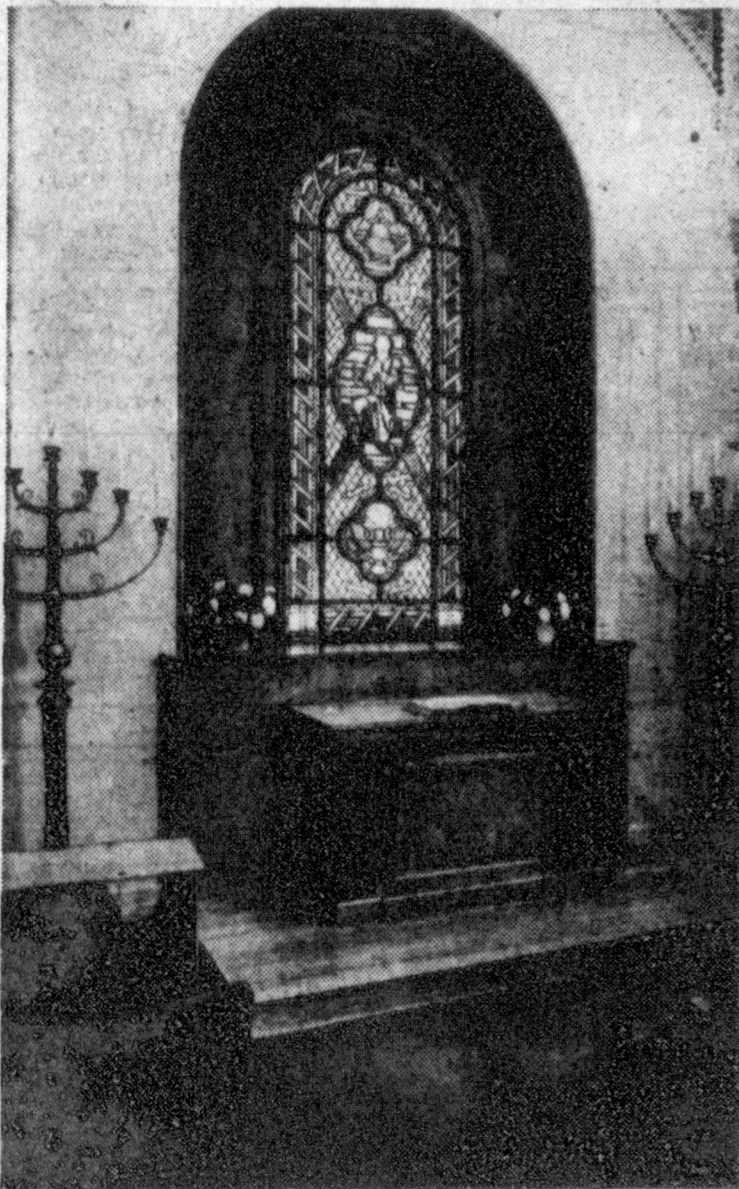

IN MINIATURE—Professor Attilio Savoia is putting finishing touches on a wooden model of Venice's St. Mark's Campanile in that Italian city. Savoia is reproducing an entire sector of the city of canals in painted wood and expects to complete it in two years.

SURF IN THE SNOW—After a 17-inch snowfall during a night at Sun Valley, Idaho, Gloria Collings got into her swim suit and took a dip in the soft white stuff. Gloria's a model from Seattle, Wash., and although she's perfectly familiar with snow, she's obviously glad to see more of it.

PICTURE NEWS AROUND THE WORLD

FOR PEACE OF MIND—A room in which U.S. Congressmen may meditate now provides a special secluded space for that purpose for the first time in the 167 years of the two houses of government. Authorized last year by Congress, the room is a remodeled office just off the Capitol rotunda. A plain oak altar stands before a stained-glass window. The general public will not be permitted into this room.

TROUBLE IN CONCRETE—After a dog walked across a newly-poured strip of concrete in Ft. Scott, Kans., street workers were easily able to figure out what sort of animal did it. Don Torkelson is inspecting the damage which workmen had to repair. Just which dog did it, however, was to remain a mystery.

HEADING THE FASHION—Perfect circles formed by Mother Nature herself give this ibex in the London Zoo the fanciest "earrings" around. Besides being decorative, the rounded horns are useful in butting other ibexes, out of the way.

HONORING BATHING BEAUTIES—Assen Peikov, a Bulgarian-born sculptor in Rome, is dwarfed by the upper portion of his latest work, a huge statue called "Girl of the Sea." When completed, the statue will be placed on the beach near The Eternal City.

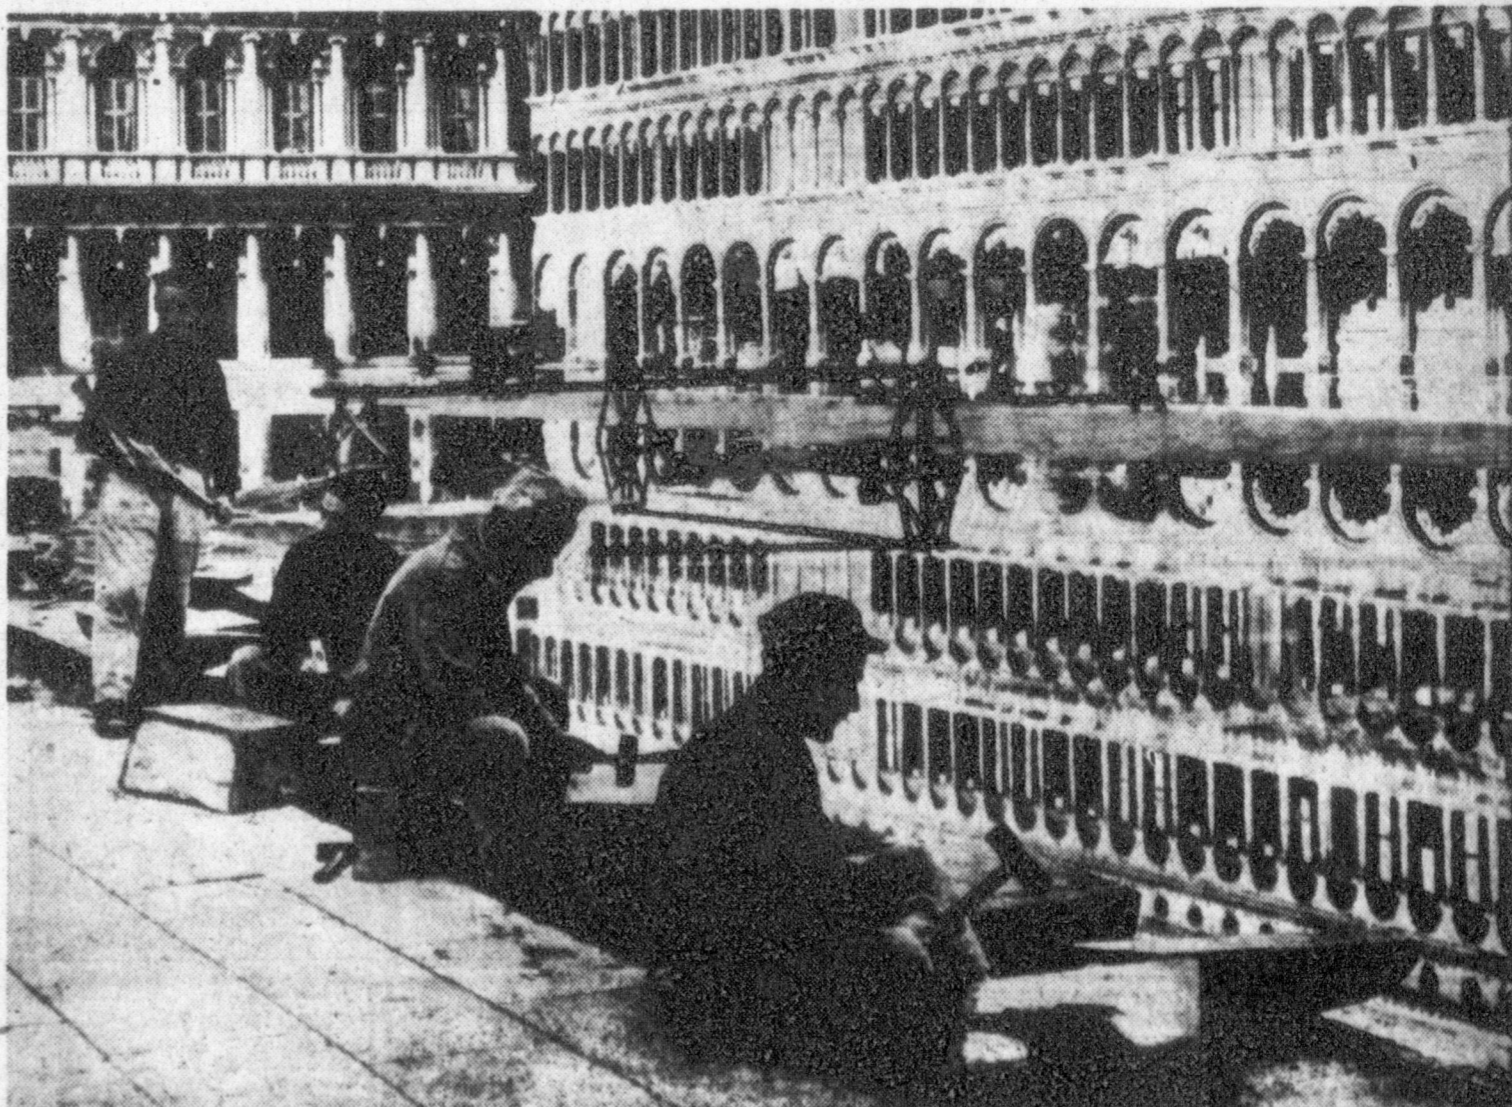

JOURNEY OF FAITH—Pushing all her worldly possessions before her, this 54-year-old woman is journeying by foot toward the famed sanctuary of the weeping Madonna, near Syracuse, Sicily. For 20 years she had hiked about Europe visiting religious shrines and sanctuaries. A Frenchwoman, she left her home in 1935 and has covered 100,000 miles by living on charity.

OUT OF UNIFORM—Admiring the lovely wedding gown of their leader, Dawn Caldwell, are some Girl Guides in London. Perhaps they were dreaming of their own weddings as they fingered the fine bridal garment. Miss Caldwell married a lieutenant in the Royal Engineers.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE—A youngster in Paris is making that elephant work for his peanuts in a guessing game at the Vincennes Zoo. The cautious lad isn't venturing too far from what he thinks is the safety of that door. It's just possible that the big animal might get a bit rough in its eagerness for more peanuts.

VENICE PRESERVED—With the tourist season approaching, workmen are replacing broken or worn paving stones on St. Mark's Square as part of an overall face-lifting job in Venice. Water, poured in to soften the ground so that the stones can be easily inserted, reflects the facade of the ancient Palace of the Procurate near the beautiful cathedral.

To Be Drunk Once is Growing Up Experience, Scientists Say

By DELOS SMITH NEW YORK—UP—To be drunk once in a life-time could be "growing up" experience, like smoking behind the barn.

To be drunk more than once in a life-time means that although the drinker knows the consequences of drunkenness, he is willing to accept them.

From this basic reasoning, scientists at Yale University's Laboratory of Applied Physiology developed an interesting experiment which may or may not be a mirror for some of us.

They took 50 men and women and gave them psychological tests which revealed what kind of men and women they were. Thirty-four turned out to be "within normal limits" emotionally, or, at worst, were burdened only with "mild maladjustments."

No Severe Neurotics By this, the scientists meant the men got along well with women, and vice versa. They had no "severe neurotic traits." If they had emotional problems they handled them well. These men and women were put into "groups."

Of the other 16 were revealed to be "deviant or disturbed personalities." They were persistently unhappy. They didn't get along too well with the opposite sex. They were "overwhelmed by personality problems." These 16 formed "group two."

All 50 were then investigated exhaustively. There were no marked differences generally between the two groups. But members of group one had slightly more education and a higher percentage of them were married. Members of group two were less healthy. This, the scientists said, "is consistent with one of the basic theories of psychosomatic medicine, that a relationship exists between physical disease and emotional disturbance."

No Testosterone Found As to "drinking habits," there was no testicular among them, nor was there a single out-and-out alcoholic. Over the long haul, members of each group consumed about the same amount of alcoholic beverage and of the same kind.

Incidentally, all 50 were Italian-Americans—the laboratory is engaged in a long-term study of the drinking habits of Italians and Italian-Americans because, traditionally, they are wine drinkers, consider wine to be food rather than drink, and gave a remarkably low rate of alcoholism.

In their break-down of drinking habits, the scientists found nothing to distinguish the "within normal limits" people from the "deviant or disturbed personalities," until they got to the question of how many times the men and women had been drunk during their lives.

"Normal" Group Not Drunks Of the people who were "within normal limits," 82 per cent had never been drunk or had been drunk only once. Of the "deviant or disturbed personalities," 56 per cent had been drunk more than once.

Mathematically, the ratio was around three to one. This, the scientists pointed out, was decidedly "statistically significant."

The report was made by Dr. Giorgio Lolli, who is director of the Yale Pain Clinic for Alcoholics, Dr. Edith S. Lisansky, and Grace Golder.

Death Ruled as Suicide CORPUS CHRISTI—UP—A verdict of suicide was returned Sunday in the shooting death of A. C. Skinner, 73, president and owner of a laundry and dry cleaning firm, by Justice of the Peace W. A. Gillesland. The body was found in Skinner's office. Gillesland said he had been in poor health.

Actor's Wife Seeks Reconciliation HOLLYWOOD—UP—British actor Edmund Purdom's divorce suit was blocked temporarily Friday by his estranged wife who filed a legal petition for a reconciliation "for the sake of our two young daughters." The petition was filed in superior court at nearby Santa Monica. It has the effect of delaying any action in the divorce for a month while efforts are made to effect a reconciliation.

FIRST VISIT TO STALIN — Eden (left) went to Moscow in 1935, met the late Joseph Stalin, V. M. Molotov sits at right.

Eden Ducks Roses Tossed By Soviet

(Second of Four Dispatches)
By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Special Correspondent

LONDON (NEA) — Sir Anthony Eden has been wooed long and more ardently by the men in the Kremlin than any other Western statesman, and with less conclusive results. For Eden just can't seem to make up his mind. It hasn't always been like this. At one time dictators were immune to the Eden brand of charm. Mussolini called him "the best-dressed fool in Europe," while Hitler referred to him contemptuously as Der Eden Knabe (The Eden Boy).

What the Soviets really think of Eden is summed up in a 76-word biography in the Soviet Encyclopedic Dictionary. Here he is described as "an English bourgeois politician who pursued a policy of 'encouraging fascist aggression in 1935-38,' and of 'frustrating the opening of a second front' during World War II.

did not prevent Stalin from trying to drink the British foreign secretary under the table at one of his famous Kremlin banquets. (The match ended in a draw at 3 a.m. with Eden still on his feet and able to toast the Red Army.)

They made a strange contrast, the British aristocrat and the Georgian peasant, each testing the other for toughness. Had he seen Eden throw one of his tantrums at the Foreign Office, Stalin might have altered his opinion of Eden as a quiet diplomat. For Eden has been known to throw books across the room; he has also hurled dispatch boxes at the retreating backs of his underlings.

He inherited his temper from his father, Sir William Eden, a red-bearded giant after Stalin's own heart.

There have been colorful members of the Eden family since Charles II made them baronets in 1672: ambassadors, members of Parliament, bishops, economists. But Sir William was almost too colorful.

When he wasn't chasing the fox Sir William was chasing a pretty woman. He was a crack shot, an admirer of Byron and a distinguished water colorist, but he detested shrieking children and dogs ("Children," he once wrote, "are natural and brutes").

Life with this particular father must have been trying, for Anthony was glad to escape to Eton. From Eton he went straight into the King's Royal rifles and World War I.

Eden emerged from the war as the youngest brigade major in the British Army. He had also acquired the famous Eden moustache (a little fiercer in those days) and the Military Cross for saving a wounded man's life near Ypres.

At Oxford he began to prepare for a diplomatic career by studying Oriental languages — Persian and Arabic — passing his final exams with first class honors. He also took an interest in Cezanne and the French Impressionists.

The year 1923 was important to Eden for two reasons: he married a banker's daughter and stood for Parliament and won against the "Red" Countess of Warwick, an aristocrat turned Socialist and related to Eden by marriage.

For the start of his political career Eden was "Stanley Baldwin's boy." Prime Minister Baldwin, with a genius for picking fresh talent, saw in Eden a winner. When he made Eden foreign secretary at the age of 38, Baldwin told him: "You are young. You have the most responsible job in Europe. So far it has been roses, roses all the way. But soon you will get brick-bats."

Sir Anthony has had both. It is not surprising that when the Kremlin showers him with roses these days he still ducks nervously.

Next: Resignation puts him on the map.

Actually, the Soviets might have handled Eden more gently, for he was the first British minister to shake Stalin's hand, and that at a time (1935) when the Kremlin master was considered "not quite house-broken."

When Eden visited Moscow in 1941 the Germans were only 25 miles away from the capital. This

Crashes Kill 2 Children

HOUSTON — UP — A three-year-old girl and an eight-year-old boy who wouldn't mind a policeman were dead Tuesday as a result of two separate automobile accidents near Houston.

The girl, Sandra Kay Watkins of Channelview, was run over by the car of a neighbor near her home Monday. No charges were filed against the driver, Mrs. Madell Dorsey.

The boy who wouldn't mind a policeman was Daniel Britton of Pasadena, a student at Kruse elementary school. He was hit by a truck driven by Freely Lawhorn, Houston.

Policewoman Mrs. Martin Caviness said she warned the child a few minutes before the accident not to dart into the street. He did when he reached the next corner.

Great Britain To Have Period Of Collective Leadership

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

Great Britain will have a period of collective leadership with Sir Anthony Eden as prime minister. There is no doubt that Eden will be the boss — he is a much more forceful man than he appeared during the years when he was overshadowed by Winston Churchill.

Eden may be expected also to maintain personal direction of foreign policy.

The foreign affairs field is Eden's specialty, and in these tense days the head man of any government has to keep a close watch on world developments.

But Richard Austen Butler as chancellor of the exchequer, and Harold MacMillan as foreign secretary will be fellow members of a directing team.

Churchill was a one-man show. He was an expert on practically everything. He had held every important post in the cabinet but that of foreign secretary. He was a combat veteran of four wars and a Nobel Prize-winning historian.

Also, in the years before he was prime minister, Churchill used to engage his colleagues by making helpful suggestions on how to run their departments. The fact that the suggestions almost always were valuable did not make him more popular.

Eden is not like that. Like Churchill, he is a man of courage and competence. He knows how to fight. He risked his entire career when in 1938 he resigned the foreign ministry because he felt the government was "knuckling under to Hitler."

But he knows how to compromise. Eden played a big part in bringing East and West together in the Geneva Conference which ended the Indo-China War. It was he who toured European capitals after France killed the European Defense Community plan, and played the major part in preparing the way for the Paris treaties under which Western Germany will be armed.

Eden is 57, handsome, impeccably dressed and suave. But he can be tough in an argument. He flies into blind, fuming rages.

Butler is 52. As chancellor of the exchequer, which corresponds to secretary of the treasury, he has brought Britain out of austerity and solid prosperity. "Fab," as he is called from his initials, is a pale, frosty-looking intellectual. In debate he is quick and sharp. He is Eden's No. 2 man and political heir.

MacMillan is 60. He is a hard-headed Scotsman with a new-walrus moustache. He became well known to President Eisenhower during World War II when he was minister-resident at allied headquarters in Northwest Africa. Before he became defense minister under Churchill, MacMillan was housing minister. He took the housing program ball away from the Laborites and made his name by building 500,000 homes a year.

With MacMillan in the government the United States is still represented in the cabinet. Like Churchill, he had an American mother — Helen Artie Belle, daughter of Dr. J. Tarleton Belle of Spencer, Ind. He is a member of the great MacMillan publishing family.

JayCeas Told Of Cancer Deaths Here

There have been three deaths caused by cancer in Pampa during the last two weeks.

In 1954, there were 30 deaths in Pampa and 9,000 in Texas, caused by cancer.

Dr. Harold Fabian, speaking for the Gray County chapter of the American Cancer Society, yesterday noon told the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce such facts and figures on the disease.

Men are more liable to get cancer than women, Dr. Fabian pointed out. The rate of incidence for females has been steadily falling, he said, but it has been just the reverse for men. And, for anyone, it is more likely for them to contract cancer if they are steady or heavy smokers.

There are seven danger signals that can mean cancer, Dr. Fabian continued. They are (1) any sore that does not heal; (2) a lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere; (3) unusual bleeding or discharge; (4) any change in a wart or mole; (5) persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing; (6) persistent hoarseness or cough; (7) any change in normal bowel habits.

Rev. Porter Brooks, county Cancer chairman and a visitor at the luncheon, reminded JayCeas that the cancer fund drive was underway and that contributions would be welcome. He said that contributions, actually, are "more an investment than a donation" — because cancer can be cured if discovered early enough.

Steve Allen, of Irving, a candidate for Texas JayCee president, was on hand and gave a few remarks. New officers will be elected at the state convention, scheduled April 29-30 and May 1 in San Antonio.

Top Chinese Reds Purged

TOKYO — UP — The Chinese Communist party disclosed Tuesday that it has purged two top leaders who attempted to seize control of the Red government headed by Mao Tse-tung.

According to a broadcast by Peiping Radio, Kao Kang, former boss of Manchuria, and onetime "comrade-in-arms" of Mao, was purged and then "committed suicide."

Purged with Kao was Jao Shu Shih, another veteran Communist leader who once was political commissar for the northeast China military district.

This pair, and seven other men, were accused by the Communist party's central committee of "shameless deceit" in forming an "anti-party alliance" in an attempt to seize control of the party and the government.

"Kao Kang not only did not admit his guilt," said a central committee resolution revealing the purge, "but even committed suicide as an expression of his ultimate betrayal of the party."

The resolution added that Jao "has never shown any signs of repentance and now persists in an attitude of attacking the party."
