Ike Has Another Restful Sleep

Hurricane 'Janet' Hits At Yucatan

MIAMI — UP — Hurricane Janet slammed upon the battered Yucatan Peninsula with 115-mile-per-hour winds and flooding rains Wednesday, critically endangering fleeing families.

Authorities began evacuating families from a coastal 'danger zone' while a new flood crisis arose in the Tampico area, where forerunning Hurricane Hilda claimed 300 lives.

Hurricane Janet threatened to become far more dangerous than Hilda after it crossed the Yucatan and gained new force over the Gulf of Campeche, Mexican authorities believed.

The new tempest, its winds and turbulence believed most vicious hurricane of the year, struck from the Caribbean Sea into the sparsely settled coast of northern British Honduras just before dawn.

In its wake far to the east ships and planes expanded a search of the mid-Caribbean for 11 hurricane hunters missing on a reconnaissance flight made two days ago, when top winds were estimated up to 150 miles per hour.

Weathermen said the missing Navy Neptune may have been caught in the murderous down-drafts that have made Hurricane Janet the most vicious storm of the year.

Fresh waves of Air Force and Navy planes left Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to join an all-night hunt with Navy destroyers and other ships for the nine fliers and two Canadian newspapermen. No trace of them had been found after two nights of searching.

A 4 p. m. Miami weather bureau advisory meanwhile reported the hurricane had reached an island point (Lat. 18.5 N. Long. 89 W.) about 90 miles northwest of Belize, British Honduras.

The hurricane was traveling west-northwestward at a 23-mile-per-hour clip and was expected to cross the peninsula into Campeche Bay Wednesday afternoon.

The advisory warned small craft of danger as far north as Tampico.

A report from Merida, Mex., reported advance winds in area around Chetuna 200 miles to the southeast long before dawn.

Authorities said the Panuco River was rising in the Tampico area where many families were still isolated after floods from hurricane Hilda. Hilda had also killed 11 persons and caused millions of dollars worth of damage on the Yucatan.

Doctors Say Progress Continues Satisfactory

DENVER — UP — President Eisenhower "slept comfortably" through his second consecutive night and awoke "refreshed" Wednesday in continuing his satisfactory progress.

The chief executive's doctors reported at 7 a. m. mat. that "his progress continues to be satisfactory without complications."

Text of the first bulletin as Mr. Eisenhower began his fifth day in Fitzsimons Army hospital following a heart attack early Saturday:

"For the second consecutive night the President slept comfortably throughout the night. He went to sleep at 8:30 p. m. and awoke refreshed at 6:30 a. m. this morning. His progress continues to be satisfactory without complications."

Has Good Appetite
The President's good appetite Tuesday had given his doctors one of their most encouraging signs of his fight to overcome his illness.

Although medical experts warned cautiously that complications can still set in, those close to the chief executive regard his two straight "satisfactory" days without complication as a sign that he may definitely be on the mend.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the famous Boston heart specialist called into the case as a consultant, said the crucial days are still ahead.

"The next nine days are the crucial ones, and we have to guard against complications but right now I'm very hopeful that our President will be all right and back on the job soon," White said.

Comments on Condition
White commented on the President's condition in Boston, to which he returned Tuesday in a special Military Air Transport Service plane. Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the President's physician, and Col. Byron E. Pollock, head of the heart section at Fitzsimons Army hospital, Denver, consulted White by telephone twice Tuesday and will consult him Thursday.

They telephoned White a report on a night electrocardiogram which had been taken.

"He's not out of the woods yet," White said after getting the report. "The cardiogram was a favorable one and he seems to be released unharmed 28 hours later making good progress toward recovery."

"Another thing I was pleased to about was that the President's lungs are clear and a physical examination in a riot.

Nixon Says Government Working OK

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON — UP — Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland agreed Wednesday the government is functioning normally and no "emergency measures" or special session of congress are needed.

The two Californians, both potential GOP presidential candidates if President Eisenhower does not run again, talked over problems created by Mr. Eisenhower's heart attack in an hour-long meeting and breakfast in Nixon's office in the capitol.

Knowland said that Nixon had outlined the procedures being followed by the executive branch during Mr. Eisenhower's illness, and added:

"The government is carrying on in the usual way... carrying out the policies of President Eisenhower. I don't think there is any need for legislation or special measures to be taken other than procedures now being followed."

"I think the government is functioning normally during the temporary period the President is in the hospital."

Special Procedures Unneeded
"There is no emergency requiring either a special meeting of legislative leaders or special procedures."

He said there is no reason now "for a special session of congress." Also, he said, there appears to be no need for delegating presidential powers during Mr. Eisenhower's illness.

Asked if he and Nixon discussed the political situation, Knowland replied, "no, we did not." He added that he felt "any discussion of that is entirely premature."

Asked if he thinks Mr. Eisenhower — assuming his recovery is complete — will seek a second term, he said:

Stolen Tot Returned By Blonde Who 'Wanted Baby Of Own'

STOCKTON, Calif. — UP — A widespread search for little Robert Marcus ended early Wednesday when a distraught blonde who "just wanted a baby of her own" surrendered the child to a Catholic priest.

The baby was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Sanford Marcus, identified him.

"We are 99 per cent certain that it is our baby," said Marcus. He and his wife were overjoyed that the long search for the baby at last was over. At one point, he and his wife's obstetrician expressed grave fears for her condition when she, in grief, refused to take any food.

Stolen on Sept. 19
The baby was stolen from the nursery at San Francisco's Mount Zion hospital on Sept. 19, two days after he was born. Attendants and other witnesses told police they had seen a heavy-set woman with stringy blonde hair hanging about the nursery at the time.

The self-confessed kidnaper was Mrs. Betty Jean Benedito, 27, wife of Mark B. Benedito, editor of a Filipino newspaper in this farming center.

Rex Parker, chief of Stockton detectives, said Mrs. Benedito "has the mother instinct—good and strong."

"I just wanted a baby," she sobbed as authorities tried to find out why she stole the child.

Same Name as Husband's
"I took this particular baby because his name was Marcus—the same names as my husband's," she added.

At St. Joseph's hospital, attendants said little Robert was in good health and had gained weight and grown. His abductor said she had fed him a formula widely broadcast and printed as suitable for the child.

Police said Mrs. Benedito was married in October, 1954. She told them her husband very much wanted a baby, but that she could not have one. Then she began to put on weight. She told friends that she was pregnant.

A few days ago—about the time Robert was stolen—she left Stockton "to visit her mother." She returned home, saying she had "had a baby," police said. She had a birth certificate that actually was used when a child was born four years ago to her sister, now dead, police added.

Mrs. Benedito turned the child over to Father Allan McCoy, a Franciscan priest at St. Mary's church, after an off-duty deputy sheriff became suspicious of her late Tuesday night.

The deputy, Osvaldo J. Vannucci, noticed Mrs. Benedito at the wrestling matches. She was holding an infant in her arms, with her hair hanging about the nursery at the time.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Benedito telephoned Marcus at his home in Daly City, a suburb of San Francisco, to tell him she had his baby.

"I'm going to take him to a Catholic priest," she said. Marcus promised her he would take no action against her.

Then she told Father McCoy that she was going to bring him (See TOT, Page 3)

Brazos River Flood Crest Hits Seymour

By UNITED PRESS
Roaring flood waters crested on the Brazos River at Seymour just a fraction under 21 feet—the all-time record—at 2 a. m. Wednesday and five hours later the river had fallen better than half a foot.

R. D. Collins, general manager of the Brazos River Authority at Mineral Wells, said U. S. Geological Survey men on the scene at Seymour reported the river stood at 20.37 feet at 7:30 a. m. after cresting at 20.95 feet at 2 a. m.

These were reports Tuesday night that the crest would not reach Seymour until about 10 a. m. Wednesday.

However, Collins said he doesn't look for any more crests at Seymour. He said another flood gate at the Possum Kingdom lake dam was opened Tuesday night when it was learned that water still was rising.

Lake Gates Opened
Earlier in the day, five gates had been opened to pour lake waters out on downstream, but one was closed later in the day. It was opened up again Tuesday night and the five gates remained open all night, Collins said.

The Brazos threat was the most serious of three flood-gorged rivers in the state.

The flooding rivers were gorged by weekend rains of up to 11 inches. The heavier amounts were felt in West Texas and it was the runoff from these that caused the swollen Salt Fork of the Brazos to send flood crests rolling down the river.

In South Texas, the Nueces River was running bank full at Cotulla, where it was expected to crest later in the day. Sheriff Frank Newman at Cotulla said, however, he didn't look for any particularly heavy damage from the crest.

Presidency Has Been Hazardous

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON — UP — On the record of the past 55 years, the presidency of the United States is as hazardous as any occupation on earth.

Five of 10 presidents since the turn of the century have died or been cruelly stricken in office. William McKinley was assassinated in 1901. Warren Gamaliel Harding and Franklin D. Roosevelt died in office, both of cerebral hemorrhage, although Harding also was suffering from pneumonia. Woodrow Wilson was partially paralyzed during the latter months of his second term and for long was unable to discharge the duties of his office. President Eisenhower was struck down by a heart attack last Sunday, but is making good recovery progress.

Theodore Roosevelt had some illness but vigorously survived almost two White House terms only to be plunked by an assassin's bullet when he sought re-election as the Bull Moose candidate in 1912.

Roosevelt Shot At
An assassin shot at President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1933, the bullet killing Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago. They occupied an open automobile in Miami, Fla.

Two Puerto Ricans stormed Blair House while President and Mrs. Truman were in residence there, but were unable to reach Mr. Truman.

The record of the past 55 years is impressive. Dr. Karl C. Wood had that in mind when in 1948 he wrote a book called, "Mr. President—How is Your Health?"

Beginning with George Washington, Dr. Wood reported that presidents more often than not have suffered severe and often protracted illness while in the White House. Washington was seized with severe pains in his thigh shortly after his first inauguration. Pain, chills and high fever finally required surgery, minus an anesthetic, to remove a carbuncle.

He was able to sit up after six weeks but complications developed leading into a series of colds and at last pneumonia. Dr. Wood reported the first president's recovery took 106 days. He finished two terms despite periodic fever in the second and died aged 67 two years after leaving the White House.

The illnesses of presidents followed the patterns of the medical history of their times. Wood wrote: The earlier presidents were more often afflicted with intestinal infections. Heart disease is a more modern killer, although there always is the possibility that earlier physicians may have failed to recognize it in their diagnosis.

Nine former presidents have died of heart disease but there is no record of such as the cause of the death of a president in office. Cerebral hemorrhage was stated by Dr. Wood to be the second most deadly disease among presidents and former presidents with a toll of seven.

Dr. Wood found that modern presidents do not live as long, on the average, as their predecessors. The first 10 presidents lived to an average age of 77.4 years, the second 10 to an average of 63.7 years. From Chester A. Arthur to Franklin D. Roosevelt, the average age of presidents at the time of death was down to 61.1 years.

Finalists Picked For Heidt Contest

A girl's trio, a solo dance number and a solo piano number were selected to perform in the Horace Heidt Show Wagon to be held in Harvester Field House at 8 p. m., Oct. 4, in auditions held last night.

The auditions were conducted in the Palm Room by Jack King, talent scout for the Heidt show.

The Harmonettes, a vocal trio consisting of Lucy Jo Neely, Cella Miller and Margaret Miller, made the top three, singing "Sincerely". The trio is accompanied by Ramona Hudgins at the piano. Miss Neely is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Neely, 1233 Charles, while the Miller sisters are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Miller, 517 S. Ballard.

Peggy O'Neal, classical pianist from White Deer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. O'Neal, will also appear on the main show at next week. Peggy, who recently won third place in the "Wheat-heart of the Nation" contest in Perryton, made the top three with her splendid rendition of "Tocatta" by Khacaturian. She is the piano student of Mrs. May Foreman Carr of Pampa.

The third number to get the big chance is Carmelita Hogan, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hogan, 2007 Williston. Carmelita made the big three with a tap dance number to "Sweet Georgia Brown". She is the student of Jeanne Willingham, local dance instructor.

The three top numbers picked from the tryouts will have a place on the main performance of the Horace Heidt Show Wagon here next week, and might possibly be selected for a spot on the Heidt show.

Tickets for the show are now on sale at the Harold Wright Insurance Agency, 110 E. Foster, at popular prices — $1.10, $1.65 and $2, including tax.

Newspapers Feel Ike Won't Run

By UNITED PRESS
A cross-section of the nation's newspapers agreed Tuesday that President Eisenhower will probably not run again in 1960. Vice President Richard M. Nixon was the most prominently mentioned substitute candidate.

Many of the editorial writers hesitated to make a flat prediction that Mr. Eisenhower's heart attack will force his retirement from politics.

But others said an Eisenhower candidacy next year is "inconceivable."

Vice President Nixon, who is already taking over some of the President's duties, was regarded by many as the most probable Republican candidate if Mr. Eisenhower bows out.

Would Choose Milton
The closest to an endorsement of an alternate candidate came from the Chicago Sun-Times. It said that if Mr. Eisenhower doesn't run, the GOP would "do well" to choose Milton S. Eisenhower, the President's brother and the man who could best "mirror his thoughts, ideals, and principles."

Others mentioned were former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, twice GOP candidate for the presidency, and Govs. J. Goodwin Knight of California, Christian Herter of Massachusetts, William Stratton of Illinois and Fred Hall of Kansas.

Still more were Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Chief Justice Earl Warren of the Supreme Court also drew attention, but it was pointed out that he would not run under any conditions.

Rules Out Second Term
Newspapers which said editorially that Mr. Eisenhower's health has all but ruled out a second term included the Chicago Daily Tribune, the Detroit Free Press, the Detroit News, the Tampa Tribune, the Charlotte (N. C.) News, the Charlotte Observer, the Washington Post and Times-Herald, and the Washington Evening Star.

Other newspapers praised President Eisenhower for setting up his administration in such a way that it can run smoothly during his illness. These included the New York Herald Tribune, the New York World-Telegram and Sun, the Los Angeles Times, the Columbus (Ohio) Citizen, and the Boston Globe.

The great majority of the newspapers also agreed with the Milwaukee Journal that "the most important thing is that President Eisenhower get well." This consideration "is far greater than the possible effect of the President's illness on foreign or domestic affairs, or on the fortunes of the Republican or Democratic parties," the Journal said.

Drinking Kills 12,500 Frenchmen

PARIS —UP— The French National Institute of Statistics said Tuesday in its annual report that some 12,500 Frenchmen died last year because of over-indulgence in alcohol.

The report said a record 4,106 died of acute alcoholism, including delirium tremens, and another 12,971 died from cirrhosis of the liver, of whom 79 per cent are victims of wine and liquor.

In 1953 some 3,905 persons died of acute alcoholism and another 11,871 of cirrhosis.

Man Fined On Liquor Charge Here

In continuing action against the illegal use of liquor in Pampa, the County Court yesterday fined a local man for possessing liquor for sale in a wet area without a permit. Leon Gay, 509 Elm, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $100 and costs. The charges resulted from a raid by liquor control board agents from Amarillo and Borger, Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard and Chief of Police Jim Conner. Various quantities of liquor were seized and confiscated by the liquor control board agents. County Attorney Don Cain renewed his statement of yesterday that the law enforcement agencies of the Pampa will continue to press for prosecution of those using liquor illegally. He stated that the offense of selling liquor to a minor carried with it a $1,000 fine or a year in jail or both and that it is illegal for a minor to purchase, consume, or possess liquor, which offense is punishable by a maximum $100 fine instead of a $1,000 fine as was earlier reported.

New Truck Line To Serve City

In a letter received here today by E. O. Wedgeworth, local chamber of commerce manager, it was learned that the Burlington Truck Lines of Texas, Inc., has filed an application to operate a truck line through Pampa. Application to the Motor Transportation Division of the Railroad Commission of Texas was filed by Burlington Truck Lines for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate as a common carrier and as a specialized motor carrier within Texas. Thirty-seven tractors, 40 trailers, five straight trucks with 16-foot bodies, and other miscellaneous equipment are to be operated, making use of the terminal facilities of the Fort Worth and Denver Railway Company throughout the territory to be served. A map accompanying the application disclosed that highway truck service is to be operated throughout the entire territory now served by the Railway Company extended from the ports of Houston, Galveston, and Texas City northward across Texas through Amarillo, Dalhart, Texline, and also embracing Abilene, Pampa, Lubbock, Plainview, and Intermediate towns along the railway. R. Wright Armstrong, president; C. E. Nottingham, secretary-treasurer; and Seth Barwise, director and general attorney, all of Fort Worth, are named as officers of the corporation. In the letter, R. Wright Armstrong, president of the truck line, and vice-president, Fort Worth and Denver Railway, said, "A persistent demand throughout our territory disclosed that the shipping and receiving public needs the additional transportation service to be offered by Burlington Truck Lines of Texas, Inc. 'The highway schedules to be provided', Armstrong continued, 'will supply a long felt need for adequate transportation facilities in the conduct of business throughout the Texas territory served by the railway.' Early hearings before the Railroad Commission are anticipated, the letter said and the new truck service will be inaugurated as soon as a certificate of convenience and necessity is issued by the Railroad Commission. The local chamber of commerce and the County Commissioners Court have stated their pleasure at having the service.

DALLAS — Department store sales in eight cities of the 11th Federal Reserve district increased an average 5 per cent the first eight months of 1948, compared with the comparable period last year. NIXON

(Continued From Page One) term, Knowland said any political speculation is "premature." Don't Discuss Speeches. Knowland was asked if he would fill in as Nixon's substitute at the Oct. 10 GOP fund-raising rally in San Francisco. He said he did not "get into that." But he pointed out that he has been scheduled to introduce Nixon at the rally. He said it will not be known until next week whether the vice president will appear. Except for a foreign policy speech in North Carolina Wednesday night, Knowland said he intends to remain here until Monday. Nixon, who had been scheduled for a lengthy speech tour, said he will not decide until early next week on which ones will be cancelled, or substitute speakers provided. After breakfast with his fellow Californian, Nixon scheduled conferences with Dillon Anderson, White House adviser, James S. Lay Jr., executive secretary of the National Security Council, and with Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas. The vice president was preparing himself for meetings of the top-level Security Council Thursday and of the Cabinet Friday—meetings over which he will preside, as he has done in the past, in the President's absence. He conferred Tuesday with Budget Director Rowland H. Hughes, Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams. There was no indication whether Nixon and Knowland would discuss the political implications of the President's illness. Both have refused to comment publicly on those implications although both are mentioned as possible contenders for the GOP nomination in the event Mr. Eisenhower does not seek a second term. Knowland, returning here Tuesday night from a month-long stay in California, said he was "not prepared" to discuss whether he will be a candidate. But he said the Republicans can win the presidency again next year "with President Eisenhower or whom-ever the convention picks." Nixon said his meeting Tuesday with Hall and a later one with Brownell, Humphrey and Adams, top administration political strategists, did not concern politics.

Myrt Takes $32,000 In Quiz Show

NEW YORK — UP — Baseball expert Myrtle Power was richer Wednesday by $32,000, but she left a dozen unhappy television quiz show musicians, standing with their piccolos. The music makers, members of the studio band of TV's "The $64,000 Question," were all set to play "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" as a victory march Tuesday night for Myrt. The band had rehearsed it all day, figuring the 50-year-old contestant from Buford, Ga., would go for and win the top $64,000 prize on the CBS-TV giveaway show. But, Myrt, who had run her winnings to $32,000 on previous program appearances by answering a series of baseball questions, decided to bow out. "My Dodgers have won a pennant," she said. "And I feel like I've won a pennant. You know, they're going into a World Series tomorrow. I don't want to jinx them. I think I'll take the $32,000." After the show, Myrt explained: "I didn't know what I was going to do until I went right on that program. I don't care about the money I've won, maybe that's why I called it '$32,000. I just figured it was time to stop." Myrt, a housekeeper for a couple in Roslyn Heights, N. Y., said she would put most of her winnings in the bank.

Mamie Keeps Close Tabs On Reports

By POLLY WITTE DENVER — UP — Mamie Eisenhower, who knows more about heart trouble than most persons because she has had it since she was a child, is kept under closest scrutiny by the physicians trying to restore her husband's health. Mrs. Eisenhower's heart condition always has been slight. But a White House aide said Wednesday that physicians are watching her for any sign that the strain of the President's illness is too much. Mrs. Eisenhower is now reported feeling "cheerful and well." But the aide also disclosed that she spends a good deal of her time in a room across from her husband's, "resting in bed." Remains in Suite Mrs. Eisenhower has not left her husband's suite since he was admitted to Fitzsimons Army hospital Saturday with a "moderate coronary thrombosis." She has kept a quiet vigil in a room just across the corridor from the President's room on the eighth floor tower suite of the hospital. Up until Tuesday, she was reported "under obvious strain considering the impact of her husband's sudden illness," but the unidentified aide said Wednesday that she was "more her old, charming and relaxed self yesterday." Mrs. Eisenhower is being permitted to see her husband more and more as he is allowed to spend additional time outside the oxygen tent. And, the aide said she has "again picked up what she feels are her responsibilities as wife of the President."

Safety Belts Put In All Ward Cars

Montgomery Ward & Company has announced that it is installing safety belts on all company cars and trucks. About 350 vehicles are being equipped with the life-saving belts such as have been required on airlines for many years. In a letter to store managers, J. C. Krachi, vice president and retail manager for Wards, stated: "The use of belts is being adopted to give our people the fullest protection against painful and often fatal injuries when a traffic accident occurs." Bill McComas, manager of Wards store here said that the same approved safety belts which Wards use in their cars are now available in Wards store here. These colorful, nylon webbing belts meet the specifications of the Civil Aeronautics Authority which sets standards for belts used by airlines.

TEEN TOPICS

By HELEN STEWARD

As said before, the seniors are a proud bunch. They are really going overboard this year.

Friday night has been proclaimed Senior Night. A special section of the stands will be roped off for seniors at the game. All the upper-classmen are urged to be there by David Gantz, president of the class.

A senior song was composed by some of the girls and has been accepted as the class song. It is a real cut little ditty to the tune of "Glowworm."

Like the song says, "They're equipped with brains and T-shirts, They're the Class of '56."

In the game this Friday night against Fort Worth Tech, the Harvesters will be looking for their first victory of the season after dropping a heartbreaker last Friday night to Vernon.

All you fans, get out there and yell your heads off again.

Last week we predicted that some of the PHSers would have their heads yelled off already because of the pep rally. If there had been any loose ones, they surely would have been yelled off because "WOW, what a pep rally! Gotta hand it to the sopho, they can make noise. The juniors and seniors had to strain to beat them."

The dance sponsored by Las Cressas Club after the game was real gay, too. A big crowd turned out, including the Vernon football team, who seemed to be enjoying themselves very much.

The cold spell we had brought out all the shirts and sweaters that had been hiding away in closets waiting for cold weather.

Never saw so many wool and felt skirts with bright new sweaters.

News came recently that Ben Sturgeon, Pampa High president last year, was elected president of his freshman class at TCU.

Congratulations to Ben and all the Pampans in TCU who helped him in his campaign, Jon Cantrell, Rich Hankins, Robert Flemming and many others.

Yesterday morning the Slide Rule Club held its second meeting and it shows promise of becoming a very good club this year. Twenty-three "Slide Rulers" were at the meeting yesterday.

David Gantz is president of the Club; Mr. John Plaster serves as sponsor.

Several students are wondering "what happen" to the hall directory in the Senior Class of '55 was supposed to have been given the school. Well, the grads didn't go back on their word — the directory is here, but it lacks a few letters having enough to put all the teachers names and room numbers on. It will be put up as soon as it is completed.

Congratulations in a big way to Mr. Bob Irby, PHS choir director. He is the father of a new baby boy, born Monday.

The A. Capella Choir gave him, to show their congratulations, a big diaper with all their names on it. (Jackie Edwards furnished the diaper.)

The biggest news of all is the announcement that Lee Ledrick made at Student Council yesterday. A juke box will be installed in the cafeteria soon!

Ted Swindle gets credit for having the brainstorm. He talked it over with Lee and Mr. Edmondson and, presto, PHS gets a juke box.

To make it even better, 50 per cent of all its profit will go to S.C. Real soon now PHSers will be rocking their way through the lunch line instead of just standing there like zombies.

Junior Red Cross members got the cutest pins at their meeting yesterday. They are little and white with red crosses on them.

More about pins — a committee has been appointed to investigate the possibilities of getting pins for Student Council members.

Nominations for Miss Flame of 1955 will be made in the morning.

Six girls, two from each class, will be picked by the whole school to be candidates for the honor.

Miss Flame, whose task it is to light the Sandie Bonfire, should be a girl who is known for her school spirit and enthusiasm for everything the Harvesters do.

The final choice will be made, probably, Friday morning and kept a deep, dark secret until the night of the bonfire when she is crowned.

Mary Rogers, a sophomore, was elected last year.

Pampa Shockers will be in Amarillo tomorrow night for a game with Palo Duro High. The game scheduled last week with the same team was rained out.

So far the Shockers have a perfect record with a win over the Berger Pug and no losses.

See you at the ball game Friday night.

Especially you seniors. — It is going to be your night to howl!

Doctors Fight Encephalitis

PORT BRANCH, Ind. —UP— Doctors fought Monday to save the lives of the remaining victims of a "sleeping sickness" outbreak which has already killed seven persons.

Encephalitis, or "sleeping sickness," has claimed victims in three southwestern Indiana counties and in Kentucky. Twelve surviving cases have been hospitalized. The malady begins with "ordinary fever" and often ends with death within a week or 10 days.

Mosquitoes are believed to be carriers of the disease. As a result, health authorities ordered the spraying of homes, ponds and marshes to kill the swarms of insects. The program continued Monday.

However, Dr. Albert Marshall of the State Board of Health said "we are very hopeful" that the outbreak has been checked.

Germany's Foreign Minister In Talks With Big Three

By CHARLES M. McCANN United Press Foreign Analyst
Germany's salesman of Europe undertook a difficult diplomatic sales job in New York Wednesday.

Henrich Von Brentano, new West German foreign minister, is the salesman. He joined Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay in talks on relations with Russia.

The talks center on the negotiations to be held with Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov at the Big Four foreign ministers conference to be held in Geneva, Switzerland, on Oct. 27. Disarmament, a system of European security and the unification of Germany will be among the topics for discussion.

But Brentano's big job is to explain — and to justify — the agreements which his chief Chancellor Konrad Adenauer made at the recent German-Russian conference in Moscow.

A Changing View
At the time, the State Department said the agreements marked the abandonment by the Kremlin of its "bankrupt" German policies.

After thinking things over, however, Western diplomats seemed inclined to agree that for a diplomatic bankrupt the Kremlin had displayed some impressive assets.

If Brentano can convince the Big Three foreign ministers that Adenauer did win a victory for West Germany and the Allies in general, he will show himself a good salesman.

He is called the "salesman of Europe" for his long and untiring work in the interest of European unity toward which the Schumann Plan for a coal and steel pool was a start.

Brentano is one of the able men who work in the dominating shadow of 75-year-old Adenauer. Adenauer, who had long run the German industry himself, turned

Gloria Swanson Develops A Paris, Rome Driving Complex

by GLORIA SWANSON
Written for United Press

PARIS —UP— I think I have developed a suicide complex because I have been driving (racing is a better word for it) in Rome and now Paris.

If you have not been in either of these capitals I can assure you that all the streets are used as race tracks because all the drivers believe themselves to be either Barney Oldfield or Malcolm Campbell Jr., depending on their age.

My hotel in Rome was on a hill and curved street (in racing terms a "hard bend") and this is where the racers (drivers) try to make the turns on the fewest number of wheels — at the same time using both the right hand side of the road and the left, as in England, if necessary.

When I inquired why everybody was not in the hospital or in a neck-brace, I was told that the Italians have the best brakes in the world!

A Crowded Circle
In Paris I live only a short distance from the Arc de Triomphe around which I must drive to reach the street in which I live. This sounds simple, but it presents a dangerous problem because there are at least 10 other streets leading off this large circle, called the Etiole, and the other 500 drivers (my competitors) also want to get to one of them.

Sometimes I have had to go around and around several times, each time edging a little closer to the outside so that when I come to my street centrifugal force carries me into it.

If you want to find out the disposition of a race just drive a car in their country.

At first I took the attitude that "sticks and stones will break my bones, but names will never hurt me" and as long as I didn't understand their language this was true, but, female fashion, curiosity got the better of me and so I asked Clifton Webb, who was impatiently awaiting my company for a cup of tea, why someone had called me a "salad" — did this mean I was green?

Reflection on Parent
"No, my dear," they didn't call you a salad," he corrected me with a twinkle in his eye. "But 'salad' which is an indirect insult to your mother!"

After this I quelled my curiosity with "ignorance is bliss." I have been called "the old grey mare" by my loving friends in the States but here somehow it sounds different. You see this is the place to come if you wish a "liberal" education.

I must add that none of these abuses come from my driving a big car that might get into everybody's way. On the contrary mine is extremely small. Oh well, I suppose I might as well confess — is a tiny convertible Volkswagen (no cracks) and still a novelty around here and Rome so naturally it is still (I am still) the target of such remarks as "lady, you've lost your motor," when I lift my hood (its hood) to fill us (it) up with gas.

"Her the volk" (not joke) is my endearing name for my little four-wheeled friend, and I might add that she is getting just as sensitive as I am about telling everybody where we keep our motor. Granted it's kind of silly carrying it around in your tail, but still it's better than having your headlights there!"

Youths In U.S. Illegally Are Homesick

HOUSTON —UP— Two adventurous Belgian youths who jumped ship a month ago because "this country is good" changed their minds Tuesday and asked police to send them back to Belgium.

"We are homesick," the youths—Gerald Jean Stael, 16, of Zelzate, Belgium, and Armand Mawhood of Antwerp—said.

Gerald and Armand, who is 18, walked into city jail voluntarily and told Officer H. D. Caldwell they had circled the globe as steamship crew members.

"I want to go home," Gerald said. "I've had enough traveling for awhile. I'd like to become a fine European waiter."

Armand said they had worked on nine Swedish steamers, going to the Belgian Congo, Italy, France, Spain, and Egypt, in the last three years.

"We jumped ship here in Houston last month because the head steward on the steamer SS. Ruth was cruel."

"This country is good so we decided to stay," Gerald said. The boys said they met a man here who took them to Lufkin to work in his garden. Gerald said his mother wrote him while he was in Lufkin telling him, "come home . . . you're too young to be so far away."

Immigration officer R. H. McAfee said he'll try to get the boys another ship home.

Expert Sees More Oil Need

HOUSTON —UP— A nationally-known expert, Warren L. Baker, predicted Tuesday that by 1975 the world demand for oil will probably reach 30 million barrels a day.

Baker, editorial director of "World Oil," said oil well drillers will sink far more wells in the years ahead than the record 55,000 wells expected to be drilled this year.

"By 1975," Baker said, "world demand for oil will probably reach 30 million barrels a day. That's just twice what the demand is now."

Baker said the U.S. alone is expected to require 14 million barrels daily by 1975, compared to 8.25 million barrels now, and he predicted that foreign lands will increase their demand even faster.

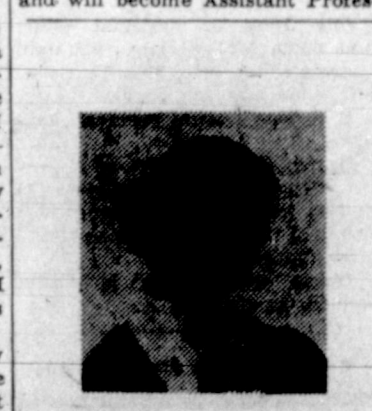

"Future growth of the industry," Baker said, "is likely to equal the record shattering pace of the past decade."

Truman's Memoirs Disavow Alliance With Machine

Editors Note: The following dispatch is based on the second installment of former President Truman's memoirs published in Life magazine.

WASHINGTON — UP — Ex-President Truman in the second installment of his memoirs Wednesday sought to correct "misinformation" about his early political life, including the idea that he was the product of a corrupt Missouri machine.

Unfolding for Life magazine the story of his rocky road to the White House, the former Chief Executive told of an obstacle thrown in his already bumpy political path in 1940 by the late President Roosevelt. Mr. Truman said F.D.R. "encouraged" one of his chief political foes in Missouri when the Missouri senator was trying to win Democratic renomination.

Mr. Truman recited the story without recrimination and told how he successfully overcame the difficulty posed by Mr. Roosevelt by campaigning in behalf of New Deal policies. Later, in 1944, he and F.D.R. were running mates. The former President acknowledged that the Kansas City Pendergast machine got him his start in politics, but said he was an independent agent thereafter. He also acknowledged that the conviction of the late "Boss Tom" Pendergast was a political liability, but said it did not bother him personally because he felt he possessed an "unblemished record."

The second installment of the Truman memoirs supplied lengthy details of his childhood, his World War I service and his subsequent failure in the haberdashery business, a failure which he attributed to economic conditions brought on by the Harding administration.

Mr. Truman said F.D.R.'s attempt to curb his political future came early in 1940 when he decided to seek a second term in the Senate. He said Mr. Roosevelt offered "in a round-about way" to put him on the interstate commerce commission, but he turned it down and said he would fight for renomination even if he received only one vote.

Encouraged His Opponent "The President really was encouraging Stark, my opponent," Truman said. He referred to Lloyd C. Stark, then the Democratic governor of Missouri.

Mr. Truman had little to say about the Pendergast machine, except to deny that he was subservient to it.

When Mr. Truman first entered the Senate in 1935, he was nearly 31, but he said he felt "as timid as a country boy arriving on the campus of a great university for his first year."

His first term in the Senate gave him the happiest days of his life. He remembered with particular affection three Democratic senators: Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois and Carl Hayden of Arizona, plus the late GOP Senate Leader Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan.

Boy With 2 Mouths Is Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio — UP — The case of a boy with two mouths, a medical rarity, will be described Wednesday in Atlantic City before the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery by

Dr. Beatty said the extra mouth was about 1 1/2 inches wide and had no direct connection with the true mouth. The second mouth, however, ity. The final operation, at the

Coverage Of Schools

The brass in the upper echelons of the big business called public education apparently are beginning to shake a little in their shoes. No other answer seems to be logical for the calling of the first "Educational Reporting Conference" which recently closed on the Harvard University campus.

That someone is concerned about the "bad press" the schools have been getting, and earning, is evidenced by the Fund for the Advancement of Education and the shindig was conducted by the Nieman Foundation of Journalism at Harvard.

In order to get the conference together, officials from nine public school systems and seven colleges (our report does not say whether they were state schools or not) were invited to attend, along with the "education reporters" from 13 of the 16 newspapers in the same cities.

After three weeks of conference, the group came up with the statement that:

"Education is a big story. It has high readership. It concerns all children, and therefore all parents. It consumes a large part of our tax dollar. It is a generally neglected story that needs competent reporting. Many people are getting the kind of education they should have.

"The first Educational Reporting Conference . . . has been a pilot experiment in which newspapers and schools . . . have explored the means by which the story of education can best be presented to the public."

We will certainly agree with the conference statement that education is a big story. We have made it so in this paper for nearly 20 years, waiting for the press in general to try and catch up with the importance of the story.

It is also interesting to note that there is recognition of the fact that "education" consumes a large part of our tax dollar. Maybe some day we will be able to rid ourselves of the often-propounded point that "in America education is free."

But if the story of "education" is to be truly presented to the public, then there must first of all be a definition of "education." If by this the word is meant that compulsory attendance in a government-controlled school is a proper means of "education," then that ought to be so stated. If it means that by precept and example, if not directly from textbooks, children are taught to believe in the powers of the state and ignore the rights of individuals, then that ought to be so stated. If it means that "education" is teaching children to repudiate the free enterprise system, then this, too, ought to be set forth. If "education" is to mean propaganda for increasing the power of government over individuals and propaganda for the police state, then let's say so.

But we strongly suspect that there would not be an agreement with our definitions of "public school education" or "government controlled education" so far as the representatives of the schools are concerned nor, for that matter, with the hand-picked group of newspaper representatives.

Most newspapers in the United States are exceedingly chary about writing anything uncomplimentary about the public school operations or expenditures and so far as we know only those newspapers published under the management of Freedom Newspapers have made any effort to closely examine the public school system itself.

Here and there, it is true, some recognition of the miserable job being done by the public schools to provide even a smattering of information is given in the press. Occasionally there will be in some newspaper a timid questioning of such broad general topics as "progressive" education and, surprisingly enough, there has been a certain tough resistance to the teaching of the UNESCO philosophy in the public schools in a good many communities. Yet in all of this mild criticism of public schools there is no thought given to the point that the public school system, itself, is a socialist enterprise and ought to be shunned by any believer in the traditional American philosophy of freedom and in the free enterprise system. Only in Freedom Newspapers is there ever found the thought that the system is a form of Socialism and, naturally, Communism.

Our report on the conference adds that there were some differences of opinion even at the conference, the principal complaint of the press being that it has insufficient access to information. To this we can only add that if it is true on the part of newspapers represented at the conference it is only because the newspapers have not made the proper effort to get the information. We would be ashamed to admit that we were so lacking in initiative and effort that there is information sought and not gotten.

We have a hunch that these other newspapers represented at the conference are expecting to have handed to them the unpleasant facts which school officials universally will make every effort to cover. We anticipate that the school officials are going to do their best to avoid any clash with our reporters or editors and that it is virtually impossible for them to successfully cover for long information we seek. If there were a genuine effort made on the part of the newspapers to get and publish the information we feel certain that it would be obtained.

Are We Following The Israelite Way To Bondage?

INSTALLMENT 4

I want to continue quoting from the magazine, Ideas on Liberty, on how the Jews lost their freedom. From here on I quote.

"The one selected to guide the children of Israel in the way of Jehovah was called the judge. Their form of government might be called a theocracy. But it was completely unlike the theocratic societies which came about in later years, when men like Oliver Cromwell and others who thought themselves to be part god, ruled people in a dictatorial fashion. The social organization of the Israelites was the honest attempt of a people to be governed by God. It was more than an honest attempt; it was the most successful venture to date in that part of the world.

"During those early years in Canaan, the children of Israel made progress such as has seldom been made in the whole history of the world. The tribes increased; their flocks increased; suitable settlements were made with the Canaanites who recognized something quite unusual and unique in these people; and the responsibility of judgeship passed through several hands until, finally, it rested with one of the greatest judges of all: Samuel.

"Samuel had served the children of Israel through many difficult times, accurately interpreting the will of Jehovah. But he had become an old man. The time had come for him to begin thinking in terms of his successor. He had high hopes that one of his two sons would show signs that would make him the choice of Jehovah. But how would he ever know? Samuel divided a small portion of the country in half, putting one son as judge over one part and the other son as judge of the other part.

"Everything was against these two boys. They were young; they were the easy prey of tempters who offered them money; they had some extremely bad examples being set before them by the Oriental potentates on every side. To put it simply, they performed very badly.

"The elders of the several cities were watching all of this with much interest. They saw in these two irresponsible young men their next judge, and the prospect did not please them. So, at a prearranged time, they met with Samuel at Ramah. There the elders told him that as they observed the experiment, it was apparent the sons were not wise in the ways of Samuel and Israel did not look forward to having either of them as a judge. Then the elders told Samuel that what they really wanted was a king to rule over them in the fashion of other nations. They asked him to appoint one.

"This was a great shock to Samuel. To him it was an indication that they were not satisfied with his judgments. As was his custom in time of trouble, he stalled for time, then took the matter to a quiet place where he was accustomed to talking with Jehovah.

"As you read this in the First Book of Samuel, it almost seems as though Jehovah anticipated Samuel's feelings because Jehovah told him that it was wrong to feel so bad. It was not Samuel they were rejecting, but Jehovah. He also said there was nothing, in reality, that either he or Samuel could do. If these people really wanted a king, they were going to have one; and it would be wise for Samuel to make the best possible choice.

"Jehovah said there were some things, however, that he wanted the people to know before they turned to a king for guidance in matters which theretofore had always been left to their God. He wanted them to know the inevitable results which come to pass whenever men give to other men powers that should be left in the hands of their Creator.

"So he told Samuel to tell it to them straight. He said to tell them that this king who would replace him would at first need only about 10 per cent of all their sons and daughters and manservants and maidens, and 10 per cent of the produce of their work to support his efforts; but that would be only the beginning. The implication was that it would eventually be 25 per cent and then 50 per cent, then more and more, because he concluded by saying that they would all become virtual slaves of this king they would put in the place of Jehovah.

"His parting instruction to Samuel was to tell them: 'And ye shall cry out in that day because of your king which ye shall have chosen: And the Lord will not hear you in that day.'

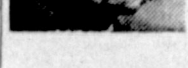

"The accuracy of that prophecy was very quick to make itself known. Saul, the first king, taxed the people about 10 per cent. David took care of at least 25 per cent more. Solomon, his son, required about 50 per cent. Along with this destructive taxation, all of these kings were performing various and sundry other evil acts upon the people — just as Jehovah had predicted. Then, in rapid succession, a rather feeble assortment of kings called upon them to give the rest of their possessions to support a series of foolish and wasteful wars. It was the end of the Israelites as a nation. From that time on, until they became scattered over the face of the earth that it's really difficult to know what happened to them, they were constantly the slaves of either their own or some foreign king."

Inflationary Trend May Hurt GOP Chances In '56

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey wants to check the current inflationary movement for fear that the "Eisenhower prosperity issue" may explode in the Republicans' faces on the eve of next year's Presidential election. As always, politics, as well as economics, influences decisions on money, credit and tax policies.

Both Humphrey and Federal Reserve officials are concerned over the tremendous amount of debt—installment, home mortgages and short-term credit accounts—which has piled up within the last few years. There has been nothing like this phenomenon in American history.

It presents no threat under present conditions of high wages and employment, but it could become a politico-economic calamity in event of a contraction of the business situation.

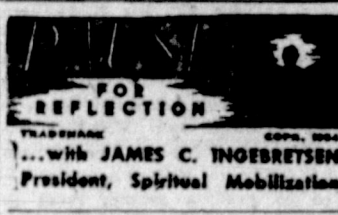

Both Treasury and the Federal Reserve have brought mild and indirect pressures to restrain bankers and buyers. They have raised discount rates, increased the amounts required for down payments on homes, and shortened the periods for mortgage amortizations. But these checks have had only slight effect.

The money managers at Washington do not want to kill the present boom. They simply seek to curb it and make it last longer. Here are the political considerations behind their decisions:

If current trends continue unabated—that is, excessive lending, spending and investing—the economic structure may become shaky later this year or in mid-1956. Prices may rise without a comparable advance in wages or farm income, which always lag behind.

The commission discovered that the Kremlin had two separate spy networks in Australia. They were controlled from Moscow, operated through the Russian Embassy at Canberra, and were independent of the Australian Communist party organization.

Their objectives were the usual: to snatch Australian military secrets, and to contribute in every feasible way to the undermining of the Australian government.

...With JAMES C. INOBRETSEN, President, Spiritual Mobilization.

"An intensified 'back to the farm' movement has been going on in Shanghai, Red China's largest city," reported in the press recently.

The same paper, on the same date, reported that Russia's "farm population is increasing instead of declining, as in the United States."

In this country there are almost 2,000,000 fewer people living on farms today than there were in 1940—yet today's 6,837,632 farmers produce 42 per cent more crops to feed 17,000,000 more Americans than did the 8,833,324 farmers of 1940.

These facts are, I think, far more significant than many of us realize. They mean that, while communistic Russia and China are still struggling merely to feed their people, capitalistic America is constantly releasing more people from food production for the production of other things. This is the material basis of cultural advance.

Whether our culture will actually advance, however, or retrograde and finally perish depends very largely on the use to which we put our energy—that which is now being released from agricultural labor along with all the rest.

If we use it for the glory of God, all is well. If we use it merely for the gratification of man—all is not well.

Humphrey becomes a more important figure on the national political stage than even National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

In politics, as in so many other fields of human activity, money talks!

Peg Says Italians Are Extremely Wild Drivers

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

ROME—On his routine political pilgrimage to Israel and Rome Mr. Wagner, the Mayor of New York, told the Mayor of Rome that he was well impressed by the absence of the horrible squawking and yapping of automobile horns, day and night. Thanks for that civilized innovation goes back to Mussolini, although the undisciplined French forbade the nuisance about 25 years ago and the British, too, in recent years, whether by compulsion or decent forbearance, have used competence at the wheel in place of the barbarous din of most American cities.

However, if Wagner had wanted to be honest and not just complimentary, he should have added that the horrible racket of the exhaust from thousands of nasty, snarling little motorcycles, and the rumbling bellow of big trucks and three and four wheelers, and the stupid dummies in the white police uniforms ignoring outrageous conduct that would get you not merely a ticket but a ride in the pike wagon in any American city.

There are thousands of these chorus men around town, beautiful body work surmounted by mush, who just stand around and let the walking traffic, including feeble old people and knee-high children risk their lives in wild traffic guided by the absolute reverse of the New York principle that the pedestrian always has the right of way. That rule was laid down impromptu by an ill-tempered tyrant of the traffic court years ago because a member of his family had been clipped and killed by a motor vehicle.

It has been generally speaking the rule of the cops ever since, although in some exceptional positions, people are expected to obey the signals as the drivers do.

A friend of mine who has lived in Italy a long time and observed the Italians under Mussolini, in the war and since, frankly puts down on this barbarity toward the people on foot to immaturity. They are said to be poor and certainly people getting $3 and $4 a day with meat and clothing so dear are not eating very high on the hog unless there are multiple jobs in a family which often is the fact. But, whatever the joker, they never had so many motorcycles and cars, mostly little European jobs with an amazing capacity to absorb half a dozen passengers, and the novelty of power and speed at their command sets them crazy.

They charge at you from all directions and whip around corners with their tires screaming and it's not a wise idea to stand on what you conceive to be your rights because they know nothing about your rights and care less. I have never seen such brutal conduct anywhere and the apathy of the cops is amazing because this goes on under their eyes and yet they will saunter and poke a ticket at a person who has parked where he shouldn't or haul down a driver for passing on the right. They get a percentage of the fines, too.

The racket of the exhaust is maddening. It starts early and continues beyond midnight and with mufflers to be had for a few hundred lire the reason may be found in a childish desire to make a noise to celebrate their ownership. Mussolini would have fixed that with an order. I suspect that this racket is also a battle-cry of freedom by a people who are divided by a lot of political passions and fully exercise their right to annoy whomever. Gasoline is very expensive and European engines are designed for economy but they'll run their motors at all traffic stops.

The motorcycle, however, nuisance though it is, has developed a beautiful equestrian grace among the young women who ride side-saddle behind their jockeys, their skirts flowing in the slip-stream. They are absolutely relaxed and take wild serpentine curves through traffic and around corners with charming poise. If you start, as you do, with the fact that most of these babes are young, beautiful and joyous, the production adds up to an esthetic delight to weigh against the noise. The girl latches onto the Joe's waist-line with her right arm but I have seen papa-mama and two children roaring along on two wheels. Out in the I think, killed by some motor vehicle. It has been generally speaking the rule of the cops ever since, although in some exceptional positions, people are expected to obey the signals as the drivers do.

Switzerland has the same plague of unquaffed exhaust and the offly improvement there over the madness of the Italian traffic is the Swiss obedience to traffic signals and a well developed regard for life and limb.

Football Coaches' Wives Have Hank's Sympathy

By HENRY McLEMORE

When I asked my doctor the other day if a man's heart could bleed steadily from September to December without dire results and he said no, it couldn't, I knew I was in grave danger.

You see, that's just how long mine bleeds each year for the wives of football coaches. If you have ever read any magazine articles by or about football coaches' wives, then yours is probably bleeding, too, because they are as miserable a bunch of women as ever existed.

And mind you, the stories are always about the wives of big-name football coaches — men whose teams win most of their games. I don't believe I could bring myself to read of the sufferings of the wives of those coaches whose teams are lucky to win two or three games a year and are slaughtered Saturday after Saturday by such scores as 58 to 4 and 74 to 3. That would tear a man's heart right out by the roots.

What makes the lives of coaches' wives so miserable? From reading their tales of woe I'd say that the prime factor is their husbands. I can't help but wonder why more of them don't leave their husbands and marry men with less exacting jobs. Test pilots, for example. Or underwater demolition experts.

From years of reading the literary efforts of their wives, I have learned this about the behavior of coaches from September to December: They are seventeen times more pessimistic than Schopenhauer ever was with a headache. They wear gloom as other men wear bowties, and when they talk it is of defeat and disaster. They have no confidence in themselves or their players, even on the eve of a "breather" against a normal school with an enrollment of 130, half of them girls.

Disposition wise, they are a cross between a wounded Kodiak bear and a bus driver during the rush hour. The children must be careful to stay away from papa's idg lives.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO Pampa News Women's Editor

A DAY'S WORK ON YOUR LAWN and garden this fall—putting in bright-hued Dutch bulbs, planting ornamental shrubs—will help spring work its colorful magic again next year, says Guy Henle, garden-workshop editor of the Woman's Home Companion. Fall is planting time—before the first heavy frost—for bulbs.

HERE ARE A few of the many planting tips Mr. Henle gives: 1. Bulbs like well-drained soil. If your soil is on the clay side, dig in some sand, peat or soil conditioner. Add plant food, rake smooth and your bulb bed is ready. 2. Bulbs make their best showing in color groups, so put five or six of the same color together. The smaller bulbs—crocus, grape hyacinth, scilla, miniature tulip—are usually set three to four inches deep; hyacinth, scilla, miniature tulip varieties at about five to six inches. In the south, all bulbs are planted deeper—and planted later. 3. In setting bulbs, place them on loosened soil at the base of each hole, set the bulb firmly, nose up, so there is no air pockets underneath. Replace topsoil and smooth over the bed. If your winters are severe, cover bed with leaves, straw, or other mulch.

HERE'S A QUICK and easy way to pick up broken glass or fine dust, which the Woman's Home Companion passes along to you: Use a smooth piece of paper—newspaper or magazine—wet one edge, place this edge on the floor, sweep up glass, throw paper and contents away.

NEXT TIME YOU PLAN to apply leather elbow or knee patches on clothing, first stitch around edge of patch on sewing machine with large unthreaded needle. The ready-made holes will make it easier to sew the patch on by hand.

It's the women that make a nation," stated Miss Amelia Anthony of Girlstown in an informal talk to members of the Pampa Altrusa Club Monday at a meeting in the home of Mrs. F. M. Foster, 1233 N. Russell.

Mrs. Amelia Anthony Explains Purpose And Principles Of Girlstown To Altrusa

Miss Anthony lauded the club for its principle of rendering service. "In this world of turmoil and perilous time, we are apt to forget a neighbor," she explained. Miss Anthony told the women that a person can't live indefinitely, but his work does live indefinitely. She said that Girlstown does return a profit, but not a monetary one.

FRENCH FRIED liver twists served with dipping sauce are a thrifty, tasty appetizer.

COOK'S NOOK

New Recipe For Appetizer Of French Fried Twists

By GAYNOR MADDOX. Cut 1/2-inch-wide slices of beef liver into strips about 1 1/2 inch long. Dip in seasoned corn meal or seasoned flour. This may be done ahead of time and the prepared liver stored in the refrigerator until time to fry.

Fry in hot shortening (350 degrees F.) about 1 minute. Keep strips separated and do not overload the fry kettle. The temperature of the fat should remain between 325 to 350 degrees F. so the liver cooks and browns uniformly. Do not overcook.

Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot with dipping sauce, such as commercially prepared sour cream mixed with chives, or a mixture of prepared mustard and catsup or an onion-sharp thick barbecue sauce.

Mantle Is Big Question For Series Opener

Odds Continue To Favor Yanks In 52nd Classic

By LEO H. PETERSEN

NEW YORK—UP—The best-laid plans of Casey Stengel and Walt Alston waited on a nod of slugger Mickey Mantle's head Wednesday as the favored New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers renewed their World Series rivalry in the 52nd edition of the baseball classic.

Although favored at 13-10 to win both the opening game and the series, the American League champion Yankees were faced with a "50-50" possibility that the 23-year-old Mantle would be missing from their lineup. Suffering from a pulled muscle in his right thigh, Mantle conceded late Tuesday that the injury still bothered him and trainer Gus Mauch said, "A day of rain wouldn't hurt Mickey one bit."

The possibility of rain was present — although the weatherman indicated it threatened to delay the game rather than postpone it. Otherwise, the stage was all set for the sixth proposal of a series relationship in which the Yankees have been all winning and the Dodgers all losing.

Capacity Crowd Assured
A "World Series capacity crowd" of about 45,000 was virtually assured with only standing room tickets and 14,000 bleacher seats still available. Those went on sale early Wednesday morning and were priced at $4.20 and $2.10 respectively.

Mantle, who hit .306 and led the American League with 37 homers this season, probably will be replaced in center field by Bob Cerv if the leg fails to respond to treatment. Cerv hit .341 in 34 games this year but is nowhere near the threat that Mantle is. Mantle is a switch-hitter while Cerv bats only right-handed.

Aside from the financial remuneration involved, the Yankees had an added incentive of returning to the top of the baseball world after their bitter disappointment of 1954. The Cleveland Indians led them to the wire last year and then proceeded to lose the Series to the New York Giants in four straight games.

The Yankees, of course, have always been the most successful of all World Series teams. Since winning their first pennant in 1921, the Yankees have been world champions 16 times and settled for second money in the classic only four times. The most recent of these was in 1942 when they lost to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Victory in this series would also give Stengel six world titles in seven years and a chance to tie Joe McCarthy's mark of seven league championships and six World Series championships in eight years.

The Dodgers, on the other hand, were hoping to end their history of frustration in the "big show." The Dodgers won pennants in 1916, 1920, 1941, 1947, 1949, 1952 and 1953—but each time bowed in the Series. They lost to the Boston Red Sox in 1916, the Indians in 1920 and to the Yankees in their last five classics.

For Alston, a Series triumph would climax his rise from an obscure minor league manager in the massive Brooklyn farm system to the leader of the first Brooklyn world champion in history.

Maryland's Tatum Is Coach Of Week

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — UP—He became famous as an offense-minded coach but in recent years he's become one of the finest defensive tutors in football.

And that's why James (I fear anybody) Tatum, whose Maryland Terrapins upset UCLA 7-0, is the United Press coach of the week. In beating the high-scoring UCLA, Tatum again demonstrated his ability to figure out a defense against even the most devastating attack. Last year's top-ranked UCLA team led the nation in scoring and there was reason to believe Red Sanders' 1955 edition would be just as potent and perhaps even more so. This year the Terrapins improved their passing game with the addition of tailback Ronnie Knox.

So UCLA stormed into muddy Byrd Stadium Saturday, a six-point favorite. Two hours later, the Terrapins left the field with the ignominious net rushing yardage of minus 21 and a fat goose egg on the scoreboard.

Actually, Sanders threw a big scare into Maryland. UCLA opened up with an unbalanced line on offense, nothing peculiar for a single-year team, but something Sanders never showed before.

"We had trouble with it at first," Tatum said, "but it was more of a nuisance than a real threat and we adjusted to it by the second quarter. We beat them as we did Tennessee four years ago — by concentrating mainly on the tailback. Stop him and you stop the single wing."

Tatum revealed after the game that Maryland practiced all week on defense and very little on offense. The effects on UCLA's running game were devastating. A muddy field hurt the Californians' vaunted reverse plays but what hurt them more was the brassy Terrapin line that charged like a Mobile cement fort. Tatum came up with a six-man line, conceding the short passes but completely containing UCLA's speedy backs.

Big Jim was making no predictions on the rest of the season. Maryland plays Baylor this week and Tatum rightfully fears a big letdown by a squad that was emotionally fired-up for UCLA.

Durocher In TV Job

NEW YORK — UP — Leo Durocher, who gave up managing baseball to take a job as television executive, will leave for California after the World Series to assume his new duties.

Durocher, who ended the longest existing continuous period of service with the same club when he resigned as manager of the New York Giants last Saturday, accepted a job in the field of talent relations with the National Broadcasting Co. Tuesday.

Robert W. Sarnoff, executive vice president of NBC, said that Leo's duties will include acquisition of new talent. The former Giants' manager, who led the New Yorkers to pennants in 1951 and 1954 and the world championship in 1954, also will appear on various sports programs as a commentator and will make guest appearances on other shows.

"I am happy about the prospect of entering the television field and look forward to this job with great enthusiasm," Durocher said.

Record 1,263 Home Runs Hit

By UNITED PRESS
National League sluggers established a new season record in 1955 by clouting a total of 1,263 home runs. The old record of 1,197 was set by the National League in 1933.

Investigation now is under way to determine which player hit the final home run of the league season, because his bat will be sent to the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N. Y. League officials are checking records of Sunday's games, but the final homer-batter is believed to be either Marv Foley of Philadelphia or Wally Moon of St. Louis.

SWC Teams Turn On Drill Stearns

By UNITED PRESS
Southwest Conference football teams turned on the steam Wednesday in practice sessions as they got ready for some rugged weekend contests.

Southern Methodist scheduled another hard workout and then planned to look at movies of Georgia Tech, which the Mustangs met Saturday in Atlanta.

Texas, which faces a rugged opponent in Southern California, worked on offense and defense. Particular stress was put on punt returns—something in which Texas has shown a weakness in its previous two games.

Rains hampered workouts of at least three conference schools Tuesday. A hard afternoon rain cut short a Rice Institute workout and forced the Owls indoors on what ordinarily would have been their roughest practice day.

Arkansas also was driven indoors by rain and forced to workout in the university's new gymnasium. At College Station, rain left the practice field slippery for the workout by Texas A&M.

At Fayetteville, the Razorbacks worked on pass offense and defense in the gym which has a dirt floor with sawdust on one end.

Writers Pick Yanks To Win

NEW YORK — UP — The New York Yankees were favored to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers in the 1955 World Series by 65 per cent of the baseball writers who participated in the annual United Press pre-series poll.

A total of 125 writers made their selections — with 81 of them picking the Yankees to win and 44 selecting the Dodgers.

Forty-seven of the writers picked the Yankees to wrap it up in six games and another 19 said they'd do it in seven. Three writers predicted a four-game sweep for New York and 12 that the Yankees would win in five games. Twenty-seven of the 44 writers who favored the Dodgers liked them to bury the Yankees in six games. Two predicted a four-game Brooklyn sweep, nine picked the Dodgers in five games and six in seven games.

Robin Roberts, Newcombe Get Pitch Honors

NEW YORK — UP — Robin Roberts and Don Newcombe, a pair of hulking right-handers, shared the National League's top pitching honors this year but the American League failed to produce a 20-game winner for the first time in its history.

Roberts won 20 games for the Philadelphia Phillies and his 23 stopped the league for the fourth straight year. Newcombe Brooklyn's opening day pitcher in the World Series, wound up with the highest percentage (.800) on the basis of 20-3 record.

The top winners in the American League, however, were 18-game winners Frank Sullivan of the Boston Red Sox, Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians and Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees. Sullivan tried for No. 19 Sunday but was beaten by the Yankees.

Willie Mays won the NL home run crown with 51 while Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees topped the AL with 37.
Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers led the NL with 136 runs batted in and 128 runs scored. Al Smith of the Indians led the AL in runs with 123 and Jackie Jensen of the Red Sox and Ray Benge of the Detroit Tigers led for the RBI lead with 116 each.

Quarterback Club Meets

The Pampa Quarterback club met last night for the third time this year in the auditorium of the Sam Houston Elementary school.

The attendance was poor with the season so far underway and with the Harvesters opening district play with Amarillo here next week.

The Pampa-Vernon game was discussed by several persons and movies of the game were shown. Coffee and doughnuts were served by the refreshment committee. The 60 persons on had agreed from the reports from the scouters and Coach Lockett that the Harvesters would have an even chance of winning the game Friday with Fort Worth Tech.

Lockett said the biggest problem of the Harvesters was their morale. He said "When they break into the winning column they will be hard to stop." He attributed that to the being green and not having confidence in themselves like seasoned ball players. Still on the injured list are Buddy Sharp, Burt Kirby, Earl Cooper and Doug Simmons.

Shamrock Going To District 3-AA

SHAMROCK — (Special) — The Shamrock Irishmen will be playing in District 3-AA in the 1956 football season. Other members of the 3-AA district are Wellington, Childress, Perryton and Quanah.

For the past three years local gridmen have played in District 1-AA with teams from Phillips, Perryton, Dimas, Dalhart, Canyon, and Herford.

Canyon and Dalhart have moved into District 1-AA with Dimmitt, Muleshoe, Olton, and Tulla. Phillips, Dumas and Herford are to move up to AAA classification.

The changes were announced recently by the State Executive Committee of the Interscholastic League. The assignments are for a minimum of two years.

Phillies Sign Star's Brother
PHILADELPHIA — UP — The Philadelphia Phillies announced Tuesday that they have signed John Pohlisky, brother of St. Louis Cardinal star pitcher Tom Pohlisky, to a contract with Three Rivers of the Provincial League.

Pampa News Sports Editor

It is with regret that we are losing Buck Francis, our sports editor. I suppose you noticed in the Sunday paper his column stated that he was going to Snyder where he is accepting the position of sports editor of that city.

It was my privilege to know Buck for a number of years even before he started to work here at The News, and a finer fellow I never knew.

Buck was sports-minded even before he got into the newspaper business. He was an athlete during his high school days at Abilene and as a matter of fact he played in a state tournament several years ago. That was back when the Abilene Eagles had better basketball teams than football.

Buck has many friends in Abilene and has made many friends here in Pampa. Everyone knows him as a mild-mannered, conscientious, sports-minded sports editor.

He came to Pampa some three years ago and has seen athletes of the highest quality produced by the high school, Little League, and also the professional baseball team. He said he feels that Pampa will do even better in the years to come but somehow some of us feel that maybe Buck had a little to do with the spirit of a lot of the boys. They—all knew and liked him.

We are not going to try to fill his shoes even though we are going to miss sports for the News.

Now to get down to the job before us.

At the coming of autumn we'll look forward to the football season but before we get that start the grandstand let's get the world series over.

But first let's get it started. In six times the Bums and the Reds have met in the world series the Bums have never won. What will they do this year? That is the question that is in the mind of all baseball fans.

Who will have thought the Bums would win in four straight years?

Stanky May Rejoin Giants

NEW YORK — UP — The New York Giants, who lost a fiery leader when Leo Durocher resigned as manager, may be getting an equally fiery replacement hiring Eddie Stanky as a coach.

Stanky, let out as manager of a St. Louis Cardinals last May, said Tuesday night he was scheduled to confer with the new Giants manager, Bill Rigney, after the junior world Series is completed.

"The only thing that's definite that we're going to have a conference," Stanky said. "Naturally, however, I'd be happy to take a job as coach with the Giants."

Stanky played with the Giants on 1948 through 1951 and always is noted for his aggressiveness and hustle.

Shamrock Pro Takes New Job

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Ray Hardy, pro of the Shamrock Country Club for the past two years, left Monday for Tulla to take over similar duties at the Tulla Country Club.

The Tulla Club is opening a new course this week.

Hardy came to Shamrock two years ago from Herford and had been in charge of the golf course since that time.

Terps Rated 7-Point Edge In Saturday Tilt With Baylor

By UNITED PRESS
Highly ranked Maryland, the nation's top college football team, has been established only a seven-point favorite to defeat Baylor Saturday and the way Steve Owen, coach of the Terrapins, looks at it, sees it the odds-makers haven't been generous enough.

"A fine ball club," Owen said of Maryland. "The Terrapins have had tackles, are deep and have a balance. The only time I saw UCLA in Maryland territory last Saturday was when the Bruins came into the field house at half-time."

The Terrapins started the season shaky but, barely squeaked past unheralded Missouri 13-10 but went all out to down UCLA in a battle of Titans. The Terrapins last year's national champions and hoped to do as well this season.

They are undefeated in two games but apparently is in over their heads against Maryland, the national champion of 1955. The Bears are the season with a 26-7 win over North Carolina and then a 19-2 victory over Villanova last Saturday night.

Terps Rated 7-Point Edge In Saturday Tilt With Baylor

Michigan, Georgia Tech, Oklahoma and Notre Dame, the teams ranked behind Maryland in that order also are favored to win this Saturday.

Rocket Sled Sets Record 1,280 mph

LOS ANGELES — UP — An unmanned rocket sled reached a record land speed of 1,280 miles an hour in a Navy test on the Mojave Desert, but scientists said Tuesday that record soon will be broken.

W. D. Drinkwater, operations consultant at the naval ordnance test station at China Lake, Calif., disclosed that the record was set in a routine test.

"Higher speeds are expected in the near future," Drinkwater told the opening session of a three-day, high speed track symposium here Monday.

The previous record for an unmanned sled was 1,100 miles an hour set on a 10,000-foot track at Edwards Air Force Base last spring.

The Navy sled hit its peak velocity two seconds after 10 rocket motors with a total thrust of 50,000 pounds sent it on its way on steel-shod runners.

The sleds are used in testing airplane armament, pilot escape systems and missile components.

Lt. Col. John P. Stapp, research surgeon from the Holloman air development center in New Mexico, also addressed the meeting Monday.

Stapp, who rode a sled while it hit a speed of 632 miles per hour last year, said he next will try to ride a rocket sled at 1,000 miles per hour or more. He said he would be lashed on the sled with a wind screen in front of him in the test to study the effect of extreme winds on the human body.

Average age of the patient dying under the care of physicians in the time of the Pharaohs was 30 years.

New TV Spectacular Show Is Scheduled For Saturday

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK — UP — Carolyn Leigh, who wrote the pop hit "Young at Heart," and the lyrics for "Peter Pan," will dish up another tidbit for your musical palate come Saturday.

Miss Leigh has helped turn out the score for Max Liebman's first NBC-TV spectacular this fall season, "Heidi," Leibman, whose initial spectacular last year, "Satin and Spurs," was greeted with a singular lack of enthusiasm, is taking no chances with this one.

Among others lined up for the TV treatment of the story book classic are Wally Cox, Robert Clary, Jeannie Carson and the Pupeteers, Bill and Cora Baird. Then, too, there is the music of a rather dependable 19th century composer named Robert Schumann (by way of a 20th century composer named Clay Warnick) and the lyrics of Miss Leigh.

"I love the book," said Miss Leigh. "I guess I read it for the first time when I was 9 or 10. Everybody thinks of it as a kids' book, but our show won't be for kids anymore than 'Peter Pan' was."

Miss Leigh works with her shoes off, a condition which may or may not explain the comfortable lilt of her lyrics. She spent most of the summer barefoot.

"I have been working on the lyrics for 'Heidi' since June," she said. "I started on them even before the book for the show was written. But working without a book didn't bother me too much because I write for the characters."

"I turned out 12 songs for the show and I'm still re-writing them. I'll probably be working on them right up to the day of the show."

This will be the third Max Liebman spectacular to which the 29-year-old New Yorker has contributed her talents. She adapted the lyrics for "The Merry Widow" and "The Chocolate Soldier" seen on TV earlier this year. She'll soon set to work on another Liebman TV special, "The Great Waltz."

"I don't want to seem immodest," said the dark-haired tunesmith, "but I think 'Heidi' is the best work I've ever done. I've had a chance to do just about every type of song for it."

Frogs In Brazil Cackle And Make Funny Noises

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON — UP — Frogs are funny things. All we hear here are croaks. But down in southeastern Brazil they have frogs that cackle like hens, grunt like pigs, quack and waddle like ducks, caw like crows, and make noises like crickets.

All of this information comes from the Smithsonian Institution. Our authority is Dr. Doris M. Cochran, an associate curator of reptiles and amphibians in the U.S. national museum, which is connected with the institution.

Dr. Cochran has been with the museum for 36 years and has been correlating information from a recent expedition into Brazil.

The gray-haired, hazel-eyed lady — with all that experience — knows how to separate one frog from another.

"Don't undersell the frog," she said. "They can be of great help. Take the 'bufo marino.' Those caught down there were transferred to Guam and other parts of the sugar countries. The 'bufo' ate himself fat on beetles and other insects that were eating the leaves of sugar plants like mad. Saved those people hundreds of thousands of dollars."

Also, said Dr. Cochran, there are the giant toads, whose headgland secretes adrenalin.

The space is too short to describe the frogs that cackle like the egg-layer. But we can give you something on the frog that goes like a pig.

"This one," Dr. Cochran said, "is aparasphenodon."

"This critter is about three inches long and is almost pure gold in color. Its voice, a sort of a baritone, sounds like the grunt of a frustrated bear."

"It's kind of a slow grunt," said Dr. Cochran. "It sleeps in the daylight in the large leaves of bromeliads — trees of the pineapple. In the dark of night the frogs hit for the ponds to look for bugs, and while looking, grunt like pigs and keep the rest of the population awake all night."

The mating calls are something to hear. There is for instance, the chorus of what Dr. Cochran and the rest of the frog experts like to call the "tinpan frog." These clovers, the males gather each night for a chorus. Their idea of a chorus is to gather in a throaty "ensemble" and give off a booming metallic sound which, according to the lady museum expert, sounds something like "a bunch of blacksmiths using hammers on the anvils."

Shamrock Club Meets

SHAMROCK — (Special) — The second meeting of the Community Council of Shamrock was held Monday at 8 p.m. in City Hall. The Council was organized last May and its membership is made up of representatives from 33 organizations in Shamrock. Any organization is welcome to join. The aim of the Council is to plan projects for the community so that the work will be most effective and try to keep individual projects of its members from overlapping.

The current project of the group is investigating the feeling of the people toward a new school plant. A Community calendar has been set up which will hold the dates of events to take place in the Shamrock area so that conflicts can be avoided. All organizations are asked to call the office of the Chamber of Commerce to report special dates so that they may be incorporated into the Calendar. A monthly calendar of activities will be on display in the C. of C. office for the convenience of any who wish to consult it.

Officers of the Community Council are: Mrs. Henderson Coffman, president; Robert Laycock, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. T. H. Baker, recording secretary.

The Council will hold four meetings a year.

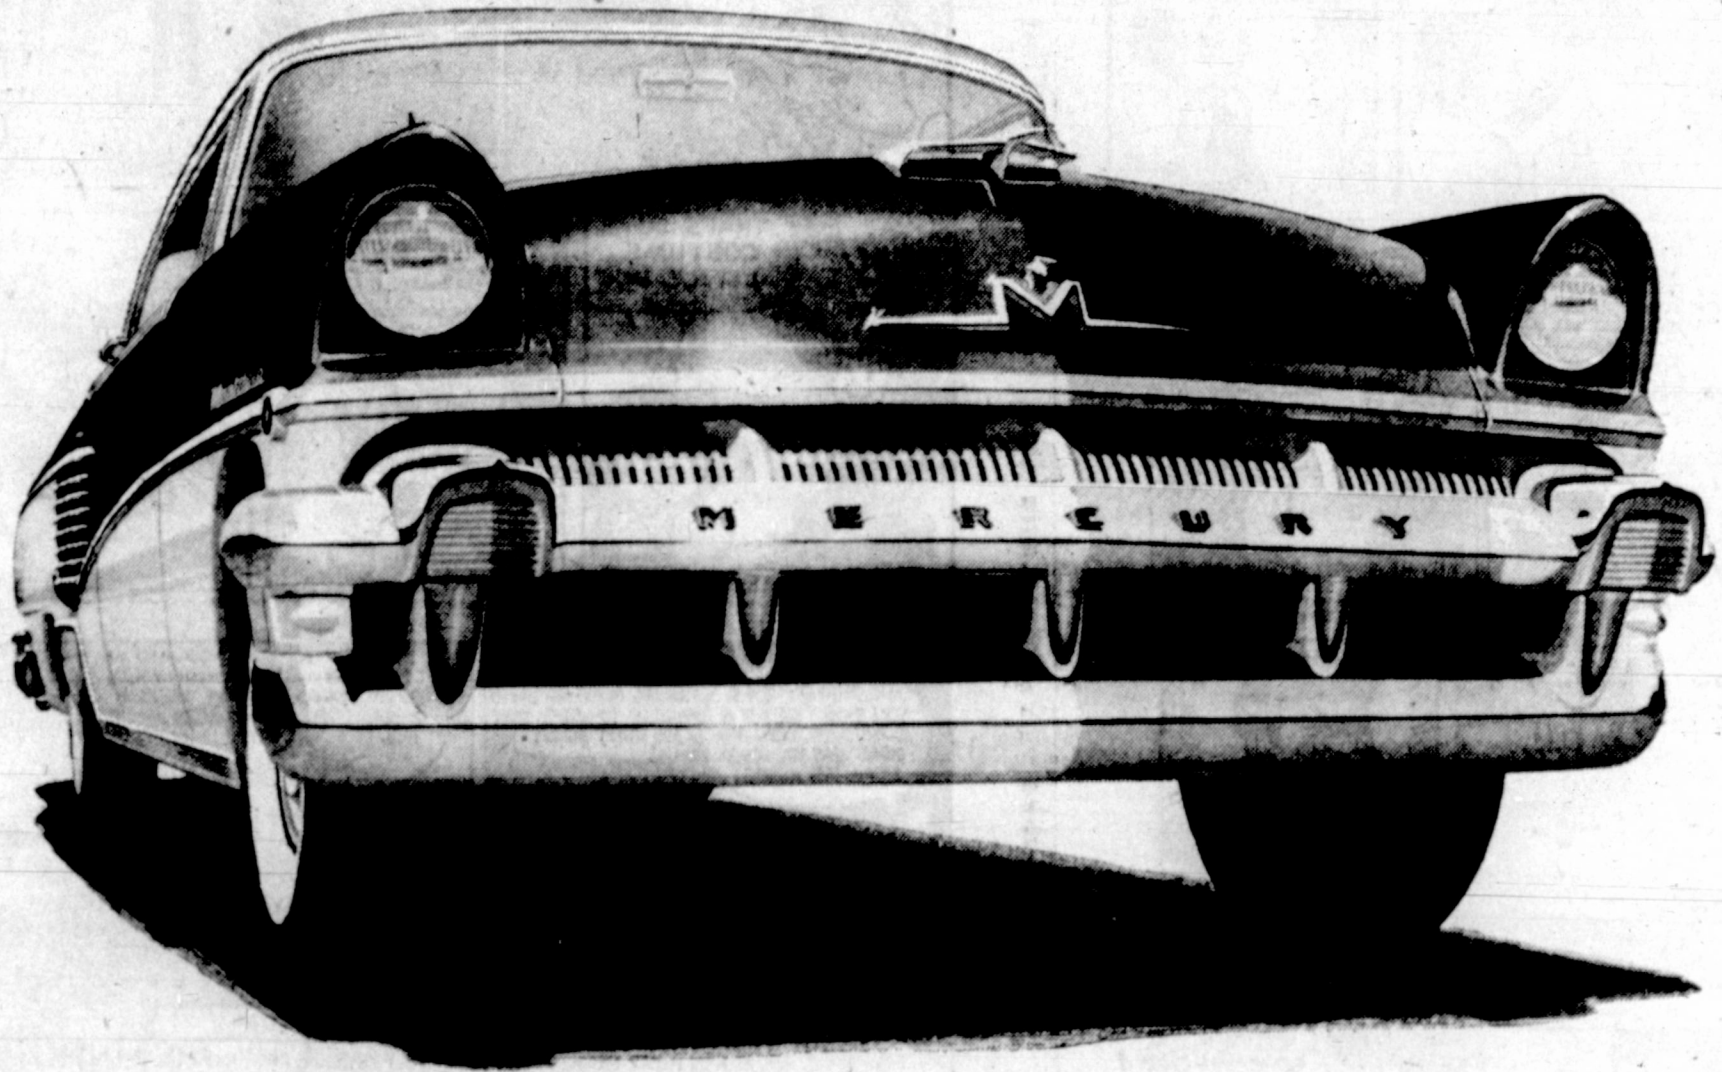

Approximately 65 per cent of all the feldspar mined in the United States comes from the spruce pine area of North Carolina.

4-H Party Scheduled

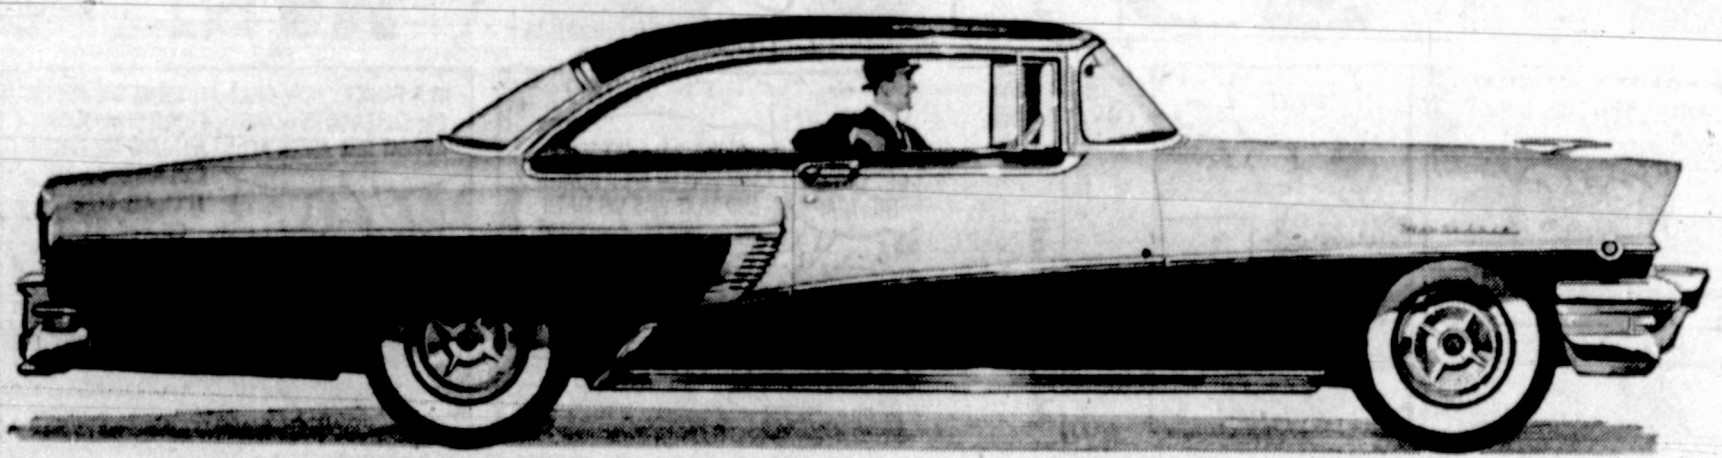

A county-wide 4-H party will be held next Saturday, Oct. 1 in the American Legion Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Square dancing will be taught to beginners by Russell Kennedy, Jerry Mobley, assistant county agent, expects about 100 4-Hers to be present for this event. Refreshments will be furnished by the council, and girls will bring one dozen cookies each.

Parents and friends are invited. No admission charge will be made. Americans eat an estimated 27,000,000 sandwiches a day.

DANIEL BOONE

By Russ Winterbotham and Ralph Lane

Don't Boone and his men broke away. They managed to reach the fort under cover of fire from the men in the blockhouses.

One or two arrived after the big gate was closed, but reached safety through "escape doors."

Women loaded flintlocks and men kept up a deadly fire, halting the Indians as they stormed the fort.

Explorers' Activities Are Mapped

Plans were outlined for future Explorer Scout activities during the meeting of the steering committee of the Santa Fe District Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the City Commission room of the City Hall.

In a previous conference, attended by representatives from six and one-half counties in this area, activities were selected for the next eight months. These were: industrial tour, ski expedition, emergency service activity, and a vocational conference.

An industrial tour was slated for Nov. 19-20 at the Amarillo Air Force Base. Richard Newberry, Eagle Scout explorer of Post 14, is event director. The tentative plan of the tour will include visits to the newspaper, radio and TV stations, and a heating plant. Job opportunities available in the various fields will be presented.

A ski expedition, set for the January mid-term, will be under the direction of counselors Elmer Radcliff, advisor of Post 80, and Milo Carlson, advisor of Crew 22.

The four-day trip of skiing and winter camping will be held at Tres Rios ski run in New Mexico. A limit of 60 boys has been set, unless two separate dates are set up.

An emergency service activity will be under the direction of Gordon Bayless, Skipper of ship 22, slated for anytime between Jan. 5-25. A realistic disaster will be re-enacted with the cooperation of other disaster groups. Scouters will stand by for emergency mobilization for the entire 20-day period. Exact events to be determined later.

A vocational conference will be directed by Robert Grier of Post 4 and counselor Bob Barrett, advisor of Post 4, set for April of '56. A panel of vocational experts from this area will present information on various professions and trades.

Committee members for the various Explorer activities will be selected right away. All events have been decided upon by Explorers and all event directors are Explorer Scouts.

A&P Increases Price Of Coffee

NEW YORK —UP—Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. Tuesday raised prices two to four cents a pound on most of its private label coffees.

The chain announced two-cent hikes on its Red Circle and Bokar brands, and a four-cent boost to 95 cents a pound for its vacuum-packed coffee.

The big chain's move follows last week's price hikes by most of the nation's leading roasters. Their wholesale increases of four cents a pound were blamed on rising prices for green coffee, particularly Colombian varieties.

The United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., was established March 16, 1802.
