

GOP May Run Ike's Brother, Milton, In 1956, Rogers Says

By RONALD WATERS
Pampa News Staff Writer
Milton Eisenhower may run for president in '56, in the place of his brother, Ike, Congressman Walter Rogers said yesterday that there is some serious talk around Washington to the effect that if the President doesn't run for re-election, Milton Eisenhower will run. The possibility of Milton as an election candidate is only in the talking stage, where it may lead to a matter of some speculation.

As for Milton's spot on the ticket, Rogers said the Republicans will want to capitalize on the popular name. During the next session of Congress, Rogers expects that interstate and foreign commerce will probably be one of the important issues. He is a member of the subcommittee on transportations and communication. Rogers will gather information for transportation hearings involving entire surface transportation — railroads, highways, and water carriers — for a report of the cabinet-level committee appointed by the President. The entire problem, including the air travel situation, is focused around rates and the "controversy is going on right now," Rogers said. "The water transportation hits us directly because so much freight comes here through the Gulf ports." The highly competitive air travel problem involves the crossing of international boundaries, which can lead to a uneasy situation.

Rogers will attend an International Aviation Conference with the subcommittee at the Hague next Sept. 23. The problem of entry into countries and responsibilities of airlines with their laws and regulations will be studied. He stated, "We expect to go into Moscow, Bulgaria, and Romania on the same problems." The group will also go into France and Great Britain and is expected to return to the U.S. about Oct. 15. "You hit and land, everyone's on your neck, and then you're gone again," described Rogers.

When questioned on the aid to flood-stricken areas in the East, Rogers replied, "It was not only a very charitable thing to do, I think it's a necessary thing to do. The aid they get now comes out of the President's emergency fund." Rogers added, "I don't think a special session of congress is necessary, (for allotting of funds) because the President has authority to act without it."

The tall, lanky Congressman was enthusiastic about the work of the Red Cross in the disaster areas, replying, "As far as I know the Red Cross has done a wonderful job as they have done in similar situations." Rogers takes a clear-cut stand on the CRMWA dam, and states, "I am still in the same position that I have always been, primarily, I want to see the dam built at the earliest possible time and will continue to aid in whatever way I can, period." Everything on the Federal level that can be done is ready, and now the final decision has got to be made — whether or not private or federal funds will be used in the project. Walter Rogers stresses a desire to see the dam built at the least possible cost, and believes that it is up to the CRMWA to study the many proposed private and federal plans, to screen them, and to "iron the problem out." (Rogers says, "I'm presently waiting for them to tell me what they want me to do.") During his two-week stay here, most of Rogers' time has been devoted to arranging his office on the third floor of the Hughes Building to coordinate with his office in Washington. He requests that people who come into his office with their problems see Dee Dodson, administrative assistant, who is in charge through the fall. With a quick smile and a pleasant personality, dynamic and forceful, the Congressman of the 18th Texas District quickly wins friends with his "Texas Ways." A busy schedule has seen the hurried Congressman speak at Wheeler for the 50th Anniversary Celebration and at Memphis for the Hereford Breeders Association and the North East Panhandle Feeders Association. Congressman and Mrs. Rogers and family have found their stay here most enjoyable. "When those kids hit here, they got on the telephone and called up all their friends. The minute we set foot on Panhandle soil, business began to pick up," Rogers continued. "Friends began to gather and before we knew it the kids had scattered like a convey of quail." The good time the children had was so well expressed by Robert, 8, when he said to his father, "Daddy, there just isn't any other place like Texas, is there?" His reply was, "There isn't any other place in Texas like the Panhandle."

"It is a matter of historical experience, that nothing that is wrong in principal can be right in practice." — Carl Schurz

Biggest Church Planned At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH—UP—Fort Worth's First Baptist Church will erect "the biggest church building in the world" if its present property is sold, the Rev. G. Homer Ritchie, pastor, said Monday.

It will be a $1.5 million plant, with baseball diamond and picnic grounds on a 15-acre site in the "downtown perimeter," he said.

"The building will cover two acres and we will have parking space for 1,250 cars," Ritchie said.

Congregation members will vote Sept. 11 on a proposal to sell the present downtown building for $1.25 million and Sweet Dormitory for $250,000.

The offer was made by the Columbia Investment Corp., headed by J. Lamar Stuckert.

Ritchie predicted church members will approve the sale.

The four-story church, with its 5,000 seat auditorium, fills most of a city block.

Sweet dormitory is a seven-story building across Taylor Street from the church. It was built to house Bible students.

Wife Crashes 'Love Nest'

NEW YORK—UP—A pistol-packing blonde who raided her husband's extra-marital love nest Saturday said Monday, "any girl from Texas would have done the same thing."

Mrs. Edna Meyer, 29, five feet three and weighing only 107 pounds, crashed through a locked door into the apartment of Marge Cahill, 22-year-old brunette, and found her husband, Walter, clad only in his shorts and Miss Cahill wearing even less.

"It would take more than a big New Yorker to make a fool of a girl from Texas," Mrs. Meyer said in an interview Monday. She declined to name her home town.

She took the weapon, a .22-caliber target pistol, along with her because, she said, she wanted to see the look on her rival's face when gazing into a gun barrel. It wasn't loaded.

Down where she comes from, she said, they use target pistols for hunting rabbits.

"But I went hunting for a skunk this time," she said.

After she crashed the apartment, the cops came. Her husband was charged with assault for snatching the weapon away from her. Both were released in their own custody for a hearing Thursday.

"I'm not worried about the charges," the small Texan said. "But what made me mad in court is that she's the only one to go scot free."

Fair Plans Super Market For Cattle

DALLAS—UP—The State Fair of Texas announced Monday it will have a "super market" where a farmer can buy five breeds each of beef and dairy cattle during the fair.

The four-day "super market" will be held Oct. 17-20, Ray W. Wilson, manager of the fair's livestock department, said.

The breeds are Aberdeen-Angus, Brahman, Hereford, Santa Gertrudis and Shorthorn beef cattle and Ayrshire, Guernsey, Holstein-Friesian, Jersey and Milking Shorthorn dairy cattle.

"All sales will be by private treaty, with the state fair taking no part and assuming no responsibility," Wilson said. "This center will save hundreds of miles of travel for farmers and ranchmen who want to buy purebred beef or dairy cattle to improve their herds."

Studio Sues Frank Sinatra

HOLLYWOOD—UP—Twentieth Century-Fox studio filed suit Monday in New York for $1 million against crooner Frankie Sinatra, charging he broke a contract by walking off the set of "Carouse!" claiming he was making two pictures instead of one.

"He walked off because he had to say his lines twice," a studio spokesman said. The suit was filed in New York Supreme Court through the New York law firm of Dwight, Royal, Harris, Koegel and Caskey.

The studio said the Rogers and Hammerstein musical was being filmed with two different cameras, one a regular cinemascope camera and the other the radically different 55-millimeter cinemascope. The studio explained, occasioned by saying the lines twice.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Romans 6

Life is lived according to law. The world in which Jesus lived was one in which all of life was subject to law. The Roman Empire may have been severe, and it may even have been predatory, as some historians charge, but at least it was orderly. Previous to time Roman law was in force, the world was a lawless place. The world of the lawless was a world in which order was maintained.

The triumph of Roman power had the effect of unifying the world. The system of law prevailed. The same punishment was meted out for the same crime everywhere. Transgressors knew exactly what to expect, and honorable men were guaranteed rights which were respected impartially. Even when the sins of Rome have been admitted, it is still true that the order which was established throughout the earth was a godsend to all races, and an immeasurable improvement over the chaos that had prevailed.

The average individual seldom considers the debt he owes to the state in the matter of orderly procedures of community life. Occasionally the traffic officer is absent from his post, and chaos results as every driver attempts to fight his way through. Occasionally the forces of law and order break down, and no man's life is safe or his convenience considered. It's every person's duty to respect the law, for the sake of his own convenience at least. He who breaks the law undermines his own life.

It has been hard for me to rejoice in thy laws at all times, O God, for I have not always understood. But I know that every law that comes from thee has been designed to make life more livable for me. Even for the restrictions, then, I offer thee my thanks. Amen.

Make a list of the laws of your city, the laws of your state, the moral laws, and the laws of the church. Read them at the same time that they restrict your liberties. Then offer a prayer of thanks for righteous laws.

Seek Soviet's Approval Of GI Inspection

By BRUCE W. MUNN UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. - American disarmament expert Harold E. Stassen Tuesday took over the job of persuading the Soviets to approve President Eisenhower's military inspection plan. The five-nation UN disarmament subcommittee was to open the second session of its current talks at 1 p.m. cat. Thus far, there was no indication of Soviet reaction to Mr. Eisenhower's plan for an exchange of military blueprints and aerial inspection of each other's territory by the United States and Russia. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., told a closed session of the disarmament subcommittee Monday that the United States was "prepared to put the plan immediately into effect as between ourselves and the Soviet Union." Russia's Arkady A. Sobolev, reiterating the Kremlin's professed desire to "strengthen peace and lessen international tension," urged the latest Soviet disarmament proposals on the subcommittee and said: "Proclamations urging support of the Red Cross flood appeal have been issued by governor of Arkansas, North and South Dakota, Michigan, New Mexico, and Texas in this area. Dr. Charles Brauchle, disaster chairman, said he wished to thank all voluntary contributors for their help to the fund. A total of $302 has been received to date toward disaster operations by the local chapter, out of a set quota of $740. Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, executive secretary, added that the need is still great and urged contributions to be sent to Box 1036. She also said that funds will be sent to disaster headquarters in St. Louis in a few days. Universities, in the modern sense of the term, originated in the 12th and 13th centuries in the resurgence of learning that preceded the Renaissance in Europe.

Strong Winds, Dust Hit City

A strong wind accompanied by gusts of dust struck Pampa at about 8:30 last night. No damage, however, has been reported. The high winds continued past midnight but the dust disappeared earlier at around 9:30 p.m. The wind and dust held up the Pampa Oiler-Abilene Blue Sox baseball game at Oiler Park for 50 minutes. Radio Station KPDN, local weather bureau, reported a trace of rain last night. High temperature yesterday was 94 degrees with the low last night 63. ### Red Cross Ups Flood Relief Estimates

James Patterson, field representative for the Panhandle area of Red Cross, said this morning that East Coast flood area families who will depend on Red Cross to assist in rehabilitation are now estimated at 10,562 of a total of 35,000 families who have been affected. The number of homes recorded as totally destroyed has risen to 702, and the number of homes damaged is 14,289. E. Roland Harriman, national Red Cross chairman, has raised his estimate of the amount of money needed to relieve people in devastated areas from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000. Patterson stated that the latest estimate received indicates that about $4,000,000, or nearly half, has been raised by local Red Cross chapters for flood-stricken areas. At last report, Red Cross was operating 107 shelters, housing and feeding 12,000 families, and providing food and clothing for everyone that needed aid. A total of 400 nurses and 150 physicians have volunteered services, and one field representative from West Texas has been sent to disaster areas. Proclamations urging support of the Red Cross flood appeal have been issued by governor of Arkansas, North and South Dakota, Michigan, New Mexico, and Texas in this area. Dr. Charles Brauchle, disaster chairman, said he wished to thank all voluntary contributors for their help to the fund. A total of $302 has been received to date toward disaster operations by the local chapter, out of a set quota of $740. Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, executive secretary, added that the need is still great and urged contributions to be sent to Box 1036. ### ATLANTA - UP - Gracie Richburg, a Negro school teacher and mother of two young children, went job-hunting Tuesday, but not in the teaching profession.

Mrs. Richburg was fired from the teaching job she has held for 13 years in Clarendon county, S. C., after her father-in-law signed an anti-segregation petition. Loss of her job was the price she paid for becoming even remotely involved in a well-organized campaign the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is pushing throughout the South to implement the Supreme Court ruling.

Two Fined On Check Charges

Two men were fined in County Court this morning on charges of swindling with worthless checks. Clarence Benton, of Wellington, pleaded guilty on the charge and was fined $1 and costs and made restitution for the check after being filed on for a check given to Mrs. K. C. Reed, dated July 18, 1955, for $3.29. Jess V. Taylor, 400 N. Dwight, was fined $1 and costs and made restitution for the check after pleading guilty to the charge which was filed by Levine's for a check in the amount of $10 and dated Aug. 4, 1955.

TRUMAN (Continued From Page One)

Mr. Truman took note of the criticism of Mr. Truman for his attack on President Eisenhower when he introduced the former President. Williams told the delegates that Mr. Truman "came under the most vicious kinds of attacks" while he was in office. "Today it is the fashion to utter no criticism of the Republican president who had managed to escape responsibility not only for his own misfeasance but for the non-feasance of his Cabinet members," Williams said.

Most Of South To Resist School De-Segregation Rule

EDITOR'S NOTE: When public schools reopen next week, most of the South will resist the Supreme Court decision ordering an end to separation of white and Negro pupils. The United Press surveyed the situation in nine southern states. This is the first of three dispatches.

Pioneer Spearman Woman Expert At Hooking Rugs

SPEARMAN — (Special) — Out of the ordinary, Mrs. Hazel Morton's childhood was nothing short of a creative business. As a child, her life was made up of things she created and imagined. With bits of broken dishes, a rag and a box, she could fancy setting a table fit for any queen. She says it is right surprising what an imaginative child could create out of cow chips, dogous, corals, cattle sheds and such, strong enough to take care of a herd of corn-cob cows and horses.

HOOKING AWAY — Mrs. Hazel Morton, pioneer of Spearman, is shown working away at her favorite hobby, making hook rugs. (Photo by C & B Studio, Dumas)

Such a background might be one of the reasons why Mrs. Morton is happiest when she is making something with her hands. The three room dugout, at old Hansford, where she was born and spent the first four years of her life might be another reason. Her mother, Mrs. Mel Wright, had a way with a needle, any kind, and a flair for making whatever she lived in look and feel like a home.

Mrs. Morton remembers best how her mother cushioned the bare earth floors with straw and covered them with rag carpets.

Mrs. Morton is one of the few pioneer people born in Hansford County before there were enough eligible men in it for jury duty. To get a panel, names were copied from tomb stones or taken from people they knew somewhere else and then they were married off.

She was only four when her parents moved from the village of her birth to their ranch, 25 miles down the Palo Duro Creek. It was a fascinating life for her and her sister, two years her senior, riding horses over the rough ranch terrain — and looking for things to make something else out of.

Sometimes the little girls found things but were never able to get hold of them; like the day they found a coyote den and piled rock over the entrance, all morning, so their father could dig out the baby pups for them.

But by the time they got back to the house and got their father, old mammy coyote had moved the rocks — and her pups.

Mrs. Morton grew up as the average pioneer girl. Her first school was in a dugout, the schoolhouse her father dug so his little girls and the two Caldwell boys could go to school. From there it was the little one room school and then away to a town school — then college and university teaching.

After five years at that, Mrs. Morton was accepted for Red Cross work in World I. But the Armistice came through before she was sent over. The next phase of life was marriage and a family. What she didn't know about sewing, she learned; there was a period taken up with fancy needle work and crochet followed by a knitting binge.

Then Mrs. Morton found the best hand work of all.

She learned to hook wool rugs. The hobby served two distinct purposes, broadening her scope of creative work and giving her a noiseless occupation for the sleepless hours that insomnia forces on her, night after night.

There is nothing cheap about hooking a beautiful rug. The pattern for one will be $5-$7. The wool will cost from $30-$40, if one knows just where to buy it. It takes from 400-500 hours to make a 40 by 72 inch rug and one can only count on about five hours of hooking each day. Just for the record, figure that time at the wages a house-cleaning or baby-sitter gets. And just where would one find a market for their wares?

In this particular case, Mrs. Morton is not looking for a market. She says she can give away more than she can make. She has made eight rugs for her own home. She has the art so well in hand she can keep right on hooking and watch television.

Now she is working on the second 40 by 72 inch rug, in a group of four, for the three Morton girls; all different designs and colors. To clear her skirts, keep peace in the family and have nothing to do with which girl gets what rug they will draw numbers. Then if they want to trade around among themselves, that is o.k. But until that time comes, Mrs. Morton knows the only way to work the boxes of rug felt up into a creation of beauty, she has to keep hooking right along.

THE CAMPUS CURRICULUM in fashion includes many important, new and required "courses" for the new term. Basic and fundamental for the smart co-ed, is the straight, up-and-down silhouette in sportswear, separates and dresses.

SOMEWHAT REMINISCENT of the "flapper" era, but gently curved in a subtle manner, such separates as tunics, over-blouses, semi-fitted jumpers, all show the whittled-down silhouette. Sleak, sophisticated and very-new, it's the look on the campus.

A classic course for every co-ed is the perennially-favored tweed. Active and dressy styles in a wide range of muted, dark tone combinations figure importantly in every tweed fashion.

From trims of knit ribbing on sportswear's collars, cuffs and necklines to the very-new sweater in bulkier-than-ever attached designs — the "knit-look" is a reigning college favorite for the new semester. For leisure times about the campus, co-eds go for Bermuda shorts in man-tailored fabrics, and their style-offshoots of "knicker" and Bermuda culottes. Long-tapered pants take to new plaids, and are also favored in a wide variety of printed corduroy.

LEATHER TAKES on a new world of fashion importance in campus stylings. Longer jackets, suede blazers, leather-touched to tweed, all-leather long coats are sophisticated style notes for the smart co-ed.

High on the required list for campus wardrobes is a versatile jumper that may be worn solo or teamed up with jerseys, blouses or sweaters. These boast many new neckline notes, new skirt handlings, long waistlines and range from pencil-slimness to full-circles.

For the co-ed who is in the winning ways of campus fashions, there's a full and interesting season ahead — sure to rate "A"-plus.

TEENS CAN BE comfortable, yet well groomed, in the new fall sportswear.

Bulky knit overblouses in assorted stripes and solids with friar collars or turtle necks are smart with slacks or treader pants.

Brilliant new shades appear in cotton, twill jeans influenced in new trim, slim lines.

The Davy Crockett influence on the younger set is carried over to the teens in fringed capekin and suede jackets.

In all casual clothes, dark colors figure importantly this season as well as traditional "football" colors. Italian stripes carry over the black-plus-bright contrast.

Plaids predominate in blouses to wear with slacks and jeans.

PERRYTON — (Special) — Miss Claudia Jo Stump, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Stump of Perryton, became the bride of Keith Allison, son of Mrs. Ivan Allison of McPherson, Kans., and the late Mr. Allison in the First Methodist Church, Perryton, Aug. 20.

Rev. Harley H. Stump of Empire, Calif., brother of the bride, officiated for the double-ring service.

The altar was decorated with French-blue cathedral-lapers, branched candelabra. Each of the windows in the sanctuary was decorated with candles. White satin bows marked the bridal aisle.

Max McAuley of McPherson sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee" and "O Perfect Love." The traditional wedding marches were played for the professional and recessional.

The bride was attired in a gown of white lace and nylon tulle over ice blue taffeta. The fitted bodice was designed with a scalloped neckline and short sleeves. The full lace and tulle skirt was worn over crinoline. An ice blue taffeta cummerbund accented the waistline.

Her finger-tip veil of ice-blue nylon tulle was attached to a hat of white velvet covered with ice blue tulle and embellished with shed pearls.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Stump wore a navy blue sheer dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a baby blue dress with white accessories. Their corsages were of baby pink roses.

The tables were covered with white linens and centered with bouquets and sweetpeas. Miss Stump and Mr. Allison presented a gift to each member of the bridal party.

Now's the time, while the sun sizzles and you dream of snowdrifts, to prepare for their advent in not too many weeks. Lay in your supply of rock salt or chemical deicing preparation, check the snow removal tools and condition of your storm windows. It's later than you think.

Men Or Swine

A lesson is contained in early Greek mythology which can apply to events as we understand them today. The famed Odysseus, following the Trojan war, endeavored to return to his homeland of Ithaca. As his ship made its way past the promontory called Cercei, near Italy, Odysseus caused the ears of his men to be plugged so that they could not hear the siren song of Cercei, the sorceress who lived on the nearby island of Aiolie. Himself he had lashed to a mast so that however enticing the siren song might become, he could not order his men to land.

Even with this foreknowledge of the danger from the sorceress, his men removed their ear stoppers and rowed to land. There the siren song was found to be nothing but witchcraft. Cercei changed the men into swine and kept them in bondage for a year. However, the hero, protected by the drug moly, managed ultimately to evade Cercei's wiles and got her to turn the swine back into men.

The tale is allegorical.

Our Constitution with its Bill of Rights was as wise as Odysseus. As our ship of state sailed past the promontory of Communism and approached the island of Socialism, our Constitution advised us to beware of the siren song of the Welfare State. Our wisest men bade us give no heed to the beautiful music floating up from the island, that seemed to promise Utopia by the simple expedient of letting the government do it. Men's wants are many, his energies few. If only all good things can be provided by government, what a wonderful world it would be. And indeed it would be if the government were as magic as the siren song says.

Despite the safeguards in the Constitution which lashed our Republic to the mast and plugged our ears with wax, we managed to listen to the modern Cercei. But, once we heard the music, we were lost. We rowed to the island of Socialism, and true to the allegory, we were promptly changed into hogs, wallowing and swilling at the public trough.

In the fable, Odysseus is protected by the magic herb moly, and after living on the island for a year the men were free and able again to face the rigors of the freedom of the sea. We hope the modern version can have as happy a conclusion. But we know of no magic drug. There is only knowledge of liberty, and the understanding that the government is a pauper, having nothing to give us unless it takes its gifts from those of us who produce them. There is no Utopia. There is no way, except in dreams, to be supplied with what we desire without spending money or energy to get them.

The whole of the United States, with a perilous small exception, has been lured into the clutches of the sorceress. And the siren song continues despite every failure of the welfare state to bring us the promised heaven on earth. Socialism is the island that lies across the trade routes of the world. Those who grow tired of the constant struggle to make progress, like to lay back on their oars and dream of a land where every human want is satisfied by a benign government which provides "security" from the cradle to the grave. But such a place there never was nor will be. As the men of Odysseus found, it is better to be men and to be free, than to have the security of the public swine wallow, where indeed one does not have to exert energy to live, but where living is reduced to the lowest possible level.

When will we realize that we are men, not swine.

Making a Living Interferes With Pleasures Of Living

By HENRY McLEMORE

There are times when making a living can only be described as a nuisance. Everyone should have at least one rich uncle (deceased) to help him over such times. Take right now.

Here I am, nearing the end of a trip from Los Angeles to Seattle on the Mobilgas tanker, Soyoset. We have just made a right turn off the No. 1 of all highways, the Pacific Ocean, and entered the Strait of Juan de Fuca, the last leg of the journey.

This is no time for a man to be sitting in his cabin puffing on a cigarette and staring at a typewriter and a sheet of paper which, by the way, when empty of words looks as big as a gridiron tarpaulin. I have always heard that during his short span on earth a man should make it a practice to drink deep of beauty. Mighty good for the heart and soul. Well, a typewriter is a pretty thing, all right, but even so when poets seek inspiration they don't go and hang around the typewriter, Royal, or Underwood showrooms. They seek the oceans and the mountains.

Just try to name a poem that begins "Hail to thee blithe marginal release," or "Drink to me only with thine space bar," or "Gather ye carbon copies while ye may. . . But here I am in my cabin, doing just what I shouldn't be doing for the good of my soul. I should be on deck feasting my eyes on the wonders of Nature as the Soyoset moves through what I have long heard is one of the most beautiful passages of water in the world.

For close to 150 miles (the distance from the entrance of the Strait to Seattle) there is nothing but beauty. Lift your eyes and the snowcapped Olympic Mountains are there to dazzle you.

Mighty forests, as untouched as when man first saw them, crowd the banks, and the pilot has to be a knowing one to weave the ship safely among the heavily timbered islands, where deer bound.

The blue waters of the Strait shimmer in the sun, and now and then the king salmon leaps to add his flash of silver to the color. Gulls swoop low about the masts of vacationers' sailboats, and on the rocky beaches of the islands the bright bathing suits of swimmers stand out against the green of the tides.

The air is the softest in the world. Really, you feel as if you could pat it, hold it in your hand, and then turn it loose.

There is scarcely any sound.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Earnings And Distribution Of The 100 Largest U. S. Corporations

Very few people have much of an idea of the percentage of profits a business corporation makes on its volume of business. For this reason the report of the First National City Bank for the earnings of the 100 largest corporations in the United States for the year of 1954 should be enlightening. These 100 corporations do not include the financial corporations such as banks and insurance companies, nor do they include the Ford Corporation, which does not issue a public statement.

The Bank's report shows capital needed for each employe as follows:

Dollars Per Employe
The 100 companies employ approximately 5,545,000 men and women. Their total assets thus represent an average of about $21,000 per employe. For the manufacturing companies the average is $17,000 but it varies widely among different industry groups. For railroads it is $29,000, and for public utilities $33,000.

"Disposition Of Receipts By The 100 Largest U. S. Non-Financial Companies In The Year 1954"

Receipts	% of Total
Total receipts from sales, revenues, etc.	100.0
Costs of goods and services purchased from others, etc.	49.1
Wages, salaries, and labor benefits	27.4
Provision for depreciation and depletion	5.1
Interest paid	1.0
Federal income taxes	1.0
Other federal, state, local and foreign taxes	4.7
Total costs of operations	92.6
Net income of common stockholders	7.4
Dividends paid	4.2
Retained in the business	3.2

"Distribution of Income. Last year the 100 largest nonfinancial companies had receipts from sales, operating revenues, and other sources totaling $94 billion. This is 4.2 times their receipts in 1939. Since then the number of companies that take in over $1 billion annually has soared from 2 to 24. Receipts were distributed as shown in the table.

"Wages, salaries, and labor benefits (pensions, insurance, vacations, etc.) amounted to approximately 27.4 cents per sales dollar. Such employment costs represented an average of about $4,650 per employe.

"Total direct taxes, exclusive of sales and excise taxes collected from customers, took an average of 10 cents out of every dollar."

"Most Outgo Wages." Of course in the above, 27.4 per cent wages do not include the wages paid for the material purchased from other business firms. The fact of the matter is that practically the whole cost of anything is wages. If we include wages in producing former capital which is used in production.

"After deducting all other expenses, mainly for goods and services purchased from others, the net income was 7.4 cents per dollar of receipts. For the manufacturing companies as a group this margin was also 7.4 cents, while for railroads it was 7.1 cents, for public utilities 11.5 cents, and for trade — with a much faster capital turnover — the margin was only 2.7 cents.

"Net income represented an average return of 10.2 per cent on the net worth (total assets less total liabilities) at the year-end. For manufacturing it was 13.0 per cent, for trade 10.6, for railroads 2.3, and for public utilities 7.9."

"Dividend payments to preferred and common shareholders amounted to 4.2 cents per dollar of sales. The balance of net income retained in the business and applied toward financing growth covered only part of the requirements. Additional capital in substantial amounts has been raised by a number of these companies through new stock or bond issues since the first of this year. It takes a lot of people to provide a lot of money ($21,000 per worker) to make possible an ever-increasing number of jobs at good wages."

"Whether or not these 100 largest companies, as well as other enterprises large and small, keep on growing in the future boils down mainly to one simple factor — success in offering goods and services that people want at prices people are willing to pay. Business of all sizes must meet constant competition and the larger a business grows the more competition it attracts — not only from concerns in the same line but also from those in other lines striving to get a greater share of the consumers' dollars. There is nothing preordained about business growth, and membership in the '100 largest club' is constantly changing, as inspection of the record over the years will readily show."

"His observations pack a meaning for Americans as well as for the Russians, even though he cannot help but gloss over what he regards as similarities between the American, the British and the Russian aggrandizement of the State over the individual. Finally, he questions whether their experiences in the corn-hued belt have made Vladimir Matskevitch's group into 'converts to rugged individualism and free enterprise.'"

"Why so much talk of freedom from Government interference?" exclaims Cooke as he lists the various forms of Federal subsidy, ranging from technical advice to billions in loans or purchases of the farmers' crops.

"The Government, after all," he continues, "guarantees to the farmers the price of the superb crops which the Russians have been watching. Through the Commodity Credit Corporation, it even pays him to store the crops for which it cannot find a market (and last year more than half the wheat and cotton went to storage this way). Through the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, it covers the farmer against the risks of flood, drought and wind."

"The Government does all that, of course, only if the farmer restricts his acreage to the quota he is allotted, and only if he raises the crops which the authorities think proper for his land."

British Writer Says U. S. Farmer Half-Slave To State

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — "The Government can't tell me what to plant! I can let my farm go to weeds, if I want to, and it's nobody's business!"

This remark by an Iowa farmer to visiting Russian agriculturists has been hailed as if it were a new Declaration of Independence. It has been widely quoted in domestic and foreign newspaper dispatches as a down-to-earth contrast between the American "free enterprise" society and Russia's grim system of totalitarian domination. It has been suggested that it might incline the Communists to adopt our methods.

But a British critic, who has frequently resented American Senators' perjurious denunciations of "Britain's socialistic welfare state," questions the accuracy of the Iowa farmer's statement. In the opinion of Alistair Cooke, New York-Washington correspondent for the Manchester Guardian, the American agricultural society is a "hybrid" affair—half-free and half-slave to the Government.

It is his further contention that we are "ashamed" to admit publicly the degree of our dependence on Federal assistance, or the trend toward a "welfare state" in the United States.

Cooke's cynical comment, and all important foreign newspapers read carefully at the Kremlin and at the Russian Embassy here, will probably lead Moscow to impose more rather than fewer controls on its peasants. For he concludes that, although the American people do not appreciate and will not admit the extent of the Federal government's interference with the nation's economy, it is a "healthy and constructive" program.

His observations pack a meaning for Americans as well as for the Russians, even though he cannot help but gloss over what he regards as similarities between the American, the British and the Russian aggrandizement of the State over the individual. Finally, he questions whether their experiences in the corn-hued belt have made Vladimir Matskevitch's group into "converts to rugged individualism and free enterprise."

"Why so much talk of freedom from Government interference?" exclaims Cooke as he lists the various forms of Federal subsidy, ranging from technical advice to billions in loans or purchases of the farmers' crops.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

A very large order comes from Mrs. L. Who asks for information on "some of the things that various vitamins are supposed to help or cure, which ones help anemia, eye weakness, etc."

This subject cannot be covered in a single column, since there are many different vitamins and indeed many of them are still not clearly understood by those who have studied them most.

In this particular column I shall consider only what is known as the vitamin B complex—and even this cannot be discussed completely.

VITAMIN B WAS ONE of the early vitamins to be discovered but now it is well known that what was formerly called vitamin B is not a single substance but is made up of many different chemical compounds having different actions.

Approximately 14 separate parts to what was originally known as vitamin B are recognized (there may be more today than yesterday). Most of these have been prepared in crystalline form and their chemical nature thus identified.

The substance known as thiamine is one of the most important members of the vitamin B complex. Such foods as peas, beans, oatmeal, whole wheat, peanuts, enriched flour and bread, and lean pork are particularly rich in thiamine.

Human beings do not get enough thiamine in their diets they tend to become irritable, depressed, quarrelsome, uncooperative, and fearful.

I MUST SAY, HOWEVER, that those who develop these traits cannot always blame thiamine lack as responsible! A long continued serious deficiency of thiamine will result in a disease known as beriberi in which the nervous system and heart are damaged and other signs of this vitamin deficiency appear.

Another part of the vitamin B complex is called riboflavin.

Officer's Arrest Shows Ike Won't Attack Lovestone

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

GENEVA — The indictment in Washington of a former captain of the air force for giving information about Jay Lovestone to the House Committee on Un-American Activities is a break in the story which I have been trying to force on your attention for four years. This information fills a secret report of 113 pages lifted from the files of the air force. This arrest shows that President Eisenhower is determined to whack anyone who proves that he has been played for a fool by Lovestone, Irving Brown, Dave Dubinsky and others.

Ike publicly acknowledged Irving Brown, a vicious hero of the barricades who got his first great publicity plug from the Reader's Digest. The Digest fell for this article despite the fact that Brown had a record as a bloodthirsty Bolshevik Communist. For all the evidence that Brown has presented to the contrary, he still is a communist and is Lovestone. And they are both deeply mixed up in the affairs of our embassies in many lands and of the International Labor Office here in Geneva.

Now here today I will present for the first time a statement made by John P. Frey, for more than 50 years a real "leader" in the American union movement. Frey went to bat for his old friend, Spencer Miller, after Ike canned Miller from his job as assistant secretary of labor for international affairs. The reason Ike canned Miller was that Miller was uncovering the works of Lovestone and Brown in foreign capitals, all done under some vague authority from the AF of L.

Frey's statement was made in March, 1954, about the time Miller was fired.

Lane now becomes special adviser to Wilkins. And, in view of Lane's known hostility to the Lovestone-Dubinsky machine, which he coldly repudiated in Italy, it is plain that Ike has decided to adopt Miller's program. He has done nothing to redress the wrong he did Miller, who has suffered intensely from his sense of injustice and frustration. Moreover, Miller has had a very painful domestic situation in a prolonged, serious illness of Mrs. Miller. He needed the salary of a job which he was performing with knowledge, courage and force. He flatly attributed his dismissal to the Lovestone influence.

John P. Frey, president emeritus of the metal trades council of the AF of L, upheld Miller in a voluntary statement. He said he warned James P. Mitchell, Ike's present secretary of labor, "of what I feared because of the influence Jay Lovestone was having in the appointing of labor attaches."

Lane is an old friend of Frey. Although he is thoroughly "honorable," he is also a veteran bureaucrat of the New Deal political persuasion which now, however, has been absorbed through the pores by the Republican Party. The FBI cased Lane five years ago and reported that he was born in 1895, was educated at Georgetown, was a lawyer and had had experience both as a building contractor and laborer and as a lawyer, business agent and "legislative" consultant for the national office of the bricklayers' union in Washington.

This is a pretty bad layoff even as AF of L unions go, but some fellows can lay brick without getting plaster on their shoes and Lane turns 60 with a respectable personal reputation. He soldered in both wars and in the second one made Lt-Colonel as chief of the "labor office" of the American Military Government in Trieste. Our military governments everywhere in Europe were crawling with jokers, especially crooked draft-dodging democratic lawyers, who would roll up a priceless ruin on a social visit and leave a carton of tax-free cigarettes. But the FBI found absolutely no specks on Lane after a scrutiny which, from the nature of the report, seems to have been thorough.

After four years of hammering on the subject of the Lovestone-Brown-Dubinsky apparatus, touched off by a silly jaundice of Irving Brown in the Reader's Digest, I believe I have forced Eisenhower to correct his mistake, even though he will not come clear with an honorable amend in compliance with the West Point code. Dewitt Wallace, the editor of the Digest, got fat-headed about the matter and resorted to the shameful device for a journalist of citing anonymous authorities to support his error. Their remarks and other indications suggested that they were themselves members of the

Oilers Blank B-Sox, 6-0; Pollet Notches 20th Win

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

Tom Pollet became the first Oiler 20-game winner in two seasons last night when he blanked the Abilene Blue Sox on five hits, 6-0, before a "blown out" crowd of 1,764 paid fans.

The crowd, largest of the season at Oiler Park, was the 26th straight time the Oilers have played to 1,000 or more at home.

A tremendous dust storm spoiled what was otherwise a perfect evening for the Oilers. The wind and dust came without warning while the Sox were batting in top of the third inning. Umpires Roberts and Leip called a halt to action the instant the storm broke and play was held up for 50 minutes.

During the long delay, most of the fans hurried homeward but for the faithful few that stayed around, they saw Pollet turn in possibly his best performance of his career.

All five hits Pollet surrendered were singles. He struck out 13 and walked four. Sox centerfielder Ozzie Walker drew three of the free tickets Pollet issued.

Pollet was in trouble in only one inning—the second—when the Hoosie loaded the bases with none away. The tall righthander worked himself out of this jam by getting Jerry Morris on a strikeout, Curtis Tate on an infield pop fly and rival pitcher Mike Rainey on a fly to center.

The Oilers led from the beginning, pushing across their first run in the first inning. Rach Slider led with a single, moved to second on Dick Hairston's groundout and scored on a line single to center by Joe Fortin.

Leading 4-0 during the 50-minute delay, the Oilers threatened in each of ensuing innings but failed to score again until the sixth when they scored five runs to put the game on ice.

Jim Martin started the big Oiler sixth with a double down the right field line. The Sox were almost out of the inning without damage as Martin moved to third on a sacrifice that made it two away. But Slider kept the rally going with a single to score Martin and the next three, Red Dial, Dick Hairston and Joe Fortin, also singled, the latter two driving in the second and third runs of the inning.

The fourth and fifth runs came on an overthrow at third by catcher Charlie Goza that allowed Hairston and Fortin to score.

That was far more than Pollet needed as he breezed from this point to victory. Pollet retired the Sox in order in five of the nine innings.

It was the second shutout for Pollet this season. Pollet thus became the first Oiler to win 20 games since Sad Sam Williams turned the trick in 1953.

Pete Carmons, regular second baseman, sat out last night's game due to a back injury that has been bothering him the past several weeks.

The Oilers open a three-game series at Amarillo tonight with Jack Venable, 16-10, to hurl for the Seitzmen. Venable is expected to be opposed by the Sox ace, Andy Bush.

BC Set For Big Year; Tech Numbers 26 Returning Vets

LUBBOCK —UP— If returning quality means anything, the Border Conference ought to enjoy a top-flight 1955 football season, which gets under way Thursday with initial workouts.

Nine all-conference players are among those scheduled to report. Of this group, three have earned all-conference honors during two seasons. Texas Tech sports tackle Jerry Walker and fullback Jim Sides, who were elected to the first team the past two seasons. Arizona State guard John Jankans gained all-conference honors in 1952 and last year.

Also returning from last year's total of six returning starters is surpassed by Texas Western's nine (22 lettermen), West Texas State's nine (17 lettermen), Arizona State's seven (22 lettermen) and Arizona's seven (22 lettermen).

Hardin-Simmons numbers five returning starters among 19 lettermen and New Mexico A&M also has five among its 12 numeral earners.

New coaches will be Dan Devine, former Michigan State aide, at Arizona State; Sammy Baugh, from an associate's post, at Hardin-Simmons, and Tony Cavallo, High, at New Mexico A&M.

Returning head coaches are Warren Woodson at Arizona, DeWitt Weaver at Texas Tech, Mike Brumbelow at Texas Western and Frank Kimbrough at West Texas State.

Opening games Sept. 17 include Arizona State at Wichita, Colorado A&M at Arizona, New Mexico A&M at University of New Mexico, Texas Tech at University of Texas, Hardin-Simmons at Baylor, and Corpus Christi at West Texas State. Texas Western waits until Sept. 24, entertaining North Texas State.

Starting lineup and batting order, it follows:

Travis Taylor, 1B.
Gerald Mobley, 2B.
Larry Larson, SS.
Red Wanner, 3B.
Glen Adams, CF.
Darrell Seitz, LF.
David Hutchins, RF.
Ken Mumford, C.
Dale Hensell, P.

Standing by for action will be Todd Overton and Secret.

Admission prices for tomorrow's game will be 50c and 25c.

Post Battling Klu For Red Bat Honors

By UNITED PRESS

Ted Kluszewski admittedly the "big poison" of the Cincinnati Redlegs' lineup but Wally Post just as certainly rates the title of "little poison."

In fact, the 26-year-old outfielder from St. Wendelin, Ohio, has been out-homering Kluszewski for the last month and may wind up beating out his more publicized teammate in several important departments. Post boosted his home run total to 34 when he blasted two off Robin Roberts Monday night to give the Redlegs a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Post, who says his winter hobby is collecting a scrapbook on his own exploits, may wind up with quite a chore during the off-season.

He's leading Kluszewski in runs scored, 100-97, doubles, 28-22, triples, 3-0, and is within range of the 235-pound first baseman in four other departments: Hits, 164-167, runs batted in, 98-99, total bases, 300-312, and batting average, .313 to .317. Ted leads in homers, 41-34, and should beat out Wally, barring a serious September slump.

Yields Four Homers

The Phillies, striving desperately to finish second for the best showing since their pennant winning 1950 campaign, presented Roberts with an early 3-0 lead but he yielded four homers in all to suffer his 10th loss. He was gunning for his sixth straight win and 22nd of the season.

Smoky Burgess and Post broke Robin's shutout spell with back-to-back homers in the sixth inning and pinch-hitter Hobie Landtrich tied the score at 3-3 with his fourth homer of the year in the eighth. That set the stage for Post's game-winning wallop in the ninth.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, back on the beam after their recent batting slump, blasted out three homers in routing the St. Louis Cardinals 10-4, while the Chicago Cubs hit four round-trippers in beating the New York Giants 4-3. Pittsburgh and Milwaukee were idle.

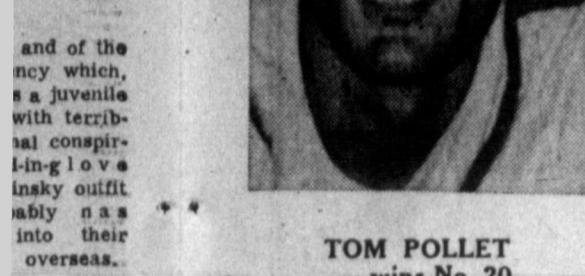

In the American League, the four contenders were idle and the Baltimore Orioles made the most of the all-but-empty stage by sweeping a double-header from the Detroit Tigers 6-0 and 4-3.

Nationals Get 13 Homers

A total of 13 homers were hit by the National League's sluggers Monday in their relentless assault on the loop record. With a full month to go, the league has pounded out 1,083 homers and is virtually certain to eclipse mark of 1,197 set in 1953.

Monday's Star

Wally Post, who hit two homers to beat Robin Roberts and the Phillies 4-3 for the Redlegs.

Press Box Views

CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY IN THE TOP Texas Invitational Golf Tournament scheduled this weekend should prove quite interesting.

The champion this year, as you know, will be determined strictly on a medal score basis.

It stands to reason that the "true champion" can more nearly be determined on this basis than by match play.

Both the medal and match play tournaments have their advantages and disadvantages.

In match play, you can have several "bad" holes and still win matches over the course of an entire tournament while in medal play, several bad holes will knock you out of the running.

It might be pointed out that golfers in title flights where medal play is in effect will have "higher" scores than they would in match play tournaments.

By this we mean that golfers often times "pick up" and take a par when their opponent cinches a hole with a birdie whereas he might have taken a bogey or even a double bogey had he played the hole out. For an example:

"Golfer No. 1 is on green in two strokes, 30 feet away from the cup, while No. 2 is on in three, 25 feet away. No. 1 sinks his putt for a three to make it impossible for No. 2 to halve or win the hole so No. 2 picks his ball up and takes a four. In other words, No. 2 is awarded a 25-foot "gimme putt."

In medal play tournaments, there are no "gimmies."

As has been pointed out by the Tournament Committee, at least one-half of the 32-player championship flight will still be in the running for the title on the final day of the tournament which is next Monday, Labor Day.

In match play, the field would be reduced to only four when the final day rolled around.

If nothing else, the medal score type tournament will be somewhat different and I'm sure it will be more interesting, both for the golfers and galleries.

DECK WOLDT, OILER BUSINESS Manager, has passed along a suggestion that is noteworthy in regards to the season's "Merchant Grand Award Night" Saturday night at Oiler Park at which time an RCA Television set will be given away by C&M Television.

As you are possibly aware, all tickets that have been used on the "Merchant Night" drawings this season will be included in the drawing for the television set Saturday night.

Since many fans will have a big stack of tickets, Woltd suggests to the fans to write their numbers down on a piece of paper and when the number is called out they could run down their list hurriedly whereas it would take several minutes to check the ticket they might have in their possession.

The fan must, of course, have his tickets with him as he must present the ticket if he has the winner.

Needless to say the winner must be present to take home the big prize.

Woltd says the drawing will begin at the end of 3 1/2 innings and that a number will be called every half inning thereafter until there is a winner.

CORRECTION DEPT. — We said in this space Sunday that Tom Pollet, Sr., is pitching for Baton Rouge, La., in the Evangeline League. It should have read Lake Charles, La. We did, however, have the right league.

JIM CRACKS

By JIM DEANS

One of the tragedies which may beset a person who makes an attempt at writing is to be deserted by the Muses.

If you are up on your Greek mythology (and I'm not, but I have a handy reference book) you will know that there were nine goddesses of song and poetry who were the inspiring forces of poets.

They were, or are, depending upon your point of view: Calliope, Clio, Erato, Euterpe, Melpomene, Polyhymnia, Terpsichore, Thalia, and Urania.

CALLOPE presides over eloquence and heroic poetry; Clio is the Muse of history; Erato is the lovely lady who inspires the lyric and love poem; Euterpe inspires music; Melpomene is the Muse of tragedy (and isn't that name appropriate?); Polyhymnia is the Muse of sacred lyrics; Terpsichore (perhaps the most famous to laymen) is the Muse of dancing and choral song; Thalia is the Muse of comedy and Urania is the Muse of astronomy.

So, if you would be a poet or if you would accomplish anything in the arts and sciences you must court these nine ladies to keep them always at your side for the words locked in your heart and brain.

BUT, ALAS, they are a fickle lot... all have deserted me. I sat looking at this blank sheet of paper for a long time, and finally gave up. They won't use me, so, I'll use them.

That may not have been much of interest to you, but it got about seven inches of type down to help fill this space, so maybe I paid 'em back.

FOR ANOTHER item, let me borrow an interesting yarn from a recent issue of Editor and Publisher Magazine concerning the staff of the New York Journal of Commerce.

The story is that a few months ago, a couple of editors on the paper decided to put their spasmotic cues words on a paying basis. They took a solemn and binding oath to put 10 cents into a piggy bank every time they uttered a profane expression. The piggy bank was appropriately named Mephisto!

As the story goes, the tainted dimes, in no time at all, mounted up to $75.

Well, what to do with all this boodle? The editors pondered. They collared Securities Expert

Man Dies After Fall At Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. — A prominent Buffalo investment counsel was swept over the brink of the 167-foot American falls to his death Sunday.

Robert H. Persons, 58, East Aurora, N.Y., died 18 minutes after firemen rescued him from a rocky ledge about 35 feet below the top of the cataract, where he had clung for five hours. Authorities said it was the first time in memory that a person has been swept over the falls and escaped instant death.

THE POET'S NOOK

Well, the Muse isn't necessary for this part, since she has already inspired someone long ago to put on paper something that lasts for ages.

No one recognized our puzzler last week.

It was from "She Walks in Beauty," by Lord Byron.

This week, I want to quote from one of my favorite poems, by one of my favorite poets. He is a contemporary writer who has enjoyed tremendous success, a rare feat for a poet.

When I first read this I was in Hawaii, and the author is the Poet Laureate of Hawaii (at least he was at that time).

If you don't know this, you will want to get a copy next week and devour it. It is the song of a vagabond and the dreams he has for the house he one day will build.

"When I have a house . . . as I sometimes may . . . I'll suit my fancy in every way. I'll fill it with things that have caught my eye.

In drifting from Iceland to Molokai. It won't be correct or in period style. But . . . oh, I've thought for a long long while

Of all the bookshelves and all the books, The great big table, the deep, soft chairs

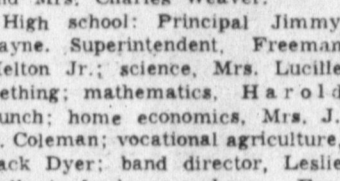

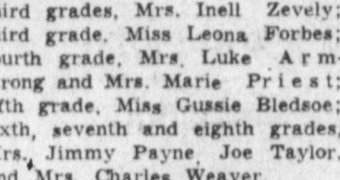

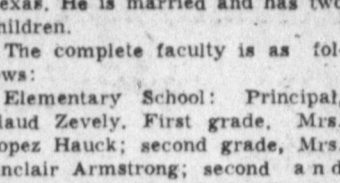

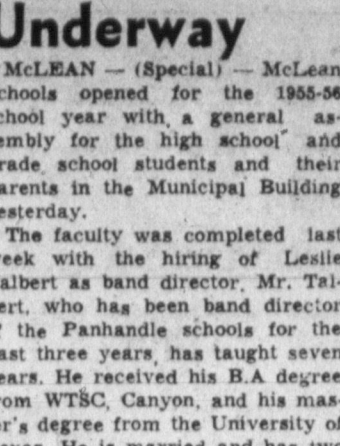

And the Chinese rug at the foot of the stairs; It's an old, old rug from far Chow Wan

That a Chinese princess once walked on."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Thomas are parents of a boy, weighing 7 lbs., 2 ozs., born at 8:09 a.m. yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. West, 316 N. Zimmer, are parents of a girl, born at 1:10 p.m. Monday, weighing 8 lbs., 7 1/2 ozs.

Boss Parr's Tax Trial Postponed

AUSTIN, Tex. — UP — The income tax evasion trial of South Texas political boss George Parr has been indefinitely postponed, it was announced Monday.

The trial, scheduled to have opened in federal district court in Austin Sept. 6, was continued by Federal Judge Ben H. Rice Jr., until the United States supreme court rules in a case now on appeal by Parr.

Parr appealed from the dismissal at Houston of an earlier indictment alleging income tax evasion. Parr contended he would receive a fairer trial at Laredo, in the southern federal district of Texas, than in Austin, in the western district.

The appeal was denied by the Court of Appeals at New Orleans, a court spokesman said, and in his appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court Parr asked that an order be entered staying his Austin trial until the Supreme Court rules.

Parr was indicted on charges of evading income taxes totaling some $85,000 during the years 1949, 1950 and 1951.

Judge Rice in June denied a defense motion seeking to move Parr's trial to either Laredo or Corpus Christi in the Southern district.

TV Jumping To Super Shows To Lure Viewers This Fall

By ALINE MOSBY HOLLYWOOD — UP — Movies are wider than ever, and now television is jumping into supercolossal programs for the fall to lure viewers with everything from Mickey Mouse to grand opera.

Some industry sources speculate TV is out to show the Federal Communications Commission that sponsored television can be as spectacular as shows offered on any pay-TV system.

Others believe the stretching of movie screens prompted TV to try to keep audiences glued at home in those living room chairs with bigger shows.

Even CBS, which once announced it would never go in for 90-minute "spectaculars," about-faced and will offer Judy Garland, Bing Crosby, Mary Martin and Noel Coward on the 90-minute "Ford Star Jubilee."

The network also plucked Orson Welles from his European wanderings to produce and star in extravaganzas.

ABC will emerge as a third powerful network when it unseats Walt Disney's "Mickey Mouse Club," and two programs that resulted from the marriage of TV and movies, "Warner Bros. Presents" and "The MGM Parade."

The network will try to knock CBS' "Toast of the Town" from its high rating by pitting against it 35 recent English movies, including "The Red Shoes," "Tight Little Island" and "Brief Encounter."

NBC will try to out-do this feat with an English picture that hasn't even been initiated into theaters yet, Rex Harrison in "The Constant Husband."

NBC's indefatigable president Pat

WT Student Attends Meet

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Miss Barbara Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Lewis, is attending a Regional Leadership Training Conference this week at Mount Sequoyah, Fayetteville, Ark.

The Conference, scheduled for August 28 to September 3, is held annually for officers, chairmen and other workers of Western Centers, the organization for Methodist youth in state colleges and universities. Claude Thompson, Chandler University, will be the featured speaker for the week-long meeting, which will be attended by young people and counselors from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Kansas, Tennessee, Ohio, and New Jersey.

Miss Lewis is a Senior student in West Texas State College, Canyon, and will be attending the Conference for the second time. She has served as worship chairman, and president of the Wesley Center at Canyon. She is accompanying other West Texas Students to the Arkansas Conference. She has attended the National Methodist Student Conference at Lawrence, Kan., and the State and Regional Conferences previously and is active in many phases of college life. She is a member of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Maurice Evans in "Richard III," the Sadler's Wells Ballet, operas such as "The Magic Flute," a dramatic Milton Berle, and Mary Martin and Helen Hayes in "The Skin of Our Teeth" are other NBC promises for the new season. CBS figures its "Twentieth Century Fox Hour," from the movie studio, will be another hit.

Situation comedies about stupid husbands and cute girls are falling by the wayside. So CBS will try another string of series with such adventurous labels as "Sgt. Preston of the Yukon" and "Navy Log."

Even the quiz shows will be spectacular. NBC figures to outdo CBS' "64,000 Question" with a show offering $100,000. One producer reportedly is working on a program that gives away oil wells.
